CHAMBER ACTS FOR AIR FIELD IN MANCHESTER

Aviation Dinner at Rainbow Results in Body to Confer With Selectmen; Knox Describes Requirements.

The Manchester Chamber of Commerce took the first step toward a possible airport for Manchester last night at its monthly meeting at the Rainbow Inn at Bolton.

Captain Knox gave an interesting talk, tracing the progress of aviation in Connecticut and saying that this state had always been a pioneer in the science and that Connecticut is now the only state in the Union to have a separate aviation department under the control of an aviation commissioner.

Safe Than Bridges He pointed to the fact that Connecticut has had no fatalities whatever under regulated flying, but mentioned the Cline accident in East Willington. He explained this by saying that accidents will invariably happen so long as airplanes keep to schedules despite weather conditions.

Rockville HOUSE THIEF GETS 190 DAYS IN JAIL

Hecker Claims He Was Not Drunk When He Commit- ted Robbery.

(Special to The Herald)
Rockville, Oct. 21.—Edward Hecker, aged 35, was sentenced to jail for 180 days, together with court costs attached on the charge of breaking and entering and the theft of $80 from the home of Mrs. Catherine Almsworth and her sister, Miss John Brady of Windsor avenue yesterday afternoon, at the session of the city court this morning, Judge Fisk, presiding.

Hecker, who is well known by both women, his mother being a personal friend of both, was in Rockville yesterday afternoon and while in the vicinity of Windmere avenue decided to call on the two women. He found the door locked and forced an entrance by pushing away the screen and then raising the window so he could get through, taking the necessary care to move away the table on which stood a flower pot. He was found in the house by one of the sisters when she returned, recognized and when, later, it was found that a pocket book which had contained between $35 and $60 had been trifled with and all of the bills taken Captain Tobin was notified.

Hecker at first entered a plea of guilty to the charges, but on recommendation of the court it was changed to not guilty. He also said that he was not drunk, but such was not the case, as he was a passenger on the car leaving Rockville last evening at 5:07 and came near being injured when he attempted to board the car.

Hecker is a World War veteran, being one of the last of the Rockville boys to return from service and has an exceptionally fine record while in the army. It was evidenced that he knew little about what took place yesterday afternoon and while he said he was not drunk, this was not true as he was cause of general trouble in Hartford of Rockville just after he had been detected by the women. He hopped the rear steps of a one man car unknown to the motorman until about half of the passengers on the car had called out to the motorman to stop. After entering the car he caused a disturbance, especially among a number of pupils returning from school.

Then Captain Tobin received the complaint he telephoned to Hartford and one of the detectives went to East Hartford and boarded the car. The description that the captain had telephoned did not answer that of Hecker so the detective was at first off the track by the man's answers, it was brought out in court this morning. He said his name was Wilson and that he was from Manchester but after the car had stopped in Hartford and the man had telephoned another officer walked up to him and said "Hello Hecker, what are you doing in here?" Hecker responded "Hello, what do you want?" They then took him to the police station where $30.06 and three trolley tokens were found on him. After a hard cross examination he admitted that he was Hecker and Captain Tobin went to Hartford and brought him back last night.

Assessors' Work
The board of assessors are making a special effort to properly index and improve the method of filing the grand lists of the town of Vernon. To Assessor Sadlack has been given the duty to mail to all non-resident a tax list. These were sent out some time ago to give ample opportunity to have them returned before November 1, the last day.

As each person appears to file their lists they take a careful check up as to the list of last year and add or subtract such changes as are necessary before administering the oath as to ownership, and give care as to the boundary lines as they may be changed or in some way altered. They are giving an exceptional amount of time to this and all three are working in harmony with the hope that the lists will be improved in their descriptions and amounts.

No Great Increases
They will not make any great changes, but will follow in most cases the valuation that was placed upon the property last year, leaving until 1929, the ten year period since revaluation, which is required under law to be done each ten years, the last revaluation having been made in 1919.
By the work that they are now doing they expect will be a big help next year, and in 1929 when the revaluation is made. It is conceded that in many respects the true valuation of property is below what is being considered, the cost of some property has been sold recently.
White, Cobin & Co. Honor Employees
The fourth annual service recognition entertainment and dance of the White, Cobin & Co. Division of the United States Envelope Co. will be held at Princess Hall on Saturday evening, Nov. 19th, when fifteen veteran employees of the local division of the company will receive official recognition of extended years of service in the form of medals, a gift from the company. Even if this number will graduate to a higher rank in service classification and four will receive fifteen year medals.
An entertainment will be furnished by Hartford talent and this will be followed by dancing, music being furnished by Carl Buckmaster and his orchestra of seven pieces. A buffet luncheon will be served the veterans, guests and employees during the evening. Executives of the company will be present from Springfield and Worcester. The committee consists of Arno Weber, Philip W. Sachse, Geo. Wood, Bernard Ertel, Chas. Benheimer and Thomas Darcey, department heads and paymaster J. N. Keeney, representing the office. The local company now has 40 veteran employees ranging from 15 to 60 years of service, two have received fifty year service medals, two will be presented with 45 year medals next month with several in the 30 to 40 year class.

Annual K. of P. Banquet
Damon Lodge No. 17 Knights of Pythias will hold their annual banquet at the Rockville House on Thursday evening, Nov. 10th, for which tentative plans have already been made and the details are now in the hands of the following committee: Bethrand Scheney, Raymond Schrupp, Joseph Semple, Carl Schmeiske, Wm. Haden and Fred Meyer. There will be an entertainment, vaudeville numbers, orchestra music and a short post prandial program following the turkey supper. It is expected there will be 125 present at the banquet.

Miscellaneous Shower
The home of Mrs. Clarence Serber of Prospect street was the scene of a very pleasant gathering on Tuesday evening when about thirty friends of Miss Gertrude Serber gave her a miscellaneous shower. The house was decorated in pink and yellow. During the evening there was a program of piano and vocal solos. Mrs. Serber served a salad supper following the entertainments.

Wednesday evening, Miss Victoria Genovese entertained a number of Miss Serber's friends at her home on Pine street. Dancing was a feature of the evening. A buffet luncheon was served. Miss Serber will be married to Julius Genovese, Oct. 26th.

Surprise Party
Mrs. Joseph Moss was given a very pleasant surprise at her home on Talcott avenue on Tuesday afternoon by the Ladies Aid society of the St. Johns Episcopal church. The party was in honor of her birthday. Mrs. H. B. Olmstead, in behalf of the society presented Mrs. Moss with a beautiful boudoir lamp. Mrs. Moss responded, thanking the ladies for their kindness. Later in the afternoon refreshments were served.

TUBERCULOSIS EXPERT IS WITNESS IN COURT

Says Man Was in His Office Same Hour Other Says He Was in His.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 21.—Dr. David R. Lyman, noted expert in tuberculosis cases, appeared in Superior Court today as a state witness in the case of Dr. Morris L. Horwitz, who is charged with attempting an illegal operation on a Bridgeport girl, now dead. Dr. Lyman appeared to confirm the fact that Isadore W. Altman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the so-called "surprise witness" of the state in the Horwitz case, had been in Dr. Lyman's office at New Haven in a day last spring when Altman claimed to have been in Dr. Horwitz's office also.
Dr. M. Carl Beck, who is serving a state prison term after conviction in the same case, is in court waiting to be called also as a state witness. After Dr. Lyman had been dismissed, today Benjamin Slade, of New Haven, counsel for Horwitz put Altman under cross examination.

FORMER LOCAL SOLDIER IS DEAD IN BROOKLYN

Samuel Shipman Succumbs at Naval Hospital—Funeral Here Sunday P. M.

Samuel Shipman, aged 31, formerly of Manchester and a member of Company G when that unit went to the Mexican Border, died yesterday afternoon at the Brooklyn Naval hospital after an illness of nearly two years. Shipman, who had been unable to work, was born in Hartford. Mr. Shipman had lived on McNeil street here for many years. About a year ago, he and his wife removed to Wethersfield. He was admitted to the Naval hospital a month ago. Mr. Shipman survived by his wife, who was Miss Geneva Burr, and one daughter, Betty Jane, who is only seventeen months old; his father, Lewis Shipman of Wethersfield, and two sisters, Mrs. Carlos Davis of Hartford and Mrs. Arthur Snitzger of Bridgeport.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the South Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be in the family plot in the East cemetery.

It is possible that it will be a military funeral although this had not been decided this afternoon. Mr. Shipman, in addition to being a member of Company G, was an ex-member of the American Legion Post here and also of the Sons of Veterans. Prior to his illness, he worked as a toolmaker in the Underwood plant in Hartford.

KING IS HAPPY NOW; SOON TO WED AGAIN

Gets Letter That Bride-to-Be Will Come to Manchester For the Ceremony.

Frank Sokolski, "the King of Homestead Park," is jubilant today, for he was notified, by letter yesterday that his intended bride, Mrs. Mary Oleski is safe at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Welaj of Manville, N. Y., and will come to Manchester shortly to be married.

Mrs. Oleski was reported a few days ago as having been brought to Bellevue hospital for observation. She was said to have been picked up by a porter at the Grand Central Station in New York City and taken to the hospital by a representative of the Travelers Aid society.

Frank investigated the stories and found, through a telephone conversation with the head of the hospital that his intended wife was not there. The local man had kept a vigil at the Manchester railroad station for three days, but gave up the watch on Wednesday when Mrs. Oleski failed to put in an appearance.

On receipt of the letter Frank wrote to Mrs. Oleski, asking her to confirm her sister's letter, saying that he would send money for all traveling expenses as soon as he hears from her.

FLYING SUITS, RAGE FOR LONDON WOMEN

ed for tea, as the correct refreshment for a mannequin parade. The big thrill has come with the introduction of the flying suit.

It promises to be expensive for the male "friends from the city"—the city in London being the financial district—for what is a party girl to do if she has a perfectly lovely flying suit without any aeroplane to wear it in? The answer seems to be—buy an aeroplane.

Distinctive Garb
Until lately those women who have taken up aviation have used their ingenuity in providing costumes, too often aping the costumes of male flyers. Now the flying woman is to have her own distinctive garb.

The latest model flying suit consists of breeches and gaiters of fine black corduroy, fitted in the manner of Jodhpur breeches. These are so designed that the wearer can attach a skirt for wear over the breeches when not flying. The jacket to match is double-breasted and is worn over a black blouse, which is embroidered with flying wings. A black leather flying coat, with scarf and wrap to match completes the ensemble.

Who is to poor mere man. Once he merely had to provide new hangings to match a tea-gown, or buy a new car to match a new motor-touring suit, but now it seems he will have to buy aeroplanes to match new flying suits.

ABOUT TOWN

The Manchester Green Community club will hold its regular business meeting this evening in the assembly hall of the school. A short entertainment and a social time with light refreshments will follow in charge of a committee headed by Miss Irene Griffin.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hecker returned last night from their wedding trip which included visits to Montreal and other places in Canada and New York.

Mrs. E. T. French of Main street is in attendance at the district Women's Missionary Society at Lynn, and will spend the week-end visiting her daughters at the Nazareth college at Wollaston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Walker of East Middle Turnpike have returned from a visit with relatives in Princeton, Mass.

HEBRON

Theodore Dvoranovich of New York Has Set to John and Adol- phus Tarasewich; also of New York, the property located in Jones street and formerly known as the Stevens place. Besides dwelling house and farm buildings there are 57 acres of land. The purchasers of the place expect to occupy it in the spring.

Dr. C. J. Douglas is reported as slightly improved from his attack of erysipelas. The disease is located in the head and face. He has carried a high temperature but there has been a recent drop in the fever rate and it is thought the crisis is past.

Winthrop Porter came from the Hartford Isolation Hospital Tuesday afternoon. He bore the drive home very well and is resting comfortably. His condition is very encouraging. It is said that all traces of paralysis have left him. His case was diagnosed as infantile paralysis.

The road through the green is being laid with trap rock and steam rollers are working daily. This strip will soon be completed. The road is already in use through to Marlborough though not wholly opened for traffic.

Fred Zurcher has moved from Amato, to what was formerly known as the Beach place in Grayville.

Mrs. Robert Goodrich of Lebanon spent Monday as the guest of Mrs. N. C. Johnson.
Edward Fredericks who is employed in Westchester spent the week-end at his home in Hopevale.

Mrs. Paul Coates, her daughter Eleanor, and Mrs. Edward Fredricks spent Tuesday in Portland where they were the guests of relatives. Mr. Coates was in Glastonbury for the day visiting Mrs. Henry Higgins.

The Misses Hazel and Gladys Brown were home from Hartford for the week-end.
George Fabel, his mother Mrs. Mary Fabel and his sister Mrs. William Woodward spent Saturday in Middletown where they attended the Seventh Day services and visited relatives.

