SIGN CONTRACT FOR BIG STORE BUILDING HERE

Montgomery, Ward Co., Big Chicago Mail Order House to Open First N. E. Department Store Here.

Transactions were completed today by which the first of a series of chain department stores controlled by the Montgomery, Ward Company, Chicago mail order house, will be opened in Manchester on or about October 1. The local store will be the first to be located in New England. It will be situated on the property owned by Nathan B. Richards, on the west side of Main street between Park and Locust streets. The entire transactions were engineered by Mr. Richards by Frank H. Anderson, general manager of the J. W. Hale Company.

Mr. Anderson is in New Haven today on business, but was reached by The Herald by telephone. He confirmed the report that the deal had been completed and asked that The Herald tell its readers that one of the biggest boosts ever given Manchester would result from the presence of the Montgomery, Ward store here.

No building contract has been awarded as yet, but work will be started soon on the structure which will house the new store. It must be completed and ready for opening by October 1. The store will be built about the middle of the street frontage of the Richards lot. It will be two stories high and will be devoted entirely to Montgomery, Ward merchandise. The corner lot is being reserved for the construction of a separate store building, and a group of stores will be built to the north of the Montgomery, Ward building.

Montgomery, Ward Company, for years known as a mail order house is planning the opening of a number of department stores throughout the country for the sale and shipping of articles ordered by mail. It was found that a large group of their customers were located in the area east of Hartford and Manchester was chosen as the distributing point for their retail goods.

When the building is completed a grand opening is planned for Manchester. The store will be open throughout southern New England and will be invited to Manchester for a public inspection of the new store. It will be a gala day for the town and all the other storekeepers here will be asked to join in the celebration. The officers of the Chicago concern will be here for the event. The Manchester branch will be considered a model for the other stores which will be constructed throughout the country.

It required much time before the necessary signature could be secured from the Montgomery & Ward Company to the lease of the store property on the East side of Main street and lives in Stafford was called in to assist. The company officials in Chicago reopened consideration of a Manchester location and set a tentative figure which they would pay for a store building, which was based on a one-story structure.

Estimates were obtained and a contract for the building was awarded to Gustave Schreiber. But again came a hitch, which required trips to Baltimore, eastern and southern headquarters of Montgomery & Ward, and this proved to be only a stopping off place, as Mr. Anderson and Mr. Drew both went to Chicago again.

Need of Bigger Building
The company in the meantime had made a search of its books and found that it had 20,000 persons on its mailing list living in the section to be served by the Manchester store and decided that if it was to build at all it would have to have a two story brick building, with a 1-foot basement, a 16-foot ceiling on the main floor and a clearance on the second of 12 feet. The concern also decided that it would need an electrically operated combination freight and passenger elevator which would cost $10,000.

CONGRESS TO HUSTLE FOR ADJOURNMENT

Leaders Plan to Dispose of All Legislation So as to Be Able to Quit on May 19.

Washington, April 30.—Adjournment of Congress on May 19 became a strong possibility today when Republican leaders of the House indicated that they could meet the demand of the Senate for an early cessation of business to prepare for the national conventions.

Rep. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, majority floor leader, today declared that he would lead the House in the first time that the House would be able to wind up its business within three or four weeks.

Although Senator Curtis (R) of Kansas, majority floor leader of the Senate, has urged May 19 as adjournment date for some time, the pilots of the business in the House have heretofore predicted June 1 as adjournment date.

"I believe that the House can finish its business in time for adjournment on May 19—or some week later at the most," said Rep. Tilson.

Depends on Senate
"The House will be ready and the matter depends entirely on the Senate. We have disposed of most of the major legislation and other legislation has already been carefully considered in committee and so thoroughly discussed by members that it can be disposed of quickly if the House so desires."

The urge for adjournment a considerable period before the national conventions in June has been particularly strong in the Senate, which has several active and potential candidates for the presidency.

The death of Rep. Martin B. Madden (R) of Illinois, chairman of the House appropriations committee, who had declared himself favorable to early adjournment, has caused some concern in the Senate. The bill for the Nary-Haugen Farm Bill in the House.

The filibuster of Senator Ashurst, (D) of Arizona, against the Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam Bill and division in the House over the Morin-Shoals measure threatens to upset the legislative program in the closing weeks.

Presidential opposition to the Jones-Reid flood control bill and the possibility of a veto has also caused some worry to the Republicans here. They are hopeful, however, of an agreement being worked out in conference which will result in the president approving the measure.

Their Hour of Great Triumph

COMMANDER FITZMAURICE
THE BREMEN AT GREENELY ISLAND
CAPT. HERMAN KOEHL AND BARON VON HUENEFELD

CALIFORNIA'S DEMS. TO VOTE TOMORROW

Three Candidates, Smith, Walsh and Reed in Field; Smith's Chances Good.

San Francisco, Calif., April 30.—California Democracy will go to the polls tomorrow and decide which of three contesting delegations shall carry the California donkey banner into the Houston convention.

Political wisecracks over the country reason that the verdict of California's Democrats may have an important bearing on final results at the Houston pow wow.

The state organization, for the greater part, has taken up the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith of New York. Strong independent groups are supporting Senator James A. Reed and Senator Thomas J. Walsh.

The William Gibbs McAdoo wing of the Democratic party has backed Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana. The ticket is led by McAdoo and composed of men and women that followed him in the Democratic factional fight of 1925.

An important angle is the candidacy of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. Senator Reed came into California on a tour of the country. He has taken the position that the chief issue is elimination of corruption in government and restoration of the Democratic party to its fundamentals. Senator Reed has made a nationwide campaign.

With the close of the hotly contested primary campaign at hand the several groups are working for the last round-up of votes.

The Smith organization remains confident of carrying the state, insofar as formal expressions from headquarters are concerned. Justice Wardell A. Smith leader, forth a statement today that he "believes Smith will carry the state by 50,000."

ANOTHER MURDER CASE BREAKS IN HARTFORD

Man Dies of Stab Wounds After a Fight Over a Woman.

Hartford, Conn., April 30.—Hartford county jurors have still another murder case on their hands. POLICE FIND MAN HIDING IN TRUNK

Lynn, Mass., April 30.—The physical inability of man to stay in a small wardrobe trunk for a couple of hours, cramped and with very little air today resulted in the arrest of Arthur Nicholls, shoemaker, on a charge of non-support.

Police had been searching for Nicholls and seen a light in the house promptly entered to search for Nicholls. A two-hour search failed to disclose the missing man. Just as the police were preparing to leave, a movement of the trunk and a stifled gasp gave them a suspicion that Nicholls was in the trunk.

He was taken to the hospital where he was treated and later arraigned on the non-support charge in local court.

LINDY'S LAST HOP IN HIS OLD PLANE

Flies to Washington to Turn Over Machine to the Smithsonian Institute.

St. Louis, Mo., April 30.—"We" started on "our" last flight today. Taking off from Lindbergh Field here this morning, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh turned his "Spirit of St. Louis" toward Washington, D. C., and the Smithsonian institution, where the historic plane will be housed.

Lindbergh indicated there would be no ceremonies when he turned the epoch-making plane over to the institute.

The intrepid flyer arrived at the field about 8:15 and began preparations to take his trans-Atlantic flight partner into the air for its last trip.

Large Crowd Present
A large crowd was present to bid farewell to the plane that spread the name of St. Louis to the four corners of the world.

Washington, April 30.—Claude G. Bowers, New York editorial writer, today was selected as the keynote speaker of the Democratic national convention in Houston in June.

His election by the arrangements committee here, was unanimous. Selection of Bowers as temporary chairman and keynoter had been generally agreed upon by party leaders.

The ceremony took place today at Mrs. Leroy Springs of South Carolina.

Bowers is the author of "Party Battles of the Jackson Period" and "Hamilton and Jefferson," and has been the principal speaker at party gatherings. After his speech at the Jackson Day dinner here in January, his selection as convention keynoter was generally conceded.

GERMAN--IRISH FLYERS GET ROUSING WELCOME

STRANGER KILLED IN ROADHOUSE ROW

Proprietor Severely Wounded and Policeman Shot; Mystery Surrounds Killing

New York, April 30.—In what Bergen County, N. J. police believe was a fight among bootleggers or hijackers, an unidentified man was killed, the proprietor of a roadhouse was seriously wounded and a policeman was shot in the left hand early yesterday in front of Ye Ole Time Inn in Garfield, N. J.

"Big Frank" La Groco, owner of the inn, is in Passaic General hospital with three bullet wounds in his abdomen. Hospital officials say he will die.

