3 SKULLS CRACK AS AUTO CLAIMS TROLLEY RAILS

New Haven Men Critically Hurt as Driver Uses Tracks, Crashes Into Electric Car.

New Haven, March 8.—Three New Haven men are under treatment in hospitals today following a head-on collision at Branford early today between an automobile driven by Edward L. Donahue, of New Haven, and a Connecticut Company trolley which Daniel J. Johnson was motorman.

The victims most seriously hurt are Edmund O'Keefe, member of the New Haven fire department, and Fred Lane, both in New Haven hospital in serious condition with fractured skulls, and George Kelly, in Grace hospital with probably fractured skull and also in a serious condition.

Driver Little Hurt
Johnson, the motorman, received cuts from flying glass but was not seriously hurt. Donahue, driver of the auto, and John Pfannenbcker, who was among those in the auto, also were cut and bruised but were able to go home.

The accident occurred on an incline at the Blackstone Memorial Library in the center of Branford, with the auto climbing the hill at high speed on the trolley track. The trolley car was going east, down the hill. The body of the auto was sheared off and tossed aside while the vestibule of the trolley was smashed.

Both Donahue and Johnson were arrested and released on their own recognizance pending a call from the local court.

HELPS BOY FRIEND ROB HER FATHER'S FACTORY

Quincy, Mass., March 8.—Miss Alice Hayes, 19, daughter of Fred L. Hayes, general manager of a Randolph Shoe Company, and her "boy friend" William P. Peck, 23, shoe worker of Brockton, must report to local court once a week for nine months as the result of a suspended sentence for taking eighty pairs of shoes from the factory of the girl's father.

MYSTERIOUS FLIGHT NOT TRANSOCEANIC

English Girl and Capt. Hinchcliffe May Hop Off For India.

London, March 8.—While a powerful Stinson Detroit monoplane rested on the field at the Cranwell airfield, in Lincolnshire, today, supplied for a long flight with Miss Elsie Mackay and Captain Walter Hinchcliffe as its occupants, there was mystery as to the plane's destination.

A sensational report was printed by the Daily Express that Miss Mackay and Hinchcliffe would hop off on a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight for America, but later developments indicated that the flyers planned to head towards India. The Daily Express published a circumstantial account of the plane for a trans-Atlantic flight, but there was no confirmation from either Miss Mackay or Captain Hinchcliffe.

Mrs. Hinchcliffe, wife of the pilot, said her husband contemplated flight to India. She declared she knew nothing of any plan to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight.

Expert aviators said it would be a most dangerous undertaking to fly to the north Atlantic at this time of the year on account of storms.

The Exchange News announced that it had been authoritatively informed that the report that Miss Mackay intends to fly across the Atlantic was entirely without foundation.

Miss Mackay is a pretty brunette in her thirties. She was well-known on the stage and in the films before she took up aviation. She was one of the first women in England to obtain a pilot's license.

Her father, Lord Inchcape, is a shipowner and one of the richest men in England. In 1917, Miss Mackay married Dennis Wyndham, a London actor. The marriage was annulled five years later.

Captain Hinchcliffe's career as an aviator dates back to the World War. Last year he was engaged by Charles Levine to pilot the Bellanca monoplane on a western hop over the Atlantic which was never made.

TILSON FIGHTS THE LAME DUCK PLAN ON FLOOR

Connecticut Man Takes Active Part in Opposing Change in Date of Inaugurations.

Washington, March 8.—Powerful leaders of the House got into action today in an effort to defeat the Norris-White "lame duck" resolution.

Rep. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican leader, and Rep. Martin B. Madden, (R) of Illinois, appropriations committee chairman, were scheduled to take the floor and denounce the attempt to change the dates for presidential inaugurations and the convening of Congress.

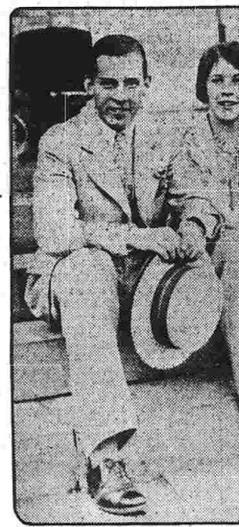

The former is a warm defender of "lame duck" Congresses—the even-year sessions in which defeated members may serve—and the latter declares that the proposed constitutional amendment would seriously impair the budget system.

Long Fight Likely
Under the amendment, according to Madden, the budget would have to be submitted by a "lame duck" president or a president new to the job. The amendment sends Congress into session January 6 each year and changes the inauguration to January 24.

The entire afternoon was expected to be taken in the fight over the resolution, with prospects for the final vote being put off until tomorrow.

Members of the measure were still confident that they could command the necessary two-third vote but admitted that they faced a stiff fight.

Future Honeymooners—Maybe

BANDITS GET HUGE WAD OF SECURITIES

Chicago, March 8.—Two bandits early today obtained $700,000 in stock, $9,000 in negotiable bonds and $7,000 in jewelry in a holdup at the Borin Manufacturing Company plant at Cleero, Chicago suburb.

How they gained entrance to the plant, where mirrors, picture and mirror frames are manufactured, is a mystery. An engineer and watchman who were in the plant at the time were both guarded by one bandit while the other ransacked the safes in the office of the president, Nathan Borin, and the other offices.

The bandits first encountered Leon Malinowsky, engineer, whom they forced to lead them to the watchman, Anton Bynerd. While one bandit forced Malinowsky and Bynerd to stand with their faces to the wall and hands stretched above their heads in the president's outer office, the second robber went in search of a sledge hammer.

Big Ward of Stock
Returning, the bandit knocked the combination from the president's safe and took $8,000 in negotiable foreign bonds and $7,000 worth of jewelry belonging to Mrs. Borin from the safe. He then knocked the combination from the safe in the outer office and obtained $700,000 in signed common and preferred stock of the Borin and Manufacturing Co., and $1,000 in negotiable domestic bonds.

Tying up the watchman and leaving the engineer at liberty, the men escaped, Malinowsky called the police.

RANSOM NOTE MAN REGARDED AS DUD

Northampton, Mass., March 8.—While Michael Bujnickas, confessed writer of a $50,000 ransom letter to St. John Smith, locked up in East Cambridge jail, awaits federal grand jury proceedings, police today were continuing their search for some clue that might lead to the discovery of Francis St. John Smith, missing Smith College freshman.

However, the authorities believe that the young textile worker, who had been trapped by a decoy letter placed in a hired box in the local postoffice, was inspired by moonshine, and wrote the letter with the hope of making some "easy money." Authorities said they were inclined to believe that he hired the mail box, three days before Miss Smith vanished in connection with another "easy money" plan and that he knows nothing regarding the mysterious disappearance of the young New York heiress.

TAKE $700,000 IN STOCK, $16,000 BESIDES, IN CICERO FACTORY STICKUP.

Chicago, March 8.—Two bandits early today obtained $700,000 in stock, $9,000 in negotiable bonds and $7,000 in jewelry in a holdup at the Borin Manufacturing Company plant at Cleero, Chicago suburb.

PENOBSCOT SUFFRAGETTES MAY WORK BUT NOT VOTE

Oldtown, Me., March 8.—The American Indian is fast becoming "Americanized."

Young suffragettes of the Penobscot Indian tribe, who had strived to upset traditions by gaining an equal vote with the Braves in the government of the tribe, had been defeated today by the Braves and some of the squaws.

From the time when the Indian roamed supreme over the land, the Braves held solemn pow-wows around the campfires, and the women had not been expected to do more than the work. Now they can still continue doing that.

BALKS SOVIET TRY TO SELL GOLD HERE

Mellon Blocks Scheme to Get Implied Recognition By United States.

Washington, March 8.—Another subtle effort of the Russian Soviet to obtain at least implied commercial recognition from the United States has been checked.

This view was taken by official Washington today after close scrutiny of the facts surrounding the refusal of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to purchase $5,000,000 in Soviet gold, on behalf of the government.

While the treasury department simply said the gold could not be assayed by the mint because it was not presented by owners and that the Soviet could establish no title, it was learned that even more important reasons were back of the continuation of the ban established in 1920.

Likely to Go Back
The gold was imported for the Soviet State Bank and held in the vaults of the Chase National Bank and the Equitable Trust Company of New York, pending negotiations. It probably will be shipped back to the Soviet government had purchased the Russian gold the Soviet immediately would have "ballyhooed" to the world that it was doing business directly with the United States government officials explained.

OUT OF WORK, INSANE LOCAL MAN FORGETS HE HAS HIDDEN $4,000

ASKS MURDER INDICTMENT OF DR. GUILFOYLE

Gideon Seeks First Degree Findings in Gaudet and Gaynor Killings as Grand Jury Meets.

Hartford, March 8.—A Superior Court grand jury headed by James E. Cannon, of Windsor Locks was today asked to hand down two first degree murder indictments. Reinhardt L. Gideon, assistant state's attorney, asked the jury to return the indictments against Harold N. Guilfoyle, a federal veterinarian, for the killing of Mrs. Max J. Gaudet, of New Haven; and against John F. Gaynor, of Southington, for the slaying of son, Matthew, from ambush after a quarrel.

The jury of eighteen men was unable to start its deliberations until after noon. A long conference between Judge L. Waldo Marvin, who is presiding over the court session, and Samuel Rosenthal, who is Guilfoyle's counsel, occupied the attention of the court during the greater part of the morning.

Guilfoyle Not to Testify
When the grand jury was finally ready for business, Mr. Rosenthal presented a motion asking that Guilfoyle be ordered to appear before the grand jury. Mr. Gideon objected and Judge Marvin denied the motion on three grounds: Guilfoyle's present physical condition, the fact that his presence was not necessary, and the fact that he has not formally been placed under arrest.

Among the witnesses summoned in the Guilfoyle case were Mr. Gaudet, Mrs. Gaudet, and Mr. Gaudet's attorney, presented as portion of his evidence an automatic revolver which he contends was the weapon with which Mrs. Gaudet was shot.

For the case of Gaynor the state had most of the Southington police department on hand. A young Gaynor was shot from ambush by a double-barreled shotgun, according to the police, the father was pulled from a hiding place beneath the outside stairs of a nearby building. The state contended that the father went outside with a shotgun and deliberately waited until his son appeared.

Gaynor has been locked up in the Hartford County Jail here ever since he was arrested. Guilfoyle, since he was arrested, has been in the Hartford hospital where he was taken immediately after the shooting of Mrs. Gaudet and himself in January.

Jacob Shepiskey, of 66 Gardner Street, Sent to State Hospital, Had Stuffed Bills Into Old Tobacco Box—Found By G. H. Waddell and Chief of Police Gordon.

Jacob Shepiskey, of 66 Gardner street, who was committed to the Norwich State Hospital on Wednesday, Feb. 29 after Dr. T. H. Weldon and Dr. D. C. Y. Moore had pronounced him demented, had a $4,000 nest egg he didn't know about. Shepiskey hasn't worked for two years and in wandering about town he had complained of being unable to get work. Either he was miserly or had forgotten $4,000 he had hidden in his Gardner street home.

