AL. SMITH GAINS 124 ADDITIONAL DELEGATES

New York, April 4.—Primary returns trickling in from this state, Wisconsin and Maine today indicate that Gov. Alfred E. Smith today had 124 additional delegates who will vote for him at the Democratic national convention. Smith delegates now total 244.

He gained 86 votes when the New York districts voted to give him an undivided delegation. In Wisconsin he gained 28. In Maine, where Smith supporters had counted upon 8 votes, the state convention passed a resolution imposing the unit rule, so the governor thereby gained four votes unexpectedly.

The majority of the Arkansas delegation of eighteen are understood to be for Smith, although not instructed for him. Missouri's 36 votes and Georgia's 28, went to "favorite sons," Senators Reed and George, respectively.

Four additional votes will go to Smith when the delegates-at-large from New York are named by the Democratic state committee.

New York's republican delegates yesterday are unpledged to any candidate, although Hoover supporters claimed 47 out of the total of ninety.

Gov. Smith's announcement that he will go south for a vacation was regarded in political circles as a step to "feel out" his strength there, although those closest to him deny his trip has any political significance.

JEALOUSY DISAPPEARING SAY FEDERAL SCIENTISTS

children were girls. A question may be raised as to whether the reason for the large proportion of jealousy in girls has a deep biological basis or whether the social environment of the boy is such as to arouse feelings of jealousy less often.

The Home Life

"Unquestionably the home life is often built up around the boy, particularly the first-born, and all give way to his will and pleasure, whereas the girl has no standing in the family group and is given no consideration."

Intelligence apparently has little to do with jealousy. Two of the clinical cases were mental defectives, eight persons of superior intelligence and the remainder graduated between.

An impulse to cruelty to playmates and animals is much more prevalent in jealous dispositions than in the gay, indifferent type. Selfishness and bull-dog domination are also more marked in the jealous dispositions than in the gay, indifferent type. Selfishness and bull-dog domination are also more marked in the jealous group.

"The day-dreaming child was seen more frequently in the non-jealous group."

Jealousy is normally manifest in the child's temperament between the ages of three and five years. Proper cultural influences—not rigid disciplinarian methods—may easily eradicate the impulse before the age of seven, but sternness, violent repression or neglect may wrap the victim for life, the report states.

Magistrate Dreyer, adjourning the case until April 16 in traffic court, warned Miss Furst that she must lift her phone legs, which Underwood claims has been a nuisance.

She sat in court with bowed head, avoiding photographers and refused to answer any questions from reporters. Underwood and his father also appeared and they, too, were silent about the affair.

The two parties remained on the reduction figure—the Republicans sticking to the $220,000,000 figure suggested by Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, chairman of the committee, and the Democrats, led by Senator Simmons, Democrat of North Carolina, demanding a $300,000,000, or at least the House figure of $290,000,000.

LAWRENCE'S BOOK ABOUT ARABIA WILL BE FILMED BY A BRITISH COMPANY.

London.—As the result of many months of negotiations, a British film company has obtained the rights to make a motion picture of the story of Lawrence of Arabia, based on Col. T. E. Lawrence's own book "Revolt in the Desert."

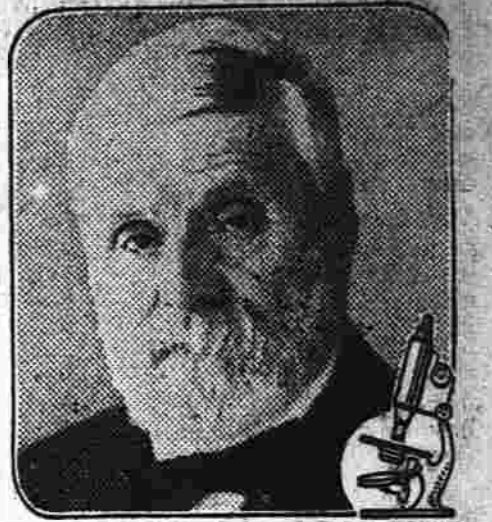

Lawrence gained world-wide fame through his part in the Arab revolution, and his books on the subject have enjoyed tremendous popularity.

It is understood that an American film company bid $150,000 for the film rights to "Revolt in the Desert," but that this offer was turned down in favor of one made by a new British film syndicate of which Collingswood Hughes, the author and lecturer, is the head. M. A. Wetherall, who has produced a number of British films, will handle the production of Lawrence's story. He has extensive knowledge of Africa and the East.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

J. B. Caldwell, M.D. AT AGE 83

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day in your home—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

PICKETT MOTOR SALES 22-24 Maple Street, South Manchester

New York, April 4.—Perhaps the most widely used name on Broadway is that of a person who doesn't exist.

Barrymores may come and go; so may Sothers and Marlowes and Cohans and Anglins and Favershams. But "George Spilvin" goes on forever. Yet George Spilvin never has been or never will be. For Spilvin, though his name has appeared on countless programs and play bills, is an entirely fictitious person.

George Spilvin was created in years ago to meet an emergency. This emergency has been faced on many an occasion since.

For, if you are at all acquainted with the theater, you must know that there are many plays in which one actor plays two roles. He may in the first act appear as Uncle Moe and in the third come on as the butler. Now there are many actors who don't want the audience to know this. And there are many managers and producers who feel the same way about it. So, one night, while making up the cast of characters of a play and assigning the roles, some vag created on the spur of the moment the name George Spilvin. From that day to this it has "stuck." Whenever anonymity in the show world is desired, a player automatically appears on the program as Spilvin. Just how often he has appeared no one seems to know. It is merely a traditional jest of the play-world that anyone can become Spilvin on a moment's notice.

But it has gone even further than this. Spilvin, after some years, became to the footlights what Paul Bunyan is to the logging camps. He is the mythical figure about whom gargantuan myths are created.

If a jinx appears in the course of a drama, it's sure to be the fault of George Spilvin. If some fabulous tale is recounted, it is pooh-poohed. Everyone knows that Spilvin achieved something more remarkable. When there's anyone to be blamed for anything, someone suggests that George Spilvin should be consulted. There are many number of old-timers ready to tell you tales of this remarkable fellow. There are even those "who remember him well."

