STATE REPUBLICANS CHOOSE DELEGATES

Envoys to National Convention and Their Alternates Are Picked—Ask For Return of Senator McLean.

Hartford, Conn., April 18.—Connecticut's delegation to the Republican national convention at Kansas City was chosen here today, with an alternate for each delegate, and with both delegates and alternates being given the power to choose their own successors if needed.

Delegates at large are: J. Henry Roraback, of Hartford; United States Senator Hiram Bingham, of New Haven; Governor John H. Trumbull, of Plainville; Miss Katherine Byrne, of Putnam; Judge James F. Walsh, of Greenfield; Ernest E. Rogers, of New London; Mrs. John B. Russ, of Shelton.

Alternates to the delegates at large are: Mrs. Henry Hubbard, of Lyme; Mrs. Russell Lee Jones, of Hartford; Col. Charles H. Allen, of Rockville; William G. Park, of Hanover; John H. Hill, of Shelton; Raymond P. Mackenzie, of Bethel; and Harry E. Mackenzie, of Bethel.

District delegates and alternates were named as follows:

First District—Delegates: Walter E. Patterson, of Hartford; and Samuel R. Spencer, of Suffield. Alternates: Edwin S. Reynolds, of Middletown; and George H. Bradford, of Montville.

Second District—Delegates: Charles A. Gates, of Willimantic; and R. Leland Keeney, of Somers. Alternates: Wilson S. Reynolds, of Middletown; and George H. Bradford, of Montville.

Third District—Delegates: J. Edward Brainard, of Branford; and C. W. B. Baker, of Meriden. Alternates: F. Lynch, of Orange.

Fourth District—Delegates: Arthur Conroy, of Stamford; and Mrs. Julian M. Kie. Alternates: Frederick M. Salmon, of Westport; and Mrs. Annie C. Candee, of Norwalk.

Fifth District—Delegates: Frederic C. Walcott, of Norwalk; and Edward W.

SEN. BINGHAM BACKS POLICY IN NICARAGUA

Devotes Third of Keynote Speech to Defense of the Administration's Action in Foreign Lands.

Hartford, Conn., April 18.—Senator Hiram Bingham devoted more than a third of his "key-note" speech before the Republican state convention here to a defense of the administration's foreign policies, particularly the invasion of Nicaragua. The Senator from Connecticut started his speech with that phase of the national situation, and stressed its importance and the necessity of the people of the country standing behind the president in his policy.

Senator Bingham's speech next treated the achievements of the administration in respect to aviation and finance and finally described "the present state of representative government." He defended the action of the administration in all respects by telling his audience:

"Choose representatives who are worthy of your confidence. Then give them a free hand. Trust their judgment until they give you some evidence of failure."

His suggestions

Without mentioning any of the questions now at issue Senator Bingham suggested:

"Some people constantly forget that you cannot make a man honest by legislation. It is not law, nor the constitution which moulds and controls our civilization. When laws go beyond the spirit of the people it lacks that support which alone makes it certain of obedience."

Senator Bingham's audience received the declaration apparently with the idea they believed he was referring to the recent constitutional amendments.

Senator Bingham also touched upon "toleration." He said:

"The glory of America today is her toleration. There is still room for improvement. Some of our nation must be afraid of the word of liberty and toleration. Let them have no fear."

"The state must not interfere with my home, my church, my school. How I fit myself to be a good citizen is my affair."

Church and State

Senator Bingham declared, "Thank God we have separated church and state. A man is no longer held to commit a crime because he does not worship as I do, nor is he a traitor because his church is not my church."

"We must guard against bigotry, intolerance and standardization in human affairs. We demand for each person the right to mind his own business in his own way so long as he does not interfere with his neighbor doing the same thing."

The Senator made a plea for high tariff, declaring Connecticut suffered every time the tariff was lowered.

Of the various discoveries of "corruption in high places" Senator Bingham declared President Coolidge had done his duty, getting rid of the same thing."

WILL SUGGEST 12 ROOM SCHOOL ADDITION IN 8TH

Dr. Le Verne Holmes, District Health Officer, Believes Conditions Warrant Larger Building.

Despite recommendations for four new schoolrooms in the Hollister street building made last October by Supt. A. F. Howes of the Eighth School district and the increase of this program to six rooms, Dr. LeVerne Holmes, supervisor of health in the first seven school districts of Manchester will ask for a 12-room addition at the special school meeting which is to be held on Friday evening in the assembly hall of the Robertson school on North School street.

Dr. Holmes bases his request on the conditions in the three schools on North School street and the present overcrowding of rooms there. He maintains that the conditions are unhealthy, so much so as to work against the best efforts of the teachers. One room in the old Union school now contains 64 seventh grade pupils, which Dr. Holmes says is too many.

Future Needs

He has figured out that the six-room addition, when and if it is completed, will be filled up immediately, and that the district will have no further room for the expansion he believes is inevitable. The growth of the district, which is now mainly in the southeastern section, will increase at a faster rate now with the development of new subdivisions in that part.

Officers of the district who were interviewed on the proposed addition, said that the survey of conditions as submitted by Supt. Howes indicates that the four rooms he proposes will be sufficient to constitute the building program for five years to come. Dr. Holmes is of the opinion that the building program, if followed out as recommended by the board of directors, will relieve congestion for less than two years.

Congestion

A Herald representative was conducted on a visit through the schools of the district yesterday and was shown the conditions there. Dr. Holmes said that the extreme north end of the district and also in the portable school, built during the war as an emergency measure.

"This building will be done away with, a member of the board said."

WITNESS TELLS STORY OF GUILFOYLE SHOOTING

Member of the Party Says Mrs. Gaudet Was Shot In Back—Saw Gun Lying at Doctor's Feet.

Hartford, Conn., April 18.—A terse description of the scene immediately after Mrs. Max J. Gaudet, of New Haven, and Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, of Hartford, were shot in a Maple avenue apartment house here last January was furnished today to the three Superior Court judges who are trying Dr. Guilfoyle for first degree murder here by Mrs. Julia V. Way, of 69 Colonial road, Hartford, who was in the apartment of Guilfoyle when the shooting took place.

Mrs. Way gave her story under direct examination. Her cross-examination is yet to come. Under the questions of Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney, Mrs. Way slowly unfolded a picture that kept the crowded court room at attention from start to finish.

Mrs. Way told of the party in the Guilfoyle apartment where she and her husband, Mrs. Gaudet and daughter, and Dr. and Mrs. Guilfoyle were present. When the party broke up, at nine o'clock, she said, Dr. Guilfoyle left the room and went to a bedroom. He came out wearing a brown overcoat, with his hands in the pockets.

Mr. Way, she said, had gone out with Mrs. Gaudet's little girl. Dr. Guilfoyle waited for the door to be closed and then followed her while Mrs. Guilfoyle turned on the lights in a bedroom and Mrs. Way turned on the lights in the living room.

Mrs. Way told of hearing what at first she thought the backfire of an automobile. She hurried into the hall, however, and immediately two more shots cracked out. She saw Mrs. Guilfoyle in the hall standing beside the doctor.

"My God, Harold has been shot!" Mrs. Way testified Mrs. Guilfoyle exclaimed.

"At the doctor's feet," said Mrs. Way, "there was a little automatic pistol, and all around his face there was blood." Mrs. Way continued:

Shot In Back

"Then I looked out into the vestibule and I saw Mrs. Gaudet was falling. I got my hand under Mrs. Gaudet's arm. She said: 'I am shot in the back.'"

"When I finally got back into the apartment I found Mrs. Guilfoyle was bathing the doctor's face. She told him to sit down. He kept standing up. Mrs. Guilfoyle said 'They are coming.'"

"Dr. Guilfoyle said 'Who is coming?'"

"Mrs. Guilfoyle said: 'The ambulance and police are coming.'"

"Then Dr. Guilfoyle started up and said: 'They are not going to get me.'"

"Then I said to Mrs. Guilfoyle 'Have you got the gun?'"

"She said 'No,' and I said 'You know the police will use it.'"

"Mrs. Guilfoyle reached into her pocket and gave me the gun and later I handed it to Detective Charles Keefe."

Called Up Husband

Mrs. Way then told of calling up New Haven and telling Mr. Gaudet that his wife and Dr. Guilfoyle had been shot.

"He said: 'Who did it?'"

"I answered 'I don't know.'"

"Then I went home and went to bed."

Immediately after Mrs. Way had been excused for the time, the state called Mrs. Rita M. Johnson, of 71 Kenneth street, Hartford, who at the time of the shooting lived in the Maple avenue apartment house directly across the hall from the Guilfoyle apartment. Her own door opened at the head of the stairway. Mrs. Johnson told of being sent

NATION'S WEAKNESS LED TO OIL LEASE

Admiral Robinson Says Country Was In Grave Need of Fuel at the Time.

Washington, April 18.—A possible "fatal weakness" in the country's national defense plan prompted the leasing of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair, the defense implied today in the criminal conspiracy trial of the millionaire oil man through Admiral J. K. Robinson, its "star witness."

Grave need for fuel oil brought about the lease, Robinson testified. Although he did not mention the fact to the jury, he apparently was talking about the "Japanese war scare" of 1922 which was brought out in the conspiracy trial of E. L. Doheny, who acquired the other naval oil reserve.

Sinclair is charged with having bribed former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall to lease him the Teapot Dome oil reserve.

Defense Weak

"I told Fall," said Robinson, "that in connection with the then situation of our nation, there was a great weakness in our national defense, and it would have been fatal in event of certain combinations against us."

Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts promptly took the witness on cross-examination and developed that Robinson and Sinclair had engaged in a poker game on the same night a supplemental lease on Teapot Dome was signed.

For the edification of the jury, Roberts produced a letter Robinson wrote Sinclair congratulating the oil man on his ability at poker.

Great of Sinclair

Savagely tearing into Robinson, Roberts developed that Robinson more than ever had been the guest of Sinclair and Sinclair officials at the time the oil contracts were being closed up.

"I think you testified yesterday that you were responsible for getting the casing-head gasoline clause in the Teapot Dome lease?" continued Roberts.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"Don't you know that the gasoline clause is an exact copy of the Interior Department form lease?"

"No."

"Well look at it," snapped Roberts, showing a copy of the lease at which the witness nodded.

Robinson examined the lease, protested his innocence and sought to return the paper.

Roberts got around to Fall's part in the making of the lease.

"As a matter of fact," he asked, "you sat back and relied on Fall to do the negotiating?"

"Yes, he was our trusted agent."

"Did Secretary of the Navy Denby ever confer with Fall about this lease?"

"Only through me."

STATE REPUBLICANS ADOPT NEW RULES

Lessen Local Disputes By Referring the Matter to Central Committee.

Hartford, Conn., April 18.—The Republican State Central Committee today took steps to lessen local disputes among Republicans of Connecticut by adopting an amendment to the committee rules so that the town committee in any town "when the party members of that town are unable to agree, shall be designated by either the State Central Committee as a whole, or by a committee of that body."

The state convention today adopted that proposition as an amendment to rule eleven put in the form of an addition to the rule. Ernest L. Averill, of Branford, deputy attorney-general of the state, offered the proposition to the committee on rules, when its meeting was held just before the state convention. The rules committee favored the idea unanimously, and its report to accept the amendment went through the convention without trouble.

Factional Fight

The rule was brought about because of a factional fight in Madison. The committee on rules also voted to seat the so-called anti-Marsden faction of Madison as the regular delegates to the state convention from that town. Similar action was taken at the last state convention in the same dispute. The delegates seated today styled themselves "Regular Republicans" and the designation was accepted by the convention.

The Madison affair was the only rift along the calm waves over which the Republican delegates traveled today. Senator Hiram Bingham of New Haven was made permanent chairman of the convention under report of the committee on organization. The other officers of the convention named by the committee were Clarence Willard, New Haven, secretary; J. Fred Baker, New Haven; Daniel F. B. Hickey, Stamford; Albert S. Bill, Hartford; Stanley J. Tracecki, New Britain; E. L. Kelly, Bridgeport; Frank M. Lynch and Mrs. E. W. Frisbie, assistant secretaries.

HIGH POWER STATIONS FOR RADIO ALLOCATED

New York Gets Four Under New Rules—California Also Gets Four.

Washington, April 18.—Tentative plans for the allocation of high power and other broadcasting stations, based on the assumption that the Federal Radio Commission would adopt the report of engineering advisers by clearing fifty channels, were obtained today.

Ten full time stations operating on 5,000 watts or more, would be allocated to each zone, 18 stations from 500 to 1,000 watts and 40 stations under 250 watts.

Under this plan New York would be awarded four high power stations operating on full time and one station of this power on 37th time. California would get four stations over 5,000 2-55, Pennsylvania 3-8-8, the fraction indicating part time. Ohio 2-3-7, Texas 2 and Illinois 2-7. To the other zones less than two stations could go.

In the 500-1,000 watt class New York would obtain 7-4-7 stations, Pennsylvania 6-3-7, Ohio 4-3-7, Texas 3-4, Illinois and California 7-4.

Allocation of all stations under the 50-cleared channel plan would give New York 20, Pennsylvania 23-7, Ohio 15-6-7, Texas 13-4, Illinois 13-8-8 and California 27-4.

D. A. R. LECTURER TELLS OF RED RULE

Objects to Recognition of Soviet Russia By United States—His Reasons.

Washington, April 18.—Opposition to recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States so long as that country is dominated by the Communist Party and Third International, with Russia advocating Marxian tenets of world revolution, was voiced at the 37th Continental Congress of the D. A. R. today by Silas Blake Axtell, labor lawyer of New York, who recently entered Russia with the so-called "Trade Union delegation as an observer.

Expressing the belief that Communism would never operate beyond the Russian border, and would in a few years be unrecognizable even there, Axtell drew a tragic picture of the life of the Russian peasant under the existing regime. The true Communist is a fanatic, Axtell found, and in Communism the Russian thinks he has discovered the cure for all of the world's evils.

