

HOOVER SAYS FARM RELIEF IS IMPORTANT

If Elected He Will Apply Big Business Methods to Reg- ulate Prices of All Farm Products.

Stanford University, Calif., Aug. 14.—The injection of "Big Business" methods into the conduct of American agriculture will be Herbert Hoover's first contribution to the relief of the farm problem, should he be elected president, it was learned here today.

Convinced that agriculture has suffered unnecessary losses through slack business methods, Hoover will seek to organize American farmers into a series of gigantic cooperatives, one for each major crop, in an effort to eliminate waste, improve marketing conditions, reduce cost of production and distribution and increase farm profits. He is certain, it was learned, that proper business regulation of agriculture will go far toward eradicating agricultural depression.

Farm Relief Plan

The Hoover farm relief program however will include recommendation to Congress for the creation of a farm board, backed by at least $250,000,000 of government funds but regulated and controlled by farmers themselves, for the handling of surplus crops. In his acceptance speech, he also pledged the development of inland waterways to reduce transportation costs and the equalization of tariff rates on farm products to give the farmer the same protection enjoyed by industry.

The Republican nominee declared the "greatest problem" of the farmer today was to divide "some plan, along cooperative lines that will enable him to protect his surpluses." In a talk to newspaper correspondents about his speech, Hoover told of an incident in the New York fruit market, which illustrated the necessity for injecting better business methods into the agricultural situation.

Relates Incident

On one day he said, 5,000 cars of fruit reached New York City from California and 5,000 more from Florida, he added, the New York market totalled but 1,500 cars. As a result, he added, the New York market was flooded and prices collapsed. In an effort to save their fruit, he continued, the shippers sent several thousand cars up

OHIO VOTES TODAY AT ITS PRIMARY

Prohibition Plays Leading Part in Both Parties; Many Candidates.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 14.—Prohibition held the center of the stage in Ohio today as 900,000 voters began their march to the primary election booths to nominate state, county and judicial candidates for the November election. Though the ballots make no reference to the prohibition bazaar, the Anti-Saloon League has endorsed or opposed primary candidates on both sides of the political fence in nearly every state office, and has been in the thick of one since 1914 when the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis won the G. O. P. nomination and later defeated former Governor James M. Cox, Democratic standard bearer.

Fess Unopposed

U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess, G. O. P. keynoter at the national convention at Kansas City and candidate for re-election is one of the few unopposed on the Republican ballots, while Congressman Theodore E. Burton, of Cleveland, and Jacob S. Coxey, (Coxey's Army leader) of Massillon, are two of five candidates contesting for the right to run for the place of the late F. B. Willis in the U. S. Senate. Six gubernatorial candidates and nine aspirants for the lieutenant governorship appear on the Republican primary ballots.

On the Democratic side the fight has been as bitter as though only 28 candidates are trying for the nine state offices, while 36 Republicans are in the primary race. Democrats of national repute on the ballots are: Peter Witt, Cleveland Laborite, candidate for governor; Francis Poulson, Cleveland attorney for Velma West, confessed hammer murderer of her husband, Edward West, candidate for the attorney generalship; Charles E. Wharton, president of the National Farm Federation, and George White, Marietta, national Democratic committeeman, candidates for U. S. Senator.

LIQUOR SOLD IN STRATON'S SUMMER HOTEL.

Clergyman Surprised When He Hears News; Says He Will Prosecute Manager for Breaking the Law.

New York, Aug. 14.—Although Dr. John Roach Straton, militant clergyman, expressed indignation when informed that liquor was freely sold at his newly purchased Greenwood lake hotel, and asserted emphatically that he would bring vigorous prosecution of William Hecht, lessee of the Orange county resort, he had taken no steps, today to lay the matter before either county officials or federal authorities in Orange county or New York City.

Greenwood lake is about fifty miles from New York. Ten days ago Dr. Straton bought the old hotel. Hecht held a lease on it and Dr. Straton said he told him everything must be clean and within the law in the management of the Greenwood lake hotel. Hecht had told the clergyman that liquor was sometimes sold at other of the hotels in the neighborhood.

Sold Booze

It was brought to the attention of the clergyman, who is spending his vacation at Greenwood lake and plans establishment of a "religious Chautauqua" there, that a bottle of liquor was purchased recently at his hotel. Dr. Straton immediately announced he would seek prosecution of Hecht even if it meant padlocking the hotel.

"I would proceed against my own brother the same way if I found violation of the law," said Dr. Straton. "If this is true I will oust Hecht. I would be willing for the people of our Christian assembly to sleep in tents if necessary, if the hotel is padlocked."

SELECTMEN CLOSE THE YEAR'S BOOKS

Annual Town Report to Be Printed by Local Concern; Routine Business.

The Board of Selectmen in their regular August meeting held last night cleaned up all the routine business that has gathered on their desks so that the books of the fiscal year may be closed tomorrow. Bills that have accumulated and must be checked off the appropriations of the year just passing were ordered paid and the report of Building Inspector Edward C. Elliott, Jr., was accepted.

The printing of the annual town report was awarded to William H. Schiedel, of this town, who printed last year's report. There were two other bidders, T. F. Rady and Co., of Rockville, and the Rockville Journal Company. The Schiedel bid was lower than the Rockville bidders by approximately $40.

Sidewalks Hearing

A hearing on the construction of sidewalks on North Elm street between Greenwood and Green Road was held last night and a decision was withheld until the highway committee has an opportunity to investigate the tree condition on the street. Those present at the hearing were Mrs. H. O. Bowers, Sherwood G. Bowers, William W. Wisley, Conrad Apel, Joseph Wright, Mrs. Myra Gallinat and William W. Robertson. Most of the property owners desired the walks,

Hopi Indians Start Out For Annual Snake Dance

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 14.—Clad only in loin cloths of buckskin, their naked bodies glistening with mineral red, streaked with black and white, four bands of Hopi Indians at sun-up today left the sacred "kiva" of a sun-parched plateau in northern Arizona.

Blessed by the tribal priests, they set forth, carrying a piteous supply of sacred meal. One band journeyed north, one south, one east and another west. They were the snake hunters, who for the next four days will hunt and gather hundreds of rattlers and other poisonous vipers, to be used in the weird ceremonial dances which each year attract hundreds of tourists and students of Indian customs, to the scene of the celebration.

WHERE CLOUDS GATHER

Fate Of Jugo-Slavia Hangs In Balance

London, Aug. 14.—Stefan Raditch, grim old Croat, succumbed the other day to the bullets of a political enemy, and as a result a romantic drama of post-war politics in Europe approaches a climax. At stake is the future of Jugoslavia, Balkan state which won aggrandisement out of the world strife.

A Tangle of Ambitions

Intertwined in the drama are many diverse threads of influence and ambition. They are worth untangling because when a first break-out in the Balkans there is no telling where it will stop.

The Serbs, the Croats, and the Slovenes represent in the south of Europe the great Slav race, which in the north comprises the Russians. The passing of Raditch is fuel in the fire. Raditch was the Croat's most beloved leader.

His announcement, made through John G. Olesby, former lieutenant governor and now head of the Farm Bureau committee the Republican national committee broke a conspicuous political silence and put the former Illinois governor on record.

Much Impressed

"I am much impressed by Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech as a whole," was the meat of the Lowden announcement. It continued: "With reference to agriculture, his frank recognition of the agricultural problem as the most economic

LOWDEN ENDORSES HOOVER POLICIES

Politicians Had Been Waiting for Statement From Farm Belt Leader.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The comment of former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, on the acceptance speech of Herbert Hoover was viewed by political leaders today as a sort of passive endorsement of the Republican presidential nominee.

Lowden, recognized leader of the middle western farm belt, has remained in virtual retirement since the national convention at Kansas City—a convention that went against Lowden and most of his treasured plans for farm relief.

SMITH TALKS WITH LEADERS OF MID-WEST

Refuses to Take Decided Stand on Equalization Fee As Contained in McNary- Haugen Bill.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Convinced that he has won the support of farm leaders from various parts of the country because of his stand on farm relief, Gov. Al Smith today was to put the final touches on the address he will deliver one week from tomorrow in formally accepting the Democratic presidential nomination.

