THE GREATER GOOD

No executive action at Washington in recent times has created a briskest storm of comment than Mr. Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Many Republican newspapers, in supporting the McNary-Haugen veto, are inclined to beg the question when faced by this "farmer's tariff" argument.

The Republican tariff affects beneficially many times more people than artificial price-fixing of crops could possibly help.

As we see it, this is simply a case of the greater good to the greater number. On that basis the McNary-Haugen veto needs no apology.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

We have had, in the history of the Shipping Board and its operation of merchant marine vessels, perhaps as good an example as we are likely to have of the actual workings of federal ownership.

This paper does not, however, belong to that large and growing class which is convinced that government owned ships, or government owned power plants, or government ownership of natural monopolies of any sort, is a wrong principle.

It does believe, however, that the principle of public ownership and operation of great utilities is one to be held in reserve, never exercised so long as private enterprise is willing to render fair service and take fair profits.

We are for private, rather than for public services, because, honestly and fairly administered, private business can and does achieve more greatly than government-run business—for reasons that are clearly obvious.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(180) INSURANCE—A MAMMOTH BUSINESS

Connecticut insurance companies, among which are several of the largest in the world, protect the lives, property, pocket-books and other insurable interests of millions of people in many countries.

With the increasing recognition that has come in recent years of the value of insurance as an instrument of credit and a strong right arm protecting the entire business structure, Connecticut insurance companies have experienced tremendous growth.

LINDY'S WIT

It begins to appear that our old friend Lindy has a sense of humor. A friend recently told how he and two other pals of Lindy spent an evening with the latter in New York not so long ago.

Next day Lindy piloted them from New York to Washington in a big cabin plane. They had hardly taken the air before he began to guide the ship into an up-and-down, rocking horse motion.

Lindy turned around and grinned. "Now let's hear you all sing 'Lucky Lindy,'" he ordered.

Score one for the transatlantic aviator's sense of humor.

Washington, May 28.—Probably the funniest thing that has developed in this political campaign is the distinct likelihood that the Hon. Scott Ware of Philadelphia will be credited in the pages of history as the president-maker of 1928.

Perhaps it's not so funny after all. Perhaps Mr. Ware is just being made an instrument of Divine Providence, for, as everyone knows, the Almighty works in mysterious ways. His wonder to perform.

It's the same Mr. Ware, of course, who runs that notorious political machine in Philadelphia and was not considered sweet and clean enough to be allowed to enter the Senate.

Now this is how Mr. Ware enters the picture as a presidential candidate. Inveterate readers of these dispatches will recall that many months ago, when people first began to wonder who was Andrew Mellon's presidential choice, and to assert that Mellon would hold the balance of nominating power, your correspondent irreverently suggested that Andy couldn't get to first base with a candidate unless first enlisted the support of Mr. Ware.

Mr. Ware and his Philadelphia machine had beaten Mellon and his machine when Mr. Ware decided in 1926 that he would be senator instead of George Wharton Pepper, the Mellon incumbent and candidate.

Speaking about the difference between officialdom and the business world he said the other day: "Men working under the government, and subject to frequent partisan investigations, are more interested in avoiding the doing of anything that might be criticized than in getting ahead."

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC. CRAWFORD AND CHAMBERS RANGES

However, all informed persons seem to agree on that. The credit, of course, goes to Boss Ware. The man Pennsylvania supported, the political sharps had agreed, could get the nomination.

New York, May 28.—Modern invention has put an end to the Manhattan job to which I had looked forward for my declining years. Insofar as it had a title, the grandest of possible jobs was known as "cloud watcher."

Of course Mr. Hoover, the apparent beneficiary, isn't to blame because Boss Ware is a more potent boss than the Mellon bosses. Nor did he seek Ware's support. He might have done very well without it.

But on the ground he discovered that Boss Ware had managed to rig the convention against him. Perhaps the Ware crowd had a resolution all drawn up, endorsing Hoover, and was prepared to pass it, as one apparently good source has it.

At any rate there is no doubt at all that Mellon found Boss Ware and his pals possessed of a whip hand. They were all set to grab his leadership whether by the simple expedient of coming out for the popular Mr. Hoover or by other means.