The latest periodical to be sold on the streets of Manhattan is entitled "Divorce." It seems that where there are so many divorces there must be a little smudge of scandal. The foes of companionate marriage and such may say what they will of the marriage institution, the fact remains that the percentage of those who step into misalliance—at least in the major cities—is as great as those who play bridge well. Some enterprising young man concluded that, with so many married folk separating, there should be the foundation for a goodly circulation. Perhaps he went on the theory that Misery, if it doesn't like company, at any rate likes companionship.

I am told that a divorce newspaper was issued for a time in London, but took to printing such salacious extracts from the testimony that a law was passed forbidding the use of names and addresses.

Scandal sheets have long been a source of fear to the Broadway belt. A couple of years ago one of these practiced none-too-polite blackmail, holding out details of certain gossip heard around the night clubs for a consideration. Scores of prominent theatrical and society people paid tribute before the editor finally was given a prison term.

SMITH IN HARTFORD

Connecticut Democrats today have occasion to sit back and do some speculating on the subject of the Al Smith candidacy. With as good an issue as any local organization could have wished, in the matter of a second bridge across the Connecticut, Hartford's Democracy chose to make its municipal election fight on the slogan "A vote for Gaffey is a vote for Smith." And they were beaten in a contest which, without that slogan, they might have won.

If Hartford definitely refuses to register its preference for Smith as President of the United States, it would be interesting to know where the Democratic organization expects to get, throughout the state, enough Smith votes in November to make even a respectable showing, let alone coming within a thousand miles of carrying Connecticut.

The Democrats invited the test and in a remarkably heavy vote they got a result which ought to demonstrate that, against Al Smith, Connecticut is as safely Republican as Vermont. And the price they paid for the demonstration was the loss of a city election which, otherwise, they would have been more than likely to win.

Perhaps the experience may prove to be worth the price. Democratic delegates from this state will now go to Houston with the certain knowledge in the back of their heads that the name of Al Smith lacks the magic to carry to one city in the state where they had expected it would produce a handsome majority. And if Smith is a dead card in Hartford, what can be expected from or for him in the rest of Connecticut but a snowing-under?

OLD STUFF

Unless we are quite mistaken the testimony given before the Senate Oil committee yesterday by Birch Helms, New York banker and Texas oil operator, though heralded as a brand new feature of the investigation, is a repetition of testimony given either by Mr. Helms or someone else connected with his Texas Pacific Oil and Coal Company, before the same committee in the early months of the inquiry, several years ago. It is to the effect that at the time of the Teapot Dome lease Helms had protested to President Harding, Secretary of War John W. Weeks, Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty and Secretary of Commerce Hoover against the lease on the ground that the Helms company had sought to bid for the oil lands but had been given to understand by Fall, Secretary of Navy Denby and his assistant, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., that no lease was to be made.

This matter is entirely reminiscent and could probably all be found in the records of the committee. Its introduction at this time seems unaccountable except for some strained purpose to link Secretary Hoover's name with the scandal, even in the remotest way. However, the reply which Mr. Helms received from Mr. Hoover's assistant, C. A. Herter, referring to an understanding expressed by Helms that "Mr. Hoover had approved the Teapot Dome arrangement," says: "I wish to advise you that Mr. Hoover at no time had any knowledge that any arrangements were even pending in this connection."

Mr. Hoover's connection with the oil scandals is about as intimate as that of the man in the moon. The oil lands were utterly outside his province and he had no more responsibility for them or connection with them than the governor of Connecticut or the Manchester chief of police.

DEAD BEAT STATE

Of all controversies on subjects past, which have arisen or may arise between the governments of peoples of the United States and those of Britain there is just one in which America has never yet made anything even approaching to a satisfactory showing and is never likely to. When the Council of Foreign Bondholders, a British institution, begins to talk about the thirty-nine million dollars out of which the state of Mississippi cheated English bondholders, the only reply which emanates from this side of the water is a still, deep silence.

The bonds were sold in 1833, seven million dollars worth of them, and the principal as well as the accumulated interest of thirty-two millions has never been paid.

These bonds have nothing to do with the Confederate state bond issues put out during the Civil War and which, manifestly, were at the risk of the buyer. The Mississippi bonds in question were defaulted long before the Civil War. They were valid and so declared by the courts. But the sovereign state of Mississippi simply voted to repudiate them—and from that time to this the Britishers who loaned Mississippi their gold, or their heirs, have been whistling for it.

It may be that there is nothing in the world that the rest of the United States can do about this business, in order to clear its name of association with a dead beat member of the sisterhood; but so far as we can remember nobody has ever tried.

Every once in a while the English newspapers stick this skewer under our skin. And when they do we write, grit our teeth and change the subject. And we let it go at that.

TAKES BINGHAM'S ADVICE

Though pessimists concerning China continue to withhold the admission that anything but anarchy and continued warfare is to be expected in that country the United States State department has taken a step which will seem to many to be as helpful as it is independent.

It has concluded with the Nationalist government at Nanking a settlement of the involved situation growing out of the attack on Americans in that city a year ago. Washington has accepted the Nationalists' apologies and assurances of reparations and punishment of the offenders.

This is adequate recognition of the Nanking Nationalist government as a going and responsible organization, as distinct from Peking. It is also exactly in line with the recommendation of Senator Bingham of this state who, after a long and arduous tour of China last year, and as close an inquiry into the situation there as it was possible for an experienced traveler and statesman to make, urged that the United States government realize the necessity of dealing with not one but several Chinese governments because authority in China is no longer centralized but exerted by various groups in different zones.

MOVIE CHARITY

Many hard things are said about the movies, here, there and everywhere. But there is considerable question whether there is any other business in the world which gives away so much of its stock in trade as the associated film industry. The stock in trade of the movies, of course, is the privilege of showing pictures; film rentals constitute its income exactly the same as the consumer's purchase money provides the income of the automobile industry. Yet more than 22,000 motion pictures were supplied without charge by the Film Board of Trade last year to hospitals, asylums and other institutions to the number of about 1,000. And so far were these from being old, worn out and obsolete pictures that about 12,000 of them were shown currently with their exhibition in the theatres.

More than 170,000 persons, inmates of these institutions, saw motion pictures weekly, it is stated, through this free service of the Film Board.

Grant that the loaning of the films did not occasion any special deprivation to the movie people—that they were not competing with themselves by giving without charge what could not have been sold in any event—it is impossible that such a wholesale distribution of free films does not impose a quite serious charge on the facilities of the distributors, to say nothing of wear and tear on films that represent direct outlay.

