REB LEADER IS CAPTURED; CALLES RULES

Federals In Control in Mexico—Rebels Fleeing—One Leader Executed, Another Shot In Battle.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 5.—General Gomez, one of the leaders of the Mexican rebels, is reported to have been captured at Fort Perro, near Vera Cruz, while fleeing towards the coast.

General Agostito Lastra is reported to have been executed at Torreon and General Arturo Lassa is reported to have been shot at Pachucos as he attempted to lead a revolt of his command.

Former Generals Alfredo Rodriguez and Norberto Olvera, who were recently deposed by President Calles, are also reported to have been killed in a clash with federal troops.

J. Lopez Partillo, secretary to Arnulfo Gomez, has been captured at Guadalajara and charged with attempting to incite the garrison there to rebellion. He has been taken to Mexico City.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Officials here were of the opinion today that President Calles of Mexico is succeeding in suppressing the Gomez-Serrano revolt.

The State Department made public an official statement from Mexico City in which the Calles government claimed victory in all of the centers of insurrection, including Mexico City, Vera Cruz and Torreon.

General Gomez, presidential candidate and surviving leader of the revolt, is still sought. There are indications he may depart for South America or Cuba within 48 hours.

It was said at the State Department that the United States would maintain an absolutely neutral attitude in the present Mexican situation. Even though the insurrection breaks out again, there will be no lifting of the arms embargo, established by President Coolidge on January 7, 1924, nor will this government permit the sale of any of its own arms to the Mexican government.

MRS. LILLENDAH BALKS AT REVISITING SCENE

Must Tell Her Story to Grand Jury Tomorrow—Beach Still Missing.

Hammonton, N. J., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, principal figure in New Jersey's latest murder mystery, will be summoned before the Grand Jury tomorrow to tell the story of the slaying of her aged husband, Dr. William Lillendahl, on an isolated road near here five weeks ago.

The widow, who refused to revisit the scene of the murder and re-enact the tragedy, will be put through the ordeal of narrating in detail how her husband came to be found in his automobile on the lonely road, shot to death.

Assistant Prosecutor Cameron Hinkle, of Atlantic county, said today he would ask the Grand Jury for a murder indictment. He did not say against whom his request would be directed.

Mrs. Lillendahl contends her husband was shot to death by two men who attempted to attack her while she was driving with the physician.

Hard Working Mother Real Burden Bearer

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 5.—It's the hard working mothers who stay at home and raise the children who bear the real burden of American life.

Not the husband or even the woman who goes to business to help support the family. Kitchen stoves and washtubs are worse tyrants than spindles and punch-presses of industry.

These views were expressed today by Professor Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago in an address before the conference of family life in America. Social and welfare workers from all parts of the country are attending the convention.

Mothers Overworked "The most overworked and exploited members of our society are the working class mothers of two or more children," said Prof. Douglas. "They cut their consumption of food and clothing far below that of their husbands and their employed children and have few of the diversions which the latter enjoy.

"The protection of these almost forgotten women is one of the most pressing problems of social reform."

Blames Husbands The overworking of these mothers, he pointed out, is not alone due to the existing wage scales but the failure of husbands and employed children to pool their wages for the support of the family.

Many husbands deduct considerable sums from their pay for their own purposes, he said. Many turn over their pay to their wives intact but almost immediately borrow back large sums for personal expenditures and inducing employed children to contribute a large portion of their pay to the family support is "very difficult."

To free working class mothers from their serfdom, Prof. Douglas advocated that the wage system be adapted in such a way as to provide mothers with additional sums according to the number of children they have. Allowances for children, he said, could be paid by the state from funds raised through taxation or they could be made a charge upon a group of employees and distributed in such a way as to prevent any inducement to discriminate against giving employment to men with families.

DUAL PERSONALITY PUZZLES OFFICIALS

Wife Vanishes For Nine Years and Then Returns To Kill Husband.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 5.—Allens today began an exhaustive study of the strange case of Mrs. Mary Rust Folsom. A series of examinations were under way.

Labored under the hallucination that her husband was keeping company with other women, when as a matter of fact he was spending all his time and money to try and restore her to mental health.

Mrs. Folsom shot an instantly killed him on June 30, 1914, while they were driving on a country road in Exeter, N. H.