The murdered man, about thirty, well dressed and of dark complexion, was found, in the gutter in front of the inn with three bullet wounds in his head. He had been shot from behind. An autopsy disclosed the bullets were of .38 calibre. La Groco was wounded by .32 calibre bullets and an empty revolver of that calibre was found near the inn.

In a statement to Assistant Prosecutor John L. O'Toole, La Groco said he did not know who shot him, who the dead man was or why the shooting occurred. All he knew, he insisted, was that as he left the inn to go home four or five feet away he was shot and started firing.

Schwendtner told Police Chief Nicholas Parrapato he had parked his automobile across the street from the inn when the shooting had been fired, an investigation showed.

Prosecutor A. C. Hart today plans to question cabaret performers of the inn.

Two Million Persons Line Route of March From Battery to City Hall—Aviators Amazed at Magnitude of Reception—Taken to North River and Then Through Flag Bedecked Vessels in the Harbor—Showered With Ticker Tape Along Lower Broadway.

New York, April 30.—Two million people roared their acclaim today to the two daring Germans, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld and Captain Herman Koehl, and the fearless Irishman, Major James C. Fitzmaurice, who piloted the monoplane Bremen from Europe to the North American continent, the first time that epic feat had been accomplished.

Thrilled by the sight of these brave men, the people of New York City unloosed a riot of noise that rolled in great waves over the city and out across the harbor. Great throngs blackened the sidewalks and streets for miles and cheered themselves hoarse; thousands of others stood on vessels in the harbor and added their notes to the din, as hands played, whistles blew and sirens shrieked.

The flyers themselves were amazed at the magnitude of the reception. They seemed abashed, almost ill at ease. They bowed and bowed, and waved repeatedly to the admiring crowds throughout their triumphal march.

Erin Go Bragh
It was "Erin Go Bragh" and "Deutschland Uber Alles" all the way round on their circle of glory in the Ritz-Carlton hotel to the Battery, and from the Battery to mid-Manhattan.

The city's welcome swept along streets gay with the colors of three nations, the Stars and Stripes, the Republic and the green, white and orange of the Irish Free State.

Exactly at 10:45 a. m. the flyers were escorted by Grover Whalen and the mayor's reception committee from their suite, on the ninth floor of the Ritz-Carlton hotel, Von Huenefeld, in a blue serge suit and a German army cap; Koehl was attired in a plain blue business suit and a dark felt hat while Fitzmaurice wore the uniform of the flying corps of the Irish Free State.

Dense throngs had congregated outside the hotel and when the flyers emerged cheer after cheer rocked the district. The flyers seemed stunned by the reception but they bowed and smiled as they entered their automobile.

Showers of paper came hurtling down from the windows of hotels and skyscrapers in the vicinity. Men, women and girls poked their heads out of the windows and cheered. Office routine was completely disrupted.

Slowly the procession started westward on 46th street, to the accompaniment of deafening cheers. Passing Broadway the cheering grew in volume and could be heard fully a mile away.

At 11 o'clock the procession arrived at Pier 84, North river, where the municipal steamer the Macom, gaily decorated with flags, was waiting to receive the flyers for a brief stay in the harbor between a lane of craft to the Statue of Liberty.

When the flyers were sighted at the pier the vessels, crowded with people, released sirens and whistles and the din became terrific. Within thirty feet of the Macom lay the Hamburg-American liner "Deutschland," loaded with Germans. Hats were thrown in the air, people danced on the deck and the wildest excitement ensued.

A band aboard the "Deutschland" struck up the German national anthem.

Stand at Attention
Captain Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld stood at attention. This was followed by lively Irish tunes played by the Fire Department Band which was on board the Macom.

Crowds waved handkerchiefs and cheered from the giant liner Leviathan which was at anchor a few hundred yards up the harbor. As the Macom steamed down the harbor there was an incessant bedlam of hoots and shrieking of sirens.

It began to drizzle slightly but this failed to dampen the ardor of the celebration.

were showered down on the flyers from windows of the sky scrapers along Broadway. Von Huenefeld, Koehl and Fitzmaurice had stood up and waved their arms and again in response to the cheering.

At City Hall a welcome as warm and perhaps meaning a great deal more awaited two of the flyers. There Mrs. Effriede Koehl, wife of Captain Koehl, and Mrs. Viola Fitzmaurice, wife of the Irish flyer, and his seven year old daughter, Patricia, were waiting in the speakers' stand.

A grandstand seating some 5,000 persons had been erected for the occasion. Every seat was taken and the rain did not seem to drive anybody away.

"Where's Daddy?—When is Daddy coming?" Patricia continued to ask her mother.

The mother did not answer. There were tears in her eyes.

"I only want to see my man," said Mrs. Koehl, a smart-looking bobbed-haired woman. She was greatly excited.

Color was added to the speakers' stand by the entrance of the diplomatic corps, including representatives from Germany and the Irish Free State. Also present were prominent New York City politicians. Robert E. Lee, 4th, descendant of the famous southern general, was among the cheering throng.

The city hall crowd gave the "Fighting 69th" Irish National Guard regiment band a big cheer as it passed the reviewing stand. The detachment had their hats beribboned with green and their band played "The Wearing of the Green." The first Columbia University band in bright blue uniforms also made a picturesque showing.

Flyers Come Along
Presently the flyers themselves came into sight at the City Hall at 12:15—and the cheering became deafening. With the luck of the Irish, not to forget the Germans, the rain began to let up at exactly this minute. Pieces of paper were floating about the air.

High up in big buildings, such as Woolworth, facing that residential block, the cheering became deafening. With the luck of the Irish, not to forget the Germans, the rain began to let up at exactly this minute. Pieces of paper were floating about the air.

like this I want to fly with him," remarked Mrs. Koehl. "I love to fly."

Wife Worried. Mrs. Fitzmaurice frankly admitted that her husband's flight worried her.

Donning his silk hat Grover Whalen introduced the flyers in a short speech.

And then, amid a salvo of hand-clapping the postman and his assistants came to the platform and addressed the first successful east-to-west flyers.

"In making New York City your destination," said Mayor Walker, "you have made a gesture bringing closer together Germany, Ireland and the United States."

Presented with Medals. Then, Major General Haskell, speaking for Gov. Al Smith, who is ill in his hotel suite, presented the flyers with the medals of honor in behalf of New York state.

Hector Filler of the mayor's committee bestowed the scroll of the city of New York on the flyers. Baron von Huenefeld then stepped to the rostrum.

"I am thankful for the wonderful reception given us in America," he said in clear excellent English. "We will always remember our visit to this city, and we shall not forget that the Atlantic was made by an American. I bring you greetings from Germany to America."

The Baron was warmly applauded. Captain Koehl then stepped forward, a smile on his rugged, bronzed face.

"We thank you very much for this magnificent reception," he said simply. "It is hard for me to say it in English. But I want to thank you very much from the bottom of my heart."

Major Fitzmaurice, his Irish smile infectious, came forward. The photographers punctuated his speech with a barrage of flash-lights.

"This reception has been overwhelming," declared Fitzmaurice. "I have never seen such a sight before. It is so much!"

"We are glad that our transatlantic flight has not been regarded as a stunt but rather as a useful contribution to the progress of aviation. And such we like to regard it as."

"As an Irishman I feel absolutely at home in your city. My German comrades feel the same. And between us we feel that we own the city. Besides assisting in the development of aviation we hope our flight will further cement the bond of good will between America and our countries."

Cheers greeted his remarks. The bands then struck up the German and Irish anthems.

Motion picture cameramen swarmed around the flyers, asking Koehl and Fitzmaurice to pose with their rifles. Somewhat bashfully they did.

"Kiss," commanded the photographers to Mr. and Mrs. Koehl and Mr. and Mrs. Fitzmaurice. They obeyed.

Kissed Jimmy Mrs. Koehl was quite excited. Suddenly, and without warning, she leaned over and kissed the good-looking Mayor. The mayor himself and the mayor made local history by blushing a deep crimson. Koehl seemed to enjoy his discomfiture.

The crowd liked this incident and there were calls: "Do it again!" "I didn't know this went with the job. It's a great racket."

The triumphal procession they started uptown, preceded by the troops. Mrs. Fitzmaurice and Mrs. Koehl got in one of the automobiles. Their car was surrounded by people eager to shake their hands.

The ladies shook hands right and left and so did little Patricia Fitzmaurice. Particularly liked to shake hands with the mounted policemen.

The flyers passed a wreath at "Eternal Light" at Fifth avenue and 24th street in memory of the soldiers and sailors who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War. There they reviewed the troops, marking the end of their spectacular reception.

WELCOME FLYERS! New York, April 30.—"Welcome Bremen Flyers!"