Although the ten farm experts with whom he conferred for five hours at the executive mansion yesterday, left for their homes without announcing that they would publicly support him, the governor feels, according to his advisers, that eventually a majority of them will throw their strength to the Democratic ticket.

Six of the ten farm experts who came here for a round table discussion of the agricultural problem with Smith are rated as Republicans. Two of them, Earl C. Smith, of Illinois, and Frank W. Murphy, of Minnesota, were delegates to the Republican national convention.

Smith is president of the Illinois Agricultural Association and has a membership of 60,000. Murphy is chairman of the legislative committee of the corn belt committee of 22.

Smith Refuses

According to reports at the capitol today, two or three of the farm leaders made a futile attempt to induce Smith to take a decided stand in favor of the equalization fee as contained in the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill which was voted by President Coolidge. The governor is said to have bluntly told them that he subscribed to the board principle of controlling surplus farm commodity and assessing the cost on the group to be benefited, but that he would not take any definite stand now as to the details of such a plan.

The governor is said to have told the leaders, however, that in the event of his election he would immediately call a conference of the farm experts of the country and that any plan recommended by the committee would be approved by him with the recommendation that it be enacted by Congress. This statement by the governor is reported to have met with warm applause by the farm leaders.

Both Smith and the leaders insisted that farm relief and not

DU PONT DONATES GIFT OF $50,000

General Motors Official Con- tributes Big Check to Help Democrats.

New York, Aug. 14.—Democratic national headquarters today received a check of $50,000 from Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the board of the General Motors Corporation, who recently declared his support of Gov. Smith.

The contribution is the largest received to date by the Smith campaign managers and is one of the largest political contributions ever recorded in any campaign.

Mr. DuPont, who is a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, declared in announcing his support of Smith that the governor's open advocacy of the Volstead Act was his principle reason for abandoning the Republican Party and throwing his support to the Democratic candidate.

No Limit

In announcing the $50,000 contribution, Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee repeated that the Democratic managers saw no reason for limiting the size of campaign contributions.

"We see no objection to contributions of any size so long as they are published and the money used for legitimate campaign purposes," Raskob said.

70,000 RAIL EMPLOYEES TAKING STRIKE VOTE

Trumbull In Airplane Lost Over Rockville

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 14.—Governor John H. Trumbull dropped into his office at the Capitol here today and out of a deskful of work told of his experience in trying to fly from Brainard Field to the new state airport at Groton last Saturday when he had C. D. J. Collyer, round-the-world speeder, as his guest.

The party, which included Major William F. Ladd also, actually was lost and had to spend upwards of two hours hovering above a "low ceiling" to find a way out. The party lost their bearings approximately over Rockville and when they sighted land next they were over Rhode Island. They found the Rhode Island coast and followed it down to Groton.

Collyer has never missed his bearings before, flying in nearly every section of the globe. The governor had never seen air conditions so bad before. The fog descended to within forty feet of the earth and blotted out everything.

RADIO EXPERTS GATHER TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Canadian, Mexican and Cuban Broadcasters Request Channels to Be Used Exclusively by Them

Washington, Aug. 14.—Another effort to work out an equitable distribution of broadcasting frequencies on the North American continent will be made August 20 when American, Canadian, Cuban and Mexican radio authorities will confer here.

Commissioner O. H. Caldwell was today designated to represent the United States in the parley. Radio broadcasting is expanding rapidly in the other countries as well as the United States. Listeners all over North America are demanding action which will eliminate the international interference.

Canada has six exclusive wave lengths and shares time on six others. Broadcasters there, however, with about 80 stations in operation, have represented to this government that they are entitled to 12 exclusive channels. In addition the Canadians desire to share time on a number of other waves.

Mexican Stations

Neither Cuban nor Mexican stations have exclusive channels and as a consequence there is considerable interference between the Latin American stations and those in southern and eastern United States. Cuba has nearly 50 stations operating on the broadcast band between 200 and 550 metres, while Haiti and one in Salvador.

Broadcast programs from the Cuban stations are readily picked up during the winter by listeners east of the Mississippi river. The Spanish and tropical type of entertainment transmitted by the Cuban stations has a peculiar charm of great appeal to American listeners, although interference robs the programs of their greatest value.

Mexican Programs

With the ordinary receiver the programs from Mexico are not so frequently received, although radio officials of that country feel that with a few exclusive wave bands American listeners might get the benefit of an annual form of entertainment put on the air at Mexico City.

There are approximately 900 stations operating in North America between 200 and 550 metres, with but 96 wave channels available. The radio commission discussed the situation informally today, its members expressed the opinion that a satisfactory international policy can be worked out at the North American conference. Under the present conditions none of the countries involved gets much satisfaction out of their international neighbors.

Nervous Bandits Escape With $10,000 In Jewels

New York Aug. 14.—Three youthful bandits, so nervous that they could hardly keep their guns trained on their victims, held up three men today in the jewelry shop of Morris Dubin, in the Bronx, and escaped with $10,000 in gems, leaving several valuable clues behind in their haste.

One was a pair of black gym tights, such as are worn in the ring by boxers. They also left behind a cap, a straw hat, and they dropped on the floor a wallet containing $5,000 in uncut gems, which Dubin recovered.

Dubin, his son Irving and a dirt-mound setter, Alex Schwartz, were covered by revolvers when the three young bandits entered.

Before locking the victims in a rear room, the trio took $120 in cash from Dubin's pockets. They then took Schwartz's roll, but as it was only $6, they generously handed it back to him.

They hurriedly scooped up valuables from the show windows and from the safe, which stood open. The $5,000 wallet dropped, came from the safe. As it fell, it opened, spilling its contents all over the floor.

Unions Ask for 10 Per Cent Wage Increase—Roads Will Offer Only 7 1-2; At- tempts to Arbitrate Fail, So Men Will Ballot All Over Country This Week.

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—Seventy thousand railroad employees are concerning in a strike vote which is to be taken by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors in the western states.

The unions have asked wage increases, ranging from 10 per cent. for yardmen to 18 per cent. for trainmen and conductors, an attempt at arbitration was made at a meeting in Chicago last week, attended by representatives of the unions, a committee representing the railroads, and John Williams of the Federal Board of Mediation.

The railroads offered a 7 1/2 per cent. increase, according to reports, and the unions, at sectional meetings today, will decide by vote if they will stand by their original demands and strike, according to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, with headquarters here.

Increase Acceptable

The wage increase offered by the railroads was acceptable to the two unions, but an agreement, which was made conditional, abolishing certain working rules, was not, Whitney said. The arbitration meeting then came to an abrupt end and the ballots were prepared by the unions and sent out from Chicago yesterday. The ballots are to be returned to Chicago by Sept. 2. Railroads controlling about 98 per cent. of the tracks west of Chicago would be affected by a strike.

Showed Discrimination

"The offer made by the railroads, if accepted," Whitney said, "would have discriminated against our western conductors and trainmen, as it would have established rates of pay lower than those in effect on the eastern and southern roads."

"Elimination of the working rules which the railroads asked us to abolish would have offset the increase they offered us and, consequently, would have lowered the standards of pay in comparison with the roads in other sections of the country."

TAKING STRIKE VOTE.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—A strike vote was to be taken today by conductors and trainmen on Western railroads, according to word received here from the Cleveland office of President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Strike ballots prepared last night in the Chicago offices of the Brotherhood and at the headquarters of the Order of Railway conductors. Meanwhile ninety general chairmen of both unions called meetings of their committees throughout the west to carry out the balloting.

The ballots will be collected at Chicago for tabulation. They must be returned by September 2, when the decision of the Brotherhoods will be announced.

Approximately 70,000 employees and 80 roads, owning about 98 per cent. of the trackage west of Chicago, are involved in the threatened tieup.

The men will vote on their original demands for increases in wages and salary ranging from 10 per cent for yardmen to 18 per cent for conductors, according to President Whitney.

WAGES CUT ABROAD

London, Aug. 14.—Every man employed by English railways—approximately 680,000 in number—from the executives down to the humblest station porter will receive a reduction in wage or salary as a result of the financial crisis confronting the four great railway systems.

The men voted to accept a 2 1-2 per cent wage cut while the executives acted voluntarily in slicing their own incomes.

The railways have been losing money so heavily since the war that they were threatened with actual bankruptcy unless drastic steps were taken to retrench expenses.