Bereft Canary Follows Mate Lonely Little Widow of Oak Street Songster Dies of Heartbreak.

When "Perry", pet canary, who brought happiness to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Uello Agostinelli at 21 Oak street, died and was given a magnificent funeral a short while ago, it was predicted that "Perry's" mate, "Nellie" would not live long.

This prediction came true yesterday afternoon when the lonesome canary was found dead in its cage. The Agostinellis say "Nellie" died of a broken heart. The bird had not chirped since the death of her mate. Neither had she eaten or taken water. Asked whether or not "Nellie" would be given an impressive funeral, Mrs. Agostinelli said, "Perry" was Mr. Agostinelli's pet and she will also die.

PASSING THE BUCK ON CENSUS CHARGE

Neither Gov. Smith or Attorney General Wishes to Prosecute the Case.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Governor Smith and Attorney General Ottinger were expected to confer today on what action the state would take on the charges of maladministration of the $1,200,000 state census fund made against Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state.

Allegations that Mrs. Knapp wasted the 1925 census fund were made by the census committee.

May Differ Indications were that Smith and Ottinger would differ on what line of action to follow. It was reported at the capitol that Ottinger was prepared to urge the governor to order a Moreland act investigation of the charges against Mrs. Knapp.

The governor, it was said, feels the Moreland act does not apply to elective state officials.

Neither the governor nor the attorney general want to be placed in the role of prosecuting the only woman ever to be elected to high office in the state, according to reports at the capitol.

OVER 43,000 PRESENT AT OPENING OF SERIES

Weather Ideal as Teams Meet In First Game of World's Series—First Inning Finds Yanks and Pirates Tied With One Run Apiece—In Third, New Yorks Start on Rampage, Bringing in Three Runs—Game Slow at Beginning But Speeds Up Later—The Game, Play By Play.

Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 5.—Flinging to their fingertips with excitement, 40,000 or more rabid baseball fans poured into the towering steel stands of Forbes Field this afternoon to witness the opening game of the annual World Series drama. And drama it should be, what with such powerful ball clubs as the New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates arrayed against each other and determined to battle to the last put out.

Never before in a World Series has there been a greater all-star cast than that which took the field today. There was the illustrious Babe Ruth, the peerless home run slugger; Lou Gehrig, almost as great an attraction, the incomparable Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, this spectacular "Pie" Traynor—and a scintillating array of lesser lights.

Comedy and Tragedy On the stadium there was comedy, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the clowns of baseball, doing their stuff; on the bench there was tragedy—Kiki Cuyler—the hero of the last Pittsburgh World Series, sitting in the dugout with the green stock because he had incurred the displeasure of his manager earlier in the season.

Heavy Hitters Not only all this, but here on Forbes Field today were lined up the heaviest hitting baseball clubs of the present era—real fence busters, anyone of whom may write his name indelibly on the imperishable records of baseball. By a strange coincidence both the Yankees and the Pirates participated in 1926 games during the regular season and both compiled the identical team batting average of .307. They dashed upon the field, grim and determined, to play the 24th, annual World Series, truly the outstanding clubs in their respective leagues.

THE GAME First Inning YANKES—Combs up. Combs out on a long fly to Barnhart. He hit the first ball pitched. Koenig up. Ball one, right. Strike one, foul, left. Strike two, called. It was a curve over the heart of the plate. Strike three, swung. Koenig out.

Second Inning YANKES—Lazerri up. Ball one, high inside. Foul, back. Ball one, high inside. Traynor out on a long fly which Ruth caught against the right field stands. One run. One hit. No errors. One left.

Third Inning YANKES—Combs up. Strike one called. Ball one high. Combs out. Koenig safe on Grantham's error. Grantham can't tearing toward first to scoop up a hot grounder but it got away from him. Ruth up. Koenig went to third on Ruth's single to right. Ruth again hit the first ball pitched. It was two straight hits for the Bambino. Gehrig up. Ball one, low inside. Ball two, low. Kremer tried to catch Ruth off first but failed. Strike one called. Ball three high inside. Ball four. Gehrig walked, filling the bases. Meusel up. Strike one swung. The crowd called to Kremer to hold them. Ball one high. Ball two, ball three. Ball four. Meusel walked scoring Koenig. Bases are still full. Lazerri up. Strike one. Ball one. Foul strike. Ball two wide. Ruth scored when Lazerri forced Meusel. Wright to Harris. Dugan up. Ball one foul back. Strike one. Gehrig scored when he and Lazerri engineered a double. Smith up. Strike one. Kremer's throw. Smith pretended he was throwing to second but he whipped the ball to third. Gehrig started for home. Smith muffed Kremer's return and Gehrig slid in safely. Dugan up. Strike one. Strike two swung. Dugan out. Fied to Barnhart.

