COOLIDGE KIN ILL

San Francisco, Calif., April 25.—Jerome A. Goodhue, prominent shipping man of Baltimore and a nephew of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, is in a San Francisco hospital, suffering from acute nephritis, it was learned today.

He was taken to St. Mary's hospital here shortly after his arrival from Yokohama aboard the Standard Oil Company tanker Japan Arrow, according to his attending physician, Dr. Francis R. Redewill, who said today that Goodhue will be confined in the hospital for three weeks before he is able to resume his homeward trip to Baltimore.

YOUNG SERBIAN MAKES FIDDLES FOR M. ELMAN

Paris.—Nicholas Vasilch, young Serbian violinmaker has recently arrived in the capital, whence he will go to Strasbourg in search of antique woods to make some fine instruments. He has been making violins for twenty-one years. He studied in Czechoslovakia and escaped from Germany in 1914 to Russia where he became a violin-maker in the Imperial conservatory. During the war he was arrested as a German spy and thrown into prison, was finally released and fled to Siberia. Then for fourteen months he was tramped through Mongolia, finally making his way to China and then to the United States. French newspapers have been attacking him because they feared he was intending to destroy a valuable organ for the wood. But he assures them that he is too much interested in his art to do anything of the sort. He acknowledges he is looking for fine wood, but will take nothing that is valuable for other purposes. Mr. Vasilch intends making three violins, a viola and a violoncello for Mischa Elman.

Cupid, not bad liquor, is the greatest menace to Tiller chorus girls when they go to America.

"The most difficult thing for me is to keep my girls from marrying when they go to America", declared Lawrence Tiller, instructor of the famous double octettes performing in many countries of the world. "I start my girls at the age of ten or twelve and contract with them for as long as they can dance. When I lose some of them at eighteen on twenty, just in their prime, it means a great financial loss to me.

"Recently I sent sixteen girls to perform for Mr. Ziegfield in New York. After they had been there several months half of them had eloped or quietly become married. That was not enough. The girls went on tour after that and within thirty days two more had succumbed to Cupid's dart. "The result is that the precision, for which my girls have made a reputation, is disturbed, because I have to send new ones out from England who never have worked with the American troupe." Mr. Tiller is in Paris inspecting sixteen of his girls now performing at the Casino de Paris.

Why Men Walk On the Outside

Like most conventions this one is rooted in past necessity. A few centuries ago men walked next the curb to protect their ladies against street ruffians.

Today the need for protection is largely against economic disaster. And men still feel responsible. Witness the seventy odd billions of life insurance they carry for the protection of their loved ones.

Campaign Portraits—Charles G. Dawes

Capital Amazed As Dawes "Bawls Out" U. S. Senate

EDITOR'S NOTE—This, the 15th in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Herald and NEA Service by Robert Talley, is the last of four articles on the career of Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Tomorrow will begin the story of Frank O. Lowden.

Vice President Dawes as he looks in action

Washington, April 25.—So far as history records, the only man who ever bawled out the U. S. Senate to its face is Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Dawes did it on Inauguration Day, March 4, 1925, when he and President Coolidge rode in together on the crest of the Republican landslide. The outburst was as unexpected as a cloudburst out of a clear sky in the middle of the Sahara desert. The senators and congressmen were there in their long-tailed coats. The justices of the supreme court were there in their black robes. The foreign diplomats were there in brilliant full-dress uniforms, heavy with gold lace and braid. The cabinet members were there, the chiefs of the army, navy and marine corps were there and so was President Coolidge, who had just taken his own oath outside. Everybody was waiting to hear the formal speech of acceptance by the new vice president, but instead of a speech he bawled out the Senate in a series of unbroken sentences that were heard all over the capital building. Dawes began, quickly he turned to scathing condemnation of the Senate rule. Eyes widened as he called the senators a bunch of old fossils for operating under antiquated procedure. Senator Jim Reed, Missouri, snickered and his laughter doubled up in convulsions of silent merriment. Dawes became hotter and hotter, louder and louder. Coolidge looked uncomfortable; the gold-laced diplomats looked at the green carpet on the floor with interest. For several hours after it was over, indignant senators were busy issuing statements in reply. Jim Reed, when asked what he thought, quoted the old proverb, "It is a waste of lather to shave an ass." Other senators said things equally unkind.

