GUILFOYLE PLANNED TO SKIP AWAY

State's Attorney Alcorn Says He Will Prove This By Documentary Evidence.

Hartford, Conn., April 19.—"I propose to show by documentary evidence that Dr. Guilfoyle was making plans to leave the country by steamship, and that he had his plan in mind on the night of the shooting. I propose to show that he was enamored of this woman and he planned to have her leave with him if she would."
So State's Attorney H. M. Alcorn today told the three Superior Court judges who are trying Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, federal veterinarian, for first degree murder in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Max J. Gaudet, of New Haven, here last January.

The state's attorney attempted to introduce a note found in the Guilfoyle apartment. A long discussion followed as to whether it took place. The note was barred as evidence but was ordered marked for identification.

Premeditated Murder

The state claims this was premeditated murder. Mr. Alcorn declared in arguing for admission of the note. While the note itself was not read in court, the tenor of the court discussion indicated that it contained a reference to a farewell and a possible suicide.

Detective-Sergeant Joseph H. Quinn, of the Hartford force, was on the stand when the note was produced. He told of having found it in a trunk in the Guilfoyle apartment here after the shooting. With him, he said, were Edward J. Hickey, county detective, and Franz J. Carlson, city prosecutor.

Defense Objects

John T. Robinson, of defense counsel, promptly objected on the ground that the note had no bearing on the case. Mr. Robinson showed the note to Dr. Guilfoyle. The doctor appeared amused by it. Mr. Alcorn then threatened his declaration as to his intention of producing documentary evidence of Dr. Guilfoyle's plan for flight. He ended by declaring:

"What this paper indicates is a design to do at some time what was done on the night of the shooting."
Mr. Robinson retorted: "It is obvious that this note was printed years ago." From this remark it was taken that the note was in hand printing. Mr. Robinson declared "it is not connected with this case in any way and it is not relevant."
"The state does not declare nor claim by evidence that Dr. Guilfoyle printed this note, or that it had been printed within the last

HOPPE GOES BACK TO VERMONT JAIL

Notorious Criminal Shot in Hartford, Must Finish 15 Year Sentence.

Hartford, Conn., April 19.—Stephen Hoppe went to Windsor, Vermont, today, to complete the remainder of a fifteen-year term for the shooting of a Proctorsville, Vermont, streetcar driver several years ago. Hoppe waived extradition when Vermont officers came to town with papers from the governor of Vermont, and before noon was placed, shackled, between the Vermonters on a train bound north.

Thus the state of Connecticut finished its experience with a man said to be a notorious criminal, escaped from prisons of two states, and wanted as an alleged murderer in a third state. Maine wants Hoppe as a man who worked his way out of the state prison there. Massachusetts desires to get him to answer for the murder of a Quincy police officer.

Caught Here

Connecticut became custodian of Hoppe after an alert Hartford policeman spotting an automobile with one license plate, waited for the driver to re-appear and when the driver started to flee on foot, brought him down with a revolver shot. In the car were found money bags from a Norwich theater, and after the bags had been secured Norwich reported that a theater safe had been blown a few hours before. The prisoner, badly wounded, was identified as Hoppe.

The shooting of Hoppe occurred in January. For months he was at death's door. Then he recovered. Meanwhile Hoppe's record became apparent, and Vermont finally presented a clear cut case. Hoppe escaped there and later was caught in a robbery in Maine and sent to the Maine state prison.

AT BASE OF BREMEN RESCUE OPERATIONS

This NEA photo shows a view of the shore of Murray Bay, near Quebec, the concentration point for rescuers who sought to reach the stranded trans-Atlantic airplane Bremen on Greenly Island, Labrador. On the ice are three monoplane that were being held in readiness. It was to this landing place that Duke Schiller and Major James Fitzmaurice flew for spare parts for the Bremen.

DISPUTE OVER BLACKLIST OF D. A. R. CHECKED

President Rules "Insurgents" Resolution Cannot Be Brought on the Floor; Delegates Voting Today.

Washington, April 19.—The D. A. R. "Blacklist" fight was sidetracked today.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general, ruled that protest could not be brought to the floor without first being considered by the resolutions committee. The committee, controlled by the administration, is expected to pigeon hole them.

ELECTING OFFICERS.

Washington, April 19.—Chief interest in the election today of seven vice presidents general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was centered in the candidacy of Mrs. Henry B. Joy, of Detroit for one of the vacancies, because of the disclosure that the wife of the former Packard motor company president had been the target of a "poisoned pen" writer.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the society, threw consternation into the ranks of those opposed to Mrs. Joy's election when she publicly denounced from the platform the writer of an anonymous communication attacking her husband's attitude in opposition to the 18th Amendment.

Election Assured.

Reaction to the counter attack by the D. A. R. leader on behalf of Mrs. Joy was that Mrs. Joy's election, if ever doubtful, was now assured by a substantial majority.

The candidates for the seven vacancies beside Mrs. Joy are Mrs. H. Eugene Chubbuck, of Illinois; Mrs. Watterman Harrison Conaway, of West Virginia; Mrs. James Lathrop Gavlin, of Indiana; Mrs. Brooke Gwathmey White, of Florida.

SERIES OF EARTHQUAKES ROCKS ALL BULGARIA

Millions in Property Damage; Many Towns and Cities Deserted—Few Details.

Sofia, Bulgaria, April 19.—The population of a large part of Bulgaria was panic stricken today by the series of earthquakes that rocked nearly the entire kingdom throughout the night. The property damage was heavy.

It is feared that the casualties will be severe.

Nearly the whole population of this city deserted their homes although no deaths were reported here. There were casualties in the suburbs, however.

A terrific rainstorm followed the tremors. Men, women and children, dressed only in their night clothes, huddled in the fields during the night, chilled by stormy winds and drenched with rain.

Philippopolis, in the southern part of the nation, bore the brunt of the shock, many buildings were destroyed. The number of dead is unknown, owing to the interruption of communication.

Many buildings in Haslova were damaged or destroyed.

The damage will run into millions of dollars.

"One by Land, Two by Sea" Enacted in Boston Today

Boston, April 19.—"One if by land and two if by sea," memories were vividly brought back today as Edward Revere Little, great-great-grandson of the immortal Paul Revere, placed two lighted lanterns in the belfry of the old North church early today. The lad is the son of Dr. Clarence C. Little, president of the University of Michigan.

At daybreak cannon boomed in Lexington and at the "rude bridge that arched the flood" in Concord, where 153 years ago rang the "shot heard 'round the world."

Later, under leaden skies, riders in the costumes of the revolutionary heroes and representing Paul Revere and William Dawes, Jr., rode on horses through "Middlesex village and farm" as did their ancestors in the ride that warned all to be "up and arms" of the advance of the British red coats. Celebrations were held in Boston and other cities and towns.

It was a general holiday in Massachusetts and Maine.

TOO MANY MISFIT MINISTERS IN U. S.

Bishop Freeman Tells Yale Students Needs of Christian Church Today.

New Haven, Conn., April 19.—R. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, today continued to tell ministers gathered here for the nineteenth annual convocation of Yale Divinity School his ideas of what the Christian church needs today, and suggested to his congregation that "education based on accurate knowledge, unbiased and unembarrassed by individual conceits, is the great need of the church today. Theology, once called the queen of the sciences, has been shorn of her proud distinction, and religious education has largely been given into the hands of sincere but untrained amateurs in the art of teaching."

Misfit Ministers

"We have in the church today men of splendid gifts who are wholly unadapted to the field of their occupation. The technique they employ is utterly unfit for the needs of those to whom they minister. Lack of technique is responsible for so many misfits in the Christian ministry."

Bishop Freeman declared technique needed to be applied to church music to overcome the effects "of this age of jazz," and to sermon preparation and delivery. He protested against topical sermons, declaring "over-indulgence in them has largely rendered the congregations before whom we stand ignorant of the vital and essential truths of Christian faith."

THREE MEN KILLED IN SUBWAY CAVE-IN

Tons of Rocks and Dirt Bury Workers in New York—Another Man Hurt.

New York, April 19.—The death toll from the cave-in of seventy-five tons of rock and dirt in an excavation of the new Washington Heights subway, at 74th street and Broadway last night increased to three today when Timothy Vaughan, 30, a negro, died from internal injuries. Harry Evans, 30, Brooklyn negro, and George Sosowski, 32, died earlier. Four workmen in all were buried ten minutes after drillers had blasted a wall of rock.

Seventy rescuers who waded through a sea of mud for an hour before they extricated the bodies. The presence of dynamite in the debris made rescue work hazardous.

Roosevelt Peil, 32, the fourth man buried sustained internal injuries.

MURDERER OF HALL-MILLS, HE CONFESSES

Burglar in Oklahoma Jail Says He Killed New Jersey Rector and Choir Singer in 1922.

El Reno, Okla., April 19.—Elwin P. Allen, 28, serving a sentence in the Oklahoma penitentiary for forgery and transferred here for trial on a burglary charge was held incommunicado in county jail today while authorities awaited an expression from New Jersey officials on his nine page confession that he murdered Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills near New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 14, 1922.

His Reason

Allen informed the authorities he was making his confession to "get something off my conscience," according to his story. He is the son of American parents but was born in Mexico. He served a term for mail robbery as a boy in the Meriden, Connecticut Reformatory School, he said. Portions of Allen's confession which named a Newark, N. J., dentist whom he said paid him $5,000 and gave him an automobile for

DE MAR IS LEADING NATIONAL MARATHON

Wellesley, a Dark Horse, Second and Joie Ray Third at Wellesley Hills.

DE MAR WINS!

Boston, April 19.—"Old Reliable" won the National Marathon this afternoon.

For the sixth time, Clarence De Mar puffed in as the country's champion. He hung up a new record for the 26 miles 385 yard course from Hopkinton to the Boston Athletic Association clubhouse. The veteran's time was two hours thirty-seven minutes, seven and four-fifths seconds as against his record last year of 2 hours and 40 minutes 22-1-5 seconds.

Wellesley Hills, Mass., April 19.—Clarence De Mar, the veteran with William Wilson, Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, at his side, were fighting it out with "Chesty" Joie Ray, the Chicago miler, in the National Marathon this afternoon.

Sweeping by the control station here 14.4 miles from the start De Mar went by in the van in the time of one hour, ten minutes and four seconds, three minutes better than his record.

In fourth place here was Harry F. Wick, Milrose A. A., New York, with Whitely Michelson, another New Yorker, in fifth place.

At the Woodland Golf Club 16.7 miles from the start Wilson, the "Philadelphia Dark Horse" was running close behind De Mar, who was still in the lead. Ray was holding third place.

SPARE PARTS ON WAY TO MAROONED FLYERS

First Confirmed News Of Germans' Program

Clarke City, Que., April 19.—The first definite and official information as to the plans of Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Hermann Koehl, of the German trans-Atlantic plane Bremen, was revealed here today by radio and dog sledge from Greenly Island where the famous ship landed.

Baron von Huenefeld, in a statement to International News Service, revealed that the flyers are still determined to reach New York in the Bremen.

"After the arrival of Aviator Charles A. ("Duke") Schiller at Greenly Island it was determined that Major James E. Fitzmaurice should fly back to Murray Bay with Schiller for replacement parts so that the Bremen could be repaired," said the baron. "We decided to repair the undercarriage and put a new propeller on the plane and then the three of us would continue our flight to Mitchell Field."