Right to Object

"It is true," Axtell said, "that it is no affair of ours how the Russian people live within the borders of their own country or what kind of government they have or what they do within the borders of their own land, but when they extend their national policy outside their own country and into the territorial confines of our own, and these activities, but an undercurrent of unrest within the Kansas delegation and a suggestion that possibly some delegates from the midwestern states and even Michigan, might force the issue created by Mrs. Helen Tufts Baillie, of Boston, into the open, loomed as a possibility today."

MASSONIC DEPUTY HERE ON TUESDAY

Manchester Lodge to Receive Louis R. Brock on His Annual Visitation.

Right Worshipful Louis R. Brock, of East Hartford, deputy of the sixth Masonic district of the State of Connecticut, will make his official visitation and inspection of Manchester Lodge of Masons, Tuesday night, April 24. District Deputy Brock will be accompanied by several other officials of this Masonic district and a large attendance of local Masons is expected to welcome the visitors.

The Master Mason degree will be conferred upon a candidate by the officers of Manchester lodge. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. The hour of opening the lodge will be 7:30 p. m.

KOEHL AND HUENEFELD ARE STILL ON ISLAND

MASONIC DEPUTY HERE ON TUESDAY

Washington, April 18.—The commanding lead which Governor Al Smith is piling up in his march toward the Democratic nomination at Houston was exemplified today by the compilation of a table showing that of the 446 delegates thus far selected he has at least 326.

If he can maintain this dizzy ratio in the primary and convention-filled weeks ahead, his nomination at Houston is assured. His opponents, particularly those from the anti-Smith southern states, grimly contend that he cannot keep up this pace, but irrespective of claims and counter-claims the fact remains that as of today Smith has captured approximately three-fourths of the delegates chosen instead of the required two-thirds.

The Houston convention is ten weeks away. Thus far, eighteen states and three territories have chosen their delegates, either through primaries, state conventions, or by state committees, with instructions, pledges or understandings. They will comprise 27 of 54 delegations to sit in at Houston.

May Help Smith

Three states, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts will choose 160 additional delegates next Tuesday, and the Smith total will be increased proportionately. For the organizations in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts are favorable to the New York governor. Both states supported him at Madison Square Garden four years ago.

Smith's total of 326 delegates to date is only 42 delegates less than his peak strength on the 7th ballot at Madison Square Garden. This is considered a remarkable showing in view of the fact that only little more than a third of the delegates have been chosen.

Thus far the New York governor has encountered but little opposition from other candidates in his march through primaries and state conventions. He has given him some, but nothing of a strenuous nature.

The California primary two weeks hence may tell a different story, however. There, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana is entered and the contest is expected to provide a showdown fight between the wets and dries. Walsh is as dry as Smith is wet, and California is considered by the party leaders in Washington as an interesting field on which to stage the combat. California's 26 delegates constitute the prize.

FLIGHT DEVELOPMENTS

Captain Herman Koehl, pilot of the Bremen, and Baron von Huenefeld were still on Greenly Island today.

Major James Fitzmaurice, who hopped off at Greenly Island with Charles "Duke" Schiller for Murray Bay to get spare parts for the repair of the Bremen spent the night at Clarke City, Que., where their plane was forced by bad weather to land.

It was reported at Seven Islands, Que., that Von Huenefeld, Koehl and Fitzmaurice might be sent to fly to Murray Bay or Mitchell Field, leaving repairs of the Bremen until later.

Schiller sent a radio to Greenly Island offering to return and pick up Von Huenefeld and Koehl in his plane, but, owing to atmospheric hindrances to communication, had received no reply this morning.

Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the designer of the Bremen, who flew to Montreal from Curlew Field, N. Y., in the F-13, a sister ship to the Bremen, hastened to Murray Bay by rail.

Bad weather continues over the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

FITZ MAY RETURN

Seven Islands, Quebec, April 18.—The "three heroes" of the latest episode of the skies—Captain Herman Koehl, Baron Huenefeld and Major James Fitzmaurice—may return to civilization out of the frozen northland in a Junkers plane F-13, a sister ship of the trans-Atlantic communication plane which was shot down here today.

Fitzmaurice, who flew from Greenly Island, with "Duke" Schiller for the Bremen, got spare parts for the Bremen, who left for Montreal from Curlew Field, N. Y., at night at Clarke City, near this place. Schiller had sent word back to Greenly Island that he could carry the three trans-Atlantic flyers to Mitchell field or to Murray Bay, turning back from Clarke City. But up to the time this was written Schiller had not received any reply.

Both the sea- and land lines and the radio lines, however, were hampered and hampered by foul weather.

Storms Continue

The storms which drove the Bremen to earth, when its gasoline supply had become practically exhausted, have continued uninterruptedly since last Friday. Gales of wind and snow sweep the Gulf of St. Lawrence, driving dangerous ice floes through the clouds and darkening the air with whirling snowflakes. Flying conditions are perilous.

Miss Herta Junkers, who flew from Curlew field, N. Y., to Montreal in the F-13, traveled on to Murray Bay by rail. There is a sister ship at Murray owned by Trans-Continental Airways, Ltd.

The spectacular flight of the Bremen is almost forgotten in the light of the dramatic circumstances which attended the end of the historic sky voyage.

Forced down upon the surface of a frozen lake on Greenly Island after riding the clouds for 35 hours, Koehl and von Huenefeld have maintained their vigil over their damaged machine upon the tiny, isolated and ice-bound island while the whole civilized world hungered for their details of their adventure.

WILL SUGGEST 12 ROOM SCHOOL ADDITION IN 8TH

Dr. Le Verne Holmes, District Health Officer, Believes Conditions Warrant Larger Building.

Despite recommendations for four new schoolrooms in the Hollister street building made last October by Supt. A. F. Congestion
A Herald representative was conducted on a visit through the schools of the district yesterday and noted the conditions there. Congestion, he was shown, is evident in the two schools at the extreme north end of the district and also in the portable school, built during the war as an emergency measure.

This building will be done away with, a member of the board said

WITNESS TELLS STORY OF GUILFOYLE SHOOTING

Member of the Party Says Mrs. Gaudet Was Shot In Back—Saw Gun Lying at Doctor's Feet.

Hartford, Conn., April 18.—A terse description of the scene immediately after Mrs. Max J. Gaudet, of New Haven, and Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, of Hartford, were shot in a Maple avenue apartment house here last January was furnished today to the three Superior Court judges who are trying Dr. Guilfoyle for first degree murder here by Mrs. Julia V. Way, of 69 Colonial Road, Hartford, who was in the apartment of Guilfoyle when the shooting took place.

Mrs. Way gave her story under direct examination. Her cross-examination is yet to come. Under the questions of Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney, Mrs. Way slowly unfolded a picture that kept the crowded court room at attention from start to finish.

Mrs. Way told of the party in the Guilfoyle apartment where she and her husband, Mrs. Gaudet and daughter, and Dr. and Mrs. Guilfoyle were present. When the party broke up, at nine o'clock, she said, Dr. Guilfoyle left the room and went to a bedroom. He came out wearing a brown overcoat, with his hands in the pockets.

Mr. Way, she said, had gone out with Mrs. Gaudet's little girl. Dr. Guilfoyle waited at the apartment door for Mrs. Gaudet to pass out and then followed her while Mrs. Guilfoyle turned out the lights in a bedroom and Mrs. Way turned out the lights in the living room.

Hears Shots
Mrs. Way then told of hearing what at first she thought the backfire of an automobile. She hurried into the hall, however, and immediately two more shots cracked out. She saw Mrs. Guilfoyle in the hall standing beside the doctor.

"My God," Harold has been shot," Mrs. Way testified. Mrs. Guilfoyle exclaimed.

"At the doctor's feet," said Mrs. Way, "there was a little automatic pistol, and all around his face there was blood." Mrs. Way continued:

Shot In Back
"Then I looked out into the vestibule and I saw Mrs. Gaudet was falling. I got my hand under Mrs. Gaudet's back. She said: 'I am shot in the back.'"

"When I finally got back into the apartment I found Mrs. Guilfoyle was bathing the doctor's face. She told him to sit down. He kept standing up. Mrs. Guilfoyle said 'They are coming.'"

"Dr. Guilfoyle said 'Who is coming?'"

"Mrs. Guilfoyle said: 'The ambulance and police are coming.'"

"Then Dr. Guilfoyle started up and said: 'They are not going to get me.'"

"Then I said to Mrs. Guilfoyle 'Have you got the gun?'"

"She said 'No,' and I said 'You know the police will need it.'"

"Mrs. Guilfoyle reached into her pocket and gave me the gun and later I handed it to Detective Charles Keefe."

Called Up Husband
Mrs. Way then told of calling up New Haven and telling Mr. Gaudet that his wife and Dr. Guilfoyle had been shot.

"He said: 'Who did it?'"

"I answered: 'I don't know.'"

"Then I went home and went to bed."

Immediately after Mrs. Way had been excused for the time, the state called Mrs. Rita M. Johnson, of 71 Kenneth street, Hartford, who at the time of the shooting lived in the Maple avenue apartment house directly across the hall from the Guilfoyle apartment. Her own door opened at the head of the stairway.

Objects to Recognition of Soviet Russia By United States—His Reasons.

Washington, April 18.—Opposition to recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States so long as that country is dominated by the Communist Party and Third International, with Russia advocating Marxian tenets of world revolution, was voiced at the 37th Continental Congress of the D. A. R. today by Silas Blake Axtell, labor lawyer of New York, who recently entered Russia with the so-called Trade Union delegation as an observer.

Expressing the belief that Communism would never operate beyond the Russian border, and would in a few years be unrecognizable even there, Axtell drew a tragic picture of the life of the Russian peasant under the existing regime.

The true Communist is a fanatic, Axtell found, and in Communism the Russian thinks he has discovered the cure for all of the world's evils.

Right To Object
"It is true," Axtell said, "that it is no affair of ours how the Russian people live within the borders of their own country or what kind of government they have or what they do within the borders of their own land, but when they extend their national policy outside their own country and into the territorial confines of our own, and these activities conflict with the institutions of this country, then we have a definite right to object."

Thus far, the powers in control of the destinies of the D. A. R. have been able to keep from the floor of the Congress the "blacklist" episode, but an undercurrent of unrest within the Kansas delegation and a suggestion that possibly some delegates from the midwestern states and even Michigan, might force the issue created by Mrs. Helen Tufts Baillie of Boston, into the open, looked as a possibility today.

Manchester Lodge to Receive Louis R. Brock on His Annual Visitation.

Right Worshipful Louis R. Brock, of East Hartford, deputy of the sixth Masonic district of the State of Connecticut, will make his official visitation and inspection of Manchester Lodge of Masons, Tuesday night, April 24. District Deputy Brock will be accompanied by several other officials of this Masonic district, and a large attendance of local Masons is expected to welcome the visitors.

The Master Mason degree will be conferred upon a candidate by the officers of Manchester lodge. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. The hour of opening the lodge will be 7:30 p. m.

SMITH FAR AHEAD SO FAR IN RACE

Has 326 Delegates Out of 446—Fear He Cannot Keep Up Pace.

Washington, April 18.—The commanding lead which Governor Al Smith is piling up in his march toward the Democratic nomination at Houston was exemplified today by the compilation of a table showing that of the 446 delegates thus far selected he has at least 326.

If he can maintain this dizzy ratio in the primary and convention-filled weeks ahead, his nomination at Houston is assured. His opponents, particularly those from the anti-Smith southern states, grimly contend that he cannot keep up this pace, but irrespective of claims and counter-claims the fact remains that as of today Smith has captured approximately three-fourths of the delegates chosen instead of the required two-thirds.

The Houston convention is ten weeks away. Thus far, eighteen states and three territories have chosen their delegates, either through primaries, state conventions, or by state committees, with instructions, pledges or understandings. They will comprise 27 of 54 delegations to sit in at Houston.

May Help Smith
Three states, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts will choose 160 additional delegates next Tuesday, and the Smith total will be increased proportionately, for the organizations in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts are favorable to the New York governor. Both states supported him at Madison Square Garden four years ago.

Smith's total of 326 delegates to date is only 42 delegates less than his peak strength on the 73rd ballot at Madison Square Garden. This is considered a remarkable showing in view of the fact that only little more than a third of the delegates have been chosen.

Thus far the New York governor has encountered but little opposition from other candidates in his march through primaries and state conventions. Reed has given him some, but nothing of a strenuous nature.

The California primary two weeks hence may tell a different story, however. There, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana is entered and the contest is expected to provide a showdown fight between the wets and dries. Walsh is as dry as Smith is wet, and California is considered by the party leaders in Washington as an interesting device which to stage the combat. California's 26 delegates constitute the prize.

"Duke" Schiller Offers to Go Back to Take Them to Mainland—Fitzmaurice Seeks Spare Parts For Disabled Ship; Miss Junker at Murray Bay; Steamer to Make Another Attempt to Reach Germans; Bad Weather Continues.

FLIGHT DEVELOPMENTS
Captain Herman Koehl, pilot of the Bremen, and Baron von Huenefeld were still on Greenly Island today.

Major James Fitzmaurice, who hopped off at Greenly Island with Charles "Duke" Schiller for Murray Bay to get spare parts for the repair of the Bremen, spent the night at Clarke City, Que., where their plane was forced by bad weather to land.

It was reported at Seven Islands, Que., that Von Huenefeld, Koehl and Fitzmaurice might consent to fly to Murray Bay, or Mitchell Field, leaving repairs of the Bremen until later.

Schiller sent a radio to Greenly Island offering to return and pick up Von Huenefeld and Koehl in his plane, but, owing to atmospheric hinderance to communication, had received no reply this morning.