BIG DOUBLE BILL AT THE STATE TOMORROW

"Girl in Every Port" and "Quality Street" Are Features—"West Point" Shown Today. Two first-run features, never before shown together on a single program, will be the unusual attraction at the State Theatre for tomorrow and Friday. They are "Quality Street" and "West Point." "Quality Street" will be offered in conjunction with a pleasing variety of short subjects. Laughter, thrills and gay romance are to be found in the William Fox production, "A Girl in Every Port." This is the first picture in which Victor McLaglen appears as a star in his own right. It is his reward for his remarkable performance as Captain Flagg in "What Price Glory," and as a "doughty soldier" of fortune and prize fighter in "The Fighting 69th." In addition to McLaglen the cast includes eight leading ladies, among whom are such outstanding favorites as Maria Casjanea, Natalie Joyce, Louise Brooks and Lella Hyams. Robert Armstrong is seen in the role of McLaglen's pal. The story deals with a sailor who, as the title reveals, has "a girl in every port."

Those who scoff at motion pictures as an art should see Marion Davies in "Quality Street," and then well weigh their words. Miss Davies proves conclusively that none of the quaintness of Sir James Barrie's heroine has been lost in its transition to the screen. It might well be said that Barrie wrote this opus for Marion Davies, were we not reminded of the exceptionally fine work done in the same role upon the stage by Maude Adams. Tonight only, the State is presenting, by popular demand, the special return engagement of William Haines in "West Point."

The Pamir table-land in Tibet is called the "roof of the world." A perch, as a measure of length, is five and one-half yards long. The unit of currency in Greece is called the drachma.

Where was Dawes? A senator was acting as presiding officer and the vice president was missing. His vote was needed to break the deadlock. After frantic search Dawes was found at his home—peacefully taking an afternoon nap. He sped to the capitol in a taxi but arrived too late. Another vote had been taken and Warren's hopes of being attorney general of the United States had died forever.

Dawes entered into the prosaic obscurity of a vice president, his sole duty being to preside over the Senate. Custom does not permit the presiding officer to make a speech nor does it allow him to cast a vote except in event of a tie. A short time later the president's nomination of Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general came up for Senate confirmation. The nomination was bitterly contested and the vote was a tie.

Another vote had been taken and Warren's hopes of being attorney general of the United States had died forever.

By one stroke Dawes strengthened himself with the agricultural west and the banking east when he succeeded in inducing senators to pass the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill and the McFadden banking bill. President Coolidge later killed the McNary-Haugen bill with a veto, but that did not detract from Dawes' efforts to achieve its passage. The conference at which this was arranged was held in Dawes' office, said Dawes, "to see if you cannot bring these two measures to a vote. I am not asking."

A senator arose and obviously started a long-winded speech. "Sit down!" barked Dawes. "There may not be cloture in the Senate, but there is in my office." And proceed they did.

Vice President Dawes is wealthy, a heavy investor in public utilities and the Pure Oil Company. For this reason he excused himself from participation in arrangements for a public utility investigation sought by Senator Walsh, Montana. Beneath the fire and brimstone exterior of Dawes lies a home-loving man whose books, paintings and music are his delight. He shuns as many dinner invitations as his office will permit in order to spend his evenings with his wife and their two adopted daughters—Dana, 15, and Virginia, 13. Their own daughter, Carolyn, is now the wife of a former classmate of Dawes' son, who was drowned in 1912.

The memory of Rufus Fearing Dawes still lives in his father. All through General Dawes' war diary one finds tender references to him, the wistful hope that he might have lived. The monuments that Dawes has erected in his boy's memory are the Rufus Fearing Dawes hotels for working men in Chicago and Boston. There the man who is out of a job can get a clean bed for a dime and a full meal for a quarter.

In the evenings Dawes often improvises for hours on the piano in his home. Perhaps, in his musings, the vice president dreams of a day when the family circle will gather in the evening round the famous gold piano in the White House after a hard day's work in the executive office with its great circular walls where Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge have labored. Who knows?

