Situation in the North is Acute—Chinese Warned That Foreigners Will Be Well Protected in Peking.

Shanghai, May 21.—A guardian wall of United States troops will be thrown around American residents of North China if fighting breaks out between Nationalists and Northerners in the Peking-Tientsin area, John Van A. MacMurray, United States minister at Peking, through the American consul here, has advised the Nationalist administration at Nanking that American lives will be protected, although the note is emphatic in pointing out that the United States does not intend to interfere in any way in Chinese affairs.

A similar note has been handed to the Peking government, warning that American lives will be protected.

The situation in the north is already acute, but if the crisis reaches a climax the Americans will be concentrated in one area so that protection will be made easy.

U. S. Warships Ready
Admiral Mark Bristol, commander of the United States naval units in Asiatic waters, is understood to be at Tientsin where a small United States fleet is being assembled.

The United States marines will be under command of Gen. Smedley Butler.

Infantry will co-operate with the marines, if the necessity arises bluejackets will be landed from the warships at Peking and rushed to any point where American lives are threatened.

Taking Precautions
Taking a lesson from the incident at Tainanfu, Shantung, where two Americans were killed by Chinese and where a pitched battle raged for two days between Japanese and Chinese Nationalist troops, the foreign governments are taking precautions to prevent attacks upon their nationals in the north.

Japan is continuing to mass troops in the north. It is reported that reinforcements are either on their way or soon will be en route for Tientsin, Shantung; Tientsin, the port of Peking, and Manchuria.

So far as known the Nationalist government has made no reply to the Japanese note (virtually an ultimatum) that Japan will not tolerate the invasion of Manchuria. The note is still under consideration by the members of the Nanking administration.

CHINESE ENVOY HERE

Among the Leviathan's passengers was Dr. Wu Choo Chu, son of Dr. Wu Ting Feng, former Chinese minister to the United States. Dr. Wu is here, he said, to seek the moral support of this country if the Chinese Nationalists protest against Japanese intervention in China.

Dr. Wu will not beseech military support, he said, but will go before Secretary of State Kellogg and ask that the United States throw its diplomatic strength to the side of China in the rapidly expanding dispute with Japan over the occupation of Manchuria.

"The Japanese government will stop at nothing to establish its hand in Manchuria," Dr. Wu said. "I know that the Chinese Nationalists are just as determined that they shall not obtain even the slightest semblance of a protectorate foothold and will fight to the end against it."

"The Japanese are seeking to dissolve the Chinese Republic and replace the boy emperor on the throne. His counselors always were friendly to Japan and the Mikado sees an opportunity to put China under Japanese domination that way. If the United States government does not protest, I fear there will be a serious convulsion in the east."

The plane is a sister ship to the three Fokkers that successfully negotiated a transcontinental good will tour from New York, each plane using a different route.

A crowd of 10,000 spectators gathered at Wall Field here yesterday to greet the three good will planes.

The four planes will be placed in passenger service between Los Angeles and San Francisco next Saturday.

ONE YEAR AGO LINDY HIT PARIS

New York, May 21.—Just one year ago today Col. Charles A. Lindbergh stepped out of the cabin of the famous Spirit of St. Louis amid a shouting and cheering crowd at Le Bourget Aldrome near Paris.

He had accomplished the seemingly impossible and the whole world was literally at the feet of the conqueror by air of the Atlantic ocean.

On this anniversary when friends and enthusiasts in general wanted to again congratulate him he could not be found. He was in hiding, purposely shunning publicity, it was said.

He has been staying at the home of Harry F. Guggenheim at Fort Washington, N. Y., but could not be found there today. And at the New York office of Guggenheim it was said that his whereabouts was not known.

E. J. HOLL BUYS NORTH END HOME

Purchases Beautiful Main Street Residence as an Investment.

Edward J. Holl, local developer of real estate, today announced that he had purchased the former Clarence M. Ely home, at 118 Main street in the north end. The sale was completed Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Holl buying the property through S. I. Ward, Hartford real estate dealer, from the owner, Thomas Trant, of Hartford.

The house was originally the home of the late Dr. Frank B. Adams, and was one of the show places of Manchester. Clarence M. Ely, a wholesale lumberman, bought the place and upon leaving Manchester sold it to Nathan G. Read, superintendent of the Burnside Tissue Paper Company. Mr. Trant acquired the property through the mortgages he held, and several Hartford real estate dealers have attempted to sell it.

Mr. Holl has thoroughly inspected the property and intends to put it in first class condition. This will cost him a considerable amount of money, but he believes the property will be worth the investment.

YOUTH BADLY HURT BY HIT-AND-RUNNER

Delois Brasso Found by Side of Road Near Green Late at Night.

Manchester police today are searching for another hit-and-run motorist, the driver of an automobile which struck and badly injured Delois Brasso, 19, of 235 Varnum street, shortly before midnight Saturday night at Manchester Green.

The young man is in Memorial Hospital where he was taken after being found unconscious beside the road by passing motorists. His condition is not regarded as serious.

The police are greatly handicapped by lack of clues. All that is known is that a car struck the young man as he was walking along the left side of the highway bound for home. The automobile was traveling in a westerly direction and probably fled down the old Green road or over Middle Turnpike after the accident, instead of taking the main road to the Center via East Center street. Police are inclined to believe that the hit-and-runner lives in Manchester.

No Witness
As far as can be learned, no one saw the accident. The first that was known of the matter was when William Brasso was found lying in the gutter. His cap lay several feet up the road, indicating that he had been knocked some distance. Brasso was taken to the hospital by a neighbor.

Superintending Harold Heffron and Percival Maxwell were summoned as soon as Brasso was found. They notified police headquarters and Sargent John Crockett took charge of the investigation. He went to the hospital but found Brasso too much dazed to talk coherently. He did, however, manage to state the direction which the automobile took after the accident.

Brasso is employed as a farming helper for Edward D. Lynch of Lyndville. He is an orphan and was taken into the Lynch home nearly six years ago. Mrs. Lynch said yesterday that he was an honest, faithful worker. Brasso had been in the motion picture show at the State Theater, as had been his custom almost every Saturday night. He rode to the Green on the trolley car due there at 11:45 and was walking home. The accident occurred at a point between the trolley terminus and the Manchester Green

SENATE SPEEDS UP FOR AN ADJOURNMENT

Senate Meets Two Hours Earlier Today to Rush Business Along.

Washington, May 21.—Facing a stiff fight against their plan to adjourn Congress next Saturday, administration leaders settled down today to break the dilatory tactics which have blocked final action on the tax reduction bill for the past two weeks.

The Senate met at ten o'clock, two hours earlier than usual, and it was to be held in session continuously until the tax bill is enacted. If this program is successful, the administration may be able to adjourn next Saturday, but any delay in passing the tax bill undoubtedly would keep Congress another week.

The actual fight over tax rates has been settled with the adoption of almost all of the administration's tax reduction program.

The pending question this morning was a "rid" proposal by Senator Reed (D) of Mo., to slash tariff rates on certain manufactured articles. He offered the amendment after the Senate rejected by a vote of 13 to 44, a proposal to increase the tariff on farm products.

GERMAN REDS WIN ELECTION BY LANDSLIDE

Socialist-Communist Factions Gain Many Seats—Marx Cabinet Expected to Re- sign Tomorrow.

Berlin, May 21.—The next government of Germany will be controlled by the Socialists and their political allies as a result of Sunday's general election when the Marx Cabinet was voted out of power.

The Marx Cabinet decided, however, to remain in office until the newly elected Reichstag meets the second week in June.

Frederic Braun, of Prussia, a Socialist, may be the next chancellor of Germany.

Despite the fact he is not a Socialist, Foreign Secretary Stresemann probably will retain his present post in the new government, owing to the support of his policies by the Socialists.

A tabulation of the vote late today apportioned 490 of the 493 Reichstag seats as follows:
Socialists—152 seats; gained 21.
Communists—54 seats; gained 11.
Nationalists—73 seats; lost 34.
German Peoples' Party—45 seats; lost 6.
Catholic Center Party—62 seats; lost 7.
Fascists—12 seats; lost 1.
Democrats—25 seats; lost 7.
Bavarian Peoples' Party—16 seats; lost 3.

Economic Party—23 seats; gained 6.
Various Peasant Parties—26 seats.
Popular Rights Party—29 seats.

Berlin, May 21.—Germany's general election resulted in a virtual landslide for the Socialist-Communist factions, and in the defeat of the Marx government, according to the latest compilations at noon today.

The Marx Cabinet is expected to resign tomorrow.

The election results is considered a disaster to the Marx Cabinet, and is causing fears in some quarters that there will be further radical legislation by the new Reichstag.

Although the German Peoples' Party, of which Foreign Secretary Stresemann is a member, lost six Reichstag seats, according to the noon compilation, Dr. Stresemann is expected to retain his post in his international prestige and to the further fact that the Socialists in the old Reichstag were the chief supporters of his foreign policies.

Incomplete returns gave the Socialists 155 Reichstag seats.

THREE GIRLS KILLED WHEN HOME BURNS

Parents Have Narrow Escape In Trying to Save Their Daughters.

New Albany, Miss., May 21.—Three daughters of J. S. Owens, editor of the New Albany Gazette, were burned to death early today while Mr. and Mrs. Owens narrowly escaped with their lives as their home was swept by fire.

Elizabeth Owens, 15, one of the victims, was to have graduated from New Albany high school next week. Her two sisters, Blake 16; and Helen 10, also perished in the flames. The three bodies were recovered.

One month ago today, Owen's son, William Owens, 28, died suddenly from acute indigestion.

FEAR OVER 200 KILLED IN COAL MINE BLAST

Wartime Gas Explodes 11 Killed, 90 Injured

Hamburg, Germany, May 21.—Scenes resembling actual warfare accompanied the explosion of a tank of wartime poison gas here when 11 persons were killed and 90 injured.

The explosion took place yesterday, but it was not until today that the casualties were definitely known. Among the dead were four firemen and five policemen.

Berlin rushed experts and gas masks to fight the fumes.

The tank, which was in Dr. Hugo Stolzenberg's chemical factory, was filled with phosgene fumes. The firm explained it was the last of the war gas which is now being used for the manufacture of dyes, which are mainly exported to America.

A rigid investigation has been ordered.

Mather, Pa., May 21.—With 59 bodies removed from the Mather colliery, which was rocked by an explosion Saturday, weary rescue crews this afternoon dug their way deeper into the debris-strewn mine in the hope of recovering the 138 bodies believed still to be in the workings.

Virtually all hope that any of the men will be found alive has been abandoned. Fourteen men were rescued from the mine, but one of these died today in Waynesburg hospital, bringing the toll known and believed dead to 198 men. Officials believe 211 men were in the mine when the explosion apparently caused by gas, shook the mine.

Mather, Pa., May 21.—Laboriously digging their way through debris-choked mine entries, rescue crews today reached the mine butt where the bodies of 157 men killed in Saturday's explosion in the Mather colliery are believed to lie.

Five more bodies were recovered today bringing the total taken from the mine to 45. It is believed that 211 men in all were in the mine at the time of the blast and all but fourteen probably have perished.

The work of opening up the mine butt sealed by the blast more than a mile and a half from the shaft, will probably take another day, officials directing the rescue work said.

The rescue crews are digging through each room in each of the butts between Nos. 15 to 25, in which the bodies are believed to be buried.

Any faint hope that any of the miners would be found alive in the mine was dispelled by the condition of the five bodies removed today. They were "burned almost beyond recognition."

WORK OF RESCUE
Mather, Pa., May 21.—Gas! One short word today sealed the fate of 157 men trapped in the Mather mine of the Mather collieries here by an explosion late Saturday.

While rescue teams from all parts of Western Pennsylvania worked frantically to reach the miners in the forlorn hope that some of them may have been able to brattle themselves in from the working face of the mine and so escape the deadly gas, the grim veterans of the crews and federal and company officials alike saw no hope for the entombed men. No life gas, "black damp"—which swept the workings in the wake of the terrific explosion, was feared to have taken its toll.