Miss Herta Junker, daughter of the designer of the Bremen, who flew to Montreal from Curries Field, N. Y., in the F-13, a sister ship to the Bremen, hastened to Murray Bay by rail.

Bad weather continues over the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

NATION'S WEAKNESS LED TO OIL LEASE

Admiral Robinson Says Country Was In Grave Need of Fuel at the Time.

Washington, April 18.—A possible "fatal weakness" in the country's national defense plan prompted the leasing of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair, the defense implied today in the criminal conspiracy trial of the millionaire oil man through Admiral J. K. Robinson, its "star witness."

Grave need for fuel oil brought about the lease, Robinson testified. Although he did not mention the fact to the jury, he apparently was talking about the Japanese war scare" of 1922 which was brought out in the conspiracy trial of E. L. Doheny, who acquired the other naval oil reserve.

Sinclair is charged with having bribed former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall to lease him the Teapot Dome oil reserve.

Defense Weak
"I told Fall," said Robinson, "that in connection with the then situation of our nation, there was a great weakness in our national defense, and it would have been fatal to the life of the nation if we had not taken certain combinations against us."

Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts promptly took the witness on cross examination and developed that Robinson and Sinclair had engaged in a poker game on the same night the supplemental lease on Teapot Dome was signed.

For the edification of the jury, Roberts produced a letter Robinson wrote Sinclair congratulating the oil man on his ability as a poker player.

Savagely tearing into Robinson, Roberts developed that Robinson more than ever had been the guest of Sinclair and Sinclair officials at the time the oil contracts were being closed up.

"I think you testified yesterday that you were responsible for getting the casing-head gasoline clause in the Teapot Dome lease," continued Roberts.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"Don't you know that the gasoline clause is an exact copy of the Interior Department form lease?"

"No."

"Well look at it," snapped Roberts, showing a copy of the lease to Robinson.

Robinson examined the lease, protested his innocence and sought to return the paper.

Roberts got around to Fall's part in the making of the lease.

"As a matter of fact," he asked, "you sat back and relied on Fall to do the negotiating?"

"Yes, he was our trusted agent."

"Did Secretary of the Navy Denby ever confer with Fall about this lease?"

"Only through me."

MAJOR AND CONSUL CHAT AMICABLY ON BOATING AND MOTORS.

Chicago, April 18.—Mayor William Hale Thompson, who has waged a fight against King George, and British propaganda, since his election last spring, today lunched with H. A. Richards, British consul.

Both were guests at a luncheon where plans were laid for entertainment of the German-Irish trans-Atlantic fliers, and found themselves seated side by side at the table.

There was just the slightest pause after the introduction, when Mr. Richards said: "I have been here five years, Mr. Thompson."

Whereupon "Big Bill" recalled he had a fine time while in England, yachting with Sir Thomas Lipton, and by the time the cigars were glowing, they were exchanging views on gasoline motors, speeding and boating.

MEETS MISS JUNKER

Murray Bay, Que., April 18.—Major James Fitzmaurice was expected to arrive here today from Clarke City, Que., in "Duke" Schiller's rescue plane which brought him there from Greenly Island after an overnight stop at a makeshift camp.

When Fitzmaurice gets here it is expected he will confer with Miss Herta Junker, who arrived here by train late yesterday, on the problem of getting the replacement parts to the marooned Bremen at Greenly Island.

The place boasts the farthest north railroad station in the eastern section of the Province of Quebec. If he so chooses, Fitzmaurice may proceed from here to Quebec City by train.

WILL SUGGEST 12 ROOM SCHOOL ADDITION IN 8TH

Today. It is a wooden building without any basement and is heated by an uncovered pipeless furnace which is located in one corner. In order to have enough heat for the far ends of the room the furnace must be kept at a high temperature and the children near it suffer accordingly.

Would Eliminate It

There is also gas in the room, Dr. Holmes said, sometimes so strong that it is almost enough to overcome the children there. The first thing that should be done, he recommends, is the elimination of this building all together.

Congestion in the Union school is a serious problem now, Dr. Holmes pointed out. One room of seventh grade pupils contains 64 persons while another smaller room, poorly lighted and poorly ventilated, has a smaller number. This latter room is lighted by four ordinary house windows, placed so that they light only a small part of the room. Artificial light must be used at all times.

Move Heating Plant

Four rooms in the Union building are directly over the heating plant and the air in all of them is usually stuffy and heavy in the winter, fall and spring. Dirt gathers on the floors and desks and in the small closets. One of the teachers in these rooms said that when the wind blows the soot and dust comes out of the cracks in the walls and settles in all part of the rooms. Dr. Holmes recommends moving the heating plant from the building to a separate building of its own.

The purpose of the health education among the pupils in this school is defeated at its start, Dr. Holmes showed. He mentioned the fact that the children are urged to wash their hands at every opportunity and he showed the facilities.

The boys may either wash their hands in another basement or under a drinking fountain in the toilet room, located in the school yard. These two basins are the only ones available for the boys in the entire school.

Classes in Hall

Teaching in the assembly hall of the Robertson school is a problem, Dr. Holmes said and his statement was borne out by a member of the board of directors who said that teachers who were given the hall for their work.

Lighting in the assembly room is poor and the air is heavy, due to poor ventilation. And while classes are in session there is no light, not to be used for assembly purposes although the need for assemblies is great. This room also will be done away with as a classroom.

"The district needs 12 rooms in the new addition," Dr. Holmes said. "The six rooms which are now proposed will care only for the present pupils and will not provide for the increase which is inevitable as home-building in the north end continues."

Doesn't Allow for Growth

His plan, which will be submitted to the voters on Friday evening, will show that the whole six rooms might be used by second, seventh and eighth grades without allowing for the usual number of new pupils who will come in at the beginning of the new school year.

He would eliminate the special room in the Hollister street building now used for backward children. This class he would locate in the Union school in the place where the 8th grade is now located. The seventh grade would be taken from the Union school to the Harding school and the children in the portable school would be placed in the seventh grade room.

He would have one second grade room in the Hollister street addition and one in the Union school. There are no rest rooms in either Union or Robertson schools, save a small closet-like affair in the Union school which resembles a cubbyhole. There is no couch in this closet.

No Rest Room
The teachers in the Robertson school when in need of a rest room must use the nurse's office and on some occasions these needs have occurred when a long line of pupils was being given medical examination by the doctor.

Dr. Holmes would move the office of Supt. Howe from the Robertson building to the Harding school and would make the office over into a rest room for teachers.

Health work in the schools is difficult at present because of the lack of facilities with which to supplement the education of the pupils in the care of themselves, Dr. Holmes said. The nurse's room is part one of the hallways, partitioned off.

Epidemic

Congestion is not conducive to good health and to prove his point Dr. Holmes mentions an epidemic of grip which was responsible for 31 of the 40 pupils in the portable school being ill. He is for the 12-room addition because it will relieve congestion with the result that the school children will be in more healthful surroundings.

He also favors improvement of the ventilation system at the Harding school. This system is radically wrong, it has been said by members of the board of directors, for there is no vent in the attic. The air merely circulates through the ventilators from one room to the attic and back again and is not changed.

POLICE CHIEF SAYS HE RECEIVED GRAFT

Cambridge, Mass., April 18.—Former Chief of Police Edward Leavitt, state witness and guilty defendant, in the now famous town of Groton cases in the Middlesex Superior Court was again on the witness stand today.

The former police head was under cross examination of a battery of counsel, representing six defendants.

Nine town officials and citizens are on trial on charges involving Leavitt in the violation of the liquor laws and to corrupt town officials.

Still under cross examination, Leavitt's testimony brought out that:

He had secured "graft" in a deal in which Judge Hayes of Ayer had drawn up a lease for a still in Groton.

He had secured "graft" for fixing cases for students of the exclusive Groton school, famous as the preschool of many famous Americans.

Selectman Trayne of Groton had told him to go out, and get some more bootleggers to do business in Groton and that he had persuaded two men from Chelsea to transfer their operations to the town.

Leavitt also stated that he had received several hundred dollars from a Mrs. Boynton, society leader of Groton. "She told me liquor," that I could have money whenever I wanted it."

Legion Auxiliary Members to Entertain on Friday Evening with Whist and Bridge

The auxiliary to Dilworth-Cornell Post American Legion will give a whist and pivot bridge Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the state armory for the members and their friends. Mrs. William Quish heads the committee and her assistants will be Mrs. Thomas Dannaher and Mrs. Harry Russell who will be in charge of the whist division. Mrs. Wilfred Clark is chairman of the bridge section, Mrs. Hector West and Mrs. James Stevenson will assist. Mrs. Walter Gorman will act as chairman of the refreshment committee, also Mrs. John Bausola and Mrs. T. Edward Bronsan.

PINCHED FOR NAPPING

Fremont, Neb.—William Belke is going to be careful in the future about where and when he takes a nap. He was found asleep in the railroad yards here while the temperature stood at 5 below zero. He was jailed and the next day the judge fined him $200 for risking his life in such a careless manner.

The governors who have notified Major J. A. Routree, Birmingham, Ala., director general of the association, who has established headquarters here for the convention, of their acceptance are:

Ben S. Paulen, Kansas; J. E. Erickson, Montana; Arthur G. Sorlie, North Dakota; Flem D. Sisson, Iowa; Kentucky; John G. Richards, South Carolina; Adam McMullen, Nebraska; Bibb Graves, Alabama; H. H. Horton, Tennessee; W. J. Bulow, South Dakota; Harvey Parrell, Arkansas and John Hamhill, of Iowa.

MODERN FLATS DRIVE MANSIONS OFF PARK LANE

London.—Lovers of old London are fearful that Park Lane, its most beautiful thoroughfare which for years has boasted the stateliest town mansions in England, is doomed to destruction.

Like its western sister, New York's Fifth Avenue, Park Lane is undergoing the changes that the passage of time bring. One by one the beautiful mansions are disappearing, and in their stead are rising apartment houses of the New York variety—scattered at by the die-hards—but better suited to the conditions of the present day.

The first to go was Grosvenor House, situated in a commanding position on Park Lane, directly overlooking Hyde Park. The stately house was sold, its interior removed and the building demolished. For a short while there was a line and then slowly there arose a gigantic structure of red brick.

Modern Flats
"Grosvenor House" the signs outside displayed, "Modern service flats—all latest improvements."

Members of the old guard shook their heads. This, they feared—was the beginning. Park Lane had long been the home of the high tax, cumbersome assessments, those twin curses on the heads of the wealthy, had struck their blow at last, and one had capitulated to the admission that he could no longer afford the luxury of a town house on Park Lane.

A few months later came an even bigger surprise. Dorchester House, the finest mansion in London, where "Whistler" Reid lived for fourteen years when Ambassador to the Court of St. James', was sold to a syndicate for a price in excess of $2,500,000. The news was received with universal regret, for the contract state that the palatial mansion where Reid had entertained King Edward VII and many of England's greatest noblemen, would be torn down to make room for an apartment hotel.

Up To Date Hotel
Dorchester House is still standing, but preparations have been completed for its demolition. The architects of the proposed hotel are planning to incorporate its priceless murals and wall paintings in the new structure and every possible feature of the old house will be retained. But it will not look like Dorchester House, for it will be a "modern hotel" with all the improvements and alterations that go with it.

The indications are that the large houses of Park Lane will go one by one, just as the Fifth Avenue mansions have disappeared, to make room for modern buildings. It is hoped, however, that business structures will not be erected on Park Lane, but that the famous thoroughfare will be restricted to residences—even though they be multi-family apartment houses instead of the proud mansions that once held full sway.

ELEVEN GOVERNORS TO ATTEND GOOD ROADS MEET AT DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia.—The sixteenth annual convention of the United States Good Roads Association will meet in Des Moines May 28 to June 1 with one of its principal objectives promotion of sentiment in the interest of an addition to the president's cabinet of a secretary of highways.

The program of the association also embraces consolidation of all road building activities of the federal government under the bureau of public roads.

Eleven governors already have accepted invitations to attend the convention, several of whom will appear on the program. Many of the state executives will head large groups of delegates who plan to journey to Des Moines in motor caravans.

THIS AD SUGGESTIVE OF "BUCKSPORT MEN" OFFER

An advertisement for a lost rubber boot in today's Herald recalls an ad in the Bucksport "Herald" make-believe newspaper which the late Richard Golden used for publicity for his play "Old Jed Prouty" many years ago. It read: "Lost: One rubber boot. Will buy or sell."

LOCAL CANDIDATES FOR DISTRICT INITIATIONS

Royal Neighbors to Send at Least Ten to Big Hartford Meeting for Obligations.

Manchester Camp, No. 2640 Royal Neighbors will have a class of ten or more members for initiation at the big meeting of camps in this district to be held at Hotel Bond, Hartford, May 3, when the supreme manager, Mrs. Edna Walsh of Independence, Kansas, will make her official visit. The officers of the local camp are at work on a drill to be presented on that occasion.

Mrs. Rachel Munroe who is state vice oracle has received an invitation to an informal reception and tea to be given on May 2, by Mrs. Rubiana Koenig at her home on Campbell street, Hartford, in honor of the state officers, and another to attend a banquet at the Pease House, Saybrook, for the New London district a few days later.

The camp followed a brief meeting last night in the Odd Fellows hall with a setback party. A drawing of the $5 gold piece was held and the winner was Carl Anderson of Florence street. First prizes at cards were won by Mrs. Gertrude Stevenson and John Haddon, second by Mrs. Anderson and George Olds, and third, Mrs. Mary Frederickson and John T. Munroe. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served later.

DECIMO CLUB HEAD DENIES TESTIMONY

Boston, Mass., April 18.—Stating that the transcript of his evidence by the committee stenographer, did not record him correctly in denying in some cases the words of the transcript, Hugh D. Monjar, deposed president of the Decimo Club, today underwent the most severe cross examination of the three weeks past by a legal team.

