

CAMPAIGN ON AS NOMINEE STARTS TRIP

Hoover Ends Vacation To- day to Take Up Serious Business of Running for the Presidency.

Enroute With Hoover to Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—Ending a political vacation to take up the serious business of running for the presidency, Herbert Hoover was on his way back to Washington today to direct his own campaign.

The Republican nominee let it be known, as he left his Stanford University home, that he intends to seek the advice of all groups within the Republican party but that on important matters, he will make his own decisions. He has conducted his campaign thus far on that basis and he will continue it on the same lines. He has determined upon a "clean" campaign, devoid of personalities and free of demagoguery.

Specific Issues

Hoover placed a list of specific issues before the people in his acceptance speech. He gave a detailed explanation of his farm relief program and he discussed prohibition at some length. On some other issues, he touched but lightly due to the lack of time. These he will explain at greater length in future speeches but each speech he makes will have some definite purpose in view. He has turned down all suggestions of "barnstorming" tours and expressed a personal preference to make but four set addresses, after his scheduled farm program speech in West Branch, Iowa, on August 21.

Hoover announced he would discuss "the relation of our government to public utilities and railroads" at some future date. This may be one of the important issues of the campaign as it involves disposition of Muscle Shoals, the Boulder Dam project, the so-called "Power Trust" now under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission, and the development of many inland water ways. It is the only major issue upon which Hoover has not yet announced a definite policy.

Other subjects which the nominee said he would discuss after getting back east, were the development of waterways and highways, conservation of natural resources, foreign trade and merchant marine, improved administration of the criminal code, aviation and governmental economy. Each of these subjects has its particular following

WEATHER HALTS FLIGHT TO SWEDEN

First Leg of Journey Made Successfully By Illinois Aviators.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17.—According to advices received here today from Cochrane, Ont., Bert Hassell and his co-pilot, Parker Cramer, have postponed the next leg of their flight from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden, because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Hassell stated it had rained steadily during the night and that thunderstorms threatened the trip to Greenland from Cochrane which would have been attempted today. Tentative plans are now to hop off tomorrow but if the weather conditions do not improve, Hassell said he might not attempt the flight for several days.

FIRST LEG SUCCESSFUL

Cochrane, Ont., Aug. 17.—Weather permitting, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer were to take off from here this morning in the monoplane Greater Rockford on the second leg of their flight from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden. The second leg will take the Illinois aviators to Mt. Evans, Greenland, a hop of 1,600 miles.

Indications were early today, however, that unfavorable weather reports would cause the postponement of the flight to Mt. Evans until tomorrow. The aviators made the 800 mile jump from Rockford to Cochrane in seven hours and 49 minutes. They left Rockford yesterday at 6:40 a. m. (Central Time) and arrived here at 2:29 p. m. (Canadian Time).

The Next Leg

A large part of the next flight will be made over open water. The route will carry the daring aviators over James Bay, southern extension

TIP TO WAITER BY FORD ONE $

Auto Magnate Surprises New England by His Liberality At Hotel.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 17.—John D. Rockefeller may tip with dimes, but Henry Ford gives a dollar bill—and new dollar bills at that.

The Detroit automobile magnate swinging around New England stopped at a local hotel for luncheon.

It was the hottest day of the year and Ralph Mele, the waiter, was somewhat surprised when Mr. Ford ordered a large glass of hot water along with a vegetable salad. The visitor drank the glass of hot water before partaking of the salad.

Mele had heard of the dime tips of millionaires and he received another surprise when, upon Mr. Ford's departure, he looked under the plate and found a crisp new dollar bill. The waiter today was thinking of having it framed as a souvenir.

Other than to say that he came here to "get a part for an engine," Mr. Ford refused to comment on his visit to Rhode Island.