First Victims
Meanwhile, in the vine covered recreation hall of this model mining village, 157 men have been buried, first of the 211 victims to be taken from the blast wrecked mine.

Fourteen other men escaped death—eight of whom are in Waynesburg and Brownsville hospitals.

Crews are digging around one debris-choked working face of the mine in the hope that if the rescue crews can get behind the spot where full force of the blast struck they may find men bratticed away in canvas rooms which could have checked the spread of the gas.

Hope Abandoned
Experts who hurried here at first news of the explosion, however, have abandoned hope, because of the way in which gas has spread to every crevice in the mine so far explored.

While the majority of the experts assign gas as the reason for the blast, there were some who claimed that dust, possibly ignited by a spark from a mine car trolley, caused the explosion.

Overlooking no chances to save any men who may have been able to brattle themselves in from the gas, mine workers forced thousands of cubic feet of pure air into the workings today.

Meanwhile, on the green hills, which slope down to the colliery, a small army waited—silently sharing a hope which cold scientific calculation failed to dim—relatives of the victims.

From the hour late Saturday when word spread through the nearby little mining village that an explosion had sealed the mine, they have kept vigil—matrons, children, babies in arms—while kindly strangers organized into rescue teams to brave the death most of

MARRIAGE AS A GAMBLE GETTING TO BE A FACT

Chances Are 15 to 100 That It Will End in Divorce Court—180,000 Divorces Against Million Marriages

Washington, May 21.—When a man or woman marries it's a 15 to 100 shot that it won't last long.

And the odds, the Census Bureau revealed today, are getting higher that the marriage will go on the rocks of infidelity, poverty, innate meanness or just natural incompatibility.

Final figures for 1926—the last available—showed that there were 180,000 divorces against 1,202,574 marriages. The divorce ratio was 1.54 and marriage 10.27 per 1,000 population.

"Most marriages dissolved by divorce in any one year were contracted naturally in earlier years," the bureau said.

"If the divorce rate continues to increase the ratio between divorces and marriages of a given year will somewhat understate the probability of divorce for the marriages of that year."

Causes of Divorce
The principal causes of divorce in 1926 were cruelty 69,005, desertion 57,003, infidelity 16,710 and drunkenness 2,774.

More than 90 per cent of the divorces were granted because of drunkenness. The percentages of separations for this cause has increased steadily since 1922.

In the period from 1887 to 1906, 3.9 per cent of the divorces were granted because of drunkenness, and in 1916 3.4 per cent.

Of the total divorces 126,563 were granted to women and 52,287 to men. A few were unclassified.

The chief complaints against wives were that they were unfaithful, or were guilty of cruelty or desertion. Husbands were guilty of all these things and in addition they inhibited too freely or had a failure-to-provide complex.

Husbands to Blame
"It may be that husbands, more often than wives, give occasion for divorce, but the much larger proportion of divorces granted to the wife, in general, due to the fact that for her there are more legal grounds for separation," the bureau said.

"When each party wants the divorce it is probable that the wife, more often than the husband, makes the application."

Men's moral apparently are improving slightly, the bureau observed.

TOO MANY BABIES, MOTHER COMPLAINS

Has Husband Arrested; Had Had 13 and Thinks That That's Enough.

Bridgeport, Conn., May 21.—Too many babies is the issue in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Cromwell.

After ten years of married life, during which time Mrs. Cromwell, who is 29, became the mother of thirteen children, they have come to the parting of the ways of the baby question which became quite a problem in their family, with John making only thirty dollars a week—the weeks he worked.

"We can't afford any more children," she told her husband.

But John is a religious man, believing that "the Lord will provide" and he took issue with his wife.

The upshot of it was that Mrs. Cromwell appeared in police headquarters, two young children clinging at her skirts.

Wants Him Arrested
"I want my husband arrested," she said. "I am the mother of 13 children, eight of whom died from malnutrition and other ills because we are poor. John wants more children. He can't properly take care of the five we have. Please arrest him."

John came into headquarters a few minutes later, demanding that she return home. She declined and continued to demand his arrest.

The authorities held the husband on a technical charge of breaking the peace. He will be held until May 24 when he will be examined in Police Court as to his mental condition.

Meanwhile, Bridgeport charity organizations are looking after the family.

Those who have employed Cromwell say that he is industrious and of good character. Mrs. Cromwell hasn't anything against her husband excepting his insistence of a big family on $30 a week.

Largest Oil Field in World May Be Drained by Private Lessees Nearby.

Washington, May 21.—Congress will adjourn without enacting legislation designed to protect the great Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve, it was indicated today.

The legislation was sought by the Navy Department to prevent drainage of the vast oil supply and to prevent naval oil from going into the hands of foreign-owned companies.

Rep. Hale (R) of New Hampshire, chairman of a House naval affairs sub-committee in charge of the bill, said that action had been delayed by the illness of Rep. Butler (R) of Penna., chairman of the committee.

Not only do several private oil companies have leases on the edge—and in one case in the center—of the reserve, but in an adjoining reserve oil is being sold by a private lessee to British oil interests for export. Secretary of Navy Wilbur said. The Navy he said, is anxious to preserve the Elk Hills field, one of the largest in the world.

The Navy Department had suggested exchanging government oil lands in reserve already "cup up" by private leases for the few private leases in the Elk Hills reserve.

Candidates for "First Lady" Described in New Series

WHEN elections are over and Mr. and Mrs. Next President move into the White House, will Mrs. President be dignified or neighborly, beautiful or plain, a woman of the world or a home-maker?

A great deal has been written lately about what kind of persons the various candidates are, but their wives have been pretty much neglected.

Tomorrow The Herald will begin a series of articles by Allene Sumner, a leading writer on women's topics, who writes for The Herald and NEA Service, describing in chatty, gossipy style these possible First Ladies of the Land.

Miss Sumner is visiting the wives of the leading candidates in both parties in their homes to get the material for this series.

The articles will be full of interesting, human side-glances at the women they describe. In many cases they cast a new light on the achievements of their husbands. In all cases they are interesting.

Watch for the first story tomorrow on Mrs. Alfred E. Smith.

SLEUTHS ARE SILENT ON ELLIOTT BOMBING

Only Witness Taken to Rogues Gallery But Will Not Talk About It.

New York, May 21.—Secrecy today surrounds the investigation into the bombing of the home of Robert G. Elliott, official executor for four years of the late Richmond Hill was almost wrecked by an explosion early last Friday morning.

Wittfield Coysen, a milkman, who says he was warned to silence by four men in a red touring car, which he encountered without names from the Elliott home shortly after the bombing, has inspected the Rogues' Gallery in an attempt to identify the four. But detective William Toomey says that in order to protect Coysen the results of this inspection will not be made public.

Elliott has made no effort to repair his home and crowds of curious visit the scene daily. The grim, blank executioner rebuffs the few would-be interviewers who get past the police guard. He says he has no plans for the future, has not considered giving up his work as an executor or moving into another home.

MAY EXHUME BODY OF HARTFORD WOMAN

Died Suddenly May 11—Common Law Husband is Being Held by Police.

Hartford, Conn., May 21.—Police today were marking time in the case of Mrs. Mary Ople, who died on May 11, apparently suddenly, and was buried in Zion Hill cemetery on May 14. Coroner J. Gilbert Cahoon had before him a formal request that the grave be opened so that the body might be examined, and police were waiting a formal order from him.

Meanwhile William Perkins, of 193 Farmington avenue, who lived with Mrs. Ople, as her husband, was being held on a statutory charge in default of $25,000 bail pending a police court hearing. His case today was set for next Saturday morning.

Investigators declared that while Mrs. Ople had carried a $500 insurance policy the payment was due a daughter and not the man with whom she lived. Two sons of Mrs. Ople by a former marriage and her son-in-law were investigators of the present police investigation.

YOUTH BADLY HURT BY HIT-AND-RUNNER NEAR $500 IN FINES

Delois Brasso Found by Side of Road Near Green Late at Night. Four North Enders Tapped For Keeping Liquor With Intent to Sell.

Manchester police today are searching for another hit-and-run motorist, the driver of an automobile which struck and badly injured Delois Brasso, 19, of 235 Vernon street, shortly before midnight Saturday night at Manchester Green. The young man is in Memorial Hospital where he was taken after being found unconscious beside the road by passing motorists. His condition is not regarded as serious.

All the alleged liquor violators live on North street in what is known as Union Village, but described as "Rum Row" by prosecuting Attorney Charles R. Hathaway. They were arrested a week ago yesterday when a raid was executed by ten members of the police department armed with search warrants. The five cases were continued until this morning.

Those convicted are as follows: Mrs. Katie Hurula, 35, 95 North street, $150 and costs; Wacław Rubacka, 33, 96 North street, $100 and costs, thirty days suspended jail sentence; Frank Yankowski, 40, 93 North street, $100 and costs, thirty days suspended jail sentence and Stephen Grzyb, 33, 94 North street, $100 and costs, thirty days suspended jail sentence.

Mrs. Mary Rubacka, 36, 95 North street, had her case continued until Wednesday morning at the request of Attorney Raymond L. Carmody, who stated that his partner, Attorney William J. Shea, who is Mrs. Rubacka's attorney, is confined to his home with illness. All of the four persons convicted were represented by lawyers. Attorney William S. Hyde appeared for Mrs. Hurula; Attorney William Harney for Wacław Rubacka.

Superintendents Percival Maxwell and Harold Heffron were summoned as soon as Brasso was found. They notified police headquarters and Sergeant John Crockett took charge of the investigation. He went to the hospital but found Brasso too much dazed to talk coherently. He did, however, manage to state the direction which the automobile took after the accident.

Brasso is employed as a farming helper for Edward D. Lynch of Lyndville. He is an orphan and was taken into the Lynch home nearly six years ago. Mrs. Lynch said yesterday that he was an honest, faithful worker. Brasso had been to the motion picture show at the State Theater, as had been his custom almost every Saturday night. He rode to the Green on the trolley car due there at 11:45 and was walking home. The accident occurred at a point between the trolley terminus and the Manchester Green

CONGRESS SPEEDS UP FOR AN ADJOURNMENT

Senate Meets Two Hours Earlier Today to Rush Business Along.

Washington, May 21.—Facing a stiff fight against their plan to adjourn Congress next Saturday, administration leaders settled down today to break the dilatory tactics which have blocked final action on the tax reduction bill for the past two weeks.

The Senate met at ten o'clock, two hours earlier than usual, and it was to be held in session continuously until the tax bill is enacted. If this program is successful, the administration may be able to adjourn next Saturday, but any further delay in passing the tax bill would keep Congress another week.

The actual fight over tax rates has been settled with the adoption of almost all of the administration's tax reduction program.

The pending question this morning was a "rider" proposed by Senator Reed (D) of Mo., to slash tariff rates on certain manufactured articles. He offered the amendment after the Senate rejected by a vote of 13 to 44, a proposal to increase the tariff on farm products.

IF it doesn't rain in New York tonight the McLARNIN-MANDELL FIGHT WILL BE BROADCAST AT THE HERALD'S SOUTH OFFICE. No promises are made, there will be a fight. IF

GERMAN REDS WIN ELECTION BY LANDSLIDE

Socialist-Communist Factions Gain Many Seats—Marx Cabinet Expected to Resign Tomorrow.

Berlin, May 21.—The next government of Germany will be controlled by the Socialists and their political allies as a result of Sunday's general election when the Marx Cabinet was voted out of power.

The Marx Cabinet decided, however, to remain in office until the newly elected Reichstag meets the second week in June.

Frederic Braun, of Prussia, a Socialist, may be the next chancellor of Germany.

Despite the fact he is not a Socialist, Foreign Secretary Stresemann probably will retain his present post in the new government, owing to the support of his policies by the Socialists.