Fourth Inning YANKES—Collins up. Ball one low. Strike one called. Collins out. P. Waner. Combs out. Fied to Barnhart.

PERTINENT FACTS ABOUT THE SERIES The rival teams—The New York Yankees, American League champions, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, champions of the National League.

Schedule—First two games in Pittsburgh today and tomorrow; third, fourth and fifth games in New York Friday, Saturday and Sunday; sixth and seventh games in Pittsburgh next Monday and Tuesday. In the event of postponements due to unfavorable weather, teams will remain in that city to play off scheduled game and the following games will be advanced one day.

BOLTON DEMS HIT BY OWN STRATEGY

Scheme to Write in Strong In Place of Toomey Puts Republicans in Control.

Bolton, as a result of its town elections on Monday, has two Republican and one Democratic selectmen because plans of the Democrats went wrong at the last minute. Frank Strong, who had not been nominated at the Democratic caucus, was written into the ballot 41 times, but Nelson Jones, the regular Democratic candidate, suffered from the cut and was defeated.

Milton W. Halling, the regular Republican candidate for first selectman, had been endorsed by the Democrats. The other Republican candidate was David Toomey, a newcomer to Bolton. The Democrats had nominated Nelson Jones, but between the caucus and the election they decided to push Frank Strong in opposition to Toomey.

Accordingly, they wrote Strong's name on the ballots, but some of them evidently made the tactical error of scratching Jones instead of taking the votes from Toomey. The result entirely unanticipated, was the latter was defeated.

Mr. Halling was elected first selectman, Strong second selectman, with Toomey the other member of the board. Most of the other voters elected are Republicans.

Following are the results: Selectmen: *Milton W. Halling, 74; *Frank Strong, 41; *David Toomey, 39; Nelson Jones, 38. Assessor: Nathan Maine; board of relief, George O. Rose, Chester T. Pirie; town clerk: J. White Sumner; agent of town deposit fund and town treasurer: J. Weston Phelps; auditors: Mrs. Alexander Bunce, Elbert W. Atwood; grand jurors: N. C. Maine, Theo.

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 5.—District Attorney William G. Clark said today it would be two or three days before he moved for sentence for Leo J. Nolin, 24, of South Groveland, found guilty of second degree murder in the slaying of William Griffin, Haverhill, grocer, and for Nolin's sweetheart, Miss Mary Cwickla, 18, of Suffield, Conn., convicted of being an accessory after the fact. Before returning the verdict, a jury deliberated six hours.

Herman A. Reed, 31, of Waterbury, Conn., whose pistol was used by Nolin and in whose car the trio were whisked away from the murder scene, as acquitted. Reed was rearrested on an indictment warrant charging him with complicity in the holdup of Leslie Hinkley, foreman of a Haverhill gasoline station, less than an hour before the Griffin killing. The district attorney had not determined whether Reed would be brought to trial for this robbery. Unknown to the jury, Reed had been examined by attorneys who reported to his lawyer, John C. Twomey, that he had the mind of a child.

POLICING AGAIN

In this matter of policing, toward which Manchester in town meeting has just manifested a surprising if trifling generosity...

New York is a big town. Manchester relatively, is a little one. But after all New York has only about six million inhabitants...

In other words, the policing of the metropolis is on a basis of between five and six times as many officers, in proportion to the population, as that of Manchester.

JURIES

A novel written by John Hermann, a Connecticut resident—the lives in New Preston—published in France and imported into this country...

WATERBURY ELECTION

The hottest municipal campaign that has been carried on for some time in this state resulted yesterday in the re-election of Mayor Francis P. Guilfoile of Waterbury by a decreased plurality.

It might be as well, however, to recall that Mayor Guilfoile had a fairly narrow squeak of it this time, his plurality being only 700 in a total vote of more than 25,000.

