

MARINES EXPECTING A SURPRISE ATTACK

Sudden Lull In Activities of Nicaraguan Rebel Viewed With Suspicion—Reinforcements Are Arriving

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 5.—Meaning the sudden cessation of hostilities as an omen of danger, the United States marines and Nicaraguan constabulary holding the town of Quilali today were keeping a sharp look-out for a possible surprise attack by the rebel forces under Gen. Sandino.

It was thought news of reinforcements and supplies being rushed to Quilali may have reached Sandino's headquarters and that the rebels may be preparing an ambush. The extreme quiet prevailing since the counter-attack last Sunday has caused officers experienced in guerrilla warfare to exercise all precautions.

CONGRESSIONAL PROBE.
Washington, Jan. 5.—A Congressional investigation into the "Nicaraguan mess," in which sixteen U. S. marines have been killed and more than forty others wounded during the American occupation, seemed assured today, until after President Coolidge returns from addressing the Pan-American Congress in Havana.

Democrats and Independent Republicans in the Senate are determined upon an airing of the whole situation, it was said today. They do not, however, wish to "embarrass" Mr. Coolidge at the moment he is preparing to attend the Pan-American Congress as another "ambassador of good will."

Meanwhile, the navy continued to rush reinforcements to the beleaguered marines on duty in Nicaragua.

The marine force now on active duty, about 1,400, is to be virtually doubled. Two battalions, comprising 50 men each, are rushing preparations for sailing from this country, and additional small units have been dispatched from Panama, Norfolk and other places to bring up the marine strength in the field to approximately 3,000 rifles.

The fresh marines are in addition to the dispatch of seven naval vessels, two cruisers and five destroyers to Caribbean waters.

The opinion of the administration's policy in Congress are charging that the state department has "deceived the public" in its accounts of the situation in Nicaragua. They are digging up statements from the department picturing General Sandino's rebel forces as being a "handful of non-descript bandits" and are preparing to compare these with later statements from the Navy Department showing that Sandino is leading a formidable force of well-equipped soldiers.

It is the aim of the investigators, too, to discover if possible where Sandino is getting his equipment, which Navy dispatches show is of modern design and effectiveness.

PICKED MARINES.
New York, Jan. 5.—Acting on a radio message received late last night from Washington, Col. N. A. Hall, in charge of the United States marines at the Brooklyn Navy Yard today ordered 25 picked marines to proceed to the Old Dominion Liner Jefferson to sail for Nicaragua.

The Jefferson will take the marines to Norfolk, Va., where they will embark on a navy vessel for the trip to Nicaragua. The Jefferson was scheduled to sail at noon today.

REBEL CASUALTIES.
Washington, Jan. 5.—Estimates of the number of casualties among General Sandino's followers are "pure guesswork," Secretary of State Kellogg said today.

Reports of the number killed in clashes with American marines ranged from 350 upward. "That is grossly exaggerated," Kellogg declared.

Sixteen marines have been killed, according to official records. Kellogg again described Sandino as a "bandit."

SAFE CRACKERS BUSY.
Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 5.—Safe crackers ran wild in central Bridgeport during the night, forcing eight safes in five different concerns and getting less than $300 for their pains.

Victims of the intruders were: Iron Ledge Quarry Co.; three safes, no loot; Pequonnock Coal Co., two safes, $1.50 in cash; F. L. Mills auto agency, one safe, $170 in cash and some jewelry; Citizens Ice and Coal Co., one safe, $50 cash; Dan Ralph filling station, one safe, $15 cash.

A roll of fifty pennies taken from the Pequonnock Coal Company's safe was found on the floor of the Mills auto agency.

TREASURY BALANCE.
Washington, Jan. 5.—Treasury balance Jan. 3: $250,278,131.74. Customs receipts: $2,515,260.92.

LINDY STARTS FOR NICARAGUA DESPITE "WAR"

Expect to Fly Within 25 Miles of the Battle Zone On His Way to Managua.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Jan. 5.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh resumed his aerial argosy over the Central American jungles today, taking off from Tegucigalpa at 11:36 a. m. (Central Standard Time) for Managua.

Col. Lindbergh plans to fly around the Nicaragua mountain country where warfare is in progress between American marines and General Sandino's Nicaraguan rebels. He probably will not fly within 25 miles of the war area.

The flight from Tegucigalpa to Managua will cover between 750 and 200 miles, according to the route taken and Col. Lindbergh expected to arrive in Managua within two hours.

PREPARING FOR HOP.
Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Jan. 5.—America's Lone Eagle, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, today was prepared to take off across the jungles of Nicaragua to Managua.

He planned to devote most of this morning to going over the motor and parts of his plane and to take off about noon. He will go by way of Leon.

Although his path lies over territory where American marines and rebel soldiers were in bloody warfare, Col. Lindbergh evinced no worry as to any possibility that he might be harmed.

Col. Lindbergh last night attended a formal reception at the presidential palace here, where he received many gifts from high officials. Earlier in the evening a formal dinner was given for him at the American Legation.

SNYDER HEARING ON AT ALBANY

Governor Smith Hears Pleas By Lawyers of Mrs. Snyder and Judd Gray.

LITTLE HOPE.
Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5.—After listening for two hours this afternoon to pleas for the lives of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Henry Judd Gray, Gov. Alfred E. Smith plainly indicated at the close of the hearing that he did not intend to grant executive clemency for either Mrs. Snyder or Gray.

Unless the governor changes his mind, Mrs. Snyder and Gray will go to their death in the electric chair at Sing Sing one week from tonight for the brutal murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, Queens county art editor.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Guarded by state troopers, Gov. Alfred E. Smith this afternoon heard the pleas for the lives of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Henry Judd Gray.

Ginger Ale Against Law If One Gets Intoxicated

Washington, Jan. 5.—Ginger ale and other soft drinks may violate the Volstead Act despite their lack of alcohol, according to a new policy adopted by the federal prohibition office.

Commissioner J. M. Doran said today that where night clubs and amusement places serve soft drinks as a "set up" for intoxicating liquor, the government will act with padlock injunctions or through other processes of law.

"In order, however, to make cases in the absence of proof of liquor sales, it will be necessary that some of the patrons are observed in an intoxicated state," Doran said.

"Ginger ale or other soft drinks might be sold in any quantities, but if nobody got drunk, it would be difficult to show that these beverages were being used for illegal purposes."

A protest has been lodged with the treasury by soft drink manufacturers who claim that their business is decreased by the prevalent belief that the government has banned the sale of ginger ale or similar beverages.

FRANCE IN FAVOR OF KELLOGG PLAN

Britain to Wait Before Expressing an Opinion on Peace Treaty.

Paris, Jan. 5.—The French reply to Secretary of State Kellogg's proposals for a peace pact will be submitted very shortly by Ambassador Claudel, it was learned today, and in the main the reply will be favorable.

The reply will probably be in two sections. The first section will deal with the proposed arbitration treaty between France and the United States and it will be suggested that the preamble of this treaty include a statement renouncing war as a means of settling disputes.

French Opinion.
French opinion with regard to a separate anti-war pact is that so far as the United States and France are concerned this matter can be covered in the arbitration treaty which would only re-state generally what has already been specifically treated in the preamble of an arbitration treaty. However, if the United States insists upon a separate pact, in order that it may be submitted to other nations for signature it is probable that France will agree.

LONDON' OPINION.
London, Jan. 5.—British government officials took the attitude today that Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg's proposals for a treaty

3 BURNED TO DEATH IN OSSING BLAZE

"Sheriff McKenna" and Wife of Bridgeport, Among Dead, Is Report.

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Three persons, a woman and two men, were burned to death, eight firemen were overcome by smoke, and thirty-five scantily clad guests were forced to flee into the early morning cold today when fire destroyed the Weskopa hotel, a wooden structure on the Albany Post Road here, today.

The fire was believed by authorities to have been of incendiary origin and was the fifth to occur at the hotel in the last six months. The other man was known as Charles Fiesch, proprietor of the hotel as "Sheriff McKenna," and was believed to have come here from Bridgeport, Conn. The woman burned to death is believed to have been his wife.

ENEMIES OF HOOVER START A CAMPAIGN

Send Letters All Over Country Stating That He Favored a Democratic Congress in 1916.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Herbert Hoover is learning the price one pays for being the leading Republican candidate for the presidency.

Two "whispering campaigns," both designed to make his record unattractive to the Republican rank and file, have been started in Washington against the Cabinet aspirant—and the campaign has barely begun.

