

EXPECT MORE REVELATIONS IN "FOX" CASE

Officials Now Probing Death Of Old Man With Whom Hickman and Hunt Once Lived.

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 30.—More revelations in the Marion Parker kidnaping and murder case were promised today as district attorney Asa Keyes ordered a sweeping Grand Jury investigation of the astounding confessions of William Edward Hickman, nineteen-year-old confessed kidnaper, killer and bandit.

While the new grand jury inquiry was called for the primary purpose of investigating the murder of C. Ivy Toms, Los Angeles druggist, killed in a holdup of his Rose Hill pharmacy, Keyes indicated that the investigation would attempt to clear up many of the unsolved phases of the abduction and murder of Marion Parker.

The Grand Jury investigation was ordered following the dual confessions of Hickman and Welby Hunt, 16-year-old Kansas City youth, that the two boys planned and executed the holdup of the Rose Hill pharmacy which ended in the fatal shooting of Toms on Christmas Eve, a year ago.

Fox Fired Shot
Hickman admitted firing the fatal shot. Hunt confessed to his participation in the robbery, but denied responsibility for the killing.

The possibility that another murder would be brought to light was strongly intimated at the district attorney's office when Keyes indicated that the Grand Jury probably would also investigate the mysterious death of Abner Driskell, 60-year-old grandfather of Hunt, with whom Hickman and Hunt made their home during a part of the time the boys were embarked on their career as bandits.

Driskell, a well-to-do drygoods merchant of Alhambra, was found dead on May 25, last, beneath the high span of the Arroyo Seco bridge near Pasadena.

Police reported his death as a suicide.

No Money Found
The investigation revealed that on the same day Driskell had gone to the Los Angeles bank where Hickman and Hunt worked as messengers and had withdrawn a large sum of money. No money was found on his body.

A "suicide" note found in one of his pockets was turned over to his widow without any attempt on the part of police to identify the handwriting. There was no inquest.

Mrs. Carrie M. Driskell, 42-year-old widow of the aged merchant and the step-grandmother of Hunt, reported Driskell as missing at 2 o'clock in the morning. His body was found under the world-famed "suicide bridge" later on the same day.

Woman Questioned
Following the confessions of Hickman and Hunt, Mrs. Driskell was questioned by the sheriff's office but was released when she denied any knowledge of the Rose Hill pharmacy holdup and said she was unaware of the boys' criminal activities.

Both boys, in their confessions, said they had concealed their crimes from Mrs. Driskell, but that the grandfather "surmised" there was something wrong.

In outlining the new Grand Jury inquiry, which will open next Tuesday, attaches of the district attorney's office indicated that Mrs. Driskell would be called.

LEAPS BEFORE TRAIN TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Worcester Woman, In Ill Health, Kills Herself in New York City.

New York, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Eva L. Hackett, 25, of Worcester, Mass., was instantly killed today when she leaped from the platform of the Hoyt avenue elevated station, in front of a three car work train of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, according to police.

Mrs. Hackett jumped as the train sped through the station and two cars passed over her body, mangled it horribly, before Motorman Fred Daubner could bring the train to a stop. Scores of persons were on the platform at the time and two women fainted. Traffic was tied up for the greater part of an hour and the second car of the train had to be jacked up before the body could be extricated.

Held as Hickman's Pal

Arrest of Willoughby Hunt (above) as an accomplice of William Hickman in the 1926 murder of Ivy Toms. Los Angeles druggist, during a holdup, followed confession of Hickman that his criminal record extended beyond the killing of Marion Parker. Hunt is an Alhambra, Calif., youth. Close investigation is being made of his association with Hickman.

White Slave Traffic Is Still Flourishing

Many Hundreds of Women and Young Girls Shipped To Central and South America.

New York, Dec. 30.—Many hundreds of women and girls—some of them very young—are transported each year from one country to another for immoral purposes in spite of the efforts of governments to suppress or regulate the traffic.

Many girls are led into the toils of the white slave traffickers by bogus offers of marriage or of employment.

The role of an entertainer in foreign cabarets (South American in many cases) appeals strongly to stage-struck girls who subsequently are sold into slavery.

SMITH RAPS KLAN IN PUBLIC LETTER

Says He Abhors Purpose of Organization But Gives Them Fair Deal.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Political leaders at the capital today were wondering what effect Gov. Smith's blunt denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan will have on his chances of winning the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

For the first time in his career, the governor today had publicly denounced the Klan. He declared that he abhorred the purposes of the Klan but that he would accord its members even-handed justice.

The governor's stand on the Klan was made known in a letter he wrote to Paul M. Winter, of Jamaica, Long Island, who complained to the executive that police had interfered with Klan parades.

In replying to Winter's letter, the governor pointed to a recent court decision, which said: "American liberty extends the protection of the law even to those who are false to its principles."

"I subscribe unreservedly to that declaration of principle. I regard the purposes of your organization with abhorrence and I consider them subversive to the fundamental of American democracy. Nevertheless, insofar as it lies within my power under the law, I would accord to you exactly the same even-handed justice that I would give to anybody else."

Winter had requested the governor to order an investigation of police interference with Klan parades on Long Island, and to have the state's attorney-general decide whether such parades are lawful. The governor told Winter he had no authority to order such an investigation or make such a request of the attorney-general.

REMUS CALLED INSANE; TO GO TO AN ASYLUM

Alienists Find Him Sane But Say He Is Dangerous Psychopath and Should Be Confined.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec. 30.—George Remus, once the "Train" of a powerful bootlegging ring, today was adjudged criminally insane and ordered sent to the state asylum at Lima, Ohio.

The finding handed down by Probate Judge William Lueders is the sequel to the killing by Remus of his wife, Augusta, Imogene Holmes Remus, whom he accused of carrying on a love affair with Franklin Dodge, federal prohibition agent.

Following a trial of five weeks, a jury of ten men and two women, after deliberating nineteen minutes brought in a verdict of "not guilty on the sole ground of insanity," the only "not guilty" verdict allowed in the charges of the Trial Judge Chester Shook.

Mrs. Remus was shot and fatally wounded by her husband, the former bootleg king, on October 6, as she was enroute to the Court of Domestic Relations, where she was to testify in her suit for divorce from Remus.

Under the jury's verdict it was compulsory that Remus be brought before Probate Court for a sanity hearing. This hearing was conducted Wednesday, with Judge Lueders and three alienists presiding.

Declared Dangerous
The medical men, it was learned, declared that Remus was sane "but a dangerous psychopath," and recommended that he be kept in custody.

It was brought out during the hearing that Remus recently made a statement to the effect that "it might be legally wrong, but not morally wrong, to kill Franklin Dodge."

Judge Lueders, in his decree holding Remus insane, declared that the "evidence discloses that

RADDING THROUGH, SAYS COMMISSION

Resignation "By Proxy" Accepted and He Will Not Be Given New Assignment.

Supernumerary Patrolman Aaron Radding, who has figured in seven infractions of police regulations, in his one year and a half as a member of the Manchester police department, is through, according to the Board of Police Commissioners who met last night to discuss the young policeman's case.

Radding professed that he be allowed to remain on the force until the new year and then allowed to resign. He didn't relish being "dumped" following a fracas in which he believed he was right.

However, since his resignation had been quite strongly intimated, and was generally expected, the commission voted to consider his resignation offered and accepted.

Supernumerary Radding had been kept on the police force, members of the police commission say, because he possessed qualities that make up a good policeman. In the various mental tests given at the police school Radding always ranked high.

The other things he tells are much better. Read about them tomorrow in The Herald "Out at Noon"

Physician Is Accused In Sack Murder Case

Los Angeles, Dec. 30.—Dr. Charles H. McMillan, a physician and surgeon, was under arrest here today on suspicion of having murdered Mrs. Amelia Appleby, said to be a wealthy property owner of Chicago and Los Angeles, whose body, bundled in a sack, was found on Christmas night in a ravine near San Fernando.

Dr. McMillan is married and, according to his wife, formerly lived in Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. McMillan said today they were married at Nashville in 1916, but separated about eight years ago.

The last she saw of her husband, Mrs. McMillan said, was on Christmas day when he called at her hotel here to visit their ten-year-old daughter.

Police said the slain woman, who was identified by a forked thumb nail, also was known as Mollie Burke, Amelia Ellenbrough and Margaret Ellenbrough. She had been missing from her home at Los Angeles for several days when the gruesome find was made.

Although Dr. McMillan admitted he had been handling the woman's property, he denied any implication in the murder. Deputy sheriffs, who arrested Dr. McMillan at his home here, reported that they found him examining some of the woman's papers when they arrived.

Among these papers, the officers said, was a power of attorney and a will, purported to have been executed by Mrs. Appleby, bequeathing her property to the doctor.

Over 10,000 War Planes Ready For The Next War

France Leads U. S. By Nearly 1,000—Britain Next and Then Italy, Russia and Spain.

Berlin, Dec. 30.—Peace may exist at this New Year's season, but in the air the propellers of nearly 11,000 engines of destruction drown out the centuries-old echo of the song the angels sang about goodwill to men.

According to statistics of German aviation authorities, the new year will open with about 10,800 military airplanes in the world. This is nearly three times the force of four years ago.

Two-thirds of the military aircraft of the world are in Europe. France has a lead of nearly 1,000 over its next competitor, the United States.

In air power the nations of the world range as follows: France, 2,550; United States, 1,600; England, 1,540; Italy, 1,000; Soviet Russia, 700; Spain, 600; Japan, 600; Poland, 500; Czechoslovakia, 450.

