REGINALD DENNY AT RIALTO SUNDAY

"Out All Night" Is Fast-Moving Comedy—Geo. Walsh In Co-Feature.

There is a saying amongst those experienced in traveling that anything can happen on a boat. The International Sunday School Lesson for March 25 is a Quarterly Review. "Jesus Proclaims the Kingdom of God"—Matthew 9:35.

Asa K. Jennings the hero of the Smyrna disaster, sat before me the other day, talking about the new work he is doing in the old Bible city of Smyrna. Unlabeled and alone, he has returned to Turkey to cooperate with the Turks, who have taken on the outward forms of western democracy, that he may help the establishment of the new work he is doing in the old Bible city of Smyrna. who are steadfastly living the life and doing the work of Jesus. They are the disciples whose supreme aim is to do whatever He would like to have them do. In Siam the literal translation of the name "Christian Endeavor" is "The company of young people who endeavor to do with sacrifice the work that is proper in a Christian." We may be tragically lacking in leaders, but, thank God, there are still an uncounted host of men and women to whom life means chiefly a chance to do the will of Christ. That fellowship is the world's hope. Then stand in the Gallees of old, there is Christ Himself, imparting motive and power to His disciples. The assurance of the coming of the kingdom is the reality and reign of the King. Because God is, the kingdom must be. There are some things that never come back—the arrow that is frown; the word that is spoken, the life that is gone.—Dairyman. For men soon change and quickly fail; but Christ remains forever and stands by as firmly as to the end.—Thomas a Kempis. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy path.—Prov. 3:6. A wise owl lived in an oak; the more he saw the less he spoke; the less he spoke the more he heard; Why can't we all be like that bird?—Anon. Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts; it involves many things, but above all, the power of going out of one's self, and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another.—Thomas Hughes. HOT WATER APLENTY Paris.—There's no shortage of hot water at Niederbreisig, a town on the bank of the Rhine near Coblenz. A newly tapped spring maintains an uninterrupted gush of hot water richly impregnated with carbonic acid gas. SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS. A little leak will sink a great ship.—Proverb. A sacred burden is this life ye bear: Look on it, lift it, bear it solemnly Stand up and walk beneath it steadfastly. Fail not for sorrow, falter not for sin, But onward, upward, till the goal ye win. —Francis Anne Kemble. THE LIFE OF SERVICE BY GEORGE HENRY DOLE International Sunday School Lesson Text, March 25. Jesus went about all the cities and the villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people.—Matt. 9:35. Religion had come to be a frigid, external, hollow ceremony. Jesus made it sane, and warmed it with practical, sympathizing service. With many people religion had become a morbid hallucination, sacrificing thousands of the flocks, a mutilation, which spiritually hypnotized the world. Jesus made religion the quiet, orderly, loving service of mankind in the acknowledgment of God. His heart bled over the sufferings and ignorance of the suffering and needy. His sympathy flowed forth in tears. His dominant purpose was to save all from their affliction by teaching the truth and to win all to his obedience. But mark you: He did not do His good works for merely temporal effect. His supreme purpose was the healing of diseases, but by means of physical cures restore faith in God, illustrate the verity and works of His kingdom of truth and love. Thus His miracles are as mirrors wherein may be seen His relation to mankind, and the concrete operation of spiritual laws. He cured with sin, and faith was an essential to His healing. They bring upon a bed one sick of the palsy. Jesus is touched by their faith. He makes the astonishing declaration, "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee." Blasphemy! exclaimed the Scribes at their hearts. Jesus pointedly asks: "Whether is easier, to say, 'Thy sins be forgiven thee;' or to say, 'Arise, and walk?' To Him they were the same, for into faith into the mind opened toward Him by affirmation; and then His power went down into the body, bringing it into order and filling it with health. Faith that acknowledged God and received His power was the cause. The healing was the effect. "Whether is easier, the cause or the effect? It was the inward, rectifying, cheering health of the spirit to which the Lord was primarily ministering. The healing was the sign of the invisible and inner work of removing sin. Disease is unnatural. Sin first brought it into the world. Obedience to God's laws, natural and spiritual is health's mightiest promoter. "Because thou hast made the Lord... thy habitation, there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling."