Mrs. Abraham Schwartz, the wife of Rabbi Schwartz, who was lost in the severe storm of last week, remaining out all night, suffered a collapse a few days after her adventure. She at first made a quick and apparently complete recovery, but is now confined to her bed. A daughter from New York is assisting in her care.

Claud W. Jones has placed his herd of 52 head of dairy stock under state supervision for physical examination and tuberculin test. The stock was tested by Dr. Dow of Willimantic, veterinary, under the direction of the state commissioner and will be under the control of the state until certified free from the tuberculin reaction.

The Young Women's club met at the home of Mrs. Edmund Horton Thursday afternoon with an attendance of sixteen members. The annual election of officers took place. The officers chosen for the year were: President, Mrs. Edward A. Smith; vice-president, Mrs. Lucius W. Robinson; secretary, Miss Clara Ellis; treasurer, Mrs. Alphonse Wright. The president and vice-president will act as program committee with three others appointed by them to serve. The time was spent in discussing plans for the coming year's work. Refreshments were served.

John Rankl of Marlborough has bought of John N. Hewitt the Northam place situated on the old road to Colchester. There are 250 acres of land with dwelling house and farm buildings.

Quite a number from this town hastened to Columbia Wednesday evening at the report of a fire at the place on the Willimantic road formerly known as the James Little place. The light from the fire could be plainly seen from here. The alarm was given too late for help from those responding except for some furniture salvaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith and son of North street, a party of four, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Smith. Other guests at the Smith home were Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson and family from Massachusetts, who returned to Hartford where she will stay during the winter with her grandson Sidney Hewitt. Mrs. Grace Chamberlain, Mrs. Hewitt's sister will join the family in Hartford later to spend the winter.

SUPREME COURT HEARINGS

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 21.—The Supreme Court of Errors, opening its October term here next Tuesday, will hear arguments in forty-four appeal cases. New Haven has furnished twenty-nine of the cases, Hartford two and Fairfield thirteen.

DIES FROM SCRATCH

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 21.—A supposedly minor scratch sustained last Saturday, today caused the death of Charles L. Austin, 52, at Danbury hospital. Austin scratched his hand while working in a local hardware store on Saturday. He began to feel the effects of the scratch on Sunday without realizing what was wrong, and was sent to the hospital on Monday.

MERCHANTS TO MEET

HEAD OF 'NEW HAVEN'

Local Business Men Want Express and Freight Service Here Improved.

Members of the Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce will meet with Capt. Mitchell of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad shortly with a view to improving the express and freight service and delivery to stores in this town.

As the result of a conference with Frank A. Nickerson, local agent of the American Railway Express company, this morning, the decision to interview officials of the railroad was arrived at.

Mr. Nickerson said that although he would cooperate with the merchants as much as possible, he could not promise anything more than good service from the time the express arrives in Manchester until it is delivered. He advised the Chamber of Commerce members to go higher up and to see officials of the railroad and the express company.

IN BANKRUPTCY

New Haven, Oct. 21.—Philip Breault, of Hartford, a building operator, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in United States District Court here today. He owes $156,560 and has assets estimated to be worth $185,225. Breault has real estate valued at $160,730 which is mortgaged to the extent of $148,564.

"THE BARKER" PLAYED BY WALTER HUSTON

Actor Has Reached Drama From Variety After Long, Hard Struggle.

"You know, I ain't goin' to spend the rest of my days in this lousy carnival racket. I got plans for us, Chris." In such a manner does Walter Huston as "Nifty" Miller, the splendor for Gowdy's Big City Show in "The Barker" deliver himself to his son. "The Barker" comes to Parson's Theater on October 24, 25 and 26th, with a matinee on the latter date.

Much the same thought must have come to Walter Huston some years ago when he was blithely hoofing to the accompaniment of his own wise cracks in the three and sometimes four a day. Walter Huston wanted to be an actor and the ambition unlike most human aspirations, did not lead him into one of the many-strange-by-paths. Like Louis Bartels, Walter Huston is a product of the variety and behind the vaudeville experience lies a foundation of spar carrying, off stage noises and walk on parts. At sixteen or seventeen Huston left his home in Toronto to join a repertoire company. The Huston family quite cheerfully assured him that he would be seen back looking for real food. Undismayed by their predictions, Walter linked hands with Thespians and started down the highway.

Eleanor Williams in "The Barker."

With the closing of the "rep" show Walter took up the cudgel in behalf of Shakespeare and with the Richard Mansfield company toured the country in "Julius Caesar" and from this graduated to the cause of the stock company. After a season of this sort of work he met and married Miss Wynne Whipple and together they sat down to concoct vaudeville sketches and act in them.

Speaking of this experience, Mr. Huston says: "With this trouping came one of the first principles of a successful vaudevillian. We found that every community varies in its likes and dislikes, so it was necessary to find that which would interest the greatest number of people, a sort of common denominator. This we discovered in mechanical devices and strove to present something not only interesting but in a way, instructive. For these we carried our own assistants, knowing that miscarriage of mechanical effects is one of the nightmares of the theater." The last act in which the Hustons appeared over the Keith circuit was called "Time."

Then came his inauguration on Broadway in "Mister Pitt," and a few weeks later he was elevated to stardom by Brock Pemberton, the producer. Huston subsequently created that unforgettable character of the old man in "Desire Under the Elms."

TOLLAND

The regular meeting of Tolland Grange was held Tuesday evening in the church vestry. After the regular business routine the lecturer's hour was spent with a roll call from each member present giving some event in American history, music and each member naming his favorite book and author also giving a brief gist of the book. Elmer Usher and Joseph Usher and family motored to Colebrook, Conn., Tuesday for a brief visit. Miss Hazel West of Snipsc district has resumed her work at the Travelers office after a few days of illness. The first of a series of Sunday evening service will be held next Sunday evening in the Federated church to commence at 7 o'clock. The Salvation Army of South Manchester will be the feature of the evening and it is desired a large audience will be present to greet them. Mr. Gaylord of Storrs College 4-H Club leader for Tolland County will visit 7th and 9th district school October 27. Several of the ladies of the missionary society attended the annual meeting of the Hartford Branch, which was held at the Asylum Avenue church in Hartford, Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Simpson are entertaining guests from Hagerstown, Md., and Chambersburg, Penn. Miss Lucille Agard is a guest of her niece and family in Bridgeport, Conn. Rev. William C. Darby and Mr. and Mrs. J. Tilden Jewett, who have been on a two weeks' automobile trip through Pennsylvania, Virginia and at Washington have returned. Great Britain spends three times as much for war pensions as does the United States.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (114) Newton and Gray

• Sir Isaac Newton did one notable thing for electricity when he showed that a disc of glass, when placed in a brass cylinder and electrified would attract the paper so strongly as to cause it to leap about the cylinder. Here he is pictured showing children how an electrified rod attracts scraps of paper. Stephen Gray was a bluecoat boy in London at the beginning of the eighteenth century. He divided matter into conductors and non-conductors of electricity. He put up a line of pack-thread, suspended by loops of silk and found he could send a current of electricity along the thread 886 feet. Theodore Du Fay, a hard-working French scholar of the same period, went a step beyond Gray's experiments. He found that glass tubes could be used to hold up the pack-thread, and he found, too, that when he was in contact with the electric thread he became electrified and when another person touched him there was a spark and a crackling sound. (To Be Continued)

BUSINESS IN STATE IMPROVED, C. OF C. SURVEY DISCLOSES

Most Factories Operating Around 85 Per Cent; Surveys to Be Monthly Feature in State.

Hartford, Oct. 21.—General business conditions in Connecticut during September improved over the conditions of August and also over the conditions of September 1926, according to a survey of the leading communities of the state prepared jointly by the local chambers of commerce and the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce. Gas and electric consumption, savings deposits, retail business, and in many cases industrial output, have gained. Health conditions are excellent. Several of the surveys indicate the location of new factories and the bringing out of new products. In most cases, factories are found to be operating around 85 per cent of their capacity.

The State Chamber announces that arrangements have been completed whereby surveys similar to that which follows will hereafter be prepared each month jointly by the local chambers of commerce in the larger communities and the State Chamber. The chambers of commerce in Greenwich, Middletown, Norwalk, Torrington and Willimantic were unable to prepare data in time for the following survey which covers September, but these chambers plan to prepare surveys representing their communities for next month's state-wide summary.

The Bristol, Hartford, Manchester and Winsted surveys are printed below for comparative purposes: Bristol

Secretary Wheeler of the Bristol Chamber reports as follows: Consumption of gas and electricity in September was about the same as in August. There was a slight increase in the use of gas. The larger retail merchants report business conditions for September much better than August. There was a slight increase in installation of new telephones—not up to normal because of the increase in rates which went into effect October 1. Real Estate and Insurance business was considerably better than in August, but not to be compared with September a year ago. Building permits issued in September amounted to $134,644 against $221,000 for August. Two large apartment houses were constructed and a new theater about completed. Postal receipts for September were slightly less than August. Factories are running about 85 per cent with all indications for a good fall business.

Hartford Executive Vice-President Corbin of the Hartford Chamber of Commerce reports as follows: Conditions in Hartford seem to be fairly satisfactory along insurance, banking and mercantile lines. Both skilled and unskilled labor is being employed on about a normal basis. The building permits have not been quite up to our recent normal, but is of no particular significance.

Manchester Secretary Rix of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce reports as follows: Building permits for September were $101,050, showing a slight decrease over 1926. Gas consumption was 12,775,000 cubic feet, showing a 16 per cent increase over 1926. Electric consumption was $72,000 kilowatt hours—a 10 per cent increase over 1926. 4,405 telephones are in use, showing only a slight increase in new phones. Real estate sales were slightly decreased over 1926. Post office receipts were $4,044,001, a slight increase. Health records are highly satisfactory. Hotels report the largest transient business in their history. Retail business as a whole showed a 20 per cent increase over 1926. Industrial conditions seem to be about normal. A new concern, the Manchester Tool Company, began manufacturing small machinists' tools recently.

Winsted Secretary Halsted of the Winsted Chamber of Commerce reports as follows: Several new cottages have been erected at Highland Lake, a number of new dwellings have been built in the town and a new grammar school has been built. Housing situation is adequate. Bank clearings were normal with a slight increase in the savings department. There was a slight increase in the number of telephones installed. Real estate sales showed a slight increase. Post office receipts were about normal. Hotels showed a decided increase, reporting prosperous conditions, but retail stores as a whole, reported but a slight increase in business. Business conditions as a whole were very favorable during September. All factories were working full time. Two new local factories, the Mason Silk Company and the Winsted Enamel Wire Company, are rapidly expanding. The Gilbert Clock Company has put out a new line of clocks.

SAYS HE FOUND HE BOUGHT A SALOON

Purchaser of Store Asserts Patrons Mostly Came to Buy Booze.

Decision was reserved in Superior Court yesterday by Judge Newell Jennings on the suit of Max B. Sherman of Hartford against Egon Reizer of School street, this town, to recover $1,200, paid to the defendant two years ago as a deposit on a contract to purchase the Reizer store on School street. Sherman claimed that the store, represented by Mr. Reizer as doing a business of $700 a week, took in only $200 in each of the two weeks he was in charge, and also asserted that customers asked for liquor more often than they asked for groceries. The defendant denied that he had made any representations as to amount of business.

According to the testimony a contract was entered into by the two men for the sale of the store at a price of $16,000. The $1,200 was given to Reizer as a deposit and the buyer assumed the loss of the business. The demand for liquor from prospective customers, the latter charged, was enormous, and the grocery sales were not as large as they were represented by the owner of the store.

George H. Cohen, counsel for Sherman, asked a question concerning the conviction of the defendant on a violation of the liquor law, but the question was stricken out when it was learned that the alleged violation had taken place a year after the contract had been made.

Principals in the case were to appear in court this afternoon at 2 o'clock to hear the decision on the case. Mr. Reizer was represented by Charles R. Hathaway of this town.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The following committees have been elected in the Freshman Student Council, to serve for the coming year:
Safety—H. Benche, F. Weimen.
Property—R. McCormick, F. Harrington.
Social—C. Rubinow, R. Dotchin.
Athletic—R. Cheney, L. Murphy.
Publicity—F. Johnson.

The last three days of the week have been devoted to giving the final exams of the first marking period, which closes today. These exams are being held in place of mid-years, which have caused so much fear among the students in preceding years. However final exams for the whole year will be given in June.

The first meeting of the Soc and Buskin will be held tonight at 7:30 in Assembly hall.
The assembly yesterday was opened by Principal Shanny in the absence of Terrence Shannon, who was incapacitated because of injuries received during football practice.

