Rockville

Bringing The News.
Louis F. Fitzgerald of the Ford agency learned at 11 o'clock this morning that there had been a fire in his building. Mr. Fitzgerald was notified before, but there was not time as the people who discovered it had been so busy putting out the fire that they did not have time to let him know.

It seems that some boys had piled up a lot of leaves on the east end of the building, where there is a small passage between the Fitzgerald building and the Armour building and set fire to them. This started the lower part of the building and the flames were making good headway. The fire was extinguished, no alarm being sent in.

Annual Meeting.
The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Rockville Fair Association will be held November 14 at 10 a. m., when a complete report will be heard on the results of the fair this year. The bad weather on the second day of the fair was a big setback and the expenses went on just the same.

Town's Finest Exhibition Being Presented Today In Center Church.
Seventy-five of Hale's employees enjoyed a delicious chicken picnic at the Wapping School house last night. The crowd left the store in private cars as soon as the store closed at 8 o'clock last night. The supper was held in honor of the Red team, "The Spirit of Hale's". They were the winners in the first lap of Hale's Christmas Sales Race. Hale's employees are divided into two teams "The Spirit of Hale's" piloted by Charles J. McCann, and the "Pride of Manchester" piloted by Alexander Lang. This contest ends Christmas Eve. The losers at that time must give a big Christmas dinner.

On arriving at the hall the members of the green team were given pins to wear bearing such signs as "And Lang Picked Me," "Save The Surface and You Save All," "But, But, But," "Our Green Team," "Our special bid bearing the words: "Old Lange Sign." Signs were hung about the hall stammering the Green team such as "Pride of Manchester Lost in Fog."

The members of the "Spirit of Hale's" wore red badges. The supper consisted of fruit cocktail, chicken pie, mashed potatoes, turnips, celery, cranberries, cold slaw, rolls, coffee, pickles and a la mode. Before the dessert was served Mr. McCann announced that the Green team must give the Red team the dessert, before the

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 2.—Bertrand A. Ray, an inspector of customs at Gloucester, Mass., is in an effort to break the will of his brother, Frederick L. Ray, of East Haddam, who died last November and left Bertrand the life use of the income of $50,000, stipulating that on Bertrand's death the principal should return to the residue and be used to found a trade school in East Haddam.

Frederick L. Ray, known as a recluse during his last years, was head of a metal specialties company in East Haddam. He left an estate that totaled $650,000. The principal bequest was the trust fund for his brother's use.

Edward A. L. Brown and a jury are sitting on the case. The session today was largely confined to proving the will. Witnesses were East Haddam, and Maynard T. Hazen, a Hartford banker, who drew the will and was one of its witnesses.

MOTHERS' CLUB BENEFIT ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

More than 500 persons attended the Manchester Mothers' club benefit concert and picture showing at the Rialto theater last night. The program by the theater was interspersed with solos by Jarle Johnson and Mrs. Mabel Robbins. Mrs. Johnson sang "Shipmates of Mine," and the voice of Boston and Mother O' Mine. Miss Beatrice Johnson delighted with her rendition of a Friday afternoon school entertainment and Little Boy Blue. Mrs. Franklin Dexter and Miss Dorothy Wirtala beautifully executed a variety of solo dances.

Home-made candy was dispensed by Miss Eunice Brown, Miss Margaret Trussell, Miss Eleanor Bidwell and Miss Ruth Hale. Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts and Mrs. James Richmond had charge of the ticket receipts. Mrs. Samuel Bohlin the candy. The committee deeply appreciates the co-operation of the Rialto management and all who in any way contributed to the success of the program.

HONOR MRS. NEWMAN

Mrs. William Newman of Russell street who is in the near future to remove with her husband and daughter to Barre, Vermont, has been the guest of honor at several social gatherings recently. Last week the ladies of the Army and Navy club auxiliary, in which Mrs. Newman has been an active member, at a supper held at the club-house, presented her with a handsome purple silk umbrella, as a parting token of their friendship and appreciation of her work with them.

"MYSTERY BARREL" A RAINBOW FEATURE

Novel Plan of Awarding Prizes To Dancers at Bolton Rendezvous Tomorrow Night.
Dancers at the Rainbow dance palace in Bolton tomorrow night are assured a barrel of fun when they delve into Frank Pinney's "mystery barrel." Modern and old fashion dancing are the dance menu at the Rainbow on Thursday night, but tomorrow night the "mystery barrel of fun" will be an added feature.

The barrel will contain all kinds of prizes—good, funny, and otherwise. No one taking a grab into the barrel will know what he or she is going to get. The prizes will be open to the public and will be displayed on the floor and then there will be comical get-ups to get a laugh out of the crowd of dancers.

These features Manager Pinney has planned are attracting big crowds to the Rainbow this season. At Monday night's big Halloween masquerade there was an attendance of 415. The Rainbow is more popular than ever this season and the large crowds that have been attending the dances thus early in the season are bound to increase as the weather gets colder.

CITY CLUB ANNUAL TOMORROW NIGHT

Local Clubmen to Name New Officers and Enjoy Dinner at Rooms Here.

ASKS KIWANIS TO AID CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

Mrs. Williams Urges Support Of Institution—Tells Its Greatest Needs.
Manchester Kiwanians at their meeting today had an opportunity to hear first hand information about Connecticut's only college maintained for women alone. Mrs. E. H. Williams of Glastonbury who is a board member of the Connecticut College for Women at New London was the speaker. She gave a brief history of the college, how it was instituted, its general aims and its usefulness.

Mrs. Williams is a thorough believer in a college for women. However, she said in order to get the best out of it the young women who become a student must have good health, be well prepared and have reasonable ambition. Young women who succeed in college usually become leaders in everything that is good in the home town.

At present Connecticut college has 500 students. More than 1100 made application this fall but only a small percentage of that number could be accommodated. More dormitories are needed. A chaperone is also becoming a necessity. In closing her talk Mrs. Williams made an earnest plea for greater support for the college from all sections of the state.

ROBITUARY

FUNERAL OF MRS. LORETTA CERVINI
The funeral of Mrs. Loretta Cervini, wife of Charles Cervini, was held this morning at 9:30 and in St. James church at 10 o'clock. The mass was sung by Rev. James P. Timmins and the priests in the sanctuary were Rev. P. J. Leden of New Britain and Rev. James J. Barry.

The choir sang "Thy Will Be Done" as the body was brought in to the church and at the offertory Mrs. John Sullivan sang Ave Maria. Mrs. Thomas Brennan sang "When Evening Comes" at the interlude and Charles Packard, organist, played the funeral march as the body was being taken out of the church.

The bearers were Henry Lord, Peter Lawless, Bernard McConville, Francis Bancroft, John Sullivan and Hugh Clancy.

ABOUT TOWN

The North Ends will practice tonight at the north end playgrounds. All members are requested to be on duty promptly at 8 o'clock. The team will probably play the St. Anthony Reserves of Hartford or the Ramblers of Rockville Sunday afternoon at Hickey's Grove. It is rumored that the South Ends will pick up a team to play the North Ends in a preliminary game to the Cubs Cloverleafs' battle, November 20.

GILEAD

Several members of the local Christian Endeavor Union attended the Tri-County Union meeting at Marlborough Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. William Proctor and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Proctor and son of Niantic spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton A. Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jones of Hungerford street Hartford were callers at Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lyman's Sunday afternoon. The Ladies Aid Society will serve the annual chicken pie supper at the hall Friday.

FALL STATEMENT GIVEN TO PUBLIC

For First Time, Ex-Secretary Of the Interior States His Side of Case.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Breaking his silence of months, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, issued a statement today proclaiming his innocence of any wrongdoing in connection with the mistrial which Justice Siddons declared in the Teapot Dome case.

"Neither directly nor indirectly did I have any knowledge of the 'White House' in any way," said Fall. "Neither directly nor indirectly did I or anyone in my behalf have any communication of any kind with any member of the jury."

"The ex-Cabinet officer expressed 'deep regret' in this sensational ending of the trial and declared he is ready for immediate retrial. His side of the Teapot story, Fall said, had never been told, and when it is told 'a verdict of acquittal will be rendered.'"

"The statement follows: 'In declaring a mistrial Justice Siddons took the obviously right course. The fair and impartial trial guaranteed to every citizen by the constitution of the United States has been made impossible by the publicity of the trial and other considerations. The determination of Mr. Justice Siddons to accord a fair trial has been manifest in this case.'

"Personally I greatly regret, and am deeply disappointed by, what has happened. In my health I came here for this trial. I offered me the first opportunity to go to a court and jury my defense to charges which have been made in the public press and the delight of the muckraker for more than three years."

"Only the evidence of the prosecution has been presented. 'Not one word has been said in connection with my defense when this case is tried.' 'The time for my counsel to outline the defense had not arrived.'"

"The cross-examination of the prosecution's witnesses had been left almost entirely to counsel for Mr. Sinclair and so my version of the charges against me had not even been indicated in cross-examination. 'I had expected that within the week our opportunity would come. I was prepared to completely refute the charges against me and I entertained no doubt whatever but that a verdict of acquittal would be rendered because I am confident that my defense would convince every fair minded man of my integrity and the complete rectitude of every action in connection with the Teapot Dome case.'

"During the more than three years which have passed since the naval oil reserve leases became the subject of political investigation, there have been two civil cases and one criminal case tried. 'It was not a party to either of the civil cases. I could not be made a party or even be represented by counsel in either of them. 'Not called to speak. 'I was not called to testify in either. 'The government summoned me as a witness to the civil trial of the case at Cheyenne, Wyoming. I went to Cheyenne to testify in response to the summons. But although I remained at Cheyenne, under government subpoena, the government counsel did not call me to the witness stand. 'The Supreme Court of the United States based its two naval oil lease decision on records which contained no word of testimony from me or on my behalf. I was not, and could not be, represented by counsel before the Supreme Court in either of these cases. 'At no time since the indictment was returned in this case have I been given my day in court to respond to the charges made in that indictment. 'Was Acquitted. 'In the one criminal case above mentioned I was acquitted. In that case every fact relating to the transactions attacked was fully, frankly and truthfully laid before court and jury. If it be said that I did not personally testify in that case, it need not be remembered that my co-defendant, Mr. Doherty, testified in great detail and that, as my testimony would have been a repetition and corroboration of his counsel in charge of the conduct of the trial, saw no need of that, mere repetition. 'Did Not Know Jurors. 'As regards the jury in the case just ended, I have only this to say: 'I never saw one of the men or women on this jury before the day this trial began. 'I never heard the name of any person on the jury before that name was called in court the first two days of this trial. 'I never had the slightest knowledge regarding the occupations or lives or family or business or other connection of any juror. 'After the jury was selected I knew no more about them than I did before, except that which I learned from their daily appearance in the courtroom. 'Neither directly nor indirectly did I or anyone on my behalf have any communication of any kind with any member of the jury. 'Neither directly nor indirectly did any one on my behalf have the jury under surveillance. 'In this trial, as in the trial to which I was a party last fall, I relied upon the strength which the

MANCHESTER SLAYERS ONLY ONES CAPTURED

Of Nine Tong Murders in One Day, Local Crime Alone Is About to Be Avenged.

Ching Lung and Soo Hoo, Wing, Hartford Chinese, due to pay the death penalty next Tuesday for the murder of Ong Jing Hem, Manchester laundryman, unless saved by action of the Board of Pardons, are the only assassins captured and convicted for the series of nine tong war murders which swept the country simultaneously on March 24 last.

The murders occurred in several cities throughout the country and no case except the one in Manchester were the guilty persons caught. The capture of the Chinese here was a combination of speedy police work and good luck. The men were quickly pursued, being captured the same day. Had they succeeded in avoiding capture until nightfall, it is hardly probable they would have been caught.

SNOW PARTIES COMMON AMONG OUR YOUNGSTERS

(Continued from page 1) that 95 per cent of them are youthful heroin addicts. 'Fifty thousand girls disappear in the United States every year,' he declared. 'Most of them are the ranks of the 'living dead.' A great many of them have been hooked in the dance halls, where, late at night, the dope peddler gets in his deadly work. 'The menace in America today, Harold began to be really exploited in 1917. By the end of 1918 the number of offenses against the federal narcotic laws went up from 1,000 to 2,000. In 1921 they exceeded 4,000 and last year they exceeded 10,000. The attorney general of the United States reports that 31 per cent of all convictions in federal courts are in narcotic cases. 'Captain Hobson added, however, that encouraging progress is being made in the fight against the evil. He said the State Legislatures of California and New York have passed 'narcotic bills,' and that inquiries coming from legislators in other states 'showing that our statesmen are waking up to the seriousness of the problem that is confronting the country.'

FALL-SINCLAIR CASE ENDS IN A MISTRIAL

(Continued from Page 1) or that Sinclair was a good fellow," said Kidwell. "And I never said anything about an offer being made to me. I did talk to Akers and King but I refused to talk about the case. They tried to get me drunk. I have known Akers for three years but I don't know why he tried to get me in bad. That's all I have got to say."

Government counsel, particularly Roberts, were obviously annoyed because Justice Siddons failed to cite Kidwell for contempt of court. "I never saw a clearer case," he said, "and I think the justice should have cited him then and there."

