DR. D. C. Y. MOORE DEFENDS SCHICK TEST FOR TOTS

Quotes New York Expert In Controversy Over Giving Children Toxin-Antitoxin; "Younger the Better."

The following communication was received by The Herald today from Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, chairman of the local board of health relative to the "Schick" Test.

"Editor, The Herald:—

"Quoting from the words of Dr. William H. Park, Director of Laboratories of the New York City Department of Health, who has probably had a wider experience in this line of work than any other man: 'What I want you all to believe is that toxin-anti-toxin is in little children a harmless preventive against diphtheria. Here in New York City some time ago we gave each of two thousand infants, when three days old, a full man's dose without the slightest harm. The younger the child, the greater the need and the less the reaction. Don't wait until the child reaches school age. The great mortality is in the little children of the first, second and third years of age.'

"In a campaign we are very apt to start with the schools. Why? Because we can gather the children together. We give each child a little circular of information for the parents for each child, has to get the consent of its parents. In this way, we educate the parents of the community.

"It must be through education of the parents by the school children, the public health authorities, the great insurance companies or by any other means that we can get the mothers to bring the young children to the public health stations, or to have their private physicians give the injections.

"If, as in the case of smallpox, we can educate the community so that all parents will ask their family physicians for these injections, or take their children to the public health stations, then, and only then will we eradicate diphtheria within the next five years."

"The following statistics from various cities show the decline in diphtheria following an intensive program of immunization by toxin-anti-toxin and 'schickings.'
"In New York City the death rate from diphtheria per 100,000 population dropped from 18.4 to 11.9 in 1924. This reduction of over one-third coincides with the immunization of about 30 per cent of the children since 1920. The deaths from diphtheria dropped from 1,339 in 1919 to 714 in 1924, and the reported cases from 14,000 to 9,700.

"New Haven, Conn., the death rate from diphtheria in 1924 was 1.7 per 100,000 population as compared with a rate of 11.2 for the State of Connecticut. The remarkable decline in the diphtheria death rate in New Haven followed an intensive campaign of several years duration for the immunization of school children and children of pre-school age by means of toxoprene toxin. There was no corresponding intensive campaign in the State of Connecticut as a whole.

"In Auburn, New York, there has been but one death from diphtheria from July, 1923, to the present time (January, 1926). Auburn is a city of 37,000 population and a large proportion of the children under 14 years of age have been immunized. The single death from diphtheria occurred in a non-immunized child. In 1920 the diphtheria death rate was 48.9 per 100,000 population.

"In Hamilton, Ontario, during the 5 year period from 1915-1919 there were 1,001 cases of diphtheria with 116 deaths. For the 5 year period from 1920-1924 the number of cases rose, with the rise in population, to 2,833 with 175 deaths.

TIRPITZ DEFEATED DEFEAT OF GERMANY

Admiral Wrote Novel in 1902 Telling What Was to Happen Later.

Berlin, Dec. 16.—That Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz, creator of the German navy and instigator of relentless submarine warfare, wrote a novel in 1902 forecasting Germany's defeat in a war with England and predicting that America would become the world's supreme economic power, was revealed today by Vice Admiral Hollweg, who was written under an assumed name but never published, owing to objections from the foreign office.

Von Tirpitz's novel was intended to wake the German people to the perils of a war with England, for the writer was convinced that the British fleet could never be defeated by Germany. Von Tirpitz forecast a naval engagement in which the German fleet would be destroyed and the loss of all Germany's colonies.

LINDY IS KISSED BY MEXICAN MISS

Mexico City, Dec. 16.—Mexican señoritas are no different from their foreign sisters when it comes to a desire to kiss Col. Lindbergh—whether he likes it or not.

Since his arrival many attempts to accomplish this seemingly difficult feat have been made. Today a pretty typist, Miss Lolita Congress, alone was successful.

And it was all a plot, too, for when the handsome young American came from the official reception, a crowd of girls surrounded him. First they shook his hands; then suddenly they hugged him.

While Lindbergh was thus pined, Miss Congress planted a kiss on his cheek.

The plot? The girls doing the hugging were Miss Congress' friends. How the group decided who was to do the kissing was not disclosed.

MEXICO KEEPS UP RECEPTION FOR LINDBERGH

Taken to Show By President Calles and Is Given Medal By the Chamber of Deputies.

Mexico City, Dec. 16.—Excursions throughout the city and its environs and further honors by officials and the police were in store for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today.

It was also highly probable that the flying colonel would attempt a temporary escape from his Mexican captors, who apparently have no intention of ceasing their enthusiastic receptions, and visit Valbuena Field to give the other half of "We" a thorough inspection.

While Lindbergh's plans as to the length of time he will remain here were still indefinite, it was understood that his next destination would be Guatemala and that from there he would continue on a swing of Central America, touching at Havana during the sessions of the Pan-American Congress before returning home.

At any rate, according to the flyer himself, wherever he goes from here "it will be by air."

Lindbergh closed another day of unusually enthusiastic welcoming last night by attending a theatrical performance especially arranged for him by the foreign office. President Calles and Lindbergh occupied a box alone.

Throughout the performance the large crowds that packed the theater continued to applaud and cheer the young aviator who was forced to rise and acknowledge the cheers four times.

37 KNOWN DEAD IN QUEBEC FIRE

That Many Bodies Recovered But Police Believe Total Will Be 42.

Quebec, Que., Dec. 16.—Official searchers for the bodies of children in the ruins of the Hospice St. Charles convent, which was destroyed by fire here early yesterday, announced early today that thirty-seven bodies had been recovered, thirty-six of these were little children and one an adult, Anna Gaudreault, 17, heroine of the fire, who made three successful trips alone into the burning building but met death herself on the fourth.

