

POSSES SEARCH FOR GANGSTERS IN SOUTHTON

One Under Arrest in New Britain—Bandits Had Terrorized Motorists in State All Last Week.

New Britain, Conn., Nov. 14.—One man is under arrest here, charged with burglary, highway robbery and theft of an automobile, and local police are assisting Edward J. Hickey, county detective, and constables of Southington in an intensive search of the hilly districts around Southington for other members of a bandit gang that has been terrorizing towns from here down to the northern outskirts of New Haven for two weeks.

Frank Todzia, 27, of 14 Nash street, New Britain, is the one alleged member of the gang police say they have in custody at present, but they believe the other cannot escape. With the arrest of Todzia, according to police, a check-up on other gangsters was easy. Certain missions by Todzia aided the police to confirm beliefs they held previously.

Last Week's Raids.

The bandit gang, last week, stole a New York car and raided as far south as Hamden, where they broke into a gasoline station, filled up the car's tank and returned to Cheshire. There they held up a store and were driven off by a youth armed with a wrench. They tried to shoot him but the revolver failed to explode. Later they held up some New Britain men near Milldale and took $50.

Chased by police. On this raid the bandits tried to get into New Britain and were blocked but they escaped after being chased three miles by local police. They were traced into the hills where the trail was lost.

For a week reports of minor hold-ups along the college highway below this city came pouring in. Always the same descriptions of the bandits were given.

The bandits raided Southington last night, getting a hit in Waterbury and sealing markers in Southington. They crashed into a horse-drawn vehicle, killing the horse. They were forced to abandon their car which the police recovered, and again escaped.

The bandits were held up on the hills. During the hunt for the bandits a Southington youth, Herbert Kabisch, was shot and dangerously wounded by a Southington constable. While this chase was on word came of several attempts by the bandits to steal cars or hold up motorists. The bandits found roadside parkers easy victims, police say.

FIND MINISTER'S WIFE IN HUNTER'S SHACK

Missing Since Oct. 19—Lost 30 Pounds While in Woods; Remembers Nothing.

Claremont, N. H., Nov. 14.—Mrs. Anna Ramsey Forbush, missing wife of a Canandaigua, N. Y., clergyman, who was found in a hunter's shack on the side of a mountain, today remembered little of what happened to her after she left her husband's side in a Washington, D. C., theater on October 19th.

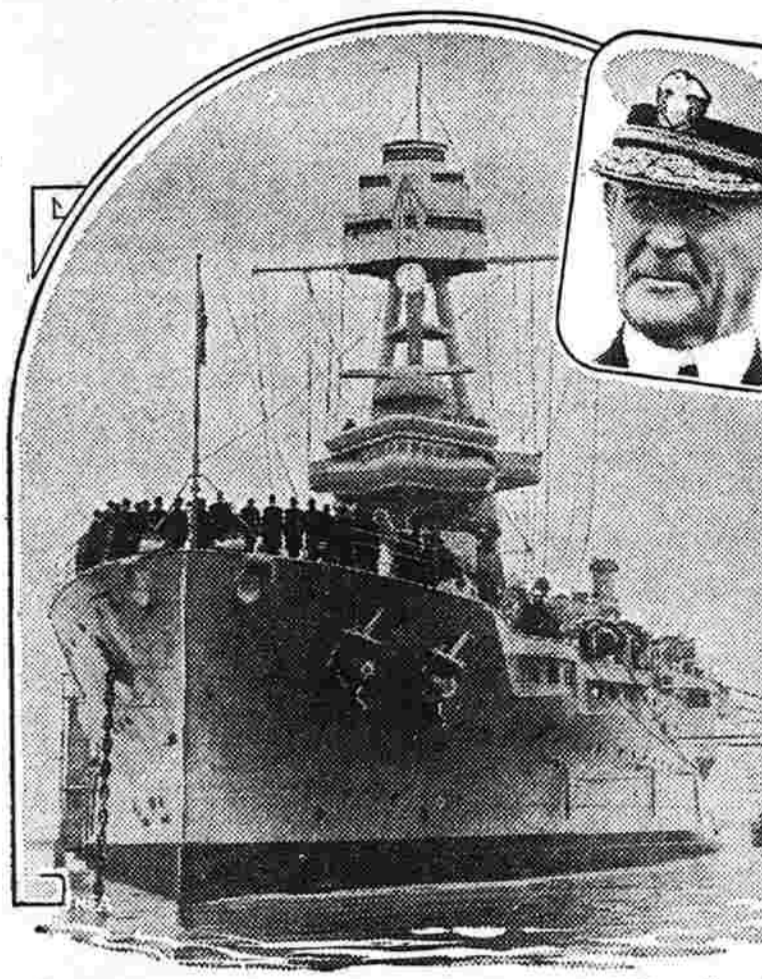

She remembered boarding a train for New York and reaching Claremont Junction. Three days she lived in the open, hiking most of the time. Then she came to the shack, which had been her home until she was found by Stephen Vanslot, sixteen, hunting for his lost dog.

Mrs. Forbush is going to a Baltimore, Md., sanitarium to receive mental and physical treatment.

The clergyman's wife was said to show the effects of weeks in the open although she had a cheery "hello" for the boy when he found her. Mrs. Forbush had not eaten for days and had lost thirty pounds.

"My prayers were answered," said Rev. Dascamb Forbush. The Forbushs spent last night and early today in their summer camp at Canaan, the cottage where they spent their honeymoon ten years ago. Dr. Forbush had kept a beacon light burning in the window of the cottage every night since the search for his wife began here.

They Rule the Waves for U. S. A.

With colorful ceremony, Admiral Henry A. Wiley (inset) the other day took supreme command of the United States fleet, comprising every American naval vessel afloat. The picture shows the U. S. S. The scribes chartered a small boat and got the above picture, returning to the Texas to photograph Admiral Wiley after Admiral Hughes had been relieved of his command.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The Washington Herald today published a number of secret documents secured from the archives of the Mexican foreign office, disclosing that the recent liberal revolution in Nicaragua was directly financed by the Calles government of Mexico.

MEXICO DIRECTED NICARAGUA REVOLT

Washington Newspaper Exposes Plot—Prints Official Documents Issued by President Calles and Staff.

Publication of the documents created a sensation in government circles, where Mexico's connection with the turmoil in Nicaragua has long been suspected. The Herald states that there is no question of the authenticity of the documents, and that others will be published from day to day until the complete story of Mexico's "meddling" in Nicaragua is laid bare.

The documents published today are six in number, and consist of presidential orders upon the Mexican treasury for the payments of sums aggregating more than $200,000 to the promoters of the Nicaragua revolution. Some of this money, the orders show, was for the purchase of arms and ammunition while other sums went for the expenses of "secret and confidential" missions sent into Nicaragua by order of President Calles.

The Herald states that the documents were brought out of Mexico by former officials of the Calles administration who were "opposed to the Bolshevik tendency" of the Calles regime.

An "Open Secret"

Mexico's encouragement and support of the liberal revolution in Nicaragua, which resulted in American intervention there, has long been an open secret in Washington. The State Department is in possession of the documents showing the clearance of arms and ammunition from Mexican ports. Rifles and cartridges used by the revolutionists bore the imprint of the Mexican government, and there were Mexican signatures on them.

POLICE BULLET HITS INNOCENT BYSTANDER

Meriden Youth Dying in Hospital—Police Were Searching For Bandits.

Meriden, Conn., Nov. 14.—Herbert Kabisch, seventeen, of Southington, shot by a constable in that town last night during a search for bandits who had been operating there, was in a serious condition at Meriden hospital today with a bullet wound in his side. Hospital authorities expressed a fear that the wound might become infected, and therefore placed his case on the danger list.

Coroner Eli Mix, of New Haven, visited the youth in the hospital today when informed the boy's condition was serious though not critical. The shot that struck Kabisch was one of two fired by G. R. Thompson, a constable, and Christopher Villy, police commissioner, who were seeking the bandit. Kabisch was an innocent bystander.

REMUS' TRIAL FOR MURDER OPENS TODAY

One Time Millionaire Bootleg King Acts as Own Lawyer—Court Grants His First Motion.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 14.—The curtain rose on the second act of an American tragedy today when George Remus, one-time millionaire "king of the bootleggers," went on trial in criminal court for the murder of his wife, Imogene, whom he shot and killed in Eden Park, Cincinnati, on October sixth.

Remus, principal actor in the drama about to be unfolded calmly took his seat in court, prepared to assume the dual role of defendant to the charge of first degree murder and co-counsel for himself. Remus was a Chicago criminal lawyer before he quit his profession to become the business genius of a $100,000,000 liquor organization.

Immaculately dressed in a dark blue suit and freshly shaved, Remus sat at his counsel table, alert, interested but rather nonchalant.

