HOOVER'S FOES TO AGAIN CALL HIM TO STAND

Try to Heckle Leading G. O. P. Candidate at Senate Probe—Talk of "Stalking Horses."

Washington, May 10.—Herbert Hoover appeared today to be in for some more uncomfortable heckling on the part of "the Allies" who are seeking to prevent his nomination by the Kansas City convention.

Hoover spent an hour on the witness stand before the Senate campaign fund committee yesterday, answering questions concerning his organization, and not infrequently clashing with its members. Today it developed that the cabinet candidate is to be summoned again for specific questioning as to the circumstances which prompted his decision to enter the West Virginia primary against Senator Guy D. Coff.

"The Allies" believe they have found a way to turn the tables on the leading candidate.

"Stalking Horses" The Hoover managers, they point out, have designated as "stalking horses" all those favorite sons who have arisen to challenge the progress of the Hoover candidacy in their respective states.

Today the charge of "stalking horse" was thrown back at Hoover by Senator Goff, and the Senate committee is so interested in it that it was decided that another examination of Hoover is necessary.

Hoover testified on the stand that "a certain Senator telephoned him that Goff declined to permit the West Virginia delegates to announce second choices in the primary. He declined to give the committee the name of the Senator, saying he did not want to involve anyone else in the matter, but the committee is curious and it was planned today to go after all the details.

Goff's Statement "A Senator did call me and say that Hoover would not enter West Virginia if I would agree to throw the delegation to him," said Goff.

"I told him he should tell the secretary that I was not 'stalking horse' candidate, and that if he wanted to ride a hobby horse he would have to get somebody else to be the horse. That's why Hoover

RUMANIA PEACEFUL; INCIDENT IS CLOSED

Bucharest, May 10.—Premier Bratianu, in a statement to International News Service today, declared that Rumania is peaceful and that there is no likelihood of former Crown Prince Carol's return.

"If Carol persists in continuing his propaganda in Behan of his return he will only ruin himself," said the premier. "The Carolist movement is a closed incident. It is over and not worth discussing.

"The country is calm and tranquil. The meeting of the peasants at Alba Julia was only a small political incident. Opposition of the peasants to my government will never influence its policy. My government will never influence its policy. My government is firmly founded upon a majority in Parliament. The minority cannot rule."

PRINCE TO LEAVE London, May 10.—Prince Carol has no alternative today but to make final preparations for leaving England.

POOR FAMILY GETS FORTUNE

Mother-in-Law Dies Leaving $125,000 to Husband Declared Dead.

Boston, May 10.—There's a silver lining, "through the dark cloud shining." The words of the famous song "Keep the Home Fires Burning" was hummed today by Mrs. Anna Griffiths, a brave mother, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., who was happy in the knowledge that she had won a fortune of $125,000 for her children, Virginia, 10, and Georgianna, 8.

As soon as school closes she plans to take them on a vacation, their first in seven years to her old home in Summer-side, P. E. I.

Mrs. Griffiths' husband vanished in Rochester, N. Y., seven years ago. Mrs. Griffiths went to work to keep her little family together. She had a hard struggle.

This year she learned that her husband's mother was dead in Hamilton, Ont., leaving a small fortune. Mrs. Griffiths went to Ontario and claimed the money for her children. She succeeded in having her husband declared legally dead.

A monthly income was set aside for the two children until they reach the age of 21, the mother acting as guardian and administratrix. When the children are 21 the principle will be equally divided between Virginia and Georgianna.

If her husband is found alive, Mrs. Griffiths said, complications will arise but she believes that has passed away.

DEMOCRATS BEATEN ON TAX REDUCTION

Insurgents and Administration's Forces Unite to Pass the Bill.

Washington, May 10.—The Insurgent Block of the Senate has entered a "gentleman's agreement" to support every provision of the administration's $203,000,000 tax reduction bill, in return for a pledge that the federal estate tax bill will be retained, International News Service learned today.

The agreement will enable the administration to secure Senate approval of its bill, without defeating the Democratic substitute plan for a $336,000,000 slash in taxes.

SMITH KNOWS LITTLE ABOUT HIS CAMPAIGN

Al Smokes Cigar as He Answers Questions of Senate Probers—His Friends Working For Him.

New York, May 10.—Governor Alfred E. Smith testified before the Senate committee investigating campaign funds expenditures today that he had authorized no one to act as chairman or treasurer of any national campaign fund in his behalf. He said he understood that some of his friends in New York City had started a Smith presidential boom but he personally had "done nothing about it."

The governor said that any money spent in his behalf in New York City could be explained by George R. Van Namee. Personally, the governor had taken no active interest in the finances of friends who had interested themselves in his behalf.

Smokes Cigar The governor smoked a cigar as he testified. He sauntered the array of newspapermen and photographers as he came into the hearing room in the Commodore hotel. He sat calmly smoking while innumerable flashlights boomed.

Stelwer, Republican of Oregon, the chairman of the committee, then questioned the governor. First he read a telegram to the committee from Gov. Smith dated May 3 in which Smith said he had authorized no one to act as a national chairman or treasurer of a Smith organization.

"I can only say what I said in the telegram," said Smith in his deep voice. "I know of no activities in any state beyond New York. In New York a committee of friends have interested themselves in my behalf. Mr. Van Namee can explain what expenditures they have incurred. I personally do not know."

In Other States "Have you done anything about your candidacy in other states?" Stelwer asked.

"I have not done a thing—even in New York City," the governor replied.

Gov. Smith told Senator Stelwer he had made no effort toward securing the Democratic presidential nomination and was unaware of organizations in various states in his behalf.

SEE NEW MEANING IN STEWART LETTER

Financiers Think Rockefeller's Want to Regain Control of Oil Companies.

New York, May 10.—The demand of John D. Rockefeller Jr., that Col. R. W. Stewart resign from his post as chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was viewed by financial leaders in Wall street today as the first move by the Rockefellers in a campaign to regain the position of leadership in companies formerly dominated by them. Furthermore, doubts were expressed that Rockefeller would be able to oust Stewart, because the latter has a strong following in the street.

Asks Resignation In a statement issued here, Rockefeller requested Col. Stewart's resignation because of his recent testimony before the Senate public lands committee in the Teapot Dome inquiry. "The oil magnate declared he 'had lost confidence in Col. Stewart's leadership.' The request for the resignation was based on Stewart's admission to the Teapot Dome committee that he had shared in the Continental Trading Company's fund to the extent of $750,000."

MERCHANT SUES WIFE FOR WHOM HE PAID $5,000

Trumansburg Man, 42, Tries to Enjoin Bride, 20, From Negotiating Nuptial Notes.

New York, May 10.—Charles Steenberg, forty-two years old and a cripple, who is a prosperous feed and coal merchant at Trumansburg, N. Y., read in a Syracuse newspaper that Miss Helena Schroeder, of 803 East Ninety-first street, twenty years old, would accept a proposal of marriage from the man who, as a consideration for her hand, would settle her father's debts.

Mr. Steenberg wanted a young wife to brighten his life and home, so he corresponded with Miss Schroeder, whose picture he had seen in the newspaper account of the offer by the dutiful daughter of Charles Schroeder, described as a former bodyguard of the German Emperor, and then ill and in debt.

Mr. Steenberg was encouraged in his courting by mail and came to New York to meet Miss Schroeder, who consented to marry him. On April 10 last, the day before they were to be married, Miss Schroeder merchant gave his bride one note for $3,000 and four notes for $500 each, the first due on May 1 and the others to be paid one at a time on the first of each of the four following months. The marriage took place on April 11 at the Schroeder home.

Yesterday in the Supreme Court came the denouement of the romance. Through counsel, Mr. Steenberg asked Justice Crain for an injunction enjoining his wife and her father from negotiating the notes. Refused to Live With Him.

Mr. Steenberg complained that after he had given the notes and Miss Schroeder had become his wife, she refused to live with him. He asked his young bride to return the notes until such time as she decided to grace his Trumansburg home, but she refused, he alleged.

Counsel for Mrs. Steenberg argued that an injunction would not be effective so far as the $3,000 note was concerned, because it had been transferred to a third party. Justice Crain reserved decision.

FURTHER FIGHTING REPORTED BETWEEN CHINESE AND JAPS

Rival Armies Plan to Unite to Repulse Common Foe; Foreigners Prepared to Battle If Chinese Declare War on Them—Situation Is Still Critical.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 10.—Mrs. Marie Billings, 36, is in a serious condition at a hospital today after having been beaten and buried alive in a semi-conscious condition, according to her story to the sheriff's office.

She said a man came to her home and tried to sell her some real estate. "I remember struggling," Mrs. Billings said. "He struck me again and again. I was almost completely unconscious."

Strangles Her. "He tried to choke me to death then. He wrapped one of my silk stockings around my throat and twisted it until I became senseless."

Sheriff's office investigators said it appeared that the woman's assailant had taken her in an automobile into the Fuentis Hills, laid her in a shallow grave and covered her with loose dirt, in the belief that she was dead.

Mrs. Billings hands and feet had been bound. She said she was semi-conscious when placed in the grave, but could not make an outcry.

Later she freed herself and struggled out of her makeshift grave. A taxi driver found her on a road east of Whittier seeking aid. She still wore the blanket which had been wrapped around her by her assailant.

Mrs. Billings is the wife of Howard B. Billings, head of the Billings Manufacturing Company.

Job Has Not Been Done Since Previous Revision in 1909.

In order to have all of the by-laws of the Town of Manchester properly collected and bound Town Clerk Samuel Turkington is at work and has been giving three evenings a week of his time in recopying typewriter, all of the town bylaws that have been put in force since the adoption of new by-laws in the town in 1909.

AMERICANS UNDER FIRE

London, May 10.—United States Vice Consul Ernest B. Price and other Americans were under fire at Tsinan during the battle between Japanese and Chinese troops, but all escaped without injury, according to advice received today from Tsingtao. In order to reach the railway station to flee the city upon a train provided by the Japanese the Americans had to pass through a zone over which high artillery shells and machine gun bullets were flying.

500 Killed The Chinese Nationalists claim that more than 500 Chinese were killed in the Japanese bombardment that followed the refusal of the Chinese to accept the Japanese ultimatum at Tsinan.

It is reported that desultory firing is still in progress although the main force of Chinese soldiers has moved northward from Tsinan. There is considerable curiosity in official circles to ascertain the reception the Nationalists give to Marshal Chang Tso Lin's statement that the North has ceased warfare against South China.

JAPS IN CONTROL

London, May 10.—Five hundred Chinese were slain in the bombardment which followed the Japanese ultimatum ordering all Nationalists from the Tsinan area, a Central News dispatch from Pientsin stated today.

This estimate emanated from Chinese sources, the dispatch said. The situation in Tsinan now appears to have lost its tenseness with the Japanese in full control. All foreigners in the city are believed to have reached safe havens.

Anti-Japanese feeling is still at fever pitch throughout South China. Wholesale evacuation of ports on the lower Yangtze by Japanese continues, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hong Kong.

Although there have been no reports of attacks upon Japanese in these places, the threatening attitude of the Chinese populace has made it extremely uncomfortable for Japanese residents. All who can are joining the exodus.

There are reports that the Nationalist army is now marching up on Peking despite the appeal for truce made by Chang Tso Lin, the Northern Chinese war lord.

CALLED "SUPER-TRUST"

Hartford, Conn., May 10.—The Connecticut Bankers Association charges that the Bankers Securities Company of Bridgeport, chartered by the 1927 General Assembly, is a "super-trust foisted unwittingly on the state." The charge is made in a statement signed by John C. Loomis, of New Britain, chairman of a special committee of the association raised to investigate the trust situation in Connecticut.

The committee finds the charter of the company gives it the right to establish branch trust banks in every city in the state.

NO CORONER'S FINDING YET IN BECCIO CASE

Hears Evidence in Auto Fatality But Doesn't Know When He Will Report.

Gilbert J. Calhoun, Hartford County coroner, said this morning following completion of an inquest into the death of Frank Beccio of Norman street, who was killed when a dumpcart he was riding was struck by an automobile, operated by Deputy Sheriff Gerald G. Riskey of this town, that he had not yet arrived at any decision and couldn't tell when he would.

NO CORONER'S FINDING YET IN BECCIO CASE

Hears Evidence in Auto Fatality But Doesn't Know When He Will Report.

Gilbert J. Calhoun, Hartford County coroner, said this morning following completion of an inquest into the death of Frank Beccio of Norman street, who was killed when a dumpcart he was riding was struck by an automobile, operated by Deputy Sheriff Gerald G. Riskey of this town, that he had not yet arrived at any decision and couldn't tell when he would.

Asked whether or not Medical Examiner Dr. William R. Tinker of this town had made any recommendation to him as result of his own investigation of the accident, Dr. Calhoun said he "couldn't tell."

Among those who were called to testify was Police Lieutenant William Barron, who had taken the measurements and drawn a map of the vicinity of the accident.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Middletown, Conn., May 10.—William Grasuolo, 25, of Boston Post Road, North Haven, was arrested in that town this afternoon on a warrant sworn out by John E. Tobin, local city prosecutor, charging him with a statutory offense against a factory girl living here. Grasuolo was held without bail for a City Court hearing tomorrow. He denies the charge.

ABOUT 1,000 PRESENT AT BLACKLIST DINNER

D. A. R. is Given Six Months to Return to Original Principles.

New York, May 10.—The D. A. R. today was "on probation" as a result of the much heralded "Blacklist Dinner" which was held here, under the auspices of the Nation last night.