SMITH TALKS PROHIBITION WITH WALSH

Candidate Holds Last of Political Conferences Before He Makes Acceptance Speech Next Week.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Governor Al Smith today was to wind up a week of conferences with Democratic dry leaders by having a heart-to-heart talk at the executive mansion with Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

This is expected to be the last political conference of major political importance which the governor will have before he formally accepts the presidential nomination on the east steps of the State Capitol next Wednesday night.

Just as he has done in the past few days with Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels of North Carolina and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, the governor is expected to go over his acceptance speech today with Senator Walsh, particularly as it deals with prohibition.

The governor is understood to have had some straight-from-the-shoulder talks with the southern dry leaders about prohibition, but they all left the executive mansion smiling. Neither the governor nor the southern chiefs would comment on what took place at the conferences, but there was a report that they had urged the nominee not to make prohibition the major issue in the coming campaign.

Admires Walsh

Because Governor Smith has a high regard for Senator Walsh's political sagacity, it is understood he will consult with the Montana leader about his campaign plans.

The governor, according to his confidants, has not yet made up his mind whether he ought to include the Pacific coast and some of the southern states in his campaign itinerary, and he plans to frankly ask Walsh for advice.

While the governor has refused to discuss his campaign plans, it can be stated on reliable authority that he has definitely abandoned his original plan of limiting his campaign to a dozen or fifteen radio speeches in the chief cities throughout the country. Once the campaign gets under way, the governor will be found making a great many short talks from the rear of his private car as well as mixing in the

SEC. KELLOGG LEAVES TO SIGN PEACE PACT

Sails for Paris Tomorrow—To Visit Ireland as Guest of Cosgrave.

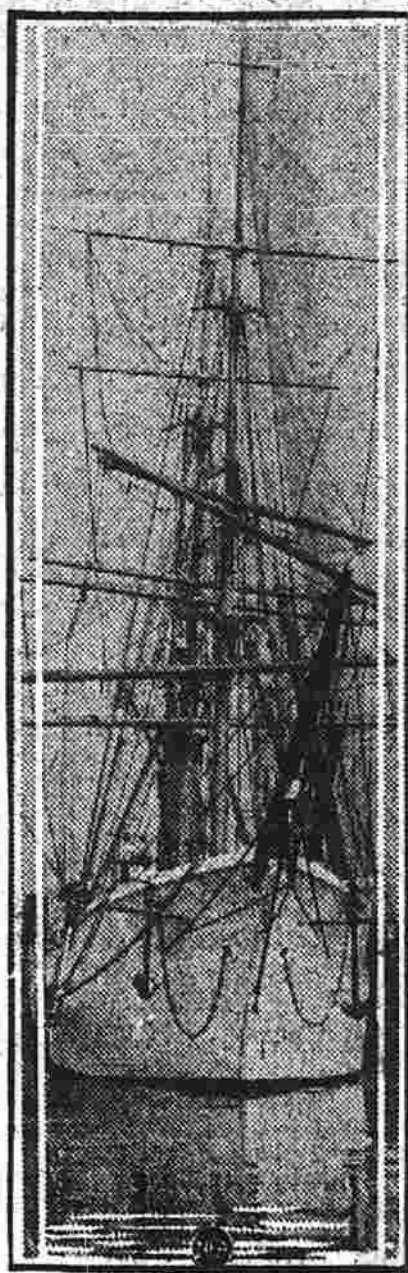

Washington, Aug. 17.—Secretary of State Kellogg leaves today for New York to sail tomorrow for France to sign the anti-war treaty. Fourteen nations will join with the United States as original signers, and several other countries have indicated they would adhere later.

Before returning, Kellogg will visit Ireland to repay the visit here of President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State. He will remain two days in Ireland.