Charity Superintendent Geo. H. Waddell, in protecting Shepiskey's interests when he was committed to the retreat, asked him if he had any personal belongings he wanted saved. Shepiskey told Mr. Waddell he had a bank book and a few dollars at his home, and he turned over the key to his house to the charity superintendent.

Find Bank Book
In order that Shepiskey would lose nothing Mr. Waddell, accompanied by Chief of Police Samuel Gordon went to the Gardner street house this morning to investigate and try to find the bank book. They ransacked the place high and low, carefully placing one side everything that might be of value to Shepiskey. They looked through the book and it showed that the owner had $200 in the Savings Bank of Manchester deposited in 1926.

In one of the three rooms they came across a trunk covered with dirt and dust. They opened the trunk among a raft of articles they found an old tobacco can. They opened this and found stuffed into it two lumps of old underwear that seemed to be sewed together in places. They tore the cloth balls open and out fell rolls of bills. The money had been tightly rolled together, sewed into the old underwear and jammed into the box.

Over $4,000 in It
Mr. Waddell and Chief Gordon took the money to a table and counted it. The two rolls totaled $4,070. This with the money noted in the bank book gave Shepiskey $4,270. Shepiskey evidently had not opened the trunk for months. The bills smelled musty and were dirty—but they are good as gold.

Mr. Waddell realized immediately that Shepiskey had forgotten about his savings and this morning applied to Judge of Probate Hyde to have a conservator appointed for Shepiskey. The money was taken to the bank today and deposited in Shepiskey's account. The bills were done up at the bank and immediately shipped to Boston where they will be redeemed. They will never be in circulation again.

No More There
Shepiskey lived in a three-room tenement. His wife died a little over a year ago suffering with the same social disease that has affected Shepiskey's mind. They had no children. Previously the man had been employed at Case Brothers, but as stated above he had been out of work and kicked about it.

Waddell and Chief Gordon searched the Shepiskey home thoroughly, and are satisfied that no more money is hidden in the place. They found many indications that Shepiskey was a pervert, bearing out the examining doctor's beliefs. Shepiskey's money will be kept in his name as long as he lives. He may recover and return to find he is fairly well fixed financially. If he does not recover the money reverts to the Town of Manchester.

Credit for Waddell
Charity Superintendent Waddell is most particular, in protecting the interests of such unfortunate. He always makes a thorough examination at the time the person who has been committed and saves all belongings that may have value, or may have some sentimental connection. Each year he never fails to visit each one of the institutions where local persons are confined. He visits with them, chats about their work at the institution, and when no officials of the institution are present asks them if they are receiving good treatment. If they have any fault to find he immediately takes action to have the condition corrected.

Had it not been for Mr. Waddell's personal interest in protecting Shepiskey's property the $4,070 might never have been found, or it might have remained in persons not rightfully entitled to it.

MOVE FOR U. S. CONTROL OF COAL MINES GROW

Senators, Miners, Operators Seek Way to Balance Industry and Market.

Washington, March 8.—The movement for federal regulation of the coal industry gained strength in Congress today as a result of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee's investigation of the coal strike.

Senator Gooding, (R) of Idaho, chairman of the sub-committee which inspected the coal fields, declared that the industry, like agriculture, needed regulatory legislation to stimulate it. He suggested creation of a coal commission patterned after the interstate commerce commission.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, recommended that legislation be enacted to permit coal companies to consolidate to wipe out "useless and high cost mines." Both miners and operators have agreed that the industry has too many mines and too many miners.

One of the operators attending the hearing suggested that a commission of three mine owners, three union officials and seven congressmen, representing the public, be appointed to fix the back wage scale. This proposal is being studied by operators and may be presented formally to the committee.

LINDY, GLUMLY SILENT, FLIES FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, March 8.—Still taciturn and uncommunicative about his future plans, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Bolling Field at 12:01 o'clock today for an unannounced destination.

His departure ended a stay of 48 hours in the capital, through all of which he remained in seclusion at a private club with the single exception of a visit to the state department yesterday. He would neither confirm nor deny reports that he was planning to enter a Baltimore hospital for a rest.

DR. CLEMENT IS FREED, PROMPTLY REARRESTED

New York, March 8.—Because she is being persecuted by her husband Dr. Louis Clement, who was cleared of suspicion in connection with the murder of Margaret Brown, Mrs. Theresa Clement Van Norden today withdrew her charge of grand larceny against him.

The "doctor" was freed and immediately re-arrested on a charge of forgery, brought by his former partners in the Goodoxide Company.

The new charge on which Clement is being held accuses him of appropriating ten checks totalling $2,230 to his own uses, after his partners signed them for business purposes.

ANOTHER FAIRFIELD COUNTY AUTO KILLING CASE NOLLED

Bridgeport, March 9.—Dr. William P. O'Connell, 31, of Westport today had a charge of misconduct with a motor vehicle so as to cause loss of life nolleed in city court here. Dr. O'Connell's machine ran down and fatally injured Duane E. Brewer, Bridgeport's oldest publisher, two weeks ago.

JUSTICE HOLMES, 87, IGNORES BIRTHDAY

Just Old Story Told 87 Times, He Says As He Keeps on Working.

Washington, March 8.—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court today greeted the advent of his 87th birthday with no hint of retirement.

The day dawned brightly for the venerable soldier, lawyer, writer and jurist, for it brought to his door messages from all parts of the world, all breathing respect for his distinguished services of the past, and good wishes for the future.

A worker throughout his long and active career, he labored today as usual with the stilted verbiage of the briefs of hopeful lawyers and delved into the dusty precedents which are the guideposts of the nation's highest court.

Kept Indoors
In one respect, perhaps, the day was not as pleasant as others. For during the past week a cautious family physician had kept him indoors to shake off a slight cold which descended on the crest of a raw March wind.

Even a physician's orders, however, have not kept him idle. In the office he maintains in an old-fashioned red brick house a few doors removed from the noise of a busy street, he has kept up with his work. One of the two opinions read only four days ago from the bench of the court in the Capitol was prepared by him.

"Mine is just an old story told eighty-six times and this year for the eighty-seventh time" was the message sent by Justice Holmes to one who appeared more concerned than he over his birthday.

Congress provided that justices could retire at seventy, on two-thirds pay. Justice Holmes is said to have told a friend that "I should die if I quit work." No suggestion that he retire has ever come from his associates on the bench. It is said, because he is one of the court's hardest workers, as well as one of its most brilliant minds.

Wounded in War
Often referred to as a great liberal, Justice Holmes has been noted for his humane interpretations of the constitution and the law.

Born in Boston, Mass., March 8, 1841, the son of a famous New England poet, Justice Holmes graduated from Harvard at 20. Twice wounded, he reached the grade of captain in the civil war. He was named to his present post on December 8, 1902, by president Roosevelt.

Sixty Billion Dollar Robbery In 'Cheap' Dollar, Says Fisher

Boston, March 8.—The story of a "sixty billion dollar robbery" was told to Boston business men at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon today by Professor Irving Fisher, famous economist, of Yale University.

"Sixty billions of dollars had been taken from the pockets of the people because of the fall of the buying power of the dollar over a period of only six years and it was so subtly accomplished that it was not generally recognized when it happened and it is not to this day," said Prof. Fisher.

Pointing out that the dollar of today as compared to the dollar of 1913 is worth only about seventy pre-war cents, Prof. Fisher said: "Before 1896, Hitty Green had made a fortune by loaning at compound interest. Had she tried this during the period between 1896 and 1920 she would have had her labor for her pains, much worry and little or no profit. At the end of that time she would have been poorer than at the beginning."

Rev. J. S. Lewis Succeeds Capt. Parker as Administrator For the District.

Boston, March 8.—Rev. Jonathan S. Lewis, known as the "Fighting Baptist Minister," was today appointed acting federal prohibition administrator for New England as successor to Captain A. Parker, whose resignation became effective today. Captain Parker was recently named as registrar of motor vehicles, to succeed Frank A. Goodwin, deceased.

Rev. Mr. Lewis, a resident of Reading, has been chief assistant to Captain Parker for some time. He first came into prohibition prominence in New Hampshire where he led the dry forces to secure dry legislation.

"FIGHTING" MINISTER NEW N. E. DRY HEAD

Washington, March 8.—The question of whether Herbert Hoover will enter the Indiana primary, opposing the favorite son candidacy of Senator James E. Watson, was put squarely up to his chief advisers in Indiana today.

Hoover has consented to enter the fight—and it probably will be a wide open fight. A careful canvass supporters, after a careful canvass of the situation in Indianapolis today, believe that such a course is wise. The decision has been left to them, it was stated at the secretary's office here this morning.

The time for filing in Indiana expires at midnight tonight.

It is anticipated here that the Hoover managers in the state will be guided largely by what they can learn of the intentions of the Lowden camp. The Hoover people would relish an out-and-out contest with Senator Watson himself, despite his control of the state organization, but there is a feeling here that the Lowden managers may also jump into the fight as soon as Hoover's papers are filed.

Lowden Sentiment
There is admittedly a good deal of Lowden sentiment in the state, and Senator Watson, although himself a candidate, is known to lean more strongly to Lowden and Daves than to the secretary of commerce. Hence the apprehension on the part of the Hoover managers that if they file too far in advance of the closing of the lists at midnight, Watson may extend an eleventh-hour invitation to Lowden and other candidates to come into the state for an old-fashioned free-for-all.

Against Watson alone, the Hoover people are confident; against Lowden and Watson they are not so confident, for Indiana is an agricultural state with a considerable peasantry over the way things have been going for the farmers under the Coolidge administration. The McNary-Haugen bill, which Lowden also endorsed, and which Secretary Hoover has opposed.

Would Be Late
If Hoover's name is entered in the lists, it was said today to be quite probable that the action will be taken very late tonight. There may even be the spectacle of the two camps—Hoover and Lowden—

MINERS' LEADER NAMES MELLON AS 'OPPRESSOR' Lewis Says a Company of His Started Present Strike by Violating Agreement. Washington, March 8.—Southern non-union soft coal fields are virtual armed camps controlled by private police, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, told the Senate Interstate Commerce committee today. He said that coal in West Virginia and Kentucky was being mined through the use of machine guns and "the armed force of private minions of the operators." Lewis charged that the Pittsburg Coal Company "recognized as Mellon concern," was among the first to "violate and dishonor the Jacksonville wage agreement." The present strike resulted when operators refused to renew the agreement.

HOOPER MAY TEST INDIANA STRENGTH (Continued from Page 1.) watching each other until a few minutes before midnight. Indiana will have 33 delegates in the Kansas City convention—a stake worth fighting for in the opinion of the Hoover managers. However, they do not want to engage in a spectacular primary battle in a pivotal state like Indiana unless they are fairly sure of emerging with their candidate's prestige undamaged. A battle like Ohio, where Hoover is pitted against Willis, the favorite son, alone, is more to their liking. There, if Hoover emerges with 15 to 20 delegates, the result can be acclaimed as a real victory.

FISH AND GAME CLUB PLANS FOR BANQUET

Hope to Have Senator Walcott and Game Warden Wheeler as Speakers.