Defense Plans

Remus and his co-counsel, Charles H. Elston, plan to paint the defendant as a harassed man who was driven to kill the woman he claims "double-crossed" him for another man, a former prohibition agent.

The three attorneys for the state, led by Charles P. Taft, son of William Howard Taft, sat at a small table to the left of the jury box. Taft declared he will demand the death penalty—the electric chair—for Remus. Taft is aided by two assistants, General Counsel, Carl E. Bassler, and Walter K. Sibbald. Prosecutor Taft told newspaper-

The Hoffman Brothers have donated the State theater for the benefit show, and the theater orchestra and stage hands and other helpers will also be provided by the local theater owners. The concert will be similar to that given for the police benefit last winter. Every day and night 52 children are being housed in Community hall, East Hartford. They are being accommodated at East Hartford's new camp. Every day and night 52 children are being housed in Community hall, East Hartford. The benefit concert tickets will be on sale at several different stores in town and can also be purchased at the south branch office of The Herald, on Bissell street, and at the main office of The Herald on Hilliard street. Both Supervisor Needles of the Hoffman organization and Manager Sanson of the Hoffman theaters here are already busy securing the best entertainments possible for the Sunday concert.

TWENTY DEAD, SCORES HURT WHEN BIG GAS TANK EXPLODES

King Of Bootleggers Will Plead Insanity

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 14.—Seventy-five men, from whom the jury will be selected, have been summoned to appear this morning in Judge Chester R. Shooks Criminal Court where the trial will be held.

Arrayed against the defense will be three attorneys for the state led by Charles P. Taft, son of William Howard Taft. Taft said he would demand the death penalty and the electric chair for Remus.

In his cell in the sixth floor of the county building Remus graciously received the International News Service correspondent. He is excessively polite and his speech is sprinkled with legal phraseology, such remarks as "the said whiskey," or "the defendant, Remus," giving his conversation a fantastic twist.

He ushered the reporter into his "office," a room assigned to him close to his cell. He used this office (Continued on Page 2)

NANKING TROOPS ENTERING HANKOW

Chinese City Doomed to Fall Today—Defending General Deserts His Soldiers.

Shanghai, Nov. 14.—Hankow, about to fall completely before the victorious Nanking forces, was in a state of great uneasiness and official disorder today with tens of thousands of undisciplined and unpaid soldiers milling about the streets.

The last vestige of authority collapsed with the secret retreat of General Tang-Sun-Chai, who today was believed to be aboard a Japanese warship on his way to that city.

Following Tang's flight several huge fires broke out in his headquarters. The fires were started partly by Nanking troops who had filtered into the city and partly by labor malcontents.

SITUATION DANGEROUS

London, Nov. 14.—Foreign authorities in the city of Hankow, China, are keenly alive to the dangerous situation which has been caused by the influx of thousands of Nanking troops, a Peking dispatch to the Times said today.

The French concession in the doomed city is barricaded and guarded by Annamite soldiers. The Japanese concession is protected by marines and British marines are standing by aboard war vessels anchored in the river.

BUILDINGS DEMOLISHED WITHIN SEVERAL BLOCKS

Whole City of Pittsburgh Rocked By Blast—Huge Tank Contained Five Million Cubic Feet of Gas—Was Blown High In Air—Buildings In Neighborhood Crushed Like Egg Shells—Complete Check Up of Dead and Injured Will Take Hours—Whole Police Force and Fire Department Rushed to Scene—Residents, Panic Stricken, Besiege Hospitals.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 14.—With the streets jammed with thousands of persons going to work, a terrific explosion at the Equitable Gas Company's Reedsdale street plant on the north side rocked the city today, leaving in its wake a trail of dead and injured.

At noon police stated that the known toll of dead stood at twenty, but a careful survey by International News Service accounted for but fourteen. There were eleven bodies in the county morgue and the hospitals reported three dead.

Those Identified

The following dead have been identified: C. F. Michaels, superintendent of the demolished plant. Mrs. Marty, 35, died in a hospital. Joe Harris, 36, a negro, died in a hospital. George Lewen, 53, died in a hospital.

There was a staggering list of injured. A survey of the largest hospitals showed that 136 injured persons had been treated up to noon. Police said probably as many more were taken to their homes or were rushed to other hospitals.

A huge natural gas storage tank exploded at 8:43 a. m., but officials of the gas company were at a loss to explain what caused the blast.

There was not a building in the downtown area but what was shaken by the terrific concussion, and a shower of window glass endangered the lives of pedestrians in the streets.

Telephones Cut Off

Telephone communications were paralyzed by the thousands of calls from relatives and friends of persons in the vicinity when the blast occurred. There was far too few ambulances and physicians. Trucks, taxicabs, police patrols and all types of vehicles were pressed into service to carry the injured to hospitals.

The huge tank was of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity and was one of three in the Reedsdale street plant. The other tanks were not affected.

One theory that the police investigated as the possible cause of the explosion was that workmen repairing the tank, ignited the gas with an acetylene torch, believing that the tank was empty.

Witnesses said the large tank, which stood 75 feet above the ground, rose high in the air and exploded. There was a puff of smoke, then the sky was illuminated by a big ball of fire and the remnants of the tank crashed to the ground.

The city's asphalt plant across the street was demolished and ten of the fifteen workmen lost their lives, according to reports. Six buildings of the Union Paint Company were crushed like egg shells. The walls were blown in, imprisoning workmen.

Every piece of fire equipment in the downtown district was rushed to the gas plant, but firemen soon turned their attention from the smoldering ruins to aid in caring for the victims who lay prostrate in the street or buried beneath tons of debris.

While City Stunned. For five minutes after the explosion the population of Pittsburgh was stunned. Everywhere in the downtown district there were victims of shattered windows.

Then came a general fire alarm and wild appeals for help. Persons living in the vicinity of the blast were stunned at first. Then they ran through the streets terrified, not knowing when a second explosion might occur.

From beneath crumbled walls and shattered buildings came cries of victims pinned beneath the wreckage. The task of rescuing them was so great that the complete number of physicians and rescue workers scarcely knew where to begin.

Children in the Manchester district on their way to school were in the direct path of the blast and were showered with glass and bits of steel. Many were injured. Mothers of these children soon swarmed into the streets and their calls added to the general terror.

News Spread Quickly. An hour after the explosion the news had spread to all parts of the city, and all telephone lines were (Continued on Page 3) busy with thousands of calls from persons who sought information concerning their relatives. Unable to get calls through, thousands besieged the two big hospitals near the gas plant and clamored for admittance, but the men was so great that hospital authorities were forced to admit none.

An unidentified boy was blown into the Ohio river from a bridge. A patrolman rescued him and sent him to a hospital. He was unconscious when dragged from the river.

All courts where the presence of policemen as witnesses was required adjourned to permit the policemen to aid in handling the dead. Firemen said it was miraculous that the explosion was not even more disastrous because of the proximity of two other huge gas storage tanks near the one that exploded, with capacities of 4,000,000 cubic and 200,000 cubic feet respectively.

Director of Public Safety James Clark at noon ordered every police and fire station in the city placed at the disposal of persons made homeless in the disaster.

The Allegheny County Chapter of the American Red Cross met at noon to formulate plans for relief of victims who lost all their possessions in the explosion.

EARLY BULLETINS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 14.—Hundreds of persons were injured and many probably were killed when a huge gas tank exploded in the plant of the Equitable Gas Company on the north side here at 8:43 a. m. A deafening roar, a burst of flames and a cloud of smoke rose from the scene when the tank exploded.

First wild reports circulated held that hundreds were dead or dying as the entire lower north side was wrecked by the blast, which spread death and destruction for miles.

Ambulances and fire apparatus fought their way through the crowds with great difficulty. A general call was sent out to every hospital in the city to rush all available physicians and ambulances.

Few Details Yet. It will be hours before anything like a reliable casualty list can be compiled, police said, because of the great extent of the explosion and resultant turmoil throughout the entire downtown district.

Buildings were leveled for two blocks. There was a mass of broken glass from the windows of office buildings in all downtown streets within miles of the gas company plant.

Two street cars were lifted from the rails and turned completely around. The cars were loaded with passengers on their way to work.

Residents in Panic. North side residents were panic-stricken by the worst disaster in the city's history. Terrified men, women and children deserted their homes in fear, running through the streets as the north side were soon filled with victims and it was necessary to commandeer all sorts of automobiles to rush the injured to hospitals in outlying districts.

A man on the second story of a livery stable two blocks from the explosion was catapulted through a window to the street. His scalp was cut and his hands bruised.

Telephone and electric light and power service on the north side went out simultaneously as the men writes, running near the plant, were blown to bits.

No Estimate of Dead. Coroner William J. McGregor said half an hour after the blast that he was unable even to estimate the number of dead.

