

CONQUEST OF ATOM NEAR; IS BASIS OF EXISTENCE

U. S. Scientists Able to Photograph and Chart Progress of Studies—May Lead to Anything.

Washington, May 25.—Conquest of the atom—the very basis of all existence—is the objective of a remarkable series of experiments, in progress at the U. S. Bureau of Standards in charge of Dr. William F. Meggers, internationally known physicist.

Science is putting the atom to work. Initial stages of this task—described as scientific discovery in the making—embrace intricate observation from electrons, which make up the atom, photographing the emitted light rays, a maze of mathematical calculations and interpretations of the vagaries of atomic behavior.

Once the atom is conquered no imagination is too vivid to prophesy the results. Describing what the research means to human progress, Dr. Meggers said:

"This is a story you cannot exaggerate. Here and a host of men of science are learning to understand and control the changes in the atom."

"When we master full control we will aid the chemist in combining atoms at will to produce forms of matter having any desired properties."

"In the vast complexity of 1,100 rays emitted from the yttrium atom is a fascinating puzzle, the solution of which will contribute to learning the secret of atomic structure, which may give us transmutation of the elements. Some think it may unlock vast stores of energy within the atom and yield undreamed of powers."

"In fact we could not safely deny any possibility ultimately linked with the full knowledge of atomic control."

Nature Conquered

Success thus means, in the opinion of scientists, that man's conquest of nature will be complete. It means domination of matter. Elements may be transmuted, diseases banished, death defied. Regulation of world weather may be accomplished. All energy may be concentrated, and employed to suit human requirements.

Dr. Meggers has photographed 1,100 rays of different wave lengths from atom No. 39—yttrium. He explained that practically all of the rays have been diagrammed and electron movements within the atom or energy changes producing them have been identified. This never before has been accomplished. It adds one more link to the chain of discovery of the complex movements which cause light waves and govern the structure of the atom.

WONDERFUL WEEK-END BILL AT THE STATE

Five Vaudeville Acts and Two Film Features Tomorrow; "Dress Parade," Here Sunday.

For tomorrow's continuous show, which runs from 2:15 until 10:30, the State Theater is presenting another of its wonderful week-end programs. Five excellent acts of selected Metropolitan Vaudeville and two carefully chosen film features will hold sway.

Topping the stage program is an act which has been properly titled "Current of Fun," for it has nothing but laughs from beginning to end. Featured in this clever get-up, is a group of versatile and entertaining artists, all of whom are stars in their own right.

The remainder of the vaudeville includes the "Thelma Trio," Burt Faye, Barrows and Bartlett and Margie and Burt. All have something to offer that should prove of real interest to local theater fans.

Anybody who likes to see the "home town boy make good"—and who doesn't?—should join the rush to see "Alex, the Great," one of the two big features at the State tomorrow.

It is a great mixture of giggles, chuckles and plain old-fashioned roaring laughs. Featured in the stellar role is Richard ("Skeets") Gallagher, famous as a star of musical comedy productions.

The story is played on a vivid background—Grand Central Station, New York streets, a department store, a Long Island estate, and other city scenes throbbing with activity.

"Alex" is a Vermont farmer boy in the beginning. He is convinced life holds something for him besides feeding cows. His city cousin has confidence in him, but her husband, a baseball manager, can't visualize anything in Alex's future except free meals. The action begins when Alex reaches New York and is jokingly told that the mayor's car awaits him. Then the fun commences. It continues through a laughable series of adventures in a riding academy down to a merry chase in one of Broadway's fashionable apartment hotels. "The House of Scandal," starring Pat O'Malley and Dorothy Sebastian, is the second feature for tomorrow. Action, thrills and a dramatic and unlooked for climax are found in this entertaining picture. Tonight marks the final showings of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur in "Circus Rookies," and Pola Negri in "Three Sinners." A special kiddies matinee will be presented Monday afternoon at 1:15 for "Dress Parade." The admission is ten cents for this special matinee.

EXPANDS ITS SERVICE

For those who plan to go to the Jersey shore resorts via Newark and all points on the Lincoln Highway and Pennsylvania, and who desire to avoid the congestion and delay of the traffic of New York City during the Memorial Day holiday, it will be of interest to learn that the Alpine-Yonkers ferry, which is the gateway to that district, will expand its ferry service by adding an additional boat, making a three boat operation on an eight minute headway. In order to accommodate those who plan an early start, the service for the day will commence at 5 a. m. and continue after midnight as long as traffic warrants. The Alpine Yonkers Ferry maintains a touring bureau and the ticket agents at their terminals will be glad, upon request, to give free maps and running directions to destinations.

Building Sites FOR SALE

Henry J. Mathieu and Albert J. Piche have developed some beautiful cottage sites on the Northeast shore, Lakeside casino entrance.

This tract besides facing the lake, is favored with a fine road which runs parallel with each lot.

There are also sufficient trees which afford ample shade. This location is so conveniently situated, that you receive the services of your tradesmen daily, and you are only thirty minutes ride from South Manchester.

You also have a deeded right to a wonderful spring.

These lots are free from brush, and are staked out in readiness for builders.

Health conditions are a featured asset here.

This beautiful lake is five hundred and fifty feet above sea level, and is fed entirely by springs.

There are no swamps for mosquito breeding, as the drainage follows a natural course to the lake.

The lake is continually stocked to insure good fishing.

BOATING, BATHING, DANCING, and nowhere are the sunsets more wonderful.

Mr. Mathieu and Mr. Piche may be reached by telephone or correspondence at No. 701 Main St., Willimantic, Conn. Mr. Piche will be at the Kosey Korner Cottage every day, to show you the sites without obligation.