Vienna Sends New York Its First 'Jazz' Opera

Musical comedy? Burlesque? No—grand opera! In the upper photo you see Hans Jetter, baritone appearing in the Vienna Opera as Johnny, jazz band leader, in "Johnny Spielt Auf."

New York.—Grand opera catches step with the times in a jazz composition, "Johnny Spielt Auf," to be presented next season by the staid and conservative Metropolitan.

Strangely, the Metropolitan's first jazz production hails from overseas rather than from America, syncopation's native home. "Johnny Spielt Auf" is the work of Ernest Krenek, a 27-year-old Viennese. It already has been presented abroad, and has been hailed as a sensational success.

Opera never before has experienced such a daring story and musical setting as "Johnny Spielt Auf" provides. Various English translations of the idiomatic German title include "Johnny's Playing," "Johnny Leads the Band," and "Johnny Strikes Up."

Inclusion of Krenek's work in the Metropolitan's 1928-1929 program was announced officially by General Manager Giulio Gatti-Casazza.

Interprets the American Spirit.—"I wrote 'Johnny Spielt Auf,' in which jazz and syncopated music are interwoven, because I wanted to interpret the spirit of youth and joy and hustle that America has given the world," Krenek said in describing his piece.

"All the world is dancing to jazz—much so in Vienna, the home of the waltz, as any place else. As I say in the libretto of 'Johnny Spielt Auf': 'Here comes the New World

ODD MARRIAGES PUT CIVILIZATION ON DOWN GRADE

Boulder, Colo.—Modern civilization is on the toboggan and is being forced downward by companionate marriage, petting parties, false education, denial of the incarnation of Christ, and deplorable practices in high society.

This declaration was made by Prof. Marion E. Cady, of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, while addressing the Central Union Conference of the denomination held here recently.

In his heated verbal rebellion, Prof. Cady commented upon many phases of modern living. He declared that parents of today were being made "the goat" by their children. The children denounce control, thinking they are being suppressed, and the parents give way too easily.

Teaching Evolution.—The teaching of evolution in the schools and colleges has had a bad effect, according to Prof. Cady. The churches and ministers who advocate modernism in the place of pure script are also adding to the downfall.

All of these factors, in Prof. Cady's opinion, are omens of the near return of Christ who "will overthrow the sin and corruption in the world today in a manner parallel to the days of Noah and the flood."

"It is as much the fault of modern ministers as it is the educators themselves. Both classes are taboos on the Bible, which means throwing it away and when this is done, all standards of living are discarded," said Prof. Cady.

"The Modern minister denies the story of creation, the leadership of Moses in the camp of Israel, the story of Adam and Eve, Jonah and the whale and is teaching such as so much folklore.

History Teachings.—"Modernists are declaring that they can take the history of any nation and make a more interesting record for the teaching of their children than the Bible contains.

THAW'S PROTEGE CRASHES MOVIES—WITHOUT THAW

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Calif., March 20.—Anita Rivers, the blond half of Harry Thaw's more or less famous movie team, has at last been meeting with the portals of moviedom—but through no efforts on the part of the renowned Mr. Thaw, millionaire sportsman, New York night club supporter and what have you.

Some weeks ago, amid considerable broadcasting about what he intended to do, Thaw left New York for Hollywood with Miss Rivers, whose real name is Anita Pomares, her mother and his brunet protegee, Suzan Hughes. Mr. Thaw expected to find producers, contracts in hand, awaiting him.

Finally Thaw gave up and returned to New York with Miss Hughes, Miss Rivers, or Pomares, and her mother refused to go back. Anita had her heart set on a film career and decided that this was the place to find it. Now she has been re-christened Ann Page and is William Haines' leading lady in "He Learned About Women."

All of which goes to show that even Hollywood occasionally knows what it wants. It didn't want Suzan Hughes, and all of the renowned Mr. Thaw's millions meant exactly nothing. It did want Ann Page, and she got a job without a nickel's worth of influence.

