Rockville
NEW ROAD KEEPS
BUSINESS AWAY
Some Rockville People Feel
That Trade Has Been Diverted From City.

(Special to The Herald)
Rockville, October, 24.—It is doubtful in the mind of many in Rockville that any benefit has been derived from the state road improvements that have been made in Rockville, especially on the trunk lines. This was demonstrated on Saturday. The completion of the road from Lane's corner to the Tolland line resulted in many automobiles that were on their way either to or from the football games on Saturdays from going through Rockville. There were many who took the new road which carried them outside of Rockville through the town of Vernon, starting at the Tolland line and coming out in Talcottville. The result was the loss of some sales in the different stores that were made in other places that might have been made in Rockville.

May Expect Tunney
There is an expectation that Gene Tunney, in person, may be seen in Rockville within a few days. Tunney has planned to make a visit to this country. Willard Mack, the actor, and a friend of Tunney's has invited him to spend a few days in his lodge at Mansfield, which is in this country, to hunt and it is also known that he had intended to visit Bolton for a day or two.

No Signs Up
The signs regarding the parking of automobiles on Market street, telling where there is to be parked and designating the length of time that parking may be allowed on the other side, have not as yet been placed and as a result the parking rules as defined and to become effective a week ago, are not being observed.

Objection to Loud Voice
John Kustowsky is the owner of two cars, his best car, and his working car. The first is a big one and the other a small one, a Chevrolet. Yesterday being a pleasant day, John decided to take a ride and took his big car. When he returned last night and went to the garage where he kept the small car he found that the reading on his speedometer showed an additional fifty miles more than when he last left it. He accused a young man living in the house just across the railroad tracks on Brooklyn street and Officer Shea, who was up on High street, heard the noise, brought him in and on the charge of breach of the peace.

In court this morning he entered a plea of not guilty. After learning that the automobile had been taken without his permission and that it had been run fifty miles, Judge John E. Fisk, who presided, discharged him.

Luke Kelley, charged with intoxication, pleaded guilty and was fined $7.50 and costs.
State Police Active
Members of the state police were doing duty in Somers on Sunday, because of the number of cars that have been reported as going through the place at a high rate of speed. Among those who were held up and inspected was Mrs. Mary James of Brooklyn street, who was notified to appear in court this evening because of improper markers. There were also fourteen caught in the drag net by the state police for different automobile violations.

Drive Underway
All is ready for the starting of the collection for the fund that is wanted for the Visiting Nurses' Association. The announcement was made in all of the churches Sunday. There were moving picture slides shown in the theater and an advance card has been distributed by the Boy Scouts, telling of the coming of the collectors. The calls will be made during the evening in most cases, but in many other cases where team captains are able to do work during the daytime, they, too, will make calls.

Hallowe'en Social
The Three-in-One club of this city is making elaborate plans for their Hallowe'en social and dance at Ellington Town Hall Saturday evening, the 29th. Special music by Carl Buckmaster and his orchestra of eight pieces will feature. Delegations from Manchester, Rockville, Stafford Springs, Broad Brook and Melrose will attend which promises to be one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

HOBSON COMPARES
ROME AND AMERICA
Tells of Death Penalty For
Boozing; Sees Prohibition
As Coming World Issue.

Rome had prohibition and a death penalty for violation of the law against alcoholism, said Richmond Pearson Hobson at the South Methodist church last night. Mr. Hobson, who is touring this state under the auspices of the Connecticut Temperance and Anti Saloon League, drew a parallel between this country and the Roman Empire in its glory as far as prohibition legislation is concerned.

Approved Oct. 23, 1927. The Selectmen of Manchester, Conn., at a meeting held Oct. 17, 1927, acting under and pursuant to Section 9 (44) Special Laws, 1913, approved April 9, 1913, and Sections 1-5 (452) Spec. Laws, 1913, approved Oct. 1st, 1917, having deemed it for the public good that building and veranda lines should be established on Westminster Road, a highway in the Town of Manchester, Conn., from Porter Street on the north to Cromwell Street on the south, as follows: EAST SIDE. The building line on the east side of Westminster Road is to be thirty (30) feet east of and parallel to the east line of said Westminster Road from Porter Street on the north to Cromwell Street on the south.

VIOLINIST FEATURE OF
LUTHER LEAGUE CONCERT

Miss Elsa Nordstrom to Appear Here Nov. 2; Local Singers of Note on Bill.

An opportunity will be given to Manchester's music lovers to hear a violinist of note on Wednesday evening, Nov. 2, when Miss Elsa Nordstrom, concert violinist of Worcester, will feature in a concert under the auspices of Team No. 5 of the Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church.

Miss Elsa Nordstrom recently returned from Paris where she studied for two years and since then has attracted very favorable comment from the critics of the East by her marked personality, excellent technique, artistic rendition and unusual ability in interpretation.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Jennie Strong Hall, who is accustomed to spend her summers with her father, Robert N. Strong of Oakland, left for her home in New York, this being the twentieth anniversary of her marriage to George H. Hall, formerly of this town.

Manchester Grange will hold its regular meeting in Tinker hall Wednesday evening at 7:30. This early hour is for the purpose of a public whist at 8 o'clock, the committee in charge of which will be William H. Cowles, chairman, Mrs. George W. House, Mrs. Everett Lathrop, Mrs. George Tracy and Earl Mitchell.

Professor Thomas S. Adams, professor of political economy at Yale University, has been invited by the Chamber of Commerce to address a meeting here in the near future. Professor Adams was a member of the National Chamber committee on federal taxation.

ACCIDENT SHOWS
WHISKEY IN CAR

37 Bottles Found In Auto That Crashes Here; Occupants Take to Woods.

The case of D. W. Pinto of 188 Franklin avenue, Hartford, who faces charges of reckless driving and evading responsibility as the result of an automobile accident here yesterday, was continued until Thursday morning at the request of his attorney in Manchester Police Court today by Judge Raymond A. Johnson. Pinto is the owner of the automobile but it was not proved that he was the driver. This is what the court will try to determine on Thursday.

The accident occurred at 4:15 yesterday afternoon in front of a gasoline station operated by Henry Gruseuner on Center street. The Buick sedan owned by Pinto was going toward Hartford at a fast rate of speed, it is said, when it crashed head-on into an Oldsmobile touring car operated by Albert N. Gladding which had come to a temporary stop prior to turning into the gas station driveway. "Scotch Whiskey in Car."