No Descent

"Fitzmaurice did not desert us. There was no misunderstanding. He merely returned to civilization from Fitzmaurice Ready to Take Them By Plane to Green- ly Island—Germans May Not Be Able to Leave For New York For Days; Re- porters Arrive on the Is- land.

Quebec, Que., April 19.—Spare parts for the repair of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen passed through Quebec today enroute from Montreal to Murray Bay. Major James Fitzmaurice is awaiting the parts at the Murray Bay air depot and is expected to hop off with them for Greenly Island as soon as they arrive.

The spare parts consisted of an under carriage of two wheels, a box of tools and a drum of oil. Local experts believe it will be ten days before the Bremen can leave Greenly Island for New York.

A TERRIBLE TRIP

Lake St. Agnes, Quebec, April 19.—"In all my experience I have never encountered such terrible flying conditions as exist off the coast of Newfoundland."

With this comment Major James E. Fitzmaurice expressed the opinion that Captain Walter Hitchcliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay, who never wavered from after their attempt to span the Atlantic ocean in a westward flight, might have been forced to land somewhere off the bleak coast of Labrador.

"Our own flight shows the difficulty of navigating a true course in the face of 52s and strong headwinds which prevail off the Atlantic continent," the Irish flier declared.

Except Off Course

"Just as the Bremen was swept far north of its course, so might the flight of Hitchcliffe and Miss Mackay have been swept far from its route. If this conjecture is correct, the English fliers were not as fortunate as we were in landing on an uninhabited spot, close to communication lines."

Major Fitzmaurice said that the Bremen made fine progress for eight hours. At sunset, the ship ran into headwinds of great velocity. The progress of the ship was impeded but the fliers were not alarmed. They had expected to encounter headwinds.

Through the night the gales continued, but the motor purred on reassuringly. Not once during the entire flight did it falter, the Irish flier said.

Lights Go Out

Then something happened to the lighting system of the plane. Captain Koel was at the controls at the time. His companions used pocket flash lights to help him in his gallant attempt to keep the Bremen on her course.

Dawn broke, but with it came a dark fog which was almost as bad as the darkness. The fliers realized they were many miles off their course. They attempted to veer southward towards their scheduled route but then found to their dismay that their petrol was running low.

Hope dwindled fast. There was nothing to do but keep the Bremen in the air until the last drop of fuel had been exhausted. They kept a keen watch before for a suitable landing place. Then suddenly they noted the light-house of Greenly Island. "Thankfully, they made for their haven and alighted on the lake near the beacon."

"We were tired but were so thankful that we have landed safely that we forgot all about our exhaustion," said Fitzmaurice.

"Those were no joke," the flier added thoughtfully.

FITZ AT ST. AGNES

Lake St. Agnes, Que., April 19.—Major James E. Fitzmaurice spent his first night amid civilized surroundings since the spectacular hop-off of the Bremen from the Baldonnel Airdrome at the quarters of the Canadian Trans-Continental Airways Company here and awoke today determined to get back to Greenly Island as soon as possible.

He arrived here from Clarke City, Quebec, in a plane piloted by "Duke" Schiller, the first man to reach the marooned trans-Atlantic fliers from the outside world.

Fitzmaurice expects to go to Murray Bay, about ten miles away, today to inspect the repair parts which were brought there for transportation to Greenly Island.

The Irish flier regretfully indicated that he would have to decline an invitation from Prime Minister Mackenzie King to remain in Canada a few days longer as a guest of the dominion, as his chief purpose is to rejoin his companions as quickly

KIWANIANS' SHOW FILLS THE STATE

Makes Big Hit With Crowd Of Over 1,000—Quimby a Hero.

Forty-two members of Manchester's Kiwanis club entertained something over 1,000 people in the State theater last night and seemed to have a perfectly enjoyable time doing it. And the audience, judging from the response given the business-men actor, received 100 per cent return on the entertainment investment. Being the second annual Kiwanis Minstrel Show and the later trial, tallied strikingly with last night's production with that of a year ago, and it is not being perfunctory to say that the second show was considerably more entertaining than the first.

Hand It To Clarence

The outstanding bit of work last night was done by the interlocutor, Clarence P. Quimby, principal of the Manchester High school. "Princ" Quimby is always entertaining, but his work last night was all the more worthwhile after one knows that he is one of his sickbed almost in defiance of his doctor's orders in order to "be with the boys." His voice carries so well that he was a big help in getting the jokes across.

Mr. Quimby and Jack Sanson were both remembered by the Kiwanis club last night with baskets of flowers. Mr. Quimby was given his token by Superintendent of Schools F. A. Verplanck. Jack Sanson was presented with a basket by Dr. D. C. Y. Moore. On the shoulders of Mr. Quimby and Mr. Sanson fell the responsibility of putting the show across.

Minstrel First

The program was in two parts, the first section being the minstrel show and the second a group of specialties. Jack Sanson's orchestra played an overture and the curtain rose on the Kiwanians grouped in minstrel show fashion behind their interlocutor, Mr. Quimby, who was attired like the man who opens the taxi doors at Texas Guinan's Night Club. The Kiwanians were outfitted in tuxedos and the six end men, "Bill" Dillon, "Wach" Washburn, "Mush" Grezel, "Nat" Richards, "Andy" Anderson and "Pop" Thienes were attired in black and white stripes, the stripes running up and down and not around as one might expect.

The circus sang a group of songs—the first a Kiwanis number "Keep It Booming", followed by the popular numbers "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and "Dream Klasse". Then followed the usual banter, with the interlocutor leading and the end men responding with cracks, local and otherwise, and all of them good

RICHARD L. TAYLOR, MARKETMAN, DEAD

Spinal Meningitis Takes Veter- an Meat Dealer and Breeder of Horses.

Richard Lee Taylor, dean of Manchester's meat dealers, died last night at his home on Oak Place after a ten day illness. Death was due to spinal meningitis. He was 63 years old.

Mr. Taylor was one of the most widely known persons in the south end of the town, and had not been entirely well for almost a year but steadfastly refused to quit his work. A week ago last Monday, however, he had to give up and go home. A physician was called.

The illness had all the characteristics of grip but his condition grew worse, and it developed that spinal meningitis. A Hartford specialist was called in consultation last Friday and it was then stated that there was little hope of recovery.

Death came at a wife, only sister and two brothers were at the bedside when he passed away.

His funeral will be held at the home on Oak Place at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Robert A. Colpitts, pastor of the South Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate and burial will be in the East Cemetery.

Mr. Taylor was born August 8, 1865, son of Albert Taylor and Martha Hollister, in his grandfather's house at the corner of Prospect and Hackmatack streets. For many years, he lived in what was then a short distance from where he was born.

The Taylor family had been identified with the meat business for generations. Mr. Taylor's father and grandfather were marketmen before him and Mr. Taylor learned the business when a young man. For several years later he lived in Willimantic where he was engaged in horse-raising. Throughout his life he was a lover of horses, owning and driving many fast trotters.

Afterward he came back to Manchester and again entered the meat business. His store at a Charter Oak and South Main streets is said to be the oldest store building in

NEW BEDFORD STRIKE CLOSING UP STORES

With 30,000 Out of Work Merchants Cannot Continue to Do Business.

New Bedford, Mass., April 19.—The after effect of the textile strike of 30,000 mill operatives began to manifest itself today, as several south end stores announced a decision to sell out or close.

Sutton, a number of stores had signs in the windows to the effect that they were to close at the end of the week.

The textile mills committee, which conducted the Passaic, N. J., strike held a meeting at a local inn Tuesday and the six end men, "Bill" Dillon, "Wach" Washburn, "Mush" Grezel, "Nat" Richards, "Andy" Anderson and "Pop" Thienes were attired in black and white stripes, the stripes running up and down and not around as one might expect.

The general strike committee of the striking union members went into executive session and discussed methods of collecting funds for the continuance of the strike, and ways of combating the work of the textile mills committee from Passaic.

The defense also failed to place in evidence the 150,000 word deposition it took from former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, who is charged with conspiracy with Sinclair in connection with the leasing of Teapot Dome.

KIWANIANS HOST TO BOYS TUESDAY

Bill Wood of Wesleyan to Be the Speaker—To Dine Over North.

"Boy Day" is the next big event on the calendar of the Manchester Kiwanis club. Next Tuesday afternoon every Kiwanian is expected to have with him a boy. If he hasn't one of his own, President C. P. Quimby will be glad to furnish as many as desired from among his pupils at the High school, for boys of that age should have preference at the luncheon.

The program committee has been able to secure as a speaker Bill Wood, director of athletic activities at Wesleyan University. Mr. Wood will bring with him several of the students who will contribute additional numbers to the entertainment. Wesleyan boys are famous for the concerts and dramatical programs they have put on in recent years. On several occasions the prize-winning Kiwanis club has been invited to sing in Manchester. The program for Tuesday is one that will appeal to the members of the Kiwanis club as well as the boys who will be their guests on this first "boy day." The attendance prize was omitted at the last meeting on account of the minstrel rehearsal. There will therefore be two prizes drawn Tuesday, one for the boys and one for the Kiwanians. Instead of the Hotel Sheridan, the usual meeting place, the luncheon will be served in the hall at the headquarters of the Manchester Fire Department, corner Main and Hilliard streets. A substantial dinner will be served by the Memorial Hospital Linen auxiliary. Mrs. James M. Shearer will act as chairman for the women who are to do the catering, and W. W. Robertson will make arrangements for the Kiwanians. The profits will go toward purchasing new linen for the hospital.

THREE APPLICANTS FOR PARK POSITION

Commissioners Accept Keur Resignation, and Table Applications.

Three applicants have submitted their names to the board of park commissioners for the position made vacant last week when John Y. Keur resigned as park superintendent. The resignation of Mr. Keur was accepted by the board with regret this morning and the applications were tabled until a later meeting. It is the aim of the board to wait until the return of William C. Cheney, its chairman, before doing anything other than routine business.

The applicants so far are George Washburn, former director of the North End Community club, who claims to have had experience in a large park in Middletown; Walter G. Olson, former director of the Ninth District Recreation Centers, and now connected with C. E. Wilson and Company, nurserymen, and Horace Murphy, son of Charles Murphy of Hamlin street, a graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural college. It is expected that several more applicants will be heard from before a permanent appointment is made to take Mr. Keur's place.

Mr. Keur leaves Manchester to become curator of the field museum of the American Museum of Natural History, located at Bear Mountain Park, New York.

FIRST OFFICIAL NEWS OF GERMANS' PROGRAM

our lonely outpost to get spare parts for the machine. Captain Koehl, Dr. Louis Cusnier and the mechanic of the Schiller plane decided to remain here at Greenly Island with me when Fitzmaurice hopped off for Murray Bay. I hope that Fitzmaurice will be back this evening or tomorrow. I think the repairs can be made in a day so that we may be able to hop off on Saturday."

The baron said that the last half of the journey was made under frightful conditions, with fog so thick that nothing could be seen. He sat in the back of the plane while Koehl and Fitzmaurice took turns at the controls. He slept at intervals and in his waking moments killed time by writing poetry.

Land Discovered

"It was Fitzmaurice who first discovered land," said the baron. "He told Koehl and we set off fires to see if we could get any response. The fires lighted up the air beneath us and we saw that we were flying over a dense forest."

