BRITISH INDUSTRIES AND CORPORATIONS IN RAIL AND MOTOR WAR

London.—A furious war is impending between British railroad corporations and British industries. It arises from the railroads seeking legislative powers to have the same transport powers for goods over roads, as they now do over the rails.

CHICAGO SCHOOL BOARD HAS $2,205,991 DEFICIT; NEW BUDGET $84,046,620

Chicago, Ill.—The Chicago Board of Education has faced with a deficit of $2,205,991 from expenditures during the past year.

SUN'S SPOT SHRINK; SEE BETTER WEATHER FOR NEXT 11 YEARS

Berlin.—The period of cyclone, tornado, flood and earthquake disasters which wrought havoc all over the world during the last few years is over.

This is the assertion of German astronomers who have ascertained that the huge sun spots to which such disasters are attributed have passed their maximum expansion and are now beginning to disappear.

The sun spots, some of which cover areas larger than the whole surface of the earth, produce gigantic gas explosions and electromagnetic storms which, it is held, in turn produce such a commotion in the earth's atmosphere and so unbalance its equilibrium that weather and earthquake catastrophes take place.

BOOTLEGGERS' PROFITS DWINDLING, SHOWN BY SMALLER SEIZURES

Cleveland.—Bootlegger's profits, at least in Cleveland and vicinity, are dwindling, according to a report of the federal government here.

Whereas three years ago, the federal government here in which seized liquor is kept, seldom contained less than 1,000 cases and 25 or more barrels of whiskey, today only a mere fifty or so, cases, could be found in government custody in the whole northeastern Ohio district.

The authority for this statement is H. D. Lingenfelter chief deputy United States marshal here.

"Formerly when raids were made," Lingenfelter declared, "agents brought liquor in by truckloads. Now they bring it in two or three pints at a time, usually taken from hangers-on, who make it their business to serve, speak-early customers from pocket flasks instead of open cans before."

"Few people realize the great expense under which bootleggers work. They must pay good prices for liquor they handle, in addition to protection from hi-jackers and in certain localities 'protection' from crooked officials. They must pay good salaries to their employees also."

Lawyers who formerly collected 'fat' fees from liquor law violators, also are feeling the pinch of the new era, Lingenfelter declared.

ABOUT TOWN

At tonight's meeting of the St. Mary's Young Men's Club members, action will be taken on the question of using money now in the building fund, to repair and remodel the club house.

A daughter, Janet Frances, was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Howes of Ridgefield, formerly of the town.

Mrs. Richard C. Williams and daughter Mabel of Maplewood, N. J. arrived today for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John M. Williams of Hudson street.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. will hold its regular business meeting this evening in St. James's hall.

A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Montie of 148 West Center street.

OLD BRIGGS HOTEL, CHICAGO LANDMARK, BEING TORN DOWN

Chicago.—They are tearing down Chicago's famous Briggs House at 188 West Randolph street, for many years one of the city's leading hotels and for almost three quarters of a century headquarters of mid-west officials and politicians.

Built in 1862, it was long a show-place of Chicago, with its huge red plush lounges in the lobby, immense leather armchairs and decorations, at the time, considered the demerit cri in artistic effect.

Abraham Lincoln once made his headquarters at the Briggs House. It was in a dingy, rather gloomy room, even at its best, known as Parlor A, where Lincoln received word he had been nominated for the presidency of the United States.

A few blocks away from the site of the ancient hostelry, which is to be replaced by a Chicago club building, the square red banner of the auctioneer flutters. Here has been carted the well-rubbed, age-stained furniture of the old hotel. Quaint desks with twisted legs; dressers, all aglitter with marble and mirrors, and bedsteads, almost ten feet high, make up the selections of the auctioneer.

A prize among the antiques, now quoted at rather fancy prices, is a hatrack, studded with old-fashioned pegs.

OFF TO ATLANTA

New York, April 23.—Colonel Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, is believed to be on his way to Atlanta to begin a sentence of eighteen months in a federal prison for defrauding the government in disposing of foreign dye patents.

Accompanied by two deputy U. S. marshals, Col. Miller left the federal building here today by a side entrance, after submitting himself to Marshal William Hecht.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF

Detroit, Mich., April 23.—Joseph Donkiewicz, 42, former superintendent of the Hamtramck department of Public Works, today shot and killed his wife, Stella, and then turned the gun on himself, inflicting a fatal wound. He died half hour later.

According to police the couple attended a party last night and quarreled over what time they should go home.

BRIDGEPORT MECCA FOR STATE I. O. O. F.

Grand Lodge Session There May 14-16—Grand Sire Coming.

From now to May 14 the watchword of the Odd Fellows of Manchester as well as those of other towns and cities of the state will be "On to Bridgeport." The 1923 session of the grand lodge of the Odd Fellows of Connecticut will be held in Bridgeport on May 14, 15 and 16.

The grand master, Dorr R. Whitney of Bridgeport will preside. Through the persistent effort of Grand Secretary W. S. Hutchison, the Odd Fellows of this state will have as their guest the Hon. Leonard S. Merrill, grand sire of Odd Fellows of the world. He will be accompanied by many of the grand officers of the sister jurisdiction of the New England states.

Grand Sire Merrill upon his election to the highest honor within the order, he said he would be granted a leave of absence for one year from his duties as dean of the University of Maine in order that he might devote all of his time and energy to the work of the Odd Fellows. His pleasing personality makes him a very attractive speaker and a wonderful successor to the late Past Grand Sire Pickett. He is reputed to be a very forceful speaker. When notifying Grand Hutchison that he would accept the invitation to attend the grand lodge session, he said he would be in Bridgeport on May 14, 15 and 16.

The Rebekah degree will be exemplified on Monday afternoon, May 14 and in the evening of the same day the patriarchal degree will be worked by a specially picked team from among the patriots of the ancient hostelry. On Tuesday morning the grand sire will meet the grand officers of the grand lodge and grand encampment. In the evening at 7 o'clock a monster parade will take place immediately followed by the exemplification of the first degree of the subordinate branches of the order.

Every lodge in the state is expected to produce one or more candidates for these three events. The three local branches of the Odd Fellows, that is, Sunset Rebekah Lodge, King David Lodge and Shepherd encampment will have candidates present. Grand Secretary William S. Hutchison who is a Manchester man and a member of King David Lodge, has on every occasion possible during his visitations all over New England, introduced himself as a past grand of King David Lodge, of Manchester, and in so doing has caused the name of his home lodge to be known throughout the United States and Canada.

It is expected that Manchester will send a large delegation to Bridgeport on this occasion. Each of the local lodges will have a committee on transportation. Past Grand W. D. Loveland and Past Chief Patriarch William Prentice are the chairmen of these committees. Further information will be given out regarding this event at the encampment meeting tonight and also at the meeting of King David Lodge next Friday evening.

RHODY FOR SMITH.

Providence, R. I., April 23.—Rhode Island fell in line for Al Smith for president today when 20 delegates and 20 alternates were instructed to vote for the New York governor at the Democratic national convention at Houston, Texas.

This action was taken at the Democratic state convention here.

COLUMBIA

The annual speaking and spelling contest of the town schools was held at the hall Friday afternoon. Those taking part were the winners of the six schools in town. Those taking part in the speaking contest were Westcott Rice of the Center, Mary Wilke of Hop River Village, Celia Zenowitz of Chestnut Hill, Leonard German of West street, Frederick Macht of Old Hop River, Marie Fisher of Pine street. The judges were Mrs. Welch and Mrs. Mitchell of Columbia, and Mrs. White of Andover. They decided that Westcott Rice who recited "The Wind and the Moon" had won first place and Leonard German of West street who spoke "I am an American" won second place. The spellers were Jasmar Woodward of Center, Annie Chowne of Old Hop River, Celia Zenowitz of Chestnut Hill, Wilhelmina Germain of West street, Jack Rubenstein of Pine street and Jennie Johnson of Hop River Village. Celia Zenowitz of Chestnut Hill won first place and Annie Chowne of Old Hop River won second place in spelling.

Mrs. Sergio of Forestville is again substituting at the Pine street school during the illness of the teacher, Mrs. Cummings. Miss Sergio is boarding at the Fishers. Clinton Lewis is painting his store.

Dawson's men have started setting the shrubbery on the Green and are at present setting the barberry hedge which will go around the edge.

The Misses Lois and Hazel Gillette are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Isham.

Little Mary Szegda who is recovering from an attack of pneumonia had her ninth birthday and had many presents from her friends and schoolmates. The children in the Center school of which she is a member made her a large scrapbook containing stories, pictures and cut outs. The teacher, Miss Holmes also took her a basket of fruit and other goodies. Mary also had a birthday cake.

Mrs. Oscar Ericson and two daughters of Berlin spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hutchings.

Mr. and Mrs. Jewett Collins, Rodney Collins and Mrs. Evelyn Davis spent the week-end in Columbia with relatives.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Junie Squiers Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Squiers, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Hutchinson will be the hostesses.

The annual meeting of the Columbia Improvement Association will be held at the Town Hall next Saturday evening, to elect officers and do any other necessary business. The tax collector states that about one-third of the taxpayers have paid their taxes to date. Those remaining will have to pay up by the first of May or pay an extra percentage.

Rev. Duane Wain preached Sunday morning on the subject, "New Wine in New Bottles." His talk to the children was "The lessons of a postage stamp."

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hunt and family and Mrs. Jennie Hunt attended the concert at the Storrs Community church Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Abell is suffering from an attack of bronchitis.

REPORTER DIES

Hartford, Conn., April 23.—Arthur S. Burns, who for the past twenty years has been in newspaper work in this city, died at Hartford hospital today after a long illness. Mr. Burns was forty.

Mr. Burns was once city aviation commissioner. He was once connected with the Hartford Telegram and the Hartford Post, both defunct, and of late years was with the Hartford Courant, first as court reporter and later as aviation and radio editor.