On the whole, it seems like a rather magnificent sort of charity, conducted with such a becoming modesty that very few people, relatively, know anything about it. Evidently there is something more to the movie world than blatant commercialism, bad taste and divorce.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

 The number of savings depositors in Connecticut increased 638,450 in 1912 to 1,458,857 in 1927, and the total amount of savings deposits from $294,567,000 to $795,605,000. The number of depositors increased 128% in the 15 years and the amount of deposits, 170 per cent.

Massachusetts is the only New England state that has more savings deposits and depositors than Connecticut. The deposits amounted to $2,439,613,000 for Massachusetts on June 30, 1927, and the depositors numbered 4,079,672. New England's total savings deposits amounted to $4,291,506,000 and total depositors numbered 7,370,143.

The total savings deposits in the United States increased from $8,404,373,000 in 1912 to $26,090,302,000 on June 30, 1927. The total number of depositors in 1912 were 12,605,260, and in 1927, 48,354,784. The total deposits increased 210 per cent in the fifteen years and the depositors 282 per cent.

A study of the relation of the number of savings depositors in Connecticut to the population—overlooking the fact that there is some duplication in savings accounts since occasionally one person may have several accounts—shows that 89 persons out of every 100 had a savings account on July 1, 1927. Fifteen years ago approximately 57 out of every 100 had a savings account. Forty-one out of every 100 persons in the United States had a savings account in 1927 and 14 out of every 100 in 1912.

Mutual savings banks last year held $567,469,000 credited to Connecticut depositors. Trust companies were depositors for $132,856,000; private banks for $6,141,000 and national banks for $89,139,000.

thing or other at Gibraltar. Such snatterings of the case as come drifting over the cables would indicate that whatever breaches of discipline these officers may have been guilty of were the consequence of their admirals becoming jettied, plastered, ossified, blotto, sozzled and otherwise intoxicated and drunk. If the case turns out otherwise we are prepared to apologize to the roaring admiral. But, from his being an admiral, we feel that we are running no great risk in making the guess.

The Justice Department maintains an espionage system which has in past times led to abuses and has other drastic powers used in recent years.

The Postoffice Department can censor contents of mail and labels on envelopes, which it does. The Commerce Department took over control of radio and aviation.

The other departments have important and far-reaching regulatory or semi-regulatory powers. It's not that any of the departments have necessarily usurped authority, but executive power and its patronage system have grown with the nation, which constantly presented new opportunities or demands for its use.

EASTER'S DATE

It took the western Christians about seventeen centuries to become quite fully agreed as to the date for the celebration of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the eastern Christian church does not celebrate the same day as we do, even now.

The figuring of the date, so as to bring it always on a Sunday, as insisted on by the early western church and adhered to throughout the centuries, and to still have that Sunday bear its proper relation to the paschal moon, is a bit of an astronomical and mathematical stunt. Since 1752, however, Easter has been observed on the first Sunday after the first full moon following the vernal equinox. And from all appearances it is likely to continue to be so observed.

In time of war this government becomes a virtual dictatorship. As John Quincy Adams told the House of Congress and the executive, "two classes of power, altogether different in their nature and often incompatible with each other—the war power and the peace power. . . . The war power is limited only by the laws and usages of nations. This power is tremendous; it is strictly constitutional, but it breaks down every barrier so anxiously erected for the protection of liberty, property and life. The executive war power becomes transcendent; Congress realizes that it can't make quick and secret decisions.

Lincoln, seizing the war power, had to fight the supreme court and later, Congress. His most far-reaching exercise of power was his Proclamation of Emancipation, admittedly a war measure. When he attempted to reorganize the states of the Confederacy, he had to fight Congress, which accused him of usurpation. He might have won had he lived, but Congress took it out on Johnson, who nearly lost his job. Just as big men like Borah, Reed, Lodge and Johnson blocked Wilson's attempt to enter in the League of Nations, so big men of the sixties like Senators Thaddeus Stephens and W. P. Fessenden fought Lincoln and licked Johnson.

Just as Wilson lost when the issue between the two branches went to the people in 1918 and 1920, so Johnson lost in the congressional elections of 1866.

Obviously, the post-war liquidation of the executive war power causes trouble, but some of the acquired prestige and power of the presidency is bound to adhere to the White House.

When the federal system first started there were four cabinet posts—State, War, Treasury and Justice. Those since added are Navy, Postoffice, Labor, Agriculture, Commerce and Interior. All these are operated by the president's appointees and responsible to him. Thus, their policies are his policies. There is no control of the executive branch except as may be exerted by a Congress sufficiently hostile. Sometimes Congress has been able to render the executive almost impotent, but not often. Sometimes he has ruled Congress. The present Congress has failed to follow President Coolidge's legislative desires, but has not been antagonistic toward him. It makes no real attempt to limit the executive power.

The State Department may control private loans abroad, upset weak foreign governments in this hemisphere, refuse entry to foreigners whose views it doesn't like and cause intervention in Caribbean republics.

The Navy Department can send marines to shoot and bomb Nicaraguans, Haitians, Chinese and others without consent of Congress and can establish censorship as it did in Nicaragua.