Plans and estimates on new cottages will be cheerfully submitted. We also sell and rent cottages.

Fire-Eating Jim Reed's Only Boss Is His Wife

Mrs. James A. Reed

This is the fourth of a series of articles on prospective "First Ladies" by Allene Sumner, staff writer for The Herald and NEA Service. In this article, Miss Sumner discusses Mrs. James A. Reed, wife of the Democratic senator who is a candidate for president.

By ALLENE SUMNER
Staff Writer for The Herald and
NEA Service

Washington, May 25.—Mrs. "Jim" Reed is as much of a dramatic personality as her fire-eating husband, which is saying a lot.

Mrs. Reed can make "Jim" come home to dinner on time. Mrs. Reed can make "Jim" stop talking when nobody else can. Mrs. Reed reels in her own copper wire with a 12-pound trout quivering on the end, and won't let "Jim" help a speck. As someone once put it, "Mrs. Reed is the one person able to be 'Jim' Reed's wife and not be flattened out by the job."

If the Reeds should sign a four-year lease for the big white house on Pennsylvania ave. the beginning of March 4, 1929, "Tom" would come, too, and show the "best minds" what a real southern breakfast or lunch of hot corn bread, southern fried chicken and baked ham and waffles can be.

"Tom" has been the Reed's major domo for so many years they've all lost count. There is no servant problem in the Reed menage, for "Tom" "speaks" the here for life.

Mrs. Reed fosters Tom's talents in crocheting and painting which tells the story of a woman as interested in the pleasure and ambitions of those about her as in her own.

Married 40 Years
Mention Mrs. "Jim" Reed in Washington and any listener will say:

"Did you ever see such hair?" The hair in question is as golden as honey, though Mrs. Reed boasts of her 40 years' marriage to the senator.

It was the golden hair and pearly blue eyes of Lura Mansfield that started the Reed courtship back in Cedar Rapids, Ia., in 1888 when "Jim" Reed was just a successful attorney and his best friends didn't dream that he'd be touted for the White House some years later.

"Brilliant, beautiful, companionable and dainty" are the most frequent adjectives of description thrust upon Mrs. Jim Reed. She loves bright colors in both her house and clothes. Just now Mrs. Reed is brightening up the new homey house bought in Kansas City with cheery chintzes and drapes.

They say in Washington that the Reeds are the most perfectly companionable couple in official life.

"Jim" Reed is a movie fan. Nobody knows whether Mrs. "Jim" really is or not, but she stands in line in the movie queue with "Jim" at the opening of most every new film and even, they say, doesn't scold if "Jim" comes home late for dinner and explains he just dropped into a movie house on the way home from the Senate.

Senator "Jim" has his library

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT FOR STRAY DOGS IN DENVER; DEATH CELLS ARE BUILT.

Denver.—"Capital punishment" for stray dogs found on Denver's streets will be inflicted by carbon monoxide gas, according to plans okayed by Mayor Stapleton. Four death cells will be constructed in the new dog pound where the unfortunate canines will meet their death. Heretofore, stray dogs have been impounded in a private pound used by the city under contract. Operation of this pound did not meet approval of a local humane society which was instrumental in causing the construction of a municipal pound. A master will be hired by the city and instructed to handle the dogs with all the kindness possible.

While Congress is trying to do something about the flood situation, wouldn't it be a good idea to see about some of this watered stock?

Now that the Pulitzer book prize has been awarded to "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," there probably will be a great flocking of speculators to buy the work.

PRINCE OF WALES LIKES TO GO TO THE THEATER London, May 15.—The Prince of Wales is the most ardent theater fan in the British royal family. He is extremely catholic in his choice of plays, attending thrillers, musical comedies and reviews as the fancy takes him. Unlike other members of the royal family he does not occupy the royal box, preferring to sit among the general audience in the stalls when he attends the theater.

COLORED BOY BURIED UNDER ROCK SLIDE

Little Girl Has Narrow Escape As Sidewalks and Buildings Collapse. New York, May 25.—One hundred and fifty men were searching in a subway excavation at St. Nicholas avenue early today for Charles Killingsworth, 10-year-old colored boy believed to have been buried under a rock slide last night. The falling debris carried 160 feet of wooden roadway and three building fronts with it. Helen Smith, 8-year-old colored girl narrowly escaped death. She was thrown seventy feet to the bottom of the excavation when a wooden sidewalk collapsed. Rescuers dragged her to safety. Seventy-five workmen ran out of the excavation barely a minute before tons of rock and timber crashed to the bottom. The human heart varies in weight from eight to twelve ounces.

COVENTRY

Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett, Jr. and children of Harrison, N. Y., motored here for a short stay to visit Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Arthur B. Porter.

Mrs. Nancy Taylor is seriously ill. Mrs. Taylor is over 90 years of age. She lives with her son Charles and has always done her own household tasks.

The Coventry Sunshine Scissors club will meet with Mrs. Bryon Hall Saturday at 1:30 standard time to help make wreaths for the American Legion. Earl Green post has made elaborate plans for celebrating a suitable Memorial Day in town.

A large number of people witnessed the achievement program put on by the Willing Workers Health club of the North school last evening. There were group singing, songs in three parts and a club meeting with Miss Betty Blackburn, president.

Time harmonica selections were given by William Blackburn. "The history of our club" read by Amelia Kingsbury and "The accomplishment of clubs" by the president, Betty Blackburn. Each member answered the roll call by telling how many and what new health habit they had formed this past year.

