

NEW CLUE PUTS MISS SMITH ON SOUTHERN SHIP

Passenger Says Girl Answering Her Description Got On at Boston on January 15.

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 26.—Coupled with a denial by James A. Smith, uncle of Miss Frances St. John Smith, missing college freshman, that members of her family were negotiating with members of a gang of criminals for her release by the payment of ransom, came a "promising clue" that placed the missing New York heiress aboard the Savannah liner City of Birmingham on January 15, two days after she disappeared from Northampton. The dragging of the Connecticut river, an operation that was started yesterday, was discontinued temporarily on account of weather conditions. The low temperature, combined with the high winds and waters, put a stop to the work, shortly after it was started this forenoon.

Latest Clue

The latest "promising clue" came to the fore today with the report of detectives that officers of the Savannah liner City of Birmingham at Boston told them that a girl answering Miss Smith's description was a passenger south bound when the steamship sailed from Boston, Jan. 15th, two days after the college freshman vanished from Northampton.

In this connection it was recalled that J. L. Mott, a travelling man of Utica, N. Y., had reported from Miami, Fla., that he had seen a girl aboard the vessel and that he identified a photograph of Miss Smith published in a Miami paper as that of a girl who was a passenger aboard the steamship. Mott said she wore a lumberjack's coat she had no baggage, stating that she had sent it ahead to Florida.

It was announced here this afternoon that Brig. Gen. Alfred F. Foote, state commissioner of Public Safety was on his way here from Boston to check up on the work of the search.

While the denial of Miss Smith's uncle regarding the reported negotiations with persons demanding money was emphatic it was pointed out by some observers that suchickerings would of necessity be secret.

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 26.—Parents of Miss Frances St. John Smith and their legal advisors today reported to be in communication with those seeking money for revealing the alleged whereabouts of the missing college freshman. Secrecy has been maintained in

LINDBERGH STARTS FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Leaves Canal Zone in Excellent Health On 300 Mile Journey.

ARRIVES SAFELY

Cartagena, Colombia, Jan. 26.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, piloting his famous "Spirit of St. Louis" plane, arrived here at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon for his first landing on the continent of South America.

Virtually the entire population of Cartagena was on or in the vicinity of the landing field to see the young American aerial ambassador bring his silver-grey plane to earth, and the first touch of the pneumatic-tired wheels on South American soil was the signal for a roar of cheering which drowned out the sound of the airman's motor.

Colon. C. Z. Jan. 26.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from France Field at 9:30 o'clock this morning for Cartagena, Colombia, extending his "good will flight" from Central into South America. A crowd of officials, civilians, soldiers and marines cheered as the Spirit of St. Louis took the air.

The distance from Colon to Cartagena by air line is 300 miles and Lindbergh expected to make it in about three hours.

The young flyer was in fine health and spirits and showed no evidence of "nerves." He was tanned and looked as though his vacation of nearly two weeks in Panama had done him a world of good.

A number of children, waving American flags, were in the throng at France Field. They stood spell-bound as the mighty motor of the plane began to roar and the beautiful

Amateur Radio Students Want Hartford Station

Washington, Jan. 26.—Intensive research in short wave radio communication by American amateurs and private scientists, as well as the big corporations, was indicated today by the Federal Radio Commission's announcements that hundreds of experimental licenses for use of high-frequency channels are pending.

No action is likely until the requirements of the Army and Navy in these channels are determined and a report made to the commission. Extensive investigation is contemplated by the American Radio

Relay League, of Hartford, Conn., which represents nearly 20,000 amateurs. An application for experimental 500-watt license for a station at Hartford has been filed. League's Plan.

The Radio League contemplates a study of the band from 3 1/2 to 50 metres. The investigation will be headed by Francis E. Handy, communication manager of the organization. The wave length spectrum under five metres virtually is an unexplored field.

The amateurs, badly used by the

STANLEY IS FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

Former Yale Athletic Star Discharged By Jury; Called Death Accidental.

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 26.—Gilbert Stanley, former Yale athletic star, was freed of a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Peter Fulco, by a sealed verdict of the Superior Court here today.

Fulco was killed by a charge from a shotgun in the hands of Stanley, general manager of a private school, while Stanley was warning Fulco from the grounds two months ago.

The jury retired yesterday shortly after three o'clock and reached an agreement at 7:45 last night. The sealed verdict was returned to the court this morning at ten o'clock.

Stanley's Defense

Stanley's defense had been based on accidental shooting, maintaining that the trigger might have been snapped by a piece of twine that was attached to it. He also pleaded that his conduct in securing the gun was not careless and that he had a legal right, as general manager of the school, to go for the weapon.

The state based its prosecution of the manslaughter indictment on the conduct of Stanley in securing the gun, saying that he had no legal right to do so, while other means of keeping intruders from the grounds were possible, and calling his conduct careless.

Fulco, former well-known local athlete, had driven up to the school with two women and a man, friends. One of the women worked at the school.

FINDS HER SON DEAD, DIES WITHIN AN HOUR

Double Demise in Guilford; Son Was 61—Mother Was 84.

Guilford, Conn., Jan. 26.—Oliver Griswold, a prominent citizen, was found dead in bed in his home on state street here at 6 a. m. today by his mother, Mrs. Helen Hotchkiss Chamberlin, and an hour later Mrs. Chamberlin dropped dead.

Griswold, who was 61 years old, died of heart disease as did his mother, who was 84 years of age. Both were supposed to have been in perfect health. Mrs. Chamberlin leaves a grand daughter and two great-grand children.

WAR ACE KILLED.

Rome, Jan. 26.—Guido Nardini, one of the most noted war aces, was killed at Clampino Airfield today when the plane in which he was giving instructions to a young pilot crashed from a height of 3,000 feet. Nardini attempted a parachute jump when the falling plane was only 150 feet off the ground, but the chute failed to open. He was instantly killed.

BIND AND GAG STAR WITNESS IN HER HOTEL

Mysterious Attack Made On Woman Who Came to Washington For Contempt Trial.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Police today were running down clues to capture the mysterious intruder who last night entered a downtown hotel and hit Mrs. Jeannette Lantz over the head with a heavy weapon. She was injured seriously.

Mrs. Lantz and her husband, William Lantz, of Millbourne, Pa., are here to testify in the Burns-Sinclair contempt trial.

She reported also that while they were absent on Tuesday their hotel room was ransacked, with clothes and papers strewn over the floor and bed.

Bound and Gagged

Mrs. Lantz complained of feeling ill after yesterday's court session and went to her room to rest. After dinner Lantz came into the room and found his young wife bound hand and foot and gagged with a towel. After recovering somewhat, Mrs. Lantz declared that a man in a gray hat and blue suit came into the room and without a word of warning, hit her on the head with a heavy weapon.

Called as Witness

Lantz, although reluctant to talk of his connection with the contempt case, revealed that he was summoned as witness by the defense to attack the character of William J. McNeill, ex-Burns agent and later government spy. McNeill is a star witness for the government, having testified that he was forced by the Burns Agency to sign a false affidavit about a Fall-Sinclair juror he was shadowing.

Lantz said that McNeill formerly had helped him as a traffic officer in Millbourne.

YEAR'S WORST GALE WHIPS OUR COAST

Three Dead, Million Property Damage and Many Vessels Driven Ashore.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—Three dead, property damage estimated at a million dollars and several persons injured today lay in the wake of a terrific southwest gale that lashed the New England states for hours.

Roaring up the coast and out to sea today, the worst gale of the winter left in its wake vessels ashore, cottages wrecked, a mass of tangled trees and wires and other property damage. The blow reached 80 miles an hour in some places. Church and factory steeples suffered severely in the gale, according to reports from throughout New England.

Steamer Ground

The Dutch steamship Bussum was driven aground on Harbor Flats, and the schooner Arthur James rescued after going aground near the same spot.

The schooner William Booth was blown adrift at Rockland, Me., and piled up and the steamer Cairnreck driven from anchorage at Portland, Me., and later rescued by a tug.

The two-masted schooner Alice S. Wentworth was dragged from the Point Judith, R. I., rocks.

Property Damage

Much property damage was done at Bailey's and Newport beaches, Newport, R. I.

Cottages were damaged at Hampton Beach, N. H., and other shore resorts.

Lighting and telephone service were crippled in many districts, and many barges reported ashore along the coastline.

At the Hill

The wind and the weather-observatory the wind at 6:10 o'clock last evening reached the maximum velocity of 88 miles an hour.

Foreign News In Cable Flashes

Peking, Jan. 26.—China's war-fleet, between the north and the south may start up again at any time now, following a lull for the celebration of Chinese New Year. For 48 hours the roar of cannon fire gave way to the popping of firecrackers. With the celebration there went up a common prayer that the new year, which is the Year of the Dragon, will bring better fortune and less suffering than last year the Year of the Rabbit.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—President Von Hindenburg has presented an automatic house telephone to the Prince of Abruzzo in return for a gift of two lions from the Crown Prince.

Bombay, Jan. 26.—Reports of terrific ravages by the plague and a death toll mounting daily due to the primitive aversion of the natives to modern methods of hygiene, were received here today from Hyderabad, in the Presidency of Bombay. Three thousand persons have died within the last month in a city of 75,000 population, and over 100 are dying every day, the reports said.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—Vice Admiral Raeder, commanding the German fleet, has issued an order forbidding the wives and daughters of navy officers from bobbing their hair, according to the newspapers.

Moscow, Jan. 26.—The official newspaper Izvestia commenting today upon the tenth anniversary of the seizure of the former Russian Province of Bessarabia by Rumania, said: "The Soviets never have and never will recognize the legality of the Bessarabian Robbery. We reassert the protest of the government and hope that this last thorn in the flesh of the Soviet Union will soon be removed."

Rome, Jan. 26.—Announcement was made today that the friendship pact between Italy and Yugoslavia, expiring next month, had been extended 18 months.

Munich, Germany, Jan. 26.—The "electric chair" has been substituted for the axe as a more humane method of slaughtering animals for food in Munich. As a result of protests from the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals the municipal slaughterhouse has abolished the old method of hammering steers unconscious with an axe then stabbing them in the neck. The new "chair" does not kill them outright but makes them unconscious; then they are stabbed in a vital spot.

CHOOSING OF FOX JURY STARTS BITTER BATTLE

Begs To Wed Prisoner After Mail Courtship

San Quentin, Calif., Jan. 26.—Romance today cheered the drab walls of the prison, as Mrs. Genevieve Paddelford, internationally known divorcee, means that would enable him and Mrs. Paddelford to marry and take up life together, within the grim walls of the prison.

"Just a couple of rooms, where we can live together is all we want," the strange sweetheart told the warden.

Dr. Silzey, a former associate of Dr. George E. Paddelford, divorced husband of the prisoner, further declared that he was in possession of a confession that would clear Mrs. Paddelford of guilt in the crime for which she was convicted.

He also stated that he had retained five attorneys and has appealed to Gov. Young to free the woman from prison.

BOTHERSOME IDLER ADMITS 3 BREAKS

Dauplaise, Triple Deserter From Army, Confesses to Burglaries Here.

The solving of another crime here was officially credited to Police Lieutenant William Barron by Prosecuting Attorney Charles R. Hathaway in Police Court today when Theodore Dauplaise, 25, of 253 School street, was bound over to the March term of the Superior court in Hartford when he pleaded guilty before Deputy Judge Thomas Ferguson to charges of breaking and entering three Manchester stores. Bond was fixed at $2,000 and the young man went to Hartford jail to await trial.