Nothing but a gaping hole was left on the site of the tank that exploded. Small buildings in the immediate vicinity were crushed like eggshells.

Windows in the Pennsylvania railroad station more than two miles from the blast were blown out. The telephone company's Cedar office near the explosion was put out of commission and every window in the building blown out.

David Kerr, employed in a livery stable four blocks from the gas plant, was lifted off the sidewalk by

The increase was contributed to by all schools. No less than five were listed in the one hundred per cent column and there are four others in the nineties. The largest increases, however, were made by the "tail-enders," especially the Nathan Hale school, which jumped from 46 per cent to 67. Following is the summary:

ONE JUROR PICKED FOR WAGNER TRIAL Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Trembling like the proverbial leaf, William Leroy Wagner, 23-year-old Canada farmhand, today went on trial for the alleged slaying of two state troopers.

McMullin is the Burns operative who submitted an eight-page affidavit to District Attorney Gordon setting forth in detail the activities of the Burns agency in the jury room. McMullin swore he had been told by William J. Burns, W. Sherman Burns and Charles G. Ruddy to make false reports on his surveillance of one of the jurors, that could be used, if necessary, to bring about a mistrial.

"I have something to put before the jury," said W. Sherman, "that will completely disprove this man's story."

The first witnesses of the day were officials of the Mayflower and Wardman Park hotels. The Burns agents had stayed at the Wardman Park and Harry F. Sinclair and his aide, M. Mason Day, at the Mayflower.

Burkinshaw called upon the two hotels to produce records of all phone calls made by any of the principals, and of any financial transactions done through the hotels.

"If Burns has something that can refute McMullin's story, let him bring it first to me," said the young prosecutor. "He can't make speeches to the Grand Jury any time he wants."

Burkinshaw indicated he had not decided whether to permit Burns or his sons to make another appearance. Burkinshaw finally decided he didn't want any of the Burns family to go before the Grand Jury.

They promptly appealed over his head to District Attorney Peyton Gordon and the latter, Burkinshaw, Burns and his two sons went into conference.

CHRYSANTHEMUM EXHIBIT TONIGHT

Fifty Different Varieties of "Mums" At Manchester Community Club.

"Chrysanthemum night" of the Manchester Garden club is expected to attract not only the members and their friends but a large number of other persons interested in this, the last garden flower of the year. An exhibit of the flowers, embracing upwards of fifty different varieties will be ready at seven o'clock this evening in one of the lower rooms of the Manchester Community clubhouse, 79 North Main street. The display will be open to the general public. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the meeting, or to join the club, whose second year of existence is just beginning. The membership fee is merely nominal compared with the pleasure and instruction in horticulture and kindred subjects that it affords.

After a short business meeting beginning about 8:15, Frank Roulter, gardener at the conservatory of Mrs. James J. Goodwin on Asylum Avenue, Hartford, will give a talk on chrysanthemums, and exhibit a number of varieties from this wonderful collection.

Elizabeth Park just at this time is visited by hundreds of people every day for its annual chrysanthemum show. It is almost as famous for its "mums" as its rose gardens. Lafayette Robertson of the program committee of the local garden club has obtained the consent of Superintendent of Parks Hollister to transport a collection of the best varieties from the park greenhouses for the show at the Community club tonight. Interest in chrysanthemums is reported to be very high this year and it is expected that many people will accept the invitation and attend the exhibit this evening.

OFFICIALS QUESTION THE BURNS FAMILY Washington, Nov. 14.—The Burns family of private detectives came to the district attorney's office today and announced that they wanted "to put something before the Grand Jury" now engaged in probing alleged tampering with the Fall-Sinclair jury, they "will completely disprove McMullin's story."

8TH SCHOOL'S HEATING CALLED INADEQUATE

Major Items For Tonight's Meeting Are Furnace Problem and Retaining Wall.

There are four sections in the call for the special meeting of the voters of the Second School district to be held at the Manchester Green school at 8 o'clock next Monday night.

The first and most important matter will be to see what action the voters will take regarding an improvement in the heating system of the school. The present sectional furnace, it is said, does not supply a proper amount of heat and either an addition to the system will have to be made or a new one installed.

The second point will be to consider the advisability of laying a retaining wall along the sloping ground on the west side of the building. It is pointed out that such a change would make the school premises far more attractive in appearance.

The other two clauses in the call are on the report of the building committee and to decide any other matters which may come up for discussion.

Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Caroline L. Milausens of Rockville. Games were played and there were refreshments. The home was prettily decorated with colored crepe paper and cut flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. England were the recipients of several pieces of silver and a beautiful floor lamp.

SHARKEY'S HAND INJURED. Boston, Mass., Nov. 14.—X-ray photographs of the left hand of Jack Sharkey today disclosed an "incomplete fracture of a small bone near the wrist," and as a result the bout between Sharkey and Tom Heenev, the Australian, has been postponed from Friday night until January in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The X-ray pictures were made by Dr. Martin H. Spellman and John Cowan, of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. The fracture will probably heal in about a month, it was stated.

Dodge a Witness Taft disclosed for the first time that Dodge will be used only as a state's rebuttal witness. He said it would not be necessary for Dodge to testify unless Remus made him part of the proceedings. In that event Dodge will take the stand, Taft said.

Remus said he hopes he will have an opportunity of cross-examining Dodge.

"How I'll go after 'im," he declared. Upon convening Judge Shook ordered that no typewriters, telegraph instruments, flashlight photography, or tripod cameras should be used in the court room.

Must Be Dignified Within "reasonable limits" hand cameras may be used. "This case must be tried without confusion, and in the usual dignified, calm manner," said Judge Shook. "The atmosphere pervading the court room must be consistent with the best traditions of American judicial procedure. The court desires only that both the state and defendant shall receive a fair, impartial and speedy trial."

Remus then arose, and reading from a legal paper in a clear, resonant voice, made a motion asking the court to instruct the prosecution, the family of the deceased Mrs. Remus, Mrs. Grace Campbell, a sister, Harry Brown, a brother, and Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., to surrender, or at least make accessible, the private papers, documents and records valuable to his defense.

"These papers are necessary that this petitioner receive justice in this trial," declared Remus. The court granted the motion over objections by Prosecutor Taft.

FIND MAN'S BODY IN STAMFORD CREEK Stamford, Conn., Nov. 14.—New York and Connecticut police have been investigating the case of a man whose dead body was found in a creek near the New Canaan town line in Bedford Hills, N. Y., on Saturday. The man had been shot through the head.

A coat made by a tailor in Paterson, N. J., caused authorities to have the tailor taken to Bedford Hills today to identify the dead man. Police later announced the tailor told them he knew the man only as "Paul" and was uncertain where he had lived. When the police announced they believed the man had been killed elsewhere, possibly in New Jersey, and his body taken to the spot where it was found, a bootlegger feud is supposed to have been the reason for the killing.

SUNDAY MOVIES

Whether the selectmen's hearing on the question of permitting moving picture shows on Sunday afternoons, which is to be held Wednesday evening, develops a preponderance of sentiment for or against the further liberalization of Sunday is, we believe, a matter of less than vital importance.

It would seem that the question ought to be discussed with the utmost honesty. On the very face of it there should be no employment of subterfuge or deliberate misrepresentation of historic fact.

If the advocates of a legally restricted Sunday observe that the practice of the Christian church in observing Sunday as a religious day, sacred to the worship of God, should be made binding on all the people because it is a holy day to a majority, then they certainly have every moral right to work for that kind of observance of Sunday.

Sunday is a religious day in America, not by Divine ordinance but merely in the following of a man-made custom established many hundreds of years after the crystallization of the Decalogue. Whether it is desirable and just to enforce general observance of it is one proposition susceptible to honest debate.

We have no quarrel whatever with those persons who, in the sincerity of their belief, hold for as strict an observance of the weekly Christian religious festival as they can bring about. What we do object to is their accomplishing their purpose by the trick of making people believe that they are defying God's law by using Sunday for any purpose but that of worship.

The Commandment laid certain definite inhibitions upon secular life on Saturday. If the Christian peoples, for reasons of their own, have seen fit to ignore those inhibitions that is a matter between them and their religious consciences. But to lift the Divine law bodily from its bearing upon Saturday and transfer it bodily to another day of the week—which might as well have been Tuesday or Thursday—and then invoke Divine authority in behalf of the newly adopted day, has always seemed to us to be an unaccountable proceeding.

It is to be hoped that such argument as may be made for the strict observance of Sunday will be predicated on grounds of truth and reason.

A TERM DEVELOPS

George Remus, bootlegger extraordinary, who shot his wife to death in the presence of a crowd of people in Cincinnati, is to plead "transitory maniacal insanity" in defense of his act.