A tabulation of the vote late today apportioned 490 of the 493 Reichstag seats as follows: Socialists—152 seats; gained 21. Communists—54 seats; gained 11. Nationalists—73 seats; lost 34. German Peoples' Party—45 seats; lost 6. Catholic Center Party—62 seats; lost 7. Fascists—12 seats; lost 1. Democrats—25 seats; lost 7. Bavarian Peoples' Party—16 seats; lost 3. Economic Party—23 seats; gained 6. Religious Peasant Parties—26 seats. Popular Rights Party—29 seats.

Berlin, May 21.—Germany's general election resulted in a virtual landslide for the Socialist-Communist factions and in the defeat of the Marx government, according to the latest compilations at noon today.

The Marx Cabinet is expected to resign tomorrow.

The election results is considered a blow to Monarchist hopes and is causing fears in some quarters that there will be further radical legislation by the new Reichstag.

Although the German Peoples' Party, of which Foreign Secretary Stresemann is a leader, lost six Reichstag seats, according to the noon compilation, Dr. Stresemann is expected to retain his post in any Cabinet that is formed, owing to his international prestige and to the further fact that the Socialists in the old Reichstag were the chief supporters of his foreign policies.

Incomplete returns gave the Socialists 155 Reichstag seats.

THREE GIRLS KILLED WHEN HOME BURNS

Parents Have Narrow Escape In Trying to Save Their Daughters.

New Albany, Miss., May 21.—Three daughters of J. S. Owens, editor of the New Albany Gazette, were burned to death early today while Mr. and Mrs. Owens narrowly escaped with their lives as their home was swept by fire.

Elizabeth Owens, 19, one of the victims, was to have graduated from New Albany high school next week. Her two sisters, Blake, 16; and Helen, 10, also perished in the flames. The three bodies were recovered.

Husbands to Blame
"It may be that husbands, more often than wives, give occasion for divorce, but the much larger proportion of divorces granted to the wife is, in general, due to the fact that for her there are more legal grounds for separation," the bureau said.

"When each party wants the divorce it is probable that the wife, more often than the husband, makes the application."

Men's moral apparently are improving slightly, the bureau observed.

Candidates for "First Lady" Described in New Series

WHEN elections are over and Mr. and Mrs. Next President move into the White House, will Mrs. President be dignified or neighborly, beautiful or plain, a woman of the world or a home-maker?

A great deal has been written lately about what kind of persons the various candidates are, but their wives have been pretty much neglected.

Tomorrow The Herald will begin a series of articles by Allene Sumner, a leading writer on women's topics, who writes for The Herald and NEA Service, describing in chat, gossip style these possible First Ladies of the Land.

Miss Sumner is visiting the wives of the leading candidates in both parties in their homes to get the material for this series.

The articles will be full of interesting, human side-glances at the women they describe. In many cases they cast a new light on the achievements of their husbands. In all cases they are interesting. Watch for the first story tomorrow in The Herald.

FEAR OVER 200 KILLED IN COAL MINE BLAST

Wartime Gas Explodes 11 Killed, 90 Injured

Hamburg, Germany, May 21.—Scenes resembling actual warfare accompanied the explosion of a tank of wartime poison gas here when 11 persons were killed and 90 injured.

The explosion took place yesterday, but it was not until today that the casualties were definitely known. Among the dead were four firemen and five policemen.

Berlin rushed experts and gas masks to fight the fumes. The tank, which was in Dr. Hugo Stolsberg's chemical factory, was filled with phosgene flut. The firm explained it was the last of the war gas which is now being used for the manufacture of dyes, which are mainly exported to America.

A rigid investigation has been ordered.

MARRIAGE AS A GAMBLE GETTING TO BE A FACT

Chances Are 15 to 100 That It Will End in Divorce Court—180,000 Divorces Against Million Marriages

Washington, May 21.—When a man or woman marries it's a 15 to 100 shot that it won't last long. And the odds, the Census Bureau revealed today, are getting higher that the marriage will go on the rocks of infidelity, poverty, innate meanness or just natural incompatibility.

Final figures for 1926—the last available—showed that there were 180,853 divorces against 1,202,574 marriages. The divorce ratio was 1.54 and marriage 10.27 per 1,000 population.

"Most marriages dissolved by divorce in any one year were contracted naturally in earlier years," the bureau said.

"If the divorce rate continues to increase the ratio between divorces and marriages of a given year will somewhat understate the probability of divorce for the marriages of that year."

Causes of Divorce
The principal causes of divorce in 1926 were cruelty 69,005, desertion 57,003, infidelity 16,710 and drunkenness 2,774.

More than 80 per cent of the drunkenness divorces went to women. The percentages of separations for this cause has increased steadily since 1922.

In the period from 1887 to 1906, 3.9 per cent of the divorces were granted because of drunkenness, and in 1916 3.4 per cent.

Of the total divorces 126,563 were granted to women and 52,287 to men. A few were unclassified. The chief complaints against wives were that they were unfaithful, or were guilty of cruelty or desertion. Husbands were guilty of all these things and in addition they inhibited too freely or had a failure-to-provide complex.

Husbands to Blame
"It may be that husbands, more often than wives, give occasion for divorce, but the much larger proportion of divorces granted to the wife is, in general, due to the fact that for her there are more legal grounds for separation," the bureau said.

Men's moral apparently are improving slightly, the bureau observed.

ELK HILLS RESERVE LEFT UNPROTECTED

Largest Oil Field in World May Be Drained by Private Lessees Nearby.

Washington, May 21.—Congress will adjourn without enacting legislation designed to protect the great Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve, was indicated today.

The legislation was sought by the Navy Department to prevent drainage of the vast oil supply and to prevent naval oil from going into the hands of foreign-owned companies.

Rep. Hale (R) of New Hampshire, chairman of a House naval affairs sub-committee in charge of the bill, said that action had been delayed by the illness of Rep. Butler (R) of Penna., chairman of the committee.

Not only do several private oil companies have leases on the edge—and in one case in the center—of the reserve, but in an adjoining reserve oil is being sold by a private lessee to British oil interests for export. Secretary of Navy Wilbur said. The Navy he said, is anxious to preserve the Elk Hills field, one of the largest in the world.

The Navy Department had suggested exchanging government oil lands in reserve already "cup up" by private leases for the few private leases in the Elk Hills reserve.

WORK OF RESCUE
Mather, Pa., May 21.—Gasp! One short word today leached the fate of 157 men trapped in the Mather mine of the Mather collieries here by an explosion late Saturday.

While rescue teams from all parts of Western Pennsylvania worked frantically to reach the miners in the forgotten hope that some of them may have been able to brattle themselves in from the working face of the mine and so escape the deadly gas, the grim veterans of the crews and federal and company officials alike saw no hope for the entrapped men. Dead by gas—"black damp"—which swept the workings in the wake of the terrific explosion, was feared to have taken its toll.

First Victims
Meanwhile, in the vine covered excavation, half of this model mining village lay forty mangled bodies, first of the 211 victims to be taken from the blast wrecked mine.

Fourteen other men escaped death—eight of whom are in Waynesburg and Brownsville hospitals.

Crews are digging around one debris-choked working face of the mine in the hope that if the rescue crews can get behind the spot where full force of the blast struck they may find men bratticed away in canvas rooms which could have checked the spread of the gas.

Hope Abandoned
Experts who hurried here at first news of the explosion, however, have abandoned hope, because of the way in which gas has spread to every crevice in the mine so far exposed.

FOGS OVER HARBOR CAUSE COLLISIONS

Ten Ships in Crash in New York and One is Stuck on Sandbar.

New York, May 21.—The dense fog which hung over New York harbor and the Atlantic seaboard for 48 hours, causing five collisions among ten vessels and the grounding of an eleventh, had cleared today and conditions were again almost normal. Insurance officials estimated that the cost of repair and damage to the ships would approximate $2,000,000.

No lives were lost, and no one was seriously injured although passengers on several of the vessels were much inconvenienced. There were more than 1,000 passengers aboard the three vessels chiefly affected—the Pennland, the Veendam and the Mohawk.

The most dramatic experiences befell the 85 passengers of the Clyde liner Mohawk. The ship was hit in the fog Saturday afternoon by the Jefferson of the Old Dominion line and was driven on Sandbar. The Mohawk was believed to be in a sinking condition and an SOS was sent out. The passengers were brought to New York by the Coast Guard cutter Seminole.

Other accidents. In the fog besides the Mohawk, Jefferson, Pennland and Veendam, included the Annelston City, Porto Rico, Minnewaska, La Mareta, the schooner James W. Hall and the tug Admiral Moran.

The Pennland of the Red Star line was struck amidships by the Isthmian line freighter Annelston City. The Pennland was withdrawn from trans-Atlantic service for seven to ten days and ordered to drydock for repairs after her 207 passengers were returned to her pier here.

The Holland-American liner Veendam was also outbound when rammied by the Porto Rico which was headed for southern climes. The Veendam was withdrawn from service for two weeks after pulling in at the pier at Hoboken, N. J., and discharging its 700 passengers.

The other crashes were less serious and vessels involved proceeded on their way after repairs. Several were hardly more than grazed.

FIRST LADY VISITS MOTHER IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Coolidge Also Attends Church and Takes Auto Ride With Her Son.

Northampton, Mass., May 21.—After spending a typical New England Sunday at church services, visiting the sick and enjoying the company of her family, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge was ready today for further visits at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue.

The first lady of the land attended the service of the Edwards Congregational church, remaining in a rear pew during the sermon. Later she spent over an hour at the Cooley-Dickinson hospital where her mother has been a patient for nearly six months.

Mrs. Coolidge and her son, John, a senior at Amherst college, were the dinner guests of the Hills family. Another visit with her mother and an automobile trip with her son completed the day.

The ever present Red Cross is here, serving coffee and sandwiches, ministering to the weary rescue workers.

The federal and state bureaus of mines are investigating the explosion and directing rescue work, while a hastily summoned coroner's jury under the direction of coroner J. W. Ross has viewed the bodies so far recovered.

Thousands of thousands of persons from all parts of western Pennsylvania and West Virginia came here Sunday to view the blast-wrecked mine. They were kept from the mine and temporary morgue by troops.

O. K.'s 'ELMER GENTRY'

Cleveland, Ohio, May 20.—After recommending a few changes, including a suggestion that all references to denominations and sects be stricken out, Safety Director Edwin D. Barry today had placed his official "O. K." on "Elmer Gentry", a dramatized form of the book of Sinclair Lewis, which had its premiere here last night.

Barry's decision was reached after a conference with Assistant Law Director H. S. Brainard, and several police officials who attended the first performance.

Rev. E. R. Wright, executive secretary of the federated churches, who last week appealed to Barry to prevent staging of the production, was not present.

Several New York critics were here to view the play.

GETS STUCK IN MUD

Stamford, Conn., May 21.—Fire apparatus was called to Waterbury harbor today to rescue Thomas Davis, of 15 Linden Place, who had anchored his motorboat on mud flats and tried to wade ashore in shallow water.

Nearby residents who saw his predicament when he became stuck in the mud called the police who in turn called out a truck company of the fire department. Davis was then rescued unharmed.

AMERICAN KILLED

Mexico City, May 21.—F. F. Nolden, American field superintendent of the Latin American Oil Co., was killed near the Alamo fields by a diesel engine of a workman, said a dispatch from Tampico today. He was the second American superintendent of an oil company to be assassinated in the oil fields within a few days.

At the time of the killing Nolden was in charge of the construction of a pipe line for the Pemex Fuel Co.

NATIONS ENACT LEGISLATION TO AID FAIR TRADE

Washington.—Despite legislation in many countries to protect commercial property rights and food will, there is a rising necessity for safeguarding these economic elements against uncommercial and unethical practices and unfair methods of competition in International Trade.

Attention to these facts has been called by William F. Notz, of the Commerce Department's division of commercial law, who points out that it is a subject of growing importance to American business men.

"Extensive commercial investments are at stake throughout the world, which require just as effective protection against these impediments to foreign trade as its protection to the merchant and manufacturer at home under our state and federal laws," Notz said.