"Koehl made out the lake and we descended. That was about five o'clock in the afternoon. Despite the perils and the hardships of the long flight we felt sure all the time that we would succeed. First we ran into adverse winds, then rain, then fog, then a gale of wind, fog and snow combined. The worst troubles were off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland—a district known for years in shipping circles as the graveyard of the Atlantic."

The baron told of the pleasant surprise he and his companions felt when Schiller arrived in his plane on Sunday. In the meantime the flyers were not lonesome. A number of persons had crossed Belle Isle Strait from the Labrador mainland to visit them.

The Troop 2 Boy Scouts of the St. James Church defeated the American Legion Boy Scouts of Troop 7 at the Knights of Columbus hall last Tuesday evening by the score of twenty to six. The outcome was easily certain after the first few events were run off. The competition was kept all through the contest but Scoutmaster Gainey's scouts excelled in eight of the ten events over Scoutmaster Hodge's scouts.

The Boy Scouts of both troops were assembled, and the scout oath was repeated in unison. Scoutcraft was the first event and Troop 2 won this with an average of three points to Troop 7's average of two and three tenths.

At the end of the meet, the scout oath and the scout laws were repeated. Arthur Anderson of Troop 5 handled the meet in masterly fashion. The winning teams are listed below:

The resolutions are being withheld from publication until session, and parliamentary maneuvers are expected today to accomplish this despite the efforts of the administration forces, to stifle discussion.

COOLIDGE, HOOVER

Announcement that the seventeen delegates to the Republican national convention, elected by the state convention at Hartford yesterday, have President Coolidge as their first choice for the Presidential nomination, may be altogether true, but its truth is certainly at most a matter of degree, and of a slight degree at that.

Of the precise extent to which the New England Council is responsible for bringing about this big stroke of indirect advertising for New England we are not sure, but that the Council co-operated in the inauguration of the campaign and perhaps really brought it about by its stimulative efforts, is known.

There is an assumption on the part of the more hard-boiled Republican politicians of Connecticut that Calvin Coolidge's name is still one to conjure with—that he would be more certain of election than any other candidate, even though his candidacy would necessarily lack vividity.

There is a belief, which in the last week has crystallized into certainty in the minds of the best informed, that President Coolidge has in effect consented to become the nominee—only in the event that the convention fails to react in the right way toward some other candidate. Granted that this is so, it ought obviously to be the reserve strength of the convention, and not used as a means to bring about the very complication which the Coolidge nomination might be called on to solve.

President Coolidge has been an excellent President. Through him the dignity of his great office has been restored. He has stood steadfastly for economy and conservatism. His administration has been free from any breath of scandal. Under it the country has known an unprecedented measure of prosperity. But frankness demands the admission that President Coolidge is not a dramatic nor a colorful figure—and the Republican nominee is going to have to meet a candidate who is colorful and dramatic in very high degree.

Herbert Hoover is colorful and dramatic—and a genius in great affairs into the bargain. He would face the campaign free from several serious inhibitions that would hamper Mr. Coolidge. The Republicans of Connecticut, so far as can be judged by the speech of the man in the street, would prefer Hoover to Coolidge even if the latter's candidacy would not suffer from the effects of a recantation—because they believe the former to be the stronger candidate of the two.

BIG NEW ENGLAND AD.

In the April 21 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, on sale today, appears the most effectual advertisement for New England that has ever been achieved in any single publicity measure. It is a two page layout, the greater part of which space is occupied by a stirring drawing of the battle of Lexington by David Hendrickson, surmounted by a banner caption, "Come to New England!" with half of one page devoted to a brief but highly effective appeal to the reader to "See Where History Was Made."

This striking and highly artistic advertisement, appearing on the very anniversary of the fight at Lexington, and which during today will infallibly arrest the attention of millions of readers of the Post throughout the country, is the first of a series of three which will appear in the same magazine, the others in May and June. Each of the subsequent broadsides will also be of two-page size and each will consist in large part of a New England landscape of rare beauty by the same artist, with text pointing out the extraordinary attractiveness of this region to the motoring tourist.

Of the precise extent to which the New England Council is responsible for bringing about this big stroke of indirect advertising for New England we are not sure, but that the Council co-operated in the inauguration of the campaign and perhaps really brought it about by its stimulative efforts, is known.

THE AURORA

Post graduate scientists at Princeton have, more or less accidentally, brought about a laboratory reproduction of the phenomenon of the aurora borealis or northern lights. They had been working on the aurora spectrum in the hope of finding a way to create the light from oxygen in sufficient strength to determine the atmospheric condition that produces the aurora borealis in nature.

All of which would make it less than surprising if artificial reproduction of the natural aurora borealis may be accomplished. If so, then it is our opinion that science will have poached on the most beautiful and most awe-inspiring manifestation of nature's caprice. The eternal miracles of sunrise and sunset are too familiar to the human race to fill the soul full with wonder or the heart with ecstasy. But the aurora is rare, and in its mystery and grandeur almost smothered in the beholder in a sense of his own insignificance and vulgarity, reduces his pictures, his skyscrapers and his railroad to the quality of penny toys.

Shall we presently have artificial aurora borealis, as marvelously beautiful as the silent trampling of the white horses of the heavens, on every theatre stage? Shall the eerie mysticism of the northern lights be converted into a chemical formula to be learned by kids at school? And, worst of all, shall we soon know that the millions of miles of distance which our ignorance told us lay between our doorsteps and the flashing ribbons of the north is all in our eye, so to speak, and that the aurora is born and bred a quarter of a mile away, where the airplanes fly?

POOR CITIZENS

How little some citizens are willing to do to assist the courts in protecting them is shown by the conduct of certain individuals in connection with a drive that the New York state law department is making against loan sharks. The purpose of the drive, of course, is to relieve that class of stupidly helpless persons who become enmeshed in the web of usurers who pluck them to the bone. And it is encountering its greatest difficulty in the refusal of witnesses who have been caught in the sharks' traps to testify after emissaries of the frightened usurers have hastened to make settlements with their victims. Nothing in the world except the proceedings set on foot by the authorities has saved these very victims from the most outrageous extortion—yet in certain instances the latter will do nothing to help the law department win its fight.

This is a type of experience with which police everywhere are completely familiar. There are plenty of people ready to demand the service and protection of the police whenever occasions arise, but who would never lift a finger to help the authorities, and would even be willing to obstruct them if it could be done in safety, where the interests or safety of others are at stake.

The New York loan shark case, however, is peculiarly exaggerating. It is a vivid cartoon on poor citizenship.

RUBBER

There is money being lost in rubber. Large contracts placed before the abandonment of the British monopoly plan represent sums much in excess of the amounts for which these contracts could be placed today. The tire manufacturer handicapped with extensive purchases at monopoly prices is just now at a serious disadvantage compared with his rival who is in a position to base production prices on the current cost of rubber.

But against these losses on present stocks must be set off the eventual gain to the whole rubber industry and to the people of this country through what is nothing but stabilization after an artificial inflation. The rubber bubble has blown up. It is doubtful if ever again any group or any nation will attempt to stimulate the price of this commodity beyond reason. We shall be buying our tires cheaper for many years. The rubber industry will assimilate its comparatively slight losses—slight when compared with future savings—and we shall all be better off.

Business done on the level is more profitable in the long run than business done on a basis of artificially sustained profit. Sooner or later any fabricated boom explodes—then must come readjustment, embarrassment, loss.

CONNECTICUT TO BUILD NEW HIGHWAY PARALLEL TO BOSTON POST ROAD

Hartford, Conn.—The Old Boston Post Road from Hartford to New Haven, by way of Wethersfield, where the witches were smothered in Colonial days, and Middletown, where war vessels were built in the Revolution, is to have a rival in a road that the state highway department is planning to build between the first cities of Connecticut.

The new road is to avoid the large towns from Hartford south and keep away from the Connecticut river which has the habit of wiping out highways almost without notice. A fairly straight stretch of ninety-foot highway is projected through the villages of Griswoldville and Westfield Station, places that still have an ancient air, di-

New York, April 19.—You run in this oddity and that in this little settlement somebody gyped the Indians out of, but of all strange occupations is that of the lady who teaches dumb ladies not to be that way. She is what might be called a "social coach."

There is sophistication in New York, of course. But also there is self-consciousness; there are young women who feel that they are not making the right kind of remarks at the proper time; there are those who feel they are continually talking out of turn—opening their mouth, as the ancient wheezer has it, only to place their foot there.

The other day I had the pleasure of conversing with a social coach, Mlle. Louise she calls herself, and her explanation of her art was interesting.

"Women's great failing," she told me, "lies not in knowing what to talk about. Talk? Oh, yes, they can talk, surely. But so often of such remote subjects so remote from the topics people want them to talk about! Any number of women of wealth and background I have met, and are interesting conversationalists they are utter novices."

It seems you just have to have personally these days to get along. By the way, Mlle. Louise's real name is Beverly Colfax, and she comes from Atlanta, Ga.

Look out for the eight-seating buses at Times Square! Unless you wish to pass a considerable fraction of the day sitting there watching the passing scenery, be absolutely certain that the bus is going to start for its destination, whether it be Coney Island, Chinatown or around town. All these bus lines hire "decoys" to sit in the cars, thus giving the impression that others are ready to take the trip. As soon as a few people get on, the "decoys" get off and sit in another bus. Meanwhile the driver will assure you that "we start in just a minute!" Don't believe him! He'll get your money and keep you waiting. The best system, perhaps, is to make your arrangements with the hotel at which you stop.

For the longest 10 cents worth to be found in New York take the Fifth Avenue bus, labeled "F. George." It goes not only down the Avenue, but covers a good section of River Street Drive.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 19.—Congress may decide to determine in the short time left before it whether it is true that a million children are existing on less than proper living standards and, if so, whether $25,000,000 should be appropriated to take care of them.

This is the contention of the group which is urging passage of the Wheeler-LaGuardia resolution to create a federal child relief board and hopes that it will have a chance to prove its case at a hearing before a Senate or House committee.

Proponents of the measure assert that strikes and sectional depression in textile manufacturing cities, the bituminous coal fields and some agricultural areas have stricken the children of workers and farmers as their principal victims. The fact that children have suffered in the coal fields is generally known and Senator Wheeler of Montana and Congressman LaGuardia of New York believe they can prove that many children are also undernourished and under-clothed in other sections.

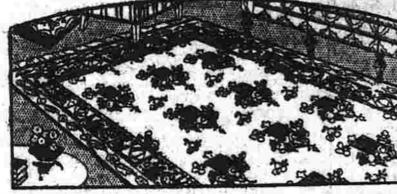

The main position they must face, however, is based on the doubt whether such relief is a duty of the federal government. There is some doubt now whether the bill will have an open hearing or not. If it does, testimony about the condition of children will be heard from President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers of America and representatives of other labor unions. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor may appear.

Opponents of the resolution do not believe that conditions among children are anywhere near as bad as painted and argue that passage of the bill would be a dangerous experiment in paternalism. The Wheeler and LaGuardia measures are alike except that LaGuardia would appropriate $75,000,000 for the job, whereas asks only $25,000,000.

LaGuardia's resolution provides: "That there is hereby created a board to administer relief for children in distress in prolonged strikes, such as those in the bituminous coal mines, children of the unemployed, and children of parents in extreme poverty, including children of farmers in distressed agricultural areas, to be known as the Federal Child Relief Board, to consist of the secretary of labor, the chief of the department of labor, and the secretary of agriculture."

The board would have power to buy food and clothes for needy children, and to make cash payments to parents and otherwise contribute to child welfare, but it is specifically provided that nothing in the resolution would authorize the placing of any children in institutions.