If ever there was a crime that measured up to the commonly accepted idea of the word "crime" it was this cold blooded, deliberate, ugly assassination of a woman; and it was in complete accord with the cynical, law-contemptuous attitude of a very astute and very deliberate criminal. But it would be a valorous gambler who would give long odds that this almost humorous defense will not suffice to clear the murderer—at least save him from paying the logical and extreme penalty.

It will be noticed that a new phase is entered by the Remus defense—a tripartite term is used in defining the mental state set up in amelioration of the murder. Some years ago they used to plead "insanity"—baldly and without qualifying adjective. Plenty of letters of blood saved their necks through that defense. But it was employed so often that the public—and juries come from the public—became rather bored with it.

Then the criminal lawyers hit upon the idea of qualifying the term. Somebody pleaded "temporary insanity." Somebody else made it "emotional insanity." Presently we had a succession of two-part terms figuring in murder trial defenses—"brain storm," "dementia Americana," "exaggerated ego"—a string of them. They were interesting. They were rather novel. They commanded the respect of the public—and the juries.

But there have been so many of these that they, like the one-word plea, began to be greeted by the public with raucous skepticism. "Same old stuff." So now Remus hops upon the stage with a new devious plan to his lunacy plea—another word. The flutter of the extra word may help to distract attention from the plain calculating heartlessness of the crime—from the fact that Remus, accustomed to sneer and jeer at the law and to manipulate it as he pleased, coolly figured that he could beat it as well in a case of wife murder as in that of a million dollar rum deal.

Remus' lawyers are clever. Later on it may be necessary for other criminals' lawyers to invent four, five, six, twenty-word terms for the degradation of the shop-worn plea of insanity. They can be depended on to do it.

PASSING TROLLEYS

One reads in astonishment in a Meriden newspaper that Perry S. Cobb was assessed the minimum fine and costs, totaling $27, when he pleaded guilty in police court to passing a standing trolley car. The astonishment is occasioned, not by the circumstance that Perry got off with the minimum penalty, but by the fact that anybody was arrested merely for passing a standing trolley car. Every day, in every town, and at almost every crossing, automobilists pass standing trolleys, and though it is of course in direct and flagrant violation of the law almost the last thing that the authorities anywhere ever think of doing is to enforce the rule. Decent motorists observe it, by the thousands. But those who do not, and their name is legion, are prosecuted for it so infrequently that a case like that at Meriden almost passes unheeded.

Until we read the item more fully and discover that Perry, in passing the standing trolley, knocked down a Miss Viola Falk, who was getting off the car. Then we understand that it was not actually for passing the car that Perry was pinched, but for hitting Miss Falk. If he had missed her he would never have been arrested. Afterward, of course, the police couldn't do anything but invoke the no-passing law.

Oh the whole, our automobile laws sound pretty well. The only serious trouble with them is that they don't appear to be meant.

WICKED WOMEN

The discovery of Prof. M. V. Oshea of the University of Virginia that "perfectly honest men, when they come into contact with women, are inclined to lie, cheat and steal," is about as convincing as his declaration that the standards in Virginia schools are unusually high, together with the explanation that this is because they do not have co-education down there.

It is observable that natives of the Southern states who get their educations in their own section shine brilliantly so long as they stand in contrast to Southern Negroes or poor white trash, but when they come into competition with the graduates of even good, standard Northern high schools Southern college men do not, as a rule, stand out as paragons of either learning or culture. The extraordinarily high standards of the University of Virginia, of which Prof. Oshea—beg pardon, Oshea—brags, gain their extraordinariness from the circumstance that to read and write is regarded as an accomplishment by the commoner people of his state and that to be able to quote the first sentence of Caesar's Commentaries sets the quoter forth as a scholar.

By the way, we wonder what devil of a woman was responsible for the existing form of Professor Oshea's name.

GROWN UP STUFF

It wasn't a pretty sound when a police officer shoots at a bandit who refuses to surrender and then the thief turns out to be a seventeen year old boy, as was the case in Southington a day or two ago; but it is a hypercritical person who would expect the officer, in such circumstances, to assure himself that the bandit was of voting age before taking a shot at him. Boys who embark on criminal careers must take into consideration the fact that their youthful years, while they may possibly affect the length of sentence or place of its serving, in case they are caught, cannot by any possibility be made to serve as a buffer against bullets.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Nov. 14.—Back in the good old days before the war our national debt was around a billion dollars and we could have paid it off by all clipping in $10 apiece.

The debt is approximately 18 1-2 billions and the per capita share is more than $155. But at one time in 1919 the public debt, which had jumped 23 billion dollars in two years, was $26,596,701,000 and when that fiscal year closed, the per capita debt was more than $230.

Treasury experts estimate that barring emergencies of important depression, the debt can be paid off in a little more than 30 years at the present rate. At one time, in 1920, the interest on the debt amounted to more than $1,000,000,000 a year—about a third of the federal expense. Last year it was only $755,000,000. Next year (the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928) it is hoped to get this figure down by 50 million dollars or more.

A rough estimate indicates that in addition to the $25,000,000,000 debt we will also have paid something like $30,000,000,000 in interest when it is all over. That estimate is little better than a guess, however, as the figure is impossible to compute.

These figures are of special interest at this time because there will be some payment in the next Congress as to whether some of the treasury's surplus for 1927-28, which Secretary Mellon estimates at $455,000,000, should not be applied to the debt instead of to tax reduction.

One objection to the $400,000,000 or $500,000,000 tax reduction demanded by Democrats and business men is that it is likely to result in a treasury deficit because the cut will be applied to next year's receipts. The surplus is diminishing because it has been created only by what the treasury calls "non-current and fast vanishing items" such as back payments. Mellon estimates next year's surplus at $275,000,000.

The answer of those who would again use the surplus to help wipe out the debt is that debt reduction is itself tax reduction because it reduces the enormous interest burden now carried by the country. The treasury says that we are paying $65,000,000 less interest this year than last, largely because the debt was reduced by $1,131,309,000.

The 1926 reduction was $372,977,000, which resulted in a saving of more than $36,000,000. In 1926 a surplus of $377,767,000 was applied to the debt. Last year, when Congress again failed to effect tax reduction, the surplus applied to the debt was $635,809,000.

"To the extent that we are able to reduce our public debt and eliminate the vast charges of interest thereon, we are lightening the burden of the people of our country," says President Coolidge. Perhaps half the saving on interest last year was due to the treasury's refunding operations. The average rate of interest on out interest-bearing indebtedness was brought down from 4.09 per cent in 1925-26 to 3.96 per cent.

Most of the debt is represented by the five Liberty loans, the retirement dates of which were, in order, 1947, 1942, 1928, 1938 and 1923. Those loans raised $21,433,000,000. Congress, in providing for a sinking fund and other reducing measures in 1920, hoped to have it all paid off by 1944. But that hope envisioned prompt payment of the approximate $10,000,000,000 we had loaned to the Allies in the war period, so 1940 is now a better guess, although nearly a billion dollars has been lopped off by debt payments.

Roughly, the sinking fund has accounted for some $2,000,000,000 of the approximate seven billion dollar reduction since the end of the fiscal year of 1919. Another billion was applied when the treasury cash balance was reduced from its war needs to its present size of approximately $200,000,000. Surpluses have cut the debt about two and one-half billions. Other domestic sources and the foreign payments have enabled the balance of the reductions.

Bankers and business men suggest that the normal treasury surplus ought to be about $100,000,000 each year. It is expected that our own war debt will be paid by 1945 if there are no complications, but the reduction period must be prolonged because of the terms of payment granted to foreign governments and the tardiness and reluctance with which these governments are paying.

London—Random notes from a ramble about London: Baker street, where Sherlock Holmes came from. . . And you know at once why Conan-Doyle picked this spot, for a sense of mystery and brooding gloom hangs over it.

The home of Bernard Shaw. . . with those projecting shafts to warn away the curious. . . It must be terrible to be famous and set upon by the public. The statue of Peter Pan in Kensington Gardens. . . Has the spirit of youth ever been so caught and held? . . . And everywhere throughout the city that sense of peeping into the windows of the past. . . If ever you go to London take my advice and toss your guidebook in a corner for a day. . . Go into the high-ways and by-paths. . . If you pass, giving no heed to its destination. . . wherever you go you will not regret it. . . London is like that! . . . And it costs but tuppence you will get a little slip of paper. . . Don't ask me why. . . The conductor never collects it and everyone immediately tosses them out the window. . . Someone said that half the fog of London was merely paper tickets flying from windows and blotting out the background.

Those interminable graveyards. . . And the old haunts of Dickens and Thackeray. . . The familiar names leap out at you and give you a pleasant feeling of passing an old, old friend. . . Such as Blackfriars, where David Copperfield got his first job. . . Or Staple Inn, out of "Edwin Drood." . . Or Bayham street, where Micawber lived. . . Or Marleybone, where Dombey and Son had their adventures. . . Or Borough High, where dwelt Little Dorrit. . . And, finally to Westminster Abbey, to look upon the grave of Dickens. . . Or, if you wish, there is the trail of Thackeray. . . And again names that roll around the tongue and memory jump out to greet you. . . There's Bury street, where Pemmennis had his rooms. . . And Bloomsbury, Clerkenwell Road, Middle Temple, Charterhouse and so many others.