An agreement was reached between the companies, and the three railway trade unions which was later put to a vote by the men. It was ratified. The new wage scale went into effect yesterday.

It was estimated today that the wage cut will save the companies approximately $14,000,000 during the next year. Railway receipts so far in 1928 are $30,000,000 under those of last year.

and down the Atlantic coast, destroying the markets in all nearby cities. One car, he added, travelled 17,000 miles and when it finally halted, the fruit was dumped into a sewer.

Hoover has become convinced that this sort of distribution and waste caused the farmers millions of dollars in losses every year. He will attempt to eliminate it by getting the farmers to organize national cooperatives to handle market distribution and production.

As he said in his speech, Hoover believes the farm problem is the most serious one facing the country today. He pledged himself publicly, and private conversations pledged himself anew, to "bend every effort toward finding a solution for it," should he be chosen president.

The nominee planned to rest at his home here all day. He called off a proposed fishing trip to a nearby lake, so he could answer some of the hundreds of congratulatory telegrams sent to him since his speech.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Frank M. Sullivan
Frank M. Sullivan, 32, native of this town, died yesterday morning at his home in Denver, Col., where he had been living since last May.

Born in Manchester, Mr. Sullivan had lived here all his life until he removed to Denver last spring. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Louise Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Nelson of 46 Cooper street; their six months old son, Francis Harvey Sullivan; Mr. Sullivan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan of 33 Cooper street; one brother, John Sullivan of Farmington; and one sister, Mrs. William Noonan of 93 Church street.

Mr. Sullivan had been employed by the Electric Transportation Company of Hartford for more than ten years. He was married seven years ago.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Frank Gadella
Frederick Gadella, 23, a member of the firm of Gadella & Ambrosini, monument manufacturers of Spruce street, died in a New Haven hospital Saturday. He has been an inmate of the hospital for the past eight months, having undergone an operation for a growth on his brain.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2:30 at his late home, No. 21 Florence street. Interment was in the East Cemetery, Rev. David Clark, curate at St. Mary's Episcopal church, officiated.

but they preferred those of four-foot length.

Carl Peterson of Pine street asked the board to repair the surface of Pine Hill street. The rains have torn it badly and the street is on a bad grade making travel difficult.

D. J. Sullivan complained to the board about the condition of the Woodland street hill. The complaints were referred to the highway committee.

Complaints About Dogs
Assessments were laid against properties on McKee street and Hartford Road without objection.

A complaint about a dog nuisance was registered with the board by Miss Teresa Ryan of Oakland. The dogs are owned by Harry Robbins. Miss Ryan said she is accustomed to sleep until nine o'clock in the morning but the barking of the dogs does not permit her to sleep that long.

Richardson and Anderson who are building the business block at Main and Park streets for the Montgomery Ward Company asked for a permit to enter the sanitary sewer by way of a pipe to be laid in front of the Congregational parsonage at Main and Locust streets. The matter was referred to the South Manchester Sanitary Sewer district.

Want Sidewalks
Property owners of the north side of Middle Turnpike west between Main street and Homestead street petitioned the board for sidewalks and curbing. This was originally a 66 foot highway and now it varies in width from 54 to 58 feet. The state holds rights on the thoroughfare and the town cannot establish bounds. The question will have to be deferred until information on the subject can be obtained from the state.

Petitions were also received from residents of Homestead street and of Benton street. Those on Homestead street want sidewalks and those on Benton street want a highway "safe for public use." Both matters were referred to the highway committee.

Birch Street Procedure
Town Counsel W. S. Hyde informed the Selectmen that it was his opinion that the next move in the widening of Birch street legal procedure was to bring about an agreement between property owners and the town relative to benefits and damages. A hearing for this purpose will be called soon.

It was reported that a bad storm water condition on Henry street was costing the town a lot of money after each heavy rainfall. It was voted to proceed immediately to build a sewer to carry the water away. The highway committee will be in charge and the work will cost about $3,800. It was voted to install another street light on Alton street in the Pinehurst section.

TO GO THROUGH OPERATION
New York, Aug. 14.—Final tests and examinations were to be made today of Margaret and Mary Gibb, Siamese twins of Holyoke, Mass., at Park West hospital, to determine just when and how an operation will be performed on them to separate them.

It was announced that Margaret's blood pressure which had been high for several days owing to her excitement again was normal. The twins are unconcerned over the demand of the New York County Medical Society that Dr. Frank P. Weston, who expects to perform the operation, explain just what procedure he will use, and are determined to go through with the operation despite its danger.

FATE OF JUGO-SLAVIA HANGS IN THE BALANCE

sians, the Poles, and the Czechs. In the middle ages the Serbs had a great empire. This fell under assaults by Turks and Austrians.

The Croats for about 200 years, beginning in A. D. 910, had a separate kingdom. Then they and the Slovenes also came under Austrian domination, and later were shifted to the tender mercies of the Hungarians.

Before the World War, Serbia existed as a much-diminished separate kingdom and Croatia and Slovenia were part of the Austro-Hungarian empire. Croatia had a separate local parliament.

The War's Aftermath
When the great war ended, Croats, Serbs and Slovenes came together. The idea of the Croats was to have some sort of federated state. But they were overborne and the new state of Yugoslavia was formed.

For ten years there has been dissatisfaction. It centers in Belgrade, the capital of the majority, and in Zagreb, formerly known as Agram, the chief city of Croatia.

Zagreb is a splendidly built, thoroughly modern metropolis of 100,000 people. Belgrade is slattern, slovenly. The citizen of Zagreb looks on Belgrade with contempt.

The Croats and Slovenes complain the Serbs seek to centralize all power in Belgrade; that taxes are collected and money spent for the aggrandizement of what was once Serbia to the detriment of the other portions of the trine kingdom.

Divided on Religion
Religion, too, plays a big part. Old Serbia in the main is Orthodox like Russia, Croatia, in the main is Roman Catholic.

The Zagreb business man is a better one than his rival of Belgrade. The Croatian farmer is a more up-to-date agriculturist than the Serbian.

In the national parliament the Croatian Farmer's Party, a solid block of over 80 members, had been led by Raditch. So active was he that at one time he was jailed on a charge of treason to the state.

While Stefan lay on his bed in pain, after being shot down in the Belgrade parliament by a fellow deputy, he gave orders that his partisans should quit the Belgrade body and treat it as a ramp assembly. A Croatian parliament was set up in Zagreb.

His Vision
Raditch's vision was of two, perhaps three south Slav states independent of each other but federated under a common king Alexander. The federation would deal only with foreign affairs and war-making. Old Stefan's chief aide, M. Predawetz, gave point to this vision by saying: "Serbia and Croatia are different worlds. Our forefathers were wiser than we because they did not build a common state with the Serbs, in spite of 1000 years of neighborliness. This common state is impossible for the future."

If it were merely a matter of interior politics, the Serbs might try force on the Croats. But there is a big black cloud to the west, and its name is Italy.

Italian and Yugoslav ambitions constantly clash. Italy would like to make an Italian lake of the Adriatic, but Yugoslavia has the long Dalmatian sea coast.

War Clouds
For her own protection Yugoslavia wanted to control the politics of the little state of Albania, but Mussolini beat her to it.

There might have been war long ago, but for the fact the Yugoslav army lacks heavy artillery, and the further fact that the Croats and the Slovenes are disaffected.

Recently, the Nettuno treaties have been broached. These would grant Italy certain rights on the Dalmatian coast of Yugoslavia. The Croats fear this would be the beginning of the swallowing up of Yugoslavia by Italy. But the Serb majority has assented to the treaties.

Thus, the chance about another sharp civil clash.

Under the new voting bill, which gives equal franchise to men and women of England, the latter will outnumber the men by more than two million.

MELLIE SOAKED FORD FIVE BUCKS FOR FIDDLING

Famous Maine Character Tells Jack Sanson How He Got That Way

Manager Jack Sanson of the State theater and Police Officer Al Roberts returned last night from a week's fishing trip to Norway. Me. They had rain most of the time and not much fishing.

Mr. Sanson renewed his acquaintance with Mellie Dunham, the old time fiddler made famous by Henry Ford.

Asked how it came about that he attracted the automobile king's attention, Mellie explained it to Mr. Sanson.