Quite a large attendance was seen at the meeting of the Manchester Fish and Game club in Finkler hall last night. Routine business was transacted, reports heard and a talk given by James Buell of Hartford on membership campaigns and the extermination of vermin harmful to game birds.

The amusement committee reported unfavorably on the plan to conduct a moving picture benefit show and this matter was dropped. Plans for a banquet, to be held on April 11, were made and at this time it is expected that Senator Frederick C. Walcott member of the state fish and game commission, and Senator Charles E. Wheeler of Stratford, head game warden, will speak.

The club voted to spend $300 for pheasants this year, $100 for adult birds to be released in the latter part of March and $200 for young birds to be let loose in September. These birds will be liberated on property leased by the club. Application will be made soon to the State Board of Fisheries and Game for 300 additional pheasants, and also for young trout with which streams will be stocked.

Thirty-one new members joined the club last night and because of this increase in membership it was voted to invite all former members to re-join. Letters will be sent out to the former members shortly.

URGE ALL ELIGIBLES TO JOIN THE LEGION

Concerted Effort to Be Made To Enlist World War Veterans in Local Post.

Dilworth-Cornell Post, No. 102, American Legion, in connection with a National campaign, will make a concerted effort within the next few months to increase membership. The local post has one of the best records in Connecticut, not only for percentage of increased membership, but for percentage of eligible men who belong to the post.

Any man who saw service in the World War is eligible for membership in the American Legion. A department headquarters bulletin listing 17 points why an eligible man should belong to the Legion was sent out recently to the different posts. It follows:

WHY YOU SHOULD JOIN THE AMERICAN LEGION "Because it has consistently interested itself in the welfare and compensation for the disabled.

"Because it is the leading ex-service man's organization representing about one million men in the United States and other parts of the world, the organization working for over four million former service men and women.

"Because it brings you together with the finest and largest crowd of organized young men in your city.

"Because the Legion will do all that it can for you, and assist in every way.

"Because the Legion takes care of the interests of the ex-service men. Keeps a Legislative Committee at Washington to devote all its time to looking after the interests of ex-service men and women.

"Because it has passed for the benefit of ex-service men and women. Monthly which is sent to every member is a fine magazine full of fine stories, latest dope and Wally's cartoons.

"Because we have special entertainments at frequent intervals with attendant benefit for community projects.

"Because we honor the memory of our comrades and the comrades of other wars in Memorial Day and other Patriotic holidays.

"Because we pull off an annual celebration on Armistice Day.

"Because in the years to come you will value the American Legion and its associations more and more. Start now.

"Because no other organization can begin to offer all these things that the Legion does for the same small amount of money.

"Because it offers you an opportunity to assist in the guidance of what is the most powerful force for Good and Civic Welfare in the World.

"Because it unravels insurance, compensation and hospitalization. "Exposes fakery, panhandlers and the disloyal. "Backs up all worthy public enterprises.

"Encourages and assists Boy and Girl Scouts and other organizations for the betterment of children."

PLAY AS BENEFIT FOR OUR GIRL SCOUTS "Haunted House" at the Circle March 14 Under Auspices of Council.

"The Haunted House" will be presented by the Town Players at the Circle theater March 14, at 8:15 o'clock under the auspices of the Girls Scouts council and Officers Association.

Girl Scouting is an international movement to promote willing service in the home, city and country among the girls. Nothing can give more joy than willingness of spirit to serve others.

One of the problems of Girl Scouting today is in securing well trained leaders. In order to accomplish this, training classes are held. This year the local organization was fortunate in having a training class under the leadership of Miss Helen Perkins of Hartford.

Outside contact instills vigor and new interest in an organization. Mrs. Olive Steyer of National Headquarters recently gave an interesting talk on scouting to scouts and parents. Camp is the place where the girls can put to use the things they have learned. Companionship and outdoor life are things every girl should have an opportunity to enjoy. The scout council appeals to the public occasionally for financial aid and to further their work among the girls.

Tickets for "The Haunted House" can be secured through council members, captains, and scouts or members of the Town Players. Reserved tickets can be obtained at Dewey and Richman's.

Kabrick's orchestra of Rockville has been engaged to play for modern and old-fashioned dancing. Cornelius Foley will prompt the old-fashioned numbers. Members of the lodge will attend communion in St. James' church on Sunday morning in a body.

AMERICAN CRUSADERS HOLD MEETING HERE Speaker Outlines Purposes of Organization - Is For Foreign Born "Kluxers." More than 200 people, many of them women, heard a talk last night in the Orange hall on the American Crusaders, the branch of the Ku Klux Klan to which naturalized citizens, those not born in this country are eligible to membership. The meeting had been advertised "for Protestants only" and the hall was full when the speaker appeared on the platform. The Herald had no reporter present but gained its information today from a person who attended the meeting. He said that the speaker, unlike other Klan speakers, did not become personal nor do any backbiting. His talk was simply one outlining the American Crusaders, the aims of the organization and what it stands for. He also mentioned the women's Ku Klux Klan and the Junior Klan, telling of the organizations, their membership and those who are eligible to join. He compared the Crusaders as a Protestant organization with the fraternalities and lodges of other religious beliefs. He read excerpts from the Constitution of the United States, those passages guaranteeing citizens the right to congregate and assemble peacefully. No announcement of the speaker's home was made, nor was his name given. Listeners, however,

EGYPT

Everybody has taken a belt at Egypt. The person who could off-hand set down on a blackboard, any degree of accuracy, the number of wars in which that unfortunate country has been engaged since the dawn of history would perform a prodigious feat of memory and use up a lot of chalk on the blackboard. The Persians overran Egypt. Alexander the Great paid it one of his expensive visits. The Romans bossed it. When Islamism came to the world and hoped to sweep it, one of the first areas to be forcibly converted was that ancient strip of valley and sand. The French mixed it with the Turks over Egypt and Great Britain has had a finger in the Egyptian pie, off and on, ever since the beginning of the last century. Since the celebrated bombardment of Alexandria in the early eighties the "temporary occupation" in protection of the interest of British bondholders has never actually terminated—a particularly striking example of what may grow out of matters like our presence in Nicaragua.

Oddly enough, the Egyptian people, being the remnants of the best known if not the oldest of the old civilizations, have persisted in a notion that they have a right to rule themselves without the interposition of new peoples. They have never been very successful in getting rid of any yoke, however, except to exchange it for another. And now Britain has served notice on them that if they have any idea of getting clear out from under the control of British political and financial influences they have another guess coming.

It looks like a mess. Particularly with Ibn Saud filling the near-east with the passion for a holy war. The Wahabites of Arabia and the Fallahen of Egypt have extremely little in common, as a general thing. They used to be the most violent of enemies. But just now they have the common cause of hatred of the western European. And when they get going the mere idea of death is rather unimportant to either. There are more important things than a very nasty row on England's hands.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

There is a lot of talk, these days, for more specific declarations of principles on the part of Presidential aspirants. It emanates usually from somebody who wants to eliminate some other fellow, and is directed, either openly or covertly, at the persons whose elimination is desired.

It would be an ideal condition if a candidate for a major party nomination for the Presidency could lay all his cards on the table and give expression to his beliefs without equivocation or evasion. But as a matter of fact no such person would stand a ghost of a chance of being nominated. And by the process of elimination every person fit to be a candidate would be eliminated, leaving the conventions to chuck up pennies and nominate nobodies.

A good enough example of this is the case of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University. Dr. Butler is an extremely able man, of the first grade of Presidential timber, and an important member of the dominant political party. But there isn't a Republican member of the Manchester Board of Selectmen who hasn't a better chance of being nominated for the Presidency than this brilliant scholar and public man—simply because he is absolutely outspoken.

Mr. Hoover frankly straddled the Prohibition question in his reply to Borah's cheeky quizzing. He was absolutely justified in straddling the good relief quis, also, and the one on farm relief. He would have been unfair to himself and his friends to have done otherwise, because he would have merely permitted himself to be put out of the running at a time when the country very seriously needs him, if he had fallen into the Borah bear-trap. Mr. Hoover can be judged on his record and what we know of him from his deeds. To insist that candidates be judged instead by their words and their promises would be to put every able and honorable man out of public life and fill the offices with liars and turncoats.

IBN SAUD

Sultan Ibn Saud, who became ruler of the Arabian Hedjaz a year or so ago by booting out the former ruler and who has set up the blue laws of his fanatical Wahabi sect over the holy-cities of Medina and Mecca, where he has made life intolerable for the average Mohammedan by the narrowness and austerity of his regulations, is suspected of planning to develop a holy war for the creation of a pan-Islamic empire.

He is probably the most holy chieftain in the world. Where he rules they have prohibition that prohibits tobacco. So is the wearing of silk garments. Bobbed haired women lose their heads as well as the hair. The Musselman who misses one of his five prayers toward Mecca on even one day becomes a police court case. He does not selfishly permit himself to be holy alone, he proposes that everybody shall be holy along with him—either holy or dead. His piety is only equalled by his ruthlessness. Being firmly convinced that the presence on earth of anybody but Wahabis is an offense to Allah he has done much to make everybody Wahabi by burying those who are not. He is now said to be trying to buy armored cars in Europe with a view to carrying his evangel into Syria and making Damascus the capital of his spiritual and physical empire.

After he has succeeded in starting his holy war and in compelling France and Great Britain to unite in blowing his Wahabi warriors off the face of the earth there may still be a job for him, if he can manage to skip and get to this country. He would make a perfectly adorable head for the Anti-Saloon League.

PERIL TO MANY

There is a tendency on the part of most of the skeptics to laugh at the project of Robert Condit, rocket aviator or interstellar navigator or whatever he terms himself, to have himself shot all the way to the planet Venus in a gigantic and mechanically elaborate rocket. We are not particularly familiar with the details of Mr. Condit's plan but he seems to have intelligence and engineering ability enough to make himself good and dangerous, and his enterprise may not prove such a joke as it is assumed to be, provided he carries it out to the point of the rocket's discharge.

Nowadays people seldom concern themselves with preventing foolhardy adventurers from killing themselves, and perhaps if Condit is eager to give his life to what he would call science he has a right to do so. But does anybody know how far this contraption of his is likely to travel before it tumbles back to earth? Or whereabouts it is likely to land? True, the probabilities would appear to be that, starting from Ormond Beach, Fla., it would promptly pump into the ocean and do no harm to anybody but its rider. But on the other hand there are ships on the sea and it is conceivable that the rocket might land in the vicinity—suppose the infernal device were to take an erratic course and fall upon some of them.

By all means let Mr. Condit start for the neighbor planet if he wants to, and if his flight does not imperil others. But it would seem as though some first class expert on ballistics should pass upon the undertaking in advance lest he kill a lot of persons besides himself.

GOOSE AND GANDER

When a London music hall audience gave an American vaudeville team the hook by the unusual device of continued noisy applause the Evening Standard of the British metropolis remarked that it might be the beginning of a real revolt against the "deluge of American ditties and their raucous-voiced singers." If the Standard means the kind of vaudeville ditties and singers which we guess it does, small blame to it for thinking about insurrection.