Commerce Injured. "The interests, not merely of a few large individual trading concerns, but of thousands of business producers as well as distributors, are involved—farmers, manufacturers, and professional men, just as much as importers and exporters."

Notz showed that the business of a manufacturer who markets his goods in foreign countries is injured when his products are disparaged by unscrupulous competitors, or articles of foreign origin are passed off as his own, or inflated false and deceptive advertising, thus the reputation of his goods is imperiled.

"The reputable exporter finds that not only his own private business but also the good will of his country suffers abroad through the practices of a concern which makes for foreign deliveries below sample," Notz said.

"The farmers who produce a superior variety of grain are injured by parties, who, while the grain is in transit, mix with grain of inferior grade. Similarly, in countries where priority of registration and not priority of use establishes the brand name of their apples or other products are appropriated and exploited by unauthorized persons."

"Although the crafty tactics of the unscrupulous trader are as old as trade itself, there appears to be no limit to the ingenuity and resourcefulness of individuals who embark on a hunt for the commercial good will of others engaged in the same or a similar line of business."

Effect of Competition. Notz pointed out that the keener competition becomes the more it is likely to result in a failure to apply for full patent protection in foreign countries was said to prove costly. The foreign producers have the habit of copying popular American articles and then underselling in a market developed by manufacturers of this country. The lack of precaution on the part of the American firm to protect its own interests as well as those of its distributors has a demoralizing influence.

Included among the countries which have enacted legislation dealing with unfair competition are United States, Germany, Denmark, Greece, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and Switzerland. A number of these are in force between the principal commercial countries dealing with this phase of commerce.

KIWANIS SPEAKER BOOSTS 'NEAR EAST'

Manchester Expected to Contribute $4000 Toward Support of Needy Children.

Captain E. A. Yarrow, who for 25 years has been in the Orient, gave the Kiwanis members a very interesting story of his experiences there. He said it was evident to him in his travels through the Orient that the people of those countries were looking toward America for leadership in everything that was uplifting.

As he journeyed from country to country he always found that each nation believed in its own race superiority. For instance, the Chinese today think they are the greatest people in the world. In Turkey where Captain Yarrow labored for 10 years, he says the people have a wonderful sense of self-love. He believes the American influence is becoming greater as the years go by, because of Yankee ingenuity in the production of machinery that is exported to all these countries. Getting down to the subject of his talk, that of Near East Relief, he said they were looking for $2,000,000 from Connecticut. Of this sum Manchester is expected to contribute $4000. Since the allotment had been made Manchester has already given about $1000 so there is but $3000 to subscribe.

Mr. Yarrow said, would mean the last drive for the Near East as a year from now is proposed to disband the organization.

Anyone who heard the speaker would be convinced that the work was well handled and it was a work that was sorely needed. He said that 132,000 children today that must be cared for a few years longer or until they become trained or educated in the trades, or through other sources become self-supporting. It is the plan through some local organization to have a dinner and in this way assist in raising the quota for Manchester.

Lawrence Case was the lucky man today and won the prize donated by Dr. Dolan, two handsome billiards.

GUARDSMEN ARE HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY

Buffalo, N. Y., May 21.—Glenn Jennings and Chris Dew, Coast Guardsmen involved in the shooting of Jacob D. Hanson, Niagara Falls, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Charles Fieldus at Lewiston, N. Y., today charged with second degree assault.

The Guardsmen shot Hanson when the latter refused to stop his automobile while motor car was over the country roads near the border. They mistook him for a rum runner and he believed the guardsmen were bandits.

Considerable discussion was aroused over the incident by friends of Hanson contending that the guardsmen should not have fired when they were in doubt as to the identity of the occupants of the car.

Jennings and Dew waived examination and were held for the Niagara county Grand Jury which meets next month. They were taken to the county court at Lockport where the ball was arranged. Jennings' bail was placed at $10,000, Dew's at $5,000.

The arraignment today ended a two weeks' battle between the state and federal authorities over the custody of the "Coast Guard" men. Justice Fieldus said there was doubt that the men had committed a crime and that sufficient evidence existed for placing them in the custody of federal authorities.

The Guardsmen were represented in court by Truman G. Serrill and L. S. Johnson, of Rochester. Assistant U. S. Attorney Justin Morgan also appeared for the federal government.

REED RAFS HOOVER

Washington, May 21.—In another attack on Herbert Hoover, leading Republican candidate, Senator James A. ### AMERICAN GIRLS WIN

Paris, May 21.—Miss Helen Hills, of California, and Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., today defeated the Gallay sisters of France, 6-3, 6-4, at the opening of the French international tennis championships at the Roland Garros Stadium. Today's matches were played with the temperature at 45 degrees, and heavy clothing and furs were worn by the players when they came on the courts as well as by the spectators.

KRESGE BREAKS SILENCE

Detroit, Mich., May 21.—Sebastian S. Kresge, millionaire chain store owner today broke the silence he maintained through the divorce suit of his wife, Flora Mercer Kresge, to declare "I'm glad to be rid of her."

In a written statement, Kresge declared that he kept liquor in his apartment, harbored there a sixteen-year-old girl and was intimate with Miss Gladys Fish.

which was a gain of 24; Communists 51 seats, a gain of eight. Thus the Marxists (Socialist groups) captured more than two-fifths of the Reichstag.

The Nationalists elected approximately 73 members, meaning a loss of about 35 seats.

Dr. Stresemann's German Peoples' Party will have approximately 45 seats in the new national Legislature, a loss of six.

The Catholic Center Party will have 61 seats or thereabouts, a loss of eight.

The Democrats also lost eight seats. They will have about 24 members in the Reichstag.

The Bavarian Peoples' Party will have 15 seats, losing four. The Economic Party gained seven seats, increasing their representation to 24.

The Fascists apparently will have the least representation—13 seats.

Thus, it would appear that the "Economic Group," consisting of small tradesmen and artisans is the only Bourgeois Party to gain any votes.

Thirty-one parties participated in the election, but only 14 or 15 of them elected Reichstag deputies.

The upheaval resulted purely from domestic issues as it was firmly expected that the Stresemann foreign policy would remain in effect regardless of the outcome of the balloting.

HEAD OF ATHEISTS PAYS FINE OF $100

New York, May 21.—Charles Lee Smith, president of the American Society for the Advancement of Atheism, escaped a possible jail term today when he was fined $100 in special sessions for writing annoying letters to the Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church.

The fine was imposed by Justices Healy, McCann and Keenan, who found Smith guilty on May 14 after Dr. Straton had complained to the office of the district attorney.

In paying the $100 fine in lieu of an alternative workhouse sentence of thirty days, Vincent Mantilio, counsel for Smith, filed notice that an appeal will be taken.

In testifying against Smith at the latter's trial, Dr. Straton charged that the Atheist leader continued to send him propaganda including copies of the magazine "Sex," which he had warned Smith to cease mailing such matter to his home.

Smith denied having been warned by Straton and said that he hoped to convert the well-known Fundamentalist to the cause of Atheism.

Assistant District Attorney McNabco, who prosecuted Smith told the court that the district attorney's office believed Smith had deliberately engineered the case to obtain publicity for his society.

Must Stand Trial. Washington, May 21.—Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, must stand trial for contempt of the Senate for refusing to answer questions of the Teapot Dome committee.

Justice Suddons today rejected the defense plea that Stewart had cleared himself of contempt by answering the questions at his last appearance before the committee.

This was after Harry F. Sinclair, who shared with Stewart in the Continental Traction Company's profits, had been acquitted of conspiracy charges.

Leo A. Rover, federal district attorney, said he would ask that Stewart's trial start next Monday.

FIRE IN HOLLYWOOD. Hollywood, Calif., May 21.—While scores of colorful old motion picture players looked on, fire swept through the "east lot" of the Fox film studio today, causing damage estimated in excess of $200,000.

NEW CHURCH CROWDED AT ITS DEDICATION

Many From Here Go to Waterbury For Service Only to Find There's No Room.

All of those who went to Waterbury yesterday to attend the dedication of the new immaculate conception church, built under the supervision of Rev. William J. McGurk, for over twenty-five years pastor of St. James's church in this place, were unable to get seats inside of the new church, because of the large number of visitors.

It was necessary to issue tickets to but one member of a house. The number of visiting clergymen was also large, as there are few cities in the state, in fact none other than Hartford, which has given its sons the priesthood as has Waterbury and where it was possible they were back to assist in the dedication.

The mass was to be celebrated by Bishop John Nilan but because of the rain it was celebrated by Bishop John Murray of Portland, Me., a native of Waterbury. At the close of the mass, which was attended by 1,500 people, Bishop Nilan took occasion to congratulate the member of the parish and Rev. William J. McGurk on the work that had been accomplished.

The sermon was delivered by Auxiliary Bishop McAuliffe of Hartford. A chorus of ninety voices sang.

CENTER CHURCH NOTES

A meeting of young people representing a number of religious organizations in town met at this church last evening for the purpose of choosing a community committee with a president and a board. The organization is as yet in complete details will be announced later.

The business girls will meet at the parsonage tomorrow night at 7:30. Margaret Liedman will be the hostess.

The professional girls will meet at the church tomorrow night at 7:30. The topic under consideration will be "People and Education in Connecticut."

NORTH STREET PERKS UP

North street at the north end, which started out years ago as an alleyway giving access to the old Union Mills, and which had never wholly emerged from the fetters of its origin, has been perkling up to an amazing extent since the Highway Department established sidewalk grades and the actual work of walk laying began.

Property owners have responded to the street improvement by laying new house walks, grading lawns and resetting fences. Within a month the whole aspect of the street has changed. The work is still incomplete but within a month or so more North street will be recognizable to those familiar with its dejected aspect in the past.

EXPECT BIG CROWD AT DEMOLAY DANCE

Another of the Popular Events to Be Held at Masonic Temple Friday Night.

Another big dance is being planned for the week Friday evening in the Masonic Temple by the members of John Mather chapter, Order of DeMolay. St. Yaffe's orchestra has been engaged for the night and already a large number of the town's young people have signified their intentions of attending.

James O. McCaw Jr., is chairman of the committee in charge of this dance and he has named an able staff of assistants. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from members of the local chapter.

The last dance conducted by the DeMolay members was one of the most successful ever held here. Large numbers of the younger set attended and it proved to be a most colorful affair. There is every indication that this week's dance will be fully as successful.

SPEAK UP!

Two weeks have passed since there appeared in this newspaper perhaps the most important pair of statements that have been made to the people of Manchester in a decade—those of the Ninth District School Committee and of Selectman George E. Keith, both bearing on the cost of public school education in Manchester. The Ninth District Committee's statement developed the committee's belief that the cost of schools in this town was not greater than the community could afford; Mr. Keith's statement contended that the expense of schools here is greater, proportionately, than in other towns of the same relative population and grade, greater than necessary.

Each of these statements was the result of conviction and profound thought. The fact that they were opposed should be proof enough that the problem of school expenditures is not one to be left entirely to any one mind or set of minds, because where candid and able intellects find themselves in controversy on any public question there is need for the application of many and varied intelligences to that problem.

The Herald has been waiting expectantly for many expressions of opinion from the people of Manchester on this problem, so splendidly opened by the statements referred to but so far yet from being settled. It has waited in some amazement for expressions that have not come.

Here is a subject which is vital to every individual in Manchester. There is not a father or mother or boy or girl in the town to whom the question of schools and school costs is not an intimate one. Do all the fathers and mothers, all the taxpayers, intend to pass the buck in this business to one or two or half a dozen individuals? Have they no opinions for the guidance of those on whom devolves the work and the responsibilities?

The columns of the Herald are open at all times for the discussion of the public affairs of the community by the community's public. Cannot this newspaper be permitted to serve the town of Manchester by opening up the school problem as it appears to the people of the community?

Write to the Herald. Put your ideas into print. Let's get this matter up into the light of public opinion.