Some of the adults would do well to follow these. Following there were more group songs after which a very pretty play entitled "Mrs. Discontent Made Happy." The plot was a wood scene with a very discontented little girl who was a friend to "coffee," "sugar plums" etc. and had wandered on and on to try and gain happiness when "Princess Good Health" finds her sitting wearily on a stump of an old tree. All of Princess Good Health's friends, Milk, Oranges, Apples, Carrots, Spinach, Toothbrush and Water came to help her and tell what they will be if only she will use them, so Miss Discontent promises to meet them and spend the whole day and have dinner at the "Children's Restaurant." The next day arrived and the children have a wonderful time picking out a balanced menu and Miss Discontent soon learns how also and become "Miss Contentment." The restaurant scene was very effective with the Every Ready cashier present who sat by and watched four others being served to a most delicious supper by a very capable little waitress. During this meal the president called upon our country club agent, Donald Gaylord, Assistant State Club Leader Miss Elsie Traube, Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Sarah Dimmock, County Agent Ernest Tucker, Assistant Supervisor Miss Larau and Rev. J. N. Atwood, who all commended the work accomplished by all 4-H clubs and this one particularly.

County Agent Ernest Tucker also explained how the Grange received the beautiful cup given by the American Farmers reading some of the score cards to show how severely the town had been scored and we deserved all we got. There were three other silver cups on exhibit there also. A large one given to the best Economic Club in Tolland county won for this year by the Coventry Sunshine Scissors club. This cup must be won three successive years for permanent ownership and a first prize cup won for writing the best story on "My 4-H Club Work" and a second prize cup for the same thing which was won by one member and a former member of the Willing Workers' Health club. These cups were given by the Stanley Dobson post of the American Legion of Rockville. Sunday is Memorial Sunday and will be observed as such. All the war veterans are invited to attend church in a body.

PLENTY OF POWER IN OAKLAND-PONTIAC

That there is plenty of power in the new series Oakland and Pontiac motor cars is the assertion of James Stevenson, the Manchester agent for these well known sixes.

The Manchester dealer points out that the public demands power in the cars purchased and that the demand is born of experience. The average driver has at some time or other had the fact brought home to him that a little extra power is a desirable asset whereas the lack of it is a liability.

Traffic conditions have become such that keeping cars on the move is essential to the safety of all concerned. One slow car on a long hill will tie up considerable traffic. The slow car is a common sight.

Pistons of the new Oakland and Pontiac are much larger than those of other cars in the same price class which means the motors develop more power. And while there has been brought about an increase in power it has been accompanied by a decrease in fuel consumption which means lower operating cost.

Many cars of the makes mentioned have been sold in this section and the owners are loud in their praise of the ability of the vehicles to meet all road conditions easily and comfortably. From demonstrations made by Mr. Stevenson it is evident that the cars he represents will meet every requirement of the average owner.

The feature of the assembly yesterday was a debate between Manchester and Middletown on the subject "Resolved—That the part played by advertising in this country is deplorable." Due to tire trouble on the way here the Middletown debaters were several minutes late and while waiting for their appearance the orchestra rendered the selection, "Song of Love" from the opera "Blossom Time." Milton S. Smith, presenting the affirmative for Middletown, was the first speaker and he quoted statistics to prove that advertising is a waste to the manufacturer, the advertiser and to the consumer.

Miss Julia Shaw opened the negative case for Manchester and maintained that the American public was able to stand-ardize products by means of advertising. She then showed that without advertising our newspapers, magazines or radio broadcasting would be impossible because advertising is the chief source of revenue for these institutions. The next speaker for the affirmative was Miss Janet Brewster. She based her case on three contentions, first that advertising is threatening our moral code, second, that it leads people to buy by means of misrepresentation, third that the public is paying for advertising it does not need. The last speaker of the negative was Miss Marian Hills. Her issue was that the mass demand created by advertising decreased the costs of the products. She quoted executives of the leading manufacturing companies in this country, who stated that by means of advertising mass demand was created which resulted in a reduction of manufacturing costs and consequently lower prices to the consumers. The debate was brought to a close with a brief rebuttal by Milton Smith, who confined his efforts to attempting to prove that as long as advertising was legitimately conducted it was all right, but that today legitimate advertising was the exception rather than the rule.

SHOWER FOR MISS MABEL WETHERELL

Miss Mabel Wetherell of Oakland was the guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower given last evening at the home of Miss Esther Johnson of West Center street. The 20 young women present were all classmates of Miss Wetherell at the New Britain Normal school, from Springfield, Thompsonville, Hartford, Rockville and Manchester.

The living and dining rooms in Miss Johnson's home were tastefully decorated for the party in a color scheme of pink and white. One of the fun-making features of the evening was a mock marriage. Mrs. Claire Hannon Conlins was the minister, Miss Ethel Robb the bridegroom and Miss Dorothy Gill the bride. Various other games were played and a dainty luncheon served by the hostess, Miss Wetherell's engagement to Sherwood Bowers was recently announced.

MELLO AND O'BRIEN IN VELODROME BOUT

Not only will Frankie O'Brien of Hartford and Al Mello of Lowell have the honor of opening the 1923 season of the Velodrome in Hartford but they will also be clamoring for the New England middleweight championship as sanctioned by President Thomas E. Donahue of the National Boxing Association. The rival Connecticut and Massachusetts boys who are attracting attention all over New England are slated to box 12 rounds to a decision on Monday night, June 4, under the promotion of Homer Rainault, a decision on Monday night, June 4, under the promotion of Homer Rainault, well known and successful Holyoke Valley Arena promoter.

Besides the title bout arranged Promoter Rainault also has listed four other bouts including two eight-rounders, six spot and an opening four. The first contest is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock, daylight saving time with popular prices of $1.50, $2.50 and $3.50, including tax, in effect for the show. Pasteborders are now on sale and tickets secured in Springfield at Marshman's by calling the Valley Arena in Holyoke 5900 or the Velodrome in Hartford, Laurel 1707.