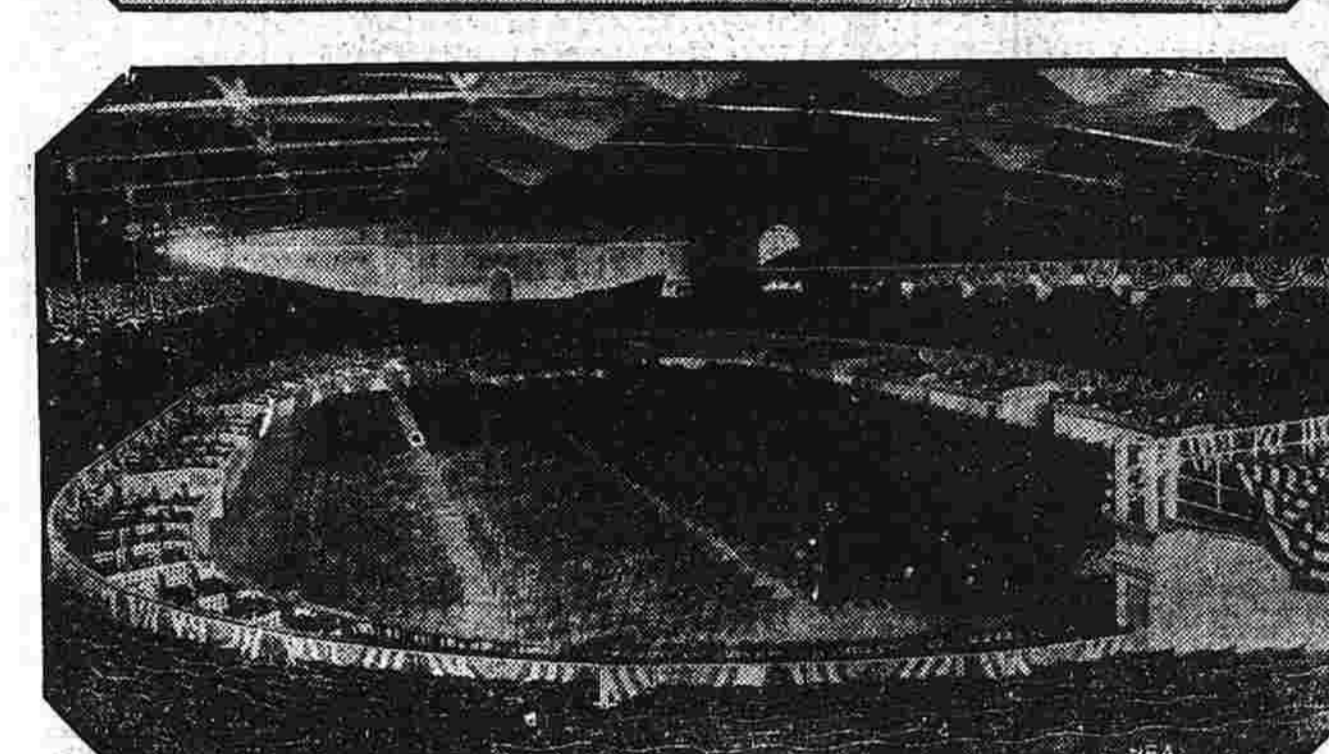

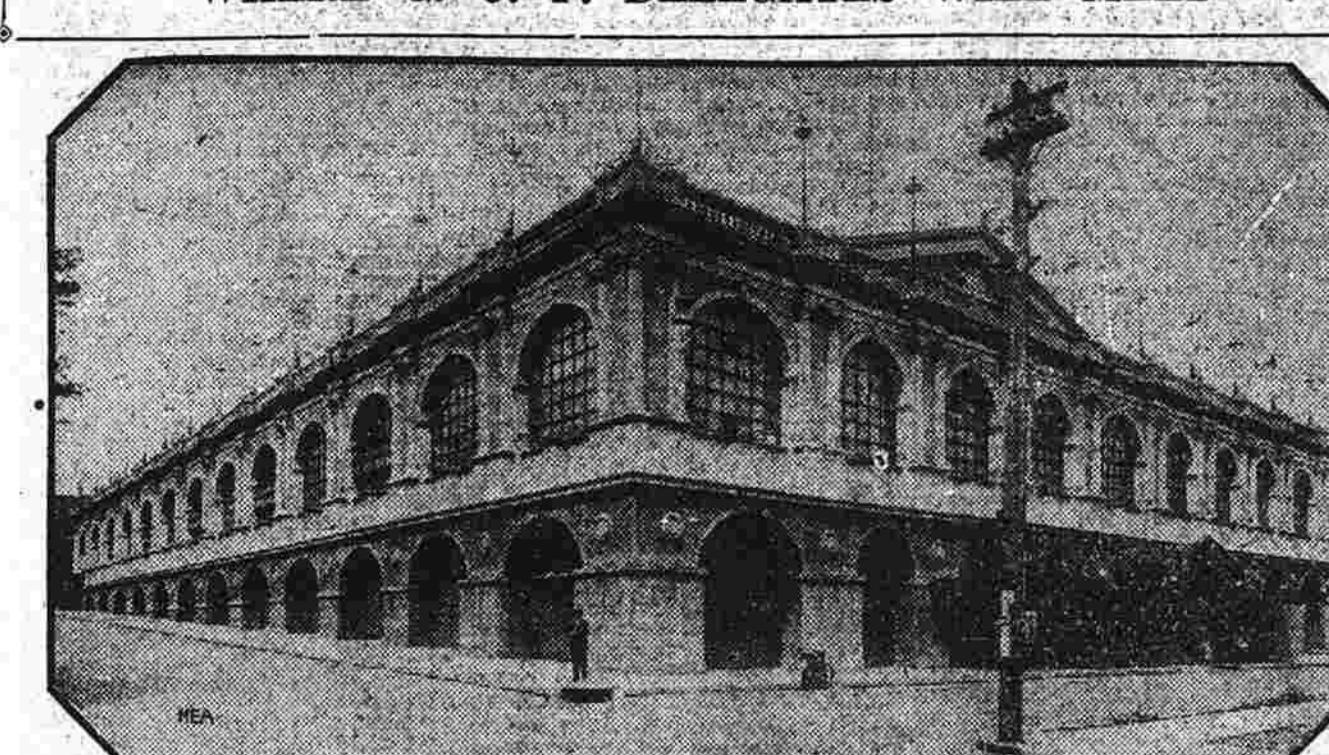

According to police, who spent the greater part of the night in combing the city for missing children who had been given shelter in strange homes, the children were so scattered that they were unable to give an account of themselves. Less than ten of the inmates of the building are now unaccounted for.

The death toll total, police believe, will stand at forty-two or forty-three when the search is over. This figure is lower than Thursday's, which nervousness exaggerated. Also many rescued children had been given sanctuary in strange homes in all parts of Quebec, and were lost track of.

Coroner Doctor Jolicoeur began this morning the holding of thirty-seven inquests.

Fire Marshal Leclerc launched an investigation into the cause of the fire, which is unofficially attributed to a furnace explosion, or to an outbreak originated in materials left in the basement of one wing by a repair crew.

Slayers Prepare to Die As Convicts See Comedy

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Peter Seller, 20, and George Ricci, 31, were executed in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison early today following presentation of the prison musical comedy, "The Sweet Little Devil." For three hours before they were electrocuted, the condemned men were forced to listen to the laughter of 600 other prisoners.

Seller protested his innocence to the end. He was convicted of participation in a holdup in New York City in which Patrolman James Masterson was shot and fatally wounded. Ricci shot and killed Frank Scavullo, a real estate man by whom he had been employed as an apartment house superintendent. Scavullo had discharged Ricci.

CONNECT CASHIER WITH BANK THEFT

Cicero Burglar Tells Court That Olsen Knew About It Beforehand.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 16.—With an affidavit asserting that Raymond T. Olsen, cashier of the Plantsville National Bank, had foreknowledge that the bank would be held up on June 22nd, last, the state this noon rested its case in the trial of Stuart R. Florian, of Southington, who is charged with being one of the bandits.

William Kappello, one of three Cicero, Illinois, men involved in the holdup, took the stand and calmly declared Olsen had known all about the "job." Kappello declared that Olsen, through an agreement with Florian, was to get another $2,500; and that the three Cicero men would get the rest. They expected to get at least $15,000, Kappello said. Kappello told in detail a story of the hold-up. When the group entered the bank, Kappello said, "Olsen laughed so loud that he could have been heard upstairs if anyone lived there."

Alcorn's Question
Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney, questioned Kappello. When Mr. Alcorn heard of the proffered division of spoils he asked Kappello: "Did that look good to you?"
"Did that look good to you?"
Olsen retorted: "You wouldn't have turned it down yourself."
Mr. Alcorn dismissed Kappello with the remark that the money possibly would seem large to anyone.

George W. Curtis, 10, teller in the bank followed Kappello on the stand. Curtis, who had been mentioned yesterday as "the young fellow in the bank," declared he conversed with Florian various times, once two weeks before the hold-up. But that conversation was not in regard to any hold-up. Curtis had never heard Florian discuss such a thing.

MEXICAN CONSUL CALLS DOCUMENTS FORGERIES

Jap Press Assails 'Bigger Navy' Plans

Tokio, Dec. 16.—Declaring it a reversal of the policy that inspired the Washington disarmament conference, America's billion-dollar naval building program as presented to Congress was bitterly assailed today by the Japanese press.

Great Britain, on the other hand, was praised for her coolness and refusal to alter her program in face of the American proposal. After hinting that the program is intended as a bargaining lever to be used by the United States at the next naval disarmament conference, the newspaper Nichi Nichi declares: "Whatever its purpose, the program is a reversal of the policy followed since President Harding was in office. It has disappointed any hopes raised concerning America's leadership in the movement toward peace."

"That the country sponsoring the tri-partite conference now proposes such expansion makes it difficult for us to understand America's real intentions," said the newspaper Asahi. The Kokum, charging that America tricked the Geneva conference, declared: "We are convinced the conference was only an attempt to trick Japan and Great Britain. We believe the United States entered determined from the first to expand her navy, the plan creates anti-American spirit among the powers and violates the spirit of peace."

Manchesteer voters will gather in special town meeting tonight at the high school hall to act upon the Selectmen's recommendations with regard to the purchase of the High school building and adjacent land from Cheney Brothers. The Selectmen will meet at seven o'clock to decide upon their recommendations. The meeting of voters is called for eight o'clock.

It is possible that a direct vote on the purchase of the High school building will be avoided at tonight's meeting. If the Selectmen finally decide to study the question further the meeting may not be asked to definitely vote the purchase tonight.

Tonight's meeting will also act upon the Selectmen's recommendation that the Connecticut Company purchase property at the Center be purchased by the town at a price of $27,500. This is the land just west of the new Municipal building the site of the now abandoned Connecticut Company car barns.

The Marconi Wireless Telegraph company today opened for commercial use two stations for the Americas is at Dorchester; the receiving station is at Somerton, thirty miles from Dorchester.

SMALL TOWNS NEED
POST OFFICES, TOO
Fight in Congress to Get Funds
For Places Outside of Four States.

Washington, Dec. 16.—A fight for $400,000 of public buildings bill to meet the demands of hundreds of smaller cities in the country for post offices was launched in the House today by Rep. Jeff Busby, Democrat of Miss.

Under the present policy of Congress and the administration, he asserted four states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Massachusetts—will get more than half the public buildings constructed in the next ten years.

Busby's effort was started in submitting a minority report to that of the committee of public buildings, recommending passage of the Reed bill increasing the present fund for buildings $10,000,000 a year for ten years.

The steering committee of the House has decided to allow this bill to be brought up for a vote on Monday, with quick passage expected.

Says He Never Saw Miguel Avila Who Secured Them In His Office and Turned Them Over to the Hearst Newspapers—Many Witnesses at Today's Senate Hearing.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Official telegrams passing between Mexico City and the Mexican Consulate in New York were under subpoena by the Senate today as the special Reed committee continued its investigation of the startling series of documents recently printed in the Hearst newspapers, which set forth numerous anti-American activities by the Calles government.

Bank records revealing the Mexican government's financial transactions in this country may also come under the scrutiny of the committee in its efforts to "get to the bottom" of the sensational charges that the Calles regime appropriated large sums of money from the Mexican treasury ostensibly for distribution in the United States.

All of the United States Senators named in the documents as the intended recipients of sums running from $15,000 to $500,000 stood absolved today from having received any money, or even knowledge that their names were being used.

All Deny Charges
In rapid succession, Senators Borah, Republican of Idaho, La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, Norris, Republican of Nebraska, and Healin, Democrat of Alabama, denied ever having been approached by the Mexican government, or anyone connected with it, and the Senate investigating committee expressed complete confidence in their innocence and lack of knowledge of the matter.

Executives of the Hearst newspapers, including William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, joined with the investigating committee, in stating their disbelief that any of the money alleged to have been appropriated was ever received by any of the named members of the United States Senate.

President Agrees
Mr. Hearst said he reached the same conclusion that President Coolidge was said to have expressed when the matter was brought to his attention—that the Senators named were used by unscrupulous Mexican officials as "a blind" to cover the distribution of the money among Mexican officials themselves.

In other words, the belief was expressed by several witnesses that the money was "milky" from the Mexican treasury and went to enrich Mexican officials, the Senators being the innocent and unwitting victims of a scheme by Mexicans to rob their own treasury.

A direct question of veracity as to the authenticity of the documents was asked between Arturo Elias, Mexican consul and fiscal agent in New York, and Miguel Avila, an American-born Mexican, who secured the documents and turned them over to the Hearst newspapers.

Avila swore that he saw part of the documents taken from the secret files of the Mexican government in Mexico City, and that he saw still others taken from the office files of Elias in New York. These two sets of documents, one obtained in Mexico City and the other in New York, were shown by Hearst executives to dovetail with each other.

Elias' Statement
Elias swore that all of the charges were false and that the documents purported to have come from his office were forgeries. He expressed the belief that the other documents from Mexico City also were false.

It was in an effort to throw more light on this conflict that the Senate committee decided to subpoena the records of telegraph companies and possibly later the bank records relating to the business of the Mexican Consulate in New York.

Until nearly midnight last night, the investigating committee continued to delve into the intricacies of the sensational case.

Elias was formerly stand and was subjected to close questioning by Senators as to his activities. While denying that he had ever spent any Mexican funds for "propaganda" in the United States, he did admit that the Mexican Consulate has maintained two "lecturers" in payroll in New York at $600 a month each. They were identified as Roberto Haberman and Jose Kelly.