It is unlikely that the resolution will be favorably reported by any congressional committee and it may not even get to a vote. Opposition presumably employers who would complain in any such establishment as that proposed would amount to federal subsidy of striking workmen. The fact is, of course, that no government agency has any comprehensive data on the actual condition of children in the coal fields, children of the many persons now unemployed or children on farms. The Committee for Federal Relief for Children which is backing the legislative project says, however, that such regional and local investigations as have been made indicate considerable suffering among children under 14. It points out, with the hope of gaining support from industry, that if child health is now imperiled, in many cases the efficiency of the workers of tomorrow will be considerably lessened. In its propaganda on behalf of the resolution, it admits American prosperity, but says it is lopsided.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"
ONE OF STATE'S FILMS

Jiggs and Dinty Moore in Famous Cartoon Now at State; "Dressed to Kill" Is Second Feature.

Jiggs, the goat of "Bringing Up Father," is in the movies again and he comes to the State theater tonight to remain for tomorrow's show also. On the same bill is "Dressed to Kill," starring Edmund Lowe, the Sergeant Quirk of "What Price Glory" and Mary Astor.

Then on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the State will feature Douglas Fairbanks, who never fails to please, in his biggest picture, "The Gaucho," a tale of South American love and hate.

"Bringing Up Father," directed by Jack Conway, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, is a comical series of adventures of Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and the rest of the crowd of McManus characters, filmed on an elaborate scale. J. Farrell MacDonald is seen in the role of Jiggs—a far different type of character than his famous hit in "The Iron Horse," and Polly Moran as the redoubtable Maggie. Marie Dressler appears as Mrs. Dinty Moore and Jules Cowles as Dinty, and others in the cast include Gertrude Olmstead as Jiggs' mother, Rose Dione as the society leader and Andres de Seguro as the Count. Bull Montana, Tenen Holtz, Bobby Mack, David Mir and others of note are among the players.

The story was adapted by Miss Marion directly from the George McManus cartoons, incident after incident from the pictures being taken and woven together into a complete story. Jiggs' adventure with his wife's French poodle, the fights of the two, the reception and Maggie's courting of nobility—these are among the comical details, and the episodes in Dinty Moore's place and other incidents are echoes of the newspaper comic strip.

Jack Conway, who directed the new picture, is famous for such productions as "Brown of Harvard" and "Twelve Miles Out."

"Dressed to Kill," which shows that crookdom of today has a patent leather finish, was written by Irving Cummings, who directed the picture, and William Conselman.

The inspiration of the story came after the two had seen what was purported to be a "crook" picture on the screen. They decided to write and produce a real ultra-modern story of right up-to-the-minute crookdom and were encouraged in their ambition by Winfield Sheehan, vice president of Fox Films.

The net result is a picture that is claimed the most realistic of modern crookdom that stage or screen has yet seen.

Mary Astor plays the leading feminine role and the supporting cast comprises the pick of character actors in Hollywood.

The first regular meeting of the newly organized Forestry club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Truman C. Ives, the meeting being held in the basement of the Ives place. Mr. Ives is the local leader of the club. Donald Gaylord, 4-H club leader for Tolland County, was present and helped in the carrying out of the program of work. The club has sixteen members, all boys. The program began with a business meeting after which there was singing of club songs, playing of games, including new ones taught by the County leader. Then the real business of the afternoon began with the clearing of a piece of woods from undesirable growth, which was cut for fire wood, leaving the healthy trees. Each boy is to have a piece of woods on his home place wherever possible, and to take care of it working on the plans demonstrated by the class lessons. The boys have adopted a set of by-laws and have chosen Richard Ives as their president, John Mosny as vice-president, and Joe Friedman as secretary. Breaching of the club laws is punishable by fines or extra work. The day's work closed by the roasting of "hot dogs" over a roaring fire in the great fireplace of the basement room, which were eaten with rolls and refreshing drinks. The boys plan to fix up a permanent club room in the basement to hold their meetings. This club is one of the 41 clubs organized in the county, and is under the management of the Farm Bureau.

Blindfolded . . . in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, W. T. Benda selects Old Gold

W. T. Benda, in his studio, while test was being made. In background may be seen some of the famous Benda masks.

W. T. BENDA
Eminent illustrator and creator of the Benda masks.

Only the heart-leaf of the tobacco plant are good enough for OLD GOLD. That's why you can pick them in the dark.

"I have been an inveterate cigarette smoker for years and my interest in cigarettes not only induced me to make this blindfold test, but to make it three times in succession.

"Each time I selected the same cigarette—OLD GOLD.

"However, there was no other choice that I could honestly make. OLD GOLD was so superior and its delicacy of aroma, its rich, full flavor so entirely free from any hint of sting or burn that it immediately appealed to my taste.

"Since the test I have been smoking OLD GOLDS steadily and I find that they are the most satisfying cigarettes I have ever smoked."

W. T. Benda

How Test Was Made

Mr. Benda was blindfolded, and, in the presence of two responsible witnesses, was given one each of the four leading cigarettes to smoke. To clear the taste, coffee was served before each cigarette. Mr. Benda was unaware of the identity of these cigarettes during test. After smoking the four cigarettes, he was asked to designate by number his choice. He replied, "Number 4," which was OLD GOLD.

U. S. ARCHITECTS IN MOVEMENT TO SAVE LANDMARKS

Washington, America's vanishing landmarks—the gray and mossy old buildings and monuments around which so much tradition of the country's past is entwined—must be saved. The American Institute of Architects has undertaken to lead this movement, according to A. Lawrence Kocher, chairman of the association's committee on the Preservation of Historic Monuments and Natural Resources. "The Institute plans to consolidate the efforts of state and county historical societies, fine arts commissions and patriotic organizations," Kocher said. Already we have protested against cases of vandalism and have taken steps to affiliate ourselves with the British Council for the Preservation of Rural England whose effort will parallel ours. Save Old Buildings The support of more than 3,000 members of the architects society has been enlisted. A graphic presentation of the actual and threatened tragedies among the historical structures of the country will be prepared. Commerce and the greatly increasing valuation of property in the hearts of the large cities, and the chief enemies of the effort to maintain historical buildings. Annapolis, Maryland, an old city rich in tradition, while not without changes has held on remarkably to the atmosphere of its architectural origin, according to Kocher. It has retained its wealth of pre-revolutionary dwellings with some of the charm of the colonial village. "However, several of the historical houses of old Annapolis are on the auction block," Kocher said. "St. John's College, dating back to its founding to the days of William and Mary, is seeking to acquire the Hammond-Harwood, the Brice, Peggy Stewart and Pinkney Houses, as a part of its holdings. "While the efforts of this school are of a private nature, nevertheless the acquisition of these houses would mean the preservation by reverent hands of some of America's finest monuments. Regional Organizations Kocher pointed out that the problem is one of finance. Public finance, he added, can assure the saving of these dwellings and appropriately make possible their use as a part of our third oldest institution of higher learning. A modest sum, as benefactions go nowadays should make possible the acquisition and restoration of these monuments of the past. Among the regional organizations the activity of which the Institute proposes to coordinate are

Campaign Portraits—Gov. Alfred E. Smith

“NEW AL SMITH” HAS REAL SOCIAL POISE

EDITOR'S NOTE—This, the tenth in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Herald and N.E. Service by Robert Talley, is the third of four articles on Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York. The final article on Gov. Smith will appear tomorrow.

BY ROBERT TALLEY

Albany, N. Y., April 19.—The job of making “the new Al Smith” out of the former East Side newsboy, fishmarket clerk, ward politician and Tammany Hall prodigy, began soon after he was inaugurated as governor for the first time on Jan. 1, 1919.

The blue blood of Albany's aristocratic Dutch families, descendants of the original holders of the Van Rensselaer patents granted by the Flemish government in the 17th century, boiled with rage at the intrusion. What a sacrilege!

And they laughed when the new governor sent out typewritten invitations to the grand inaugural ball when the new governor's family, occupying a box at the fashionable Hermandus Bleeker Theater, stolidly chewed gum throughout the whole performance.

Says Henry F. Pringle, author of a recent biography on Smith:

“The inaugural ball was a strange function. As the governor-elect appeared in his box, the band played ‘Hall to the Chief’ and then a series of melodies of old New York . . . that made the party not a little grotesque . . . Tammany Hall had turned out in full force and there were hundreds of neighbors from the old East Side . . . who rubbed elbows with the Dutch aristocracy . . .”

It was a long, hard job for a man whose education had been left off before he was 15, who had come up in the atmosphere of the Bowery and who had done little or no reading.

Governor Smith soon found that a governor's job requires something more than mere ability. Social duties, and a certain amount of dignity, polish and culture devolve upon the governor of a great state like New York. Such is part of the job, part of the game.

It did not take long for a man with the keen intelligence of Al Smith to recognize this fact. He began immediately. He toned down his dress, he became more careful with his East Side slang when in public, he submitted prepared copies of his speeches to the newspaper reporters with the request that they revise them and “take out the fish market language.”

It was a long, hard job for a man whose education had been left off before he was 15, who had come up in the atmosphere of the Bowery and who had done little or no reading.

Golf was not the least of the things that helped in the emergence of “the new Al Smith.”

But Smith was a born actor. He watched others, profited by experience, and today his dignity, manner and speech on public occasions are above reproach. Such is the beginning of “the new Al Smith.”

The secret of Al Smith's tremendous personal popularity that has enabled him to be four times elected governor of a normally Republican state is easily explained. It is because Al Smith knows human nature—not through books on sociology and other subjects, but through contact with people. When Al Smith thinks of human hunger, for example, he does not think of it in terms of calories but in terms of empty stomachs.

He knows the affairs of New York state better than any other man has ever known them, due to his years of hard work in the assembly, and he has the knack of interpreting them to the average man-in-the-street can understand. “When I'm talking about a hospital bond issue,” says Governor Smith, “I don't present a string of financial statistics that nobody but a deputy comptroller can understand. I talk about beds. Everybody knows what a bed is. It feels good after a hard day's work.”

Governor Smith prides himself on the fact that he doesn't use “court of appeals language” in explaining his points to his audiences.

The Harding landslide of 1920 swept the Democrats out of office in New York and Smith went down in defeat, running nearly 1,000,000 votes ahead of his ticket and missing re-election by a narrow margin. He retired from public life for the first time since 1903 and entered a private trucking business.

In 1922, Smith became a candidate for governor again and was elected. He has held the office ever since.

The 1922 campaign saw a renewal of the bitter personal feud between Smith and William Randolph Hearst, the publisher. Hearst wanted to run for the Senate on the ticket which had Smith as a gubernatorial nominee, and certain Tammany leaders exerted much pressure to gain Smith's consent. He steadfastly refused, recalling that in 1919 Hearst's newspapers had accused him of being responsible for New York City's poor milk supply.

Returning to Albany as governor in 1922, Smith resumed the urging of those policies that he had inaugurated in his first term. These included, among others, a consolidation of the state's numerous bureaus and commissions into 18 closely-knit, responsive bodies; the liberalization of the labor and employer's compensation laws; continuation of the building of highways on a strict business basis; passage of a $300,000,000 bond issue to eliminate railroad crossings; development of a statewide system of parks; conservation of waterpower resources; added financial support for education; legislation to relieve housing conditions in New York City and a 48-hour week for industry.