Young Dauplaise, who was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Lieutenant Barron on Maple street, at first protested his innocence, but after a half an hour's grilling, confessed to breaking into three different places, two of them on the same night with only an hour's interval. In none of the cases, did Dauplaise take anything of real value. He admitted he was searching for money and outside of ransacking the offices and smashing windows to gain entrance, did no material damage.

In Court Before

The three places which young Dauplaise admitted he entered alone at night are Harry E. Seaman's coal office on Center street near New street, on January 16; Smith's Brothers' grain store, which is just west of Seaman's Coal office, on January 23, the following Monday; and W. G. Glenny's office at the north end an hour later the same evening.

Young Dauplaise has figured in court affairs before, it was brought

ACOSTA ARRESTED; HE FLEW TOO LOW

Noted Atlantic Flyer Gets Five Day Jail Sentence in Naugatuck.

Naugatuck, Conn., Jan. 26.—Bert Acosta, trans-Atlantic flier, ran afoul of the law here and today was sentenced to spend five days in New Haven county jail because he flew through the borough here yesterday afternoon at a height of less than 2,000 feet, which is the limit set by a state law. Whether Acosta really will go to jail will not be settled until later. Judge Frank A. Sears, who passed on the case, took the matter in hand.

Pleaded Guilty

Acosta pleaded guilty to violating the state law by his swoop upon the village. He said he was merely trying to express his appreciation of good deeds done in his behalf by friends in Naugatuck.

A state policeman arrested Acosta on the Bethany Air Field, seven miles south of here, after he landed yesterday afternoon. His arrest at first was believed due to the fact that Acosta is supposed to have departed from New Jersey with his airplane on Tuesday at a time when the plane was under attachment by a sheriff.

MONTREAL SNOWBOUND BY FIERCE BLIZZARD

Quebec, Teeming With American Tourists Is Snowed Under—All Traffic Blocked.

Montreal, Que., Jan. 26.—With blizzard conditions whipped into a fury by a whirling gale that sends huge drifts of snow twisting in mountain-high gusts, eastern Canada today was in the grip of the winter's worst storm. Lower temperatures and higher gales are forecast by the weather bureau.

Quebec City, teeming with American tourists for winter sports, is literally snowed under in the teeth of a gale that renders travel on the streets almost impossible and has disrupted trolley and motor transport. Trains east of Montreal and in the Quebec area, were in several cases snowed in for hours and had to be dug and plowed out before proceeding to their destinations.

Long distance phone communication from Montreal is badly disrupted.

John Y. Keur, park superintendent, said this afternoon that it is inadvisable to skate at Center Springs Park. While the ice in the middle of the pond is good and is safe that at the edge is thin and is partially covered with water.

EX-POLICE CHIEF'S HOME IS BOMBED IN CHICAGO

House Wrecked But Fitzmorris and Family Escape Injury; Another Bombing.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Authorities today sought the Terrorists who exploded a bomb under the home of Charles C. Fitzmorris, chief of police under the old Thompson administration, and now city comptroller.

The two-story residence was badly damaged, but Fitzmorris and his family escaped uninjured. The blast was set off a few minutes past midnight as the members of the family were retiring.

The detonation could be heard for many blocks and caused consternation in the fashionable Hyde Park residential district. Windows in the Windermere hotel, across from the Fitzmorris home, were shattered. It was Fitzmorris' guess that gangsters whose enemy he had incurred during his regime as chief of police, were responsible.

Shortly after another bomb was set off in a building adjoining the home of William H. Reid, an ex-officer member of Mayor Thompson's Cabinet.

Police are confident the bomb was intended for the Reid home.

Defense Succeeds in Getting Another Judge and Now Asks For a "Super-Intel- lectual" Jury to Try Hick- man — State Impatient Over Delay.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 26.—Mumbblings of an impending bitter court fight over the selection of a jury to try William Edward Hickman, for the kidnaping and murder of 12-year-old Marion Parker, were heard today as the trial entered its second day.

"I regret exceedingly that we have been forced to wait another day to get this matter before a jury or start in on the trial of this case," declared District Attorney Asa Keyes in voting his disapproval of the legal tactics delaying the hearing.

Open Hostilities

Open hostilities between the prosecution and defense attorneys, which flared up at the outset of the hearing when Hickman's counsel was successful in disqualifying Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, on charges of bias and prejudice, were further kindled by the defense demand for a "super-intellectual" jury to pass upon the sanity of the kidnaper-slayer.

Whether the appearance on the bench of Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco, veteran Mariposa county jurist who was assigned to preside in Judge Hardy's place, would have a conciliatory influence over the trial was a matter of conjecture among court attaches.

A Farm Judge

Judge Trabucco, who hails from the cow and mining country of north central California, is known throughout the state for his firm and fair administration of justice during the twenty-five years that he has served on the Superior Bench.

Hickman's mother, Mrs. Eva M. Hickman, who came here from Kansas City to attend her son's trial, was reported slightly indisposed today.

Neither she nor Hickman's father, William Thomas Hickman, will be called into the courtroom until their presence is actually required, defense attorneys indicated.

That the Hickman family is without funds to defray their expenses here was revealed by Jerome Walsh, Kansas City attorney and chief counsel for Hickman, who admitted that he and his associates in the trial were paying the costs of the defense.

AVIATORS ARE MAROONED ON ICE COVERED LAKE

Roberval, Quebec, Jan. 26.—The little group of Canadian pilots who fly over the northern bush in winter are writing another colorful chapter of air pioneering in their effort to rescue the crew of a marooned plane from the ice in the middle of Lake Chamachouan.

The plane has stood on the lake, at the mercy of the winter's gales, for more than a week. It was forced down in a blizzard.

Another plane was dispatched to the lake to bring out the marooned aviators if the ship cannot be lifted from the ice. It is impossible to bring out the crew it will be necessary to feed them by dropping packages from the air.

PICKING THE JURY

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 26.—A "super-intellectual" jury to sit in judgment on William Edward Hickman for the kidnaping and murder of 12-year-old Marion Parker, will be sought by the defense.

This was revealed as the trial entered its second day with opposing counsel preparing to battle over the selection of a jury.

"We'll challenge any prospective juror who is not mentally equipped clearly to understand pathological and 'psychological' phases involved in an insanity defense," declared Defense Counsel Richard A. Trabucco to preside over the hearing paved the way for the resumption of the trial today and untangled the legal snarl brought about yesterday when Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy disqualified himself.

Charged With Prejudice

Judge Hardy was charged with prejudice in an affidavit submitted by Jerome Walsh of Kansas City, chief counsel for Hickman.

In announcing that he would insist upon a highly intelligent jury, the Associate Defense Attorney Cantillon explained that this step was made necessary by Hickman's plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity."

The life of Hickman, attorneys pointed out, depends upon the jury's decision on the question of whether the youth was sane or insane at the time he kidnaped and killed the Parker girl.

This is the only issue at stake under a new California statute which provides for an insanity defense.

For this reason, Cantillon said, the defense wants a jury capable of understanding the technical explanations of alienists who will be called as defense witnesses in an attempt to prove their contention of Hickman's unbalanced mental condition.

State's Plan

To combat the insanity defense, District Attorney Asa Keyes has marshaled seven alienists and psychiatrists who have examined and observed Hickman and who will testify that he is now sane and was sane at the time of the crime.

COLORFUL FURNITURE FOR PORCH THE THING

Watkins Buyers Return From Trip to New York Market; Daring Patterns Seen.
Color will be the keynote for porch and sunroom furnishings this year, according to Frank Limbacher and Herbert Swanson...

"The fiber furniture," says Mr. Limbacher, "is the most colorful and comfortable of this type ever seen in Manchester, in fact in the whole country!"

"Cretonnes of the most daring patterns and colors are used to upholster the seats and backs of these pieces and it is from these brilliant fabrics that the color schemes for the fiber have been taken."

"Comfort is another point that has taken great strides this year. Many of the pieces now have seat cushions filled with springs like that of a davenport, with a spring construction and the color schemes for the fiber have been taken."

"A whole carload of this new sun room furniture is not too much for Manchester," continued Mr. Swanson, "and our order was placed for that quantity, the shipment to be here for our Spring opening."

Summer rugs, according to Mr. Swanson, are in keeping with this new summer furniture. "Some of the manufacturers of fiber and grass rugs have even gone so far as to cooperate with the fiber furniture manufacturers in making rugs to harmonize with the colorful fiber furniture for Spring," said Mr. Swanson.

"Orange, black and green, with touches of blue, red and violet seem to be the predominating colors in the rugs, with large squares, checks and modernistic patterns being shown in great numbers."

With Manchester's porches furnished with this new type of furniture and rugs and draperies to harmonize, there is certainly going to be plenty of color in town next summer," said Mr. Swanson.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Congress is developing a bad case of "nerves" under the stress of legislative conflict.

This was the diagnosis today of veterans on Capitol Hill as they recounted almost daily stories of rows that shattered Congressional dignity and caused spectators to look for actual physical combats.

The "short and ugly word" has already been heard on the House floor while in the Senate the more polite but just as emphatic phrase, "that's not true," has been uttered several times recently.

"Just a case of nerves," explained one undisturbed veteran of many sessions, "There are plenty of matters up which are almost the same as life and death to some members, and they're ready to spring at every sign of opposition."

While the quarrel between Senator J. Thomas Hefflin, Democrat of Alabama and Senator Joseph Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas, have attracted widest attention, a half-dozen other incidents were pointed out to show that Congress is "jumpy."

House committees, the naval affairs and flood control, have staged far from deliberative scenes, with some members accusing others of "outrageous" treatment to Rear-Admiral Thomas F. Magruder and Major-General Edgar Jadwin.

Rumor Says Morgan Will Help Mexico
Mexico City, Jan. 26.—An unconfirmed report was current here today that J. P. Morgan, the famous international banker, may come here with the international bankers committee to study Mexican finances and participate in the negotiations for a new agreement for payment of interest upon the Mexican foreign debt.

Mexican officials are counting upon the influence of Dwight P. Morrow, United States ambassador, and former partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., to obtain the most favorable terms possible for Mexico.

ROBITUARY

MRS. ANNA KLEIN
Mrs. Anna Klein, 28, wife of Thomas Klein of 5 Walnut street, died at the Memorial hospital yesterday noon shortly after she was admitted. Death was due to embolism.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Klein is survived by one child, her parents who are living in Austria, and an aunt, Mrs. John Adams of 19 Eldridge street. The funeral will be held at Mr. Adams' home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and at the German Lutheran church at 2:30. Rev. H. O. Weber will officiate. Burial will be in the East Cemetery.

"7TH HEAVEN" COMES TO STATE ON SUNDAY

To be Shown Also in Circle on That Date, According to New Announcement.
This picture, based on the play by Austin Strong, is said by all critics to be one of the finest productions of any type ever screened. Taken from every angle it is perfection, and more than that it has lost none of its appeal or beauty of the original play.

The atmosphere of the Paris Montmartre, where the plot of the story is laid, is accurately carried out in the settings and the photographic effects. The story follows the play itself, but bringing into actual view those things that could only be talked about in the play, thereby heightening the interest and adding greatly to the entertaining value of the picture.

The characterizations of the players are said to be inspired, particularly that of Janet Gaynor, who appears as the winsome, frightened and finally glorified "Diane," and Charles Farrell, who is the handsome, egotistical, generous and thoroughly lovable "Chico."

"7th Heaven" is the story of two of the lowest types of Parisians, a worker in the sewers of Paris and a waif of the Paris streets. But because of the glorious doctrine of courage which it preaches and the marvelous things it does to both of their characters it has been called one of the greatest and one of the most beautiful love stories ever written.