Approximately 1,000 persons, many of whom have been blacklisted as speakers by the D. A. R. because of "radicalism" attended, and a mock trial for the organization was staged with Dr. Norman Thomas presiding as judge.

At the conclusion of Judge Thom's ultimatum was promised today at his office in Chicago. Although the colonel assured Rockefeller several weeks ago that he would resign if the latter should so request, it is believed in Wall street that Stewart may decide to let the stockholders in the Indiana company decide the matter. The Rockefeller control only 25 per cent of the stock of the Indiana company.

GERMAN WORKER ASKS PATENT ON ROTOR AIRPLANE

Driven by a "rotor airplane" operated on the principle of Flettner's "rotor ship" is one of the latest of the 250 applications for patents which are filed every day in the German patent office.

The "rotor motor" is a symbol of the German inventive brain which is working now at a speed never before attained.

Of the 250 applications which pour daily into the patent office, but one out of three is granted.

In the field of airplane invention the most interesting patent is that on the apparatus for applying Flettner's rotor principle to an airplane motor, built into a machine of the helicopter type.

SMALL TRADERS GET FINANCIAL HELP FROM U. S.

Washington, Opening up a correspondence school for the "little fellows" of the retail business, the Commerce Department has launched a movement to help the small merchant make profits and to steer him clear of the reefs of bankruptcy.

A special section of the Domestic Commerce division was established for the purpose of cooperating with "merchants in helping them to help themselves," according to an announcement by Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director.

The "little fellow" is the vulnerable spot in America's business picture—true in the cases of trading establishments, manufacturing, and banking.

Business failures for 1927 reported by the Federal Reserve Board showed that 16,882 trading concerns "went to the wall," with average liabilities of $14,262.

January failures numbered 2,643 of all classes, an increase of nearly 200 over the same month last year.

Information collected by the Commerce Department showed that 79 per cent of all retailers operating in United States may be termed "small business establishments."

Second Congregational church school members above the primary department will enjoy a social at the church tomorrow evening at 7:30.

A general good time is promised, with committees in charge of games and refreshments.

There were only six members of the Manchester Rod and Game club at their traps in Bolton last night.

Edward C. Elliott, Jr., was high, knocking over 24 of the twenty-five birds shot from the trap.

Charles Holton, Jr., a sophomore at the High school, is ill with pneumonia at his home on Cambridge street.

The Lakeview Parent Teacher association will hold its postponed annual meeting at the schoolhouse on South Main street Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

A short program will be given, including piano solos by Mrs. C. Ely Rogers, assisted by Frank Hicking and other numbers.

Mrs. Anna Fulton, an elderly woman who lives alone at 81 Chestnut street, suffered a fracture of her right shoulder at nine o'clock last night when she fell from the veranda at her home. She was removed to the Memorial hospital here today.

The branch office of the Cass Washing Machine Company in the Farr building near the Center, has been closed since Monday on a writ served by Deputy Sheriff Harry Barnard of Hartford. There is nothing in the form of a writ of replevin to tell why the business was closed. It has been learned that all of the stores in Connecticut owned by the concern were closed as a result of a law suit.

CLEVELAND MAN CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF PROCESS TO TELEGRAPH PICTURES

Cleveland.—Herbert R. Palmer, electrical inventor and engineer of Cleveland claims he discovered the process of sending pictures over the wire more than 20 years ago, and which only a few years ago was hailed as a marvelous invention when put into practical use.

Palmer reluctantly exhibited time worn clippings, where back in the days of the Spanish American war the newspapers "hanged" on the first page "the most wonderful invention of the age."

Palmer called his invention the "electrograph." The Cleveland inventor first sent wire pictures in 1901. Later he exhibited the instrument at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo. A company was organized known as the Electrograph Company of America and $1,000,000 worth of stock at $10 a share was offered. The public was not interested, Palmer said.

PARIS RAISES RENT ON GROUND AT EIFFEL TOWER FIRST TIME SINCE BUILT

Paris.—Things are always going up at Eiffel Tower but the rent there has begun to rise for the first time since 1889, the year it was constructed.

The four bases of the tower enclose 600 square yards for which the Eiffel Tower Company pays $200 a year. This amount is about the annual rental of a maid's bedroom in the adjoining apartment houses. City fathers have just discovered the assessment for Eiffel Tower has never been raised.

For three years the surface of Eiffel Tower has been used for an electric automobile advertisement so the revised assessment may set a new world record.

Lansing, Mich.—The Pugs, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel, had a slight quarrel here the other day. Neighbors called police, who found Mr. Pug sally bent from the effects of a milk bottle coming into sudden contact with his head. He convinced the officers that his wife is well able to keep alive the traditions of the family name.

SUICIDE CRIME FOR ALL RACES AND RELIGIONS

Chicago.—Tracing the origin of suicide back as far as 3,000 B. C. from the present day, Dr. Ruth Shonle Cavan of the University of Chicago has presented the question in all its forms in a book recently issued here.

Throughout all the years and religions and races the scholar has found suicide to be a sin, regarded lightly in some parts of the world, but the gravest of social crimes in other countries.

Mainly, she said, suicide comes from an inability of an individual to make an adjustment to a social environment causing disorganization of the mind from which relief is seen only in self-destruction.

Always A Crime At first, according to the author, suicide was approved in some cases by the great and the good, and most powerful religions of today. Of this she says "at first the church approved of certain forms of suicide—to procure martyrdom, to avoid apostasy or to retain virginity. Famous for suicide in the last instance were Socrates, with his daughters, and Pelagia, who was later made a saint."

From the general religious point of view, Dr. Cavan points out, suicide was always a serious crime, and a violation of the social order.

The Greek language hardly distinguishes between self-murder and the murder of kin (the worst offense)," Dr. Cavan states. From 500 B. C. to the end of the first century after Christ, about 600 years, suicide flourished in the same general ratio as moral customs decayed until Christianity almost eliminated self-destruction.

During this period in Greece suicide became almost a dogma among certain philosophical sects, she said. The control of the state over the individual weakened and with it came the right of persons to decrease their own conduct. Suicide, then, was purely a personal matter. Suicide tended to become a matter of eliminating all pains and miseries, many of them trivial ones, she stated.

Stoics Taught Suicide In the tumultuous period in which the Roman Empire sunk to a gradual decline and decadence, the stoics taught suicide as a "natural means of ending life that had become intolerable," according to Dr. Cavan.

"Christianity came and erected a stern control over the individual, succeeding in contracting the freedom and suicide of the past ages." "Gradually," she said, "all suicides were condemned by St. Ambrose, by St. Jerome, and by Augustine between 400 and 450 A. D."

After the Renaissance in Europe the attitude that suicide was sinful was challenged by a number of philosophers who gave many claims to its excellent qualities, she declared.

This feeling for suicide was gradually worn down and the present conditions were introduced. Today there are about 12,000 suicides annually in the United States, according to Dr. Cavan.

POLICE COURT The case of Napoleon La Flamme of New Britain, who was in the Manchester police court this morning charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was dismissed by Deputy Judge Thomas Ferguson.

The young man was arrested last Saturday evening by Patrolman Roberts at the Greater. He was brought to the police station where he was examined by Dr. N. A. Burr. Patrolman Roberts testified that he was driving in an irregular manner and was in a crouched position over the wheel. He testified that La Flamme was unfit to drive a car. Dr. Burr stated that La Flamme showed evidences of being intoxicated but he would not definitely state that he was intoxicated. He admitted he could walk fairly straight.

Lieutenant Stratton saw La Flamme a half hour before he was placed under arrest. He called at the police station about 5:30 saying he had lost his driver's license and asked for information as to what was best to do.

He was represented by Attorney Thomas F. McDonough of New Britain. After the state's evidence had been introduced the attorney asked that the case be dismissed for the reason that there was no positive evidence to show that the young man was intoxicated.

LETTERS PRAISE KEITH FIGURES Local People All Anxious For Further Study of School Costs.

The extensive study of the cost of schools in Manchester compared with school expenses in towns and cities of Manchester's size which was published in The Herald Monday has caused widespread comment in town. There was a great demand for extra copies of the issue of The Herald containing the figures, and today letters of approval of Mr. Keith's detailed survey reached The Herald office.

Some of the letters are as follows: Check Up Everything Editor, The Herald: Much as I would like to keep out of all public controversies, especially those which threaten to include so many of our best known and most highly respected citizens, I cannot refrain from saying a word of commendation for the thorough analysis Selectman George E. Keith has made of the local school situation.

It is doubtful that another man in town, with the possible exception of Howell Cheney and F. A. Verplanck, ever attempted such a complete comparative statement of school costs. The job is not only well done but it tells the story in a way which every voter in town can plainly understand.

I know that in such periods as we are now passing through in Manchester, where operating and administrative costs are mounting almost daily, with a let-up in the increase in our revenue, there is a danger of an unwisely guided wave of curtailment which is apt to do more harm than good.

But, no one could so judiciously study Mr. Keith's figures without asking himself if there should not be a check-up upon all items of overhead in public business, just as there has had to be in every private business since the readjustment period after the world-war.

There is no occasion for ill feeling in this matter. Mr. Keith has honestly prepared one chart of figures. The school officials take exception to some of these tables and offer substitute comparisons. The school officials also revert to the argument that school costs in different localities are based upon the earning power of the people of a locality and their resultant ability to pay.

The joint school board and the board of selectmen should at once tackle this problem in an impersonal manner. The facts and figures and not the persons involved should be uppermost in the minds of our officials in making this study. The past should be forgotten, accepting as a guidance to the future. If curtailments are found to be advisable, the school officials themselves should bravely take the initiative.

As a taxpayer, I want to thank Mr. Keith for a mighty fine job. And with this fine start, let's follow through to the logical conclusion, no matter where it leads us. Sincerely submitted, WILLARD B. ROGERS.

More Figures Wanted Editor, The Herald: I am but a small taxpayer, but it strikes me after reading Mr. Keith's letter which was in the Herald recently that Mr. Keith certainly is looking out for the interests of hundreds of others like myself. Last night I read in The Herald that the Selectmen are cutting down every possible item so that taxes won't go up. They have cut so much evidently that they can't possibly touch anything else. Now I am sure I cut in to the schools and make them suffer for a few years like our roads have.

What I hope is that The Herald will print these figures whenever they are ready and let the people know what is happening to their money here in Manchester. ONLY A LITTLE FELLOW.

"Up To School Committee" Editor, The Herald: It rather strikes me after reading George E. Keith's analysis of school costs in Manchester that the burden is on the shoulders of the school heads of Manchester. It doesn't strike me that Manchester can afford to have costly schools any more than Bolton, or Rockville, or Willimantic. No one can afford to spend too much on anything. Mr. Keith's figures show that there must be extravagance in some departments of Manchester's educational system. We are all anxious to have good schools, but how are we going to prove that our students are better trained than those that come from schools that cost so much less?

Doesn't it sound ridiculous that Manchester should be first in school costs in these items—school board and business office, supervision, supervisors' salaries, text books and health? And first over Ansonia, Bristol, Naugatuck, Stratford, Torrington, West Haven, Windham and West Hartford. There wouldn't be any kick if we were leading the parade in one or two items, but to lead in every item is the whole thing in almost everything.

I am glad to note that Mr. Keith is a member of the joint school board. Possibly some information will be forthcoming. I understand his figures have already had a good some paring. May he keep up the good work. Sincerely, LOCAL BUSINESS MAN.

"George Did It" Editor, Evening Herald: I write to commend the splendid survey of the schools in the Ninth District, as compiled by Selectman George E. Keith, and which was published in your valuable newspaper recently. It is just such work, unselfishly performed, that makes for the progress of a community. It is a sad fact that, nowadays, few public officials go out of their way to do any extra work for the good of the public they represent. It is a case of "Let George do it" and in this case George did it.

I have read over Mr. Keith's letter carefully (and what a tremendous amount of work and study it must have entailed) and have come to the conclusion that his contentions are well founded. The comparisons were truly a surprise to me. I did not imagine nor do I suppose the average citizen imagined—that our schools lead so many towns and cities in the state in the matter of cost. It is a splendid thought to feel certain you have the best system, the best school, and the like, but to find that for the same standards, you pay far more than other towns of your class, comes as a shock, to say the least.

It is the duty of all Manchester taxpayers to read Mr. Keith's survey carefully. In this business world of ours, we must strive for the best but we must also pay for that best along business lines. Extravagance is not business. Sincerely, A. L. T.

C. E. TRUAX, ABOUT TO VISIT SICK, IS STRICKEN Well Known Manchester Contractor Suffers Shock; Somewhat Better Today.

Stricken with a shock just as he was about to start on calls at the homes of several sick persons last night, Claude E. Truax, aged 51, well known Manchester building contractor, was somewhat improved at this morning at his home on 47 Gerard street.

Mr. Truax had been attending a meeting of the local branch of the Red Men at the organization's clubhouse on Brainerd Place and was about to leave for the homes of visits to sick members of the lodge in company with other members when he suffered the attack. His right arm and right leg became useless and he was taken home by his friends in an automobile and a doctor summoned immediately.

Mr. Truax has been a member of the North Methodist Episcopal church. Funeral services will be held at the home of her son, Elmer F. Packard, of 150 Middle Turnpike East, Mrs. Sims was 84 years of age having been born in East Glastonbury on February 29, 1844.