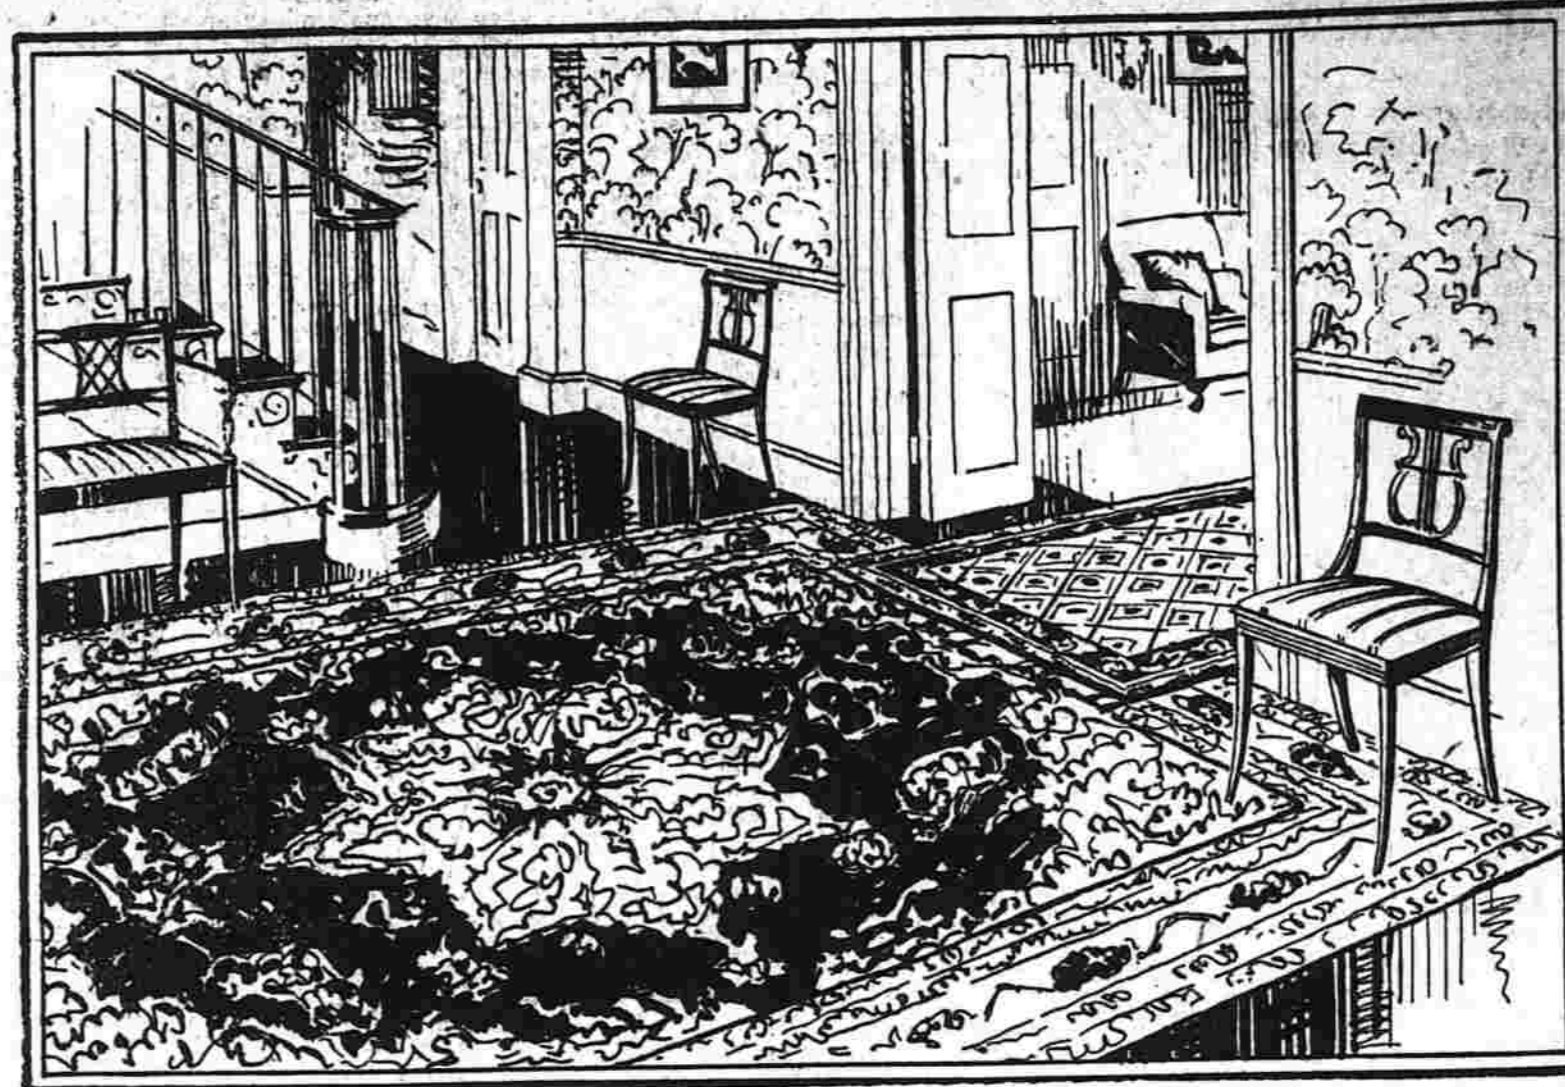

The Treasury Department handles hundreds of millions in tax refunds with secrecy, delves into our private affairs by demanding income tax returns, regulates public morals through its prohibition and customs services and partially supervises health through the Public Health Service.

THE PATSY" FEATURE AT STATE TOMORROW

Marion Davies Stars in Leap Year Picture—Double Feature Bill Today.

The State theater will present on Thursday and Friday one of the funniest comedies of domestic life ever seen on the moving picture screen, "The Patsy," starring Marion Davies. "The Patsy" is pictured from the famous play of the same name by Barry Connors and which ran for a whole season in the Booth theater of New York City.

The story is replete with natural comedy directed by Kink Vidor with the same originality as he used in handling the gum-chewing and tobacco-spitting episodes of his great epic, "The Big Parade." "The Patsy" opens with a comic introduction of Patricia Harrington, "The Patsy" of the Harrington family.

Pat, despite her troubles, and they are many, persists in seeing humor in everything. No matter whether she is treading on the feet of the man she loves while dancing with him, knocking him over with an oar while helping him into a rowboat, or quoting half-baked epigrams stolen from a book on "personality," she laughs and everyone who sees the picture laughs with her.

Having to look funny while a three-foot talk of celery dropped into her dress, was one of the comic situations forced on Marie Dressler who plays Pat Harrington. Another one was to have to stand still for thirty minutes while her husband (for screen purposes only) powdered her back. Jane Winton had to look funny while Marion Davies shaved her legs for her (and accidentally cut her a couple of times.) On the same bill will be seen Patsy Ruth Miller in "Once and Forever."

Features at the State today are "Under the Black Eagle," starring Ralph Forbes, Marceline Day and Flash the wonder dog, and "Stage Kisses" with Kenneth Harlan and Helene Chadwick. Manager Jack Sanson announces a complete change of program for Saturday with a double feature bill and five big vaudeville acts.

ADDISON

The married members of Hills-town Grange are busy preparing a program for the evening of April 12. They are making a big effort to beat the program given by the single members on March 22. The State Flora, Mrs. Wethersfield was present and spoke of a paper, prepared and read by Miss Mary Hart the secretary of Hills-town Grange, as a model of literary work. The subject was "Why I joined the Grange, and what the Grange means to me."