Just the same, the infliction hasn't been so utterly one-sided. American theatre-goers are not necessarily sorely stricken in years who can recall the terrible persons covered with braid and buttons who invaded this country from London—hordes of them—piping so-called cozier songs and making dreadful "comic" mugs. Also the Vesta Tilley and Vesta Victoria and Vesta This and That, with voices like sick crickets and the dancing talent of a saw-horse, whom we put up with and were polite to for many, many years. A little give and take in this international vaudeville stinging is no more than right. We

(85) 40 Fairs Attract 200,000.

The degree of perfection to which Connecticut farm products can be grown is demonstrated yearly at fairs and expositions held by more than 40 agricultural societies. These fairs attracting more than 200,000 visitors are held in almost every section of the state. These events are regarded as a "pageant of progress" showing the growth and development in agricultural products, the improvement in methods and machinery, and serve as a school for those who attend.

Only one of the agricultural society fairs lasts an entire week, the others being one to four-day events. The fair lasting six days is the state fair at Hartford which has a total attendance of close to 50,000 persons.

Approximately $30,000, of which $14,000 goes to the Connecticut State Agricultural Society, sponsor of the state fair, is appropriated annually by the state to the agricultural societies to aid them in their work. Revenue of these societies from other sources, mostly in connection with their fairs, amounts to approximately $250,000 annually. More than $100,000 of this amount goes for premiums and awards for prize-winning exhibits.

Real estate owned by the societies is valued at more than $400,000. The real estate of the Connecticut State Agricultural Society is valued at $262,000, and the personal property at $21,943.

One of the five most important features of many of the fairs is the junior achievement department through which boys and girls exhibit agricultural and hand-craft products.

WE'LL BITE

We like to think well of the resolution of young Mr. and Mrs. Johnson—nineteen years old each and alleged to be so rich and socially well placed as to be quite bored with it all—to "hike around the world" by way of an extensive honeymoon. It makes a fine story and an inspiring one, even though the hike has so far only carried them a few miles from their Virginia starting point. So we shall persist in thinking well of it, even though, again, every story about the pair so far has carried the name of the well known soap which the bridegroom's grandfather originated—and even, still again, though some devilish press agent is probably snickering in his sleeve.

In New York

New York, March 8.—The actor's boarding house remains, year in and year out, an institution as closely allied to a type of Broadway life as shooting galleries, or freak museums of medicine shows.

Nor has the appearance of the boarding-house keeper changed much with the years. They are distinct types, seeming to have been modeled as definitely as Cruikshank drawings of Dickens characters. And performers who seek harbor in these places also seem patterned to stand the test of passing years without change. To these places, most of which now extend westward toward the river, come the "tin horn" acts of the nation; the "small-time" acts of the people of the cheap burlesque wheel world, the out-of-date performers, the down-at-the-heels, the hams and the army of hopeless who never seem to rise above a song-and-dance act with a tent show. Yet, season after season, some of their number appear in the Broadway belt and "move in" for the winter, valiantly making the rounds in search of a "better break."

Here you will find those loud-voiced, stout gals of the wife-husband teams, about whom are written most of the stage comedy fiction. Life with them is a series of slap-stick arguments, beginning over the doughnuts and coffee and ending over the prunes and coffee. Nowhere, in or out of the theater, will you find such tenacity and loyalty as exist in these "team marriages." Through fair weather and foul, in and out of adversity they huddle and jangle and rage—but they stick! No one comes into closer touch with adversity, which may explain everything.

Every small town has seen such a pair—the man and wife, glowering from opposite sides of the small restaurant table, eating the third-rate food, making rough remarks the while and crying to heaven against the fate that finds them there. Yet they go on! The evening performance of the tank-town theater finds them in front of a cheap drug store, from which the paint has long since been worn, or exchanging rasping-voiced repartee. Some still cling to the trick bicycle routine or the ancient roller-skating stunts. They seem to have achieved some miraculous capacity for immobility, for it is impossible to detect the slightest change in either appearance or technique since the days when I sat in the peanut gallery.

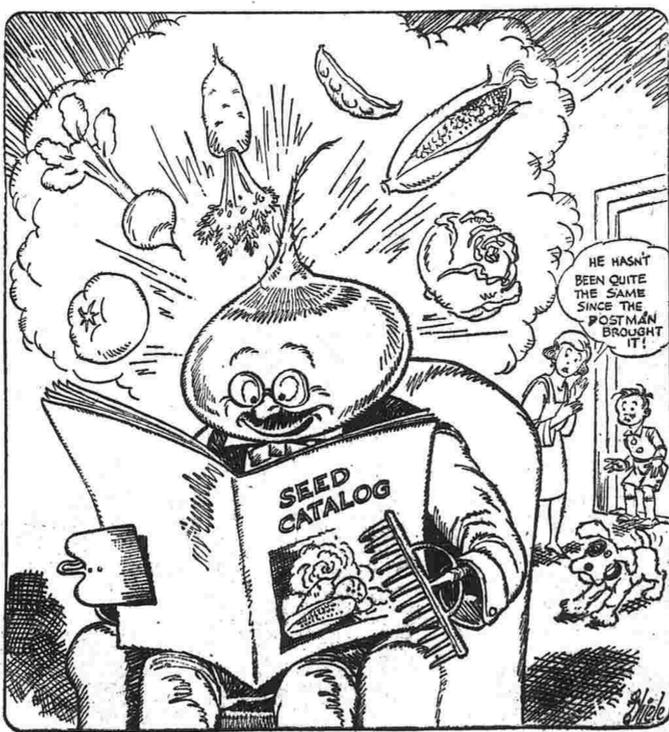

The "boarding house row," which once stretched eastward toward Sixth and Fifth Avenue—particularly the early fifties—has either succumbed to the intrusions of skyscrapers and business blocks, or the speakies have all but taken possession. A few still cling to the old tradition. Now and then you can still see signs that read "Scholar's Apartments," "Buck and Wing Lessons." Now and then you can still see a team of old troupers coming out of the easterly side of Broadway, but most of them move steadily west—each year closer and closer to the river!

All is not roses for the keepers of these taverns. The legend that ham-and-eggers do not pay their bills is not a joke. For the most part they really try to. But they haven't the money or jobs and their promises are all based on future prospects. Scores of pretty youngsters, trying to crack the chorus but "cuffed" their "roof and bed." Recently these have chosen to seek quarters in the Bronx belt or the early Eighties. Perhaps the rents are cheaper.

O. Henry didn't begin to tell the story of the heartbreak that the brownstones have hidden. Nor did he introduce one per cent of the hard-visaged landlords who have let the rentals run up, month upon month, in hope that the next would bring forth an engagement. How true this is can be gathered from a paragraph in the current Bill-board which begins: "One cocktail and a cockfight are being held by — to satisfy a judgment against Mrs. — for $125 for board, shelter, etc."

Gracious! What's Come Over Father Lately?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 8.—It comes to the ears of your correspondent that there is more dissension than ever in the Department of State and that a showdown is likely in the long and acrid war between the diplomats and the consuls.

Attempts to confirm the story at the department's official information bureau are unsuccessful, but the non-diplomats in Mr. Kellogg's incubator are all of a twitter at discovery of an alleged plan to deliver all instead of nearly all the nicer jobs in the department and in the Foreign Service to young men of wealth and social position in preference to men of lesser means and more experience.

A sub-committee of the Senate foreign relations committee has been investigating, secretly, the administration of the Rogers Foreign Service Act which was supposed to put the consular and diplomatic branches on an even basis. You will have to ask someone else why the secrecy which prevents the public from learning what's wrong with the State Department.

The consular officers in the department, along with other non-diplomatic officers, are frothing at a scheme concocted by diplomats which they say is designed to get all consuls into the field where they can't fight back, enable the diplomatic crowd to rule the roost without a contest and permit the young cookie pushers to be pushed rapidly ahead.

A new civil service classification has been arranged for the department, offering jobs as "Junior State Department Officers" at $1369 a year. It is explained at the Civil Service Commission that this is to provide the department with young men of "proper background." A college education is required.

The plan is the brain child of Alexander Kirk, the wealthy and socially important executive officer of the department and chairman of the personnel efficiency board. Now the department's insurgents say this: Any young man of college education won't work for $1369 a year unless he has private means and is assured of promotion. A young man dependent on what he earns is barred—it is said that 90 per cent of Foreign Service men have independent means. The dominant diplomatic clique, as usual, talks about "social background."

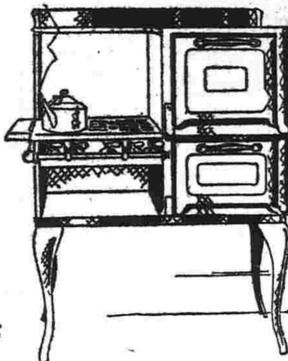

The consuls understand that the new junior officers will take over their jobs and that the consuls will be socially ambitious young men among them will be able to step into pleasant diplomatic jobs without passing through long, tedious years in the lower grades of the service.

Some malcontents even claim the consuls are fighting for their lives. Once the whole show is managed by a small clique of millionaire diplomats here, the consuls will be far away and unable to take their grieves to Congress, and none of them will be in sight when appointments of ministers, bureau chiefs and assistant secretaries are made.

The average diplomat's experience is only 60 per cent as long as the average consul's and the good jobs are supposed to be open to both, but it is alleged that the gravy goes to a small favored group.

The venom of the consuls is directed at Kirk and one of the assistant secretaries of state. They say they don't believe Secretary Kellogg knows what it's all about. Following their suits last spring the consuls are now being promoted in proportion almost equally with the diplomats. Nevertheless they say that instances of favoritism continue and a point to one wealthy diplomat who is receiving his third promotion in three and a half years, during which period many deserving and experienced consuls have remained in their tracks.

HIGHWAY PLANS FOR 1928 MOST EXTENSIVE EVER

Commissioner Macdonald Expects to Bring Total to 150 Miles—48 Miles Completed in Seven Weeks.

Connecticut's highway program for its fiscal year ending June 30, 1928 is the most extensive ever undertaken in one year in the history of the state, according to figures announced today by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. At the present time, the department has completed or has under contract the building of 128.2 miles of road and plans another large letting during the month of March. This latter letting is expected to aggregate close to 20 miles of road work which will bring the total highway program for the fiscal year to practically 150 miles.

In addition to a record program for the year of 1927-1928, the highway department established another unique record during the first seven weeks of the current calendar year. During this brief space of time, it accepted and made final payments upon 48.2 miles of roads and upon two dangerous trunk line eliminations and two bridge building projects.

During the first six months of the fiscal year, beginning last July 1, and ending December 31, 1927, the department accepted and made final payments to contractors upon 66.4 miles of highway and completed 18 bridges and one dangerous trunk line elimination. At the present time, there are 33.3 miles of construction and reconstruction work and 13 bridge construction jobs still to be completed on unfinished contracts, while contracts awarded in November, December and January include the construction and reconstruction of 34 sections of highway totaling 89.9 miles and the building of four bridges and one bulkhead. Recapitulated the total work under contract at present is 128.2 miles of highway construction and reconstruction and the building of 17 bridges.