Although no one was injured, both automobiles were considerably damaged. The occupants of the Buick car fled down Hill street and disappeared into the woods immediately after getting out of the automobile. The reason for doing this was later revealed when Police- man John McGlin, who conducted an investigation, found five cases containing 37 bottles of liquor labeled as Scotch-whiskey beneath the seats.

According to one bystander this was not all the booze that had been in the car. This person declared that while the policeman was busy making his investigation, several bottles of the liquor was pilfered by spectators.

Hartford police were notified of the seizure and reported back later this morning and said he knew nothing about the accident to his car; that he was not driving it at the time. His attorney had previously requested an adjournment and this was granted under bonds of $200 for reckless driving and $300 for evading responsibility.

ROBITUARY

MRS. GRACE DEGUTIS
Mrs. Grace Degutis, aged 33, wife of William Degutis, of 30 Liberty street, died at the Memorial hospital early yesterday morning following a major operation performed several days ago.

Mrs. Degutis is survived by one daughter, Annie 10, and one son, Ernest, 11; a brother, Frank, and her mother and a sister in Lithuania.

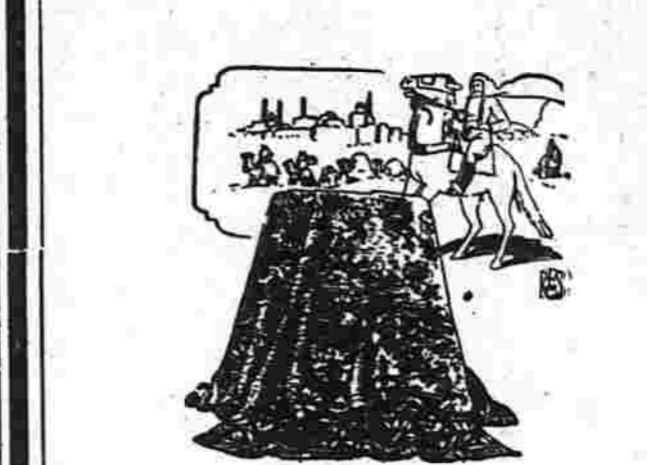

FUNERAL OF SAMUEL SHIPMAN
The funeral of Samuel Shipman was held at the South Methodist church at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was mainly in charge of Dilworth-Cornell post, American Legion. A firing squad from the post fired a volley over the grave in the East Cemetery.

WANDERERS RETURNED TO HOMES BY POLICE

Wilfred Delphond, son of Mrs. Nina Delphond of Branford, N. H., and Blaine Morrison, son of John Morrison of 14 Glen Hill road, Matapan, Mass., who were detained at the police station yesterday, were taken to their homes today. The boys, both 16 years old, had run away from home on October 12. They came to the police station to get a place to sleep and their relatives were notified.

Police found the parents of Margaret Mahl, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mahl of Union street, who strayed from home on Saturday afternoon and became lost in the north end. A woman on Depot Square found her and brought her to the store of Edward Murphy. Mr. Murphy took the child to the police station and she was taken from there to her home after the police had found out who she was.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (116) Benjamin Franklin

Benjamin Franklin was the first man to capture fire from the sky and bring it to the ground. Franklin was a printer and educated himself by his own efforts. Franklin suspected that electricity and lightning were the same thing. In his experiments he made a silk kite at the top of which he fixed a thin wire attached to a frame of cedar strips.

He tied a string to the kite and at the lower end attached a silk ribbon (a non-conductor) to the string.

Where the string and ribbon joined he fixed a metal key. During a violent thunderstorm he sent up his kite.

Standing in the doorway with his son he watched the lightning play. Loose strands of the string began to bristle. He put his finger toward them and they were attracted by it. Placing his finger on the key he felt a shock and saw a spark. Electricity, running down the string, filled his Leyden jar. He had brought down the lightning!

forcing the belief—that a literal whole literally swallowed Jonah, that every American colonist save those enlisted in Tory battalions was a patriot eager to give at least one life for his country, and that a glass of wine is a snare laid by a personal devil for the destruction of the bibber. If they should get control of the schools as they have of the liquor laws, it would be inevitable that the children of the country would be loaded with superstitious didacticisms all the way from the kindergartens to high school graduation. The 2 per cent nonsensicalities would become part of the legal instructions of our youth—and anything contrary would be criminal.

THE WAY OF THE ROAD

A series of accidents involving five vehicles and resulting in four arrests for reckless driving, which occurred on the Hartford-New London Turnpike in the town of Waterford recently, is worthy of more than a passing thought. Vehicle No. 1 was a horse drawn truck. A motor milk truck came along behind it and, because of hill and curve, crashed into the horse drawn truck when the motor truck's driver could not stop quickly enough after sighting the slow moving vehicle. A state policeman hurried up the hill to warn other approaching motorists of the wreck. Vehicle No. 3 was a pleasure car containing four persons and traveling fast. The driver failed to heed the officer's signal and, when he came in sight of the wreckage, jammed on his brakes. His car slid down hill sideways and smashed into the milk truck, bringing up finally against a tree. Vehicle No. 4 was a delivery truck with eight persons in it. It, too, ignored the cop's warning, piled on down hill, left the road when the brakes were suddenly applied, did weird stunts on the right hand bank and finally came back to the road, right side up. Examination proved that its brakes were faulty. Vehicle No. 5, which was following the delivery truck, was going so fast that it couldn't be stopped properly but skidded all over the highway and by luck stopped without hitting the other cars.

All of these drivers, excepting the driver of the unoffending horse truck, were arrested, charged with recklessness. Now the interesting point is that if the horse drawn vehicle had not been on the road at all every one of these utterly reckless drivers would have gotten by without accident, without arrest, without even comment. Yet the driving of each in that event would have been precisely as reckless and reprehensible as when it resulted in disaster. Here were four motorists in a row, none of whom was driving with any reasonable degree of precaution, each a menace to every other motorist on the road, without a single careful driver making his appearance to leaven the mass of incompetence and irresponsibility. The average is significant. One hundred per cent reckless. And all of them secure enough from arrest or even criticism—until something happened.

Why is it necessary to wait till the wild driver kills somebody or crashes into somebody before noticing that he is a wild driver?

FEDERAL SCHOOLS

The forces which are working hardest for a national department of education and the placing of control of the schools of the country under federal authority are in large measure those which have obsessions which they crave to force upon all their fellow-men. Some of the advocates of federalization of the schools are fundamentalists, some are historical didacticists, some—and these are many—are of pronounced Ku Klux tendencies, some—and these are also many—are dry.