It is probable enough that Guilfoile did have some Tammany backing. But in the light of the history of his previous victories it did him mighty little good.

ROMANCE

At Buffalo, yesterday, Miss Anne E. Richardson of the Home Economic Association of Washington, told a Conference on Family Life in America that we must banish tales of romance if we are to have the right kind of family and home life.

Miss Richardson has some very excellent theories about such things. Where she got them we don't know, but anyhow they are obviously excellent.

As home making is the common art to be practised by most of our citizens, asserts this spinster expert, "we must use the public schools for our channel of education."

Probably the world as a whole can listen to standardizers like Miss Richardson for quite a good while yet without arising in its wrath and blotting them out.

There isn't the slightest doubt that if we could and should set up such a civilization as this poor soul would like to see we should have something very orderly, very proper, very efficient and very admirable from the point of view of the snug and the truly good.

Banish romance and the stormy love and man and maid? Of what earthly use would the residue be?

TWO WAYS

We do not believe that if Dwight W. Morrow, who has already been talked of as a possible successor to Secretary Kellogg at the head of the State Department, were occupying that position today we should be taking precisely the same course toward France in the matter of a tariff agreement that we are now taking.

Patriotism, even of a narrow variety, is an excellent fault, if fault it be; but a certain amount of the spirit of internationalism, sufficient at least to enable him to get some sort of an understanding of the other fellow's point of view, is an essential qualification in a diplomat.

Nothing is clearer than that if a jury is permitted to become the mere megaphone of a presiding judge, away goes the jury system altogether; and the jury system is one of the most important guarantees of liberty embodied in the United States constitution.

Some days one of these gentry of the bench is going to command a jury to bring in a certain verdict, and that jury, being composed of individuals who know their rights and are jealous of them, will not only refuse to do anything of the kind but will tell the occupant of the bench precisely where he gets off.

Whether a novel is obscene enough to make its suppression legal is not only a matter of law, it is primarily a matter of fact. And in any question of fact either the jury is the determining factor or the jury system is a farce.

Americans, despite their habit of jeering at the intelligence of juries, have enough knowledge of history and enough shrewdness of perception to comprehend that, if the jury system is to be displaced in favor of one-man determinations, they might as well shut up shop as self-governing people.

existing unfamiliarity of our young men with intoxicants outside the hooch and benzine class, it would be better to send along with them supplies of the stuff they are used to. Good European liquor doesn't seem to agree with the manners of some American doughboys.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington Oct. 5—If the Republicans lose the election to the Democrats next November it's their own fault.

The Democratic women, who are infinitely more active in promoting the party's welfare than Democratic men, are hopping mad at the G. O. P. since its government officials interfered with the slogan contest of the "Democratic National Women's club."

The ladies held a local contest some time ago to pick a campaign slogan for next year, realizing that a good slogan goes a long way whether it means anything or not. The winning yell was "Eight years of Wall Street; Give Main Street a Chance."

Then someone thought it would be a dandy idea to have a national contest. After all, the Main Street slogan was a little cumbersome and might not appeal to the city people. So notice of the big contest was sent to Democrats over the country, and, because someone had conceived a bright idea regarding the club's deficit, a $1 entry fee was stipulated.

Then the Postoffice Department butted in and announced that this looked like lottery and that someone would be prosecuted if such plans were carried through. The postoffice wouldn't prosecute of course, unless the ladies refused to listen to reason and withdraw that about the $1 fee.

New notices were sent out and the contest is now open to all comers. The club members did their work all over again without a word of public comment, but privately many of them are boiling with rage at what they think was a case of dirty mean politics.

What a proud and happy man Secretary of Commerce Hoover must have been the other morning when he awoke to find all the New York morning newspapers printing stories to the effect that eastern Republicans would allow him to run for vice-president on a ticket with Hughes.

According to these stories, assurances had been received that Mr. Hoover would gladly accept second place. The same Mr. Hoover, of course, who now considers himself the outstanding candidate for the presidential nomination!

The Hughes-Hoover ticket story was inspired by one or all of several reasons. The secretary of commerce has strength in the west and south, especially in California where Hughes was beaten in 1916, and the Hughes crowd surely would like to corral this strength.