In previous testimony, before a New York court, Monjar stated that he had been deposed by Mr. Reading, who took a fee of $25,000 from the Decimo club, while at the same time an attorney general, giving it a clean bill of health in Massachusetts.

Asked how he had spent $485,000 that had come to him under contract with the Decimo Club, Mr. Monjar stated that it had been used for the benefit of club members, adding under question that he was a club member.

Several times during the cross examination the witness denied making statements accredited to him in the transcript from which Attorney Anderson was reading and at other times insisted that the questions were "not exactly in those words," but the meaning was something different.

HOUGHTON HAILS CAPTAIN CAMPBELL FOR AIR RECORD

London.—At a congratulatory dinner to Captain Malcolm Campbell for the United States triumph at Daytona Beach, Florida, when his racing car attained the speed of 206.95 m. p. h. the American Ambassador to England, A. B. Houghton, hinted that his countrymen intended to make a big bid for the honors now held by Campbell.

"He beat us fairly and squarely and definitely, and on our own soil," declared the Ambassador. "He revealed the fastest of all the vehicles before. He had to, I suggest that from now on he sleeps with one eye open."

Major Seagrave, British ex-holder of the speed record, announced he is going to Daytona next year. Captain Campbell paid high tribute to American sportsmanship and whole-hearted hospitality.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

Bridgport, Conn., April 18.—Recent deaths of two Fairfield county children by motor vehicles were declared accidental in findings handed down here today by Coroner John J. Phelan.

In the case of Pasquale Firollo, ten, of Franklin street, Westport, the coroner declared that the brakes of the car driven by Hugo Rueli, of Norwalk, who is 80 years old, were defective, but the coroner says this fact had nothing to do with the death. The boy was rolling a hoop, and ran directly into the car which Rueli was driving at ten miles an hour.

Anna Barnes, aged four, of Glenville, Greenwich, ran into the side of a truck driven by William Wilson, of Greenwich, on April 11.

The Amazons were a warlike race of women who lived near the Black Sea; they never allowed any man to dwell in their country and they even sent their own sons away and brought up only their daughters.

DENVER JUDGES STUDY DIVORCE EVIL IN STATE

Denver.—The question of marriage—and divorce—is seething in Denver again.

First, it was Judge Ben Lindsey, famed juvenile jurist, with his mooted theory of companionate marriage.

Now, a very different stand has been taken by judges of the Denver district and county courts.

Judge Frank McDonough, Sr., of the district court, led his colleagues through an informal discussion that resulted in the announcement that the Colorado law should be uniformly interpreted to mean that a couple must be married for at least one year before they are permitted to petition for divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty.

The Colorado statute specifically provides that application for divorce may not be made on the grounds of non-support, drunkenness or drug addiction until the parties involved have been separated one year.

Alimony Provision
The Denver district court judges also made it plain that alimony should be allowed only to those wives who have had children, or who have made a substantial contribution to the support of the family.

"The time has come," said Judge McDonough, "to put the brakes not only on thoughtless marriages, but on equally thoughtless divorces."

"When flappers, with dresses above their knees, rouge on their cheeks, lips painted, come into court with their superficial reasons why they should be granted a divorce from husbands they knew only a day or week before marriage the deadly parallel between the truth they may tell and the lies they do tell is created."

No Uniform Law
There are cases when not to grant a divorce would work grave injustice, yet there is no law that compels a man and woman to live together and they can separate, if they desire, until the year rolls around when, after deliberation, they should be privileged to ask for divorce.

Judge McDonough believes that there should be no uniform divorce law for the United States, because climate, temperament and ideals are not uniform. But, he declares, he has come to the conclusion that divorce laws in all of Colorado should be uniform.

An attorney general and shall continue to refuse to grant alimony where there are no children and where there is an evident desire on the part of the wife to "get loose," said Judge McDonough. "I am not sure that it is a party to raising up a lot of frivolous female pensioners."

RAPS NICARAGUA PACT

Washington, April 18.—The pact under which the United States agreed to supervise the 1928 Nicaraguan elections was characterized as an agreement obtained by force, intimidation, coercion and alleged bribery by Senator Blaine Republican of Wisconsin, in the Senate today.

Blaine made this statement in introducing an amendment to the naval appropriations bill which would prevent the United States from making any kind of loan or other financial aid towards foreign nations without the consent of Congress.

DEFENDS THE DOG

Boston, April 18.—"I am here to bark for the most faithful dog animal among all the animals of the world," declared Mayor Ralph S. Bauer, of Lynn, in making an eloquent plea before a legislative committee today against changes in the present dog laws proposed by Frank E. Cummings, director of the Boston Police Department.

Mayor Bauer continued: "Dogs are more faithful than men themselves. When a man has lost his job and his wife and children push him out as an old fool, his dog is happy to stay by his side. When he is laid away in his grave and deserted by every one else, you will often find the dog with his head between his paws staying at the grave."

AND HOW?

"So you want to marry my daughter?"
"Yes."
"Do you know anything about business?"
"Not much."
"Do you know the difference between an asset and a liability?"
"No."
"Well, you will after you marry."—Passing Show.

KOEHL, HUENEFELD STILL ON ISLAND

might be ordered to continue its journey.

The ice breaker was ordered to give up the attempt yesterday when it became apparent that it was making no headway against the ice-floes of the Strait of Belle Isle.

PLANS UNCERTAIN

Quebec, Que., April 18.—How and when Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron Ehrenfried Von Huenefeld will leave Greenly Island, upon which they have been isolated since their epochal 36-hour flight westward across the Atlantic, were the main topics of discussion here today.

The German fliers have avowed their intention of flying to New York in the Bremen. But their plan may not prove feasible and may delay their arrival for some time.

Just how badly the Junkers transatlantic monoplane was damaged when it made its forced landing on the tiny lake near the light-house on the ice-bound island was still very much a mystery today.

Because of adverse flying conditions and the island's inaccessibility by land and water, it is believed it will take several days to bring the necessary replacement parts to the fliers. To make the repairs will also take some time.

Reason for Departure
Confidential reports reaching here revealed the true purpose of Major Fitzmaurice's departure from the island in "Duke" Schiller's rescue plane and laid at rest rumors of disunion between the Irish flier and his two German companions.

Fitzmaurice is now at Clarke City, Que., after making a two hundred mile flight from Natashquan where he and Schiller spent the night.

From Clarke City came reports that Fitzmaurice came out of his isolation merely to get repair parts for Bremen and arrange their transportation to Greenly Island. These reports stated that he intends to fly back to the island when he has accomplished this task and rejoin his companions for the flight to New York in the Bremen.

To meet Sister Ship
Fitzmaurice is expected to fly to Murray Bay sometime this morning. It is believed he will be met there by Miss Herta Junkers and will confer with her upon the arrangements to be made for the shipment of the replacement parts.

There is some talk current that the German fliers will be taken to Murray Bay by a second relief plane reported to be headed towards Greenly Island. At Murray Bay, according to this rumor, the fliers will go to New York in the Junkers F-13, sister ship of the Bremen which is now at Montreal. The F-13 was brought to Montreal by Herta Junkers and Fred Melchior.

The German fliers have only two alternatives from which to choose if they expect to leave the island before the spring thaws. They must either go by air in the Bremen or in a relief plane, or they will have to resort to dog teams.

The ice-breaker Montcalm, after making prodigious efforts to reach Greenly Island, has been beaten by the ice-packed Strait of Belle Isle and has been ordered back to its routine patrol duties in Cabot Strait.

A "mechanical man" that plays chess and automatically reasons out the moves made by its human opponent has been invented by a Spanish mathematician.

ABOUT TOWN

A change in schedule at the Rainbow Dance Palace becomes effective this week. Old fashion and modern dancing will be held on Wednesday hereafter instead of on Thursdays. Bill Waddell's orchestra will play at the Rainbow tonight and Professor Taylor will prompt. The usual modern dancing will be enjoyed Saturdays.

Hose Company No. 1 of the South Manchester Fire department was called out to two fires at noon today. A threatening brush fire in the Hilliards woods section was extinguished with the use of chemicals and shortly afterward it was necessary to go to Moore street to extinguish a grass fire.

Mrs. Wells Strickland, Mrs. Frank Handley, Fritz and Lloyd Schonhaar are the committee in charge of the public bridge and whist party which will be held at the Manchester Community clubhouse tomorrow night. The social held last week at the White house was enjoyed by so many, there have been numerous calls for others while the weather remains cool. There will be 12 prizes in all for the winners tomorrow night and refreshments after the games. All players welcome.

Goss, of Waterbury. Alternates: Henry Ellis, of Torrington, and Mrs. G. E. Mathies, of Seymour. The convention today was conducted swiftly and with precision. The gathering was called to order at 10:26 and in half an hour had adjourned. Before the end of the session a resolution was adopted expressing the wish that Senator George B. McLean might be returned to Washington for another term...

Convention Opens The convention got under way with Governor Trumbull, former Governor Marcus H. Holcomb, J. Henry Roraback, and Miss Katherine Byrne in conspicuous seats upon the platform. Roraback had been holding an impromptu reception in the hall. He appeared to be the most popular figure there.

Samuel Eddy, of North Canaan, took the floor at the first opportunity to nominate Mr. Roraback of the chief of the delegation. Next, Roy C. Wilcox, state senator from Meriden, rose from his seat on the floor to name Senator Hiram Bingham.

With two delegates named, former Governor Holcomb rose and immediately the convention broke into a storm of applause. Vainly the "war governor" tried to stem the tide of racket by lifting first one hand, and then both hands. He was forced to wait for the gathering to tire itself out. Then he nominated Gov. Trumbull. Immediately another wave of applause was lifted across the hall.

Mrs. Annie O. Vinton, of Mansfield, followed former Governor Holcomb to name Miss Byrne as delegate.

Others Named William P. Bailey, of Bethel, the veteran state auditor, was quickly on his feet at the next opportunity, and presented the name of Judge James F. Walsh, of Greenwich, as delegate. Fairfield county delegate started applause for Judge Walsh which swept through the delegation from other counties quickly.

More applause was released when Alfred Bingham, of Salem, rose. He named State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers, of New London. And for the final name to be added to the list of delegates-at-large to Kansas City, John Hill, of Shelton, speaker of the 1927 House in the State Legislature, presented that of Mrs. John B. Russ, of Shelton.

After the alternates had been selected with great precision and the district delegates and their alternates were reeled off, Judge Walsh presented and the committee adopted a motion on giving the delegates and the alternates the right to fill any vacancies that may come to the party before the convention ends.

Senator Spencer's resolution in favor of Senator McLean was carried, and the convention adjourned. Then the state central committee members adjourned to the Hotel Bond where they organized for the two years ahead.

"I wish with all my heart that some of our brethren who are devoting their lives to the law as a profession would insist upon speedy, swift and impartial administration of justice instead of using their talents to prolong the law's delays, withhold the hand of justice, and bring into discredit that very institution which they of all men should be most anxious to see preserved."

DIES FROM INJURIES

Stamford, Conn., April 18.—James Francis Bourke, 22, of Stamford, died at the hospital here this noon from the effects of injuries he received on the Post Road, west of this city, yesterday afternoon, when his motorcycle crashed into a delivery truck driven by Harold E. Howard, of Stamford. Bourke sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries. Herman Muller, of Stamford, riding with Bourke, broke his left arm and received external injuries but today was improving. Police of Greenwich who arrested Howard and placed him under $2,000 bail, say that the motorcycle was running at high speed when it hit the truck which Howard had started to turn from the Post Road into a side street.

SACRIFICING TILSON

While Connecticut politicians and newspapers just semi-occasionally and half apologetically whisper the name of Representative John Q. Tilson of New Haven, Republican House leader at Washington, as a remotely possible candidate for vice-president, the Tilson suggestion is made openly and with far more assurance elsewhere.

EXPLAINED

The reason for Aviator Fitzmaurice's hurried departure from the companionship of his German plane mates may have been made clear. It appears from a dispatch sent out by a Grenfell nurse that Baron von Huenefeld, at a time when the fliers' situation appeared to be becoming desperate, prepared to shoot his companions and then himself if worst came to worst.

MINISTERS AND SMOKE

Whether or not the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to be held at Kansas City next month gives tacit consent to the use of tobacco by ministers, it is interesting that a step in that direction has been taken by the New York East Conference, which has passed a resolution, to be submitted to the General Conference, providing that candidates for the Methodist Episcopal ministry shall no longer be asked whether they use the weed, ministers being permitted to use their own discretion in the matter.

either condition. Just so with tobacco, which is so closely allied to tea in its effects of mild stimulation that in some countries they are almost as likely to smoke the tea as to drink it—though it does not make as good a smoke as tobacco and tobacco certainly does not make as good a drink as tea.

THE SUFFERING MOVIES

At a dinner given by the Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce at New York Aaron Sapro, new President of the Motion Picture Exhibitors Association of New York made the unqualified statement that all motion picture theatres, whether owned by producers, chain operators or independents, were complaining of a decline in patronage.

RECOUNTS

Dismissal of the town moderator's application for an order to recanvass the vote of Hartford in the recent city and town election, by the superior court yesterday, would seem to be likely to end the contest, since Moderator Guthrie, while mentioning the possibility of an appeal to the Supreme Court, in effect almost promises to sign the returns immediately.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington—These few happy days for Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter, candidate for the presidency. The senator is confident that he has the nomination sewed up. He has spent no money, of which he has very little, nor even any time or wind, of which he has plenty. Today he hasn't a single delegate and therein, according to Senator McWhorter, lies his great strength.