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

J. B. Caldwell, M.D. AT AGE 83

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physicals and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who need it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers. Millions of families are now new ex without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

But Dawes, coolly calculating from the first had won. Newspaper headlines from coast to coast screamed with the vice president's attack on the Senate.

And so, when Dawes later made speeches urging revision of the antiquated Senate rules and curbing of unlimited debate in the interest of legislative efficiency, he faced interested and informed audiences.

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world.

Only about 4400 of several millions of stars can be seen by the naked eye.

Laughter, thrills and gay romance are to be found in the Willam Fox production, "A Girl in Every Port." This is the first picture in which Victor McLaglen appears as a star in his own right.

Those who scoff at motion pictures as an art should see Marion Davies in "Quality Street," and then well weigh their words.

BEETHOVENS TAKE LONG STEP AHEAD

Closing Concert of Season Shows Marked Advance By Pearson's Singers.

Despite the storm, an audience of 650 persons attended the concert given by the Beethoven Glee Club at High school hall, last night. Only three years in existence, this organization possesses an enthusiasm that is sure to bring the results its singers are aiming at, perfection.

The ushers last night were young women members of the G. C. Club, kindred organization, and in their newly acquired concert dresses, they added a picture effect to the function.

The program composed a variety of themes, evidently chosen to cater to all types of concert goers, and, as their reception showed, chosen wisely. The audience was enthusiastic and generous with applause.

Excellent Start

The opening number was the well known item from Handel's "Samson," "Let Their Celestial Concerts All Unite," with accompaniment by piano, and the Gloria Trumpeters.

This stirring introductory theme was exceedingly well received, and paved the way for succeeding successful numbers.

The next item was the now well known "London derry Air," to a poem by Katherine Lyman, brought out excellent harmonies were brought out.

A group of three Swedish numbers stood out prominently, in particular the "Mitt Hemland," a terroretic number, always beloved by Swedes, was offered that produced an appeal much beyond average.

In its shading and gradations of expression it was a distinct pleasure. Three Negro spirituals gave the club opportunity to demonstrate possibilities within its scope. These items were among the best features.

"Swing Low" the solo part was taken charmingly by Albert Pearson. His is a pleasing and melodious bass voice and he used it in this number with excellent taste.

Another spiritual which made a hit was "Heah Dem Bells," with baritone solo taken by Rudolf Swanson, and tenor solo by Earl Bellis. Jubilant and rousing this song was exceptionally well received.

Both soloists and chorus gave an interpretation that was greeted with hearty applause.

Finale a Triumph

The final number on the program, "Siberia" by Starke, was the chorale feature of the program and in it the chorus showed a degree of choral adaptability that was surprising and carried the audience away.

Although the concluding number on the program, it had to be given again. The descriptive account portrays "down slowly arising, over a group of wretched exiles, on their way to Siberia, with the cruel Cossacks starting them on their journey, to the lash of the tremes of brutalities, until the victims assume in their torture that even God is dead."

Around this theme is built up a composition that opens a wide field for dramatic interpretation. The opportunity was taken advantage of by Mr. Pearson and his "boys" in a masterly manner.

Miss Eleanor Willard, well known soprano, in the solo part had allotted to her a work of extreme difficulty, and her rendition earned for her very hearty commendation for her artistry and talent. At times the pitch of dramatic intensity reached by soloists and chorus was thrilling.

This number was chorally the event of the evening. Miss Willard at the conclusion of the number, (as was also Miss Eva M. Johnson,) presented with a handsome bouquet, a deserved compliment.

The club by last night's work showed that it is not satisfied with the progress made in former years but is striving to excel. This was shown by very marked improvement in most of its work.

The conductor, Heige Pearson, has around him a group of energetic and enthusiastic young musicians, who are doing creditable work, and at each new appearance show signs of material progress. By continuing on these lines a most successful future is assured the Beethoven Club.

HEBRON

A hearing was held at the town hall Friday evening before Justice C. B. Jones in the case of Edward R. Newhall, of Lynn, Mass., charged with reckless driving in which the death of Joseph Vertefeuille of Willimantic aged 66, was caused April 2, on the Amston-Colchester road.