Furthermore, to make it appear that Hoover would be satisfied with the vice presidency would weaken his strength everywhere, which would be fine for Hughes. Undoubtedly the Hughes backers would be glad to have Hoover take the second place, under their man, but the idea suggests that of asking a gambler to sell a good chance at a million dollar prize for 15 cents.

What's the name of Williams' finest Coffee?

Get into this contest today

Everyone has a chance to win a prize in this unique contest. It is easy and interesting. Just go to your grocer and ask the name of Williams' FINEST coffee. You will probably want to buy a pound so you can study the can and taste this delicious coffee. Then draw a sketch of the can SHOWING THE NAME AND TRADEMARK IN THE PROPER PLACE or write us a brief letter (not more than 100 words) about the history of the trademark. Prizes will be awarded for either the most original sketch or the best letter, or the best combination of both.

Here are the Prizes

First prize ..... $25.00
 Second prize ..... 15.00
 Third prize ..... 10.00
 100 Prizes of $2.00 each.
 50 Prizes of 1 lb. of Williams' finest coffee.

Conditions of Contest

1. Your entry must be received by November 30th.
2. You can send in as many letters and sketches as you wish.
3. Write plainly on one side of the paper only.
4. Do not fold sketches.
5. Your letter must not exceed 100 words.
6. Write your name and address on each sketch or letter you send.

Here are some hints for you

Sketches should show the package containing Williams' finest coffee with the name and trademark in the proper place. The trademark is easy to recognize because it is closely connected with the history of the State of Connecticut.

Your letter might tell why the trademark indicates the quality of Williams' Coffee; why the hundred years experience of the Williams & Carleton Company is further assurance to you of carefully selected, correctly blended, expertly roasted coffee.

Bending over the rug, Vance moved the large wicker chair into the exact position it had occupied when Benson had been shot.

CHAPTER XIX (Saturday, June 15, 5 p. m.)

WHEN we arrived at Benson's house a patrolman leaning somnolently against the iron railing of the arcaway suddenly to attention and saluted.

Markham greeted him with a nod. "Everything going all right?" "Sure," the man replied good-naturedly. "The old lady's as meek as a cat—and a swell cook."

result, you may still withdraw, and thereby preserve your charming theories in their present virgin state. "And permit you to send an innocent maiden to the chair!" exclaimed Vance, in mock indignation. Markham set his jaw, and gave Vance a ferocious look.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS when Benson had been shot. The position was easily determined, for the impressions of the chair's castors on the deep nap of the rug were plainly visible.

"Theoretically very pretty," commented Markham; "though why you should go to so much trouble to ascertain this point in space I can't imagine. . . . Not that matters, for you have overlooked the possibility of the bullet's deflection."

FEELING MEAN TODAY?

Here's an easy one if you're in the right mood—MEAN TO GOOD. Par is four blows. The solution is printed on another page:

Word puzzle grid with the words 'MEAN' and 'GOOD' placed in the grid.

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2—You can change only one letter at a time.
3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