He has almost completely reorganized the state's government on the basis of business-like administration and effected many economies.

Today Governor Smith runs the state with a cabinet of department heads, composed of 12 Protestants, two Roman Catholics and one Jew. His secretary—George Gaves—is a Protestant, Republican and thirty-second degree Mason.

The governor once took orders from Tammy Hall, but now he gives orders to Tammany Hall. By dint of sheer personality he has risen above his party in New York. The child has outgrown the parent.

Tomorrow: Religion and education.

LAW TO PREVENT CHILD MARRIAGE IS JUDGE'S PLAN

Chicago, Ill.—“Child marriages would be banned by law in Illinois, according to a proposal of Judge William J. Lindsay, who heard thousands of divorce proceedings here.

Before his appointment to the criminal bench in superior court of Cook county, Judge Lindsay watched the stream of wrecked matrimony pouring through his court and concluded that youth is a serious handicap for any marriage.

Girls should be prohibited from marrying before they are 21 by the law Judge Lindsay suggests, and the opportunity to assume the yoke before they are 25.

The present Illinois law sets 16 years as the girl's age and 18 as the boy's.

“Marriages under economic difficulties are often followed by divorce,” Judge Lindsay pointed out. “In my court I have watched hundreds of married couples who were almost children apply for separation, because of financial troubles.”

“Unconsciously, the young wife feels a ranking resentment that her husband is unable to provide for her as she would like to live, and as she has been used to living in her parents' home.

“I don't mean that the young wives are intentionally disloyal, but when a girl can't have the kind of clothes her youth demands and can't dance and see movies as she wants, there is bound to be a feeling of dissatisfaction.

“Father has been working years and she has the earning power to satisfy the demand for her daughter's youth.

“But the young husband, if he marries at 18, is scarcely out of high school. There is no niche in the financial structure which will yield him enough to support a wife.”

The age limit proposed by Judge Lindsay, he believes, would be the minimum at which marriage can be successful.

“If a boy goes to college, he is 22 when he graduates, at least. His support for education, legislation allow him to become financially capable of caring for his wife.

“As for the girl, she is scarcely settled enough to know her own mind, or to be able to undergo the minor financial stringencies of matrimony until she is at least 18.”

Judge Lindsay's view.

Judge Lindsay does not maintain that youthful marriages are the result of “puppy love” as has been charged by many observers. He finds his sole fault with the uncertain economic structure of such unions.

Youth, however, has an ardent supporter in its matrimonial ambitions, in Judge Joseph Sabath, another experienced divorce arbiter of the Chicago courts.

The boy who counts the days until he can marry at 18 with a salary of $20 a week finds Judge Sabath his friend.

“I married when I was 17 and never regretted it,” Judge Sabath says. “I would do the same thing again. Parents coming into court seeking separation for their married children have been told my views.

“There is a period in married life when the couple is becoming acclimated. They become used to married life and its obligations more easily if they are young.”

Threatened

Residents of Columbia, Mo., have joined almost en masse in a hunt for the writer of threatening letters. A letter to Dr. H. H. Beuscher, dentist, demanded $1000 threatening kidnaping of eight-year-old Marilyn Elizabeth, his daughter, shown above. Three other children have been approached on the school grounds by the mysterious stranger.

MONKEY BUSINESS

Los Angeles.—Monkey business turned a fire into a farce here recently. The blaze was in a pet shop. Firemen released a cage full of monkeys and the fun was on. The animals climbed on the stock shelves and started throwing packages of bird seed, dog biscuits and what not at the firemen. When the blaze had been extinguished it was found that monkey business had started it. They had chewed the insulation from exposed electric wires and shorted the line.

LEFT AT THE CHURCH

Avellino, Italy.—The story of a bridegroom who got cold feet is told at Lacedonia, near here. The would-be husband and his bride were about to enter the church of San Rocco, when he dropped her arm and ran madly away from the proverbial ball and chain.

RUNAWAY FOUND DEAD

Lancaster, Pa.—There's a moral for discontented boys in the death of William Bell, 12, who was found dead in a sealed freight car here. He was identified by his parents who told police he had left his home in Princeton, N. J., because of punishment for falling in his studies. The car had stood in a siding for three days before it was opened and the body discovered.

TURKEY BUILDS A MODERN CITY AS NEW CAPITAL

Berlin.—Ismail Pasha, the George Washington of modern Turkey, is building himself a new capital.

It will be a modern garden city adjoining the present Ankara and when it is finished it is to be a worthy symbol of the new Turkey which Kemal Pasha has created.

The construction of a new capital became necessary because Constantinople is too exposed to foreign guns, and because the ambassadors of foreign powers refused to move from Constantinople to Ankara as long as that town consisted of only one dusty, Asiatic main street.

Is Fashionable Building new capitals is becoming quite fashionable. The King of Afghanistan is building a new capital near the old Kabul, and Queen Marie of Rumania hopes to build a new wondrous capital than Bucharest if she is able to raise a loan in America.

The plans for the new Ankara, just approved have been made by Hugo Otto Werner, noted garden architect of Berlin. German architects and city planners are also made the plans for the new Afghan capital.

Many Parks Under Werner's plan, the new Turkish capital will have more parks and trees than any other city in the world. The old Ankara is to be freed of its malaria swamp and then relegated to a curiosity place for visiting tourists.

There will be a central city park of 180 acres with a rose garden containing 50,000 roses, and artificial lake of 400 square meters, and a planetarium.

There will also be a concert park holding 10,000 people, and a children's park with a wading pool. Both old and new city are to be surrounded by a green ring of forests, parks and hedges.

HAIR STOPS WEDDING

Toledo, O.—There was no mistaking Walter Stearns when he walked into the marriage license office here with the girl of his choice. “You're Walter Stearns of Allegan, Mich., aren't you?” said the clerk. “Well, I'm sorry, but your red hair has spoiled the elopement.”

Walter's parents had warned the office to be on the lookout for the youth because he was only 19, and they did not approve of the match.

High-Powered Bootleggers Lack Principles Of Old Moon Shiners

Denver.—Moonshiners in the mountains of the old South, in the days when Volstead was unheard of, were gentlemen with principles and traditions as compared with the present day high-powered bootleggers who care only for profits.

And prohibition, followed the advent of the bicycle and the motor car, has brought about a faster pace which would have made the old folks in their younger days fall back in astonishment and shun the sheiks and flappers as outcasts.

These are the opinions of J. R. Calloway, former police chief of Longmont, Colo., and Fred Mangold, retired federal revenue officer and Colorado pioneer. Both attended the annual gathering of the Colorado Sheriffs Association in Denver recently.

Despite their illicit trafficking, Calloway had high praise for the hill billies of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Alabama and Kentucky, where he worked years ago as a federal sleuth. They held themselves as free Americans primarily and stood upon their rights in vigorous Elizabethan language.

Expert Distillers They held their trade, the production of good whiskey, in high esteem, he declares, and their liquor output was hard to rival, even by the better grade of legal brands which once were permitted in the land.

“The hill men,” he said, “concocted their brew from their own corn, in their own pots and with their own firewood, and it was beyond their comprehension that Uncle Sam should interfere. No one ever heard of their stuff being poisonous, for they inherited their liquor trade from generations of distillers and they also believed they inherited the right to make it.”

They were hard fellows to catch, too, Calloway remembered. They always hid in the fastness of the hills, and usually the only clue to their whereabouts was a slip of smoke ascending far off from the fire under their stills. When they were apprehended they fought like madmen and engaged in gun duels that rivaled the present Chicago gang feuds, according to Calloway. The moonshiners also were taken under wing by their law-abiding neighbors who hated the federal officers as much as they loved a nip of good corn. The officers, Calloway said, ferretted out the moonshiners either on horseback or in a buggy and often times the harness would be cut by the friendly neighbors, who always said the furies had done the cutting.

Those days are over with forever because of prohibition, Calloway said. “In place of the genial hill billy, we have the unprincipled bootlegger who sells his stuff fair or foul. Needle beer in Chicago, poisoned sugar rum in the Rockies, bad gin on the coast and anything in New York are some of his productions. He is unsentimental and if he is caught he usually escapes with a small fine.

Do Not Fear Law At worst, if he owns a still, he can be sent to the penitentiary for from three to five years under the Colorado anti-still law. Even that law has not perceptibly diminished the bootlegging business, which shows that most leggers are merchants or brokers purchasing their stuff from still men.”

Mangold also has a colorful record as a federal revenue officer in Colorado, coming here in 1879. He was sheriff in El Paso county in 1891 and was a spectator of the boom days in Cripple Creek. He agrees with Calloway that the liquor situation is “unsatisfactory,” and declared that disobedience of the Volstead law is one of the weakening influences in modern life.

As Mangold sees it, another bad influence was ushered in with the automobile, which increased contact and resulted in a condition in which the smell of booze on the breath of young people is considered an achievement. Life, was simpler in the old days, he said, and consisted mainly of church, mid-week prayer meeting, a weekly dance, maybe a buggy ride. Women were draped thoroughly from head to foot and whiskey breaths on young people caused their ostracism.

DON'T SPARE ROD

Tulsa, Okla.—Timely use of the rod, according to Municipal Judge Warren, will not only cure the child but will keep him out of police court. “The court is tired of being used as the correcting agency for people's kids,” exploded Judge Warren. “The thing parents ought to do is get a sheaf of barrel staves and wear them out on their disobedient offspring. There's entirely too many barrels going to waste nowadays.”

Upholstery can be protected from germs by the scent of common plants such as thyme and geranium.

HICKMAN MAY HANG AS SCAFFOLD PAL WITH E. LAPIERRE

San Francisco.—The fates of William Edward Hickman, child murderer and Edgar Lapierre, slayer of an Oakland police inspector, by some odd quirk of destiny may yet make them scaffold pals.

Originally scheduled to mount the thirteen steps to the gallows together April 28, legal machinery of Hickman's appeal to the supreme court two days ago continued his date of execution indefinitely.

Lapierre appeared to have lost Hickman as his partner in the march of death. Again, however, the two murderers seemed due to die together. Lapierre's appeal suddenly appeared on the supreme court docket and another delay in his case intervened.

Owing to a congested court calendar the Lapierre appeal was continued until the supreme court convenes in Los Angeles in June. Briefs to test the constitutionality of the new California law on insanity pleas will be argued by Hickman's attorneys May 8 in Sacramento. If his case is finally submitted in May, the supreme court has 90 days to render its decision thus advancing the execution until early August, if Hickman loses. Lapierre's appeal is expected to be decided in June or July, thus bringing Hickman and Lapierre's doom date again close together.

SPEAKER POOR AT BAT SO FAR, BUT SO ARE REST OF STARS

Connie Mack's $30,000 Investment Has a Percentage of .111 Which Is Not So Very Extra.

By DAVID J. WALSH

New York, April 19.—Executing the standing-sitting-standing dive into the field of statistics from a very difficult angle, the writer discovered today that, under the microscope, the statistics of the Speaker are not so very extra.

Cloning the moment of this Speaker's investment to Connie Mack in pennants, which I understand to be the Austrian word for nothing or something, I note that this Speaker yesterday hit against Washington yesterday, otherwise, he would be hitting a snug fitting six and seven-eighths. If you insist upon the unpleasant about it, the unofficial figure is 11.1 percent.

That the intelligentsia delivered itself of the pronouncement that the Speaker would be a big help to the Athletics this season.