The semi-final has Joe Smith of Hartford, former amateur star, meeting Joe Taverler of Boston, a state wide star, for eight rounds at 156 pounds. Smith acquired quite a reputation as a knockout puncher in the simon pures and has been continuing along the same line since joining the professional banner. In the other eight-rounder Tommy Hamby of Holyoke and Frank Senk of Springfield meet in a return go following their exciting and manful clash of some few weeks ago.

Kevele Ledoux of Holyoke opposes Buster Nadeau of Williamsett in a six. They are flyweight rivals. For the opener Roland Roche of the Paper City battles Ray Strong of Hartford. Despite the strong supporting card the principal interest centers in the stellar main attraction. Fans from all cities and towns in Western New England are expected to flock to the Velodrome to witness the heavy hitting middleweights in action and with the title at stake an exciting contest is predicted.

CEMENT BRIDGE TO JOIN FRENCH TOWNS; BIGGEST OF ITS KIND IN WORLD. Brest, Finistere.—Brittany will have the largest cement bridge in the world in 1930. It will join Brest with the little village of Plogastel and will measure nearly one-half mile, bearing three arches, each of 45 feet gauge rising about one hundred feet above sea-level.

The bridge will bear a wagon-load electric cars and a railroad track. Workmen hope to complete it within eighteen months. Cats and dogs may be kept in apartment houses, according to a ruling in Kansas. Now maybe S. Smith, by calling the Valley Arena in Holyoke 5900 or the Velodrome in Hartford, Laurel 1707.

In addition to his work as a music composer and publisher he is often engaged in evangelistic work and is a forceful and interesting speaker. The Men's League will welcome any and all men that care to attend their meetings.

New York, May 25.—Anagrams, charades and other parlor games of grandma's time are still played, it seems, by some of Manhattan's most sophisticated folk. Variations on these have been invented to keep the wolf of ennui from the door: on those evenings when only tea and ladyfingers are served.

I have at hand a little volume exposing the very pastoral pastimes of many of New York's most persistent party tossers. It's entitled "What'll We Do Now?" and herein I come upon Frank Crowninshield, Rubie Goldberg, John Weaver, the poet; Edna Ferber, Alma Gluck, Alexander Woolcott and a great assortment of the "who's who."

From which any reader, whether in the smallest Michigan hamlet or the largest California metropolis, can take out grandma's anagrams with perfect assurance that, should anyone call him old-fashioned, he can reply, "So's your Aunt Tiddley-winks."

VATICAN PLANS TO BUILD NEW MUSEUM TO HOUSE ITS PRICELESS TREASURES

Rome.—With the object of centralizing many of the priceless treasures now lying in various corners of the Vatican buildings, a new museum is to be built in the Vatican gardens.

The scheme was first mooted during the reign of Leo XIII, but was abandoned owing to more urgent works needing attention. Pope Pius has now reconsidered and approved the proposal.

It is stated there is enough neglected material lying hidden around the Vatican to fill not one but many museums. Many objects which were carelessly laid aside in the Middle Ages, and have now acquired great historical and artistic interest, may still be found untouched where they are hidden.

Today's question: Why hasn't some civics professor called in Al Capone for a little lecture on municipal government?

"GOOD MORNING, BOSS. Say could you spare me for an hour down at the garage? I don't feel just right. Shouldn't wonder if the gear shift or clutch needed some grease. Or maybe the clutch is slipping. Those birds never have much to say for themselves, but they do a lot of work and get awful mean when they don't feel right. Be sure to shoot some grease into the universal. He's a useful little fellow but a hog for grease. Do you know, I wish the old boat could be turned upside down once a month just to remind you of all these gadgets underneath. When you have two pieces of steel working together, they are like a couple of strange bull terriers if you don't feed them plenty of oil and grease. "I hate to complain about my own troubles but you might as well have them change my oil while they are at it. That last oil was about as lubricating as powdered alum. No body and couldn't stand the heat. The guy who sold it to you will get rich if he can keep his customers long enough. Insist on good oil, Boss—it's important."

A NEW PLEASURE IN MOTORING FOR A FEW CENTS MORE A GALLON

WATCH those cars that draw up beside the Socony Special pump—new cars with high compression motors and veterans still going strong despite their carbonized cylinders.

Their owners are paying more a gallon—for what?

Not for transportation exactly. They could save the few cents, get Socony Gasoline, be absolutely protected against fuel troubles, and match mileage and upkeep records with anybody. No, the owners of these cars are looking for something different, and getting it. They are getting a perceptible improvement in the pick-up of the motor in traffic, a little more silk in the sound of its purr, a little more power on the steep hills, and a gratifying absence of knocking.