"You see," he said, "I won this here fiddling contest at home because I had the sense to go and play in my overalls while those other fellows went and dressed all up. Then I got a sort of inspiration, and wrote to Mr. Ford and asked him could I go and play for him."

"He answered and asked how much I wanted. I told him I usually got three dollars a night but if I went all that way to play for him I guessed I'd have to have five. How was that, hey?"

"Well, he wrote and said come along, and I went—and it was a mighty good thing for me—I did. He gave me the five, all right—and some. And I've made plenty since."

Mr. Sanson says that Mellie is having the time of his life, only there are too many visitors—half a dozen cars at a time parked in front of his old farm house. So he slips away from home nearly every day, with his fiddle, and visits neighbors and campers—and is always ready to play for them.

Sanson and Roberts stayed at Vie Witmar's camp on Lake Pennesseewassee. Witmar is fairly well known as a story writer. The Top-Notch magazine making a feature of his stories.

AGRICULTURE

There will be ready response among thinking people to the theory, promulgated by Herbert Hoover in his acceptance speech, that the welfare of the agriculturist is so much the concern of all the people of the country that it is ridiculous to suppose the nation cannot employ some of its capital in insuring the stability of agriculture if necessary. It is only the restricted vision who declare that the farmer must work out his own salvation unaided by government, and that it would be as sensible to undertake to guarantee to make any other industry profitable as to extend government aid to the farmer.

In the first place the farmer feeds the country. Our civilization could not endure, the people could not even continue to exist, were it not for this industry of agriculture which lies at the base of all human effort. The very first consideration is an adequate continuance of the food supply. That makes the farm a national responsibility.

In the second place agriculture is the only important industry in which it is impossible for any amount of effort to bring about a definite result in production. The steel industry can and does govern its product, almost to the ground, by the extent of the demand. The farmer cannot thus exactly measure out his effort and his expenditure. Sun, rain, drought, visitations of pests, matters utterly beyond his control or of the control of government, bear directly on the amount of his product. They may make it double of normal or they may cut it in half. They may make him temporarily plethoric or, after he has invested his profits in improved machinery one year, they may ruin him the next.

Manufacturing in many lines is an exact science. Agriculture can never be. Manufacturing and merchandising by their own wisdom can erect dependable safeguards against loss. Agriculture cannot. And yet the farms must always be operated, in the interest of the national existence to say nothing of national well-being.

In other words agriculture is a vital national asset and must be protected like any other national asset which is, in the nature of things, unable to adequately protect itself.

It was with a view to bringing this truth home to the entire country that Mr. Hoover handled the subject of farm relief as he did in his first utterance as a Presidential nominee. He purposely refrained from going into details of his plan of relief until the truth could sink in that the nation must at all times be prepared to foster its agricultural resources, even if at some cost in money.

We have not the remotest idea that Mr. Hoover will countenance any system of farm relief which will operate, as the McNary-Haugen plan would have operated, to boost prices of farm products at home while dumping surpluses abroad at ruinously low figures. But that he will evolve and present to the country a system of farm relief, or rather of insurance of the stability of agriculture, that will take into consideration the necessities of the agrarian and of the urbanite alike, we have every faith.

And he will not wait until he is elected before announcing it, at that.

LIGHTNING

The New York Herald-Tribune is much bewildered over the fact of lightning killing a swimmer at Holley Park near South Plainfield, N. J., seeming to regard the circumstance as upsetting all the theories about lightning's maneuvers. What appears to get the Tribune mixed up is the circumstance that the bolt first struck an automobile near the edge of the water and "instead of then passing into the ground, as theory would suggest, the electric force seems to have glanced off the car, entered the water near the bather and shocked him so severely that he died." This is not the way, says the Herald-Tribune, that ordinary electric sparks should behave.

We gather that the New York paper is more impressed by the extraordinary proceeding of the lightning in killing the bather than by its having struck the automobile. Our impression is that a bather is legitimately liable to be killed by a bolt striking the water, the water providing a natural ground. If there is any valid reason why a discharge should not ground by way of an intervening body of water it isn't generally comprehended. On the other hand, if lightning did hit the automobile, what becomes of the theory that rubber tired vehicles not provided with some artificial ground connection are immune to lightning on account of their perfect insulation?

Perhaps the automobile in question was a wreck, without tires. Perhaps there was some attachment or temporary ground that would make it possible for the electrical discharge to reach the earth through it. If not, if it was a regularly equipped car standing on its own tires and not otherwise in contact with the earth, then a dearly treasured theory goes to glory in an explosion of contradictory fact.

Perhaps, and most likely, the bolt that hit the car and the one that killed the bather were not the same bolt, at all, though coming practically at the same time.

Anyhow, if we were as near to the scene as the Tribune, and as curious about it, and had as many reporters, we'd try to find out about that automobile.

THE REASON FOR IT

A man, admittedly under the influence of "several drinks," passed a traffic signal in Hartford. A traffic officer chased him, halted him to the curb and asked an explanation. The driver, in answer, started his car and sped away. The policeman chased him in a citizen's automobile, blowing his whistle. The fugitive drove two miles at high speed, narrowly missing a collision at an intersecting street. The policeman fired one shot into the air and four shots at the fugitive's tires. The last shot punctured a front shoe and the car stopped. The driver resisted arrest. Besides what liquor was inside the driver and two companions there was a pint in a bottle in the car.

In Hartford police court the driver, who was merely charged with reckless driving, was discharged. The policeman has been called on to defend himself against charges for shooting at the runaway car. He was, righteously, exonerated.

If this is the attitude that is to be adopted by the courts of Connecticut toward the enforcement of the already feeble automobile laws, we might as well withdraw all traffic police, disband the state troopers, give up every attempt to regulate traffic and turn the roads and streets over to the drunken, the utterly reckless and the semi-licentious, while decent people junk their cars and return as best they may to the transportation system of 1890 and the use of Shank's mare—crossing the roads and the streets with prayers on their lips.

Perhaps the policeman in question would have done better to refrain from scattering bullets about Hartford streets. On the other hand no indiscriminate shooting could be a whit more dangerous to life than a drunken fool driving an automobile haphazard, either in a city or on the open road.

For his own sake we are glad that Hartford Policeman Maloney did not land his bullet in the skull of the driver he was chasing. But if he had, like as not it would have prevented the yet-to-come killing of some worth-while citizen in a crash with a murderously driven automobile.

CELLAR HOLE

How much is a cellar hole? Ask your friend the contractor that question and he'll probably come back with, How big a cellar hole? Of a big cellar hole. Well, an ordinary house cellar hole might cost anywhere from so much to so much. Of course if you want a bigger cellar hole it will cost you more.

We are not going to try to commit Manchester contractors to any sort of standard price for cellar holes, but it's a guess that all the cellar holes dug in this town for quite a long time to come, even if we do capture more and more of Hartford's over-taxed citizens as residents here, won't cost as much as one they have just finished digging in New York city.

The cellar hole for the proposed Hotel New Yorker, on Eighth avenue from Thirty-fourth to Thirty-fifth streets, cost a million dollars. It is seventy-five feet deep and was blasted out of solid rock, 225 loads of the broken ledge having been carted away every day for six months. They didn't even utilize the stone, but loaded it on scows, carried it out to sea and dumped it. Likely enough a forty million dollar navy ship will find it some day—navy ships can always find reefs that no other ships can.

When the hotel is built over this cellar hole it will have cost twenty million dollars. And the guests who stay in it will be as important and get as much of that homey feeling as a gnat in an eruption of Krakatoa.

ALTRUISTIC

We are impressed by the lofty altruism of the task set for itself by the League of Women Voters in attempting a genuinely non-partisan drive to bring about the making of all possible women voters without regard to party affiliation or the probable direction of their ballots.

This sort of work is abstract patriotism of a very high order. If the members of the League succeed in keeping the objective constantly in mind without permitting themselves to be affected by their own various political predilections, they will have maintained themselves, frankly, on a higher plane than their husbands, fathers and brothers have ever been able to do in politics.

It is, in fact, rather more than should be expected of either men or women, that they should devote themselves sedulously to the promotion of the exercise of the franchise entirely, regardless of consequences to their several political parties. Yet the effort itself is a noble one, even if before election day League members find themselves unable to resist the temptation to labor a bit harder to bring voters to their respective parties than to bring them, abstractly, to the ballot box.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 14.—Those very gay ladies of the Scott Fitzgerald stories and the Long Island stage sets come quite vividly to life on a mid-summer Saturday evening or Sunday afternoon.