Documents Shown
Document after document was submitted to Elias by the committee. He either called them forgeries or said he was unable to say whether they were authentic or not. On one occasion when he denounced as a "forgery" a document bearing the signature of President Calles, Sena-

MEX. CONSUL CALLS PAPERS FORGERIES

for Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, the chairman, said sharply: "Here, you haven't even looked at it."

Other witnesses at the night session of the committee were Edward H. Clark, an executor of the Hearst estate, and John Page, former correspondent for Hearst papers in Mexico, who employed Avila to obtain the documents.

Page described in detail how the documents came into possession of the Hearst papers.

Woman Starts It He declared that he had been informed by an American resident in Mexico City of a conversation with a Mexican woman, in which the American resident observed that Mexican officials were grafters.

"The woman replied," said Page, "that some American officials also were grafters and spoke of documents in the Mexican government's archives which would prove it. These documents, the woman said, related to payment of money to United States Senators.

"Naturally, I became interested." With the aid of Avila, Page said, the documents were finally obtained from the government files, and within fifteen minutes after they were in his possession he took them to the American Embassy and submitted them to Ambassador James R. Sheffield, and Counselor Shoefeld.

"The ambassador was astounded," said Page. "He said he could not believe that the Senators named had accepted any money, but the documents showed evidence on their face of being genuine official documents."

Later, Page said, he submitted them to Secretary of State Kellogg, but Kellogg, after reading a few lines, said: "I can't read this, Mr. Page."

Taken To President Mr. Clark revealed to the committee how he had taken the documents to President Coolidge at the Summer-White House in the Black Hills. Upon being informed of the nature of the papers, Mr. Clark said, the President said: "I don't know that I should discuss this with you."

This related to the documents secured in Mexico City. Later, when other papers were obtained from Elías' files in New York and found to "tie in" with the Mexico City documents, the Hearst newspapers decided the matter was so important that publication should be made.

Testimony Conflicts The testimony of Avila and Elías conflicted at almost every point. Avila declared that he had known Elías for fourteen years. Elías declared that he never saw Avila before he saw him in the committee room in the Senate office building.

Avila said he had carried documents from Elías to the late General Gomez, who was executed for leading a Catholic uprising against the Calles government. Elías is a half-brother of President Calles. And Avila gave assertion that he had acted as a messenger between the president's half-brother and the rebel Gomez with received with a lifting of eye-brows by the Mexicans present.

As recently as last October, Avila said, he was in Elías' office and discussed with him General Gomez's activities. Yet Elías swore that he never had seen Avila until yesterday.

Reporter Called When the inquiry was resumed at 11:15 o'clock today, George Wheeler Hinman, Jr., foreign correspondent for the Hearst newspapers in Mexico City, was called to the stand.

Hinman testified that he had heard rumors in Mexico City of the existence of documents concerning payment to "certain Americans." He had heard, he said, that the records of the Mexican treasury would show it. However, Hinman said, he never followed up the rumors, and he never saw the documents printed in the Hearst newspaper until after he was transferred from Mexico City to New York.

Senator Reed asked Hinman whether he had any personal knowledge of the genuineness of the documents. Upon his reply that he had not, Hinman was excused.

The committee next called Victor Watson, editor of the New York Mirror, but Watson did not answer his name and a short recess was taken to await his appearance.

Watson appeared shortly. He testified he had first heard of the Mexican documents early in July from E. D. Coblenz, editor of the New York American. Later he said he inspected the papers at Mr. Hearst's ranch in California.

"What did you think of them," asked Reed. "At first blush I was impressed with their genuineness," replied Watson. "While he himself entertained no doubts as to their authenticity, Watson said, he told Page that there should be some clinching evidence as to their genuineness."

"I thought the shortest cut would be to plant somebody in the Mexican Consulate's office," said the editor. "I also thought the Nicaraguan Legation might help us in confirming the facts relating to Nicaragua, and the British embassy in that part of the evidence relating to the British coal strike. I suggested to Page, too, that he go to the State Department."

All this time Watson said, he had been one of the managing editors of the New York American. In October, he said, he took over the editorship of the Mirror and "stepped out of the picture" leaving further details concerning the Mexican documents to Coblenz.

Compares Signatures Senator Robinson, Democrat of Ark., asked the editor what convinced him that the documents were genuine. "I asked Page," said Watson, "if he had some of Calles' signatures. He did and I compared them with those on the document. I was convinced they were the same."

"Don't you think a clever forger could reproduce Calles' signature in a way that could fool you?" asked Robinson. "It has been done," replied Watson.

Reed asked Watson, whether in suggesting that Avila be planted in Elías' office he "wasn't asking Avila to corroborate himself," inasmuch as Avila had procured the Mexican documents. "What's the difference," replied the editor, "the documents would speak for themselves."

Avila Recalled Avila was recalled to the stand when Watson concluded. Avila had testified he knew Elías in New Orleans thirteen years ago.

Senator Reed questioned him minutely about the location of the Mexican Consulate in New Orleans, the arrangement of rooms, and other details. Avila replied that to the best of his recollection the consulate office was in the Hibernal building, and that he believed it was in front of the elevator.

Robinson asked: "Would it surprise you to know that you had to turn to the right?" Avila replied that it was long ago, in 1914, and that he couldn't remember very clearly. Fernandez Portello, former secretary to General Gomez, could testify that he, Avila, delivered letters to Elías at New Orleans, he said. Portello is now in Los Angeles.

There are numerous affidavits to support the existence of the secret treaty between Mexico and Japan, Avila said. The documents published by the Hearst papers.

Almirac Zentella, a former member of the Mexican Congress, Avila said, has made one such affidavit and was in the Mexican Congress when the treaty was discussed.

Zentella is now in San Antonio. This and other affidavits are now in possession of Page, Avila said.

Page, writer of the articles was then recalled. Senator Reed asked him about the affidavits and Page said they had been turned over to the committee. He picked them out of the huge bundle of documents.

Page identified the affidavit signed by Zentella, the former Mexican Congressman. He told of another affidavit, signed by a stenographer employed in the Mexican Chamber of Deputies. In it, the stenographer swore he saw the treaty.

"We have two other affidavits bearing on Bolshevistic activities in Mexico but they don't bear directly on the authenticity of the documents," said Page. The affidavits are of the Member of Congress and the stenographer bear on the authenticity of the document, showing a treaty between Mexico and Japan.

Page submitted evidence tending to show the grammatical errors to some of the Mexican documents were of common usage there. He also explained that the so-called "misplaced punctuation" in few of the documents were not wrong, because the "accents" were marked on the keys of Mexican typewriters.

"The accents used in these documents are all correct," said Page. "But there are some accents left out that should have been used." The committee then went into executive session.

Page submitted evidence tending to show the grammatical errors to some of the Mexican documents were of common usage there. He also explained that the so-called "misplaced punctuation" in few of the documents were not wrong, because the "accents" were marked on the keys of Mexican typewriters.

"The accents used in these documents are all correct," said Page. "But there are some accents left out that should have been used." The committee then went into executive session.

Robinson asked: "Would it surprise you to know that you had to turn to the right?" Avila replied that it was long ago, in 1914, and that he couldn't remember very clearly. Fernandez Portello, former secretary to General Gomez, could testify that he, Avila, delivered letters to Elías at New Orleans, he said. Portello is now in Los Angeles.

There are numerous affidavits to support the existence of the secret treaty between Mexico and Japan, Avila said. The documents published by the Hearst papers.

Almirac Zentella, a former member of the Mexican Congress, Avila said, has made one such affidavit and was in the Mexican Congress when the treaty was discussed.

Zentella is now in San Antonio. This and other affidavits are now in possession of Page, Avila said.

Page, writer of the articles was then recalled. Senator Reed asked him about the affidavits and Page said they had been turned over to the committee. He picked them out of the huge bundle of documents.

Page identified the affidavit signed by Zentella, the former Mexican Congressman. He told of another affidavit, signed by a stenographer employed in the Mexican Chamber of Deputies. In it, the stenographer swore he saw the treaty.

ABOUT TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Balch of Hartford street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born this morning at the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Mrs. John M. Carney of Walnut street, left today for Aradisa, R. I., as a result of a telegram announcing the critical condition of her sister, Mrs. Ellen Judd of that place. She is Mrs. Carney's only living sister or brother, out of a family of fourteen.

Today's icy payments caused a Ford coupe owned and driven by Roy Matson of Center street to overturn near Love Lane this afternoon. Matson, a younger brother and another occupant of the car were thrown out, but no one was injured. The top of the coupe was badly smashed.

LEGION NOTES

Dilworth-Cornell Post, No. 102, American Legion, will hold its regular meeting on January 2, 1928 instead of Dec. 26, 1927. Because Monday Dec. 26 will be observed as a holiday it was thought wise to postpone the meeting.

The monthly Legion County meeting will be held with the Brock-Barnes post on Whiting street, Plainville at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, Dec. 18. All members are urged to attend.

The Legion's automobile ticket sale is progressing rather slowly and all who have them are requested to get their ticket stubs in early on Christmas Day, Dec. 25.

All those who have been voted into the local post and have not been initiated are urged to be present at the January 2 meeting to receive their obligations.

Important business matters brought up by the State Department will be discussed at the January 2 meeting.

FUNERAL OF REV. C. A. STENHOUSE The burial service for Rev. C. A. Stenhouse who died in Jamestown, R. I., Wednesday will be held here tomorrow afternoon. A Masonic service will be held for Rev. Stenhouse and Manchester lodge of Masons will meet at 12 o'clock tomorrow noon to attend the burial. Lodge will be opened at 12 o'clock in the Temple. The body will leave Newport, R. I., at nine o'clock tomorrow morning and it is expected it will arrive here about noon.

ONLY ONE OF QUARTET SINGS; OTHERS ARE ILL

Piedmont College Boys Unable To Put on Program at Second Congregational Church.

At the Second Congregational church last evening a number of good things were on the program, beginning with a supper by the Men's club at 6:15. This was followed by a concert and social hour with refreshments under auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Unfortunately the Piedmont Male quartette which was scheduled to give the concert was unable to fill the engagement. Three of the men were suffering from grip or severe colds. The fourth, the first bass, Paul Scarborough, gave a variety of songs including "Israel" by Oliver King, "When My Caravan Has Rested," Lohr; "Love's Perfect Song" by Hamblen and a London-derry Air, all of which with the lighter encore numbers were roundly applauded.