HORROR OF WAR WITH AIRPLANES TOLD BY EXPERT

London.—All the horrors of a future war and the super-part which the aeroplane will play in it, are brought out in a book by Lieut.-Col. P. T. Etherton, England's famous commander of the 51st anti-aircraft Brigade in the London Air Defenses, who organized the mimic air raid on London three years ago.

Bombing airplanes that will rise a good deal higher than Mount Everest, and travel over 300 miles an hour; diving towards the earth at a speed of 800 miles an hour; are among the astonishing prophecies made by Colonel Etherton in his book, "Adventures in Five Continents," which has just been published in London.

Amazingly Rapid. "Future years will be characterized by their amazing rapidity. Everything will depend upon the element of surprise," writes Colonel Etherton. "The declaration of war will synchronize with the departure of the enemy air fleet from the capital city. A thousand of these super-bombing planes, able to cover 4,000 miles non-stop, and carrying four tons of bombs, as they do now, would, if successful in penetrating the defenses, spread death and destruction in several forms. The most damage to property would be enormous, the poison gases and vapors released from chemical bombs would render entire districts untenable.

Colonel Etherton points out that the countries involved will be at the mercy of the aeroplane in the next European war, which will probably be decided within six months.

"The fast bombing planes, able to travel at least 300 miles an hour, will move in the sky at a height of 35,000 feet to 40,000 feet. They will move in safety through dense fog in the blackest of nights.

Fought in Air. "If gained by the opposite side not only would the point assailed be reduced to a gas-flooded, wrecked, and burning area, but the moral effect would be incalculable with a population flying from the doomed area, harassed by fast-swooping airplanes dealing out bombs, sprays and poisonous vapors with pitiless persistency. After such a raid little would be left of a once prosperous city teeming with life and industry."

The immense height of the future air wars will call for super-searchlights, and Colonel Etherton states that the French now possess the most powerful searchlight in the world. "It is," he says, "a searchlight of one thousand million candlepower and in clear weather the beams penetrate to a distance of ninety miles, while the light is visible at a range of just over four hundred miles."

NEW BEDFORD STRIKE

New Bedford, Mass., April 23.—Rumors that some of the mills, shut down by the strike of 27,000 mill workers a week ago, would attempt to re-open today, proved groundless, according to reports made by pickets.

Conditions in the strike over the week-end remained the same. Neither side showed any inclination to give way.

Mill workers in several of the mills that were not affected by the strike, voted to give ten per cent of their wages for relief work among the strikers. A meeting of the citizens relief committee this afternoon was expected to aid the workers too, many of whom had appealed to the public welfare commission for assistance.

Recent tests indicate that house flies often make a journey of five or six miles in 24 hours.

KIWANIANS DINE BOYS TOMORROW

Manchester Kiwanis club members are reminded of the meeting tomorrow afternoon at the north end fire headquarters, when "Bill" Wood of Wesleyan University will talk on athletics and students from the college will sing. The largest gathering that has ever attended a regular weekly meeting of the club is expected, for tomorrow will be the first "Boys" day and every Kiwanian will have as his guest his own son or a borrowed one, of high school age. The ladies of the Memorial hospital linen auxiliary are to cater and they are planning for about 85. The profits will be for the benefit of the linen fund.

AFTERNOON OF MUSIC AT NEW STORRS CHURCH

A number of local people attended the "Afternoon of Music" at the Storrs Community church yesterday afternoon by the Hartford County Choral society and orchestra. The conductor is G. Curtis Munson and the concert master, Bernice Beckus. The chorus is composed of 40 voices and the orchestra, 18 pieces. The accompanist, who played on a piano furnished by Watkins Brothers, was Miss Louise Kuchta.

Among the chorus singers were Mr. and Mrs. William E. Shaw of Putnam, formerly of Manchester. Every one of the singers and other musicians contributed their services and a very enjoyable program of more than fifteen vocal and instrumental numbers was rendered with prayer and scripture reading by the pastor of the Storrs Community church, Rev. Morris Alling.

CITY CLUB MEMBERS IN BANQUET TONIGHT

Nearly 100 members of the Manchester City club will be present at the Hotel Pond ballroom this evening when the annual banquet of the club will be held. Festivities are to start at eight o'clock, and it is expected will last until midnight.

Club members are planning to leave their local headquarters at seven o'clock this evening for the Bond. Willard B. Rogers is committee chairman and he has appointed Edward Ballsteper, Sr., as toastmaster. Lieutenant-Governor J. Edwin Brainard and his staff will be present.

The dinner which will feature filet mignon will begin at eight o'clock.

ENGLAND FACES STUDIO REVOLT BY EXTRA HELP

London.—Extras in the movie studios are quite accustomed to "register" wrath, hatred, revolt and other forms of concerted indignation for screen purposes, and those employed in the British studios are now rehearsing a little collective wrath on their own professional account.

Indignation meetings have been held at which demands were formulated for more pay, better allowances, payment for overtime, and no fees to agents.

The "studio revolt" is the result of a long-standing dissatisfaction with the present wage scale. Extras have been receiving an average of five dollars a day, but even this is not clear profit.

Need Own Wardrobe. Unless the production which all they appear in a "costume" or "period" film, they must provide for the clothes necessary for any and every social occasion, both indoor and outdoor. This means that they must maintain an extensive wardrobe in good condition and repair. The report is that the studio when required at 9 a. m. or earlier, and remain until work for the day is finished. A twelve-hour day is nothing unusual for a film-crowd player.

Out of their five dollars a day, the extras must provide their own meals, traveling expenses and agents fees—a total averaging from $1.50 to $2.00 a day at the very least. It is practically impossible to earn a living wage under such conditions, and the extras are up in arms.

Crowd Players. Many crowd players, of course are simply learning the business and the salary means little to them. But others are stage folk eking out a living. A large number, perhaps the majority, are "gentle-folks" in reduced circumstances, which many are derelicts of the stage and music hall. Others are well-to-do people seeking a new interest in life or merely anxious to see themselves on the screen.

But in their effort to obtain higher wages, they have handed themselves into what they call the Film Artists Guild. They have chosen a committee which is now engaged in negotiating with film companies for improved conditions, and has already succeeded in obtaining an overtime concession when work extends beyond 7 p. m.

WANTS COP TO PAY FOR DOG'S LICENSE

Officer Had Found That Licenses Had Another Man's "Lost" Animal.

That Lieutenant of police William Barron knows dogs and that dogs know their own masters, was shown yesterday when Tony Miscello went to the police station and demanded that Lieutenant Barron return $2 that Miscello lost in the registration of a dog during the past week, admitting that the dog did not belong to him.

According to court records Tony was before the town court within the last two weeks charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell, failing to support his wife and children and drew a fine of $200 and costs and a suspended jail sentence of thirty days, with the understanding that he pay $10 a week to his family. He took an appeal.

Bull Dog Didn't Fit. When Officer Barron visited Tony's home he found a bulldog the dog did not seem to fit in with the surrounding, but it had a license showing that he had paid $2 for the right to own such a dog and that the dog was known as "Bud". This was for the year 1923.

When the court session was over Officer Barron again started an investigation and learned that A. J. Willis of Delmont street had lost a dog. Returning to Tony's home he took the dog with him and child, to the coal yard of G. E. Willis & Son where A. J. Willis is the yard man. Mr. Willis, on seeing the dog, at once recognized him. Instead of calling him "Bud" he called him "Ted" and the dog went out of the automobile. Mr. Willis promptly registered him under the name of "Ted" again. Now Tony finds that he can't get his money back from the town clerk and is trying to collect the $2 from the policeman.

WATKINS TO HOLD AUCTION OF ANTIQUES

C. F. Macfarlane of Willimantic in Charge—Many Rare Pieces on Sale.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock Watkins Brothers will inaugurate their first auction of American antiques. Watkins antique department was opened about six months ago and many fine and rare pieces have been collected and will be placed on sale tomorrow. The antique department of the local store differs from the usual antique shop in that most of the pieces on display have been refinished and repaired when necessary to make them suitably for immediate use.

Such rare pieces as a gateleg table, an oak tavern table, sideboards of the 18th century type, one being a half-circle model and others short models, chests of drawers and the like are included. Pieces in oak, maple, pine, cherry and mahogany are to be found in the collection. C. F. Macfarlane of Willimantic, one of the best known antique auctioneers of this vicinity, is in charge of the sale. Mr. Macfarlane has a following of over three hundred enthusiastic antique collectors who attend his auctions so a good size crowd is expected to attend tomorrow's sale. The auction will be held in Watkins music room, entrance from either 11 Oak street or from Main street, and comfortable chairs will be provided for those who attend.

GETS ANGLER'S LICENSE IN NINETIETH YEAR

John M. Allen Plans to Do a Little Fishing Just Like Usual.

John M. Allen of Hudson street, who will be 90 years next November, this morning took out a fishing license from Town Clerk Turkington, intending to do a little angling. Last year he had a combination license, but this year does not expect to be in Manchester and probably will not go hunting.

He is the oldest fisherman in Manchester to obtain a license. He has been a resident of Manchester seven years, moving here from Hingham. He has had a fishing license ever since it became legally necessary to have one. Only three women in Manchester have taken out licenses, for women can fish legally without licenses excepting in state leased waters.

PARTY FOR BRIDE-ELECT Friends of Miss Hazel Chambers Give Her Miscellaneous Shower On Saturday Evening

Miss Hazel Chambers of Benton street was the guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower given Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Elford Johnson of Hill street. About 25 friends of Miss Chambers attended. One of the fun-making events of the evening was a mock marriage. The "show" was arranged in a novel way in the dining room. It was in the form of a flower garden, and the gifts were concealed beneath the blossoms. When the prospective bride had uprooted them all she was rewarded with a choice collection of gifts. Long tables decorated with daffodils were set on the porch, and a faint luncheon was served. Miss Chambers is to be married in May to Fred Finnegan of this town.