Besides the two principals the cast includes Ben Bard, David E. Harter, Albert Gran, Gladys Brockwell, George Stone, Emile Chautard, Marie Mosquini and Brandon Hurst. Frank Borzage directed the production.

YOU MUST BE SINGLE TO GET A LICENSE

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 26.—A person must be single before obtaining a Connecticut marriage license. Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling so ruled today answering a question put to him by Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of health, who was passing along a question asked by George R. Close, town clerk in Stratford.

According to health commissioner some unnamed man told Mr. Close he expected a divorce in the near future and asked that he be given a marriage license so he could be re-married on the day of the decree was issued instead of five days later. Mr. Close was puzzled by the request and the state health commissioner was the only person he knew who could help him solve the puzzle.

The attorney-general's finding points out that under the Connecticut laws a person must be single when a marriage license is issued. In the case in hand the attorney-general declared he did not know in what state the decree was to be handed down but he knew Connecticut has no interlocutory decrees and the only thing the Stamford man could do would be to wait until he actually had his decree in hand.

CONGRESS HAS PLAN TO IMPROVE MAN

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 26.—Measures designed to improve the American of the species throughout the world were today recommended to the attention of the 21 republics by the Sixth Pan-American conference, under a report being drafted today by the commission on social problems.

The measures are based upon the findings of the foremost American authorities on eugenics and homoculture as prepared at the meeting in Havana last month of the first new world conference on these subjects.

The program has two phases: First, the improvement of the peoples already living in the Americas. Second, the selection abroad of only such immigrants as will strengthen rather than weaken the mental, moral and physical fibers of the American peoples.

In the words of the experts themselves, they seek "the biological betterment of the American race." Of course, in their sense of the word "man" includes both man and woman.

FIRE IN MOVIE STUDIO
Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 26.—Investigating officials were today engaged in checking up on the damage done by a fire which broke out in the Warner brothers motion picture studio last night. The damage has been estimated at $250,000. The fire was reported to have originated in trash burners.

Minister's Disclosure Of Confession Used Against Girl In Murder Case

Wentworth, N. C.—A question involving the sanctity of the relation of priest and penitent threatens to overshadow the main issue in the unique murder trial drama that is docketed to open in Rockingham Superior Court this month.

It is the case of Mrs. Alma Petty Gatlin, pretty girl-wife of Eugene Gatlin, fire chief of Reidsville, who will face trial on her life, accused of the gruesome axe-murder of her 50-year-old father, Smith T. Petty, a cotton mill foreman.

The attorney-general's finding points out that under the Connecticut laws a person must be single when a marriage license is issued. In the case in hand the attorney-general declared he did not know in what state the decree was to be handed down but he knew Connecticut has no interlocutory decrees and the only thing the Stamford man could do would be to wait until he actually had his decree in hand.

Preacher's Testimony
That the prosecution will base its case largely on the testimony of the Reidsville minister-evangelist has been clearly indicated by Solicitor Allen Gwyn, to whom Rev. Pardue told his story, resulting in the discovery of Petty's axe-hacked body buried in the basement of the Petty home, after he had been mysteriously missing for more than a year.

Never in North Carolina jurisprudence has a court been asked to pass upon the competency of such evidence as the evangelist turned over to the county prosecutor in a trial that involved the life of the defendant.

The prosecution in revealing that it would place the minister on the stand to tell his story, said it knew of no statute in North Carolina which would throw out the testimony of the minister because of the ecclesiastic relation between the minister and the alleged penitent.

But this issue, whether or not it brings forth a preliminary skirmish for the life of the girl-bride defendant when the trial gets under way the week of January 22, it will, it is expected, create no little controversy in Reidsville in circles outside the courtroom.

Opinion Divided
That such very likely will be the case already has been indicated in this section recently, when various ministerial and lay bodies took decided stands on the issue, condemning or lauding the evangelist for "turning up" the alleged murderer.

KING BEN'S END WAS SHOCK TO BROTHER ELIJAH

New Castles, Indiana.—"When the weather is better than I will go to Benton Harbor, to kneel in prayer at my brother Benjamin's grave."

This was the statement of Elijah Purnell, 73, brother of "King" Benjamin Purnell, ruler of the House David, when he learned of Benjamin's death. "King Ben" died at Benton Harbor while asleep in bed and his death was kept a secret for three days by his followers who believed that he would undergo a resurrection.

The death of "King Ben" came as a severe shock to his brother Elijah here. Elijah Purnell operates a little neighborhood grocery here. He is in very poor health.

Surrounded by grandchildren and great-grandchildren and with tears streaming from his eyes Elijah for the first time told the colorful story of his brother's life.

Was Godly Man.
" My heart is sad but I am comforted in my knowledge that my brother was not guilty of all those charges that were placed against him," Elijah said. " Benjamin was a great good and Godly man, sincere in his faith and loved by every one of his followers."

" Benjamin was born near Foxport, a little mountain town nestling among the hills of far eastern Kentucky, in Fleming County, where sturdy mountaineers raise their tobacco, some corn and many children." It was in the year 1853 that Benjamin, founder of the House of David with its 2,000 members, first saw the light of the world in a little mountain cabin.

Our parents were very poor, a leanly toward preaching early in life. We went about preaching in schoolhouses and on the streets in neighboring towns wherever we could attract listeners. Benjamin was considered of unusual intellect and knew the Bible from beginning to end. He could recite verses of scripture backwards. The people of the community laughed at his teachings as he grew in years. Benjamin later changed from the MOTHERS, DO THIS!

Spread CAMPHOROL over throat and chest. It penetrates quickly, as it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, and easily loosens up stubborn cough, or cold in throat or chest.

Always have a jar of CAMPHOROL handy. You never know when your precious one will awaken at night with that croupy cough, which almost sets you frantic. Hard to get a cough at night. Then you'll be glad you have a friend on hand like CAMPHOROL.

Quickly it acts, opening up the air passages, soothing your dear one to breathe easily and with safety.

What a relief for anxious mothers! No sleeping drugs to upset and weaken their delicate stomachs. It is far better than Camphorated Oil, and does not stain. Once you try CAMPHOROL, you'll then realize how good it is for Croup, Cough, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, Asthma and Catarrh.

Most of the early members of Benjamin's colony were from Australia and brought with them all their money which they gave to the colony. As members came from time to time from all parts of the world, they too gave up their money that the teachings of Benjamin might be pushed forward.

At the time of his death, Benjamin was about 69 years old. He left one son, Coy Benjamin's second wife Mary Stallard of Rowen County, married him at Aberdeen, Ohio, after Benjamin returned from Australia. She is the wife that Benjamin has had so much trouble with lately.

I don't understand it, either, as Mary seemed to be devoted to Benjamin. Mary wrote us often and Benjamin failed to do so and all Benjamin might be pushed forward. As a rule Benjamin was always good to write to me but he has been so troubled for the past four years that he has written but little.

SCRAPPING THEIR FOUNDATION

If there is any truth to the report that the Democratic leaders hope to score a number of points in the Senate contests next fall by attacking the attitude of every senator who shall then be up for re-election and who voted to seat Senator-elect Smith of Illinois, then the Democratic leaders are having an unusually acute attack of fool in the head.

If the Democratic party has one single solitary principle to justify its existence it is the doctrine of states' rights. It is that doctrine which has held the party to the semblance of an existence through long and wearisome periods of distress, which has prevented its Southern-dominated free trade policy from destroying it throughout the industrial North and East. It is the one point on which it has been able, at times, to debate logically with the Republican party, which at certain periods in the past leaned far in the direction of centralization.

And now the attitude of the Democratic Senators, with the bare exception of two of them, has become in this Smith affair a direct repudiation of the very principle which has been the backbone of their party. Nothing that its Senate members could have done would have been more injurious to the credit of the Democracy than their well nigh unanimous contribution to the rejection, without constitutional justification, of a senator duly and properly elected and certified by the sovereign state of Illinois. And more the Democrats stir that unsavory affair the more certain it will react against them and their candidates. They have jettisoned their party's reason for existence. Now they are going to celebrate the sacrifice with a bass drum concert, lest the voter should forget.

CONNECTICUT HOUSES

That militant individual Heywood Brown, whose ultra-cockney point of view rasps the nerves of the small-city dweller oftener than the words of any other big-city writer, hands one to Connecticut for the saying of which he may be forgiven much else. He was lambasting the hit-or-miss architecture of his pet New York and ascribing the inherent right of the individual to criticize that branch of art as well as any other—the subject being suggested by the fact that an architect has sued a magazine because it permitted a writer to say that one of his buildings looked like a grain elevator. And he goes on:

"In architecture, at least, the Puritan has prevailed and the modern generation owes him an apology. It is conventional to say that he lived sourly and quite divorced from beauty. Maybe so, but why do his houses look so well? Drive through New England, and preferably Connecticut, which is the best of the lot, and you will rarely see an old house which has not taken on some aspects of fineness. Compare the true colonial with the later imitations which our bright young men are making and you will have to admit that the old boys did it better."

Quite so, big boy, quite so. Not only the most beautiful old houses but the loveliest old villages in all this broad land are right here within the borders of this old state. We admit it.

BEGORRA!

We can see a lot of talk coming over this "Begoro!" In the first place the Associated Press report of President Cosgrave's trip from Chicago to Washington made the Irish statesman say: "Begoro, I never saw so many automobiles and such fine ones as they have in this country."

Then F. P. A., the New York World columnist becoming suspicious of the rectitude of the "Begoro" report, did some sleuthing. He declares he has learned that President Cosgrave did not use that exclamatory expression, on the occasion in point, and that, moreover, he never does use it. Now the question is, does any Irishman ever say, "Begoro"? Did any Irishman now dead ever say, "Begoro"? Did any Irish person ever hear or ever say he ever heard another Irishman say, "Begoro"? Is not "Begoro," as a matter of fact, a whole-cloth invention of somebody who hadn't a drop of Irish blood in him, picked up and copied by other non-Irish writers, till it became incorporated in the outlanders' composite of an Irishman, even as "Gee-Whittiker-Jew-harps!" became incorporated in many an Englishman's composite of a Yankee—and who ever heard a Yankee swear that particular oath? There is room for discussion concerning this "Begoro" thing. We are tempted to assert that in our own experience we never heard an Irishman from Ireland say "Begoro," though we do recall that in our boyhood the young son of an Irishman, the boy being born in Connecticut, did occasionally employ the word—and we have known him to get a sound rap on the ear for it from his Irish-born father, who swore, when he swore at all, candidly, like anybody else.

Perhaps some reader who actually knows will tell us, in the Forum, whether an Irishman ever said "Begoro"—and when and why.

REASON FOR HEFLIN

There is a very considerable group of very worthy people who hold steadfastly to the belief that there is no living creature, no matter how apparently evil in all its deeds nor how lacking in any discernible utility, which was not created for some beneficent purpose. When they are stumped to explain the merits of the yellow fever mosquito, the plague flea, the house rat or the copper-head snake, they nevertheless stick steadfastly to their guns, explaining that "It may not be given us to understand, but the creature, depend on it, has its place in the scheme of creation."

It is perhaps gratifying that the reason for Tom Heflin is not quite so obscure as the excuse for the sting-ray or the rose-bud. Heflin is wished upon the Senate by an all-wise intelligence, it is just possible, for the Senate's chastening, to the end that the utter idiocy of "senatorial courtesy" may be borne in upon the intelligence of even that unreciprocative body.