The first, to the effect he is ineligible for the presidency on constitutional grounds because of his non-residence in the United States during much of the last fourteen years, has been effectively squelched by Constitutionalists and by personal friends. They denied that Hoover ever applied for British Citizenship, as whispered about, and claimed that he always maintained a legal residence in California while absent from the country.

Another Whisper.
The second, which made its appearance mysteriously this week, has not been so easily knocked down, and while his friends minimize its importance they nevertheless are engaged in strenuous efforts today to discover its origin.

It consists of a circular letter headed "Hoover Favored Democratic Congress in 1916," and incorporates a letter which Hoover wrote to Frederick R. Soudert, of New York, on Nov. 2, 1916, and which the Democrats promptly utilized as a campaign document.

The letter was written a week before President Wilson had issued his ill-starred appeal to the country to return a Democratic Congress. Hoover was then food administrator in the Wilson administration.

"My own views are summarized in a word: that we must have uni-

APPOINTEE COLLECTS 97 P. C. IN FIRST TWO MONTHS—TO PROSECUTE DELINQUENTS.

Figures made public today bear out the prophecy of the Ninth District school committee that an appointive tax collector would save the district money. The total tax list for the year 1927 for the Ninth school district was $95,954.01. Up to January 1 the collector, William Taylor, had already collected in the two months of November and December since the tax was due, $93,495.29. In other words, in two months he has collected about 97 1/2 per cent of the total tax. In addition to this he has collected back taxes and interest due on the books of 1926, 1925, and 1924 amounting to $1,091.68.

Breaks Record.
There is no data by which a comparison with the total tax collected on any given date can be made, but it is safe to say that in no previous year has the district ever enjoyed the use of 97 per cent of the taxes due within two months of the due date. The change has been accomplished, it is believed, without any friction or legitimate objection on the part of the taxpayers, and simply by enforcing businesslike methods and insistence upon the fact that a tax was a legal obligation due upon a specific date and not to

Better Times Coming For The Average Man

Washington, Jan. 5.—The majority of incomes are less than $9,000 a year.

Prosperous in Comparison
"But the most important point," says Professor Fisher, "is that our people are prosperous when compared with the peoples of other nations. From that standpoint, we are getting along very well."

"We come nearer than anyone else to the standards of income and living set up by the Labor Bureau. And we are making more and more headway."

"Thus, although it is not fair to say that all of us are in this sense prosperous, it is a fact that more of us are becoming prosperous each year."

In an exclusive interview, Professor Fisher admitted that probably a little more unemployment existed than was generally realized.

QUICK ACTION IS PROMISED IN S-4 PROBE

Congress to Follow President's Suggestion to Place It in Hands of a Special Commission.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Congressional leaders today planned quick action to take the "whole" controversy over the sinking of the S-4 submarine out of Congress and place it before the special investigating board requested by President Coolidge.

With feeling running high and many members announcing their intention to hurl broadsides at the Navy until a thorough inquiry is ordered, both the Senate naval affairs committee and the House rules committee planned to act on investigating resolution at once.

Rep. Hale, Republican of Me., chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, predicted a favorable report by his committee, while Rep. Snell, Republican of N. Y., chairman of the House rules committee, said that he probably would call his committee together tomorrow to consider it.

"Big Navy" forces were unanimously in favor of the presidential board, feeling that their program for expansion of the Navy would be imperiled if the controversy were allowed to seethe during debate on appropriation bill.

Civilians On Board.
Although there was evidence of some demands for Congressional representation on the board, Mr. Coolidge's proposal to name three civilian experts and two retired Navy officers on it apparently will be accepted.

A movement to establish a submarine base in southern waters appeared to gain ground.

NAVY MEN BARRED AT MAGRUDER TRIAL

Ordered by Secretary Wilbur To Keep Away, Congressman Charges.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur has ordered high naval officers to stay away from the House naval affairs committee's investigation of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder's charges of "waste and inefficiency" in the Navy, Rep. McClintic, Democrat of Oklahoma, charged at the hearing today.

Admiral Magruder, under questioning, confirmed the charge. "In view of the fact that committee members could call any officer to testify if he were in the room, it looks to me as if the secretary is trying to keep them out of the committee's jurisdiction," said McClintic.

"I therefore move that this committee request an explanation from Secretary Wilbur."

Rep. Butler, Republican of Pa., chairman, demurred and McClintic withdrew his motion after he was promised that he would be allowed to call naval officers for questioning on the Magruder charges.

BLINDFOLDED, FIGHT DUEL WITH AUTOMATICS

Warsaw, Jan. 5.—With their eyes bandaged and dueling with automatic revolvers at arms length, Col. Jan Pitechuh and Bronislaw Krzyzowski, son of a Polish Senator, have mortally wounded each other.

Col. Pitechuh overheard Krzyzowski make a remark about President Pilsudski which he held to be insulting and promptly challenged him to a duel.

The duel was arranged on modern lines and left little to the skill of the duellists. Automatic revolvers were chosen as the weapons. The men agreed to have their eyes bandaged and they were then placed an arms length from each other and at the given word opened fire with their automatics and continued firing until the chambers of the guns were empty.

Both men suffered heavy wounds in the stomach which will prove fatal, according to the physicians.

PRINTING PLANT RUINED BY FIRE

Four Firemen Hurt and $200,000 Damage Done By New Haven Blaze.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 5.—Four firemen were seriously injured, several slightly hurt, and property damage of $200,000 was done here today when fire of unknown origin swept through the plant of the Van Dyck Printing Co., 121-123 Olive street.

The firemen seriously hurt were: Captain Eugene Mulligan, Truck One, both legs broken; Hoseman William Cleary; Engine Twelve, both legs broken; Hoseman Cyril Chavenau, Eng. Twelve, one foot crushed; Hoseman Peter McKenna, shoulder and arm broken.

The injured men were in a court yard when an explosion drove portions of the wall upon them. The Van Dyck plant is located opposite the quarters of a double fire company whose members discovered the fire. Because of the congested district a general alarm in calling out all the force of seventeen engine companies and seven truck companies. The fire damaged the plant of the Tuttle Color Printing Co., 125 Olive street, and a six family tenement at 119 Olive street. For a time the entire district seemed likely to be wiped out and police routed hundreds of families whose homes were threatened.

Yale News Damaged.
Among severe losses sustained in the Van Dyck plant were those of the Yale Daily News, whose entire edition due for distribution at eight o'clock this morning was destroyed along with much equipment, and a half dozen of daily or weekly publications for schools throughout the state.

The loss sustained by the Van Dyck Company is estimated at $100,000, and its owners of buildings about $50,000.

Rumors of heavy loss of life were numerous when the fire was finally extinguished. The Van Dyck Company had a night shift at work up to an hour before the fire took hold, but all members were accounted for. Firemen injured slightly by falling bricks had emergency treatment and returned to duty while rumors of their death were current.

Passed to Others.
The bodies were passed by Eiben to Divers R. C. Wilson and E. A. Mattox and were then sent to the surface.

Found In Engine Room Hatch—To Be Buried With Naval Ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery—Stormy Weather Forces Salvaging Work to Be Discontinued Today.

Chelsea, Mass., Jan. 5.—Bodies of the first three victims to be recovered from the sunken S-4 on the floor of Provincetown harbor identified as Lieut. Comm. Roy K. Jones, Lieut. Joseph A. McGinley and Chief Machinist Mate Aaron Albert Hodges, were being prepared at naval hospital here this afternoon for transportation to the Arlington National cemetery, where they will be interred with naval ceremonies.

It was expected that the bodies of Lieut. Comm. Jones and Lieut. McGinley, will be sent to Washington on the Federal Express this evening and from there transported to Fort Myer, Virginia. They will be escorted by a guard of honor until final interment is made in Arlington, Va.

The body of Chief Machinist Mate Hodges will probably be sent to Washington this evening too, although naval officials were awaiting final word from the relatives, before issuing such an order.

The Naval Bureau of Medicine and surgery of Washington, telegraphed the order for preparation of the bodies for transportation.

SEARCH DELAYED.
Provincetown, Mass., Jan. 5.—High seas forced the United States Navy salvage squadron to remain in Provincetown harbor this forenoon and give up operations for the time being on the sunken submarine S-4.