At short notice the committee was able to secure a soprano soloist from West Hartford, Mrs. Ruth Goodrich Horton. Among her selections were, "I hear a Thrush at Even" by Cadman and "Ship's Horn" by Cadman and "Ship's Horn" Pass in the Night. The four singers have postponed their graduation for a year in order to tour the country in a campaign for the necessary funds to carry on the work. The college is situated at Demorest, Georgia, one of the beautiful and healthful locations in America, but also in the center of the world's greatest industry. It is under the administration of the Congregational board.

deaths. In 1922 the health department commenced its campaign for the immunization of all children that could be reached through the medium of the schools, child welfare clinics, and publicity. Following the program of immunization which had been carried on since 1922 some 20,000 children in all were immunized. The astonishing decrease in diphtheria during the three years from 1925 to 1927, there being 263 cases with only 18 deaths, is the result of this vigorous campaign and has surpassed the fondest dreams. During the period from November 1, 1926 to September 30, 1927, only 10 cases of diphtheria were reported with 1 death. "In twenty-three representative American cities the death rate since 1918 has fallen an average of 10.3 per cent per year. This fall in the twenty-three cities studied by the Statistical Bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has coincided with the general application of a toxin-anti-toxin immunization by city departments of health.

"In the face of the foregoing statement by Dr. Park, and the statistics from various health departments throughout the country, and with the knowledge that immunization and Schick-testing is a harmless procedure, whether the virulence is tested by the use of guinea pigs or other animals, physicians and health departments would be remiss in their duty to their patients and the public if they did not whole-heartedly co-operate in a campaign for the eradication of this dread disease. We have no quarrel with an individual who, personally, prefers not to accept the applications of such advances in medical science as these statistics plainly show, but in giving advice to others in the face of overwhelming evidence, such persons must reckon with their own consciences.

DROWNED IN AUTO

Rathbone, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Three persons were trapped in a closed car and drowned here today and a fourth, a woman, escaped, when an automobile driven by William McCarthy of Elmira crashed through a guard rail into Canisteo river. comedian of Mexico, dedicated his act to America's Lone Eagle.

Following the performance Lindbergh returned to the American embassy to spend the night.

Earlier in the night, the Mexican Congress received Lindbergh in a special meeting with full attendance of Senators and Deputies. The flyer was given the seat of honor at the right of the chairman.

Here another medal was added to the already enviable collection possessed by Lindbergh for his aviation exploits. Chairman Carlos Cerrillo, after praising Lindbergh's flight, presented him with a commemorative medal of gold. On one side was the Mexican eagle, and on the other the inscription: "The Chamber of Deputies to Colonel Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Mexico, December 15, 1927."

A special salute of red, white and green, flag of Lindbergh's coat of arms, was given by the chamber and an uproar of cheers.

ler to International New Service today. Shortage for some time has developed in a number of important industries, and this must be interpreted to mean that production will resume, he declared.

Mr. Chrysler points out the fallacy of the popular notion that the automobile industry is highly volatile and cites the following facts and figures in support of his views. "Taking the average retail deliveries of all makes of automobiles, including Ford, for the first nine months of the five years 1923 to 1927 inclusive as a base," said Mr. Chrysler, "the deliveries of the first nine months of 1927 have been 93.1 per cent of the average, compared with 113 per cent for 1926; with 99.77 per cent for 1925; 90.8 per cent for 1924 and 103.2 per cent for 1923. Retail deliveries of automobiles in the United States during the past five years have fluctuated between 9.2 per cent below average to 13.5 per cent above.

Looks For Good Year
"I look for a very good year in 1928. Some people view next year with uneasiness because it is to be a presidential year. To me this is curious. There is no good reason why a presidential year should have any influence on business, and I for one do not believe it will have any influence during the coming year.

"I see nothing except soundness in the general economic situation," said Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, one of the world's most successful manufacturing enterprises.

Continuing, he said: "This, together with the improved position of the agricultural sections of the country, leads me to believe that 1928 will be a good year for general business. Credit is abundant and rates are low; inventories are low and, taking it all in all, I am very well satisfied with the outlook."

Mr. Sloan believes that, while the production of the automotive industry during the year has been below the level of 1926, this does not reflect any change on the part of the consumer toward the automobile as an agent of transportation, but simply reflects the fact that one of the large producers was out of production for a large part of the year.

reach the end of their useful life, and have to be replaced, so that the industry's business from this source is constantly on the increase. There is a large number of additional families each year who find that a second or third car is required to meet the transportation needs of

ONE MARRIAGE IN FOUR SUCCESSFUL
 Moscow—In Soviet Russia a couple can be married one minute and divorced the next. The marriage need not cost anything; the divorce requires about 30 cents for the blank form and the official stamp dissolving the union. A marriage requires only the consent of both parties; a divorce the consent of only one.

That is the explanation for the fact that during the first nine months of 1927 there were 9681 marriages and 7255 divorces. Many a citizen of the Soviet has been married seven or eight times in a single year. Immediately upon issuance of the divorce decree each party is free to take another mate. And a woman may marry as many times as she pleases and still retain her family name.

NINTH 1927 COMET IS PHOTOGRAPHED BY GERMAN SCIENTISTS

BERLIN.—A cosmic explosion which shook the constitution of the universe has been recorded by the Hamburg astronomical observatory. On its photographic plates appears the detonation of a sun which flew apart and from its whirling fragments formed a new star and a comet. First eye-witnesses of the celestial birth were Professors Schwassmann and Wachmann who noted that a photograph of the north-eastern part of the constellation Pisces showed a comet which had not appeared in previous identical photographs. A few nights later they discovered the appearance of a new star in the constellation Orion. Their comet, which has been named "1927 I" is the ninth comet to be discovered this year, according to the professors. They declare it extremely probable that at least a part of these comets and the new star in Orion are the result of an immeasurably violent explosion, shattering a section of the universe estimated to be as large as our solar system. Incomprehensibly vast though this cosmic explosion was, residents of this earth need feel no alarm. For according to the calculations of the German astronomers, it happened so far away that despite the speed of 186,200 miles a second at which light travels, the rays which just struck the photographic plates of the Hamburg observatory started on their way long before mankind or any living creature came to life on our terrestrial globe.

NO MORE SICKENING PILLS FOR HIM

63-year-old man gains relief from constipation with ALL-BRAN

Follow Mr. Hoffner's remarkable story of the wonderful work of ALL-BRAN.
 "I was constipated from boyhood until I began eating ALL-BRAN. I am past 63 years old. Feel like 30. No more pills for me. I do this with my own free will."
 J. H. Hoffner, Willamstown, N. J.

Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran.

Delicious with milk or cream, and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Ready to eat. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A THOUGHT

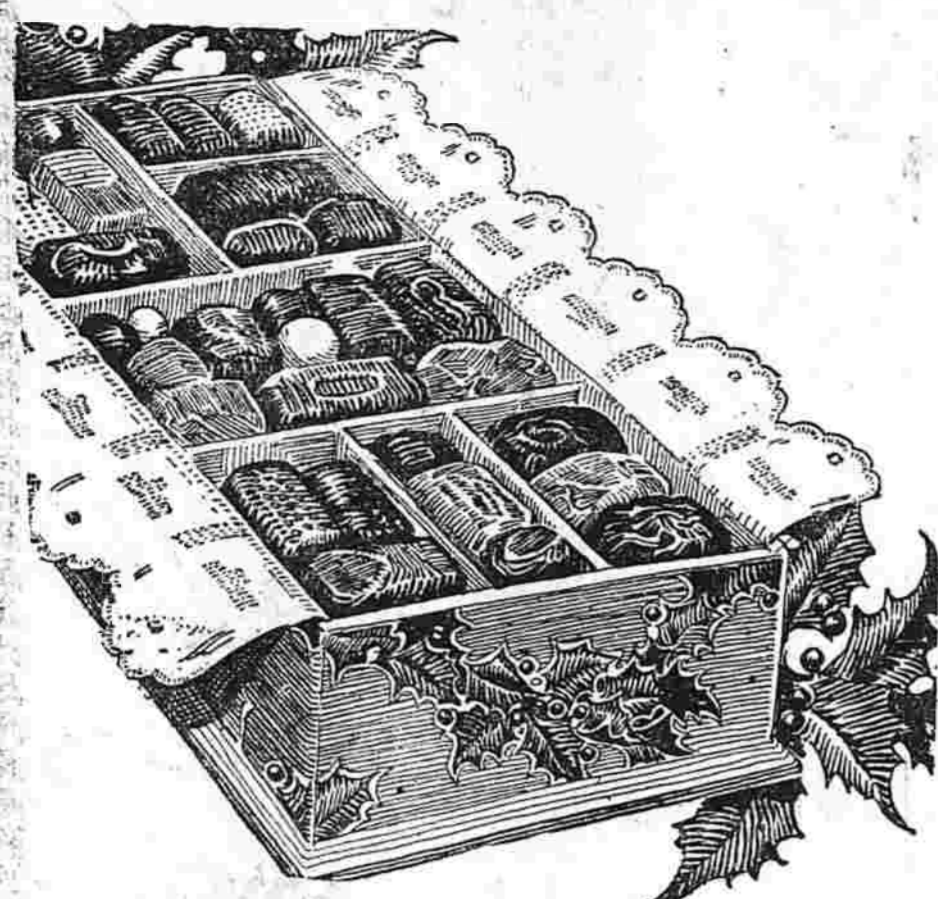

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course. I have kept the faith.—1 Tim. 4:7.

State Theater Building, South Manchester

U. S. FOLK MUSIC IS BEST OF ALL INSIST LEADERS

Whiteman, Garber Agree American Liting Tunes Will Live.

St. Louis, Mo.—Jazz—rhythmic, throbbing jazz—is the folk music of America.

Thus do Paul Whiteman and Jan Garber, kings of rythmland, refute the oft repeated platitudes that America has no folk music and probably never will have.