Memories drip from almost every corner in London. . . It is inevitably sad and yet delightfully flavorful. Chinese restaurants, where they have never heard of chop suey. . . Which is quite natural since it is an American dish. . . And the menacing, tumbledown, squalid atmosphere of Limehouse. . . But Thomas Burke did it so well that I'd have a nerve to try and improve on his descriptions.

The soap box spouters of Kensington Gardens, lined in solid phalax for blocks and surrounded by great crowds. . . And shouting every sort of revolt under the sun. . . No effort is made to break up their meetings. . . In America the "red" bomb squads would be called out in mass formation. . . And those other political and racial spell binders of Trafalgar square. . . Here occur all the "special demonstrations," they tell me. . . There didn't seem much to demonstrate about the day I passed through. . . Except quite the chickest nursemaid I have ever beheld. . . But my individual demonstrations didn't get to first base.

And finally the Church of St. Martin's in the fields, with its rich Corinthian columns and the name of Nell Gwynne carved in its burial register. . . It never closes its doors and asks no questions as to who may enter during the night. . . And so, in from the dark corners of Trafalgar square and in from the chill, circled corners of Charing Cross and Piccadilly Circus comes the army of poverty and equals to seek shelter from the night. . . Dark, staggering figures fall drunkenly upon its pews and twitching fingered victims of drugs shrink in its corners. . . And, with the dawn, the rich and ornate decorations cast their gold reflections upon these outcasts of the world's largest city. GILBERT SWAN.

BEERY AND HATTON IN STATE FEATURE

"Now We're in the Air" Comes To Town Tomorrow For Two Days—"East Side, West Side" Ends Run Tonight.

The greatest team of movie comedians, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, is at the State theater tomorrow and Wednesday in the funniest comedy that has been produced so far. It is "Now We're in the Air" and is even funnier than "Firemen, Save My Child" and "We're in the Navy Now."

Beery and Hatton have been sailors, baseball players and firemen, but this picture makes them aviators—much against their will. They are man-servants to the Laird Abernethy, who is considered the tightest Scotchman ever to have come out of Aberdeen.

The two comedians are dressed this time in kilts, and as only Beery and Hatton would do it, have their stockings rolled down over their shoes. McTavish has the gait, which complicates things, and gives the comedians all kinds of opportunities to make him uncomfortable.

A great battle in the clouds, with Beery and Hatton on the receiving end, is one of the best parts of the picture. Never balloon pilots, the two are made members of the order of daredevils when their balloons break loose. They float over the German lines and then the fun begins.

"East Side West Side," the feature at the State today is wealthy in drama and pathos. It is a story of New York, its loves and hates, its never-ceasing activity in tearing down and building up its great structures. A poor river boy who makes good as a prizefighter and later as a building engineer is the central figure in the story.

George O'Brien as the boy and Virginia Valli as the girl are both well fitted for their parts. The former is the river boy who loses his parents when a barge sinks in the East River, and the girl is the one who takes him in when he is homeless. She is cast as Becka Lipvitch, the daughter of Solomon Levi.

Others in the cast are J. Farrell Macdonald, Dore Davidson, June Collyer, Holmes Herbert and Frank Dodge. On the same bill is the song reel, "Daisy Bell," better known as "A Bicycle Built for Two."

When in the woods I wander all alone, The woods that are my solace and delight, Which I more covet than prince's throne, My toll by day and canopy by night; (Light heart, light foot, light food, and slumber light, These lights shall light us to old age, and ease, While monarchs whom rebellious dreams affright, Heavy with fear, death's fearful summons wait.) Whist here I wander, pleased to be alone, Weighing in thought the world's no-happiness, I cannot choose but wonder at its moan, Since so plain joys the woody life can bless; Then live who may where honeyed words prevail, I with more cheer, and with the nightingale; —Edward Howell-Thurlow: When In the Woods I Wander All Alone.

The Assembly Friday was devoted entirely to the observance of Armistice Day. During the opening exercises the orchestra played a medley of patriotic airs. After this "taps" were played by Andrew Rankin and then by Hudson Lyons, after which the entire student body maintained a silence of two minutes devotion. The students then joined in the singing of three wartime songs: "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "There's a Long, Long Trail a Winding," and "Pack Up Your Troubles." Elliott Knight then spoke on the subject of "Armistice Day." He told of the great war America played in the war and also of the necessity of fittingly observing Armistice Day. This was followed by the reading of a poem "Comrades," by Elizabeth James. Eva Koehler then read two poems, "The Unknown Soldier," one by Angelo Patri and the other by Bruce Barton. The Boys' Glee club then entertained with a selection entitled "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall."

Elizabeth Wauskevitch then recited "The Unknown." Margaret Waterman gave the closing speech of the assembly entitled "Peace." The speakers had been coached by Miss Rook and deserve much credit for their splendid work.

Illustrations showing a man lighting a gas lamp and a man working on a gas pipe. Text: After Murdock had filled the kettle with coal, he burned it, causing the gas to be driven into a large metal case. In the case he had fixed a metal tube, and to this tube he fastened the thimble after making several tiny holes in it. Murdock let the gas escape through tube and thimble and set light to it. The gas blazed merrily. Murdock thus lighted his own home, but the first public display of gas was in 1802 when Murdock lighted up his employer's premises at Soho.

TEACHERS TO MEET AT "WHITE HOUSE"

Bridge and Social Pastimes; Community Nights Proving Popular at Community Club.

Another Community Night at the "White House" tonight will find all the Eighth District school teachers enjoying themselves at bridge, whist, pool and other diversions arranged by the committee in charge.

The committee in charge is headed by Miss Esther Anderson as chairman, the Misses Catherine McGuire, Gertrude Carrier, Carolyn Waterbury, Miriam Wells, Cora Elankoub, Leona Palmer, May Connor, Francis Parker, Frances Spillane, Vona Pearson and Miss Ann Sullivan.

The teachers will gather at 8 p. m., when the committee will take charge of those desiring preferred activities while the balance will be gathered for games, checkers, pool. Director Washburn announced today that another of these nights would follow shortly for some of the fraternal organizations. These nights have proven very successful since their introduction by the director in that they acquaint the community with itself and the other fellow with his neighbor. This will be borne out in the teachers' get together tonight in that many of the teachers from the outlying districts will meet the others more closely connected and thus be able to get acquainted and compare notes on their respective problems.

REAL BUTCHER SHOP AT STATE THURSDAY

To Replace Furniture Night This Week—Manager Sanson Takes Leading Part.

Furniture Night, so popular with State theater audiences for a number of months, will give way this week to another feature, the Butcher Shop, which will be opened on the stage in the theater on Thursday night.

The butcher shop, according to Manager Sanson, will be in all respects like a real meat market, except for the fact that the meat is given away instead of sold. There will be all kinds of meat, from the lowly hamburger to the aristocratic porterhouse and sirloin. Manager Sanson will don the white coat himself and will distribute the cuts personally.

The feature to usher in the butcher shop is "The Mystery Club," the story of a club of millionaires who said that they could commit the perfect crime. In the cast are Matt Moore, Edith Roberts, Mildred Harris, Charles Lane, Warner Oland and Henry Hebert.

BUSTER KEATON WINS ADMIRERS AT RIALTO

Plays Hilarious War Role Before Large Audience Opening Night; Repeats Tonight.

Three acts of vaudeville, a six-reel feature, a comedy and news reel—that's the bargain bill that will be offered Rialto Theater patrons tomorrow and Wednesday with the top price being only twenty-five cents.

Tonight will be the final opportunity to see a program that thrilled a large audience last night. It is a double feature bill which stars Buster Keaton in "The General" and John Bowers and Anne Cornwall in "The Heart of the Yukon." In "The General," Buster Keaton is at his very best. When Buster climbs into the cab, laughter has the right of way. It is a thrill riot from the opening flash to the final fadeout.

The picture is concerned with the lighter side of the famous Andrews railroad raid in April, 1862, when a score of Union daredevils captured a locomotive at Big Shanty, Ga. The comedy, Keaton himself says, is in no sense a burlesque of the Civil War or of any incident thereof.

The feature film for Tuesday and Wednesday is "Publicity Madness" with an all-star cast. In addition will be three acts of vaudeville from Clements Entertainment Bureau of Hartford. Incidentally, the Rialto is the only theater in Manchester showing vaudeville. In the opening act, Mabelle Barnes will offer several vocal selections. In the next, Chouinard and Logan, the dancing number followed by Ernest K. Schiedge, ventriloquist, in an act that is guaranteed to thrill.