They may be found in endless variety in the ultra-exclusive yacht clubs that dot Long Island sound or the equally ultra country clubs not far distant.

They belong to a mysterious tribe that lives by its wit and its wits. Michael Arlesqueque patter comes glibly to their lips. Their afternoons, when in New York, are spent at the bridge table or at poker. It is no secret that dozens of them live from week to week upon their winnings at cards. Their chic contributions come from young women whose purses are well lined, and who can stand their losses with good grace. These are quite willing to take this loss in exchange for the "worldly" and "sophisticated" education received at the hands of the glamorous pretenders.

Of a Saturday night, with an all-night poker session in the making, it is not an uncommon sight to come upon such ladies-of-fortune, with a large hip flask of gin leaning against the chair, a package of cigarettes within easy reach and a bottle of ginger ale on a neighboring taboret.

They are generally attractive in appearance, dressed most smartly and somewhere in their early thirties. They are what is termed "very amusing" and manage somehow to keep in step with the latest sallies and small-talk. Frequently they are young women who attempted stage careers, falling at stardom and being too smart to accept minor roles over long periods of time.

Or they are girls from good families, whose parents can't scrape together enough money to keep them in the social whirl and have hardened themselves to "play the game" according to self-made rules.

Or they are girls whose attractive figures and faces brought them the attention of a wealthy man. What happened thereafter is one of the things people don't talk about—that is, openly. Once they have fallen into the proper circle, they refuse to swing out again—even when their "sugar" gives them the air. Their gaming is often desperate and it is not uncommon for two or more of them, who have become chummy, to share losses and gains, thus avoiding embarrassment when particularly hard luck overtakes one of them.

They know full well that one "rubber check" or an unpaid "I. O. U." would spell the end.

These, however, make up but a small percentage of the gay throng to be found on a Saturday and Sunday at the swanky Long Island resorts. There are thousands who seek only the healthful recreation and social contact of these fashionable resorts.

This season the "yacht dweller" has become a popular and common figure. He's the family man who is tired of summering in the city and can't afford the luxury of the club life. So he makes a down payment on a yacht, sublets his city apartment and moves his brood aboard the yacht. Thus, for three or four months, he is able to live without paying rent and thus meet his yacht payments. He rows ashore in the morning and rows to the ship in the evening. Meanwhile the wife and kiddies have a grand time, on the slightest possible overhead.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE by Dr. Frank McCoy. "The Fast Way to Health". QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. MCCOY. WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER. ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESSED ENVELOPE FOR REPLY.

THE CURE OF ANEMIA

In the first place I assure you that pernicious anemia is not produced because the one who is ill has not eaten enough of the iron-containing foods. The one who has developed anemia has probably eaten much the same foods as the other members of the family. And after he is anemic he has doubtless consumed large quantities of spinach, steak, and even liver, in trying to supply his body with the organic iron which the blood seems to require.

Anemia is not alone caused by a lack of mineral elements. The fault with the anemic patient is that the iron and other minerals carried in the food he uses are either destroyed before it reaches the red corpuscles, or the red cells are themselves destroyed by the poisons which exist in his body. In many cases it seems that the more food he puts into his body, the more the red cells are destroyed. It does not take a sage to understand that something in the body is destroying these cells, and all the investigations of physiologists has failed to disclose any special place in the body where these cells are killed.

The anemic toxemia is like a devouring monster in the body which eats up the red blood cells and drains the hemoglobin. Starving this toxic monster out seems to be the only cure of pernicious anemia. While fasting on plain water often brings about very desirable results, my experience has shown that these diets do not actually even more satisfactory. This is because the orange juice supplies the body with calcium and other minerals and with the needed vitamins of which the blood has been depleted. At the same time, due to the stimulating effect of the citric acid of the orange, the poisons can be more rapidly eliminated from the body. Since orange juice does not require much energy for its digestion and assimilation, it does not interfere with the eliminative processes of the body.

I have never known of a single case of pernicious anemia that did not immediately begin to improve on an orange fast, and the almost unbelievable fact is that the number of red cells is actually increased at a rapid rate when no other food of any kind but orange juice is used. I am not speaking from mere theory. Laboratory tests will prove this assertion, and I have yet to see a case where this change does not take place.

Of course, the usual intestinal irrigation should be taken as with any other kind of a fast, and two or three sponge or shower baths used every day. The patient is advised to carry on a deep breathing exercise from the very start and to continue taking these breathing exercises indefinitely, even after it seems that a cur has been effected.

This extra breathing supplies the blood with more oxygen with which to carry on work, and this oxygen is badly needed by the patient. After the orange fast, the diet tendency to class North Carolina for the present as doubtful, along with the border states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Missouri.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, Aug. 14.—The nation is playing politics and it appears to be more than customarily interested in the game. Hoover or Smith seems to mean something to nearly everyone and as many as 35,000,000 ballots may be cast in November.

Things are beginning to happen and to be brought about but a survey of the visible developments cast little light on the probable result. The betting odds are on Hoover and no Smith gambler ought to take even money, but it seems as if the Democrats were in a stronger position than at any time since 1916 and it is generally believed that Smith is sure to get more electoral votes than either Cox or Davis.

The situation probably will not begin to jell, however, before October. Take Minnesota. Unprejudiced opinion generally is that Henrik Shipstead, who is running again on the Farmer-Labor ticket, will get himself re-elected to the Senate. The three or four hundred thousand voters who elect Shipstead will be virtual independents; there is no Farmer-Labor presidential ticket. Minnesota Democrats are hoping that, with wet sentiment and farm discontent, they can get the bulk of the Shipstead voters, who could carry the state for Smith.

Critics Coolidge. Shipstead has avoided the presidential issue, but is criticizing the Coolidge McNary-Haugen veto and spoke recently from the same platform with Frank Murphy, farm leader and a delegate to the Republican convention who has bolted to Smith.

Wisconsin exhibits a somewhat similar situation. The state may go for Smith. For one thing, there is more wet sentiment there. And Senator Young Bob La Follette, whose re-election is expected, apparently isn't worrying about what happens to Hoover. La Follette and his followers have no love for the Coolidge policies which Hoover has promised to continue and Wisconsin Democrats, knowing the independence of the state's voters, hope the La Follette voters will turn to Smith.

There is nothing to show as yet that Democratic supremacy is imperiled in the south or that the Republicans are likely to lose anything in the farm belt. There is

$500,000 Changes Hands Weekly In New "Monte Carlo Of America"

A view of the casino at Agua Caliente, Mexico, where $500,000 changes hands every week-end. Inset is Wirt G. Bowman, president of the syndicate in charge of the place.

San Diego, Calif.—A new-world rival to Monte Carlo is now running full blast at Agua Caliente, Mexico, just across the international boundary line and a bare 18 miles south of San Diego.

The Agua Caliente Hotel and Casino, newly erected, is bidding for the trade of "big time" American gamblers—bidding for it, and getting it.

None of Europe's great gambling centers has much on Agua Caliente. The big casino, lavishly furnished, is doing a land office business; $500,000 is said to be a low estimate of the amount of money that passes across the tables every week-end.

The Casino, where the games of chance are played, is a spacious place, with a big bar running across one side. In the center are five roulette wheels, tended by croupiers in evening dress. No bet lower than one dollar is accepted.

For those who want to proceed more slowly, there are other games—practically every kind of game of chance known to man, from poker to craps. But the roulette wheels are the most popular. The commonest bet on these wheels is $25.

The new hotel was built at a cost of $1,500,000 by a company headed by Wirt G. Bowman and Baron Long. Associated with them are some of the best known names in the realm of sports.

There are accommodations for 500 guests in the huge, modern building, built in the Spanish style and grouped around an open patio. At the entrance is an elaborate set of chimes which ring every hour and can be heard for miles up and down the quiet Tia Juana valley.

Adjoining the hotel is an 18-hole golf links, while natural hot springs nearby, said to have medicinal values, are being surrounded with bath houses.

The whole layout is designed for the patronage of wealthy Americans. The bar serves a complete line of drinks, most of them retailing at 50 cents a glass. Good champagne is sold at $5 a pint.