She had been a resident of Manchester about 30 years. She was sick but two days. Two sons, Elmer F. Packard and Charles B. Packard, both of this town, two grandchildren and one great-grandchild, survive Mrs. Sims. All are residents of Manchester.

Mrs. Sims was a member of the North Methodist Episcopal church. Funeral services will be held at the home of her son, Elmer F. Packard, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. E. P. Phreaner will officiate and burial will be in Buckland cemetery.

John Rennie The funeral of John Rennie, former Manchester man, was held at the home of his father, Ronald C. Rennie, at 26 Gardner street at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor of the North Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. The funeral was military and the hearse was all members of the Army and Navy club. Burial was in the East cemetery.

WANT CROSSINGS GUARDED Hartford, Conn., May 10.—Now that the Negro has become prosperous enough to pay dividends, the City of Hartford believes the road should take steps to abolish grade crossings on the main line at Avon, Canton, Russell and Windsor streets and the Public Utilities Commission on the afternoon of May 15 will listen to city officials explain why the crossings should be made safe.

The hearing will be in the nature of the reopening of a matter started in 1914. At that time the commission felt the New Haven was too poor to stand the expense of the crossings. Bristol officials ask the utilities commission to order "the safeguarding and re-arrangement of the railroad crossing at Farmington avenue and Maple street, commonly known as Doolittle's Crossing. The commission is to hear the petitioners on the morning of May 16.

BOY BURGLARS HELD Stamford, Conn., May 10.—Frank Brock, 17, of 213 Quinsey street, Boston, and Anthony Delise, 19, of 132 East street, New Haven, were today bound over for trial in the Superior Court on a charge of burglary, and sent to jail in default of bail of $1,000 each after Judge James E. Brinckerhoff had found probable cause.

Following the looting of a candy store here early Tuesday police found a broken knife blade in a forest near and later picked up the two youths. Delise had a pocket knife with a blade gone. Police told the court today that both youths admitted the robbery when the knife was discovered.

The spelling-bee season must be a failure. We haven't heard of any contests won by dogs.

Rockville

Mayflower Rebekah Notes At the meeting of Mayflower Rebekah Lodge held Tuesday evening, it was voted to hold a "Children's Night" on May 22nd at which time members and their children will be entertained by the lodge. Mrs. Helen Quinn is chairman.

Friday evening the lodge will observe its anniversary and it is hoped that the members will attend this event as the committee has worked hard to provide entertainment that will please everyone.

On Saturday, June 9th, the I. O. O. F. Home at Groton will observe Home Day and Mayflower lodge will send the Noble Grand and Vice Grand to attend the services, which will be held at 2:30 o'clock.

Local Elks Meet Tonight The first session under the new board of officers of Rockville Lodge, No. 1359, B.P.O. Elks, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. First Annual Dinner of Emblem Club The Emblem Club held its first annual banquet last evening at the Rockville House. There were 150 members and invited guests present. After the post prandial program dancing was enjoyed with the members of the local Elks attending.

Mrs. Thomas F. Garvan was toastmaster at the banquet and was introduced by Mrs. Clifton D. Sheppard. The program opened with the singing of "America." Mrs. A. M. Burke gave a toast, "Our Past Officers" and Mrs. John Fagan sang a solo. The officers for 1933 who were installed in the afternoon were presented to the members.

Mrs. Harry Dowling gave a toast to the "Officers for 1933" after which a solo by Mrs. Thos. Brennan was entered. Mrs. F. V. Adams gave a toast to "Our Brother Elks" and Mrs. Frederick DeHope "To Our Members." Mrs. Francis Scanlon sang a solo after which Mrs. John Flaherty gave a toast to "Our Supreme Officers." Mrs. H. B. Wright of Stafford Springs gave a whistling solo which was greatly enjoyed. Brief addresses by Mrs. James F. Duffy of Providence, supreme president, and Mrs. Miles F. Sweeney of Providence, past supreme president, were next in order after which the program closed with the singing of the club song, "Emblem."

The new officers for the ensuing year who were installed in the afternoon by Mrs. Miles F. Sweeney and assisted by Mrs. Michael Roberts of Stafford Springs, are as follows: President, Mrs. George H. Williams; vice president, Mrs. Thos. F. Garvan; secretary, Mrs. Raymond E. Hunt; treasurer, Mrs. Thos. Dannaer; trustees, Mrs. Charles Keeney, Mrs. Frederick DeHope and Mrs. Arthur Wincott.

Inside guard, Mrs. John Coleman; outside guard, Mrs. Charles Wilke; chaplain, Mrs. Joseph Lavitt. Twenty-five visitors were present from Providence, where the first Emblem Club was formed and two from Newton, Mass.

Fred V. Wendheler who has been a member of the Snipsie Hook & Ladder Co. for the past five years, has resigned his position. Alfred Rosenberg of the Star Hardware Co. left today for a trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mathewson of East Main street, announce the coming marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence S. Mathewson to George L. Schwarz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schwarz of Spring street.

Mrs. Mildred Hereth of Pawtucket, R. I. is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Dalley of Orchard street. Tankerootan Tribe I.O.R.M. will hold a roast beef supper in Men's Hall Saturday evening. Following the supper there will be an entertainment and a social hour.

The Friendly Class will hold a sale of potted plants on the steps of the Union Church Saturday afternoon. The World Wide Guild of the Baptist Church will give a play "Missionary Arithmetic" on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

ISSUES REQUISITION

Hartford, Conn., May 10.—Governor Trumbull today issued a requisition on the governor of New York for the return here of Ludwig H. Kaeser, of West Hartford, wanted for non-support. Policeman George A. Murphy, of the West Hartford force, has been designated to go to Buffalo where Kaeser is now being held, and escort him to West Hartford for trial.

GETS SIXTY DAYS

Hartford, Conn., May 10.—Edward Littlefield, of Worcester, was sent to jail for sixty days today after being convicted of stealing tobacco from a local store. Worcester police declared that Littlefield was a member of a gang of shoplifters that had been working in Providence, Worcester, New Haven and other New England cities. Robert Bruce, of Hartford, arrested with Littlefield, was fined $100 and costs, for his part in the local affair.

LADIES TO SERVE

Y. M. C. A. DINNER Anniversary Banquet on Monday to Be Prepared By Church Women.

The Tenth Anniversary dinner of the Hartford County Y M C A, which is to be held next Monday evening in the South Methodist church, will be served by the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church with Mrs. Gertrude Trotter in charge. Plans are being laid for 200 guests as reservations rapidly being made through the County Y M C A office point to a large attendance.

THREE DOLLARS PAYS FULL PRICE OF A LIVING FORD

What is believed to be a record low price sale of a Ford automobile occurred in Manchester a few days ago. A youth asked his father for a loan of three dollars. Asked what he wanted the money for, the son replied, "I want to buy a Ford." And that is all he paid for the car. What's more, it runs.

Harry Hadley Smith of New Haven, who organized the work of the Hartford County Y M C A ten years ago, will be present to extend greetings.

Local people desiring reservations should notify George Rix at the Chamber of Commerce by tomorrow night, the 11th. The business session of the convention, beginning at 4:30 Monday afternoon, is open only to members of the association, but the anniversary dinner is open to ladies and gentlemen of the general public.

entered the West Virginia primary against me—because I wouldn't agree to throw the delegation to him.

"I refused to be a stalking horse for Mr. Hoover. In my opinion such a proposition was an attempted barter of the West Virginia delegation, and was, in effect, nothing more or less than attempted moral bribery."

Goff declined to name the Senator who approached him, but asserted that "I shall certainly tell if the committee asks me."

This flare-up was taken today as but one indication of the growing bitterness between the Hoover camp and the alliance of favorite sons, who are friendly to Lowden or Dawes in the fight for the Republican nomination.

Battle Reviewed

Heartened and encouraged by the result in Indiana, where Hoover suffered the first real defeat of the current primary season, the coalition against him has returned to the battle with renewed hope. They confidently believe they have enough votes in sight to "stop" the cabinet candidates at Kansas City, with Lowden as the rallying post for all the anti-Hoover sentiment in the convention.

Whether they have or not remains to be seen. The Hoover managers deride the claims of "The Allies" and claim that the Hoover movement has attained too much momentum to be halted by such temporary set-backs as the Indiana result.

Impartial tabulators figure that Hoover will enter the convention with nearly 400 votes on the first and second ballots, not counting the powerful New York and Pennsylvania delegations which between them have 169 votes. A majority of the convention necessary to nominate is 545. It is fairly evident, therefore, that if New York and Pennsylvania leaders swing to Hoover the efforts of the favorite sons and Lowden-Dawes leaders will be in vain.

1-MAN CARS ALLOWED.

Hartford, Conn., May 10.—The Connecticut Company now has the legal right to operate one-man cars in Hartford. The Public Utilities Commission today issued a formal order granting the right which was asked as a hearing here two weeks ago.

The commission's order points out that that body believes it has the right under the statutes to confer the right; that one-man cars are a successful use all over the country, that such cars would make a great saving for the company, and that more one-man cars can be run than double truck cars, thus providing better service for passengers.

If you play the game on the level you may rise high in the world.

KNAPP JUROR FACES CHARGE OF CONTEMPT

Said He Voted For Acquittal Because Evidence Was Not Sufficient.

Albany, N. Y., May 10.—An order was issued today directing David R. Main, one of the six jurors who voted for the acquittal of former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp to appear before Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan tomorrow morning and show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court.

The order was signed by Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley, of Albany, after affidavits had been presented to him by Deputy Attorney General George Z. Medala, that Main had said he would not vote to convict Mrs. Knapp because District Attorney Charles J. Herrick, of Albany, said the evidence was not sufficient.

The jury before whom Mrs. Knapp was tried on a charge of stealing census money, disagreed after deliberating eight hours.

The former secretary of state will go on trial a second time a week from Monday on the same charge.

The specific charge made by Medala applying for the contempt order was that Main, when he was being examined as a prospective juror in the Knapp trial, made false answers and failed to make disclosures concerning his qualifications as a juror.

DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE.

Hartford, Conn., May 10.—Democratic state central committee members, meeting here this afternoon to organize for the coming two years, predicted the meeting would return the present heads to office. James J. Walsh, of Meriden, is chairman; Mrs. Alice Mooney, of Waterbury, vice-chairman; and A. Sydney Lynch, of New Haven, secretary.

Committee members who recently were listed as insurgents against the organization declared they had been promised places among the committee heads in return for the harmony that was arranged for the recent convention, but regulars on the committee denied today that any such deal had been planned.

Representative Sabath of Illinois offers the House a resolution to put an end to the custom of American women seeking admittance to foreign courts. But there aren't any other good shows in Europe now, and one has to be amused.

HEALS ECZEMA

IN 7 DAYS OR LESS

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers that are discharging are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. All druggists can supply you at any time.—Adv.

LONDON PREPARES TO ENTERTAIN TOURISTS IN GREAT NUMBERS

London.—"London is a city out of the Modern Arabian Nights, and already a bigger number of visitors than ever before have planned to visit it this year," declares an expert on London's traffic.

People whose fingers are on the pulse of the world's tourist arteries say that London this year will be a cosmopolitan capital crowded with visitors from the five continents. They declare:

Bookings from America are already big, and, according to steamship companies, are growing bigger every day.

Hotels of all grades state that rooms are being feverishly engaged even now for the summer season. The shops of London—many of them new since last year in the transformed Regent street area—are making ready for a record time.

"The purchases made by the King and Queen of Afghanistan have drawn the world's eyes to the stores of London," they say. That is the secret—"the new London."

The new streets, huge new hotels, great new shops and offices and the range of theatrical shows seem to be acting to make London the magnet to the world.

TRAFFIC BLOCKED

Hagerstown, Md., May 10.—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad's four main line tracks were buried under thousands of tons of rocks and earth today as a result of a landslide on Hansrote mountain, near Hancock.

Quick work of employees in setting safety signals prevented trains from crashing into the debris. The tracks may be tied up for three days.

Passenger traffic was routed through Big Poole and Cherry Run, but freight traffic was at a standstill.

GUILTY OF THEFT

Bridgeport, Conn., May 10.—John Moran, of Bridgeport, was sent to jail for one year in Superior Court here after pleading guilty to theft of provisions from the Wood-hull Company warehouse here. Moran was caught in the act. Harry Harrison, driver of an automobile which was supposed to be waiting for Moran and which sped away when Moran was caught, pleaded not guilty to the charge against him and his trial was assigned for May 17.

testing delegates for the Houston convention?" Senator Stetler asked.

"I haven't any plans about the Houston convention," replied the governor. "I don't know even whether I am going to Houston. I don't think so. I said in 1921 that I would not go out of the state but devote myself to the business of the state. And believe me, that business takes all my time."

"Are you contributing any money yourself to your presidential campaign?"

"No," answered the governor. "Have you made any promises of patronage in connection with your campaign?"

"Nope."

Primary Contests

Gov. Smith in reply to a question as to whether he knew about any primary contests in other states that he did not know anything about it himself, although he believed there were contests in West Virginia and in Wisconsin or Minnesota. He was hazy about the contests in other states he admitted.

"Asked if there were any petitions filed for him in the west coast states, including California, Washington and Oregon, the governor replied that he "did not remember anything about these states."

"How about Iowa?" Stetler asked.

"I couldn't say that I know a single person in Iowa."