I was somewhat surprised at my first meeting with Miss Page. I had expected to find this blond protegee the height of sophistication. Instead, I was introduced to a very charming girl who still can remember when she used to throw mud pies at the boy across the street.

OPEN FORUM

CONCERNING DR. MORAN

Because of my past connections with Dr. Moran, I have with no small degree of interest concerned myself in the question of his recent suspension from the staff of the Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Can the trustees of our hospital honestly permit themselves to believe that our hospital must not be regarded by the trustees of our hospital of more serious consequences than is the commission of murder by the authorities.

I have eagerly awaited the publication of some reply from someone connected with the hospital in which an attempted explanation of the superintendent's act would be forwarded, or a complete denial or contradiction of the statement as made by Mrs. Gustafson would be advanced.

Of course I suppose it matters very little what my individual impressions are concerning this matter, but just as well I realize that the trustees, who are as far as I am able to learn the representative body of the community as concerns the hospital.

It seems most unfair that Dr. Moran should be the target of such adverse discrimination. It seems only honorable that the trustees arrange a hearing wherein a solution of this entire affair could be arrived at. A thorough ventilation and clarification of the entire issue should be made the endeavor of all concerned.

Personally I can conceive of no other plans which would be of such service in arriving at an honest and unbiased solution of this affair. I am at a loss to know why the trustees of our hospital remain adamant in their decision to exclude counsel engaged by Dr. Moran at the hearing they propose.

"ARABIAN KNIGHTS" AT STATE THEATER SUNDAY

Michael Vavitch, Russian character actor, takes another important part. He won immediate acclaim upon his arrival in Hollywood only six months ago and John W. Considine, Jr., general manager of the Joseph M. Schenck organization, immediately signed him to a long term contract.

NOVARRO BEST SUITED FOR "ROAD TO ROMANCE"

Star's Latin Appearance Makes Him Real Hero of Conrad's Story—Here Next Tuesday.

Because of his decided Latin appearance and demeanor, as well as temperament, Ramon Novarro is seen at his very best in "The Road to Romance," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen version of the famous Joseph Conrad novel, which comes to the State theater on Tuesday for the benefit of the High school senior class.

Novarro is essentially of the Latin type and his fine features and marvelous physique stamp him an ideal Spanish hero.

Novarro was great in "Scaramouche," magnificent in "Ben-Hur," marvelous in "Old Heidelberg," but is his own natural self as the dashing Jose Armando in "The Road to Romance." To say a man is his own self in a role puts him on a much higher plane than acting ever could.

Had he lived in the days of Spanish chivalry Novarro would have been a gallant courtier. He possesses all the qualifications and characteristics of a Spanish caballero. He is handsome, manly in appearance, moulded physically perfect and has a great sense of humor as well as a talent for lovelinking.

In his role of the Spanish gallant of "The Road to Romance," he reminds one of Valentino when the latter was at his height.

During Novarro's screen career he has appeared in roles of many nationalities and he has adapted himself to them in an excellent manner—yet to do so he had to rely on his ability as an actor. In "The Road to Romance" he discards the artifices of acting and becomes Ramon Novarro in the age of chivalry and adventure.

Novarro is ably assisted in his new picture by the petite and charming Marceline Day, who portrays the role of a Spanish gentleman.

The remainder of the cast, including Roy D'Arcy, Otto Meissner, Cesare Gravina and Marc McDermott are excellently cast in their respective roles.

The picture, which was directed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by John S. Robertson, is both highly romantic, colorful and picturesque.

"ROSE OF KILDARE" COMING TO CIRCLE

A piquant Irish ballad is transferred to the screen in "The Rose of Kildare," which is one of two features at the Circle theater tomorrow and Monday.

Features at the Circle in the continuous show today are "Tarzan and the Golden Lion" and "Her Summer Lover."

The strange story of a man who lived in the heart of Africa and had a lion as his companion, is told in "Tarzan and the Golden Lion." Tarzan has raised the lion from its cubhood and together they wander through the famed veldt of central Africa.