MOSCOW STORES TO HAVE FAKES IN SHOW WINDOWS

Moscow—State and cooperative stores have been ordered to stop displaying real goods in show windows because of the shortage of manufactured goods which are being shipped to the provinces to satisfy demands of enraged peasants. Articles taken from stock shelves for purely advertising displays also deteriorate, the order states, and cannot be sold at full value.

"Beautiful" dresses in fashion shops will be nothing but paper. Even hats and shoes will be faked if shown at all. Busts of Lenin, draped with red flags, are becoming more conspicuous as window displays than ever before.

The only exception to the order are jewelry and other shops where goods are sold directly out of the display windows.

Prices are soaring. The ruble, officially stabilized at 1.94 to the dollar, is worth less than half of its legal value. Several state commission shops are selling goods only for foreign currency, despite the fact that private traders are prohibited from accepting any but Soviet currency for goods.

RIDE 'EM HIGH IN CHI

Chicago.—This village has many records—some of them not so good. But here is one of which it has cause to be proud. While other metropolitan areas are paying an ever-increasing rate of fare, the elevated railroads here recently announced a new fare schedule which provides three rides for a quarter or $1.25 for a pass which entitles the holder to as many rides as he wishes for one week.

According to R. Bennett Bean, a professor of anatomy, who has analyzed the measurements of 1022 groups of people of five continents, nutrition fixes the stature of races. People living near the sea get tall much iodine and tend to short stature; inland people get lime, which makes for long bones.

GRETA GARBO AS GIRL BARBER IN STOCKHOLM SHOP

Paris.—"Greta Garbo used to shave me." With this crack, John Ringstrom, popular headwaiter at a just as popular cafe, is the latest entrant of the "I used to know her when"—contest.

This entry has, moreover, all the earmarks of the truth. When Greta was a wee lassie of fourteen, young and struggling, her parents made her go to work in a Stockholm barber shop as a "soap girl," according to John. Her job was to lather the clients. That done to perfection, the journeymen barber stepped in and finished the job. This mode of shaving in easy stages is peculiar to Swedish tonsorial parlors.

Sometimes the journeymen barber would, however, imbibe a little bit too much Swedish punch, incapacitating himself for the surgical end of the shaving operation. At such times Greta had to "sub," and "sub" she did to the satisfaction of everybody.

"She was a great little barber," testifies John the headwaiter.

A dash of orange, a splash of red—add spinach green and mix with a few ribbons, and you have what the well-dressed man should wear!

His tailor may be on Fifth Avenue or Bond street but he is not ultra-chic unless he has something designed after one of the models in the Paris Men's Fashion Salon.

The salon committee called on artists, instead of suit cutters, for the display. Yves Guden is responsible for this one:

Brown-grey coat with blue sleeves; white vest dotted with blue stars, blue trousers.

Fabiano visualizes a black tuxedo with slit sleeves and trousers, the slits tied with ribbons. A flowing red necktie makes up the ensemble. A Spinach green combination coat-cape comes from the brush of Pierre de Bray.

Bussy would have men's formal evening dress in bright red, white leather hip boots being worn instead of pumps.

Monsieur Lucien Villiard is considered the most obliging husband in France.

When he and his wife decided to separate because of domestic differences neither told the neighbors. M. Villiard just quietly disappeared.

Later, he read that Mme. Villiard had been arrested for trying to put him on official record as a dead man. She attempted this, said police by obtaining original death act of her father-in-law and replacing the deceased's name with that of her husband.

Annoyed, M. Villiard went to the police station and asked to see his wife.

"Why did you try to make me dead?" he demanded.

"So I could marry a wealthy friend," she replied.

"Oh, if that's all I'll be glad to get a divorce," said M. Villiard.

MOTHER TRIES TO SELL SON'S PETRIFIED BODY

But Officials Hold Her for Using the U. S. Mails to Defraud.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 14.—Charged with misuse of the mails in the bartering for her son's "petrified body," Mrs. Alliece Sawyer, apartment house manager, pleaded not guilty and today awaits continuance of her case September 17.

Mrs. Sawyer is said to have received $32,000 from a cousin, John L. Stutz, of Meriden, Conn., to exploit the sale of the body of her 21-year-old son who died in 1923. Government authorities investigating the case claim the body was never removed from its original resting place in El Centro cemetery. Officers declared they had more than 40 letters in which Mrs. Sawyer is purported to have negotiated for the sale of the body to scientific institutions. It is said she had represented the body as becoming petrified.

"The value of a name. Everybody knows the value of a good name to an individual, but not many stop to think of the enormous value of a trade-mark. It has been only a few years since Liggett & Meyers Tobacco Company began to advertise Chesterfield Cigarettes; but from the very beginning the brand has grown—year after year, month after month—until the sales have reached an enormous volume and the name Chesterfield is worth millions and millions of dollars and is known in every nook and corner of the country. Everybody knows "They Satisfy."

NO SIGHT OF YOUTHS LOST IN THE SOUND

Searchers Give Up Hope of Finding Alive, Four Young College Boys.

Watch Hill, R. I., Aug. 14.—Four college youths, missing since their sailboat capsized between the mainland and Fisher's Island, N. Y., were given up for lost today by searchers who had used airplanes and small craft in the hunt and who had been joined by the veteran boats of the Coast Guard.

The lone survivor of the sound tragedy, John M. Colohan, of Chestnut Hills, Pa., picked up unconscious by George Adams, a Noank, Conn., fisherman, had recovered sufficiently in Westerly hospital to tell the dramatic story of how the little vessel capsized when the anchor was put overboard in a choppy sea, how efforts were made to fight her, how he got to the keel of the overturned craft, how Troybridge Cottrell, one of the amateur sailors, suddenly disappeared, how John McIlvain, of Ardmore, Pa., son of the owner of the boat, started to swim ashore and was never seen again, and how he did not remember what became of the others—Joseph Scales, of Louisville, Ky., and Lloyd Bankson, of Philadelphia.

THIS CLUB OUGHT TO BE EXCLUSIVE

State College, Pa.—Pennsylvania State College has at least one society that is destined to remain quite select and exclusive. One reason, of course, is that invitations are not issued promiscuously. But a more important one seems to be a rattlesnake dinner which one is required to eat in order to acquire active membership. A recent initiation into the "Den of Rattlers" took place at the nature study camp in the Seven Mountains. Qualifying members were required to eat at least one bite of the strange food, with the choice of having it fried or fricasseed.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service, Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU and ROD BRYER are happily married, until LILA LOREE plots to separate them. She had once refused to marry Rod because he was poor. She meets and marries CYRUS LOREE and persuades him to aid Rod in business while she gains Bertie Lou's confidence by showering her with favors.

Gradually she arouses Rod's interest and faith in her while she plants seeds of mistrust about his wife. When Bertie Lou discovers that they see each other secretly, she is heartbroken and indulges in the dissipation of idle wives which Lila had taught her.

They drift apart but Rod will not commit himself to Lila. This infuriates her and she fakes a jewel robbery in which it appears that he is the thief; then insists on keeping it secret to save his reputation. He discovers her treachery, and she says she did it to gain his love.

He repudiates her disloyalty to her husband, and she reminds him that his wife is out with Marco Palmer. He drives to the Palmer estate where he sees Marco and Bertie Lou in touting roles and departs without learning that they were merely coming upstairs from the swimming pool.

When Bertie Lou gets home, Rod is gone leaving no word but a check for $2,000. Not realizing that he left because of his suspicions, Bertie Lou denounces Lila for trying to take him away from her. Both women try to locate Rod without success. Bertie Lou secures a position, and it is puzzling when Rod makes no move to get a divorce. The suspense maddens her, and to avoid the agony she continues to go about in a gay crowd with Marco. Then she thinks of a plan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIX
"I am going to build a house," Bertie Lou said to herself. Tremulously, almost under her breath. Her eyes were glowing brightly behind misty tears and a tender half-smile parted her lips. Bessie Rogers thought they would be very pretty lips if they had more color.

She hardly knew what to say to Bertie Lou about the house. It was a trifle embarrassing not to know more than the mere name and occupation of anyone who chose to confide in you. Was Mrs. Bryer going to be so kind as to wonder about Mr. Bryer. Bertie Lou never spoke of him.

"That's fine," she said. "I'd love to build a house, too."
Bertie Lou turned her head and looked at her. "Do you mind if I ask you a personal question, Miss Rogers?" she asked.