These are the most formidably equipped nations. The estimate for Soviet Russia is most conservative, for it was estimated at the time of the preparatory disarmament conference at Geneva that the Soviet Union had about 3,000 military airplanes in use or under construction.

Even the lesser powers show considerable air strength, as the following table shows: Belgium, 230; Brazil, 230; Rumania, 180; Turkey, 150; Switzerland, 140; Portugal, 120; Holland, 120; Sweden, 100; China, 100.

Algeria, Albania, Bolivia and Persia boast about ten planes each. Under the Versailles Treaty, Germany, Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria were forbidden to possess military aircraft. German aviation authorities point out that the countries immediately bordering upon Germany have air forces totalling about 5,220 planes.

EUROPE HOPES YET FOR DEBT CANCELLATION

Administration, However, Says Money Must Be Paid; Economists Start Wild Rumors.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Administration officials have been puzzled and not a little nettled over the reappearance in Europe of virulent agitation for downward revision of the war debt settlements.

This agitation is revived periodically abroad, and while it is regarded here as utterly futile, it always requires much diplomatic pain and effort on the part of this government to quash it and convince the debtor nations that there is no real basis for the inspired reports continually cabled from this side of the Atlantic.

The present revival apparently has had its origin in the numerous speeches made in Washington this week by academic economists attending the convention of the seventeen American Learned societies, and particularly in the pending visit of S. Parker Gilbert, the reparations czar.

Many Speeches
The capital has been literally deluged this week with addresses by college professors and university economists, who are clamoring for war debts, or material revision downward. Apparently these speeches have been cabled abroad by enterprising foreign correspondents, and have been interpreted by

DR. MORAN OWNS TO WRITING OF LIQUOR ORDERS

Local Physician's Lawyer Asks Leniency on the Ground Publicity Is Sufficient Punishment.

Dr. A. B. Moran of this town admitted before the Board of Medical Examiners of the state this morning that he was guilty of the charges of issuing prescriptions for liquor in violation of the provisions of the Prohibition Act.

He had been called before the board by Dr. Stanley Osborn, state health commissioner, who was acting on the recommendation of Attorney General Benjamin Alling. The cases on which he was questioned were those involving the issuing of liquor prescriptions said to have been issued to Benjamin McGowan and Russell Tryon of this town.

Lawyer Admits Guilt
William M. Harney of Hartford appeared for Dr. Moran and admitted that his client was guilty as charged. He asked, however, that no further punishment be meted out by the board, for he believed that the newspaper publicity the doctor had received was punishment enough. The board, intentional or not, had not the doctor's license to practice in this state should be revoked.

Mr. Harney went into detail on both the cases mentioned. The first one in time, which was second in the charge, occurred in 1924, when the doctor was approached by a man who wanted a prescription for liquor in behalf of a relative. The

SIX MEN ARE HURT AS NAPHTHA EXPLODES

Peabody, Mass., Dec. 30.—Explosions of naphtha barrels in the water tower works of the A. C. Lawrence leather plant seriously injured six men, workers and firemen, here today. Fire followed the first explosion and barrel after barrel quickly blew up.

Twelve men were caught in the room where the first explosion took place and five were injured seriously. The others escaped with only a fright and a toasting.

Fire Chief William Mahoney was injured when a barrel of naphtha exploded almost in front of him while he was aiding his men to put out the flames.

The injured men were removed to the Joseph B. Thomas hospital and were reported there as being in very serious condition.

Hops Off at 6:20 From Guatemala City and Reaches Destination at 9:50—Distance But 242 Miles; Next Flight About the Same Distance.

THE HOP OFF

Guatemala City, Dec. 30.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off at 6:20 o'clock this morning for Belize, British Honduras, on the second leg of his second flight over Latin America. Col. Lindbergh was not certain that field conditions at Belize would permit a landing but planned to swing back to San Salvador and land there if he could not come down at Belize.

The airline distance from Guatemala City to Belize is 242 miles; from Belize to San Salvador, 262 miles.

Before taking off Colonel Lindbergh said he hoped to reach Belize within an hour and a half.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Washington, Dec. 30.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from Guatemala City for Belize, British Honduras at 7:21 o'clock this morning, according to a message to the State Department from the American Consul at the Guatemala capital.

A landing will be made at Belize provided the field looks inviting to Col. Lindbergh. There is no regular flying field there, but a large area devoted to sporting events may be used. Telegrams reported that the field was suitable for landing purposes, but Lindbergh said before taking off that he would make a decision after seeing it from the air.

If Lindbergh does not land at Belize he will go on to San Salvador. Belize is 250 miles from Guatemala City, and San Salvador 260 miles from Belize.

Most of the routes lie over mountainous country unsuitable for landing in case of trouble.

TO OPEN HATCHES OF S-4 TOMORROW

Tunnels Complete, Chains Arranged and pontoons Ready to Be Lowered.

Provincetown, Mass., Dec. 30.—"We will open the hatch of the engine room tomorrow if the weather permits. Our tunnels are practically completed and the pontoons are ready to drop to the bottom," said Commander Hartley of the Falcon, rescue fleet flagship, today.

All of the men completing the second tunnel under the gun of the sunken S-4, on the bottom of Provincetown harbor.

All that remained to be done this afternoon on the second tunnel was the clearing out of the mud that had caved in from the sides during the night and run through pipe and wires similar to those that keep the first tunnel open.

Pontoon Dropped
One of the smaller pontoons were dropped in the inner harbor at a depth of sixty feet today for an object lesson. The pontoon was inflated and shot instantly to the surface, "just as graceful as a flapper on a ballroom floor," to use the words of Chief Gunner William Laughman, a former diver, who is helping out on the salvage work.

All of the men who will have to work with the pontoons were familiarized with the valves and other apparatus of the deflated and inflated submarine lifters.

Fog Delays Work
A heavy fog off the Cape Cod shores delayed the starting of work a bit this morning and held a few of the vessels in the inner harbor for a time. Finally the haze lifted and the Navy men were able to restart the salvage again.

Two surgeons, specialists in diseases that affect divers, arrived in town today and were transported to the Falcon where they will make their headquarters for the time being.

and, to the confusion of swarms of less adroit if no purer reformers, he did it in the capacity of a political boss. There are other political bosses in the United States who are as honest and as genuinely patriotic as this Scotch boy who by his own efforts rose from obscurity to be the chief of a great city and a lawyer and politician of national fame, but few of them have had the good fortune to become so well understood and appreciated as Gavin McNab.

How shrewd he was is shown by his own telling of his experiences with the public mind. "Fired by enthusiasm a few of us plunged into civics. We immediately encountered two classes of people from neither of which good government draws its inspiration—those who believe that whatever is right and those who believe that whatever is wrong. At the end of a year I would not speak to half the people of San Francisco and the other half would not speak to me."

OPEN MIND Those persons are in a poor business who find reason for criticizing Rear Admiral Brumby in the fact that he extended an ordinarily courteous welcome to a garage man from Indiana who offered to go to Provincetown to explain a scheme he had for rescuing the sailors trapped in the submarine S-4.

As a matter of fact, the public ought to be well pleased with any naval officer who shows that he is not so hidebound as to reject any and all advice in connection with submarine rescue work that comes from sources outside the Navy. From within, the Navy has been utterly unable to devise any workable plan for saving the lives of its members who go down in a wrecked sub, and it is fair to assume that it has exhausted every last bit of its own ingenuity, as it certainly has gone the limit in sheer heroism.

There has always been a stubborn reluctance on the part of the Navy to accept suggestions from civilians; and the attitude of Admiral Brumby is in refreshing contrast to moss-grown naval tradition. It comes in ill part for civilians to find fault with him for displaying symptoms of an open mind.

BOSS McNAB Gavin McNab, whose name alone would certify his blood, even had he been born in America instead of Glasgow, died too soon for the good of his beloved San Francisco and of the country. ## TWO BIG FEATURES ON STATE PROGRAM TODAY

"Spotlight" With Esther Ralston and "Wolf Fangs" With Dog Actor Scheduled.

The State theater program today and tomorrow includes two of the best features that have ever been offered here in a double bill. They are "Spotlight"—with Esther Ralston, comedy queen, in the leading role, and "Wolf Fangs," starring Thunder, the famous human-like dog. In "Spotlight" practically all the action occurs backstage in a theater. The star's dressing room is the scene of some of the effective and intensely interesting sequences. The plot centers about the tragedy of a girl who has climbed to fame through sacrificing her own identity to play a part that she cannot put aside even when she leaves the stage.

In the picture Esther Ralston is shown as a timid, shrinking blonde and a dazzling, sophisticated brunette. The transformation is amazing. There is a love complication in the story of course, but it is not the usual sort of love plot. The girl has a momentous decision to make and the man learns that things are not always what they seem—even women.

Neil Hamilton, handsome young leading man, takes the part of the man who falls in love with an ideal. Nicholas Soussanin, talented Russian actor, has an important role as Kane, the theatrical producer who by his genius makes a star from a girl that had never been able to attract a second glance from anyone. Arlette Marshall, fascinating Parisian girl, and Arthur Houseman have good supporting parts. In "Wolf Fangs" White Fawn is cast as the heroine, Zimbo as the heavy and Mutt as the comedy relief in "Wolf Fangs," Fox Films' picture featuring Thunder, the greatest German police dog, who covered himself with glory with his performance in "Wings of the Storm" last season. All of the dogs are well known in Hollywood for their ability to act, having been trained by Frank Foster Davis, internationally known dog trainer.

ALL IS READY FOR MIDNIGHT FROLIC

Williams Wires Chic Chic Revue Will Be Here Promptly For State Show Tomorrow Night.