Obviously Heflin intends to occupy at least one-half of all the working time of the Senate from now until next June roaring at the Pope and demonstrating that he, J. Thomas Heflin, is the sole, central and only objective of such intrigue and plotting and murderous intent on the part of scores of millions of human beings as the world has never before witnessed.

If he makes good on his purpose it is just barely possible that he may, wholly contrary to the senatorial theory of legislative process, succeed in forcing that body to provide itself with a way of gagging megalomaniacs who would stop the wheels of government forever while forever they sing their songs of self.

DURKIN

Martin Durkin, a Chicago thief, hardened, heatless and as ruthless as a rattlesnake, killed two police officers sent to arrest him and thereby earned the gallows if any man ever did. He was, however, good looking and possessed a flippancy of manner which got him credit for "nerve." The result was that the morons developed a certain amount of sympathy for him, under the able exploitation of the yellow newspapers, and he escaped with a life sentence.

Recently Joliet prison keeper found a knife in Durkin's cell. In face of the bloody record of the thief-murderer there can be no doubt at all as to what Durkin intended to do with that knife. He intended to kill whoever interfered with some intended attempt to escape.

The Joliet authorities sent him to "solitary"—and in Joliet "solitary" is no kindly thing. They handcuff them to the bars of a cell, with their hands higher than their heads, and they keep them in that attitude for hours at a time—most of the time in fact—for thirty days, with ample periods of for sleep and meals, and no more. Prisoners who have plotted to kill keepers and who have put in a month of that sort of thing are apt to think twice before plotting again.

Now there is a tremendous hullabaloo going on—jurists, sociologists, gentle souls of one cult and another, protesting at the top of their voices against the "barbaric" treatment to which this Durkin has been subjected.

It is our idea that the protestors might be given the job of guarding Durkin—after having been placed on the most solemn of oaths not to connive at his escape. Then, if he kills anybody, it will be someone who has fostered the killing.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(49) Connecticut's World War Record Unsurpassed Connecticut's part in the World War was unsurpassed by any other state. When war was declared, Connecticut already had a well-trained militia and had about completed a census of the man-power and general resources of the state. While her soldiers fought valiantly on the Western front, the folks at home supported every worthy movement which tended to speed the end of the war, organized and trained the Connecticut State Guard for the suppression of hostile demonstrations within the state where a large part of the munitions for all the armies was being manufactured, subscribed $437,476.103 for Liberty bonds (the highest excess above quota of subscriptions of any of the 48 states) and, when the war was over, established a fund of $2,500,000 to aid her returning veterans.

Nearly 60,000 Connecticut men and youths served under the colors of the United States or her allies. The provost marshal general credits Connecticut with the following enlistments and inductions from April 2, 1917, to October 31, 1918: National army, 32,539; regular army, 13,151; navy, 5,319; marine corps, 293; total, 52,262. An additional 3,000 are estimated to have served in the armies of the allies. Of those who served in the land forces 6,265 officers and men were casualties.

The first state troops to go overseas were largely Connecticut soldiers. These same men were in the first American division to take over a whole sector in France. Connecticut soldiers wrote their names in history by their heroic efforts at Selcheper, Marcheville, Saint Mihiel, Chateau Thierry, Aisne-Marne, Meuse-Arsonne and in other engagements.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Some of the most remarkable sights of the national capital are not available to the profane eyes of the casual tourists. One such sight is that of the venerable Senator Francis Emory Warren of Wyoming hiking upstairs. Senator Warren is nearly 84 years old. He became a horseback rider, and still is. His legs have a powerful frame to carry.

Yet, Senator Warren does not use the capitol elevators. There are 34 steep marble steps in the private staircase leading to the Senate floor from the office of the appropriations committee, and up these goes Warren whenever he transfers from one scene of activities to the other.

One day a couple of senators more youthful dashed up the stairs which should have left Warren far behind. But according to eye-witnesses, Warren scampered right up behind them and finished only four steps behind.

Some day we'll get Warren to talk about himself. Romance. He was born in Hinsdale, Mass., served in the 49th Massachusetts Infantry in the Civil War, received a congressional medal for gallantry at the siege of Fort Hudson, moved to Wyoming and nursed livestock and real estate, became a legislator, politician, mayor, territorial treasurer, territorial governor, first state governor and senator—grew up with Wyoming.

Senator John B. Kendrick, a Democrat, which Warren isn't, also grew up with Wyoming, moving there from Texas about ten years after Warren and also engaging in stock growing. Thirteen years younger than Warren, who was president of the territorial legislature in 1876, Kendrick held office in 1910, when he was elected to the state senate. He moved rapidly, however, becoming governor in 1914 and a senator in 1917.

With only a little more than 200,000 population, Wyoming is able to let a "good man rise rapidly."

The word senator comes from a Latin word meaning oldtimers or something of the sort. They make senators younger now. It there are quite a few ancient oldtimers in the upper house—and in the cabinet as well, Mellon being 72, Kellogg 71, New 69 and Work 68. Warren is the oldest senator. Martin Madden, chairman of the house appropriations committee, is 72, but Major Charles M. Steadman, the oldest man on Capitol Hill, is 87.

Quite a number are in their late sixties. What are we going to do with President Coolidge, who will be less than 57 years old when he next March and who is in excellent health? One naturally thinks of the supreme court, where the only other living ex-president now functioning, but would Coolidge be content merely to be an associate justice? And would one of the present associates, Taft or Brandeis, have about the right time to make way for him?

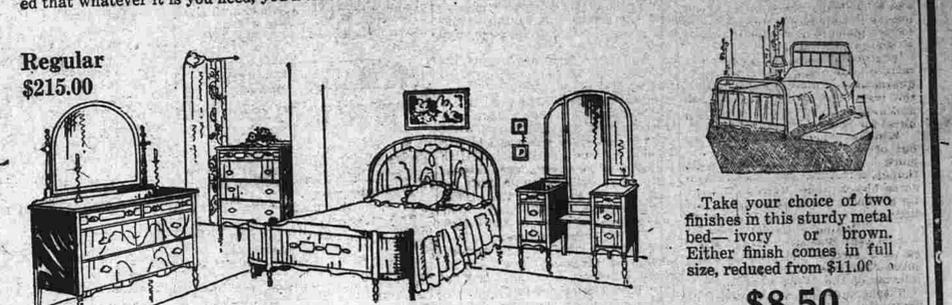

As a lawyer in Northampton, Coolidge displayed enough ability to become a politician. As a politician he has been safe, sane and associate justice. He may not have much initiative, but for law or business he would be an unmatchable piece of window-dressing.

Arab King Hopes Young British Officer May Be Induced to Return.

London.—The belief that Col. T. E. Lawrence, soldier, author, adventurer and "uncrowned king of Arabia," would again take an active part in the administration of Arab policies, was expressed by King Feisal of Iraq in an interview while on a recent visit here. Lawrence, whose books telling of his colorful experiences with the Arab tribes achieved wide circulation, has at present abandoned his dramatic role as a leader of Arab independence. He has drifted into self-imposed obscurity, and Lawrence of Arabia, as he was formerly known, is now Air Captain T. E. Shaw, R. A. F., somewhere in India.

COVENTRY

EXPERTS IN FORESTRY TO HOLD CONVENTION

Waterbury, Jan. 26.—The program of the joint conference of the Connecticut Forestry Association and the Naugatuck Valley Chamber of Commerce on forest, park and roadside development here February 4, will be of great popular interest. Experts in various lines will have a prominent part in the program. The morning session which will be devoted to discussing the problem of improving the appearance of the roadways of the state will be presided over by Arthur Reed Kimball of Waterbury, president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce. Among the speakers will be Luther M. Keith, state highway tree warden, who has charge of the work of the state highway department in caring for the trees along the highway. He will tell of the department's plans for improving the appearance. Allen B. Cook, of the state park and forest commission, will tell of the work that the commission is doing with the town tree wardens. The last general assembly gave the commission authority to co-ordinate the work of these local officials, and Mr. Cook will discuss the work being done by the commission to preserve the beauties of the rural highways of the state.

Mr. Kingsbury landed in back of the horses and the horses stopped with his head within six inches of the front wheels. He broke his right collar bone and dislocated and fractured his left shoulder. Dr. Lester Hill was called at once and set the shoulder. Lester Hill was operated upon Monday and is reported as doing very well. There is a get together meeting tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Hall in the interest of the Farm Bureau. Mr. Sarah Dimmock, Home Demonstration Agent will be there.

GOLD SEEKERS IN WINTER TREK TO GHOST MINES

San Francisco.—The annual trek to the ghost cities of the old West is on again, and the picks of prospectors are bent on proving the truth of the oft-repeated "There's gold in them hills." Mining supply houses report that grizzled prospectors are restocking their kits for a winter in the open.

Whether a gold camp's activity is but of one season's duration or more permanent life and even though stakes locating thousands of acres bleach under desert skies after a "duster" is abandoned matters little.

Shacks and tents mushroomed overnight, while fervid prospectors staked territory for the best part of the week, strangely reminiscent of the "West that was."

Smith was refused a seat as a result of investigation of charges of unusually large contributions being made to his campaign fund by utilities magnates while he was head of the Illinois commerce commission.

BOSTON IS WORRIED OVER UNEMPLOYMENT WITH 50,000 IDLE

Boston.—With more than 50,000 persons idle in this city, the Boston Central Labor Union has designated Sunday, March 4, as the day on which it will discuss the unemployment situation here.

With unemployment at its peak the union, after much discussion at a recent meeting, decided to hold the conference under the supervision of the executive board and board of control of the American Trade Union College, which group had been considering the question.

The conference will be open to the public, it was announced, and representatives of labor and capital, social welfare agencies and other groups will be invited to offer their aid.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN. The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation.

USE TWO THEATERS FOR SUNDAY NIGHT CROWDS

Circle to Serve as Overflow For State, Showing the Same Picture.

Manager Jack Sanson of the State and Circle theaters announced today that he has decided to show the picture "Seventh Heaven" in both of those theaters on Sunday evening.

This is a new idea, giving the theater moving picture fans the opportunity to see the shows they want to see on Sunday evenings without enduring the long wait in front of the theaters. It was because Manager Sanson wants to eliminate this wait for hundreds of people that he has decided to give the picture a showing in both the State and Circle theaters at the same time.

The State has been turning away several hundred people on Sunday evenings because there has not been enough room for them in the theater. When the new arrangement movie lovers may buy tickets either at the State or Circle and will be able to see the picture at either place.

DUCKS SCARCE THIS YEAR AT FINGER LAKES

Keuka Lake, N. Y.—With the closing of the duck hunting season Western New York hunters are scratching their heads in bewilderment at the failure to appear of the thousands of wild ducks which annually visit the Finger Lakes and provide sport for thousands of New York State hunters.

Their non-appearance is of interest to sportsmen of the country generally if the prediction that the birds have adopted another route of migration is to be believed.

It is doubtful, ornithologists say, if the waterfowl, accustomed to the less gun-pestered route in the vast bay of the Mississippi, will ever return to the Eastern route. Geese, once seen and shot in large numbers in the Finger Lakes region of New York State are now seldom seen and rarely shot since the passage of legislation which does not permit their shooting more than fifty feet from the shore or a natural growth.

COOLIDGE TO ATTEND. Washington, Jan. 26.—President Coolidge today accepted an invitation extended by Senator Bruce, Democrat of Maryland, to attend a celebration at St. John's college, Annapolis, Md., May 15, in commemoration of the historic convention of 1786, regarded by historians as the real beginning of the American constitution.