Attorney John King of Willimantic appeared for the defendant and Richard Hubbard, of Gilead, acted in the capacity of Grand Juror, representing the interests of the plaintiff. The town hall was well filled with interested listeners.

Morris J. Roy of Willimantic driver of the truck from which Mr. Vertefeuille alighted just before being struck by the car, was called upon to give a resume of the facts, and a lad in his employ who was driving with him and witnessed the accident, also gave testimony. The facts were established that the deceased hesitated in the road after hearing the horn of the approaching car, stepped back and then suddenly went forward again to cross the road.

He was carried a little distance on the radiator of the car which struck him and thrown off the ditch, death occurring instantly. Complete testimony was not given as the trial was in the nature of a formality and the case was held over to come up before the next term of the Criminal Court, probable cause being found. The defendant was kept under bonds of $2,000, furnished by Dr. A. L. Stebbins of Colchester at the time of the accident.

The other young men who were riding in the car, all of whom were students at Colby College, Me., were present, one of them being Lucius Stebbins, a son of Dr. Stebbins. So far as is known this is the first fatal automobile accident to occur in the town of Hebron. There have been few serious automobile accidents of any kind here with this exception.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Hauschild left later on a wedding trip. They will reside in a newly furnished home at 684 Middle Turnpike.

HEBRON

A hearing was held at the town hall Friday evening before Justice C. B. Jones in the case of Edward R. Newhall, of Lynn, Mass., charged with reckless driving in which the death of Joseph Vertefeuille of Willimantic aged 66, was caused April 2, on the Amston-Colchester road.

Attorney John King of Willimantic appeared for the defendant and Richard Hubbard, of Gilead, acted in the capacity of Grand Juror, representing the interests of the plaintiff. The town hall was well filled with interested listeners.

Morris J. Roy of Willimantic driver of the truck from which Mr. Vertefeuille alighted just before being struck by the car, was called upon to give a resume of the facts, and a lad in his employ who was driving with him and witnessed the accident, also gave testimony. The facts were established that the deceased hesitated in the road after hearing the horn of the approaching car, stepped back and then suddenly went forward again to cross the road.

He was carried a little distance on the radiator of the car which struck him and thrown off the ditch, death occurring instantly. Complete testimony was not given as the trial was in the nature of a formality and the case was held over to come up before the next term of the Criminal Court, probable cause being found. The defendant was kept under bonds of $2,000, furnished by Dr. A. L. Stebbins of Colchester at the time of the accident.

The other young men who were riding in the car, all of whom were students at Colby College, Me., were present, one of them being Lucius Stebbins, a son of Dr. Stebbins. So far as is known this is the first fatal automobile accident to occur in the town of Hebron. There have been few serious automobile accidents of any kind here with this exception.

The "Go-To-It" 4-H Dairy Club held a meeting Friday, April 20, at the home of Truman C. Ives. Nine members, two associate members, and one visitor were present.

Leroy Kinney, president, took charge, and Mr. Gaylord, County leader, assisted in the program. Initiation is in preparation for two associate members to be given at the next meeting and the club will then have attained the three required members which will give it the proper standing as a member of the general organization.

An interesting paper on "Common Diseases of Dairy Cattle," was read by Mrs. T. C. Ives and discussed by the class. Songs were practiced in preparation for Achievement Meetings, which will take place in the near future. It was voted that the rotary cup given by the American Legion for the best club work of the year 1924, and won by the Go-To-It Club, shall be placed in the public library at Hebron Green for the year.

Gilead Young People gave their play "Two Days to Marry," at Mansfield Friday evening before a good house. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were among those attending from this place.

Arthur Barber, colored, died at the Manchester Memorial hospital Sunday, April 22, aged 73. He had been in ill health for more than a year, caused by heart trouble. He was a native of Hebron and was the son of Lyman and Caroline (Peters) Barber, also of Hebron.

Mr. Barber is the last of the descendants of Caesar Peters, a slave boy owned by the Rev. Samuel Peters in pre-Revolutionary days, residents in this town. Many descendants of this line live in other towns in the state or through New England, however. The funeral will be held at St. Peter's cemetery Wednesday at 10:30 a. m., with committal service at the grave. The Rev. T. D. Martin will officiate.