With this paean of praise on their lips, thousands of themselves upon the sidewalks of New York today, eager to unloose a vociferous salute to two daring Germans and a fearless Irishman—Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, Captain Herman Koehl and Major James C. Fitzmaurice, the trio who made the first westerly flight across the Atlantic.

Nearly a million people had turned out by nine o'clock this morning and police estimated that within an hour or two 2,500,000 persons would be in the streets, atop skyscrapers, in the windows of big buildings, aboard boats in the harbor and in other vantage places witnessing the pageant which the city is tendering in honor of the flyers.

Not since the spectacular welcomes to Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Byrd and other trail-blazers of the sky had New York City given way to such unrestrained enthusiasm.

A Blaze of Glory The city was a blaze of color. From buildings all along the line of march the flags of three nations fluttered in the warm sunshine. There were the red white and blue of Old Glory, the red black and gold of the German Republic and the green, white and orange of the Irish Free State.

A holiday atmosphere prevailed as the constantly increasing throng fought for vantage places along the profusely decorated streets. Ten thousand police were scattered from the Battery to Central Park. Evanescent ambulances took up their stations along the line of march.

Police men were stationed five feet apart on both sides of the

MAYFAIR CARNIVAL IS HELD THIS WEEK

Will Be Given at St. James's School Hall Under Auspices of Children of Mary.

Plans are now practically completed for the Mayfair carnival to be given at St. James's school hall on Park street on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings under the auspices of the Children of Mary.

The entertainment committee has arranged for two plays which will be given on the first and second evenings. On the opening night the children of St. James's school will present a play entitled "A Night with Mother Goose."

The state tax on towns, reinstated in 1910 after a lapse of 20 years, now amounts to $1,500,000 annually. For 1910 it amounted to $45,335, and for 1917, $1,740,000. The corporation net income tax, first collected in 1916, last year totaled $2,586,981.

Twenty years ago public service corporations and public utilities paid $1,546,840 in taxes as against $49,320 last year. The inheritance tax of 1907, amounting to $445,067 had grown to $2,601,557 in 1927, while savings deposits taxes totaling $39,176 in 1907 amounted to $1,357,461 last year.

The military tax totaled $161,646 in 1907; $214,017 in 1917, and $203,811 in 1927.

The gasoline tax last year totaled $2,840,518. With the exception of the gasoline tax which is pledged to the state highway department, the total tax revenues are available for general appropriations.

The remainder which included the gasoline tax was administered by other departments—the billboard tax of $69,527 by the state police; those in action tax of $504,677 by the state treasurer; the $666,339 in taxes outside insurance companies by the insurance commissioner, and the $11,358 in shell fisheries taxes by the shell fish commission.

On the last evening the cedar chest and contents which has been on display at Watkins Brothers for the past week will be awarded to the person drawing the lucky number. Each evening there will be modern and old-fashioned dancing to music by Djardius orchestra.

The various organizations of the church are co-operating in conducting the carnival and booths for the sale of fancy and articles, home-made food and candy. Miss Helen Campbell, president of the Children of Mary is general chairman of the fair.

HEBRON The Young Women's club will meet next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clifford Perry. The program will be under the direction of Mrs. John Deeter and will be in the interests of mothers.

All mothers are invited whether members of the club or not and with no age limit. The host place on the Green, which has stood empty for the last few months, is now occupied by two families, one being that of George Hardy, from Columbia. The other story of the house is occupied by a Polish family employed by G. Hardy.

Mrs. Loren M. Lord is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Hamilton, in Hartford. A collection of silk worm moths and butterflies, with cocoons, is to be seen at the Hebron Library. They are the property of Mrs. T. D. Martin, who raised the specimens from eggs and cocoons in a hatchery of her own. Some of the specimens are quite rare and beautiful. Among them are the Swallowtail, the Cecropia, which feeds on apple trees, the luna moth, feeding on the hickory or walnut tree, the Promethia, feeding on locust and wild cherry, the polyphemus, which feeds on oak, maple or elm, the Imperialis, which feeds on the buttonwood tree, the Saturnia io, which feeds on the poplar, grass or clover. All the above are silk worm moths. Among the butterflies shown are the Swallowtail, Red Admiral, American Copper and others. The cocoons are shown with the moths and butterflies.

No further developments have been reported in the case of the son of Hyman Frankel, 13-year-old son of Max Frankel, a poultry farmer living on the Hebron-Mariborough federal road, about a mile and a half from Hebron Center. Hyman has gone back to school at Windham High school. He is a freshman. There was at first some disposition to doubt the boy's story, but it is now generally taken seriously. In telling of his escape he says that the car having turned over on the New London Valley, he fell into the ditch and was thrown onto the Jones street crossroad near Chamberlain's place, and from there onto another isolated stretch of country road, the men alighted to attend to some trouble with the car, which gave him his opportunity to escape. He had been thrown onto the back seat in a half unconscious condition after having been knocked on the head by the men. The men started after him and pursued him for some distance, he says, but they were balked by barbed wire fences, through which he scrambled without difficulty. When he reached the woods they gave up the chase, it being dark. No clue has been found as to their identity. Hyman is a popular boy and bears a good reputation. It took him several hours to reach home as he did not know the location and had to founder about through swamps, woods and fields before recognizing his whereabouts. His parents and friends are very grateful that he escaped unharmed except for the blow on the head. It is difficult to account for the motives of the abductors of the boy.

The Gilead players gave their three-act comedy, "Two Days to Get Married," to a full house at Hebron Center Friday evening, in spite of the stormy night. Gate receipts amounting to over $40 were divided between the Gilead and Hebron Christian Endeavor societies. The parts were well taken and the comedy well received.

Among those who were present at the 4-H club round-up at Hotel Garde Friday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Truman C. Ives and son Richard, Mrs. Della Porter, Miss Thelma Cummings, C. Daniel Way and Edward E. Poole.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eismann of Elmhurst, L. I. spent the week-end at their summer place here.

Mrs. Edwin T. Smith had as guests on Friday, her sister, Mrs. Rilla Barrows and daughter, Mrs. M. Belle Strickland, of New London, also Mrs. Belle Seaman of Waterbury.

Miss Florence E. Smith of the Seymour school, West Hartford, attended an educational meeting in Hartford on Saturday, coming to her home here for the rest of the week-end.

The severe storm of wind and rain prevailing Friday night and Saturday morning did considerable damage to roads, which were washed and gullied. Shoulders of the roads and other places where there is soft ground proved treacherous to automobilists.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(118) State Tax of $18,900,000.

Taxes collected by the State of Connecticut, exclusive of motor vehicle fees, increased from $3,789,776 in 1907 to $18,901,851 in 1927. During 1917, $18,396,000 was paid to the state in taxes.

The increase has been made possible both by large revenues from the existing taxation sources of 1907 and by the addition of new sources of taxation, such as the gasoline tax and the corporations net income tax.

Twenty years ago public service corporations and public utilities paid $1,546,840 in taxes as against $49,320 last year. The inheritance tax of 1907, amounting to $445,067 had grown to $2,601,557 in 1927, while savings deposits taxes totaling $39,176 in 1907 amounted to $1,357,461 last year.

Mrs. Loren M. Lord is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Hamilton, in Hartford. A collection of silk worm moths and butterflies, with cocoons, is to be seen at the Hebron Library. They are the property of Mrs. T. D. Martin, who raised the specimens from eggs and cocoons in a hatchery of her own. Some of the specimens are quite rare and beautiful. Among them are the Swallowtail, the Cecropia, which feeds on apple trees, the luna moth, feeding on the hickory or walnut tree, the Promethia, feeding on locust and wild cherry, the polyphemus, which feeds on oak, maple or elm, the Imperialis, which feeds on the buttonwood tree, the Saturnia io, which feeds on the poplar, grass or clover. All the above are silk worm moths. Among the butterflies shown are the Swallowtail, Red Admiral, American Copper and others. The cocoons are shown with the moths and butterflies.

No further developments have been reported in the case of the son of Hyman Frankel, 13-year-old son of Max Frankel, a poultry farmer living on the Hebron-Mariborough federal road, about a mile and a half from Hebron Center. Hyman has gone back to school at Windham High school. He is a freshman. There was at first some disposition to doubt the boy's story, but it is now generally taken seriously. In telling of his escape he says that the car having turned over on the New London Valley, he fell into the ditch and was thrown onto the Jones street crossroad near Chamberlain's place, and from there onto another isolated stretch of country road, the men alighted to attend to some trouble with the car, which gave him his opportunity to escape. He had been thrown onto the back seat in a half unconscious condition after having been knocked on the head by the men. The men started after him and pursued him for some distance, he says, but they were balked by barbed wire fences, through which he scrambled without difficulty. When he reached the woods they gave up the chase, it being dark. No clue has been found as to their identity. Hyman is a popular boy and bears a good reputation. It took him several hours to reach home as he did not know the location and had to founder about through swamps, woods and fields before recognizing his whereabouts. His parents and friends are very grateful that he escaped unharmed except for the blow on the head. It is difficult to account for the motives of the abductors of the boy.