Colonel Green Gives $3500 Trophy For Put-Putters

Miami Beach, Fla. — Outboard motorboat racing enthusiasts have a $3500 trophy to compete for in their forthcoming Miami Beach regatta, thanks to the fact that Col. E. H. R. Green, son and heir of the late Henry Green, believes in "giving the little fellows a chance."

The trophy is a silver cup more than three feet in height, done by a famed Philadelphia silversmith. It's to be called the "Star Island trophy," after the name of Col. Green's winter estate here. Biscayne Bay is alive now with noisy, animated little craft entered in the various events.

An Old Hobby Outboard motor racing has been a hobby of Col. Green for three years, though he does his own boating in vessels of the big, dignified, costly kind.

"It's a lot of fun," Col. Green explained. "Once when the boys were tuning up for a regatta at South Dartmouth, Mass., someone got out an injunction and made me put on mufflers. But they took them off as the race started. You could hear them 14 miles away."

At First Laughs When outboard motor racing was first attempted, owners of power boats — sleek mahogany speeders and the like — had a laugh. They thought the idea comical. But in three years the speed achieved by the sputtering little craft has advanced from ten miles an hour to more than thirty.

At least fifty boats will take part in the regatta here, it is expected. The Green cup will prove an incentive not only to racers but

GIRL ALONE

THIS HAS HAPPENED SALLY FORD, who knows no other home but the state orphanage...

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX SALLY was eager as a child, when she joined David Nash...

"I hurried—as fast—as I could!" she gasped. "Grandma Carson ripped up this dress for me this afternoon...

David shrugged his broad shoulders, but there was a twinkle in his eyes. "Let's talk about something pleasant. Want a peach, Sally?"

And Sally ate the peach, he gave her, though she had needed so many for canning those last few days that she had thought she never wanted to see another peach.

She listened, or appeared to listen, drugged with content, her fatigue and the smarting of her gasoline-reddened hands completely forgotten.

"We got a good stand of winter wheat and oats. There's the wheat. See how it ripples in the breeze? Look! You can see where it's turning yellow. Pretty soon its jade-green dress will be as yellow as gold, and along in August I'll cut it. That's oats, over there; and he pointed to a distant field of foot-high grain.

"I'd love to live on a farm," Sally agreed, with naive innocence. "But every evening at twilight I'd go out and look at my growing things and see how pretty a picture they made, and try to forget all the back-breaking work I'd put in to make it so pretty."

They were walking single file now, in the soft, mealy loam, as he led David leading the way. She loved the way his tall, compact body moved—as gracefully and surely as a woman's. She had the feeling that they were two children, who had slipped away from their elders.

"There's the cornfield where I've been plowing," David called back to her. "A fine crop. I've given it its last plowing this week. It's what farmers call 'laid by.' Nothing to do now but to let nature take her course."

It was so dark now that the corn looked like glistening black swords, curved by invisible hands for a phantom combat. And the breeze rustled through them, bringing to the beauty-drunk little girl a cargo of mingled odors of earth, ripe fruit and greenness thrusting up from the moist embrace of the ground to the kiss of the sun.

"Let's sit here on the ground and watch the moon come up," David suggested, his voice hushed with the wonder of the night and of the beauty that lay about them. Sally obeyed, locking her slender knees with her hands and resting her chin upon them.

"Tell me, Sally," David urged gently. "I must admit that there is a lot of common sense in your last letter but at the same time it reminds me of the complete lack of modesty that is prevalent today."

Had I dared to tell my mother that I was good IN SPITE OF HER as you practically told me she'd have died of shock.

Well, I hope to live to see what the generation of girls after you will think I've done to see you make the world as good as you think you can make it. But for my part I guess I'll always sigh for the day when the word "lady" wasn't a joke.

Seems to me it was harder for a "lady" to skate on thin ice than for a girl who had no inhibitions. (That's a word I got from Frank. I'm not quite sure what it means but I think it's things you can't do unless you drive yourself to it in the face of a feeling that you shouldn't.)

David groaned. She could see the muscles spring out like cords along his jaw. "Listen, Sally," he said at last, very gently. "I want you to believe me when I say that I have never had the slightest intention of marrying Pearl Carson. I have not made love to her. I'm too young to get married. I've got two years of college ahead of me yet, but even if I were older and had a farm of my own, I wouldn't marry Pearl."