After the opening exercises had been concluded Katherine Foley was presented with a silver Remington pin, an award for typewriting 46 net words a minute. The musical part of the program was presented by a picked octet which consisted of 4 brass instruments, 3 violins and a drum, from the regular school orchestra. The octet played two numbers, "Toreadors' Song" from "Carmen" and an appropriate song at this time of the year, "Spooks". Both numbers were especially well rendered and were much appreciated by the students. Mr. Quimby then told of Hon. Betram Russell's speech on "Character" which he heard at Yale last week. In this speech Mr. Russell, who is an internationally renowned lecturer, divided Character into four parts, vitality, courage, sensitiveness and intelligence. In connection with this same topic Mr. Quimby mentioned several letters he had received from the deans of various colleges which paid tribute to the high character of High school graduates from So. Manchester.

The students were then asked to join in singing a new athletic song entitled "If You Only Knew", which was sung especially for the East Hartford game tomorrow. If Manchester wins tomorrow it will have a fine chance to win the Central Connecticut League for a victory over Meriden will insure the pennant for this school. In closing the assembly the entire support of the student body was asked for, and it was announced that arrangements have been made to excuse those pupils who desire to go to the game.

Manchester Man Renews Acquaintance With Director After 18 Years.

A Manchester man who had heard the Royal Welsh Ladies' choir in Belfast, Ireland 18 years ago, renewed acquaintances with the director, Miss Gertrude Gronow, on the appearance of the choir here Wednesday night at the Kiwanis club benefit concert in the High school hall.

Miss Gronow recalled the occasion on which they had met before. She was then a member of the chorus, but since has been appointed director. She said that the choir arrived here last Friday and had immediately started on its tour, giving three concerts before coming to Manchester on Wednesday. The Star Spangled Banner, she said, had been learned since Friday and memorized by the choir since then. The choir is booked for twelve months in this country on its present tour.

HILLIARD TEAM WINS AT SETBACK

Takes Prize For High Score at Inter-Factory Tournament At Community Club.

With ten teams on the starting line last night the Community setback tournament got away to a flying start at the Community club. The final results of the evening's play resulted as follows:

1. E. E. Hilliard Co. 129
2. Conn. Sumatra Co. 107
3. Gammons, Holman Co. 100
4. Carlyle-Johnson 94
5. Hose Co. No. 1 92
6. Talcott Bros. 92
7. Improvement Club vs. Talcott Bros. 91
8. Business Men 88
9. Glastonbury Knitting 88
10. Bon Ami 68

The highest individual score for the evening was turned in by Newbury and McConnell of the Hilliard Co. team. Each received a tobacco pouch, pipe and tobacco as the prize which is awarded the highest individual team score each evening of the tournament.

While members from the Gammons-Holman Co. team served refreshments, the captains of the respective teams retired for a conference in several rooms. It was later announced that twenty-four hands would be played at each of two tables, totaling forty-eight hands during the evening, starting next week. Rule number five was also amended to read that two men will bid; dealer and man to left will look at their cards only. The teams will play as scheduled next week Thursday, Oct. 27, at 8 p. m. sharp as follows:

- Carlyle-Johnson vs. E. E. Hilliard Co.
- Bon Ami vs. Hose Co. No. 1
- Conn. Sumatra Co. vs. Glastonbury Knitting Mills
- Improvement Club vs. Talcott Bros.
- Business Men vs. Gammons-Holman Co.

Several of the scores last evening were very close, and it will be noted that Hose Company No. 1 and the Talcott Brothers' team tied at 92.

FESS' SPANKING

There may be some who will fancy that Senator Fess of Ohio probably felt somewhat humbled and abashed at being called into the Presidential presence and soundly scolded for his repeated declarations that Mr. Coolidge is going to be "drafted" by the Republican party in 1928. There may be a lesser number of individuals, congenially suspicious, who can imagine the Ohio Senator going off to a corner and patting himself on the back at the successful accomplishment of a subtle bit of personal politics.

Senator Fess has hardly ever been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Presidency. But there are qualities about him that make it at least remotely possible that he may have thought himself in that connection. And what better bid has anybody for heirship to the thick-and-thin Coolidge backing than the gesture of the Ohio man?

Has Fess not succeeded, in these last few weeks, in making himself appear the most Coolidgeite of all the Coolidgeites? And if, by his oft repeated asseverations that the party will have nobody but Cal and can have him if it insists, he manages to jockey the President into a more explicit statement of his intention to run, then does the senator not put himself in line for at least a fine big share of the devotion reaped by the man in the White House?

Really, one does not court a spanking from the President just from sheer exuberance of emotion. Not when one is as ambitious and as foggy as Senator Fess.

CAPTAIN DIEHL

Belated justice done to Captain Diehl of the City of Rome, which ship rammed and sank the submarine S-51 more than two years ago, in his acquittal of charges in connection with the disaster by a jury, vindicates the unjustly accused commander—but what of the two years of compulsory idleness he has suffered, and what of the undeserved opprobrium under which he has lived?

Bitterly assailed by the Navy and made a scapegoat by the Steamboat Inspection Service which, in the face of ascertainable and ascertained facts, followed the Navy's lead in shifting the blame for the disaster onto a civilian's shoulders. Diehl was pilloried before the country as a swinish lout who not only did not properly handle his vessel but afterward acted with callous indifference to the fate of possible survivors.

As the public at large is, of course, without experience in the technique of vessel control it was easy enough to confuse the issue in that particular connection. But there was one point which ought to have been clear enough to the most thorough landsman. It was brought out at all the earlier inquiries that, after the crew of one of the City of Rome's boat had picked up the only three survivors of the submarine, Diehl stood by and continued the search for an hour and three quarters before proceeding on his way to Boston. Knowing that the submarine had gone down like a stone and that it was impossible that there should be any floating wreckage for possible survivors to cling to, the captain was absolutely justified in assuming that he had on board all the members of the crew still alive; to have remained longer on the scene would have been a sheer useless gesture without the slightest chance of being of service.

Realizing this, and when the Navy accused Diehl of failure of duty in not standing by for still other useless hours, the public might reasonably have suspected that the civilian sailor was being unjustly criticized in other ways as well. But the horror of the tragedy was on every mind and it is always easier to blame the living than the dead in such affairs. And so Diehl was execrated and berated from one end of the country to the other.

Now the federal jury finds that the entire blame for the catastrophe rested on the officers of the submarine, who ran without proper lights and handled their craft as if it were alone on the sea.

There was not, as a matter of fact, any experienced submarine officer in command of the S-51 at the time of the tragedy. It has developed that she was in charge of three "rookie" officers. And it is this circumstance, beyond shadow of doubt, that accounts for the desperate drive made at the time to convict Diehl of responsibility for the accident. It was not the gallant but inexperienced young rookies who were to blame for the S-51 catastrophe but the United States Navy, in permitting such utterly reckless handling of its ships and the lives of its sailors as the placing of a submarine, on cruising and diving practice, in the command of neophytes.

Meantime, who is going to compensate Diehl for his lost years and his shattered reputation?

OUT OF LUCK

While we are able to sustain our souls against agony in the matter of the Mississippi flood sufferers, it is hardly to be expected that the people of New England will be so lately hearted as to fail to heed the Macedonian cry of the Pennsylvania anthracite mine operators who cry out to us to come over into the hard coal market and save them.

As has been well known ever since the indubitable fact was announced by the late Mr. Baer, of blessed memory, the hard coal business of the United States was entrusted by Almighty God to a little group of persons of extraordinary virtue so that the blessing of anthracite might be administered to the people in exact accordance with the desires of Divine Providence.

How righteously they have executed their stewardship everybody knows. They have, for almost a generation, been selling us coal at a loss; we know this is so because they themselves have told us so, and the only reason they have been able to keep on doing business that way is because they have done so much of it. They have paid their miners so lavishly that it is notorious that they eat nothing but caviar and guinea fowl breasts and smoke dollar cigars on the job. With tears in their eyes they have besought their breaker boys to pick out the slate and the slag, and if we have sometimes found some of those substances in our bins it is only because of the savage ungenerosity of the hired help. They have never raised the price of coal more than twice in a season and not more than two or three dollars at a time. There has been a beautiful record of service to mankind; and the devil take the profit!

And now, poor dears, they are in woe and misery and a peck and a half of trouble. Their market has gone blooey. What with the strike they engineered—because they wanted us to have cheap coal and incidentally clean out their rejected dumps at no more than a good creamy profit—and because, when we couldn't get anthracite, we feared how to use soft coal and some of us bought oil burners and others took to using gas or moving South in the winter, the good souls find that their old-time graft is more or less busted and the sucker public slipping out of their clutches.

Wherefore the plea to us to "use more anthracite" and help the poor hobo hard coal operator out of the soup.

Naturally, we ought all to scrap the oil burners and have the soft coal carted to the Hocknaum and dumped and stay home from the South and shove hard coal into the fires as hard and fast as we can. It is our Christian duty—and we always do our Christian duty.

BOGEY

Speaking of the proposed new four-day liners which it is anticipated may be running between New London and Europe in the not remote future, the New York Times, with the characteristic wet-blanketing attitude of New York toward all out-of-town maritime propositions, conjures up the probable competition of the passenger airplane. "The four-day liner might pay now," says the Times, "but what would be its chance when it must compete with a two-day flier?"

Excellent, we should imagine, so long as the first instinct of mankind remains what it has always been—self-preservation. And so long as another eminently human trait continue to exist—the desire for comfort.

There is not the slightest indication that regular air transit between America and Europe is even on the horizon. The altogether childish assumption that it was a matter of the immediate tomorrow, which followed on the heels of the Lindbergh flight, has yet to be made. It was a long time between Luff Ericson and the Pilgrim Fathers. The blazed trail is often moss grown before it becomes a road.

And unless some utterly phenomenal change in the principles of aeronautics is discovered, more than one generation will grow old before the bulk of the traveling public will cease to prefer the safety of a surface-sailing ship to the perils of air traffic.

If the competition of airplanes is all that stands in the way of the success of the proposed four-day line, investments in New London real estate would seem to be wise.

A New Yorker in Paris

Paris, Oct. 21.—At le Bourget field, if you didn't see the huge birds of transit, darting in and darting out, you'd swear you were in the neighborhood of a railroad station.

The same scurry of porters and baggage and taxis drawing up; the same consultations of train times, any place on the face of Europe... as casually as a merchant jumps the night train for Chicago. Tourists are whisked over the European map, as though the magic carpet was still available.

All about you can hear the whirr of the propellers and the rising rhythm of the motors. Out of nowhere comes a great bird, descends in its particular lane; out pile the passengers and into taxis, busses or private cars and are whisked away. Or passengers transfer to another destined in a few minutes to take off for Zurich.

The European is astounded at the American's surprise. Having seen the American's amazing air of air dexterity and long distance flights and such, the European cannot understand that we have no such air transport at home. The European has had it so long that he expects planes actually to leave and arrive on train-time schedule. And, for the most part, they do.

What is more the plane comes in and out with startling rapidity and regularly. In the morning, at least, there are few minutes of leisure; something seems to be doing all the time. There is that same undercurrent of excitement that one finds at the biggest railroad stations and, since a hundred or so folk may be departing in various directions and as many coming in, white friends come down to see them off or greet their arrival, you have in miniature an open-air replica of scenes at any American depot, from Pennsylvania Station to Los Angeles.

Listen to the Americans and you find most of them wanting to live in Europe. Listen to the Europeans and you find most of them wanting to live in America. And you can't blame either. Drop an American, myself for instance, into any one of the "cheap" hotels—little towns outside of Paris and Nice and, within an hour, comes the discovery that you could rent the house-you've-been-looking-for-all-your-life for the amazing sum of $40 per year. You then pry into the cost of food, wine and such and, ere the day has ended, you find it possible to eat, drink and be merry on something like one dollar a day. By this time you wonder how you can afford to live anywhere else. And recalling those hundred-dollar-a-month rentals in New York, there seems to be nothing to argue about.

On the other hand, the European sees the American spending money and that's all he needs to know. In spite of the high rentals, food costs and such the American still seems to have enough money to get across the ocean; whereas the richest persons in the $40-per-year rental town considers it a great holiday if he can take his family into Paris twice a year, though the round trip

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUCHER

Washington.—Most informed persons in Washington expected that there would be an armed revolt in Mexico, but few thought it would develop so early. President Calles had so often and so insistently promised that he would keep his hands off the presidential campaign and allow a free election that the general belief was that military activities would be postponed until after Generals Serrano and Gomez saw how the election resulted.

Serrano and Gomez, however, apparently shared the general belief that Alvaro Obregon would be elected. Whether they had any hope of fair and free elections is difficult to decide from this distance, but it is likely that they would have been justified in such hope because Obregon is such a popular hero in Mexico that strong-arm methods were not needed to elect him.

Friends of Mexico in this country were anxious to see the revolt put down and have supported the drastic tactics of Calles in executing many rebel leaders. If it should be proved that Calles deliberately provoked Serrano and Gomez into insurrection, their opinion doubtless would change, but it appears that Calles merely proved his strength and foresight and beat his enemies "to the draw." If Calles had been captured he undoubtedly would have been treated the same way.