MARLBOROUGH

Alexander Brault, age 76, died at his home here Wednesday from pneumonia. He leaves beside his wife, five daughters and four sons and several grandchildren. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, East Hampton, Saturday morning. Roy Fuller entertained several of his little friends at a birthday party Friday afternoon. Roy was eight years old. There have been several cases of pinkies in the Northwest and Center schools. Miss Fanny A. Blish who teaches in Glastonbury spent the week-end at her home here. The State Highway Department has put up several signs near Oshay Corner at the Center to help guide motorists. At a meeting which was held recently to discuss a plan proposed by the Central Light and Power Co. of East Hampton to extend their lines to this town a committee of three, Henry Blakeslee, Henry Cordes and John Walker were appointed to secure signers who would agree to pay $50 apiece, provided forty names were secured to bring the power here. The committee has secured more than forty names and it is expected that the plan will be put through by the company. Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Schadtler, Jr. who were married in New Britain the first of the week will make their home here. The Dorcas Society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Cordes. The ladies are planning to hold their annual strawberry festival, June 6th. Miss Mae Hannon of Hartford spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Myers. Miss Claudia Dwyer, teacher in the North school was the week-end guest of friends in Hartford.

John C. Vargason is visiting friends in Paterson, N. J. The boy's group will give a minstrel show at the Library hall Friday evening. Orville Emmons a banjoist of Springfield, Mass., will assist and the junior band will play. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Isabel who were married quite recently were given a surprise party at their home Monday night. About forty attended and they were given a large decorated May basket which contained many gifts. Henry Cordes is making extensive alterations on his house. Miss Mary L. Hall of Bloomfield was a week-end guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Willis W. Hall. DIPLOMATS AT RIYADH LOST TOUCH WITH WORLD; CAMELS FOR TRANSPORT Jerusalem.—An important capital to which it would be useless to send diplomatic representatives is Riyadh, the capital of Nejd, in Central Arabia, the seat at times of King Ibn Saud, the Wahabi ruler of Hedjaz and Nejd. A diplomatic agent stationed at this capital would be condemned to utter isolation. With no telegraph, wireless or telephone connection, the only means of communication with the outer world for such an agent would be a despatch rider mounted on a camel. In consequence of the Holy War scare in Arabia, Britishers have revived the demand for British representation at Riyadh, the so-called court of King Ibn Saud. This suggestion is countered by the remark that Mecca and not Riyadh is the actual seat of Ibn Saud's authority, and although it is impossible for a non-Mohammedan diplomat to reside at Mecca, Jeddah is within close range of the Holy City, and at this point the British representative and all other diplomatic agents have the advantage of a permanent diplomatic representative of the Wahabi King.

YALE FORESTRY SCHOOL MOVES TO EAST LYNNE

East Lynne, Conn.—This New England village, where generations of painters have worked through long, lazy summer days, is now booked to succeed Milford, Pa., as the permanent summer home of Yale Forestry School. After a trial of 2,000 acres of land centered about a large lake, Yale authorities have decided to move the Milford plant here, and are preparing to open the summer session, this year, on July 9.