Protests innocuous. Immediately following the departure of the judge from the court, Conrad J. Herzog, auto sales manager and Juror No. 5, stepped from the box and walked over to Roberts. "Mr. Roberts," he said, "some of my fellow jurors desire me to speak to you. We regret this situation exceedingly and we feel that unfairly we have been placed under a cloud in a manner over which we have no control."

"Mr. Herzog," replied Roberts, "may I assure you that the government regrets ten of the twelve jurors as being of the very highest type. We regret exceedingly this unfortunate occurrence, but it could not be helped. You know yourself that had you suddenly become aware you were under constant surveillance, you immediately would have thought the United States government didn't trust you, and it would have reacted in your mind against us. 'I might add, the government hasn't spent a plugged nickel in such work. 'I thank you and I am sorry.' The defense attorneys declined to comment in the court room. 'Our position is plainly stated in the record of the session in Justice Siddons' chambers,' said Martin W. Littleton, chief of Sinclair's counsel. 'We favored the dismissal of the jury in view of the wide publicity given these charges.'

Sure of Himself Now!

COMMUNITY CLUB'S YEARLY EXPENSES

Sum of $5,000 For Maintenance and $2,200 For Furnishings In 1927.

At the last meeting of the executive committee in charge of the Manchester Community Club's coming financial campaign the subject of the club's finances was gone into carefully. The committee reviewed the records of the club for the purpose of familiarizing itself with the way in which the $7,200 raised in the club's 1926 financial campaign was expended. It was learned by the committee that the yearly expenses of the club are just about $5,000. The principal items are coal for heating assembly hall and club rooms, lighting, janitor service, necessary equipment and director's salary. A substantial item which appeared in the list of last year's expenses will not have to appear again. This was a sum of $2,200 for equipment and furnishings obtained for the "White House" prior to the 1926 drive.

1927 Expenses. A survey of the books of Treasurer Charles B. Loomis by the executive committee gives the following items as the principal 1927 expenditures. These figures also give information as to the disposal of

JAY E. RAND Secretary Campaign Committee the $7,200 raised in the public campaign of the Community Club in November of last year. The figures: Director and Extras ... $2,425.00 Janitor ... 402.00 Telephone ... 64.02 Electric Lights ... 177.23 Gas ... 13.84 Papers, Magazines and General Expenses ... 115.94 Repairs ... 771.40 Furniture ... 304.48 Coal ... 648.80 Water rent ... 29.00 Mowing Lawn ... 52.00 Equipment and furnishings for "White House" previous to drive ... $2,200.00

Next Year's Budget Based upon the experience of last year, the executive committee estimates next year's requirements for the Community Club at $5,000. Accordingly, this sum is the goal in the financial campaign which will begin on Monday next. The views of the Community Club, as expressed by the officers, is that it seems to be the province of the club to carry on the work of organized recreation at the North End. No other body or agency is organized or has the backing to do it. Also, the club does not come into the movement empty-handed, seeking public aid, without contributing heavily itself. It has property which the board of assessors value at $23,000, and this is devoted wholly to recreational work for the public good.

Trend of Times. The club feels, its officers state, that the trend of the times in all live communities is toward organized recreation. It is a development, the same as radio and air travel are developments. Available figures show that American cities last year spent more than five times as much for public recreation as they spent in the ten years before. One by one, 300 cities have come to realize that it is cheaper and pleasanter to turn youthful energy into channels of team play and good citizenship than to try to reclaim a gang. And the experts state that we are only at the beginning of crime prevention through recreation. These experts maintain that recreation not only helps the individual, but it builds family life—it is nature's high road to health—it assures a virile citizenship. Some Local Figures. Turning to the 1927 report of the Town of Manchester, the executive committee points to Page 25 of the annual report of the committee of the Ninth District. On Page 25 appears an item showing an appropriation of $20,000 for recreation in the Ninth School District. This is just twenty times the sum appropriated by the Eighth District for the year, the executive committee points out. And Page 26 shows that $11,000 more received through the various income-producing activities and memberships of the Ninth District Recreation Center was expended for recreation work, making the Ninth District's total expenditures for recreation for the year over $31,000. Asking a question, the executive committee inquires: "Who will do this recreation work for the North End if the Community Club does not?" They supply the answer: "It will go undone, and our young folks will be the losers." Believing that this recreation program is too valuable a work to go by default, the Community Club puts its labors, its property, and its convictions into its work. For these reasons, it asserts, it is conducting the coming $5,000 campaign confident of the support of the public which it serves. We are in our bedding department. We are smashing things right and left. Silk floss mattress, best art ticking $24.75. A 7 inch hand made rolled-edge Mexican cloth $23.75. Don't miss these bargains. NIGHT PATROLMEN ASK PAY INCREASE Petition of 14 Local Police Reaches Commission This Morning.

Edward J. Murphy, secretary of the Board of Police Commissioners, received a petition this morning from 14 members of the Manchester police department seeking an increase in pay. The request for an increase was unexpected by the police commissioners and has not been discussed by them. The petition which was in the form of a "Round Robin" was signed by the six night patrolmen of the force and the eight supernumeraries. None of the officers nor the day patrolmen asked for the increase. The petitioners said that their work is hazardous and that a higher wage to meet living conditions was necessary. The increase sought would give the men from three to six dollars a week more depending upon the class in the department they are in. Just recently two of the regular night patrolmen were advanced to a higher class and were given an increase paying them almost as much as the salary of a sergeant. It is thought that the patrolmen decided to seek the pay increase when the police appropriation was increased to $35,000 at the last town meeting. However, none of the patrolmen would say that had influenced them in sending the petition to the commissioners. At the last town meeting and at the special budget meeting of the Board of Selectmen early in the fall it was explained that Manchester could not long get police protection as reasonably as in the past. Members of the police commission told the Selectmen at that time that the policemen would soon be asking for increased salaries. The police commission expressed its desire then to extend the service of the department rather than increase salaries.

KILLS SELF IN CEMETERY. New York, Nov. 2.—August Schwan, 53, hanged himself in the Lutheran cemetery, Middle Village, Queens, according to a police report today. His body was suspended by picture wire about his neck and attached to the top of the tombstone which the police believe to be over the grave of Schwan's wife.

HIGH SCHOOL PURCHASE

If there is any course open to the people of the town of Manchester other than the purchase of the high school property from Cheney Brothers it is not visible to the naked eye.

Fortunately—and largely through the saving made possible by the free provision of school plants by the Cheneys—the town is in a perfectly sound financial situation to undertake the purchase.

This community has been extraordinarily favored for many a year in this matter of school housing in the Ninth District.

It is gratifying to learn that there is no intention of complicating the question of the high school purchase, at the proposed town meeting, by dragging in at that time the problem of school consolidation.

The latter is a matter for separate consideration. It has nothing whatever to do with the extremely simple one of town ownership of its own high school.

TAX REDUCTION

Mr. Mellon's tax reduction program will be attacked by very few other than those who are afflicted with taxophobia in the delirium stage.

Inevitably it must be the business of Congress to keep federal taxation down to a point where surpluses of half a billion dollars shall not be created.

Mr. Mellon has fixed his recommendations at a point, so far as total income is concerned, as close as possible to this one of just sufficient total intake to carry on debt reduction normally after providing for reasonably economical administration of the nation's business.

It is possible that even this reduction, which is smaller than some congenial tax haters would like to see, may prove sufficient to get in the way of the big-navy advocates, who have been imagining that they would have a gigantic surplus to play with.

As to the method, there are two points of especial merit in the secretary of the treasury's recommendations—the wiping out of the federal inheritance tax and the proposal that small corporations with an annual net income of not more than $25,000 and not more than ten shareholders be permitted to make their tax returns as partnerships, under which rating their assessments would be considerably lower.

THE WORST BLOW

It seems to us to be no exaggeration of a bad business to express the belief that nothing that has occurred in the United States in a lifetime has carried with it so sinister a threat to the whole institution of government as the fact that the Sinclair-Fall jury has been, from the day of its drawing, under the surveillance of a great detective organization quite obviously in the employ of one of the defendants.

Such outrageously cynical methods should be adopted in a case which the United States Supreme Court has already declared to be "shot through with fraud" and which is being conducted under such a white blaze of publicity as has attended hardly any other trial in the history of the country.

The enormity of the original offense of which Sinclair and Fall are accused—the stealing of many millions of dollars in oil from the people of the United States—becomes secondary to the flagrancy of this attempt to buy or coerce the trial jury under the very eyes of the prosecuting government.

The Teapot Dome case can wait. But if the authors and participants in this conspiracy to defeat the ends of justice are not prosecuted with a vigor and determination—and a celerity—altogether uncommon to our courts greater damage will have been done to the quality of average American citizenship, through the destruction of all confidence in the law and the integrity of our courts, than could be done in a hundred years by all the unpublished murders to be expected in a land where the majesty of the law had become a jest and a scolding.

MILITARISM

Prof. Edwin Knox Mitchell of the Hartford Seminary Foundation accuses the War Department of trying to instill militarism in the minds of the youth of the country through a regime of military training in the schools.

For some reason the pacifists of the country seem to direct all their fire on the War Department and the system of citizen training which that department is fostering, losing sight of the fact that ninety-per cent of the real danger of militarism in this country lies in the propaganda of the big-navy party.

Individual training of the citizen for military service never yet took any country into war. In point is the case of Switzerland, where every male citizen is a trained soldier and whose very fitness for self-defense has kept her out of the welter of conflict for centuries.

But the creation of a vast navy, costing thousands where individual boy training costs dollars, with its accompanying caste of promotion-seeking officers, that is another matter.

If the good souls who tremble at the teaching of a young man how to handle a rifle or throw a grenade want to do something worth while let them study the purposes of the naval expansionists—and talk about them when they have discovered the truth.

SPEED COOKERY

After all, it is barely possible that England may be able to show us something in the way of speed just a cut beyond our own. They are experimenting in London with a scheme to apply a new diathermic electrical apparatus to the business of cooking.

It is asserted that recent tests have shown that the apparatus can bake a potato in sixty seconds, cook a steak in thirty seconds and fry an egg in two seconds. Which will bring new visions of further emanipation to the housewives of the world. But what good will it do the British if they still continue to insist on living on balled mutton? No apparatus of this kind, obstructed by water that simply refuses to get hotter than 212 degrees, will ever keep the traditional mutton from being traditionally underdone.

KNEES

Porlet, the French dressmaker, having declared that the knees of American women are terrible, and all sorts of artists, sculptors and mere women of note having leaped at once into the middle of a first class verbal melee, some backing Porlet and some execrating him, the subject of knees becomes, by all good right, a live editorial topic.

We defy anybody to muzzle us on local or national politics, on the wet and dry question, on Mussolini, on race suicide, on Irish affairs, on the identity of the individual who punched Billy Patterson, even on some aspects of religion. But knees—feminine knees! Sure, we have our opinion. But try and find it out.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington—The Fall-Sinclair jury, like most juries, is an ordinary jury. It is noteworthy that in Washington, where nearly everyone seems to be working for the government, no federal employees are among the twelve. In fact, the defense was very careful to all whither they ever had worked for the government, but whether they had any relatives employed by the government.

The non-government employes in Washington is a peculiar individual, taking him in the mass. He has no particular interest in either local government or national government, for he has no part in them. Perhaps that is why few of the jurors ever paid much attention to the newspapers in general or the oil scandal cases in particular.

The government employe generally reads his or her newspaper, even if it's only the hometown newspaper sent on by the folks. And in government departments, established in the Navy and Interior Departments, there is much interest in the Fall-Doherty-Sinclair cases which is not to be found among ordinary citizens of the capital.

Miss Bernice Heaton and Mrs. Anella Bailey are on the jury partly because they wanted to be on it. Jury duty for women is optional in the District of Columbia, but these two were anxious to give it a try. As they were being examined they strained obviously to make a good impression and avoid saying anything that might disqualify them.

Photographers had a hard time getting a picture of the jury First the court and the chief-marshal ruled that no such picture could be taken on the courthouse grounds. Then the jurors advised that they must not be in each others company between sessions, which meant that each one proceeded from the courthouse and across the grounds in different directions. Worse still, it rained for the first two or three days after the jury was picked, making it impossible for the camera boys to stand still.

At a noon recess, one juror—who is trying a multi-millionaire in a case involving many millions—explained carefully that he couldn't afford to wait for a posed group picture because he must get home for lunch and couldn't afford to buy his meal in a restaurant.

Old Master's

As tollsome I wandered Virginia's woods, To the music of rustling leaves kicked by my feet (for 'twas autumn).

I marked at the foot of a tree the grave of a soldier, Mortally wounded he and buried on the retreat (easily all could I understand).

The halt of a mid-day hour, when up no time to lose—yet this sign left, On a tablet scrawled and nailed on the tree by the grave, Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.

Long, long I muse, then on my way so wandering, Many a changeful season to follow, and many a scene of life. Yet at times, through changeful season and some, abrupt, stone, or in the crowded street, Comes before me the unknown soldier's grave, comes the inscription rude in Virginia's woods, Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.

—Walt Whitman: As Tollsome I Wandered Virginia's Woods, Wandered Virginia's Woods,

New Yorker in Paris

Paris—in the copybooks, when I was a child at school, there appeared a sentence which we had to write and re-write many times and my memory.

It read: "The French are a thrifty people." And, after a week in Paris, I know I never again shall be able to laugh at a Scotch story.