In addition to engaging in the most extensive road programs ever entered into by the state of Connecticut, the highway department during the current fiscal year has also expanded the scope of its work in other activities. The highway year ago is progressing rapidly. Extensive work has been undertaken in clearing dead brush from the highway shoulders with a view of preventing the outbreak of forest fires. Along chemical lines, the department through its laboratory at Portland has discovered and will put into use this spring a new formula for mixing concrete which will greatly increase the time of hardening and will permit the opening of new pavements much sooner than formerly. Ferry service across the Connecticut River has been improved by the launching of two new boats. The program of State Aid construction is one of the most ambitious the state has ever seen, all but seven towns in the state making application to the department for appropriations and many of them taking advantage of Commissioner Macdonald's offer of assistance in engineering and in chimneys.

"LADIES NIGHT" RIOT AT STATE ON FRIDAY

Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill Star—Two Features Today, Vaudeville Saturday.

A riot of fun is "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath," one of two features which will be shown at the State theater on Friday and Saturday of this week. On Saturday afternoon and evening five new acts of vaudeville will be shown and prices will not be advanced. The second feature for those two days is "Under the Tonto Rim," pictured from one of Zane Grey's famous tales of the West. Richard Arlen and Mary Brian are starred in this epic of the wide open spaces. It is a picture of extraordinary merit, in its plot, its acting and photography and direction. Miss Brian and her running mate have made it a living thing, not a mere procession of puppets before a camera.

The Turkish bath picture is a riot of comedy and mirth. It tells of the adventures of two men who accidentally break into the Turkish bath to escape a raid on a roadhouse by police. They enter and find that they are in the midst of a crowd of ladies in various stages of dishabille.

Jack Mulhall, James Finlayson and Dorothy Mackaill are starred in this picture, and others in the cast include Sylvia Ashton and Big Boy Williams. The cast is one of the best that could have been brought together.

Saturday's vaudeville show at the State will be better even than that of Tuesday, and the show is being given at the matinee also. The same State theater prices will prevail at both performances and the moving picture show will be continuous all day. Tonight will afford the last opportunity to see "The Latest from Paris," starring Norma Shearer, and "The Haunted Ship," pictured from Jack London's story, "White and Yellow."

FOR a million boys and girls, between seventeen and seventy, Reo builds the Wolverine. Hundreds of people said to Garber Brothers

"Quality for Quality . . . Dollar for Dollar you offer the best values" . . . when they decided to buy furniture here during February!

The month of February was not only an achievement for Garber Brothers . . . but an achievement for every No-Sale policy in the country—and this embraces some of America's largest and finest furniture establishments.

Why pick on February? . . . Because this month is one of the several months of the year when sales and discounts are offered promiscuously as an inducement to buy furniture for future needs.

Now Garber Brothers did not have a sale in February because we NEVER have sales . . . and still more people than ever before came here to buy furniture.

WHY? The answer is Garber Brothers CAN and DO sell better furniture for very low prices, every day in the year . . . lower than "sales" prices, because of the economic conditions under which we operate this business.

And the proof of the soundness of Garber Brothers NO-SALE policy is even more pronounced in March. . . . Our everyday prices were lower than sale prices in February . . . just imagine how much lower they are in March, when February sale prices everywhere go up . . . but Garber Brothers prices remain the same . . . not one penny higher than in February.

You can always do BETTER at Garber Brothers.

Canadian Boxing Team To Attract Local Fans

Ernie Metevier Always Brings High Class Talent Across Border; Wrestling Bout Also.

A Canadian amateur boxing team, which the veteran Canadian boxing coach, Ernie Metevier, says is the best he has ever assembled to bring into the U. S. A., will fight in the feature bouts at the Massasoit A. C.'s weekly amateur boxing show in Hartford at Foot Guard hall tonight.

These boxers (three of whom, it will be noticed are champions and the other an ex-champion) make up the Canadian team:

Harry Cobb, light heavyweight champion; Gene Valkert, light-weight champion; Harry Smith, welter-weight champion and Barney O'Connell, former flyweight champion.

Matchmaker Ed Hurley of the Massoit club has assembled a strong Connecticut team to send against these invaders from over the border. Jack Kelley of Waterbury, state middleweight champion and now of light heavyweight proportions, will meet Cobb; the aggressive Pancho Ville will clash with Valkert; Vic Morley of Hartford, game and hard-hitting waler, will tackle Smith and Eddie Reed, Connecticut's 112-pound champion, will fight O'Connell, who last summer defeated Reed at the Hartford Velodrome.

Cobb and Kelley should make a great fight. The Canadian is of almost exactly the same physical dimensions as the Connecticut champion and some time ago knocked out Gene Rattelle, the Montreal constable who has fought in Connecticut three or four times.

Several inter-city bouts, bringing together heavy boys principally, will round out the card.

And, by way of variety, there will be one wrestling bout in which John Armando will wrestle "Pinkie" Behrendt. Both are of Hartford.

NAMES FOR INNOVATIONS IN BRITISH ARMY LIFE SOUGHT BY WAR OFFICE

London.—With the introduction into the British Army of many innovations in which the automobile motor plays a part, the War Office is busily coining new words to describe them.

Unpleasant words or freakish titles are being frowned upon, the department endeavoring, to apply descriptive new units while not rendering them the object of cheap wit.

The whole of the new force is officially described as the "mechanized army," and the term "mechanized" is being used to describe individual units.

Thus a new fast tank, which has been dubbed the "tankette," by the ranks, must be officially called a "light tank," to name one of the many units.

The speedy Knights of Lithuania who play a return game with the Rec five here tomorrow night, lost the opening skirmish of their series with the Yankees for the professional championship, of Hartford last night in Foot Guard Hall by four points. The final score was 31 to 27.

The Yankees, with a strengthened lineup that included Abe Silverman and Wardie Waterman forming the original Dixie team, that created a sensation a few years back, scored two more field goals. Then each team shot seven fouls.

Silverman and Waterman were the high scorers for the Yankees, too. Charlie Shinkus and his brother, Stan, who played so well here, were the shining lights for the Knights, although trailing most of the way, nevertheless gave the Yankees stiff opposition and were dangerous to the very finish.

The West Side Rec five again defeated the Holy Trinity Knights in the preliminary game 29 to 24. The game was fast all the way with Bill Wylie casing some spectacular shots from all angles.

Owing to a cancellation of the Bristol Boys' Club, the Holy Trinity Knights will play a return game at the Rec tomorrow night. As a preliminary to the Rec-Knights game, Saturday the Rev Five will journey to Wapping and the following Saturday will play the Meriden Boys' Club in

HELEN WILLS SAYS: Approaching another and perhaps more interesting tennis season, I feel confident that I should be able to be as successful as I was last season when I was forced to go through a sort of experimental process as a result of the operation I had to undergo in Paris in 1924.

I was able to stand a rather strenuous season last year and now I feel in perfect condition to play more than I did last year. I hope to defend my Wimbledon championship in England, but will not be able to be a part of another Olympic campaign, as the tennis program has been cancelled.

I have not planned to play in any of the French tournaments, but expect to play with the American team in the matches against the British and Australian teams.

I do not agree with some of the critics who say that there are no opponents to extend me, as there are any number of fine players who are good enough to press anyone when they are on their game. There is enough competition to force any champion to keep in condition and on top of this game all the time.

Betty Nuthall Sees As Helen's Successor

Betty Nuthall and Senorita D'Alvarez

By Henry L. Farrell

Because of the preeminence of the position she holds over the field of her rivals, her youth and her great love of tennis, it has been said of Helen Wills that she might go on to the next generation as the woman tennis champion of the world.

Wallis Myers, the ranking critic of Europe, and Bill Tilden, who acts in the dual capacity of player and critic in this country, have recently expressed their opinions that the world's amateur champion is in a class by herself that it will be years before some younger and stronger player comes along.

It is true, when you come to think of it, that Mollie Bjurstedt Mallory was much older than Miss Wills when she first won the title, that she had been playing a longer number of years before she won the title, and that even in the face of those handicaps Mrs. Mallory won the American championship seven times, and almost as many years was regarded as the second ranking player in the world.

Miss Wills, on this rating and with the admission of the foremost critic of the world, Miss Nuthall, of England, and that ravishing beauty, Senorita D'Alvarez, of Spain.

"Miss Nuthall is a very powerful game; she is young and she is of rugged build and I have noticed lately in foreign prints that she has done something to cultivate an overhead service.

"What I like about Miss Nuthall particularly, however, is her position when she has to return a return stroke. She always has her racket back soon enough to get it into the proper position without hustling her stroke.

"She also is one of the smartest tennis players I ever have seen and by that I mean a player who seems to have been born with the intuitive touch and feeling of tennis. She is just a child as tennis players go and her game has developed so rapidly that I look for her to be a

The Rec Girls basketball team scored a well-deserved and impressive victory over the Landers-Frary-Clarke team in New Britain last night in the preliminary game to the contest between New Britain and the Celtics which the latter team won, 30 to 24.

The game was nip and tuck all the way with neither team having any decided advantage. Halftime score was 7 to 6 in favor of Manchester. Dilatory work on the part of Sam Houston, timekeeper, as Referee Dick Dillon announced, made the score at intermission appear to be 9 to 6 but time had expired before the last basket was made.

Maude Robb and Kathryn Giblin were the stars for Manchester. The former made three field goals and the latter two. The local girls play the Hartford Fire team in the Y. W. C. A. in Hartford Saturday night. Last night's summary:

AIR TRAFFIC RULES ARRANGED IN ENGLAND TO PREVENT COLLISIONS

London.—In order to lessen the danger of collisions between airplanes, several important amendments have recently been added to the Air Navigation Orders.

One provides that every plane, when flying by compass along the straight line joining two points or an air traffic route in common use, must keep such a line at least 500 yards on its left.

Aircraft following an air traffic route which has been officially recognized, must keep a route 300 yards on its left.

Thus, aircraft will invariably be on the right of landmarks and navigation points, and "keep to the right" will be the general rule.

Simeon Stylites, a Syrian monk of the fifth century, lived the life of a hermit on the tops of pillars for 37 years.

real rival of Miss Wills before not very long—perhaps this year.

"If it were not for the diversity of her talents, I would prefer the chances of Senorita D'Alvarez because her strokes are so much more beautiful. But she doesn't live tennis like Miss Nuthall. The British girl is just like Helen Wills, whose first thing in life is her tennis. But the Spanish girl is an all-around sportswoman. She is a darling mountain climber, a skilled skier and snowshoer, a beautiful rider, and she has so many ballroom charms that tennis is only a diversion to her.

BRISTOL ENDEES GET BAD LICKING

Plainfield Pros Drub Them 44-22; Brusso Shining Light; Plainfield Much Improved Team.

(Special to The Herald) Plainfield, March 8.—The Bristol Endees, Malcolm Feldman et al, were given a 44 to 22 trouncing here last night by the Plainfield Pros who displayed the best form of the season. Kaspar of the Purple Collegians, was in the local lineup and fitted into the machinery well.