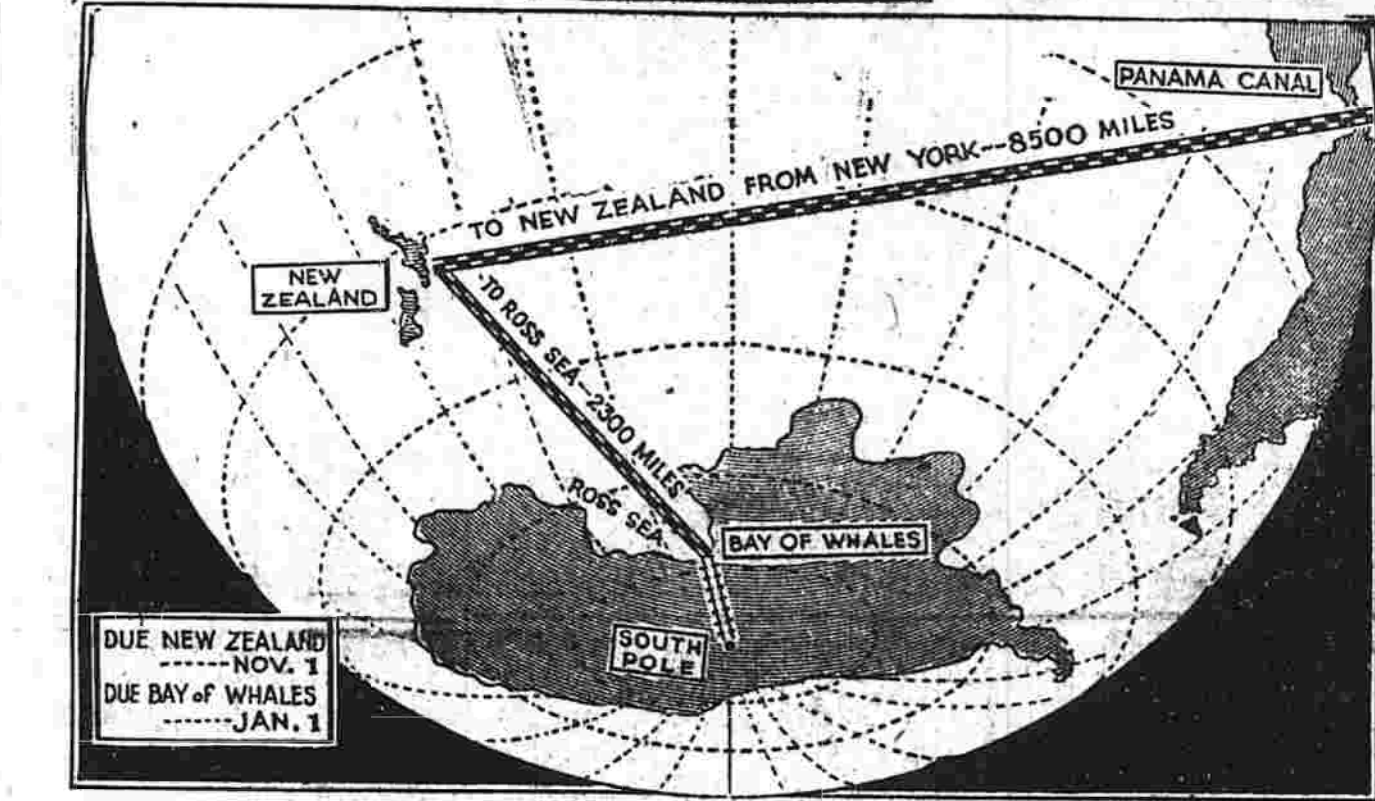

Kellogg's desk was cleared of all important problems with the signing of Arbitration and Conciliation treaties with Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

AS BYRD PREPARED TO START FOR SOUTH POLE

Here are three of the principal figures in the most expensive and carefully planned scientific expedition ever conceived—the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. Below is Commander Richard E. Byrd. In the center is his vessel, the City of New York. This sail-and-power boat has been remodeled for the heavy service it will encounter in the icy seas of the Antarctic. As the base ship for the expedition, it will be anchored in the Bay of Whales for the two years that Byrd and his men intend to explore South Polar regions. Captain Frederick C. Melville, skipper of the City of New York, is shown (right) at the wheel. The map below these pictures shows the party's route from the Panama Canal to New Zealand, thence to the Bay of Whales and the South Pole.