Recent visitors in the town were

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Warnock of Meriden, and Clarence N. Brown of Danville, N. Y. Mr. Brown is a native of the town, being a son of the late Newell S. Brown.

The minstrel show which was presented at the town hall here recently by local talent from the Congregational church, is to be given at Gilead Hall Wednesday evening. The play given by the Gilead young folks "Two Days to Get Married," is to be given at the town hall, at Hebron Center, Friday evening next.

Owing to illness, Mrs. Della Porter was unable to act as organist at the Congregational church on Sunday. Miss Caroline E. Kellog, organist at St. Peter's church, took her place at the noon service, the hours of service at the two churches not conflicting, as at present arranged.

The regular Christian Endeavor services were omitted at the Hebron and Gilead churches Sunday evening to allow those who wished to hear the Easter cantata given at the Gilead church by the combined choirs of Colchester and Westchester, under the leadership of Mrs. W. D. Seyms of Colchester.

In spite of the stormy evening the attendance was good and the cantata well received.

Elder C. P. Lillie preached his farewell sermon at the last Sabbath Day meeting of the Seventh Day Adventist in Hopevale. Elder Lillie has been located in Willimantic for the past year. He is to move to Brier, Mass., in the Berkshires, and is expected that he will continue his circuit preaching. A number of Hopevale members of the Adventist denomination attended a farewell reception tendered Mr. Lillie and his family in Willimantic on Sunday. About 35 were present including Willimantic members.

Professor Bement and family and Professor Saunders and family, also a trained nurse, visited the Hopevale Private School recently, inspecting the school and spending a day or two in the village. Professor Bement is educational supervisor for the district.

HAUSCHILD-DIMLOW

A pretty wedding took place this morning at 10 o'clock at St. James' church when Florence Dimlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dimlow of 54 Walnut street, was married to Paul Hauschild, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hauschild of Middle Turnpike. Rev. William Reidy performed the ceremony.

Johanna Hauschild, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Harry Westchester, under the leadership of Mrs. W. D. Seyms of Colchester, was groomsmen.

The bride was gown in rose pink georgette, trimmed with imported lace. She wore a hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore old blue georgette with hat to match and carried butterfly roses.

WOMAN ALONE

Stone could voice another harsh complaint, the sing-song voice which "Princess Lalla" used was requesting "ze ladies" to sit down in the chair opposite.

But what should she tell Mrs. Stone, with whose personality and history she had been famous for 12 years? If she dared to read "past, present and future" with any degree of accuracy, the matron would be started into observing the "seeress" with those gimlet eyes of hers.

"Well, what do you see—if anything?" Mrs. Stone demanded angrily. "That gave Sally her cue. Bending low over the crystal so that her face was within a few inches of that of the woman who sat opposite her, with only the crystal stand between them, she pretended to peer into the depths of the glass ball. Then slowly she began to shake her head regretfully.

Cute in a Baby-Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids, and it always interferes with digestion.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a Little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them.

The WOMAN'S DAY

The Ladies' Aid Society of a certain church recently got considerable fame for itself by giving a superb church supper which consisted of fried chicken, warm biscuits and gravy, mashed potatoes, green peas and fresh asparagus.

And we all know, too, that of all extravagant, unbusinesslike, silly ventures, the church supper of the kind that gives a $2 meal for 50 cents, is the last word.

HERE'S THE ANSWER Now any and all of us who have had any contact with church suppers whatsoever know that the answer was donated and we know that the donations came easily because it was one form of charity for which the good women never had to ask their husbands.

Mackenzie Is Figured To Be Jones's Successor

Farrell Calls Roland Golf Player's Golfer In First of Series About Star.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the first of six articles in which Roland Mackenzie, one of America's most prominent golfers, talks about golf and what he thinks about it in a series of articles...

Mackenzie, a member of the Walker Cup team in 1922, has never consented to do any "author" work...