Whiteman with his giant jazz-symphony organization played here at one theater while youthful, college-age Jan Garber whipped out the hot tunes of the southland at another.

Whiteman overflowed a chair in his dressing room. "So America has no folk music," he smiled. "America has the best folk music in the world. We have liting, plaintive tunes by the score that everyone sings. Tunes, that never die; and the songs that endure are the ones that are folk music. And we have music that is above the so-called peasant or folk music."

"Those who say we have no folk music are as a rule conductors of the larger symphony orchestras who have grown to like the folk music of other nations and ours doesn't appeal to them. Much of their folk music doesn't appeal to us, but we don't say that it isn't good."

Jazz Is Not Good Name "Leaders of many of the larger orchestras say there is something in what they call the 'Whiteman music' and I don't hesitate to say that there is a lot in the Oberholfer music, the Stokowski music and the music played by all the conductors of their type.

"Why don't I play some of the heavier music? The principal reason is that I have heard it played in Vienna, Berlin and a dozen places where they play their own music better than anyone else ever could. By the same token we play America's music better than they do or can."

"Jazz" is an unjust name for our music. That name may have applied just after the war; that was when first the metamorphosis set in. The result was, to say the least, disturbing. But our rhythm music fast is growing softer, and smoother and more tuneful.

"The soft, dreamy waltz is staging a comeback and we now are writing music that can be played in the symphony style. As to something in music that is typically American, I have only to point to George Gershwin's rhapsody in blue."

Whiteman's orchestra of 32 musicians is planning a round-the-world tour.

From the "king's" dressing room to that of Jan Garber it was but a short walk. Perched upon his dressing table Garber was working out a new song with three of his orchestras.

Plenty of Folk Tunes "America's folk music?" he asked bouncing down. "Ask me something hard. Of course we have folk music, the best. We have folk music we can play in concert and after touching it up a little, 'burn 'em up.'" Try and do that with some of the so-called famous folk music.

And another thing, this nation should thank its southland for its folk music. There are lots of them, 'Old Black Joe,' 'Swanee River,' 'Nellie Gray' and a dozen others. And there is folk music being written all the time."

CURBS U. S. FILMS

Berlin—To protect the struggling Ferman film industry, the German Federal commission has designed regulations which will give their distributors a virtual monopoly. Only 260 foreign films will be allowed to enter the country during a period of eighteen months and 90 of these will be released only at the discretion of the commission.

The folks who get their shopping done ahead of time, no doubt, will be real glad the last few days. They won't be all tired out.

FRIDAY, DEC. 16, 1927

IN PRINT

In a town like Manchester or even a city like Hartford one expects to encounter the names of certain unofficial persons in the news columns with more or less frequency.

Mr. Battle is just a lawyer—and there are thousands and thousands of lawyers in New York. He was once, if we remember aright, an assistant district attorney.

The only list of names we remember to have seen in a New York paper in ever so long which was not ornamented by the sonorous one of George Gordon Battle was the list of murderers convicted in that state.

MEDIAEVAL

The action of the president of the Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric company of Rhode Island, in ordering his meter inspectors to report all stills and other evidences of violation of the liquor laws which may come under their observation, is simply mediaeval.

That is, it would, if there were the slightest probability that they will pay any attention to his order. But it is difficult to imagine any meter reader, or any other freeman with a spark of manhood in him, acquiescing in a command that he become an unpaid spy in order to hold a job which has not the remotest connection with spying.

There are two things which the Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric company is going to feel the need of—meter readers who are honest with their employer and at the same time sneaks, which is a somewhat difficult combination to find, and a lot of new customers to take the place of those who will throw out the company's meters and return, if necessary, to the use of coal stoves and kerosene oil.

SAME OLD IDEA

Miss Ellen M. Stone died in Chelsea, Mass., this week. Her death brings to the attention of middle-aged persons an episode which, in the light of subsequent history, suggests that it is no new thing for the United States to be regarded as a sort of international Santa Claus.

In 1901 Miss Stone was a missionary in the Balkans, Macedonia at that time was under Turkish rule and, as it has been almost continuously for centuries, a seething whirlpool of unrest.

It later developed that the money, instead of being the personal gain of Miss Stone's captors, went into the hands of the Macedonian revolutionists.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(15) Connecticut's Lost Territories Long Island, the western half of Rhode Island and a strip of land running westward as far as the Pacific Ocean at one time was Connecticut.

of Miss Stone's captors, went into the Macedonian revolutionary fund. Which shows that even so long as twenty-six years America was looked on as an excellent source of supply for the sinews of European wars, and that there is nothing new under the sun.

SWAGGER Before the United States spends either seven hundred and fifty million dollars or a billion dollars—and it is easy guessing that the latter is closer to the cost of the proposed program than the former—the people of this country, unless we mistake not, are going to want to know three things: Whom are we going to fight; where are we going to fight; what assurance have we that our billion dollars worth of ships cannot be bombed into sunken scrap metal by a million dollars worth of airplanes?

ON BARREN GROUND The disastrous collapse of the communistic coup in Canton, following with savage promptitude on the seizure of the city by the Chinese reds under Russian leadership, would seem to spell the end of the long campaign of interference in Chinese affairs by the agents of the Soviet Union.

THE STORY THIS FAR

When JEFF HARRISON, gambler, is killed in a poker game in Caldwell, Conn., his 12-year-old son, TONY, is taken to the Bar K ranch in the Indian territory by JOE CRAIG, who appoints himself the boy's guardian.

There TONY is welcomed by TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K brand, and his little daughter, BITA. Another who has befriended TONY is GORDON W. ILLIUS, who later becomes known as PAWNEE BILL when he teaches school at the Indian reservation in Pawnee.

In the months that follow, reports come to the Bar K of the activities of the new notorious Henton gang, TOM BENTON being the murderer of JOE HARRISON. CRAIG and TONY depart for Pawnee to visit Pawnee Bill. There they learn of the plans for the chase of Indians with him and JOHN BUFFALO BILL'S Wild West Show.

Rita Moore and her mother depart for Virginia. TONY learns for the first time what it is to miss a mother. In 1921, the Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association is formed. It is a lobby in Washington to fight the attempts being made to open the territory to settlement.

CHAPTER XXII
JOE CRAIG met him near the corral, his face wearing an anxious expression.

"I was thinkin' of organizing a scouting expedition to bring you in," he mildly scolded. "Boy, you oughtn't to make me worry like that; I didn't know but what you had tumbled onto some drunken Cherokee bucks in search of a stray scalp. Where've you been?"

Tony essayed a bashful grin. "I was resting under some trees and must have fallen to dreaming. I felt sort of all in; maybe a touch of the sun."

He was glad that Craig did not question him further. Instead he looked at him keenly and advised him to keep out of the sun. "I've been telling you that you were tired and needed a change. If you don't take my advice and ride over to the corral for a few days I'll go direct to the colonel and tell him that you're plain insubordinate."

"I've got some good news for you," he added. "The colonel's decided to race his mare at the Caldwell fair next month and—he shot a keen look at Tony—"he's gonna let you ride."

The boy uttered an exclamation of joy. "No, really, Joe?"

"I mean it. There's a Kansas farmer up around near Caldwell who owns a black stallion and brags about him considerably. It's sort of got under TITUS' hide the way the man's claiming the finest piece of horseflesh in the country. You know the colonel; he don't think the horse is living that can show a pair of heels to Fancy in anything under a mile. A cowboy dropped off at the ranch today with the news that there's to be a free-for-all race at the fair and that Jones—that's the farmer I'm talking about—is looking around for anybody that's foolish enough to bet against his stallion."

He paused. "Think you can bring her in, Tony? If you don't you'll break TITUS MOORE'S heart."

"By golly, Joe, I'll sure try."

"The colonel would ride her himself," Craig pursued, "but he carries too much weight. You'll weigh around a hundred and thirty-five yourself, which is more than enough for an average bar size."

The colonel himself hove in sight from the house. "Tony," he roared, "where in the devil have you been? Did Craig tell you—?"

"I sure did, Colonel. He's rarin' to go."

Titus Moore strode up to them, full of business. "I've got a light saddle on Fancy now, Tony. Come along with me and climb onto her; I want to see what she will do for you."

With numerous gestures of his own arm he pointed out to Tony the course he should ride Fancy over on your back, but don't fret; just let out and carry him. Tony," he said in a sharp voice, "there's just one thing I want you to remember; whenever you want more speed out of Fancy, as he for it. She doesn't know the feel of whip or spur."

"I'll be sure to remember it, Colonel."

The owner of Fancy had one more word of advice. "I'll let you ride this first one in your own way. Use your head now, and let me see what I can expect. Ready?"

"Ready," Tony answered.

Titus Moore's upraised hand fell. "Go!" The boy leaned forward over the mare's withers, his knees over her forward. Fancy, as if she knew what was expected of her, shot forward like an arrow released from the bow. She stretched out her beautiful nose, nostrils quivering, and ran in a way to delight TITUS MOORE'S heart.

Joe Craig stood just beside him, the colonel's thick hunting-case watch in his hand; and TITUS MOORE would look first at the speeding mare and then glance at the watch, thence to the mare again and once more to the watch.

Between times he noticed that Tony Harrison was riding easily and masterfully. At the last quarter mark the boy bent forward over the mare's neck and spoke in her ear, and Fancy responded with the snort that brought her over the finish line and evoked a solid grunt of satisfaction from TITUS MOORE as he looked up from a final glance at the watch.

"Tony, you did mighty well. Isn't the little lady a wonder?" and he laid his cheek against Fancy's muzzle and began to whisper to her little phrases of endearment.

There would be one such work-out for Fancy every evening until a week before the race, Colonel Moore announced. "Then we'll let her rest up, with just enough exercise to keep her on edge. Tony, I'm going to raise those stirrups a little. . . Well, Craig, what do you think of her?"

"Every cent I've got will be on her when she runs," replied Joe Craig. "She's showed me enough speed today to win any man's horse race."

"But they say this Jones stallion is a wonder—a big fellow, too; must weigh twelve or thirteen hundred pounds."

Craig shook his head doggedly. "Don't give a damn. It's a short race, and Fancy's got plenty of heart to turn him back."