Although it is true that the Mexican people are not yet well along the road toward what is known as civilization and that rebels are being killed off quicker than they would be in this country—perhaps, there is every justification in Mexican law for the numerous recent executions.

The victims presumably are being shot down in accordance with the law of Maximilian, dated 1862, which provided that anyone should be shot who was taken, arms in hand, against the constituted government. Emperor Maximilian himself had this law passed to enable him to deal with his Mexican enemies and he enforced it against many of the leaders in the warring faction led by the Mexican patriot, Benito Juarez.

Then, when Maximilian himself was captured, Juarez, who had been railroad fare comes to something like $4 in American money.

For Europe is still very poor. Even Paris, rich by contrast, thanks to tourist trade, lacks general prosperity. Most folk are content to live from hour to hour. A few francs so carelessly tossed about by tourists, is greedily seized upon. London, being bigger, seems even poorer and when you hear the shopkeepers tell of their few shillings a week, you wonder how they live. A fur coat on an American woman actually causes faces to turn about and, in an out of the way cafe, the display of money in any quantity still causes an uneasy exchange of glances.

ODD SOUVENIRS WERE BOUGHT BY LEGIONNAIRES

Doughboys In Paris Had Fun Selecting Drinking Acces- sories.

Paris—Cocktail shakers, hip flasks, liquor glasses, shakers, and all other contrivances for mixing cocktails and other drinks were the main purchases of the American Legionnaires during their recent stay in the French capital. A spirit-casse, looking like a richly bound book and bearing the title "The Spirit of Our Ancestors" also met with considerable success. There was also a big run on little statuettes of Napoleon in his characteristic attitude, with one hand under his waistcoat, and almost as many of Jeanne d'Arc were bought. The thing that astonished the French merchants was the large quantity of French automobile horns carried away by the American veterans. The little mascot, the penguin doll, called "Alfred," also made a big appeal to the men.

But if the Americans took away a large number of souvenirs, there were a few of them who left some behind them. One was Dr. A. F. Millemore, of Cottonwood, Minnesota, who increased the gold reserve of the Bank of France to the tune of 415 gold francs. The cashier could hardly believe his eyes when Dr. Millemore strolled in the bank one morning and produced the sparkling gold coins. The doctor says he found them while clearing up his estate in Minnesota, and his guess is that they were brought to America by some immigrant from France many years ago.

Another Legionnaire from Illinois left a little souvenir of a real American greenback behind him. "Here are five good dollars," he said to his hotel proprietor where he had been well-taken care of during his sojourn in Paris. "I want to reserve that same room during our next Convention so take this money."

"Certainly, I shall be delighted," replied the hotelkeeper, "at what date, please?"

"That will be in 1937!"

After a little hesitation, the money was accepted just the same and the Legionnaire went away in full confidence.

The committee of the American Legion which undertook to help put the French people in touch with certain veterans they had known during the war, received many amusing inquiries. The following letter was among them:

"Monsieur the Director:
I am taking advantage of your kind offer to ask you if an American soldier who lived with my parents a short time before the Armistice, is in the group of Legionnaires. I have corresponded with him a little but for the moment I have completely forgotten his name, but I am sure it will be easy for you to find him, for he is not very tall and he comes from Texas."
In spite of this description, the American was not discovered.

MEXICO'S LOST SILVER MINES ARE LOCATED

El Paso Prospector Says Buried Wealth of Old Indians Is Found.

El Paso, Texas—"Lost Guadalupe de Tayopa," buried mines of Mexico, whose wealth in silver ore is legend, have been found by C. B. Ruggles, El Paso prospector, he claims.

According to the stories told, heretofore considered by many to be the wild dreams of imaginative prospectors, the opening of the mines was concealed by Indians during an Indian massacre many years ago, and only Indians knew of the location. Since then many prospectors have endured hardships, hostility and even death in searching for the Lost Guadalupe de Tayopa mines.

Hunted Six Years
"For six years," Ruggles said, "I have worked running down rumors and searching for clues which might reveal the location of the mines. I have spent practically all my time at it."

"In searching for the mines we encountered hostility from the Indians living nearby. They consider that all minerals belong to God, and have appointed themselves guardians of the secret which they alone knew. They felt that in helping us to locate the mines they would be robbing God. They did everything possible to hinder us, even to starting forest fires to drive us away or destroy us, and felling huge trees across our trail to impede us.

"I finally secured four of the documents which, collectively, show how to find the mine openings. But there was a fifth, and each document was a key to the next and none was any good alone.

"I had about despaired of getting the fifth key, when it was given me by an old Indian chief, whose hostility changed to friendship when I saved his daughter from dying of the flu. The information was on an old sheepskin which was nearly falling apart from age. There are, he added, twenty-nine separate mines in the group.

The BENSON MURDER CASE

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Suspect's attack turns to Miss St. Clair, Pfyfe and Leacock. Vance eliminates Miss St. Clair, and when Pfyfe's testimony leads to incriminate Leacock, Markham is about to arrest the latter when Vance intervenes. Major Benson brings Miss Hoffman to Markham's office.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIII
THE girl raised her head prettily, and related her story in a capable, well-modulated voice.

"About a week ago—I think it was Wednesday—Mr. Pfyfe called on Mr. Alvin Benson in his private office. I was in the next room, where my typewriter is located.

"There's only a glass partition between the two rooms, and when anyone talks loudly in Mr. Benson's office I can hear them. In about five minutes Mr. Pfyfe and Mr. Benson began to quarrel. I thought it was funny, for they were such good friends; but I didn't pay much attention to it, and went on with my typing.

"Their voices got very loud, though, and I caught several words. Major Benson asked me this morning what the words were; so I suppose you want to know, too. Well, they kept referring to a note, and once or twice a check was mentioned. Several times I caught the word 'father-in-law,' and once Mr. Benson said 'nothing doing.'

"Then Mr. Benson called me in and told me to get him an envelope marked 'Pfyfe-Personal' out of his private drawer in the safe. I got it for him, but right after that our bookkeeper wanted me for something, so I didn't hear any more.

"About 15 minutes later, when Mr. Pfyfe had gone, Mr. Benson called me to put the envelope back. And he told me that if Mr. Pfyfe ever called again, I wasn't, under any circumstances, to let him into the private office unless he himself was there. He also told me that I wasn't to give the envelope to anybody—not even on a written order.

"And that is all, Mr. Markham." During her recital I had been as much interested in Vance's actions as in what she had been saying.

When first she had entered the room, his casual glance had quickly changed to one of attentive animation, and he had studied her closely. When Markham had placed the chair for her, he had risen and reached for a book lying on the table near her; and, in doing so, he had leaned unnecessarily close to her in order to inspect—or so it appeared to me—the side of her head. And during her story he had continued his observation, at times bending slightly to the right or left to better his view of her.

Unaccountable as his actions had seemed, I knew that some serious consideration had prompted the scrutiny.

When she finished speaking Major Benson reached in his pocket, and tossed a long manilla envelope on the desk before Markham.

"Here it is," he said. "I got Miss Hoffman to bring it to me the moment she told me her story."

checked of three items—a cancelled check for $10,000 made out to Leander Pfyfe and signed by Alvin Benson; a note for $10,000 to Alvin Benson; and a note for $10,000 to Alvin Benson, signed by Pfyfe, and a brief confession, also signed by Pfyfe, saying the check was a forgery.

The check was dated March 20th of the current year. The confession and the note were dated two days later. The note for $10,000 was for 90 days—fell due on Friday, June 21st, only three days off.

For fully five minutes Markham studied these documents in silence. Their sudden introduction into the case seemed to mystify him. Nor had any of the perplexity left his face when he finally put them back in the envelope.

"Oh, dear no!" Vance was looking lazily out of the window. "But I did enter the silence, so to speak, and indulged in a bit of cranio-logical contemplation."

"I'll keep this envelope a while, if you'll let me. I don't see its unaccountable as his actions had seemed, I knew that some serious consideration had prompted the scrutiny."

When she finished speaking Major Benson reached in his pocket, and tossed a long manilla envelope on the desk before Markham.

"Here it is," he said. "I got Miss Hoffman to bring it to me the moment she told me her story."

Markham picked it up hesitantly, as if doubtful of his right to inspect its contents.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

Mendelian theory, hereditary cranial similarities can be detected.

"But all this erudition is beyond you, I fear. Suffice it to say that, despite the young woman's hat and hair, I could see the contour of her head and the bone structure in her face; and I even caught a glimpse of her ear."

"And thereby deduced that we'd hear from her again," added Markham scornfully.

"Indirectly—yes," admitted Vance. Then, after a pause: "I say, in view of Miss Hoffman's revelation, do not Colonel Ostrander's comments of yesterday begin to take on a phosphorescent aspect?"

"Look here!" said Markham impatiently. "Cut out these circumlocutions, and get to the point."

Vance turned slowly from the window, and regarded him pensively.

"Markham—I put the question academically—doesn't Pfyfe's forged check, with its accompanying confession and his shortly-due note, constitute a rather strong motive for doing away with Benson?"

Markham sat up suddenly. "You think Pfyfe guilty—is that it?"

"Well, here's the touchin' situation: Pfyfe obviously signed Benson's name to a check, told him about it, and got the surprise of his life when his dear old pal asked him for a 90-day note to cover the amount, and also for a written confession to hold over him to insure payment."

"Now consider the subsequent—First, Pfyfe called on Benson a week ago and had a quarrel in which the check was mentioned. Damon was probably pleading with Pfythas to extend the note, and was vulgarly informed that there was 'nothing doing.'"

"Secondly, Benson was shot two days later, less than a week before the note fell due.

"Thirdly, Pfyfe was at Benson's house the hour of the shooting, and was probably pleading with Pfythas to extend the note, and was vulgarly informed that there was 'nothing doing.'"

"Fourthly, his explanation, when caught, of his unwarded search for Haig and Haig was, to say the least, a bit thick. And don't forget that the original tale of his lonely quest for nature's solitudes in the Catskills, with his mysterious stop-over in New York to confer a farewell benediction upon some anonymous person—was not all that one could have hoped for in the line of plausibility.

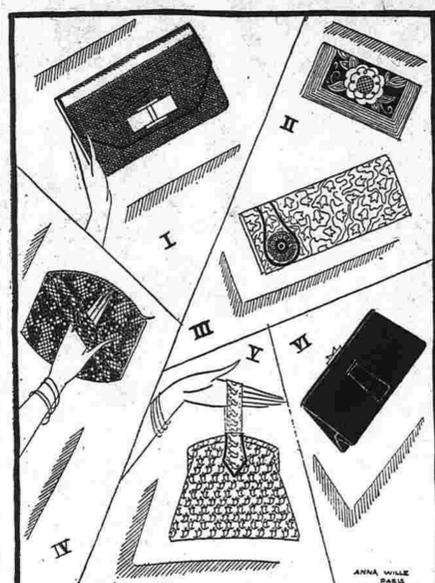

"Fifthly, he is an impulsive gambler, given to taking chances; and his experiences in South Africa would certainly have familiarized him with fire-arms."

"Sixthly, he was rather eager to involve Leacock, and did a bit of caddish tale-bearing to that end, even informing you that he saw the Captain on the spot at the fatal moment.

"Seventhly—but why bore you? Have I not supplied you with all the factors you hold so dear,—what are they now?—motive, time, place, opportunity, conduct? All that's wanting is the criminal agent. But then, the Captain's gun is at the bottom of the East River; so you're not very much better off in his case, what?"

THAT 19TH HOLE IN GOLF
This is the last of a series of four articles by Dr. Fishbein on the mental aspects of golf.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Alcohol has the peculiar power of depressing the higher mental centers. Therefore a player who is too intent may sometimes be benefited by a small dose of alcohol.

Dr. Theodore B. Hyslop, who happens to have been on occasion president of the Society for the Study of Inebriety, believes that neither golf nor mental efficiency is enhanced by practice at the "Alcohol" as the nineteenth is not infrequently called.

The ideal mental stance is tranquility with equanimity. Among some of the factors likely to disturb the player's equilibrium are waiting about on the tee or green. Many players become so impatient or fretful over delay that their game is ruined for the day.

Of course the sensible man will school himself against such an attitude. The swing, the stance, and indeed all the physical operations associated with play should be largely automatic but always ready to be brought under conscious control.

Reason and Habit
The neurologists who have studied golf are convinced that experience is nothing in putting, but everything in the rest of the game. Anybody who is good at games generally can putt like a professional but with a little practice, but the driver, brass or mashie constitute different problems.