All out for the State theater midnight frolic tomorrow night. Reserved seats are selling fast and Manager Sanson advises those who intend to go to get their tickets today. There may not be enough to go around tomorrow.

Low Williams and his Chic Chic Revue have promised to be on hand promptly at 11:45 to start the festivities off. The evening's headliner has been playing big houses in Connecticut for the past month and his new show has worked itself to the point where it is perfection itself.

Comedy honors will be divided between the Horvath character actor and George Rubin, who has been with Williams for a number of years. Rubin is the originator of that famous crack, "You're a Wild-as-Guy," and Manchester audiences remember him for that. The girls in the show are real girls, beautiful, clever dancers, good singers, and with a good appreciation of just what is wanted. They are all new to the show, too, and Williams is known to be rather a good picker of feminine beauty.

The revue will only be a part of the frolic, for there will be a number of high-class vaudeville acts which the State will present for approval. Manager Sanson is confident that he will have the best midnight show in this section of Connecticut, not excepting Hartford theaters, either.

NORTH METHODIST CHURCH TO HOLD BIG BAZAAR

All of the organizations of the North Methodist church are uniting in preparing for a grand bazaar which will be held in the church vestry for three evenings beginning Wednesday, January 25. Useful articles of many kinds will be on sale and some novel entertainment features are promised.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Roy J. Nighthart who died Dec. 30, 1924.

Today recalls sad memories. Of a loved one gone to rest. Though he's gone he's not forgotten. In our hearts he lives still. His memory is as dear today As in the hour he passed away. Ever remembered by his wife MYRTLE NIGHTHART.

PROMINENT PLAYERS IN CIRCLE THEATER FILM

Big Cast of Favorites in "City" One of Two Features Tomorrow and Sunday.

An unusually large cast of prominent actors appear in "The City," the gripping drama, of contrasts which is one of two features at the Circle theater tomorrow and Sunday. The other big film on the program is Buck Jones' latest starring vehicle, "Hills of Peril."

"The City" is a stage play created a sensation.

It is said that the picture is more powerful than the play, because of the minute details that are brought before the eyes in a way that is left to the imagination.

Robert Frazer plays the leading role, that of a young and ambitious lawyer who moves his family to the city in order that they might derive the full benefits of life. Outwardly, the family prospers. They live in a gorgeous apartment, wear the best of clothes, are surrounded by every modern convenience and by every luxury money can buy.

But the code of the city is: "Make good, you can," and the young lawyer has not been raised in such a way as to cope with the situations that arise, and the city beats him in the end.

Mischief and Buck Jones are synonymous in the earlier scenes of "Hills of Peril," Fox Films' latest drama starring Buck.

He has terrorized Pinon City until the judge and a posse decide he must go. He takes a look at the posse and decides it might be well to "beat it," but before he goes he drops a handful of forty-fives into the stove and hurries away.

The cartridges explode and throw the posse into panic. The stove pipe falls and scatters soot over all in the room and the stove rocks while the cartridges are exploding.

After the last of the cartridges have gone off the judge and the posse begin to take stock of the place and slowly come to life to find Buck well on the road out of town.

"Robin Hood's Larder" is the name of a giant tree in Sherwood Forest in which, according to tradition, Robin Hood used to hide the deer he had killed.

Four Out of Five Have It

GEORGE BEBAN HEADS DOUBLE BILL AT RIALTO

Famous Character Star at His Best in "Loves of Ricardo"; Also Thrilling Western.

For tonight and Saturday the management of the Rialto theater is offering a splendid double feature program that should prove of worthy interest to Manchester movie-goers.

The feature attractions are George Beban in "Loves of Ricardo" and a smashing western drama, "White Pebbles," starring Wally Wales. In addition the opening chapter of the new serial, "Hawk of the Hills" and a Mickey McGuire comedy will be shown.

In giving "The Loves of Ricardo" to the screen, George Beban has again brought a new type of picture story to the screen. The story affords the famous stage and screen star with those moments of pathos and comedy of which he is a master and is produced with a distinguished cast of popular stars. "The Loves of Ricardo" is no conventional theme with conventional hero and heroine such as the story tellers usually unfold. It is a simple, deeply moving tale of simple lives enmeshed in a net of intrigue and love with a gentle soul, Ricardo, the Italian store-keeper, as the absorbing hero of a true-to-life story.

The first horse railroad was built in 1826.

NEW YEAR'S NIGHT DANCE AT TASILLO'S

Hartford's New Supper Club to Feature Dawn Dance—Is Making a Hit.

Hartford's newest Night Club, the Le Bal Tabarin, at 126 Wells street, near the Heublein Hotel, will have a special dawn dance on Sunday evening, New Year's Night. There will be a special program starting from 10:00 p. m. and running well into the morning. New musical features by the original Le Bal Tabarin orchestra which has been one of the big hits of the New Night Club since the opening and special a la carte service and entertainment will feature.

Everyone likes the cozy and comfortable booths and the beautiful lighting effects in particular are very much commented upon. The excellent music, the good food along with the enjoyment of dancing under a crystal ball make a most appealing combination. Reservations are being made now. Call 6-1888.

NON-STOP PIANO PLAYER TRIES FOR NEW RECORD; LOSES USE OF A HAND

Yorkshire.—The non-stop piano playing craze is now on the rage in England. Peter McBride, pianist of the Olympic Ballroom, Heckmondwike, Yorkshire, in attempting to play the piano for 100 hours, was compelled to give up after 61½ hours, owing to his left hand becoming useless. The present "record" is 65 hours.

BUY MORE FOREIGN GOODS, HE ADVISES

Head of Marshall Field Co. Says America Is a Great Consumer.

New York, Dec. 30.—America has developed a consuming power beyond estimate and for that reason the business experience of this year has been more gratifying than the signs by which we have been accustomed to estimate business led us to expect.

In making this statement for International News Service today, James Simpson, head of Marshall Field & Co., emphasized the fact that business fundamentals at the year-end are sound; credit is abundant; stocks of goods are low, and well-managed in the hands of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

Simpson is not apprehensive of the unprecedented expansion of bank credits in stock speculation, though he believes that stock market loans, and the security speculation growing out of them, should be reduced as far as possible without harmful depreciation of securities and commodity values.

SOCIAL SEASON OPENING EARLY AT PALM BEACH

Balm Beach, Fla.—This quaint little playground of society and wealth has staged its customary Rip Van Winkle act and another season is on.

Embarking on its pilgrimage to Florida's gold coast a trifle earlier than other years during the picturesque history of this exclusive winter colony, the smart set established a novel precedent in coming south before the Christmas holidays.

Seldom has the Yuletide found a handful of distinguished visitors in the colony, yet the most pretentious hostility of the resort has swung open its doors and the smart sets and gatherings of the socially elite are almost a daily event to vary the usual routine of sports.

The cottage colony has descended upon the town in numbers unprecedented in other seasons at this time. Villas and mansions are being opened daily and already many apartments are receiving their quota of visitors.

SELL 100,000 TREES AT $1 EACH TO SAVE FAMOUS N. H. WOODS

Concord, N. H.—Small trees, big trees, green trees and sober hued trees are for sale in Franconia Notch and the buyers are world wide in location.

All this is being done in an effort to raise $100,000, the final amount necessary to save the woodland that surrounds the "Old Man of the Mountain," the naturally carved great stone face of New Hampshire, that has been made universally famous by John Greenleaf Whittier.

The State of New Hampshire has an option on the timber land that must be taken up by March 1, 1928 at a cost of $40,000.

The purchaser of a tree for a dollar secures the tree but has not the right to cut, remove or mutilate the tree or any part of it.

Persons the world over are asked by the nature organizations, women's clubs and the Society for Protection of the Hampshire Forests, to buy a tree at the cost of $1.00.

The resulting product is forced through tiny holes in the form of fine threads which are treated with dilute nitric acid.

QUINN'S CAREFULLY COMPOUNDED. This Drug Store, responsibly operated by a registered pharmacist, is your fortress against serious illness.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (172) Rayon. Many attempts to make thread similar in appearance and quality to that the silkman manufactures have been made.

Rayon is the name given to this product, and it is even more glossy than real silk, but is not so soft or so strong. However, it has been improved greatly the last few years, and now has a large sale.

WORKMEN CLEAN OUT ANDOVER LAKE BED

Workmen are busy at Andover Lake cutting off trees and brush to make the lake bed cleaner and to allow for an easier approach to the shore. The gates were opened on Nov. 1 and the water was drained off. It is expected that the work will be completed within six weeks. During the past season between 40 and 50 lots were sold at the lake tract and three cottages were erected. Foundations are in for a half dozen other cottages and plans have been drawn for 20 more. The recent heavy rainfall raised the level of the lake two feet with the gates three-quarters open. With the water at that height the lake covered 300 acres.

The annual meeting of the Andover Lake Corporation will be held in the second week in January; at which time plans will be laid for an active campaign in the spring.

NO CHANGE IS MADE IN FOOTBALL RULES

New York, Dec. 30.—Football rules for the 1928 season will not differ radically from those of 1927. This was made plain to-day by the report of the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association, which is holding its 22nd annual convention here. The report, made public by E. M. Hall, of Dartmouth, chairman of the rules committee, was virtually a blanket of approval of the rules put into effect last season and indicated that the only changes contemplated will be for the purpose of clarifying, adjusting and perfecting the present rules. That means the goal posts will not be brought back and that the shift and lateral pass will remain. "The rules committee is much gratified with the result of the changes as shown in the games during the season just closed," said Hall in his report.

"Never have we seen better football, as long as we can hold the game essentially as it is we will apparently have the finest kind of a sport—open, clean, fast, interesting and safe—and with such a wealth of strategic possibilities that the underdog always has a chance to come back and the defeated team an opportunity to win the following week."