Park street to Locust street, with the exception of the Center Congregational parsonage at the corner of Main and Locust street.

Again there was a holdup at the Montgomery & Ward Company. The company decided that it would have to have a store of much greater depth than originally planned and two weeks ago new plans were drawn and estimates obtained. The amount of rental which the concern was willing to pay for a term of ten years was given. Last week Montgomery & Ward asked for information as to their status in Connecticut under their charter, whether the field would be clear for them to do business in this state. Formal approval by the secretary of the state was obtained and on a lease meeting all the requirements of the company was signed by the property owners here and shipped by air mail.

It reached Chicago on last Monday and Mr. Anderson let Mr. Richards know by telegraph just as soon as the lease was signed by Montgomery & Ward.

The building will not be erected on the corner of Park and Main streets, but its south line will be about fifty feet to the north of the corner. It will be of brick, with limestone trim and will be two stories high for the most southerly fifty feet. In this part will be the store that the Montgomery & Ward Company will occupy. It will be 185 feet in depth. Using a party wall, there will also be erected a building to house five other stores. It will be of brick and one story high and will be so constructed that up another story. These stores will be about twenty feet frontage and about eighty feet deep.

These stores had all been applied for and tentative leases have been given in some cases.

Borah in 1920, which revealed heavy expenditures in behalf of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, ruining the latter's chance for the Republican nomination.

The resolution was referred to the Senate committee on control of contingent expenses, a routine step. It probably will be adopted tomorrow.

GOVERNMENT VESSELS AID DISABLED LINER

Western Ocean With Crew of Thirty-four Breaks Tow Lines Twice.

Norfolk, Va., April 30.—Three government vessels, including the Western Ocean 330 miles east of the Virginia Capes.

The Western Ocean has been helpless since April 18 and has been twice in tow of government boats and twice towed by the cutter of the Virginia Capes only to be caught in storms, have the two-line parted and be cast adrift again.

She broke away from two vessels yesterday, the Coast Guard cutter Mascoutin and the Navy tug Kaweah, but she broke away from the cutter Carrabasset last Monday.

The cutter Seneca left New York yesterday afternoon and will probably come up with the helpless craft and the government boats standing by her tonight. The Western Ocean ran on her fuel on April 18 and was unable to make port. Then her food supply gave out and the Mascoutin loaded a small boat with provisions and sent them to her with a volunteer crew in charge.

The steamer, which feeds on coal, was loaded with a general cargo from Bremen for discharge at Norfolk and Baltimore.

MAIL DELIVERY IS "SHOT" BY CHANGE

Early Morning Train Now an Hour Late—Creates Some 24 Hour Delays.

While all postoffices are conducted on standard time the clerks in the Manchester offices start an hour earlier to comply with the daylight saving custom and the offices are closed an hour earlier in the evening, standard time. The usual number of hours are worked by the carriers and clerks.

This morning there was a general mixup at the South Manchester postoffice. The postoffice mail in the past had arrived at the postoffice at 6 o'clock and the carriers have been reporting at that time to get the mail sorted so as to start out on their routes before 8 o'clock. With their watches set at 6 o'clock, the standard time, they arrived at the postoffice at 5 o'clock, daylight saving time.

But the mail did not arrive. Wait Over An Hour For over an hour they waited and only then it was discovered that there had been an entire change of time in the arrival of the mail in Manchester. The railroad officials, in making up the time table to be used during the daylight saving time, had made a change whereby the mail would not arrive in Manchester until 6:07 standard time or 7:07 daylight saving time. By the time it reached the South Manchester office it was 7:30, daylight saving time. This is the big mail, the one that is taken out by the carriers in the morning when they cover their entire route. It is the mail that banks depend on as does the business houses and manufacturers. The mail has been sorted and in the boxes by 8 o'clock at all seasons of the year, heretofore.

Other mails arrived at the same time as usual, "daylight" clocks. But in the afternoon the carriers do not have time to cover their entire routes. Under present conditions they must start out with a light pack in the morning when they have a long route to cover, and when they again start their route in the afternoon they will be carrying a heavy load, but cannot cover the long routes.

The effect of this is that early morning mail destined to persons living out toward the terminals in the delivery routes must wait till next morning for their letters.

Same Conditions Over North The same condition exists at the Manchester postoffice. Fearing that there would be complications Postmaster Ernest Brown arrived at the office far ahead of time, but there was no mail to handle.

75 U. S. WARSHIPS IN SHAM BATTLE

Honolulu, T. H., April 30.—Successful in the first stage of its annual spring maneuvers, the United States battle fleet, composed of some 75 vessels and more than 70 airplanes, was in Honolulu today, following the completion of its tactful dash from San Francisco.

In traversing the Pacific from the mainland the great armada successfully eluded a group of "enemy" ships which had been assigned to "attack" and intercept the fleet, it was announced by Admiral Louis R. Distinguer, commander-in-chief.

One submarine, the S-24, Admiral Distinguer stated, made the entire trip under its own power and kept pace with the ships of the line, while other submarines were towed part of the way.

The number of vessels will be swelled to more than 100 by arrivals from other parts and the fleet will then engage in problem maneuvers before beginning the return journey.

A Bird's Eye View of Kansas City

By Rev. Robert A. Colpitts

Thousands of people who heretofore have never seen the central part of the United States will soon be able to say "I'm from Missouri." For Kansas City during the present season is to be the "Jerusalem" for the gathering of both the Republican and the Methodist Episcopal Klans. The General Conference of the greatest legislative body of militant and world-wide Methodism opens at ten o'clock on the first day of May and continues its sessions throughout the entire month. The Convention Hall seats 12,000 persons and a standard organ is being installed and will be ready for the opening services next Tuesday morning. Almost a thousand delegates will be in attendance and they will come from all quarters of the globe. For weeks now the representatives from the most distant quarters have been making their anabasis to this temporary Zion. They come from Alaska and Scandinavia from India and China; from Africa and Sumatra; from South America and the Isles of the sea to legislate for the world's largest Protestant church. What a picture as they crowd the Convention Hall for the opening services. What if the diminutive Wesley who founded this church could glimpse the throng of delegates and the seventy-five thousand unofficial visitors whom it is estimated will attend during the month!

Periodically it is proclaimed that the church is dead. Evidently the funeral of this branch of the church must be postponed a bit yet, for the members for Christian Missions. Thirty millions are spent on church support in the homeland. There are 2000 "salesmen" missionaries in the foreign field. The membership work of the United States alone approaches seven millions. It is estimated that it will cost $100 a minute to conduct the conference which will explain why the lengthy minded brethren will not be permitted to propose according to their home custom.

Distinguished speakers will be heard at the evening inspirational hours. The list includes J. Edgar Adams, Glen Frank, Ralph Connor, Edward Steiner, Governor Allen, Pat Neff, Andres Osuna, the renowned Mexican educator; W. Y. Chen, the famous publicist and orator of Poochow, China; Edward Guest and Edwin Markham.

That the conference will furnish many dramatic moments and not a few brilliant debates is assured by the pre-conference agitation for certain radical changes in the rising tide of the denomination. Bishops now enjoy life tenure. There is a strong movement in favor of confining them to a term of say, eight years and then returning them to the pastoral ministry to preach according to their own custom.

Then come the great sweeping social questions—the relation of Capital and Labor. On all of these matters the position of Methodism is already quite well defined. She stands for the outlawry of war. And why not? There are twelve million men in the earth? The "wets" so well known her attitude toward the saloon and her part in the successful battle to overthrow this institution which they employ toward their own ends. Many of the delegates are held on the issue of the still stands adamant. That there will be any modification of her position in favor of fair play and justice for the toiler is unthinkable. For her social program adopted years ago really became the charge form later adopted as the social creed of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Furthermore it was her own Bishop McConnell's program on his committee from the Federal Council to investigate the conditions in the steel industry, that gave to America a report on the twelve hour day and other abominations in that industry. Her own conscience that the steel barons were compelled to yield and give the working man a square deal.

There certainly will be some radical revision of the foreign missionary policy. The missionaries are demanding that no longer shall they have the protection of gun boats. Likewise a larger measure of independence will probably be given the church in many foreign fields which will mean the change of the rising tide of nationalism so manifest everywhere.