Tobacco Growers To Test Law For Carrying Help

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 17.—Tobacco growers of Tolland and Hartford counties today had a conference with state police officials and reached an agreement to start a test case to decide whether the plan of hiring trucks to carry workers into the tobacco fields is a violation of the state law. One of the several persons arrested this week by state police will be used to make the test in the courts but the individual has not yet been selected.

The tobacco growers say that they are not violating any law by having trucks carry the workers to and from settled communities. If the courts decide otherwise the truck owners must take out insurance and make other provisions. In any event the proposition of overloading is to be handled by the state police who say that their campaign has ended such practice.

TO PICK SEATON AS LEGION HEAD

Waterbury Man to Be Chosen Commander of State's Veterans' Association.

Middletown, Aug. 17.—Paige A. Seaton of Waterbury was today assured of being elected Connecticut department commander of the American Legion. Oliver B. Ellsworth of Portland, announced his withdrawal from the race for the office so as to prevent a contest. No other candidate is reported.

One of the resolutions urged by the Legion today was chiefly devoted to the report of the resolutions committee headed by Kenneth F. Cramer, of Wethersfield. The resolutions urge the state to erect a memorial in France to Connecticut's war dead; they commanded the management of the "I'll Home" for Soldiers at Noroton Heights; they ask Congress to enact the legion's flag code into a federal law; and they urge the War Department to a proper development of chemical warfare.

One of the resolutions urges the department of commerce officials to make a more useable census of the residents of the country who speak English.

The afternoon and evening today were devoted to conventions of the Forty and Eight and the Eight and Forty Auxiliaries of the Legion.

PRIEST IS DROWNED WITH FOUR OTHERS

His Clothes In Flames He Gives Absolution Before His Death.

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 17.—Blinded by fire, his clothes ablaze, a priest stood on his burning gasoline launch in Lake Lavigne, and, crucifix in hand, granted absolution to five others of his faith, and then plunged with them into the water, from which only one was to emerge a few minutes later.

The five who were drowned were: The Rev. Father J. B. Dubuc, Lavigne, parish priest; Miss Leonie Sylvestre, his sister, of Sturgeon Falls, and Mrs. Albert Lafreniere and her children Marc, 1 month old, and Claude, 3.

Albert Lafreniere barely had strength to reach a small island after Claude had slipped from his numb arms when close to shore. All the bodies with the exception of Miss Sylvestre had been recovered today.

Holding Child

Mrs. Lafreniere was clasping Marc to her breast, Albert Lafreniere clutched the other child in his arms and commenced to swim ashore. Father Dubuc, a powerful swimmer went to the aid of the two struggling women.

Three hundred yards away Albert Lafreniere could see, illuminated by the glare of the burning boat, a small island. When within 100 feet of the island his son slipped from his weakened arms and joined his mother and brother in death. Lafreniere managed to struggle ashore.

NOT EVERY MAN

Philadelphia.—With 6,000,000,000 brain cells, a man could learn 30,000 new things every day until the age of fifty, before all the cells were used up, according to Dr. Arthur Holmes of the University of Pennsylvania. Every man, according to the doctor, has that number of cells. "Few make use of them," he says.

UNEARTH PLOT TO FREE SING SING'S PRISONERS

Camel G. O. P. Emblem; Fish Is The Democrats

Northampton, Mass., Aug. 16.—Republican women of President Coolidge's "old home town" today tossed the far-famed G. O. P. elephant into the discard and adopted the camel as the party's emblem. Likewise, they replaced the Democratic donkey with a fish.

On the camel, they said, they hope to have Hoover ride to victory in the November presidential election.