Give the latter the reins in education and we should have the schools teaching such "facts" as this: "One glass of beer a day lowers human efficiency 2 per cent"—a flat statement which we quote from an organ of the dries. As though, even were it undisputed that alcohol is a poison, it would be possible to translate its effects into any such absolute terms as these!

But Dr. Charles A. L. Reed, former president of the American Medical Association and at least as good an authority on physiology as the editor of any Anti-Saloon League organ, takes a somewhat different view. In an address delivered at Chicago the other day before the American Public Health Association, he made the assertion that alcohol is a normal constituent of the brain.

"The one fact that hits back at the legislation on this subject," said Dr. Reed, "is the fundamental physiological law, as demonstrated by physiological chemistry, that alcohol is a normal constituent of the brain tissue. When this supply runs low there is a natural demand for alcohol as such. That is the plain physiology underlying alcohol consumption as practised by all peoples of the lands."

It is not to be expected that this expression of scientific belief will be accepted by the dries. If they so much as give Dr. Reed credit for being honestly mistaken it will be as far as they can be expected to go, for they are not, as a whole, open to conviction. But the inquiring mind will be likely to conclude that there is at least as good a chance of this eminent physician and scientist being right as there is that the unknown dry propagandist is right who solemnly weighs and measures the degree of "inefficiency" produced by a single glass of lager.

The special point of all this is that those most busily advocating federalization of the schools are, in the large majority of cases, those who are bitten by a passion for than some of the things that are now taught in the schools? Some of the so-called cultural things? If so, then perhaps that griefed-for soldier-poet Joyce Kilmer was revolutionary and mad, too—for did he not say

Poems are made by fools like me, But only God can make a tree.

VAGUE

It is announced that a survey by the statistical department of the government of Germany discloses that there are 1,020 millionaires in that country. We could become more excited over this news if the trouble had been taken to let us know what it is that a person must own a million of, over there, to make the indicated grade.

What matter to me if their star is a world? Mine has opened its soul to me; therefore I love it. —Robert Browning: My Star.

SHORTAGE IN CLERGY PROBLEM IN ENGLAND

LONDON.—There is a serious shortage of candidates for the Ministry in Britain which is causing special anxiety to the Established Church of England. According to the reasons for the shortage given by the fighting shy of Church as a profession because:

The sons of the clergy feel that they can serve Church and State equally well in some other profession;

Many of them are convinced that they have no real vocation in the Church;

Modern education has shaken the faith of many of them;

From a financial point of view, the Church is not attractive.

There are 5,000 fewer clergy in the Established Church than there were 20 years ago, despite an enormously increased population. At that time there used to be about 700 ordinations yearly. The largest number ordained in any one year since the war was 463, while last year it fell to 353. And it seems that the number is not likely to be increased for some years to come.

TREES

Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, has sent out a call to the schools of the country to employ, in any program in celebration of the anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, Oct. 27, the following utterance of the dead President:

"A people without children would face a hopeless future; a country without trees is almost as hopeless. Forests which are so used that they cannot renew themselves will soon vanish, and with them all their benefits. When you help to preserve our forests or plant new ones you are acting the part of good citizens."

"Were T. R. still alive," says Mr. Pack, "he would be on top of the Mississippi flood control problem with both feet. It was a way he had with him. In marking Roosevelt's birthday what finer thing could be done than turning the thoughts of the nation to tree planting in his honor? There are millions of acres of idle lands that should be put to work growing trees. The burned over and cut over headwaters of the streams and rivers of the Mississippi Valley help to bring on devastating flood conditions."

It is a far cry from Connecticut to the Mississippi Valley, though there is as intimate a relationship between the two as between a man's foot and his brain, just the same. But it is as essential that Connecticut children should be brought up to a sincere realization of the vital importance of trees as that the children of Michigan and Iowa should be so trained.

Would it be revolutionary or mad to suggest that an appreciation of and reverence for trees might just possibly be more useful in the development of the national intellect

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, Oct. 24.—The first tangible evidence that Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter is a candidate for the presidential nomination seen in the mysterious appearance here of a pamphlet purporting to be an account of the senator's life and times.

"J. Boonboom McWhorter, Statesman and Patriot," is the title of the cover and the contents comprise an irresistible refutation of the sneers of certain jealous persons who profess to believe that McWhorten really isn't such a much.

A foreword carefully explains that the pamphlet has no political purpose, but you can't bamboozle official Washington, which has seen similar pamphlets before.

At any rate, it's the first time full justice has been done, for the senator has been wearing an injured look ever since he was advised that any senator who supplied more than three pages for the biographical section of the Congressional Directory would have to pay for the extra printing.

No attempt is made to conceal the senator's humble origin. The elder McWhorter was only a horse-shoe pitcher, but he was a good one.

Little McWhorter used to carry the horseshoes for his father and then run out and retrieve them after they were pitched. One day a horseshoe hit little McWhorter in the noodle. Neighbors thought that the injury had affected little McWhorter's brain, but, as the senator explains it, it was very beneficial and after that he had many bright ideas which he had never had before.

Little McWhorter was taught the peril of strong drink at an early age. Every night little McWhorter had to trot down to the brewery and bring home a bucket of beer for his pop until his pop began to object. When he saw, the lad took a terrible tanning, and the bucket always came home full after that.

When the boy grew old enough to carry a little money he sometimes brought home a bottle, but his pop always confiscated that, and finally the boy gave up in sheer disgust and became, according to the biographer, a life-long prohibitionist. Some of the Senator McWhorter enemies will sniff at this statement, but let them sniff so long as they don't sniff too near the senator!

The senator's original name was not John or Jeremiah as you might think. It was Josias. Old Man McWhorter had insisted that the baby be named Moses because he probably would be wise like his father and Mrs. McWhorter declared for the name Joseph in honor of her Uncle Mike. So when Mr. McWhorter became stubborn about it, the mother of his child heaved an awl at him which knocked off his hat for the first time in many months and Old Man McWhorter walked about in a daze, muttering "Moses, Joseph, Moses, Josias—" and so on until Mrs. McWhorter took pity on her spouse and agreed to compromise with Josias. And Josias it was until young McWhorter, entering politics, contracted it to Jo, for the sake of dignity.

At school, Josias was such a prodigy that the teachers couldn't teach him hardly anything. They did succeed, however, in teaching him that while a teacher might stand for a tack in her chair now and then, the use of spikes was quite gauche.