Comments on the "shift" Hall said: "The rest of this change, which was universally accepted with fine spirit by players and coaches, has been eminently satisfactory. The illegal shift has disappeared and the danger of any return to momentum plays have been eliminated."

The Blazing Horizon

by ERNEST LYNN

THE STORY THUS FAR
The story is laid in the Indian territory along the Kansas border in the '80s, when a fight was being waged for the opening of the territory to settlement. Chief characters are:
TONY HARRISON, orphaned at 13 when his father was shot in a poker game;
PAWNEE BILL, adventurer, teacher, Indian interpreter, showman;
JOE CRAIG, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live;
TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K brand;
RITA, his little tomboy daughter.

Some years later, when Rita and her mother depart for the east and finish school, the boy learns for the first time how much he cares for Titus Moore's red-headed, arrogant daughter. Moore is one of the chief opponents of the movement to open Oklahoma. Word is received that DAVID PAYNE, leader of the movement, is dead and Tony, in his loyalty to Moore, is troubled because of his sympathy for Payne's cause.
He tries to forget Rita. Moore and accompanies Pawnee Bill and BUFFALO BILL on a wild west show tour. When he returns, Rita comes back for a visit and Tony is forlorn in the knowledge of his hopeless love for her.

CHAPTER XXXIII

SHE spoke sharply to Cherokee and headed him toward home. They rode back to ranch headquarters in silence, for Tony, though he was puzzled by what she had said, forbore from questioning her.

He saw little of her during the next two days; when the third day passed in the same manner he began to think she was avoiding him. He stiffened, and welcomed the chance to ride over to the 101 ranch with Joe Craig to see George Miller about some Texas longhorns he had bought for wintering and part of which he was willing to dispose of. Although he had said nothing to Rita about it, he had left Cherokee at the Bar K. When he returned she thanked him. "But you mustn't spoil me," she smiled. "Do you realize you never ride him while I'm here? Just for that I insist that you ride with me this afternoon—and I'll take Fancy."

"Poor Fancy," she added; "she's getting old."
Tony nodded. "The colonel," he said, "will have to part with her when the time comes." He had not expected to find her so friendly. The resentment he had been harboring because of her aloofness during the last few days melted away, but he was a little impatient with her rapidly changing moods; he felt that she was not giving much consideration to his feelings.

Sooner or later, he was thinking, he would have to speak—she would have to know the truth. His better judgment told him to keep silent, to maintain the pretense he had kept up for so long; but he felt stifled. It would hurt her, of course; it could not do otherwise. But he would be hurt much more when he learned from her own lips the hopelessness of his longing—and there would be a measure of relief in the cruel pain.

He walked over to look at Cherokee and the big stallion made little nicker sounds of welcome at his approach. Tony, "I'm right low down in spirits, Cherokee," Tony told him, and laughed—a strange, harsh laugh. "Faint heart ne'er won fair lady," Cherokee neighed. If there's any comfort in that statement I'm sure hoping to find it."

He lingered near the corral most of the afternoon, waiting for Rita; but she did not put in an appearance until evening. "I had a thousand things to do," she explained, "and mother seemed to want me at her elbow every minute. I slipped out right after we had eaten, explaining that I wanted to see the sunset."

It was not too late for that, he assured her. "I've got Fancy all saddled."

She watched him admiringly as he vaulted to Cherokee's back, spurring the straggler. "You once told me," she said, "that you were jealous of Cherokee's affection for me. You needn't be; the horse idolizes you. I wonder if you realize it?"

"We do get along," Tony admitted.

She let her gaze take in the picture of him as he sat so easily and gracefully in the saddle. "Like a centaur," she thought; "I wonder if he is as unconscious of it as he appears to be."

They rode at a gallop, to get to their hill before the sun should slip down below the horizon. As they pulled in at the top of the rise, Rita exclaimed aloud. "We're just in time, Tony! Look!"

She pointed to the west, at a ball of orange fire. "It's beautiful!" "It is pretty," Tony admitted, "but it slips easily to the ground and helps her dismount, and stood silently beside her while they watched the sun disappear."

She was the first to break the spell. "Sunsets always make me sad," she said, "do they make you feel the same way?"

"A child," he answered, "hates the dark; and I reckon it's something we never outgrow."

Rita nodded understandingly. "Tony," she asked presently, "are you afraid of the dark sometimes?"

"Well, no," he admitted, "after some thought. I used to rebel somewhat when I was a youngster, because it generally meant bedtime. You're not trying to tell me," he added, looking at her queerly, "that you're afraid of the dark?"

She did not answer directly. "The dark," she mused, "is like the future; it goes into it groping, wondering. . . . Do I seem to be talking nonsense, Tony?"

"Not at all."
"Well," and she laughed, "let's talk about something else."
"About our fates," she suggested, and was surprised at his own boldness. "You once asked me if I had met mine yet and—"

"Oh no," she protested in a queer voice; "not about that. Let's talk about this." She gestured about her with her hand. "I'll be leaving next week; I wonder if you know how much I'll miss it when I'm gone."

"I've always thought you were right glad to leave it," he said suddenly, stung because she had diverted the conversation.

She was silent so long that he thought he had angered her. "I know you don't mean that," she said finally. "I think you were especially cruel to say it when you know I'm leaving it this time not to come back."

"I didn't know that," he said softly.

"On account of mother," she explained. "He could not see her face for the darkness, but he thought she sounded as if she was crying. For a moment he felt a terrifying timidity."

"Rita," he said presently, his voice sounding to him like the voice of a stranger.

"Rita—" somehow the thing would not come out; he would have to lead up to it. "Hell!" he said.

He heard her laugh. "Is that what you wanted to say to me? Go ahead, Tony. I'm listening."

"In the dimness he rolled and lighted a cigaret, to take three or four nervous puffs and throw it away. In back of him Cherokee made a slight sound of impatience and came over to nuzzle him. Tony spoke to him soothingly.

"I've got two or three things on my mind," he began after a while. "It don't seem right to let you go away without letting you know what they are. Seven years ago Joe Craig came across a little maverick up in Caldwell and brought him down to the Bar K. If it hadn't been for Joe Craig, who's got a heart as big as a bucket, I don't know what would have become of me. I'm real grateful to him."

He paused and she murmured, "Everyone loves Joe."
"They should. Then there was your father. He welcomed me down here and treated me like a son. Even you don't know how much he's done for me."

She said, "I'm sure he doesn't feel that he's done so much. No more than anyone would have done. He feels you've done so much for him. He's proud of you, Tony."

"I don't know why he should be, but I'm sure happy to hear you say it. What I want to tell you, though, is to remember, when you go away, that I'm grateful—no matter what turns up. Will you do that?"

"Why, of course," he said wondrously. "Why should I ever think otherwise?"

He plucked at his chaps with thumb and finger and traced a design in the cool grass with his right boot. A vague fear ran through her like a chill, and she spoke in a trembling voice. "Tony, I don't like to hear you talk like that. There's such a dreadful air of finality in it. You make me feel afraid."

"Of the dark?" he asked with a mischievous smile. "The moon is up, Rita—and there are the stars. . . . I've got something else to tell you, Rita; something's happened to me."

Her face was hidden from him in her hands, and he saw her tremble as though she felt a sudden premonition; but he went ahead in a swift rush of words. "It happened when you were at the fair for the first time. Up to then I'd always felt sort of—well, annoyed when you were around. I never did have any use for girls, anyway. But when you went away you took something with you, I guess. I argued with myself, but it didn't do any good; I used to ride along the old trails that you and I'd ridden over before, and mope and—"

Rita's voice, harsh and strained, interrupted his confession. "Tony, you mustn't— you don't know what you're saying."

"Let me talk," he said savagely. "If I make a fool of myself I'll do it in my own way, and you've got to listen. I told myself I was crazy and I tried to forget you—but it wasn't any use. Girl, I've got to tell you—I've got to—"

"No, Tony. Please."
"Hell and high water can't stop me. I love you, Rita. Do you hear that? I love you."

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS?

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Jim Hayes of Springfield, Ill., convicted of murder, raised a terrible row when he found that a policeman and nurse were to be present at his execution. Jim delivered himself of this sentiment: "Women got me into a peck of trouble and if I must hang for the murder of a woman, I won't have any more of them hanging around to gloat over what's happening to me."

Authorities ruled, however, that the two women, present in an official capacity, could remain. They did, Jim Hayes, murderer is not the first man to learn that women will stay where they "choose," male criticism to the contrary.

POOR WORKING GIRL
How do working girls buy their chicken salad lunches and, chiffon silk hose? The New York University of Textiles and Clothing, which has just completed a research of the wages and expenses of girls, wants to know. This body discovered that more than a third of the girls earn less than $1000 a year, and insists that a girl cannot healthfully live under $1200 a year.

HUSBAND GETTERS
Wage-earning "girls" from 15 to 50 were questioned. Clothing expenditures ran from 18 to 26 per cent, depending on income.

Only one-half of 1 per cent admitted wearing cotton or wool hose. Forty dollars a year for beauty, including hair cuts, manicles, and pedicures, was an average amount quoted. The researchers draw the conclusion that the working girl will not sacrifice her looks in the way of poor clothes or no beauty treatments, whatever else she may be without. The business of getting a husband still seems to be the girl's major business, so why do the alarmists worry about an oncoming day of "no homes?"

How about it? Are these only money cases planned by gold-diggers? Do in-laws break up homes, or is their influence over a son or daughter only normally maternal and paternal, meeting with extreme jealousy on the part of husband or wife who wished to keep his newly acquired property from even his parents? I am inclined to believe the latter.