The game started off with Plainfield passing beautifully and taking the lead right from the start. Bristol played very rough, committing many intentional fouls. The home team, however, was content to give basketball the preference.

Joe Brusso's work was outstanding. This player cut for the basket like a streak of lightning and often scored on plays of this type. Close to eight hundred persons saw the contest and were well pleased with Plainfield's return to form.

32 FLOGGING CASES HEARD BY SPECIAL COURT IN NORTH CAROLINA

Raleigh, N. C.—Trial of 32 flogging cases now congesting the Wake County court docket will get underway early in the New Year, it was believed here today following the action of Governor McLean in ordering a special term of court for that purpose.

While the Governor did not designate any time for the special session, an examination of the court calendar revealed that the only vacant periods in this district during the first three months of the year were the weeks of February 20 and 27.

Trails 95-71 But Finishes Strong to Save Apparent Defeat For Second Time In Final Rack; Ballsieper-Bensche Tonight.

By virtue of a remarkable comeback against apparently fatal odds, Billy Kaminsky battled his way into the semi-finals of The Herald's town championship pocket billiards tournament last night at the School Street Recreation Center by eliminating Sam Herron 100 to 96.

The only match tonight will be between Johnny Bensche and Paul Ballsieper and will start at 7 o'clock, the winner gaining the right to meet Jarie Johnson in the second half of the semi-finals early next week. Tomorrow night at a quarter of seven, Jud Gallup and Ceel England will conclude the quarter-finals with a match which will pair the winner with Kaminsky in the first of the semi-finals Monday night.

Kaminsky's rally to overcome Herron's commanding lead, was the most sensational of the entire tournament. Herron had a lead of 24 balls and needed but one more to win (95-71) but was unable to run out. Kaminsky, who had had all kinds of hard luck all the way through the match and who had practically conceded victory to his opponent, won the next frame 14 to one "one in the hole" to bring the score up to 94 to 71. A ten to four rack with Herron losing another ball on a scratch made the tally sheet read 97 to 95 and in the final rack, Herron lost another while Kaminsky was running out.

The game was a heart-breaker for Herron to lose. He had such a big lead but in the final racks when Kaminsky rallied, he faltered once too often. However, Kaminsky deserves oceans of credit for the ability to come from behind against such odds. In the closing rack with the score about deadlocked, he made a very difficult cut shot that spread the balls about the table in position for him to run out. This shot required steel nerve. Many would have played safe under the circumstances because the outcome of the whole game hinged on that one shot.

Sam brought his rabbit's foot along with him, but was apparently skeptical about its value once he saw Kaminsky pull a few spectacular practice shots. He passed it to Kaminsky who also was "superstitious" and it was passed elsewhere. Perhaps now, Sam wishes he had kept it. The crowd got quite a kick out of Herron's humorous growl and groans as he attempted to "steer" the cue ball about "Sam didn't have a single foul called against him but Kaminsky committed several and scratched many times during the early racks.

Kaminsky's spectacular comeback and Herron's big lead after the even start cannot be more vividly told than by the actual scores themselves. Here's the rack by rack tally. Kaminsky's first: 5-8, 12-14, 19-21, 25-28, 32-35, 38-42, 42-48, 44-47, 48-55, 53-55, 57-64, 68-85, 71-95, 85-94, 95-97, 100-96.

The victory was the second that Kaminsky has scored in the final rack. Johnny Gardner was the other man who nearly eliminated him.

Harris To Be Made-Over Manager, So He Pledges

Stanley Says He Himself Was to Blame For Senators' Let Down Last Year; Can See No Other Club For This Season, However.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Tampa, Fla., March 8.—They called him the Boy Manager when he was winning pennants several years ago but today the boy was a man and he proved it as only a real man can by declaring that he, himself, Stanley Harris, was more than a little to blame for the fact that the Washington Senators weren't a better ball club last year.

"Success," he said "with that depreciatory smile of his, 'may have gone a little to my head,' and let it go at that.

Having lifted that vestful from his abdomen, the first baseball man over to admit publicly that a mistake was all he turned his attention to the New York Yankees, who are one of the things to which you turn your attention at the slightest provocation or none at all.

He doesn't think the Yankees are a kick-in for the pennant; the current version would have it, and cites as his reasons the following:

1. The Washington Senators.
2. The Yanks' elderly pitchers.
3. The conviction that Ruth and Gehrig will not repeat their 1927 records.
4. The belief that the Yanks got all the breaks last year and none of these happened to be bones.
5. The Washington Senators.

Harris concedes the Yankees nothing and gives the Philadelphia Athletics slightly less. He didn't say so but I gathered that he somewhat disdains the venerable gentlemen of Philadelphia.

The Senators' Well, just a better ball club, my good fellow.

"First of all, we will have a different manager," he said.

"Same name, Harris; but a different fellow. I guess I took too much for granted last year. Anybody can manage a club that is winning.

"Next we will have the best pitching of years—and that absolutely goes. I could start any one of twelve men in a major league contest with perfect confidence that I would obtain a well-pitched game.

Four of these pitchers, Lisenbee, Hadley, Gaston and Marberry, are particularly effective against the Yankees.

"Third, the fact that we will have more speed and better spirit.

"Fourth, that Sam Rice, a sick man last year, is now in the best of health.

Fifth, George Sisler; he is an asset to any club.

Seemingly, there are only two abiding questions that the Washington club must answer, and they deal with the matter of whether the outfit has a shortstop and a center fielder to take the place of Tris Speaker. The most of it seems to be almost fool-proof.

At the moment Sam West of Rochester, Tex., is in there trying to make them forget Speaker. Samuel, with the club last year, has failed to hit the ground with his bat down here. He, however, is getting the play because, a different outfielder than either Foster Gansel or Emile Barnes. Gansel hit like a fool in the closing weeks of the American League show last year and is still at it. Barnes, quite a football player at Alabama, is bursting them on the bases.

At shortstop, another great Alabama football man, Grant Gillis, is giving Bob Reeves, the regular, quite a rally. So is one M. C. Hayes, of Birmingham.

Six of the nine positions are assured, it appears, and a seventh only is a matter of choice between Sisler and Joe Judge.

"It's even up between them to date and I'd like to play them both," Harris says.

Hadley Loses Appendix Pitcher Irving Hadley is at a local hospital, laughing merrily off an operation for appendicitis but Harris declares he will be ready by mid-April. Hadley and Lisenbee were two outstanding recruit pitchers of 1927. Milt Gaston, obtained from the Browns, is another big shot here. Another regular right hander will be the veteran Fred Marberry to say nothing of the even more aged Sam Jones.

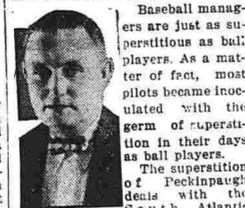

The place is simply overrun with left handers and all of them, according to Harris, are good. They are Garland Braxton and Bob Burke, of the 1927 staff; Clarence Griffin, of Memphis; Tom Zachary, the Kid himself, and Ed Wells, the former Detroit Tiger.

Muddy Ruel and Benny Tate will be the catchers, as of yore. Hugh McMullen, former Giant, is back from Louisville, and this time, he expects to hit better by batting only as a right hander.

Harris and Ossie Bluege, performer, will play second and third base respectively and Goose Goslin and Sam Rice left and right fields respectively. And, oh, yes, Walter Johnson won't be with the club this year.

Bayne, Like Moore, May Fool Scouts

By BILLY EVANS
Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians is hopeful that a precedent established in 1927 will continue to hold good for 1928.

Billy Evans

Baseball managers are just as superstitious as bull players. As a matter of fact, most pilots became inoculated with the germ of superstition in their days as ball players.

The superstition of Peckinpaugh deals with the South Atlantic League and the acquisition of Southpaw Bill Bayne by the Cleveland Indians. It also dates back to Pitcher Wilcey Moore of the Yankees and Outfielder Lloyd Waner of the Pirates, the former in particular.

It seems that in 1926 a pitcher by the name of Wilcey Moore won 30 games and lost only four in the South Atlantic. Not one of the scores of scouts who saw him in action believed he had a chance to make the major grade. All turned in a negative report.

New York, however, purchased Wilcey Moore because Business Manager Ed Barrow of the Yankees was convinced that any pitcher who could win 30 games in a try-out league, while only losing four, must have something.

Moore, labeled "bloomer" by the scouts, won 18, lost seven and saved perhaps a dozen more games for the Yankees. He was gone for about 30 victories for the world champions in the 1927 race.

It is needless to comment on the part that Lloyd Waner played in the success of the Pittsburgh Pirates in winning the pennant. How he stepped in and filled the bill when Manager Kiki Cuyler, his star outfielder, "Kiki Cuyler, disagreed and came to the parting of ways, is a matter of baseball history.

Now for the Cleveland angle and the superstition of Manager Peckinpaugh as it relates to Pitcher Wilcey Moore and Outfielder Lloyd Waner.

Last season a pitcher, by name Bill Bayne, stepped into the picture at Greenville, S. C., and filled the shoes of the town idol, Wilcey Moore.

While Bayne's record wasn't quite as impressive as that of Moore, he turned in 26 victories as against 10 defeats, which one must admit is some pitching.

None of the big league scouts touring that section gave Bayne so much as a tumble. He received no more consideration from the diamond sleuths than did Wilcey Moore.

President Barnard of the Cleveland club, now head of the American League, in looking over the minor league averages, was impressed by the figures back of Bayne's name, showing 26 wins, and landed him in the draft.

Why was Bayne overlooked by the scouts? Why was Wilcey Moore passed up? You ask.

The fact that Moore was 30 years of age caused the scouts to get off him. That's considered far too old to be making a major league debut. He was passed up partly for the same reason, too old, also because the St. Louis Browns held little to him for about five years before passing him on to the minors.

He was considered as having had the big chance and failed.

Bayne is 29 years of age, almost as old as Wilcey Moore. During his connection with the St. Louis Browns he always was showing flashes of stuff that caused that club to believe he would eventually make the grade.

Bayne is a southpaw. He's of average build, about five feet nine inches tall and weighs in the neighborhood of 160 pounds. In his career as an American Leaguer he always showed a most deceptive curve.

Perhaps Bayne at 29, like Moore at 30, after roaming the minors for a number of years, has finally acquired the poise and confidence that he previously lacked as a big leaguer.

At least that is the thought or superstition to which Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians is clinging.

Newsy Notes From The Training Camps

Augusta, Ga., March 8.—Ty Cobb believes there's no place like home, especially the cooking. The veteran outfielder of the Athletics, who lives here, has asked Connie Mack for permission to work out with the New York Giants at their training camp here until the A's arrive for an exhibition contest on March 15.

George Harbor, New York's 36-year-old outfielder, has made one home run every day since he has reported.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8.—Manager McGraw of the Yankees has dispatched an ultimatum to Urban Shocker, the spitballer. Shocker wrote Huggins that he had quit, but mentioned that he was dissatisfied with the salary offered him. This led Huggins to beached an agreement might be reached.

Outfielders Combs and Meusel have not reported, but they are no holdouts.