USED RABALM PILES DISAPPEARED IN FIVE DAYS. "A short time ago I was suffering from piles and had tried several so-called remedies with no effect. An acquaintance of mine recommended Rabalm very strongly, and after using for two days, I felt greatly relieved, and in five days my trouble had completely disappeared. As this took place about a month ago, I feel that enough time has elapsed to know that the healing has been complete. Rabalm has done all it is claimed to do, and much more than I expected. I have every faith in Rabalm. (This testimonial letter, recently received, came from Montreal. For obvious reasons we cannot mention the name of the person here. But name and address will be supplied on request.)"

BLUE LAWS

Editor, The Herald:

Blue Laws caused the death of our Lord Jesus Christ. The reformers (?) at the time of Christ formed a long line of blue laws of their own, by which they convicted Christ, because He did not keep the Sabbath prescribed by their own bigotry and religious fanaticism.

He was denounced as a Sabbath breaker and thereby crucified for not conforming to the narrow ideas of the Sabbath cherished by the Pharisees and the doctors of the law.

Yes, our Lord was spied upon most every place He went and was finally condemned to die, by blue laws of their own, by which they convicted Christ, because He did not keep the Sabbath prescribed by their own bigotry and religious fanaticism.

He was denounced as a Sabbath breaker and thereby crucified for not conforming to the narrow ideas of the Sabbath cherished by the Pharisees and the doctors of the law.

THRILLS AND LAUGHS

ON RIALTO BILL

"Cohens and Kellys" and "One Round Hogan" Again Tonight—Double Features Tomorrow.

A well-known motion picture critic once said that a movie, no matter how old it may be, is always new to its audiences, if they have not seen it.

Using this as an example we call to your attention "The Cohens and the Kellys," one of the feature productions now showing at the Rialto Theatre. This gay comedy-drama was shown in Manchester last season and created a profound interest with local theatre-goers. At that time, however, the picture was in such popular demand that it could not be held over and the result was that many people were somewhat disappointed. Remembering this incident Manager Campbell of the Rialto secured it for a two day engagement, in addition to another big feature, "The Cohens and Kellys," stars Charles Murray and George Sidney. It will have its concluding performance this evening.

The co-feature is "One Round Hogan," a thrilling story of the prize-ring featuring Monte Blue supporting Blue in this picture are Lella Hyams and James L. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion. For tomorrow and Saturday the management is presenting another double feature program. The features are Mae McAvoy in "A Reno Divorce" and "Red Clay," a thrilling melodrama with an all star cast.

"The Cat and the Canary," that weird and fascinating stage play that thrilled millions is now on the screen and comes to the Rialto for a three days engagement commencing on Sunday evening.

TWO BIG FEATURES

ON CIRCLE PROGRAM

"Magic Garden" and "Broncho Buster" Here Saturday Only.

Fred Humes, the hero of millions of boys in this country and Europe, is back again at the Circle on Saturday in his latest picture, "The Broncho Buster," a swift-moving story of the west.

With this picture will be shown "The Magic Garden," said to be the best of the works of C. ne Stratton Porter, famous playwright of America.

It is the story of a country girl who waits while her girlhood sweetheart comes back from Europe a famous musician. However, when the boy arrives, he is in the grip of a siren, a foreign countess who wishes to cash in on his popularity and start a battle to win back the love of the boy is the whole plot of the story.

In "The Broncho Buster" Fred Humes does the best work he has done so far. He risked his life many times in the filming of this picture and his work has been well repaid. It is a good picture, taken any way you choose, and it will be well worth seeing.

On Sunday evening the Circle will show "7th Heaven" in conjunction with the State presentation of this film.

NICARAGUAN CASUALTIES

Managua, Jan. 26.—Ten rebels have been killed in skirmishes with United States Marines and native constabulary since the marines occupied Gen. Augustino Sandino's former headquarters at El Chipote, according to information received here today.

There are indications that the marines will extend their air activities as soon as reinforcements of aviators arrive from Quantico, Va. Aquiles Moncada, son of Gen. Moncada, at the head of 40 mounted rebels, seized the small town of Trinidad and completely looted it.

The percentage of people in the United States who work in factories is one out of every eleven.

Scouts remember the monthly rally at the School street Recreation Center, Wednesday February 8th at 7 o'clock.

The Drum and Bugle Corps met Wednesday night for their regular practice at the Franklin school. Captain Jesse Stave is the new drum major. The buglers and five drummers were present. The girls are practicing for the rally on February 22nd, the "International Scout Day."

Troop 2. Mrs. Harry Melkielejohn visited the troop Monday evening and gave a very interesting talk on birds. The girls are working on second class requirements. Nature is one of these requirements. They have a choice of eight different fields in nature to choose three which are most interested in. To watch and observe four birds is one requirement which all the girls enjoy working on.

Troop 3. This troop has added five members. They are: Florence Henchel, Ruth Cheney, Rose Cline, Dorothy and Florence Wilson. They have formed a patrol of their own and will elect a patrol leader at the next meeting.

Troop 4. This troop is now meeting at the Lincoln school at 7 o'clock, in the Kindergarten room. Dorothy Fraser has passed all the second class work and is now practicing on first class signifying. Clarissa Wood is a new member.

Troop 6. The troop held their regular meeting Monday afternoon. Fifteen girls were present. Lieutenant Margaret Waterman took charge. The girls practiced the scout songs and talked of plans for a play in the future. Mrs. George Wilcox, commissioner visited the troop.

Bronze Pack II. The girls look like real brownies with their uniform of brown. The girls have just received their suits, which consist of a simple one-piece dress, bloomers and a pointed cap.

Use Fake Telegram to Fool Sharkey

Matchmaker McMahon Gets Jack's Signature By Working a Hoax.

New York, Jan. 26.—Cauliflower Row rippled with merriment today at the expense of Jack Sharkey, the Boston heavyweight who signed for a match with John Risko under the impression that he would be given a crack at Gene Tunney's title without further ado if he eliminated the Cleveland baker.

How Sharkey was induced by a hoax to sign to meet Risko here on March 12 was revealed by Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Promoter Tex Rickard, McMahon, who went in a 24-hour huddle with Sharkey in Boston, said the Boston battler refused to sign for the Risko bout when the only prize held out to the winner was a scrap with the survivor of the Jack Delaney-Tom Heeney match. Sharkey finally capitulated when shown a telegram purporting to have been sent by Rickard and declaring that the Sharkey-Risko win would be matched with Tunney.

"The telegram was simply a 'prop' message," McMahon chuckled. It was a neat bit of match-making strategy.

Sharkey, who has just realized that he signed exclusively for the Risko fight, was left holding the bag. He must either meet the Delaney-Heeney winner or step out of the parade, according to McMahon.

THE STORY THUS FAR

"The gentleman came out of his apartment at eleven o'clock," said Jessup, "and asked me to call him a cab. While he was waiting Miss Odell screamed. We rushed back to her door and he knocked. She answered and said everything was all right and for him to go home. About ten minutes later a man's voice answered from her apartment. No one else was in the apartment. Jessup, or some one, called other means of exit, and entrance, and had been hidden on the inside of the door and was found in the morning. Yet Margaret Odell's strangled body was found in her apartment the next morning."

CHAPTER X

"But even if Dubois does identify those prints," said Markham, "we'll have to show how the owner of them got into this place last night. He'll claim, of course, they were made prior to the crime."

"Well, it's a sure thing," declared Reath stubbornly. "That was some man in here last night when Odell got back from the theater, and that he was still here until after the other man left at half past eleven. The woman's screams and the answering of the phone call at twenty minutes past twelve prove it. And since Doc Doremus said that the murder took place before midnight, there's no getting away from the fact that the guy who was hiding in here committed the crime."

"That appears incontrovertible," agreed Markham. "And I'm inclined to think it was some one she knew. She probably screamed when he first revealed himself, and then recognized him. I'm convinced that the other man was the matter. . . . Later on he strangled her."

"And I might suggest," added Vance, "that his place of hiding was that clothes-dress."

"Sure," the sergeant concurred. "But what's bothering me is how he got in here: The day operator who was at the switchboard until ten last night told me that the man who called and took Odell out to dinner was the only visitor she had."

Markham gave a grunt of exasperation.

"Bring the day man in here," he ordered. "We've got to straighten this thing out. Somebody got in here last night, and before I leave I'm going to find out how it was done."

Vance gave him a look of patronizing amusement.

"I know, Markham," he said. "I'm not blessed with the gift of psychic inspiration, but I have one of those strange, indescribable feelings that the minor poets say, that if you really contemplate remaining in this bestrewn boudoir till you've discovered how the mysterious visitor gained admittance here last night, you'll feel jolly well to send for your toilet accessories and several changes of fresh linen—not to mention your pajamas. The chap who engineered this little soiree planned

"My God, sir!" he exclaimed. "So that's how they murdered her!"

His entrance and exit most carefully and perspicaciously.

Markham regarded Vance dubiously, but made no reply.

(Tuesday, September 11; 11:15 a. m.)

Heath had stepped out into the hall, and now returned with the day telephone operator, a fellow, this young man who, we learned, was named Spively.

His almost black hair, which accentuated the pallor of his face, was sleeked back from his forehead with pomade; and he wore a very shallow mustache which barely extended beyond the edge of his nostrils.

He appeared nervous, and in a dazzling chocolate-colored suit cut very close to his figure, a pair of cloth-topped but-tressed shoes, and a pink shirt with a stiff turn-over collar to match.

He appeared nervous, and in a dazzling chocolate-colored suit cut very close to his figure, a pair of cloth-topped but-tressed shoes, and a pink shirt with a stiff turn-over collar to match.

Markham went straight to the point.

"I understand you were at the switchboard yesterday afternoon until eight o'clock, is that correct?"

Spively swallowed hard, and nodded his head. "Yes, sir."

"What time did Miss Odell go out to dinner?"

"About seven o'clock. I'd just sent to the restaurant next door for some sandwiches."

"Did she go alone?" Markham interrupted his explanation.

"No. A fellow called for her."

"Did you know this fellow?"

"I'd seen him couple of times calling on Miss Odell, but I didn't know who he was."

"What did he look like?" Markham's question was uttered with hurried impatience.

Spively's description of the girl's through the front door after Miss Odell left?"

"Positive! I tell you I didn't leave the board the whole time, and nobody could've got by me without my knowing it. There was only one person that called and asked for her."

"Oh! So some one did call!" snapped Markham. "When was it? And what happened?—Jog your memory before you answer."

"It wasn't anything important," the youth assured him, genuinely frightened. "Just a fellow who came in and rang the bell and went right out again."

"Never mind whether it was important or not," Markham's tone was cold and peremptory. "What time did he call?"

"About half past nine."

"And who was he?"

"A young fellow. I've seen come here several times to see Miss Odell. I don't know his name."

"Tell me exactly what took place," pursued Markham. Again Spively swallowed hard and wetted his lips.

"It was like this," he began, with effort. "The fellow came in, and started walking down the hall, and I said to him: 'Miss Odell isn't in.' But he kept on going, and said: 'Oh, well, I'll ring the bell anyway to make sure.'"

"A telephone call came through just then, and I let him go. He rang the bell and knocked on the door, but of course there wasn't any answer, and pretty soon he came on back and said: 'I guess you were right.' Then he tossed me half a dollar, and went out."

"You actually saw him go out?" There was a note of disappointment in Markham's voice.

"Sure, I saw him go out. He stopped just inside the front door and lit a cigar. Then he opened the door and turned toward Broadway."

"One by one the rosy petals fall," came Vance's indolent voice. "A most amusing situation!"

Markham was loath to relinquish his hope in the criminal possibility of this one caller who had come and gone at half past nine.

"What was this man like?" he asked. "Can you describe him?"