TIME TO SPEAK OUT

As the time for the Republican national convention approaches, Connecticut interest in the candidacy of Herbert Hoover increases. It is becoming evident that if the choice of the voters in several eastern states is considered Mr. Hoover can be nominated on the first ballot, or at least on a ballot immediately following the tendering of a number of complimentary favorite-son votes. If, on the other hand, through the co-operation of a very small group of leaders belonging to these several eastern states, delegates are persuaded to withhold from Hoover the votes which they would much prefer to give him, there may result that deadlock which, all too obviously, is the forlorn hope of that element in the party which persists in its determination to bring about a re-nomination of President Coolidge.

Connecticut Republicans are uncomfortably conscious that there is on foot, in esoteric political circles in this state, a mysterious movement to keep the votes of its delegates away from the commerce secretary, at least in the earlier ballots. They would like to know the reason for it. They would like to know why the vote of the state should not, at Kansas City, follow the hugely preponderant wishes of the voters and the preponderant wishes of the delegates themselves? Why all this head-shaking and all these wise looks, with relation to a Coolidge re-nomination?

If the Republican leaders of Connecticut "know something" it is herewith suggested that they have kept it up their sleeves long enough. Because the voters of this state have a sentiment of their own with relation to the coming presidential election, and it is not the kind of a sentiment that can be turned into something else overnight, no matter how expert the manipulation. And to put that sentiment into plain words it is only truthful to say that they would rather have Herbert Hoover for President after March 4th next than to have Calvin Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge has been an excellent President. It is the belief of the Republican of Connecticut, as we gather it, that Mr. Hoover would make a still better President. Besides that, Mr. Hoover is candidly available. Mr. Coolidge, if available at all, would only be so through what a very great many voters would regard as an unworthy subterfuge. We are not at all sure that disgust with the subterfuge would not outweigh party confidence and loyalty with some of them—perhaps with enough of them to place the electoral vote of this state in danger.

If the leaders of the Republican party in Connecticut have any reason for obstructing the nomination of Herbert Hoover which will bear the light of day, it is high time that they made it known. The present hole-and-corner policy with relation to the Presidency is not one that will make for party solidarity in this state on election day in the event of its helping to create an involved and sour situation at Kansas City.

A YEAR AGO

One year ago tonight Franco, weary with post-war political bickering, economic stress, financial deflation, debt problems and class struggles, was suddenly thrilled and brought back to vivid life again by a ghostly flash through the black night. It came to rest like a great gray dove—a dove of peace—on the far side of Le Bourget Aerodrome.

"Lindbergh!" The cry was uttered from thousands of throats. Cheering men slapped each other on the back, excited women wept, a formidable wave of humanity surged through an iron-picket fence and swept down police and military lines.

Something new had suddenly come into the lives of men. The first non-stop airplane flight from New York to Paris had been achieved, but with it came romance which revealed a splendid vista breaking down boundaries for the glory of mankind.

Paris was electrified. The flight was the one topic of conversation along the boulevards and in cafes. International feeling had not been too good because of the money crisis and debt disputes, but all the little pin pricks of politics were forgotten in the wonder and joy of what had happened. Frenchmen shook the hands of Americans, friends and strangers alike, and glasses were clicked in circles high and low to this man Lindbergh and to Franco-American friendship. Goodwill parties continued throughout the night, and everybody was strangely happy.

The hero of the exploit was still a nebulous figure to most everybody in Paris a year ago tonight. He had been secreted away, for his own good, and only a very few had the privilege of seeing him. The main thought was that he was here. Then the next day, when he came to the balcony of the American Embassy and on succeeding days when the crowds were able to observe him and to learn that he was just as fine as the job he had done, the epic was complete.

The passing of a year has not spoiled that spirit which Lindbergh inspired. He is just as much loved by the French today as he was then. In the eyes of the French his achievement has lost none of its glory. They are naming streets after him, giving children his name, erecting monuments in his memory and no opportunity lost to honor him.

And Franco-American friendship remains very much more real because Lindbergh landed in Paris one year ago tonight.

FEDERAL INTRUSION No doubt such persons outside of New York as have taken any interest in the subway fare fight in the metropolis have wondered how a federal court came to be fixing the price of a subway ride. To the man in the street who has had a hazy sort of impression that federal courts did not interfere in strictly local and intra-state affairs there has been something of bewilderment in the New York subway situation. Especially when he remembers quite vividly the federal court ruling that the Sacco-Vanzetti case, even on the grounds of violated constitutional rights, could not be taken away from the state's jurisdiction. To the average citizen it has all seemed confusing, but ninety-nine in a hundred, who have given the matter any thought at all, have doubtless dismissed the puzzle with the reflection that "it must be all right or there would be a big kick."

Now the kick is being made, and in the right place—Congress. Senator Wagner has presented a bill which would exclude consideration of strictly local utilities cases from such a tribunal as the federal statutory court which has granted the interurban company the right to charge 7 cent fares.

Utterly regardless of political affiliations, a great many people will favor this measure, whether they have ever ridden on a New York subway in their lives or ever expect to, or not. It is not necessary to have the slightest interest in the merits of the subway fight to be utterly convinced that the intrusion of federal courts into the business of the states has gone not only quite far enough but a bit too far.

Unless a stop is put to it, the states might as well go out of business as governing organisms. And we doubt very much whether there is any large group of Americans who want to see any further centralization of power in Washington.

BERLIN KILLINGS

For some unaccountable reason it is the political moderate who usually most excites the ire of the extremists of both the right and the left. In two outbreaks of violence in Berlin immediately preceding yesterday's Reichstag elections, it was members of the Reichsbanner, or organization for the defense of the republic, who were set upon and slain by Fascist bullies on the one hand and by Communist gunmen on the other.

If there were any logic to either Fascism or Communism it would be entirely natural to expect that if there were to be killings over political beliefs, Reds would shoot Fascists and Fascists would shoot Reds. But no, it is the in-betweeners, the middle-of-the-road chap, who gets the wallops and the bullets.

Perhaps the reason is that the extremist is always more deeply stirred to wrath by the sight of calmness and self-control on the part of others than by the most virulent abuse and challenge from the extremist on the other end of the see-saw.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(127) Connecticut Per Capita Debt Below Average.

Connecticut ranks 36th in the ratio of the combined state and local bonded indebtedness to the wealth of the state, and 28th in the size of her per capita debt. Florida leads all states in both respects. Connecticut in 1913 with a combined state and local bonded debt (less sinking funds) totaling $42,799,000 was eleventh. That year the per capita debt for the state was $35.59 and the percentage of the debt to the wealth, 1.82. Connecticut stood 16th in the ratio of debt to wealth. That year the per capita debt for New England was $52.98, Massachusetts leading the New England group with a per capita debt of $72.75, and for the United States, $33.11. New York had the highest with 103.43 and Arkansas the lowest, $4.92. The ratio of debt to wealth for New England was 3.08% and for the United States 1.75%. Florida ranked 34th in per capita debt and 21st in ratio of debt to wealth. The latest data available for comparison (1925) give Connecticut a combined state and local bonded debt (less sinking funds) of $103,848,000, the total for all states being $3,895,197,000, and New England, $871,238,000. In the New England group Connecticut's total is second to Massachusetts, which was $352,800,000. Connecticut is well below the per capita debt for the United States and New England, being $65.93 as against $95.50 for the United States and $71.52 for New England. As Connecticut's wealth increased, the ratio of debt to wealth decreased, whereas this ratio for the United States increased. Connecticut's ratio is 1.72%, that for the United States, 2.83% and for New England, 2.07%.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER Washington.—Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter's triumphal appearance before the Senate campaign funds investigating committee proved to be one of the most significant developments of the political season.

It was triumphal because the committee almost overlooked him, and significant because it was an admission that McWhorter was actually a candidate—something previously admitted by McWhorter alone. Other senators benefitted similarly, but McWhorter's victory was most glorious because he was among those originally called and won a place in the witness chair only by the masterful strategy.

First, the senator surreptitiously tacked up a few "McWhorter for President" signs in the corridors leading to the committee room. When this got no results, he went in person and took a conspicuous seat. Finally, in a culminating brilliant stroke, he sneaked a note into a messenger boy's hand and sent him to the chairman. The note was signed simply "A Friend" and said: "McWhorter is planning to feed poison to the other candidates."

A great buzzing was observed at the committee table and soon afterward Senator McWhorter was asked to step forward. He did with a proud wink at the crowd as he sat down. The quizzing began: SENATOR SOUR: What were you doing buying arsenic the other night? SENATOR McWHORTER: I didn't buy any arsenic. SENATOR SOUR: What was it, then? SENATOR McWHORTER: Mouthwash. SENATOR SOUR: Do you expect to buy any arsenic? SENATOR McWHORTER: No! SENATOR SOUR: Very well, you're excused. SENATOR McWHORTER: Can't you think of some more questions? SENATOR GOOSEGREASE: Sure, you aren't a candidate, are you? SENATOR McWHORTER: Yielding to the earnest entreaties of my many friends, modestly sensitive to the rising tide of popular insistence, realizing as I do my unworthiness for that great office, yet persuaded of the crying need of a

New York, May 21—The spotlight's fickleness is an old theme to Broadway.

Some sigh a bit at the inevitable recurrence of the story, some smile cynically, some wear troubled expressions as they wonder who time will hit next.

Certainly there is always something bobbing up to remind one of it. For instance—a couple of years ago Juanita Hansen was one of the highly touted stars of the cinema.

And the other night at the opening of a Broadway play, the fate of which is uncertain, a handsome woman was required to stride across the stage a couple of times.

And surely no individual in the movie realm was better known than Priscilla Dean. She's still out with a vaudeville act that started from this metropolis some weeks ago.

Half a dozen big hotels in the Times Square belt now deliver a corkscrew to each room with the morning paper.

Whereas most of the big hotels now display signs announcing that they're trying to cooperate with the government in enforcing the prohibition amendment.

MIGHTY FILM EPIC CONTINUES AT STATE

"Legion of Condemned" Here Two More Days, Double Features Wednesday.

They speeks against a cloud-banked sky looming larger and larger and taking shape as airplane squadrons in battle formation—The Legion of the Condemned!—Men who laugh at death, and even welcomed it!

Thus you have the colorful background that forms the interesting and thrilling story that is attached to "The Legion of the Condemned," the mighty film production dedicated to aviation, which opened at the State Theater last evening for a special three-day engagement.

"The Legion of the Condemned," is a story of a youth who wanted to die and then who didn't want to die. It is a story of youth so desperately in love with a girl, that he sought a way out when he discovered or thought he discovered, that she had betrayed him.

On Wednesday only, the State is offering another of its splendid double feature bills.

The features will be Chester Conklin in his latest laughfest, "The Big Noise," and "Tragedy of Youth," a tempestuous drama featuring Patsy Ruth Miller and Warner Baxter.

FOUR KILLED IN CRASHES

Buffalo, N. Y., May 21—The dense fog prevailing here yesterday was blamed today for the automobile accident which caused the death of two men and two women.

Their automobile tore through a steel cable guard and plunged over an embankment to the railroad tracks twenty feet below when they were returning home from a party.

OUR TREES

INDIANS NAMED TUPELO

Glossy foliage which turns a fiery red in the fall is the chief beauty of the tupelo.

"Tupelo" is the name given the tree by the Indians. In the lumber trade the term includes the wood of the tupelo gum, black gum, water gum and sour tupelo.

Within the last 10 years tupelo gradually has come to be marketed under its own name, though often it gets other names, such as "bay poplar."

The second largest use for tupelo is for planing mill products, especially flooring and inside finish. For factory floors and platforms subject to heavy wear tupelo has proved very satisfactory.

BREMEN IS WRECKED TRYING TO TAKE OFF

Halifax, N. S., May 21—Wrecked almost beyond repair in attempting to take off from Blanc Sablon, Labrador, the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen will have to remain there indefinitely until a boat arrives to bring it to New York, advised from Point Amour, Labrador, stated today.