For instance: In the rooms of French hotels are two electric lights. But such are the connections that it is impossible to have them both lighted at the same time. Press one button and the other light goes out; press the other button and the first light goes out.

In wash rooms and such they will not trust you with the lights. The light flashes on only when you turn the lock. When you unlatch the door it automatically goes out.

And in the hallways of the French hotels—excepting, of course, the most expensive—the lights go out between 10 and 11 o'clock at night. If you wish to go upstairs or down there is a switch arrangement that keeps a hall light burning for two or three minutes and then automatically extinguishes it. They take no chances with waste.

Scores of taxi-drivers knock off duty around the noon hour, and again around midnight—but they go home. And unless you happen to be going their way they will turn you over to another driver. The other night I halted half a dozen drivers before I got one who would accommodate me. Finally I just mentioned my address and an overjoyed old fellow all but caressed me on either cheek because I was going but a few blocks from his home.

The reason, I later found, is that they have to buy their own gasoline and won't drive the taxi home unless they have a fare. Further, they insist on eating their noon meal at home to save money.

Tell a New York taxi-driver to quit work at noon and drive home for lunch and see what happens! In but one of the big French stores I have seen a cash-register. They still operate through a centrally located bookkeeper who jots down the sales. And the customer has to wait until she has properly arranged her debits and credits.

Incidentally the one place I saw a cash-register, also had a central bookkeeper to make sure that the cash-register didn't make any mistakes. Or perhaps it was vice-versa.

When the shops are closed for an hour or more at lunch-time so the proprietor can go home to eat, all clerks must be out of the place. The French merchant, they tell me, will not trust his stock and money to his help. Yet I have never seen a more honest people. The number of robberies, hold-ups, petty thefts and such are less than in an average small American town. Yet they tell you this is the wickedest city in the world.

Compared to Manhattan, Paris seems to me almost lily-white. Its "wickedness" consists in the freedom it allows its citizens and visitors. It does not attempt to pry into their business and if they care to drink they can drink. It gives them all the wine, women and song they want—but it does it so casually that you would scarcely notice it. Manhattan gives you all the wine, women and song you want, but you can hear the reverberation from 38th street to Columbus Circle.

OPEN PARKING STILL RULE ON MAIN STREET

Thursday Restrictions Not Yet Enforced — Tuesday Night Signs Remain.

Shoppers on Main street will be obliged to abide by no parking restrictions this week at least, and there will be unlimited parking on Main street tomorrow night.

The Board of Selectmen has not received the proposal to be submitted by members of the Chamber of Commerce merchants' division that parking on Main street be restricted to one hour every day from 9 in the morning until 6 at night.

Pending the hearing before the selectmen, no regulations on parking have been enforced on Main street on Thursday. Last Thursday evening, when the stores started their new schedule, the parking there was unrestricted.

A rather disquieting tabulation of woman's shortcomings is to be found in Dorothy Dunbar Bromley's article, "Diogenes Looks at the Ladies."
Woman, according to Mrs. Bromley, has shown herself to be a short sport, a poor loser, unfair in business, not altogether trustworthy in friendships, inclined to be slightly dishonest in small matters, and so on and so forth.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

Herald Bowling League Starts Tomorrow Night

Lineups of Teams Announced; Slight Revision of Schedule Necessary With North Congregational Out; British-Americans vs. St. Bridget's Only Change.

AT MURPHY'S

Cubs..... West Side Rec
Cloverleaves..... Highland P.
British Amer..... St. Bridget's

AT CONRAN'S

Beethoven..... Bon Ami
K. of C..... Masons
AT K. OF C.
Center Church..... K. of P.

Above is the schedule of matches for the opening of the Herald town championship bowling league tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Owing to the inability of the North Congregational Church to organize a team, it will not be represented. This makes a twelve team league. The only teams on the opening night are the British-American and the British-American. They will meet in a match at Murphy's alleys.

Everything is in readiness for the opening night. Alleys have been fixed up and new pins bought for the occasion. All players are requested to be on hand before 8 o'clock as the matches will start promptly at that time. All but one of the teams have submitted their list of seven eligible players and they have a final opportunity to complete the list to be on the opening night. The forfeit of ten dollars will also be collected tomorrow night.

Without a particle of doubt, the best bowlers in Manchester are included in the rosters of the various teams but there are a few who are such a matter of it ought to be a great race. Then the prizes have also been distributed in such a manner that the poor bowler has just as good a chance to "cash in" as the star. Seven team finish in the money.

Here are the lineups as submitted to the secretary of the league:

Team No. 1, Cubs: Ernie Wilkie, Ray Sudd, Tommy Hapenny, Mike Sible, Domenick Saldella, Ray Finnegan and Guido Gioretti.

Team No. 2, West Side Rec: Ben J. Schubert, Joe McLaughlin, John Stevenson, Harnie Metcalf, Ray Edwell, Tom Weir and Cleve Ellington.

Team No. 3, Cloverleaves: Bob Brennan, Bill McLaughlin, Ulysses Lippencot, Bill Kaminsky, Vin Farand, Russell Appleby and Brunis Moske.

Team No. 4, Highland Park: Jimmy Nichols, Herb Donnelly, Albert Todd, John Anderson, George Chagnot, George Hussey, Paul Hussey and Arthur Kissman.

Team No. 5, St. Bridget's: Clarence Lachapell, Joe McLaughlin, Bernard McNeill, Henry Lachapell, Bill Katchen, Joe Moriarity and Stanley Bosokli.

Team No. 6, British American: Stuart Taggart, Alex Wilson, Harry Madden, Frank Chapelle, Pete Daoust, Jos Flemming and John Hewitt.

Team No. 7, Beethoven Glee Club: Lineup not yet submitted.

Team No. 8, Bon Ami Club: Carl Allen, Jack Saldella, Frank Brennan, Bill Brainard, Howard Keeney, August Brozowski, Sherwood Smith, Thomas Davidson, Edward Frazier and Earl Farkhank.

Team No. 9, Knights of Columbus: Jack Hayes, Frank Cervino, Louis Lane, Francis Mahoney, Leo Cleary, Edward Taylor and James Burke.

Team No. 10, Masons: Isaac Cole, Axel Anderson, Howard Murphy, Samuel McAdams, Herbert Stevenson, Clarence Wickham and Norman Cumberly.

Team No. 11, Knights of Pythias: Henry Starkweather, Charles Derrick, Robert Culver, George Peterson, Harry Macginnon, Herbert Alley and Milton Cox.

Team No. 12, Center Congregational Church: Sam Nelson, Henry Dalton, James Thomson, Thomas Humphries, David McComb, John Douglas and Billy Anderson.

LEADER ANNOUNCES NEXT YEAR'S PLANS

Head Coach of Yale Oarsmen Says There Will be Races at Derby.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 2.—The program for Ed Leaders sixth year as head coach of Yale's oarsmen, announced here today, includes the usual race of 150-pound crews of Harvard, Princeton and Yale, set this year for the course at Derby. When the rowing schedule was announced a year ago this race was given a tentative place and did not materialize. The 50-pound crew race is the only one into which the Big Three have ever sent their crews at one time. Yale has for some years met Princeton and Cornell in a triangular regatta. In May, and Harvard in the famous New London regatta late in June.

It was the Princeton crews that last May were the first to upset a leader-coached Yale crew, and Harvard followed Princeton's lead by defeating Yale's varsity last June. Besting meeting Princeton and Cornell next spring, Yale will take on Columbia and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia to open her season.

HARRY SEECHÉ BACK ON HARTFORD CARD

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

A five-man amateur boxing team from Newark, N. J. will meet leading Connecticut amateurs at the Massachusetts A. C. show in Foot Guard hall, Hartford, tomorrow night.

Matchmaker Ed Hurley has assembled an outstanding group of Connecticut amateurs to meet the invaders from Jersey. Jack Kelly, of Waterbury, state middleweight champion, who is now really a light heavy, will meet Joe Leonard of Newark, leading light heavy of New Jersey.

Harry Seeche, welterweight, who decisively defeated Joe Bard and Joe Howard at the Velodrome, this summer, will engage Tom Rodgers, Newark welterweight, in Seeche's first bout in some weeks.

Eddie Reed of Hartford, state champion, will clash with Charley Roberts, of Newark, and Pancho Villa is in the same bracket with Pam Carlos, Jersey lightweight.

There also will be teams from Rockville, Manchester, Willimantic and New Britain.

As an extra, added attraction, there will be a heavyweight battle between Charley Gary of Rockville and Frank Carraria of Willimantic. Both these heavies will have delegations of rooters along with them.

IRON MEN PREPARING

Providence, R. I., Nov. 2.—While word came down from Hartford today that the battered Dartmouth team had been put through a day of stiff defensive drilling, Brown's "iron men" who seem to have lost the iron in their system this year, were scheduled for a long scrimmage this afternoon. Coach McLaughry was to run his squad through its entire repertoire. Former veterans guard and Edwards were back in uniform after injury layoffs.

SPORTSMATTER

by FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Three million dollars worth of thoroughbred horseflesh, groomed to glossy perfection and with a ribbon in its tail, will strut across the tanbark of Madison Square Garden next week in the annual, ever-fascinating spectacle of the National Horse Show.

Customs and fashions change, mechanical invention revolutionizes travel and transportation; the horse no longer plays a prominent part in the life of the average man and woman, and in our big cities there are little children who are as surprised at the sight of a horse as they would be at that of a polar bear.

But man still breeds the horse for profit and pleasure, and there's a fascination about this affair next week that you'll never find at an automobile show.

One thousand thoroughbreds are stabled luxuriously in the basement of the New Garden. Nearly as many groomed pet and pamper them and make them ready for Monday's brilliant opening.

Monday will be "Governor's Day," with Governor Al Smith and Mrs. Smith doing the honors, and society at its smartest, just as it has turned out in its best bib and tucker each opening day of the National Horse Show for the past 42 years.

Cavalry officers from France, Poland, Canada and our own army will compete for a cup which has been won by Jan Ciechanowski, Polish Minister to Washington, for an International jumping contest.

The trophy is unique. It is the original King George III silver gilt hammered cup made by leading London silversmiths more than a century ago and presented by the British King to the Montgomeryshire Yeomanry Cavalry in 1816.

Perhaps the most picturesque event of next week's show will be an exhibition of four-in-hands, driven by some of the famous "whips" of the horsey Nineties.

Ten historic coaches, including William H. Vanderbilt's "Venture," Reggie Rives' "Pioneer," and the famous old "Tantivy"—vehicles which covered any a mile in the days when a smart four-in-hand was the equivalent of the Twentieth Century Limited—will be driven around the ring on exhibition twice a day.

Sportsmen worth millions will be on the boxes "tooling" the four-in-hands, while from the box of each a veteran guard will "wind" the five-foot horn which in the old days always announced the coach's arrival at a town or relay station.

Those were the days before towns were guarded by speed limit signs and red and green traffic lights, and there was a kick in the "winding" horn not to be found in the raucous blare of a klaxon.

Don't Forget the Cross-Country Race Here Thanksgiving Morning

Many Training Now For Long Run; Course to Be Well Posted; Prizes For All Who Finish; Names of Some Entries.

About a dozen young men are training for the first annual five-mile cross-country run which will be held Thanksgiving Day morning under the auspices of the Recreation Centers.

It will not be many weeks before the date of the race and Director Lewis Lloyd of the Recreation Centers, who is supervising the affair, stresses the importance of rigid training. In order to finish a five-mile run within "winning" time, one must be in good physical condition.

The start of the race will be on Main street in front of the High school and the finish will be at the same place. The course which will lead down Main street, over Mt. Nebo, up through Highland Park, along Porter street and back to the

Only two outfits in the list, Notre Dame and Georgia, have managed to unbeat and untied; three others have the scores against their records and two have suffered actual defeats. Yet, to me, they constitute the stand-out teams at this time because they have stepped out in the big timers without losing caste.

However, the drafting of any preferred list is a dangerous thing because of the odds that are against anyone being able to mention the deserving entries and still keep the list within the limits of Webster's abridged edition, Nebraska, for example, probably belongs merely on the face of its record. In view of a one-point defeat to Missouri, which really shouldn't mean much. But it does.

Southern Methodist For one thing, Missouri had 32 points scored against it by Southern Methodist, which also beat Texas, which previously had taken Vanderbilt. Still, as in the case of Yale, we are trying to live in the present and right at the moment there seems to be slight doubt that Nebraska and Missouri are first-class football teams, nationally speaking. They probably rate themselves beyond Iowa State, which tied Illinois early in the year, and altogether they make the Big Ten conference look new and good with Missouri's real generous victory over Northwestern.

Still, judged on the records, one can hardly place Nebraska, Missouri and Southern Methodist in the same list, while Illinois, which Michigan outfit almost automatically left the Illinois in for the time being.

The secondary list, therefore, might include the following teams, almost any one of which could be advanced to the front rank without further notice:

Stanford, Missouri, Nebraska, Michigan, Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, Princeton, Washington, Chicago and Tennessee.

At least four of these teams, Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, Princeton and Tennessee have suffered neither defeat nor tie this year. But what of Pittsburg's record shows a series of cross country runs against Thiel, Grove City, West Virginia, Drake, Carnegie Tech and Allegheny. It is unfortunate for Pitt that West Virginia, Drake and Tech had to have weak teams at one and the same time but the point is that decisions over such teams mean no more than a punch in the nose from a chorus man.