"Come out of that corn!" A loud, harsh voice cut across David's low-spoken speech, made them spring guiltily apart. "I ain't going to stand for no such goings-on on my farm!"

Clem Carson had prowled like an angry, frustrated animal, through the fields until he had spied them out.

David's hand, concealed by the darkness, was upon her before she knew that it was coming. "Poor Sally! Brave, high-hearted"

"I know about inferiority complex," Sally took him up eagerly. "I've read a lot and studied a lot. We have a branch of the public only allowed to take out one book a week. I'll graduate from high school next June—if I go back! But I won't go back!" she cried.

"But Sally, Sally, what could you do?" David persisted. "You haven't any money—"

"No," Sally acknowledged passionately. "I've never had more than a nickel at one time to call my own! Think of it, David! A girl of 16, who has never had more than a nickel of her own in her life! And only a nickel given to me by some soft-hearted, sentimental visitor! But I can work, and if I can't find anything to do, I'd rather starve than go back."

David's hand, concealed by the darkness, was upon her before she knew that it was coming. "Poor Sally! Brave, high-hearted"

Dear Mary: I must admit that there is a lot of common sense in your last letter but at the same time it reminds me of the complete lack of modesty that is prevalent today.

I'm a little afraid of your liberal education for the young. If a girl makes a mistake she can say that life was too much for her. That's not my own expression.

Friendshipping Dr. Roy L. Smith tells this story of the poet, Edwin Markham, who as their dinner guest one day was asked to say grace and responded with the following sentence: "Great Master of Life, be with us this day as our friendship partner, Amen."

This And That In Feminine Lore

Even the straightest haired lassie can have curly locks that will last until the next shampoo if she will get marcel at the Lily Beauty parlor in the House & Hale building.

Silly-over sweaters in cashmere have the call for men's sport wear. Although they go in strong for color for the most part the designs are neat and stockings may often be had to match.

Although a special dish has been dedicated to the Jester on April first in many lands, this country stands out as an exception. In Holland one eats pickled herring on the first day of the month of showers and sunshine.

Spring sandals for afternoon wear come in stunning printed fabrics to match one's jaunty printed sports coat or parasol.

SAGGING SEATS When cane seats first begin to sag, rub them until thoroughly soaked with hot soap suds. Turn chair upside down and dry in the sun.

WOOD SCRATCHES If your mahogany furniture gets scratched, paint with iodine until the proper shade is reached, let dry and polish until glossy.

BRIGHT ALUMINUM Discolorled aluminum can often be restored to brightness by rubbing with a cloth wrung out of lemon juice. Use no water.

LINED DRAPES If your window drapes are of some medium weight material, lining them with saten, in matching shade or the shade of your walls gives them luxurious weight.

SCIENCE LEARNS HOW TO IDENTIFY BLOOD STAINS By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN After a murder or for various other reasons it is sometimes necessary to find out whether the blood stain on clothing, floors or other objects is that of a human being or that of some other animal.

Rabbit Experiment When an animal, usually a rabbit, is injected with the blood of some different animal, there is formed in the blood of the rabbit a substance which will act to precipitate the serum of the animal whose blood was injected or of any animal closely related to it.

Home Page Editorial The Dark Ages of 1900!

The change of status in thirty years, concerning the girl who "works," is almost beyond belief. The young woman who now steps out of a normal school, business college, or university, fired by an ambition to earn money, deserves credit, but not the credit that went to those girls a generation or two ago who faced criticism and almost ostracism if they chose to be financially independent.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

One trouble is to tell whether it is static or a high soprano. A physician who was having some electrical work done came in just as his bright apprentice was winding a lot of insulating tape about a connection. "Well," said the eminent M. D. "I'll bet that tape serves to cover up a lot of your mistakes." "Righto," responded the cheerful youth, "and I'll bet a spade covers up a lot of yours." Wife—Wire you insulate? Wats the matter? The Other 50%—Fuse where I was you'd be late, too. Wife—This is positively shocking. If it happens again, I'll get a switch and socket to you. I con- dult, too. A good memory test is trying to recall the things you worried about last week. The buggy has gone out, but the destructive cuss who used to strike matches on dashboards still lives.