THIS DATE IN AMERICAN HISTORY

April 18—1676—Sudbury, Mass., attacked by Indians. 1754—Fort Duquesne (later Pittsburgh, Pa.) founded. 1775—Paul Revere made his famous ride to Lexington. 1861—Robert E. Lee declined to take charge of Union armies. 1906—$40,000,000 damage done to San Francisco by earthquake and fire. 1912—Titanic survivors brought to New York by Carpathia.

CHANGING

In Chicago Gust Bjorklund and his wife, both more than 75 years old, committed suicide because machine shoe repairing had displaced hand work to such an extent that the old man could no longer earn a living at the cobbler's bench. Gust just wouldn't have anything to do with the machinery. He was proud of his handiwork, proud enough to give his life and that of his wife to his devotion to it.

THE DUCHESS OF YORK IN ONE-COLOR GOWN SETS FASHION FOR LONDON

Those dramas of the night club world, such as "Broadway," are far from being mere figments of imagination. Tense drama, lurking behind the peep-holes of the speaking easy door, often come to light. Not long ago one was enacted in 45th street. Gorillas of the underworld were sent out to "get" a certain place. The lookout man at the door was warned to keep care. A few nights later, while peering through his peephole in answer to the bell, he refused admision to a suspicious looking stranger. At his refusal a gun was whipped out and a bullet went crashing through the door. The doorman was hit in the arm. It was one of those situations where the "cops" couldn't be called. Nor did the man wish to go to a public hospital and take the risk of having the affair get into the newspapers and thus bring the police down on the highway. Bleeding and pale, he went into the kitchen. A steel carving knife was carefully cleaned and, after taking a few shots of the bar's best brew, the doorman allowed the bullet to bandage up his wound, he went back to his post and stayed there until dawn came and the place closed up. Then he went to a doctor.

THE DUCHESS OF YORK IN ONE-COLOR GOWN SETS FASHION FOR LONDON

London.—The Duchess of York has set the fashion for a one-color scheme in dress with her complete "all brown" outfit. Breaking away from the pastel blues and greys with which she frequently wears, she has been wearing a frock of soft chamoise in a pale shade of brown, which exactly matches her coat of summer ermine—a fur of delicate pale-brown shade. Even the shoes and stockings worn by the Duchess are in the same brown tint and the whole is completed with a close-fitting hat of supple brown felt. In thus keeping to a single-color scheme the Duchess is following the example of Queen Mary, who frequently appears in all grey or mauve. Recently the Queen has been dressed entirely in grey, even to her gloves. A further fashion has been emphasized by the Duchess of York in the length of her dress; for while her dress is full length one, the hem of her dress shows for an inch or so below it, thus setting the seal of her approval on the desire of fashion's experts to introduce the longer skirt. The fact that the Duchess recently adopted the more severe helmet-shaped hat in place of the picture shape may be said to indicate that her taste in dress is diverging a little from the conservative lines on which her toilettes were formerly planned. She has, too, on more than one occasion recently worn dresses of the "picture type."

NO ACCOUNTING OF KLAN FUNDS

Order Once Had 5,000,000 Members and an Annual Income of $60,000,000.

Editor's Note: This is the tenth of a series on the deposition of D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Klan leader, exposing the alleged operations of the Ku Klux Klan.

Chicago, April 18.—In previous articles of his deposition, David C. Stephenson, former Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, has revealed the organization of the order, its change from its original purpose, and methods by which the characters of enemies of the Klan have been blackened.

Today Stephenson reveals from what he declares to be his personal knowledge the tremendous ramifications of the Klan at its peak—5,000,000 members and an annual income of $60,000,000. No accounting has ever been made of this money, Stephenson insists.

Stephenson quoted a magazine article as follows: "Throughout the territory where our (Klan) influence is active, we can point to a steady rise in the character of public officials, an increased respect for law and order and a return of government power in the hands of men and women of American character and instincts."

"In the state of Indiana," said Stephenson in his deposition, "where without a doubt their power is greater than any other place in America, law and order has so broken down and disrespect for the law is so pronounced that there are more men imprisoned in jails in the state of Indiana today than there have been before in her history."

Much Corruption "The character of her state officials both elected and appointed is lower than it has ever been before. For the first time in her history the will of the people has been subordinated to the arrogant defiance of the vested greed, graft and corruption. She has under indictment today more officials than ever before in the history of the commonwealth."

"When the whole state of Indiana was clamoring in 1926 for an opportunity to learn the truth about the gigantic crimes against the taxpayers, one of the most devoted Klan vassals stood before 29 or 30 newspapermen and said: 'To hell with the people, we are running this place,' referring to his activity in preventing exposure of crimes against taxpayers."

"The truth of the matter is, in reference to the articles descriptive of the rise of the character of public officials, that not a single individual who was once a member of the Klan and has since retired would in any respect permit himself to be associated with any program supported by the Klan."

"The very fact that the Klan is favorable to the candidacy of an individual in the state of Indiana is sufficient reason to justify all of the former membership turning against that candidate in blind justice."

"What was the relative strength of the Klan at its height?" Stephenson was asked.

"Perhaps the way to answer most accurately would be to give you the approximate figures in the state over which I had control. At the peak in Indiana or at the time of my resignation, there were approximately 315,000 men, women and junior members of the Klan. There was slightly more than in Ohio. The state of Pennsylvania ran even higher than that figure. In New Jersey the membership was never over 60,000. In New York and the northeast states of the union there were probably 300,000 members."

"Illinois was slightly below Indiana. Michigan was about the same as Indiana and Wisconsin ran 60,000."

"I was told the total membership in the Klan in the United States at that time was about 6,000,000."

He was never given a financial statement, Stephenson said, but a statement was made up in general terms and published to the nation for the purpose of creating the impression that an accurate, detailed accounting was being made. Between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 were taken in, he said.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of these drivers operating motor vehicles.

TALE OF TWO HORSES.

Burlington, Vt.—An incident which occurred near here yields a rare illustration of equine heroism. When the Winoski river overflowed and flooded a stock farm, an old black horse and a young gray horse were caught in the rising waters. Both started to swim for land. Suddenly the old horse faltered, struggled a moment, and went down. The other paused uncertainly. Then the head of the drowning horse appeared above the water and the young horse quickly swam to its side. The old horse fastened its teeth in the others mane and the latter started for the bank, towing his exhausted companion to safety.

ONE IN 12 DRIVERS FORCED TO SHOW FINANCE ABILITY

Motor Vehicle Department Discloses Fact That 23,387 Autoists Had to Give Proof.

It has been found necessary by the state motor vehicle department in the past two years to order more than one-twelfth of all Connecticut car owners to give proof of financial responsibility in case of accident, or to show that they are able to satisfy damage claims arising from collisions. The total number required to file such proof from January 1, 1926 to January 1, 1928 has been 23,387. Some already had insurance and simply had to file evidence while others had to get new evidence of financial responsibility. The proof required in most cases has been liability insurance coverage, cash bonds, securities, or liens on real estate. Accidents resulting in death or injury to persons, or damage to property to the extent of at least $50, and convictions for intoxication, speeding, reckless driving and other offenses, were the major reasons for requiring owners to prove financial responsibility.

Between 60 and 65 per cent. of the owners in Connecticut are now financially qualified, according to a department estimate. The majority have voluntarily established responsibility for the most part through some form of insurance coverage against possible damage claims. Since the first of this year minor registrants have been required by law to become financially qualified, and it is expected that the percentage will be greatly increased.

An outstanding benefit of the law authorizing the department to require proof of financial responsibility from certain owners is that insurance companies are beginning to use the state records before issuing coverage to "doubtful" owners. It has already been the case that insurance companies have refused to give policies to persons convicted of serious motor vehicle offenses or drivers. In such cases the offenders have been faced with the necessity of keeping off the road.

Department officials also expect that another benefit from the law may be a separation of "risks," eventually allowing a person with out a bad record to get a guaranty from an insurance company at a rate lower than that allowed the owner with a poor record. This may also work as a safety factor. It is to be expected that the owner with a good record will do everything possible to avoid accident participation in order to keep his record good.

Ninety-nine owners involved in fatal accidents during the past two years and 871 responsible for injuries to persons were among those required to file proof of financial responsibility before they were allowed to register their cars. Accidents causing damage to property brought the greatest number of owner's 12,922, within the requirement regulation.

Others required to file proof were 2,479 convicted of driving while intoxicated; 3,031 for reckless driving; 2,782 for speeding; 225 for evading responsibility; 450 owners of cars with defective equipment; eight public service vehicle owners; sixteen who failed to obey traffic officers; ninety-three who passed standing trolleys; seventy-five who operated cars without permission of owners and 132 who used improper number plates and registrations.

HOLD DRIVER TO BLAME FOR NEW LONDON CRASH

Grade Crossing a Private Way and Proper Caution Was Not Employed.

Investigations completed yesterday by officials of the City of New London and the New Haven Railroad, have placed the responsibility upon the shoulders of Henry Russell, driver of the car, for the accident in which Mr. and Mrs. George Billings, formerly of Manchester, and Ernest O'Clark of Rockville were killed on Sunday in New London. Officials said that Russell did not exercise proper caution when approaching the Maple avenue grade crossing at which the accident occurred.

It was later disclosed that the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors recently ruled that the crossing is a private way and not owned or controlled by the City of New London.

Witnesses to the accident, including the crew of the switching engine which struck the Russell car, said in effect that the driver of the car had not exercised proper caution when he drove on the railroad tracks.

SMITH KEEPS SILENT

Asheville, N. C., April 18.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York outstanding candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is spending a two weeks' vacation at Asheville and is not on a political tour.

The governor himself had to make this plain today to various southern party stalwarts who sought his appearance in scattered sections of the south. He is not even talking politics while on his vacation. Although his candidacy has been formally projected by the New York state Democratic committee, he revealed today that he planned to make no pronouncement regarding his platform until he returns to Albany. "I'm taking a vacation," the governor reiterated. "I won't have anything to say until I get back to New York. I'm not going to touch any of that business while I'm down here."

Cable Flashes In Foreign News

London, April 18.—Two of the greatest rivals in the automobile industry—Henry Ford and W. R. Morris—will meet here before Mr. Ford sails for home. Morris makes small comparatively cheap cars in England which compare with the Ford in the United States. The meeting will be purely social and it is understood that business will not be discussed.

London, April 18.—Considerable damage was reported done to the Cunarder Alaunia which collided today with a barge off Tilbury. The Alaunia was bound in from New York. No injury was reported among passengers or crew but it is feared plates were spread on the starboard side. The liner proceeded under her own power following the crash. Fog was believed responsible for the collision.

Berlin, April 18.—Miss Anne Marie Tengbom, daughter of a Swedish architect, was married in a church ceremony today to Prince Otto Von Bismarck, grandson of the Iron Chancellor. A simple civil service took place yesterday at a district registrar's office. The bridegroom is secretary to the German legation at Stockholm where he met his bride.

THREE BURNED TO DEATH.

Presque Isle, Maine, April 18.—Three children were burned to death and their mother and a half brother of their parents were seriously injured here today when gasoline was mistaken for kerosene in kindling a fire in the kitchen stove. An explosion rocked the countryside, shattered the house and set it afire.

The dead: Beth Farley, 6; Phyllis Farley, 3 and Georgia Farley, 1.

REDS IN NEW BEDFORD TO CONDUCT MEETINGS

Refuse to Heed Warning of Textile Strike Leaders, to Keep Out of City.

New Bedford, Mass., April 18.—Despite the disapproval of local textile unions and the request to leave the city, the Passaic, N. J., textile mills committee today was continuing preparations for the mass meeting called for this afternoon. William E. G. Gatty, secretary of the New Bedford Textile Council addressing William L. Murdock, secretary-organizer of the mills committee said: "You are professional agitators, Murdock, if you try to start anything here there'll be trouble."

"We will do what we came here to do," Murdock was quoted as saying. Mr. Gatty announced that no attempt will be made by the Textile Council to break up the mass meeting called for today by the visitors from Passaic, but that members of local unions have been advised to stay away.

Reports from the various mills today indicated that the strike, which is in protest of a ten per cent wage cut, was 100 per cent complete. The manufacturer have made preparations to withstand a long siege.

Not Fair

The camera isn't fair! It has caught the lovely features of dainty Ethel Allis but missed her captivating vivacity, the rose-petal color of her skin and the rich brown hair. "So many people tell me about my hair, nowadays," says Miss Allis, whose New York City home is the Embassy Hotel, "that I know what they're going to say when I see them looking at me. 'What do you do to it?' so many ask. I really do very little. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That always gives new sparkle and life to my hair. It keeps it soft and easy to arrange and holds it in place. I was bothered with dandruff before I started using Danderine but it's all gone now. Every application makes my scalp feel just grand. And it keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often as I used to."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair than any shampoo or treatment. It removes all dust, grime and oily film from your hair—tones and refreshes your scalp—gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the 35c bottles. Lovely, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.—Ady.

Campaign Portraits—Gov. Alfred E. Smith

Streets Of East Side Were Al's School

EDITOR'S NOTE: This, the ninth in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Herald and NEA Service by Robert Talley, is the second of four articles on Gov. A. Smith of New York. The third article on Gov. Smith will appear tomorrow.

By ROBERT TALLEY

Albany, N. Y., April 18.—The fact that Al Smith in his boyhood was a talented amateur actor, gifted with a remarkable ability to imitate others, probably explains much of the success that has been his.

An ability to do as others do, to profit and learn by their examples, has bridged the gap in the neglected education of this farmer East Side newsboy and fish market clerk who left school before he was 15 and who now aspires to be the president of the United States.

This uncanny ability to adapt himself has enabled Governor Smith, now 55, to keep up with his opportunities throughout life.

If a man had gone through New York City in 1873, looking for sources of future greatness, he hardly would have bothered to stroll down South street.

South street fringed the lower part of the East Side, flanking the East river. It was lined with wharves and piers where, in a tangle of masts and rigging, ships from all over the world discharged their cargoes. There were sailors' boarding houses, saloons flourished, lines of washing fluttered from tenement windows then as now, and children played in the narrow streets.