Is this branch of the Christian church decadent? Scarcely. The aggressive battles staged for Kansas City during the next month give answer. Here are the marks not of death but of life; not of retreat but of advance; not of a sleepy gloriing in a golden age now gone, but of rallying to build a more golden age in the years yet to be.

Editor's Note: Rev and Mrs. Colpitts left last evening for the Methodist General Conference at Kansas City.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

Today substantially the whole state of Connecticut is operating on daylight saving time. People get up by it, go to work by it, take their meals by it, fulfill their social engagements by it, go to bed by it.

The Connecticut Legislature in 1921 adopted this measure: "Section 6720 of the general statutes is amended to read as follows: The standard of time for the seventy-fifth meridian west of Greenwich shall be the standard time for this state, and no department of the state government and no municipality or subdivision of the state, shall employ any other time or adopt any ordinance, by-law or order providing for the use of any other than the standard of time."

No person, firm or corporation, organization or association, shall willfully display in or on any public building or on any street, avenue or public highway any time-measuring instrument or device, which is calculated or intended to furnish time to the general public, set or running so as to indicate intentionally, or indicating intentionally, any time other than the standard of time as indicated in the public acts of 1921.

The Connecticut Legislature's foolish and futile efforts to jam down the throats of the people of this state a schedule of waking and sleeping, of working and leisure hours, of comings and goings, which did not suit the vast majority of those people, has resulted in two legislative enactments being received by the populace with jeers and laughter.

The Federal Trade Commission is interesting itself in the publicity operations of the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information. That's fair enough. It is the unquestionable right of the public service corporations of Connecticut to promote and make use of an organization for the dissemination of public service publicity.

A NEGLICTED SERVICE There is a service which could be performed by the federal aviation bureau, and apparently by nobody else, that would result in shedding some real light on a moot question—the relative danger of safety of travel by air as compared with other means of transportation.

his eyes on the deck. Otherwise he might feel that he was contributing to the delinquency of some player of less moral stamina than himself, who might be tempted to fill his four-flush with the obvious ten spot on the bottom of the pack.

Eternal vigilance, it has been said, is the price of liberty. Anyhow, it is the price of a fair game. So that the Connecticut Committee need not grow wrathful because the Federal Trade Commission is interesting itself in the methods where the virtues of public service corporations in this state and elsewhere are being extolled.

There is one thing that has been casually mentioned in this connection which it is to be hoped will be cleared up when Clarence G. Willard, secretary of the Connecticut Public Service Information Committee appears before the Trade Commission on Wednesday, and that is whether or not the information committee has been permitted to introduce its publicity material into the public schools of this state. It has been stated that such is the case. Manifestly this would be all wrong.

With all due respect to the well meaning of the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information, that body is not a fit one for the teaching of economics in the schools. It is, in its very nature, a special pleader, not a judicial propagandist, and like all propagandists, necessarily one-sided and argumentative, not comprehensive and determinative.

That there is much to be said by the public service corporation in reply to a great volume of criticism—often wholly uninformed—is beyond question. It is good enough business and ethical enough business for the corporations to formulate their own kind of publicity. It is the worst of errors for them to introduce that publicity into the public mind in disguise or under false pretense, for it only adds to the volume of suspicion in which such corporations are held by a great many people—sometimes very unjustly, sometimes not so unjustly.

It is to be hoped that it will transpire that the Connecticut corporation have not made this very bad blunder of "putting one over" on the school system.

SACCO-VANZETTI BOOK

An extraordinary book is about to be issued. It is to be a complete transcript of the court records in the Sacco-Vanzetti case and will be published in six volumes of a thousand pages each, appearing at the rate of a volume a month, beginning the middle of May.

The first volume will carry a prefatory note signed by Newton D. Baker, Emory F. Buckner, Charles C. Burlingham, John W. Davis, Bernard Flexner, Raymond B. Fosdick, Charles P. Howland, Victor Morawetz, Charles Nagel, Walter H. Pollak and Ellihu Root.

Very few people relatively, though perhaps a considerable number actually will take the trouble to closely study so vast a compilation as this, on this always distressing subject. But comparatively few as may be likely to endeavor to dig out the truth about Sacco and Vanzetti from six thousand pages of testimony and legal papers. It is still our guess that the publication will meet with protest and that its sponsors, outstanding Americans as they are, will be accused of redism by superpatriots who believe in suppression about all things in the world.

Here, for instance, is an opportunity for the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution to add some more names to their blacklist. "Revival of the Sacco-Vanzetti agitation" ought to be good enough grounds for turning thumbs down on Newton Baker and Ellihu Root.

These were held and the commission will soon certify new lists of eligibles. The only difference between the original examination and the re-examination, neither of which contained written tests, was that the second time the commission decided not to demand the four to six-year executive experience requirement originally announced.

Standing alone, that statement means absolutely nothing. There were, no doubt, several times eight persons killed by automobiles. Perhaps there were eight killed by horses. Perhaps more than eight by railroad trains.

But if we could be provided with an approximate idea of the number of persons flying, throughout the country, during the day on which these eight were killed, and especially if we could be given a rough estimate of the total number of miles traveled by planes yesterday, then we might be able to form some estimate of the degree of risk encountered by persons who take the air for their journeyings.

It is all right enough for enthusiasts to declare that air navigation is now "safe." What the public of this country would like is some statistic of authority, as to just how safe it is compared with other modes of travel.

Washington, April 30.—At least a third of the administrative executives in the prohibition enforcement system have been weeded out by civil service examinations.

By July, 50 or more of the 150 prohibition administrators, assistant administrators, deputy administrators and other high officers in the 25 prohibition enforcement districts will have been replaced by successful competitors for their jobs.

Nevertheless, the performance of the men who held these administrative posts by political appointment was far better, when faced with the necessity of proving their qualifications in competition on a merit basis, than that of the 2500 prohibition agents, investigators and inspectors.

Unless there be some unannounced instance where an administrator on the job was refused reappointment by the Prohibition Unit, after being certified by the Civil Service Commission, the civil service test appears to have been poison for administrators of those enforcement districts with headquarters in Boston, Savannah, Columbia, St. Louis, Fort Worth, Seattle, St. Paul, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Re-examination's not yet completed affect the administrator jobs in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Fort Worth, St. Louis, Columbia, Savannah, Alaska, California, Nevada and Arizona.

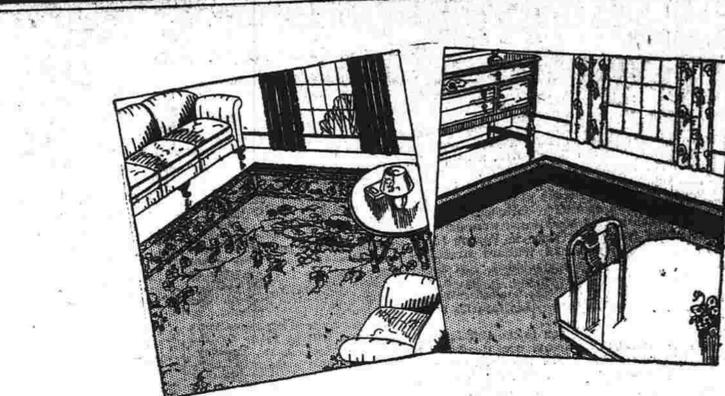

In addition to the nine administrators who were unable to win reappointment, victims of civil service tests include those who resigned prior to the examinations when they realized they couldn't fulfill the requirements.

The commission decided to complete examinations for the 150 administrative posts first of all. Several thousand applied for the high posts, which pay from $3,000 to $9,000 a year. All but about 5000 applications were promptly thrown out because most of the job hunters lacked the required experience.

These were held and the commission will soon certify new lists of eligibles. The only difference between the original examination and the re-examination, neither of which contained written tests, was that the second time the commission decided not to demand the four to six-year executive experience requirement originally announced.

New York, April 30.—New York's most delightful dwelling places are not discernible to the man on the street. To view them he must climb upon a high building and look down. For Manhattan's really charming homes are on the city's rooftops.

They tell me that houses will soon occupy every available space. Even big business blocks are beginning to acquire them. Their design is chiefly in the fact that they are above the dirt belt, dodge the city's noises and insure fresh air—and, of course, they are cottages, than which nothing is rarer.

One of the leading Fifth Avenue "smart shops" now advertises "dogs for dogs." For it seems that rilly pups of the Fifth Avenue and Park Avenue belts will hereafter be expected to be subject to changing styles, as surely as are their wealthy masters. Having a stylishly-dressed hound in seeming-gramed car or a liveried servant. The very French fashions in dog toys run into considerable money. And there are special styles for each sort of dog. Thus the well-dressed bull would not be caught dead in the outfit of a Pekinese, for instance.