Spively sat up straight, and when he answered, it was with an enthusiasm that showed he had taken special note of the visitor.

"He was good-looking, not so old—maybe thirty. And he had on a full-dress suit and patent-leather pumps, and a pinstriped shirt."

"What, what?" demanded Vance, in simulated disbelief, leaning over the back of the day operator. "A silk shirt with evening dress! Most extraordinary!"

"Oh, a lot of the best dressers are wearing them," Spively explained, with condescending pride. "It's all the fashion for dancing."

"You don't say—really?" Vance appeared dumbfounded. "I don't know," he replied. "I'd, by the way, when this Beau Brummel of the silk shirt paused by the front door, did he take his cigar from a long fat silver case carried in his lower waistcoat pocket?"

"The youth looked at Vance in admiring astonishment.

"How did you know?" he exclaimed.

"Simple deduction," Vance explained, resuming his recumbent posture. "Large metal cigarette cases carried in the waistcoat pocket somehow go with silk shirts for evening wear."

escort tallied with Jessup's description of the man who had accompanied her home, though Spively was more voluble and less precise than Jessup had been. Patently, Miss Odell had gone out at seven and returned at eleven with the same man.

"Now, resumed Markham, putting an added stress on his words, 'I want to know who else called on Miss Odell between the time she went out to dinner and ten o'clock when you left the switchboard.'"

Spively was puzzled by the question, and his thin arched eyebrows lifted and contracted.

"I—don't understand," he stammered. "How could any one call on Miss Odell when she was out?"

"Some one evidently did," said Markham. "And he got into her apartment, and was there when she returned at eleven."

The youth's eyes opened wide, and his lips fell apart.

"My God, sir!" he exclaimed. "So that's how they murdered her!"

"I—laid in wait for her. . . . He stopped abruptly, suddenly realizing his own proximity to the mysterious chain of events that had led up to the crime.

"But nobody got into her apartment while I was on duty," he blurted, with frightened emphasis. "Nobody! I never left the board from the time she went out until quitting time."

"Couldn't any one have come in the side door?"

"What! Was it unlocked?" Spively's tone was startled. "It never is unlocked at night. The janitor bolts it when he leaves at six."

"And you didn't unbolt it last night for any purpose? Think!"

"No, sir, I didn't!" He shook his head earnestly.

"And you are positive that no one got into the apartment

The Smart Woman Will Wear A Printed Frock

Almost every wardrobe will include more than one printed dress this season, and the attractively styled frock pictured here uses a polka-dot design in blue, red and beige with a red crepe band to outline the neck and make a bow. Flat pleats are arranged in the front to give skirt width and the joining of bodice and skirt is covered with a red suede belt. This one-piece dress is designed for misses and small women in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. The 18 year (36 bust) size requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch material. Price of pattern 15 cents.

Make your dresses at home yourself. There is a charming assortment of fashions from which to choose your requirements in our new Fashion Book, 15 cents the copy.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

Would Lady Macbeth wear a nightgown or pajamas today? This mighty question has London all agog. Producers are working on a modern version of "Macbeth," and have had quite a time deciding whether "a woman" in Lady Macbeth's position today would wear a nightgown or pajamas. The playwright has decided on the nightgown. I think that from the viewpoint of dramatic aesthetics he is perfectly right.

NO CHICKEN.

But I think that his reason "a Lady Macbeth of today would wear a nightgown" is all wrong. I have been under the impression that only the hot polloi sought the arms of Morpheus in nightgown-clad, and that the upper strata would no more think of doffing pajamas for nightgowns than preferring liver and bacon to squab. Still, Lady Macbeth was no chicken. Maybe as years overtake even the upper crust, they surrender to the tastes of the lower classes.

WHOLLY YOU BE?

"Who would you like to be?" This question is sure to prove diverting at any social rally. Spring it on men and women, or each. It does start one thinking, doesn't it? Let's see—how about being Mrs. Coolidge, First Lady of the Land, photographed, pointed out, wonderful "copy," never to have to stand in line to get a good seat at anything. But still what a nuisance, and what things one would have to do that one doesn't want to do!

CAN'T DECIDE.

No, wouldn't it be more fun to be somebody who had accomplished some great big job rather than somebody great because of position and title? Wouldn't I rather be someone who had known the one real joy of self-expression through a job hailed as well done? That would mean I'd rather be a famous "writer lady" than anybody else. Let's see what one? Grazia Deledda, winner of the Nobel Prize in literature, must be good, but nobody'd turn around when you went abroad. No, guess I'd rather be one of the beautiful women. Some game, trying to figure out who you'd like to be! Bet many a frail would choose to be Mrs. Lindbergh, Jr.

"Thank goodness, my boy didn't marry one of these flappers!" a mother said to me not long ago. I met the new daughter-in-law a few days later. She rolled her nude hose. Her hair was a boyish bob. She rouged and lipstick and wisecracked, and black-bottomed and played poker. But she also had furnished an apartment beautifully, baked and cooked divinely, and ran her house by clockwork. Still, it made me wonder what a flapper was. Time and again I've had this experience. Someone declaring proudly that their new daughter-in-law or their daughter or their boy's intended was no flapper, only for me to find myself wearing one of the traditional car-bobs. Come now, it's an old subject—but just what is a flapper? Is she always the girl next door or the one across the street?

The new heavy yet supple silk crepes are the best choice for the latest tailored blouses. Two slightly varying shades of the same color of crepe suited for the display of the shiny and dull side of the material, is effective in an overblouse. The new design of American Indian motifs on printed silk is destined to be popular for separate blouses as well as dresses.

Have you noticed that good-to-look-at asparagus and egg dish advertised in some of the magazines by one of the large California canneries? The illustration shows the large stalks with greenish tips arranged in a shallow square glass dish, alternating with hard boiled eggs cut lengthwise, arranged on a bed of white sauce, the whole garnished with strips of pimento. These colored pictured dishes tempt cooks to try them out and certainly these advertisements should be worth all they cost.

Amusing, useful and ornamental are the pieces of pottery and glassware that come to us from Czechoslovakia, France and Italy. There are delightful new things in the ever popular Quimper ware from Brittany. For the most part they are still handwork, done at home by the mother and her children and the objects sketched thereon are just what their eyes fall on around their home or barnyard. A strutting rooster is quite as decorative to them as some intricately worked out design. A new kind of cracked pottery and a novel fished glass comes from Czech and is used to fashion all sorts of feathered ware, intended for pitchers, decanters or other food containers.

Another conserve that may be made up in winter is the following:

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

CARE SHOULD BE TAKEN IN USING ULTRA-VIOLET RAYS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The Journal of the American Medical Association calls attention again to the fact that the broadcast sale of apparatus giving ultra-violet rays is likely to result in harm to the public.

Of course, no harm can result from the use of ultra-violet colored incandescent lights, such as are used in some barber shops to stimulate the growth of hair. In such cases the only difficulty is that the light is absolutely without any effects on the hair and the purchaser gets only the vision of purple for his money.

Rays That Are Not Real

Neither does this refer to the imitation ultra-violet ray apparatus that is sold by some electrical concerns for home treatments; unless the ultra-violet is produced by a carbon arc or by the circulation of the electrical current through mercury vapor enclosed in quartz glass there are not any real ultra-violet rays for the purchaser, at least not sufficient to have any appreciable effect.

It has long been known that practically every apparatus or drug that is powerful for good may also do harm.

Nevertheless, the promoters of these machines are selling them to bath institutes, swimming pools, massage parlors, beauty parlors and barber shops, where the rays are administered by technicians who have never studied the human body and who have no conception of the dangers.

Many large clubs for men, particularly athletic clubs, have established ultra-violet rooms with the idea that the tired business man will be rejuvenated and made full of pep by a few minutes of exposure to the ultra-violet rays after his exercise or his luncheon.

Scientific literature already contains the reports of many cases in which the skin has been damaged, in which the eyes have been inflamed, in which serious results have occurred due to careless exposure to ultra-violet rays.

Serious Possibilities

It is known that persons with fever and low blood pressure sometimes react seriously to exposure. In many instances there have been burns of the skin due to the dropping of hot pieces of carbon, and there are some cases reported of persons especially sensitive who have developed severe eruptions after the use of ultra-violet rays.

An energy as potent as this is should be used only by those who are fully acquainted with its dangers as well as with its possibilities.

Don't Make a Has-been of Mother

By Olive Roberts Barton

A letter from the mother of nine children to President Roosevelt, sponsor of large families, begged him rather pathetically to use his influence with men who outgrow their wives, and with children who grew up with more respect for their fathers than for their mothers.

She declared that her husband, "accustomed to mix with the highest minds in the country," refused to discuss things with her. "You wouldn't understand if I did tell you," she quoted him as saying. The older children took the same attitude. They would discuss things with their father but if she made an attempt to mix in the conversation she received merely a curt "Oh, Mother, you wouldn't know."

They admitted their man-of-the-world father, at forty-five, but to them their mother was merely a creature who could keep house and make them comfortable, and not to be thought of as a mental equal.

To them she had given her mind, her body, her beauty, her life. This was their gratitude.

In Roosevelt's memoirs he remarks: "When ever a man thinks that he has outgrown the woman who is his mate, he will do well carefully to consider whether his growth has not been downward instead of upward."

Referring to selfish and ungrateful children he wrote: "I believe that it is also a mistake to let other people grow selfish, even when the other people are one's children."

But I don't know. I can't think it is always the mother's fault when children are selfish. It's borne in some of them.

Springfield Team Plays Rec Five Here Tomorrow

Twenty-Five Events At Skating Carnival

Also Hockey Game Between North and South and Fancy Skating Exhibition By Frank Walleit and Miriam Davenport.

The cold wave last night seemed to give added assurance that the ice will be okay for the big skating carnival at the center Spring Pond next Saturday afternoon. The Superintendent John Y. Keur expects to tell by this evening whether or not it will be thick enough to warrant holding the carnival. Therefore, it is expected that a definite announcement can be carried one way or the other in The Herald tomorrow.

The skating carnival general committee met at the school street Recreation Center last night and practically completed particulars for the affair. It was definitely decided that there will be twenty-five events on the program which will start promptly at one o'clock. It is expected that the events will be completed by three-thirty.

At that hour the fancy skating exhibition to be staged by Frank Walleit and his partner, Miss Miriam Davenport, the latter from Springfield. Everett McGowan, a mousie speed skater will last until four-fifteen at which time the hockey game between the North and South will begin.

At yesterday's meeting, the events for the three classes, Junior, Intermediate and Senior, were definitely settled. As announced in yesterday's edition, boys and girls twelve years old or younger will be allowed to enter the junior division; sixteen or under in the intermediate and any age above in the senior. Entries should be made at the Rec or Community club.

All the junior events will be run off first. Then will come the intermediate and senior. The boys and girls classes will be on together. In other words, the fifty yard dash for junior boys will be followed by the same event for the junior girls, and so on.

A list of the events follows: Junior boys: fifty yard dash, one hundred yard dash, fifty yards backward and 440 yard race which will be two laps of the pond. Junior girls: fifty yard dash, 100 yard dash, fifty yards backward 220 yards (one lap).

Intermediate boys: seventy five yard dash, one hundred yard dash, 880 yard race (four laps) and relay between four man teams North and South. Intermediate girls: seventy-five yard dash, one hundred yard dash, 440 yard race (two laps).

Senior boys: one hundred yard dash, 220 yard dash (one lap) two mile open (8 laps), one hundred yards backward, one mile relay between North and South. Senior girls: one hundred yard dash, seventy-five yards backward, 440 yards (two laps) half mile relay.