At the age of 20 young Josias McWhorter entered a male bathing beauty contest and came within a few inches of winning. The story is now revealed for the first time. McWhorter was then in the pink of condition, but he had already begun to develop the protruding abdomen which is now one of his most distinctive features. Well, he was smart enough to know that that pod of his would be absolutely fatal in a beauty contest where he must appear in a bathing suit. So Josias adopted the simple but effective expedient of holding it in. As he paraded before the judges, no longer did the waist of his suit come two or three inches out beyond his chin. As he stood in line while the judges made final inspection, he was straight as an arrow—but with an effort.

He heard one judge whisper to another, with a glance at his manly figure, that there was the winner. And the other judge nodded. Then the judges withdrew in a group and turned their backs to reach an agreement while the multitude below the platform roared.

Beaming confidently, McWhorter relaxed for a moment and resumed his natural contour. Suddenly, just at this critical moment, the judges started to turn around to give McWhorter the prize. Our hero undertook to draw himself in again—but it was too late. He was even ignored when the judges awarded second prize—a princely purse of $150. McWhorter returned home broke and disconsolate, but determined yet to make a name for himself, tummy or no tummy.

Further adventures of the noble McWhorter, now revealed for the first time, will be described in subsequent dispatches.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it's not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

A New Yorker in Paris

Paris.—Scattered notes from a ramble about an ancient. The Chinon youngster who juggles knives in front of the Cafe Rotonde. . . . And when he is finished the Parisian at the next table tells me in hushed tones: "It was at the very table you sit that Lenin and Trotsky planned the Russian revolution. Just upstairs lived Kerensky." . . . But since he holds his palm out for a tip, I wonder if all who sit near him do not get the same story.

Those strange floating laundries on the Seine. . . . "Lavoirs" the French call them. . . . Moored to the concrete river walls. . . . They look like huge cattle cars made from latticed fences. . . . Which reminds me of the freight cars one sees everywhere in the railroad yards, on the sides of which are painted "3 men, 16 horses." . . . Which should give the men enough hay to sleep on. Or the horses enough room to turn in. . . . But after you've taken the Dieppe night boat to London, nothing will make any difference. . . . There they put you three abreast in two tiers of vile craft stands on its nose further to disturb you. . . . Not like our American railroad hoboes. . . . But whole families parked along the Seine. . . . One man has found an ancient spring on a junk pile and has "moved in" to the envy of others. . . . A group of four, which includes one woman, has found a discarded oil heater and lives in the lap of luxury. . . . The woman has a quarter of a lot of badly soiled bread and a piece of burlap that wraps the remains of a bottle of wine. . . . That's one thing you'll see in France. . . . Whatever else the poor may or may not have they have their wine, whatever be its quality. . . . The endless parade of painters under the "points." . . . Between Notre Dame and the Louvre bridges or "points" I counted 30. Ten were Americans. . . . It seemed to me they all painted badly. . . . But that doesn't bother the artistic soul of Europe. . . . You may come upon them within a church, on top of a roof, or under the table of a sidewalk cafe. . . . Ninety-nine hundred out of a thousand will be making chromos. . . . But you could no more discourage them than you could insult a ham actor on Broadway. . . .

All Paris clocks have different times. . . . In the railroad stations the hours after twelve become variously thirteen, fourteen, fifteen o'clock, and so forth.

What ham-and-eggs at Barney's is to the Broadwayite, onion soup is to the Paris rounders. . . . All good night hawks greet the dawn with onion soup. . . . It is the corned beef and cabbage of the Parisians to be found on any menu, and almost impossible to escape. . . . I have found but one place in Paris that knows how to make ice cream sodas. . . . And the cocktails, a la Americaine, to be had in most French bars remind you of the first cocktail party of a Smith's college or Vassar girl. . . . In the meantime perhaps one can become accustomed to the French appetites. . . . But to the beginner they seem very much like what grandma gave you for crop.

Theater programs, as well as seats, must be paid for. . . . What is more, since the poor program girl seldom makes a profit, one is expected to tip her for the privilege of having a program. . . . In fact I should like to learn just what there is that does not require a tip.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY FIGHT AT CIRCLE FOR 3 DAYS

First Showing of Memorable Battle Pictures Scheduled For Today—Film Is Rickard's Own.

The Dempsey-Tunney fight, showing the famous seventh round in slow motion, is the attraction at the Circle theater tonight, Saturday and Wednesday. It will be shown with the feature, "Arizona Nights," which stars Fred Thompson and his horse, Silver King.

Manchester people will not have to go to Hartford to see this film, of which there are so many bootleg copies. The Hionan Brothers, operators of the State and Circle theaters here, have held off on the films for the reason that they wanted the genuine article instead of one of the copies which have been exhibited as the real thing.

The contract for the pictures was closed on Saturday and the announcement made in The Herald at that time. An injunction restraining Federal authorities from interfering with the exhibition of the pictures enables moving picture men in this state to show them.

The famous seventh round, concerning which many thousands of words have been written, is shown in the smallest detail by means of the slow motion picture. Tunney's alleged knockout and his comeback after taking the count of nine are shown graphically, proving a lot of things and disproving some others.

Manchester is fortunate in being able to see one of the genuine films before some of the theaters in bigger towns in this section have obtained them. Two Hartford houses are exhibiting the pictures now, but both films are claimed to be copies which have been smuggled into the state.

CRUISE OF JASPER B WINS RIALTO PATRONS

Rod Roque Scores Big Hit; So Does Ben Turpin; Last Time Tonight; "Slightly Used" Tomorrow and Wednesday.

Filled from start to finish with tremendously effective scenes and laughs, Rod La Roque's latest star vehicle, "The Cruise of the Jasper B," a screen version of Don Marquis' famous novel of the same name, scored an emphatic hit at the Rialto theater yesterday. It will be shown again tonight. The story, which carries one across the mists of centuries back to pirate days on the Spanish Main, is especially fine for picture purposes. It deals with a soft-muscled young man one of whose ancestors was a pirate and who promulgates a law that every male descendant of his must marry aboard the Jasper B, which he had captured from the Spaniards, on a certain day, or forfeit his inheritance. This condition brings about many serious and laughable complications, all of which are highly reliable. Some of the scenes are breath-taking in the extreme and the pirate scenes with which the story opens, are finely presented. Mildred Harris, leading woman, has an attractive role of wit and she makes the most of it. Wholly adequate support is rendered by Jack Ackroyd, Snitz Edwards, Otto Lederer and James Mack.

In addition to the feature film, there will be a two reel comedy "When a Man's a Prince" featuring Ben Turpin.