Two young ladies in costume gave a Spanish dance and Mother Nature in the person of Miss Ella Scranton waving her wand summoned the four seasons, spring, summer, autumn and winter to show a city youth that there were many things of interest in the country and he was convinced of the truth of the many pleasures in country life.

That portion of Bell street from the home of Earl Mitchell to the Manchester line is being improved. The road has been very bad this winter and hardly passable so the road is first scraped out and stone from nearby stone walls are brought and reduced with sledges. Gravel will be brought for the road surface so next season the R. D. carrier will be saved a lot of trouble from the mud.

The reporter had an interview yesterday with State Forester A. F. Hawes about the fire permit ruling for the month of April. The fire warden of Connecticut may give permits on rainy or damp days when fire will not run and permits will be given to responsible parties on quiet pleasant days when a force of ten men or more, as necessary, will have the fire under control.

ANOTHER CHICAGO BOMB

Chicago, April 4—Explosion of a powerful bomb terrorized the Auburn Park highlands district early today. Residents nearby were awakened by the thunderous detonation and a simultaneous crashing of window panes. The bomb was set off in a vacant storeroom next door to a shoe repair shop. Investigators blamed labor troubles, stating there was no evidence to connect the blast with the current political conflict.

RANGERS, THE FAVORITES

WAPPING

The new Wood Memorial Library was formally opened to the public at South Windsor last Saturday afternoon. The dedication exercises were held in the upper room of the library with a large number of people in attendance. Robert A. Boardman presided and gave a brief description of the building and the work taken in the designing and building of the structure, resulting in the beautiful two story library in which is included reading rooms, a community room and rooms on the second floor for exhibition purposes. Judge Ralph M. Grant of East Windsor Hill gave an account of William R. Wood's parents in whose memory the library was erected. Dr. William Wood's wife was a great favorite among the children whom she loved to be with, and for whom the people of this community had great respect. In memory of these two people, William Wood of East Windsor Hill has donated this beautiful edifice to the town to be held in trust, with sufficient funds to care for its maintenance for many years. The deed was presented to Robert A. Boardman by Mr. Grant. When called on by Mr. Boardman for a few words, Mr. Wood responded by saying: "If it hadn't been for Mr. Boardman this library would never have been built. I think that he deserves some of the credit." Both were applauded enthusiastically.

Professor A. J. W. Myers, of the Hartford School of Religious Education was introduced by the toastmaster and gave a very interesting address concerning the growth of the library idea since its inception 3,000 years ago among the Chinese. Professor Myers touched on the many stimulating effects of the library, and what it has done for all people. He also spoke of the necessity of constantly adding new books to the library and of the librarian's duty of offering the children the right kind of books. In the main library room there are two excellent paintings of Dr. William Wood and his wife, Mary Ellsworth Wood, painted by Albertus E. Jones of this town. In the library never there were many beautiful bouquets of flowers. The library will be open every Monday and Thursday afternoons from 2:30 to 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Korglebel all of Hartford, spent the day last Sunday at the home of their sister, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Frink. John Przytula of Pleasant Valley moved his family to South Windsor on this week Tuesday.

The Sunday school board will hold their regular monthly meeting at the church next Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Miss Cahoon of Hartford will be the speaker, and it is earnestly hoped that all the officers and teachers and every one interested in the school will make an extra effort to be present.

REAR ADMIRAL PLUNKETT.

Editor, The Herald.
It has been the intention of the writer that the "Bow-Bow" bit of editorial comment under date of March 30 wherein the belittlement of Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett's war record was set forth in no praiseworthy terms should not go unnoticed. That article is responsible for the following reaction on the part of the writer who feels that it would be neither unpertinent nor impertinent to inquire into what grounds the disrespect for the Admiral's war record was warranted.

Granted! There are those who have been reading what the retired Admiral lately had to say, but this protest goes forth in defense of his estimable World War record irrespective of any pros or cons toward his peace-time views and public utterances. Most assuredly, there are five hundred veterans, more or less, of the U. S. Navy, Railway Batteries, scattered about the country, who would have shown the proper resentment over the remarks as set before the public eye. These are the men who served under "Cy" Plunkett, manning his fourteen inch, fifty calibre mounts in actual combat, thereby fulfilling the Admiral's earlier dreams of their possibility, their practicability and their actual participation in the conflict. At least one of those men has read the article and is taking it upon himself to speak in behalf of the rest.

Presumably, there were no great number who, having read the article, were greatly concerned over what the Admiral had been doing during the war except as his record may or may not have been, consciously or not, lent prestige to his person, and if no great portion of the populace was eager to accept the contents of the editorial as a basis for moulding its opinion of the Admiral as a warrior, it is, indeed, fortunate. Moreover, there were probably not a half dozen readers who felt prompted to either substantiate or refute a few glib remarks for—the war is over. Well! And good!

From all appearances it would seem that The Herald is not willing to grant the retired Admiral that prestige which he has fairly earned and to which he is justly entitled. For what good reason The Herald's attitude was taken is unknown but, in all likelihood, it had none. It can only be surmised that it was from want of knowledge of the subject or that, in the heat of the editor's flare-up over the Admiral's recent discussion at Middletown, a true perspective of the Admiral's war record was temporarily lost sight of.

Be that as it may, the fact remains that the retired Admiral has a World War record which should command far greater respect than was couched in The Herald's complimentary terms. That his record has not been heralded throughout the length and breadth of the land, is true. There always was, during the war, for some reason or other, an air of secrecy about the U. S. Naval Railway Batteries of which there were three practices the able command of Rear Admiral Plunkett, both before and during active service, and the batteries have never, to the writer's knowledge, been given any great publicity. However, this is no admission of impotency of the outfit, nor an admission of the lack of those fighting characteristics in their commanding officer, such characteristics which the editor summons forth but can not find.

Kindly accept the writer's sincere assertions that after the two or three practice shells were unloosed to the entire satisfaction of all authorities concerned, the batteries proceeded to become an active factory in enemy combat; that they were not so far behind the front lines that they did not receive projectiles of steel and high explosive which the batteries were hurling through space and were dropping with uncanny accuracy on such points of vantage as enemy supply depots, railroad junctions, ammunition dumps, etc., creating such terrific destruction, confusion, and general havoc as only a war could, in any sense, justify; nor were they so far back that it did not require almost constant vigilance and effort on the part of anti-aircraft guns to keep enemy planes at respectable angles and distances where they might be trusted; nor had the armistice been signed before these guns had nearly reached their maximum life whereupon reloading would have been necessary for their further participation.