"Please call me Bessie," the other replied. "Miss Rogers sounds like the boss calling me down. What do you want to ask me?"
Bertie Lou hesitated. "I was wondering, Bessie," she began reluctantly, "if you had a sweetheart."
Bessie was quick to reply. "I haven't a steady, if that's what you mean."

Well, then, it isn't too late for you to start right," Bertie Lou astonished her by saying. "If a man wants to marry you, Bessie, and build the house for you, let him do it—build the house, I mean, even if it's only a party shack."
She smiled, but there was a touch of earnestness in her tones that told Bessie a story lay behind her admiration.

"Well, I guess I wouldn't be saying no if I cared for the man," Bessie said unthinkingly, but she was silent. She couldn't understand Bertie Lou. Did she mean a girl ought to marry just to get a home?
"Of course, but some girls want marriage all their own way, Bessie. They don't think much of what the man they're going to marry would like. He may want a six-room cottage with all his heart; it may have been his dearest dream to have his own roof and a family under it, but if he's like most men he'll let the girl have her way—and they may move into an apartment, or even away from town and . . . if things don't go right, they'll never have that house—not together."

She turned her head and blinked hard on the tears that threatened to spill themselves on her cheeks. Bessie was silent because she didn't know what to say, which was the best thing she could have done.

Suddenly Bertie Lou turned back and smiled at her. "I haven't any one to help me build my house," she said, "because I didn't know what it was like to want one with all my heart. But maybe someone else will find happiness in it. That would be nice, don't you think so, to have people being happy in your house?"

conversation almost word for word. Rod had reminded her that these houses were larger than the apartments she was looking at.

"But the apartment is only temporary," she had argued. "When you get where you belong in the business world, Rod dear, you'll have a house, but it must be in a more exclusive neighborhood than this. And we need a real dining room."

Rod thought it would be cozy to have a table in the living room. "Right before the fireplace, and a nice cheery log fire going."

But they didn't build. And now Bertie Lou enshrined it in her memory. It was the temple of might-have-been.

"See where it says 'small payment down and balance like rent?'" she pointed out to Bessie, who leaned over the bed and studied the advertisements with her.

"Gee, what a sweet little home!" Bessie exclaimed over the picture in the middle of the page. "Is that the one you want?"

"No, but it's the same style. I'm afraid the one I'd like to have is sold, but I'm going to ask the company to build me another one just like it."

Two weeks later she made the request. Bessie had come for her and driven her out to Moonfields. "But what on earth you want out here in the prairie is a mystery to me," he grumbled. Bertie Lou did not tell him until they were in the company's office. Then he heard it indirectly.

He stared at her in amazement as she explained what she wanted. Yes, the house could be duplicated. Exactly? Exactly! But several blocks away from the original, of course. Moonfields had grown rapidly.

"How long will it take you to build it? And how much is your down payment?" Bertie Lou sounded very businesslike, but inwardly she was so excited she could hardly keep from showing it in her manner.

What if the down payment was more than the money she had? The question of future payments she had solved by planning to rent the property. Her joy in it did not extend beyond the thought of ownership—to live in it would be to turn it into a pillory, where escape from her memories would be impossible.

Marco stood by, completely disinterested, while she talked over details and terms and finally signed her name on several papers, one of which was a check for $1,500.

The initial payment required by the company was less, but Bertie Lou had to pay all of Rod's $2,000 into the house. Five hundred of it she figured she might need for extra expenses, and the things a new house always required. She had not forgotten her father's shop talk, and she was a carpenter's daughter she knew something of building. Her house was going to be built right.

She knew more about marriage today. She'd have a greater chance, if not for the bliss she had known with Rod, at least for a better understanding with the man she married.

And if she didn't marry? Years and years in a rooming house or a return to her home in Wayville. Rod and Lila would come back, too. Bertie Lou was sure of that. Lila would make him. Lila would ride her triumph like a high steed. Bertie Lou could feel herself being trampled.

She moaned softly and Marco glanced at her in alarm. "Marco," she whispered, "Marco, I'll do it; I'll marry you."

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton © 1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Don't laugh at "vitamins"! If you want your children to have good teeth, health tissues, organs that function properly, in other words the clean bill of health known as a "good constitution," you will get right down to work and look into this ubiquitous but necessary word, instead of ridiculing it or ignoring it.

A few general suggestions may help busy mothers who have little time for official figures.

There are two or three kinds of vitamins. Some are found in fats, and some are found in vegetables. Needless to say, they are contained largely in milk.

If you wish your child to have good teeth, see that he has plenty of milk and the green vegetable diet so often recommended. Lettuce may be used either cooked or raw or bought in cans. They lose something in home cooking. Carrots may be used either way, but are, of course, more appetizing cooked. String beans, spinach, asparagus and peas should be cooked, the water in which they are boiled used in the soup.

I should give a child at least three of these vegetables a day and see that he eats them. Vegetable soup containing all of them should be a frequent visitor at meals. The minerals contained in them are dissolved into the water when cooked and this must never be wasted.

A growing child should have enough milk either in foods or plain to make up about a quart each day.

Many mothers have the idea that a diet of cereals, meat, potatoes, bread, butter, and jelly are all that a child needs.

He does need those things, particularly the butter and meat fats. The others provide necessary bulk to the food and needed starches, but they are not sufficient in themselves for a complete diet.

Fruit is also necessary and helps to regulate elimination. Eggs are almost pure albumen and are known as "blood makers."

NEW WALL PAPERS WILL TRANSFORM DRAB AND CHEERLESS ROOMS

Whether we want the walls to be background or picture there is now the paper for them. For the living room, the walls usually should be distinctly a background. Yet there are times when a striped paper will raise a ceiling that is too low and give great dignity to a room that was meaningless before. With simple cottage furniture like Early American and French Provincial, a lovely toile paper is perfect for the living room. The alloverness of the toile gives depth and warmth to a room.

In the formal dining room we may use a plain or decorative paper just as we choose. The decorative possibilities of handsome space that increase the sense of space in a room are limitless. There are very inexpensive ones that the extremely beautiful in design and color. The choice handpainted ones of lovely old world scenes, as well as of colonial America, are of course quite expensive, but they are well worth the cost.

Another type of scenic shows a shadowy design repeated over and over again. Sometimes these come in tones of one color only, sometimes there are several colors in the charming and beautiful designs for halls and dining rooms. Colonial hallways simply cry out for such a paper.

Not every sun room, in spite of its name, gets much sun or out-of-doors. For the city sun room, high up from the street, why not bring in the out-of-doors with a bright foliage paper? With plain draperies at the windows, the effect would be very different from the usual sun room scheme.

In the breakfast room there are few limits to the freshening and toning up paper can do. If the calendar is long enough we really should have a week devoted to "More Brightness and Cheer in the Breakfast Room." Paint the woodwork to harmonize with the paper and don't be afraid of a rather unusual color. Maybe the scheme will call for blue woodwork, for green or even for red. The furniture, too, should harmonize.

And then the bathrooms! Here maybe some of us will have a slight argument with our old dictator, "It isn't practical." To such I recommend the tonic effect of really bright colors. It is splendid fun, and the bathrooms are a good place to begin. So let us here-by resolve that not another week are we going to endure dead, colorless bathrooms!

Painings with certain preparations will make paper washable.

Shelac is often used, but the yellow in it changes the color of the paper too much, and the shelac does not always go on easily and satisfactorily. So I recommend the use of a specially prepared transparent size for the first coat, finished off with a coat of transparent varnish. This really changes the original color of the paper very little. I suggest that you paste a piece of the paper to a strip of heavy cardboard and experiment with the size and the varnish before attempting a room.

Live With a Sample
Before buying any paper, take a generous sample home, pin it up and live with it both by day and by night. Sometimes a paper that is perfectly beautiful in the daytime is utterly dead at night. Then try to imagine the effect of the whole room covered. This is hard for most people. Many times a paper that looks very well in a small piece is very disappointing in the room. I often buy a whole roll for a sample when I cannot be sure whether I really want the paper or not. Especially with an expensive paper this is a real economy.

In our bedrooms there is no limit to the charming and beautiful effects we can get through flowered paper. In fact it is literally true that a gay cheerful paper can make a room. Such a room needs only the simplest furniture and organdie curtains at the window.