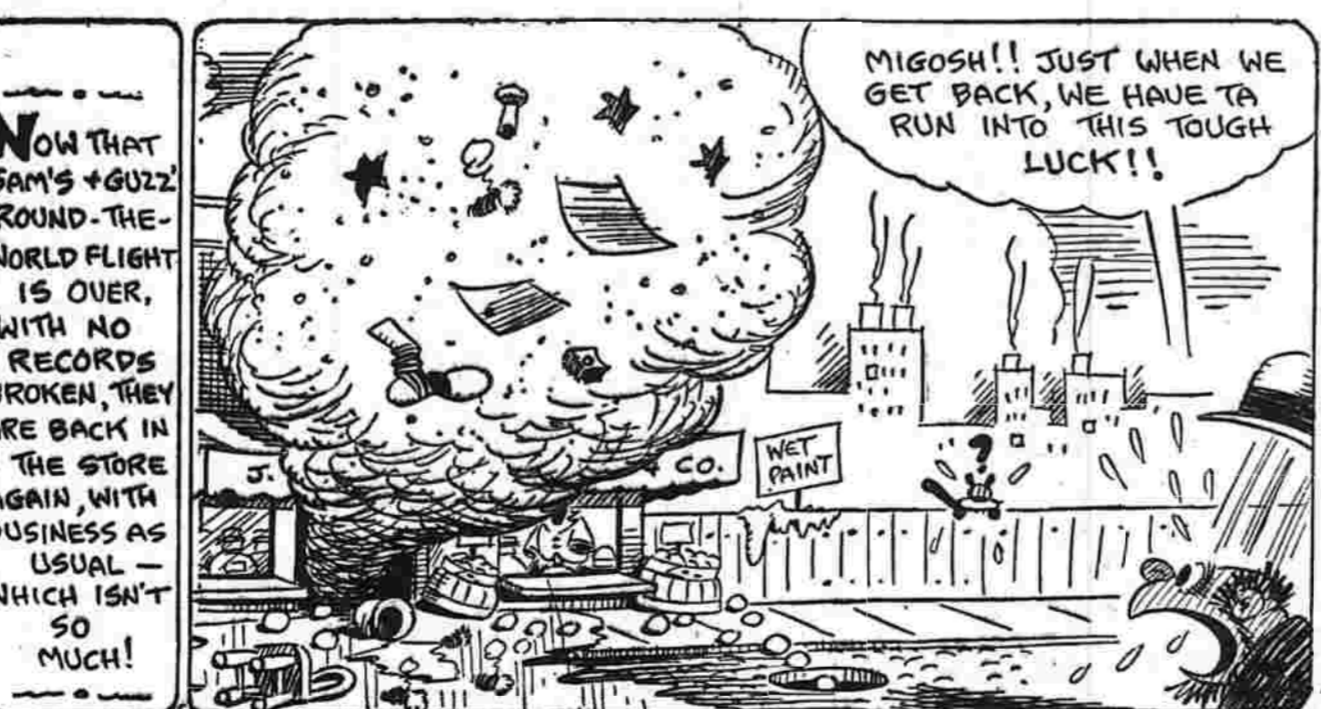

The elephant ride was soon begun and they all found it heaps of fun. They rode around an hour or so and then we Cobby said, "I'm rather tired of riding 'round. I wish some new sport could be found. We sat and sat on moving things until I'm almost dead."
"Oh, do be still," somebody cried. "This is, by far, our finest ride. I feel just like a ruling king atop this monarous beast. He's trimmed his trimmings very fine, and this is just the sport for mine. It seems that you might let the rest of us have fun, at least."
So Cobby said, "Oh, I'll agree to stay and see what we can see." And mister elephant trudged along till it was late at night. And then it heaved a drowsome sigh and stopped beneath the moonlit sky. The Tinymites slid down to the ground, and there they found their kits.
The elephant then ran away and all the bunch heard Carpy say,

"Let's ride off now to Africa. That isn't far from here." They all thought that the thing to do, so through the air they quickly flew, and Cobby said, "When we arrive, we'll find queer things, I fear."
And then out of the night, and fell asleep and not a soul was heard to peep. When morning came they drifted down and landed near some trees. A wierd cry greeted them from far. "In Africa we surely are," yelled frightened little Cobby, as he dropped down to his knees.
And then out of the woods there came some men with long sticks all aflame. "They're cannibals," we Cobby cried. "I knew that's what we'd find." But little time they took to scan the scene, and then they quickly ran across the wooded jungle with the cannibals behind.

Jack Lockwill's Forest Rangers

by Gilbert Patten

Willie, who had peered round the corner, drew back from sight. Jack and Tom looked at each other questioningly. Continued stories of strange things that happened around Enchanted Mountain before their boyish thirst for adventure had brought them here. Darling came running from behind the hut.

"I just looked through a window," said Willie. "This is the darndest queer thing that ever happened! Fellows, there isn't a living human soul in there!"

"But somebody must be in there!" exclaimed Tom. "Quine don't shoot themselves off. The ruffian's hiding." "Keep back!" warned Jack, again reaching to grasp Willie.