Navy officers at work on the scene of the sinking of S-4 are of the opinion that three more bodies in addition to the first three recovered are within the engine room hatch and they expect to bring them up as soon as weather allows for diving without extraordinary danger to the lives of the divers. They base their opinion on the idea that there would be four men in addition to the two officers in the engine room hatch at the time that the craft would be rising to the surface.

BODIES RECOVERED.
Chelsea, Mass., Jan. 5.—Bodies of the three men recovered from the sunken submarine S-4 off Cape Cod by brave naval divers were identified at Chelsea Naval hospital today as follows:

Lieutenant Commander Roy K. Jones, of Hennessey, Oklahoma, his wife and children now residing at Haleshorpe, Md.

Lieutenant D. A. McGinley, Norristown, Pa., his wife residing at 2310 Fifth street, San Diego, California.

Chief Machinist's Mate Aaron Albert Hodges, of Riverdale, Calif., the home of his brother, John S. Hodges.

Lieut. Comm. Jones was in command of the ill-fated S-4 when she was rammed and sunk on December 17 by the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding. Lieut. McGinley was second in command.

Identification was made at Chelsea Naval hospital where the bodies were taken from Provincetown aboard the U. S. Destroyer Maury.

Finger print experts from Washington made the identifications through finger print records of the Navy.

Reason for Secrecy.
Names of only one of the three men identified was officially made public, that of Lieut. McGinley whose identification was given in news dispatches from Philadelphia. The reason for the reticence on the part of Chelsea naval hospital authorities was out of courtesy to relatives, that they might be officially notified before the identification became public. However, today, the Navy Department in Washington had officially notified relatives of Lieut. Comm. Jones, Lieut. McGinley, and Chief Machinist's Mate Hodges.

The bodies of the three men, the first of the forty dead recovered from the sunken undersea boat, were found by naval divers in the forward engine room by Diver Joseph L. Eiben who went into the hull through the engine room which was opened by Diver C. L. Applegate.

COLLECTORS

There will be little indignation among well balanced people over the order of the State Police to the American Rescue Workers, Inc., to cease its activities in Connecticut.

Whether this presumptive charitable organization, with headquarters at Berlin, ever does or did anything in charity aside from being kind to its own officials has not yet appeared, but in any event the police seem to have found that the money it collects is spent, in at least a somewhat disproportionate degree, on "administration."

There are better advertised and presumably more authentic organizations which we are sometimes tempted to suspect might almost as reasonably be made the subject of police inquiry.

We have in mind particularly the lavish administration organization and methods of a certain "relief" association which has taken many millions from American pockets in the last few years for the especial behoof of the people of an out-of-the-way corner of the world who, if they get half the money that is collected for them, ought by now to be rivaling the Osage Indians in the comforts of their residence on Easy street.

"GOOD" NEWSPAPER

Dr. G. Franklyn Snyder, president of the Bronx County Clergy Association, New York, does not like the newspapers. He says they criticize the church and its ministers, give too much space to holdups and prizefights and not enough to the church and prohibition enforcement.

An excellent idea, this of Dr. Snyder's. If the Christian Scientists can run a great national newspaper and make it pay, why not the churches as a whole? It would probably not cost more than ten or fifteen million dollars to establish it on the basis of simultaneous publication in ten or a dozen central cities throughout the country, from which it could reach its readers while still less than a day old.

It would then only be necessary for the folks for whom Dr. Snyder assumes to speak, all the Protestants of the country, to refrain from buying any newspaper other than their official one, in order to insure not only circulation but a monopoly of news information among those many millions of people and thereby their protection from the evil influence of the secular press.

Perhaps Dr. Snyder would not believe it, but the establishment of such a system of news distribution would be welcomed by the existing newspapers—warmly welcomed; though we doubt if any of them would go quite so far as to subscribe to either its stock or its bonds. They would welcome it because then the secular newspapers, having no more readers of the Dr. Snyder type, would no longer feel themselves under the obligation, as they now do, to print new matter of such restricted interest, say, as the doctor's roasts upon themselves.

As a matter of fact the newspapers of the country, taken by and large, give far more space to the printing of so-called church news, often highly sectarian and frequently of interest to very few people, than they do to any other kind of material for the reading of a similar percentage of their readers. And it is quite beyond any question that in turn the newspapers receive from no other class of persons whatsoever, anything like the amount of abuse that they get from the Dr. Snyder.

It would be, as a matter of fact, a real relief to the secular newspapers if they could know that they no longer had to temper the truth to conform somewhat to the prejudices of Snyderism through a sense of delicacy toward the peculiar sensibilities of a small group of their readers.

However, we have our doubts about the kind of newspaper Dr. Snyder envisions meeting the intellectual requirements of any great proportion of the church people of this country. It is a very small part of them who want to live with their heads in a poke. Most of them recognize that the place for the news of the churches is in the same sheet with the news of the prize ring and the police station if it is to be read by any but those who are so good that they don't need to read it.

TOBACCO

The absolute right of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church to cancel the lecture engagements of Miss Maude Royden, English preacher, because she smokes, or for any other reason or for no reason at all, is not to be questioned. The society is to be sustained in declining to listen to the addresses of any person whose views on religion, morals, etiquette, dress, art or the color of eyes are displeasing to its membership.

The affair, however, has elicited from the woman preacher an idea that is interesting in itself: "I believe," she says, "that if God sees a woman smoking He would say, 'It is nothing.'"

Really, compared with so many other things, like murder, malice, lying, ill nature and the like, the use of tobacco does seem a rather trivial thing to make a fuss over. It is, after all, very much indeed like the use of tea. It is mildly stimulating stuff, like the cup which cheers but does not intoxicate, and it is a minor nerve sedative. If it is in its far effects—which many will question—somewhat harmful, it certainly is not more so than too much frying pan, which nobody seems to make a fuss over.

It is quite easy to imagine, along with Miss Royden, that in a universe as extensive as this one, and with so much that is obviously and actively objectionable going on, the Creator, who gave us the tobacco, is not going to be greatly shocked at its use, either by men or by women, either by truck drivers or by lady preachers.

"CONFESSION" BOOKS

It is to be gathered from the style of the New York Times story of the announced engagement of Chicago Mayor Churchill, 50 or perhaps 50-odd, to Nettie Lucas, one of the recent desperados in literature, that that important newspaper is about fed up on the confessional field of book writing. While the Times does not undertake to sock the undoubtedly comprehensive police record of Chicago Mayor, recent autobiographical confessor, it does pour a few bucketfuls of cold dishwater on the pretensions of her 26-year-old fiance, who, on the strength of a couple of terms in a British reform school has published no less than five turgid self-indictments, the first being "Confessions of a Crook."

As nearly as we can figure it the Saturday Evening Post started this seasick-green epidemic of "confessions" when it turned Al Jennings, one time train robber, loose on the public. Anyhow, it has resulted in a long string of literary tripe sausages which, in many cases at least, bear every evidence of being written by people whose confessions are like those of Tomlinson at the gate of hell—which the devil made him admit he had gotten out of a book.

We have never hobbled it. We are not ashamed, even in the present vogue, to admit it. But we could tell a lot of things about hobbling that Jim Tulley apparently never heard of—and so could anybody else who has ever talked with station house bums or visited a hobo camp.

Fake criminals and fake hoboes as authors give us a pain.

OLD

In spite of the fact that parts of the present United States are beginning to feel venerable—notably some of our New England towns and spots like Jamestown and St. Augustine—we are still a pretty young country.

A church slipped into the North sea when a bit of the east coast of England gave way under erosion. The other day an excessively low tide visited that shore and the church popped into view, somewhat

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(31) A Hat for Every Head

Among the earliest of manufactured products in America to arouse the jealousy of British manufacturers were hats which were being sent to foreign markets from the Colonies early in the 18th century. It was not until after the Revolution, however, that Connecticut entered the industry with the zeal which characterized its entry into other lines of manufacturing, and which resulted in placing this state in the lead in the manufacture of fur-felt hats.

Danbury became the hat center of the world as other Connecticut cities took the lead in other industries, but the making of hats today in this state takes in several other towns in Fairfield county.

Thirty-eight factories during 1925 turned out hats valued at $20,789,819, thus placing Connecticut far ahead of Pennsylvania its nearest competitor, which produced felt hats valued at $20,147,849. New York followed with a value of $16,755,418, with New Jersey, fourth at $9,479,489. The value of this commodity for the 48 states was $80,066,390. Thus Connecticut produces 38% of the country's output. No other New England state makes a showing in this industry. The materials used during 1925 cost $15,346,233. Wages paid to $5,495 wage earners amounted to $7,429,167.