"Who has charge of your campaign in California?"

"I don't know."

"Do you know any personal contacts in Oregon?"

"I don't know anybody in Oregon."

Gov. Smith was asked if he had made personal political efforts in the south.

"No, I have not. My trip to Asheville, N. C., had no political significance attached to it. It was made to give me a much needed rest. However, I shook hands with everybody in North Carolina—except the leader, Senator Simmons."

Senator Stetler then said that an anonymous communication received by the committee charged that a large fund was being spent "on behalf of your campaign in North Carolina." The Senator asked Smith if Robert Lathan was authorized to spend money in his behalf in North Carolina.

Met Latham

"Not by me," answered the governor. "I met Latham once while I was in North Carolina."

Stetler then questioned the governor about his suite in the Hotel Biltmore. The governor said he had lived in the hotel for two years.

"Is the Biltmore owned by the New York Central Railroad?"

"I don't know. The property is in the hands of the railroad but the hotel management is in the hands of Mr. Bowman."

"Do you know if your rent is provided free by the New York Central Railroad Co?"

(Senator Stetler apologized for this line of questioning but said the information was contained in another anonymous letter to the committee.)

"Don't know" Smith replied sharply. "I don't think the New York Central owns the hotel. I think Mr. Bowman does."

The governor said Van Nammee had made arrangements for Smith's use of the Biltmore suite.

"Do you know of any disbursements of large sums of money in connection with your campaign?" Senator Bratton asked.

"Nope."

Senator Barclay asked Smith if he knew anything about "the organization that has been set up in California in your behalf."

"I don't."

Senator Bratton asked Smith if any relative had contributed to his fund.

"No, not that I know about."

Van Nammee followed the governor in the witness chair.

"The total receipts to date," Van Nammee testified "have been $103,301. The total expenditures to date have been $82,909.28. We have a balance in the bank as of May 10, 1923, of $11,219.72."

Twelve men were reported drifting to sea on ice pans which broke Senator Bratton asked Smith if away from the shore in the Cape

The men were members of a party of sixteen who were hunting seals. Four reached safety, the report said. The steamship Kyle is being rushed to make a search.

Horned Toad Buried 31 Years Alive When "Grave" Is Opened

Eastland, Texas.—A horned frog and officials who saw the opening of the cornerstones, declare that the commission of a hoax was impossible. "But it did," retort residents of this West Texas city and there the debate ends insofar as local citizens are concerned.

When the old courthouse cornerstone was opened here recently, the frog was taken out as a crowd of several thousand had assembled for the event, cheered lustily. The occasion marked the tearing down of the courthouse erected 31 years ago to make room for a more modern temple of justice.

At the hour for the opening of the cornerstones drew near, old residents, recalling the Texas tradition that a horned toad will live a century if given quiet and repose of soul, even though denied food and water, were warm in their views on the subject.

Crowd Anxious
Just a tinge of fear swept through the jostling audience as the minutes lagged, lest after all the frog had not really been placed in the stone, or that it had become crumbled dust, but a mighty shout went up from the crowd when the antlered reptile was fetched forth and held up to the gaze of the throng.

However, no sooner had the news been flashed over the wires to all parts of the nation, than scientists, with frowny brows, branded the story as an absurdity, an impudent foray into fields reserved for the learned.

"Tut! Tut!" they said. "Imagine a mere frog becoming the herald of scientific truth. 'Tis an imposition," and thus delivering themselves of that flat, they refused to join in acclaiming the now famed "Blinkie" whose deed has made him a national character.

However, ministers, capitalists,

300 N. Y. WOMEN TAKEN IN DRIVE ON SHOPLIFTERS

New York.—A round up of 300 women shoplifters has apparently failed either to check the wave of petty thievery in department stores by women shoppers, or to reveal a basic underlying cause for such widespread stealing by women.

The women ranged in age from 16 to 65, and were generally well dressed and prosperous looking. The presiding justice was moved to remark upon the lack of evidence against the women.

High Blood Pressure
One woman's explanation for stealing articles listed at $23.50 was that she is suffering from high blood pressure.

LIQUID FUEL IS CHEAP PRODUCT OF COAL FIELDS

London.—Experiments have shown that a new form of liquid fuel may be produced from coal at a comparatively low cost.

The experiments, which have been confirmed by their investigations at the Fuel Research Station, the report continues, "have shown beyond doubt that by such treatment a large proportion of the coal substance can be converted into liquid fuels."

For Motor Transport
"For the first time," the report states, "we can envisage on the sure basis of experimental results the production from coal of liquid fuel in sufficient quantity to supply all the requirements of motor transport should natural supplies of petroleum fail."

LEAGUE ASKED TO HELP MONKS OF MOUNT ATHOS

London.—An ancient republic where no woman is allowed, where even female animals are taboo, and where men live cut off from all worldly pursuits has been brought before the public eye with the announcement that the State of Mount Athos has appealed to the League of Nations for redress against the seizure by the Greek Government of certain of its property.

Situated on a mountainous promontory sixty miles long and twenty broad, Mount Athos is really a monastic stronghold jutting out into the Aegean Sea.

Originally the home of a pagan oracle of Apollo and noted in ancient Greek times for the number of pilgrimages to its temple, the Mount was purged of its idols in Christian times and about the fifth century A. D. became the haunt of holy hermits.

Lived In Caves.
They lived in caves and huts, but with the increase of royal benefactions and the growth of monastic life more substantial dwellings were erected, and groups of monks formed monasteries with chapels, libraries, guest houses and even battlements and catapults to keep out aggressive pirates.

There are about twenty vast, fortress-like monasteries on the promontory, all built between the ninth and fifteenth centuries. Their vicissitudes would fill a book: Arab invasions, pirate raids, looting by Crusaders, massacred by the Papists, and Turkish barbarism. But always, through more than 1,500 years, the monks have stood loyal to Orthodox Catholicism against all attacks.

Woman has always been treated with particular rigor. No woman has ever been allowed to set a foot on Mount Athos and no bird or beast of that sex is tolerated.

Monks Respected.
The rights of the monks have been respected down the centuries by the Turks, under whose jurisdiction they lived, and at the Peace Conference of Lausanne Mount Athos was to have been given an international status, but it was finally handed over to Greece, the Powers assuming all the old obligations of Turkey towards the monks.

Greece solemnly undertook to respect the terms of the articles of handing over, but it is stated she has now taken possession of the farms belonging to the Russian sections of the monastery. Situated on the mainland, these farms provide the monks with food, since they are not allowed to breed animals or have any female bird or beast on the Mount. Hence the Russian monks are practically condemned to starvation, and the State has taken the matter up with the League.

KILL 32 COPS IN 3 YEAR WAR ON CHICAGO'S GANGS

Chicago.—Thirty-two Chicago policemen have fallen before the rifle, pistol, shotgun and machine gun fire of Chicago bandits, thugs and beer gangsters since the police declared war on all gangsters three years ago, according to figures of police casualties just compiled by Michael J. Hughes, Commissioner of Police.

But at that the police feel they have not done so badly. During this same period the police have killed 143 gangsters and thugs, a ratio of nearly five to one in favor of the officers of the law.

"In 1925, twelve policemen were slain by bandits, while 51 criminals were killed in battles with officers," Commissioner Hughes said. "During 1926 criminal guns claimed the lives of nine policemen, while the underworld fatality list numbered 39. Again in 1927 nine policemen were killed by gunmen, while 38 of the latter fell under fire of the police."

Since Mayor Thompson ordered all gunmen driven out of the city the police have engaged almost nightly in battles with the criminal elements. Since January 1 fifteen gunmen have been killed by police fire, while two officers have been added to the police death roll."

Woman has always been treated with particular rigor. No woman has ever been allowed to set a foot on Mount Athos and no bird or beast of that sex is tolerated.

SCHOOL COSTS

In the persons of Howell Cheney of the Ninth School District committee and George E. Keith, member of the Board of Selectmen and of the Joint School Board, Manchester is fortunate in the possession of citizens and officials who both take the most serious view of their responsibilities and of the business of school management and education in general.

When, without personal animus and in each case with the highest of motives, there is disagreement as to policies or methods between such conscientious students of the economic and social problems arising in school management, the profoundest respect ought to be extended to the conclusions of either end of each.

Mr. Cheney and the Ninth School District committee sincerely believe that the cost of Manchester schools is not too high. Mr. Keith, on the other hand, believes that the schools could be as efficiently conducted as at present with a smaller expenditure of the taxpayers' money. The issue thus drawn is certainly of the utmost importance. In recent statements, accompanied by comparative tabulations, each side has made its position, and the reasons therefor, extraordinarily clear to readers of this newspaper.

We doubt very much whether there is, in Manchester, any considerable number of persons who desire reduction in the cost of the schools if, as a consequence, there should be even a slight reduction in the efficiency of the town's educational system. On the other hand we doubt if there is a single taxpayer, large or small, who would not welcome some cut in the cost of school maintenance and operation, if it could be achieved without any sacrifice of the educational objective.

Careful as has been the research of these two somewhat opposed parties, important as are the information obtained and the deductions drawn, it is not the Herald's belief that the ground has been completely gone over or the possibilities of investigation exhausted by the exchange of presentations so far made.

For example, Mr. Keith makes the point that it is not possible to discover what the Ninth District committee calls the town's "ability to pay" by comparing its average daily attendance costs with such costs in other towns on a basis of the amount of taxable property in each town per pupil in daily attendance; his reason being that there is no such thing as a standardization of property appraisal for taxing purposes and that the grand list of one town might vary greatly from that of another town of precisely the same actual property value.

We are inclined to think that this point is well taken. Yet, before we could come to a definite conclusion as to the true worth of estimates of cost made on this grand list basis, it would be necessary to discover to what extent these discrepancies in appraisal exist—which will be a job for somebody that will tax both patience and ingenuity.

Another point which Mr. Keith makes seems to us to be somewhat impressive, and that is the average number of pupils per teacher, which he finds to be quite seriously smaller in Manchester than in some other towns. On the face of it, the average number of 28 pupils per teacher in the elementary schools, in average daily attendance, seems to be pretty low, and its inferiority to the average, in a number of towns of the same grade, of more than five pupils per teacher, would appear to provide subject matter for considerable serious thought.

Manchester of course wants the right kind of schools. Also, of course, she wants them without the waste of a dollar. If she is getting them in just that way, absolutely full discussion of the subject will disclose the fact, if, on the other hand, a considerable number of thousands of taxpayers' dollars can be saved without injury to the schools, that, too, will be disclosed if these illuminating researches continue. To Mr. Cheney and the Ninth District committee the town is in debt for many years of earnest labor in the cause of public education. It is no less indebted to Mr. Keith for his painstaking inquiry into the situation and for his courage in challenging the infallibility of the status quo.

WISE MR. ROCKEFELLER

The demand of J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., for the resignation of Colonel Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, predicated on the chairman's attitude toward the Senate Oil probe committee, seems to indicate a greater degree of perspicacity on the part of Mr. Rockefeller than is possessed by a number of other big men in the oil business.

The cynically scornful contempt in which such men as Sinclair, Doheny, Stewart, O'Neill and others have held the government and the people may be more or less safe at the moment, but is not likely to forever remain safe. Flouting the government, laughing at the courts, ridding the public's property and sneering at the sporadic resistance of a handful of the people's representatives will continue to be safe only during the duration of the present phenomenon of popular indifference. Anybody who has ever read any history knows that such periods of public indifference and moral and mental slackness never do continue indefinitely—and that when a people awakens from one of these fits of lethargy it is extremely liable to awaken snarling.

Mr. Rockefeller, being the intellectual superior of most of the persons with whom he is associated in the oil business, has the vision to comprehend such things. He knows perfectly well that the retention of Colonel Stewart at the head of the great Indiana Standard has been an insult to the nation which, in the not improbable event of a sudden revival of public interest in public affairs, might do enormous damage to the prestige of the corporate oil interests of the country—possibly result in those interests being subjected to some sort of almost revolutionary discipline.

Under the suave and conciliatory qualities of Mr. Rockefeller there is a business mind of the first grade. We doubt if his father would have displayed, in this day, the same discernment that causes Mr. Rockefeller to boot Colonel Stewart, publicly, for so stupidly putting the oil business in open revolt against constituted government.

PATRIOTIC PACIFISTS

The American Peace Society, which for nearly a hundred years has been just what its name indicated, has decided to avoid hereafter too close fraternization with those radical elements which have disfigured the honest efforts of anti-militarists in this country and have brought confusion into such minds as those of the Massachusetts D. A. R. by linking rational pacifism with disloyalty. The Peace Society will not invite to its forthcoming centennial celebration any of the ship-scuttling, draft-resisting internationalists. This is a wise determination, for it was high time that a line be drawn between those good Americans who with all their hearts and souls are opposed to avoidable wars, yet would fight to the last gasp if necessary for their country, and those vain egoists who sneer at patriotism, prate of an "internationalism" for which the world will not be ready for a thousand years, and who are ready to aid any enemy of their own country, at any time, by preaching war-time pacifism and obstruction.

These two groups are as far apart as day and night. They are animated by directly conflicting ideals. There is not the slightest sympathy between them. Yet they are being confounded in the public mind, and the ludicrous Massachusetts D. A. R. blacklist, which puts Bishop Anderson and Scott Neering in the same category, is a not illogical result. Anti-militarists—those who recognize the ghastly perils that jingos and bellicose super-patriots would precipitate if no restraint were put upon them—must rid themselves of their undesirable associates or lose all their sorely needed influence. The Peace Society has taken the first step.