Tomorrow and Wednesday, May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel will portray the leading parts in "Slightly Used."

It is the story of an elder sister whose father refuses to let her younger sisters marry until she is off the "sheet" herself. To escape the nagging, she pretends marriage with an imaginary Major John Smith.

All goes well till a newcomer arrives, with whom Cynthia, falls in love. To get rid of the imaginary husband she causes reports of his death to be published. The unknown Major reads the news and comes post haste to investigate. He of course falls in love with his "wife" and after some hectic hours, Cynthia reciprocates and becomes what she has pretended to be.

STATE GIVING AWAY BEAUTIFUL DIAMOND

Tickets Given With Each Admission For Drawing Thursday—William Haines Here Tomorrow.

Tickets are being given out at the State theater until Thursday on the handsome diamond ring with the management is offering along with numerous other prizes on Thursday evening. The ring can be seen in the windows of Willis A. Smith, Jeweler, in the State building. It is William Haines, the ever popular juvenile, is the star in "Spring Fever," which starts at the State tomorrow and runs for two days. Golf is the theme of the story and the actor is a champion of sorts.

Haines romps through a series of hilarious adventures as a youth who becomes a golf celebrity—he beats a champion and he wins the affection of a golf-mad boss—he wins a pretty bride and a big job—all after a series of hilarious complications in which he is the center.

There's hardly a somber moment in the picture—it is so crammed with laughs that there's hardly where it created a sensation among theatre patrons of that city, for it is a dramatic treat offered only once in a decade. It has for its locale a small Illinois town, and for its background, carnival life with the Colonel Gowdy Big City Show. It is an intensely human play; something different than the usual theatre fare, and an absorbingly fascinating story. Among those in the cast supporting Mr. Huston are Eleanor Winslow Williams, Gertrude Wazel, George Barber, Al Roberts, John Irwin, Owen Davis, Jr., Jessie Graham, Mae Hopkins, George O'Donnell, John Cambridge and Harry Clark.

IMPORTANT FRATERNAL LEAGUE MEETING WILL BE HELD TUESDAY EVE.

There will be a special meeting of the officers and team captains of the Fraternal Bowling league at 7:30 tomorrow night at The Herald branch office on Bissell street, to consider the possibility of increasing the size of the league. Since the organization of the present eight-team circuit, there has been some talk about playing some matches on other alleys besides those owned by Howard Murphy. So tomorrow night, the requests of other teams to enter the league will be considered. It is possible that enough teams will be admitted to insure games at Conran's alleys over north, the West Side alleys and the Kacey alleys. Teams wishing to enter should have a delegate present. This doesn't mean they will be admitted to membership. That is up to the vote of the league team captains and officers.

confeſſion as evidence of my good faith. . . And that is all, Mr. Markham. "Was that what your quarrel with him last week was about? Pfyfe gave him a look of querulous surprise. "Ah, you heard of our little contretemps? . . . Yes—we had a slight disagreement as to the—shall I say terms of the transaction?" "Did Benson insist that the note be paid when due?" "No—not exactly," Pfyfe's manner became unctuous. "I beg of you, sir, not to press me as to my little chat with Alvin. It was, I assure you, quite irrelevant to the present situation. Indeed, it was of a most personal and private nature."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Suspicion attaches in turn to Miss St. Clair, Pfyfe and Leacock. Vance eliminates the girls and when Pfyfe's testimony strengthens the case against Leacock he intervenes to save the captain. Miss Hoffman relates that Pfyfe and Alvin Benson had quarreled in the latter's office and Markham summons Pfyfe to question him on this and several other points. NOW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV

"I REALLY should have mentioned these before," he confessed, indicating the papers with a delicately inconsequential wave of the hand. He leaned forward on one elbow, taking a confidential attitude, and as he talked, the cigaret bobbed up and down between his lips. "It pains me deeply to go into this matter," he began; "but since it is in the interests of truth, I shall not complain. . . My—my—my domestic arrangements are not all that one could desire. My wife's father has, curiously enough, taken a most unreasonable dislike to me; and it pleases him to deprive me of all but the meagerest financial assistance, although it is really my wife's money that he refuses to give me. A few months ago I made use of certain funds—$10,000, to be exact—which, I learned later, had not been intended for me. "When my father-in-law discovered my error, it was necessary for me to return the full amount to him, a misunderstanding between Mrs. Pfyfe and myself—a misunderstanding which might have caused my wife great unhappiness. "I regret to say, I used Alvin's name on a check. But I explained it to him at once, you understand, offering him the note and this little

Home Page Editorial SHOULD CHILD OR MOTHER DICTATE?

By Olive Roberts Barton

When should mother let go? Some say when a girl is of age, some when she is out of school. Out in society, is another echo. Not until she is married and can pass from the protection of her mother to the protection of her husband, declares a fourth faction. Can it be possible that parents themselves have recognized the value of this freedom, long before the specialists got to it? I haven't the least idea of broadcasting lawless independence on the part of children, but cases have come under my observation that have caused me to pause and grow thoughtful. It dawned on me first when a woman in whose home I was calling told me some amusing incidents of her children. After we left a friend who had been with me made this remark, "Sarah has eight children and each one is a real person. If she had two, the chances are they'd have been—well, they'd have been just ordinary people. She hasn't time to boss right. They know the rules of the house and where to draw the line. But aside from that they are as free as birds."

ETHEL IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS

For Ritzy Wrists

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

The big black trunkful of letters, left by the late colorful dancer, Isadora Duncan, found a text for many self-conscious souls who warn one to be careful about writing letters and "never say on paper anything you wouldn't be willing to have anyone read anywhere at any time."

Perhaps caution, foresight, worry about the future are admirable traits, but what a miserable depressing, selfish, unpromising way to live, and if no one dared live in and for the moment for fear of what the future might bring!

We have all, "us women," attempted to keep diaries at some time or other in our careers. But after the first week or so we forget the little book. Even if we keep it up pretty faithfully for a while we suddenly get panicky for fear we might suddenly be struck by lightning or something and somebody see our naked soul, so we burn them.

Which is why the achievement of Mrs. J. T. Johnson of Texas who hasn't missed a day in her diary for 41 years seems especially noteworthy. One wonders, though, just how interesting a life can be in itself if one has time to transcribe the life to a diary so conscientiously. Maybe the diary is the life.