Rockville

Mothers Club Entertains The Mothers Club of the Union Congregational Church held a very successful party on Friday evening when they gave their "Family Night." At 6:15 o'clock supper was served to 120, the dining room was decorated with spring flowers. Following the supper Mrs. Charles Leonard, president of the club, extended a hearty welcome to the present and invited the guests to the chapel where the following program was presented:

Piano solo, Edna Barrows A Heart to Heart Talk Rev. George S. Brooks Monologue, "My Father Can Lick Yours" Br. Can Lick Song, "The Hermit" Herzog Magic and Ventriloquism Ernest K. Schieldege of Hartford Property Transferred

The farm of Charles O. Dart, located in Vernon, has been transferred to Frederick Ecker of this city. The farm comprises 85 acres and has been owned by Mr. Dart since 1891. Mr. Dart plans on retiring from farming.

Masons Meeting The Master Mason Degree will be conferred by Past Master Robert S. Crittenden and associate officers of Hartford on a class of candidates Tuesday evening.

Host and Hostess of Rockville House Entertain Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Chappelaine entertained about 150 of their friends at the Rockville House on Saturday evening. The dining room was attractively decorated for the occasion. Captain Stephen J. Tobin prompted the old fashioned dance numbers. Music was furnished by Kabrick's orchestra. Guests were present from Springfield, Holyoke, Worcester, Hartford and Manchester.

Notes Edward L. Newmarker addressed the Young Men's Class of the Union Congregational Church, Sunday noon.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Union Church enjoyed a hike Saturday afternoon to Snipsic Lake. Upon their return to the church, a supper was served.

Rev. James Moly of Hartford met a group of Rockville colored residents on Sunday in regard to forming a Methodist Mission. The woman's Benefit Association will hold a public whist on Tuesday afternoon in their rooms in Fifth Block.

Mrs. Mary Ryder will celebrate her 90th birthday Saturday, April 25th, at home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Doyle of Tolland. There will be open house Saturday afternoon. It will be an informal affair and friends will be cordially welcomed.

Mayflower Rebekah Lodge No. 33 will meet on Tuesday evening, in I.O.O.F. hall. The delegates of the Rebekah Assembly held in Torrington, April 17th and 18th, will give their reports. Following the meeting whist will be enjoyed.

The Young People's Fellowship of the St. John's Episcopal church is rehearsing for a comedy "Just Like Percy" which will be given May 2nd in the Parish rooms. Tickets are now on sale.

Mrs. Charles Schilling and son of Patterson, N. Y., are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gebler of East street.

Palmer Dickinson of Talcott avenue spent the week-end in Newark, N. J.

Mrs. George Thompson of Talcott avenue spent the week-end in Newark, N. J.

George Thompson of Talcott avenue spent the week-end in Woodstock, N. Y.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles Prellie of High street on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The members are requested to bring the penny bags which should be turned in at this time.

The Children Club will hold a Maybasket social at the Elks Home on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Thomas Garvan is chairman.

A large delegation from Kitchener Lodge, Sons of St. George, attended the service in the Baptist Church Sunday evening. Rev. Blake Smith preached a very interesting sermon on "Three Whole Continents Unexplored". The male quartette rendered several solos.

Hope Sewing Club, O.E.S. will hold another of their popular afternoon teas at the home of Mrs. William Little of Orchard street on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. William F. Say and Mrs. Henry Tronton will assist in serving.

Albert Beaumont of High street is confined to the house by illness. Ellsworth Nettleton, Yale spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nettleton of Talcott avenue.

Miss Edith Mead of Springfield spent the week-end at her home on Union street.

HARRY BELLAMY DORIS HOWARD WIN PRIZE DANCE AT "GREEN"

The five dollars in gold offered to the winner of the prize fox trot dance at the Manchester Green school last Saturday night was won by Harry Bellamy, Jr., of Flower street, with Miss Doris Howard of Woodbridge street as his partner. An interesting point in connection with their victory is the fact that they had been dancing but a very short time. They merely danced the last encore of the number prior to the prize event. Prize contest dancers understand that this is "going in cold." Two of the judges were Thomas Kearns and William Brennan. Leo Weil's orchestra furnished the music. Next Saturday night there will be a prize waltz and Al Behrend's orchestra will be on the job. These orchestras alternate each week because of other bookings.

BEETHOVENS' CONCERT BUSY SEASON WINDUP

Tomorrow Night's Affair Will Mark Close of These Events Till Next Fall.

Manchester's concert season will come to a close tomorrow night with the third annual concert of the Beethoven Glee Club, which will be held at the High school assembly hall. This is a musical event to which the public has looked forward with anticipation after hearing the club's efforts.

The program will be entirely new and will include numbers that are varied enough to please everyone's musical taste. Assisting the club will be the Gloria Trumpeters of New York, Earl Bellis, tenor, of Worcester and several Manchester artists. This is the second appearance of the Gloria Trumpeters in Manchester, after their concert with the Beethoven club two years ago.

The third annual concert comes at the close of a busy season for the Beethoven club. Opening the season last fall with a concert tour throughout New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, the club has since given several concerts in and about Manchester, their most recent engagement being at the Kiwanis Benefit last Wednesday where they sang for the Kiddies Camp.

How much has been accomplished during the last year will be shown at the concert tomorrow evening. The club will meet for its final rehearsal tonight at the Swedish Lutheran church.

Richard Lee Taylor Funeral services for Richard Lee Taylor, Manchester's veteran meat business dealer, were held at his home at 2 Oak Place at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The services were largely attended, friends and relatives coming from Taftville, New Britain, Hartford, Glastonbury and other places. There were forty floral pieces. Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, pastor of the South Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. The bearers were Albert Taylor, Rollin Rood, Lincoln Carter, Jr., John G. Penland, George Hunt and Harry Hills. All except Mr. Hunt live here. His home is in Taftville. Burial was in the family plot of the East cemetery.

Miss Priscilla Bradley. The funeral of Miss Priscilla Bradley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bradley, of Hartford, formerly of Manchester, was held at her late home Saturday afternoon at 1:30, and burial was at 1:30 yesterday afternoon in East Jeffrey, N. H.

The bearers were George H. Richford, H. B. Strong, E. S. Goodwin and J. M. Parker.

BOXER CHARGED WITH HOLDUP Brought to Manchester by County Officer.

At 8 o'clock this morning Deputy Sheriff Gerald R. Wrisley, assistant county detective, took from the Manchester police station Adolph D'Onofrio, wanted in East Hartford on a charge of robbery. He is a native of Italy, and whom he had brought here after arresting him in Hartford, for police reasons. It is alleged that he is wanted in connection with the holdup of a Glastonbury man, Fred York, in the southern part of East Hartford on March 25, when York was badly beaten, his watch and $46 in money taken from him. Two other men who are said to have assisted in the attack were arrested the day following by the East Hartford police and are being held for the next term of the superior court under bonds of $20,000 each. Police that D'Onofrio, who is only nineteen years old, made his escape and that he returned to Boston where he has been hanging out for several months and where he was apprehended by a lighted under the name of Michael Rowe.

D'Onofrio is very well known by Manchester boxing fans, who have attended the amateur bouts at Foot Guard hall in Hartford this winter.

ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES Danbury, Conn., April 23.—Stephen Merak, struck by a motorcycle here on Friday evening, died at Danbury hospital here today from the effects of that accident.

John Sasiak, operator of the motorcycle, is being held on a charge of manslaughter pending the inquest by Coroner John J. Phelan, who is expected here tomorrow.

STOPS BASEBALL CAR, BUT IT'S NOT WANTED

Following an accident in Andover Saturday night the Manchester police were notified to pick up a Cadillac sedan with New York markers, it being claimed that it had struck another car and had failed to stop. At 8:30 Sergeant John Crockett stopped such a car as it was coming through the Center. The car was listed as being owned by the Albany Baseball Association and the driver was Bill McCovey, manager of the team. With him were seven other men, all players on the Albany team, who had played in Providence and were returning to Albany to meet Springfield there on Sunday.

McCovey declared that he knew nothing of any accident and as the matter was outside of the Manchester police territory the Stafford barracks of the state police were notified.

That officer reported that the accident was not a "hit and run" case and that but little damage had been done. No arrests will be made.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Thomas P. Abbott Mrs. Margaret McConnell Abbott, wife of Thomas P. Abbott, vice-president of one of Buffalo's largest department stores, died at her home in Buffalo, N. Y., Saturday. Mrs. Abbott was a native of Manchester and burial will be at the Buckland cemetery here tomorrow.

Mrs. Abbott is survived by three children, Robert, Evelyn B. and Norman E., and three sisters, Mrs. Henry Musmann, of Hartford, and Mrs. Harry L. Wilson and Mrs. Charles Martin of Manchester.

Funeral services will be held at her late home, 111 Morris Avenue, Buffalo, this afternoon. The body will be brought here tomorrow and a service for members of the family will be held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Martin of Oakland street, at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon. A service will be held in the Second Congregational church at two o'clock with burial in Buckland cemetery.

The bearers will be three brothers-in-law, Harry L. Wilson, Henry Musmann, Charles Martin, and three cousins, James Richmond, Clarence McGonigal and William McGonigal.

She was 56 years old and leaves, besides her husband, two daughters, Gertrude, wife of Peter McSweeney of Burnside and Hazel Colton, who lives at home. Mrs. Colton was born in Burnside but had lived most of her life in Manchester, where she died at two o'clock at St. Bridget's church, Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

Arthur Kamm Arthur Kamm, of Griswold street, Glastonbury, died this morning at the Hartford hospital to which institution he was taken Friday afternoon. Mr. Kamm, who was 60 years old, had been suffering for the past year with anemia and it was planned to perform an operation for blood transfusion today.

Mr. Kamm was a tobacco farmer and he and his wife leaves a daughter and four sons. They are Mrs. Oscar Schuetz of 82 West Center street and Frederick Kamm of Glastonbury, Otto of East Hartford and Ernest who lives at home. There are also several grand children. Arrangements have not yet been completed.