HEBRON

The Rev. T. D. Martin, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Hebron, officiated at the funeral services of the late Fred E. Baker, who died suddenly of heart trouble at his home in Colchester Sunday, May 20. The funeral took place at the Congregational church, Colchester, and was attended by practically all the citizens of that place. Stores and other places of business were closed for the occasion. Mr. Baker was 67 years of age. He was one of the borough wardens, and was a member of the Society of Elks, Knights of Pythias, Woodmen, etc. Members of the Knights of Pythias from the borough and from surrounding towns attended in uniformed ranks, their ritual being carried out at the grave. Interment was at Linwood cemetery. The deceased leaves his wife and two sons, George E. Baker of Meriden, and William Baker of New Britain. The Rev. Mr. Thompkins, pastor of the Colchester Congregational church was laid up with lvy poison and was unable to be present at the funeral. Arthur Keefe, 13-year-old son of Maurice Keefe, is making a good recovery from his recent attack of pneumonia. He is able to sit up for part of the time. The members of the women's bridge club were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Miss J. E. Kellogg. Miss Clarissa Pendleton was winner of the highest score. Samuel Hilding is making repairs and improvements on the Charles Hilding place. A new chimney is being built and about 100 dahlias have been set on the grounds. The dahlia plants were obtained from Storrs Agricultural College and averaged $5 each in cost. Mr. and Mrs. Hilding expect to come to Hebron soon for the summer. Mr. Hilding will go back and forth to his business in New York, spending the week-ends here. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Raphael have sold to Jacob Ginsberg, of Brooklyn, N. Y., their place on the old Colchester Road, known as the Steffen place. It consists of a dwelling house and farm buildings and fifteen acres of land. By a later transaction one half interest in the place was transferred back to Mr. and Mrs. Raphael. The minstrel show, given recently by Hebron people, will be repeated at Ellington Grange tonight. The Grange allows $20 to the members of the minstrel troupe for giving the performance. Mr. and Mrs. Randall Tennant have returned from a vacation of a week or more spent in Washington, D. C., and West Virginia. They motored back and forth on their trip. While in Washington they visited the Senate and the many places of interest in the Capitol City. They also saw Vice-President Dawes. While in West Virginia they were guests for a time of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hutchins, formerly of Columbia, this state. Mrs. Clara Hamner and Mrs. C. Daniel Way recently spent an afternoon at the home of Mrs. Helen White. They also called at the home of Mrs. Emeline Woodworth. Mrs. Hamner was a teacher in the Jones street school in 1859. While at Mrs. White's a review of old school registers showed that of the nineteen pupils who attended the school taught by Mrs. Hamner, eight have died and none of the others, if living, remain in the neighborhood. Miss Jessie Kennicott, a teacher in the Hartford schools, and Miss Charlotte S. Hull, private secretary of Joseph Merritt of Hartford, were guests for a day of Miss Daisy White, during the week-end. Mrs. J. B. Tennant, her son Jared and her daughter, Miss Lucy were present at a gymnasium demonstration held at the high school auditorium, Willimantic. Mrs. Tennant's daughter, Miss Marian, a pupil at the high school, took part in the demonstration. Charles Coleman Sellers of Ardmore, Pa., recently spent a few days here, the guest of friends, of Lorenzo Dow, to be published soon by Minton, Balch and Company, New York. He has been looking up additional lore on the Dows in this and some of the surrounding towns, and visiting some of the points of interest connected with the Dow family. He spent Wednesday in New London, visiting the historical rooms and securing a copy of an interesting portrait of Lorenzo, painted by a South Carolina artist, Lucius Munson. Preparations are being made for graduation exercises at the Center schools. Eighth grade pupils from other schools of the town meet occasionally at the Town Hall for rehearsals in chorus singing, with those at the Center. The two-story dwelling house owned and occupied by Nicholas C. Johnson, and located in Hopevale, burned to the ground Thursday forenoon. At the time of the fire all the men of the hamlet were away from home and there was no possibility of saving the house. The women did what they could in saving furniture and keeping the fire from spreading. It is thought that the fire was caused by a defective chimney as its first appearance was on the roof. The house was one of the old landmarks of Hopevale. Mrs. T. D. Martin spent the week-end as the guest of her daughter, Miss Marjorie Martin, in Dalton, Mass. A supper will be served to the American Legion at the Congregational church parlors, Wednesday afternoon, Decoration day. The supper will be provided by ladies of the town. Edward Gillen represented the town and Center grammar school at the speaking contest held in Willimantic recently. At this contest speakers selected as the best from the schools of the surrounding towns competed for honors. Edward made a good showing but did not win first place. This is the first time he has appeared in a public contest. He is a relative of Mrs. William Tynan and makes his home with her. His recitation was "I hear America Calling." Noble Everett Lord of Wolcott Hill was a visitor here at the home of relatives recently. Mr. Lord is a son of the late Herbert Lord, formerly of this place, and is a teacher of manual training. Much sympathy is felt here for the family of Nicholas C. Johnson who lost practically all their possessions in the fire which destroyed their home in Hopevale recently. So quickly did the flames spread that there was no time to save anything but the lives of the occupants of the house. Mr. Johnson was away from home at the time. His family consists of his wife and several small children. They are living temporarily in the barn and garage belonging to the place. The Amston Grain Mill Company are doing business supplying grain and feed to farmers of the locality, following the disastrous fire which wiped out their industry for the time being two weeks ago. Barns and empty buildings adjacent are being used as store houses temporarily. It is understood that the proprietors intend building in the near future. WAPPING Miss Kate M. Withrel, spent Friday and Saturday with her friend, Mrs. Mason F. Wetherell of Elro street, Manchester. Harry P. Files, Sr., of Boston, Mass., spent the week-end at his home here. Mrs. Jane M. Preston had as her guest last Tuesday and Wednesday Mrs. Alice S. Griswold of Hartford and on Wednesday she gave a party. The following were present: Mrs. Louise M. Dart, Mrs. Florence Thrall of Rockville, Mrs. Josephine Wetherell and Mrs. Alice Griswold. CARS GREASED Oiled and Tightened Campbell's Filling Station Phone 1551

THIS HAS HAPPENED

VIRGINIA BREWSTER, upon the sudden death of her father, goes to live with a friend, CLARISSA DEAN, and her father, Her...