Washington and Jefferson has played about the same type of schedule to date and Princeton's only virtue so far is a decision over Cornell.

Crack Hartford Athletes To Give Exhibition Here

Local Sport Chatter

Hartford Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Gymnastic Experts to Give Two-Hour Program at School Street Rec Friday Night, Clever and Well Worth Seeing

No announcement has been made by the manager of the Cloverleaves as to what team will play against him at Hickey's Grove Sunday. It is understood that Manager Griffin is angling for another first class attraction. The Cloverleaves' manager has surely brought strong teams to Manchester this season and deserves credit.

It is expected that the largest crowd of the season will turn out to watch the Cubs and Wallingford Eagles play at the McKee street stadium Sunday. Any team that can tie the Cloverleaves in one game and beat them in another, scoring in both games, has to be real good. The Cubs are brimming with confidence that they will be able to do what the Cloverleaves couldn't. Meanwhile, north end fans will be naturally pulling for the Eagles to win.

A large number of persons attended the first setback sitting of the weekly series last night which will be run throughout the winter at the School Street Rec.

"Woody" Walleit, well known local baseball player, is now all wrapped up in skating again. He spends considerable of his time in Springfield on the indoor links. Walleit, incidentally, is about the fanciest skater Manchester has had in a long time. He has won many prizes.

The St. Marys basketball team went through its first practice session of the season last night at the School Street Rec and the prospects for a successful season look good.

The Army and Navy club pin-die tournament will start at 7:30 Friday and sittings will be held each week on the same night during the winter.

The mens gym class at the Rec is getting more and more popular each Monday and Thursday night. The size of the class is increasing rapidly under Director Lewis Lloyd. It is a long time since such interest has been taken in Recreation Center activities. It looks as if the place under his leadership is coming back into the popularity it once held.

"SHAKEUP" AT SYRACUSE

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Shakeup in the Syracuse roster following their defeat before Nebraska Saturday, was announced by Coach Andrews today for the Ohio Wesleyan clash Saturday. The return of Captain Barbuti was announced with considerable satisfaction. Patterson, intercollegiate wrestling champion, probably will appear at center.

PADDOCK TO RUN INSIDE

New York, Nov. 2.—New York athletic clubs were competing today for the prize of securing a Paddock-McAllister indoor dash race, following Charlie Paddock's announcement that he is open to indoor competition for the first time in many years. After his 1920 indoor defeats here, Paddock declared he was through with this form of running. Today, however, he had asserted that he was out to take the 100-meter and 150-yard titles from the present holder, Bob McAllister, the "Flying Cop." Several of the local clubs are hard put to secure the matches.

PROF. ADAMS UNABLE TO SPEAK TO CHAMBER

Busy on Tax Bill in Washington; Flood Relief Worker May Talk Here Instead.

The Chamber of Commerce received a letter today from Prof. T. S. Adams, famous tax expert and economist of Yale University, saying that he would be unable to accept an invitation to speak here. Prof. Adams, who had been invited by the chamber to address a meeting on tax problems, gives in his letter that he is busy in Washington working on a revision of the revenue act and will be unable to come to Manchester.

It is possible that one of the members of the United States Chamber of Commerce committee on flood relief will be invited to talk here on the flood proposition in the Mississippi River Valley. The Chamber recently received a copy of the report of this committee which is being sent out for referendum to all chambers holding membership in the national body.

ONE VOTE DECIDES LEGION'S ELECTION

John Pentland Made Commander in Close Race With Walter Sheridan.

By the narrow margin of one vote, John Pentland, 29 Foster street, World War Veteran, was elected commander of Dilworth Post No. 102, American Legion at the annual meeting of that organization last night at the State Armory here. Walter F. Sheridan of the Shaghdan hotel, was the man who gave Pentland such a close run. The vote, which was taken by ballot, was 22 to 21. Despite the closeness of the race, there was no ill feeling between the contestants for office.

Other officers elected were: Frank E. Zimmerman, first vice commander; Harold Olds, second vice commander; Carl Charlter, treasurer; Fred C. Lorch, adjutant; Harry Malmgren, historian; Gustave Fennery, chaplain; James A. Irvine, welfare officer and Clifford Smith, sergeant-at-arms.

Doughnuts, coffee and cider were served by Charles Milkowski.

Tickets on a Pontiac coach furnished by James Stevenson, will be placed on sale today, the proceeds to be used to reinforce the treasury of the organization.

Mrs. Arthur Gibson of Flower street fell down stairs in her home recently and sprained one knee. She has been unable to leave her bed and would be pleased to have friends call.

ABOUT TOWN

TOBACCO BOARD ISSUES STATEMENT

Big Growers Not Small Ones Supported Petition They Insist.

The following statement relative to the recent request for a receivership for the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association has been sent to the newspapers by the executive committee:

The legal proceedings instituted for the purpose of seeking a receivership for the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association, although resulting adversely to the petitioners, served to bring to the knowledge of its members and the public at large certain information which had previously been unknown to them.

This Petition was signed by two hundred members but it was well known throughout the farming towns that a great many other members supported the object of this Petition, although for various reasons, they did not desire to actually identify themselves with it.

It is common knowledge that the vast majority of the members have been disappointed

THE TINYMITES

As Clowny landed on the ground, the others joined him with a bound. "Oh, are you hurt?" asked Copy. And we Clowny answered, "No! That pesky goat has lots of gall to give me such an awful fall. The minute he stopped short I knew that I was bound to go." "I'm mighty sorry," Carpy cried, "But just why did you take that ride? You're always doing something that is dangerous as can be. When you got on I waved my hat. A mighty foolish thing was that. Of course it had to scare the goat, so blame it all on me." Then Clowny said, "Oh, that's all right. There is no need to start a fight. You didn't know 'twould scare him, so let's just forget it all. I guess I did the best I could. I am not hurt, but feeling good, so after all no real harm came through taking such a fall. The little goat stood right near by. Perhaps he thought the rest

Loot Receipted In Front of Main Street Store and Flea With Queer Booty.

If the parents of three small south end boys discover their young hopefuls to be mysteriously in possession of several photographic films they will do well to see that the films are returned to Kemp's music store on Main street and the youngsters instructed in the penalty for petty larceny.

For the reception of films to be printed in the entrance way to Kemp's in which patrons deposit their packages through a slot, at hours when the store is closed. Last night three urchins, the eldest not much over eight, discovered that the lock which protects the contents of the box had become broken and has not yet been repaired. Promptly they investigated the interior, found a number of packets of films and made off with them before any of the several persons who witnessed the performance could intercept them.

ROBITUARY

FUNERAL OF MRS. ELIZABETH STEVENSON

Mrs. Louise Gilman in behalf of the gathering presented to Mrs. Hilton a beautiful silk embroidered bedspread, which was admired by all. The ladies also came provided with the essentials for a supper of salads, cold meats, rolls, and cake, everybody had a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

OCTOBER MARRIAGES MORE THAN USUAL

October of this year was unusual in that it witnessed 18 marriages in Manchester, it was learned at the office of the Town Clerk this morning. That number of licenses was issued during the month.

Eighteen marriages in October is unusual, it was said, for license applications usually fall off at this time of the year.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend to all friends our deep appreciation for the sympathy extended to us in our recent bereavement.

FIRST DAY WORKER IS RULED REGULAR

Judge Jennings Awards Compensation For Man Killed As He Starts Job.

Judge Newell Jennings in Superior Court yesterday upheld a compensation award of $18 for 312 weeks to Mary DeCarli of Ellington, whose husband was killed while at work on the Manchester Public Warehouse on March 9, 1927. The award had been made previously by the compensation commissioner but the Maryland Casualty company and the Manchester Warehouse company opposed it on the ground that DeCarli, who was killed on the first day of work, was a casual employee.

In his finding Judge Jennings said that he understood DeCarli was to have been paid $1 an hour and that the job was to last for several weeks. This, he said, made the man a permanent employee and as such eligible to such compensation as allowed by the commissioner.

Judge William S. Hyde of this town represented Mrs. DeCarli while the Casualty company was represented by DeLavelly S. Pelgriff.

KEEP YOUR CLEAN, EFFICIENT GAS RANGE ON DUTY. HEAT THE KITCHEN WITH A

Gas Radiator

Of course you dread building fires again, trying to keep the heat right for what you're baking, shaking down cinders, shoveling ashes ... all of this after a summer of cool, clean cooking on a gas range.

Don't go back to the old cookstove just to warm the kitchen. Use a Gas Radiator. Light it as you need it. All the heat you want, and economical because there's no heat wasted.

Your kitchen can be made as cozy as the living room. At a very small expense.

COAL MEN AND MINERS PREPARE FOR BIG BATTLE

Greatest Legal Fight In Bituminous Industry Is Ready For Courts.

Pittsburgh—Attorneys for the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation and the United States Mine Workers are preparing for one of the greatest legal battles in the history of the soft coal industry here following the granting of temporary injunction to the corporation by Federal Judge F. P. Schoemaker.

The Pittsburgh Terminal Corporation had filed suit for an injunction against the miners' union to prevent them from picketing the mines, to oust the miners now living in company owned houses, and for $1,500,000 damages. Corporation lawyers charged the United Mine Workers had violated the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, and were interfering with interstate commerce.

When Judge Schoemaker handed down his temporary injunction he stated that the United States Mine Workers had interfered with interstate commerce, by stopping production at the source of supply and consequently gave the court jurisdiction over the suit. To Establish Precedent. Regardless of the outcome of the strike in the middle western states, where operators in Iowa, Illinois and Indiana are reported to have settled their differences with the Union and resumed operations, the legal battle in this city will be the focal point of interest in mining circles throughout the nation.

Whichever side wins the suit will establish a precedent in federal courts that will become a criterion for all future suits of similar nature, for the corporation is seeking to prevent the union from interfering with its mining activities by bringing in the authority of the federal government.

In recent years the tendency in Western Pennsylvania has been to get away from organized labor, as far as the soft coal mines in this section are concerned. Two years ago the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the largest individual coal mining company in the world, renounced its union agreement and started operating its mines on a non-union basis. With the calling of the 1927 coal strike, almost every union operator in this section renounced the union and either started digging coal with their own labor, or allowed the mine to remain idle.

DISCOVER STRANGE TRIBE OF AMAZONS

Tiflis.—In the wilds of the Asiatic Caucasian mountains explorers have discovered a semi-civilized tribe of people who are ruled by women. They are called "maiden people" by neighboring tribes because women do all the work, all the fighting and enjoy every privilege they desire. They have carried feminism beyond the wildest dreams of modern women. All that men have to do is eat the food that is set before them, sleep most of the time, fish if they choose and smoke stone-bowled pipes that their women fill and light for them. The woman who provides the most luxuries for her husband and sons is most respected by her people.

40,000 Miners Affected
The Pittsburgh Terminal Corporation was one of the first to start activities with non-union labor. The corporation first sought to oust the miners and their families from company owned houses by filing suits in the state courts. These suits were appealed and taken to the state supreme court.

The delay entreated, attorneys for the corporation state has created the necessity of seeking relief through the federal courts. Should the corporation win its suit, it is freely predicted, the case of unionized labor in this section of the country will receive one of the severest setbacks in its history. On the other hand, should the miners win, their cause will be greatly enhanced, and Western Pennsylvania will be saved to the union.

Win or lose, more than 40,000 miners and their families are vitally affected with the decision in the case.

DANGEROUS ANIMALS

Camden, N. J.—The boys who stole some guinea pigs from a pen on the hospital grounds here would have been in no less danger had they attempted to lead a lion out of the zoo. The guinea pigs were inoculated with tuberculosis and could communicate the disease to anyone who handled them. Authorities sent out warnings.

CRUSADER'S GHOST RETURNS

A crusader's ghost, fully accoutred in armor, is said to be haunting Portchester Castle, near Portsmouth, England, one of the most perfect Roman fortresses in existence. The only one who has come forward as an eyewitness of the knightly wrath is a woman who says she saw it kneeling on a spiral stairway.

FLYING BOAT IS SAFEST METHOD FOR OCEAN SKIP

Safe, Comfortable, Quick Atlantic Crossing Soon Regular Thing.

London—The day has come when, if we choose, an absolutely safe, quick, and comfortable crossing of the Atlantic by air can be made, in the opinion of Sam Sanders, managing director of S. E. Sanders, of Coves, and a pioneer in design and construction of airplanes, seaplanes, and flying boats.

Flying boats, built according to proved theories, could skip the ocean from England to the United States, according to Sanders.

Carry Passengers.
"Flying boats," said Sanders, "could leave Southampton Water, England, hop to Queenstown Harbor, Ireland, then jump straight across to Newfoundland, refuel, and fly to New York harbor, landing passengers there."

"The machine for the job will probably be a biplane without unnecessary weight. She will be an aerial liner, fitted for passenger's comfort. Two engines of about 1,000 horsepower will be her sole power. It would be possible to produce the machine for less than $50,000.

Would Ride Out Storms
"This machine, if forced down, would ride out any storm comfortably as a sea-going vessel which was ho-ho-to. Her construction would make her unsinkable."