The value of this industry today in this state is three times greater than it was in 1914. From a percentage basis, Connecticut increased from 25% of the country's production in 1914 to 33% in 1925.

sea-weedy and covered with barnacles, but still recognizable as the edifice that was well known to have gone to sea at that point. The most interesting feature of the incident is that the slipping of the church occurred almost exactly a century before Columbus sailed on the voyage that disclosed America. Also the building was 500 years old when it took its slide.

REAL PROHIBITIONIST

There is a fact about General Sandino which, newly learned, may raise up for him large numbers of supporters in this country. It appears that one of the important measures put into effect by him in the little "republic" which he has organized in a corner of Nicaragua is total and complete prohibition. And, unlike his American prototypes, he has been able to enforce it. His method is simple. If a man is caught selling liquor he is put to death; there are no ifs and ands about it. If the seller is a woman her property is burned.

Ataboy, Sandino! After the marines lick you, you can come to the United States and become the Moses of the Anti-Saloon League.

New York, Jan. 5.—See-sawing up and down Broadway, I saw Ring Lardner, the short story scribe and my particular favorite for any going to the opening of "The Love Nest," which Robert Sherwood dramatized from his satirical tale of Hollywood. . . . And it did seem to me that the gigantesque Sherwood, who measures at least seven feet with or without stockings, didn't do so well by the tale as he might.

And looking over what New York is pleased to call celebrities, I remember the words of a fellow columnist, Bob Garland, who said upon arriving from Baltimore: "New York is a place filled with celebrities that nobody ever heard of." Which is a very wise crack of the season. Nevertheless I saw Sophie Treadwell, who once wrote pieces out in San Francisco and who contributes a play almost annually, but somehow never seems able to retire on the profits. . . . And Horace Liveright, looking though the book publishing season had been hectic. . . . James Montgomery Flagg, who seems to be growing a bit old for the pretty maids he draws. . . . The veteran De Wolfe Hopper, and most of the Broadway who's who who are the candidates of the international bankers and large corporations, which very likely is true. But that won't hurt much. Personally Dawes, without any hypocrisy, is for Lowden. He is a man who will go to any length to get the job and there is actually good reason to believe that he is merely his own second choice.

Dawes is unquestionably still Lowden's second choice, but Lowden is out to win for himself and, one candidate that he is really no more than a stalking horse for his friend Dawes.

Meanwhile, Hoover's strength increases as the word spreads that he will be the administration candidate—meaning that he will have the Coolidge-Mellon support. Ordinarily, such support might be expected to prove decisive, but even if it is planted behind him it doesn't spell success for Hoover. The Republican party, more than ever this year, has the middle west to consider. Most of the politicians remain to be sold on Hoover and the southern delegate situation is still up in the air.

It may be that Hoover has proved to any intelligent man's satisfaction that he was not responsible for holding down wheat prices during the war and that he can easily prove himself eligible to the presidency despite his past residences abroad, but it is too early to predict with certainty that either or both these factors won't count as heavily against him as his enemies desire.

Some of the smarter politicians say that the next Republican candidate must appeal to the dry, the business interests and the agricultural west. Nearly any outstanding Republican can make an appeal to the first two elements, but when it comes to the west, the field narrows down.

Such minor candidates as Senators Curtis and Willis, it should be noted, seem to be taking themselves quite seriously. In both parties, there will be a number of such candidates, including various favorite sons, who feel they can

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Jan. 5.—Jim Reed vs Dawes?

If that should be the 1928 lineup, politics certainly would again be politics. What a rip-roaring, hell-busting campaign it ought to be!

The fact is that although neither the vice president nor the Missouri senator has any assurance of being nominated by his party, the chances for the nomination of both apparently were never better than they are at this writing.

That despite the fact that one of your correspondent's latest tips is that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will come out for Secretary of Commerce Hoover within a month and that Reed's strength just now cannot compare with Governor Al Smith.

If Mellon comes out for Hoover and if Hoover comes out for himself, January will be a very large political month. The Democrats will have their Jackson Day dinner, pick a convention city and exchange views and representatives of all the dry organizations are expected to meet and read the riot act to both parties. Heaven only knows what else may happen and it may be a month of announcements of candidates.

Hoover leads the Republican field and Smith the Democratic. And Hoover has far more formidable opposition in the shape of rival candidates than Smith, but he hasn't any two-thirds rule to beat Dawes, it is generally agreed, is his big threat. Dawes may have lost some slight strength lately because of the report that he is the candidate of the international bankers and large corporations, which very likely is true. But that won't hurt much. Personally Dawes, without any hypocrisy, is for Lowden. He is a man who will go to any length to get the job and there is actually good reason to believe that he is merely his own second choice.

Dawes is unquestionably still Lowden's second choice, but Lowden is out to win for himself and, one candidate that he is really no more than a stalking horse for his friend Dawes.

Meanwhile, Hoover's strength increases as the word spreads that he will be the administration candidate—meaning that he will have the Coolidge-Mellon support. Ordinarily, such support might be expected to prove decisive, but even if it is planted behind him it doesn't spell success for Hoover. The Republican party, more than ever this year, has the middle west to consider. Most of the politicians remain to be sold on Hoover and the southern delegate situation is still up in the air.

It may be that Hoover has proved to any intelligent man's satisfaction that he was not responsible for holding down wheat prices during the war and that he can easily prove himself eligible to the presidency despite his past residences abroad, but it is too early to predict with certainty that either or both these factors won't count as heavily against him as his enemies desire.

Such minor candidates as Senators Curtis and Willis, it should be noted, seem to be taking themselves quite seriously. In both parties, there will be a number of such candidates, including various favorite sons, who feel they can be nominated. But thus far, these minor candidates are unable to convert many others to the idea that they are on the inside track. If a real deadlock develops at the Kansas City convention, it is still more than likely that President Coolidge will have to accept a renomination or flatly reject it.

1928 TO START NEW CYCLE OF 14 'FAT' YEARS

London.—The Bruckner Theory, a theory of definite 35 year weather cycles, tells that 1927's raininess is to be followed by a year of moderation and sunshine. The theory of the late Professor Bruckner has been gaining in scientific support year after year as more close observations are continually being made.

The weather for 1928, according to the theory, will repeat the weather of 1893; every 35 years the weather in temperate zones is repeated. 1927 is supposed to have been similar to 1892, 1926, to 1891, etc.

For Hundreds of Years.
Thirty-five year weather cycles were casually observed hundreds of years ago. The ancient philosopher Bacon wrote: "Every five and thirty years the same kind and sort of years and weather comes about again." More observation has added weight to the idea of these weather cycles.

Professor Bruckner goes further than merely noticing the cycle's existence. He puts it on a scientific basis; points to definite meteorological forces and natural phenomena which bring it about. He takes the theory from the lap-robe of the astrologers, those mysterious readers of the stars, and he clothes the theory in the respectable mantle of science.

Predictions of 1928's brightness came from observations of recent weather history. In recent times periods of rain have started in 1836, 1871, and 1906. Each rain period has lasted approximately four years. Then has followed a seven year period of mediocre weather, and following this a fourteen year period of pleasantness and sunshine. At the end of this period the thirty-five cycle begins again and with the rainy period.

Begin Fat Years.
The last fourteen-year rainy period is supposed to have begun in 1906. The years from 1906 to 1920 weather-men label as having been "moderately rainy." The next seven years, of which 1927 is the last have been "moderate" for the average. The year 1921 instead of being sublime in its sunshininess, 1927, at the other end of the seven year group has with its nastiness kept the average of the group at the "moderate" point.

1928 begins the fourteen "fat years"; just as 1893 began the 35 years another period of fourteen fat years.
To-day's scientists stress the essential truth of the Bruckner theory. They are meteorological forces, they say, which bring about a 35 year cycle. But the scientist does not stop there. He warns that there are many other meteorological forces which do not run in 35 year cycles, but which also have marked effects on the weather.

BRIDGE JOINS ROANOKE ISLAND WITH MAINLAND

Manteo, Roanoke Island, N. C.—This picturesque little island off the North Carolina coast, oftentimes called the Genesis of civilization in America, at last has been linked with the "outside world."