Meanwhile, Ty Cobb, the other $30,000 investment in Philadelphia, has found it almost impossible to average more than two hits a game. He was hitting a mere .412 in the unofficial list today. It was only a week ago that the intelligentsia delivered itself of the pronouncement that the society for the prevention of cruelty to spectators ought to have Ty batted as a public nuisance or something.

April form, of course, is somewhat less permanent than April sunburn and, anyway, the prize exhibits of the national pastime have had their averages in there playing with Speakers, not Cobb's. In fact, only three of them, exclusive of Ty, are hitting above .300 today. They are Paul Waner, who is clocked in .350; Rogers Hornsby, who barely managed to rise above the dead line by getting two hits yesterday, and Lou Gehrig, who is running wild after a base hit famine in the South. His average today, .471, tops the field of prize exhibits by a third majority.

Some of the exhibits, as a matter of fact, may have to be moved off the midway altogether to a concession well back with the canned spinach and the prize-winning last hog calling contest. Harry Heilmann, 1927 batting champion in the American League, is trundling along at .233. Bob Fothergill, third in the same contest, was obliterating a natty .190 when they lifted him tenderly out of the Detroit line-up several days ago. Robert was reported as resting uneasily today. The best his temporary successor, Easterling, has been able to do is six hits of his first eight times up.

President Coolidge, it seems, is a rabid baseball fan. He heaved out a ball for Washington and the Red Sox to start the season with. Besides that, he stayed all through the first inning.

HE SHOULD HAVE WAITED TO SEE HIS OLD HOME TOWN ASSUME LEADERSHIP. IT'S BEEN A LONG TIME SINCE THAT EVER HAPPENED.

- The New York Giants suffered intensely the loss of Rogers Hornsby, according to figures on opening day. Those who threatened a boycott because Rogers had been traded were true to their word.
- Every seat was sold.

McGraw, of course, demonstrated by playing Andrew Cohen at second base that he never even thinks of athletic contests in New York and that many more Cohens who have changed their names to Kelly.

Maybe there'll be a good gate for this Tunny-Heeny thing, after all. We understand Jack Dempsey is going to be introduced.

Mr. Heydler says this year's race in the National League is going to be pretty close. Mrs. Barnard, strange to say, predicts the same thing for the American League. Bet the fans are tickled about that.

By the way, weren't there some people running across the country? What has become of them?

Louis Perella, Albany was third. Payne, race leader and Ed Gardner, Seattle negro, finished in a dead heat. The pair ran more than half the distance side by side.

Heeny Deserves Shot Against Gene Tunney

SPORTS EDITORS: This is the sixth and final article by Henry L. Farrell. The Herald and NEA Service sports writer, telling the interesting story of Tom Heeny, who fights Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship in July, and his manager, Charley Harvey, who finally received a "break."

By HENRY L. FARRELL

After Tom Heeny had been robbed of a decision in his fight with Paulino, had beaten Jack De Mave and had won from Bud Germain on a deliberate foul, Tex Rickard thought to consider Gene Tunney for a title shot.

Heeny then had to take Jack Delaney to prove himself anew. Delaney had possibilities of a build-up if he beat Heeny. Mind you, all these fights were being won by Heeny to build up his opponents instead of grooming him for a title shot.

Heeny beat Delaney and should have been established but he was not. Rickard apparently wasn't satisfied and he dragged Sharkey, twice a bust in big tests, and matched him with Risko. Risko beat Sharkey and became, with Heeny, the survivors of the elimination tournament. It was suggested that Heeny fight Sharkey again but Harvey stopped it with the reasonable argument—"Why pick on us more? Even Risko admits we beat him in Detroit. We'll have no more run-arounds. We've been agreeable long enough."

Then the placid Harvey worked himself into a great wrath. Rickard's assistants were looking all over for him in New York, but he couldn't be found.

Harvey had ducked but he ducked secretly to Florida and went into conference with Tunney. Tunney knows his men and he knew Harvey. He knew he would have a word to say, more than a word, when Rickard picked his man. And he said it for Heeny.

Rickard was desperate. He didn't want Heeny. He didn't want Heeny exactly. He didn't have anyone he wanted exactly. When Tunney named Heeny he had to accept and Heeny was announced as the opponent for the July fight.

Harvey did that. He knew his man. He knew what kind of a man Tunney was and knew that Tunney would understand his language. He knew he would not have to give

O'DOUL HITS TWO AND GIANTS WIN

New York, April 19.—Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, the California Irishman is the new idol of Gotham fans today as the result of his feat in hitting two mighty home runs yesterday, which gave the Giants a 5 to 1 victory over the Phillies and a stranglehold on the top rung of the National League ladder.

Six Boston errors and effective pitching by Dazzy Vance enabled Brooklyn to swamp the Braves, 10 to 5, and jump to second place.

A homer by pinch hitter Earl Webb enabled Chicago to overcome a four-run lead, but the Reds won in the ninth on George Kelley's double with two on, 9 to 6.

Waite Hoyt pitched the New Yorkers to a 10 to 7 triumph over the Red Sox.

Cleveland beat the White Sox 7 to 1 in the Forest City inaugural. Joe Schaute curved the Sox to death while his mates pounded Adkins.

The Athletics cemented their hold on last place by losing to Washington, 11 to 6. Grandpa John Pius Quinn was the victim.

The St. Louis Browns lost their home inaugural to Detroit, 4 to 1. Ownie Carroll, Tiger hurler, started. Lefty Easterling, Detroit rookie who is leading the league in batting, hit the longest home run ever made at the park.

Tunney a piece of his man to get a fight.

So the big break came. Perhaps Heeny can't beat Tunney. But regardless of the results, Harvey and Heeny will come out of it with dough and the credit of being hard workers, willing guys, square shooters and nice fellows. If there is any credit in those things in the racket.

Charley Harvey won't be broke any more. Maybe the pain will go out of that sore, crippled leg. Maybe the smile on his face will become wider, but it couldn't cover much more ground. He's been smiling all his life when another might have been crying.

JIMMY ADAMS ALLOWS 2 HITS; CARLSON WHALES PILL THRICE

Students Jubilant After Surprising Showing; Credit to Orchards and Warren; Adams "Kayoes" Ten.

Students at Manchester Trade school are jubilant today because of the splendid and somewhat unexpected victory their baseball team scored yesterday afternoon up on Mt. Nebo when it beat Bulkeley High of Hartford by a double score, 6 to 3.

After experiencing a poor basketball season during which victories were few and far between, and after watching the baseball squad go through a period of non-impressive pre-season practice, with only two veterans in the ranks, the students were not too confident their team would come through against such worthy opposition in the opening game.

But it did—and how! It was a pip of a game for the first of the season. The outstanding heroes for Manchester were Jimmy Adams and Harold Carlson, battery for the Trade school. Adams whiffed no less than ten batsmen and allowed only two hits. Bulkeley did not score an earned run off his delivery. His battery mate clouted out three hits in four trips to the plate, one of which was a three-bagger.

The fine showing of the Trade school is a credit to Coach Tom Orchards and also to Director A. A. Warren who also played a conspicuous part in getting the team into shape. Although the mentors are not a bit boastful, they cannot help but feel hopeful at least that the team will have a successful season.

Manchester scored twice in the first inning when Dahms who had been hit by a pitched ball and Carlson who singled, both rode home on errors. In the third, Dahms got a base on balls and scored on hits by Carlson and Bauer. Manchester scored three runs in the fourth. Tirone was safe on an error. Folter doubled, Dahms error, but Carlson tripled and Ramsay singled. Bulkeley got two runs; in the third on two hit batsmen, a wild pitch and an error. In the seventh, the other run came from a triple by Caserole and an error by Carlson.

P.A. and I are like that. Closer than the paper on the wall. P.A. is so companionable, so genuinely friendly. When you open the tidy red tin, you get a fragrant notice of how friendly it's going to be in a pipe. Then you tamp in a load and apply the match.

Man, that taste! Cool as an Eskimo's front porch. Refreshing as arctic sunshine. Mellow and mild and long-burning, with a full, rich tobacco-body that puts you next to a new kind of pipe-joy. Here's a smoke that you can write home about. It's got everything!

They tell me more P.A. is smoked than any other brand. I believe it, and I think I know why. If you don't know the deep-down satisfaction of a jimmy-pipe and Prince Albert, you've been missing the best bet in the whole tobacco-line. I'm giving it to you straight, Men.

Hooks and Slides

TENNIS The victory of the United States team over Mexico in the first round of the Davis cup eliminations was pleasing in that it moved Bill Tilden and his young men one step nearer the cup that is now held by France.

But it was not a great big step and too much importance should not be attached to the victory. Rather, too much should not be expected of that team in the much harder matches that are to follow.

The next number on the program for the American team will be against China in a match starting May 24 in Kansas City. The competition to be offered by the Chinese players should be no more serious than that found in Mexico City.

Japan, Cuba and Canada are in the upper half of the American zone entries and the first match will be played between Japan and Cuba. It ought to be a walk over for Japan, Canada, having drawn a bye in the first round, will appear in the second round, probably against Japan and Japan should win.

Japan First Test If play follows this forecast form the United States and Japan will meet in the final round of the American eliminations in Chicago starting June 1 and this will be the first real test of the younger part of the American team.

Arnold Jones, Wilmer Allison and John Hennessy showed promising form in their matches against the Mexican players and they will have the chance of getting better through the hard exhibition campaign that Tilden has arranged for them.

Tilden is a great believer in hard work and by the time when the young Americans should have the benefit of good physical condition. The Japanese certainly can't be pushed over and the Americans, especially some of those younger fellows, will need everything they have to get the team out of the American zone into the harder competition among the survivors of the European group.

Will Be No Parade Considering what is ahead of them it is unfair to the players to predict a parade of triumph into the challenge round against the very capable French cup holders. It is silly, on the strength of a victory over Mexico, to get giddy enough to whip the French team with a pencil and paper.

The odds are all against the American team. Even if Bill Tilden holds up through such a strenuous campaign and Frank Hunter is at the very peak of his game when he joins the team in Paris, the French will be heavy favorites to beat any team that plays against them in the challenge round.

There can be no doubt with unified control of the campaign and with Tilden having the big word in the direction of it, there will be better spirit among the players, but spirit alone does not beat players like Lacoste and Cochet and Borotra.

French Have Spirit If the Americans are over-supplied with spirit they will not have any more to inspire them than the French players will have.

For the first time in history France will be defending the cup at home this year. It will be a ceremony of the greatest importance to the players and the nation and no nation can get the stimulation from ceremony that the French can.

Under all the circumstances it is better to proceed on the conviction that the United States will make a creditable showing rather than assume that the team is ordained to bring back the cup.

The boxing commission in Porto Rico, according to the local scribes, has been giving some very queer decisions. Porto Rico rapidly is becoming Americanized.

We have our own commissions here and there, but the New York commission stands out as a shining example of all that is fine and nice. For instance, the other day Mr. William Muldoon allowed to crystallize in so many words the terrible suspicion that the boxers and Mr. Rickard seemed to be in the thing mainly for the money, the exercise being with them a secondary consideration.

Cambridge University golfers, playing the other day at Walton Heath, were literally swept from their feet by a windstorm. This was his first intimation, says O'Goofy, that the British players battled that old 19th hole, too.

George Stallings got two players for his Montreal team this year from the House of David. And, if that isn't going into the bushes for a player, what is?