With Fred Melchior, the Junkers expert, at the controls and Dr. Culsinier and Mechanic Thibeault accompanying him, the plane roared about thirty feet after a short dash down the runway built at Blanc Sablon and suddenly dropped to the ground.

Neither Melchior nor his companions were hurt. But the entire left side of the plane was badly damaged as it fell sideways. The reason for its sudden fall has not been ascertained.

Melchior reached the Bremen by dropping in a parachute from one of the Army amphibian planes which were to escort the German ship to New York. Culsinier and the mechanic had been working on the plane for some time.

The Army planes were unable to land off Blanc Sablon, which is on the Straits of Belle Isle, because of floating ice. They are now at Pictou, N. S.

Lindbergh's First Year --- Flyer's Rise to Fame Told in Pictures

NO MAN ever burst upon the pages of history so suddenly or achieved world-wide fame in as short a time as Charles A. Lindbergh, who, carrying only a toothbrush and letters of introduction, took off on his lone flight across the Atlantic on May 20, 1927, just one year ago yesterday.

An obscure Missouri National Guard pilot that morning, he found himself one of the most famous persons in the world when he landed in Paris 33 1/2 hours later. Since that day he has constantly added to his renown and today his name probably is known to more people than that of any other man in the world.

The accompanying pictures tell the story of Lindbergh's meteoric rise to fame:

1—A moment before the take-off from Roosevelt Field, New York, early on the morning of May 20, 1927.

2—Cheering thousands roar welcome to hero of New York-to-Paris flight as Spirit of St. Louis lands at Le Bourget Field, Paris, on evening of May 21 just a year ago tonight.

3—Paris crowds acclaim Lindbergh as he appears at window of American embassy.

4—Ambassador Herrick leads cheering for Lindbergh, attired in ill-fitting civilian clothes borrowed from a member of embassy staff.

5—Belgian crowds welcome Lindbergh at Brussels on his triumphant tour of European capitals.

6—The rousing welcome is repeated at Croydon Air Field, London.

7—At triumphant home-coming in Washington, Lindbergh is welcomed and decorated by President Coolidge.

8—Amid confetti snowstorm, New York stages one of the greatest demonstrations in its history when Lindbergh parades there.

9—St. Louis, too, goes wild as conquering hero returns, after which he makes an air tour, visiting every state in the Union.

10—Just before the take-off from Bolling Field, Washington, last December, on his "good will" flight to Mexico and other Central American countries.

11—Complete first non-stop flight from Washington to Mexico City, Lindbergh is welcomed by General Alvarez.

12—Just before the take-off on hurried flight from New York for Quebec, Canada, with serum with which it was hoped to save Floyd Bennett's life.

13—Around Lindbergh's neck President Coolidge places the blue ribbon bearing the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest award the nation can bestow, voted unanimously by congress.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Monday, May 21.

Helen Ardelle, soprano, will be heard during the program by Roxy and His Gang which will be broadcast by WJZ and the Blue network at 7:30 Monday night. Other vocal soloists will be heard during the concert besides selections by instrumental artists, ensembles, and a symphony orchestra. "Putting" will be the subject of Johnny Farrell's solo in which the pianist will be accompanied by the Roxy and His Gang orchestra. ### GUNMAN IS MURDERED IN GREENWICH VILLAGE

"The Lynx" Feared by Bootleggers is Shot Down in a Speakeasy.

New York, May 21.—The guns of Gansdorf have blazed again—this time in a sumptuous Greenwich Village speakeasy—and another underworld character, Patrick Mitchell, 28, "The Lynx" as he was called, had passed on. He was captured by a telephone call, given "two minutes to pray" and shot to death. He was found with six bullets in him and his head on the brass bar rail.

Under arrest today in connection with the murder is James Russell, alias "Jimmy the Gin," who was captured by Arthur Schultze, a rookie policeman, as he rushed pell mell out of the speakeasy a few seconds after the shooting. Schultze commiserated a taxi cab, chased "Jimmy the Gin" for a block or two and put him under arrest. Russell had tossed his gun away as he ran. He vehemently denied he had slain Mitchell and lapsed into silence. He was to be arraigned in Homicide Court today.

"The Lynx" was one of the most feared gunmen in the underworld. According to the police he lived royally on money he received as tribute from thieves and bootleggers. They are working on the theory that hijackers and others of his alleged victims, tired of paying tribute, hired a gang to do away with him.

SON OF BLERIOT HOPES TO MAKE ATLANTIC JUMP

Paris.—"My father was the first to fly across the English Channel, I had hope to be the first to fly across the Atlantic, and who knows, he might be the first to fly across the Pacific."

Louis Bleriot, Jr., was telling his plans for crossing the Atlantic in company with Lucien Bossoutrot and the reasons for certain modifications they intend to make in their attempt.

"No Non-Stop Attempt"

"We now have no intention of making a non-stop flight between Paris and New York," said the young man. "After all 'commercial aviation' is the thing. Our purpose is to establish the first crossing of a regular transatlantic service. With this idea in mind and with a stop at the Azores contemplated, important changes in the plane to be used have been made. The flying radius will be cut from 3,000 miles to less than 4,000 miles.

"Our plane will be a Bleriot monoplane," explained M. Bleriot, "with four Hispano motors of 250 H. P. each. These motors are especially new and are being made especially for us by the Hispano Company. We hope they will turn up to 300 H. P. each, this will give us a total motive power of 12,000 H. P.

His first thought was to place gasoline tanks in the pontoons of the plane, as the machine is to be a hydroplane, but since the trials are to be made from the ground with wheels, this idea was dropped.

"Each motor should use about eighteen gallons of gasoline an hour and produce a speed of 125 miles," says M. Bleriot. "The loaded plane will be about nine tons. We are going to install radio receiving and sending apparatus."

Where the start of the flight will commence has not yet been decided nor the date.

"The States does not give us a sufficient straight line in order to get away so we may have to start quite a distance from Paris. As to the date; my father crossed the English Channel on July 25, 1909, I would like to take off on that date, which would be the nineteenth anniversary of that great event. It might bring me good luck."

When ships are launched in America flowers are strewn about instead of a bottle of wine being broken as in "wet" countries; in Japan a number of birds are freed.

NEW YORK FARE FIGHT UP IN SUPREME COURT

Heads List of Cases Awaiting Decision—Other Cases to Be Heard.

Washington, May 21.—The Supreme Court reconvened today with the petition of the City of New York for a stay of the 7 cent subway and elevated fare heading a list of cases awaiting decision.

Although no intimation was given by the court as to when it would decide the fare case, submitted a week ago, the temporary stay granted by the New York Statutory Court expires May 23.

Among the other cases expected to be acted upon before the court adjourns for the summer on June 4 are:

Appeal of George W. Bryant, of Buffalo, N. Y., attacking the validity of the Walker law of New York state requiring the Ku Klux Klan and similar organizations to file membership roster with the secretary of state.

Appeal of Great Lakes states from the ruling of Special Master Charles E. Hughes holding that Chicago is legally diverting water from Lake Michigan into a sanitary canal under War Department permit.

UNVEIL MONUMENT TO CAMEMBERT INVENTOR

Vimoutiers, France.—Mme. Harel, inventor of Camembert, has been immortalized, thanks to the gift of an American.

This gift, a sum of $20 started a public subscription for a monument which was unveiled here by Monsieur Alexandre Mileraud, former president of France.

Mme. Harel was born at Camembert in 1741. There is no record of her death.

Dr. Alexander Knim, of New York, on a pilgrimage to the woman's birthplace and opened the subscription list with $20. He said the cheese had health-giving qualities and was prescribed by him to his patients. Last year the region of Normandy produced 75,000,000 cheese which were made from 150,000,000 quarts of milk.

The monument shows Mme. Harel as an Eighteenth Century dairymaid, wearing a lace bonnet and wooden shoes, and holding an inimitable Normand milk pot.

He was a native of New Foundland, and had lived here for twenty-eight years.

STORKS BECOMING RARE IN ALSACE AND LORRAINE NESTS ARE DISAPPEARING

Strasbourg.—Storks are becoming more and more rare in Alsace and Lorraine, which gives one to believe that it was not the Prussian helmet which frightened them away, as the old song runs. They did not return with the French poilus in 1919.

In the year 1901 storks' nests in Mecklenburg numbered 3,094. In 1925 there were only 536 in this same region. A similar decrease was noticed in Silesia, Germany and

N. CAROLINA DISTRICT TO SHOW SMITH FEELING AT PRIMARY, JUNE 2

Raleigh, N. C.—Voters of one North Carolina Congressional district will have a chance to express themselves on Governor Al Smith of New York at the polls June 2, the date of the state democratic primary.

In the second district the candidates for the democratic nomination to Congress have made Smith an issue. The incumbent, Rep. John H. Kerr, a staunch Smith supporter, is opposed by H. C. Robertson, Greene County superintendent of education, and O. P. Dickinson, former mayor of Wilson, the latter two strong anti-Smith men.

NEW BOMBING AIRPLANE DOES NOT NEED RUNWAY

Cleveland.—A new bombing plane which needs no runway to take the air has been developed by an airplane manufacturing company here in fulfilling a navy contract for 100 new bombing and torpedo planes it was revealed recently. The plane, it is said, is capable of taking the air from a standing start in less than ten seconds.

The new bombing plane was tested here a few weeks ago and took off, according to Paul F. Collins, the pilot, in eight seconds loaded with a ton of sand bags.

 Brahms' "Cradle Song," which is probably the best known of lullabies, will be played in a special trio arrangement tonight in the half hour of dinner music by Emil Heimberger's Hotel Bond Trio through WTIC of the Travelers.

The program will be devoted to the works of Johannes Brahms, the German composer. Brahms excelled in all styles except the opera, which is unusual in view of the high popularity of the opera in the late eighties, a popularity which has never since been surpassed. He received his early training with Liszt and Schumann, both masters of different styles, which probably accounts for his versatility.

His best-known works are his symphonies. His unique grasp of rhythmic invention, of harmonic structure and his keen sense of instrumental color marked him as a master creative artist. His list of known works includes more than 500 compositions.

EGYPT EDITOR JAILED FOR DEFAMING ROYALTY

Carlo.—Sentences of six months imprisonment was passed on the two editors of a weekly Arabic paper here for publishing articles defamatory of the late Queen Victoria and the late kings of Persia, Sweden and Norway.

Royalty is held in such reverence in Egypt that nothing derogatory must be published ever of those that are no longer alive. The editors were accordingly found guilty of "lese majeste" but acquitted because the offended queen and kings were not here to see the punishment meted out to the offenders, the sentences were suspended.

To keep it right—keep it tuned!

YOUR piano is a very wonderful instrument that deserves real care and attention. Think how valuable it is, not only in money, but as a source of entertainment and culture in your home.

You keep it spotlessly clean outside—how much more important to keep it tuned! Then you will always be sure of perfect music for your children and for the sensitive ears of your discriminating guests.

The main thing is to have your piano tuned regularly. Twice a year is the absolute minimum. Three or four times a year is much better—and fully worth while.

I have had this trouble so long that I began to lose both weight and strength and began to worry about my condition. I was also getting discouraged because I had tried so many different ways to get well, but was always doomed to disappointment. I decided to give ERBJUS a good trial and did so. I have taken three bottles of ERBJUS and here are the results. My digestion is fine and I do not have gas attacks and constipation does not bother me at all. I have gained weight and lots of strength and am immensely pleased with ERBJUS."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NATHANIEL DEAN is engaged to VIRGINIA BREWSTER, whose father dies suddenly after losing his fortune. NIEL begs her to marry him at once, but FREDERICK DEAN and his daughter CLARISSA persuade her to make her temporary home with them.

VIRGINIA becomes unhappy in her new home and resolves to tell NIEL her fears. But when she phones his studio late at night his model, CHIRI, answers. This causes doubt and a lovers' quarrel which is later explained away happily.