The four-mile bridge and causeway connecting Roanoke Island with the mainland one mile below Nags Head has been completed, and for the first time in history, it is now possible to drive an automobile from the mainland to the Dare county capital without recourse to a ferry.

Cost $300,000.
The project was completed at a cost of $300,000.
Completion of the bridge is expected to draw a larger number of visitors to the isolated island, and the section which swallowed up Sir Walter Raleigh and his ill-fated "Lost Colony."

Plans are now under way for the annual celebration of the anniversary of the birthday of Virginia Dare America's first native-born white child, and it is expected that additional travel facilities will bring larger crowds than ever to the event.

To Honor Wrights.
A tentative program is now being considered for Virginia Dare Day which will commemorate the first heavier-than-air flight made by man off these isolated shores a quarter of a century ago by the Wright brothers, Orville and Wilbur.

However, whether or not the two celebrations will be held at the same time, is yet to be decided. The Kill Devil Hill Memorial Association possibly will delay the celebration in commemoration of the Wright flight until the proposed memorial to the world's first birdmen is erected off Kill Devil Hill.

FOUR VAUDEVILLE ACTS AT RIALTO THEATER

Gala Program For Tonight:
"Golden Clown," Is Film Feature.

As an added attraction to-night the management of the Rialto theater is presenting four acts of highclass vaudeville. Topping the bill is the Original Capitol City Trio, three young men who have a brand of songs and comedy all their own. Next comes Shonty and Rheims, a pair of aces who specialize in nonsense and plenty of it. Other acts include Jack Reno, popular baritone soloist, and Art Taylor, known as the "boy violinist."

The film feature is "The Golden Clown," an absorbing and thrilling drama of life amidst the circus folk.

For to-morrow and Saturday another splendid double feature program will be offered. The attractions are Jetta Gondal in "White Gold," and "The Silent Hero," a thrilling story of a dog's love and devotion for his master. The second chapter of the new serial, "Hawk of the Hills" and a rib-tickling comedy will also be shown. The performance at the Rialto Saturday is continuous from 2:15 until 10:30.

IF IT COMES FROM GARBER BROTHERS—IT IS FURNITURE OF QUALITY

The Doorway to Better Furniture.

The weight of public opinion in favor of Garber Brothers—made 1927 a most successful year—way beyond our fondest expectations.

We have just completed the greatest year since Garber Brothers was established—the greatest in the number of people we served, the greatest in volume of business, the greatest in number of friends we made... and so naturally we feel happy. We have given our patrons the very best that was in us... in service, in quality of merchandise and in value... and in return we have received their good will and their friendship, which to us is more valuable than dollars and cents profit. Garber Brothers have accomplished in 1927 what hundreds of furniture stores in the country have tried to accomplish in many years. And back of this remarkable progress is our policy of doing business.

AWAITING RUTH

Where No One Ever Smiles

Ossining, N. Y.—The woman who in gayer days was beautiful "Tommy" Snyder will enter the Sing Sing prison death chamber one gray morning the week of January 9, unless executive clemency spares her.

"Silence," placards on each of four otherwise bare walls will command.

Ironic warnings! For the death chamber is the most silent place this side the tomb. It is silent with an unnatural quietude that strains at the eardrums and bears down like a terrific weight on the nerves. The room thus placarded is one where scores have been put to death, but where no person ever laughs.

Ruth Snyder's farewells already will have been said. She will be attended by one or two prison matrons. She may see as many as 30 sober faces lined along the walls—guards, witnesses, medical experts, reporters.

Across the room, Ruth Snyder will see a door. It leads to a mortuary, equipped with five marble slabs.

A cleric will break the silence for a few moments, reading the Hany of the doomed and pronouncing a last prayer.

Ruth will be strapped to the room's one sinister piece of furniture a moment afterward. The

REPAIR LEVEES WHERE WATERS BROKE THROUGH

Fixing Mississippi Bank Costs Million to Protect Delta Towns.

Greenville, Miss.—A half million dollar job has just been completed by the Mississippi River Commission on the closing of the crevasse at Mound Landing where last spring the great Father of Waters tore through the levee with all its fury and swept across a large area of the Mississippi delta.

Sealing this break which will protect Greenville and a dozen other delta towns from the turbulent waters of the Mississippi River has been in progress for four months with as many as 700 men working on the job at one time.

Engineers under the direction of the Mississippi River Commission have been using some of the most modern machinery that could be obtained and express confidence that the repair of this crevasse will insure protection to the delta.

The government levee at Mound Landing is even stronger than it was before the floods, they say.

People Rejoice

Throughout the delta and in Greenville business men and planters were overjoyed at the completion of the job. The damage of the 1927 flood to Washington county alone was $23,000,000 and $5,000,000 of that amount was in the city of Greenville.

Planters in the county marketed 20,000 bales of cotton this year while last year, before the floods, 100,000 bales were grown and ginned in this county.

Rebuilding and repairing homes where they were swept away by the swirl of the floods like playthings has about been completed throughout the delta and farmers and their plantation workers are housed for the winter.

Alfalfa was grown on about 10,000 acres to offset some of the loss of the floods in Washington county this year. The seeds were furnished by the Red Cross. More than 7,000 acres of winter oats have been planted from seeds obtained from the same source.

Hope For Control

Optimism rules the entire delta and another example is set forth by John Adams and Joe Hall, young farmers, who rented 20 acres of land near Greenville during the flood and raised a dozen bales of cotton this year, although some of the picking and ginning was extremely late.

Greenville is setting the pace for the delta in its rebuilding comeback. A new Y. M. C. A. building, a new stove mill which will employ 60 men, a new drug store and other buildings are under way.

A concrete road from the city to the ferry station where the boats leave for the Arkansas side has been built since the disastrous floods.

Throughout the delta business men and planters are pinning their all on the national government's plan to perfect a flood control program that will leave the delta-land safe from the Great Muddy in the future.

ROCKVILLE ALMSHOUSE CRITICIZED IN REPORT

National Civic Federations Finds Conditions In Conn. Generally Excellent.

Evidently the Manchester almshouse was not one of the 19 out of 60 such institutions in Connecticut that were visited recently by the National Civic Federation of New York, according to a report given out today. Other towns in the state were visited and a few of their institutions were not given the best of reports.

Manchester, however, has an almshouse that is satisfactory in every way, according to a state report given out some time ago. At that time it was said of the Manchester home that it was a model for institutions of this kind and that conditions there are the best.

Some of the other towns in Connecticut were given clean bills by the federation's investigators, while some of the places were denounced as being unfit. One of these was that of the city of Rockville. Those at Farmington and Stamford were also criticized.

There are approximately 85,000 automobiles repair shops in the United States.

FRENCH DIVERS MAY SOLVE SECRET OF SHIP SUNK IN WAR

Brussels.—One of the mysteries of the World War may soon be cleared up, as the result of present attempts by French divers to probe the secrets of a sunken liner forty miles off the coast of Ostend.

For the last few weeks, the divers have been investigating the remains of the 14,000 ton Holland-Lloyd liner Tubantia, which was torpedoed and sunk near the North Hinder lightship on March 16, 1916, while outward bound from Amsterdam to Buenos Aires.

The sinking of the vessel was a mystery. Naval headquarters at Berlin denied that the ship had been torpedoed by a German U-boat, and laid the sinking to the work of a British submarine. A heated controversy arose, which for a time threatened to drag Holland into the conflict, and fragments of a German torpedo found in the wreck, failed to furnish a satisfactory explanation.

Reports of French secret service agents stationed in Holland during the war, revealed that the Tubantia was carrying a large sum of gold for the use of the German Embassy in Washington. Their information was to the effect that the gold was hidden in cakes of Dutch cheese as a safe-guard.

Divers who have been searching the bed of the North Sea for traces of this specie, have recently brought to shore a quantity of some mysterious black substance, which is now being analyzed at Ostend. Should this prove to be the sea-soaked remnants of cheese, the salvagers will feel that they are nearing the object of their search.

LONDON SOON TO HAVE HIGH LUNATIC PERCENTAGE

London—London is in a fair way to becoming the city having the most lunatics in the world.

A report on mental deficiency in the city prepared by the London County Council shows that while more people are being certified as insane in London every year the percentage of those who recover is decreasing.

The total number of London lunatics under the care of public institutions has risen from 16,362 in 1880 to 24,863 in 1927.

After a flight of 2,000 miles, a homing pigeon was picked up exhausted in a New York street. It bore a message that a naturalist was lost in the mountains of north-western Wyoming.