They're getting, in brief, a new and exciting pleasure in motoring worth far more than the few extra cents they pay. Like Socony Gasoline and Socony Motor Oil, Socony Special is tested thirteen times before it reaches your car.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED VIRGINIA BREWSTER, upon the sudden death of her father after losing his fortune, goes to live with a girlhood friend, CLARISSA DEAN, and her father, in spite of the objections of her fiance, FRANKEL DANK, who distrusts DEAN's motives. Becoming unhappy in her new home, VIRGINIA photographs NEA Service studio late one night and is surprised when she models, CHRIS, answers. This plants the seed of jealousy. Hoping to get NIEL away, DEAN has a company he controls offer him a high-salaried position in San Francisco. NIEL begs VIRGINIA to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study. CLARISSA becomes jealous of VIRGINIA over her fiance. VIRGINIA resolves to leave but when she goes to say farewell to her fiancé DEAN, she is surprised and asks her to marry him. When she refuses indignantly, he tells her that her father had cheated him out of $100,000 and that she will have to marry him to save her father's honor. She says that she will earn the hundred thousand to pay him in case he refuses to marry her if she falls. Then she slips quietly out of his house and goes away in a taxi cab. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI. "WELL, if it's an address in New York you want I'll get it for you," the driver said in answer to Virginia's reckless statement. He had pulled his cab over to the curb and sat, head turned to face his fare, while the motor idled noisily. Virginia hesitated to reply, aware that she had plunged headlong into a situation that contained elements of danger. To tell an unknown taxicab driver that she wished to obtain a loan on a valuable ring, just because he looked sympathetic, was foolhardy to say the least, and Virginia knew it. She had been trained in the ways of the rich who know how to guard themselves from unnecessary risks and she was taking herself to task now for her impetuosity. But the driver was waiting and he did look like a decent, regular person. Virginia threw caution to the winds and trusted his honesty. "I should like to go to someone who will make a loan on a piece of jewelry," she said as nonchalantly as she could manage. "A reliable person, of course," she added firmly. "That's easy, lady; I know a guy over here on Sixth Avenue who'll treat you right. All the chortles go to him."

A lump rose in her throat, and fear, ghastly, paralyzing fear, froze it there.

sweet with the traffic across town, what sacrifices he had made in order to give her the two strings of pearls that nestled rosiely in a gray velvet case in her traveling bag. Suddenly she sat rigidly upright, terrified with a new thought. Those pearls represented the only barrier between her and dire want! What if they were not hers after all! They might have to go in the liquidation of her father's estate! For the first time since she had been deprived of her father, her home, and even her dearest friends, Virginia faced squarely the thought of poverty. It was a soul-trying ordeal for one who was utterly at a loss without funds. But how little it would have mattered to her if she could have been sure of a future with Nathaniel! Then she could have found diversion in learning to bear an economic responsibility. It would have been thrilling just to share success by proxy with him, helping him. The driver's voice recalled her to her immediate quest for money. How far from a fortune she was! "Here we are, lady," he was saying as he beamed upon her from the open door. "I'll go in and introduce you. And here's a tip. Hold out for about 25 percent more than this geezer offers you. He's square but he ain't in business for a ride." "Thank you," Virginia murmured and climbed hurriedly out. The shop they entered was small, only half a store, but the show window was filled with an assortment of more or less valuable odds and ends, and Virginia was reassured to see a tray of wristwatches that looked as if they had originated on Fifth Avenue. Evidently the owner of this place was used to handling goods

"As much as you will give me," she told him simply, with no idea of bargaining, but because she did not know the exact value of the gem. "One hundred." "Only a hundred!" she echoed in alarm. "Why I thought . . . she stopped short, averse to telling him that she had believed worth many hundred in fear that he would know her ignorance. "Yes!" he urged eagerly. "I thought you would give me at least two hundred," she said. "One hundred," he said decisively. But when Virginia left the shop a few minutes later she had $125 more than she had when she entered it. She was glad she had received the driver's advice but her pleasure would have been short lived if she had heard the pawnbroker congratulating himself and the end of the bargain. "He's resetting it," she told the waiting driver, with a wry smile. "And thanks to you I got the 25 percent increase." "And do we go back to the Ritz?" he inquired gayly. "Yes, but tell me first: are you absolutely certain my ring will be safe here?" Virginia worried. "You can take my word and my number too, lady, and if anything goes wrong just go to my company and complain," the man assured her earnestly, and Virginia decided that his word would do. For the first time in her life she inquired about rates before taking accommodations in a hotel, and when she was at last alone in the cheapest room at the Ritz had to offer she locked the door and turned a survey her new quarters and her new life. She had been in humbler chambers in obscure stopping places when traveling in out-of-the-way villages and towns with her father. But that had all been adventurous, romantic, while this was commonplace; a first visible result of her change from the petted daughter of wealth to a penniless girl with a bitter, staggering undertaking ahead of her, blocking off her happiness if she failed in it! A lump rose in her throat and fear, ghastly, paralyzing fear, froze it there. She had done a mad thing she had done to make such a rash bargain with Frederick Dean! She had told him she'd rather die than marry him, but that escape would not clear her father's name. She could visualize a grave, white-haired, venerable man sitting in club windows, whispering the story. Dean would not do that. She couldn't bear it. The lump in her throat was torn away on a strangled cry and she dropped into a heap on the floor, where she lay for a long time, inert, her mind stunned with the shock and grief that had come upon her in such a swiftly moving succession of misfortune. Dusk had given way to night before Virginia stirred and breathed sobbingly. Weakly she brushed her hair off her forehead and dragged herself to her feet. She was faint with lack of food, but she did not occur to her to order anything to eat. There were only two things that seemed of any importance to her. To find out from her father's lawyer if she could hope for any money from the estate, and to see Nathaniel. "Do you want to sell it?" he asked her finally. "Oh, no, I'd just like to secure a loan on it," she answered quickly, started at the thought of parting with the ring permanently. "How much do you want?"