As for the Admiral's part in his connection with the batteries, The Herald may rest assured that his record was one of initiative, aggressiveness and achievement from the day he found out that naval railway mounts were contemplated and was appointed to their command at his own request, to the day of the armistice. Had the war continued he would have taken in hand an even more formidable array of batteries which were already under way and he would have seen to it personally that they reached Berlin. He was that type. His contact with his men in the field was close and he was admired and respected by all who served under him.

He had undertaken a big job which no one else wanted thereby preserving the privilege of operating the batteries to the credit of the U. S. A. for, he it is known, it was at first contemplated to turn them over to the British or French ar-illery. He had coped with various difficult problems in material, personnel, and transportation and had surmounted many obstacles. He had seen the project through to his credit. His outfit had made active entrance into the conflict and had carried on to his satisfaction. True! The length of actual participation in enemy combat was comparatively short. True! The Admiral was no Infantryman. But his service record is not to be taken lightly nor to be scoffed at.

Oh, yes! The Admiral "had been called on to be a fighting man" and he had "made good." His record stands, one such as well befits an officer of his rank and one which fully warrants a far more respectful attitude than that which The Herald has portrayed.

In conclusion, may I venture to state that Mr. Thomas "mildly inquired in what war the roaring Admiral himself ever saw an enemy or heard a gun fire in anger," the roaring Admiral need not have been at a loss for words to answer him.

Your truly, CHARLES H. NORRIS, South Manchester, Conn. April 3, 1923.

YOUNG BOY CHARGED WITH SABOTAGE ACT

Said to Have Broken Into Leather Shop, Thrust Bolts Into Electric Motors.

What appears to have been a deliberate attempt at sabotage committed by a boy who may be too young for trial in any but a juvenile court, was discovered at the Lynn Leather Co., manufacturers of leather specialties, rear of 52 Main street, of which Charles Jacobson is manager.

The machinery of the plant is run by a series of ten overhead electric motors. Most of them are of the closed-flange type but in several the flanges are of the cut-out pattern. On Monday three of these latter motors refused to start. Investigation developed that over the week-end somebody had thrust several large iron bolts into each motor through the openings in the flange. Fortunately the bolts were so large that they prevented the armatures from turning at all; had smaller bolts been used, and there were plenty of them at hand in the plant, all the plugged motors would undoubtedly have been burned out.

The affair was reported to the police and later Officer Wittlira arrested the boy in the case, a former employe of the leather company. It is charged that he broke into the place, probably sometime on Sunday, accompanied by a young girl, entering by way of the cellar, and went to considerable trouble in climbing over the motors and inserting the bolts.

The boy was presented in police court this morning but insisted that he was only 14 years old. He looks about 16 and some acquaintances say he is 16. An offense under 16 must be presented to a juvenile court he was placed in the custody of Probation Officer Edward C. Elliott, Jr., who has the job of finding out his real age. The boy's mother is said to be in New York.

YALE GLEE CLUB MEN PLAN CONCERT TOUR OF CENTRAL EUROPE

New Haven, Conn.—While students of United States colleges are in Europe, next summer, striving to conquer the world-at-large in athletic sports, another college group will be there trying to win Europe over to the idea of United States music, even to the extent of forming an International Intercollegiate League of Glee Clubs. Fifty members of the Yale Glee Club are crossing in the early summer to tour central Europe in a series of typical Glee Club concerts with the idea of tying up Europe and the United States college-music-wise.

Headed by Laurence P. Ross, of Scarsdale, New York, the Yale club is to leave New York on June 23; or two days after Commencement here, on a Swedish-American liner, Marshall Bartholomew, of New York, director of the club, a Yale graduate and prominent composer, will guide the band. Every individual of the fifty making up the Glee Club this year has pledged himself to the journey.

Concerts will be given in Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Czechoslovakia, France and England. Beside the typical American college airs the students will carry to Europe for concert use a series of Negro spirituals, and Southern folk-songs.

Newark, N. J., April 4.—Judgment for $8,000,000, the largest verdict given an individual by any Federal Court Jury, has been entered against Mrs. Nanaline H. Duke, William R. Perkins and George C. Allen as executors of the estate of James D. Duke, deceased tobacco magnate. The award was the result of the Sherman Anti-Trust suit brought by George D. Haskell, of Boston, president of the Bush Manufacturing Tool Co. of Springfield, Mass. Federal Judge William N. Runyon signed the judgment order yesterday, which directs that a levy be made on the goods and chattels owned by the deceased capitalist at the time of his death, now in the hands of his executors, including his widow, in the sum of $8,000,000 besides taxed cost of litigation.

The order was presented by Arthur F. Egner of McCarter & English, attorney for plaintiff. Shelton Pitney, of Pitney, Hardin & Skinner, appeared for defense.

At the time, Judge Runyon refused to set aside the jury verdict and grant defense a new trial. It was stated by defense counsel, George W. Schurman, of New York, that the case would be carried on appeal to the United States Circuit Court.

BASKETBALL GETS ON A PAYING BASIS

For First Time in Years Teams Here Make Profit This Season.

For the first time in many years, basketball has been a financial success in Manchester this season. All three local teams, the High school, Recreation Center and Community Club, have netted quite a bit of cash during the fast-ebbing season.

Schoolboy games always draw best and their expense is by far the lightest. Consequently, the school team has made more money than either of the others. The exact amount has not been made public, but the figure must run close to a thousand dollars.

Next to the High school in the way of profit comes the Recreation Center. This team has cleared a little over $300 before the town series got under way. The two series games netted them about the same, so that the Recreation Center stands to profit to the extent of at least $600. The Community Club's share of the series receipts will be about $200 and this will put them quite a bit ahead of the game financially although they were just about breaking even before the series, not to mention paying for new uniforms.

All this means a most successful basketball season in years. During the past several years, teams which have played here, have not made enough to buy a milkshake, so to speak, and often the loss has been so high that the teams have had to disband. The revival of the sport makes next season something which the fans are already looking forward to.