The "Old Line" Republicans gasped with astonishment today when the Women's Republican Club opened headquarters and hung out a banner on which a camel took the place of the elephant. Under the camel was this inscription:

"He stands on his own feet; travels a great distance by his own power; and lives a long and useful life."

On the other end of the banner was a fish, used to replace the traditional Democratic donkey. Under the drawing of the member of the funny tribe was this inscription:

"He drifts with every current; gets nowhere; and is easily caught. He is worthless until dead."

Over all was the inscription: "Which Does America Want?"

DEMOCRATS PLAN BANK TO AID WEST'S FARMERS

Most Daring Scheme to Ap- peal for Votes Started in New York; 50 Millions on Loan for Farmers.

New York, Aug. 17.—Wall street was stirred today by apparently well-founded reports that the Democratic campaign managers are seriously considering one of the most daring plans of appeal for the farm vote ever suggested in American politics—a plan to organize a New York bank with $50,000,000 capital to extend easy credit to the agricultural regions for the marketing of the now maturing crops.

A. F. C. Elske, well known in the financial district for his connection with one of the largest insurance companies in the country, acknowledged today that "informal discussions" of such a plan had occurred.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and William F. Kenny, wealthy New York contractor who was the principal financial backer of the Smith "protection" campaign, are named in Wall street gossip as two of those interested in the preliminary discussions of the project.

Raskob declined to discuss the Wall street reports further than to affirm that a suggestion had been made to him by farm leaders early this week that wealthy friends of Gov. Smith league together in some plan to assist the farmers during the campaign.

This plan was originally presented to Raskob by Grey Silver, of Washington, D. C., formerly legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Such a move, Silver argued, would enable Democratic campaign speakers in the farm belt to point to actual steps in the direction of agricultural relief while the campaign was still in progress. Admittedly, Silver said, such a plan would have a tremendous political appeal, but the practical difficulties of its execution seemed insurmountable until the idea of launching a new bank was suggested. A number of banks have larger capital investments, but they represent mergers and pyramiding of years of profits rather than merely the original nest egg.

Fiske's Statement

"There has been some informal discussion concerning the organization of a large new bank," Fiske said. "No sum has been decided upon as the capital and surplus, although it is felt that if organized

SITUATION IN CHINA NOW MUCH IMPROVED

Lessening of Friction Noted in Today's Dispatches Sent Out by Japanese.

London, Aug. 17.—A lessening of the friction between Japan and China was indicated by an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokio today. It stated that China's reply to the recent Japanese note bearing upon some of the issues in dispute were used up, according to Dr. Arthur Holmes of the University of Pennsylvania. Every man, according to the doctor, has that number of cells. "Few make use of them," he says.

It is reported at Tokio that the Chinese communication does not touch the question of withdrawal of China's notice that the treaty with Japan has been abrogated. It is understood that Japan will not insist upon withdrawal of the Chinese notice.

The dispatch added there is a strong feeling that China is showing a sincere desire for an agreement and is gradually abandoning the attitude of hostility towards Japan.

Words Dropped in Hell's Kitchen Resorts by Des- peradoes, Bring Details to Light; Convicts Had Even Rehearsed to Bomb Walls of Famous Prison to Lib- erate All the Inmates.

New York, Aug. 17.—A desperate plot to bomb the greater outer wall of Sing Sing Prison and create a breach through which virtually the entire criminal personnel could have dashed to liberty, revealed for the first time today caused Warden Lewis E. Lawes to throw extra guards into the inclosure and redouble his watch tower vigilance.

The plot came out of the speak-easies and street resorts of Hell's Kitchen where cohorts of the reckless "Red" McKenna and Jimmy Nannery gang hold council. Wanton words, dropped by desperadoes in their cups, tipped off the plot and gave warning to the prison warden.

The plot called for one or more high powered bombs to be hurled against the wall from an automobile. Later it was decided to hurl it from a passing train, or, if this seemed inadvisable, to approach the prison from the water side in a rowboat or small motor boat preferably the latter to facilitate escape.