Raging Husbands Once upon a time husbands flew into terrible rages if "other men" gazed upon their wives. Nowadays it seems to make them mad if they don't. A Mr. Keller of Washington, D. C., is one of the latter. Mr. Keller, you may recall, is the husband of Mrs. Ida Keller whose several-inches-above-her-knees skirt made a passing policeman suggest that if she'd pull it down she wouldn't be so annoyed by passing straggle of strange males. Both the Mr. and Mrs. got mad, asked if any law was being broken, told the policeman to mind his business, and Mr. Keller said he was glad his wife was so attractive men enjoyed looking at her.

Divorced Cost The cost of divorce cannot be deducted as necessary business expenses from an income tax. That's what Uncle Sam told a certain New York man who tried to deduct his divorce attorney's fees from his income tax return.

The man's argument was that his marriage was endangered by business success, and that the divorce, therefore, was "a necessary business expenditure." Well, funnier arguments than that have been given to justify other income tax deductions!

"She'll Get Married!" The average business girl works three years before she marries. This statement was made at a recent business convention. This is the argument which employers always give when fixing low salaries for girls employes. "She'll be married in a few months," they say, "and we'll have to break in a new one."

Even the fact that marriage means little difference as far as job is concerned to thousands of girls today does not alter this theory of her low value because of her possible short duration in the job.

The atom used to be considered the smallest thing in existence, but now it has been found to consist of smaller particles, protons and electrons.

A Wonderful Disinfectant For All Purposes A disinfectant is as necessary in keeping your home hygienically clean as soap and water. A tablespoonful of Sypho-Nathol to a gallon of water instantly removes dirt, grease or stains—destroys germs, arrests organic decay, purifies unwholesome conditions—kills offensive odors. Disinfects drain pipes, garbage receptacles, dark cellars. Get Sypho-Nathol at all dealers.

Daily Health Service HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN The problem of preventing heart disease among the public seems to be more and more a question of education. In most instances involvement of the heart takes place insidiously in childhood and the persons do not have proper treatment until the condition has developed so far that any treatment is unavailing. In many schools nowadays children are examined regularly and are not permitted to indulge in severe exercises if the hearts are found to be infected. Moreover, the presence of infected tonsils, teeth or adenoids, which may be associated with the development of heart trouble, should be determined early and these infected parts. Whenever a decayed tooth or the root of a tooth is associated in the mouth of a child with an abscess of the gums, the tooth should be pulled. The symptoms, formerly passed off as "growing pains," are now believed to be, in most instances, rheumatic infections resulting from infections elsewhere in the body. One of the most common causes of heart disease, as pointed out by Dr. A. Levinson, is the attempt to take up active life too soon after passing through measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, or any other infectious disease. Rest in bed during and following infectious diseases is important in order that the tissues of the heart, which have been un-

UTENSIL OIL Use glycerine to oil the meat chopper, egg beater or other utensils to prevent food from tasting of lubricant. TANK JACKET An asbestos jacket for your hot water tank is a good investment. It facilitates heating the water and also keeps it hot. NEW UTENSILS If you grease and heat new pie tins slowly before you use them, your food will never stick in them and they will last longer.

POTATO SUBSTITUTE Add a cup of sour apples, diced very fine, to corned beef hash instead of potatoes if your family is one that objects to starches.

LUNCHEON DISH Baked tomato, en casserole, with toast covered with cheese sauce and bread crumbs, make a nice change from eggs Benedict.

APPLE FILLER If you use diced apples along with celery when making chicken salad, you will discover they make an admirable filler and give tang.

Exotic Straps Exotic leathers continue to decorate our costumes. A narrow strap of snakeskin is used to fasten a gray suede glove at the wrist.

WARMED BISCUITS Baking powder biscuits can be freshened as they are warm if you put them in a wet paper bag, tie up tight and heat in oven.

COLORED BUTTER Apple butter gets a rich color and a new, spicy flavor if you put some old-fashioned cinnamon drops in while it is cooking.

BOILING OVER If you add butter to rice or macaroni when it is cooking, it will prevent its boiling over.

HOT FUDGE WAFFLES Hot waffles, cooked at the table and served with hot fudge sauce, make a delectable a dessert as anyone could ask.

GLASS PACKING If you must move after your winter's fruit is put up, keep the jars from cracking by cutting old inner tubes the right length to slip over them.

"I caught ninety-nine bass yesterday."