Hotels dread women's conventions, for it means they'll lose thousands of towels and spoons. This is just one interesting revelation from Russell Keith, manager of the Statler hotel in Cleveland, who says that any large hotel's annual loss in towels alone runs from $33,000 to $78,000 a year, and that the depreciations on silver, sheets, towels and even blankets at the time of a woman's convention are shocking.

GAS COMPLETES TASK OF SUN IN RIPENING FRUIT

By Morris Fishbein

Modern chemistry has done much for the development of foods. The innovations introduced by chemists in the food industries have not always been promptly welcomed by the public, which has looked with occasional distrust on sophistication of food ever since 1808-1805, when the arguments over the pure food and drugs act caused everyone to develop some suspicions.

Regardless of these suspicions, many of the chemists' contributions have meant much for the benefit of human diet. After years of debate, glucose has been recognized as a fairly wholesome foodstuff. Hydrogenated fats have begun to serve satisfactorily for many of the purposes that formerly required butter.

however, is apparently satisfactory to the government investigators. There is no doubt that ethylene will produce a change in the coloration of the orange, or that it will, in other manners, modify the coloring of other fruits.

Investigators in the University of Minnesota have claimed that vegetables, such as celery and tomatoes, when subjected to a sufficient concentration of ethylene can be ripened as well as colored. Obviously, ripening involves many factors such as chemical changes in the tissue of the food and the development of vitamins which may not be affected by changes in the coloring of the covering.

Home Page Editorial Jazz Leads an Age of Music By Olive Roberts Barton

I have decided that jazz has another use except to keep time for a wicked foot. It is teaching the young idea a love for real music. How do I know this? By watching youngsters buy their own records, by watching audiences of jazz orchestras, and by noting rather carefully the tunes that stick. There is another thing that needs more lengthy explanation, namely, that some of the jazz composers decided some time back to do a sacrilegious thing and set classics to jig-saw time for dancing steps. Children who had no use for "good" music listened to these tunes (catchy enough I must admit, for a theme is a theme), and from thence it was only a step to the real thing.

"The Palmers," "The Lost Chord," "The Fifth Nocturne," even "Traumerel" dressed up like musical clowns, came prancing out of saxophones and French horns with the croup, for young couples to jig to, and didn't sound so bad at that. But they remembered the tunes better than the time, and the music "stuck."

the world's history. Entirely natural, of course, with our new inventions.

When shopping for records, they select ones with real melody, usually. They could not tell you why themselves, but their judgment is good.

The young public has a greater unconscious knowledge of good music than it has ever had before. One thing certainly is sure—there are a thousand times more music, both good and bad, than ever in

The Masons are back in first place again in the Herald bowling league as a result of their tie-out-of-four point victory over the Center Church and the Cloverleaves' similar victory over their arch rivals, the Cubs. How long the Masons will stay in first place is hard to tell. During the past few weeks, occupants of first place have been treated very roughly by the opposition. At the first half of the league draws toward a close, the Masons have three more matches to play, Knights of Pythias, Beethoven and Cubs.

The most important match last night was the one in which the Cloverleaves took almost complete advantage of their opportunity to knock the Cubs galley west. The north enders won two of the three games and captured the point for total pinfall with the result that today the Cubs are in second place, but only a point behind first.

Trailing them closely are the West Side Rec, Beethoven and Knights of Columbus.

The Cloverleaves won the first game by 52 pins and "blew" a one-three. Ernie Wilkie, a first pin spare in the last box of the game, otherwise the Cubs might have won. The last game went to the Cubs by 36 timbers. For a time it appeared that the Cubs might win by sufficient margin to get the pinfall but the Cloverleaves rallied enough to prevent this. Ulysses Lippincott who rolls good scores at Conran's hit thrice in the eighties. Ray Sad's 127 was high for the match.

The Knights of Columbus jumped into first place by getting two points from the Beethoven Glee Club. The singers won the first game by one pin, 470 to 469. The Kacey team had a fine chance to win in the last box but Frank Cervini wasn't quite equal to the occasion. In the second game, the K. of C. won by 32 pins and this proved enough to capture the pinfall point. The Beethoven won the third game 480 to 466. The Knights rolled with but four men, taking a dummy score for the fifth.

In winning two games from the Center Church, the Masons did not once come even near 500 pins. Their scores of 447, 479, and 474 would have been beaten by many teams in the league. The first game was won by the Center church by one pin when Howard Murphy missed a one-pin spare in the last box. The Masons grabbed the next two. Their scores were unusually low.

The West Side Rec after losing the first game by three pins rallied and won the next two from the St. Bridget's team. The last game was also close, the Rec winning by eight pins, both teams hitting over 500. McCluff and Metcalf hit 121 and 120 respectively.

The Bon Ami won the first and last games from the K. of P. Bill Brainard's 124 decided the first game. Starkweather's 121 did the same for the Knights in the second game. In the third game, all of the Bon Ami hit close to 100 and won 500 to 460.

The closest match of the night was between the British Americans and Highland Park. They split the first two games, Highland Park winning the second by three pins and then the third ended in a tie. The British Americans won the roll-off 89 to 88. Wilson's 131 was high for the night. Following are the scores:

STANFORD LOST TWO GRID GAMES DURING SEASON

The Stanford Cardinals, who play Pittsburgh on January 2 in the annual Tournament of Roses football game, was defeated twice during the past football season, but four victories and one tie against conference opponents resulted in the award to Stanford of a triple tie for the Pacific coast championship.

Here's Stanford's record for the year:

Stanford 33, Fresno State 0.
Stanford 7, Olympic Club 6.
Stanford 0, St. Mary's 16.
Stanford 20, Nevada 2.
Stanford 13, California 13.
Stanford 20, Oregon Aggies 6.
Stanford 19, Oregon 0.
Stanford 13, Washington 7.
Stanford 6, Santa Clara 13.
Stanford 13, California 13.

Total: Stanford, 144; Opponents, 69.

Campus Comment

By Bob Matherne

No Army-Navy game in 1928—nor any more thereafter!

So it seems now, several days after the first hint that all was not well at Annapolis in regards to the playing by West Point of men who had played football three years at other colleges.

Neither body seems to be weakening in the stand taken at the first break. The Army officials say they will play any cadet who shows enough ability to warrant his playing—and the Navy heads say they won't play the Army if they do.

It looks like the dear old public is the sufferer in this controversy, for the continuing refusal of the two schools to compromise their differences will deprive the fans of a game that for years has been one of the most attractive of the season.

Is the Army right? Or the Navy? To our way of thinking it seems as if the Army should agree to the demands of the Navy that the same eligibility rules prevail. Even at that, the future ensnared will be under one handicap, the lower age required to enter Annapolis.

Most experts think the game will be played next year, that the tangle will be cleared up and that in a hundred years from now it won't mean a thing to either school.

Byron Eby, one of Ohio State's fleet halfbacks this past season, is devoting all his time to the Scarlet Mask club drama, at Columbus, now. Eby was in the cast that recently gave performances of a musical comedy skit in several Ohio towns.

Local Sport Chatter

The defeat which the Cubs suffered in the Herald bowling league last night was only the second time the football champs have lost a match in the first round. The Beethoven Glee Club handed them their only other defeat.

A large number of Manchester fans are expected to travel to Bristol tonight to see the S.H.S. team attempt to beat Bristol High at basketball. Bristol is a slight favorite.

Raymond McCaughey, former S.H.S. basketball star, and coach of a junior school in Schenectady, N.Y. played with the Schenectady team against the Renaissance Five of New York City recently and was on the winning side. The margin of victory was seven points.

The Renaissance Five plays at Plainfield next Wednesday night and many Manchester fans are planning to make the trip. A section has been reserved for local fans and anyone desiring to secure tickets, may do so through Louis Klinkhamer.

Carl Hansen's three string of 385 will probably not be beaten in the Herald bowling league this season. He and Mike Suhle are tied for the high single with 146. This is expected to be bettered but may not.

There will be a meeting at the School street Rec at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon of all persons interested in forming a basketball team to represent the Rec. Paul Ballsteger, Herb Angell, Roy Norris, Harold Madden, George Stavnitsky, Elmo Mantell, Harry Benson, "Cap" Bissell, Ty Holland, Jimmy Gorman, Ding Farr, Jimmy Quish, Johnny Boyle, "Nibble" House, Tommy Faulkner or anyone who may have been overlooked in this list, is welcome to attend the meeting.

Reputation Of West Depends On Stanford

Mr. "Gibby" Welch that Pittsburgh remained undefeated in the east this season, although the Washington and Jefferson eleven, on a slow field, held the Panthers to a scoreless tie.

Mr. Welch's forte is running with the ball. Slow fields are a terrible handicap to him. Dry fields are not. He showed that many times this season, especially when he returned kickoff's against West Virginia and Nebraska for touchdowns. The first was for 105 yards, the second for 97 yards.

As a result of Mr. Welch's running activities, and a good bit of co-operation from his playmates, Pittsburgh dimmed the lights of West Virginia, Drake, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech, Penn State and a couple other elevens this fall.

It is also said that Mr. Welch recently scanned over the list of the backfield stars who have performed in other Tournaments. The Roses game—the Four Horsemen, Ernie Nevers, Pooley Hubert, Hoge Workman, Eddie Casey, George Wilson, Johnny Mack Brown, Harry Wilson, and many others.

After a proper amount of serious reflection, it dawned on Mr. Welch that Jan. 2 would be a good day to inscribe his name in big red letters among those greats. Not that he isn't a great, mind you, but he was chosen almost unanimously for All-America this year, but merely because—well, because.