In a four room apartment on the fourth floor of a narrow tenement at 174 South street, on Dec. 30, 1873, the only man who has ever been governor of New York four times was born.

His father was a teamster, Alfred E. Smith, Sr., a brawny lion of a man, poor in money but rich in friends. His mother, Catherine Mulvehill Smith, had recently arrived from Ireland and had a brother in the fire department.

The stories that portray Al Smith as having been a dirty kid of the slums are all wrong. His mother kept him clean and neat and instilled ideas of honesty and character in her son.

His parents were devout Catholics, so the church took him early. At 7, he was an altar boy at St. James' church nearby. He held this job until he was 14, often arising at 5 a. m. to reach the church in time for early mass.

When the boy was 13 his father died, after a long illness. His time was planned, but Catherine Mulvehill was not the kind to sit at home and lament her fate. She went out and got a job making umbrellas and Al went forth to make some money in the time-honored way of East Side youngsters—selling papers.

Before he was 15, increasing necessity forced young Smith to quit his classes at St. James' parochial school and get a job. He was first a "business chaser" for a trucking company and later a combination office boy and clerk in an oil company's office.

In the evenings, Al found time to take part in the amateur theatricals staged in the church basement. There were no movies in those days and the plays were largely attended. He could sing and dance or play the part of the deep-eyed villain equally well.

In 1892, when Al was 19, he got a job in the Fulton fish market. He went to work at 4 a. m., worked 12 hours a day and was paid $12 a week, plus all the fish he desired to take home.

A year later he went to work as a steam-fitter—and there politics found him.

In those days, as now, Tammany Hall was not only a political organization, but a social and benevolent organization as well. It was a highly organized machine, with numerous district "clubs."

The ward boss was a man who found jobs for the unemployed, who extended charity to the needy, who staged boat excursions and picnics. Naturally, on election day he "collected" in the form of votes.

Tom Foley, autocratic but kindly boss of the old Seymour Club, enrolled Al as a member. Pretty soon, he was "one of the boys,"

Gov. Al Smith as he looked in 1919, just before he first became chief executive of his state.

helping to keep things running—and round up the votes on election day.

Foley, keen in political wisdom, saw a future for Al, the amateur actor. Foley turned Smith's talents of dramatic eloquence to political speech-making. There began Al Smith, the politician.

When Smith married Miss Catherine Dunn in 1900, he was on the city payroll as a subpoena server at $75 a month. Foley had got him the job.

Tom Foley kept his eye on Al and in 1903, he decided the young man was ready.

"Al, have you got another suit of clothes?" Foley asked one day. Al shook his head and grinned.

"Well," said Foley, "go home and get this suit pressed and be at the club tonight. You're going to run for the assembly."

A short time later, Smith was elected to the lower house of New York's state legislature—the assembly, as it is called.

Lugging a new paste-board suitcase and wearing a brown derby, a loud vest and a louder tie, the new assemblyman went to Albany. He found the assembly a strange, confusing place. His first term was a dismal failure.

Having accomplished nothing, Smith was discouraged and wanted to quit. But Foley, knowing that at least two or three terms are necessary before a man gets his bearings, made him go back in 1905.

Smith's education as a legislator, one might say, began with his second term. Taking Foley's word that success was in store, he pitched into the job to learn everything he could. He dissected dry-as-dust bills, pushed himself forward in committees.

Smith succeeded so well in 1907 he was named to the committee to study and revise the charter of New York City. What he learned there made him an authority on the relation between state and municipal government.

In 1911, Smith was named to the ways and means committee and quickly won a reputation for himself by becoming an authority on pending legislation. There he got his first taste of finances and soon no budget was too complicated for him to assimilate.

After the Triangle Shirtwaist Co. fire in New York in which 145 girls died, Smith was given the task of getting through the assembly a program of remedial factory legislation. That was his first appearance as a champion of the people against "the interests."

A little later he became speaker of the lower house.

Smith lost the speakership when the Republicans came into control in 1914, but in 1915 he won fame as a member of the cons-

KIWANIS MINSTRELS SHOW AT STATE NOW

Benefit Performances For Camp Fund at Theater This Afternoon and Evening; Two Features Tomorrow.

The bigger and better Kiwanis minstrels made their first appearance this afternoon at the State theater and will repeat their show tonight for the benefit of the club's Kiddies Kamp in Hebron. The afternoon performance showed that the minstrels have worked up a smoothly running entertainment and it is expected that tonight's presentation will be better than that of the afternoon.

Tomorrow and Friday will bring to the State two big features, each of a different type but both good. The first is "Dressed to Kill" starring Edmund Lowe and Mary Astor and the second is "Bringing Up Father," with J. Farrell McDonald, Polly Moran, Marie Dressler and Gertrude Olmstead.

"Dressed to Kill" Edmund Lowe, remembered for his splendid work in "What Price Glory?" plays the role of "Mile Away Barry," the master crook, debonair, immaculately dressed, perfectly groomed, patron of the opera and night clubs and consort of silken ladies, in direct contrast to the accepted type of thug who sneaks up on the Republican governor who was running for re-election.

Ben Bard is his chief assistant and Mary Astor plays the leading feminine role, adding her refreshing beauty to the picture, while Charles Morton plays opposite her in the romantic role.

There is much to commend this delightful entertainment. Thrills, laughter, suspense and heart interest, and a story out of the ordinary that retains its interest from beginning to end.

"Bringing Up Father" picture is a literal adaptation of George McManus' famous cartoons. Polly Moran plays Maggie, the redoubtable wife of Jiggs, and Marie Dressler takes the role of Mrs. Dinty Moore. J. Farrell McDonald, well-known character actor, is Jiggs. Gertrude Olmstead, who came to the screen by way of a beauty contest, is the Jiggs' beautiful daughter.

The picture is one long guffaw from beginning to end. It begins when the Jiggses, sturgeon passengers from old Dublin, arrive in America in company with the Dinty Moores, and takes them up to the time they attempt to high tail their corn-beef-and-cabbage origin in their entertainment of nobility at a Long Island show place. If you don't want to laugh till your sides hurt, better stay away from "Bringing Up Father."

A shark's egg is unprovided with shell, but the contestants are protected by a thick, leathery covering as elastic as rubber. Henry IV died of leprosy.

BARLEY-MALT SYRUP AIDS MANY PRODUCTS

Barley-Malt Syrup, or Malt Extract as it is sometimes called, is not a new product. It has been used in various ways for more than 50 years.

As a food, Barley-Malt Syrup was not appreciated for a long time. Its valuable properties, however, were taken advantage of by certain now famous breakfast food manufacturers. Its addition to their products enabled them to make an improved food, both as to flavor and palatability.

The success of these Malt Syrup products was so phenomenal that today the majority of the popular breakfast foods have Barley-Malt Syrup as one of their main constituents.

Experiments were made with other food commodities in order to utilize its valuable qualities. The baking industry, for instance, found it especially suitable for their business. Its uses in the bread formula resulted in a quicker fermentation, larger loaves with velvety texture, rich brown crust and improved appearance of the finished loaf.

The candy industry too found Malt Syrup useful in improving the food value and digestibility of its products.

Malted milk preparations served at the soda fountains owe their popularity to Barley-Malt Syrup, because of the pleasant reaction of taste and flavor and also the additional food value.

DAVID ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD, ward of the state orphanage from the time she was four, is "famed out" to CLEM CARSON when she meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student who is working on farms for the summer. Carson makes remarks about David's friendship with Sally and about her strikes him a terrific blow.

Sally and David see and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally as a sidewalk girl. She successfully eludes detection under the name of "Princess Lalla." NITA, Nita's friend who knows the police are after the newcomers and who is interested with David, threatens to expose Sally if she doesn't keep "hands off" the young student.

The carnival goes next to Capital City, where Sally spent many years in the orphanage. She successfully eludes detection under the name of "Princess Lalla." NITA, Nita's friend who knows the police are after the newcomers and who is interested with David, threatens to expose Sally if she doesn't keep "hands off" the young student.

bushes somewhere with a bullet—"Oh!" Sally screamed, as the full significance of Gus' words burst upon her. She fainted then, her little body slumping into a heap at Bybee's feet, her head striking one of his big shoes and resting there.

When she regained consciousness she was lying in the lower berth which had belonged to NITA, and the midget was kneeling on the pillow beside her head, dabbing her face with a handkerchief soaked in aromatic spirits of ammonia.

"What's the matter? Is it time to get up?" Sally asked dazedly. "What are you doing, Betty?"

The midget answered in her tiny, brisk voice: "I'm bathing your face with ammonia which Mrs. Bybee sent. It should be cooling, and this ammonia will probably dry your skin something dreadful, but it was the only thing we could get. You fainted, you know."

"Oh, I remember!" Sally moaned, her head beginning to throb from side to side on the pillow. "Have they found David? I know he's been hurt!"

"They're looking for him," the midget assured her briskly. "Mr. Bybee took a vote on whether he was to notify the police about David's being gone, as well as Nita, and the vote was 'No.' That ought to make you feel happier!"

"Oh, it does!" Sally began to cry softly. "You have all been so kind, so kind! You said Mrs. Bybee sent the ammonia?" She asked wistfully.

"She certainly did, and she's in the kitchen of the privilege car right now, making you some hot tea. She won't say she's sorry, probably, but she'll try to make it up to you. She'll like that—always trying to be kind and suspicious of everybody, but she's got a heart as big as Babe, the fat girl."

"And so have you!" Sally told her brokenly, taking both of the tiny hands into one of hers and laying them softly against her lips.

The midget yanked the green curtains together with comical fierceness, then crawled under the top of the sheet that covered Sally and Sally, she said, "I don't take up much room."

And the woman who was old enough to be Sally's mother curled her 29-inch body in the curve of Sally's right arm and laid her tiny cheek, as soft and wrinkled as a worn kid glove, in the hollow of Sally's firm young neck.

But long after the midget was asleep, Sally lay wide-eyed and tense in the dark, her mind a welter of fears and love and doubt. She had pleaded passionately with Pop Bybee for David, fiercely showing the depths of her hatred, and her memory of the jealousy which Nita had fendedly aroused in her heart. But now that she had saved him temporarily by convincing Bybee that the boy could not have taken part in the robbery, doubt began to insinuate its tiny body upward from those dark depths where she had buried it.

Did he really love her—a pathetic, immature girl from an orphanage, a girl who had been nothing but a responsibility and a source of dire trouble to him since he had first met and championed her on the Carson farm? Her old feeling of inferiority rose like nausea in her throat. Life in an orphanage is not calculated to give a girl faith in her own beauty and charm. No one, until David's teasing, fond eyes had rested upon her, had thought her beautiful.

Had he been only sorry for her, glad of an opportunity to "blot" her out of the state where he was wanted on two serious charges? Was he dismayed, too, by the fact that moonlight had tricked him into telling her that he loved her, thus adding the responsibility of her future to the burden of protecting her in this hectic present?

Then a sweeter, saner memory clamored for attention. She heard again his fond, husky voice caressing her, his "Dear little Sally!" And involuntarily her mouth pursed in memory of his kiss, that kiss that had left her giddy with delight.

How unforgettably kind and sweet he had been since that first day, when he had strode into her life, with the sun on his chestnut hair and the glory of the sun in his eyes. He had not failed her once, but she was falling him now, by doubting him, by picturing him as a fugitive in the dark, fleeing with a pair of criminals who had robbed the man whose kindness had protected him from the law.

Why, she must be crazy to think for a moment that David could do a thing like that! No one in the world was as good and kind and honorable as David.

But where was he? Mrs. Bybee had left him to guard the train. Not for a moment could she believe that he had failed to visit. Faithfully, Sally tried to visit. The dreadful thing that had happened, David alone, patrolling the train, his eyes sharp for intruders. Then—the sudden appearance of Nita and the man, Steve, weighted down with the contents of the safe they had robbed. For Sally knew that the robbery must have taken place before David caught his first glimpse of the crooks. Otherwise the safe would be intact now, even if David's death had been as silent as a mouse. That he had fulfilled his trust, that he had shuddered away from that imagined picture, went back to the painful reconstruction of what must have taken place. David had seen them, had given chase. Of course! Otherwise he would be here now. Was he still pursuing them, or was he trying some other plan? He was trying some splendid young body ingenuously hung into a cornfield?

She could bear no more, could no longer lie safe in her berth while David needed her somewhere very far away, an endurance test, she lifted the tiny body that nestled against her side and laid it tenderly upon the pillow, which was big enough to serve as a mattress for the midget. Then, sobbing soundlessly, she groped down into the little green hammock swung across the windows; found them, put them on, slipped to the edge of her berth. She was profoundly thankful that the girls had not undressed her after she had fainted.

When she reached the car in which Mr. and Mrs. Bybee occupied a stateroom she saw the showman and his wife through the open door, talking to two strangers whom she guessed to be plainclothes policemen from police headquarters of Capital City. The two men were evidently about to leave, nodding impatiently that they understood, when Sally appeared, like a frightened, pale little roset in green-and-white-striped gingham.

She forgot that she was without make-up, that the police were looking for her as well as for the criminals who had robbed the safe. But Pop Bybee had not forgotten. Still talking with the plainclothes policemen, he motioned for her to step behind his back. She turned and forced herself to walk slowly and sedately toward the other end of the car as the detectives made their farewells and their brusque promises of "quick action."

When the men had left, the car Bybee's voice summoned her in a husky stage whisper, calling her "Lalla," so that the detectives, if they were listening, should not identify her with the girl who had run away from the orphanage in the company of a man wanted on a charge of assault with the intent to kill.

"Are you crazy?" Bybee demanded hoarsely when she had come running to the stateroom. "They was dicks! Policemen, understand? They might nabbed you. What are you doing up? Get back to bed and try to sleep."