Her mind was calmer now than at any time since she had left the Deans.

Without a thought of danger to herself, Virginia turned her key and threw open the door. As she stepped into the hall she almost ran into a rat-faced man on his way to the elevator.

"Hello, baby," he greeted her. Virginia brushed past him without answering or even deigning a second glance.

"I ain't no welcomin' committee," Virginia replied. "I'm sorry I said that," Virginia told her. "I know you're hurt. Isn't there something I can do for you?"

"Well, take my hunch and get the real low-down on a joint before you register," the other girl remarked. "Thank you," Virginia returned stiffly. "I shall make careful inquiries a second time."

Virginia decided to wait in for them before going to Mr. Gardiner's office with the pearls.

From her bag she got her bath salts and soap and went in to prepare the tub. The water, rusty and lukewarm, Virginia shuddered fastidiously and turned it off.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

The perils of being a parent stand forth in the news. Another school girl is missing. Neighbors report seeing 10-year-old Beatrice Rosenbaum of Youngstown step into a stranger's car on the morning of her disappearance.

Driving Wives! Wives driving their husbands' cars while "the husband sits contentedly beside her" astonish and amaze and cause to philosophize Philip Hewitt-Myring, a visiting editor from England.

More Alarm! "The theater invitation, too, that I received in Kansas City from a man who was at a loose end for the evening because his wife (with whom he was the best of possible terms) was giving a women's party in his home to which he had not been invited, would have been impossible in England—or else it would have indicated an imminent divorce," continues the agnostic editor.

Her Money! He can't quite understand, either, why in America the girls receive their share of the family income, if not a little more than the boys, whereas in England the boys handle all the income in administration of the family estate, and "his sister trust him to do the right thing by them" when he comes into the property.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

I think I told you about Shirley Wells being in an accident. Her father was going to sue Ted because Shirley claimed she begged him to slow up and he wouldn't. At first she didn't want her dad to do anything about it, but as it turned out she had to have an X-ray taken and it showed something wrong.

At first she denied having signed anything but she admitted it was her signature all right. Finally she realized what had happened. The first page and a few lines on the second sheet were taken up with the typewritten copy of the letter she had written to Ted's employers when they asked her to give him account of the accident.

The summer camp for children has become a fixed institution. When the idea of the organized camp first had its inception, these camps were only possible for the rich, but now they are so varied in character and price as to be within the reach of almost everyone.

Now is the time for gardeners to realize that all that goes down doesn't come up.

SENSE and NONSENSE

"Sambo, when you-all gonta pay me that ten dollahs you owes me?" "Next week." "Yeah, but that's what you tol me last week."

A negro soldier in the American Army was on sentinel duty for the first time in his life. A dark form approached. "Halt!" he cried, in a threatening voice, "who are you?"

The old negro aunty, who explained companionship marriage with the statement "white folks getting more like negroes every day," wasn't very far wrong at that.

What's become of Sam Jackson? Ah don' see him loafin' around no mo'.

Rastus, out in a boat with his best girl, Mandy, had been teasing for a kiss, but she refused again and again. Finally he became desperate.

A negro applied for a marriage license recently. In the questioning it developed that his prospective bride was already married.

A colored lad met the white owner of a vicious bulldog on the street. "Boss," he said complainingly, "dat big dawg o' yours done chased me dis mornin' an' tuk away d mos' usefulest part o' mah pants."

"Ho, ho, ho!" roared the dog's owner. "Well, don't let that bother you, Sambo. Yo' can get a new pair of trousers, you know."

The flapper's most serious problem is how to wear fewer clothes in summer than she does in winter.

LETTER GOLF

POOR ADVICE FOR DRIVERS

Don't RIDE FAST on your way to the picnic grounds Memorial Day, but it's safe and sane sport in letter golf. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

Letter golf grid with words RIDE and FAST.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Mandy was on the witness stand in Sambo's trial. Her skirt was extremely short and the Judge commanded her to pull it down.

THE TINYMITES

The houseboat slowly moved along, and Clowzy cried, "Let's have a song." "All right," replied the others. "You suggest what we should sing. We'll have some harmony that's real, 'cause that's the way we Tinies feel."