The man full of fear is likely to putt short; so will the man who thinks that the length of his putt is a matter settled by fate. The right attitude according to Hyslop is one of determination, the will to act effectively. Such a player says to the ball, "Now, you little devil, down you go"—and it does. Golf is not a game of chance but of consciously guided effort.

Stabilized Effort
The purpose of practice at any stroke or at any physical action is to stabilize the effort. Then the movement becomes a matter of the subconscious and takes place the same way every time. Such an action is modified by the reasoning control. "The reasoning golfer," says Hyslop, "will subjugate his fears by confidence, and his fatalism by determination."

As far as I am concerned, nothing bothers me as much as playing with an opponent who waggles intermittently when addressing the ball. Professionals seldom if ever wobble.

The only possible help a waggler can be to a golfer is to help him hypnotize himself into correct timing of his stroke. It may irritate or bore his friends, and sometimes ruin their play by causing them unconsciously to imitate the waggler.

For the week end take home a box of Foss or Whitman's delicious chocolates. It will please the family. Quinn's.—Adv.

Others Make Our Mental Hazards
By Olive Roberts Barton

I dislike the word "mental hazard." It seems such a silly thing. The term in golf means a hill or a pit or any sort of difficult place created for the express purpose of taking the little hard white ball unaware as it rolls toward the green.

I know of nothing so typical of life as golf. Man goes out for pleasure and what does he do to find pleasure? Sets up a series of difficulties to overcome, new worlds to conquer, so to speak. But does he apply his philosophy to life?

No man becomes a good golfer until he learns to minimize the troubles he will have on his way around the course. If sand pits look like deserts, bunkers like mountains, and waterways like oceans, he may as well stop to plan his shots and then forget the hazards are there. It takes normal courage to play golf.

I suppose the great complications in the great game of life are responsible for the mental hazards we develop. There is a simpler name called worry.

One plans a house, but the game of building it is marred by the persistent determination of the builder to see nothing but the mistakes that are bound to appear. A door may swing the wrong direction, or a chimney may be the wrong size, but why let a mistake or two spoil one's pleasure in the whole house.

We plan a party. Things don't go just right. A different kind of dessert or a slight delay in serving may give us a nervous headache

NEW HAVEN BOYS' CLUB LOST TWICE IN 3 YEARS

Crack Elm City Eleven Meets Cloverleaves at Hickey's Grove Sunday Afternoon.

(Special to The Herald)
New Haven, Oct. 12.—(Manager Frank Carbone of the New Haven Boys' Club Senior football team, city champions of New Haven and claimants to the state title, have been booked to appear in Manchester on next Sunday, October 23, meeting the undefeated Cloverleaves of that town.

The Elm City aggregation has played three games to date and returned the winner in each conflict. They defeated the Kent Prep school by the score of 21 to 0 and the following day won a closely fought contest from the St. Stanislaus team by the score of 13 to 0, block kicking deciding the issue. Last week the club team annexed a 13 to 0 victory over the Roxbury Prep school of Cheshire. This victory was a surprise as the Prep school gridiron warriors were a favorite to cop the title owing to the fact that they had six veterans on its team that defeated the Yale Freshmen last year.

The Boys' Club have lost but two games in three years, a record hard to duplicate among state competition. The team is coached by Richard Lovell, a graduate of Yale College in 1905; Phil Gieger of Springfield college and Bill Booth, of Yale 1925 team.

The New Haven aggregation has been competing in city competition for over 10 years and has lost the city title but once, that being to the East Rocks in 1924.

In 1925 the club was represented by one of its greatest teams, having only one touchdown and four first downs scored against it all year and defeating all the prep schools of the state and the East Rocks for the city championship. This team also defeated the South Ends of Waterbury, a team composed of men who had played with Mulligan's Hartford Blues, 14 to 0.

In 1926 the entire regular first team left the club to play professional ball for the Maples A. C., leaving us with only substitute material to work with. However, Mr. Lovell moulded together a lighter and faster team which defended our title, won the previous year against the East Rocks and defeated them 3 to 0 before a crowd of 5,000 people at Weiss Park.

Dissecting Grid Rules by O'Brien

REFUSING PENALTIES By Dr. E. J. O'Brien

You have often heard of a team refusing to take a distance penalty for a foul committed by an opponent.

According to the rules, once a foul has been committed the penalty for said foul must be either inflicted or declined. Penalties for all fouls may be declined by the offending side, in which case play will proceed exactly as if no foul had been committed.

If a penalty includes a disqualification, the disqualified player must leave the game. In a word, if an official orders a man off the field, the opposing captain has not the power to ask the official to revoke his decision, although the captain may refuse the distance penalty.

This came up several years ago in a Harvard-Yale game where one player of each side was disqualified for slugging, and both captains wanted to call the matter off and allow the players to remain on the field, but, according to the rule, the officials had no choice in the matter but to go through with his original disqualification.

But in many instances not involving disqualification, it is a pity that some football captains do not see their own advantage in having seen their own advantage had the captain known the rules well enough to know his rights and then decline the penalty.

A brilliant example of quick thinking in a big game was brought forcibly to me in the Harvard-Dartmouth game in 1923.

Dartmouth had third down, six yards to go. On the next play Dartmouth lost four yards and, at the same time, I called a foul for Charlie Buell, captain of the Harvard team, because he ran up to me and wanted to know where the foul was and the penalty. In informing him, he immediately stated that he declined the penalty. This gave Dartmouth fourth down with ten yards to go. If Harvard had accepted the penalty it would have still been third down with eleven yards to go, Buell reasoning that an added down was worth more than a yard distance. He showed excellent judgment in his refusal of the penalty.

I saw a very important game between two big colleges last simply because I obtained did not understand his position as regards refusal of penalties. By declining the penalty he could have recovered the ball and saved the winning score, but he allowed the penalty to be inflicted, and, in the next play, his opponents won the game.

YALE AGAINST ARMY BIG EASTERN GAME

But Rest of Country Displays Splendid Cards For the Fans Tomorrow.

BY MALCOLM ROY Staff Correspondent.

New York Oct. 21.—Army and Yale hold the center of the football stage tomorrow afternoon, but there is such a wealth of fine contests on the big card that as top-liners the West Pointers and Elis do not enjoy a monopoly of the day's attractions by any manner or means.

East and midwest, south and far west will see unfolded some of the great football dramas of the year, for in addition to the big battle at New Haven, the east has counter-drawing cards in the Harvard-Dartmouth game at Cambridge and the Princeton-Cornell contest at Ithaca, to say nothing of the Syracuse-Penn State, Pittsburgh-Carnegie Tech, Washington & Jefferson-Lafayette and a host of other equally interesting affairs.

In the middle west all eyes will be centered on the Pennsylvania-Chicago conflict at Chicago but there, too, the counter offerings are unusually colorful with Michigan dedicating its new stadium at Ann Arbor in a game with Ohio State and Northwestern tackling Illinois at Evanston in what looks like one of the biggest conference games of the season. The Wisconsin-Purdue, Minnesota-Iowa, and Notre Dame-Indiana battles also will draw attention.

Meanwhile the Pacific coast will have a titanic struggle all its own when California and the Southern California eleven clash at Berkeley. Both teams are as yet unbeaten.

Below the Mason and Dixon line Georgia Tech, steamer of the Alabama Crimson tide, has an open date before its Notre Dame game. Georgia, which defeated Yale, battles Alabama Poly at Columbus, Ga., Vanderbilt seeks to redeem that defeat by Texas in the game with Tulane at Nashville, while Virginia tackles V. P. I. at Charlottesville.

Nothing like the 38 to 0 debacle which was Yale's lot in the last clash with the West Point eleven is expected at New Haven tomorrow. Hardly anyone connected with the gridiron destinies would be willing to predict a victory over the Army eleven but Yale has a remarkably strong machine when Bruce Caldwell is really going at his best and there will be a mighty tussle when this really great back faces the Army backs—Cagle, Wilson and Murrell.

Yale's victory over Brown rather than its defeat by Georgia is a true measure of the greatness of the Blue team. Yale completely outplayed Georgia, as it did Brown, and only the fortunes of war prevented the Elis from scoring a victory.

Now the question is just how strong is West Point. The Army has played no really good eleven and it has made a relatively poor showing against the kind of opposition it has faced. It has had its goal line crossed three times and has been forced to fight hard for victory in three of its four games, the only easy triumph being over Boston University.

The chief difficulty with the cadets is that they are slow in starting largely because of the complete readjustment of their attack to conform with the new rules against the shifts Bliff Jones has had a full week to get his offensive plays smoothed down after the Davis-Elkins game and it is likely that the Army will play its more cohesive attack against Yale than it did against the weaker southerners.

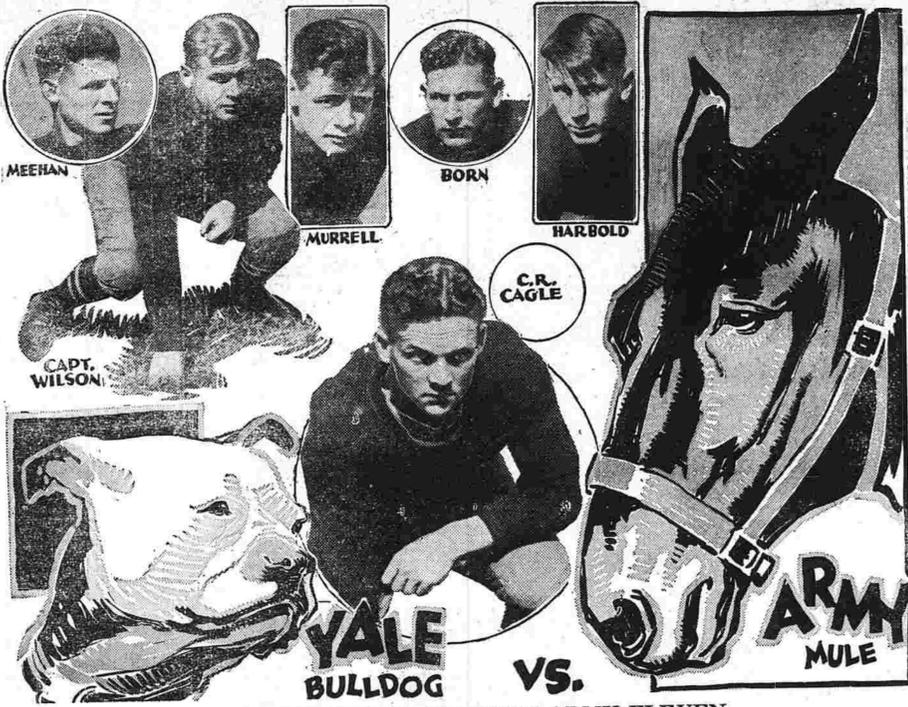

Pennsylvania has a psychological if not a physical advantage over Chicago, for no Pennsylvania team has yet lowered its colors to the midway eleven. However, Pennsylvania does not appear to be as invincible as it did a week ago on the eve of the game which saw Penn State rout the worthy Quakers.

Umpire Works 3231 Games In Succession Since 1905

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 11.—Ever-missing is indeed a remarkable feat; one that even an umpire can feel proud of, for umpiring in the smaller minor leagues, such as Ollie has been in off and on during his long and honorable career, is not the easiest task imaginable. Minor league fans have a habit of mobbing an umpire now and then, putting him out of commission for days, weeks and even months.

Starting out in the misty year of 1905, Ollie announced the opening day's batteries that season and has not missed a single scheduled game since. When the Sally League closes its 1927 pennant race, Anderson, if his luck holds forth, will have handled 3,254 consecutive games without a mishap to mar his splendid record. To handle 3,231 games without

When Yale Bulldog Clashes With Army Mule

SIX OUTSTANDING STARS OF ARMY ELEVEN

The Yale Bulldog has started intensive training for the Army Mule. When these two clash at New Haven Saturday, a battle royal is certain to result, catch-as-catch-can style, with no holds barred.

Last fall, the Army Mule was in fine fettle when it took on the Yale Bulldog. The result was a one-sided victory for the Army, 33-0. It was one of the worst trimmings ever handed Yale by any old team and the Blue resents it. While Yale suffered defeat in its first important game of the year with Georgia, the Bulldog showed plenty of power as well as tenacity of purpose. Only the rankest sort of fumbling kept Yale from making the contest much closer. This evil will have been taken care of by the time Yale meets the Army. This game promises to be one of the treats of the football menu for this fall as Yale is sure to try to avenge the wallowing of last year.

DUNDEE IS AGAIN IN FIGHTING GAME

Veteran to Battle Canzoneri On Monday—He Retired Undeclared.

By LES CONKLIN Staff Correspondent.

New York, Oct. 21.—For the third time within a month in a local ring, a fading champion will answer the challenge of youth when Johnny Dundee squares off against Tony Canzoneri at Madison Square Garden next Monday night.