Sanders' theory of the flying boat being the future air liner of the Atlantic conforms to the view held by Sir Alan Cobham, famous British long-distance pilot, who believes that attempts to fly the Atlantic in single-engined everyday airplanes, are "stunts" and not true aviation.

TOKIO TO BE SHOWN NEW ENGLAND GOODS

Boston—Manufactured products of New England are to be exhibited in Tokio, Japan, during the coming month, according to an announcement by Roswell F. Phelps, Director of Statistics, Massachusetts State Department of Labor and Industry.

The exhibition of New England products will be made during a ten-week's visit to Japan by Director Phelps to lecture at Japanese universities and to address groups of Japanese business men. The exhibition will be given at the Hotel Imperial, Tokio.

"In connection with my addresses," said Mr. Phelps, "it is my purpose to discuss 'New England Industries' and the 'Exchange of New England and Japanese Products,' and I shall endeavor to represent, in so far as I can properly do so, the interests of New England manufacturers."

"Japan is now one of the leading foreign markets for goods manufactured in the United States. This trade with Japan has been very carefully nurtured by our manufacturers and selling agents, and the good will engendered is an open sesame for its future development."

The Tokio display will include samples of New England's manufactured products and photographs, descriptive circulars and catalogues, many of which are to be translated into Japanese for distribution.

73 YEARS AN ORANGEMAN

In commemoration of his having attained his seventy-third year of membership in Ballymacash Lodge of the Orange Order, Robert Refausse, of Lisburn, Ireland, was recently presented a specially designed collar. He is 89 years old, and has missed only two July 12 celebrations.

BLAST MOVES 125,000 TONS

In a single blast at Kandos, N. S. W., recently, 125,000 tons of limestone were dislodged. Twenty-three holes, ranging in depth from 120 to 165 feet, were charged with 13 tons of gelignite, and all the explosive fired simultaneously. Ninety thousand tons of cement were taken from the mass of limestone.

VEHICLE TAX FALLS

Automobiles and motorcycles of the United States yielded the government $66,437,881 in 3 per cent tax for the year 1927, compared with the $138,155,194.80 return on the 5 per cent tax for 1926.

GERMANY BUILDS NEW WARSHIPS ON SECRET PLAN

Relatively Small Ships With Deadly Features Under Construction.

London.—Warships, which in proportion to their tonnage are easily the most formidable craft in the world, capable of firing a 6-inch shell every second, are being constructed in Germany, according to information reaching London through government channels.

Bound down by the Versailles Treaty to narrow limits of displacement, Germany's naval constructors are showing amazing ingenuity in putting the utmost degree of combatant power into relatively small vessels which are said to be packed with deadly features and of amazing deadliness.

These ships carrying enough oil to travel 6,000 miles without touching port, and with a speed of 32 knots per hour, are of a design so novel and embody so many new features, that it must be conceded, the German naval architects have lived up to their pre-war reputations.

Special Steel

Their hulls are built of a special steel, the formula of which is said to be unknown, outside of the laboratories at Essen. It combined lightness with great strength, and weight has been saved by the use of electric welding instead of rivets.

With a displacement of 8,000, a length of 554 feet and a breadth of 50 feet, the ships are driven by geared turbines of 85,000 shaft horsepower, working on high-pressure steam from six oil burning boilers. At full power the speed will be 32 knots at least, but more is expected. When the ships are cruising the steam turbines will be cut out, and they will then run on their Diesel motors.

The armament consists of nine 6-inch guns of the latest Krupp model, firing 101-pounder shells, and capable of a very rapid rate of fire, with a range, on their high angle mountings, of 20,000 yards. Housed in triple turrets, three guns in each turret will be worked simultaneously, that is as a unit, loaded and fired as a three-barreled gun. At each broadside the ship will discharge nine 6 in. projectiles and as eight or nine of these salvos can be got off every minute, the rate of fire will be equivalent to more than one shell per second.

A Curious System

The first turret stand on the forecastle, while two others are placed diagonally athwartship, the second being at a higher level than the third. In this manner, should the cruiser be attacked, six guns could be kept bearing on the enemy.

This curious system has been adopted, according to naval experts to facilitate the lay-out of the machinery and the magazines.

Besides the nine big guns, each ship has four 3.4 in. anti-aircraft guns and twelve torpedo tubes. A considerable number of mines is carried by each ship, which are conveyed from the magazine to the stern, where just above the water level is a large hatch from which mines can be dropped into the sea. Special devices are fitted to eliminate funnel smoke, and all upper works on the ships are as inconspicuous as possible, with the object of reducing the area of target.

Although these ships are nearly 2,000 tons smaller than the large cruisers of the Great Powers, they have a broadside of nine 6 in. guns while the average cruiser has only six 6-in. guns, and moreover, their great speed enable them to avoid action with antagonists of superior gun power.

AMERICAN ACTORS AND AUTHORS DOMINATE THEATERS OF ENGLAND

London.—Although musical plays represent nearly 75 per cent of the theatrical productions staged in London, they are not only dominated by American actors and actresses, but they are in most cases written by American authors.

During the past year there has been a great deal of discussion among English theatrical circles regarding this question, especially as to the writing of the shows. "Why," ask the producers, "do we not have some English written musical comedies?"

When the question was brought before a general meeting of members of the theater world of England it was concluded that there were no English musical shows because:

There is no one in London able to write successful musical plays. "A large number of people say it is wrong that we should go to America for musical plays, but the answer is that we only because unfortunately, there are no Britishers to bring forward books of music which are likely to succeed if put into a rehearsal," declared Sir Alfred Butt, M. P., managing director of a large London playhouse.

Egypt is free from motor tax with the exception of the city of Alexandria. This city alone pays taxes for the upkeep of roads and road construction.

PREMIER'S BOOT SCRAPER PLEASES U. S. TOURISTS

London.—Thousands of American tourists to London who have visited the home of the Prime Minister, 10 Downing street, have expressed their reverence for the traditions of Number 10 on many occasions in very queer ways. Some have been known to kiss the knocker, others could not resist the temptation to touch it, or ring the visitors' bell.

The latest craze is to "scrape the feet!"

During the past season the craze of scraping the feet on the boot scrapers on either side of the door, has become such a nuisance that the police have been instructed to keep sightseers on the move.

Women visitors appear to be the chief offenders.

TIRED OF BEING STUNG, SHE SUES

Trenton, N. J.—It's easier to manage an apian than a family. At least, Bernard Bigler, bee farmer, was the supreme boss of his honey workers but had frequent spats with his wife and two children. Whenever he had a quarrel with his family, Mrs. Bigler said, he would go out to the hives, infuriate the bees and then turn them loose on his wife and children.

Mrs. Bigler, tired of being stung, sought a divorce and suggested that she be allowed to take the children with her.

POLITICAL CLUB PAID MURDERER KILLED 80,000

Macedonians In Rival Parties Responsible For Wholesale Slaughter.

London.—Out of Macedonia comes news of "murder club" tactics which would make Chicago "gang warfare" look like pink maypole parties.

The arrest, trial, and sentence of one Boris Proschoff professional Macedonian murderer brings to light the unusual condition.

Testimony at the trial showed that the "murder clubs" were connected with the political parties. Two rival clubs had accounted for 80,000 deaths in 30 years.

Tried To Kill Two

Proschoff's sentence was three and a half years. He had attempted last December to murder two men at once. He had succeeded in wounding a number of men, but in killing none.

Secret warfare has existed for years between the Automotists (Proschoff's party) and a rival Federalist group. Ivanoff, one of the two men Proschoff had attempted to murder, showed this and told how Proschoff's organization had succeeded in all 28 of the political murders it had planned. It was he who brought out the fact also that the "murder club" had been responsible for deaths of 80,000 in thirty years.

Testimony concerning Proschoff showed how he had offered his services in December, 1925, as professional political murderer to the Belgrade police. A guarantee to kill any Bulgarian the Jugo-slavs might desire went with his offer.

Orders In Code

It was shown that on this recent escapade Proschoff had received a letter written in a strange code. The letter said to "buy one case of first class goods" or two cases of second. The meaning was to assassinate either the leader of the rival party, or two of the lesser members.

He came to Vienna where his men were. He decided on "the second class wares." He entered the home where his victims were staying. He fired nine shots and failed to "get" his man. Ivanoff was the one; Athsanow was the other.

WAVES OF HAND TO PULL MUSIC OUT OF THE AIR

German Demonstrates New Instrument to Scientists In Berlin.

Berlin.—Demonstrated here before an enthusiastically applauding audience including Albert Einstein and Gerhart Hauptmann, "Ether Waves" an instrument producing music by waves of the hand back ward and forward before a highly magnetized metal pole and brass ring, has given rise to predictions that it will supplant the piano, violin, and even the orchestra.

Bruna Walter and a score of other leading orchestra conductors attended the demonstration.

The "Ether Waves" instrument, invention of Professor Leo Theremin of the State Physico-Technical Institute of Leningrad, may be played without practice by any person with the least musical talent. By a simple movement of the hands, the operator "pulls out of the air" a tone which rivals that of a bank of stringed instruments approximately the combined effect of a battery of first and second violins, violin cellos and bass violas.

Like Singing of Wires In principle, the "Ether Waves" constitutes a perfected and refined application to a musical instrument of the well-known fact that electric wires "sing" when an alternating current is passed through them. Professor Theremin's application of this principle to a playable instrument may cause as great a revolution in the musical world as did the invention of the piano, declare many of Berlin's first musical critics.

Resembling the polished box of a parlor radio receiving set, the instrument is about a yard long, a foot deep and two feet high. Within the box is an anode battery, used to produce an alternating current which, passing through a set of radio tubes, creates in the two antennae an electro-magnetic field. The antennae consist of a metal rod attached to the upper right hand corner of the box, and a brass ring attached to the lower left hand corner.

Both rod and ring give forth electro-magnetic emanations which extend for about four feet in radius. Within this radius the operator stands, his body acting as a kind of rheostat.

When Professor Theremin played he took up a position in front of and facing the instrument. The current was turned on. Lifting his right hand, he extended it toward the metal pole, immediately a singing note of poignant quality could be heard throughout the room. The professor extended his left hand toward the brass ring and the volume of sound increased.

Running the Scale

Moving his left hand towards and away from the brass ring, the Professor maintained a succession of crescendos and diminuendos, while with his right hand approaching and retreating from the metal rod he played the scales from the lowest discernible basso to the highest notes on the register. Even in the extremes of the scale the tone, comparable to that of a cello or of an organ pipe raised to a hitherto unattained degree of musical purity and strength, preserved its quality.

The Professor apologized and explained that he was a poor musician, but when he played the "Mignon" of Scriabin, the audience applauded with fervor usually reserved for virtuoso.

After playing the "Ether Waves" alone, Professor Theremin switched on a co-ordinated instrument for the production of "color music," so synchronized with the "Ether Waves" that each graduation of tone produced a gradation of colored light, flooding the stage in polychromatic surges ranging from deep blue for the bass to faring red for the treble.

TWIRLS 38 TIMES ON TOE

The ballet dancing records for twirling on one toe was set by accident in London recently. Vera Nemchinova, the Russian ballet star, was to have emulated five other famous prima ballerinas by twirling 32 times. She started a few bars of music too soon, and the result was that she turned on her toe 38 times, which is believed to be a record.

JUDGE SABATH URGES EASIER DIVORCE LAWS

Would Eliminate Growing
Matrimonial Discontent
Jurist Believes.

Chicago.—Easier divorce laws—a mere formality—would serve to eliminate the growing matrimonial discontent in the United States today. This expression of opinion was made here by Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior Court of Cook County.

Judge Sabath, who has heard more than 30,000 divorce cases in his many years upon the bench, has recently completed an extensive tour of Europe in which he examined methods and procedure in foreign divorce courts. Sabath believed that four basic changes in present-day domestic court laws would alter current conditions. They are:

1. A longer period of time should be required between the time a couple applies for a marriage license and the time the marriage ceremony is performed. Judge Sabath recommended a 30-day interval.
2. Elimination of the "in-law" element in married life and in divorce court testimony.
3. Elimination of "secrecy" in divorce cases and allowing all the newspapers the use of detailed testimony in sensation cases.
4. Make all divorce cases routine matter minus the "hocus-pocus" of unscrupulous lawyers.

Extending the time limit between issuance of the license and the ceremony would abolish "gin marriages" and "puppy love" elopements, the Chicago judge contended.

"Courts are flooded with couples seeking annulments of their marriages because they were 'drunk and didn't know what they were doing,'" Judge Sabath said. "Intoxication, in the eyes of the law, offers no excuse for any unlawful act nor any legal ceremony unless one of the parties involved is unwittingly made a victim through another's machinations. But with a sane interval elapsing couples can think over this most vital step in their lives and perhaps change their minds."

"I have found that the majority of 'in-law' testimony is, of course, entirely prejudiced in behalf of the closest relative. Too many times mothers step in and dictate the manner in which their son or daughter should live with the wife or husband. Parents are of another generation and should confine their affiliations after marriage to visits."

European Methods
"From a study of European methods I have come to the conclusion publicity decreases the divorce rate. Many persons are afraid to appear in court if they think it 'will get in the papers.' Often times such cases adjust themselves without the aid of legal procedure."