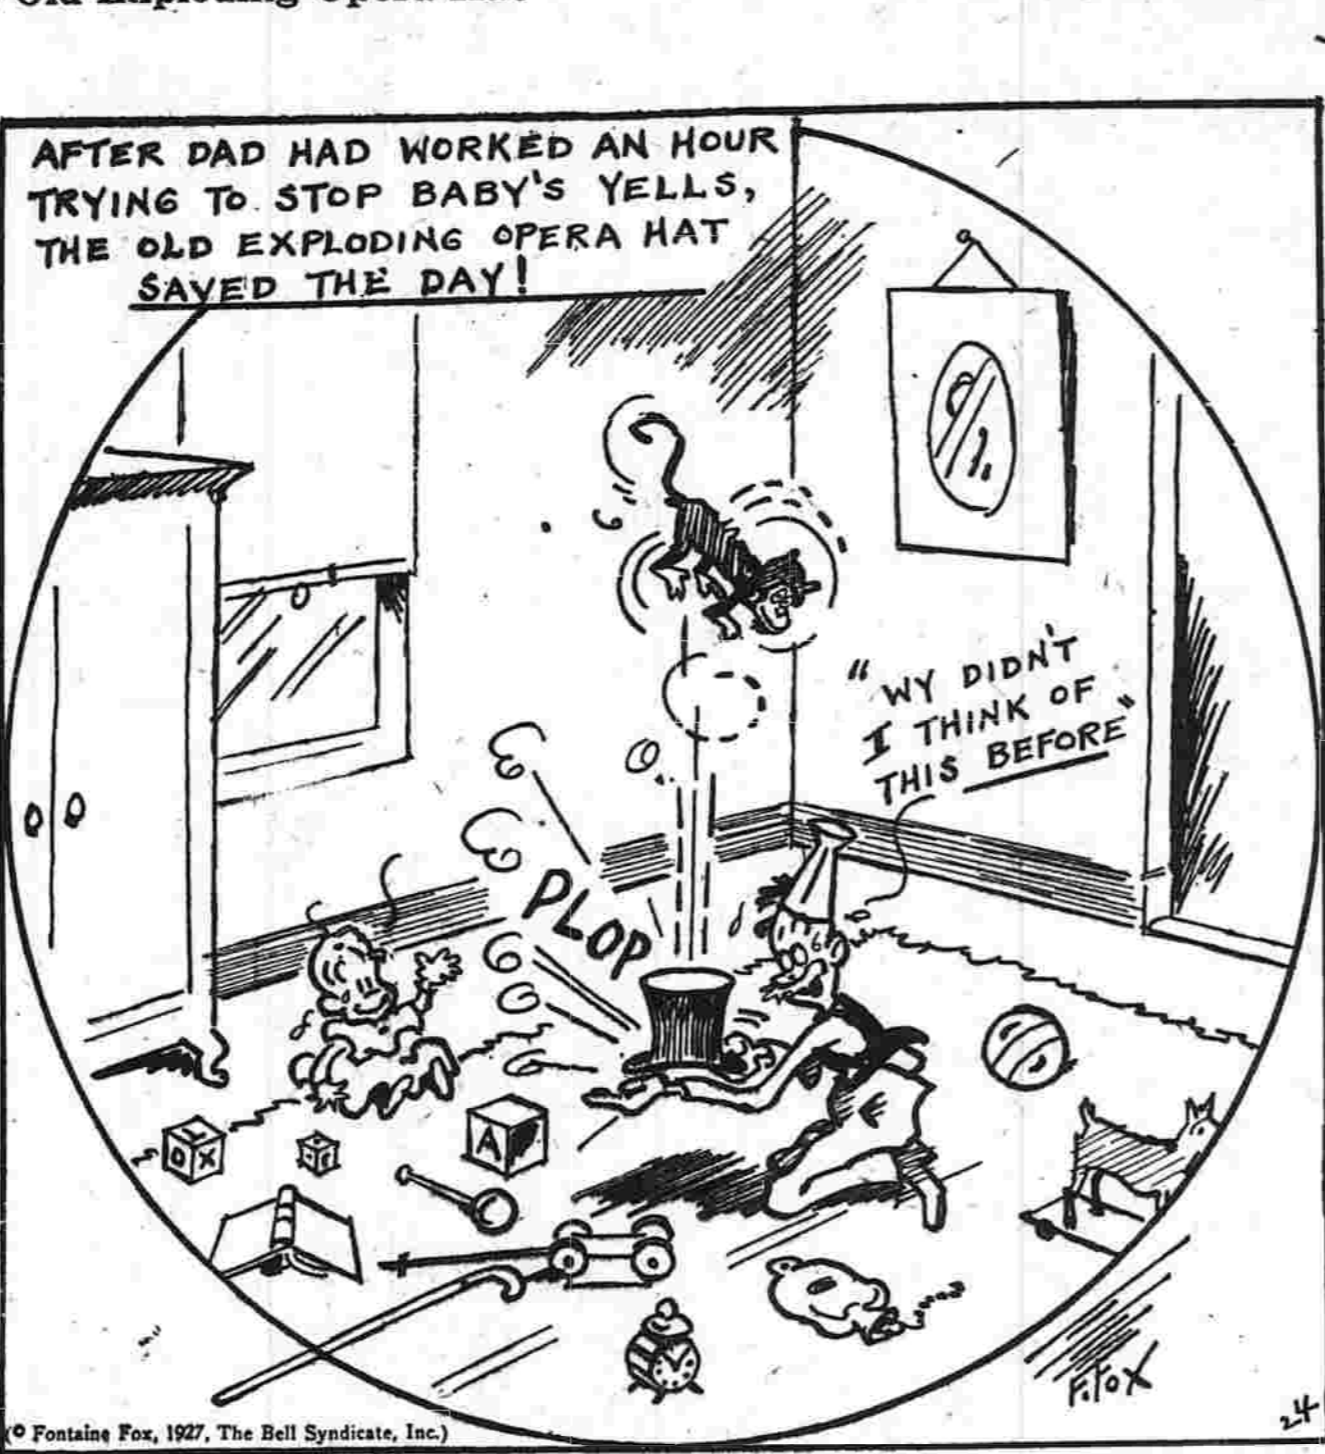

"Why not make it 100 and be done with it?"

"Because the number was ninety-nine, I'm not going to tell a lie just for the sake of one fish."

Jack Lockwill's Forest Rangers

Lockwill had been right in saying the deer hound was close upon the heels of the quarry. That had been indicated by the mad excitement of the hound's baying, which was actually blood-chilling.

The watching boys were electrified by the spectacle, but their sympathy was wholly with the fleeing deer.

"A shame and a crime!" agreed Jack, his blood leaping hotly in his veins.

Lockwill threw the rifle to his shoulder and fired at the dog as the deer vanished into the woods beyond the clearing.

ABOUT TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Skolnik, of 14 Middle Turnpike (West) spent the week-end with friends in Hawleyville, this state.

Up to date the members of the Hospital Linen auxiliary have filled a number of tables for their bridge and whist to be held at the new Masonic Temple tomorrow afternoon, playing to start promptly at 2:15. It is in no sense an invitation affair and all players of bridge or whist are invited. The auxiliary raises $500 each year for the purchase of new linen, and furnish three dozen warm jackets for the convalescents in the children's department of the hospital.

Daughters of Liberty in charge of the entertainment and sale of food Saturday evening at Orange hall are meeting with success in disposing of the tickets. Previous to the entertainment the Manchester Bagpipe and Center Flute bands, who are to furnish numbers, will parade on Main and Center street. In addition to local talent the committee has secured Neill Patterson, the well known Scotch entertainer to assist with the program, which will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. During the intermission home-made food and candy, as well as refreshments will be on sale.

The Boy Rangers will meet at the Manchester Community clubhouse at 7 o'clock this evening to appoint committees and make arrangements for a Halloween party to be held at the Community club Friday evening.

The ladies auxiliary of the A. O. H. will have its regular meeting in St. James's Parish hall this evening.

At 8 o'clock this evening the senior council of the newly organized Community Boy Scout troop will meet with the director to make plans and discuss ways and means for transportation of the troop to the Yale-Maryland game on November 5.

The Women of Mooseheart Legion will have a whist tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Wm. Burke on School street. Mrs. Albert Yost will assist the hostess. Six prizes will be given and refreshments served.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Main street this week. The session will begin tomorrow afternoon and continue until Thursday. Mrs. Ella Boole, national president, will give the address Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Sidney Hagenow has been appointed chairman of the committee in charge of a public whist which the Good Will club, the Parent Teacher Association in the Fifth District, will conduct Friday evening of this week at the City View Dance hall.