Mr. Welch is all that Pittsburgh has to depend on in this Tournament of Roses game. Names you'll hear a lot of that day include Hagan, Booth, Parkinson, Wasmuth, Cutler Donchess! and Pittchene is a great line, from end to end.

Yale's Basketball Team To Play Pennsylvania

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 30.—Yale's Varsity basketball team, under direction of Coach George Taylor, of Waterbury, appears to be climbing toward the heights in that branch of intercollegiate sports. Yale goes into the first intercollegiate league game of the 1928 season at Philadelphia tomorrow night with a group of men who appear to be the best basketball players Yale has had for some years, and in New Haven at least there is today more than a suspicion that Yale might win the game with University of Pennsylvania.

Playing in five games this year the Yale Varsity has won four and lost one. The last game, that with

NO LUCK FOR LANE.

Bill Lane, boss of the Hollywood Pacific coast League club, lamented his poor luck when he returned home from the Dallas minor league meeting. He said he had gone to Dallas feeling sure that he would be able to get Johnny Neun, a first baseman, from Detroit. Three other American League managers were in the line ahead of him.

Midget Smith, one of the outstanding bantamweights during the regime of Joe Lynch, has retired from the ring. Smith was never able to get a title but he made plenty of money and had the distinction of never having been knocked out.

Big Ten football teams will meet five intercollegiate opponents in Alabama, Dartmouth, Navy, Princeton and Penn Next year.

PITT PANTHERS UNDEFEATED IN RERULAR GAMES

Pittsburgh's football squad was the only major team in the country to go undefeated during its regular football schedule. One tie, however, was marked against it. It is because of this splendid record that the Panthers are going to represent the east against Stanford in the west, in the annual Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena on January 2.

Here's the dope on the Panther's games this season:

Pittsburgh 33, Grove City 0.

Billy Evans Says

MOST HUMOROUS EVENT

Without a doubt the most humorous situation that has ever come under my observation in the majors had Dave Altizer, former big league star, but now numbered among the has-beens, playing the leading role. It is baseball tradition that a player released by a major league club gets no greater delight than helping bring about the defeat of that club as a member of some other team.

Altizer had just been released by Cleveland to Chicago. The two clubs were playing at Chicago before a big Sunday crowd. The day was made to order for Altizer to do his victory stuff, thereby making the manager of the team that released him look like a sucker.

Altizer reached first on a clean single to right, Chicago, trailing by a couple of runs, was forced to try for a bunch of tallies.

The next batsman gave Altizer the hit and run sign. Dave was off with the pitch. The batsman took a healthy swing, sending a line drive directly into the hands of First Baseman Stovall of Cleveland.

At the time, Stovall was but a foot or two from first base, as he had been playing the bag to keep Altizer from getting a big lead. Stovall's glove, it retired the batsman, making two out. By touching first base, he completed a double play on Altizer, retiring the side.

Altizer, running wild with his head down, didn't know it.

As Altizer neared second, the Chicago coach at third yelled, "Slide, Dave, slide." He accompanied by going into the bag feet first in the most approved style. Stovall, seeing the hoax, helped it on by throwing the ball into center field.

Getting to his feet, Altizer dashed for third. The crowd seeing the humor of the situation was in an uproar. The fans yelled for Dave to score. Joe Birmingham, playing center field for Cleveland, retrieved the ball and threw to Ebb Bradley who then miraculously allowed the ball to get away from him and roll toward the grandstand.

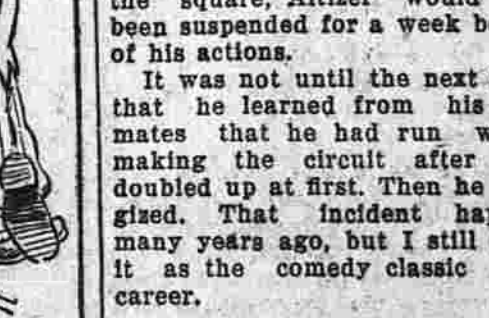

Dempsy thinks Sharkey could beat Tunney because Gene couldn't reach him with a right. Maybe he means couldn't reach him with a right low enough.

The New York boxing fathers have declared Corporal Izzy Schwartz flyweight champion of the world of New York.

The jurors that absolved Rogers Hornsby, of $3,275, gambling claims brought by a betting commissioner probably figured that the boys were getting jointly. And it must have been a swell joint, too, O'Goorty declaims.

Tony Is the Favorite For the Featherweight Title; Taylor's First Appearance in Garden in Years.

BY DAVID J. WALSH (I. N. S. Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 30.—Bud Taylor, most consistent of all fighters before the public today unless you care to make an exception in the case of Gene Tunney, will meet Tony Canzoneri tonight at Madison Square Garden in a ten-round bout that will decide two interesting points, one of which bears the aspect of downright drama. It was almost four years ago that the month that Taylor, his flying and cold grey eyes flashing, knocked Frankie Jerome into that rather state of unconsciousness from which nearly every victim emerges, Frankie didn't. He died that night in Bellevue hospital.

For four years, Taylor has gone right on fighting the best and the worst in all sections of the land but he fought none of them in the Garden ring. Tonight, he will return to the auspices under which the tragedy was enacted, although another Garden ring since has risen up to replace the old.

Taylor Superstitions

Perhaps Taylor had other reasons for not appearing at the club which witnessed the first of two fatal finishes in his career, but he has been innocently principal. The other reason, in the death of Clever Senico, Filipino, and the writer feels certain that Taylor never returned to fight again at the scene of that tragedy. Somehow, too, it is suspected that Taylor's aversion to the Garden was equally intentional.

But they finally are getting him back there tonight and I among many thousands, am anxious to see just how he copes with himself. My guess is that Taylor, an unimaginative young man with a remarkable nerve control, will do it well.

Not the Favorite

Apparently, however, the gamblers are not so certain of this point. They have made Canzoneri a 7 to 5 favorite in the betting quite regardless of the fact that Taylor already holds the title and has won in preceding engagements. Tony had to make weight—the first two times; he won't tonight. Maybe that accounts for the odd.

Handicapping and form sheets, however, should be sought. But no worse than an even money bet, so I must assume that his return to the club has so obviously avoided has also influenced the odds.

In other words, I cal gamblers are getting psychological and all I have to say is that they were good enough in the first place.

Speaking of the first place recalls the fact that I mentioned a second point, hitherto unaccounted for. It is that the Taylor-Canzoneri match will proceed some distance in un-muddling the featherweight championship matter. Taylor already is bantamweight champion in every place where they insist on thinking first and talking afterward. He pretty thoroughly can establish a claim to the featherweight title by beating Canzoneri; in fact, that goes for both of the principals.

Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, happens to be in with a prior claim, but this happens to be boxing, not gold mining, and so Benjamin really cannot hope to get anywhere unless he sees fit to dispose of tonight's survivor, Benjamin, I understand, is a bit miffed at the local commission and may not care to play in our back yard but if they show him the money and the unqualified title, he ought to be nice.

In any event, it begins to look as though the Taylor-Canzoneri affair soon will have a real leader and tonight's work, if not actually starting the ball rolling, at least will give it a first class nudge on the sitches.

ROCKNE TOUR

New York, Dec. 30.—Knut Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, has chartered the Cunard liner Carmania for his tour to the Olympic games at Amsterdam, Holland, next summer. The party will leave here on July 20 and will return on September 2, after visiting seven European countries. Rockne will be accompanied by many college students and personal friends.

Rockne's personally conducted tour is expected to be the largest of its kind. He is giving up his lucrative summer coaching schools which are said to have netted him about $15,000 annually.

GIANTS' SCHEDULE

New York, Dec. 30.—The New York Giants will play at least 23 and possibly 25 exhibition games on their spring training trip next season. Most of the ex-tests are with the Senators' Athletics and Red Sox. No National League clubs will be met.

A squad of 20 pitchers and catchers will report to Manager McGraw at Hot Springs, Ark., on Feb. 15. They will join the regular squad at Augusta, Ga., two weeks later.

BOTH TRICKY PLAYERS.

Dick Hyland of Stanford and Gibby Welch of Pittsburgh were considered two of the trickiest open-field runners in football this past season.

NEW DIRECTOR TO BEGIN ON MONDAY

"Jerry" Fay's Engagement Is Permanent; All-Year-Round Programs Planned.

The announcement in "The Herald" yesterday to the effect that "Jerry" Fay had been secured as the new director of the Manchester Community club caused widespread comment in recreational and athletic circles at both ends of the town. The generally expressed opinion was that in view of the prominence in college and professional athletics of Mr. Fay, and his local popularity, genial temperament and known ability, the directors of the Community club have made a wise selection, and in fact were very fortunate in securing a director with these qualifications.

"Jerry" will assume his new duties Monday. The first step no doubt will be a general survey of the situation, with a view to determining the needs of the district, and how the organization can best go about the matter of rendering the utmost service to the community in a recreational and social way.

Competitive Sports
It has already been decided that the Community club is to have a basketball team whose goal will be the town championship. As stated on the sports page of The Herald last evening, the director of the Rec on School street has plans for an All-Manchester team to play on the south end floor. It is hardly to be presumed that the Rec team, when formed and in good playing mettle, will sit calmly aside while the north end team is claiming the championship. The result is likely to be good-natured rivalry, with some hectic games for local supremacy. Games with out-of-town teams are also contemplated.

In a few days Director Fay will announce some of his plans for winter activities, and those interested learn they have been hoodwinked. Big cities and popular resorts all over the world have their pitfalls for girls.