This is the first time Mackenzie has ever been interviewed to this extent on golf. In this interview with Farrell, he tells how he learned to play golf, how he grips his clubs, what hinders most golfers in his opinion...

By HENRY L. FARRELL

Washington, April 25.—When Babe Ruth scattered 59 home runs over the American League map a number of years ago, a baseball nation in one breath acclaimed him as the greatest slugger that ever lived...

It is perhaps an American characteristic, rather common to the field of sport, to make a hearty and enjoyable meal of the present and then look immediately to the future for a dessert.

So it is that right now in the height of his glory, accepted as the perfect golfer and the greatest player of all times...

Jones has made the question more opportune by the announcement that as a family head and an ambitious young barrister he must make his golf secondary to the duty of becoming a star or a champion of the legal profession...

There are any number of amateur candidates being advanced for succession to the Jones chair and a great many of them are favorite sons of various sections and districts...

Among baseball players a very fine player is termed a "ball player's player." It means that the ball players, who know the real art of their trade, consider him to be more of a skilled average than some of the leaders...

There is a similar classification for rating the class of a golf player's game, young Roland Mackenzie might be termed aptly a "golfer's player" because a number of the most prominent players look upon the handsome 21-year-old Washington youth as taking the place of the great Jones.

Mackenzie has been a very good player for a number of years. He was one of the ranking members of a great American Walker Cup team which won England and Scotland in 1922 and is also a veteran campaigner in the big American tournaments...

Until the last six months he had been of a frail type, a boy who grew too fast and it was recognized that he would have to build up physically to bring out the real golfer in his game.

For the first time in seven years, John McGraw appeared in uniform and directed practice of his infield on opening day this season.

Cohen Got Spanking For First Ball Game

BY BOB MATHERNE

A few good days in the spring don't make for a successful season in the major leagues, but they do make for extravagant praise and young Andy Cohen of the New York Giants is getting that these days.

This business of filling the spot left vacant in the Giants' infield when Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Boston Braves hasn't been such a difficult task to Cohen so far.

Of course, Cohen is not a Hornsby, and probably never will be. But he's so much better, so far, than the most rapid New Yorker ever hoped for that he seems to have been made a hero in that big town almost overnight.

Every baseball fan knows how McGraw for years has been seeking a Jewish star to appeal to the many Jewish population in New York and how Andy seems to be the answer to McGraw's prayers.

And everyone knows how Andy attended the University of Alabama for three years and played one season in the Texas League before he was bought for $20,000 by the Giants late in 1922.

Unless this writer is terribly mistaken, Andy Cohen will prove one of the most popular players in the majors before the season is over.

He doesn't say much and he smiles all the time. He was one of the most popular students on the Alabama campus and a very popular member of the International League to have been honored with three "Andy Cohen" days.

I first met Andy at Alabama. We were freshmen the same year, 1922. As a rule, fresh athletes at Tusculum lose respect pawning. It is traditional that a freshman can say he's out for football and escape this unpleasant phase of college life.

Andy ran at halfback as a freshman with Johnny Mack Brown, later the best back of the greatest halfbacks in the south and now in the movies, at the other halfback position. He never made the varsity eleven but scrubbed two years.

He did earn basketball and baseball letters and would have been the first Jew to captain a varsity team at Alabama had he returned there for his senior year.

If Sharkey Should Kayo Delaney? What a Mix Up

New York, April 25.—It wouldn't surprise some of the more intelligent of our intellectuals if Jack Sharkey hits Jack Delaney on the turnip next Monday night and knocks him for a row of two-family houses.

For if Sharkey wins by the decisive medium of a knockout, Rickard will be in the questionable position of having gone out of his way to develop a better attraction than the man he already has voted into the man of heavyweight challenger, Mr. Tom Heeny, and in this case, the Tunney-Heeny fight very well might draw a lot of houseflies.

For if Sharkey wins by the decisive medium of a knockout, Rickard will be in the questionable position of having gone out of his way to develop a better attraction than the man he already has voted into the man of heavyweight challenger, Mr. Tom Heeny, and in this case, the Tunney-Heeny fight very well might draw a lot of houseflies.