EXTREMELY SO "Don't you think it's rather conceited to say George has a tender spot for you?" "Not at all. You see, father kicked him down the front steps last night."—TIT-BITS.

Home Page Editorial A Plea for "Shingle" Discipline By Olive Roberts Barton

One of the utterances of Dr. John E. Briggs of Washington that delights me greatly is "Don't shout and say, 'I just can't do a thing with Willie,' in his presence. Let a beam come out of thine eye and cut a shingle therefrom and arrest thyself... I am not an advocate of corporal punishment as a general rule, because among certain parents to strike a child is the only kind of training they know... A whipping to them is the moral cure-all just as castor-oil is the panacea for all physical ills. And usually for dozens of reasons, but chiefly because a child gets hardened to it, it is of no earthly good... Frankly, with all of our child training ideas, psychology clinics, child pathologists, and high-powered normal schools, it looks as though each generation of children turned out by American parents is more and more "spoiled"... But as puzzling as it is distressing. Eventually most of them turn out to be first class men and women, because their own common sense (and let us give a little credit to ancestral stock) comes to their rescue... But during that period of adolescence between 5 and 20, there is something wrong. We know all about this new freedom and the new tenets of the younger generation... That's not news. We know that the word obedience is almost obsolete... But why should this new freedom be a selfish, self-willed, extravagant, and lazy freedom? Truly, on account of the "beam," as Dr. Briggs calls it, in the parents' eye. A good spanking once in a while might make Willie at least the equal of Gunga Din.

New R-100 Brings Luxury to Air Travel

Greatest Sky Liner Makes Its Debut Soon—Being Built in England.

Washington.—An aviation venture transcending in importance all air enterprises of the past will come with the commissioning of the British trans-Atlantic dirigible R-100 this summer.

The R-100 now is being completed at Howden Airframe, England. The ship will undergo her first air trial in June and is expected to cross the Atlantic carrying passengers and mails before September. She is twice the bulk of the Shenandoah or Los Angeles, and the only airship in existence of suitable size and strength to carry passengers commercially on the trans-Atlantic route. She is designed to carry a crew of 43, ten tons of freight, and 100 passengers.

First of 150. While of great size, this airship is about the minimum size that can be used for commercial trans-Atlantic flights, and is merely the forerunner of a fleet of 150-passenger ships, her British backers say. Commander C. Dennis Burney, Member Parliament, who is the designer of the R-100, has discussed with President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover the carrying of American trans-Atlantic mail by airship.

The R-100 will cross the Atlantic on the easterly trip in 48 hours and westerly in 60 hours. The later and larger ships will require only 36 hours east and 48 hours west. Commander Burney is now in America conducting negotiations for the dirigible's builders. It has been proposed that the remainder of the fleet, half to be built in the United States and half in England.

Officially Tested. When completed the R-100 will be tested by the British Admiralty and given an air worthiness certificate. The U. S. has agreed to lend Lakehurst Air Station for the mooring of the R-100 on her first trans-Atlantic flights.

Luxury marks the passenger equipment of the R-100. There is a combination dining saloon and lounge in which 50 persons can be served meals at one time. A staircase connects the ship's three floor levels with the control car, below.

Staterooms open off a hallway surrounding the dining saloon, and companion ways connect with the promenade decks.

Rich Carpets. All furniture and fittings have been designed to provide luxurious comfort with minimum weight. The ship's structural frame, of aluminum alloy, is covered in the lounge with mahogany veneer. The floors of five-ply veneer, richly carpeted.

There are two promenade decks,

A view of one of the promenade decks of the R-100 looking aft. These decks are equipped with reclining chairs and with facilities for shuffleboard and other deck games.

No ham sandwiches for trans-Atlantic passengers on the R-100! Here is a photograph of the combination dining room and lounge where they will enjoy course dinners, musical programs and the like. There are lounge facilities also on the upper communication deck. Observation windows are built into the hull. The wall structure is two layers of specially laid fireproof fabric, providing sound proof stateroom partitions.

COMMON COLD CAUSES MOST LOSS OF WORK

U. S. Public Health Service Makes Ten Year Study of Respiratory Diseases Among Workers.

A large electric light and power company which pays full wages to its employees who are disabled by sickness, keeps a record of the diseases which cause time lost from work. The company asked the United States Public Health Service to cooperate in the analysis of this record. When the tabulations were completed, it was found that more than one-half of all the absences on account of sickness among the men in the employ of the company was caused by diseases of the respiratory system, the more common of which are the ordinary cold, sore throat, tonsillitis, bronchitis, influenza or grippe, and pneumonia. This record is of especial interest, because it includes all absences lasting one day or longer during a ten-year period.

As a cause of absence from work among employees of this company, no other diseases group approached in importance the respiratory diseases. In fact, the respiratory diseases caused more absences than all the other diseases combined. It is not unreasonable to suppose that this sickness experience is more or less representative of the experience of other groups of employed persons.

The records of employee benefit associations scattered over the northern and eastern part of the United States tell much the same story. From the recorded experience of 35 different sick-benefit associations having a combined membership of nearly 100,000 persons, it was found that respiratory diseases caused 47 per cent of all the cases of illness for which sick-benefits were paid from 1921 to 1926, inclusive. This source of information covers only the more serious sicknesses, because these associations made payments to their members only when illness caused inability to work for 9 days or longer.

Thus, whether we consider all absences from work on account of sickness, or only those illnesses which lasted longer than one week, we find that approximately one-half of the cases were some form of respiratory sickness. Apparently, man's breathing apparatus is especially liable to microbial attack. With this evidence that the organs of respiration are particularly vulnerable, it is apparent that we ought to take special precautions against respiratory infection. By far the worst offender in the family of respiratory diseases, from the standpoint of time lost, is the common cold which, according to the record of the company mentioned, caused 70 per cent of absences resulting from diseases of the respiratory system. Colds caused the disability of 4 out of 10 men annually, and of 7 out of 10 women each year. It is no wonder we call it the common cold.

The next most important respiratory disease from the standpoint of time lost by industrial employees is influenza or grippe. In the five years ending with 1924, gripped disabled members of sick benefit associations at a rate which was more than six times the frequency of the other epidemic and infectious diseases put together. As a public health problem even when the disease is not epidemic, influenza is of out-standing importance among the adult population of the country.

Within the family respiratory diseases, the third largest waster of time is the group which may be designated as diseases of the pharynx and tonsils. Tonsillitis, sore throat, and quincy are the more common diseases in this group. In the experience of sick benefit associations, diseases of the pharynx and tonsils ranked next to grippe in frequency.

NEW RADIO LAW HELLS POLITICAL BROADCASTING BY STATIONS IN FRANCE

Paris.—Clandestine broadcasting stations which diffuse political propaganda must go with the voting of a bill by the Chamber of Deputies 400 to 29 that there were only two legal broadcasting stations in France.

Premier Poincare charged the Communist party had been using a secret station for broadcasting speeches made by members of their party.

The bill as passed is a temporary measure giving all private stations a chance to dismantle before July next at which time the Chamber engages itself to prepare a new bill.

KINDLY POLICE

IN CHICAGO KEEP BOY CRIME DOWN

Chicago, Ill.—The "Big Brother" attitude of police to juveniles has resulted in a surprising lack of young criminals in Chicago, in the opinion of Thomas A. Merryweather, director of the Philadelphia crime bureau.

Urged by the increasing number of crimes committed by boys and girls under the age of 21 years, Merryweather came to Chicago recently to make a study of police methods here.

Philadelphia, Merryweather found, was in need of some means of curbing juvenile criminality, and he believes he has found the means in the "Big Brother" attitude of police here.

Jobs for Boys "The work of police in finding jobs for young boys and in guiding them in the right paths seems to have been immensely successful," Merryweather told members of the Chicago police department.

"We found the increasing youth of criminals in the east a source of serious concern. "Boys in their teens were committing crimes that were almost unbelievable.

"For that reason I came to Chicago to study the way the problem was solved here. The results I found from the Chicago system have surprised me. Through their friendly aid, the police have given boys and girls here a real interest in going straight.

"By canvassing the business men of the city the police have found interesting work for thousands of boys who would otherwise have been on the streets.

Criminal Influences "Consequently, these boys have been turned from the quick money idea and, more important, have been placed beyond the reach of criminal influences.

"In the future it will mean a decrease in criminals, because less

ENGLISH WOMEN SPEND $20,000,000 PER WEEK FOR AIDS TO BEAUTY

London.—The women of England spend no less than $20,000,000 a week on personal adornment—not including powder, lipstick and other cosmetics—according to figures compiled by the Drapery Textile and Women's Wear Association, which is holding an exhibition here.

The sum is increasing yearly, the reports state. The huge sum was arrived at through a searching computation, and its cause was stated to be the ever-changing styles in women's clothes.

TWO BOYS KILLED

Chicago, April 19.—Two boys were killed and ten injured here today when a seven-foot wall surmounting the boys' yard at a public school, collapsed without warning and buried them beneath brick and mortar.

The dead are: Stanley Knak, 7, and an unidentified boy.

The ten injured were rushed to hospitals. Some of them may die, physicians stated.

The boys were playing in the yard waiting for the opening of school when the wall collapsed. Other children and teachers rushed to free them from the debris.

STEPHENSON TELLS OF KLUXER TYPES
Janitors, Prison Guards and Shyster Lawyers Were Elected to Office.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eleventh of a series on the deposition of D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Klan leader in which he exposes the alleged operations of the Ku Klux Klan.

Chicago, April 19.—David C. Stephenson, former Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, in the installment of his deposition today, charges that the Klan through its activities had ruled Indiana politics since 1922 and that leading politicians of Indiana have practically all been subservient to its dictates.

He outlines, too, the activities of the Klan in some states near Indiana and of the order in Washington.

"I have here a letter from Col. Simmons in which he states he was driven from the Klan by a group of 'purposeful traitors and consummate double-crossers.' Is this true, Mr. Stephenson?"

A. Yes, Colonel Simmons was driven from the Klan by the most diabolical trickery that was ever conceived by the brain of man. The motivating force back of it was the greed for gold and lust for power, and with absolute disregard of everything described in the code of honor in the dealings among men.

Q. Can you give other instances of the Klan taking a part in politics?

A. The Klan has practically dominated the state of Indiana in its political activities since 1922. That year when I was the head of the Klan, the statement was made that headquarters would be moved to Washington.

The Klan supported a candidate for governor in Ohio in 1924 but lost a losing fight. They also supported more subordinate officials. They also elected a member of the Legislature. The Klan also had a slate in the field in 1924 which has been described heretofore. But their specific activity was to elect prosecuting attorneys and these would appoint jury commissioners for them, or jury commissioners satisfactory to them in the various counties that would operate as they were told by various attorneys.

Q. What type of men as to their character have been appointed to public office?

A. One official was a former janitor in the State House. Another was formerly a deputy county clerk. A third was formerly a petting-fogging lawyer at Marion, Ohio, who had the seat of his pants out and his cuffs frayed before he got on the payroll. A fourth was formerly a guard at the Indiana state prison, a wallbird as they are referred to.

Q. An alleged carbon copy of a letter supposedly written by you to Ed Jackson (present governor of Indiana) alleging you spent $73,000 in his behalf has been published. Is this authentic?

A. The carbon copy printed is probably an authentic copy of a letter I wrote. It was written at the request of Mr. Jackson—that is it was dictated but never signed by me.