FUNERALS

Richard Lee Taylor Funeral services for Richard Lee Taylor, Manchester's veteran meat business dealer, were held at his home at 2 Oak Place at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The services were largely attended, friends and relatives coming from Taftville, New Britain, Hartford, Glastonbury and other places. There were forty floral pieces. Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, pastor of the South Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. The bearers were Albert Taylor, Rollin Rood, Lincoln Carter, Jr., John G. Penland, George Hunt and Harry Hills. All except Mr. Hunt live here. His home is in Taftville. Burial was in the family plot of the East cemetery.

Miss Priscilla Bradley. The funeral of Miss Priscilla Bradley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bradley, of Hartford, formerly of Manchester, was held at her late home Saturday afternoon at 1:30, and burial was at 1:30 yesterday afternoon in East Jeffrey, N. H.

The bearers were George H. Richford, H. B. Strong, E. S. Goodwin and J. M. Parker.

HOLD D'ONAFRIO HERE IN E. HARTFORD CASE

At 8 o'clock this morning Deputy Sheriff Gerald R. Wrisley, assistant county detective, took from the Manchester police station Adolph D'Onofrio, wanted in East Hartford on a charge of robbery. He is a native of Italy, and whom he had brought here after arresting him in Hartford, for police reasons. It is alleged that he is wanted in connection with the holdup of a Glastonbury man, Fred York, in the southern part of East Hartford on March 25, when York was badly beaten, his watch and $46 in money taken from him. Two other men who are said to have assisted in the attack were arrested the day following by the East Hartford police and are being held for the next term of the superior court under bonds of $20,000 each. Police that D'Onofrio, who is only nineteen years old, made his escape and that he returned to Boston where he has been hanging out for several months and where he was apprehended by a lighted under the name of Michael Rowe.

D'Onofrio is very well known by Manchester boxing fans, who have attended the amateur bouts at Foot Guard hall in Hartford this winter.

ABOUT TOWN

A special meeting of the Ecumenical Society of the Center Congregational church will be held in the church parlors tomorrow evening at 7:30.

Miss Agnes Watson of Spruce street fell while roller skating Friday night and broke her leg. She is at the Manchester Memorial hospital.

There will be a meeting of the officers, substitutes and second degree team of John Mather chapter, Order of DeMolay, in the Masonic Temple this evening at 7:30.

There will be a meeting of the Manchester Broadcast Listeners in rooms six and seven at the School Recreation Center at eight o'clock tomorrow night. Louis Richmond, president of the organization, and John Dwyer will make a report on what took place at the New England radio meeting in Boston Friday and Saturday.

Masses in St. James's church next Sunday will be on the regular schedule and will be on standard time, although all other churches are expected to hold their services on daylight saving time.

The police have been asked to locate James Smith for the New London authorities, who say he was last heard of as living in Manchester, at the Edgewood house, and being employed by Cheney Brothers. At the Edgewood house no James Smith could be found. Further effort is being made to locate him, as his father died yesterday in New London.

The semi-monthly meeting of Campbell Council, K. of C., will be held in the hall this evening.

George H. Waddell is in Stamford today in connection with town business.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilkinson of 104 Walnut street, spent the week-end in New York City.

The April meeting of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Masonic Temple at 6:30 tonight, starting with a dinner and being served by Chef Osano. Scott H. Simon, George Glenney and Arthur Knoffa will present the one-act play based on De Maupassant's "Hippolyte's Claim."

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Adella Cullin celebrated her thirteenth birthday Saturday afternoon by giving a party at the new home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cullin, on Bond street. Ten of her girl friends were present and they made merry in the usual way by games, music and dancing. Mrs. Cullin had decorated the table and being served by the table centerpiece. There were pink candy baskets and pink favors. Adella received many pretty gifts and the girls all had a fine time.

SAYS BAD ROADS KEEP TRADE OUT OF TOWN

Secretary Rix Points Out That Manchester Business Suffers In Two Directions. Business conditions for Manchester merchants would be greatly bettered if the country roads leading to surrounding towns were improved.

This was the opinion expressed today by George E. Rix, secretary of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Rix believes that if Manchester's business sections were more easily accessible the merchants would gain a great deal of out-of-town trade which is now diverted to Willimantic and Hartford.

Secretary Rix said he had in mind particularly the road leading from the south end terminus to the New London Turnpike and the one leading from Highland Park through Camp Meeting Woods and connecting with Hebron, Glastonbury and that region. He argues that if these roads, which during several months of the year are in no condition for comfortable traveling, were suitably rebuilt they would bring many traders into town who at present go elsewhere.

Peaches Browning has bobbed up again here and there on the news pages. Did we hear some one say something to fill up all that white space?

ALBERT ADDY

The Herald office today is a house of sorrow. From out of this newspaper's family of workers has been suddenly snatched one whose taking away strikes a poignant blow at every heart among us.

SINCLAIR

The expected has transpired. The jury in the Sinclair trial found the oil man innocent. The record still stands. You cannot send a multi-millionaire to jail in the United States—not through the act of a jury.

It isn't so difficult, at that, to follow the reasoning of the jury-men. They had opportunity to observe Harry Sinclair. They knew about his associates. They knew that he was a man who met other big business men on terms of social and business equality.

For scores of years people have been doing the same thing. One of the most gigantic steals on record was participated in by Congress when it made its notorious land grants to the Union Pacific railroad.

EVER PRESENT

The young man in Oklahoma who sought a free ride to New Jersey by asserting that he was the real villain of the Hall-Mills mystery, and whose aspiration has been nipped by the hard boiled cynicism of doubting Thomases of policemen and prosecutors, has had no-so-good luck as compared with many another claimant of unearned honors as a murderer.

We seem to remember an ancient story of an entire family of four or five persons getting transportation from California, where they were stranded, to Kansas, where they formerly lived, by pretending to be some entirely different person or else an iron clad alibi.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(115) Connecticut's Tax Bill, $122,329,499.

The estimated 1,623,000 persons in Connecticut last year paid $122,329,499 in taxes. This was about $6,000,000 more than in 1926, $12,000,000 more than in 1925, and more than four times the $27,532,652 collected in 1913.

Exactly 48.84 per cent of the total taxes collected in Connecticut in 1927 was levied by local governments. This amount was $59,739,979. The amount of the county taxes, 37% of the total, was $1,068,982. The state collecting 20.77% of the total received $25,410,090 (including motor vehicle registration fees) making the total local, county and state taxes $86,219,052, or 70.48% of the total. Federal taxes amounted to $36,110,447.

Of the $116,985,242 collected in taxes in the state for 1926, $57,235,504, or 48.93%, was paid to municipal tax collectors. County taxes, 74% of the whole, were below a million dollars, amounting to $866,002, while state taxes amounted to $23,346,909, or 19.96%. The federal government received $35,536,825 in taxes from Connecticut.

The percentage of local taxes was considerably lower for 1925 than for the other two years, the $50,510,815 collected being 45.65% of the total. County taxes that year amounted to $721,332, or 85%; state taxes, $22,573,857, or 20.36%, and federal $36,951,448, or 33.34%, more than either of the other two years.

The local taxes for 1913 amounted to $19,375,078, or 71% of the county tax, $673,305, or 2%, and the state tax $5,497,195 or 20%. Aggregate collections of internal revenue, for Connecticut that year totaled $1,987,074, or 7%.

OUT FOR DAWES

The anti-Hoover forces in the Republican party seem to seriously lack the power of co-ordination. While in Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York the policy of the anti-Hooverites is still predicated on the "Coolidge anyhow" idea, the midwest opposition seems little inclined to fall in with the notion.

ALL LOVELY?

The Waterbury Republican expresses the belief that if there should eventually be a merger of the New Haven railroad with the Pennsylvania it would more probably be through the method of a long lease with a guarantee of income to the stockholders of the former than through purchase of a majority of the stock.

"Public opinion in regard to the proposed merger would depend on what assurances the Pennsylvania was prepared to give that the interests of New England ports and cities would be as well served as they are today.

Are we altogether mistaken in the impression that the administration of the Boston and Albany by the Central has not been entirely free from criticism on this very score? We seem to remember many a loud and agonized wail from Boston shipping interests over alleged favoritism extended by the Central to the port of New York in the matter of ocean freights.

The process, according to its inventor, will cut the cost of making iron and steel in half. One result, it is predicted, may be that England will be able to stop importing iron and steel and make all she needs at home.

NEW SMELTING PROCESS

Often the really important news of the day goes almost unnoticed. The other day the foreign information department of the Bankers Trust Company, New York, issued a bulletin saying that a new smelting process has been discovered in Great Britain that, its inventor says, will so reduce the cost of making iron as to revolutionize the iron and steel industry in a few years.

The process, according to its inventor, will cut the cost of making iron and steel in half. One result, it is predicted, may be that England will be able to stop importing iron and steel and make all she needs at home.

It may be, of course, that this new process will develop some flaw or other that will prevent it from being effective. But if it is all that is claimed to be, this little bulletin is one of the most significant bits of news that has appeared in a long, long time.

WILKINS' ACHIEVEMENT

Dramatic as has been the episode of the German-irish transatlantic flight, the intrusion of the Wilkins-Elison hop over the top of the world from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen bids far to steal much of its thunder. In comparison with the vast mystery of the unexplored Arctic spaces the Atlantic areas, the Labrador coast and the straits of Belle Isle are an open book, often read. Wilkins and Elison flew over hundreds of miles of the earth's surface never before beheld by the eye of man. And they marked out a route between the North American mainland and Europe far shorter than any other ever followed.

Setting aside all questions of mere performance, the adventure of Wilkins and Elison will probably be considered, by students of aviation, as the most interesting in what it proves and its potential consequences of all long flights by

STUFFING OUR BRAINS

A Pennsylvania psychologist announces that if a man acquired 30,000 bits of information a day, his brain would be stuffed to capacity by the time he was 50 years old. After that he could learn nothing more.