Titus Moore appeared to be pleased. "You hear that, Tony?" he demanded triumphantly. "Craig, don't let the boy eat too much between now and the race. I don't want any extra pounds in that saddle." He laughed. "Bread and water for you, Tony."

The forthcoming race became the one topic of conversation about the ranch. The Bar K men were back of Fancy as a unit; if the mare should lose there would be empty pockets beneath every pair of chaps wood, and what not, developed a consuming passion for early American. Now assembling early American is a slow and painstaking business so what could she do but buy what presented itself, a piece at a time, and set the poor thing down shivering amongst its leering surroundings.

More agonizing still is the lovely home that has delighted the eyes of guests with exquisite Sheraton and Chippendale, desecrated by the hand of the modernist. The angled, striped, bizarre mode has gotten one peppy little mistress of such a house by the throat, and the effect is—you will have to imagine it for yourself.

I wonder what Europeans think of our insides. I suppose they are not surprised. Our insides probably match our outsides—restless, aggressive, always on the move. But it is bad. And it is expensive. We should furnish carefully and permanently. And keep away from fly-by-night fads.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Because the town folks gossiped and made so-called malicious remarks at the companionate marriage which he arranged for his young daughter, Haldeman-Julius announces that he will move his big printing firm away from Girard, Kansas. The town is stunned. More than a fourth of the inmates are employed by H.-J. But he'll show them! Maybe it's harsh, but regardless of what I don't think of H.-J., it does give me a mean thrill to see small town gossip penalized once in a while. Still—how about it? Is it small town stuff or just human nature? City alibers gossip just as much, I guess, only we don't hear what's said about us quite so readily.

By the way, that hyphenated name is thus explained. Mrs. Haldeman-Julius's name was Haldeman. His is Julius. They combined the two. Why isn't this a good solution for the Lucy Stoners?

Wanted Nice Nose
An Italian countess with a funny nose, long and crooked and beakish, recently appeared in the clinic room, and asked to have her nose remodeled into a thing of beauty. "It's not fit for myself," she explained. "But I am expecting an heir to my husband's ancient line and want him to inherit a perfect classical nose." The surgeon's explanation that such acquired characteristics were not inherited made no difference. The countess now optimistically awaits her perfect-nosed offspring.

One can smile at such ignorance, true. But this maternal instinct which will suffer broken bones for an unborn child is worth more than a titter. We have rarely heard of similar male folly actuated by the paternal instinct.

Green Sheets
And did you know that colored bed linen is the very latest? Sheets and pillow slips to match your personality, such as pastel shades of lilac and cream for an ingenuous, jade green sheets to harmonize with the hair and skin of some Italian beauty, even black for dignity and old age.

Can you think of anything white left, anything which has escaped the color curse? Old-fashioned, indeed, is the woman who still clings to white underwear and stationery. They are making our very pots and skillets all the colors of the rainbow and now we sleep between pink and yellow and blue and purple sheets. Only thing left is to color the drinking water to "harmonize with personalities."

One For Us
Did you know that woman's expectation of life is always two more years than that of a man's of the same age? Thus, if you're 32, you have about 25 average more years to live if you're a man; 37, if you're a woman. Various explanations are given. "The protection of woman" is exploited by the disbelievers that in those very countries where women work in the fields and do all forms of physical labor, while the men do the easy work, the same fact remains. One theory is that women take care of their health more than men. I rather doubt it. The average man fusses about his headache and takes more dope for it than the average woman does when she knows she's dying.

GET RID OF CATARACT

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBELN

A cataract is a clouding of the lens of the eye or of its capsule, or of both structures. When this clouding occurs, the action is similar to the frosting of glass.

It is impossible to see through the lens and the result is a varying amount of blindness. There are all sorts of classifications of cataracts, depending on their nature or their state of progress or perhaps on their possible causes.

It has been suggested that such diseases as chronic infections, chronic constitutional disorders and eyestrain may have something to do with the oncoming of cataract. These things, however, have not been definitely proved and it is not possible to say certainly just why a cataract develops in any given case.

One Eye or Both
A person may have a cataract in one eye or in both. It is rather common to have cataracts in both eyes, either developing at the same time or successively.

The fact that a cataract may occur in one eye and not in the other would seem to indicate that local causes may be largely re-

Enter Interior Desecration

By Olive Roberts Barton

Our grandmothers died in the beds they had when they went to housekeeping. They bought furniture with the idea of permanency.

A generation later in our mothers' day, when the word interior decorator had to have its definition behind it, there were those who declared that furniture, over twelve years old was too old-fashioned to use. Well, I remember excellent slat-lined chairs and settees being bounced out of our house, and fat horrible tasseled brocaded things being bounced in.

The habit has grown. The restlessness of the time shows in homes as it does in fashions. And with so many varieties of furnishing to choose from and so many people to tell us how to choose, many houses are in a state of perpetual transition from one style to another that results often in an outlandish hodge-podge of nothing.

For it is expensive business, this changing around, and besides, it takes time. One cannot dump out a household of furniture all in a day, and get another one in, even if the money were at hand to do it. Some funny things happen in this scramble of style changing. A woman with a strong penchant for the Oriental, incense burners, idols, camel-bags, mandarin robes, teak-

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The annual inter-class swimming meet will be held Monday, Dec. 19. Class captains will be chosen by Mr. Clarke and these captains will be responsible for placing the men in the different events. A banner with class numerals will be awarded to the class scoring the largest number of points. The events are as follows: 40 yard free style, 40 yard breast stroke, 40 yard back stroke, 100 yard free style, diving, relay race.

Bronze Underwood pins have been awarded to Edith Johnson and Edith Dalton for typing 40 net words per minute. Report cards for the last marking period were given out this morning. The Honor Roll consisted of 124 pupils, the largest number ever on the list, being about one-fifth of the students. The number of honor pupils was evenly distributed among the four classes.

Yesterday at the assembly an informal debate was held between Meriden and Manchester on the subject: "Resolved—that the emphasis placed on inter-collegiate athletics is detrimental to colleges and universities." Manchester upheld the negative and was represented by Marlon Hills and Joseph McCluskey; Meriden was represented by Norman Gallivan and George Bronson. Each speaker was allowed five minutes but Meriden was to have an extra five minutes for rebuttal.

Norman Gallivan in opening the negative arguments called inter-collegiate football the "greatest show business on earth," and presented facts to prove that in colleges athletics were being placed on a higher plan than scholarship. He also stressed the moral damage that is done to the students who become "drunk both with victory and liquor." Following his speech, Miss Marlon Hills spoke. Her main point was that there is no substitute for athletics from either a health or psychological viewpoint. She also argued that athletic contests seek the betterment of sportsmanship and fair play. The next speaker of the affirmative was George Bronson. He told of the large amount of time and energy that are expended before an athletic team is developed. He used the Notre Dame team as an example to show the enormous waste of time in transporting the teams from one place to another. On eastern trips the Notre Dame team took four days from college and on the trip to California two years ago took eight days. During the hard practice sessions the vitality of the young men was greatly lowered and constant attention to athletics was largely responsible for deficiency in studies.

Joseph McCluskey then summarized the negative arguments; the economic welfare of the colleges is improved by athletics, athletics develops judgment, sportsmanship, fair play and improves both mind and body, he said. Norman Gallivan cleverly presented the affirmative rebuttal by saying that he did not deny that athletics were beneficial, but that the idea had been carried too far. Allen Mansfield, principal of the Meriden High school, then gave a very interesting talk to the students. He urged that more of these informal debates be held and commended the idea of having contests where no prizes were at stake. He remarked on the similarity between this high school and Meriden's and especially praised the wonderful spirit of both schools.

In the opinion of many students this was the most interesting assembly of the year and it is hoped that more of these debates will be presented at forth-coming assemblies.

MAJOR-MINOR LEAGUE FIGHT OVER DRAFT, NEARLY OVER

Too Closely Allied to Declare War But the "Smaller Minors" Get Worst of the Deal.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 16.—The war is over before a gun is fired. The armistice is about to be signed. The Minor Leagues will not break with the Majors on the draft question.

This much was certain today as baseball's warring factions withdrew in good order from the theater of activities behind the statement of Secretary John H. Farrell of the Minor Leagues, that nothing will be done about the draft until February 1. It is my information that nothing will be done about it then.

In other words, it is the understanding today that the existing Major-Minor League agreement will be allowed to run on until further notice, with the Minors making the best of what possibly is a bad situation. They have been forced to this by the attitude of the three Class AA Leagues, namely the International, the American Association and the Pacific Coast Leagues, all of whom are so closely associated with Major League activities that they have decided they cannot or will not "go it alone."

The Dispute: The agitation for an entity separate from the majors has come, it seems, from the leagues of lower classification. These claim that they cannot do business on an economic basis unless the draft is turned on some one else or words to that general effect. They have no real or lasting liaison with the Majors, anyhow, and they need the break too. The proposed break would have little effect on them except for the better.

However, it appears that the so-called "Big Minors" have committed themselves too far in their transaction with the Majors to turn back now or at any immediate date. Deals for players have been consummated, others are on the threshold of being closed and many of the Class AA clubs have pared down their player lists on the assumption that the deals in question will be carried through.

That, at least, was the situation, as outlined to me today. These big minors simply must play along, it appears, or suffer a situation to be created that will effect the structure of baseball. Even the smaller minors would suffer, if the big ones are hurt, it is pointed out, this idea being based on the theory that a corn on the toe is tragedy to the entire foot.

It is understood that Judge Landis expressed sentiment of this nature in discussing the situation at this informal meeting with Minor League representatives yesterday. The judge, of course, is a strict neutral and, in this role, he simply couldn't miss the abiding point of the whole agreement, to wit, that the Majors need the Minors and the Minors need the Majors which leaves both no alternative but to play ball with each other like nice, little gentlemen.

The International League offers a fair illustration of how closely the bonds of common interest bind the big Minors to the bigger Majors. The Syracuse club, for one thing, is owned by the St. Louis Cardinals. It couldn't very well break with itself. Reading and the Giants have a close bond of sympathy, Buffalo is not for war any time and the new Montreal outfit naturally is leaning upon the Majors for the life blood of its player strength.