The land-locked New Yorker invariably turns his footsteps toward the park lakes with the first breath of coming summer. The initial warm breeze invariably finds the park boat houses stormed by eager crowds, while canals are blocked with rowers.

Not the least fantastic sight to be seen in Gotham is a peacock preening its feathers in the heart of the ghetto. On any sunny day, the heart of Second Avenue, with its faint flavor of the European, is colored by the great fan-tail of this bird as it struts up and down in the lawn.

AMERICAN COUSINS ASK FITZMAURICE TO VISIT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo.—Major James Fitzmaurice, famous Irish flier, who with two German companions was first to accomplish the hitherto fatal westward crossing of the Atlantic Ocean by air, has been invited to visit Kansas City, where he would find an American family of first cousins, although he would be a complete stranger to them. The invitation has been extended all three of the famous ministers of the Irish Free State and of Germany, have been asked to assist.

Edmond Fitzmaurice, city passenger agent for the Kansas Southern Railroad, learned recently from a brother, that Major Fitzmaurice was their first cousin. Before receiving information from his brother, the railroad man believed the famous flier who successfully crossed the Atlantic to land on barren Greenly Island, to be another brother, of the same name. Major, who likewise received recognition as a flier during World War. Edmond Fitzmaurice spent boyhood days with the trans-Atlantic flier.

Campaign Portraits—Senator William E. Borah

BORAH, THE UNBOSSSED, STILL FAR FROM WHITE HOUSE

This, the 19th in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Herald and NEA Service by Robert Talley, tells the story of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho. Tomorrow article will be about Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

By ROBERT TALLEY Washington, April 30.—For the better part of 20 years they have been talking about William E. Borah, of Idaho, as a candidate for president. He is often called "the ablest man in the U. S. Senate," but he probably is no nearer the nomination today than he ever was or ever will be, although visions of the White House doubtless color his imagination.

Senator William E. Borah

For Senator Borah, technically a Republican, has the political misfortune of being too blamed independent to suit the tastes of the party leaders who stand behind the scenes at every national convention and pull the strings from which the nomination dangles.

Sometimes Borah marches with one crowd, sometimes he marches with the other and just as often he marches alone. But always he is set out for himself after deep study of the pending question, regardless of party tradition or political expediency.

Another objection raised against Borah is that he is "anti-everything," which is easily understood, as most of his great battles during his 29 years in the Senate have found him opposing measures rather than proposing them.

He was opposed to America's entry into the League of Nations, opposed to the child labor amendment, opposed to the soldier bonus, opposed to the Pacific pact, opposed to the World Court, opposed to the British debt funding arrangements and opposed on many other big issues. He was opposed to the 18th amendment and is now opposed to modification of the Volstead act; he was opposed to American intervention in Nicaragua, but more recently he has opposed that country.

Borah has initiated so much legislation and fought so much legislation that a psychologist might define him as having a negative complex. But others regard Borah as a deep student of constitutional government, as a sort of legislative safety valve and a bulwark against legislation that threatens conflict with constitutional principles.

His seeming inconsistencies can be explained. Originally opposed to the 18th amendment, on constitutional grounds, he now accepts it as the will of the people and opposes indirect attempts to destroy its effect by weakening the Volstead act. Originally opposed to Nicaraguan intervention, he has resigned retention of the marines there as necessary to carry out "the solemn obligations by which they were sent into that country."

The fact that Senator Borah represents one of the smallest states in the Union—there are fewer people in all Idaho than there are in a few city blocks in New York or Chicago—allows him a freedom of time for the study of national and international questions. Also, he is not faced with worries about political expedience, as Idaho accepted Borah as an institution in such a manner as would seem to guarantee his re-election perpetually.

This allowed him time, for example, to learn to read Spanish at 61 so he could better understand latin-American problems.

Like the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial, Senator Borah is one of the "show places" of Washington. In whispers, the capitol guides point him out to tourists from the Senate galleries. There he sits at his flat-topped desk on the Republican side of the center aisle, four rows back from the vice president's rostrum. His wealth of wavy, dark hair is parted in the middle; his broad face is creased with deep lines, bushy brows overhang a pair of keenly penetrating blue eyes. His habitually gloomy expression seldom changes. He is 63 years old, and looks every day of it.

When Borah, stocky of build and generous of frame, stands up to speak there is something about him that reminds one of a huge bear—it is an instantaneous impression that even the stranger cannot escape.

Borah, admittedly one of the Senate's greatest orators, is no flaming, fiery speaker. He does not shout, yell, bang the desk or make motions like a man going through his morning exercises. Emphasis is limited to an occasional shake of his bushy head or a slight pause—ever so delicate—just before a word that he wishes to stress.

A political recluse, Senator Borah is much the same socially. He accepts few of the invitations for dinner engagements and the like, with which every prominent man in Washington is showered by pitiful diplomats and aspiring hostesses. He maintains a home in neither Washington nor in Boise, Idaho, living in a small hotel apartment at each place. He does not drink or smoke, although he chews gum. Plain in actions as he is in looks, Borah rides to and from the capitol every day on the street cars, often lugging a heavy load of books under one arm. He does not own an automobile, so when the White House wants him for an important consultation on foreign affairs it has to send one of the president's limousines for him.

But Borah owns a horse—a fine animal named "Governor." He is a familiar, but solitary, figure along the bridle paths in Rock Creek Park.

explain why Borah comes from Idaho. He was born in Wayne County, Illinois, July 29, 1865, the son of a Presbyterian farmer of moderate means. His father's ancestry was German, his mother's Irish. At 17 he left the farm to enter Southern Illinois Academy at Effield, now defunct. While there his health began to fail. He had a married sister living in Lawrence, Kan., and he thought the climate there would be better for him.

At Lawrence, Kan., he attended the state university, teaching certain classes to supplement his income. Then he read law for two years in a brother-in-law's office at Lyons, Kan. In 1890—when 25—he was admitted to the bar and he started for Seattle to seek his fortune in the new country of the great northwest.

But Borah never got to Seattle. At Boise, Idaho, his money ran out, so he settled there. He made a success at the practice of law and by 1900 he was one of the biggest men in Boise.

Borah first came into national fame when he was employed as a special prosecutor to prosecute defendants in the labor war that raged in Idaho. For the dynamiting of the home of Governor Steunenberg, in which the governor was killed, he sent several men to the penitentiary.

But this did not weaken Borah in the eyes of the law-abiding labor element, as shown by the fact that when he first ran for the Senate in 1907 he showed great strength in labor counties. He entered the Senate Jan. 15, 1907, and has been there ever since. His present term will expire in 1931.

Although Senator Borah is chairman of the powerful Committee on Foreign Relations he has never been abroad for the simple reason that he has felt himself unable to afford it on his salary as a senator, which is about his only income.

Despite his record for liberalism, Borah stayed with Taft when Roosevelt booted the party in 1912. Yet, before and since that time he has often been one of his party's severest critics. Only recently, with his customary independence, he has embarrassed Republican leaders by asking for a private fund to repay Harry Sinclair's campaign contributions of 1920 and thus erase the stain.

LOCAL MEN UNHURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

"Lefty" St. John's Sport Model Buick Roadster Skids and Crashes Into Fence at Coventry.

Two well-known Manchester young men escaped injury Saturday afternoon when an automobile in which they were riding, skidded and crashed into a fence on the state road near Coventry Lake. Damage to the extent of nearly $100 was done to the machine. The automobile, a Buick sport model roadster, is owned by Arthur E. St. John of 124 East Center street, general manager of the Oakland Nurseries, connected with C. R. Rurr & Company at the north end. St. John was not driving at the time of the accident. Donald S. McPherson of 181 Center street, who works for St. John, was "at the wheel."

The men were returning from delivering some nursery stock and had just reached the foot of the steep grade near Clarke's when the car skidded as McPherson was driving. The car skidded on the four wheel brakes. This caused him to lose control of the car and it turned around and crashed into the wooden fence along the state highway. The windshield and headlights were broken and fender bent badly. John said he expected to have it out in about a week.

EXPECT A DECISION ON RAILROAD MERGER

Washington, April 30.—Favorable decision on the billion dollar Van Sweringen railroad unification plan, under which the Chesapeake & Ohio, Van Sweringen controlled, will acquire stock control of the Erie and Peru Marquette, is expected to be handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission within a few days.

Convinced that Congress will not pass the Parker railroad consolidation bill at this session, a majority of the commission is said to have decided that further delay in reaching a conclusion of several merger proposals would be harmful to the railroad interests of the country, and that constructive action should be taken at once.