Serious Problem
Whether the situation today is worse than it was before the war is a hard question to answer but the number of girls led astray "are sufficiently large to constitute a serious problem."

This is the sinister indictment of commercialized vice in many nations as pointed out in all its drab detail in a bulky League of Nations report on the traffic in women and children, which has just been brought to New York and made available at the offices of the American Social Hygiene Association. The report has been submitted to each of the twenty-eight governments involved.

What Report Says
"Girls who join travelling troupes and perform in low-class music halls and cabarets in some countries often fall a prey to traffickers who are sometimes associated with the managers of places of amusements," the report says. "Their contracts are often misleading, their wages are inadequate, and not infrequently their real business is to secure clients for the establishment."

Investigation Aroused
The report has aroused considerable indignation in Europe, according to Major Eascom Johnson, who is in active charge of the three year's investigation of conditions on four continents. He said that far-reaching changes are almost certain to take place within the next five years.

"The main route for international traffic in women so far as we have been able to examine it, is from Europe to countries in Central and South America," the report asserts. "There is also a route from Europe to Egypt and to other places in Northern Africa."

The United States is touched upon very lightly in the report. It is known, however, that United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle of New York has interested himself in the report, having been informed unofficially that charges had been made that women and girls were sent to Latin American countries from this city through fake theatrical agencies.

"DANISH ACTRESS" COMES ALL THE WAY FROM SYRACUSE

Hollywood, Calif.—Hollywood was fooled. And of how Hollywood hates to be fooled—especially by a little 19-year-old girl.

Beautiful blond Jean Williams came here fishing for a movie contract. And blase Hollywood swallowed not only her bait—but hook, line and sinker as well.

Jean Williams won a bathing beauty contest in Syracuse, New York. And she went to New York City where she got a job in Flo Ziegfeld's Follies. Six months ago she came to Hollywood but the movie town didn't give her a tumble at all. So she went away—and came back again as Sonia Karlov, Danish actress.

Sonia is the Name
Hollywood bowed at the feet of Sonia Karlov. She was society's toast. She was invited everywhere. She was invited everywhere. She was invited everywhere. She was invited everywhere.

Newspaper writers clamored around the beautiful, fiery creature seeking interviews. And even to the "hard boiled" and wise to such stunts—were taken in. The daily papers were filled with stories of Sonia Karlov. Producers who wouldn't even see her when she was Jean Williams were bidding for her services.

Scribe Knows Her
One day Sonia was invited to be the guest of honor at a luncheon separated from her parents by long distances that the unhappy victim learns what is expected of her.

Investigation Aroused
The report has aroused considerable indignation in Europe, according to Major Eascom Johnson, who is in active charge of the three year's investigation of conditions on four continents. He said that far-reaching changes are almost certain to take place within the next five years.

The Happy Ending
"That's all right," replied DeMille. "You fooled my staff and you fooled me. You even put one over on all Hollywood. If you're a good enough actress to do that, you are good enough for my pictures."

Sonia Karlov she fooled Hollywood.

So Sonia Karlov still has a job—and she's dropped the name Jean Williams forever. Hollywood thought it smart—but it isn't. Inexperienced, beautiful

SENSATIONAL RAID OF NEW YORK CLUB

Dry Agents Arrest Staff and Remove $50,000 Worth of Club's Furnishings.

New York, Dec. 30.—In a sensational raid on the Chez Helen Morgan early to-day, a large squad of federal prohibition agents seized a quantity of alleged liquor, wrecked the interior of the exclusive night club and forced 300 formally attired patrons to the street.

The officers arrested Helen Morgan, musical comedy star, as the owner of the establishment. She and eight of the club's staff were taken to a police station in a patrol wagon and charged with illegal possession of liquor.

The actress, who plays a leading role in "Show Boat," a Broadway production that recently opened here, was highly indignant. Clad in an expensive evening gown and ermine wrap, she excoriated the raiders for their methods of operation.

Bondsman Ready.
Bondsman came to her rescue, however, and before dawn she was free on bail. She and her associates were to be given a hearing later.

A crowd of nearly 1,000 persons gathered on 54th street as the alarmed patrons of the club dashed to the sidewalk. Broadway has not seen so much excitement in months.

The raid was made under the personal supervision of Regional director Major Maurice Campbell. It was taken to indicate that further raids will be made on night resorts where preparations have

POLICE COURT

Adolph Soucy, chef at the Waranoke Hotel, was before the Manchester police court this morning charged with intoxication. The man made such a disturbance in his room late last night that J. The judge suspended judgment on payment of costs.

5,000 FRENCH COLONY FOR NEW TIRE FACTORY IN OLD ENGLISH TOWN

Stoke-on-Trent, Eng.—In this very English district, made doubly famous by the early novels of Arnold Bennett and its own inimitable pottery, a little French colony is trying to settle down and is finding the transfer from Montparnasse to a typical British countryside but little to its liking.

The colony at present numbers only 800 men and women, but there are fresh arrivals almost every week. They represent the advance guard of an army of 5,000 workers, almost all French, who are to take employment in the Michelin tire factory now being erected here. Many of the new residents have never been in England before, for although it is less than twenty-five miles from Dover to Calais, thousands of French people have never left their native soil to see what their neighbor on the other side of the English Channel is like.

Two things the residents of this new Arcady dislike. One is the weather, and the other the fact that English saloons—or pubs, as they are better known—are strictly supervised by law, and are open only at certain hours of the day.

Few of the residents speak English at all, and they have found difficulty in establishing pleasant relations with the native population of the village.

The greatest difficulty that the colonists encounter is that of finding amusement. A number of the newsdealers and booksellers in the village have stocked their shelves with French novels and newspapers. Fortunately, Hollywood speaks a universal language, and the French colony is always well represented at the movies in town. The factory is expected to be in operation in a few months.

The first newspaper was published in England in 1588.

Our food twins wish you a Happy New Year That's filled with comfort and good cheer.

We believe that in this market place you will find the food that will benefit and entertain you during the coming year. May we begin serving you.

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S HUSBAND FOUND DEAD

Robert C. Cutler, Missing For a Month, Discovered in Myrtle Beach Cottage.

Christmas day brought sorrow into the Myrtle Beach home of Mrs. Robert C. Cutler, formerly of Manchester. On that afternoon the body of her husband was found in a vacant cottage at the shore.

Mr. Cutler, who was well known here, had been missing from his home since Thanksgiving Day morning. All efforts to locate him failed. His body was discovered by a Bridgeport newspaper man who went to his aunt's cottage. Death was due to gas asphyxiation.

Mrs. Cutler was formerly Miss Anna McCullough of this town.

P. O. SCHEDULE FOR NEW YEAR'S HOLIDAY

The following schedule will be observed at the South Manchester post office Monday, January 2:

City carriers, will make one trip; rural carrier delivery, none; parcel post delivery, until 11:00 a. m.; money order window, closed all day; stamp window, open from 7:30 to 10:00 a. m.; general delivery window, open from 7:30 to 10:00 a. m.

Mails will arrive as follows: 6:35; 8:55; 9:45 a. m., mails will depart as follows: 8:50, 11:00 a. m. All departments of the office will close at 11:00 a. m. for the day. Lobby will be open until 11:00 a. m.

Lively music makes people feel more active because the heart tends to keep pace with any strong rhythm and a rapid circulation stimulates activity.

WAPPING

At the regular weekly session of the South Windsor Court held in the Town Hall last Tuesday evening, J. J. Tierney of New Britain was arraigned on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor, before Justice of the Peace William T. Thresher. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs and committed to the jail.

SENSE and NONSENSE

He who is rich only in money is poor indeed. We like Ours "Straight" The modern dress is cut quite short. What care the modern Miss? Why none! She'll wear 'em short 'e'n tho Her Legs LIK E B O W E D S H I "Make 'em shorter-shorter yet!" That seems to be their creed. They'll wear 'em too, the modern maids, 'E'n tho they be K N E C K E D Happiness is a by-product of industry.

WATER GOLF

Here it is with another YEAR upon us, and it seems like the last one only lasted a WEEK. It takes only three strokes for the change, is the puzzle editor's guess. Par is on another page.

WEEK YEAR grid for a word game.

THE RULES 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

A THOUGHT

Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.—John 15:13. We can all be heroes in our virtues, in our homes, in our lives.—James Ellis.