THE HAND OF THE MURDERER

PHILO VANCE said to Markham: "Invite those three men to your apartment tonight to play poker. After the game I hope to be able to tell you which of the three murdered Margaret Odell...."

The murderer, Vance knew, was a superb gambler, the sort of man who would risk everything if the stakes were high enough.

To tell what happened at that game would be to tell too soon one of the most thrillingly interesting episodes in THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE. But when the five cards pictured here forced four aces to drop, Vance knew that the man who held them was Margaret Odell's murderer.

Be sure to read about it in THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE. It is the greatest mystery story in years. It starts Monday, January 16, in the

THE STORY TELLER

The story is told in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the 1890s, when a fight was being waged for the opening of Oklahoma to settlement. Chief characters are:

TONY HARRISON, orphaned at 15 when his father was shot by a poker game.

PAWNEE BILL, adventurer, teacher, Indian law officer, showman.

JOE CRAIG, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live.

TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K ranch.

RITA, his daughter.

The boy grows up on the ranch and learns the ways of the trade. When Rita and her mother depart for the east he learns for the first time how much he cares for the red-haired, arrogant beauty.

MOORE is one of the chief opponents of the movement to open Oklahoma. DAVID PAYNE, leader of the settlers, and his brother-in-law and Tony in his loyalty to Moore is troubled because of his sympathy for Payne's cause. He tries to force Rita Moore and accomplices Pawnee Bill and Titus Moore on a wild west show tour. After many adventures he returns but Rita does not want to marry and he is unable to keep from declaring his love for her. When she admits she is engaged to another, he leaves the ranch and disappears.

When Pawnee Bill organizes his own wild west show, Tony goes with it, but it has an unsuccessful season and when Pawnee Bill gets a letter from the Wichita Chamber of Commerce asking him to lead the "Boomers" into Oklahoma, he accepts.

The man grimed and jerked a thumb. "Just follow the parade. That's where they're headed for."

CHAPTER XXXVIII

"YOU seem to be pretty well posted on this Oklahoma situation," remarked Tony Harrison.

He and Pawnee Bill sat opposite each other in a day coach, two hours away from Wichita, a map spread out on their knees. Their clothes were in wrinkles and full of clinders; they were dirty and tired from two sleepless nights in the uncomfortable seats. But Pawnee Bill's accompaniment had been beyond their means. The Wichita Chamber of Commerce would welcome two paupers.

Pawnee Bill chewed at an unlabeled cigar. "I've studied it some, Tony," he said. "This territory is the heart of the territory—it's the part that's called Oklahoma. You know that. It's part of the tract that was ceded to the United States government by the Creeks and Seminoles back in 1855. You'll notice it bounded on the north by the Cherokee Strip; on the south by the Chickasaw Nation; on the east by the Sac and Fox reservation, and on the west by the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation. It's a hundred and fifty to five miles long and from fifty to a hundred and sixteen miles wide, depending on where you cross it. It contains about two million acres—1,857,300, to be exact."

"Of unassigned lands," Tony Harrison murmured.

"Exactly. That portion is Oklahoma proper. It's getting so now they're calling the whole territory Oklahoma, but for our purposes we'll just use the name in connection with this area we're trying to open."

"Oklahoma," he went on, "is an Indian name meaning beautiful land. It was the name proposed for the Indian country by the Creek radicals when the Indian tribes should have become a people and their hunting grounds a state. Of course, it didn't work out that way." He smiled and chewed some more on his cigar.

Tony shifted in his seat to study the fitting landscape. "What is it, how the Chamber of Commerce of Wichita expects you to take the Boomers in and keep them there. They've tried it before—under Payne and Couch—but they've always been run out by the soldiers. I don't see how this is going to be any different."

"I'll admit that's something that's got to be worked out," said the other. "I expect it's up to me to find some way, or they wouldn't have sent for me."

"Another thing; what's Wichita's interest in the thing?"

"Well, there's no trick in answering that. Wichita regards itself as the rival of Kansas City. It's ambitious, and just naturally wants to spread out. Wichita wants Oklahoma opened because it wants the southwest trade."

Tony nodded.

"I understand. It's the one question of how you're going to lead a flock of settlers into the Promised Land and keep them there."

"There's one other question," Pawnee Bill said with a frown. "Just why did they pick on me for the job?"

"I can answer that. My good friend Pawnee Bill, Indian interpreter, pioneer, showman, is a figure of some importance despite his present embarrassed financial condition. The business men of Wichita want a leader who will command the confidence of the people and who has the nerve to force things to a showdown." He ended with an elaborate gesture of the hand and Pawnee Bill reddened five miles and twenty miles and settled today.

"I hope," he added gently, having noticed Tony frown at mention of Titus Moore, "you won't think I have anything against him. Still, they're being selfish—the whole lot of them."

"Not an uncommon trait in humans, Bill."

"Admitted. You and I in their shoes maybe would be doing the same thing. Some of my best friends being among the Strip cattlemen, it's going to be right damn hard to declare open war on them. Nearing the outskirts of Wichita, Pawnee Bill pressed his nose against the pane and motioned for Tony's attention.

"Recognize those, Tony?" he pointed.

In the distance lay a line of tents and wagons, many of the latter the covered schooner wagons of the pioneers.

"Boomers," said Tony. "They're here, too, are they?"

"Optimists," breathed Pawnee Bill. "It's the same in half a dozen Kansas cities. They came here—some as far back as four years ago—and when they couldn't enter the Promised Land they just stayed put and waited. I wonder how much longer they'll have to wait—these and their brethren in Caldwell, Hunnewell, Arkansas City. . . ."

The train's speed slackened. He got up from his seat to ease his cramped joints, stretched wearily and hauled down the little grip from the overhead rack.

"Just about there, Tony."

"One thing's got to be understood between us," said the younger man. "I'm fading into the background tonight. They'll be throwing a banquet in your honor and there'll be speeches and a lot of pow-wowing, but I won't be there."

Pawnee Bill groaned at the thought of the speech that would be expected of him. "Better come, Tony. I'll need your support."

"Nothing doing," he'll meet you some place afterward."

"All right. In the lobby of the Delmonico Hotel."

They were entering the long train shed now. Tony Harrison threw open a window and peered ahead into the glow of the lanterns and gas lamps. "Reception and a banquet and a lot of pow-wowing, but I won't be there."

"Oh Lord," the other sighed weakly and stuck out his own head. "There's Oklahoma, Harry Hill," he said. "Joe and George Dixon, and Joe Rich, the money lender. Who that man is in front I don't know, unless it's the mayor. I'll be glad when this night's over."

The train stopped and there was a shout from many voices, the blaring of a band. As Pawnee Bill emerged from the train Tony remained discreetly in the background and saw his friend swept from his feet and into the center of a clamorous group. He watched him as he was led up to a dignified man, with whom he shook hands, saw him vanish into the crowd and

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

How amusing was the impromptu plea for "trial engagements" made by Dr. Benjamin R. Andrews of Columbia University speaking before the American Sociological Society! "It is during the crucial engagement period that the young couple should thrash out the financial scheme of the embryonic household," said he, wisely adding, "it is on the shoals wrecked, and this matter should by all means be settled before the 'I do's' are said."

That last part is eminently sensible, of course, but it seems silly to believe that engagements are anything other than "trial" anyway.

READY-MADES

Women buy ready-made dresses in order to save time rather than because they believe the ready-mades have more style, or because they especially care how they look. This rather interesting fact has been discovered by the federal Bureau of Home Economics. Seventy-two per cent of women who answered a questionnaire as to why they bought ready-made clothes said it was because "it saved time."

NIGHT CLUB LADIES

Running night clubs, being hostesses and "entertainers" seems to be the job choice these days of scores of women who suddenly find it necessary to earn a living. Not long ago it was Caruso's sister-in-law, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, widow of the famous opera house manager.

Perhaps the loving loyalty of Princess Hermine, second wife of former Kaiser Wilhelm for the eyes of a reading world. But I am glib and read her recent interview regarding the Kaiser with almost a tear. Her loyalty seemed to ring the fact of their utter dependence one upon the other, living in isolation as they do. She wrote:

"Fidelity of this type would reduce most any normal person to madness. It would breed constant irritations, but we have never exchanged a cross word."