Had Arranged Time

It had been determined to make the attempt at some time when the prison guards were gathered largely in a single group. A baseball game would have presented an ideal opportunity, Warden Lawes admitted, and it is thought that some such time as this had been selected. Certainly the plotters were well aware of the prison routine and would have been able to time their attempt faultlessly.

Two men were the special object of the delivery party, it was said. Both were known to be associates of the McKenna gang, leadership of which passed into the hands of the cunning Nannery after Mike "Red" McKenna blew out his own brains when his sensational bomb break of two years ago in which Warden Peter Mellon was killed, was foiled.

Sent To Danmora

But the two men cheated their own pals. They became so unruly at Sing Sing, excited so much agitation and caused so much disturbance that they were sent to Danmora, the nightmare of all criminals. There the guards speak with the loaded ends of nightsticks and there the men, who are spured to learn the value of money, apparently the grapevine had not retailed the information to the plotters that their pals had "gone up state."

If it had, it had not lessened their desire to bomb the prison. Perhaps this was the spell of desperate adventure that has spurred them on. Whatever it was, the plot went on apace and "rehearsals" of the plan actually have been started.

Dangerous Men

Nannery was aided in the plot by Edward Ryan, who escaped from Sing Sing with him two months ago in a sensational delivery that resulted in the dismissal of a gate keeper and a general shake-up among the guards and keepers. Both Nannery and Ryan were known as dangerous characters. Warden Lawes said today, who would not be deterred even by death, in their desperate bid for wholesale law monkey.

The north watch tower adjacent to the New York Central railroad tracks was to have been the particular target of the bombers. The tower is parallel with the main entrance gate to the prison. Hunter street is the public thoroughfare that leads to the prison. The road is on an elevation above the watch tower and about ten yards away.

An guard are on duty beyond the main gate. It would be comparatively easy to hurl a high powered bomb capable of demolishing the tower and wall, thus offering an opening for escape for those already cognizant of the plan and others, whom might avail themselves of the opportunity.

crowds which always greet a presidential candidate's train.

Picture Campaign

There are indications now that once Smith gets into the swing of the battle he will conduct one of the most picturesque campaigns that the country ever has witnessed. The governor's close friends say he can be counted upon to carry the battle right to his Republican opponents' doorstep.

While the governor was busy preparing a reply to the attacks made on him by William Allen White, Kansas editor, and Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, New York, he found that a statement which he made had been characterized as an "unqualified lie," by Assemblyman Eberly Hutchinson, Republican chairman of the ways and means committee of the State Assembly.

Smith had charged that Hutchinson and Senator Charles J. Hewitt, chairman of the finance committee of the Senate, were withholding their approval of an allotment of Long Island park funds in an effort to "obstruct" the park program.

It is expected that after Smith completes his reply to Dr. Straton and White, he will have something

EXPECT SEN. CURTIS TO VISIT CONNECTICUT

Vice-Presidential Candidate Is Invited to Attend Outing of New Britain Club.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 17.—Senator Charles Curtis, Republican candidate for vice-president, may come into Connecticut next month to attend the annual outing of the New Britain Third Ward Republican Club at Lake Compounce. Ernest E. Rogers, state treasurer, who will represent Connecticut at the formal ceremonies tomorrow when Senator Curtis is notified, has the invitation to deliver to the senator.

Donald L. Bartlett, head of the New Britain organization, asked J. Henry Roraback, national committee man for Connecticut, to invite Senator Curtis, and Mr. Roraback in turn asked Mr. Rogers to present the invitation to the senator.

The New Britain club for years has had the honor of opening campaigns in Connecticut, and the coming outing, on Saturday, September 29, is expected to start Connecticut Republicans on the road for campaigning.

HERE'S A NEW MOVIE HERO! GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

By GENE COHN.