The Coast League and the American Association are made up of clubs that are not too closely identified with Major League ownership, except in the case of the Wrightley interests at Los Angeles. However, neither is understood to be vitally annoyed by the draft situation, since they sell their real stars before the draft goes into operation.

It is the smaller Minors, it seems, that have to take what is elegantly known as the "slap."

AMATEUR BOXING

Following are the complete results of all the amateur bouts at Foot Guard hall in Hartford last night, which resulted for a 3 to 1 victory for Connecticut over Canada.

The School street Rec. gymnasium will see another large crowd tonight when Manchester High steps forth in its new bright red "pajamas" to do battle with East Hartford in a Central Connecticut Interscholastic League contest. Tomorrow night Coach Clarke's hoopers hit the trail for Waterbury to match skill with Crosby High.

Tonight's game will start at 8:30. It will be preceded by a preliminary game between the second teams of both schools. Bill Thompson of Hartford is expected to referee both games. A win tonight will give Manchester a good start in its effort to win the league championship because a defeat in the first game often is hard to forget.

Manchester High is admittedly stronger in basketball and should win tonight's game without as much exertion as was required to turn back Hartford High 28 to 27 last Friday night. Coach Johnnie McGrath is bringing a team here that contains three veterans from the 1926-27 five in the persons of the Stangle brothers and Powell.

Coach Clarke's strongest lineup appears to be "Butch Kittel and Alphonse Boggin at the forward berths, Doc Keeney at center with Nino Boggin and Billy Dowd in the backcourt.

However, it is more than possible that several second string men will get chance inasmuch as Manchester has a very hard game on the docket for the next night.

Principal C. P. Quimby stated yesterday that the Rec gym has been thoroughly inspected by an engineer from Cheney Brothers with the result that it will be safe to erect bleachers in the running track that will seat a total of eighty persons more than it now holds. This work will be done shortly and will be ready for the next big game between Manchester High plays which will be with Bristol High here December 31.

The Herald Bowling League was crammed with startling upsets last night. Most important of all from a standpoint of unexpectedness was the trimming which the St. Bridget's church team, next-to-last place occupants, gave the Masons. The church boys from the frigid end of the town cuffed the pins right and left to win two out of three games and capture three of the four possible points.

The Masons were not off form. Far from that, in fact. They rolled a team single of 531 in the second game only to have the St. Bridget's team hit a new team record of 554, breaking the former record of 547 was made possible by three strikes and a dozen spares. All sorts of marks were pulled by the church team. Every one of their scores in this game was over 100. The first game went to them 492 to 473 but they lost the last 520 to 502. Sam McAdams hit 138 for the Masons and had a chance to break the league record of 146. The victory will no doubt give the St. Bridget's a world of confidence. They say they were happy boys last night and well they might.

Now for the second upset. The Beethoven Glee Club which has won every match since the first night of the league, turned back the West Side Rec. in three straight games in a match that fairly sizzled with excitement. We say the Beethoven won, but perhaps it would be more correct to report that one Mr. Carl Hansen beat the West Side team almost single handed. In his three games, Hansen set a new three string record of 815 which will probably not be broken this season. He rolled scores of 101, 138 and 146, the latter tying the high single record held by Mike Suhle of the Cubs. He made the 138 with a strike and five spares and the 146 with a triple strike followed by a spare and had a chance to beat Suhle's mark. The Beethoven won each game by a close margin. In view of the fact that the Rec had trimmed the Masons three straight last week, they were warm favorites in last night's match.

As a result of his third straight four-point victory, the Beethoven is now in first place, but they occupy that position together with the Cubs who won four points from the Center Church team in another upset of lesser note. The Cubs entered the game the favorite but it was not expected they would be able to make a clean sweep as the Center Church is a steady team.

MOSCOW OPERA TO TOUR EUROPE AND U. S. IN 1929

World's Famous Ballet and 300 Artists Will Be Taken Along.

Moscow—The Moscow Grand Opera company plans to make a tour of Europe and the United States in 1929 for the first time in history. It will take along its world-famous ballet and a troupe of 300 artists from its Moscow coterie of nearly 1,000.

The outside world will be given the opportunity of seeing the Russian conception of such great Russian operas as "Boris Gudenov," which runs five and one-half hours in the Grand theater here, "Prince Igor" and "Sadko."

Changes in Theatre "Boris" was "restored" some years after the revolution.

The original scene in the Red Square in which the starving mob taunts Czar Boris, formerly prohibited by the Czar's censor, was included for the first time.

Contemplated renovation of the Grand theatre, built under the patronage of Czar Nicholas II, 30 years ago, will leave the company without a home for eight months in 1929. Director Alexander Burdukov said he intends to utilize this chance for taking the opera abroad.

Itinerary Not Planned The definite itinerary has not as yet been mapped out by M. Burdukov, but the company would like to play in Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Rome, Paris, London, New York, Chicago, Boston and several other German and American cities.

The ninety-piece orchestra, the finest in Russia, will probably be left at home, he said, to keep down the expenses of the tour. As it is, the company will probably not break even on the trip, because special trains will be needed to carry personnel and scenery around. There are more than 400,000 maps in the archives of the military intelligence division of the U. S. army.

SUGGESTION WIFE: Jack, wake up! I feel that there's a mouse in the room. HUSBY: Well, there's a cat, too, and go to sleep.—Sydney Bulletin.

Editor, The Herald:
Our town appears to have plenty of good buys offered to it with plenty more coming.

The car barn lot is a good one. As the land stands now, it is an asset, it represents several thousand dollars worth of taxable property from which the town can derive a revenue, and if any town needs revenue, it is us. Buy the land, spend money on improving it, and it represents many thousands of dollars tied up doing no good, a mere grass plot with flower beds and shrubbery.

We can spread out the payment of it on a twenty year period, when you pay interest on a sum of money for twenty years, your interest money generally equals the amount of the principal so we would pay two prices for the land. This twenty payment life plan looks easy, but in a few years we will find ourselves paying approximately $40,000 annually in interest charges, and that will be a burden we will have to carry for twenty years, and the man who works for "days" wages and pays rent will pay a good share of it, the property owner does not, he is as good a buck passer as the coal men. Dope it out for yourself. If we do not buy it, someone is liable to build a garage there.

Someone built a garage next to the Odd Fellows Block and no one has complained, the Masons did not hesitate to build a fine building within stone's throw of it. A garage has been built at the extreme north end of Main street, right in a residential section, but no one has complained, it has rather improved the appearance of that section. A neat brick garage with plate glass windows, colored lights and a picture in the window of a girl with an oil can, flashlight or steering wheel in her hand does not look so bad.

Someone is liable to erect an obnoxious building there. We have them all the way from Love Lane to Nigger Hill; one or two more would not matter. If we buy the lot it will make a good entrance to the park. It will, if you install a chute. If we persist in turning our Spring Pond into a moss covered murch hole each summer, there will not be any call for entrances. It can be used as a site for a town hall.

When the Hall of Records was built, it was announced that provision had been made that if we ever wanted a town hall, we could build on to the rear of that building, on land that we already own.

It would make a good site for a public library. We have a public library at present at each end of the town, both easy to reach, the view from Taylorville, Fairfield street and Depot Square to going to the Center after library books is hard to visualize.

It might be used as the site of a police station in the future. When our police force realize that the ramshackle joint, which they now occupy, is no longer fit for human habitation, there is no doubt but what a new and comfortable home will be provided for them, they certainly deserve it.

There is no doubt but that there is public sentiment and in yesterday's issue of the Herald but through an oversight it was omitted.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter should have appeared in yesterday's issue of The Herald but through an oversight it was omitted.

Why Connecticut Grocers Stock Charter Oak Coffee

There must be a real reason why 629 grocers in Hartford and surrounding cities have Williams' Charter Oak Coffee in stock—and there is! They realize that the most important factor in supplying you with superior coffee is to get it to you FRESH. They know that Charter Oak Coffee is roasted daily in Hartford and that they can put it on your table with all its original flavor and aroma.

There are two reasons in addition to freshness that make Charter Oak the logical choice of Connecticut grocers. They are aware that the Williams' and Carleton Company exercise the greatest skill in selecting and blending the green coffee—that the roasting and packing process is handled in the most modern method known.

You will like Williams' Charter Oak Coffee. Its freshness adds an unmistakable quality to the flavor. Order a package from your grocer and compare it with any other coffee that you are familiar with. We are willing to leave the rest to you—Charter Oak Coffee makes its own friends once it is introduced.

Tea and Cocoa Too

When a trial has convinced you of the superiority of Charter Oak Coffee, you will be glad to know that the Williams' and Carleton Company can also supply your table with Tea and Cocoa.

Taste a cup of Williams' Tea—note the exquisite flavor, the rich aroma, the clear, delightful color.

Only carefully selected cocoa beans, freshly roasted and ground, are used for Williams' Cocoa. The strictest standards of purity are maintained throughout the process of manufacture.

And Other Pure Food Products

For over a century the Williams' and Carleton Company has been manufacturing pure food products of the highest quality. Williams' Vanilla, although perhaps the best known, is only one of a full line of flavoring extracts.

Then there are Williams' spices, Williams' sparkling Gelatine and Williams' Root Beer Extract. It will pay you to get acquainted with Williams' pure food products.

Seventy years ago Charles Brownell painted the Charter Oak illustrated on the container of Williams' finest coffee. He had made several studies before the tree fell August 21, 1856 and used them with a photograph, in painting the famous canvas, found in the Wadsworth Athenaeum. He chose the west and most impressive side of the tree, showing the hollow in profile on the north, where Wadsworth secreted the scroll of Connecticut's authority from the King. The patriotic sentiment of Hartford's citizens and visitors not only inspired this artistic memorial but moved your proud firm to name your brand the Charter Oak. Charles Lorraine Yates

To Others who Competed

We appreciate your interest and are sorry that everyone could not win. We believe, however, that you have found the contest worthwhile because it has given you the opportunity to know Williams' Charter Oak Coffee. Finely blended, freshly roasted, carefully packed, Charter Oak Coffee offers a sure way to coffee satisfaction.

Remember, too, that every can brings you a valuable coupon to help you earn many worthwhile premiums.