"By making divorce routine the false testimony and subterfuge resorted to in every divorce court in America today would be eliminated. If a couple is bent upon obtaining a divorce the couple should be separated. As it is today they are literally sold mines for scheming lawyers. The man lies about his wife's actions during their married life and the woman does the same."

"Witnesses perjure themselves. The court must hear hundreds of irrelevant words, bickerings and petty differences."

"I have observed rapid strides made toward solution of the divorce question. Everyday we are learning more. Some day, in the near future, the hodge-podge will be eliminated and we will have more perfect legal procedure."

AIRPLANE FACTORY AT WICHITA SPEEDS UP ITS PRODUCTION

Wichita, Kan.—The Swallow Airplane factory located here at 21st and Hillside avenue, has increased its production steadily to a point where it is turning out three to four planes a week. Additional machinery and an increase in floor space are credited with enabling the company to speed up its production.

Like all the airplane manufacturers in Wichita Swallow has found it difficult to obtain materials.

The company will ship a carload of planes to the Springfield Airways at Springfield, Mass. Another shipment will be delivered to a Muncie, Indiana dealer.

George R. Basset, general manager of the Swallow company, recently made contracts for 1928 for the delivery of twelve Swallow biplanes to C. H. Williams, Milwaukee dealer.

Contract for 25 ships during the next twelve months was obtained by Swallow from the Mexican Airways at Dallas, Texas. The first of these ships will be delivered in November.

It is expected that within the next few days an order for at least 25 planes for Mexican use will be placed here, by a firm representing the Mexican government. Already a Swallow plane has been tried out in Mexico for scout flying.

Conferences held at San Antonio on October 3 with agents of the Mexican government indicate that, however, the spirit of unfriendliness may exist on the part of the Mexican government toward the United States, it is not going to affect the American airplane industry.

New Zealand now has 25,000,000 sheep, 500,000 more than last year.

PATROLMAN ADOPTS HONEY BEE AS PET

Ashbury, N. J.—"There's a bee on you," exclaims many a traveler in the railway station here to Policeman George Bannan, on duty there. And Bannan always stays each obliging stranger who attempts to brush it off.

"That's Lindy," explains the officer. "Let him alone." If the traveler waits, he will see the insect buzz and finally make a landing on Bannan's upper lip. Then he holds a piece of gum or candy between his teeth and "Lindy" feasts heartily.

The bee comes every day at about the same time always seeks out its friend, is fed until it can scarcely fly and soars heavily away.

PERFUME SPRAY FOR THEATERS PARIS WRINKLE

Classical Chinese Drama
With Chinese Cast New Offering to Big Cities.

Paris.—French managers are now spraying their theaters with perfume, a sweet scent which effectively ejects every hygienic odorant imposed by the health inspector. The liquid is sent whirling through the atmosphere by means of a giant golden pump which, by the way, was designed by one of Paris' smartest couturiers. It invades every corner and the smoke and disagreeable odors of stale tobacco give way to floral odors. The washed air is thoroughly antiseptic due to the fact that all flower essences possess disinfectant properties.

During Convention week in Paris chauffeurs flew little American flags on their taxis in honor of the Legionnaires. No doubt there was a little method in their madness—French chauffeurs are polite, but they are clever too. An official of them who tucked them into their portfolios and only exhibited American colors at the right moment, when searching for change. Yes, it usually worked with the generous Americans and the tips were royal ones.

A new cabaret has opened up in Paris. It is the "College Inn," in the rue Yavin, just opposite the Nordie favorite, the Vikings, and is presided over by the American Jed Kiley who once had the same kind of a place in Montmartre. There is good jazz, excellent Charlestoning and everything is as gay as it should be.

For several days now the old castle of the Counts of Saint Pol has been the scene of a search which is arousing the curiosity of everyone living about there. Search is being made for the golden statue of Saint Pol, said to be hidden there. A spring-finder with her wand is doing it and while exploring the cellar of the ancient castle she discovered ten underground passages radiating in various directions under the town. These passages are anterior to destruction of the town in 1537 by Charles V. and will be explored shortly.

Parisians will soon have the opportunity to see classical Chinese dramas played in Chinese in the real Chinese manner. After a lapse of six years, Mr. Lanfang, supposed to be China's greatest actor, will make a tour of the largest cities in the world. There will be many actors in his own company and his own orchestra of musicians, all of whom are well-known throughout China.

DETROIT-CLEVELAND PASSENGER AIR LINE FOR REGULAR SERVICE

Cleveland.—The first regular passenger air line out of Cleveland and the first permanent Interstate air passenger service in the United States is being opened by the Detroit Air Services Incorporated between Detroit and Cleveland, according to S. E. Knauss, general manager. The line is the second link in a proposed transcontinental air service. Knauss announced. The next link will join Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Knauss said, and from Pittsburgh the corporation expects to extend its operations to the Atlantic within a year.

Cleveland-Detroit planes are to be operated twice daily from each city on regular schedules with buses employed to carry passengers between leading downtown hotels and the local airport. Five 10-passenger, all-metal, triple-engined Ford airliners are to be used in the service, the first of which has already been delivered. Each plane will be manned by a pilot and a mechanic.

William B. Stout, designer of the Ford plane, is president of the corporation. Other officers are: W. B. Mayo, of the Ford Engineering Staff, vice president; G. M. Holley, president of the Holley Carburator Company, treasurer; H. V. Book, of the Book estate, Detroit; and R. A. Stranahan, president of the Champion Spark Plug Company, Toledo.

FICKLE FASHION PUTS SKIDS IN CORSET MARKET

Downward Sales Trend
Caused By Milady's Stays
Being "Parked."

Boston.—Milady has been "parking" her corsets as the result of the fickle decrees of Dame Fashion and a general downward trend of sales in the corset industry in the last six years has followed.

The research department of the New England Council obtained this information with the Domestic Commerce Division, United States Department of Commerce in a joint survey of this industry.

It was discovered that in 1923 New England produced thirty-one per cent of the country's value of products ($78,048,000) a decrease from forty-three per cent in 1914. Massachusetts' share was six per cent and Connecticut's twenty-five per cent.

Sales Fall Off
"It is notable," said the report of the survey "that only one of the companies reporting in a survey conducted by the United States Department of Commerce in co-operation with the New England Council has in recent years developed a new product sufficiently to offset this change in demand."

Sales of reporting companies in this industry (which dates from the Civil War) is confined to Massachusetts and Connecticut) dropped off fourteen per cent in 1922 from the previous year, six per cent in 1923, one per cent in 1924 and two per cent in 1925.

Only seventeen per cent of total sales are made in New England and no increases are reported in New England sales.

New York is the chief market, although sales are made all over the United States. Export business in 1925 was carried on by half of the companies, the proportion sent abroad ranging from one per cent to thirty per cent.

A little more than half of the total output reported bears a brand or trademark, and the chief channel of distribution is direct to the retailer.

Plants Are Sold
Average age of plants is thirty-three years, and of the present management, twenty. One-fourth of the plants have changed their management, and these concerns all date from the Civil War period.

Labor conditions and nearness to market have been the predominant reasons for locating in this section. The chief raw material, which are cloth, steel and elastic are purchased almost entirely in New England. The report said further that sixty-five per cent of the workers are paid on a piece work or other incentive wage basis, a ration which is high as compared with that in many other New England industries. All but one company use such methods.

THERE'S A LIMIT

The play was of the most wildly dramatic character, but the great scene was that in which the hero confronts the amazingly triumphant villain.

"Sir Marmaduke," he exclaimed, "you have reduced me to beggary, broken the heart of my aged mother, and eloped with my wife. But beware! Don't go too far!"—Out-look.

COOLIDGE HOPE TO VISIT HAVANA FOR CONFERENCE

Pan-American Meeting In Havana May Recognize Union.

Washington. — Representatives from every one of the American republics will meet in Havana, Cuba, in January to discuss economic, intellectual and communications problems pertaining to the Western Hemisphere and to pass on a plan for reorganizing the Pan-American Union. The United States delegation will be headed by Secretary of State Kellogg, while President Coolidge plans to attend the opening session on January 16, if official business permits.

The Havana meeting will be known as the Sixth International Conference of American States. The idea of holding occasional Pan-American conferences originated in its modern sense with Secretary of State Blaine in 1879, although the famous South American liberator, Bolivar, attempted to form a similar organization as far back as 1825. Blaine's initial effort failed, and it was not until ten years later when he was again at the head of the State Department that the first conference was held.

Clearing House Meeting in Washington, the first Pan-American conference created the International Bureau of Republics, which was intended to be a sort of clearing house for inter-American information. Its members were the various American diplomats stationed in Washington and the presidency was held by the Secretary of State of the United States. The Bureau has been maintained on that basis ever since, although its name subsequently was changed to Pan-American Union.

In 1901 a second conference was convened in Mexico City, at which a resolution was adopted advancing the principle of submitting all pecuniary debt claims to arbitration when other diplomatic means of settlement have failed. Secretary of State Root was one of the moving lights at the third meeting held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906. At this conference the Latin delegates declared against the forcible collection of public debts by foreign powers, such as Great Britain, Germany and Italy had threatened in Venezuela. Root joined in approving this policy, without committing his government to an inflexible policy of non-intervention.

Union Established The fourth conference at Buenos Aires in 1910 established the Pan-American Union and widened the scope of the activities of the conference. Customs regulations, commercial regulations and a Pan-American railroad were headlines among the subjects discussed. Because of the World War the fifth meeting, which was to have been held in 1914, did not meet in Santiago, Chile, until 1923. At this conference a treaty was signed which was designed to avoid or prevent conflicts between the American states. To date this treaty has been signed by Brazil, Chile, Cuba, Guatemala, Haiti, Paraguay, United States and Venezuela.

STILL HOARDING GOLD Paris—Nothing happened when the French government passed a law forbidding the hoarding of gold and silver, but when it offered to exchange paper money for coin at the rate of four to one, the rush was heavy. France needs the cash to strengthen its currency and the money has been streaming in for nearly a year.

MAINE IS FIRST Maine leads all New England states in road mileage. The state has 20,765 miles of surfaced roads.

FIRST YEARS HARDEST DIVORCE RECORDS SHOW

Cleveland.—The good ship matrimony encounters its roughest sailing during the first few years. If its passengers stay aboard for three or four years they are usually resigned to their fate and make no protest until the journey ends.

These theories are borne out by the record of divorce cases here, which shows the dangerous age for the average young married couple, to be 26, and if matrimonial ties remain unbroken until the opponents are about 35 years old, it's a safe bet that they will "carry on" until the end.

Occasionally, of course, divorces are asked for by men and women past 50, but these are exceptions.

Prohibition, it seems has not silenced the old plea, "Father, dear father, come home with me now." The majority of wives who sue for divorce here complain of drunkenness and cruelty. The most common complaints of husbands is that their wives failed to cook and do the housework.

COURT SECRECY BOOMS DIVORCE FOR ENGLAND

New Regulations Allow Breaking Marital Ties Without Publicity.

London.—The secrecy which divorce may now be conducted in England is urging more and more people to the divorce courts as a means of breaking unhappy marital ties. According to prominent divorce lawyers, the recent English law prohibiting newspapers from publishing anything beyond the bare skeleton of divorce hearings has resulted in a almost hundred per cent increase in divorces in the few months that the law has been in operation.

Over 500 Petitions More than five hundred divorce petitions will be heard during the coming divorce court term, and when the 1927 legal year closes more than 2,400 divorce suits will have been decided in London alone. With provincial courts the total is brought up to 3,500. This means that, including co-respondents, 10,500 persons will have been concerned.

The remarkable increase of divorces is shown in the following table:

1901-1905	562
1906-1910	624
1911-1915	658
1916-1920	1,110
1921-1925	2,734

Many Are Childless Until women and men were recently placed on the same basis as regards grounds for divorce, number of men and women in England against divorce decrees were issued was about equal, but now the petitions by women predominate. In forty per cent of the cases the parties are childless while in a further 32 per cent there is one child only.

Numbers of women are believed to be taking advantage of the allegation of adultery, which previously was not a sufficient ground in respect of men.

NO STREET PARKING According to R. B. Stoeckel, motor vehicle commissioner at Hartford, the time is coming when there will be no auto parking in streets. Merchants, Stoeckel says, would find it to their advantage if space in front of their stores would be free for prospective customers instead of being blocked by parked cars.

PARACHUTE FOR EACH PASSENGER ON ALL PLANES

Army and Navy Services Given Hearty Approval to Suggestion.

San Diego, Cal.—A federal law requiring all pilots and airplane passengers to be provided with a parachute each per man, like life preservers on board steamships as proposed by Congressman Phil D. Swing, of California, would meet with the hearty approval of the army and navy aviation services, it was said here today.

"The military services have long made the carrying of parachutes compulsory," said Commander A. E. Montgomery, aide to the commandant of the North Island naval air station. "Statistics show that nearly a hundred lives in our service have been saved by the 'chutes', which are always ready, harnessed to the body of the aviator during flight."

"The equipment of pilots and passengers in commercial planes would not only save many lives, but would bolster public confidence in the newest and fastest method of transport and add stimulus to the industry."

Like Flapper Garb The modern parachute, which like the present-day raiment of the flapper can be folded and rolled into a tiny package, is safe, reliable and light in weight—thanks to the impetus given to its development from necessity which arose during war time, when observers stationed in "sausage" balloons were often attacked and shot down by enemy planes.