Clearwater, Fla., March 8.—Four hits by Partridge and a homer by Bissonette featured a practice game in which the Brooklyn regulars beat the Yankees, 12 to 6.

Harry Riconda, infielder who formerly played with Philadelphia, Boston and Milwaukee, is making a good impression on Manager Robinson. Robby may use him at third base, second or shortstop.

Catalina Island, Cal., March 8.—The Cubs Regulars were happy today over shaking their links long enough to reach the camp "Goofs" for a practice ball game. It was the first victory for the regulars in a long series of family fitts. Jones, Grapp and Hanse pitched for the regulars, allowing the Goofs only three hits and shutting them out.

MANDELL VERSUS McLARNIN

After the sensational way in which he polished off Sid Terris, it is almost certain that young Jimmy McLarnin, the babe-faced child from the Pacific coast, will get a chance at the lightweight championship. Chances are that he will go into the ring a favorite when he does meet the champion.

Sammy Mandell, who has been generously and widely praised for the manner in which he has conducted himself as the lightweight champion, recently signed a contract with Jim Mullens, Chicago promoter, to meet any challenger chosen for him this summer.

The Illinois boxing commission made Mandell put up $5000 to show that he wasn't kidding.

When Mullens grabbed the signature of the champion, Terris, the pride of the New York ghetto, was the outstanding challenger, but Mullens didn't want to take a load of his contract until he had fought McLarnin.

It will be recalled, of course, that in that meeting between Terris and McLarnin two minutes of the first round had not passed when Terris was dragged off the floor half dead. One right hand punch from the coast cherub had ruined him and ended his regime as the uncrowned champion.

If Mullens wants the outstanding challenger for Mandell now he will have to get the signature of McLarnin and it may be guessed that this will involve some difficulties.

Tex Rickard, who staged the Terris-McLarnin fight, has a way of tying up the boys who work for him, and it may be that Mullens will hear from the McLarnin camp that pretty little Jimmy is under contract to Mr. Rickard.

That One Punch Job McLarnin's victory over Terris was accepted with considerable gusto, especially among those who can trace their ancestry back around County Cork, from whence came young Jimmy, but it would be well to withhold some hysteria in considering his chances against Mandell.

No matter what is thought of Mandell's department as an over-careful champion, he is a great fighter. He is clever, fast and smart. Terris never had a thing but the speed of the greatest pair of legs ever seen in a ring. There always is something fluky about a one-punch knockout, no matter how you look at it.

Terris was careless in that first round or McLarnin never would have found the spot and he had to hit that spot to the teeth of an inch as Terris came into him. No doubt the McLarnin lad can punch but it is not certain at all that he could keep young Mr. Mandell on the floor with just one crack.

Terris wasn't and isn't one-half the fighter he was two years ago. When the speed of his legs began to go he went with it, and in all of his recent fights he had made considerable trips to the canvas. He always came up, though, until he ran into McLarnin's right.

Mandell in Condition You can bet your last dollar that McLarnin never will find Mandell looking around the house when a right hand is poised for a shot at him. Mandell is pretty good in keeping his men out of position to hit and he has more brains and experience than young McLarnin.

Even if the matches he has been taking in isolated spots are subject to ridicule, Mandell is fighting right along, taking them here and there and that does harm to no fighter. Mandell will have fought himself into fighting shape when the time comes for him to defend his title.

Under the circumstances, the victory over Terris may work as a handicap to McLarnin. He will not be able to fight much now that he has established himself as a "natural" for a championship match. Rickard or Mullens will not permit him to mix with any dangerous men and Mandell can take them when and where he desires since he has satisfied the various boxing commissions that were hounding him.

SHARKEY AND RISKO TRAIN IN NEW YORK

Start Work in City Obeying Commission; Baker Boy At 193.

New York, March 8.—Pursuant to orders issued by the New York Boxing Commission, that they must work here at least five days before their match, Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko are toting leather at local gymnasiums today. The Cleveland rubber man bounced in yesterday and unlimbered his light artillery on two sparring partners imported from his home city. Sharkey arrived last night, and will work out today.

According to his handlers, Sharkey is in better shape for this fight than he was for Dempsey last summer. He whipped Risko two years ago and he thinks he will repeat, but he is not predicting a knockout. Risko is down to 193 pounds.

LAP STEALERS GET THREE IN THE NIGHT

Total of Pilfered Rounds Already Near Record in Garden-Cycle Race.

New York, March 8.—In the six-day bike race at Madison Square Garden, 83 laps were pilfered last night, bringing the total above 300. The record is 355, made in 1927.

The team of Gergetti and Debaets stole three laps while the Letourner-Brocardo and Belloni-Beckman combinations were watching each other. When the smoke cleared away the three teams were tied for first place, one lap ahead of Horan and Garrison and Walker and Hill.

At the 81st hour this morning the three leaders had covered 1,234 miles and nine laps. Faudet and Goosens were leading in points with 189.

There are 25,000 motion picture theaters in the United States with seats for 11,000,000 people, says a Hollywood statistician. Yet the precious pair who must chatter with their movies have to pick out the two just behind you.

P. A. and a pipe - that's all I ask

I DON'T mean that I am easily satisfied. As a matter of fact, I'm as critical as they come about smoking-tobacco. There are certain things I demand in a smoke, and I declare here and now that P. A. has 'em. Has 'em and to spare, if you ask me.

Fragrant as spring blossoms. Cool as "The boss wants to see you." Sweet as "I'm going to raise your pay." Mild and mellow and long-burning, with full satisfaction in every wonderful puff. It seems that there are not enough hours in a day to suit your Prince Albert program. You'll start in early and stay with it far into the night.

But all this conversation won't do you any good, unless you try out the tobacco itself. When it comes to speaking for itself, P. A. is the best little talker you ever listened to. Go get yourself a tidy red tin and get some of this pipe-joy I've been picturing.

Sally Ford

THROUGHOUT the country today there are thousands of girls like Sally Ford of Anne Austin's newest story. Girls alone. They face life handicapped with the lack of family, friends and opportunity.

Anne Austin had wanted for along time to write the story of one of these girls and now she has written it. "Girl Alone" is a modern love story. It is also an adventure story, for Anne Austin always makes of life a romantic adventure instead of a humdrum routine.

GIRL ALONE

By

ANNE AUSTIN

Beginning in The Herald

On Thursday, March 15

It is the story of a girl who was reared in an orphanage and who through a perfectly logical series of circumstances suddenly found herself deeply in love and a member of a traveling carnival troupe. Overnight Sally Ford, the orphan, became "Princess Lalla," the beautiful crystal gazer.

That is the beginning of "Girl Alone," latest serial by an author who numbers her readers in the millions. It is a fascinating story of carnival life. It will, of course, be one of the outstanding serial successes of the year.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

CHARACTERS
PHILO VANCE, District Attorney of New York County
MARGARET ODELL (THE "CANARY")
CHARLES CLEAVER, a manufacturer
SPOTSWOOD, a manufacturer
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer
DR. AMBROSE LINDQUIST, a fashionable neurologist
TONY SKEEL, a professional burglar
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator
HARRY SPIVELLY, telephone operator
ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homeless Bureau

THE STORY THUS FAR
 Margaret Odell is found strangled. Skeel's finger prints are found in the apartment, but Vance believes Skeel had been hiding in a closet while the stranger did his work. The thing that baffles police is the side door to the alley, which had been locked. It was found the night before and was found the same way the morning after. Dr. Lindquist and Cleaver all lie about their whereabouts on the night of the murder. Spotswood, who had called on the girl, had rushed to her door at the sound of a scream, but had been reassured through the door that everything was all right. Skeel found strangled, after promising to reveal the murderer. Vance then demonstrated in support of his theory that Skeel had been hiding in a closet, how Skeel could have left through the side door and retlocked the bolt on the inside.

CHAPTER XLVI
HEATH nodded his head oracularly.
 "A crook, no matter how clever he is, always overlooks something."
 "Why single out crooks for your criticism, Sergeant?" asked Vance. "Do you know of anybody who always overlooks something?" He gave Heath a benignant smile. "Even the police, don't you know, overlook the tweezers."
 Heath grunted. His cigar had gone out, and he relighted it slowly and thoroughly.
 "That do you think, Mr. Markham?"
 "The situation doesn't become much clearer," was Markham's gloomy comment.
 "My theory isn't exactly a blindfold illumination," said Vance. "Yet I wouldn't say that it left things in pristine darkness. There are certain inferences to be drawn from my vagaries. To wit: Skeel either knew or recognized the murderer; and once he had made good his escape from the apartment, he had regained a modicum of self-confidence, he undoubtedly blackmailed his homicidal confederate."
 "His death was merely another manifestation of our incognito's bent for ridding himself of persons who annoyed him. Furthermore, my theory accounts for the chiseled jewel case, the finger-prints, the unmoisted closet, the finding of the gems in the refuse tin—the person who took them really didn't want them, you know, and he would be rather in the way of the unbolting and bolting of the side door."
 "Yes," sighed Markham. "It seems to clarify everything but the one all-important point—the identity of the murderer."
 "Exactly," said Vance. "Let's go to lunch."
 Heath, morose and confused, departed for police headquarters; and Markham, Vance, and I rode to Delmonico's, where we chose the main dining-room in preference to the grill.
 "The case now would seem to center in Cleaver and Mannix," said Markham, when we had finished our luncheon. "If your theory that the same man killed both Skeel and the Canary is correct, then Lindquist is out of it, for he certainly was in the Episcopal Hospital Saturday night."
 "Quite," agreed Vance. "The doctor is unquestionably eliminated."
 "Yes; Cleaver and Mannix—

The custom of dressing twins girls and boys alike is one that has been followed from time immemorial. A newer idea is to dress not only little sisters who are near of age, but brother and sister in practically the same simple styles and materials. The little boy's shorts or knickerbockers match the skirt of the little girl. It is an arrangement some people believe exact duplicates are, in fact, the style or make should be identical, but the colors if not exactly the same might supplement each other with good effect. For instance, linen dresses which are charming, might be made up for sisters in two colors, pink and blue will do for illustration. One dress made of pink linen might have blue trimmings and the other of blue linen with pink trimmings. The idea might be carried out with the plain and mixed colors of gingham and chintz with matching bloomers.

The whole responsibility for the success of the new season's frocks seemingly will be placed upon the figure. It must resemble that of a slender 18 year old rather than a boy. If you have been able to keep your figure youthful and slender you will find the new dresses easy to wear; if you have not—well, that's another matter. With the reducing exercises printed in the magazines and broadcast by radio daily, the woman who persists can keep down her avoirdupois and still be healthy.

For afternoon and evening skirts are undeniably longer, and always the shorter or applied panels.

Home Page Editorial TELEVOX

By Olive Roberts Barton

Every housewife in the land will bless Mr. R. J. Wensley for inventing Mr. Televox.

Mr. Televox is the mechanical man who does your chores. He will sweep, turn off the light, answer the bell and telephone, and play maid in the latest accepted form.