"Mr. Jackson came to me," Stephenson continued, "and said a spy or snop had been put in my office and that he had learned of some specific instances where I had expended money in behalf of his, Jackson's, candidacy. Jackson asked if I would write a letter that would indicate there was some rupture between him and me so he might have that letter to show and prevent the Klan from throwing support against Mr. Jackson. I then dictated the letter but never signed it and he never expected me to sign it.

"I think he or one of his stenographers signed the letter that he used to show. It was one of those tricky things... I did not obtain his present office and who has become about as famous for that sort of thing as he has for his ability as a horse trader.

"At the time Mr. Jackson asked me to sign the letter I really had no serious objection to doing it because both the Klan and myself had Jackson on the docket line of an agreement which would dispose of his spoils of his office in the event of his election.

"The agreement that he delivered to the Klan he brought me for my approval long after he had signed an agreement with us. It

STOCK SPLIT-UP FOR TELEPHONE CO.

Southern New England Issues Statement Denying New Haven Report.

New Haven, Conn., April 19.—Southern New England Telephone Company plans no split-up of its common stock, according to a semi-official statement issued here today in reply to reports that accounted for the high sales price of the stock by indicating a split-up of the present, and a five-dollar dividend rate.

Stock of Southern New England today was quoted at 193 in New Haven and 195 in Hartford. Six years ago the stock was selling below the par of $100 a share. A new stock issue is to be announced within a week. When an issue was announced six years ago there were few takers until a syndicate of brokers took the issue in charge and started the rise that still is under way.

A report that American Telephone & Telegraph Company plans a split-up of its common stock into two parts with a six-dollar dividend has been questioned by local brokers, pointing out that the company recently issued a statement declaring no change in rate would be made by either that company or its subsidiaries.

GOOD HOUSE PROMISES FOR EPWORTH'S PLAY

Tickets Selling Fast For "Come Out of the Kitchen" at Cheney Hall Next Thursday.

Tickets for the play, "Come Out of the Kitchen," by A. E. Thomas, which will be presented in Cheney hall on Thursday evening of next week are being sold rapidly by members of the Epworth League, under whose auspices it is to be given.

The proceeds will go toward the building fund pledge which was made to the church some years ago and the play is being put on in Cheney hall because a larger stage is available there and the seating capacity is larger than the banquet hall of the church.

Miss Helen Bates and Miss Eugenia Walsh of the High school are coaching the play. The leading parts are being taken by Miss Florence Wilson, who is Olivia Dangerfield, the part created by Ruth Chatterton in the original production and Franklin Richmond, who is Burton Crane. The part of Crane was originally played by Bruce McRae.

The story of the play is that of a southern family, reduced in circumstances and obliged to lease their house to a rich person with the condition that there be no colored servants there. All of the white servants who are engaged fail to show up and the family becomes the staff of the house.

There are numerous funny situations and some real drama in the play and everything ends happily.

The play was first produced at the George M. Cohan theater in New York in 1916 and enjoyed a long run there.

All players in or out of the Fourth District will be made welcome.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: (267) Warblers
 Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

The Whitethroat is a typical Warbler. He has a little wary with which he tries to scare people when he sets up housekeeping in their gardens because he considers that territory his own. His song is mostly sweet, however, though it can be harsh as the croak of a frog when he is displeased. The artist has sketched a Whitethroat above.

The American Redstart is one of the most beautiful of the Warblers with its mingled plumage of orange, black and white.

Here are sketched a family of Reed Warblers and their young. The little birds have tremendous appetites.

Wood Wrens are Warblers, as is the lovely Golden-crowned Wren. Wood Wrens are jolly little singers. The fine song of the River Warbler has been likened to the chirping of a grasshopper. The Firecrest and Rubycrest of South America rival the Goldcrest of Europe in gorgeousness. A Sedge Warbler is sketched above.

It's a little late in the season for a ROOF FIRE, but it makes a hot letter golf puzzle any time.

Letter golf puzzle grid with words ROOF and FIRE.

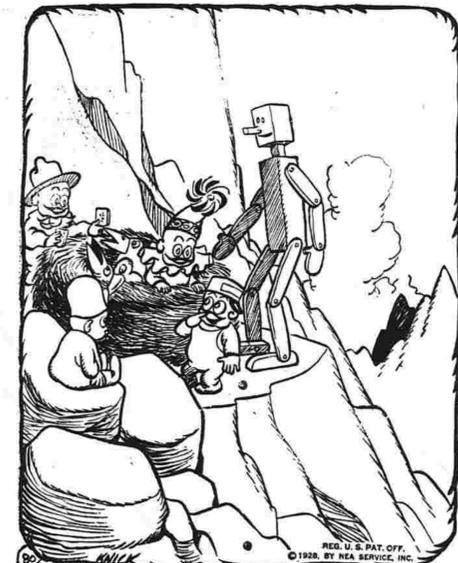

THE RULES. 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes.

"Did that firm fail to pay its debts?" "No, it failed so that it wouldn't have to pay them."

It's strange that although Americans take more baths than any other people this country has produced no great singers.

A man is known by his fruits, a band by its toots.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE. The flying man and big black bird fought hard, and shrieks were plainly heard.

SENSE and NONSENSE

It ain't the guns or arm'ent, Nor the tunes the band can play. But the close co-operation, That makes us win the day.

Can You Beat This? This thrilling love letter was found in a basket of beans:

"Dearest Sweet Pea, Do you carrot all for me? Me hear beans for you, with my radish hair and your turnip nose.

"I took the recipe for this cake out of the cook book," said the wife.

A woman may get more thrill out of a mouse, but she gets more exercise out of a moth.

Many men who are truthful by nature have to make themselves remember that business is business.

Reaction. A little nonsense, now and then, Is relished by the best of men. Provided it is offered when Our moods are tripe and mellow.

They'd never give some chloroform because they'd never know when they were unconscious!

A wife is a person who interrupts your funny story to ask if you want another cup of coffee.

A young woman with aspirations to be a singer, and, is so often the case, little else, went to a German vocal teacher for a tryout before arranging to take lessons.

"Ach! Never have I heard such a voice! I play on der vite keys and I play on der black keys, but you sing in der cracks!"

If some of 'em get in the movies on looks, some of the others must get in when nobody's looking.

TOWN WILL TAKE IN CASH O' NIGHTS

Tax Office and Town Clerk's Office Will Be Open Three Evenings in Week.

Offices of the tax collector and town clerk in the Municipal Building will be open until 9 o'clock on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week; the last week in which property taxes and dog licenses are due.

The property tax is due and payable before May 1, so that April 30, which falls on Monday of the week after next, will be the last day for payment. Dog licenses must also be obtained before May 1. The opening of both offices three evenings of next week is an additional accommodation which is extended to the public by Town Clerk Samuel Turkington and George H. Howe, tax collector.

Coming in Steadily
 Although there has been no concerted rush on either office, Mr. Howe reports that the taxes are coming into his office in a steady stream and he is of the opinion that the great majority will be paid before the time limit.

On the other hand, Mr. Turkington says that only a few hundred of the more than 1,400 dog owners in Manchester have obtained licenses. Those who do not get them before the first day of May face a penalty of one dollar which will be added to the regular two-dollar fee.

Neither the tax collector's office nor the town clerk's office will be open tonight.

Mr. Turkington said today that he had abandoned a tentative plan of establishing agencies in the Highland Park and Buckland stores for the issuance of dog licenses. He had previously intended to spend one evening at least in each of these stores so that dog owners might obtain licenses there. He says, however, that he has had a number of dog owners from the two sections come to the office in the Town Hall and he believes that the agencies in Buckland and Highland Park would be a waste of time.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deyorio 115 Main street were completely surprised at their home last evening by a party of 25 friends and relatives who called to celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary. Refreshments were brought in and during the evening Mrs. Deyorio was presented with a beautiful pearl necklace.

Prospective Chamber Diners
Wonder About Playlet Members Are to Put On.

Who was Hippolyte? Why did he have to bring suit against the Window Luncheon? These are two questions which will be answered at the Chamber of Commerce membership meeting, Monday evening, April 23, at Masonic Temple. There has been overhauling of book shelves and the dusting off of De-Maupassant since the Chamber announced the play to be given by its own talent at this meeting.

In addition to the attraction furnished by Hippolyte and his fair widow, there will be active competition for honors by Chef Osano with one of his excellent dinners. The nonsense half-hour which will intervene between the business meeting and the presentation of Hippolyte is designed to put the party in a frame of mind to properly appreciate the efforts of the players.

Chamber members are free to bring guests with them to this meeting. Dinner reservations close Friday night as Osano must know how many to prepare for. Those who have not signed their dinner reservation cards are urged to mail them at once.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Application for a marriage license has been made by Augustus Pennery, silk mill employee, and Edith M. Hildreth, both of this town.

The second April meeting of the American Legion auxiliary will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the state armory. After the business the last whist in the series will be played. The attendance prize will be furnished by Mrs. Georgia George and refreshments served by Mrs. A. Tournaud and committee.

The auxiliary and Legion have received an invitation from state headquarters to attend a dinner at the Hotel Garde Wednesday evening, April 25 in honor of Mrs. Irene McIntyre Walbridge, national president of the auxiliary. Mrs. Walbridge served in the World War with the Salvation Army. She was under enemy fire 256 days and twice was cited in army orders for courage and devotion under high explosive fire and gas. She worked with the 26th Division and will have a most interesting and inspiring message for the Legion and auxiliary.

The cost of the banquet is $2 per cover and all reservations must be in the auxiliary president's hands by Monday evening, April 23.

LOCAL MEN FINED

"GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

STRESS, OUR EYE!

To hear some people talk and to read some of the stuff that's written you'd think that half of the business men in this country were headed for the sanatorium or for the grave years and years ahead of their time. "The stress and turmoil and strain of modern business!" Dreadful!

It gives us a grin. Why, business is fun—the best kind of fun—if you just do business and don't lie awake nights trying to think up ways to do people. Of course you get tired. Everybody that's worth a hoot in the dark gets tired. It's the normal and right thing to get tired. And then go to bed and to sleep and get up fit to start all over again. We're planned to do just that thing. But where does all the strain and stress come in—if you're having a good time. And if you're not having a good time in business—well, you're in the wrong niche.

Everybody in Pinehurst is having a good time. Why not? There's something mighty pleasant about handling oodles of good food, showing it to folks and selling it to folks that you know are going to enjoy it—smack their lips over it, so to speak. It's fun to come into contact with scores and hundreds of people, strangers at first, maybe, but soon your friends—made so because you've just played fair and square with them, and done your prettiest to serve their interests. It's fun to see the stuff go out, truckloads, and know that it's going to do good to the friends who are to get it.

Stress and strain, our eye! Business is bully, when you tackle it in the right spirit.

IF YOU HAD A FIRE
Could You Prove Your Loss?
STATEMENT

Published by the American Credit Men's Association.

It has been established by the United States Supreme Court decision rendered October 7, 1926, that a fire loss may not be collected even though thoroughly covered by fire insurance, unless an inventory of merchandise is produced that was made out previous to the fire; otherwise an insurance company can (where the loss is complete) either take or dispute your word.

IT IS PURELY OPTIONAL WITH THEM
The United States Supreme Court has ruled:
YOUR CASE MUST BE PROVEN

Your word or memory is not sufficient. Your inventory books should be kept in a fire-proof safe deposit vault, together with insurance papers and other valuable documents.

We have a supply of Household Inventory books on hand for free distribution, and will be glad to mail you one on request.