The Van Sweringen plan has been before the commission for many months, and once met with defeat when it was proposed to make the Nickel Plate the nucleus of the proposed system. The plan omits the Nickel Plate and substitutes the Chesapeake & Ohio as the main stem in the system.

Minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio, who are fighting the unification plan, have made much of the omission of the Nickel Plate from the present plan, claiming that a serious situation was presented because O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, through stock control of the Nickel Plate and of the proposed system, would be in a position to divert business from the Erie to the Nickel Plate "to the detriment of the proposed new system and in such manner as to profit the Nickel Plate."

Blankets, Draperies, Curtains are Easily Washed in the NEW MAYTAG

A big help at Housecleaning Time. THE roomy, machinery-free, cast-aluminum tub of the Maytag is a special convenience when these hard-to-wash things need attention. Even rag rugs may be washed in the Maytag, and it is hand-careful with fine draperies and curtains.

Let the Maytag help you with housecleaning. See how quickly it washes—a big tubful in 2 to 7 minutes, an average washing in an hour, and it washes so thoroughly that no hand-rubbing is necessary, even on collars, cuffs, wristbands or grimy overalls.

The New Roller-Water Remover, with balloon-type rolls, removes both soap and water evenly from all parts of the garments, automatically adjusts the tension and reverses the drainboard.

The many distinctive features of the Maytag have won for it first place among the women of America—World Leadership.

RICHARD DIX PLAYS AT STATE TOMORROW

Is Starred in One of Two Features—Clara Bow Again Tonight.

Again Richard Dix, whose recent farce comedies have struck a new, high note in motion pictures, sallies forth in another new Paramount starring vehicle, "Easy Come, Easy Go." This picture is one of the splendid attractions scheduled for the State theater tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dix is seen in the role of an American youth, honest and industrious, but temporarily downcast in need of a job. At this crisis in his life, he meets a girl and, unwittingly induced, he decided to aid a clever crook in a bank robbery. It is here that the action and thrilling situations of the story really begin.

The second film feature for tomorrow and Wednesday is "Women's Wars," an intriguing and interesting comedy-drama of Broadway night life. Bert Lytell and Evelyn Brent are starred. Clara Bow in "Red Hair," will have its concluding performance at the State tonight. Judging from the crowds at the theater last evening, "Red Hair," is one of the best bets that has reached Manchester yet. There are no doubts as to its being Clara Bow's greatest achievement since her famous characterization in "It."

There are two complete shows at the State every evening at 6:45 and 8:45. The theater is now being operated on Daylight Saving Time.

Enid Barr looked wonderingly at Sally. "You're not old enough. I'm sixteen."

"I'm thirty-three," Enid Barr said gently. "There's no mistake, Sally, my darling..."

"I was just your age, Sally," Enid began quietly. "Just sixteen, when I met the man who became your father..."

At the sudden realization of what this story meant to herself and to David, Sally withdrew her arm...

The WOMAN'S DAY BY ALLENE SUMNER

Our neighbors put on a little skit the other day that illustrated perfectly the contrasting viewpoints of the older and younger generation on the subject of neighborliness.

"SUCH NERVE!" The family next door consists of an older woman and her married daughter. The daughter was horrified at what she termed "the nerve" of the sick woman's request.

Picks Sharkey To Win By Knockout Tonight

Walsh Says If He Does, the Heeneey-Tunney Fight Will Not Look So Good to the Fans.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, April 30.—Jack Sharkey, the ex-inquist of Boston, and Jack Delaney, once termed the raper of the north in a moment of great levity, will meet in another of those high-toned heavy-weight fights at the Garden tonight and the chances seem good that Tex Rickard will sit tense and preoccupied throughout, with at least two fingers crossed on the hand that writes the checks. For the occasion, sponsored in all innocence last month, suddenly has developed possibilities that are worthy of being viewed with vague but depressing alarm.

The betting odds say Sharkey should win decisively and not a few of the sharpshooters are picking him to win by a knockout. If he does, the build-up for the Tunney-Heeneey heavyweight championship fight in July will need the architect who designed the Woolworth tower. This anti-climax of the elimination tournament may produce a better attraction than the man who already has been signed and sealed for July delivery.

No Kayo Record

The fact of the matter is that Heeneey has been named as the challenger without so much as scoring a knockdown against Sharkey. Johnny Risko or Delaney, a knockout for Sharkey tonight, therefore, will look very good by comparison, particularly since many are convinced that he failed to get all of his change when they called the Sharkey-Heeneey fight a draw. Even at face value, this decision made Sharkey no worse than Heeneey, so that a knockout over the man whom Heeneey knocked out at all surely would start a few tongues to chattering. Off hand, it might appear that Rickard, in lining up this seemingly innocuous attraction, stepped into a fast one when he was all set for a curve.

Risko's Chances

In Risko he already has one more challenger than he can conveniently use, unless he decides to take the July fight out of the handicap class by sending two fighters in with Tunney at one and the same time. Sharkey will make the third who ought to be in there, provided he can clip Delaney on the buzzer. In fact, quite a number remain unconvinced of the fact that he doesn't belong right now.

At that, it is understood that Sharkey has been promised a match with George Godfrey. If he wins, and the fight is a Delaney victory, victory is another shot at Risko. To a man on a limb, these plans look like a requisition for dynamite, with the official challenger getting no chance at the head lines, meantime.

Speaking of head lines, meantime, the possibility is not being taken very seriously. The alleged raper never has beaten even an ordinary heavyweight and his performances against Paulino and Heeneey rather clearly indicated that he fears the worst when he goes in there. Delaney is a master of all holds, including the stoke, and if Sharkey doesn't discontinue him in the allotted 45 minutes of play, it either will mean that he has gone back beyond the last time out.

THREE LOCAL PLAYERS LEAD ECONOMY STORES TO VICTORY

Farr, Hunt and Coffeld Hit Hard as Heights Lose; Lovett and Stevenson Best For Losers.

The Heights opened their 1923 baseball campaign in an inauspicious manner yesterday afternoon on their own field, the Economy Store, a team composed of players from Manchester, East Hartford and Rockville, whitewashed them 8 to 0.

It being the first game, the Heights do not take the defeat as a sign of a poor season. By far, they regard it just the opposite for few practice sessions have been held and this proved a handicap. The weather, too, was poor for baseball, especially for a team which hadn't been handling a ball quite a bit.

The best individual work of the game was contributed by "Dubbie" Stevenson when he took three successive hard drives to center field to retire the side after the bases had been filled.

Captain Lovett led the batters with two safe clouts. Ding Farr and Jack Hunt, two local boys, made two hits for the winners and Jack Coffeld, another Manchester man, hit safely three times.

"Dutch" Senkbell pitched innings and allowed five hits. Eddie Gleason worked five and was touched up for seven.

ROBINS, SURPRISE TO BASEBALL FANS

Beat Phillies Twice in Double Header—Ruth Gets His Fourth Homer.

By LES CONKLIN.
New York, April 30.—With big league baseball's two ring circus ending its first month's run today, Brooklyn, Cleveland and the St. Louis Browns are occupying ringside seats not assigned to them by experts.

Brooklyn's stock jumped above par today as a result of the brilliant exhibitions flashed yesterday by Buzz McWeeny and Willie Clark, second stringers. McWeeny yielded only three hits in beating the Phillies 3 to 1. Clark allowed but five scattered singles in the second game, blanking the Quakers 3 to 0.

The St. Louis Cardinals faltered, dropping a 6 to 5 verdict to Chicago when Mique Gonzales singled in the twelfth.

Pittsburg got good pitching from Ray Kremer, but suffered a 3 to 2 beating at the hands of Eppa Jessa Alpha Zetta Rixey of the Reds.

Tommy Sipples' Outfit Scores 7 Runs in 5th to Win 9-3 Game; Pelton, Linnell Hit Triples; Many Players Used.

One had in mind proved the downfall of the Community Club in its opening game of the 1923 baseball season played yesterday afternoon before a small crowd at Hickey's Grove. The Elmwood New Departures team was the winner and the score was 9 to 3.

Although it counts as a defeat in the season record of the Community Club, the game was more of a practice game than anything else. Coach Jerry Fay used three pitchers and made three other changes in his lineup to give everybody a chance to show his ability.

The weather was too cold for baseball and kept the attendance down. Ray Fisher who pitched most of the game for Elmwood wore a sweater and so did Pettibone who succeeded him in the seventh.

The prospects that the Community will have a successful baseball outfit this season looks bright. In addition to such star performers as Jack Linnell, Jack Stratton, Lefty St. John, Charlie Pelton and "Woody" Walllet, the Community expects to use Brock Wilson, Tommy Sipples, Samy Kotelski and Ray Fisher with possibly other additions. With a team like this, north end fans believe, they can compete with the best in the state.