There is frequently a demand for something different in the way of a salad, and celery sticks or jellied salad seems to be the solution. Celery sticks are very appetizing and attractive when filled with cream cheese, mixed with mento and paprika, or Roquefort cheese mixed with prepared mustard. Select stalks that are deeply curved, wash and chill. Dry before filling with the mixture.

- #### Celery Salad, Pilquant.
- 1 tablespoon gelatine
 - 1/4 cup cold water
 - 1 1/2 cups boiling water
 - 3 tablespoons vinegar
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1 1/2 cups diced celery
 - 1/2 cup chopped stuffed olives
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 - 1 teaspoon scraped onion
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
- Soften the gelatine in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Add the remaining ingredients and let stand until partially thickened. Stir to distribute the celery and olives evenly throughout the mixture, and turn into individual molds. Let stand until firm. Turn out on beds of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise.

APRICOT AND PINEAPPLE CONSERVE

- 1 pound dried apricots
 - 1 can pineapple (shredded)
 - 3 1/2 cups sugar
 - 1 cup blanched almonds
- Soak apricots overnight in cold water to cover. Cook until tender. Add pineapple and juice from pineapple. Add sugar and cook for about forty minutes until conserve consistency. Add blanched (whole or shredded) almonds. Pour into clean hot jars and seal.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority.

THERE'S NO FANCY CURE FOR INFECTED ADENOIDS.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In the back wall of the nasal passages is what lymphatic tissue usually called adenooids.

When the adenooids become infected and swollen they block breathing by the nose, the mouth is kept open and the person afflicted not infrequently has as a result a staped expression.

As a result of continuous mouth breathing, the face is likely to develop an unusual appearance, the upper lip shortened and turned out, the lips thickened, and a line formed between the cheeks and the lips.

May Cause Ear Infection.

Because of an infection in the adenooids, germs pass up the tubes that connect the throat to the ear and there is likely to be an infection of the internal and middle ear cavities.

Since the nose is blocked, the speech of a child with adenooids is nasal in tone; the child is restless at night and not infrequently snores, gasps and tosses about because of the difficulty in breathing. Difficulty in breathing, furthermore, may interfere with the development of the chest cavity which becomes narrow and flat.

There is no fancy cure for the prevention or treatment of infected and swollen adenooids. A competent physician can remove these by a minor operation and the improvement that follows removal seems to the average parent almost miraculous.

Improvement.

The child begins at once to gain weight, its breathing changes shortly, its voice improves and it is no longer irritable or restless. Obviously such an interference with proper development should be controlled as soon as possible. The longer one waits, the more permanent are the changes in the body structure and the less likelihood that they will be modified or overcome.

We Need Suffering as Much as Ease

By Olive Roberts Barton

The students in a certain college were given some good advice by a famous minister. He began by wishing them poverty.

Why, he explained, in a few terse sentences. Here they are, in part, for they did me so much good that I am passing them along:

"Most men and women do not escape poverty.

"If you escape that experience you are going to be a stranger to one of the greatest experiences of human life, and you are going to be lonely in the presence of other lives.

"When you see the boy or girl struggling for an education, when you see the father to a dignified man, with a sorrowful expression, when you see the mother post along a little learner in order to keep the boy or girl at school so that they may go further than their parents went—when you see the great experiences of human life you want to understand them; you do not want to be outside of them, and you want to be within them; you know the glory and the beauty that is there."

Isn't it all true? We complain of work but we wouldn't be without work but we wouldn't be without it. We know what suffering means, and too little suffering.

We were made to meet trouble and overcome it. The thing to do is to hold high our banner and go

DRY AND CREAMY FACE POWDERS

Face powders are dry or creamy, according to what aer or not they have cold cream or lanoline—wool fat—incorporated in them. Usually, if these ingredients have been used, the label mentions that fact.

For skin that is dry, creamy or lanolated powder is indeed desirable. Adhere well to the skin, preventing the dry and scaly appearance which powder gives to some faces.

When powder contains sufficient cream within itself, it is unnecessary to give the face the usual preparatory treatment with cold cream. However, if your preference is for a dry powder, apply a very small amount of your favorite cream, cold or vanishing, before using the powder.

In applying the powder, cover all parts of the face with it. Many women make the mistake of leaving forehead and neck unpowdered, thus producing a very irritating effect, the difference in color striking the eye at once. . . . unpleasantly. Also, do not put on so much powder that the face looks like a mask, which is what a great many women do.

Referee: Belzack. BY THOMAS W. STOWE

The famed world's colored basketball team, the Renaissance, of Five of New York, last night scored a well-deserved seventeen point victory, the score being 41 to 24. On a score comparison basis, this rates the Plainfield quintet as superior to the Hartford Yankees who were a 53 to 19 in their last game. Last night the Renaissance played under professional rules at which they are more to home. "Fat" Jenkins, rated as one of the fastest players in the country, was in the lineup, while in the Yankee game he sat on the bench because of an injury. Realizing that it was pitched against a far superior team, Plainfield, nevertheless, played a very commendable game. Flashing a pretty exhibition of passwork, Plainfield jumped but this faded rapidly once the colored contingent swung into action. The visitors drew round after round of applause from the gallery of 800 odd fans by their snappy and deceptive passes and accurate shooting. Half time score stood at 24 to 17 but in the closing chapter the boys from the Metropolis pulled farther into the lead. "Mundy" Normandi was inserted in the Plainfield lineup the second half in place of Roy Dissinger but the latter should have been out, if anyone without Dissinger, the Plainfield team did not function nearly as good.

The playing of "Happy" Madden was easily the best for Plainfield. His blonde-haired chap was in the thick of the fray every minute and when came out of lively scrimmages with the ball in his possession. He was pitted against Ricks, the best shot on the colored team, and held him to a three-basket advantage. Towards the end of the game, Madden was badly injured. He was taken to the hospital and a doctor took three stitches to close a deep cut just under his chin. Stavitsky also did well to outscore his lanky opponent, Sanders.

Billy Evans Says

STOLE, THEN WENT BACK

Strategy and comedy figured in the two most unusual bits of base running I ever gave a decision on, covering 22 years of calling them wrong and right on the ball field. Mostly wrong, if you would believe fandom at times.

The late Herman Schaefer pulled the base-running that had strategy as its base. Eddie Ainsmith, the second catcher to handle Walter Johnson's varied assortment of pitches, played the role of comedian in the other unusual happening on the bases.

Schaefer pulled his stunt of stealing second and then sneaking back to first after two balls had been pitched to the next batter, in a game at Washington, with Chicago as the opposing team.

The situation arising late in the game had Milan, a fast runner, on third, and Schaefer, equally fast of foot, on first, with the time Washington needed a run to tie the score.

But Milan Was Out

The game was close, two out, the pitcher up and the manager couldn't afford to gamble with a pinch hitter at that stage. He started to look around for the weak-hitting pitcher might surprise him.

Schaefer wasn't as optimistic about the chances of the pitcher to break up the game as the Washington manager. After one strike had been called on the batsman he dashed for second on the next ball pitched, hoping to draw a throw that might enable Milan, perched on third, to dash for home.

The Chicago catcher, realizing the chances were all against the pitcher making a hit, refused to fall for the strategy and didn't throw. After two more balls had been pitched, Schaefer started plenty of confusion by dashing back to first base.

No one knew just how the runner could be properly called, and while the ball was being tossed hither and thither Schaefer made several more breaks for second. Milan finally dashed for the plate only to be retired at home on a close play.

Schaefer's act in stealing a base the wrong way caused the rule-makers to specify particularly how it is possible to retire a runner when he starts to run the bases in reverse order.

What a Tragedy!

Ainsmith's comedy stuff happened in a game between Washington and Philadelphia. Going into the last half of the ninth, Philadelphia, with Chief Bender pitching, had the home boys beating something like 12-4. A nine-run margin at that stage is quite an advantage.

With two down, Ainsmith hit safely. He stole second and third un molested, as his run didn't mean a thing since Washington needed nine to tie.

When Ainsmith reached third, the count on the batter was two balls and a strike. It was at this stage that some wag in the bleachers started trouble by suggesting that Ainsmith steal home, which he crazily proceeded to do. Bender, having started his delivery, entered into the comedy situation by continuing his windup, instead of curtailing it.

When Ainsmith slid across the plate in apparent safety, Bender was still doing his windup stuff. As a matter of fact, Ainsmith had almost reached the bench before Bender finally delivered the ball.