Of course, I am borrowing a lot of surmises against the immediate future of Sharkey and Delaney may give us another exhibition of how they circle the May-pole on the Bryn Mawr campus. But, somehow, I look for a more satisfactory performance. Sharkey's recent fights with Heeny and Risko should have sharpened his timing; his training in the open for the first time should improve his general condition and his handling in his corner should be better.

The rhododendron is the state flower of both Washington and West Virginia.

NEUTRAL ALLEYS AND $100 PURSE CHAMP'S DEMAND

Murphy Won't Roll Conran Again Under Other Conditions; Indoor Season Ends As Outdoor Opens Today.

With the possible exception of another exhibition pocket billiards, the indoor sport season in Manchester for the present season is ended and the outdoor season started this afternoon when Howard Wallace clashed in a baseball encounter at the West Side playgrounds.

There was a possibility a short time ago that there might be another contest between Howard Conran, champion, and Tommy Conran, ex-champion, for the town bowling title, but this appears very remote today.

Conran, who lost the title to Murphy a few months ago, recently challenged the south ender for a return match. Murphy, who had won the title by something like a hundred pins, was willing to, but he wanted a sidebet of $100 posted.

When asked about the matter last night, Murphy said that he had since decided that he would not roll on Conran's alleys at all but would meet Conran on any neutral alleys for a purse of a hundred greenbacks.

Conran says he cannot understand Murphy's attitude; that when he was champion he did not dictate in such a manner. Conran feels that a total purse of $50 is enough to roll for.

BEER-MAKING CAUSES TROUBLE.

Dave Luby, Oregon Aggies football star, was suspended from school recently until next September when he was found guilty by the student council of violating the college liquor regulations.

ANOTHER DE GROOT AT STANFORD.

Burt De Groot, a brother of Dudley De Groot who played center on three Stanford football teams, is three Stanford football teams, is three Stanford football teams, is three Stanford football teams...

I understand that Andy's mother wanted him to be a doctor. Andy wanted him to be a doctor. Andy wanted him to be a doctor...

It so happened that Andy reported to Waco, which had bought the Galveston franchise, and from there was sold to the New York Giants.

Last year, Andy played in the International League and the fans of that circuit staged three "Andy Cohen" days for him. As a result, he returned to his El Paso home with a diamond ring, a traveling bag, and a silver engraved statue of a ball player.

The first testimonial to Cohen's popularity will be given April 29 when members of the Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity, of which he is a member, will honor him at a dinner at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York.

Probably there will be some "Andy Cohen" days in the National League cities this year. For Andy Wallace was a popular member of the Giants, and should keep on playing regularly. There's no worry about his work field, and he should hit enough to keep his job.

He may not hit many homers, but he will poke many a base blow in this summer, and wiggle his cap innumerable times at the plate as he faces the pitcher.

And all this extravagant praise of today won't bother him. He knows those who praise now may call him a bum tomorrow.

Juniors Wrestle Lead From Seniors On Track

Clean Up in 220 and Take First and Second in Discus to Gain Lead; Finish Meet Tomorrow.

The Juniors wrestled the lead from the Seniors in the High school inter-class track and field meet at the West Side playgrounds yesterday afternoon. Only three events remain on the program and the upper-classmen will have to do some tall stepping to come out on top of the heap when the affair comes to a close tomorrow afternoon.

The remaining events are the javelin hurl, pole vault and 440 yard run. The Seniors are figured to take the first event but the others are more or less a matter of conjecture. The Juniors battled their way to a twelve point lead over the Seniors yesterday mainly by taking the discus and 220 yard dash decisively.

The total point scores now are as follows: Juniors 39, Seniors 27, Sophomores 6, Freshmen 0. The results of the events yesterday follow:

Discus—W. Johnson, J. first; R. Spencer, J. second; W. Kittel, S. third. 220 yard dash—R. Treat, J. first; L. Cheney, J. second; J. Buckland, J. third.

Shotput—W. Kittel, S. first; R. Spencer, J. second; W. Johnson, J. third. Mile run—J. McCluskey, J. first; F. Foster, S. second; A. L. Heunreux, Soph. third.

Broad Jump—W. Johnson, J. first; G. Olsen, S. second; W. Kittel, S. third.