HEFLIN KNOWS

Senator Heflin of Alabama occupied a very considerable part of the time of the Senate on Tuesday with a speech condemning the practice of flying a "Roman Catholic flag" above the American flag by the navy during religious services. The senator evidently has his own special avenues of information concerning many things.

It was explained to him by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, by Senator Hale of Maine and by Senator

Bruce of Maryland, that the "Catholic flag" in question is, in fact, the same chaplain's pennant which it has been the navy custom to fly at the masthead during religious exercises for more than a hundred years. But Heflin, nevertheless, knew better. After Senator Bruce had stated on the floor that Heflin's mind was disordered, "and I am beginning to believe almost deranged," the Alabama announced that he would be ready to start next day with another speech on the same subject.

MEANING, JOHNSON

Says the Chanute, Kan., Tribune: "The innocent abroad, Henry Ford, was forced to ask English reporters, the other day, who Samuel Jackson was."

Well, who was he?

New York, May 10—Those handsome, military-drilled ushers of the cinema cathedrals of Manhattan now have a personal following among the matinee girls. Whenever in times agone the pretty maids tucked their marshmallows under their arms and went into raptures over the leading man of a romantic comedy, they now demand to be seated by the very West Point-looking young men, who get the neighborhood of $20 a week. Recently a particularly Adonis-like doorman of a Broadway movie palace landed the heiress to a large fortune, through a lobby romance. Some of them are showered with mash notes. I know one who receives more than the hero in the picture. After all, a prospect in the foyer is worth two in Hollywood. A Broadway cafe that was enjoying but medium patronage "now jams its door each lunch hour and overflows into a second-floor series of dining booths because it employed one of the oldest of the French sidewalk cafe gangs. A clever young artist was retained to make caricatures of Broadwayites prominent in the theater, movie and newspaper world. Instead of charging for the sketches they were arranged around the cafe walls. Naturally this brought the vanity of the celebrities to the surface and they began to congregate in the cafe at lunch hour. When the celebs arrived the Broadway "mob" followed. Today you'll see more of the Broadway cognoscent at this place than at any other. It's a variation on the old theme of seeing your picture in the paper. Which, in turn, is a variation on the personal columns in the small-town newspapers. And whether it's New York or Saugerties, the same formulas work.

When I first took a newspaper job I used to have to start the day's work by getting items of arrival and departure at the railroad station. At the time this struck me as an infinitely useless waste of time and a typically small-town stunt. I felt superior to such trivialities. Today I know better. Here in our greatest American city; here in the world's money hub and business center, individual followings are created on plans patterned exactly after the latest community's personal column.

For years F. P. A., a widely-followed column writer, has issued a weekly "modern Pepy's diary" which is but a message of names, addresses and goings on. One of the most popular recent features has been Walter Winchell's weekly assortment of slang personalities issued in a New York publication. Herein you will find that so-and-so will soon have a baby and so-and-so will soon be married and so-and-so will get a divorce. All the bright young wits of the other papers have done this small-town feature the honor of satirizing it and imitating it. Even the erudite contributed columns of the New York press are but glorified improvisations on the good old "write-in" department we operated in years gone by on the Onard (Cal.) Courier. And which, for all I know, may still be functioning, as it functions on many another wise paper. Even the New Yorker follows the Main Street pattern, putting over its typical "home town" items the veneer of sophistication and adding a little snappy, up-to-date cartoonery. But the material itself has the Harlem river for its boundary line.

And while talking of the small-town ingredients to be found in Manhattan . . . when a minareted Jewish synagogue was torn down

WASHINGTON LETTER

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of six articles telling how America's public lands have dwindled through fraud, graft, bribery. Tomorrow: The Conservationists.

By RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, May 10.—An echo of the loose and liberal days of the last century, when congressmen were more susceptible to slush funds and lobbies and huge public land grants were tossed here and there with lavish hand, is heard in the Northern Pacific railroad land case now before Congress.

After receiving and waxing fat on a grant of more than 40,000,000 acres in 1864, the Northern Pacific in more recent years cast eyes upon some 3,000,000 acres of our national forests and laid claim to them. The Forest Service became very sore. D. F. McGowan, its chief counsel, led the fight to protect the forests. He charged that the railroad had already received $270,000,000 worth of public lands for building a railroad that cost only $70,000,000, that the road had obtained 1,200,000 acres never intended. It cost 2,700,000 acres of questionable title and that it was still holding onto 6,000,000-acres of the original grant although required by law to sell it years ago at $2.50 an acre.

A joint congressional committee investigated the scandal. Testimony centered on the deal by which, some 30 years previously, the road had been able to exchange a great acreage of practically worthless territory for choice agricultural and timber lands belonging to the government. This was done under a peculiar reclassification law passed by Congress. Two of the federal land commissioners who reassessed the railroad's Idaho lands in 1895-7 were given valuable timber rights. One of the commissioners, still living, testified before the committee that he had been given timber rights to 54,000 acres and that the railroad had promised to buy cross ties made from this timber. The ex-commissioner admitted that the deal was made while the reclassification was in progress, but said that if any land steal was involved it had been dictated from Washington.

McGowan charged that the railroad had not fulfilled its obligations to the government, that President Grant had been dragged in as an incorporator without ever buying any stock, that only 17 of the original 135 incorporators ever did subscribe for stock and those with no more than $200,000 was ever raised for development to meet the act's provision for at least $2,000,000.

In less than 15 years, he said, the promoters had pocketed $49,000,000 of the stock, whereas they were supposed to capitalize for $100,000,000 and sell all stock in a bona fide way. If Congress had known that the promoters would pocket the $49,000,000, he said, it would never have awarded the huge land grant.

As to the looseness of former public land administration, it developed that the Interior Department admitted the question of error in the taking several million acres in the northwest by the railroad due to misplacement of survey lines.

The committee finally submitted a record of its hearings to the attorney-general, who upheld 19 of 22 contentions of the Forest Service. It has since asked for an opinion as to proper legislation to remedy the situation. Whether this will cover only the 3,000,000 national forest acres demanded by the Northern Pacific or 5,000,000 more acres held by the road and demanded back by McGowan has not been decided.

Grants as large as the total area of three or four eastern states were given to railroads in the lush post-Civil War days. The Northern Pacific was granted 47,000,000 acres, Southern Pacific 18,000,000, Union Pacific 13,000,000, Kansas Pacific 12,000,000 and Central Pacific 9,000,000 and together they were given more than 125,000,000.

In 1906, the Great Northern, another favored road, was able to give its stockholders $127,000,000 worth of ore certificates.

But in 1921 the Southern Pacific gave its stockholders, in the form of an independent corporation and for only $43,750,000, assets including California oil lands which a government commission estimated to be worth $440,000,000. The Southern Pacific, of course, had obtained the lands from the government of the people of the United States. Both the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe were also granted the Santa Fe.

The last great grab at the public lands within our borders came through the reclassification joker in the forest reservation bill. Some of those millions and millions of acres were bad lands and the railroad decided they must have good land in exchange. Reclassification was supposedly designed to compensate settlers for land taken for the forest preserves.

The railroad lobbyists slipped in the four words "or any other claimant" when the bill went to conference after being passed by both houses. Then the railroads swapped millions of acres of barren desert lands, denuded forest areas and snowy mountain peaks for millions of the best lands still held by the government. This fraud was denounced in Congress, but the law was not repealed until the swapping was all over.

Less than 20 years ago, H. H. Schwartz, chief of the Department of Interior Field Service, reported $2,000 cases of fraud and said that about $110,000,000 worth of public lands had been fraudulently acquired in the two years from 1906 to 1908.

recently on Fifth Avenue to make way for a skyscraper, hundreds of pigeons were put out of their home. Hereupon a certain columnist began to implore the builder to arrange the new structure so that the birds would again have apartment space. And, not so many years ago, I remember writing the same editorial item in a very small city wondering what would become of a family of cats when they tore down Se-o-ggins' barn.

Get it Better with a Grebe

AN IDEA that has become AN IDEAL

THE first Grebe radio was built with the idea that there were many who would prefer a slower method of painstaking care in development of radio receiving sets. Grebe has always believed that there are many willing to wait until tests and retests could insure the utmost perfection in radio reception.

of slow, accurate care in development, has been pronounced a perfect example of radio engineering. From a standpoint of tonal quality, selectivity and ease and simplicity of operation, the Grebe Synchronphase A-C Six proves that the idea born nineteen years ago has truly become an ideal. Come in and hear the Grebe. Six during National Music Week—or better still, let us demonstrate it in your home and tell you how to enjoy it while you pay.

MISSIONARIES MAKE NO CLAIM FOR ARMED AID

Jerusalem.—Armed protection of missionaries and mission property in foreign fields was discouraged in a resolution passed by the International Missionary Council which just closed a two week session on the Mount of Olives.

Missionary societies were urged to make no claims on their governments for such protection. It was stated as the conviction of the Council that the protection of missionaries should only be by such methods as would promote good will in personal and political relations.

Missionaries Accused

Missionaries are to often accused of being the advance agents of imperialistic governments or big capital," declared Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of Pittsburgh, in summing up the results of the conference with particular reference to the resolution. "We do not want to be cats-paws. Two murdered German missionaries gave the former Kaiser an opportunity to grab a piece of Chinese territory.

Early in the Conference Bishop McConnell started the delegates of the fifty-one nations present by declaring:

"I come from a nation which in many respects is pagan. We subscribe to the doctrine of militarism and to the god of nationalism, giving ourselves over to the pursuit of wealth. This meeting should become a challenge to Paganism wherever we meet it."

As chairman of the Committee on Christianity and Industrial Relations Bishop McConnell's report, which was adopted almost unanimously, was another call to arms.

Churches For Profit

"We acknowledge with shame and regret," the report read, "that the churches everywhere are dominated almost entirely by profit."

"This has been one of the most courageous meetings I have known in all my forty years' experience," declared Dr. John R. Mott of New York, who acted as chairman of the Council. "The delegates showed discernment without losing touch with realities. I believe the meeting will have far-reaching effects."

Other Americans who attended the Council, in addition to Bishop McConnell and Dr. Mott, were Professor L. A. Weigle of Yale University; W. E. Hocking of Harvard; Robert Spear, the Rev. Ralph Diefendorfer and K. L. Butterfield, President of Michigan State College.

SHIP FEW POTATOES FROM CONNECTICUT

Washington, May 10.—A study of the white potato industry and the relationship of prices to transportation costs, completed today by the Bureau of Railway Economics, showed that carload shipments of this commodity last year amounted to 251,211 cars, approximately 7,200 cars above the annual average for the five-year period ending with that year.

Of the 48 states, Maine shipped more white potatoes last year than any other, amounting to 41,751 cars or about 17 per cent of the United States total. The other principal potato producing states in the order of importance and number of carloads shipped, in 1927 were: Minnesota, 31,394; Virginia, 23,650; Idaho 17,934; Wisconsin 16,685; Colorado, 15,313; New York, 12,535; Michigan 10,525.

Connecticut was the only state in the Union from which no carload shipments were made last year. Distribution of the potato crop is widespread, the survey showed, several states making shipments to as many as 25 other states. Many of the larger markets receive potatoes from 20 or more states. Detroit, for instance, received its potato supply from 27 states; Milwaukee, 27; Cleveland 32; Chicago 36.

New York last year received more potatoes than any other city, rail shipments received there amounting to 21,827 cars. Chicago received 15,360 cars; Philadelphia, 7,736; Boston 7,533; Los Angeles 5,227.

17,000 PLANT SPECIMENS FROM TROPICS BROUGHT BACK BY EXPEDITION

Miami, Fla.—The yacht "Utowana" owned by Allison V. Armour, returned to Miami recently with a rare collection of tropical plant life collected from the Equatorial Belt.

On board the yacht was Dr. David Fairchild, former government botanist who made the voyage on the original Armour expedition which required four years in touring Africa, Siam and other points.

The yacht carried more than 17,000 specimens which will be exploited here.

Paris.—After receiving two death sentences, Auguste Martin, wife-murderer, was publicly executed by the guillotine before about one hundred and fifty spectators. His first sentence cancelled, a new trial was granted, but Martin again received the death penalty.

OUR TREES

WALNUT AND WEDDINGS

The Greeks and Romans held the walnut a symbol of good luck and walnuts were always scattered at their weddings.

Today black walnut, commonly called American walnut, is one of the best known and most prized woods in the United States. Because of its rich dark color and excellent finishing, seasoning and working qualities it is particularly valued for interior trim and furniture.

Since the days of the ancient matchlock guns walnut, because of its toughness and strength, has been the most universally used wood for gunstocks. The strength of walnut and its relative lightness make it one of the best woods for airplane propellers.

The principal use of walnut today is for furniture and cabinet work in general, both in the form of solid wood and veneer. It is extensively used for radio cabinets and pianos, sewing machine cabinets and burial cases.

Since time was people have liked the "feel" of wood and no satisfactory substitutes have been found for the handles of implements—for steering wheels, for instance. It has become the accepted wood for steering wheels of automobiles.

Heartwood of black walnut is light brown to dark or chocolate brown and the sapwood is nearly white. It is now a common practice to darken the sapwood to match the heartwood by steaming or staining.