If You Did Not Enter the Contest

You missed a lot of fun but it's not too late to get the biggest prize of all.

Just go to your grocer and buy a pound of Charter Oak Coffee. Its full rich flavor and appetizing aroma will give you a new idea of GOOD coffee.

SLIP AND SLIDE BUT EVERYONE'S LUCKY

Sleet Storm Makes Auto Driving Nervous Work; Accidents Few.

Despite the fact that the streets were exceptionally slippery and treacherous from sleet and rain which for a time in the early hours froze almost as fast as it fell, no serious automobile accidents were reported in Manchester this morning.

A few minor accidents were unofficially reported but they were of insufficient importance to warrant police investigation. A Ford coupe skidded on Forest street and broke a wheel off against the sidewalk. A sand truck owned by Alexander Jarvis was reported to have skidded off the Silver Lane road in East Hartford without any serious consequences. One car, heading for the shelter of the marquee of the State theater, was headed off by the curb. There were dozens of such experiences.

Motorists whose tires lacked chains found it especially difficult to make them behave. Brakes were more or less impotent. To make matters worse, the sleet froze on windshields.

Pedestrians on the sidewalks found the going bad enough. There were numerous falls but, so far as could be learned, luckily without injuries.

The storm which struck Manchester was the tail-end of one that is centered over Pennsylvania, according to telegraph reports. The weather bureau predicted fair, but cold, weather for tomorrow.

A. O. H. AND AUXILIARY PLAN JOINT INSTALLATION

The joint installation of the officers of Manchester Division No. 1, and the Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., will be held on Monday, January 9. It was decided at a meeting of those lodges last night. A committee was appointed to select the degree team which will perform the installation. The meeting of the Division voted to table the report of a committee working on a change in the by-laws. This report will come up for consideration at the first meeting in January, on Thursday, January 12.

The following committees were appointed to take charge of the installation: Division No. 1, John F. Miner, John F. Tierney, H. B. Moriarty, Leo Egan and Patrick J. Tierney; Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. J.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Lois Kilnetelater entertained a party of friends last evening at her home in the Centennial Apartments. During the evening announcement was made of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Hortense L. Kilnetelater and Henry M. Danson of Manchester Green.

The young people of the Lutheran Concordia church will have their Christmas party this evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. David Stevenson of Cambridge, Mass., is spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. John McCann of Ridge street.

Helen Davidson Lodge, Daughters of Scotia, will hold its regular meeting this evening in Tinker hall. Mrs. Margaret Sutherland the new chief daughter will preside. There will be an initiation of candidates.

The regular meeting of the Manchester Green Community club will be held at the school hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

PUBLIC RECORDS

INTENTION TO SELL
A notice of intention to sell was filed in the office of the Town Clerk today by Frank Oakes, proprietor of the Oakes Service Station on North Main street, Buckland. The buyer is the William F. House company of Hartford, and the sale will carry with it the real estate, all inventoried stock and fixtures. The time limit is set at December 20.

BEYOND TEMPTATION

LEASE
A lease was filed in the office of the Town Clerk today from the Conkey Autocompany to the Texas Company. The Texas company has rented the gasoline privilege in front of the Conkey garage at 20 East Center street and also a space 10 by 10 feet inside the garage for use as an office and for storage space.

MAY AVERT STRIKE
Berlin, Dec. 16.—Although nearly 50 per cent of the workers and employers are opposed to the government arbitrator's award in the iron and steel dispute over wages and working hours, there was a general belief today that a lockout and strike would be averted. Stocks of iron and steel companies rose on the Bourse. The companies threatened a general shut down on January 1st if the eight hour day were enforced and the men's demand for a ten per cent wage increase were met. The government arbitrator offered a compromise on hours and a two per cent wage increase to the workers.

COIN IN SLOT DRINK TO CHEAT CLOSING LAW FOR LONDON DEALERS

London.—Whiskey from the automatic machine may possibly become practical politics in Britain in the near future. Some daring distillers are already considering testing the legality of such a scheme. The sale of spirits in Britain is analogous to the principle involved in the restricted sale of cigarettes. Both commodities can only be bought within certain hours, but within the line of finality in regard to the sale of cigarettes at night is eight o'clock, whiskey can be legally procured until 10:30. But several years ago, some brassy storekeepers discovered that although their stores could not be kept open for the sale of cigarettes after 8 p. m., there was apparently no law to prevent the from installing an automatic machine outside their stores and allowing would-be purchasers to obtain all the cartons they need by just dropping a coin in the slot. The Government fought against the innovation, but the Courts declared it legal, and now every cigar-store has its machine outside after 8 p. m. And, the saloon-keepers are now asking themselves why they should not do the same thing on precisely similar ground. It is no more difficult to deliver whiskey from a machine than it is milk, and, anyhow, comfortably sized flasks would suit the requirements of most thirsty customers. In the opinion of many, such a scheme satisfies all legal conditions for the sale of liquor.

TAILORS GLAD TO WAIT

CIRCLE TO SHOW TWO FEATURES TOMORROW

Western and Comedy Drama on Program - Hughes, Astor and Accord Are Stars.

Two big features are scheduled for the Circle theater tomorrow and Sunday. Principal among them is the comedy drama "No Place to Go," with Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor in the leading roles. Second is "Hard Fists," famous western actor, "Hard Fists."

"No Place to Go" has enough novelty to satisfy the most jaded movie patron. It is a First National picture and Mary Astor shares honors with Lloyd Hughes.

The South Sea Islands, always a welcome scene to those who have or have not been there, are portrayed most attractively in this comedy drama, and a cannibal island village is very funny.

One of the most effective scenes, however, is the "Cannibal Isle" roof garden in New York, with a jungle admirably presented and where the entertainers dance the modern versions of the aboriginal gyrations.

Yacht scenes are also enjoyable while a charming New York apartment is the scene of some of the most compelling action.

"Hard Fists" offers the moviegoer new thrills in horse racing. A Western cross-country stepple chase with Art Alford riding, to win a previously "framed" race forms the thunderous climax. Accord in the role of Art Alford in trying to win, faces prison on an old murder charge but prefers it to breaking faith with the girl he loves.

Supporting Accord in the whirlwind drama of love in a cattle country are Louise Lorraine, Les Bates, Marion Court and others. Willie Wyler directed.

Moisles is one of the substances from which motor alcohol has been derived.

HOGMANY NIGHT OF SCOTS TO BE PUBLIC

There'll Be Cups o' Tay For A' and A' at New Year's Eve of Clan McLean.

Hogmanay Night, the Scottish New Year's Eve, will be celebrated this year by Clan McLean, O.S.C., in Tinker hall on Saturday evening, December 31. Hogmanay Night is an old Scottish institution in which friends wish each other all success for the New Year.

Those who attend will be assured of an old fashioned Scottish New Year's Eve, including "cup o'lay" and dancing which will last until the wee sma' hour of the morning. Bill Wandell's orchestra has been engaged for dancing and the committee on the entertainment is expected to make an announcement soon.

Clan McLean has this year invited the general public to join in the celebration of the New Year. In other years the affair has been most popular, both with Scotsmen and people of other nationalities, and the committee in charge is confident that a large crowd will be present at this year's party.

The committee in charge consists of the following persons: A. McBride, James Findlay, David Hamilton, Thomas Davidson, Harry Flavell, Charles Garrel, James Barr, and Thomas Flavell.

The origin of Hogmanay night, according to the books, occurred in Persia, and the word itself is from the Persian and means "dial." It is the festival of the last day of the year.

WAPPING

Twenty-one of Wapping Grange members motored to Manchester Grange at Tinker hall, Tuesday, where the Wapping Grange degree team presented the traveling gavel to Manchester Grange. A fine program was enjoyed by all present by the visiting patrons, as it was Neighbors' Night. Manchester furnished refreshments.

Mrs. Emily Jones of Ellington road passed away last Friday. Her funeral was held at Whitney's Undertaking parlors, East Hartford, last Monday.

Mrs. Eunice Starks, wife of A. E. Starks, who lived with Mrs. Jones, also died the first of the week and was buried in East Hartford. Both Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Starks had influenza.

The local Y. M. C. A. boys have the speedy Plainville quintet to oppose them this Saturday evening, at the Parish house.

Mrs. Mary Foster of New Britain, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Foster of Foster street for a few days, returned to her home last Wednesday morning.

The friendly Indians held their meeting with their chief, Truman H. Woodward at the Parish House Tuesday p. m.

ELEVEN PERSONS TO AID POST OFFICE WORKERS

Extra Helpers Will Be Added to South End Force Next Week.

Eleven additional helpers will assist the regular force at the South Manchester Post Office during the Christmas holiday rush period next week, Postmaster Oliver P. Toop said to-day. There are 21 persons on the regular force.

Additional parcel post carriers start work Monday with the sub-clerks, but the extra mail carriers will not begin until Wednesday.

The following will assist the city carriers: David McCollum, Walter Knofski, George Krause, Ernest M. Zwick and Herbert Carlson.

The additional carriers of parcel post are Vincent Barrows, Earl J. Glenney and Wesley Bulla; the extra clerks, James B. Wilson, Thomas J. Donnelly and Henry M. Hill.

ABOUT TOWN

Members of the Sunday school class of Mrs. A. E. Gibson of 40 Flower street will meet tonight at 7 o'clock to make plans for their part in the "white gift" service to be held next Sunday morning in the South Methodist church.

Following its usual custom, St. Mary's church will hold no Sunday school session on Christmas. Christmas this year falls on Sunday and it is because of this that the announcement is made.

Elwood road which has recently been resurfaced with crushed stone, received a top dressing of road oil yesterday. Robert road which has been in bad condition since the road rains is being top-dressed with gravel today.

The members of Troop 6 Girl Scouts will enjoy a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Melion Chapman, Stephen street, Monday evening from 7:30 to 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maldment have moved from Cambridge street to their new home on Robert road.

Living Christmas Trees

These seven year old Norway spruce trees are just the size to make elegant table decorations and survive the hard-frosting so that they will survive if transplanted in the garden or yard after the holiday season has passed. The trees are dug with a ball of earth around their fine root system, tightly done up in burlap that makes them clean and easy to handle. For best selection in early visit is advised!