NORTH ENDS WIN FROM SOUTH 31-0

The North Ends won their seventh straight game yesterday by trouncing the All-Stars of the South End of the town, 31-0 in the preliminary to the Cloverleaf-Pawnee game.

Starting their second team, the North Ends rolled up two touchdowns in the opening quarter, and added one in the second with the regulars in. The last half resulted in two more touchdowns. Although being outplayed, the All-Stars put up a pass, but all the way through but were overwhelmed with the wonderful interference shown by the North Ends.

The scintillating work of "Ty" Holland at center and also "Whilly" Melon at guard were outstanding, but the whole team, right all the way through but were overwhelmed with the wonderful interference shown by the North Ends.

The North Ends will play either the Mohicans or Meriden on Sunday. They held a victory over the Mohicans who played the St. Stanislaus of Meriden in an elimination title contest two weeks ago and were beat by the score of 12-0. The Bears have a good record against the St. Stanislaus of Meriden in an elimination title contest two weeks ago and were beat by the score of 12-0.

The lineup: North Ends, Mac-Ilwain, DeHan, re; Sachere, rt; Jamroga, Wolfrom, rb; Holland, lb; Eagleton, lg, Kroll, Chatter, qb; Wilson, Merrian, rrb; Trouton, lhb; Angelo, fb.

All-Stars: Prete, re; Polito, rt; Kerr, rg; Sturgeon, c; Richardson, lg; Jackmore, lb; Connolly, lb; Harburda, qb; Coe, lhb; Squattro, rrb; Slamonds, fb; rre, Phaneur; umpire, Rittie.

Local Sport Chatter

"Cap" Bissell and "Cupie" Waddell were in the Meriden Ends' lineup against the Hartford Ucoos five in the opening basketball game of the season in the Silver City Saturday night. Meriden won 20 to 24.

Further proof of the ability of Connie Dietz, fleet-footed Cub half-back, was given during the game at the stadium yesterday. Coach Jack Dwyer had used every player on his squad and wanted permission to "re-use" a player who had been in the game before in that period. When asked for permission, the Hartford captain yelled back, "Anybody but Dietz."

The chances of "Hook" Brennan, regular quarterback being ready for the championship game next Sunday appear more remote today. His ankle is still far from normal and the indications now are that Coach George Moonan will be at quarter for the Cloverleaves when the teams take the field. The only other position that is more or less uncertain in the north end backfield, is left half. Either Bill McLaughlin, Jack Benny or Eddie Gill, may get that nomination, but the former seems most likely to start. Benny, however, is too good a man to keep on the bench long.

Jimmy Dewhurst, manager of the now defunct Hartford soccer club says his team will be back in the second half of the American League schedule and will play its home games at Clarkin Field in Hartford. Dewhurst says he has a job as pilot of the Fall River club until such time.

The Hartford Scandias defeated the British American eleven yesterday at Mt. Kisco in a penalty kick by Hamilton was the lone score. In the other game here, Cheney Brothers turned back the Celtics at the West Side grounds 2 to 1. The final and deciding goal was a penalty by Campbell. The Celtics took exception to the referee's ruling and protested the game, also threatening to withdraw from the Manchester-Hartford District Soccer league.

The newly organized Commercial Bowling League will swing into action for the first time tomorrow night at Murphy's alleys where there will be four matches. The pairings for the opening night have been announced but will be mentioned together with the list of eligible players in tomorrow's Herald. The matches start at 7:30.

Neutral Officials Penalize New Britain More Than Cloverleaves; Captain Bru-nig Moske Hurts Ankle; Second String Men Used.

The Cloverleaves demonstrated yesterday that it is possible for them to play clean football despite reports to the contrary. With competent officials calling penalties right and left, the town champs escaped with only one fifteen-yard setback and held the strong New Britain Pawnees to a scoreless tie. However, whether or not they will do so in their crucial test against the Cubs next Sunday, remains to be proved.

The Cloverleaves' players took the field yesterday after listening to a severe warning by Coach George Moonan that if anyone was put out of the game that player would not be in the starting lineup against the Cubs. Throughout the somewhat uninteresting game that followed, there was not the least sign of illegal play that would call for such drastic action.

The game was in charge of Referee Jake Moske of Manchester, Umpire Charlie Holm of Hartford and Head-linesman Bill Thomson of Hartford. Eleven penalties were called, New Britain being charged sixty yards with Manchester paying but thirty-five. The visitors were set back fifteen yards for illegal use of the hands on three occasions. The game was hard-fought, yet cleanly played.

It was very evident from the early part of the game, that Coach Moonan would be satisfied with a tie score. He kept his first string lineup on the bench for a major part of the game, not daring to take a chance on injuries. In the closing minutes of the game with Manchester in a scoring position, Coach Moonan took a chance for which he may be sorry later.

With three minutes to play and the ball in Manchester's possession, the twenty yard line, the blanket was thrown off Captain Bru-nig Moske who had injured his ankle in the first quarter, and he took his regular post at right half back. Twice he carried the ball in succession but on the third play he was injured. His ankle had been injured. Although it is not believed to be serious, oft times it is impossible to tell the extent of an injury for a day or two. However, his hurt is not believed to be anything serious and Moske will no doubt be okay for Sunday. His loss would be even harder to the Cloverleaves than was Caldwell's to Yale.

See-Saw Game
For the most part of the game the ball see-sawed back and forth between the thirty yard lines. Once or twice, Manchester got inside the 25 yard line, but the visitors quickly repulsed the attack. Once in the first quarter, the Cloverleaves secured the ball on New Britain's twenty yard line when the Hartford City fullback fumbled a poor pass as he was about to punt. It was the only time anything was gained. The best offensive play of the game was given by Walter Moske and Jack Benny. They made repeated gains off tackle and around end. Ted McCarthy, Charlie Smith and Whitty Mullen played well defensively. Barder and Spitko were the stars for New Britain.

New Britain: Lingey, Madgus, lb; Gabel, lt; Ferdina, lg; Zardar, c; Bergoni, rg; Tostitti, rt; Whitney, re; Astertag, W. Turner, qb; Quarti, lhb; Morrell, rrb; Sulitko, fb.

Further proof that there is bound to be action galore when the Cubs and Cloverleaves mingle next Sunday, was given Saturday night when some of the players engaged in a fistfight exchange at Turn hall over north. It proved to be nothing serious, but just enough to show that the best of feeling doesn't exist between the rival players.

The S. M. H. S.-Windham game on Saturday and the Cubs-Cloverleaves game on Sunday provide Manchester sport fans with the best menu of the current season—in fact, the best in several years. A total of five thousand fans may see the two games.

Hillhouse Defeats Manchester 27-to-0

New Haven Schoolboys Score Touchdowns Against S. M. H. S.; Windham High Here Next Saturday.

Manchester High was defeated 27 to 0 by Hillhouse High at Weiss Park, New Haven, Saturday morning. The stronger and more alert Elm city gridsters that took advantage of every break that came their way. Manchester's breaks were few and far between.

The game served as the oyster cocktail of a menu that included free admission to the Yale-Princeton classic. Next Saturday afternoon, Manchester plays its most important game of the season when Windham High sets its powerful grid machine into action on the McKee street stadium. That game means more to Manchester than all the rest put together.

New Haven Hillhouse scored its four touchdowns in series of two in a group. Following three successive first downs, Bannon broke through the secondary defense and was downed on the thirteen yard line by Hansen. Three more plunges sent Wilson hurling across the final stripe and Carrigan's toe made it 7 to 0. Very soon after resuming play, New Haven gained possession of the ball and scored another touchdown on a Carrigan-Lewis forward pass that was good for about 40 yards. The try for point fizzled.

All this scoring came in the first quarter and there was no more until the period when following another powerful onslaught, Gildea crashed over and Carrigan made it 20 to 0. Manchester chose to receive and a few plays later this same Mr. Gildea intercepted a Manchester pass and ran 40 yards for the fourth and final touchdown and Mr. Carrigan again brought his faithful right toe into action to complete the finale.

Manchester played the game with some of its best players on the bench, Coach Tommy Kelley not caring to take a chance and have them injured on the eve of the Windham game. For this reason Dowd and Gill both watched the game from the sidelines. Both will no doubt figure conspicuously in the Windham game. The best playing on the Manchester team Saturday was done by "Bob" Treat, son of Mayor and Mrs. Robert V. Treat, and young Welles. No one else, unless it was Captain Keeney, played consistently good football. All seemed to have their minds more on the matinee that was in store for them than the game they were in.

ARMY AND PITTSBURGH TEAMS BROUGHT PRESTIGE TO EAST

West and Middle West Had the Best Teams Up Until the Upsets on Saturday, Says Walsh.