Knowing little of formal psychology, we nevertheless feel there must be something wrong with the professor's figures. We know any number of men whose brains are hermetically sealed to any and all new ideas. Most of them are not yet 50, but they have learned nothing new in a dozen years.

NEW YORK

New York, April 23.—Not, perhaps, that it makes much difference—but the clowns of the "great show on earth" are using companionate marriage as one of their headline stunts. And the appearance of an "old-fashioned spender" on Broadway is such a novelty that it gets into the papers.

In the turn-over of theatergoers, the newcomers didn't so much as know there had been such a play, and the critics forgot, perhaps. A season ago these critics called attention to the excellent work a certain Dorothy Stickney had done as the mad girl in "Chicago." And this year the whole street is talking about the adroit playing of this same young woman in "March Hares."

Dexter Fellows, circus publicist extraordinary, informs me that the bearded lady is the rarest of circus freaks. For the first time in many a year, the "biggest show" has to take to the road without one. And what is a freak show without a bearded lady? It seems that bearded ladies command such excellent salaries that they're hard to keep. What's more, the giants and fat men soon see their economic value and marry them. The "Baroness de Barcy," last of the famed "bearded ladies," not only married, but settled down and quit the tent show world.

Two assistant superintendents of mail in the San Francisco office have been removed, three clerks reduced in grade and salary, four others "warned and admonished."

12,000 COVERED SEATS AT YALE'S BALL GAMES WHEN SEASON OPENS

New Haven, Conn.—Twelve thousand comfortable seats under cover will be offered holders of tickets to Yale's Varsity baseball games when the season opens next month, and an addition to the vast Yale athletic plant goes into service in a very informal way. As matters now stand no one expects the seats to be filled even on the big baseball day of the year, Yale and Harvard clash on Tuesday of Commencement week. The new stands replace a collection of wooden bleachers that in use more than a generation and that cost the athletic association much money in keeping in repair from year to year. The Yale baseball field has not been changed in the least.

Campaign Portraits—Charles G. Dawes Pershing Helped Put Dawes In Limelight

Editor's Note: This, the 13th in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Herald and NEA Service by Robert Talley, is the second of four articles discussing the career of Vice President Charles G. Dawes. The third article on Dawes will be printed tomorrow.

By ROBERT TALLEY.

Washington, April 23.—The story of Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes in the World War—where he first became a national and international figure—runs parallel in many respects to the story of General John J. Pershing, his friend of a life time.

Their friendship began in Dan Cameron's 15-cent lunch room in Lincoln, Neb., 40 years ago when Dawes was a struggling young lawyer and Lieutenant Pershing, not long out of West Point, was a military instructor of the University of Nebraska. William Jennings Bryan, another famous resident of Lincoln, enters the picture, but soon fades out.

Vice President Dawes expounds the legend that in his first lawsuit Bryan was attorney for the other side. Bryan's law firm—Talbot and Bryan—once opposed him in a rate case as counsel for the Missouri Pacific. Dawes says, but Talbot conducted it and Bryan remained pretty much in the background.

The bond between Dawes and Pershing, when the war broke out, was deeper than friendship which had ripened throughout the years; it was the bond of tragedy.

It came about this way: During Pershing's absence in Mexico, fire destroyed the Pershing home and his wife and three of their four children were burned to death.

Dawes had one son—Rufus Fearing Dawes—who was making a record for himself at Princeton. No father was ever prouder of his boy; none ever hoped, planned or dreamed of a greater future for his child. And then, on the threshold of manhood, Rufus Fearing Dawes was drowned while bathing in Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

The eulogy of his son that General Dawes wrote for the minister to read at the funeral is a classic. After reciting in a tender, sympathetic manner, the material successes that his boy was winning, Dawes continued:

"My boy lived long enough to 'win out.' Whatever the years would have added would be only material. In a man's character is his real career.

"He died suddenly in the midst of happiness. He died with his high ideals unclouded. He died with all the noble illusions of high-minded youth undisturbed and undispelled. He died without having lost ambition, with his eyes fixed on the high mountains of life on where, beyond any question, had he lived he would have 'climbed.'

Fifty-one days after war was declared in 1917, Dawes left his bank in Chicago to become a lieutenant-colonel in an outfit of engineers (railway), training near Atlanta (railway). He went to camp in his private car, taking his wife and daughter, and lived on his car while there.

Herbert Hoover, food administrator, tried to induce Dawes to join his organization and direct grain movements in this country. But

Vice President Dawes and General John J. Pershing, his life-long friend, photographed together at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1925.

Dawes refused; he wanted to go to France. By this time the news got to Pershing, and Pershing promptly called Dawes to direct the supply forces behind the lines in France.

Dawes' job was to purchase material wherever he could find it in Europe, a very important job in view of the fact that submarines were sinking many of the cargoes that started from this country.

Dawes bought everything from hay to locomotives and organized labor battalions to build railroads, highways and mine coal. Supplies had to come and difficulties had to be brushed aside. Once, when in dire need of artillery horses, he finally found a number in Spain. Spanish law, however, prohibited their exportation. A neat little smuggling plot served to get the horses to the front.

Another time Dawes thrilled a board of officers with an eloquent description of "General Pershing's famous Spanish friend, the famous Dan Cameron." Dawes prated on, describing a Spanish grandee of some sort who was noted as an epileptic—Pershing was convulsed with silent laughter, remembering the Dan Cameron of 15-cent lunch fame back in Nebraska.

After months of effort Dawes succeeded shortly before the war in getting the allies to unify their system of supply behind the lines. A point board, with him as chairman, was formed to co-ordinate.

With General Pershing, Dawes—then a brigadier general—occasionally visited the front line and the hospitals.

"I have seen war as it is," he says in his book. "Before the front-line private soldier and the tank men, a staff officer, no matter how essential his work or how high his rank, feels like standing at salute. At least I do."

"GANGING" CAUSE OF AUTO CRASHES

"Mass Driving" Dangerous and Commissioner Tells Reasons Why.

Censure for the practice of "ganging," or driving vehicles too close to one another on the highways, is contained in an article on "Mass Driving," written by Robbins B. Stoekel, commissioner of Motor Vehicles for the current bulletin of the Motor Vehicle Department.

"It is readily apparent," he says "that this practice may cause danger to other users of the highway, especially where the individual vehicles making up a gang are large, and they usually are."

Particularly does the commissioner denounce "ganging" in a fleet of trucks, each having the same destination as the other, and all following one another closely along the route.

"Transportation officials and operators, especially those in charge of trucking, ought to understand the danger of this particular feature of road driving more thoroughly than is now the case," he says.

"Operators ought to be instructed against these dangers and be taught to avoid the near proximity of other vehicles, and especially of other large ones of similar type."

The recent accident on the Boston Post road, when a bus overturned and a large number of persons were injured, is cited by the commissioner as one of those which particularly does not justify this ganging practice had not been followed.

Commercial vehicles are not alone in this fault, the commissioner finds. "It is comparatively just as dangerous," he says, "to be touring together in close proximity to each other and at a slow rate of speed. Whenever the operation of motor vehicles which are accompanying each other, in the sense that they are close enough to operate as a unit, is out of line with other driving on the same highway, then there is extreme danger, not only to the vehicles and their operators who are doing this type of driving, but also to all other traffic."

Another time Dawes thrilled a board of officers with an eloquent description of "General Pershing's famous Spanish friend, the famous Dan Cameron." Dawes prated on, describing a Spanish grandee of some sort who was noted as an epileptic—Pershing was convulsed with silent laughter, remembering the Dan Cameron of 15-cent lunch fame back in Nebraska.

After months of effort Dawes succeeded shortly before the war in getting the allies to unify their system of supply behind the lines. A point board, with him as chairman, was formed to co-ordinate.

With General Pershing, Dawes—then a brigadier general—occasionally visited the front line and the hospitals.

"I have seen war as it is," he says in his book. "Before the front-line private soldier and the tank men, a staff officer, no matter how essential his work or how high his rank, feels like standing at salute. At least I do."

first in New York and Chicago, and seems to be becoming more and more universal. The activity referred to is that of driving too close to the right of other vehicles. This is apparently not authorized under Connecticut law and probably not under any law.

"The trolley car for which this provision is made in the law is not a motor vehicle under legal definition, but is recognized as a necessary obstruction to motor vehicle traffic so provision is made where it may be legally passed from the rear on the right. The passing of all other vehicles is strictly prohibited for to the effect that they must be passed from the rear on the left. In city operation, however, it has apparently become necessary that in practice this principle be often disregarded and that the "drive to the right" rule heretofore cussed has forced passing on the right under the circumstances.

Remembering this incident and with the realization that there were still hundreds of local persons who did not have the chance of seeing "West Point" when it played Manchester before, Manager Sanson immediately booked it for Wednesday.

It will be shown in conjunction with a pleasing variety of shorter subjects.

"WEST POINT" AT STATE WEDNESDAY

Picture Starring William Haines to Have Return Showing.

In response to the wishes of hundreds of local movie fans, Manager Jack Sanson of the State Theater has secured a limited return engagement of "West Point," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production starring William Haines, and it is to be on view at the State Wednesday only of this week.

During its successful showing in Manchester some few weeks ago, this famous army school, created a profound interest. Because of the popular demand for the picture at that time, it was impossible to hold it over beyond its original booking.

Remembering this incident and with the realization that there were still hundreds of local persons who did not have the chance of seeing "West Point" when it played Manchester before, Manager Sanson immediately booked it for Wednesday.

FRENCH PHONE CO. USE PHONOGRAPHS TO PROTECT CUSTOMERS

Paris.—Blackmailers can no longer use the telephone in France with impunity. In fact any conversation sub rosa in nature can be carried on only with the greatest danger over the wires.

The telephone company, which is government-owned, now offers a phonographic register service to subscribers for a few dollars above the regular annual tolls. As soon as two parties are connected the recording disk functions catching every word.