Now this benevolent gentleman, who looks more like an Ivanhoe knight than a metal suit and his headpiece of steel, is as yet in his prime class of domestic science. What he knows is wonderful, but what he doesn't know as yet, would fill several books. But he is going to learn—that is the encouraging part of it—even to talk, promises Mr. Wensley.

We should not be surprised to hear in the near future of Mr. Televox carrying of a master's degree in cooking, dish-washing, laundry-work, nursing, and even taking a fourth hand at bridge.

"Quod erat demonstrandum!" That is the only Latin phrase I can remember and I must air it occasionally. For those who remember another one, it means "Show us!" We hope Mr. Wensley will.

But even so, should this philanthropic young inventor find a slow pupil in his brain child, and the automatic man turns out to be a poor cook with no taste for seasoning, or slow at the ironing—even so, I move that every woman rise up and give Mr. Wensley a vote of thanks. He is one man evidently who can see the woman's side, and he is trying to help her out. Most inventions are man-savers. Few are wife-savers.

Personally I give only one fear. If Mr. Televox becomes letter-perfect, will father snitch him? Will he send him off for Sunday papers and cigars, make him clean the car, drive him to town, press his clothes, carry out the ashes, and shovel off snow?

Will mother ever see him? I'm afraid not, unless Mr. Wensley invents a shut-out affair that will put commission gentlemen out of commission when a masculine voice gives the command.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Mom dear:
 Well, Alan and I have had a real battle of the century. All because he tried to teach me to drive the car. It's simply unbelievable how mean a man can be at a time like that. I never knew he had such a vocabulary as he used on me simply because I couldn't start right off and drive as well as he does.

"You've been telling me how he thundered: 'Now go 'head and do it.' He forgets how many times he jammed the thing himself in the beginning."

We rolled 'er out after dinner last night. I have a temporary permit but I want to apply for a license. At the rate I'm learning under Alan's instructions I'll be lucky if I get one to run a push-car.

He yelled at me because the darned thing picked up like a kangaroo, and once when I got a little excited and tried to start in high he actually cussed until the motorist ran up to danger, the air got so hot. You wouldn't think it of Alan, would you?

The big blowup came when I stalled in crossroads traffic and the truck driver yelled at me to take it out on Sunday morning. Alan flopped all over the front seat throwing a fit. I made him take the wheel then and I didn't speak to each other until this morning.

I've decided to get Billy Bartlett to teach me. I should have done it in the first place but in a weak moment I decided on Alan because if there's anyone who ought to have patience with you it's your own devoted. Well, I learned a thing or two, but not about driving.

"Why is it, I wonder, that men are ruder to their wives and say things they wouldn't think of saying to other women. I don't mean when they're quarreling, but even when affairs are normal. I'm sure I could have taught Alan to drive if the case had been reversed, without spraining a blood vessel."

He took the attitude that I'd been doing a lot of back seat driving and ought to be able to drive as well as he. I know I'll learn faster because I know what to do, but it does take some practice.

And when we got home we found one of our neighbors trying to bring her bus to life and Alan jumped out and ran over to help her, and I could almost see the sugar in the words he used.

Lovingly,
 MARYE

The WOMAN'S DAY

At a recent golden wedding anniversary the host decreed that every guest should sit with his own wife. Said host said he didn't care whether it was according to Etiquette with a capital or not. He wanted to sit beside his own wife even if he had had a steady 50-year dose of her company, and he didn't see why other husbands didn't feel the same way.

Wives and Husbands
 Sometimes this rule that no husband may take in his own wife a formal dinner seems rather silly. Fewer husbands would dread dinner parties than do if they knew they would be relieved of the strain of carrying on a sprightly conversation with strange women. And fewer wives would care to go to all if they knew they weren't to have the opportunity to dazzle some unknown male.

You note that the golden wedding dinner doesn't say what his wife thought about it!

Refuses Key
 All the lives Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Eastman of Harlem had planned on their son's education. Their fondest wish was to see him wear a Phi Beta Kappa key, the badge of high scholarship. The other day Charles Allen Eastman, Jr., a senior at Dartmouth, was offered the significant little gold key. He refused it. He said his conscience would not permit its acceptance, as he believed college grading systems did not show the real ability of the student. The father and mother are crushed and heartless and unfor-giving.

Old and New
 Just another little story of misunderstanding and utterly alien viewpoint between the older and younger generation. The parent Eastmans had never had college for themselves. They idealized it for their son. But the idealization of inexperience came up against the disillusion of experience. Young Eastman learned to match college shortcomings with his parents' ideal of college perfection! As a matter of fact, many parents who really know college systems would be proud of their son's courage and clearheadedness in refusing the standardized symbol of his wearing of education than of his wearing of the golden key.

ABDOMINAL PAINS CALL FOR QUICK DIAGNOSIS.
 By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN.

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Nothing is quite so alarming or disturbing to the average person as sudden, severe pain in the abdomen. Unlike a wound of the skin, the source of the pain is not visible.

To the physician the diagnosis of the cause of such a pain is one of the most delicate of tasks and at the same time most interesting.

Some Causes Serious.
 There are numerous causes, some of which are serious, demanding an immediate surgical procedure. There are other causes, wholly functional, in which the treatment is not directed at all to the abdominal cavity, and there are many instances in which medical treatment without surgery yields a satisfactory result.

One of the most frequent errors is for patients with painful abdomens to take sedative drugs which disguise the source of the pain and make the diagnosis much more difficult. Another serious error is to

Will Prosecute Companion, His War Buddy, Whom He Traded to Iowa, However.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 8.—As a healer of broken hearts, Federal Marshal Mike Healy is a brilliant success.

Two years ago Mrs. Anthony Miculis of Hartford, Conn., eloped with K. M. Leonas, her husband's friend, taking her three small children with her. Miculis immediately took up the search which extended through a score of states and cost him several thousand dollars. He finally located them at Oelwein, Ia., and caused the arrest of Leonas on a Mann-act charge. Leonas was brought here and held for the federal grand jury.

Miculis was willing to forgive and forget and take his wife back, even a boy of whom Leonas was the father. His wife demurred. She didn't know whether her love for her husband still existed. Healy used his persuasive powers and a reconciliation was effected.

Miculis will return to Hartford with his family but he will come back here in April to prosecute Leonas, who was his buddy in the World War.

If you want that new house shaded we are in a position to do it for you, at the right price. You can always do better at Benson's.

EXPLAINS WHY LIGHTS AT POND WERE OUT

Park Superintendent Keur Says Mechanism of Time Switch Had Run Down.

Many skaters who visited Center Springs Pond last night were under the false impression as to the reason why the floodlights suddenly went out about seven o'clock. An official of the Manchester Skating Club was inclined to place the blame on Park Superintendent John Y. Keur, but the latter gave The Herald a statement today which clears the matter. It follows: "The spotlights at the pond in Center Springs Park are owned, regulated and operated by the Manchester Electric Company. They are not turned on and off each night by some individual but are regulated by a time-switch which makes them go on at the same time as the street lights. This clock mechanism is wound once a week and has been wound again today. Last night being the time when the mechanism ran down.

"The Park Commission has nothing to do with the turning on of the lights. In case of unsate ice the policy has been to request the Manchester Electric Company to turn off the lights for a night. This practice has been discontinued however, due to public opposition, claiming that there should be lights at all times.

"The Park Superintendent has no authority whatever to regulate the lights, he has no key to unlock the box containing the mechanism. In case the lights are not lit for some reason or other the emergency department of the Manchester Electric Co. should be requested to locate the trouble.

"Ed Montie has been kind enough to come down to the pond at any hour of the night to repair any damage or other troubles and the Park Department has paid for all expenses involved."

TO DRAW RESOLUTIONS FOR LATE H. O. BOWERS

School Board Votes Memorial to Former Secretary; Bolton Students Admitted.

A memorial to the late Judge H. O. Bowers, for many years secretary of the Town School board, will be written and incorporated in the records of the board, according to a resolution passed yesterday at the board's monthly meeting. Edward J. Murphy and Supt. A. F. Howes were appointed a committee to draft the memorial.

The presence of two Bolton pupils in the Manchester Green school was approved. Supt. Howes allowed the two children, Ralph Brown and Pearl Dregler, to come into the Green school after their parents had had difficulties with the teacher of the Quarryville school and members of the Bolton school board.

The parents demanded the resignation of the teacher, claiming that she was incompetent to teach eighth grade subjects. The resignation which was handed in was later withdrawn by the teacher on the recommendation of the school board.

Bills for current expenses were voted paid and the spring program of the schools discussed to some extent.

Why do you feel so tired in the morning? Does your bed spring sag? Are you sleeping on a good straight mattress? If not, go to Benson's, the home of good bedding. —Advt.

DEMS GET THE DOUGH TO MEET OLD DEFICITS

Washington, March 8.—The Democratic party, which has been chronically "broken" since the 1920 election, is again in a state of affluence.

Jesse H. Jones, the party treasurer, has reported to Chairman Clem Shaver that a total of $508,500 has been raised and pledged to put the party on its financial feet, pay all its indebtedness, and still leave a tidy margin with which to inaugurate the 1928 campaign.

The chief item reported was the $200,000 which Houston citizens raised to finance the convention. Some of the party's leading supporters came generously to its aid with gifts, among them Thomas F. Ryan, of New York, with $50,000; Jesse Jones of Texas, $50,000; C. H. Watson of West Virginia, and William F. Kerny, of New York, each with $25,000.

Will Prosecute Companion, His War Buddy, Whom He Traded to Iowa, However.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 8.—As a healer of broken hearts, Federal Marshal Mike Healy is a brilliant success.

Two years ago Mrs. Anthony Miculis of Hartford, Conn., eloped with K. M. Leonas, her husband's friend, taking her three small children with her. Miculis immediately took up the search which extended through a score of states and cost him several thousand dollars. He finally located them at Oelwein, Ia., and caused the arrest of Leonas on a Mann-act charge. Leonas was brought here and held for the federal grand jury.

Miculis was willing to forgive and forget and take his wife back, even a boy of whom Leonas was the father. His wife demurred. She didn't know whether her love for her husband still existed. Healy used his persuasive powers and a reconciliation was effected.

Miculis will return to Hartford with his family but he will come back here in April to prosecute Leonas, who was his buddy in the World War.

LETTER GOLF

Some people raise a HUE and CRY in one breath, but in letter golf, according to par, it's a five-word jump from one to the other. Perhaps you can beat the solution printed on another page.

HUE

CRY

THE RULES.

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEN, HEN.

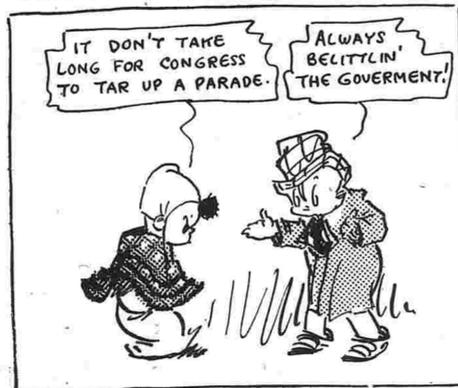

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

The modern idea in fashion, so far as we have been able to observe seems to show everything but the brains.