Two other aging champions, staking grimly to the game despite their advancing years, have been beaten by younger opponents here recently. Mike McTigue, presented with the light heavyweight title by the New York commission, was destroyed by Tommy Loughran. Jack Britton, the 42-year-old wizard who formerly ruled the welterweights, was outpointed by Hilario Martinez.

The prevailing opinion along Cauliflower row today was that Canzoneri, the Brooklyn contender, will send Dundee crashing down into fistic oblivion on Monday night. Canzoneri was an eight to five favorite today, and many believe he will win by a knockout. If he is badly outclassed, however, the fight probably will be stopped before Canzoneri is compelled to put over the finishing wallop, for nobody wants to see the gallant Scotch-Wop counted out in his last fight.

Although the scrap is not billed as titular, Dundee believes he will be fighting against Canzoneri for the world's featherweight title. Johnny retired undefeated from his featherweight championship throne some time ago, resigning his title. He decided to return to the ring and now claims that he is still the champion.

In a public appeal for recognition Dundee reminded the boxing world today that he brought the title back to America by defeating Eugene Criqui of France in 1923, and reiterated that he never has been beaten at the featherweight limit.

Report Soccer Players Snuggled Into Country

The following sensational story, which was published in a New York tabloid yesterday states that it is freely reported that government authorities may step in and investigate how several members of the Philadelphia players got into this country. It is hinted that some were "smuggled" in across the Canadian border. The story follows:

Professional soccer is apparently resorting to baseball's great stimulant, scandal, to get the attention it craves just now with millions flowing into football stadia every week-end. While the American Soccer League is somewhat annoyed by the crumbling up of Philadelphia and the weak condition of Federal probes into the procurement of players that bothers most.

The Philadelphia team has gone on the rocks. It was composed of some highly touted players. Before the team crashed the costly Irishmen were sold to Sam Mark of Fall River but the league officials raised that the sale was illegal.

Now it is freely reported that the government will step in and investigate how some of the Philadelphia stars got into the country. Such reports about soccer players' entrance to America are not new, but this one seems to persist in a sort of exciting moment.

Six of the Irishmen come over here under the immigration quota. Eight more of them were not under the quota and came under the arrangements provided for visiting athletes. It is understood. Reports persist that some of these did not come into the country in the regular manner, and a smuggling plot on our northern border is hinted at.

Most of the players are in Fall River, but several of them are in this city. Those who will remain in this country will be offered for sale soon.

Philly's place in the league will not be filled. The Hartford team is expected to drop out at almost any time, but the loss of these two teams is not expected to put a crimp in the league, as has been reported.

UNUSUALLY FINE BILL THRILLED LOCAL FANS

Knockouts Featured Show In Hartford—Eddie Reed Gets Boxing Lesson.

(By Staff Correspondent)

Although there were 20 local boys on the boxing card of the Massasoit Club at Foot Guard hall in Hartford last night, about 300 local fans braved the elements to see an unusually splendid evening.

The best bout of the evening was between Eddie Reed and Art Chapdelaine. The latter, a Springfielder, gave the Hartford lad a severe lacing. It seemed to be hardluck day for Hartford as almost all of the old Hartford favorites, Vic Rogers, Northampton, the first round; 147 pound class, Eddie Lynn, Westport, won the decision over Paul Terzo, Hartford; 147 pound class; Bill Lieberman, Springfield, won the decision over Vic Morley, Hartford; 128 pound class; Pete Corona, Hartford, won the decision over Jack O'Neil, Westport; 116 pound class; Eddie Camp, Hartford, won the decision over Andy Marconi, Windsor Locks.

108 pound class: Joe Cilento, Hartford, knocked out Joe Chickwa, Windsor Locks; 122 pound class: Mickey Roberts, Hartford, won the decision over Bill Bridget, Westport; 133 pound class: Marino Pagoni, Springfield, knocked out Bill Dubois, Windsor Locks in the first round; 165 pound class: Joe Howard, Hartford, won the decision over George Lawrence, Westport.

THE REFEREE

How many times had Georgia beaten Yale prior to their recent victory this year?—Y. F. M. Not any. Does Johnny Rookpe of Penn State take part in any other sports?—B. C. H. Yes, he plays basketball and baseball. Did Chick Galloway foot football while he was at Presbyterian College in South Carolina?—F. N. M. Yes, also basketball. Is the Grant Gillis who joined the Senators a few days ago the same one that played football for Alabama?—F. B. C. Yes.

Dope Jolted as California Trims St. Mary's Eleven

What price dope? One well may ask after St. Mary's, who early in the season defeated the strong Stanford eleven, spun around the next week and lost to a supposedly inferior team in California. This photograph shows Scariot, St. Mary's end in the white jersey, being brought down by Phillips and Bancroft. California's victory makes "Wibs" Price's eleven stand out as one of the stronger ones on the Pacific coast.

EIGHT TEAMS FORM FRATERNAL LEAGUE WHICH STARTS NOV. 3

WANT LOCAL TEAMS IN HARTFORD RACE

Big Five-Mile Cross Country Run Planned In Hartford For Thanksgiving Day Morning.

The Hartford Industrial Athletic League Inc., composed of over fifty of the industrial concerns of Hartford is planning to hold a cross country relay covering five miles on the morning of Thanksgiving day that will be open to any of the industrial concerns in the state with many valuable prizes offered including a handsome cup for the team finishing first.

Vice President John A. DeRidder and chairman of track events announced today that the event will be the biggest of its kind ever held in this section of the state and a special invitation is extended to the industrial concerns of Manchester to take part. There will be three classes in the event namely Class A for industrial concerns of Hartford, Class B for industrial concerns from all parts of Connecticut and Class C for high schools and prep schools with valuable prizes in all three classes.

The event will start at 10 a. m. from the Hartford Y. M. C. A. where headquarters will be established for the various teams taking part. The event will be in charge of prominent college officials. No entry fee will be charged, the only requirements being that all who take part on the various teams have been employed at least thirty days previous to the date of the event.

The course will be through the principal streets of the city starting from the Cornhill Fountain, Bushnell park and finishing at the same point. During the next few days Chairman DeRidder and Secretary C. G. Carlson of the Industrial League will map out the course in order that those who plan to enter can have a workout over the course. The course will be a very difficult one to cover and will be posted heavily in order that the runners will not get lost.

Any industrial concern in Manchester planning to take part can get information by writing the Chairman John A. DeRidder, No. 43 Barnard street, Hartford, Conn., who will mail entry blanks as soon as they are off the press. Industrial concerns of Rockville are also invited to take part.

Those in charge of the event expect to have a workout over the course on the 19th of this month. The best bout of the evening was between Eddie Reed and Art Chapdelaine. The latter, a Springfielder, gave the Hartford lad a severe lacing. CROWD AIRWAYS

Washington.—The first survey of the nation's civil airplane routes shows that 395,646 passengers were carried during the first six months of 1927. During that time 13,377,923 miles were covered. Only 2,642,364 miles of that distance lay along regular air lanes, however.

To Roll Matches on Thursday Nights at Murphy's Alleys; Teams to Deposit Forfeit of Ten Dollars; Only One Dummy Score to Be Allowed on One Team.

Loren C. Clifford, Jr., manager of the local branch of the Southern New England Telephone Company, and a real bowling enthusiast, was last night named president of the Fraternal Bowling League. Mr. Clifford was not present when he was elected but it was the opinion of the delegates that he would not refuse the office. Other officers elected were: Howard Murphy, manager of the bowling alleys at the south end, and treasurer and Thomas W. Stowe, of The Herald, as secretary.

Eight teams were accepted into membership and the league schedule which will be prepared shortly will operate on Thursday nights beginning the first week in November, the third, and running weekly with the exception of Thanksgiving Day week, for two rounds. The league will make up the teams which will be in the league are as follows: Redmen, Masons, Knights of Columbus, British American Club, Moose, Beethoven Glee Club, West Side Red and Center Congregational church.

All matches will be rolled at Murphy's alleys starting at 8 o'clock. Howard Murphy will give prizes to the team and individual winners. At the meeting, which was held at the branch office of the Evening Herald last night, it was voted that each team put up a forfeit of ten dollars as a guarantee they will finish the league schedule. This will be placed with the treasurer of the league, Mr. Murphy.

Each team captain is entitled to submit a list of fifteen players. Ten of these names must be in the hands of the league secretary before November 1st and the remaining five the opening night of the league, which is a week from next Thursday. Players will be only allowed to roll with one team only and, in case two captains submit the name of the same player, the latter will settle which team he will play with.

It was also voted that all postponed games must be rolled off before the final two weeks of the league schedule, penalty being loss of forfeit. Incidentally only five dollars of the forfeit money is returnable, the rest going for additional prizes. This, however, costs each bowler only a dollar. It was also agreed that foul balls in a league game will be enforced but that the team captains will see to it that their players do not make a farce out of this opportunity. In cases of arguments, the league president will settle the disputes. Only one dummy score will be allowed in one match.

There will be no further meetings until the opening night of the league schedule. At that time there will be a meeting of the league officers and team captains to discuss how the prizes will be distributed.

FOOTBALL FUNDAMENTALS As Told By Famous Coaches TO BILLY EVANS

LINE BUCKING

Proper reception of the ball and ability to get away a quick start are vitally important to a back carrying the ball into the line of scrimmage.

The splinter's start is best, feet comfortably close together, weight equally distributed on two feet and one hand, as shown in the illustration. The other hand should clasp the knee tightly, to give the back impetus as he starts with a heavy downward and backward thrust of that hand.

As a rule, when a player hits the line head-on, he receives the ball from the field general instead of a direct pass from center. However, as he starts, he gives no thought to the ball, simply charging at the point to which his signal sends him.

Out of the corner of his eye he watches the ball in the center's hands. The moment it moves, in-leading the ball is full speed to be passed, he charges full speed ahead. It is best to run as low as possible, taking small, short, quick steps. The body is low but the head is up so player carrying the ball may see where he is going, rather than running blindly.

Moving forward, he makes a "pocket" with his hands, forearms and stomach. Into this pocket, the field general slips the ball without any effort on the part of the ball carrier to get it. Proper delivery is entirely up to the field general.

In making a line smash, in which the ball carrier gets a direct pass from center, he should not take a hand on the ball by the field general. In this position, on a direct pass from the center, with the weight supported by the arms, frequently the ball comes so quickly when passed that the ball carrier hasn't the time to form the pocket to receive it.

Both hands should be wrapped tightly around the ball in going through the line of scrimmage unless one happens to be an unusually clever player, adept at handling the ball, who, on receiving it, can shift it in a flash under one arm, thrusting the other straight away, thus using like a fail in opening a way through the line.

It takes a star to do that, a player not prone to fumble. As a rule, the safest way for the average player is to hug the ball with both arms to the pit of the stomach until through the line, then shift to one arm or the other.

He Loses $2,000,000 But Is Funnier Than Ever

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 18.—Can a man be funny just after he has lost nearly two million dollars? The answer is yes!

There is a little man out here who has been earning his living by making people laugh all of his life. He now is finishing a motion picture that promises to be the greatest and funniest ever made by this genius.

The genius is Charlie Chaplin. The world knows that Charlie lost nearly a million dollars in his recent divorce from his wife, Lita Gray Chaplin. But few realize that that divorce added more than a million dollars to the cost of Chaplin's current production, "The Circus."

Back of his antics for the circus patrons is a love affair between Charlie and a young performer, Merna Kennedy. Those are the scenes that give Charlie an opportunity to bring his famous touches of pathos into the picture. And he certainly should know how to act like a man disappointed in love.

BARGAIN DAY BILL AT RIALTO TOMORROW

Double Feature Bill, "Our Gang" Comedy, Serial and Special Nickel Matinees For Kiddies; "Bush Leaguer" Tonight Only.

Rialto movie patrons will be offered the regular bargain day program tomorrow for the same popular prices. There will be two five-reel features, an "Our Gang" comedy and the third chapter of that intensely gripping serial, "Fighting for Fame."

mystery in which a woman's search for the murderer of her husband provides the dramatic highlights, doesn't do it justice. Around this fundamental theme, the director has built up a novel and thrilling plot with many variations which put it in a class by itself.

The other feature film is Les Maloney in "The Outlaw Express." The story concerns itself with the machinations of gang of outlaws who are robbing the express of the gold billion being shipped across the country. There is no clue to their identity and the mystery is indeed a baffling one.

"SHANGHAI BOUND" CIRCLE FEATURE

Starts Tomorrow With Richard Dix and Mary Brian in Star Roles.

Richard Dix is at his best in "Shanghai Bound," in which he appears at the Circle theater tomorrow for a two-day run. The picture is laid in China, along the banks of the Yangtze river and there are all kinds of bandits, river pirates and everything else in it to make the thing exciting.