Business men hail the device as a boon in interurban negotiations. Authorities point out the "invisible stenographer" will virtually preclude telephonic approach by blackmailers and kidnapers and speed up the apprehension of many other evil-doers.

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER CRUMBLES TO DUST AFTER 1128 YEARS

Tours.—The celebrated "Tour Charlemagne" has finally yielded to age. The inhabitants of the well-known chateau center watched it crumble away one night, just one thousand one hundred and twenty-eight years after the day it was built.

Constant weathering had made great cracks and loosened the stones. After many repairs all hope of saving the tower was abandoned, and notice was given for those living in the immediate neighborhood to vacate. The crash was expected.

The falling of the tower marks the disappearance of the famous Abbey St. Martin, one of the glories of the Dark Ages. Luigard, one of the wives of the famous Charlemagne, is said to have been buried beneath it. Two hundred monks once lived in the dormitories. Twenty at a time they chanted in the chapel all day long, changing every hour. They became immensely wealthy but later lost all the gold and rare jewels which filled their coffers. After the religious wars, their prosperity waned, but the Abbey survived until the Revolution.

DIAL PHONES WHEN NO CONTINENT SEEN BUILDING IS DONE

S. N. E. Co. Preparing to Start Structure Here, to Be Finished in Fall.

Representatives of the Southern New England Telephone Company were in Manchester this morning and spent considerable time at the office of Cheney Brothers securing the necessary information as to the size and depth of the water main that run along East Center street and also the sanitary sewer mains on East Center street in front of their property, known as the Smith place, just west of Orange Hall.

They are also seeking information as to the condition of the soil and before the day through expected to visit Building Inspector Edward C. Elliott, Jr. regarding a permit to erect the company's new home. Local contractors are to be asked to bid on the structure, plans and specifications for which will probably be ready by May 1. It is expected the building will be completed before next winter.

Two Story Building The property which the Telephone Company owns is 89 feet front and 190 feet in depth. The building will stand almost exactly in the center of the lot and will be 80 feet front and 80 feet deep. It will be two stories high for 40 feet of its depth with a gable roof, and one and a half stories in the rear. The design will be Georgian and the material brick, marble and granite. On the first floor will be located the business offices and the exchange will be on the second floor, where also will be located the lunch room and the rest rooms.

The back part of the main floor will be used for the dial system and the battery room will be in the basement. Within the entire service of the building, the Manchester exchange will be by dial system.

PLOT TO KIDNAP MOVIE ACTRESS

Los Angeles, Calif., April 23.—A plot to kidnap Dolores Del Rio and hold the Mexican screen beauty for $100,000 ransom was revealed today with three suspected conspirators under arrest.

At the same time it was learned that police have been guarding the star's home in Hollywood for the last two months and that a plain clothesman accompanied Miss Del Rio on her recent trip to Nogales, Mexico, where she went to obtain a divorce. These precautions were taken because the kidnaping threat has been known to police.

Details of Plot Details of the kidnaping conspiracy were disclosed by Gustavo Carrillo, 27, in a purported confession to police. He implicated Rosa Ayala, 34, former maid of Miss Del Rio, recently discharged, and four other men, one of whom is under arrest. The name of the third suspect in custody was withheld.

The asserted plot was intended to have as its aim the extortion of $100,000 in ransom and Senator J. L. Asmus, wealthy Mexico City resident and father of the motion picture star. Demands for ransom money were also to be made upon the producers of Miss Del Rio's pictures.

HOOPER'S DELEGATION

Washington, April 23.—Herbert Hoover will win a substantial majority of Ohio's 51 votes for the Republican presidential nomination in the primary next Tuesday, Burton, Republican of Ohio, declared today upon returning from a speaking tour.

He said, however, that there is an unusual number of uncertain factors in Ohio in the contest between Hoover and his opponents, and that the commerce secretary's supporters have "a grave responsibility to vote next Tuesday."

An "unheard of campaign of slander and misrepresentation has been conducted against Mr. Hoover," Burton declared.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH

Corning, N. Y., April 23.—A father and daughter are dead and a 15-year-old boy is probably facing death today as a result of an automobile accident Saturday night at Elkland, Pa. A freight train crashed into the automobile, crushing George Rhattard, 29, of Philadelphia and his daughter, Dorothy, 3, beneath the wreckage. William Miles, 15, of Philadelphia was probably fatally injured.

TO OPEN OCEAN SERVICE

Berlin, April 23.—Upon the opening of the "official summer flying season" today, Director Merkel, of Lufthansa, announced that this aviation company, the biggest in Europe, will establish a regular trans-Atlantic service as soon as possible. Director Merkel praised Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Herman Koehl for their flight over the Atlantic.

COOLIDGE ULTIMATUM

Washington, April 23.—President Coolidge served an ultimatum on Congress today that he would veto the bill which would give control over the tariff to meet his demands for a heavier contribution by the affected states.

This notice was conveyed to the House by Rep. Madden, Republican of Illinois, who held a conference at the White House while House leaders were trying to effect a compromise with the so-called River Bloc.

BY CAPT. WILKINS

wind they probably encountered no great difficulties. There is always dangers of fog in the Arctic if a high wind encounters open water. This results in fog. There is intense enthusiasm throughout Scandinavia over the flight, as this is the "Land of Explorers." Capt. Wilkins detailed report of his epic journey is awaited with eager anticipation. Wireless stations have intercepted a veritable flood of messages addressed to Wilkins and Ellson at the Green Harbor radio station. These come from friends, from scientific bodies and from newspapers and press associations seeking details of the "Great Adventure of the Far North."

PURPOSE OF FLIGHT New York, April 23.—The chief purpose of Captain George H. Wilkins' epic flight was to search for land in the hidden wastes of the Arctic, and not to fly over the North Pole, according to Dr. Isiah Bowman, one of the sponsors of the flight.

The flight was planned as an explorative project, Dr. Bowman said in a statement given out here. The flight lines were laid out in the "White Sea" region most likely to yield undiscovered land, if there was any in the area, it was said. "Captain Wilkins planned to swing to the southward and penetrate the arctic in which Crocker is land was thought to exist," the statement said in part. "This was the land that Peary thought he saw from the north end of Grant Land and the region which MacMillan sought to penetrate some years later."

Dr. Boyman is a director of the American Geographical Society of New York. Adelaide, Australia, April 23.—One of the proudest women in Australia today is the 36-year-old mother of Capt. George H. Wilkins, the trans-Arctic aviator. "I am very proud of my son's achievement," said Mrs. Wilkins. "I am glad that George has done what he set out to do. He is a good son in words and actions."

PROUD MOTHER

Adelaide, Australia, April 23.—One of the proudest women in Australia today is the 36-year-old mother of Capt. George H. Wilkins, the trans-Arctic aviator. "I am very proud of my son's achievement," said Mrs. Wilkins. "I am glad that George has done what he set out to do. He is a good son in words and actions."

MAY AWAIT NOBLE

London, April 23.—Captain George H. Wilkins and Carl E. Ellson, trans-Arctic explorers, who flew by plane from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen, may remain at Spitzbergen until General Umberto Nobile arrives for a Polar flight in the dirigible Italia, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Spitzbergen this afternoon. Capt. Wilkins wishes to give the Italian explorer the benefit of his experiences to assist him in selecting routes.

The explorers sighted no unexplored land on the journey over the ice-bound wastes. The first land they sighted was two peaks upon Prince King Island.

SIGHTED LAND

The message said that, during the flight, Captain Wilkins sighted peaks that Commander Peary and Dr. Cook claimed to have discovered. The flyers hopped off at Point Barrow April 15 at ten a. m. (Alaskan time) after a great deal of difficulty, due to the weight of the plane. The machine itself weighed 2,022 pounds while its cargo added another 4,050 pounds. There was great difficulty in getting away from the improvised runway on the snow and ice at Point Barrow. It is now revealed that the plane did not pass directly over the North Pole, but about 200 miles to the south of it.

During the flight the weather was mainly favorable. Wilkins and Ellson flew at an average altitude of 1,000 feet, occasionally rising to 3,500 feet in order to fly over cloud banks.

In addition to sighting no unexplored land the flyers saw no signs of animal life upon the ice.

Wilkins was taking observations until the plane was within 200 miles of Spitzbergen when the visibility became too bad.

Runs Into Storm As the plane approached Spitzbergen a violent storm was raging. Captain Wilkins was doubtful as to his exact location he decided to attempt a landing. This was accomplished by Ellson with a great deal of difficulty upon Dead Man's Island. Up to that time the men had been in the air about 21 hours, flying at an average speed of 100 miles an hour.

The airman found their ordinary magnetic compass useful for steering purposes, but they also used the position of the sun to aid them in steering their course. Although supplied with a detailed polar map by the American Geographical Society, the flyers were handicapped by their incomplete map of Spitzbergen. In view of this difficulty it was regarded as remarkable that Ellson succeeded in landing only five miles south of their planned destination—King's Bay.

SETS PRECEDENT

Washington, April 23.—Captain George H. Wilkins, Arctic explorer, whose flight over the top of the world was the third successfully negotiated, disregarded all precedent in handling aircraft to and from Spitzbergen, the most popular base for Polar flights, in flying 250 miles south after reaching the northwestern corner of that base, according to the National Geographic Society in a statement issued today. The latest Polar flights, Wilkins and his companion Ellson, flew directly over Dane's Island at Smehighway caused the car to skid, it is possible that an accident in which the car was involved earlier in the evening, may have produced a defect in the steering gear. The car had become mired in the mud in Bolton and it was necessary to get a horse to pull it out.

State Policeman Edward Foley and Alvin Backiel of the Hartford barracks investigated the accident. They attributed the accident to the slippery highway. They said that the car traveled 104 feet after it started to skid before it struck the tree. The wreckage was towed to Kinney's garage.