MARYE and MOM Their Letters. Dear Mom: I suppose you wondered why I was writing to Michello. Well, I'll tell you. I wanted to stage a bout in his studio. He helped me arrange the details and wrote the invitations to the two leading participants. When Pedro spoke of meeting Norman on the field of honor, I thought why not? So Michello consented to lend his studio and we asked a good audience. The invitation to Pedro read as a note from Norman asking for a chance to wipe out the insult of that bat in the eye and naming the time and place. A like note went to Norman ostensibly from Pedro stating that a South American could lick a North American and vice versa naming the time and place. Each named Michello as his second and asked that all communications be sent to him. Both accepted by wire. You should have seen those two when they found out that they were in for a regular boxing exhibition. The guests wouldn't let them back out. Michello read off a speech he prepared about two knight in pur-

He writes: "Morning after morning I found myself wandering to the tank, lured to it, as soon I began to suspect, by something new, something absurd, something extraordinary which heretofore I had always been able to maintain the doctor's easy unconcern by the number of those smoldering things. By the way that number dwindled. How every few mornings there was one less. How one more had gone the road of experiment. "Sentimental, of course. Notwithstanding, when no one was about I slipped the turtles under my coat and casually went out of the place." Mademoiselle is the youngest and prettiest turtle. She does not sleep well. It is strange, she feels. It is this floor where there should be the mucky earth. It is this wall of wainscot, this light where it should be night. And I know not how to make her less strange. I think again of her purloined wings, crossing the road. I think of the conceit with which we arrogate to ourselves dominion of these smaller lives. When she has waked me three times I take her to my bed, and under the quilts she lies, snug in the warm dark, not at all afraid, the strange wiped out. Winter comes, Madame and Monsieur and Mademoiselle dig their winter beds into the garden soil. The gardener says they will die. He insists on taking them indoors. He tents on bathing them, feeding them, piling quilts upon them. The turtles die. Then comes self-reproach which lifts this little turtle squib into the realm of a classic. "There is no room for doubt. I killed them. In what way I killed them I do not yet know. But in some way I did it. Somehow I failed to understand their needs. I should never have taken them from the tank. At least I should never have taken them from the yard. Little Mademoiselle wanted to stay. But I must dig her out. I must think her instinct as sluggish as her body. I must dig her out against her will. Was I not more intelligent than she. Did I not love her? Must I not, therefore, procure her a better wintering place than she could procure on her own?"

MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. In a recent well written consideration for the public entitled "What You Should Know About Heart Disease," Dr. Harold E. B. Pardee devotes one chapter to the questions of recreation and climate. These questions are constantly slightly afflicted with a disturbance of the heart. It is recognized that every brain worker must have physical recreation, and every physical worker some mental recreation, in addition to the hours spent in sleep. At least two hours each day should be spent in exercise and recreation and at least all day, once a week. This period includes all preparations and the time spent in return to home or to work. As one grows older a period of relaxation following luncheon and a change of interest for half an hour is found exceedingly restful. It is particularly important to realize that exercise must be a gradual process, and those who

Home Page Editorial THERE ARE TWO SIDES TO LOYALTY By Olive Roberts Barton. In plain words, Katie was the pivot upon which swung the fortunes of the Brown family. She was 25 when she came, she was 35 when she left. Yes, she had to leave to take care of her mother, and strange as it may seem, it nearly broke her heart. The Browns were her children, she had given them the love of her love. Her mother had become a romance. The Browns were a reality. But here's what the Browns did. From the minute they knew that Katie had to go, they became sulky. They came right out in meeting and told friends and neighbors that it was all an excuse, that Katie was an ingrate and everything under the canopy besides. "But what can you expect!" said Mrs. Brown. "There isn't such a thing as loyalty these days." Katie heard it, but said nothing. What could she say? Had she been drilled in a reputation, she might have said, "And why?" HUB'S BOOZE SCANDAL

Boston, May 25.—Asserting that the House rules committee hearing on the so-called Beacon Hill liquor situation was a "waste of time" and declaring that when an authentic investigation is conducted by the Legislative committee he will be there, William M. Forgrave, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League said in an interview at the capitol today that he had "nothing to hide but much to give to the public at the proper time."

sion—with error less than four billionths of an inch. Photographs were made of rays from Scandium and lanthanum, two atoms of the yttrium family. Meggers is studying the wave lengths broadcast by the lanthanum atom and recording photographically the evidence that certain rays have more than one wave length.

"This so-called hyper-fine structure tells us something of the different weights of the same kind of atoms, the motions of the atomic nucleus and how both affect the light waves emitted," Meggers said. "But here is a problem intricate even for the trained scientist." Meggers has prepared graphic charts on which points represent a distinct energy state of the atom. Lines showed the movement of an electron from one level to another, and how they could be used to predict wave lengths of rays of light within a part in a million. The diagrams showed the distinct pattern for the behavior of abnormal yttrium atom and one which had lost an electron.

"Five years ago we saw no way to attack the problem of disentangling this vast complexity of wave lengths," Meggers said. "Today one by one we are taking their measurement and mapping the energy changes as clearly as an architect draws the details of a building." Benjamin Franklin was called "Poor Richard."

Ninth Inning Rally Almost Beats Manchester

FRASER PITCHES 17 SCORELESS INNINGS BEFORE FALTERING AND MANCHESTER BEATS MERIDEN 3-2

Lupien's Fielding Outstanding Feature; E. Dowd and Farr Hit Timely; Windham Next; 4 More Wins Means Pennant.

Half a dozen sparkling catches by Ab Lupien, opportune hitting by Ernie Dowd and Louie Farr plus Herby Fraser's steady pitching, were the highlights in yesterday afternoon's baseball contest at the West Side playgrounds in which Coach Tommy Kelley's hustling schoolboy outfit turned back Meriden High in a Central-Connecticut Interscholastic League. The score was 3 to 2. It was the seventh win in eight games.