Up the Yangtze River from Shanghai, a hundred miles or more, Jim Bucklin, steamer captain, met a party of white people—London, American capitalist; Sheila, his pretty daughter; Payson, his general manager and Algy, an English friend. They didn't know, but Bucklin did, that food riots were liable to break out at any minute, that China's turmoil was slowly spreading southward, that hunger-mad hordes might attack at any time.

When he told them, they were terrified. But there was still time. Bucklin had his boat and he could take them down to Shanghai and the safety of the internationally protected areas. He could have, had not Payson, in terror, shot Scarface, leader of the Chinese mob. From then on it was fight, fight, fight all the way down to Shanghai.

ESTHER RALSTON HEADS STATE DOUBLE PROGRAM

"Figures Don't Lie" Shown With "Snarl of Hate" Today and Tomorrow.

The blonde temptress, Esther Ralston, is at the State again today and tomorrow in her latest, "Figures Don't Lie," a comedy of women of speech and figures of figures. This is one of a double feature bill, the second being "The Snarl of Hate" with Johnny Walker and Silverstreak, the dog, in the leading roles.

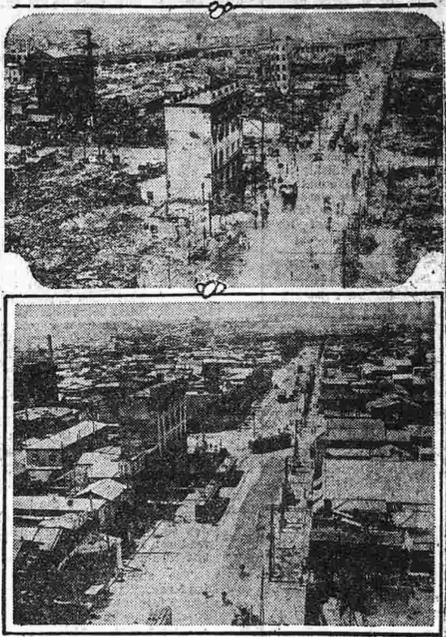

What the well dressed working girl should wear is demonstrated in "Figures Don't Lie." What the discreet working girl should not do is also demonstrated by Miss Ralston with the convincing aid of Ford Sterling, who plays the part of an absent-minded business man and Blanche Payson, who has the role of a jealous wife. Richard Arlen demonstrates what the normal man will do when he falls in love with Miss Ralston. He has the leading male role in the production.

Johnnie Walker has the first dual role of his long and brilliant cinema career in "The Snarl of Hate". In the opening sequences of this remarkable picture Johnnie Walker portrays the role of a young prospector who is killed by the villain to gain possession of the former's gold claim. After the murder a younger brother appears on the scene in the role of an avenger, and with the help of "Silverstreak," finds the assassin.

The slugging and dancing contest for children is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and any child in the town is eligible to compete for prizes.

Statements made recently by the British Medical Association predict ultra-violet rays soon will be available in pill form.

I'M NOT WHINING' SAYS CARROLL, FREE

Society has a way of branding ex-convicts. But can't get me as whining, because I'm not. Back on Broadway "I'm going back to Broadway and New York and am going to stage a comeback if people give me half a break. There is nothing to it; I am going to face the music, and if I write anything of my prison experiences it will come later. I did not write anything while at the prison. Many mementoes given me by fellow in-mates were left behind because I do not feel I should accept them, and because I want to forget, if possible, that horrible chapter in my life."

Carroll praised the efforts in his behalf of Warden John W. Snook and the prison physician, Dr. Charles T. Nellans and those of former Governor Warren T. McCray, saying they were his friends.

Carroll and his party will arrive in New York about noon tomorrow. He is paroled in the custody of Herbert Adams, New York attorney, and under the stipulations of the parole must not drink intoxicants, must not be seen in the company of questionable characters and must remain in New York state.

Carroll has not yet emerged from the clouds that enveloped him when the time came for his departure for prison, and that weighted him down to mental and physical collapse.

Carroll's story of that experience is one of torment. "I had no fear of going to prison," he said, sitting today in the comfort of his suite in the Anselmy hotel. "But there was an unbelievable amount of work to do before I left. And there was the thought, getting heavier day after day as the time came, that I was a branded man."

The Prison Brand "It was the conviction and its stigma, not the prison, that haunted me. "And all the time I was working, with little sleep, with little rest, with no thought of food."

"I was to leave New York for Atlanta on Tuesday. Monday I went to Washington for a last conference with the Department of Justice, and Monday night I took the train back to New York and to surrender myself. "As I sat in my compartment, trying to catch a minute's relaxation, I heard a telegraph messenger outside, calling my name. I thought: 'If I go out there, the other passengers will know that I am Earl Carroll, the man who has been sentenced to prison.' And all at once I knew that I could not face them."

"This knowledge deepened when I heard someone say: 'Is that poor devil on this train?' A sort of panic came over me, and I felt that I could never face the world again. No Food All Day "I had not eaten for hours, perhaps not all day. I didn't know. I only knew that I was weak and beaten down. I lay there, shut away from the messenger boy and the summons of the world, and thought that I should take something to eat."

"The call had gone out that the meal was served. I gathered my strength to arise, but a thought came that if I went out there, eyes would see me, stare at me, recognize me as Earl Carroll, 'the poor devil.' "I felt then that I would never be able to face it. I lay there, my mind whirling. When the train reached New York and I might have slipped into a restaurant, I hurried away, still without food, without having to face the eyes."

"Back at my office there was more work. Nothing seemed to have been accomplished, and the next day I must go away. I was up all that night. I must have been an automaton rather than a man. No sleep, no food, and there is no recollection of anything I did. "The next day came, and dragged along. I have a memory of faces, white and confused, but staring at me. But I have no memory of much else—certainly not of leaving New York. Remembers Brother "There is an impression of sitting with my brother Jim. Perhaps in the train at last, and with him watching the moonlight and the clouds. That moonlight on the clouds somehow stands out vividly, perhaps because there is nothing else in my memory. Not the train's start, not any of the figures of my companions, not my undressing and retiring in my berth, remain with me. "There is only a blank, which seemed to last for an interminable time. And actually it lasted for days and weeks. While I was in the hospital experience, except an impression of great kindness and watchfulness. Kind Doctors "The doctors there did everything humanly and scientifically possible. There is no question that they saved me. But there came an end to what they could do, and the rest depended on me. But there was also an end to what I could do for myself, and what I wanted to do for myself, and it was for the best that I was moved to Atlanta. Nothing more could have been done at Greenville, and the change was the thing that was necessary. "In Atlanta Dr. Nellans and Warden Snook took over the job, and accomplished the rest of what was necessary to save me. The big thing they did was to awaken me and to get me to do for myself what only

I could do for recovery." Carroll looks even younger than his 35 years. Upon leaving the prison he wore a modishly cut suit of brown, of expensive material, which was a part of his wardrobe in the old days. It was a favorite suit, which Carroll selected for the occasion.

AMERICAN INTEREST IN ART LACKING, IS FRENCHMAN'S VIEW

The American business-man is like a grand seigneur of the Middle Ages, engaged in a hard struggle for wealth, liking violent exercise and strong drink, and then finally marrying and lavishing money upon a pretty spoiled woman, taken up with thoughts of titles and intrigues much like a grande dame de la cour. This is the opinion of Jacques Mauny, young French artist, writing his "Impressions of New York, 1927" in the revue "L'Art Vivant."

"Young French painters," continues Mr. Mauny, "have the idea that, since the houses of Paris contain many fine art collections although they are limited to only seven stories, those in New York of twenty or more, and containing persons infinitely more wealthy, ought to have a considerable number of collections worthy of exhibition."

But the facts do not bear out this assumption, he finds, for apparently only a very few persons in New York are really interested in art. The reason is, as he sees it, that the American spends so much of his time in express subways and elevators, in surroundings that are too modern to be beautiful that when he becomes rich and can relax, he turns instinctively to something different, mediaeval art.

"The Americans affirm that their skyscraper are typically American, in pure American style, but it is really only in the proportions that they have found something new. They love everything Gothic; their cinema palaces are Gothic as well as their cathedrals and office-buildings."

COLUMBIA

The Misses Agnes, Phoebe and Georgette Kemp, who have been spending the summer at the home of Mrs. R. G. Brooker, returned to their home in Brooklyn Wednesday. The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held at the home of Mrs. Natsch Tuesday afternoon, 35 ladies being present. The report of the treasurer was read and accepted, showing about $700 in the bank. The following officers were elected: First directress, Mrs. Ruth Jacobs; second directress, Miss Lillian Lyman; third directress, Mrs. Cora Hutchins; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Mary B. reading; Entering Columbia. Take left turn two miles ahead."

The slippery condition of the road caused the bakery cart which comes through Columbia from Manchester daily to skid and overturn Monday afternoon at the foot of the street just this side of Postmaster's. The cart was quite badly damaged, but the driver escaped injury. This is the same stretch of road which has been the scene of many accidents in slippery weather, especially this time of year. The state highway commissioner has been applying to the legislature for a bill to have the road repaired, but nothing has been done as yet, the repair gang stating they can do nothing without orders from headquarters.

Mrs. Mayer and Miss Nimmons of Shelby, Ohio, and Miss Nimmons of Westfield, N. J., are guests of Miss Katherine Ink at Overlook. The house occupied by Jack Price and family on the State road to Hebron about a mile from the Green was almost completely destroyed by fire early Wednesday evening. The fire evidently started from a defective chimney, as the flames were breaking through the kitchen ceiling when discovered about 7 o'clock. The alarm was spread and in a short time there was a large crowd. Due to an adequate water supply, the fire was saved by hard work, and much of the furnishings saved from the burned part.

The Columbia Grange had its annual competitive program Wednesday evening. The contest was between the married ladies and single men and the single ladies and married men. The judges were Mr. Deter, J. Banks Jones and Mrs. E. A. Smith, all of Hebron Grange. They decided 2 to 1 in favor of the married men and single ladies. The program was as follows: The married ladies and single men staged a Halloween party with Howard Squiers and Mrs. W. H. Carpenter as host and hostess. They were visited by their neighbors, who were dressed up "to kill." The party was entertained by stunts done by several, as follows: Piano duet, Mrs. Ruth Jacobs and Mrs. Alice Hunt; reading, Mrs. Marion Hutchins; clog dance, Mrs. Raymond Clarke and Eugene Lafleur; music by Edwin Collins or a harmonica.

"Sparking Sunday Night," Eugene Lafleur and Richard Dimon; "Ruben and Rachel," Mrs. Ruth Jacobs and Mrs. Alice Hunt; solo, Mrs. Edith Isham. These were interspersed with jokes and anecdotes. Following this there was a tableau in which Eugene Squiers was Yankee Doodle, Howard Squiers, an Indian, and Mrs. Junie Squiers, Pocahontas.

The men's program consisted of a darky wedding, in which Miss Marion Holmes was the bride, and William Wolff, the groom. The ceremony was performed by Clayton Hunt. Miss Harle Field was the maid of honor, with Gladys Rice and Margaret Hutchins bridesmaids. Phillip Isham was best man. The bride was given away by George Champlin and Myrtle Collins was the mother of the bride. Rev. Duane Wain was the ring bearer and Margaret Blakely the flower girl. The ushers were Lester Hutchins and Hubert Collins. At the conclusion of the ceremony the party held a reception followed by the wedding feast of a keg of cider and a wedding cake when opened was found to be full of doughnuts.

There was a good sized audience present, though for a while it looked as though it would have to be postponed, as all the men were fighting fire, but when they got it under control they proceeded with their program.

NEED'D A MACHINE The harassed-looking man was being shown over the factory. "That machine," said the guide, "does the work of thirty men." The man smiled glumly. "At last," he said, "I have seen what my wife should have married."—Tit-Bits.

MOST RAIL ACCIDENTS London.—British railroads, usually showing the smallest accident report of any large country, suffered the worst period in their history last year. There were 291 persons killed and 3,893 persons injured during the year, according to the report of the Minister of Transport.

Hutchins and Hubert Collins. At the conclusion of the ceremony the party held a reception followed by the wedding feast of a keg of cider and a wedding cake when opened was found to be full of doughnuts.

There was a good sized audience present, though for a while it looked as though it would have to be postponed, as all the men were fighting fire, but when they got it under control they proceeded with their program.

NATIONAL PARTY 1928 MEETING IN WINDY CITY

Claim 2,000,000 Voters Will Be Represented in Chicago Convention.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The National Party, now claiming a following of more than 2,000,000 voters, will hold its national convention in Chicago on May 15, 1928 according to John Zahnd of Indianapolis, national chairman of the new party.

Zahnd was the party's presidential candidate in 1924 and was elected to Chicago's city council because of its central location and its superior convention facilities, Zahnd said.

Detroit and St. Louis were anxious to land the convention according to Zahnd and had extended very attractive invitations.