The army air service at McCook Field was given the job of developing a reliable parachute. Different kinds of packs were made in which to carry the chute on the man, and a harness provided so he could not fall out.

The parachute was carried in "a seat pack" which the aviator sits on, or the pack, fastened to his back. Jumping free of a disabled plane the aviator pulls a release ring, which causes the flaps on the pack to be pulled open by rubber elastic. A spring pilot chute then jumps out of the pack, dragging the main parachute into the air.

Saved Lindbergh This parachute, far surpassing in efficiency any the world had ever produced, has saved hundreds of lives during and after the war, including that of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. Himself a four-times qualified member of the famous "Caterpillar Club" by reason of having on four occasions saved his life by leaping safely to earth, from a falling plane, he is a firm believer in parachute equipment, and has carried one always—save on the epochal and daring hop from New York to Paris.

But the army parachute, reliable as it is, no longer holds the distinction of being the best. J. M. Russell, one of the original quartette of army experts who started developing the chute at McCook Field in 1917, now has succeeded in eliminating even the rubber elastic, spring and pilot chute, his latest creation being a patented means of catapulting the entire chute from its compact pack.

This almost instant projection decreases the working altitude of the parachute to 100 feet, whereas the former types required an altitude of several hundred feet to open and check the downward plunge of the human freight.

The parachute is made of the finest silk, with silk cords and linen harness, and so far fool-proof. The most timid novice could hardly fail to operate it successfully, it was said. Russell is president of a parachute manufacturing company at San Diego. A parachute weighing 75 pounds, but comparatively gigantic when opened, has been invented and will successfully lower an entire plane and its occupants to the ground.

STUDY LIFE ON MARS UNDER $25,000 FUND TO NORTHWESTERN U.

Evanston, Ill.—Does life exist on Mars or other of the planets? Research along this line has been made possible at Northwestern University here through a bequest of $25,000 left to the university by the late Walter M. Camp, Chicago, editor of The Railroad Review. Research work in planetary radiation will be started at once by F. D. Urie, director of the Elgin Observatory, according to announcement by Phillip M. S. Cox, professor of astronomy and director of the Dearborn Observatory at Northwestern.

The possibility of life on the planets has long interested Mr. Camp and he intended originally to leave the bequest solely for research into the inhabitability of the planets, but he decided later to include all work in planetary research.

"The income from the trust fund may be used in direct research and the dissemination of knowledge concerning the planets," said Professor Fox. "It may be used for lectures, expeditions to more favorable stations for observation, instrumental equipment and the publication of the results of planetary research."

"Money will be granted to other observatories or to individuals if they have a promising piece of work we desire to encourage. Mr. Urie, who is director of the observatory at the Elgin watch works, will begin soon researches into planetary radiation."

Argentina is to have its first automobile show.

GERMANY'S FLAG CAUSE OF FIGHT AMONG PARTIES

Old Imperial Colors In Many Places Oppose the Black, White and Red.

Berlin.—Even Germany's former enemies in the war apparently show more respect for the old German flag black-white-red than some German Republicans, who look upon it as the "imperial-colors."

Municipal authorities of Cologne recently interfered with navy veterans about to deposit, a wreath with the old colors in front of the wreckage of a cutter of the German cruiser "Cologne," which was sunk during the war after a battle, with the loss of almost its entire crew.

The relics of the cutter are exhibited publicly in Cologne and every year navy veterans arrange a sort of memorial service for the dead of the cruiser.

Another time members of the nationalist front fighter's league, the "Steel Helmet," were not allowed to deposit a wreath with the old colors on the graves of war veterans in the little Thuringian town of Rauscha.

Nationalists bitter. The action of local authorities within Prussia was prompted by a decree of the Prussian Premier Braun, a socialist, prohibiting the display of the colors other than the present "official" colors of Germany, black-red-gold.

Feeling among the nationalists and also among other Germans, not affiliated with any political party but still sympathizing with the old colors, is very bitter against these measures.

The nationalists in the Prussian Diet, put a veto on the table of the house, in which they referred to the above mentioned incidents, as follows: "It is a disgrace that the city of Cologne should proceed in such way against our old glorious colors, for even the occupation troops, while they were stationed at Cologne, used to pay tribute to the old colors on the day of the commemoration of the sinking of the cruiser Cologne."

Disorder arises. Disorder and strife among the Germans over the old and the new colors has become so bitter lately that it was generally expected President von Hindenburg would come out with a proclamation on the day of his eightieth birthday, "taking issue with this problem."

Political circles hold that, unless the feud is definitely ended by a plebiscite it will always remain a bone of contention over which the German nation is hopelessly split, even after the new colors were fixed by the Republican Constitution in 1919.

The late President Ebert also found the problem so difficult that he sponsored two national colors to be laid down in the constitution the new black-red-gold one as the "official" German colors and the old black-white-red one as the commercial and war flag of Germany.

Germany is the only country in the world showing two flags and the Germans themselves are not particularly happy about this solution. They want one flag, the old or the new one, but not both at the same time.

STUDY OCEAN BOTTOM THROUGH GLASS CAGE OFF CALIFORNIA COAST

Denver, Colo.—An epochal exploration is planned by George M. Williams, famous undersea explorer, who now is in Denver visiting his wife and son at their home.

Within the next two months Williamson will, according to his plans explore the Pacific ocean to a depth of 500 feet. His object is to study an aquatic world never yet seen by man. Speaking of his plans, Mr. Williams explained:

"A steel ball-shaped chamber large enough to hold three men, furnished with thick glass port-holes and carrying an eight hour supply of air, will be lowered from the bottom of a specially constructed schooner to the ocean bed. Communication will be by means of a telephone arrangement."

The experiment will be conducted off the west coast of Mexico. The schooner will sail from San Diego Calif.

DEWEY-RICHMAN OFFERS MANY BEAUTIFUL LINES

Handsome Store Is At Its Best During Christmas Season; Its Features.

The Dewey-Richman Co., jewelers, stationers and opticians, now established in their own new building at 767 Main street present a store to the people of Manchester and vicinity that is really fine in every respect and worthy of the patronage of all who are desirous of securing gifts of any description that are in good taste and made by the best known manufacturers in the business.

The store is exceptionally attractive with its high grade fixtures and excellent layout. In the center part of the store are tables devoted to seasonal displays. If one were to make a tour of the store in a week there are only a few of the beautiful things that would take the eye. First comes diamonds. The Dewey-Richman Co. carry an extensive line of diamonds in a wide variety of settings. They are all up to the minute diamonds and the mounted mostly in the popular 18 carat gold and platinum faced rings, bairns and brooches.

Then there are watches for young and old both men and women. Practically all the nationally known makes are to be found. They come in as wide a range of styles and cases as one could wish for. They feature the "Miss America" watch for ladies and the "Love Eagle" for men. They also feature a line of ladies' watches finished in blue gold.

You will also find genuine Orange Blossom Wedding Rings for men and women, mesh bags in splendid variety, and Sterling Silverware, a wonderful showing of this splendid ware. In the leather goods line they are showing the latest in bill folders for men and bags for women in fine leathers that will give years of service.

Desk onyx sets are very popular now. They have a fine line of these, also pen and pencil sets. Cranes, and Highland Linen will be found here in the very latest of styles. Highland Linen is celebrating its 25th anniversary and a special window display of this famous paper will be shown. Office supplies are also carried by them.

A new line in the store is the Richard and Stoffer fine china. It will pay you to see this merchandise with its coatings of pure gold. And when you visit the store do not forget to see the new Sirigold, the new vogue in tableware. It is very appropriate for gifts. Sirigold is a solid metal with the same color and texture throughout and you will want to see the new Sirigold tableware service.

Their optical department will carefully fill your prescription and carries at all times the newer styles of eye glass and spectacle.

The store has two watchmakers and all repairs are promptly taken care of even during the busy season.

BERLIN MUSICIANS IN ODD PROTEST AGAINST AMATEUR BANDSMEN

Berlin.—Berlin citizens accustomed to run inside their houses, lock the doors and call the police when any one of the numerous street "demonstrations" of the post-war years takes place, were pleasantly surprised when the Union of Professional Musicians staged an open-air protest against the encroachments of "amateurs."

Instead of the blackjacks, brass knuckles and sandbags usually employed in Berlin demonstrations, the professionals, four hundred strong, brought along their instruments and for hours marched up and down through the residence section of Berlin West, attempting to prove through the sweet strains of music that their opposition to the amateurs was well founded.

Gathered on Wittenberg Square, the professionals concluded their demonstration with a concert with PARASOLS FOR MAUD MULLERS

A canopy that is supported by steel tubing attached to the shoulders has been perfected. It is light in weight and may be folded when not in use. Artists, gardeners and others who work in the open are also taking to the new device.

RUSSO-PERSIAN TREATY SIGNED TO CHECK WAR

Link Added to Buffer Agreements Arranged By Soviet Government.

Moscow.—Another gap in the ring of friendly nations with which the Soviet government is attempting to surround itself as a buffer against attacks has been closed with the signing of the Russo-Persian treaty.

On the south the Soviets now have iron-clad non-aggression pacts with Turkey, Persia and Afghanistan. The middle Asian entente stretches from the Mediterranean to India. Turkey and Persia are bound by the treaty of lasting peace signed April 23, 1926. Persia and Afghanistan are about to sign a similar treaty. On the east the Soviets are on friendly terms with India, China and Japan. Only three gaps remain on the west—Rumania, Poland and Finland, Rumania, because of the annexation of Bessarabia, will remain a potential enemy. But a non-aggression neutrality pact will soon be signed with Poland. And official quarters regard Rumania in Finland's friendly attitude almost certain after the Russo-Latvian peace pact is signed.

Baltic-Polish Alliance. A Baltic-Polish alliance against the Soviets is farther from reality than ever. Poland has even abandoned the plan of forming a Baltic block which as an entente could negotiate a peace pact with the Soviets. The signing of a pact between Latvia and Russia in the near future will split the Baltic States so that Estonia and Finland have no other recourse than to follow Latvia.

Closer analysis of the Russo-Persian treaty of October 1 reveals to how great an extent British influence in Persia has been broken. In addition to the usual pledges of settling all disputes by diplomacy and preservation of neutrality and territorial integrity in case either is attacked by a third party, the treaty in Article 4 provides that neither government will tolerate organization or groups, whatever they may call themselves, which have as their real object the forcible overthrow of the other signatory power, or the declaration of strikes and creation of a reign of terror by assassinations, bombings and arson.

It is no secret that the Soviets fear not so much the monarchist plots of the Grandduke Nikolai Nikolavitch and Cyril on Persian soil as alleged British spy activity. Any revolutionary plotters against the Soviets operating in Persia will thus be punished by the Persian government with the same severity as conspirators against the Persian state. For Persia's benefit the remainder of the article prohibits diplomatic, consular or trade officials of either government from using their posts for propaganda purposes.

Runs For Three Years. The treaty runs for three years and will automatically be prolonged one year at a time unless either government gives notice of abrogation or revision six months prior to an expiration date. Though the treaty is written in Russian, Persian and French, the latter text is to be regarded as official in case of disputes about the interpretation of its articles.

There are two protocols to the treaty. In protocol 1, both powers declare they have no international political obligations conflicting with the treaty. In No. 2, the Persian government asserts its esteem of the League of Nations and its readiness to fulfill all obligations as a member of the league. M. Chicherin expressly acknowledges Persia's duty to the league.

Some find it difficult to reconcile Article 3 of the Russo-Persian treaty with Articles 11 and 16 of the League covenant.

ADVENTURERS SAIL TO FIND HILL OF GOLD. New York.—A small steamer, filled with oil men and miners, and supplies for many months, is skirting the eastern coast on its way to South America, where the party will seek a "mountain of gold."

Albert Monteith, Joplin, Mo., spent several years in the republic of Colombia and there learned of the rich deposit of gold from an old prospector. He brought back ore specimens to the United States that assayed $35,000 to the ton, and succeeded in organizing the party to go back into the wilds.

When the men arrive at Cartagena, they will transport their equipment across a small range of mountains, travel by river to the furthest outpost of civilization and then plunge into the interior.

NEW LIGHT-VAPOR BEAUTY BATH. Light and vapor baths are the latest idea in Paris for beautifying the face. Beauty experts have introduced a cabinet that gives both at the same time. The steam is said to open the pores, while blue rays from the special lamps stimulate the circulation. The treatment is said to be very soothing as well as beneficial.

TRY THIS RECIPE TO END IT ALL HAPPILY. By International News Service. McPherson, Kan.—If you wish to "end it all" happily in a "pleasant" death, fill a container full of pure oxygen and climb in.

Dr. W. H. Hershay, director of the department of chemistry at McPherson college here, has recently completed experiments with animal life, in which he places various forms of the species under a variety of gases for observation.

Dr. Hershay says that animals of all types, when placed in an atmosphere entirely of oxygen frolic and play in high spirits, but soon die what might be called a very pleasant death. The pure environment into which they are placed, he says, causes this condition to exist. The heart action is greatly stimulated for a time and only ethereal happiness seems in store for them. But, he explains, this life is like burning the candle with a torch at each end. After a short period, the subject becomes weary and passes into a sound sleep from which it never awakens.