WINTER GOLF

YES! NO! STOP! GO! All things are temporary and subject to change. Consider today's puzzle—from PASS to FAIL is but three and you go to the head of the class if you can do it! Our solution is on another page:

Word puzzle grid with 'PASS' and 'FAIL' words.

THE RULES 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2—You can change only one letter at a time. 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

Salesman: "This pen lasts a life-time." Scotchman: "But I am 47 now." One thing that's the matter with the country is that there are more wrist watches than there are thin- dles. What is done with all the red lannel they used to put in petti- coats? The man who goes straight home from work is seldom "wanted" at the police stations.

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE "For goodness sakes, who is it to blame?" said Copy. "I think it's a shame to keep those cookies all locked up. Perhaps they'd like to play. If I was sure no one would care, I'd let them out into the air." The baker said, "Go right ahead, if you can find a way. "You see we keep them locked up tight because we always fear they might go running 'round and break in two. Then they would be no good. If, through some trick, you set them free, they'll be as happy as can be, but try and make them all behave, and do just as they should." And then the baker said, "I'm due to bake a chocolate cake or two. I'll have to leave you for a while. Be good while I am gone." He waved his hand and walked away. Then Clowny jumped and yelled, "Hurray! Let's try and free the cookies so they'll scamper on the lawn." (The Tinymites meet some lady fingers in the next story).

ROLLER BASKETBALL
NEW AND DIVERTING
More Tumbles Than Shots in Funny Game at the Rec Last Night.

George Metcalf proved he knew too much about roller-skating basketball, a brand new sensation here, for Jimmy Reardon's quintet last night at the Rec between the halves of the regular games. Metcalf scored four field goals, Field and Russell each scored twice while Senkbel and Schiepenflug caged the only baskets for the losers. The score was 16 to 6.

The five hundred spectators at the game, got quite a thrill out of the novelty attraction. Every time the boys took a tumble, the crowd roared its delight. Then applauded still more when one of the boys got his skates caught in the netting and couldn't get up until a blushing young girl in the front row of the bleacher seats came to his rescue. Others who took part in the game but did not score were Gravano, P. Schiepenflug, and Nelson. Director Lloyd and "Red" Hapenny took turns at officiating but neither took a chance on rollers.

RADIO DETECTOR ON THE JOB IN TOWN

Listeners Group Expects to Block Interference Here in A Short Time.

It is expected that radio reception will begin to show improvement in various parts of the town in the near future. The new interference-detecting machine of the Manchester Radio Listeners' Association has arrived and is already being used by the interference committee. However, it takes considerable time to locate the source of interference and to clear it up. The detecting machine resembles an ordinary radio set in size and appearance.

Another public meeting of the Listeners' Association, through whose efforts the campaign against radio reception interference has been launched, will be held at the School Street Recreation Center auditorium at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening. Gustave Greene, secretary of the organization, is planning to have two speakers. John L. Reinartz will probably be one of them. The other speaker will probably be from Hartford. There are now 118 members in the organization.

Verplanck presided at the supper which followed the degree work at which remarks were made by Most Puissant Thrice Illustrious Master F. A. Beebe and Past Grand Master Oliver Burroughs of New London, Past Masters Fuller and Cassidy of Hartford and others.

Throw This Safeguard AROUND YOUR Life Insurance

A man carries, say $20,000. Or, you can leave it to our experienced judgment. We are conservatively invested, his wife would have about $1,000 income a year. But who will help her to invest wisely? Friends with axes to grind? Slick salesmen of doubtful securities? You can have regular payments made out of both income and principal to whom-ever you wish, for any term of years you elect. Meanwhile, the funds remain carefully invested. Their final distribution is likewise subject to your wishes. This is the modern way of safeguarding life insurance money. It is being adopted by people in all walks of life, in all parts of the country. Come in and get full particulars.