The winners of first place in all events will receive a prize. The carnival committee decided yesterday to ask local merchants to enter into the spirit of the occasion and donate whatever they felt reasonable to help make the affair a big success; something Manchester can look back upon with pride. Anyone who cares to help the cause should get in communication with Director Lewis Lloyd at the School Street Rec or Director Jerry Fay at the Manchester Community Club. Any contributions will be greatly appreciated by the committee.

The third Dempsey-Tunney engagement is in the making. Probably this one will be card-indexed by Mr. Rickard as Series A, No. 30, Outdoor. Tex ought to have some system to keep these events listed.

Pretty soon the fans will be arguing not about who won, but how many times they fought.

CUBS AND REC MEET TONIGHT

Second Round of Herald Bowling League Begins; Masons' Lead Is Slim.

LEAGUE STANDING

Brit. Amer.	12	21	17
St. Bridget's	12	21	16
K. of P.	12	21	14
Highland Park	10	23	13

The second round of the Herald Bowling League gets under way this evening. The Masons are out in front by the slim margin of one point and may find the Knights of Columbus a stumbling block. This match is at Murphy's.

The best clash of the evening should be that between the Cubs and the West Side Rec which will take place on Conran's alleys. The Cloverleaves and Highland Park meet on the same alleys.

At the K. of C. hall, St. Bridget's and the British Americans will have a battle royal. The other two matches for Murphy's bring together the Beethoven and Bon Ami, and the K. of P. and Center Church.

The complete bowling schedule of the second round in chart form is scheduled to appear on this page and it should be clipped out by all players in the league, especially the team captains and alley managers.

The writer has been unable to complete compiling the individual averages for the first round, but they will positively be published either Friday or Saturday, probably the latter.

FAY FORMS EIGHT TEAM VOLLEY LOOP

Games Start Friday Night at Harding School; Setback Round Begins Tonight at White House.

An eight-team volley-ball league is the latest contribution of Director Jerry Fay to keep activities buzzing at the Manchester Community Club. Play will start at 7 o'clock Friday night.

The teams in the league, the pairings for the opening night and the time when the matches will take place is as follows: 7:00—Gammons-Holman Company vs Hose Company No. 2. 7:45—Carlyle-Johnson Company vs Hose Company No. 1. 8:30—E. E. Hilliard Company vs Bon Ami.

7:15—Connecticut Summatra vs Business Men. All matches will be played at the Harding school on Hollister street. The lineups will be announced later.

An effort is being made to organize another six or eight team league to take care of any other teams or organizations wishing to enter. The Community Club setback tournament will start play in the first round of a new series tonight at the White House. Ten teams will be represented. They are Gammons-Holman Company, Carlyle-Johnson Company, E. E. Hilliard Company, Business Men, Bon Ami, Glastonbury Knitting, Talcott Brothers, Hose Company No. 1 and Improvement.

DOCTOR PELTZER STILL WITHOUT AMATEUR CARD

German Track Star Must Wait Until Saturday Before He Knows His Fate.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH (I. N. S. Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 26.—It may be of interest to those progressive souls who are making ready to enter into a large evening next month that the status of the Herr Doktor Peltzer, as a foreign amateur runner without official toleration, has remained absolutely without change, in spite of interpretations to the contrary. His statement is not mine. It is the exclusive property of Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., and a member of its suddenly important foreign relations committee, and it was made to me today by way of clearing up what was declared to be a "false impression," gained in some quarters. According to Ferris, the matter of a permit to Peltzer has not even been discussed by the committee to date and will not be so discussed until such time as the Herr Doktor complies with regulations.

No Vote Taken There has been no vote, says Ferris. No "understanding" among members of the committee as to what will be done in the event that the doctor comes to time like a little gentleman. It seems that the committee and Ferris is interested, therefore, although not necessarily final, that he thinks the matter is far from settled.

"All we did on Tuesday was to outline the regulations that had to be complied with before Peltzer could apply for a permit to run," Ferris declared. "We said that, when we had done so, we would then consider his application. How, then, can it be said that we had given him a permit or would give him one? We didn't vote on the question; we didn't sound out individual views. Nobody said that, in the event that Peltzer complies with a strictly formal request, let's permit him to run.

"So far as I personally know, the individual members of the committee may feel just as they did before we met."

Two Votes Against If that were so, then two votes, those of Gustavus Kirby, New York, and Joseph B. MacCabe, Boston, still stand against Peltzer's appearance on any American track. If it were so, then Joseph Kelly, Brooklyn, will not vote for Peltzer until the latter promises to run in the national indoor championship. Ferris has not committed himself but it is understood that Avery Brundage, Chicago, and Robert Weaver, Los Angeles, remaining members of the committee, favor the proposed three competitions for the German.

The available members of the committee, expecting to have the Peltzer data in hand by that time, probably hold a final meeting in Boston on Saturday. To the affirmative votes of Brundage and Weaver probably will be added those of Ferris and Kelly and everything will be Jacob.

At least, that would seem to be the logical procedure; in fact, the only one. So long as good, common horse sense remains an American virtue, I don't see how the boys can do otherwise. The point, however, is that at least one member of the committee can see his way clear to intimating that they might.

ERROR SPOILS RECORD

Newark, N. J., Jan. 26.—Negligence on the part of track officials continues to be the bane of Lloyd Hahn's life. The great Boston runner recently was deprived of a record in Brooklyn because the track was not equipped properly, and in the St. Joseph's Catholic Club games here last night an error by track officials cost him a chance to break his own world's indoor record for the 1,000-yard event.

Hahn won the race, but it was discovered later that the contestants had been made to run an extra lap, or 1,174 yards instead of 1,000. The clerk at the finish line was responsible for the error. As a result, Hahn conserved his speed for the last and extra lap, his time for 1,000 yards being 2:14.45 against the record of 2:12.45.

CHICAGO WANTS ARMY

OLYMPICS TURN BACK HIGHLAND PARK FIVE

Score is 59 to 42; Libertys Trim Polish A. C. 56 to 28 in Community Junior Loop.

The Olympics continued undefeated in Division No. 2 of the Manchester Community Club junior basketball team last night by defeating Highland Park in an interesting contest. The score was 59 to 42. Kenneth Beets kept the boys from the hilltop in the running by caging a dozen goals. Nichols, Schiele and Turkington were high scorers for the Olympics.

In the other game, the Libertys won from the Polish A. C. by the score of 59 to 28. Seelster and Welles were high scorers for the winners, but the entire Liberty team played well. Falkowski was best for the losers. Following is the league standing and the summary of the games played last night.

Whirlwinds Defeat Plainfield Thrice

Outside of Whitty Bernot, who tossed nine field goals, no one was able to do much of anything in the scoring line for Plainfield last night and the Boston Whirlwinds romped to their third successive victory. The margin of victory, however, was close, the score being 27 to 15. Bernot counted nine times. Madden and Stavitsky went scoreless but Harry Benson who played for the first time this season caged a foul try.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

Newark, N. J., Jan. 26.—A new world record for Class A amateurs in the National amateur championship 151 ball line billiard tournament, was established here last night when Francis Appleby, the champion, made a run of 70 in defeating Elvin Edwards, 250 to 183.

In the two other matches played at the Newark Athletic Club, Edgar Appleby defeated Maurice Parker, of the Boston Athletic Club, 250 to 145, and Herbert Hammer triumphed over Jacob Klingler, 250 to 175.

WEREN'T ANY PROFITS

Ernest Vierkotter, German swimmer who won the $30,000 prize by winning the Toronto swim, says his expenses ate up practically all the profits. His expenses, he says, were $28,500.

METCALF TAKES AWAY ALL BOWLING HONORS

Bobby Metcalf had the high single and three string in the West Side bowling league Tuesday night. His respective scores were 119 and 305. The scores follow:

The Diamond-Match team is one of the fastest teams in and around Springfield and should furnish plenty of opposition for the Rec Five, and possibly then some.

Manager Clune has not announced any lineup for the opening game. However, it is possible that he will start a team something like this: Mantell and Faulker, forwards; Norris, center; Madden and Farr, guards. On the other hand, Halliester, Quish or Strang may get the call. The mere fact that the boys didn't look so hot in the first game in the second half, doesn't mean a thing. It was the first game of the season for the Rec Five and Manager Clune was experimenting with his lineup more than anything else.

WHY THEY CURTAILED SPORTS

The chief reason given by Syracuse athletic authorities for the recent abolishment of several minor sports was that they wished to establish a more elaborate system of intramural sports.

DANGEROUS DAN MCGREW SHOT

New Old Gold Factory

"Doc" Farrell, who runs the drug store, sandwich shop and Shell Club down at the corner of Main and First streets, says a legitimate salesman told him that pretty soon 30,000,000 Old Golds a day won't be enough to keep the country supplied. He says the F. Lortillard Company is going to open another plant down in Louisville very soon that will boost the production up to 50,000,000 cigarettes daily.

"Doc," who is always right up to date, only got his first stock of Old Golds about a year and a half ago, so an output of 50,000,000 cigarettes a day isn't a bad record for a product less than two years old.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Jappy Clegg has closed the Lincoln Highway barbers and lunch room for the winter. He specializes in hot dogs and Old Gold Cigarettes. "Two of a kind," says Jappy, "because you can't get a bar out of either of them."

Len Hamlin, who has the biggest Old Gold trade in town, got his new auto license Tuesday. It sure is an appreciable number—'28-4-15.

DAILY SMILE PUZZLE

1-What letter is missing from the following words: OLD G-L-D? 2-What's wrong with this sentence: George never smokes OLD GOLD cigarettes. 3-Fill in the missing word in this sentence: He buys _____ OLD GOLD cigarettes.

ANSWERS

1-The letter "O" is still thing. 2-Nothing is wrong with the sentence, but something awful is wrong with George. 3-Old Gold.

The third Dempsey-Tunney engagement is in the making. Probably this one will be card-indexed by Mr. Rickard as Series A, No. 30, Outdoor. Tex ought to have some system to keep these events listed.

Pretty soon the fans will be arguing not about who won, but how many times they fought.

After they have fought 100 times they should not be reasoning about who won, but how many times they fought.

The trouble seems to be the fans who are arguing not about who won, but how many times they fought.

STATE OFFERS TWO FEATURES FRIDAY

"Spoilers of the West" With Tim McCoy Is One—Esther Ralston Star of Second.

"Spoilers of the West" and "Love and Learn" are the two big features which are scheduled for the State theater on Friday and Saturday. The former is starring Tim McCoy, Marjorie Daw and William Fairbanks while the latter stars the blonde beauty, Esther Ralston.

"The Lovelorn" is one of those whimsical comedy-dramas in which Miss Ralston shines and in this feature she has done more than she has ever done to make herself more popular than ever. The plot of the story is filled with surprises and the rapid unfolding of the web keeps the audience on its toes all the time.

William Fairbanks makes a return to the screen in "Spoilers of the West." He is supported in this feature by Marjorie Daw, one of the most piquant of the moving picture stars and the two of them team up well.

Country Store is here as usual tonight with the presents and Manager Sanson has promised his fans that they will get a lot more than their money's worth when they come to the State this evening.

The feature picture is "The College Hero" with Ben Turpin, Robert Agnew and a host of able actors in the cast. "The College Hero" is considered by critics better than any of the other college pictures which have flooded the screen lately and the plot of the story is vastly different from those others.