Meanwhile, DEAN is forced to pay blackmail to MRS. FARLEY or face a scandal which he realized would spoil his chance of winning VIRGINIA. Hoping to get NIEL out of the way, DEAN has the president of a company he controls order a high-spirited position, provided he will go to San Francisco at once. NIEL is overjoyed at the offer and begs VIRGINIA to marry and go west with him. But she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.

VIRGINIA is involved in trouble with CLARISSA when the latter's fiance, RUSSELL WAINGOLD, catches her unexpectedly in a half-drunken embrace.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

WITHOUT a word Clarissa turned and disappeared from Virginia's agonized sight. And by that silent gesture Virginia realized her worst fear. Clarissa had misunderstood!

"Let me go," Virginia cried fiercely at Russell. "Are you mad?" He laughed as she wrenched and tore to free her frail body. Finally she worked her hands to a position that enabled her to give him a shove and managed to break away.

"Oh, what a fool you've been," she choked. "Clarissa saw you!"

"So that's what throttled you! I was afraid you didn't like me."

"Like you? I think you're a beast!"

"Just because I kissed you? Say, that makes me dizzy. I thought I knew how to kiss a girl and make her like it."

Virginia was white and trembling now. The dread of facing Clarissa was replacing her wrath. How could she convince her friend that it was all nothing but a stupid, meaningless episode?

"I'm going up to try to explain to Clarissa," she told Russell in a shaken voice, "and I certainly shall make it plain as to who is the guilty person."

"You'd better give her time to cool off; Claret knows some pretty strong words," Russell advised.

Virginia did not answer.

"Well, wish you luck," he called after her as she left the room.

She went directly to Clarissa's boudoir. At the door she paused for breath before rapping.

Clarissa threw the door open, banging it back violently.

Virginia walked into the room without an invitation to do so, quaking inwardly before Clarissa's patent fury.

"I don't care to hear any lies, if you intend to defend yourself that way," Clarissa said.

"Oh, did he?" Clarissa sneered. "Well, it wasn't because of cocktails, let me tell you. I know how much he can drink and I know how much he had."

"Clarissa! You know better than that. I don't blame you for being angry, but after all it was just a foolish thing that Russell did."

"Very foolish indeed, to do it right under my eyes. I wonder how you thought you could get away with it, Virginia."

"Do you really believe I wanted it to happen?"

"Well, why not? If you didn't you could have managed to avoid it. Surely you haven't forgotten that I warned you I wouldn't permit any trespassing where Russell was concerned. I thought you might find him more interesting than a poverty-stricken artist. Or were you simply adding another because you feared Mrs. Farley?"

Virginia's eyes wavered over the stormy creature before her in absolute bewilderment.

"I haven't the faintest idea what you are talking about," she said when she could speak no more.

"For heaven's sake, can't you stop pretending to be dumb?" Clarissa cried angrily. "Don't you suppose that I know you aren't going to marry your precious Niel?"

You wouldn't have turned him down to come here if you were. You know Dad's a catch. Well, that was all right with me. I didn't want Mrs. Farley to get him."

The words poured out like a torrent and they seemed to Virginia like debris being heaped upon her, the debris of a broken friendship.

She wanted to turn and run, but the sight of Clarissa, flaming and raging, fascinated her. She ceased to hear what more was being said. Her mind was echoing the accusations already made against her. She understood now why Clarissa had been so eager to have her in the house. Her face burned with shame.

"I don't care to hear any lies, if you intend to defend yourself that way," Clarissa said.

"You don't seem to have anything to say now that you know you can't pull the wool over my eyes," Clarissa flung out, taunting her with her stricken silence.

Virginia's lips parted in an attempt to speak but she succeeded only in uttering a queer, unintelligible sound of protest.

Clarissa laughed harshly. It was such a thoroughly contemptuous laugh that it stung Virginia to a retort. "If you believe what you've just said you don't deserve to be answered," she declared in a voice that held as much contempt as Clarissa's own.

She was as angry now as she was angry when she first held her head high and a disdainful light flashing from her expressive eyes, she turned to leave the room.

Clarissa stopped her. Virginia could not ignore what she said.

"You'd better go down and complete your work with Russell, for I'm sure when father hears of this your chances with him won't be any better than they are now."

Virginia came back and stood face to face with her.

"I'm ashamed—for you," she said, so simply and coldly and sincerely that Clarissa had to give ground. The sneer left her lips and all flush spread over her cheeks.

"It does not matter to me now whether you believe me or not," Virginia went on, speaking slowly and with perfect control. She had recovered from the attack Clarissa brought herself to a state of cold calm and it was now Clarissa's turn to flinch.

"I don't think I should care to have you believe me—to want to be friends again," the stern young voice carried on.

"You spent so much time abroad. I've heard you were rushed by fortune hunters over there, Clarissa; perhaps that is why you are so suspicious and worldly. You seem to think that everyone is ready to sacrifice decency for money. And you would have preferred me to Clarissa rather than have your father marry Mrs. Farley. But you've made a big mistake if you've thought that I feel as you do. You can go down and tell Russell Waingold that I don't consider him worthy to speak to the man I'm going to marry—that's how much I want to take him away from you. And as for wanting to marry your father—I'd hate myself if the idea had been mine."

The speech was almost too long for her composure. The last words came with more of natural feeling than the first had held. It proved a relief to Clarissa, who preferred a touch of temper to the quiet thrusts of truth. She lifted her chin with a great show of spirit and turned her back, accompanying the gesture with a shrug of disbelief that caused Virginia to turn and leave the room in full knowledge that the break was final.

She knew she must leave the house as well. It would be intolerable to spend another night under a roof that harbored anyone who had insulted her so grossly as Clarissa had. She would pack a few of her things and leave immediately. The thought of seeing Mr. Dean bothered her. She would have to do it, though. He couldn't be held to answer for what she owed him an explanation as to why she was leaving his house.

In her room she rang for a maid and asked if Mr. Dean had left. A few minutes later she was on her way to the library, where her host was waiting to see her.

But as she approached the door a thought as staggering as anything Clarissa had said crossed her mind and she halted abruptly, as though a physical barrier had been thrown up before her.

CLARA BOW SAYS SCREEN CAREER CUTS OFF FRIENDS.

Success really should mean something more than an accumulation of wardrobes, cars and vacation trips, according to Clara Bow, the little red-headed cinema star who is alleged to have more "it" and fan-mail than anyone in Hollywood.

"One thing that acting-success brings is more work. Perhaps that is its most satisfactory reward. If you get more fun out of it than anything else, and I do," Clara said. "Now instead of standing in line for a chance, as I had to when I was an extra girl, I can keep busy steadily, one picture after the next, putting myself through the most thrilling emotional experiences."

"Something that success does NOT bring is simple and natural companionship. Instead, it seems to cut one off from people. After success, there still are friends to be made and I don't know but making real friends is more of a success than success itself.

Furthermore, the success there always is the opportunity for growth. From the success of youth, there is the success of mature art to be developed. There is the responsibility not to disappoint, not to fail, not to misuse chances. A star part in a movie is, after all, just a beginning. And I want to keep going along so I needn't be ashamed of the road."

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

Dearest Mom: You might just as well not try to understand us—the modern generation, I mean, because you can't do it. All your natural sympathy is for those who are unlike us. Take Florence and Betty for instance. You're entirely on Betty's side. You think she's wonderful because she is willing to make the same sacrifice for a while that everybody expects Florence to make as a matter of course.

If you really had any use for flappers you would accept us at our own valuation of ourselves. We think we're crusaders, and I ask you, Mom, do you think the older women would be as free as they are if the kids hadn't been? Who threw away the corsets, the long skirts and got rid of long hair? Yes, I know that girdles are worn and hair is growing again, but never while there is a free soul to ring the bells will unconformity be able clothes and horse tails be without their foe. Yet, all we get is abuse.

I know a lot of girls who are letting their hair grow but not one of them is willing to go back to hair so long that they can sit on it. When nearly everyone is past the agony of getting the neck-hair to stay with the rest, the leaders of fashion will start bobbing again.

The way a woman dresses always will be mostly a matter of prevailing style, but, thank goodness, no one who has broken away from the rule-of-thumb slavery ever will let silly "conventions" grow again.

But even our new freedom entails obligations. We admit that. One of the first, and really the most important, is to know life. We must learn how to live. So long as we are on earth we are living. Why don't you know what it's all about? Naturally Florence doesn't know just how she can use the experiences and education she has gained here in the city but we both think they will prove of value to her at some time or other. You really can't know too much.

Deepest love,
MARYE.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

If editors can be arrested and fined for printing in newspapers pictures of ladies which the ladies of their own admiring sex find unbecoming, one wonders just what great reward the editors can and will legitimately demand for making plain gals look beautiful. What every editor knows above all else is the dire things that would happen if he made ladies look in his paper as they really do look.

Here's hoping that the arrest and fining of the Spanish editor by Dictator Primo de Rivera because he alleged that a picture of his fiancée, Senorita Castellanos, which the editor published was unfair to the lady's ankles, results in a defense mechanism for editors who can collect thousands for making plain ladies look fair. Sauce for goose-sauce for gander.

TYPHOID FEVER DEATHS DECREASE IN 81 CITIES
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

The Journal of the American Medical Association has just made available its annual report on deaths from typhoid fever in the large cities of the United States.

The death rates from typhoid fever are an index to the sanitation of the community, particularly as relating to food supply, water supply, and the disposal of sewage.

Eighty-one cities in the United States of more than 100,000 population are concerned in the annual summary. The New England cities are particularly free from typhoid fever, New Haven and Springfield, in 1927, being without a single typhoid death.

Examination for Carriers

In Providence, R. I., a child two months of age died of typhoid fever. Its father had had typhoid two years before and the mother and two other children were found to be typhoid carriers. The typhoid carrier is a menace to every healthful person in the community. After a case of typhoid fever occurs in a family, other members should be examined and if a carrier is found, proper scientific measures should be taken to rid him or her of the bacteria.

The New Vandals

By Olive Roberts Barton

The motherly saleswoman in the electric shop took great pride in exhibiting her wares. She was as proud of a new model of sweeper as she would have been of a child bringing home an excellent report card.

This motherly instinct in women, by the way, often seeks the intimate on which to bestow affection, when they feel the lack of human relationship.

She would lay her hand affectionately in a washing machine, or pull a raveling off a machine, much as she would have patted Johnny's head or a broken thread from Susie's petticoat.

"Interesting work, isn't it?" I suggested.

"Yes, it is," she replied. "I get so interested in all these wonderful things, really. I guess I just about love them. When we sell anything and it's taken out of the shop, I wonder what kind of a home it is going to have and if the people will be kind to it."

"It's heartbreaking sometimes," she went on. "Although most of these electric things are just about fool-proof, often in less than a month they come back in pitiful condition. I felt so sorry for that lovely vacuum-cleaner in the corner. It was so shiny and new for a few weeks ago. Yesterday it came wouldn't work. I wish you could back for repairs. They said it broke to pieces. The bag was full of dirt to the top. They did not even empty it. And the brush was so full of hair and grease and everything on earth, we fairly had to cut it out.

"Other things come back battered, broken and dirty. I don't know what some people are made of. They don't deserve these nice things."

I thought there was a sermon in that. The wonderful inventions that have taken years to think out, and that workmen take such pride in making perfect, do deserve care and decent treatment.

It is vandalism to destroy things, or permit them to be destroyed, no matter who owns them.

SUMMER SHELF

Stock up one shelf for summer. Include garnishes such as pimentos, cherries green and red, splees, preserves and fruit juices. Unexpected company will prove less irksome with things ready for emergency.

Wonderful Cream For Dry Skins

A new marvelous Cleansing Cream is on the market, containing Cocoa Butter. It melts right into the skin, cleaning every pore of grime and dirt, and will not stretch the skin or make it saggy. It's simply marvelous in keeping youthful complexion. Ask for MELLO-GLO, the new Cream with Cocoa Butter. Will not grow hair. J. W. Hale Co., South Manchester.—Adv.