Neither of the victims was married. Mr. Addy lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Addy of 44 Garden street and Mr. Hughes with his mother, Mrs. Eva H. Hughes, at 64 Holl street. Funeral services for Mr. Addy will be held at his home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Commandant John P. Spohn of the Salvation Army Corps will officiate. Services for Mr. Hughes will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At the mother's request it will not be a military funeral, but a delegation of ex-service men will be present. A delegation from Manchester Masonic Lodge will also be present and members of that organization will act as bearers. Rev. Joseph Cooper, former pastor of the South Methodist church will officiate. He will be assisted by Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, present pastor of the church. Burial in each case will be in the East Cemetery.

ANCIENT SKELETON IN CEMENT QUARRY FOR BRITISH MUSEUM

London.—The skeleton of a prehistoric monster, believed to have roamed this part of the world more than one hundred million years ago, has been located at Harbury Warwickshire by a workman digging in a cement quarry.

The monster is a plesiosaurus. The discovery was purely accidental. The workman's pick striking a section of the skeleton at a depth of about twenty-five feet. The specimen is being examined by Professor W. E. Swinton, of the Department of Geology at the Natural History Museum.

The plesiosaurus is a rare example of the head is attached," he said in describing the find. "Generally the head is missing. One theory is that roving dinosaurs which were carnivorous but rather stupid hunters, used to eat dead or dying saurians. They happened to find and generally detached and lost the head."

"The head of the plesiosaurus is triangular, and has a third eye on the top of the skull. So well preserved is the fossil that it has all the teeth attached. "The plesiosaurus which belonged to the lizard family, lived on fish. It had a long neck, short tail, and four paddles. This specimen which was dug out of a bed of lower clay, was lying on its stomach."

Only two out of 500 known varieties of porrets are native to the United States.

RELIEF PLANE ARRIVES ON GREENLY ISLE

Greenly Island, Labrador, where he is to greet the trans-Atlantic flyers and offer to act as pathfinder on their flight into New York. Chamberlain had intended to get away from Brainerd field at 4:30 a. m. but was still on the field four hours later, and the prediction was made that he could not start before ten o'clock at the earliest.

AWAIT RESCUE PLANE

Greenly Island, April 23.—(By Airplane to Seven Islands and Murray Bay, and Land Wire to New York)—Impatient over continued delays in getting replacement parts to Greenly Island for the Bremen, Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Herman Koehl restlessly awaited the arrival of the tri-motored Ford monoplane and its precious burden of supplies today.

The relief plane, piloted by Bert Balchen and carrying Major James E. Fitzmaurice, the third member of the Bremen's crew, was expected late Sunday, but failed to appear. Stormy weather had held up the plane somewhere between Lake St. Agnes and this place, but the German trans-Atlantic flyers were well stocked for there had been no supply ship to the island since last autumn and the ice is so bad that it looks as though it will be some weeks before another ship can touch here.

"I want to repeat that the people of this isolated community have done everything in their power to make our stay as comfortable as possible, but we want to get on our way and finish the flight," said Baron von Huenefeld. "When we landed here Captain Le Tempier, keeper of the government light house, provided us with food and a few slender larder. He himself was none too well stocked for there had been no supply ship to the island since last autumn and the ice is so bad that it looks as though it will be some weeks before another ship can touch here."

"We have all learned one thing. The people who live in these isolated districts beyond the rim of civilization are among the finest in the world. They are hospitable and charitable and give freely of what they have." The Baron gave some additional details of the difficulties he encountered in raising money for the flight. It was financed with funds obtained through personal loans. There was a fresh snowfall over the week-end and the wind was high as a great onerous task. Visitors from the Labrador mainland crossed to the trans-Atlantic airman in the event they had started final repair work on the Bremen. The plane has been covered as well as possible to protect it from intermittent snowstorms. Baron Huenefeld said that the motor is in excellent condition and has not suffered from the intense cold that prevails here, especially at night.

WATER SUIT STARTS

Washington, April 23.—The fight of Wisconsin and other great lakes states to halt diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago was today before the Supreme Court.

The complaining states attorneys, in oral argument, sought to upset the findings of Charles E. Hughes, special master, who held that Chicago had the legal right to divert water under a War Department permit. Thirteen states are involved in the suit.

SPEED RECORD BROKEN

London, April 23.—Captain Malcolm Campbell whose record of 206.95 miles an hour was broken when Ray Keech, in his 35-cylinder "Triplex" raised the world's speed record to 207.6 miles an hour at Daytona Beach yesterday, today sent a cable of congratulations to the latter.

At the same time he announced he intended to make another attempt to better the world's record. "I am truly delighted to hear that Keech bettered my record. I plan to make an attempt soon to better Keech's mark either at Daytona beach or on some other fast track."

GYM EXHIBITION AT REC ON MAY 4

Director Lloyd Urges All Members to Attend Practice Tonight.

In effort to stimulate further interest in the annual gymnastic exhibition to be held at the School Street recreation center May 4 the following letter was mailed today to the various members of the men's gym classes: Dear Gym Member: On Friday evening May 4th we are planning to have an exhibition, which will be a demonstration, by both men and women, of the various forms of gymnastic work that has been done during the past winter.

One of the members on the program will be a fifteen minute drill by bell drill by men. The drill will be no different than what you have had in class on Monday nights. I would appreciate it very much if you would come around on Monday night at 8 o'clock for practice. By so doing you can help make the men's work a success and see that there will be no regulation suits required, dress as you always do when you come for your regular class night.

Thanking you for your kind cooperation in the past, I am, Sincerely yours, L. LLOYD, Recreation Director.

GOAT-GETTERS

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SALLY FORD, 16, ward of the state orphanage since she was four, is "fanned out" to GLEN CARSON, who also is DAVID NASH, athlete and student, for summer work. Carson remains about David's friendship for Sally, David sends him a crushing blow and she goes away and John a carnival, David as a cook's helper and Sally in a sidewalk display at "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

In Capital City, location of the orphanage, Sally is recognized when the orphanage troop in charge is by a beautiful "Goat-Getter."

ARTHUR VAN HORNE, a handsome entertainer visiting in Capital City, sees the "Lady Bountiful," Sally, and she is ENID BARR, who speaks of New York. Van Horne is fascinated with Sally and annoys her with his attentions. That night when a storm the tent collapses, Sally finds herself supported by Van Horne's arm. He tells her he knows she is Sally Ford and she is interrupted by Van Horne. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV

ENID BARR and Arthur Van Horne moved away from "Princess Lalla's" platform together. Enid's golden head held high, her lovely voice staccato with anger; but Sally, although she was guilty of trying to do so, could not distinguish a word that was being said.

Near the front exit of the tent Van Horne was greeted boisterously by a party of Capital City society men and women, laden with trophies from the gambling concessions on the midway. He was swept into the party, shaking Enid Barr refused to join, shaking her little golden head stubbornly and pretending a great interest in the midge, "Pitty Sing," whose platform was nearest the exit.

Although Sally was at liberty to leave the tent until the final performance at 11 o'clock, she sat on in her throne-like chair, hoping and yet fearing that the beautiful woman would return to ask her the question which Van Horne's unspoken interruption had left unspoken.

Enid spoke to "Pitty Sing" in her proud, offhand manner, paid a dollar for one of the midge's cheap little postcard pictures of herself, refused to take the change and went toward Sally's platform again when Winfield Bybee entered the tent with Gus, the Barker.

Sally, watching Enid, saw the woman's involuntary start of recognition as Bybee crossed her path, saw her hesitate, then turn to stare at him, determination stamped on her lovely, sensitive face.

When Bybee had bared his head deferentially and was bending over the small woman to hear her low-spoken words, Sally was seized with fright. She knew instinctively that Enid Barr's questions concerned her, but whether they concerned Sally Ford, runaway from the state orphanage, or "Princess Lalla," fake crystal gazer, she had no way of knowing. All she knew for certain was that Enid had overheard Betsey's shriek: "That's not Princess Lalla! That's Sally Ford—playing acting!" And she felt, feeling Enid's eyes upon her but not daring to look back.

There was less than half an hour before the next and final show was to start. She spent the time in the dress tent, wishing with all her heart that she was through work for the day and that she could go to David's room. David! Lying there, tormented with worry as to the future and possibly with regrets for the past, while Eddie Cobb strutted on the midway as the hero of the safe robbery.

It would be better for David, it would be better, if she could screw up her courage to the point of going back to the orphanage and taking her punishment. It would be so simple! She had only to seek out Enid Barr and say to her: "I am Sally Ford! Send Mrs. Stone." And perhaps Enid would intercede for her, for she seemed so very kind.

"Wake up, Sally," Bees, one of the dancers of the "girls show," called to her, as she came shuffling into the tent on tortured feet. "Gus is ballyhooing your show."

Yes, her mind was made up. She would tell Enid Barr, beg her to intercede with the police for her, and with the police for David. But there was Enid Barr among the audience at the last show the evening, and even Van Horne was absent. In spite of her good resolutions Sally felt an immense relief. Reprieve! She certainly could not give herself up if there was no one to give up to.

"Going to the show train to see David?" Gus whispered, when the last show was finished and the audience was straggling toward the exits.

"Of course!" Sally cried. "Is he worse?" Don't hide anything from me, Gus.

"Worse!" Gus laughed. "Bybee says he's yelling for food and threatens to get up and cook it himself if they don't give him something besides mush and milk. Come along! I'll walk you over to the show train. You're too pretty to be allowed to go alone. Some village dude would be trying to kidnap you."

They found David sitting up in his berth, working cross-words puzzles. Mrs. Bybee sitting on the edge of his bed to jot down the words as he gave them to her.

"Reckon you won't need the old lady now that the young 'uns come to hold your hand and make a fuss over you," Mrs. Bybee grumbled jealously.

"What's that?" "What's that?" Winfield Bybee, who had come over from the carnival grounds in a service car, demanded from the doorway. "Been flirting with my wife, young man? Reckon I'll have to put the gloves on, then, when that critter wing of yours is O. K. Well, Sally, old Pop has done you another good turn."