"Have you found David?" she quavered, brushing aside his anxiety for her.

"Not a sign of him." Bybee shook his head. "But I didn't spill the beans to the dicks. I'd given you my word, and Winfield Bybee's word is as good as his bond."

"I'm going to look for David," she announced simply, but her pleading eyes dared him to try to prevent her. "He's hurt somewhere—or killed. I'm going to find him."

And before the astonished man or his wife could stretch out a hand to detain her she was gone. When she dropped from the platform of the car she heard the retreating foot of the police car. Instinctively she turned her in the opposite direction, away from the city, down the railroad tracks leading into the open country.

She did not know and would not have cared that Mr. and Mrs. Bybee were following her. Mrs. Bybee muttering disgustedly but refusing to let Sally search alone for the boy in whom she had such implicit faith.

Dawn was breaking, pale and wan, in a sky that was shamelessly cloudless and serene after the violence of last night's storm, when, over a slight hill, a man's figure loomed suddenly, then seemed to drag with unbearable weariness as it plodded toward the show train.

"David!" Sally shrieked. "David!"

She began to run, her ankles turning against clots of clinders, but her arms outstretched, a glory greater than that of the dawn in her face.

(To Be Continued)

David has been shot, but he is able to tell his story in the next chapter.

Keeps Her Marriage to Pianist Secret 4 Years.

Here is the beautiful Betty Short, 21-year-old piano student, who announced the other day that for years she had been married to a man named Josef Hofmann (inset), the pianist. The couple have a son, Anton, two and a half years old. Miss Short is the musician's second wife, and is 31 years his junior. The last romance started when Miss Short and Hofmann met at a musicale. "I think we both fell in love on the spot," she explained.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Mom, dear:

Here's where you get the surprise of your life. I went, alone and unprotected, to the lion's den. And I came out with a piece.

Now I'll tell you what those plans are—those I referred to in a previous letter. I knew when Michello asked me to pose for him that it was purely a business proposition. Don't ask me how I knew. Even girls of your day must have known when they appealed to a man as a man. I knew I hadn't clicked with Michello. He didn't seem to be interested in me as an addition to his love gallery.

There were others, I admit, at the party who took notice of me after the show in a warmly personal way, but Michello was; not one of them. He told me that he liked my figure and wanted to sketch me in poses of the dance. They're to be used in illustrating a book on the origin of modern dancing.

He's going to do a series. It will take some time as he can't work steadily on them. He has three portraits under way now and several more ordered. Some day I hope he will do one of me but his prices are stiff. I thought he might offer to do it for less if I posed for him but he insists upon paying me for my work.

And say, Mom, maybe you think it isn't work. Gosh, I'm full of crinks and knots that I know will never come out. It may sound like the life of Riley standing up there on a date and just holding still but it's torture after a while. I don't think I'll ever be able to do the Black Bottom again, except in slow motion.

Michello says these poses are unusually trying but I can think of easier ways to get money than by posing for it. Coaxing it out of a husband is one but I'd rather take the harder way and earn it. There's a mental compensation. It will be a thrill to have a little money of my own again. Of course Alan and I get along pretty well on the arrangement we made in the beginning about just holding still but there have been unexpected uses for a little cash that bob up now and then which make a prenuptial agreement nothing but a scrap of paper.

If the series and my bones hold out I'll be able to start a savings account.

Dearest love,
MARYE.

"You're not going to break your promise to Sally, are you, Mr. Bybee?" the tiny voice piped shrilly. "I'm listening, Miss Tanner."

Pop Bybee acknowledged wearily. "And I swear I don't know what to say or do. If they get clear away with that money the show'll be stranded. Every cent I had in the world was in that safe. MILK LOSES VALUABLE SALTS WHEN BOILED

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

From time to time experiments have been made in the feeding of milk, changing the form of the milk, preparation and studying the effects on children fed with this most complete of human foods.

Experiments have been reported which show that the boiling of milk interferes somewhat with its content of mineral salts, particularly calcium and phosphorus, and that young animals fed on heated milk alone are likely to develop rickets.

When children are fed on boiled milk they must be given increasing quantities of cod liver oil in order to improve the growing-promoting properties, which are to some extent destroyed by the heating of the milk.

Milk is also depended upon by the child in many places for getting its supply of iodine. Although the supply of iodine necessary to that human body is relatively small in amount, it must be kept up to a definite level or the child will develop symptoms related to the thyroid gland.

Investigators in Aberdeen have now carried out a series of experiments to find out what happens to the iodine in milk when the food is boiled before serving.

It was found that heat would cause 20 per cent or more of the iodine in milk to pass into the as sort of magic land with Aladdin's lamp in the cupboard.

One responsible for many of these unions, an eminent divine with a sense of humor, has posted a list of rules, a decalogue of married peace, so to speak, for the aid of those young people sensible enough to follow.

Not the least of these rules reads thus: "It isn't fair! I've been married three years now and so far I haven't had a single thing I'd been led to expect a bride was entitled to."

"What did you expect?" asked the friend.

"Well, I never dreamed the man I married couldn't give me a decent house to begin with, and some kind of a car. I'd be satisfied with just a little one. I can't get used to street cars. And it never occurred to me that I couldn't have help. We can't take trips, we can't entertain, we can't do anything."

The friend, an older woman, patted the girl kindly. "I know, dear. It's all wrong. Not wrong that you haven't these things, but that you remember well that your husbandn't them, either—but wrong that all you young girls have been brought up to think of marriage

How Much Water Should Baby Get?

A Famous Authority's Rule

By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty-cent bottles contain thirty-five doses—Adv.

Manager Clune Denies Professionalism Story

Says Meeting Was Simply to Pass Vote of Thanks to Those Who Had Helped Team and to Talk of Next Year's Prospects.

Ben Clune, manager of the town champion Rec Fire, said this morning that there wasn't any truth to the story published yesterday stating that the members of the team discussed playing professional baseball next season at a so-called secret meeting held before last.

His stand was backed up by some of the players although at least two members admitted the matter was discussed but no agreement was reached. Manager Clune says the meeting was not a secret affair and that the principal object was to pass votes of thanks to those who had helped the team during the season and to discuss plans for keeping together next season.

Inasmuch as Manager Clune contradicts the story verbatim and because of the controversy which has arisen, the Herald sports editor today called a member of the Recreation Center Committee requesting that any action they might take toward reimbursing the Rec players at their regular meeting this afternoon, might not be influenced by the disputed article.

Burt Shotten says that his Phils will finish ahead of the Brooklyn Robins, anyway. Your Uncle Wilbert wants to know where he gets that "we" stuff.

The rumor that Jack Slattery was going to lose his job as manager of the Bostonese has been probably generally denied. Since learned that Houdin's dead.

Cobb and Speaker were presented with radio sets before one of the games in New York the other day. They won't have to go to the neighbors to hear the world series games in the fall.

The name of the Italian fly-weight champion is Giovanni Sili. With a name like that he ought to be able to get into some of those heavyweight elimination bouts next year.

Tunney has signed a contract with Rickard giving Tex his "exclusive" services during 1928. It should have read "exclusive and elegant."

Jack Sharkey vs. Jack Delaney—April 30. Will May never come?

"A guarantee of $50,000,000 would not draw me into the ring again," says old Jacques. Slice ours a little thicker, John.

Yale beat Michigan for the swimming supremacy by an inch. Just how they measured that inch is O'Goody's question.

A FEW OF THE BRITISH SPORTS WRITERS ACTUALLY DOUBT THAT HEENEY WILL BE ABLE TO BEAT TUNNEY. THERE OUGHT TO BE SOME WAY TO PUNISH SUCH DISLOYALTY.

A British sports writer is a man who starts out to write about boxers and, in the second paragraph, takes up the noble subject of "gowl."

That isn't so illogical as it sounds. British fighters are very often better gifiers, than they are fighters. In fact, they couldn't be much worse.

One of the New York boxing managers, Walter Friedman, has gone to Europe to "scour the country for a new heavyweight champion." We just hope he took along plenty of soap.

A young Filipino boxer coming to the front is called Silvio Silvino Jamito. That last name is pronounced HAM - EET - O. He wouldn't have to eat very hard to chew up all the hams exhibited recently.

A Delaney-Sharkey match seems certain. Every possible way to stave it off failed, and it really is going to happen.

Rec Girls Lose at New Britain

After a three weeks' layoff, the Rec Girls basketball team journeyed to New Britain last night and was defeated by the P. & F. Corbin team, winners of the Hardware City Industrial League.

The score was 19 to 13. At half-time, Manchester was leading by one point, 9 to 8 but in the second half, the home team roved a bit superior. The Manchester team did remarkably well considering the handicap of a long layoff.

ONE MAY DO IT AGAIN

Six times in the past seven years, American entries have won the British open golf championship. Jack Hutcheson started it in 1921, Hagen in 1922 and 1924, Jim Barnes in 1925 and Jones in 1926 and 1927. A. G. Havers, a Britisher, won it in 1928.

THINGS HE WILL WIN

"If I didn't think I had a good chance to win I wouldn't be here," Jim Barnes told British golf writers when he arrived in England to start practice for the British open. Barnes, one of the six American entries who have won the last seven tournaments, copped the prize in 1926.

Murphy's Girls Lose By Narrow Margin

The Casino Girls of Hartford won two out of three games from Murphy's Girls in a state league bowling match last night at Murphy's alleys. However, in doing so, they were very hard pressed.

Manchester won the first game by six pins and then lost the next two by eight and two respectively. All three games were exciting and marked by thrilling finishes. In the final game, Jennie Lucas made a spare with nine on it in the ninth box, Manchester losing by two timbers. Gee and Lucas were high scorers. The summary:

Major League Standings

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

American League: Cleveland 6, Detroit 4; Chicago 4, St. Louis 2; New York-Boston (cold); Washington-Philadelphia (rain). National League: Chicago 3, St. Louis 2 (10 in.); Pittsburgh-Cincinnati (rain); Philadelphia-New York (cold); Boston-Brooklyn (cold).

THE STANDINGS

Table showing Major League Standings for American and National Leagues, including teams, wins, losses, and percentages.

GAMES TODAY

Eastern League: Bridgeport at Hartford; New Haven at Albany; Springfield at Providence; Pittsfield at Waterbury. American League: Detroit at St. Louis; Chicago at Cleveland; Washington at Philadelphia; New York at Boston. National League: Boston at Brooklyn; Philadelphia at New York; Cincinnati at Chicago. Others not scheduled.

NO NOVICE AS MANAGER

Although this is Bill McKee's first year as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, he is no first-year manager. He managed the Pittsburgh Pirates for five years from 1921-25.

GOLDMAN SHOWS PROMISE

Jonah Goldman, former Syracuse University baseball star, has shown such talent with the Cleveland Indians this spring that he is likely to be carried the whole season.

PHILLIES GET NEW CATCHER

The Philadelphia National League club acquired Walter Leelan, a catcher from the Eastern League just prior to the opening of the season as a reserve backstopper.

JINX TO EDDIE MORGAN

When Eddie Morgan played football in Chicago several seasons ago as a member of the Tulane Greentians, he was hurt. A few days ago, he went to Chicago to make his major league debut—and was hurt again.

THOMASON IN TROUBLE

Unless "Stumpy" Thomason, Georgia Tech's brilliant halfback of last year, makes up certain scholastic deficiencies, he will not perform for the Golden Tornado next fall.

Tex Rickard's threat to send Gene Tunney and Tom Heene to London for their heavyweight thing is a queer angle to a very queer heavyweight situation.

It was a threat or a dodge, as the boys in the racket call it, but they can't figure the angle for a threat. The New York boxing commission already is committed to approval of Heene or six bums and the New York public always is committed to a sucker role. So wh? the threat?

Rickard, in a sane moment, and he usually is sane in all his moments, never would think of trying to stage a heavyweight championship in England when he was obligated to the extent of a million dollars. The Bank of England is there, of course, but it is very well guarded.

Eddie Kane and Tom Gibbons know the capacity of the British public and their willingness to spend large dough. Kane and Gibbons put on a benefit in London several years ago against Jack Bloomfield and the poor promoter went into an asylum, mentally gone after the fight.

English Not Educated

According to the current rate of exchange an English pound is about the same as five bucks in good American but in London a "fint" is much more treasured than a "fint" is around Sucker Row in New York. Anyone who has been in England knows how many native subjects could be counted upon to pay ten pounds to see a colonial fight Tunney.

The regard in which Tunney is held as a fighter is much lower in England than it is in this country and there are doubts, that Tunney can draw here like Rickard wants a champion to draw. Heeney also is more or less of a stranger in London and the mere warring of a New Zealand standard will not open the pocketbook of London for $2,000,000.

The Wembley stadium, where the fight might be held outside London, is twice as big as the Chicago stadium and that means the customers could be seated twice as far away from the ring as they were in Chicago. But those careful British customers won't sit that far back. They haven't been educated into the sucker class yet by the British promoters.

Then there is the subject of taxes. By the time a dear Gem took his purse, paid his expenses, whacked up the gross between His Majesty's revenue department and the income tax fellows in Washington he would have very little but the glory left and he might not have much of that.

The British customers have been looking all their lives at fighters of the type of Tunney. Stand up boxer.

GIANTS WON MOST IN ROW

The New York Giants, by winning 20 games in succession in 1918, have the distinction of the longest winning streak ever made by a major league team.

Campus Comment BOB MATHERNE

Not very long ago Dartmouth decided to abandon spring football practice. Immediately there popped up the usual cry—"Why Spring Football?" Perhaps it was because of Dartmouth's actions, one of her traditional rivals, the Harvard officials saw fit to declare five reasons for spring football practice in a recent issue of the Harvard Athletic News. Those reasons are:

- 1. It affords another option for enjoyable exercise in the spring. 2. It affords opportunities for experiments, which the intensity of the fall season does not permit. 3. It enables men to get more individual training in specialties such as kicking and passing. 4. It enables the "unbeatable" players to get closer contacts with the coaches than is possible in the fall. 5. It gives these same players a fairer chance to show their ability than can be given in the fall. To which we add—it makes for better football games!