It is possible that the Community Club may enter the proposed state league.

Sipples is captain of the Elmwood team. It was his slashing single into right field with the bases loaded that gave the New Departures what proved to be the winning margin in that hectic fifth inning. Bill McLaughlin was pitching sixth and he has been relieving Webber, Rockville moundsman, the inning previous and had retired the side in one-two-three order. Incidentally, Webber looked good during the three innings he pitched.

Fisher's opening single with a single to right and LeBell followed with a Texas leaguer to center. Barton walked filling the bases and then Sipples, the best baseball product Manchester has turned out in the last ten or fifteen years, cracked a timely single to center.

Mary Browne Says Champ Will Lose Out This Season

By MARY K. BROWNE
Women's golf season of 1923 promises to bring out some spirited competition among our younger players. They have caught up to the top fighters with amazing speed, characteristic of the times, and are vying with each other for the leading role.

One class Glenna Collett among the veteran golfers. She is not old in the sense of actual years, but old in golf experience. She has reached the national golf team and will doubtless hold the title longer before she is through, but each year finds the going harder.

Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn of Kansas City, the present titleholder, has only an outside chance to defend which is an essential thing in 1923. She won her title as the result of a brilliant short game, though by observers to be more of a flash than a permanent asset. She is a great fighter but not a particularly great golfer.

Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, who has just defeated Glenna Collett in Pinehurst, is in my opinion America's most promising young golfer. I have done so since she was a child, and she has made splendid progress. She is a stylist and will prove, I believe, to be the "Bobby Jones" of women's golf.

Her greatest handicap has been her easy going and indifferent attitude toward winning. She is much like Glenna; both lack that acute concentration and will-to-win spirit which is so essential in this age of keen competition. Bobby Jones' greatest battle was with himself, so it is with Virginia Van Wie. They both have a naturally beautiful form.

Both consider Maureen Orcutt the next best possibility among the younger golfers, even though she has been twice defeated by Helen Payson, holder of the Canadian title. Maureen is younger and more versatile than Helen Payson, though Helen is at present a far more dependable golfer.

Maureen reminds me of "Wild" Bill Helms, the greatest woman golfer of the world. Maureen is younger and more versatile than Helen Payson, though Helen is at present a far more dependable golfer.

Babe Ruth's fourth home run of the season enabled the Yankees to hand the Washington Senators their fifth straight defeat, 7 to 5, and regain first place in the American League.

Detroit nosed out Cleveland in the tenth, 7 to 6, and pushed the Indians back into second place.

The slugging St. Louis Browns trounced the White Sox by a five to two score.

The Red Sox and the Athletics were not scheduled.

DARWIN WAS RIGHT
PARIS.—The last word in female attire, an exhibition here, is a broadcloth coat trimmed with silver fox. It has a fur tail attached to the hem at the middle of the back. The price is $2000.

BLANKETS SAVE BABY
Salina, Kan.—Blankets probably saved the life of the infant son of Mrs. Godfrey Nelson in an auto crash here. In the collision, the Nelson infant was hurled through two windshields but remained unscathed, due to the heavy covers which were wrapped around him.

LETTER GOLF

AN ILLUMINATING PUZZLE

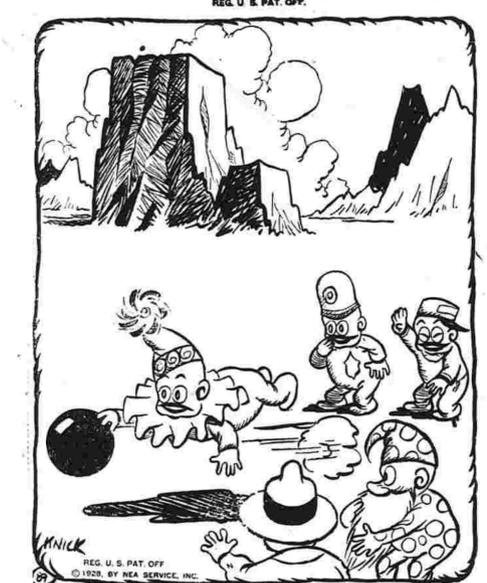

A LAMP is a handy thing to have around the DESK—especially if you're working today's letter golf puzzle—it helps to throw light on the subject.

Word puzzle grid with the words LAMP and DESK placed in it.

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

THE TINYMITES

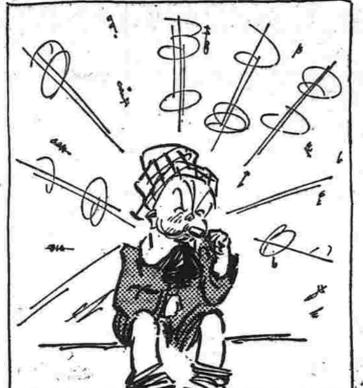

The Tynmites watched the two dwarfs bowl. Then Cobby said, "Well, bless my soul. That's really very simple, and to show you I have pluck, just let me take a ball in hand. I'll throw it right from where I stand."

SURVEY STARTED
ON E. CENTER ST.
Preparing Profiles — May Start Improvement of Road This Year.

A representative of the highway department of the state was in Manchester Saturday retracing the map of East Center street, starting at the Center and following through to the Bolton town line. In the meantime surveyors are at work on East Center street getting profiles. All this is being done in preparation for a general plan to improve East Center street.

Within a short time it is said Connecticut Company will petition to be relieved of running cars on the Manchester Green line and will offer the substitution of a bus line to transfer passengers.

The engineer is also following the relocation of lost boundary lines as laid down by the town a couple of years ago. This will mean a cut in several places on the south side of the street. A large cut will be made at the point near where the Manchester Green line ends. This has been provided for by the purchase of the land that will be required at that particular point.

The survey which is now being made and which is to be considered by the state highway department is to take over the whole width of the street and carry the road to the Bolton line with a cut-off at the sharp curve east of the home of Ransom McKee, which will make necessary the taking of other property in order to make it a straight road. This work is among the projects that are considered in the state highway department for this year. It is rather expected that it will be started within a short time and completed well before fall.

McKINNEY-HALL
 White carnations and palm decorations with white satin ribbon comprised the setting of the marriage, Saturday evening of Miss Emily Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hall, to Wilfred G. McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McKinney of this town at the Elmwood Presbyterian Church of East Orange, New Jersey.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock with Rev. Adrien J. Myskine, pastor of that church as officiating clergyman. The bride's father gave her in marriage. Miss Mildred Hall, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Everett McKinney, the bridegroom's brother, served as best man. William Genne of East Orange, and Frank Little of New York, Mr. McKinney's cousins, were ushers.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white tulle made in semi-bodice style with a flare on each side of the skirt which was cut longer in the back than in front. The dress had long sleeves, and the veil, which was of tulle was worn cap shape effect and trimmed with an insert of lace and sprays of orange blossoms.

The bridal bouquet consisted of white sweet peas and lilies-of-the-valley, showered. A platinum bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom, was the bride's only jewelry.

For travel the bride wore a sport dress of black and white novelty silk, a black Kasha cloth coat and black hat with a pointed fox fur. Taffeta in a delicate shade of green with a full tulle skirt was worn by the maid of honor, who carried a bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses.

Mrs. Hall was gowned in black lace and wore a corsage of pink sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. McKinney, wore a gown of black lace and a corsage of orchid sweet peas.

A reception for the immediate families followed at the Hall residence which was decorated for the occasion with yellow roses and ferns.

Mr. McKinney and his bride left after the reception on a two weeks' motor trip. When they return they will make their home at 36 North Arlington avenue, East Orange, N. J.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT" TEMPERAMENTAL WEED.

The potato, the common white potato which is almost as much a part of existence as the air we breathe, is a bit of a mystery. Of course we all know that it is a tuber; that the part we eat is a root, and that it's more starch than anything else except water, with a little sugar and a wee bit of potash and other salts and a still wee bit of fat. But what we don't generally know is what makes the root swell up and become a different sort of thing from the ordinary root of other plants of the same family, of which there are hundreds, only a very few of which develop these bunches. Even the scientists are not absolutely sure why a potato is a potato instead of just a weed. But the best guess, so the books say, is that the swelling of the root till it becomes a tuber is due to the presence of a fungus, which, growing in the underground shoots, irritates them and causes them to puff up—not so unlike to a good many irritated human beings.

So the potato can safely enough be called a weed that has lost its temper and shows it.

Just the same it's a blessing to the human race that it did lose its temper and become what it is, for it's the world's best bet in the way of a single vegetable.

What, after all, is better than a potato—a fair, smooth, delightfully flavored new potato? And by the way, they are here at Pinehurst. You never in your life saw better ones.