Before he faltered in the ninth inning, young Fraser had pitched 17 scoreless innings, counting the West Hartford game which he won 5 to 0. Meriden was at loss to solve his delivery, especially in the pinches. Fraser also received splendid support from his mates with the exception of the ninth inning when Billy Dowd was guilty of a misplay which paved the way for both of Meriden's runs when perfect play would have retired the side and given Fraser two successive shut out victories. There is no denying that he deserved that honor.

Manchester has only four more league games to play, but three of them will be out of town. None can be regarded as sure wins by any means. In fact, any one of them is liable to bump off the local combine if it gets over-confident. However, playing the ball of which it is capable, Manchester should cop the pennant. Saturday, the locals go to Willimantic. Next week Tuesday, they play at Middletown and on Friday at West Hartford.

Four and a half innings elapsed yesterday before a score was made. Then, almost without warning, Manchester fell on McKenna's offerings for three hits and two runs. Farr, Fraser and Ernie Dowd got the singles, the latter being his third and driving in both runs. Hugh Moriarty's sacrifice helped along the rally.

Again in the sixth, the Kellyites socked McKenna's delivery for three singles but only one run came this time when Moriarty popped into a double killing when he attempted to score Kerr from third with a squeeze play. Lupien, Kerr and Garr got the hits and the former the run.

Nothing alarming followed until the ninth when Meriden almost snatched the victory from Manchester's grasp. Burke singled to left. Petrosky flew to center. Pinch hitter Sculley singled to right. Cook hit an easy grounder down to Dowd at third, but the local player forgot himself for the moment and when he decided to throw to first, the runner was already there.

It was a tough break for young Fraser inasmuch as it would have retired the side. Apparently it nerved him for the next batter slugged a single to left scoring two runs and the next drew a pass filling the bases again. At this point, Coach Kelley decided not to take any further chance. Billy Dowd replaced Fraser and forced another pinch hitter to roll out, third to first. It was a breathless moment for Manchester. A hit would have spoiled everything and maybe prevented Manchester from winning the pennant.

Lupien's sensational work in left field was the outstanding feature of the game. He bagged six drives out of the ozone and no less than four were unusually good catches. Two were shoe-stringers.

TENNIS TALKS

"Keep Your Eyes On Ball" Is First Rule Of Tennis

BY GEORGE M. LOTT, JR.
America's Third Ranking Player.

The Eyes of George M. Lott, Jr.

It is necessary in tennis, as in other sports, to keep your eye on the ball. We know what happens to the golf player when he takes his eye off the ball just as he is about to hit it. The same thing happens to the tennis player. The ball flies off at an angle, way out of the court. There always has been some dispute among players and critics as to just how long the eye is on the ball before it is hit and others say the eye stays with it until it comes in contact with the racket. I am inclined to agree with the latter. The fact that the direction of the shot is determined by the position of the feet leads me to believe the eye follows the ball up to the point of contact with the racket because the only reason the eye would be lifted would be to fix the direction. Therefore if the feet were in the proper position it would be no use to lift the eyes. But it is agreed that the eyes must follow the ball from the minute it is hit from the opponent's racket until it reaches a point directly in front of you. It is very simple why this should be done. Watching the feet of your opponent will give you the general direction of his shot, but not the exact spot. By watching the ball all the way there is little danger of mistiming or mis hitting the ball. In the service the ball should be watched until it is hit by the racket. This helps the timing of the shot and gives more speed. Also it lends deception because by looking at the ball you give no clue as to where the ball is going. Tomorrow: The necessity of speed in tennis.

SCARLET FEVER ROBS ACES' SUNDAY GAME

The Aces received word from Avon yesterday stating that the game for Sunday would have to be cancelled on account of a scarlet fever epidemic which has spread throughout the town. The game will be played at a later date. Although this game has been cancelled, the manager expects to have another booked within a short time. The Aces are working hard for their coming struggle with the State Prison nine which will be played May 30, at 9 o'clock sharp. All members of the team are asked to report to practice tonight, as this will be one of the most important workouts. The Aces would also like to arrange twilight games with any team in town. For games see Manager Louis Neron.

Murphy's Defeat Gives Charter Oaks Victory

Mike Suhle and Joe Sargent sprang a bit of a surprise last night when they beat Ernie Wilkie and Howard Murphy on their own alleys by a margin of 54 pins, which added to the 25 they picked up on their own alleys, gives the Charter Alley representatives the match by 79 timbers. The team from Joe Farr's alleys again won four out of the five games. The big surprise of the evening was the poor bowling of Howard Murphy, holder of the individual town duckpin championship. Sargent trimmed him by 66 pins in the five games. Only one did the champion roll over a hundred in the five games. He was plainly off form. His backers say it is because he hasn't been bowling any to speak of lately. Wilkie beat Suhle by 12 pins, but his partner's defeat was so overwhelming, that his efforts proved to be in vain. In three of the five games, Murphy did not make a mark and in one of the other two, he only got a spare. He missed many spare breaks. TENNIS TALKS

"Keep Your Eyes On Ball" Is First Rule Of Tennis

BY GEORGE M. LOTT, JR.
America's Third Ranking Player.

The Eyes of George M. Lott, Jr.

It is necessary in tennis, as in other sports, to keep your eye on the ball. We know what happens to the golf player when he takes his eye off the ball just as he is about to hit it. The same thing happens to the tennis player. The ball flies off at an angle, way out of the court.

There always has been some dispute among players and critics as to just how long the eye is on the ball before it is hit and others say the eye stays with it until it comes in contact with the racket. I am inclined to agree with the latter. The fact that the direction of the shot is determined by the position of the feet leads me to believe the eye follows the ball up to the point of contact with the racket because the only reason the eye would be lifted would be to fix the direction. Therefore if the feet were in the proper position it would be no use to lift the eyes.