Coach W. H. Thom at Indiana favors elimination of decisions in Big Ten wrestling meets. He would have only falls counting for points. His reason is that with only falls counting for points the stalling that now accompanies them. His idea seems to have found sympathy among Big Ten wrestling coaches.

Track and baseball practice couldn't and therefore prevent many students from making varsity letters in the two sports the same season. Tom Mills of Texas A. & M. seems exceptional. He is one of the best broad and high jumpers of his section and in addition holds down a pitcher's job during the baseball season. He also plays football.

Three athletic stars at California go in heavy for dramatics. "Briek" Marcus gained his fame in football, Bobby Sellar is one of the most prominent junior tennis players in this country, and Hubert Caldwell rows in the varsity shell, but when campus productions get under way they always are good bets to be given parts in the play.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE New York, April 18—The 168-game baseball season of the International League starts today with nearly all of the eight clubs conceding a chance to win the pennant. The weaker clubs, notably Reading, have been strengthened and a most successful season is anticipated. The Newark club, managed by Walter Johnson, is favored to finish in first place although it is crippled by injuries at present.

ONE MAY DO IT AGAIN Six times in the past seven years, American entries have won the British open golf championship. Jack Hutcheson started it in 1921, Hagen in 1922 and 1924, Jim Barnes in 1925 and Jones in 1926 and 1927. A. G. Havers, a Britisher, won it in 1928.

TWO VETERANS ARE GONE Urban Shocker and Bob Shawtey, two veteran pitchers who proved of much aid to the fankees last year, are not with the club this season.

Tunney Retired Dempsey And Picked Tom Heeney

Said If Jack Did Not Fight In June He Would Not Meet Him—Then He Named Heeney.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, April 18.—In the wake of George L. Rickard's return to the land of the sky blue cheek bone came a potpourri of affirmations today that seemed to prove that full details of the bout in July for the world's heavyweight championship—including the selection of Thomas Heeney, the honest boloney, as challenger—are being very capably handled by James Joseph Tunney.

The first of these, as should be provided to be the most important. It was to the effect that Tunney had more to do with Jack Dempsey's "retirement" than any other individual identified with the matter, not exclusive of Dempsey himself. Tunney was said to have effected this pass by insisting that Dempsey fight him in June or not at all. The alternative, being more in keeping with Dempsey's idea of the situation, proved to be the more acceptable, it seems.

The Ultimatum
"Dempsey either will fight me in June or he will not fight me again at any time," Tunney was quoted as having declared. "Unless he accepts the June date, I know he won't fight me again because I shall refuse to fight him at this statement was made in New York today and this word can be accepted as thoroughly reliable. He declared that Tunney had gone on to explain that his two-fight plan was directly predicted on this program: First, Dempsey; second, the winner of the elimination tournament.

Dempsey, it seems, refused to be the first victim and was ruled off the turf, pronto, making further build-up of the elimination contest unnecessary. The choice of Heeney was then made by Tunney over the strenuous objection of Jess Michon, who not only had been Rickard's matches but most of his decisions. He didn't make this one because it already had been made for Rickard by the champion.

Rickard himself admitted this today, according to Danny Dunn, manager of Johnny Risko, who called upon the promoter to discover, if possible, what had happened to the heavyweight elimination tournament. The admission was directly contradictory to Rickard's personal statement to newspapermen yesterday but then, if you must try to follow these gentlemen around, you will do well to pick your hobby horse before the rest of them are gone.

In line with this, Rickard declared yesterday that he, personally, had picked July as the date for the enterprise because he felt it would work out just as favorably as an engagement in September. From sources close to both men, it was discovered today that Rickard yielded on this point only after a prolonged protest. Brother Tunney, it seemed, desired to tour Europe later in the season and had no wish to have his plans upset by a promoter's whim.

ALL SEVENTHS WINNERS
Barnard School boys and girls witnessed an interesting game of basketball at the Rec Tuesday afternoon. A team of eighth grade boys known as "The Sports" challenged L. E. All-Sevenths because the latter had already won one game with them. Both teams did good work. Although "The Sports" lost by a score of 7 to 9 they exemplified their title. In the near future "The Sports" coupled with two more experienced players, the team known as Miss Swensen's class, will play the All-Sevenths. The result ought to be easily foretold. Although the younger team has played splendidly, it feels it is no match for experienced eighth grade teams.

GENE VS. TOM IN JULY—AND WHAT OF IT?

Farrell Tells How Tom Drew Rickard's Attention

Editor's Note: This the fifth of six articles by Henry L. Farrell, The Herald and NEA Service sports writer, telling the interesting story of Tom Heeney, who fights Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship in July, and his manager, Charley Harvey, who finally received a "break."

By HENRY L. FARRELL
NEA Service Sports Writer.
Tex Rickard's office in New York was hounded so much by Charley Harvey in his quest for some work for Tom Heeney that the attendants around the Garden felt the only decision was to throw Heeney in with some good fellow and get him knocked off.

Harvey finally was pinned down in the offices of the great man and was sincere in his statement that Heeney would fight anyone and wouldn't want half the building for his end.

As usual, Harvey was sincere and produced a pen.

There was at that time another persistent person around the Garden attended by so many managers that they were termed his "board of directors."

Paulino, just in from Europe, wanted some work also and Rickard saw in him the color, if nothing else, of a prospect for his elimination tournament.

They knew that Paulino was tough. One of those fellows who couldn't be stopped. Not a fancy fighter but a tough one. Made other fellows look bad even when he lost. Something like Willie Meehan, Harry Greb and Johnny Risko.

Rickard wanted to use him but he didn't want him to make any of the fighters in the so-called "trust" look bad. Jim Maloney, Jack Sharkey and Jack Delaney were the hot prospects for the heavy-weight eliminations and Rickard didn't want any bums musing them up. He had two bums on his hands, he thought, in Heeney and Paulino. Why not let them fight and no harm would come of it?

Paulino's board thought Heeney was a push-over because he was Brit and they took the match. Heeney accepted also because he had to have the dough and because Harvey told him—"By jimminy crickets, you can beat that fellow! Stop him maybe."

'GLUE BALL' THE LATEST

New York, April 18.—The "Glue Ball" is the latest freak pitching delivery to worry National League batsmen.

Alleging that Charley Robertson doctored balls with glue smeared on his glove thereby causing them to "sail" in an eccentric manner, Manager Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn has sent a telegram to President John A. Heydler of the National League protesting Boston's 3 to 2 victory over Brooklyn on Monday.

William Haywood, Oregon track coach, will assist Lawson Robertson on the Olympic coaching squad again this year. It is his fifth trip abroad with the American Olympic squad.

Millions for citizens military training but not one cent for citizens health training.

It seems that children do not pay any more attention to their parents than the parents do to them.

There's usually a lot to be said for both sides, but not in the case of a jazz phonograph record.

"An Old Prayer Still Good." Give me a good digestion, Lord, and also something to digest. Give a healthy body, Lord, with sense enough to keep it at its best. Give me a healthy mind, good Lord, to keep the good and pure in sight.

Which, seeing sin, is not appalled, but finds a way to set it right, Give me a mind that is not bound, that does not whimper, whine or sigh.

Don't let me worry overmuch about a fussy old thing called I. Give me a sense of humor, Lord; give me the grace to see a joke. To get some happiness out of life and pass it on to other folk.

Patient: "Doctor, I can't tell how I feel, I am anyhow, it took me suddenly. I don't know how—I am not very well, I can't tell you why."

Doctor: "Take this prescription for I don't know what the chemist take I don't know how many times a day and you'll be cured—I don't know when."

Many of the old time clinging vines now have granddaughters who are ramblers!

First Manchester Flapper—Have you ever been painted in oil? Second Ditto—Heavens, no! How do you get it off at night?

With all the beefing that's been done about the war debt, all that America has received so far is a roast.

All Is Vanity Case! One longs for old-fashioned reserve Whenever a flapper he meets Who proceeds with a case-hardened nerve To make a boudoir of the streets.

LETTER GOLF FOR BACKYARD GARDENS

This is the season of the year when it's easy (according to the see catalogues) to PLANT and get CROPS. In letter golf, it's a par six, but you may be able to beat the solution on another page.

Grid for Letter Golf with columns labeled PLANT and CROPS.

THE RULES.

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus change COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2—You can change only one letter at a time. 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

We're beginning to believe atoms will some day be separated and enumerated. We see by the woman's page that a sport suit has been made in three pieces.

Does a doctor take no medicine because he has good health, or have good health because he takes no medicine?

The world was better when there were fewer billboards and more washboards.

THE ANYMATES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.

The wooden man soon dipped and turned until the Tinymites all learned that he knew how to fly real well, so they were not afraid. Said Carpy, "We will be all right as long as we all hang on tight. Don't do a thing to check his flight, or we will be delayed."

The flying man began to glide, and landed on the mountain side. "Hop off my back!" he loudly cried, "and wait right here for me." The Tinymites did, without a word. The man sailed outward, toward the bird. The Tinymites heard him shout, "A pretty fight you now will see."

(The Tinymites find Clowny in the next story.)

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Robert L. Lathrop entertained the Octette Bridge club with a luncheon bridge yesterday at her home on Academy street. The floral decorations were pink tulips and the color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the courses, the table settings and prizes. Mrs. E. B. Inman won first prize and Mrs. Harold Pater, second.

Mrs. William Crawford, president of the Ladies' Guild of St. Mary's church, heads the committee in charge of the food sale which the members will hold Saturday afternoon in the basement of the J. W. Hale company's store. Her assistants will be Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Mrs. Robert McKay, and Mrs. Harry Armstrong. The ladies are requested to have their food at Hale's store as soon after 2 o'clock Saturday as possible.

The usual Saturday evening dance will be held this week at the Highland Park Community club-house. Cass's orchestra will play and Cornelius Foley will call off the old-time numbers.

Mrs. Addie William formerly of this town but who now makes her home with her mother in Moosup, was the guest yesterday of Mrs. O. F. Toop of Wadsworth street.

The Justamere Whist club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Grace Lathrop of 37 Benton street.

Many local Grangers are in attendance at the sessions of East Central Pomona Grange at Wapping this afternoon and evening. A business meeting was called at 4 o'clock supper will be served at 6:30 and during the evening the fifth degree will be conferred.

Clarence L. Taylor of West Center street has sold his residence to Louis Villa of Hillstown. The transfer was made through the Arthur A. Knoke agency.

Another of the modern old-fashioned dances will be given tomorrow night at Jenck's Lone Oak dance hall, Pleasant Valley. Bill Waddell's Orchestra will provide the music and Fred Taylor will prompt.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ferrell and family who have lived for upwards of ten years on Delmont street have moved to a house on the corner of Foster and Hawley streets.

Mrs. Cora Johnson of 195 North Main street has been entertaining her mother, Mrs. Fred Littlefield of Moosup and her son Warren who has been home from Mount Hermon school for the spring vacation.

David Housen of Housen's Depot Square Garage, is spending a week's vacation in New York. He drove to the big city yesterday in company with Gustave M. Kahn, north end tobacco warehouse manager.

COMMITTEE TO MEET

Chairman Charles W. Holman Calls Meeting of Board For Tomorrow Night.

A meeting has been called by Charles W. Holman, chairman of the local entertainment committee preparing for the 10th anniversary convention and dinner of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A., to be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms tomorrow evening. It is expected that the convention on May 14 will be the most widely-attended of any in the ten years of the association's history.

A special program for the occasion is being planned which will include a pageant being prepared by Rev. Truman H. Woodward. A speaker of national renown is being secured to make the principal address. Harry Hedley Smith, the man who organized the Hartford County Y. M. C. A., now general state secretary of the Connecticut State Y. M. C. A. committee, has accepted an invitation to attend. The local entertainment committee consists of: Charles W. Holman, chairman; George Rix, Lawrence W. Case, George Nichols, Frank Cheney, Jr., George Keith, James Irvine, Wells Strickland, Fayette Clarke, Jerry Fay, Clarence P. Quimby, Ray Pillsbury, Calvin Davidson, Earl Rogers and Jay E. Rand.

ENGAGEMENT.
Mr. and Mrs. David Treadwell of Danbury announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lillian M. Treadwell, of the Ninth District schools here, to Stuart G. Segar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Segar of 110 Main street. Mr. Segar is a bond salesman for a Hartford concern.

JOBERT—MURRAY

GIVE THE BUS CREDIT

Nearly everybody keeps an account with the family automobile. Most folks can tell pretty closely what it costs to keep the old bus in commission. They don't forget to charge up the gas and oil, the tires and the repair bills. And sometimes they shake their heads and wonder whether they can afford it.

But they almost never remember to put down items that belong on the credit side.

One of these, for instance, is the great freedom of movement the old car gives in the matter of buying things. No longer is the housewife restricted to one or two or three markets and groceries because that's all that are within a practicable distance. She can go where she pleases—where she knows that she is going to get quality and right prices.

Here's Pinehurst, as an example. Pinehurst isn't a mere neighborhood store by any manner of means. Far from it. If it were it couldn't begin to carry the variety of food commodities it does—some of them quite unusual. No one neighborhood could justify such a stock, such variety.

Here we are, in a residential neighborhood, half way between two major divisions of the town, with customers all over Manchester. A great many people who live a mile or two away are just as regular in their visits here as our friends from around the corner or over the way.

The automobile ought to be credited with the money savings and the satisfaction that comes from this freedom. Put them into figures and many times you'll be surprised to find how little the old bus is costing, after all.