Black walnut wood is straight grained and easily worked with tools. It is very durable and early Americans often used it for fence posts and rails.

OLD AMUNDSEN HELPER ASKS BYRD FOR CHANCE ON SOUTH POLE FLIGHT

Cleveland.—An old sea-salt Capt. Olaf Aslaksen, 58, who has sailed the world salt waters for 42 years wants to accompany Commander Richard Byrd's Expedition to the South Pole.

Aslaksen, who accompanied Amundsen on the Belgian expedition to the Antarctic as second mate declared he believed he would be of great aid to the noted flyer.

"I know the Straits of Magellan as well as you fellows know the Cleveland streets," the aged sea captain told acquaintances. "I am sure I could be of some help to Byrd on this trip which will take him through these waters."

ESTATE WIPED OUT TO PAY OFF DEBTS

Chicago, May 10.—The vice great estate of the late J. Ogden Armour, a few years ago rated as the world's second richest man, has been practically wiped out in payment of his post war debts, it was learned today.

Mrs. Armour, widow of the late packing king, and her daughter Mrs. John J. Mitchell, and other relatives have turned over practically the entire estate, including beautiful Melody Farm, the family's Lake Forest home, to settle the obligations of the late head of Armour & Co.

Not only did Mrs. Armour and Mrs. Mitchell turn in almost all the assets of the once vast Armour estate, but they gave much from their personal fortunes to make good obligations incurred by the packing king during the post-war depression period.

Under the settlement, which has just been agreed upon, Armour & Co., is free to dispose of 1,000,000 shares of Class B stock and 500,000 shares of Class A stock, which has been held by the company against loans to Mr. Armour for other investments.

At one time Mr. Armour owned 70 per cent of the $100,000,000 of common stock in Armour & Co.

BE HUMAN BE KIND BE PROMPT AND GENEROUS

YOUR HOSPITAL IS UP-TO-DATE

We are supporting a first class hospital in Manchester. GRADE A1, which means—efficient, well-equipped, well managed in its class. Manchester Memorial Hospital scores improved appliances, apparatus and medical devices as soon as their worth is demonstrated.

YOUR HOSPITAL IS WELL MANNED

A graduate physician is resident at the hospital, as well as a graduate anaesthetist on full time duty and a graduate dietitian who plans the food for all patients, following the physician's orders very carefully weighed and calculated diets in special cases.

The Nursing staff is made up entirely of graduate nurses and every patient is at all times under the care of an experienced nurse from a school of approved standing.

A Visiting Staff of local physicians cooperates faithfully to advance the usefulness of the hospital to its community.

A Consulting Staff of surgeons and specialists from Hartford and elsewhere. And back of the whole institution stands the Superintendent, a woman of vision and wide experience in hospital management.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

The cost of the professional staff, together with the other employees necessary for the operation of the hospital constitutes 50% of the yearly general running expenditures. During seven years the hospital has cared for 8319 patients. In 1927, 1407 patients were supplied with medical and surgical care, an average of 30 pieces of clean linen a day per patient, tempting, well-balanced meals, and the nursing attention their cases called for.

The Professional Care of patients, salaries of attendants, medical and surgical supplies, drugs, anaesthesia, X-Ray and Pathological Laboratories and Social Service Departments have cost in 1927, approximately $30,000.

The expenses of the Nurses' Residence, Laundry, Housekeeping Department, the Kitchen and Food in 1927 exceeded $30,000.

For instance:

9,000 loaves bread	450 qts. cream	3,000 lbs. beef
2,700 doz. eggs	1,200 doz. oranges	5,000 lbs. fowl
2,000 lbs. butter	17,000 qts. milk	2,500 lbs. lamb

Maintenance of the physical plant including heating, cleaning, grounds, etc., was in 1927 about $18,000.

THE ANNUAL DRIVE

The people of Manchester will begin tomorrow to collect $30,000 which will enable the hospital to wipe out the operating deficit of last year, to make alteration in two departments, and to purchase some additional equipment.

Manchester and Meriden In Track Meet Tomorrow

Dual Track and Field Meet Friday Afternoon at West Side Playgrounds at 3 O'Clock.

Manchester High and Meriden High will engage in a track and field meet tomorrow afternoon at the West Side Playgrounds. The first of the thirteen numbers will start at 3 o'clock. This is the first contest of the season for the local school and a victory is eagerly sought.

The interclass meet held recently gave Coach Charles L. Wilson a good idea of the ability of his large squad and he has been governed accordingly in picking his entries for the various events. The program includes 100 yard heats, high jump, shot put, 100 yard male, 880 yard run, broad jump, discus throw, 220 yard heats, mile run, pole vault, javelin, 220 yard finals, and 440 yard run.

Meriden's entries have not been received but Manchester's will be as follows: 100 and 220—Murphy, Cheney, Treat, Buckland and Taylor. High—Tomlinson, Nelson, Eells, Foster and McCaw. 880—Gleynie, Tomlinson, Greenway, Rubino and Hansen. Pole—Scarlato, Mercer, Johnson, Burr and Salmon. Javelin—Cervini, Kennedy, Kittel, Salmon, Lynde, and Mozzier. 440—Lynne, Spears, Marks and Brown. Broad—Johnson, Olson, Scarlato, Nicola and Kittel. Discus—Johnson, Spencer, Kittel, Gleynie and Armstrong. Mile—McCleary, L'Heureux, Foster, Jilison, and Robb. Shot—Kittel, Keeney, Spencer, Robertson, Cheney, Cervini, Schoen and Mozzier.

Aces Have Strong Pitching Material

The Aces who have only played one game as yet are working hard to improve their team. The players report three times a week for practice. They all seem to have the ambition to prove their ability to Manchester fans.

With "Lefty" Wiley, "Cyclone" Hills, Janicki, Curtis, Schmehl and Andrioli doing mound duty, the team does not need reinforcements in this position.

"Lefty" Wiley, known throughout the town and also a good area of the state, will do most of the mound work for the Aces. "Lefty's" experience with Manchester High school should help him greatly.

"Cyclone" Hills, although young at the same is expected to win many games. The pitching staff very much pleases the coach and manager.

Manager Louis A. Neron requests that all members of team report at McGee street and Center street at 8:30 sharp, tonight.

EYES OF DEMPSEY REALLY AFFECTED

While in New York He Visited Hospital and Learned He Had Cataract.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 10—Jack Dempsey really has faulty vision, brought about by the punches he received in the ring. He was leveling when he told the boys that defective eyesight was responsible for his walter confessed retirement. Later, upon his arrival in New York, he saw fit to laugh at the story. Let him laugh at this one: Dempsey consulted a specialist here several weeks ago about the condition of his eyes. The writer knows this to be true because the fact was admitted today at the Manhattan Eye and Throat Hospital where the examination took place. It merely was a superficial diagnosis, as Dempsey was embroiled in the Kearns suit at the time and couldn't arrange sufficient appointments to undergo a course of treatment.

The preliminary examination showed a small cataract, caused by an injury to the retina. This, it is said, is the more aggravated form of cataract and requires great delicacy in the matter of treatment. Sooner or later, it is believed, Dempsey will have to go under the knife or sacrifice the sight of the eye so affected. Needless to add, a complete cure must be effected before Dempsey can consider fighting again.

Consulted Specialist

His friends here say he had this idea in mind when he consulted the specialist at the hospital, for the condition is far from an advanced or even an alarming one at this time. It could wait, they contend, for a more favorable moment, if it wasn't for the fact that it might happen that Dempsey will find he has urgent need of good eyesight in order to find the dotted line without hesitation.

These same friends declare his insistence that a fight clause be inserted in his theatrical contract was only one of many indications that he still thinks of fighting. In his interviews, to say nothing of eyes or no eyes, he seriously discussed a return to the ring and that he talked down the eyesight story upon his arrival here because he realized this crack might be used against him if he decided to fight again. They are certain that he will.

Jack's Story

"Lay off that eye stuff," he requested with a laugh when he arrived in New York. "I wish I had the guy who started that story. There's nothing at that story. I simply wear glasses sometimes because I don't like the glare of strong sunlight."

Within ten days of that statement, Dempsey was at a hospital asking what could be done about his eyes. He had approved so highly, he said he would return after the suit was settled. He didn't. Perhaps this means Rickard has convinced him that there will be no need of him changing his mind this year and, therefore, he decided an immediate operation was unnecessary. Perhaps it means that Dempsey, having made his retirement speech, has decided to stick to it.

What is more likely is that his failure to return was the result of one of those impulses for which Dempsey has become noted. In any case, those who claim to know him best won't listen to any argument that tends to support his retirement story.

First Twilight Game Here Tomorrow Night

Community Club Plays Rockville Back of "White House" Friday; Goes to Bristol Sunday.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

The first twilight baseball game of the season will be played tomorrow night at Community Club Playgrounds when the Community Club stacks against the Rockville A. A. nine. Play will start promptly at 6:15 and Jimmy O'Leary will be behind the bat.

Coach Fay said last night that his team would take the field with its regular lineup. The battery is a bit uncertain yet and probably will not be decided upon until the last minute. Either Weber, McLaughlin or Prentice will get the call for mound duty while Wallett or Kelly will be on the receiving end.

The Community Club seems to be represented by one of the strongest outfits that ever upheld the north end's prestige. It's a team of splendid batters, many of whom are hard hitters. The Community is entered in the state league and has already won its first game in the circuit. Manchester plays at Bristol Sunday against the New Departures, Manchester's greatest rival in this sport. This game will also be a league affair. The one with Rockville is not a league contest.

BARNES' PITCHING, THE FLASHY KIND

Shuts Out Pittsburgh by Score of 6-0—American League Clubs All Idle.

New York, May 10—The pennant prospects of the league-leading New York Giants were more rosate today because of the brand of pitching flashed by the veteran Virgil Barnes in New York's 6 to 0 victory willow right-hander had been "short" in his previous workouts, as we say in the paddock, but yesterday he went the full route without blowing up and hung up the first shutout victory registered by a New York pitcher this season.

Barnes held the slugging Pirates to five hits. John McGraw's "Able" Irish Rose" combination, Cohen and Hogan, drove in four runs. The champions didn't get a hit until the sixth inning. Cincinnati kept to the pace by trouncing Boston, 4 to 1. Old Ed Rixey limited the Braves to four hits in eight innings. They are falling into their last year's habit of losing games by one run.

The St. Louis Cardinals trounced the Phils again, 7 to 1, and advanced to within a few points of the third-place Pirates. Heap Biggs Littlejohn, Indian twirler, toyed with the Quakers while the Red Birds made merry at the expense of two of the former pitchers, Ring and McGraw.

Inclement weather kept all the American League club idle.

YOUNG HERB FRAZIER ALLOWS ONLY FIVE HITS IN HIS DEBUT

Boggini, Dowds, Kerr Swat Timely Blows That Pay Way For Visitors' Downfall; Play at Meriden Tomorrow.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Manchester High won its third straight game and inflicted the first defeat of the season on West Hartford High yesterday afternoon at the West Side Playgrounds in a game marked by the splendid work of Herb Frazier, rookie pitcher, who struck out 11 batsmen and allowed only five hits, three of them being of the scratch variety. The victory, which was attained by a 5 to 0 margin, started Manchester off on the right track for its strenuous program this week which calls for two more contests, one at Meriden tomorrow afternoon and the other with Bulkeley High in the Whaling City Saturday afternoon.

West Hartford came to Manchester with a splendid record and little expected the fate it received. Hartford turned back Rockville, Hartford, Weaver and Meriden in succession, the boys from across the river were hot favorites to stop Coach Tommy Kelley's pluck band of warriors, but they were equal to the occasion by a long shot.

Young Frazier, who is a 16-year-old senior, didn't come out for the squad before this season but when Coach Kelley made his earnest plea for anybody the least bit inclined as a pitcher, Frazier reported for practice. Yesterday was his first call, and he more than made good. He had the West Hartford batters biting at all kinds of pitches, so anxious were they to start a hitting rally. Several times, they threatened, but after the second inning, not a single runner reached third base and only two got as far as second.

Manchester scored a run in the second inning when Nino Boggini whaled a lusty triple to left field and scored when Dickie Kerr hoisted a sacrifice fly to center. For six innings this was the only resemblance of a score and it began to look as though one run might decide the contest. West Hartford was breaking its back trying to hit Frazier.

In the seventh, Manchester pushed two more runs across the plate. Two timely hits in the midst of a volley of errors did the trick. Nino Boggini was safe on an error and scored on Lupton's single and then Ab came home on Kerr's long double to center. This marked the end of Boisseau's lead who transferred from Weaver to West Hartford for baseball reasons, it is reported, and Collier took his place. The latter was touched up for a

WOMAN FARMER POSED AS MAN FOR 60 YEARS

Iowa City, Iowa.—Sixty years ago Mary Miller, then eighteen years old, decided a woman did not have a fair chance in life because of her sex.

The conclusion of her deliberations upon the age-old sociological problems was that she must either submit to the view that a woman's place was in the home or change her sex.

RABBIT CLUB FINDS BIG DEMAND WAITING

Raisers Discover That Market For Animals Exceeds Members' Stocks.

The Manchester Rabbit Club, Unit No. 1, added two new members to its roll last night.

Each week the club will be able to supply the market with a dealer in the Middle West, who would take 1,000 rabbits a day from the raisers if he could get them.

A committee was named to draw up by-laws before the next meeting, to be held next Wednesday.