BRISTOL BEST SO FAR AMONG EASTERN TEAMS

Chicago, April 4.—Eight more first round games and four second round contests are to be played today in the University of Chicago's national interscholastic basketball tournament, in progress at the Midway gymnasium.

An impartial review of the twelve opening first round games, played yesterday, would indicate that the brand of basketball played by western teams was slightly superior to that of the eastern quintets.

Of seven east-versus-west contests decided yesterday, in only one did an eastern team come through to victory. That was the Bristol, Conn., five, which triumphed over Miami, Arizona, 26 to 21.

One second round game to be played tonight brings together Bristol, Conn., and Pine Bluff, Ark. The "Travelers" earned the right to play Bristol by beating Berlin, N. H., 37 to 10, in their first round game.

In the first round Cour D'Alene, Idaho, defeated Rutland, Vt., 24 to 7.

Among the games today are: South Portland, Me., vs. Mizis, Miss.

Ashland, Ky., vs. Naugatuck, Conn.

Oak Park, Ill., vs. Everett, Mass.

Pine Bluff, Ark., vs. Bristol, Conn.

HEBRON

News of the fatal accident at Amston on Monday brought many of the townspeople to the scene of the occurrence. Briefly told the facts are as follows. Joseph Verfeulle, of Willimantic, aged 66, had just alighted from a truck driven by his nephew, Morris Roy, to cross the street from the Amston grain mill to the opposite side, when a car driven by Edward Newhall, of Dalton, Mass., approached the point from Colchester. Mr. Verfeulle, who was more than half-way across the street, became confused, turned and started to go back to the grain mill when he was struck and carried along about 120 feet by the car. He sustained a scalp wound. His left chest was crushed in and there was a wound over the left eye. Death occurred instantaneously, or practically so.

Medical examiner C. E. Pendleton, M.D., of Colchester was summoned and took charge. The body was taken to the man's home in Willimantic. Traffic officers were called and a preliminary hearing took place at the office of the grain mill.

The driver of the car was put under bonds of $2,000, which were furnished by Dr. A. L. Stebbins of Colchester. The owner of the car, who was with the party, was Robert F. Foransen, of Succasunna, N. J., and Lucius Stebbins of Colchester occupied the back seat. The young men were students at Colby College, Maine, and were spending a few days in Colchester as guests of Mr. Stebbins. A hearing will be held at the town hall, Hebron, April 20, before Justice C. B. Jones. The young man claimed that they were not exceeding a rate of speed of 20 miles when they struck the man. The car was a Cadillac coach. So far as can be ascertained this is the first fatal automobile accident to occur in the town of Hebron.

A rehearsal of the Easter music for the Sunday school of St. Peter's church was held at the home of Miss Clarissa Pendleton, Monday evening. About twenty of the children were present, and the rector, the Rev. T. D. Martin played and led the singing of Easter carols.

Book marks were given at the last Sabbath services of the Seventh Day Adventists in Hopewale, in honor of those having the best records of attendance at the Sabbath school. Miss Hazel Broome had a perfect record of attendance for the past 10 years, and Paul Coates ranked next with a perfect 10 years record. There is but one record in the Southern New England Conference, to which this society belongs, which exceeds these, that of one woman living in Providence, R. I., who has a record of 14 years perfect attendance at Sabbath school.

MURDERED TEACHER IS BURIED TODAY

Concord, Mass., April 4.—Burial of Miss Marguerite Isabel Stewart, slain teacher-supervisor of the School for Deaf Mutes in Beverly, came today in Sleepy Hollow cemetery here, only a short distance from the spot where her body was discovered.

Only her father, two brothers, and the little daughter of the slain teacher, Jeannette, were the mourners. A clergyman, friend of Solomon Wallace Stewart, a brother, agreed to officiate.

In the search for the murderer, investigators met with little success. Trails of two men, believed to have been friendly with the slain survivor, lead to dead ends.

A safety deposit box, in a Beverly bank, disclosed six insurance policies, three receipted bills, and a brief will of Miss Stewart. Police refused to divulge the contents of the will.

FIRST OF DAVIS CUP MATCHES TO START TOMORROW IN MEXICO

American Team Has a Hard Road to Travel This Year Before They Reach the Finals.

By DAVID J. WALSH New York, April 4.—Just one of the masses now designated from right to left by those who are rich and those who only hope to be—American lawn tennis is about to begin the tedious back-trail over the trail that all but champions must travel.

However, the event is only a foothold of the long upward climb before them. If they take it in stride, they then can look forward to Kansas City, which I understand is one of the things you do to that town.

Chicago Next That being the case, they will be asked to appear next at Chicago on June 1, 2 and 3.

The Aces to Practice The Aces baseball team at a meeting last night decided to hold its benefit dance at the City View Dance Hall on Keeney street but the date was not definitely settled.

Local Sport Chatter

The army game reminded one of the games here a few years back between Connecticut Aggies and Holy Cross and Massachusetts Aggies.

The game was started on time for a change. When the teams went to their dressing rooms, Hurley, the chap who made us all wait half an hour last week, was still among the missing, but he came in shortly and the crowd did not know the difference.

The total amount of profit realized by the two teams will be about $500. Of this amount, the Recreation Center will get sixty per cent, or $300 and the Community Club, forty per cent, or $200.

When The Herald first started agitating a town basketball series through its sport page columns, many expressed the opinion that such a game was not in demand and that it would not be heavily patronized.

There is no question but what the army is better suited for a basketball game considering both the players and the crowd. About three times as many persons can be seated for a game at the armory as at the Rec.

George Kelley, who many figured was not as good as Bobby Jones showed that he was the proper decision. Again, Kelley held Faulkner out in allowing him only one field goal and playing a nice defensive game.

Galagher played a hard game but missed many shots. His floor-work was good. It seemed that nearly every time there was a jump ball or an out of bound play in the second half, that Galagher got hold of the ball.

Conquers Community Club After Hot Battle

HOLLAND'S SIDE-COURT SHOT ERASES COMMUNITY'S LEAD IN LAST THREE MINUTES OF PLAY

Nearly Thousand Fans Watch Ultra-Exciting Contest at Armory; Rec's 22-13 Lead Changed to 24-22 Community Advantage By Brilliant Second Half Rally; Madden, Bissell Star For Winners, Stavinsky and Hurley For Losers.