CONVERT CHINA INTO LAND OF FIGHTING FOLKS. Process of Changing Nation To State of Arms Is Continuing.

Peking.—The dangerous process of converting all China into a land of armed peasants continues with increasing rapidity. At the present moment a young farmer from a district only a few hundred miles from Peking is in the capital with communal funds sufficient to purchase an assortment of two hundred rifles and revolvers. What is more, he has the authority of the local officials to transport his arms back home.

This young arms purchaser tells of a neighboring village which protects itself against bandits with a local militia whose armory boasts of 150 rifles, two machine guns and three old cannon. The latter were purchased back in the Boxer times of 1900 so that it is obviously not an entirely new phase, this arming of villages for self-protection.

Private Army. One well-to-do farmer in this same village has 25 rifles in his private armory from which he arms his sixty-five farm hands. These latter guard the master's property by taking six hour watches during the night sitting on the roof top with loaded rifles.

Away from the villages which usually have a mud wall for protection, the isolated farmers depend upon their own resources for defense. It is not uncommon to find an individual farmer with even three one pounder cannons mounted on this compound wall. Although to the casual traveler these guns have an absurd appearance in what at the moment seems the most tranquil of countryside, they are not infrequently called into use when mounted parties of bandits sweep over the district.

This sad lack of firm authority exists not only in the more remote country districts but even at the very gates of the capital of China. Anting is a station on the trunk railway out of Peking only thirty-two miles distant and yet bandits were bold enough to abduct the station master.

Scared of Bandits. So frightened of the bandits were the authorities, they ordered the passengers on the Blue Express to keep below the windows as the night train passed through Anting for fear of stopping a bandit bullet.

When the railway authorities learned of the bandit sortie they sent two representatives to the bandit lair. The envoys were told that the station master would be released upon payment of $150. The station master was released to go home and fetch the ransom but the two negotiators were held as hostages. In the meantime troops came upon the scene and gave battle to the outlaws.

In another section of the area under control of the Metropolitan Governor of Peking an army of 3,000 bandits sacked the city of Kwai Hsien, carrying off a number of men and women for ransom. Several of the citizens were killed attempting to save the honor of their womenfolk at the hands of the outlaws.

It is against such outrages as these that the peasants are combining into armed bands. The fact that the young farmer now in Peking was prepared to purchase two hundred rifles and revolvers shows the pinch into which the harassed country people have been driven. The arms he desires will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 which is a large sum to collect in a small poor village of a hundred or more farmers.

FISH BITES, PARALYZES MAN

Bitten by a fish, which jumped into his motor boat near the mouth of the Thames river, William Bennet collapsed. When his surprised friends scrambled to his rescue he was blue in the face and his arms and legs were paralyzed. After treatment at a hospital he recovered from wounds which were discovered to be of a poisonous nature. The fish is being preserved for inspection.

At the present moment a young farmer from a district only a few hundred miles from Peking is in the capital with communal funds sufficient to purchase an assortment of two hundred rifles and revolvers. What is more, he has the authority of the local officials to transport his arms back home.

This young arms purchaser tells of a neighboring village which protects itself against bandits with a local militia whose armory boasts of 150 rifles, two machine guns and three old cannon. The latter were purchased back in the Boxer times of 1900 so that it is obviously not an entirely new phase, this arming of villages for self-protection.

Private Army. One well-to-do farmer in this same village has 25 rifles in his private armory from which he arms his sixty-five farm hands. These latter guard the master's property by taking six hour watches during the night sitting on the roof top with loaded rifles.

Away from the villages which usually have a mud wall for protection, the isolated farmers depend upon their own resources for defense. It is not uncommon to find an individual farmer with even three one pounder cannons mounted on this compound wall. Although to the casual traveler these guns have an absurd appearance in what at the moment seems the most tranquil of countryside, they are not infrequently called into use when mounted parties of bandits sweep over the district.

This sad lack of firm authority exists not only in the more remote country districts but even at the very gates of the capital of China. Anting is a station on the trunk railway out of Peking only thirty-two miles distant and yet bandits were bold enough to abduct the station master.

Scared of Bandits. So frightened of the bandits were the authorities, they ordered the passengers on the Blue Express to keep below the windows as the night train passed through Anting for fear of stopping a bandit bullet.

When the railway authorities learned of the bandit sortie they sent two representatives to the bandit lair. The envoys were told that the station master would be released upon payment of $150. The station master was released to go home and fetch the ransom but the two negotiators were held as hostages. In the meantime troops came upon the scene and gave battle to the outlaws.

In another section of the area under control of the Metropolitan Governor of Peking an army of 3,000 bandits sacked the city of Kwai Hsien, carrying off a number of men and women for ransom. Several of the citizens were killed attempting to save the honor of their womenfolk at the hands of the outlaws.

It is against such outrages as these that the peasants are combining into armed bands. The fact that the young farmer now in Peking was prepared to purchase two hundred rifles and revolvers shows the pinch into which the harassed country people have been driven. The arms he desires will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 which is a large sum to collect in a small poor village of a hundred or more farmers.

NOT FAST ENOUGH. Cop: You were doing forty miles an hour. Motorist (whispering): Sh-h, make it seventy; I'm trying to sell the car to this guy.—Punch.

THYSSEN FINDS AMERICA HAS NO TIME FOR FUN.

German Steel Magnate Is Staggered By Speed He Sees In Industry.

Denver.—"America is a most staggering country from whatever angle we view it," declared August Thysen, and for many years associated with the house of Krupp of Germany. Thysen, in direct contact with the business domain of Germany expressed his enthusiastic admiration for the United States. Efficiency of workmen, improved mechanical ability, mammoth production from natural resources were all mentioned in an informal discussion here recently.

"We turn out 2,000 tons and we think it is big but your American tonnage makes us a joke," he said in referring to the steel industry. "Our steel industry is based on a wage average of $2 a day, yours on a wage average of $6 per day."

While very much impressed with the material things of American life, Thysen says Europeans cannot understand the psychology of the American people. He cannot fathom why business and work are made the paramount issues of life. He says Americans rush madly from labor to refreshment and then back to labor again.

"You seem to have no leisure for the finer things in life—art, literature, drama, social intercourse and companionship—as we understand companionship. You are over-governed with too many restrictive regulations and prohibitions. In some places even a cigarette is forbidden. A hard drink is against your constitution. These things amaze and puzzle us."

German industry is recuperating rapidly since the war, according to Thysen, thanks to American capital. All western European trades are becoming harmonious and making great progress in reconstruction.

Russia Hopeless "The one exception is Russia, and it is hopeless as long as the Soviets have rule," said Thysen. "We cannot expect much from the Soviet, although Russia is potentially as great as America, probably with greater and more varied natural resources. The Russian situation is the one blight in Europe today."

Thysen with Count Edward Opperdorff of Berlin and Paris, and Francisco Ruspoli of Rome, a member of Italian nobility, who are his companions on a tour of the United States, planned to go from here to the western coast and thence back to New York via the southern route.

USE "MALARIA" BITES AS CURE FOR INSANITY London.—A curious fantastic cure for insanity known as the "malarial cure" has proved to be a great success. The insane patient is exposed to the bites of malaria infested mosquitoes, who declare war against that responsible for certain types of insanity. The patients never succumb to the malaria, and in most cases recover from it with restored minds.

The care of the infested mosquitoes is a serious matter, for an escape might mean an outbreak of malaria in the neighborhood. In a private mental hospital in London, elaborately netted rooms are arranged for the patients.

In eight months of this year Honduras shipped 13,500,000 bunches of bananas to other parts of the world.

These MOVIE PEOPLE

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Cal.—Saw Big Bill Tilden who has been touring the west for tennis matches. He's to be assistant city editor in "Gallagher" the well-known Richard Harding Davis story. And an old familiar face, Lawrence Grant. During the war Grant for three and a half years played the kaiser in various forgotten pictures. Then he went on vaudeville tour, beat back to Hollywood and has set up shop again as a character actor. Talked with Fred Datig, casting director, whose mind is one vast sheet full of faces, names and telephone numbers. Call Datig and ask for a handsome chap to play an American physician in Paris and he will reel you off four names and phone numbers without consulting a file. Bessie and Hatton have grabbed Charles A. Levine's stunt of flying from Paris to London without previous experience. They tell me, and the situation has been written into a scenario of "Now We're in the Air." Saw W. C. Fields, who recently cheated death when he tried to ride his bicycle over a truck, or something like that. Fields used to be a juggler in a museum and all he did was put on twelve acts a day. Cliss Fitzgerald buying a book. Not many actresses buy books. Her father was Edward Keogh, a London barrister, and her uncle, Judge William French Keogh, lord chief justice of Ireland. Harold Lloyd, still with a cold and still glad he doesn't have to live in New York, where he says he got it.

Radio, which proved practical in the direction of motion pictures during the filming of "Old Ironsides," is being used by Clarence Badger, engaged in filming battle sequences for Bebe Daniels' latest farce of love in the desert, "She's a Sheik."

Badger's problem was one of having Touaregs and soldiers in battle on the desert photographed at long range. The territory involved extended over the dunes for more than a mile. Obviously, no other form of communication was adequate to handle such a situation.

The radio was called into play. A portable broadcasting set and 20 receiving sets were carried across the sand dunes to location. At the base of a towering parallel, the broadcasting set was installed. At the top, the microphone was in the hands of Director Badger. The receiving sets, some of them so tiny that they could be concealed beneath the clothing of the players, were distributed at vantage points.

N. H. FUND TO SAVE OLD MAN OF MOUNTAIN

Concord, N. H.—One of nature's better known works of natural scenery, the "Old Man of the Mountain" at Franconia Notch in the White Mountains will be preserved for posterity under state government order. The legislator has appropriated $200,000 for the work and the rest is to be raised by New Hampshire organizations interested in preserving "The Great Stone Face."

The "Old Man of the Mountain" is a huge natural indentation in the rocks jutting out over Franconia Notch. From a distance it clearly depicts the features of a man. Thousands of tourists come yearly to New Hampshire chiefly to see this most unusual freak of nature. Crumbling of the rocks after thousands of years of exposure to weather caused lovers of New Hampshire's natural scenery to fear for the future preservation of the "face" and steps were taken to keep it intact.

ENGLAND WANTS TO GET CANADA COAL BUSINESS

Opens Intensive Campaign to Recapture Trade For English Mines.

London.—An intensive campaign to capture the bulk of the Canadian coal trade from America by means of studying Canadian requirements and by the eventual cheapening of transportation, is being made by British coal owners, in order to restore pre-war property to English mines.

At the present time, America is receiving 1,050,000 tons of trade a year from Canada, and an appeal, based on patriotic grounds, is being made to the manufacturers and transport firms of the dominion, urging them to transfer this to the British Isles.

Due to the fact that Canada borders on the United States, it is the general opinion that American products can be shipped to the dominion much less than from England and for this reason British coal would not stand any chance in competition.

Renounced In Britain This is rightly denounced as a delusion, by British manufacturers who point out that most American coal has to stand a long and costly rail haul another fairly long water trip before reaching the principal cities in Canada. Therefore, as the majority of England's pits are almost within sight of ports, together with the reduction in shipping rates by British companies for the transportation of home goods to the dominions, the cost will be even less than that of American products.

The British manufacturers go on to say that the inclusive cost of transporting a ton of coal from a British pit to a Canadian city will be brought down to a little over two dollars and fifty cents. While the minimum overland transport on United States cars from the nearest pits to the chief Canadian cities is nearly 5 dollars a ton, and the average about seven dollars.

New Combination Coal owners, merchants, and shippers are also combining, preparing plants to screen, grade, and wash coal on the lines to which Canadians are accustomed. They are exploring the possibilities of return cargoes the Newfoundland iron ore to feed blast furnaces in place of Spanish ore.

In the great Latin-American Republics—the Argentine, Brazil, and Chile—where England lost a great deal of trade to the United States offer the war and up to the 1926 strike, British representatives are striving to regain the pre-war position. Inclusive rail and boat costs from pits on this side to ports in South America are being reduced nearly to the level of the American rates.

This is only a part of a special drive which is being made by Britain to regain old markets and acquire new ones. In Italy she is fighting desperately against the competition of German, Polish, Czechoslovakian, and American markets.

SHOE MUD GUARDS APPEAR Tiny mud guards of transparent material to be attached to the heels of shoes have been perfected by a shoemaker of France. The guards fit snugly at the back of the heel and keep the wet dirt from dresses or trouser bottoms even should the wearer sink into the mud.

STUDY SERUM FOR SLEEPING SICKNESS

Chicago.—A serum partially successful in destroying trypanosomes, organisms causing sleeping sickness, is being developed at the University of Chicago by Professor William H. Tallafiero, it was announced here today. While the serum has not been developed to the point of establishing a certain cure for the malady it is successful in arresting the spread of African sleeping sickness, which is closely related to the American form, it was announced.

Experiments conducted with a mouse, Professor Tallafiero explained, caused complete recovery, sleeping sickness germs injected into the rodents caused death within five days. Mice who have been treated with the new serum have been found to be immune to the disease. To a mouse given the serum three days after contracting sleeping sickness recovery was reported by Professor Tallafiero.

Professor Tallafiero stated he believed the discovery of the new serum to be a major advance in the study and treatment of sleeping sickness.