This committee is charged with the drafting of a plan for maintaining a statistical bureau to keep track of the number and breeds of rabbits owned by each member.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY PICKS RABBI FOR GRADUATION TALK

Austin, Texas.—Texas University this year has turned to a Jewish rabbi for its baccalaureate sermon.

Rabbi Henry Cohen, of Galveston, for 40 years a pastor in that city, and widely known leader in Jewish circles, in that city has been selected to deliver the annual sermon to the graduating class on Sunday, June 8.

Rabbi Cohen has a broad and liberal education, enriched by contact with both the old world and the new. Educated in Jews Hospital, Lower Norwood, London, England, and ordained a rabbi in 1884, Rabbi Cohen did his early religious work in Kingston, Jamaica.

Coming to the United States, he first went to Woodville, Miss., where he performed pastoral duties. Later, he began his Texas pastoral work in Galveston in 1888 and has remained there continuously since.

Rabbi Cohen has written many articles and several books on Biblical and historical subjects. He is president of the Jewish Home for homeless children in Galveston; a member of the advisory board of governors of Hebrew Union College, and supervisor of the eighteenth district of the Department of Synagogue and School Extension of the Union American Hebrew Congregations.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED. NATHANIEL DANN, struggling artist, gives a party at his studio in honor of his niece, VIRGINIA, beautiful daughter of RICHARD BREWSTER, Wall Street financier.

NIEL's model, CHIEF, is jealous of VIRGINIA and tells him he will spoil his career. He marries the wealthy girl who cannot appreciate his art.

During the party NIEL hears that VIRGINIA's father has died of heart failure. He hurries her home, where she is prostrated with grief. Nothing the peculiarly tortured expression on the dead man's face, NIEL involuntarily nuzzles the doctor, "Do you think it was a natural death?"

The doctor advises that death was caused by worry and shock, and it is later revealed that BREWSTER had lost his fortune through reckless speculation. VIRGINIA hears up bravely under the double loss and NIEL, an earnest, immediate marriage but his pleading is interrupted by PRUDENCE DEAN, a family friend.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

"VIRGINIA, I wish you hadn't consented to see anyone just now," Nathaniel protested when the maid had gone to admit the caller. "There is something I wanted to talk to you about."

"But Niel, I couldn't send Mr. Dean away."

"No, I suppose not. He's been a great help." Nathaniel spoke a trifle acerbicly.

"He and Clarissa both, Niel. She's been an angel, missing things to be here with me."

Nathaniel held his tongue in reply to that. He happened to know that Clarissa Dean had kept some of her engagements. One of them was a dance. But so long as Virginia was happier in the belief that Clarissa had sacrificed her social pleasures altogether during her friend's black days, let her think so.

He did not feel so tolerant of the girl's father, however, for he did not like Mr. Dean. There was something about the man, intangible, indefinable, that made Nathaniel want to refuse to shake hands with him. And he had been one of her father's oldest friends; a man who belonged to the same clubs for which the names of both had been put up at birth.

But still Nathaniel did not like him, and when he appeared in the doorway, wearing a sympathetic smile, Nathaniel nodded curtly, murmured a vague greeting and stood with his hands behind him.

Dean took no notice of him beyond a quick "howdy-do."

"I'll come back soon," he said, hoping Dean would take the hint.

Virginia kissed him goodbye, but her fingers seemed to cling a little to him as she let him go.

"Mr. dean," Dean began in a sad voice when she was again seated beside him. "I would not have intruded upon you at this moment had I not felt that it might comfort you to know I was your father's confidant and that I am aware of the blow you have suffered today. I promised Richard I would see you through it."

"Is it really as bad as Mr. Gardner says?" Virginia asked him, her voice rising a little.

"Richard gave me to understand that matters were in a very bad state—but of course I do not know what Mr. Gardner said."

"He said there was nothing left—that even the furniture in this apartment must be sold." Suddenly Virginia's hands were withdrawn from Dean's grasp and were covering her face. Her body shook with the emotion she had until now been gallantly suppressing.

Dean's arms went around her; he drew her head to his shoulder, and if there was a touch of greediness in his movements Virginia was not aware of it.

Virginia smiled up at him, but the smile chilled Nathaniel's hope.

"I can't understand it, Uncle Frederick," she called Mr. Dean that sometimes—"what shall I do?"

"That's what I've come to talk to you about, my dear. Naturally you will come to us. And perhaps, when the estate is settled, there will be more for you than we think there is."

"I wouldn't mind losing the money if father had lived," Virginia said. "And I don't mind so much for myself—but there's Niel."

"You fear, it will make a difference to him?" he asked in surprise. Such an idea had not crossed his own mind, though he welcomed it readily enough.

Virginia smiled wanly at his misinterpretation of her words.

"Niel regretted that he was going to marry a girl with money," she explained hastily. "He wouldn't have taken any of it for himself but it would have made it possible for him to devote himself to his work without worrying about supporting a wife."

"Ah, I see; you're quite right to think of him, Virginia. When a man knows he is neglecting to provide properly for the woman he loves he is sure to be distracted from his work. Especially if he knows that that very work is the cause of the neglect."

"I think Niel wants me to marry him right away. He hasn't said so yet, but I'm sure he made up his mind to do it when he heard Mr. Gardner say I must give up this place."

"That would be disastrous," Dean snapped. "You mustn't think of it, Virginia. You have said yourself that it would be detrimental to his career; besides, you cannot think of marrying so soon after your father's death. It wouldn't be respectful to your father's memory."

"I think father would wish it," Virginia said softly, "but I don't want to begin my life with Niel under a shadow."

"Then will you come to us?"

"I must talk to Niel first, but please don't think I am not grateful to you and Clarissa. It would be so much harder to bear without you two, and Niel."

"Well, I hope you won't let him cloud your judgment. I'm sure you don't realize what a change has come to you, Virginia. Everything is a rather terrible thing to one brought up as you have been. It will require some time for you to adjust yourself to it. Much better that you should do it alone and not as a hindrance to a young man who is still at the foot of the ladder."

"I know you are right," Virginia agreed miserably.

"Of course I am, but you mustn't expect a young man in love to agree with me. Be careful, my dear, that he doesn't confuse you and make you forget to think of consequences."

"I'll try to make him understand," Virginia promised.

Very soon afterwards Mr. Dean planted a fatherly kiss upon her forehead and left her. In the lobby of the building he met Nathaniel and the two men exchanged brief, unsmiling nods.

Virginia had gone into her dressing room to bathe her eyes in cold water when the maid opened the door to Nathaniel. "What did Dean have to say to you?"

"Sweetheart," he cried, and Virginia thought he acted as though he had not seen her for weeks. "I was a fool to get out," he chided himself openly. "What did Dean have to say to you?"

"He has offered me a home," Virginia said, limp in his arms. Nathaniel sometimes forgot his strength when he held her.

"The devil! What does he think I am? I hope you told him you're going to marry me without delay."

Virginia smiled up at him, but the smile chilled Nathaniel's hope. He could see it was meant to soften the refusal that was to follow.

"Let me get my breath," she pleaded, and Nathaniel released her.

"Now tell me what you said to him," he urged.

"I promised to talk it over with you."

"But you knew what I'd say, Virginia; there's only one answer. We will be married as soon as you must give up this apartment. Right away would be better. I don't want you living here alone. I'll get a little place of our own; I'd like you wouldn't care to live in the studio. What do you say, dear?"

"I can't say anything but no, Niel. Please try to understand; I'm too unhappy to think of getting married. It wouldn't be fair to you either."

"But I want to look after you," Nathaniel protested pleadingly.

"You said you told Mr. Dean you would talk it over with me, but it seems you had your mind already made up."

He paused as a significant thought came to him. "Or else you don't believe in me," he rushed on. "I've failed you in some way?"

"Oh, no," Virginia cried and put a hand to his lips. "I love you more dearly than anything in the world. . . . now, Niel, but I must be wise for both of us. I'm sure you haven't thought this out as I have."

"No, I haven't thought far enough to reach such a crazy conclusion as that," Niel told her, "but my thinking doesn't have to be very profound to convince me that you've had help in making your wise decision." He spoke bitterly.

"Dean's been advising you," he accused shortly.

SOMETHING NEW FOR MANCHESTER

Mrs. A. M. Gordon, well known local corseteer, assisted by Mrs. Ida M. Starr, state manager for "NuBone" corsets, will demonstrate the 2928 models of corsets, corsetettes and accessories, Wednesday, May 16, 2 to 5 p. m., in Tinker hall, 791 Main street. The NuBone surgical corsets and belts, the best made, will be shown, as well as the newest materials. A cordial invitation is extended to the women of Manchester and surrounding towns to come and bring their friends.

Everybody loves fresh asparagus. Six acres devoted to this delicious spring vegetable at the Louis L. Grant farm at Buckland. They have just begun cutting. Prices at the farm, 30 and 35c; splendid value for canning or present use as low as 15c a bunch.

The season is late this year for native asparagus. It is at least two weeks late for everything. From five to six weeks more we can get the vegetable in fresh every day. The most common ways of serving asparagus are buttered or creamed on toast. Many make soup of the lower portions of the stalks. We give a recipe today for cream of asparagus soup that may prove useful. The crooked stalks which are to be found in all beds and which do not burn up uniformly are excellent for canning for winter use, using the tender portions, and cutting into pieces for packing in the jars. These odds and ends may be bought very reasonably and are just as delicious as the straight stalks.

The preparation of asparagus for the jars or the table is the same, washing and scraping. Some cooks place the tougher portions of the vegetable in the kettle and cook them, then add the tips, while others try to have the heads out of water for 15 minutes, then place flat and cook 10 minutes longer. 25 minutes is long enough altogether.

To make creamed asparagus soup, use one quart of milk, two tablespoons each butter and flour; season to taste. Prepare a bunch of asparagus and cook until tender. Remove the heads and set aside for creaming or salad. Press the rest of the asparagus through a colander and add to the milk mixture.

One advocate of daylight saving figures that it gives us 155 hours more for sports, gardening, walks, drives and other summer diversions, hence 155 more happier and enjoyable hours of prolonged daylight.

There are a number of salad combinations of asparagus with other vegetables that are very good, such as eggs, shrimps, or rings of bright red pepper on a bed of lettuce, served with a little tomato catsup added to the French dressing. Some people even use asparagus for shortcakes, or pinched with chicken in sandwiches.

Very often a tomato or celery sauce adds much to a hot meat loaf. The men seem to think meat loaves rather dry and tasteless but the sauce will correct this fault. If a cutlet or steak is used when the loaf is put in with a thick coating of crumbs over the surface of the loaf, it will be more moist and tasty.

strips, gathered on one end and sewed to the umbrellas in ruffles, the colors alternating. The stem and handle were wound with blue with a large bow of pink on the crook. This stood on a corner table and around under it were the packages. The only cost was the paper and a little time to trim it.

"GROWING" WITH HER CHILDREN IS JOY FOR MOTHER OF FAMOUS TWINS

"Companionate marriage and delayed marriage are apt to cheat a woman of her biggest happiness—that of having her children and growing up with them," says Mrs. "Teddy" Zitenfeld, mother of the famous Zitenfeld twins who hold the long-distance record on the Hudson and expect to swim the English Channel.

"I have spent most of my time with my children since they were born and I know of no one who enjoys life as I do. We swim together, dance, ride horseback, play golf and tennis together."

"For a period I lived in the country just so they could spend all their time outdoors. I consider no inconvenience too great for the pleasure I derive from seeing my girls happy and healthy."

"If women are especially gifted as musicians or artists and want to devote their lives to their careers, all right. But it seems to me if women marry, they should assume home responsibilities seriously and keep house and bring up their children personally."

"I am teaching my children to cook, sew, and keep house so that they will make a good home-keeper when they are grown."

"For I think that women still are old-fashioned, at heart."

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The awards committee will meet with Mrs. Nelson Smith, 55 E. Middle Turnpike, Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of Scouts at the rally to be held Tuesday evening, May 15th at 7 p. m. in the "Gym" of the School Street Recreation.

The Scouts have been invited to attend the morning service at the Center Congregational church Sunday, May 27th.

Sunday, May 13, at 7:00 p. m. the Boy and Girl Scouts will hold a service at the Second Congregational church. All Scouts are asked to come in uniform at 6:45. Parents and friends are cordially invited.

POPULAR WOMEN

The most popular women of the nation were recently chosen by popular vote through a French newspaper. The list was headed by Mrs. Curie, discoverer of radium. Then came, in order of popularity, Sarah Bernhardt, Edith Cavell, George Sand, Evangeline Booth, Louise Michel, Mme. de Noailles, Mme. Severine and Mme. de Staël. Florence Nightingale, Lolo Fuller, and Suzanne Lenglen almost got in on the first ten list.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

Marye dear:

I really meant to say more to you in my last letter about your behavior when Norman got into trouble with your South American friend.

One of the biggest boasts of present day young folks is their sportsmanship, I understand. Now I wonder, Marye, if you consider it "good" sportsmanship to "run away from a fight that you were responsible for" Norman was protecting you, as he saw it. Was it fair to leave him to whatever might happen to him?

Personally, I'm glad you had sense enough to realize what an ugly affair you were mixed up in. But I think you ought to admit that it was your fault. You say it wasn't, but don't you see that if you had been tending to your own business—I'll bet you haven't baked a cake for Alan in weeks—what I believe you call "free thought." But when it falls, as it is sure to do, you will discover that there is real pleasure to be had in the simple things of life.