But it is agreed that the eyes must follow the ball from the minute it is hit from the opponent's racket until it reaches a point directly in front of you. It is very simple why this should be done. Watching the feet of your opponent will give you the general direction of his shot, but not the exact spot. By watching the ball all the way there is little danger of mistiming or misshitting the ball. In the service the ball should be watched until it is hit by the racket. This helps the timing of the shot and gives more speed. Also it lends deception because by looking at the ball you give no clue as to where the ball is going.

Tomorrow: The necessity of speed in tennis.

Murphy's Defeat Gives Charter Oaks Victory

Mike Suhle and Joe Sargent sprung a bit of a surprise last night when they beat Ernie Wilkie and Howard Murphy on their own alleys by a margin of 54 pins, which added to the 25 they picked up on their own alleys, gives the Charter Alley representatives the match by 79 timbers.

The team from Joe Farr's alleys again won four out of the five games. The big surprise of the evening was the poor bowling of Howard Murphy, holder of the individual town duckpin championship. Sargent trimmed him by 66 pins in the five games. Only once did the champion roll over a hundred in the five games. He was plainly off form. His backers say it is because he hasn't been bowling any to speak of lately.

Wilkie beat Suhle by 12 pins, but his partner's defeat was so overwhelming that his efforts proved to be in vain. In three of the five games, Murphy did not make a mark and in one of the other two, he only got a spare. He missed many spare breaks.

The scores:
CHARTER OAK ALLEYS (1047)
Suhle .113 97 104 95 101-510
Sargent 104 98 107 127 101-537

MURPHY'S ALLEYS (988)

STORY OF A HOLD-UP PROVES TO BE FAKE

Man Unable to Meet Note Tells Police That Bandits Robbed Him.

Stamford, Conn., May 25.—After many gray-suited men driving autos had been stopped by police of Darien, Stamford, Greenwich and the state police force, and subjected to examination far into the night, Stamford police today announced that the complaint of Harry Johnson, of Brookdale road, Stamford, that he had been held up and robbed of $220 by an armed bandit yesterday noon was a hoax staged by Johnson because he had a note for $220 due at a local bank today. After Johnson admitted the hoax the police were forced to let him go because they could find no charge to lodge against him. Johnson was given a sharp lecture before he gained the street outside headquarters.

Johnson told of giving a gray-clad stranger a lift from Greenwich, of being robbed at pistol point on the Stamford line, forced from his car and made to walk toward Stamford. Then, he said, the stranger suddenly leaped from Johnson's car, boarded another car and disappeared. Johnson gave up was flashed along the line east three numbers he said formed part of the license of the car in which and west, and dozens of police scoured the highways looking for the bandit. Word of the hold-

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time. 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

"What?" "Breakfast, dinner and supper."

This Believing World None too lasting indeed is the permanent wave. But it seems—tell it not, though, in oath—There are men who believe in a permanent shave And pin faith on a permanent bath.

Newark, Ohio, Advocate. While I do not believe that such things make for health. And I don't like a permanent collar. For a permanent haircut I'd give all my wealth. If I just had a permanent dollar.

"Well, Pat, what are you doing, sweeping out the shop?" Pat inspected the employer disgustingly. "No, sir, O'm sweeping out the dirt an' lavin' the shop."

Whether or not the girls of today are more demure, reserved and circumspect than their grandmothers when they were young is a matter still to be decided. And just how long a young woman should be in dismissing a beau at the front steps is another matter. Recently a mother told her daughter she wished she wouldn't stand on the steps with her beau quite so long.

"Why, mother, I stood only for a second when we returned last night."

"That may be, but your father who was listening, thought he heard a third and fourth and fifth."

Optimistic Salesman: "But even if you have no carpets, Madam, think how handy this vacuum cleaner would be to clean your vacuum tubes!"

"Experience enough," say a friend who knows all about golf. A recent college graduate applied in a local butcher shop for a job. The butcher looked him over carefully and then said: "We need an energetic young man to run the slicing machine. Have you ever had any experience?" "I used to play golf."

"What is your eldest son going—the one that swallowed a dollar when he was a child?"

"He is at the national bank."

"Do you get interest on him?"

"Lady Lardidah dropped an egg on the floor last night at dinner and asked the waiter what to do about it."

"And what did he say?"

"He said, 'Cackle!'"

"This houseboat is a handy thing," said Scouty, "hear the rain-drops ring on the roof, but we are safe. It's very dry down here. 'Tis 'bout the best luck we've had yet. We would have been just soaking wet, but since the roof is over us, there's not a thing to fear." The rain kept falling all about. It was a small cloudburst, no doubt. The water splattered here and there, and Cloway shouted, "Gee, quit pushing. I am near outside. If I get wet, I'll ne'er get dried. Already lots of big raindrops have fallen right on me." "Oh, don't be fussy," Copy said, "clean rain will never hurt your head." Just then the whole bunch jumped because they heard wee Scouty shout, "Hurrah! The storm is going to stop, and soon there will not be a drop of water falling down, because the sun is coming out!" Right soon they found that he was right. The warming sun was shining bright, and everyone went back to work to finish up their boat. When boards were placed along one side, the woodsman eyed them. Then he sighed. "I wish we had a can of paint. We'd give the place a coat." Real happily they worked away, and nailed on boards the living day. They all took turns at sawing, so's to cut them down to size. The four big sides were soon in place. A smile spread on the woodsman's face. Said he, "This goes to show what one can build, if he just tries." "And now, before we're really through, there's one more thing that we must do. I have some dandy windows that will let the sunshine in. And so, with the saw worked. At last they had the little windows fast. The Tinies looked upon their house and all began to grin.