A special meeting of Manchester Grange will be held at the home of Mrs. George W. House of 49 Benton street tonight.

Mrs. Thomas Stratton of Garden street and her two children, Milton and Doris, spent yesterday in Barnesville, Mass.

Joseph Fellowes, Jack Walsh, Joseph Garrity and Lofis Crowley of Ansonia were visitors at the home of Francis Dwyer of Church street yesterday.

A number of Manchester Red Men will go to Middletown this evening on the occasion of a visit of the Great Chief to the Middletown tribe. It is expected that the chief will be brought to Manchester early in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson and two children of Putnam have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Chapman of Strickland street. Mrs. Johnson prior to her marriage was Miss Elsie King and lived at the north end some years ago while her father was express agent at the depot.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lewis and two daughters and Mr. and Mrs. E. Benson spent the week-end in Boston. While there they attended Trinity church with which Miss Margaret Lewis is connected while a student in the School of Religious Education, Boston University. Miss Lewis when not in school is engaged in secretarial and religious work at the church.

Mrs. Sedrick Straughan and daughter Elaine have returned home after spending two weeks with Mrs. Straughan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ward, Southfield, Mass. Mrs. Straughan's brother Harold and Mrs. Ward of Springfield, have been visiting her at her home on East Center street.

Ten tables were filled with players at the whist given Friday evening by Earl Roberts Lodge, Sons of St. George at the home of William Sharpe of Summit street. First prizes went to Mrs. John Albiston and Herbert Robinson and consolation to Mrs. Richard Twinen and Edgar Gibson. The next whist by the lodge members will be held at the home of J. H. Hewitt, of 49 Holl street, Friday evening, October 28. Playing will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

William Lewin of New Britain, veteran stage coach driver, who drove the old stage coach in the Centennial parade here in 1923, was a visitor in Manchester yesterday. He met some old acquaintances. Mr. Lewin, who did his driving before the days of automobiles, refused to ride around the town yesterday, preferring to walk to Manchester Green and other parts of the town.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood A. Brown of 169 Summit street Saturday evening in honor of their seventh wedding anniversary. Friends were present from town, Hartford, New London and Providence. They were presented with a telephone table and chair. The presentation was made by William Phillips. Mrs. William Hausman played the piano for singing and dancing and Mrs. William Phillips entertained with comic songs and dances.

HAS EIGHT IN AUTO WITH USELESS BRAKES

Hartford Youth Fined Here After Crashing Into Car Ahead in Bolton.

Paul Blanchette, 20 year old Hartford youth, was found guilty of operating an automobile with improper brakes this morning by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in Manchester police court. Judgment was suspended on a charge of reckless driving.

Blanchette was arrested yesterday by Sergeant William Barron as the result of an automobile accident in front of the Lafayette Robinson farm. Blanchette was driving a car which included seven persons in addition to himself. Three were riding in the front seat with him when the car crashed into one in front of it driven by Charles Yauck of 167 Washington avenue, Hartford.

Blanchette claimed that Yauck stopped short in front of him and also that another automobile rammed him from the rear when he struck Yauck's car. Sergeant Barron testified that the emergency brake on Blanchette's car was useless and the foot brakes not up to the standard. Blanchette carried no insurance.

Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $15 and costs on the charge of driving with improper brakes.

TAXPAYERS FAIL TO USE OPPORTUNITIES

3,000 Lists Unfiled Though Assessors Give Better Service Than Ever Before.

Almost 3,000 lists remain to be filed in the office of the Board of Assessors, it was said there this morning. There are only seven more days in which lists can be filed, for the time limit expires on November 1.

One of the board said this morning that he was surprised at the way people are allowing their filing to go until the last minute. He said that the board is giving better service to taxpayers this year than ever before, by keeping open all day, evenings and Saturday afternoon. He asks that taxpayers come in the morning as far as possible, so that there will be less congestion in the evenings when property owners come from the mills to file.

WILL CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING NEXT SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sweeney Expect Bridesmaid and Best Man to be Present.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sweeney of South Main street will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday with a dinner and reception at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. A mass, at which members and friends of the family will be present, will be celebrated on Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney were married in Arlington, Mass., in 1889 and came to Manchester, where Mr. Sweeney was placed in charge of the Cheney farm. Mr. Sweeney later went into the employ of Miss Mary Cheney of Hartford road.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney have 33 relatives in Manchester. A daughter, who lives in Oregon, will be unable to attend. It is expected, however, that the bridesmaid and best man who attended Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney at their wedding 50 years ago will be at the reception and dinner.

"ARMY" QUINTET PUTS IN A VERY FULL DAY

Local Musicians Go to North Adams at Night, Play at Service There and in Vermont.

A quintet from the local Salvation Army band made a trip to North Adams, Mass., Saturday evening, and supplied the music for a special service in that city on Sunday.

The quintet arrived in North Adams on Sunday morning about 3 o'clock. The first service took place in the Baptist church at 10:30. Before going to this service, the quintet went to the Sunday school of the Universalist church, and rendered instrumental and vocal selections. At the Baptist church the quintet sang and played at both church service and Sunday school meeting. In the afternoon, Salvation Army officers, together with the quintet, took a trip to Bennington, Vermont, where an open-air meeting was held. After the open-air meeting in North Adams at night, the quintet took part in a United Church meeting in the Baptist church. The boys left for home about 8:30. Those who went were Fred Clough, James V. Munzie, Howard Leggett, Thomas Armstrong and Harold A. Turkington.

WETHERSFIELD WOMAN HURT IN CRASH HERE "Right-of-Way" Bump on Center Street Overtakes One of Two Colliding Fords. Mrs. Benzon Mazo of 9 Spring street, Wethersfield, was injured at 1:30 yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident at the intersection of Center and McKee streets. She was treated by a physician for bruises on the forearm and chest suffered when the automobile in which she was riding overturned. The other car in the accident was driven by Ernest H. Benson of 370 East Center street. Both were Fords. Benson was driving west on West Center street and Samuel Mazo was driving out of McKee street. It was another case of "right of way" according to Sergeant John Crockett, who made the investigation. When Benson applied the brakes, his car skidded into the Mazo car, striking the right front fender and knocking it over on its side. Mrs. Mazo was taken to the home of August Kanehl nearby where she was treated by the doctor. Both drivers were insured. The cars were badly damaged, but it was agreed to settle the matter out of court. All Kinds Of Roofs Repaired COATED, PAINTED, ETC Gutters and Conductor Pipes. Valleys replaced or repaired.