RABALM QUICKLY RELIEVED MY SUNBURN SUFFERING

"Last week-end we went down to the shore. We spent practically all day in bathing suits, and as we were not used to it, you can imagine the terrible sunburn we got. By the time we got home late Sunday night, we were in agony—faces, shoulders, neck, arms and legs, red and almost raw, and so tender to touch that there was agony. We just dove for the Rabalm jar, and believe me, we were never more grateful for anything in our lives. It seemed to help the moment it touched the skin. It was so soothing that long before morning we were able to get some sleep, and now, three days later, my skin is in a normal condition again."

Rabalm requires no painful rubbing in. Just smooth on lightly. Quickly relieves pain and restores skin to normal condition. Will not stain linen. Pleasantly fragrant. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

HOW TO USE COD LIVER OIL AND MINERAL OIL TO BEST EFFECT.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

To the average person an oil is an oil, except when he puts it in his automobile, on the sewing machine or in the oil heater; then he is careful to select an oil that will not gum the works and which the manufacturer of the device says is a proper one for the purpose.

There are all sorts of oils used in the human body in the prevention and control of disease. The most conspicuous examples are cod liver oil and mineral oil. The difference may be emphasized by pointing out that the cod liver oil provides essential nutrients, substances for life, whereas the mineral oil is a lubricating oil.

Cod liver oil is used today primarily for its content of vitamins A and D. The vitamin values can be measured by testing the oil on the white rat. It can be shown whether or not the oil contains a sufficient amount of vitamin D to protect the rat against rickets or a sufficient amount of vitamin A to protect against a vitamin A deficiency.

Cod liver oil does not tend to constipate. Indeed, it is the tendency of most oils to be slightly laxative. Castor oil is distinctly a purgative oil which gets its effects by the irritative action of its constituents.

Mineral oils are not laxative, since they do not irritate the bowels and are not actually absorbed into the body. They produce their effects by mingling with the food and by lubricating the intestinal tract. The amount of oil to be taken therefore depends on the state of the bowel at the time the oil is taken, the amount of food that may have been eaten, and other factors definitely related to the individual concerned.

If a person has been taking strong cathartics, it is unlikely that dose of mineral oil will secure a result. If, however, he discontinues the cathartics for a few days and then takes the mineral oil, having at the same time used a suitable diet of fresh fruits, cereals and fresh leafy vegetables, he will probably aid his intestines to a proper condition.

Judd Gray's name is almost forgotten. It may be really necessary to recall him to you as the corset salesman who, with Ruth Synder, helped murder Albert Synder, Ruth's husband and who, with her, paid the penalty in the electric chair some months ago.

Now, from the grave, Judd Gray speaks. The story of his life, claimed to have been written by himself during the long weeks in Sing Sing's death house, is about to be published. It is press-agent not so much as the story of his life as the crime as the reason for things.

It's too bad to revive Judd Gray, but if he himself really wrote the story and if he dared to be real in those final moments, the book may have more than just a morbid appeal. All of us would like to know why any of us are what we are; if the book means anything at all it will probably be the universal realization it gives of how easy it would be for anyone to be a Judd Gray or a Ruth Synder. Circumstances make us all.

DIVORCE SUICIDES.
A certain woman who had gone to Reno for a divorce was recalled the other day by news of the suicide of her husband. This is not at all new. Court officials say that a rather large percentage of filed divorce cases are followed by the suicide of one or the other. One wonders if it's revenge, retaliation, a spirit of "I'll show you" that inspires these suicides, or a real belief that life without the other party is a mess. Probably the latter. There are a finite number of human beings who believe they can neither live with or without some one person.

ROYAL BLOOD BURNS.
King Boris of Bulgaria and his sister, the Princess Eudoxia, were burned when fighting forest fires about the castle. There is rarely any real reason for those of the royal blood to take pieces of personal bodily injury. One wonders if despite burns and pains the King and princess didn't relish this unnecessary tussle with no more equipment than plain human strength, no more nor no less than that of the humblest subject.

The famous old house in which Henry W. Longfellow wrote "The Old Clock on the Stairs" has been appropriated for a school site. It may be the grandest here, but why not? What does Longfellow mean to us today, even those who are old? He sings a classical, theoretical song that no more touches human lives, these days than the song of Beowulf. Sometimes one becomes a bit resentful at the garlands of glory hung on the great of the past when the great of today go by unseen and unsung.

LADIES MUST LIVE.
A Denver girl must have at least $65 a month in order to live, according to a recent estimate made by the state Y. W. C. A. They allow her $34 a month for room and food, $18 for clothes and $10 for incidentals which must include care fare, recreation, medical and dental expenses, etc. One can only laugh! Any budget which lumps so much under "incidentals" is not worth much.

POLICE COURT

David Robbins of Oakland street, 20 years old, was before the town court this morning on the charge of intoxication and breach of the peace. He was placed under arrest by Officer John Cavagnaro shortly after seven o'clock last evening on complaint of George Dodson of Talcottville. Young Robbins was in the Lydell & Poulis Needle shop on the second floor of the Carlyle-Johnson factory when Dodson was passing, and began using vile language to him. Dodson complained to the officer who found him on Main street near Hilliard and placed him under arrest. Robbins is not employed at the needle shop but was loitering around while some of the employees were working over-time.

This morning in court he pleaded guilty. It was his second appearance in the police court in less than five weeks. The first time was July 6 when he was arrested for intoxication. Judge Johnson at that time gave him a chance to make good and suspended judgment. This time he found him guilty and imposed a fine of $10 for intoxication and $15 for breach of the peace. LOSES 300 PHEASANTS IN MYSTERIOUS MANNER

Young Feathered Stock Disappears Nightly From Pens of August Senkbell.

August Senkbell, well known Manchester pheasant breeder, a little more than a week ago had at his farm on South Main street, near the Manchester Country Club, something more than 350 young pheasants, for most of which he had orders from the State Board of Fisheries and Game or from private clubs. Today he has about fifty or sixty, and has had to cancel his deliveries. Some three hundred birds, of an average value of at least $3 each, have disappeared without trace.

Whatever happened to the young pheasants came to pass during the night. Every morning last week when Mr. Senkbell or his son went to the pheasant pens, which are big wire enclosures with seven foot walls of meshed metal, the number of birds would be fewer than the evening before.

There was no sign either in the pens or anywhere in the round-about region of pheasant feathers or any remains of dead birds. The stock had merely disappeared.

Under any ordinary circumstances young pheasants from six to twelve weeks old, such as those kept by Mr. Senkbell, will not fly a seven foot wire fence.

Some enemy of the birds apparently has been visiting the pens nightly and creating such a panic among them as to drive a large number of the young pheasants to high and long flights. It may have been owls, Mr. Senkbell says, or it may have been foxes, or both working together. He does not profess to know with any certainty. He only knows that he is out about nine hundred dollars' worth of perfectly fine young game stock. He has searched the surrounding country for long distances without finding a pheasant.

Last year he lost about 500 birds with disease. This year there has been no disease at all.

Lake Balkal, in Siberia, is 4,500 feet deep.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

HAPPY THOUGHTS After all, there aren't many thoughts happier than the thought that comes to the housewife of just the right thing for the impending day's meals. It's the thought that dispels that ever-recurring nagging little worry in the back of the mind—the everlasting problem of "what to get."

Pinehurst suggests as a happy thought today, in view of the much more bracing weather of the last two or three days, that this is an excellent time to turn from beef—which is very high in price—to pork. We have a fresh shipment of very high quality pork, just in. If you ever saw any nicer you have something on us.

The veal is excellent, too—roasting cuts, chops or cutlets. A breaded cutlet is always timely. And, of course, lamb. Everybody wants a roast of lamb or some juicy chops every so often, anyhow.

Tomatoes, the finer late varieties, are coming in daily—firm, solid, fully ripened—and lower in price. And we have a lot of the nicest yellow corn that ever tempted the palate—from Fish of North Elm street.

York State lettuce in firm, hard, flavored heads—perfect lettuce—is here now. Try it with Thousand Island Dressing or Italian Mayonnaise.

Remember, summer or winter, deliveries begin at 8 in the morning—earlier if you express the wish.

Store closes at noon tomorrow. Phone two thousand.