BENNETT TO BE TRIED ON FEBRUARY EIGHTH

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 26.—Frank Bennett, the Wilton grand juror who is charged with refusing to serve summons on persons accused of motor vehicle law violations because such matters are too trivial, will not be called to account for the charged non-feasance in office until February 8th, Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles, who has called Mr. Bennett to Hartford to explain matters, discovered today that there is uncertainty as to whether the service of notice on Mr. Bennett was properly done. To make surer he put the case over eight days from January 31.

Mr. Stoeckel discovered that in nearly every account of the Wilton case Bennett's name has been published as something other than Frank. He went into the records and found that the grand juror is Frank Barrett, and to make sure Frank Bennett would answer, he caused a new summons to be issued and served.

The Wilton man's trouble comes as the result of a complaint made by Robert T. Hurley, state police commissioner, whose men told him they could not get results in Wilton if they made arrests in that town.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (195) Preparing Coffee

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

When the coffee beans are almost dry, men push them into a pile for the night, and in the morning they are spread again. When thoroughly dry they are placed in bags and started for the warehouse. Coffee like this is grown in the West Indies, Central America, Mexico and South America, Brazil being among the largest producers.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1929-30.

After the coffee has been divided according to size, it is placed in bags which are sewn up. The scene above is taken from a warehouse in Brazil. Next comes the ocean voyage and the coffee will soon be in the hands of the great coffee merchants from whom grocers buy their supplies.

MIDDLETOWN EPIDEMIC BLOCKS BASKET CONTEST

It was definitely announced today that the basketball game between Manchester High and Middletown High scheduled to be played in Middletown tonight has been postponed because of the smallpox epidemic which has been raging in that city and vicinity.

Faculty Manager Edson M. Bailey attempted to arrange a game with Rockville High to be played at the Rec Saturday night but arrangements with that, and other schools, fell through. Manchester's next game is scheduled to be played with New Haven Hillhouse High here next week Friday night. However, there is a remote possibility that the High School and the Rec. Five may be matched for tomorrow night.

The Rec Five is scheduled to meet the Diamond-Match Company team from Springfield Friday night but it is possible this game may be set ahead until a later date.

Circle Features

"Broncho Buster" Here Saturday Only With "Magic Garden."

The Circle theater will show its double feature bill this week only on Saturday, for "7th Heaven," the feature which starts at the State theater on Sunday is to be shown at the Circle street playhouse on the same evening.

Circle features on Saturday will be "The Broncho Buster," starring Fred Humes" and Gene Stratton Porter's "The Magic Garden," with Margaret Morris and Raymond Kean. "The Broncho Buster" is one of those good westerns in which Humes is at his best. He does some clever riding, broncho busting lariat throwing and shooting in the approved manner. It is a picture that the children will like and that the old folks will enjoy.

"The Magic Garden" is one of the best of the works of the famous author, Gene Stratton Porter. It has been brought to the screen under its own title and none of the excellence of the story has been lost in its transfer to the silver sheet.

It is the story of the girl who waited for the boy who was becoming famous and the hardships and heartaches she endures while trying to win back his love.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage intentions were filed today at the office of the Town Clerk by Andrew Ansaldo and Virginia Piccinino of this town.

The earliest of all Christmas hymns was written by Prudentius, who was born in 348.

A THOUGHT

Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep.—Prov. 24:33.

Canst thou, O partial sleep, give thy repose to the wet sea-boy in an hour so rude, and in the calmest and most still night, with all appliances and means to boot, deny it to a king?—Shakespeare.

GAS BUGGIES—Sunk

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Be careful if you go out horse-back riding. The horse won't shy at an automobile, of course, but he might chance to see another horse.

SENSE and NONSENSE

HER IDEA OF IT. "You call me bold," the flapper cries, "And so I'll dress the part, I guess. To her boudoir she promptly hies And there proceeds to partly dress.

Gladys washed her hair with dog soap and then wondered why it dried out all snarly.

The Wife—There's a burglar trying to get into the flat.

Her Hero—Eh! Where? I'll get up and give him the fight of his life.

Aren't you afraid?"

"Not a bit. Any burglar who thinks this flat can hold all three of us must be a little bit of a fellow."

It is difficult to believe that exercise will take off fat when you study some people's chins.

"Gertrude Ederle is suing her business manager."

"Ah, I see. A swimming suit."

A handsome woman, riding in a trolley car, began sneering at a young mother's awkwardness in holding a fretting baby.

"I declare," she snorted, "a woman ought never to have a baby until she knows how to hold it."

"Nor a tongue, either," calmly responded the worried young mother.

Mrs. Reddy—"Why don't you let your Willie play baseball with the other boys?"

Mrs. Greene—"A part of the game is stealing bases, and I'm afraid it might be a bad influence."

"I have been told many times," said a local man, "that a road of federal aid specifications can be built cheaper without than with federal aid. Is this demonstrable? If not, why is it constantly repeated?"

Nothing is useless, and a husband never gets too ornery to come in handy as a topic of conversation.

Yes, some people do speak "straight from the shoulder"—too bad they can't originate their talk a little higher up.

"I'm crazy about this place," said the lunatic as he ambled about the asylum.

The leader of the jazz orchestra probably figures that dodging, side-stepping, and similar antics will make him harder to hit.

LETTER GOLF

BOOK TO WORM

People always reading a book turn into a Worm, they say. The change is easy, taking four strokes according to the par game the Puzzle Editor has worked out and which is printed on another page.

BOOK

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

Some women with a past are so pleased with it that they are always living up to it.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tinymites all yelled, "Hurrah!" And then they heard the cowboy say, "It's lucky that I came along in time to save you all this tiger's wild, and very mad, and you should surely feel real glad that I was near at hand, and heard your frightened voices call."

ABOUT TOWN

The Cosmopolitan club will meet tomorrow afternoon at Teacher's Hall. The hostess will be Miss Olive Hayward and the subject, "Manchester."

Mrs. Samuel Gaylord will entertain the members of St. Mary's Guild at her apartments in the state armory building tomorrow evening. The ladies have all been invited and have the privilege of bringing their husbands. Mrs. Gaylord will be assisted by Mrs. William Crawford, Mrs. Thomas Wright, Mrs. Max Kasulki and Mrs. James Harrison.

Dancers from Williamantic, Hartford, Windsor and various parts of this town filled the assembly hall at the Buckland school last night. The dance was given by the Ways and Means committee and was so successful they plan another in two weeks. The next activity of the Parent-Teacher Association will be the benefit whist for Mrs. Henry Horton on Monday evening. The men of the district have been active in making arrangements and in distributing tickets. Mrs. Horton's husband was killed at the grade crossing in Buckland earlier in the month. She and her five children are left with slender means of support.

Twenty-five tables were filled at the bridge party given in the Elks' home in Rockville by the Emblem club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. George Graziano of this town won the door prize. The bridge prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Heffron of Rockville, Mrs. Nelson of Manchester and Mrs. Sullivan of Williamantic. Whist prizes were won by Mrs. Heffron of Rockville, Miss Gladys Smith of Manchester and Mrs. Ohls of Rockville.

NORTH M. E. CHURCH
BAZAAR GETS CROWD
Vestry Beautifully Decorated For Three Night Affair—Entertainment Each Night.

The opening evening of the three-night bazaar at the North Methodist church was a distinct success. A large and animated crowd had a real good time last evening among the booths, listening to the music, buying the things that took their fancy and paying frequent visits to the food and refreshment booths committee under the guidance of E. A. Lydall have transformed the large vestry into a place of great beauty with the aid of strips of white, pink and green crepe paper placed vertically on the buff background of the walls, with a border of paper in lattice work effect all around the room. A drop ceiling is fashioned of the paper strips in these colors. The windows are covered with white paper and the panes are outlined in pink with overdrapes of green. Suspended over the booths, which are arranged around the walls, are many large pendant lamps, all softly shaded with green streamers, and this is the children's grab and by pulling up a tulip they find the concealed gift fastened to it. The youthful choir members did a good business all the evening.

In the senior intermediate department is located the cafeteria under the direction of Superintendent Clarence L. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor. It opens at 5 o'clock each evening and for from 35 to 50 cents a substantial meal will be served of scalloped oysters, ham, potato salad, baked beans and dessert—whatever one chooses to order.

At the rear of the vestry is a spacious checking department where wraps may be left for consideration. Just beyond is the Epworth League booth where home-made candy, ice cream, sandwiches, popcorn and other forms of refreshments found a ready sale. The children of the I. J. League, with Pastor and Mrs. Stocking as leaders have an interesting display of painted articles in woodwork, such as curtain pulls, tie racks, door stops and a variety of useful things. The primary department of the Sunday school in charge of Mrs. C. I. Balch is also represented. Here one may buy potted plants, bulbs, handsome towels or orangeade to quench the thirst. The young men's class is in charge of the country store booth and the ladies' missionary societies combine with the Ladies' Aiders in the sale of home-made foods and fancy articles.

This evening's entertainment will consist of a comedy sketch, "Renting Jimmy" by the Misses Marguerite Marks, Hilda Magnuson, Mary McFarland, Beatrice Shaw, Caroline Waterbury, Esther Holmes, Dorothy Hanna, Hazel Ferrell, Lucile Clarke and Miriam Carlson. The scene is laid in a boarding school for girls where the scarcity of beans produces some amusing situations.

Tonight will be Epworth League Union night at the bazaar and a number of visiting Epworth Leaguers from neighboring churches are expected.

RED MEN TO WELCOME FAMED BRISTOL TEAM

Manchester Red Men are expected to turn out in full force tonight to welcome the famous Compounce degree team of Bristol, which will work the Chiefs' degree here. The scene is laid in a boarding school for girls where the scarcity of beans produces some amusing situations.

The Compounce team is said to be one of the best in Red Men lodges in New England, and will work the Chiefs' degree here. The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Frank Diana, Walter Gustafson, Joseph Barto, Francis Tournant and George L. A. Bailey.

FOREMAN PALMER TO BE SKATING BOSS, LIKELY Named For Special Constable At Center Springs Park to Rule Rowdies.

Clarence Palmer, foreman of the park department workmen, is expected to be confirmed by the Board of Selectmen on Monday night as special constable in charge of the Center Springs skating pond. He has been recommended by the park commissioners and by Superintendent John Y. Keur, head of the park department.

Because of various instances of hoodlumism which have occurred at the pond, it has been decided that a special constable be appointed to keep order there and to see that no damage is done either to the trees in the park or to the switch arrangement by which the lights have been turned on.

Some smaller trees have been chopped down by boys who have built fires with the wood and the switchbox controlling the pond floodlights has been tampered with. Instances of this kind have brought the decision to appoint the constable.

Members of the Manchester Rod and Gun club held their usual Wednesday afternoon shoot at the Rainbow range yesterday afternoon, despite the high winds which made shooting difficult. The winds played havoc with the courses of the clay pigeons and few good scores were made.

Edward Elliott, Jr., was high man for the day, turning in a card of 44 birds out of 50 shots. Other scores were low. Mr. Elliott was high man last Saturday when wind conditions were almost the same as yesterday.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS GIVE PARTY FOR MRS. SHEA

Mrs. Margaret Smith Shea of Main street was given a pleasant surprise at her home yesterday afternoon by about 25 of her associates in Manchester Camp Royal Neighbors. Mrs. Shea is the present recorder and has for years been active in the lodge work. Mrs. Margaret Griffin, the oracle, in behalf of the gathering presented to Mrs. Shea a beautiful string of pearls. Her speech was in rhyme; the verses of poetry were written especially for the occasion by one of the members. Games were played and both Mrs. Shea and Master Billie Shea entertained the guests with songs. A delicious lunch of chicken patties and other dainties brought by the party of "Neighbors" was enjoyed.