The National Party was organized for a national campaign in 1928 at the meeting of its executive committee here July 4 and 5. At this meeting the party drew up the following platform:

The Platform

Plan 1—The party is intended primarily as a medium of exchange and on its functioning freely as such depends a healthy growth of civilization. We demand that the government of the United States shall reserve to itself the sole right to issue currency and to determine the amount of currency which may be issued to the American people. We are in favor of well regulated government banks stationed throughout the United States in districts of units to meet the need of requirements of the people, and regulated by act of Congress.

Plan 2—Taking the full rent of land for public purposes insures the fullest and best use of all land. In cities this would mean more homes and more places to grow trees. In rural communities it would mean the freedom of the farmer from land mortgages, and guarantee him full possession of his product at a small land rental to the government without payment of taxes.

Plan 3—As a preventive of war we demand the inscription without compensation of property as well as lives for the defense of the nation.

Plan 4—We favor the replacement of private charity by the government recognizing its duty to the helpless by means of old age pensions, child care, child labor laws, and the caring for disabled and needy of all ages.

Change Election Laws

Plan 5—To restore the power of government to the people we favor the repeal of unjust laws which favor the big monopolies from the ballot box. The election of the president and vice-president by direct vote of the people. That Congress should convene one month after election. We favor the civil service of all agencies of the executive branch of our government. Equal rights for the colored people.

Plan 6—To further economic progress we believe in government control of the orderly conduct of interstate drainage.

"Confident in the justice of our cause we urge everyone to unite with us in effect legislation that will make this nation in spirit and in truth a government of the people," read Zahnd's appeal to all voters after the meeting of the executive committee here.

The National Party now has four organizers at work in the United States. They are L. E. Elkhart, in Iowa, J. A. Parker in Missouri, Mrs. Nancy A. Hicks in Indiana and J. A. C. McCann in California.

Other workers are soon to be sent to Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, the District of Columbia, Nebraska and the Dakotas, according to Zahnd.

The national officers of the National Party are:

Chairman, John Zahnd, Indianapolis; vice-chairman, Frank Allen, Iowa; secretary, Charles K. Kanan, Kansas; secretary, Mabel Bardsley, Indianapolis; and treasurer, Wiley C. Mininger, Indianapolis.

GAS BUGGIES—Bad News

By Percy L. Crosby

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

There's no water in permanent waves, but they've sunk many a man.

SENSE and NONSENSE

"See," said the temperance lecturer as he exhibited a glass of water and a glass of whiskey in front of them. "There is life in the one, there is death in the other. These worms—see! I immerse them in the water and they writhe happily; I immerse them in the liquor, and they sink to the bottom, stone dead. Life for the worms in one, death for them in the other!"

A man arose from the hall and asked, in a brogue: "Mister, wud yez mind tellin' me where yez got that licker?" "Why do you want to know?" asked the lecturer. "Well, I've been bothered wid thim things meself, a good dale."

The Horse Reflects I am amused to hear them say "What forty or fifty of me are hid Beneath the hood of that benzine drag— I am far too old for them to kid!

Mary—What's the matter with Frank? "Eye strain. He fell in love with a chorus girl and couldn't afford anything better than a gallery seat.

A careful girl is Jetty 'ye. She never stands against the sky.

A local man, being congratulated upon the economy practiced by his wife, replied, "She certainly is a wonder. She sold 60 cents worth of beans out of the garden yesterday, took $1.25 worth of milk bottles back to the grocery, stopped in at a furniture store and bought a walnut bedroom suite for $175.00."

A woman likes almost as well to be asked how old she is as a man does to be asked how much salary he gets.

The sage who said a man's best friend was the person who told him his faults must have been thinking of the wives.

Waiter: (after a long delay, comes back and asks): "How did you order your steak, please?" "Impatient Diner: "Just asked for it, I'm sorry to say. I see now that I should have ordered by mail two weeks in advance."

Sometimes it is hard to follow instructions. For instance there was the old ducky who was told by his doctor to eat plenty of chicken and was also warned to not go out nights.

"Help!" murmured the man slowly regaining consciousness after coming upon this scene. "Are you the man that pulled my husband out of the lake after he'd gone down?" inquired a portly red-faced woman of the man pointed out as the rescuer. "Yes, Madam," answered the rescuer, expecting a demonstration of gratitude, "but I only did my duty as anyone else would have, and deserve no special—"

"Well, where's his necktie?"

Only one modern girl in 20 knows how to sew properly declares an expert. But then what's the use of knowing how to sew now. There doesn't seem to be much need of it.

LETTER GOLF

ONE WAY OR ANOTHER

Sometimes a fighter goes out to win by FAIR means or FOUL. The distance is short between them, only three strokes being required for the change. The par solution, which you may (or may not) better, is printed on another page:

Grid for letter golf with words FAIR and FOUL.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

Sheiks who wear balloon trousers should not frequent dance halls with mirrored floors.

Most middle-aged women are shy when asked their age—usually eight or ten years shy.

Teacher—"Joseph, what are you going to give your little sister for a birthday present?" "Joseph—"I dunno; last year I gave her the chickenpox."

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

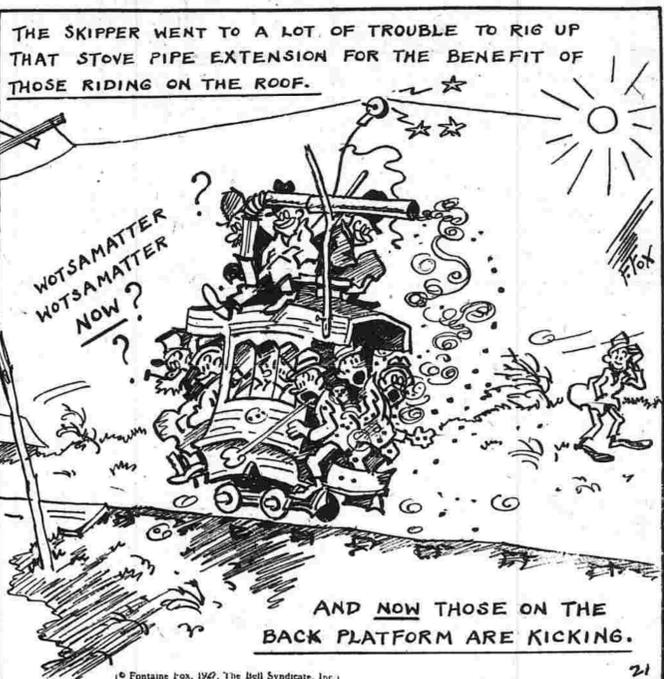

And, sure enough, the kite was there, floating nearby in the air. The Tinymites stood and watched it as it floated overhead. It swayed and dipped and turned around, and then it started toward the ground. "Hurrah," we soon will have it once again," we Cobby said. They watched it settle down with ease behind a clump of big oak trees. "Come on," exclaimed we Cobby, "we can find it if we like. Be careful as you run, don't slip. For me, I'd rather sail around most any way, than hike." Right through the trees they quickly ran, an open space nearby to scan. "Ay, there's our kite," we Cobby yelled. "Oo, but I'm glad it's back. With luck it seems that we are blessed. It's down here from that eagle's nest, just look, it isn't torn one bit, and has no break or crack." The Tinymites then hopped aboard, and up the queer kite quickly soared. "Well, this is great. Just like old times," said Clowny, with a smile. "I hope that not a thing goes wrong, and that we don't stay up too long. I'd like to find another place to land in, after while." Just then a whirring sound was heard, and Cobby said, "That's not a bird, I wonder what it really is." Then he began to frown. "Look! It's a plane," he loudly cried. And, right above, the plane was spied. The Tinymites quickly noticed that a rope was hanging down. And, on the rope there was a hook. "Quickly," someone said. "Look! It's going to catch our flying kite. Say, this is dangerous play." Their tries to dodge it went for naught. The kite swooped down. The kite was caught, and ere the Tinymites knew it they were being towed away. (The Tinymites land in a tree in the next story).

My brother doesn't believe that all you want is a snapshot of the white deer. You have guns, and he thinks you mean to shoot the deer. He wants the creature's head himself. That's why he won't let you stay here."

"Those men are rough characters," she went on, "and they know no law but the law of the woods. They've gone now, to destroy the hut of Old Hunchy, and drive him away. Then they'll come here. Don't let them find you. Now I must get back to camp." "But we—I'll escort you back," proposed Tom. "That would never do!" she exclaimed, turning away quickly. (To Be Continued)

ABOUT TOWN

Routine business was transacted at the meeting of Manchester Division No. 1, A. O. H., in St. James' hall last night. Proposed action on a change in the by-laws of the lodge was deferred and will be taken up at later meetings.

Earl Roberts Lodge, Sons of St. George will hold a whist party this evening at the home of William Sharp, 85 Summit street. Playing will begin at 8 o'clock.

Loyal Circle of Kings Daughters will be represented at the state convention of the order in Danbury, November 2 and 3 by Mrs. James Johnston and Mrs. R. W. Hitt. The special meeting of Loyal circle called for Monday evening at Center Congregational church has been indefinitely postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Davis of Centerfield street are entertaining the Misses Alice and Mabel Davis of Sheffield, Mass., sisters of Mrs. Davis.

 A Good Time For All.

The Buckland Parent Teacher Association is planning another of its good times for Monday evening of next week, to take the form of a whist social and dancing for about an hour with music by Case's orchestra. The committee of men in charge is headed by Gustaf Magnuson. Four prizes will be given the winners of the card games and the men promise something nice in the way of eats.

The Good Will club, the Parent-Teacher association in the Fifth district who are forbidden the schoolhouse for their social times, will have a setback party this evening at the City View Dance hall. Sidney Hagenow and Irving Keeney are making arrangements and the general public are invited.

The H-Y club has elected for its officers this season the following High school boys: James McCaw, president; Stuart Wells, vice president; Rodney Wilcox, secretary and treasurer; Leslie Buckland, athletic manager. The club will have a supper next Thursday evening. All members are urged to reserve the date.

AUTO GIVES THE K. O. TO HEAVY UNDIES
 The automobile has put a crimp in the red flannel and woolen underwear, said Frank H. Anderson at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night.

"We have found that woolen underwear has passed out of existence," he said, "and the only reason to which I can attribute this condition is the increasing number of closed automobiles, which make it possible for people to travel anywhere almost without going into the open air at all."

Manchester L. O. L. No. 99 will hold its regular meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in Grange hall. All members are requested to attend as there will be special business before the lodge.

Herbert Seymour, small son of Patrolman and Mrs. Arthur Seymour of Depot street, Buckland, gave a Hallowe'en frolic this afternoon for a party of his little playmates.

Group 5 of Center church workers, recently organized, will cater for a pancake supper for the entire church, December 2 and will put on the February teachers' supper.

Both Manchester schoolboy football elevens were scheduled to play out of town today. The High school meets East Hartford High at the East Hartford velodrome and the Trade school opposes Kingswood School at West Hartford.

St. Margaret's Circle Daughters of Isabella at its meeting last evening in K. C. hall obligated five candidates who will be initiated at a later date. Following the business a social and whist was held, the winners at cards were Mrs. Norrene Cotter, Mrs. Maude Foley and Mrs. Julia Hogan. The hostesses Mrs. Milkowski and Miss Margaret Coughlin served sandwiches, homemade cake and coffee.

At the Church of the Nazarene this evening at 7:30 another of the series of evangelistic services will be held. Rev. E. T. French will be the speaker.

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE, GETS OFF WITH GASH

Robert Duncan Struck by Motor Car as He Crosses Forest Street.

Robert Duncan, 19, of 55 Autumn street, was struck and knocked down by an automobile while crossing the road at the intersection of Main and Forest streets at 7:15 last night. He suffered no serious injuries but a deep gash over his left eye required three stitches to close.

Duncan was struck by a Durant touring car driven by Harvey Alcock of 57 Florence street. Alcock was driving east on Forest street and was about to turn right when the left front fender struck Duncan, who was in the middle of the street. Alcock picked up the injured man and took him to the Memorial hospital where he was discharged immediately after being treated.

BIG BRIDGE-WHIST PARTY IN TEMPLE

Amaranth Club Ladies Prepare For Event on Thursday, Nov. 3.

The premier social event to be given at the new Masonic Temple by the Masonic bodies, is the bridge whist and sale on Thursday evening, November 3, by the Amaranth Bridge club. The proceeds are to be used in the purchase of new equipment and Manchester Lodge of Masons is co-operating in the general distribution of tickets. Details of the affair will be in charge of different members of the club, of which Mrs. William Carr is president, Mrs. Elmore Packard secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Adele Bantly will head the committee of ladies in charge of the sale of fancy goods. Mrs. Esther Pickens is chairman of the ticket committee.

Progressive bridge and whist will be played, with four prizes in each section. Tickets are being sold by members of the club.