To Lockwill's dismay, Darling dodged, and darted through the door. Jack followed him promptly, McNally at his heels. The hut, a one-room affair, contained a wall-bunk, a rusty stove, a crude table, and there were some boxes that might serve for chairs. As Willie had asserted, there was no one in the place. "But there's the gun!" cried Jack, pointing at the table. (To Be Continued)

D. A. R. HOLD FIRST MEETING OF FALL
The first meeting of the fall season of Orford Parish Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was well attended. It was held at the home of Mrs. Joseph N. Viot of Highland Park last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Viot was assisted by Mrs. A. L. Crowell and Miss Ella Stanley, also of Highland Park.
A brief business session was held. A new member, Mrs. Beatrice Robb, was voted in. The secretary, Mrs. Thomas J. Lewis, presented to the chapter a scrap book she had compiled of the printed notices of important accounts of the chapter's work. This book was accepted by the chapter with thanks.
Notice of prize essays to be written by members of the local chapter on "A citizen's obligation toward the franchise" was given, and this will be open to any member who wishes to compete.
After the business meeting a very pleasing program was given by Miss Eleanor Cook, accompanied by Miss Eugenia Follard, of folk songs in costumes. The first numbers were songs of the Colonial period, followed by others from a number of the foreign countries. These were interspersed with piano solos by Miss Follard.

TEACH ELECTRICITY THEORY, PRACTICE
Night Courses and Trade School Aid Workers In Grasping Principles.
Following is the first of a series of six articles dealing with the various courses of study offered to evening school students at the State Trade School here. Others will follow daily.
The electrical department of the Manchester Trade School is preparing for the usual course which is to be held Monday and Thursday evenings throughout the coming winter. The course will start October 17, and due to the large enrollment expected the school will be open evenings, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, October 10, 12, 14, to take care of questions, give information and advice, as well as to enroll students in the course.
The course will endeavor to teach the student the fundamental principles of electricity. The outline of study will start with elementary electricity, its nature, laws, units and measurements, and include, as time passes, instruments, wiring circuits, direct and alternating current motors and generators, together with motor and generator repair and for the more advanced student, armature winding. The latter part of the year will be devoted to house wiring, the "underwriters rules" and armature winding of machines which have been secured from manufacturing concerns for this practice.
Tests will be performed on motors and generators to determine their operating characteristics, such as efficiency, voltage, regulation, speed regulation and losses.
For Practical Workers
A considerable amount of time will be given to the transformer, its operation, characteristics, losses, efficiency and regulation, together with the methods of connection to the line.
The subject matter selected is primarily for the man whose experience has been confined to the construction and shop or house wiring type of work and who wishes to improve himself and thus be prepared for the position higher up. One of the best ways to advance is to incorporate some line of study in such a way that the journeyman has a full understanding of each job as it is completed. A thorough grounding in the fundamental principles of electricity will give the journeyman this confidence.
As usual the class will be so divided that each student spends some time in the shop and some time in the classroom, each week, and in this way a discussion before the class may clear the mind of any possible question about one job before the next is started.

The course is so outlined that it should be beneficial also to the young man who has had no experience but who wishes to make a start and is interested in the electrical science.
The course does not include radio.
Regular attendance at every class will be necessary if the student is to complete the course this year.

Gather at Their Hostess' Home and Talk Old Times—Hear About Ireland.
Thirty friends of Rev. Joseph McKinney, rector of a church in Manitoba, Canada, and his brother, Richard, who have been visiting relatives here for the past week, gathered last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holger Bach to meet the two brothers. Many of those present were schoolmates of Rev. McKinney and Joseph McKinney. An enjoyable evening was spent discussing past reminiscences.
During the evening Rev. McKinney gave an interesting account of his three months' vacation spent in Ireland and Scotland. Sergeant Thomas Hopper of the Salvation Army also spoke, and Mrs. Maria Turkington led in the singing.
Rev. McKinney spoke at the Sunday evening service at St. Mary's Episcopal church, and his talk was very much enjoyed by all who heard him.

WOMEN SWIMMERS TO MAKE UP TOWN TEAM
Movement to Organize Manchester Group Headed by Rec Associate Director.
Miss Ruth Calhoun, associate director of the Recreation Centers and head of the swimming and life saving classes, is asking for candidates for a women's swimming team to represent Manchester. Letters were mailed today to members of the swimming classes.
Miss Calhoun is organizing the team with the expectation of bringing in those women who have finished their courses in the advanced swimming classes. Any women, however, who desire to become members may report at the practice sessions.
A new plunge period has been allotted the teachers of the schools. It will be in session from 5 to 5:45 on Tuesday afternoons and will be open not only to teachers but to other women who wish to avail themselves of it.