(L. N. S. Sports Editor)

New York, Nov. 14.—Eastern prestige, which is something one usually kicks first and examines afterward, if at all, came into its own with a rush in consequence of Saturday's football returns, which showed the Army and Pittsburgh the winners in two of the big intersectional games of the month and perhaps the season. Pitt won from Nebraska, representative team of the Missouri valley conference, and the Army scored with surprising ease over Notre Dame, surprising the one of those shots in the dark that sometimes click. This one called for a pass from middle on the fourth down with 12 yards to gain. It produced the winning touchdown.

However, you don't give Yale a 100 per cent break unless you put it down on the eve of the game. The fighting spark that could and did carry it through, after the loss of Caldwell and an early Princeton touchdown, had made matters look like thirty days on the rock pile.

Unbeaten Teams
The details of Princeton and Notre Dame reduced the lists of unbeaten teams by two, the others managing to stay with the pace for at least another week, although a pair of them were tied. One of these was Tennessee, which got a seven to seven stand-off with Vanderbilt and something of a setback in its plans for the acquisition of the southern title. Georgia, also unbeaten and the only team to "take" Yale, came through as usual against Clemson, leaving the crackers with an average score of 31 1-3 points against all opponents except Yale. The latter crossed Georgia's goal line for the only time this season.

Pittsburgh was another undefeated team to survive the day and Washington & Jefferson, winner over Cornell, was a third. New York University, winner over Stanford, completes the ranks of unbeaten eleven in the east.

Those of the middle west, Illinois and Minnesota, arch-rivals for the Big Ten title, won rather handsily. The Illini almost clinched the title by beating Chicago, while the Gophers scored easily over Drake, using their second string through the last two periods.

Out where the west or the sun or something begins, Southern California proceeded right ahead with its non-stop scoring. Colorado being the victim this time. The Trojans also are unbeaten and apparently have no idea of letting anything happen that might alter that situation.

Of upsets there were not many in number but they were cataclysmic in character. What was expected the Army to beat Notre Dame by three touchdowns? The silence seems to be absolutely deafening. All right then, who expected Santa Clara to outscore Stanford? Not Glenn Warner, at any rate, for he took himself and his California team to remain in the running with Stanford and U. S. C. for the coast conference championship. It may be assumed, therefore, that Stanford was too confident.

As for Notre Dame, it was too flattered to have a chance with an Army team that was fast, shifty, smart and altogether at the peak of its game. Rated now with Yale, Pitt and W. & J. as an eastern leader, the Army gave its passers, runners and kickers splendid production and, on the defense, it rushed into the Notre Dame backfield to break up its plays before they could be developed. All of which is saying a lot for the Army and not enough about the character of the Notre Dame tackling.

As far as their work in this department was concerned, the Irish simply were Chalmers on Saturday.

Nebraska blew its second game in which it outrushed an opponent in first downs but failed to outscore it in points. As in the Missouri game the Huskers were ahead of Pitt in first downs by more than two to one but Gibby when he ran 93 yards for a touchdown on the opening kick off and later took a pass to run 63 yards for another. The third Pitt score was the result of a 60-yard run, so the Huskers losing 21 to 13, hardly can claim that their defense in the open field was all it should have been or else they must concede that Pitt's blocking and running were very good.

Cubs Score 5 Touchdowns Against Holy Name Club

Connie Dietz Contributes Another Dazzling Run of 44 Yards For Touchdown; Schubert Scores Twice.

The Cubs walloped the Holy Name gridiron squad of Hartford yesterday afternoon at the McKee Street stadium, 31-0. As predicted in Saturday's Herald, a second team, so-called, went out and gave the visitors a real tussle and scored four of the five touchdowns in snappy fashion. It was easily the worst exhibition that the local team put on this year. At no time during the contest did the Holy Name outfit threaten the local's line.

Connie Dietz furnished the biggest thrill of the game in the third quarter when he intercepted a forward pass on his own 44-yard line and galloped through the visitor's line for a score. Several nice forwards were completed by the Manchester teams and a dandy by St. John to Kerr, good for 42 yards gave Dwyer's aspirants their last score.

Once again a great line defense on both the local Cubs' teams, featured the game, that is, insofar as any featuring was done. The visitors could not penetrate this sturdy line of striped jerseys consistently and several punts were blocked. It is the prevalent opinion at the south end, that the Cloverleaves are going to find the Cubs' line a tough nut to crack. As a matter of fact, the visitors were not able to gather but two first downs, and one of these was given on a penalty.

The Cubs scored many of their points due to careless handling of the ball by the visitors. However,

The Cubs were rather loose with the ball themselves and fumbled often when attempting trick plays. Schubert's line bucking alone stood out although Mantelli and Farr slipped around and for several good reasons.

It was said tonight that the team which started the game yesterday against the Holy Name would be the one which the Cubs' coach would send out next Sunday. These shock troops have born the brunt of a lot of games this year and those close to Coach Dwyer predict freely that it will be the same Sunday. It was said by the scouts from the north end who watched yesterday's tilt that no one knows who will "get the call." These scouts point out that Mantelli, a regular end, was used at center against the Holy Name, and that a general mixup of players resulted in no information worth bringing back. They also believe that the Cubs' backfield is changed too often to work together smoothly.

The Holy Name put up a game exhibition and fought all the way from whistle to whistle and while they never threatened the Cubs' line, gave plenty of opposition.

The lineup:—
Cubs: Barowski, Sylvester, re; Finnegan, Slamonds, Harrison, rt; Ambukewicz, Greenberg, rg; Penrose, Mantelli, Vendrillo, c; Wolfgram, Merrier, lg; Quish, Vendrillo, lb; Mozzar, Mantelli, Kerr, McCann, lg; Dnnelly, Groman, Dahlquist, qb; Cervini, qrb; Barowski, lhb; Schubert, Dalquist, Mincucci, lhb; Dietz, Dnnelly, St. John, fb.

Holy Name: Keegan, Sanford, re; Trudas, rt; Sangore, rg; Kelly, c; Radigan, lg; Howell, lt; Clatfey, lb; Murray, qb; DeVanney, Flino, lhb; Doegan, fb.

Tom Kelly, referee; Luddie Hansen, umpire; Ed Batley, head-linesman; touchdowns, Schubert, 2; Dietz, McCann, Kerr. Point after touchdown, Sylvester on forward pass.

Coach Tommy Kelley started drilling his S. M. H. S. gridsters this afternoon for the biggest game of the season with Windham High here next Saturday. Several changes may be in order unless certain players show real intentions of playing better football. Coach Kelley said. The game will be played at the stadium.

Prices
on Used Cars probably never will be lower than they are today. Dealers throughout the city have cut their stocks to bedrock. The brisk sales of new 1928 models have brought a great influx of late model "trade-ins." Rather than put them into storage dealers have priced them for immediate clearance. ROBITUARY
MRS. A. L. BROWN
Mrs. Agnes Baxter Brown, wife of William Brown of 105 Main street died yesterday morning at 4 o'clock after a long illness. Mrs. Brown had remained in an unconscious condition since last Thursday. She had not been in good health for the greater part of the last decade and for two years had been confined to her bed practically all of the time. She possessed a sunny, cheerful disposition and it was this that helped her to bear with patience and fortitude her long period of invalidism. She was a devoted woman and the only lodge with which she was affiliated was the Woman's Benefit Association, of which she was the first record keeper. When in good health she also entertained enthusiastically into the work of the Second Congregational church.

LETTER GOLF

Somebody said the other day these puzzles were easy. All right. Go from brick to stone in ten strokes or fewer. If it stops you, the par solution is printed on another page:

BRICK and STONE word search puzzles with grid boxes.