Although its margin of victory was far from as decisive and impressive as had been expected by fans in general, the Recreation Center basketball aggregation turned back the Community Club team last night at the State Armory for the second consecutive time to win the much coveted town championship leaving the north end still titleless.

It was a great battle that sizzled with action from start to finish and the team with the better "final punch" won. Trailing 23 to 12 with ten minutes to play, the Community staged a great rally that netted it a dozen points and a 24-22 lead.

The outcome of the game was a distinct surprise to a great portion of the crowd. Many, including the writer, had figured the Rec's better teamwork would pilot the south to at least a ten or fifteen point victory at the Armory but such was not the case.

The game drew the largest basketball crowd of the season with the possible exception of one or two high school games. The official attendance was at first refused for publication but it was learned immediately afterwards that the highest numbered ticket received at the main entrance door was marked "779."

Perhaps it is fair to point that the Rec Five won, even though many of the fans wanted to see the series go three games. There would have been many persons who would have sworn up and down that the Rec "threw" the game if the Community had won.

Personal fouls had a lot to do with deciding last night's game. The Community made twice as many personal fouls as the Rec, ten to five.

at this point the Rec came to life and took a one point lead on baskets by Tommy Faulkner and Captain Madden.

Excitement Galore. However, with ten minutes to play, the Community made a comeback which will be long remembered by both north and south end fans.

North Takes Lead. Six minutes were left to play and the crowd was frantic with excitement.

ENJOYABLE PROGRAM

AT W. B. A. AFFAIR

Green Community Club Members Provide Entertainment; Supper is Served.

Mystic Review, Woman's Benefit association, and the W. B. A. Guard club provided a thoroughly enjoyable evening for all who attended. Odd Fellows had last night. Long tables were set in the banquet hall and they presented an attractive appearance, with their decorations of potted tulips in several different colors and baby rambler rose bushes. These were later auctioned off by W. H. Cowles. Rose napkin rings made by the committee in charge, salad bowls of hollowed cabbages and a plentiful supply of good things to eat made the tables inviting. Guests were present from Laurel Review of Rockville and still others from Hartford.

Mrs. Pauline Barrett of the Ladies Shop was the winner of the beautiful crystal tree, made and donated by Mrs. Ruth Waddell. The entertainment was provided by the Manchester Green Community club. Cartoons were cleverly drawn on a blackboard by Louis Mohr. Mrs. Frank Rieg in costume delighted with her readings in negro dialect and W. H. Cowles and Miss Helen Griffin kept the audience in an uproar for half an hour with a running fire of jokes, many of them on members of the W. B. A. and other local people. They were blacked up and appeared in grotesque disguise. In response to continued applause, Mr. Chappell gave a con song and Mr. Cowles a recitation.

Another amusing number on the program was a one-act play, "Elizabeth's Young Man." Mrs. Elwood Walker supplied the leading part. Miss Helen Griffin supplied for Mrs. Charles Howard who was ill. Miss Irene Griffin was Elizabeth and John Gamba her young man.

NIGHT DEPOSITORY TO

START IN A FEW DAYS

Mechanism Installed and Only Money Sacks and Keys Awaited.

The night depository system at the Manchester Trust Company will be put into operation within a few days. Workmen have finished installing the circular door, chute and vault which go to make up the depository.

Bank officials are waiting for the canvass money pouches and keys. They are expected very shortly as soon as they arrive the depository will be put into use. Bank patrons may obtain the money bags and keys at the bank. The keys to open the "door" to the vault. When the key is inserted and turned, the small knob in the center automatically springs out a couple of inches. The patron then takes hold of the knob and pulls out the receiver which leads to the chute. The sack is dropped in this and pushed back in. This allows the sack to slide down into the vault.

REMODELS LAUNDRY

TO GET RID OF HOODOO

Nobody Wanted Place Where Tong Murder Was Done, So Change is Made.

Workmen are engaged digging a cellar under the old Chinese laundry on Oak street preparatory to remodeling the building which is owned by Pasquale Vendrillo, well known Manchester barber.

The laundry shop has been idle ever since the Tong war murder. Ong Jing Heen, cousin of Sam Ong, proprietor of the place, a year ago on the twenty-fourth of this month. Efforts by the landlord to rent the place have been unavailing.

It was thought for a time that some other Chinese might start in the laundry business there, but none has offered to do so. Vendrillo figured that the only thing to do is to remodel the place.

GIVE GAME'S RECEIPTS

TO COPS FOR SAFETY

After reading about the man who stole a cow in a Red speed wagon up Highland park way and the young fellows who took two five-ton trucks without permission, officials in charge of the gate receipts at last night's town championship basketball game at the State Armory decided to take no chances.

No sooner had the tickets been checked-up, the money counted and the various items of expense accounted for, than did Director Jerry Fay of the Community Club motor up to police headquarters and get police Captain Herman O. Schendel to put the purses in the safe. About $350 was in the sack.

FEAST OF PASSOVER

BEGINS AT SUNDOWN

Hebrews in Manchester along with those all over the world will start tonight in their observance of the Feast of the Passover, which will last for eight days. The observance begins at sunset today.

The Feast of the Passover is one of the oldest Jewish festivals, commemorating the sparing of the Hebrews in Egypt when a visitation killed the firstborn of all the Egyptians. Services are to be held during the festival in the K. of C. hall.

BELIEVE LOST DEPOSIT

PICKED UP NEAR BANK

Finder Has Not Made Himself Known But Runs a Risk of Discovery.

Whoever found the $522 bank deposit lost on Monday by Mrs. Thomas D. Smith while on her way to the Manchester Trust Company apparently intends to take the risk involved in keeping it, in spite of the fact that one of the bills is identifiable. Up to noon today the finder had not communicated with Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

The range of possibilities as to the spot where the billfold containing the deposit was dropped has apparently narrowed, however, to the immediate vicinity of the bank. An official of Cheney Bros. called up Mrs. Smith last night, after reading the story of her loss in The Herald, and told her that the day before, as he was driving past the bank he noticed, lying in the roadway, something which he later realized was probably the missing wallet. At the time, however, he was in a hurry and did not stop to investigate.

This would indicate that Mrs. Smith dropped the packet at the moment of getting out of the automobile in which she drove to the bank. It may also narrow the investigations as to what persons, if the vicinity at the time, had an opportunity to pick up the billfold and make off with it.