Sally paled and reached instinctively for David's left hand. "Oh! You mean—Mrs. Barr, the lady who was talking you?" "Nothing else but!" Bybee nodded, smiling at her. "She tried to make me admit you was Sally Ford and I acted innocent as a new-born lamb. Told her you'd been with us since we left New York."

"Why is she so interested in Sally, Mr. Bybee?" David asked quietly.

"She loved a carnival wasn't no place for a pure young girl," Bybee chuckled. "She said they were awful anxious over at the orphanage to get Sally back, away from her life of sin, and that perny'ly she took a powerful interest in unfortunate girls and was determined to see Sally safe back in the Home."

"Princess Lalla" sees Sally Ford, I lied like a gentleman for you, child. Told her she was a nice little dame and all that, but clear off her base in this instance. Reckon I put it across all right, for she shut up and beat it pretty soon."

"I think she's wonderful," Sally surprised them all by speaking up almost sharply. "She's just trying to be kind. She doesn't know how awful an Orphan's home can be. These two kids a chance. But you mustn't stay long, Sally. Tomorrow's Saturday, and you oughta be enough of a trooper by now to know what that means. We head South Saturday night, riding all day Sunday."

"Out of the state?" Sally and David cried in unison.

"Yep. Out of the state. You kids'll be safe then. The police ain't going to bother about extra-legal matters. So long, Dave boy. Don't let this little Jane keep you awake too late."

"I'll leave in 15 minutes," Sally promised joyfully.

And she kept her promise. Her lips were smiling tenderly and softly, night kiss, when she left the car and began to look about for someone to walk back to the carnival grounds with her, for she was to sleep in the dress tent that night, the storm-soaked mattresses having dried in the sun all day.

Gus had told her he would be waiting for her, but she could not find him. She went the length of the train to the privileges car, pushing open the door sufficiently to peep within. At least a score of men of the carnival family were seated at three or four tables, their heads almost unrecognizable through the thick layers of cigar and cigarette smoke. There was little conversation except an occasional oath, but the steady clacking of poker chips upon the bare tables came to her distinctly.

She closed the door noiselessly and jumped from the platform of the coach to the ground. It would be mean to disturb the game, she reflected, for he loved poker better than anything except ballyhoo, and there was no real reason why she should not walk to the carnival grounds alone.

Of course she would be conspicuous as she walked in her "Princess Lalla" costume and make-up, but if she paid no attention to anyone who tried to accost her, there was certainly not much danger. She began to run, leaving the train swiftly behind her, but she had reached the business streets through which she had to pass to reach the carnival grounds. She was crossing Capitol Avenue,

The WOMAN'S DAY

Time was when Sylvia Pankhurst was quite content with the fame she gained by smashing windows, hunger-striking and doing all the tricks in the militant suffragette's bag. But that cause was finished some time ago. Evidently Sylvia is about ready for another cause, for the other day she introduced her baby son to photographers and reporters to whom she calmly announced that the baby was produced without benefit of clergy, that she didn't consider marriage a subject of legal contract, and that "my union with my husband is entirely free." She would not tell her "husband's" identity.

"Love Baby" Epidemic
Miss Pankhurst's "eugenetic baby" is a second publicly noted case within the past few weeks. What Sylvia is to Britain Mrs. Louise Burnham, well-to-do society woman, was to New York. Both women merely put in execution the old slogan of "the right of every woman to at least one child and no questions asked."

The rapidity with which our social laws and traditions are changing indicates that Miss Pankhurst may not be so far wrong when she says, "I believe that the tendency of the future is in this direction, and that posterity will see nothing remarkable in my decision."

How About It?
The social stigma of illegitimacy came about, of course, in an attempt to protect both mother and child. It was the natural viewpoint of an age when women were not self-supporting. Most of the arguments supporting this attitude of the outrageousness of producing illegitimate children are supposed to be rather weak when set against the fact that women are self-supporting nowadays. But personally it's hard to quite see how even a self-supporting woman is going to continue to be self-supporting if she has a child. Methinks the plain old-fashioned attitude works the most good for the greatest numbers. One notes that most of the lady producers of "eugenetic love babies" are ladies who don't need to worry about finances.

Just a Sample
The demands of a baby are so unexpected. Babies have such a first bow to a waiting world during such catastrophes as fires, floods and earthquakes. For instance a little girl was named Bernice out in Two Rivers, Wis., the other day because she was born while her parents' house was afire in the roof. It's things like this that make you believe it might be hard for just a woman alone to have and care for a baby, no matter how keenly she felt her right to one, if she wanted it, under any circumstances.

True to Form
The best English described as "the may known pickpocket in the country," gave her son and daughter a college education without either of them suspecting the source of their mother's wherewithal. Which is no surprise to anyone. Most of us have observed the blissful unconsciousness of the average modern youth as to how or where parents get the kale which their offspring spend so blithely on. The only concern is that they get it somehow, for frat dances and corsages and matinee tickets and frappes must be paid for.

DOESN'T IT GET YOUR GOAT? IS THAT YOUR PRUDENCE? WHEN YOU TALK IN A BIT LATE—THE DAWDLING—OUT ISN'T HALF AS BAD AS THE FACT THAT— YOUR DAD IS ONE OF THOSE PEEKY PERSONS WHO WILL NOT BE CONVERTED TO THE PRESENT DAY PANTAMAS!

Their Letters
BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Darling Mom:
I'm glad to have something to write that I know will please you. Maybe surprise you, too, because you wouldn't expect Florence and me to go out of our way to find some innocent diversion. Florence was much impressed with the idea at first—going to the Flower Show I mean. Said she got as flowers at home. But she got a thrill out of it all right. So did I. Never been there before.

You see, we had arrived about teatime and it was simply enchanting the way they'd arranged the tea tables in a rose garden. We couldn't resist going in and being served tea by the debutantes. One of them tried to usher us to a table where we couldn't see anything, but I'd noticed a table for four in a good place so we sat there.

There happened to be a man at it but of course one person can't have a table exclusively when there's a crowd. So I told him I hoped he wouldn't mind if we sat there and he said he didn't.

He was so nice about it, getting up and bowing, that we thought it would be all right to talk to him. He turned out to be a South American. That was no surprise. I thought so the instant I saw him. There's something about those people, a suppression that gives you a

PNEUMONIA, BRONCHITIS SECOND AS DEATH CAUSE.
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN.

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Association.

Infections of the lungs and of the breathing tract are no new thing to human beings. They were carefully noted by physicians long before the Christian era.

The changes that take place in the lungs in pneumonia were carefully recorded by a Bohemian pathologist named Rokitsansky at the beginning of the nineteenth century.

Bronchitis, which is limited to the inflammation of the tubes that carry the air into the lung tissues, was differentiated from pneumonia more than a hundred years ago. Today pneumonia and the inflammations of the breathing tract are the second largest cause of death all over the temperate zone.

Climate Counts.
Many scientific studies have been made to find out whether or not climatic conditions are responsible for the high incidence of this type of disorder. A well-known British epidemiologist has recently concluded that a drop in the temperature below the normal for the season of the year is likely to be associated with an increased number of deaths from such diseases.

In London studies have been made to find out just how the fogs may be associated with deaths from bronchitis and pneumonia.

Leonard Hill, the noted British physiologist, is convinced that smoke and fog interfere with the passage of sunlight and are thus directly associated with increased mortality.

Records kept for hundreds of years of climatic changes and of the incidence of fog have been studied in relation to the number of deaths from respiratory diseases.

There are so many factors involved that it is difficult to draw definite conclusions, but recent studies again seem to show that sudden changes in temperature are more certainly related to bronchitis and pneumonia than the incidence of smoke and fog.

Treatment.
One of the main features of these diseases is that they are most fatal in old age and in youth. For this reason records of various kinds of treatment must always be studied in relationship to the ages of the persons treated.

Nowadays the most important factor in recovery from pneumonia is skillful nursing. In London during 1920, as recorded by Epidemiologist Hilda Woods, only 18 per cent. of the 5,315 deaths from pneumonia occurred in hospitals and nursing homes, and 22 per cent. in poor-law institutions, whereas 60 per cent. of the deaths occurred in patients treated without special nursing at home.

A dispatch says Ford is interested in the British Isles. It would be just like him to come dragging home some antiques like that.

THE BLASE COUNTRY COUSIN
By Olive Roberts Barton

The country cousin, it appears, was a big man in his own community. His word was law at the service station at the crossroads where the "collected" evenings to play 500. He was one of the county commissioners and a big boss in politics. He knew all about cows, and chickens, and crops, and he had enough money out at interest to be able to carry on an intelligent conversation with the city bond salesman who drove out that way.

Naturally, ruling this country's roost so long and so well, he began to consider that there wasn't much on earth that he didn't know.

When he arrived in a far-away city one morning and his city cousin-in-law met him at the station, he saw instantly that there was another kind of prosperity that he knew little about. But he set his face hard as he settled himself on the elderdown cushions and rolled off noiselessly to his cousin's house.

He stayed a week, and during that week he was treated like royalty. All he knew about theaters was the movie in the converted Prince of the city that would have made a French king gasp, seemed to leave him cold. Not a word of praise nor wonder nor pleasure did he express. The museum with its statues, picture galleries and curio cabinets aroused no interest either. He viewed them passively, without comment.

His relatives entertained sumptuously for him. But he failed to express surprise or pleasure over the important men or beautifully dressed women he met. His cousin

Here is the Greenland Falcon which ranges from the old homes of the Norsemen, through northern Europe and the cold, dim lands of North America.

Here an Osprey is shown plunging swiftly to the water. Soon he will emerge with a fat fish in his powerful talons.

Scorpions are known to have starved for 368 days; and spiders have existed for 17 months without food.

It is curious that men have been able to call into servitude birds from this fierce line. In the middle ages and earlier, falconry was a favorite sport in Europe. Falcons were trained to bring down birds from the sky and then return to the owner's wrist. Today in Palestine and India the Saker Falcon is used to hunt birds and animals in India.