All I hope is that you won't be too long finding it out, because something you might do may be too much for Alan to tolerate. If nothing more, that might lead to a series of quarrels that would rob your married life of the peace that makes a truly blessed union. Do think this over, Marye, dear.

Lovingly,

we shall live them, that we are able to have peace and security.

Imagine for a moment what would happen if the universe suddenly became as disorganized as some of the people on this earth. I don't believe you don't think, dear? Well, it's a sound comparison to the state of affairs that will exist between men and women if the younger generation continues to fly in the face of convention and custom.

If you'd use a little more imagination and a little less witfulness, you would better appreciate a home and a chance to live happily. It may seem like happiness to you to live in a whirl of excitement and what I believe you call "free thought." But when it falls, as it is sure to do, you will discover that there is real pleasure to be had in the simple things of life.

All I hope is that you won't be too long finding it out, because something you might do may be too much for Alan to tolerate. If nothing more, that might lead to a series of quarrels that would rob your married life of the peace that makes a truly blessed union. Do think this over, Marye, dear.

The WOMAN'S DAY

The trial of Mrs. Florence E. Knapp, former secretary of state of New York, on a charge of misappropriation of funds, is bringing forth the usual blast of asinine comments condemning all women in public life.

"Bad blot on the 'scentcheon of all the political girls,'" they say. Or, "Too bad she had to gum things up for all working women."

Have you heard any comments to the effect that Harry Sinclair made it almost impossible for any man to get a job any more? An argument is as inane as the other.

Aside from this, even if proven guilty of graft, she may not be Mrs. Knapp's graft will look like "mad money" compared with the loot that most any male politician grabs. Most any woman in public office has to expect a certain amount of suspicion that would never be especially circumspect.

ten" list would be unknown in other countries. It is generally sensational destructive careers that make people better known throughout a large area than constructive work. Ruth Snyder's name might be known in Shanghai; Jane Addams, unknown.

POOR BETTY! For 15 years Mrs. Bert Campbell supported and cared for her invalid husband. A nurse, she bought their bread and butter by taking night cases, and spent her days caring for her husband—washing, cooking, cleaning, all with never a word of complaint. The other day the invalid husband shot his wife to death. He complained that he was tired of her pity and motherly care for him. "Fate cheated me out of a wife and gave me a nurse and mother," he said. This might sound well on the stage and the audience might decide it knew "just how the poor man felt." But somehow, in real life, it sounds despicable.

There are so many Bert Campbells who insist on getting just what they want, and letting a woman figure out just how it is to be gotten. Mrs. Campbell was at fault, it seems, for not knowing how to support him and herself, keep the home going—care for him, and yet be the eternal sweetheart.

DOCTORS DRAW UP RULES FOR BATHERS SAFETY

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of six articles on healthful swimming. Tomorrow: Beach control.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The committee on control of swimming pools appointed by the section on diseases of the nose and throat of the American Medical Association provided, in addition to the standard notice to be posted in swimming pools, a list of rules for the sanitation and safety of swimming pools, which sum up briefly the important factors. The rules are:

All swimming pools are to be maintained with a practical minimum amount of contamination. There shall be no more than 1,000 colonies of bacteria per cubic centimeter of standard agar culture medium on which germs are grown after incubating for twenty-four hours at 37 degrees F. The B coli content shall be such that the gas is produced in not more than one and a half of standard lactie broth cultures after incubation for twenty-four hours with 1 cc. of water. (This applies to scientific checks on the number of germs in the water.)

Water in the pool shall at all times of use be sufficiently transparent, under existing lighting conditions, that when the water surface is not excessively agitated by bathers, a person can stand at the side of the pool and see the bottom distinctly where the depth of water is 6 feet or less.

Facilities for adequate protection of the pool water against unnecessary sputum contamination by bathers shall be provided.

All persons known to be or suspected of being affected with infectious diseases shall be excluded from the pool.

Contamination of the pool resulting from lack of personal cleanliness of bathers shall be maintained at a minimum.

Construction and appliances shall be such as to reduce to a practical minimum the danger of drowning and of injury to bathers from falls or collisions.

Dressing rooms, hallways, toilet rooms, shower rooms and other places in which patrons of a bath house have access shall be kept clean and well ventilated at all times.

Bathing suits and towels, when distributed to bathers by the pool management, shall be clean and free from excessive bacterial contamination.

The management of the pool shall have printed and posted in conspicuous places about the establishment notices briefly informing patrons of the requirements to which they are subject in the maintenance of a safe and sanitary pool. A form of notice is suggested to pool operators; it should be so placed that all bathers cannot fail to read it before entering the pool.

In addition to these rules some recommend that no person be permitted to enter the pool within one hour after eating. Some demand that every bather be medically examined before being granted the use of the pool and at fairly frequent intervals thereafter.

Home Page Editorial GREETING ANOTHER BENEDICT

By Olive Roberts Barton

So Michael Arlen is married! That's fine. Just one more skeptic converted at last and kneeling at Hymen's altar for his blessing.

Of course Mr. Arlen wasn't exactly a scoffer, but if one may judge by his books, marriage was not man's chief end by any means, or woman's either, although that did not exclude romance. Romany roads to romance have been his strong point in all of his books and plays.

In these days of ultra-sophistication and countless standards of conduct, the marriage of an author such as Mr. Arlen can result in nothing but good. That it was performed by a Russian priest in the most Russian manner, and that a chorus of honest-to-goodness Cossacks sang Russian hymns with impressive solemnity did not make it any different from the simple little home ceremony in which Mary promises to honor and obey John till death do them part.

Marriage is marriage, the natural state of man and woman since the world began, and, I hope, until the world ends.

At a recent conference of a welfare organization in the south, one speaker of national reputation remarked: "In spite of all the limitations and difficulties in family life today, social workers have come to the opinion that monogamy, or marriage with one wife, is biologically and socially sound."

Of course it is. That is the trouble with books written to the contrary. So often authors of books and plays that convey erotic ideas personally hold ideals of life, for themselves, that are clean and straight and wholesome. Old-fashioned, we may say.

Mr. Arlen is not the first author who has belied his fiction.

If you worry over past mistakes you'll make more, as your mind will not be concentrated on your work.

TO CITE KNAPP JUROR

Albany, N. Y., May 10.—George Z. Medalle, special deputy attorney general, who is prosecuting former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp, today will attempt to cite David Main, one of the six jurors who voted to acquit Mrs. Knapp, for contempt of court.

A statement made by Main to an Albany reporter, in which he is alleged to have said he voted for Mrs. Knapp's acquittal because District Attorney Charles J. Herrick, of Albany, said there was not sufficient evidence to convict her, is the basis for the alleged contempt proceedings.

Main was quoted as saying that if Herrick couldn't find enough evidence to convict Mrs. Knapp, "I couldn't see where anyone else could."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

Husbands would be made better furnace tenders if the radio set were down in the cellar. Not so sure; keeping the bottle capping contrivance down there hasn't helped any.

If mushy sopranos and bawling baritones were eliminated from radio musical programs and preference given the violin and piano, many listeners with sensitive ears would count themselves fortunate.

Agent (selling radio sets)—I have something here that will bring the world to your door. Jones—How about a quart?

A venerable old Scot purchased a little radio set, and a few days later his friends asked him how he liked it. "Well, it's aw right to listen to," he replied, "but those bulbs are nae so guid to read by."

Americanism: Listening over a $300 radio set to hear a 78c record played on a $75 phonograph.

Wife: "I mended the hole in your trousers pocket last night after you had gone to bed, John, dear. Now, am I not a thoughtful little wife?"

Husband (dubiously): "Well, er-yes, you are thoughtful enough, my dear; but how the mischief did you discover that there was a hole in my pocket?"

Of the twenty-two million letters sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington last year, there wasn't a bill in the batch.

One thing about airplanes: They cannot suddenly back out of a center parking space.

A Manchester woman says she doesn't want her husband cured from talking in his sleep, but she would like to give him something that would make him talk a little plainer.

Lives of great men all remind us, As their pages o'er we turn, That we're apt to leave behind us Letters that we ought to burn.

Harry F. Sinclair, with a little more money, would have leased the national Capitol for an office building.

The most satisfactory one-piece bathing suit is the one the small boys uses far from the maddening crowd.

A modern mother is one that can hold safety pins and a cigarette in her mouth at the same time.

Some girls are too young to know better, but they are willing to learn.

Talk is cheap, but not to a young man who has a girl at the other end of a long distance wire.

"The old woman doesn't always keep my socks in repair, but most of the time she does her darndest."

Most men don't mind being lied about, but they cannot stand the truth told on 'em.

Old bachelors, grass widows and other geese go in flocks.

We no longer hear anything that shocks us.

Reckless driving sometimes has an elevating influence.

LETTER GOLF

THIS ONE'S PRETTY

A BABY DOLL is sometimes a puzzling sort of person, but today's letter golf puzzle is fairly easy to understand. Par is a mere five and you'll find one solution on another page.

Letter golf puzzle grid with letters B, A, B, Y, D, O, L, L.

THE RULES.

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change Cow to Hen in three strokes: COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You can change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

A man can die and escape his enemies, but his fool friends are almost certain to "help" the widow with the estate.

"I don't understand your letting young Perkins marry your daughter. I thought you were enemies." "Yes. And now he will have my wife as his mother-in-law."

A proposal is like a telephone-ring at the end of the line.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tinymites then quickly went back to the garden where they spent an hour or so at work, and then one said, "Let's rest, and play." A daisy walked right up and said, "Oh, thanks for fixing up our bed. The garden looks just wonderful. You're all done well today. "And, now, we'll give you quite a treat, that is, if you like music sweet. We have a little orchestra that plays fine melody. The tunes are queer, I will admit, but with music, it will make a hit. You Tinymites can all sit down, and you will shortly see." So, on the ground the Tinies sat. Said one, "What do you think of that? We're going to have some music. It will make me want to dance. Bring on your orchestra," he cried. "All right," the daisy then replied. "Now, all of you be patient. Give the players all a chance." A little cricket then hopped out and took its place and looked about.

Right soon a bullfrog joined it. They were funny as could be. "I'm scared," cried Clowny, full of fear. "What is that buzzing right near here?" The Tinies looked and shortly found it was a bumble bee. "Oh, don't be scared. I understand," said Scouty, "he is in the band." And, sure enough, the bee buzzed down right by the cricket's side. A turtle then crawled out real slow. "It's all was quite a dandy show." Upon the turtle's back I'll drum," a small grasshopper cried. And then the band began to play, which made the Tinies shout, "Hooryay!" The bullfrog croaked; the cricket chirped; the big bee buzzed real loud. With a-t-t-t-t on the turtle's back, the grasshopper beat a crack, crack, crack! Said Scouty, "If that band was mine, I surely would feel proud."

(The Tinymites see a flower dance in the next story.)

ABOUT TOWN

The adoption degree will be worked on a class of ten candidates by Miantonomah Tribe of Red Men at its meeting in Tinker Hall this evening. The degree team is requested by the degree master to report at 7:30. The meeting to be open at 8 o'clock.

Twelve tables were filled with players at the Bon Ami club's whist held last evening in the hose house. The door prize was won by Mrs. Elizabeth Douglas of Talcottville. The highest scores were made by Mrs. Annie Smith of Talcottville and Thomas Davidson; second prizes were won by Mrs. Wallace Hilliard of Andover and Alonzo Foreman. A social time followed and doughnuts and coffee were served by the committee in charge.

The breakfast hike which will be taken by the members of Cheney Brothers' Girls Athletic Association will be held May 20 instead of next Sunday as stated yesterday. The hike is to Clifford D. Cheney's log cabin in Glastonbury. The C. B. A. girls will have baseball practice at the West Side playgrounds at 6 o'clock next Monday night.

The Girl Reserves of Center Congregational church will give a mothers' party tomorrow evening at 6:30.

WINS WITH PHEASANTS, NOW TACKLES TURKEYS

August Senkbell, Undismayed By Others' Failures, to Raise Gobblers.

August Senkbell, who was the first president of the Manchester Fish and Game Club, is now devoting all his time to raising poultry and pheasants. For the former he finds a ready local market and the pheasants he is selling to game clubs throughout Connecticut and in other states.

He now plans going into the turkey business and has a small number to start off with. He has made special arrangements for the care of the turkeys, which has proven a hard bird to raise in this section.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

FRANKNESS

The customer who pays his money for an article, finds the article different from or inferior to what he expected, and then shuts his teeth on the disappointment, is acting within his rights, of course. But just the same he isn't giving the seller quite a fair break. It isn't exactly sporting. A store that is banking everything on building and maintaining a reputation for quality and squareness of dealing loses a point in the score every time a customer gets something "not just right." Pinehurst tries very hard to make these instances as rare as is humanly possible. Humanly possible, mind. That means, of course, that mistakes sometimes occur. Each one means one of those lost points.

Unless the customer gives us a chance to correct the error. If a mistaken sense of delicacy prevents the customer from letting us know about such cases, what show have we got to keep our score clean? Frankness is an absolute essential in modern business--frankness on both sides, seller's and buyer's. Lack of frankness has made more trouble in the world than almost anything else--between individuals, nations, parties to transactions.

If you get anything at Pinehurst that's "not just right" there's no way for us to make you tell us. But for the sake of our reputation, with you if with no one else, we sincerely wish you would.