THE RULES 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

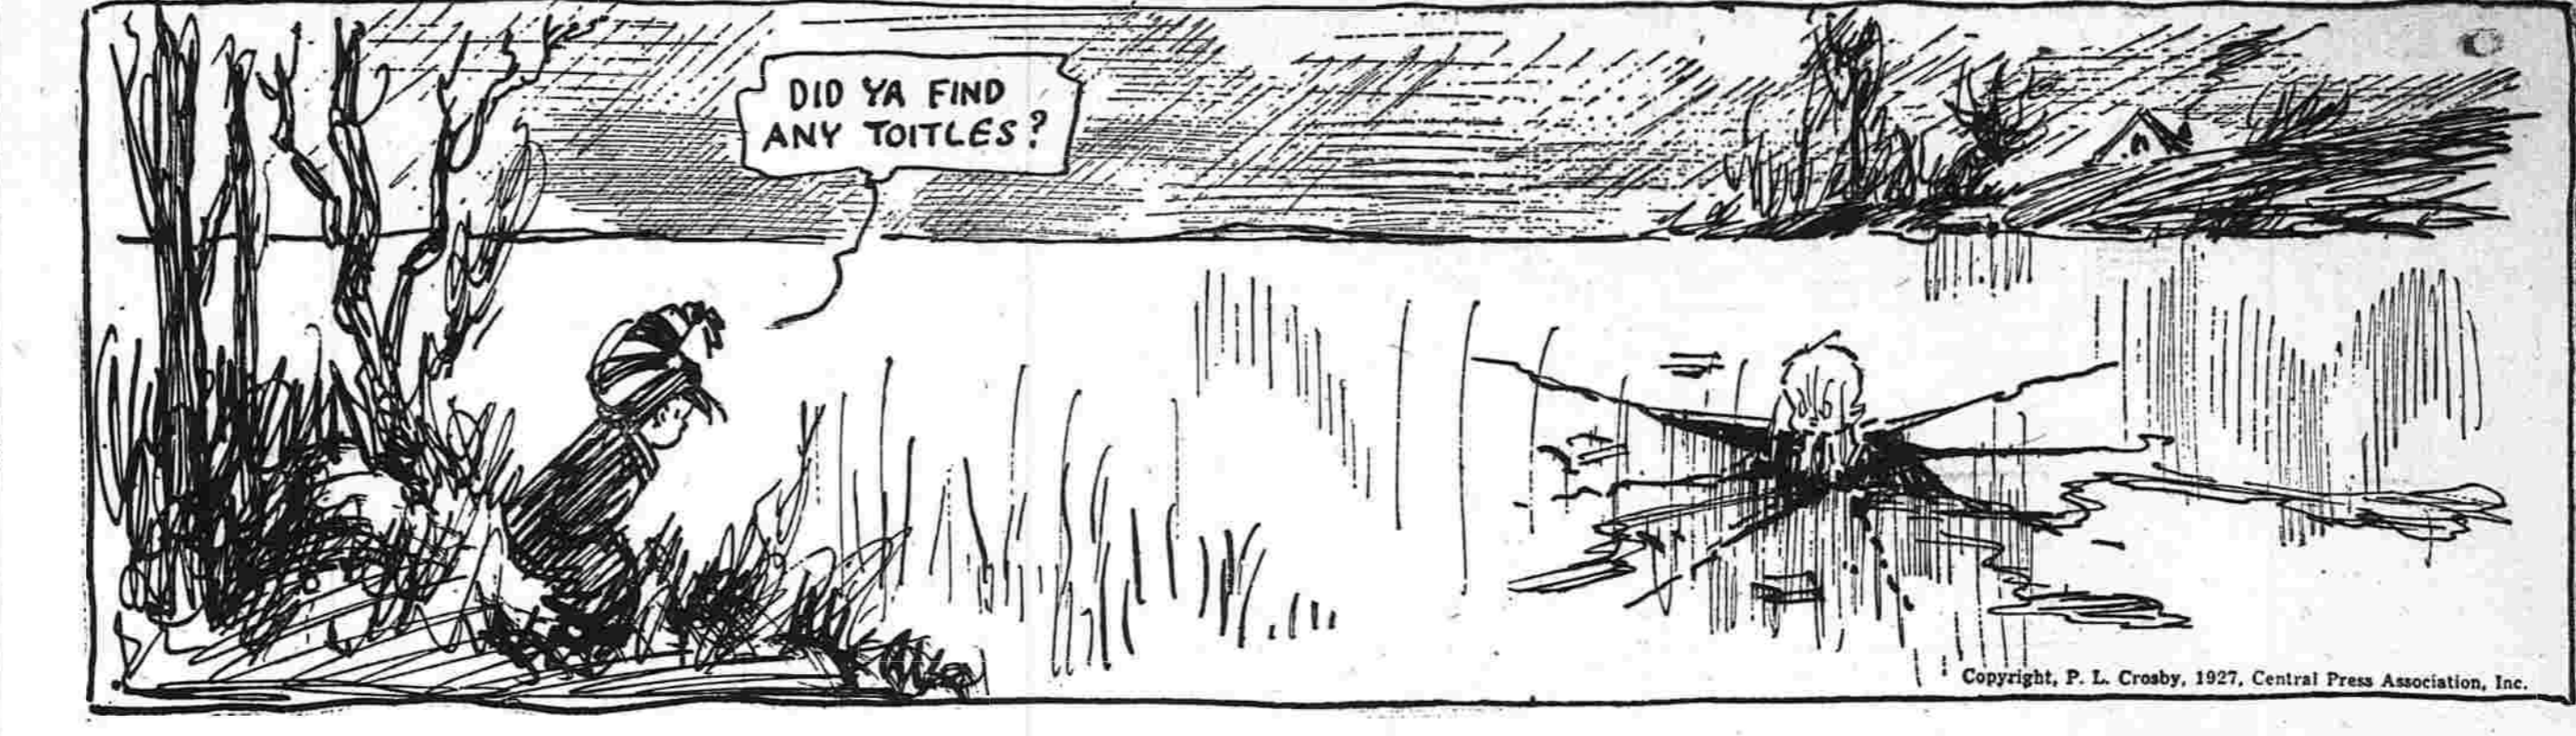

SENSE and NONSENSE

Golfing Proverbs "Fore" warned is before harmed. A miss is good for a smile. A caddy may laugh at a king. Spare the club and spoil the drive.

A Ship "I don't want to be skinny," said Sue. "I'd be barred from the bathing revue; When they advertise slips To be hung from the hips I'd have nothing to hang the things to."

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) Said Clowny, "Gee, I never knew of all the tricks that I could do. It's easy walking on your hands, and standing up-side-down."

"Though you are unknown to one another, you all know me and I know you all, for I called you together," the leader went on.

They listened breathlessly. The rapping on the door was repeated. "It's the signal knock!" whispered an alarmed fellow.

The leader hurried to the door. "Who's there?" he called cautiously. "Me—Piper!" was the answer.

"Some fellows nabbed me and took my hood!" chattered Custard. "They looked me up, but I got away."

OPEN FORUM

SAYS SUNDAY IS PAGAN; SABBATH THE 7TH DAY

Mathias Spiess Picks Flaws In Poem by "No Surrender" Published Friday.

Editor, The Herald:
Referring to the poetry which appeared in the Open Forum of the Herald of yesterday, and written by someone who signed as "No Surrender," pictured the local clergymen as being slack in their opposition to the opening of theaters on Sunday afternoons for motion picture shows.
If he has painted a true picture of the clergy in Manchester, then we congratulate not only the clergymen but all the inhabitants of the town of being so fortunate in having such men in our local pulpits who mind their own business.
If the people of Manchester desire motion picture shows on Sunday, they may have them according to the law.

In his poem, "No Surrender" speaks of the days of Latimer Ridley, Fox and Wesley, forgetting that we are living in the 20th century and that they lived during the dark days of witchcraft and fanaticism. "They stood for the right against every foe," says "No Surrender," not realizing that their foes were mostly imaginary things and only existed in their own minds.

Thus we find John Wesley, for example, not only fighting the arch foe, who he believed to be active in witchcraft but he also denounced Copernicus, who gave to the world the revelation that the sun is the center of the solar system, and that the earth and other planets revolved around it. In his spite of the truth of astrology, he gave us the truth of Joshua and the Old Testament. Wesley declared "these new ideas tend toward infidelity." Would Wesley, if he were living today, denounce all our schools and colleges as institutions of the devil for teaching the truth of astronomy?

We think not. We believe that he would be modern in his views and would study astronomy, not from the Bible but according to modern science. Latimer and Ridley would find no one to apply the torch, today, and Fox would go on un molested.
Perhaps all of these eminent divines, were they living today, would have learned the truth about the day on which the sun-god was honored and worshipped—Sunday, and that the Sabbath Day is the seventh day of the week. "No Surrender" correctly quotes Jehovah, who said "Remember the Sabbath Day." Why has he forgotten it and why has he accepted the pagan Sun-day?

Yours truly,
MATHIAS SPIESS.

Weldon Salon Features The Latest Hair Bobs

Miss Juul Popularizes Modish Bobs As Learned At Wilfred Academy, Boston.

The Weldon Beauty Salon, in the Park Building, is specializing these days in the latest bobs and the art of emulating (thinning the hair) as recently studied by Miss Bernice M. Juul, owner of the Weldon Academy in Boston.

Miss Juul, who has been asked many times of late, if long hair is to come into vogue again, replies, "No, absolutely no. In fact, I found that Boston is more enthusiastic than ever about the bob and that the women who prefer an extremely formal coiffure for certain occasions are wearing an extra hair piece. There are, of course, new styles of both the straight and shingle cuts and I feel that my time at the Wilfred Academy in learning how to cut hair in these styles was most advantageously spent.

"A number of my customers have been very much pleased this week with the newer method of emulating in which we can thin the hair in such a way that it is entirely indiscernible."—adv.