THE TINYMITES

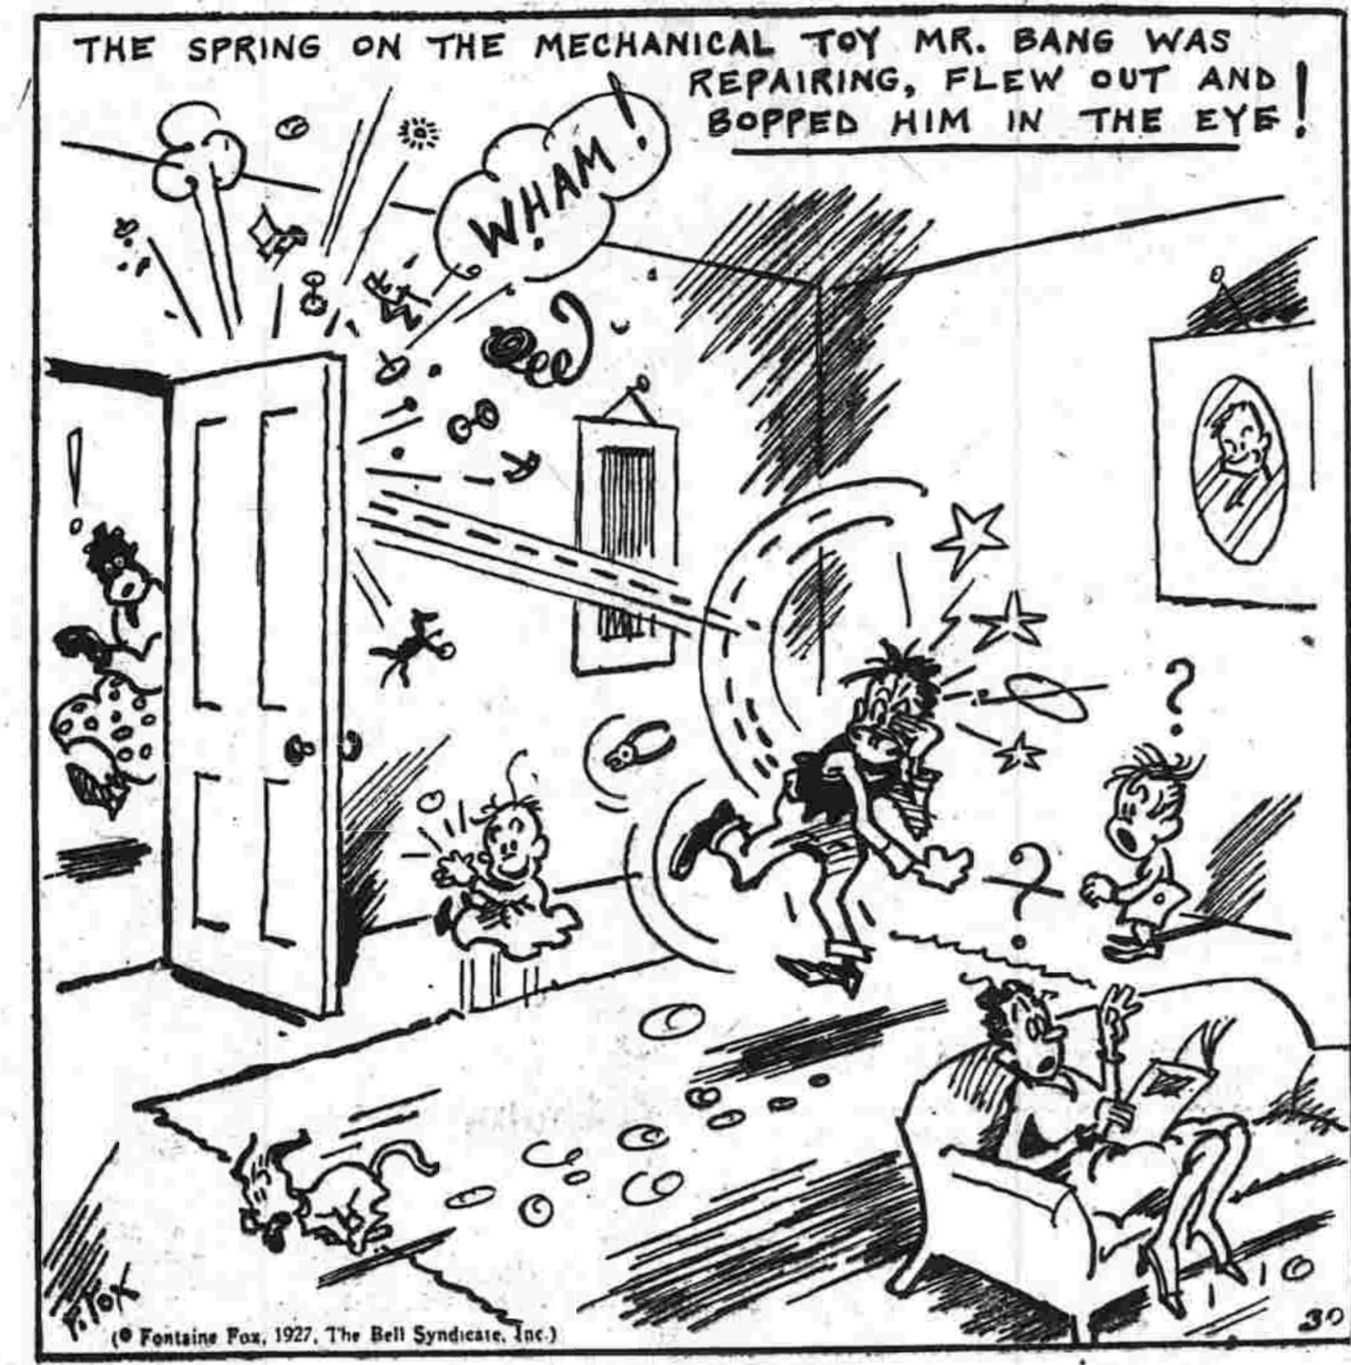

Up, up, the big toboggan went, and 'bout a half an hour was spent in sailing swiftly through the air. The Tinies hung on tight. Wee Clowney cried, "Oh me, oh, my, if we should fall down from the sky, I do not know where we would land, for land is out of sight." Then Scouty answered, "We won't fall, why, I am not afraid at all. Old Santa wouldn't send us up to tumble down to earth. We're just as safe as we can be. This sort of sport seems great to me. Let's try and make the best of it, for all that we are worth." Then night came down, and pretty soon, somebody yelled, "We'll reach the moon if we don't stop this climbing. We are miles and miles in air. I wish that I could steer this sled so it would settle down instead. The only things that we can see are cloud puffs here and there." The moment that this wish was made, the big toboggan quickly swayed and headed toward the earth. Wee Clowney cried, "We're going down. I wonder where 'twill take us to. Oh, there's a cloud. We're going through. I hope that when we land it's in some funny little town." The big toboggan reached the cloud, for in a moment they were in a mist, of murky gray. Of course this wasn't so much fun. But when they flew out in the sun, they saw some water down below, and Clowney shouted, "Hey! We're doomed, I fear. We'll all get wet. I hope our sled does not upset." The long toboggan settled down upon the choppy sea. Instead of turning turtle, though, right o'er the top it seemed to go. It rode the waves and all the bunch were safe as they could be. (The Tinymites meet an airplane in midair in the next story).

JACK LOCKWILL'S HELPING HAND

by Gilbert Patten

Jack obtained scarcely more than a glimpse of the ghostly figure at Sinnott's heels before the latter crashed into him and flung him backward into the room. The frightened fellow slammed the door and snapped on the spring lock. "Well, what's it all about?" exclaimed Lockwill, getting his breath. "Did you see what was after me?" gasped Jerry. "It almost grabbed me!"

"I saw something in white behind you," was the answer. "That was the thing!" whispered the other, turning a ghastly face on Jack and putting his back against the door.

"You know a fellow committed suicide in this house once," Sinnott went on in that unsteady whisper. "They say the place is haunted by his ghost!" Jack had to laugh.

"That's bunk!" he scoffed. "I'm surprised that you should believe such silly stuff, Jerry. The ghost was some fellow in a sheet, playing a practical joke. 'Listen!' hissed Sinnott. 'The whole house is awake! Oosh! Mustn't anybody see me like this!' He tore off his clothes and got into pajamas. 'Douse the gim, Jack!' he urged, as he sprang into bed. (To Be Continued.)"

Manchester Grange members have been invited to attend a rehearsal Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Loomis of Keeney street. The traveling gavel is to be presented with due ceremony to Good Will Grange of Glastonbury on Tuesday evening and everybody who can make it convenient to do so is urged to attend the rehearsal in preparation therefor.

Rev. Marvin S. Stocking of North Main street has been confined to his bed this week with an attack of grip.

Clarence W. Wood of Center street is the new organist and choir director at Second Congregational church and will play at the service Sunday morning. Mr. Wood has been organist for a number of years in one of the Methodist churches and more recently of Emmanuel Congregational church, Springfield. Mr. Wood is a nephew of Mrs. Walter Tracy of Washington street and with his wife and three children has come to Manchester to live.

The Daughters of Liberty, L.L. O. L. will be the guests of Washington Orange Lodge at the installation tonight in Orange hall. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 and the supper and a social hour will follow the installation.

Miss Esther Barrabee will give a piano recital at Watkins Bros. music room this evening. A very interesting program will be arranged. Miss Barrabee will be assisted by Miss Olive Nyman, in vocal solos. Friends are invited. Miss Barrabee has received her musical education from Miss Grace Adams of this town.

ABOUT TOWN

The Maple Terrace Inn in Andover, on the state highway, is an excellent place to stop for a dinner or to spend an evening in dining and dancing. A special New Year's Eve program of entertaining dance music and toothsome food is being prepared for Saturday evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fairman of Thompsonville, past grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, was the guest of Mrs. Herbert Alley of Washington street during her stay in town. Mrs. Fairman instituted Memorial Temple of Manchester.

The Ladies Benevolent society of Center Congregational church will conduct a food sale at Watkins Brothers store tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

W. E. Mather has returned to his home in Philadelphia after spending a week with the family of his daughter, Mrs. John Pickles of Holl street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of Woodland street have the sympathy of their friends because of the illness of two of their children with scarlet fever. Alice, their seven year old daughter was recovering when Harvey their small son was taken ill with the same disease.

In celebration of their fifth anniversary the Buckland Parent-Teacher association will serve a New Year supper for members only in the dining room at the school Monday evening. Mrs. Andrew Healey and her committee will serve the meal at 6:30. At 8 p. m. the regular monthly business meeting will be held in the assembly hall, the speaker and the nature of the entertainment program will be disclosed later. Mrs. Frank Smith heads this committee.

A number of local Grange members are planning to attend the session of East Central Pomona Grange at Glastonbury this evening with Good Will Grange as host. During the business session the fifth degree will be conferred on a class of candidates.