Was Comic Scene

Everything would have been all O. K. if the batsman had simply let the ball go by. Even had it been a strike the count would have only been two and two and Ainsmith would have registered on the pitch. But he elected to swing and fied out to left field, retiring the side and ending the game.

Most of the fans left the park under the impression the final score was 12-4, believing Ainsmith had stolen home when, as a matter of fact, the run didn't count. The inception of the play was the windup on which Ainsmith made his dash for home. It ended in the ball being delivered to the batter, who hit it, flying out for the final play of the game.

Since no runs can score on a third out on a play in which the batsman fails to reach first base, as was the case here, Ainsmith's daring proved but comedy.

PROFESSOR KILLED BY AUTO

Washington, Jan. 5.—Prof. Lemuel Spencer Hastings, 79, retired member of the Dartmouth faculty, was dead today, the victim of capital traffic. He was struck and killed by an automobile driven by the Rev. George M. Diederfer, pastor of the Luther Place Memorial church. Witnesses said the aged educator stepped directly in the path of the machine. Prof. Hastings was spending the Christmas holidays with his son here. The body will be taken to Hanover, N. H., for burial.

MEETS LOUGHRAN TOMORROW

LEO LOMSKI

New York, Jan. 5.—For the second time within a month the world's light heavyweight championship will be at stake when Tommy Loughran, the defending champion, meets Leo Lomski, one of the most promising challengers, in Tex Rickard's Garden tomorrow night.

Loughran recently won a clear claim to the disputed title when he defeated Jimmy Slattery, who had been recognized as the champion by the National Boxing Association.

When Loughran was recognized by the New York commission as the champion, after he had beaten Mike McTigue, he said he would do anything asked of him to prove his right to the title.

He was asked to meet Lomski and accepted the match. In the meantime, however, Tex Rickard had a chance to make a match with Slattery first and then defend the title against Lomski.

It is the first time since Eugene Criqui defended the featherweight championship against Johnny Dundee shortly after he had won from Johnny Kilbane that a champion has accepted a formidable challenger in such a short space of time.

Strong Finish Enables McCann To Defeat Berry

The first real upset in the elimination pool tournament at the School Street Recreation Center came out of a clear sky last night when Johnny McCann triumphed over Leonard Berry 50 balls against 32 balls. Berry had been figured an easy winner and some had predicted he would beat Walter Dunn in the semi-finals.

One of the main reasons why McCann sprung the upset was because he had both the good luck and science to tie up Berry continuously after missing. There seemed to be no let up of the tough breaks against Berry. Scratches and hard luck shots hurt his chances considerably. Berry grabbed a 10 to 4 lead the first rack but McCann rallied and at the end of the third rack, the score stood 22 to 20 in favor of McCann.

Then Berry fell completely to pieces and the biggest number of balls he got in any of the remaining racks was four. Meanwhile McCann was shooting good pool. He pulled some neat break shots that counted considerably. In fact both men pulled some nice shots only to flop on the easy ones. The defeat bore out Berry's own statement at the time of his match with Tom Stowe, that he cannot shoot tournament pool.

Sam Houston and Jimmy Neill will play tonight. Walter Dunn and Johnny McCann meet Saturday night. Paul Ballester meets the winner of the Houston-Neill match.

Chicago Trying To Land A Tunney Bout For June

Chicago, Jan. 5.—A heavyweight championship fight between Gene Tunney and the "best available challenger," will be the bait expected to lure the Democratic national convention to Chicago next June, it was announced today.

That plans for the bout are being formulated, was admitted by Anton J. Cermak, president of the Cook county board and warm personal friend of Tunney.

Co-operating with Cermak in his efforts to land the big fight and the Democratic convention for Chicago are Edward J. Kelly, president of the South Park board which controls Soldiers Field, and Michael Igoe, Democratic leader.

Matter Discussed

Tunney and Cermak, it was learned, discussed the proposed bout several weeks ago when the champion was here as guest of honor at Cermak's All-Chicago Christmas fund banquet. It was agreed, Cermak said, that Tunney would defend his title against the best available opponent.

The only cloud of the horizon at this time, Cermak declared, is a contract which Tex Rickard holds for Tunney's services, but Tunney is said to have assured his Chicago backers that the Rickard contract would not interfere.

Cermak, Igoe and Henry Berger, attorney for the South Park board, will leave tonight for Palm Beach, Fla. where they will confer with Tunney.

James Mullen, Chicago promoter, will have charge of technical arrangements incidental to promoting the bout, Cermak announced.

Any day, he said, will be guaranteed a purse of $750,000. Regardless of whether Chicago lands the national convention, Cermak says, the bout will be held as scheduled.

Lomski Hopes To Defeat Loughran By A Knockout

By DAVIS J. WALSH
 I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, Jan. 5.—Mr. Rickard's bright young men with the typographic megaphones are out today with the statement that Leo Lomski hopes to win the world's light heavyweight championship tomorrow night with a knockout over Tommy Loughran, the champion. What apparently they do not know, and probably wouldn't believe if they did, is that Loughran hopes to get into the heavyweight money with a knockout over Lomski.

According to the popular idea, this would be a good story even if it wasn't funny. Loughran is supposed to hit just hard enough to break a good resolute.

Yet the young man himself really thinks he has a punch and it is barely possible that he is in a position to know more about it than the rest of us. All the writer can venture is that he has gazed fixedly at Loughran attempting to punch some one very firmly on the nose these several years and never really has been able to catch him at it. At a guess, I would say that his philosophy calls not for the killing of two birds with one stone. He would prefer to take two stones and make an assured coup of one bird.

His System

This system got him as far as the light heavyweight title and, in the course of human events, it might reasonably be expected to keep it for him. The fact of the matter is that he won't want it after the butchering makers begin rioting at the turnstiles.

The young man is imbued with the notion that Mr. Tunney should be abated and discontinued as heavyweight champion by some one and, after looking over the field very thoroughly, has arrived at the obvious conclusion that that some one must be none other than himself.

So, he has decided to attempt the knockout of a man who never has been knocked out, according to the records, just as a matter of starting something that might finish with his riding the plunk at the pinnacle of all boxing. Of course, Thomas probably won't carry the matter to an extreme, which in this case would call for him to cast the caution of years to the winds and slug with a slugger. The dry cleaner doesn't live who can change the leopard's spots, Mr. Loughran expects to box nicely until he has worn his man down, if ever, and then administer the coup de grace, known to the vulgar as a punch on the button.

All I can say is that I am in favor of the program. It should produce a great fight. Lomski is a fast, weaving fighter with a good left hook to the jaw and a hard right over the heart. Loughran is a fast, straight hitting boxer and tough beyond his collegiate appearance. The distance of 15 rounds favors Lomski's body punching. Everything else favors Loughran.

If both go in there trying for a knockout, it may be that some one will forsake the perpendicular for the comparatively permanency of ten seconds, and think of worse things happening to the average 15-round fight.

At Detroit—Joe Ryder, Brooklyn featherweight, outpointed Clarence Rosen, Detroit, 10.

CHAMPIONS AT DINNER

New York, Jan. 5.—The first annual dinner of the Madison Square Garden Sporting club was pronounced an unqualified success today by the 1,000 or more leading figures in industry, sports and other pursuits who gathered to pay tribute to eight American athletic champions.

The guests of honor were Gene Tunney, Babe Ruth, Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Johnny Weismuller, Bill Cook, Fred Spencer and Charley Winter, all kingpin athletes in their respective fields. Never before had so many champions been assembled in one place. Some of them had not met previously.

Winner to Challenge East Side Champ; Twelve Entered; Carlson, Jarvis, Chagnot Favorites; Start Saturday.

Twelve players have entered the elimination pool tournament which has been organized at the West Side Recreation Center. The pairings have been made and play will start Saturday. The winner will challenge the winner of the East Side Rec tourney which is now in progress. The tournament at the West Side Rec was organized by Tom Weir, who has charge of the building nights.

The pairings are as follows: Clifford Hills vs. Ernest Coles. Clifford Bissell vs. Louis Chagnot. Ty Holland vs. Walter Wilkinson. Earle Bissell vs. Arthur Jarvis. Tom Weir vs. Herbert Carlson. According to the West Side dopers, Jarvis, Carlson and Chagnot are the favorites to win the tournament. If so, one of them will be benefited by receiving a draw in the semi-final round because of the fact that twelve contestants are entered. The tournament will be run the same as the one at the East Side Rec. Tom Weir will referee all matches (except his own).