Town Twilight Baseball League Starts Tonight

Dave McConkey Hero In Beating Bristol

Allows Four Hits and Gets Three Himself; Boggini, Lupien Hitless; Score 4-2.

Although his heavy artillery was completely silenced, Manchester High succeeded in advancing another step toward the championship of the Central Connecticut interscholastic baseball league by turning back its arch rival, Bristol High, Saturday afternoon at the West Side Playgrounds, four runs to two.

The real hero of the game for Manchester was young Dave McConkey, who allowed Coach Tommy Minnahan's crew only four hits and whacked out three himself. Both teams scored runs on misplays.

The Bristol team put up a much better showing than it has in previous league games. For a while, it even looked as though Bristol might win. And, as a matter of fact, the game was in doubt until the final out. A two run lead is mighty nice to have, but it doesn't take a super-human rally by any means to blast it.

Manchester got a gift run in the first inning when "Big" Zetarski, Bristol's scoring ace in basketball, yielded two grounders neatly and they hurled both of them in the general direction of the McKee street stadium, about a half-mile away. This enabled Ernie Dowd to score.

Bristol took the lead in the fourth matching good play for poor Zetarski singled to right. Roberts dropped a neat bunt that McConkey hurriedly tried to field. Zetarski scampered home after Ab Lupien caught the ball and when Lupien's throw got to him Boggini at first base was safe.

That's all Bristol could do against McConkey's delivery. Manchester tied the score in the fifth when McConkey singled and completed the circuit on scratches by Ernie Dowd and Captain "Sonny" Foley. In the sixth, Louie Farr's long double to left chased home Ab Lupien who had reached first when he forced Boggini at second.

Manchester tied the bases in the next inning but Dickie Kerr grounded out to Hugret for the third out. The extra run came in the eighth. Farr walked, was sacrificed to second and scored on McConkey's third single.

Benay Allaire twirled good ball for Bristol and deserved better fate, his support wobbling in the pinch. He led Nine Boggini and Ab Lupien, leading hitters on the local team, without a single safe blow and twice struck out Boggini.

Manchester's next game will be Wednesday afternoon at the West Side Playground and Saturday will travel to Willimantic to meet the old rival, the High. Coach Kelley's outfit has not met every team in the league once and defeated it. The team has won six out of seven games. Saturday's box score:

GEORGE M. LOTT, JR. JOINS SPORTS STAFF OF THE HERALD

Old Jupiter Pluvius Mars Sports Program

Old Jupiter Pluvius, the independent and unruly weather God, who has already landed three successive right hooks on the jaw of no less a personage than Tex Rickard, visited Manchester over the week-end and almost completely wrecked an unusually big program of sports events.

BIG LEAGUE TEAMS ARE ON WAY HOME

Cleveland the Only Outfit That Got Better Than An Even Break.

The New York Yankees set the pace in the American League, capturing all of their thirteen contests except one game with Cleveland. The Athletics grabbed ten out of thirteen and they suffered but four setbacks in twelve starts.

Local Runners in Norwich Ten-Miler

Manchester runners will compete in the third annual ten mile road race at Norwich Memorial Day afternoon, it was learned today.

M. H. S. NETMEN BEAT BRISTOL

Take Three of Four Singles and Both Doubles; Courts Heavy From Rain.

Despite the steady drizzle which made the playing surface heavy and footing none-too-sure, Manchester's High tennis team scored a 5 to 1 victory over Bristol's netmen Saturday afternoon on the local courts in the rear of the school.

St. Louis 2, New York 1 (second).
Cincinnati 2, Pittsburgh 2.
Brooklyn 11, Philadelphia 4.
Boston 4, Chicago 3.

WEIGH IN AGAIN

The continued postponements likewise have effected "form" on the scale of the afternoon. No one knows just how the principals are laughing at the exigencies of daily prep work for an altercation that only threatens to take place.

LEADING LEAGUE HITTERS

National League
Grantham, Pirates, .411.
Callaghan, Cincinnati, .400.

8 TEAMS ALL SET FOR FIRST GAMES, WEATHER GRANTING

Bon Ami, Heights and Manchester Green Seen as Pre-Season Favorites; Rosters Ready Tomorrow.

Weather permitting, the Community Club twilight baseball league will start operations on four different fronts tonight at 8 o'clock.

WEATHER PERMITTING, THE COMMUNITY CLUB TWILIGHT BASEBALL LEAGUE WILL START OPERATIONS ON FOUR DIFFERENT FRONTS TONIGHT AT 8 O'CLOCK.

Competent officials will handle all of the games. The eligibility list of all eight clubs will be announced in tomorrow's Herald inasmuch as they have not all been submitted yet.

Fans can take their choice of these four games:

Highland Park vs. Advertisers (Old Shamrock team) at Highland Park.

Heights vs. Manchester Green at Heights Bowl.

North Ends vs. Talcottville at Community playgrounds.

Bon Ami vs. Firemen at Hickey's Grove.

All the teams entered have endeavored to gather together the best team possible for the league, selecting principally players from their own district or section of the town.

Picking a favorite to win the pennant would be sort of impossible, especially when the rosters of the competing clubs have not been made public, but the Bon Ami, Heights and Manchester Green at least, are expected to be in the thick of the fray at the finish.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Truth is stranger than fiction and nowadays it's a lot more decent.

LETTER GOLF

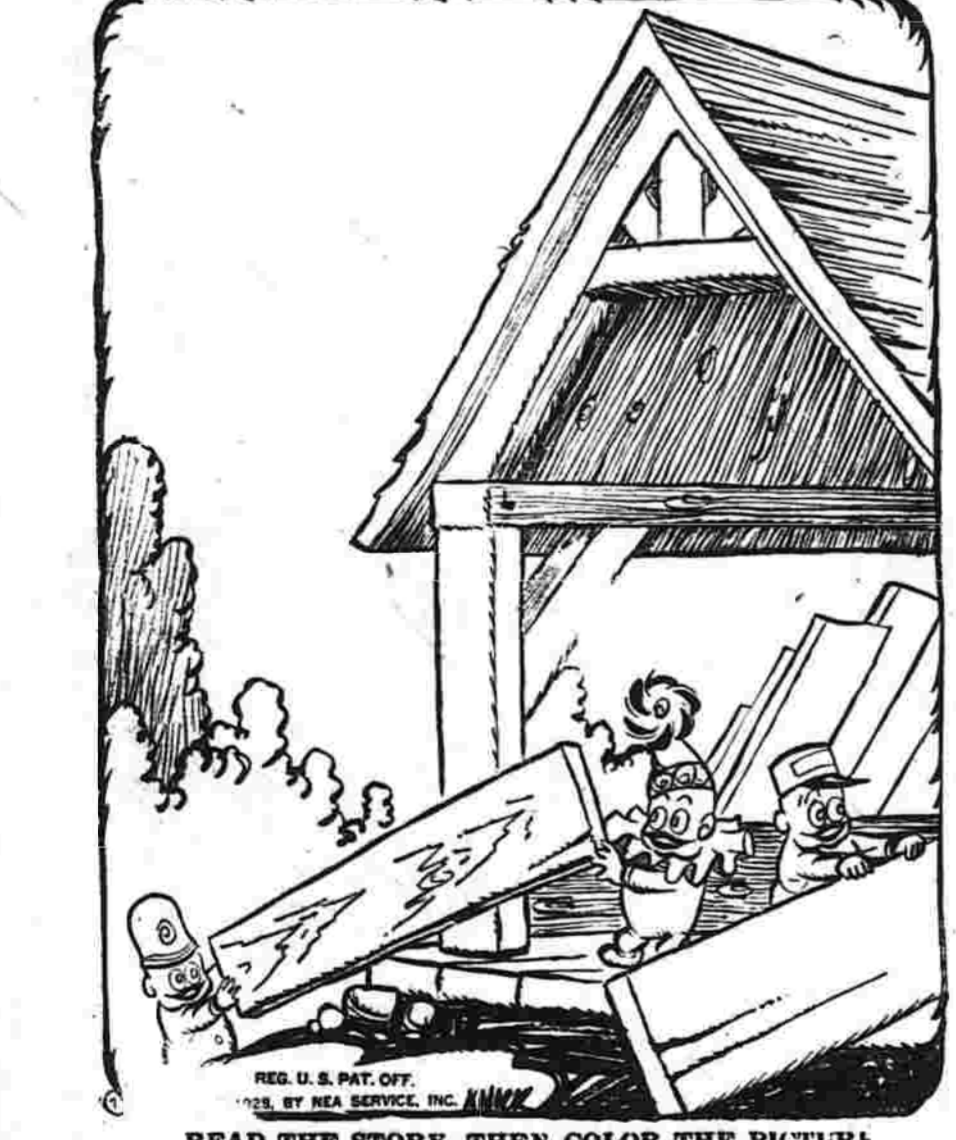

WATCH YOUR STEP! If you SLIP, you're awfully close to a FALL! Especially in letter golf, for par is a mere five.

Letter golf grid with letters S, L, I, P and F, A, L, L.

THE RULES 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes.

A girl tells us they don't call them flappers any more, but bungalows; because they are painted in front, shingled behind and have no upstairs.

THE TINYMITES

Poor Clowny soon began to cough, and Scouty said, 'I'll brush you off. You're covered o'er with sawdust, and you're quite a funny sight. You should be careful, goodness knows, or you will ruin all your clothes.'

SENSE and NONSENSE

You may think you are swift, but think of sound that travels by radio six times around the world in a second.

Some people are human radios, they claim they were good last night and promise results tomorrow night—but oh the static today!

An eastern judge had ruled that radio is a necessity. One's own radio is a necessity. But there are occasional points out a Manchester man, when the attention of the judge should be directed to the neighbor's set.

A matron, evidently not scientifically trained, telephoned the electrician to fix her radio. 'Send a man over to our house right away! The electricity is leaking all over the furniture.'

The retired farmer usually comes to town to spend his money. The town man usually spends his in the country when he tries farming.

How is it we never get any cream on our milk? said the newly wedded husband. 'I complained to the milkman,' explained the young wife, 'and he said that he always filled our jug so full of milk there was no room for cream. He is such a nice man.'

'Why are your socks on wrong side out, Bob?' 'Bob—My feet were hot and I turned the hose on them.'

An Ohio farmer, living along the commercial air route has this special warning for aviators, painted on the roof of his barn: If you read this sign you are too dangled low. Fumdoolin over these premises is risky and we ain't in no shape to tinker with a corpse.

A woman is really old when she no longer cares how she looks. A man is old when he no longer looks.

'I'll drop you a line sometime soon,' said the sailor to the man overboard.

Some day we are going to get brave enough to publish the name of the town's Meanest Man. He waits until the babies go to bed and then he smokes their bubble pipe.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

TRIO OF ELEMENTS. There are three elements of extreme importance in the relations between food distributor and food consumer—price, quality, service. A debate as long, and perhaps as inconclusive, as some of those during this session of Congress, could be staged around this topic, "Which is the Most Important?" There would probably be three answers, each with its considerable group of supporters—among the customers. Pinehurst, however, places the three elements as nearly side by side as it is possible to establish them. Quality, of course, because on it depends so much the vital facts of health, is first to suggest itself. And it is never displaced by either of the other considerations. Yet price, economically insistent, must receive every atom of its due in our calculations. It would be a fine thing if price made no difference to the purchaser; but it does make a difference—a tremendous one to most folks. So Pinehurst whitens the price, always, to the lowest notch compatible with highest quality. Service, in some minds, would run a bad third to quality and price-marks. Not, however, in ours. It seems to us to be entitled to almost if not exactly as important a position in the scale as the other elements. Pinehurst service contributes to the convenience of the customer, to freedom from worries, to a sense of security, to serenity and comfort—and the good food, sold at close prices, which is eaten in an atmosphere of content and ease does the consumer far more good than where there is an accompaniment of petty annoyance, disappointment.