GLENNEY'S TINKER BUILDING

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Any woman can keep a secret in circulation.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Of all the cat family the hell-cat is the most detestable.

Did you marry that girl of yours, or do you still cook your own breakfast and mend your own clothes?

People who let others do their thinking for them usually pay a stiff price for the service.

If my girl said what she thought she'd be speechless. "You say her father is a southern planter?"

It is noted with pleasure that the next Congress will be so busy investigating it's members that it will have but little time to devote to the business of passing new laws.

"Well, if they put you in a glass bowl, without your swimming suit, you'd turn red too," protested the goldfish.

I have a little compact that goes in and out with me. What my friends would do without it, is more than I can see, to Betty first I lend it, and then again to Rose.

Every wise man apologizes frequently to his wife, but he seldom knows what for.

Jumping to conclusions is about the only mental exercise some people ever take.

These days even a truck farmer needs a truck in order to get his truck to market.

Caution is the eldest child of wisdom.

"And remember politeness cost nothing." "Doesn't it? Try putting 'I remain your obedient servant' at the end of a telegram."

"This is a pretty snappy suit," remarked the baby as he was put into his rubber pants.

"My husband is an excellent cook." "How nice! And does he do much of it?"

"None at all. I just assume that he must be from the way he picks flaws in my cooking."

Too True! Mary had a little hen But she was very queer; She laid like fun when eggs were cheap.

But stopped when they were dear. Sarah: Why did Tillie break her engagement to the head bank teller?

Alice: Oh, haven't you heard? She landed a plumber.

Another way to relieve downtown congestion would be to make cars wear tags bearing the confession: "Ten more installments due."

"The tadpole that turns into a frog hasn't anything on a Ford that occasionally turns turtle."

HURRY AND WAIT

Your favorite traffic cup will tell you there is plenty of difference between stop and go, but in letter golf there isn't much difference between RUSH and WAIT.

How Do You Like The Cold, Wet Weather?

If you are a normal human being you would rather see the sun shine. If you happen to be in the retail business, or if you happen to be a New York manufacturer of women's wearing apparel, you would answer very promptly, "Give me the sunshine and plenty of it!"

But Bobbie Burns was right, "the best-laid schemes o' mice and men, gang aft a-gley." They have certainly "gang aft a-gley" since Easter.

Some wise mathematician has figured out for the New York garment men that the cold weather of the last two weeks has cost them at the rate of five thousand dollars every time the clock ticks. This is certainly very conservative.

Now just where do you, the average consumer resident of Manchester or our neighboring cities fit into this wet and dry picture?

Here's where you fit in. The women's apparel business as conducted today is so sensitive to fashion changes that what was figured in weeks twenty-five years ago now has to be figured in minutes.

The New York manufacturers are stuck. The retailers are stuck.

We decided not to wait.

HAIL FRANCOIS APPERT

How many Americans ever heard the name of Francois Appert? Not many, for a guess. Yet there ought to be a monument to this Frenchman in every American public square. Because he is the chap who created that paramount institution, the American tin can—meaning of course the preserved food tin.

It was away back in the beginning of the last century, more than a hundred years ago, that Appert evolved the system of fruit preservation which has since been developed in this country into such a tremendously important economic factor. But it wasn't until many years later after Appert had passed to his fathers that the world began to avail itself importantly of his invention. Those whose memories run back to the "eighties" will recall the canned corned beef, the canned salmon and the canned tomatoes and peaches that came pretty close to constituting the whole list. And rather horrid things they were, compared with the product of today's high grade canneries.

But it is within the last fifteen years that the tin can—and the glass can for that matter—has really come into its own. Do you know that the total reported product of American canneries in 1909 was $139,000,000, whereas the total reported product in 1923 was no less than $550,000,000?

And do you know why, aside from the education of the public mind to the goodness of canned goods, this increase was possible? The answer lies very largely in the fact that whereas the cans used to be painfully and slowly and as expensively fabricated by hand, now they are produced by machines one of which can turn out 12,000 finished cans in an hour.

This is the canned food age. And the best canned foods on earth are on the shelves of Pinehurst.