New York, July.—The film discovery of the season is, admittedly, George Bernard Shaw. Nothing that Hollywood has produced in many a day can approximate England's literary bad boy, either as a comedian or a character portrayer.

What is more important, Shaw sets a precedent for national and international celebrities. Every president, premier, presidential candidate and Fourth-of-July orator would do well to study the 15-minute Movietone sketch with which Shaw introduces himself to America.

First—he does not take himself seriously; second—he projects his personality and sense of the comic as few screen actors can; third—he put originality, and even a touch of satire into his monologue.

The Talkies Triumph.

In this sort of enterprise, it seems to me, lies the triumph of the talking pictures. When world figures can thus be captured and held throughout time, the films are contributing something of real value. Here one can find a hint of what the future of the "talkies" may hold. Whatever their value as entertainment, their worth to the records of time is something to think about.

For instance, on the same program with Shaw there is a newsreel of a Schubert festival in Vienna, and one hears a symphony being played.

By contrast, the same program also has a typical Hollywood movie, "The Red Dancer," which gives Hollywood's concept of how a Russian grand duke and a peasant would behave just before and during the revolution. Here, again, one finds how far ahead the films have gone mechanically and artistically, and how far behind they lag spiritually and creatively. Direction and camera work are exceptional and there is an extraordinary scene of a revolt-stirred mob.

All this tacked to the same old story and titles that are best forgotten; to say nothing of a production which allows its ladies of the revolution period to go about in knee-length skirts and projects into the Moscow Art Theater a chorus which Lee and Jake Shubert would have little trouble recognizing, but which Moscow would find a bit perplexing. These chorines are visioned dancing steps of day-before-yesterday while a revolution of a dozen years back surges outside. It's pretty terrible. Particularly after the magnificent "The Fall of St. Petersburg," which was made in Russia by the Soviet government.

This is a masterpiece. But there are promises of happier days. There is George Bernard Shaw—and I wonder what he would do if he walked into the theater and saw himself on the screen with the feature picture!

He feigns surprise at being caught by the camera; he wonders what he should do about it; he hastens to assure the American public that, while they have never seen him, he's a pretty pleasant old cuss; he proceeds to prove it.

Copy! he hitches behind his hands and comes out with a grin; he gives an imitation of Mussolini beelining his dictatorial brows for the newsmen; he demonstrates how to smile for the camera and explains that, however, terrible a person he may have seemed from his writings, he's a most gentle and affable sort. And proves it.

A further hint of what the "talkies" will bring to the screen is given in the first Movietone "short sketch" called "The Family Picnic." Here it is possible to note how far beyond the vaudeville skit the talking films can go. Not only can the sketch idea be put over, but it can be moved about; the family car can talk, the birds can twitter and the youngsters can shout for sandwiches. Truly the "talkies" may force the movies to improve.

MAN STEALS $75,000 TO SPEND ON FAMILY

Wife Surprised as Husband is Arrested After Return From His Vacation.

New York, Aug. 17.—Walter B. Whiteford, cashier for D. C. Heath and Co., publishers, today in police headquarters told how he had stolen from $50,000 to $75,000 in the last six years and had spent all the money on his family or had turned it over to his wife.

Whiteford was arrested as he returned with his wife and daughter, 14, from a vacation trip to the Pacific coast. Mrs. Whiteford was dumbfounded by the arrest and confession and said she believed her husband to be making a large salary as no luxury had been denied by him, although six years ago she had laughed at him when he told her he was getting only $60 a week from his job. It was after that the thefts through raising of checks began.

Mrs. Whiteford turned over $13,000 she had saved from her husband's "income" and gave up a week-end new sedan. Another beautiful daughter attended a leading private school and is now at an exclusive camp for girls, it was said.

FIRE IN TOWN LOCK-UP STIRS WEST HARTFORD

Prisoner Throws Cigarette on Top of Locker in Cell—No One Hurt.

West Hartford, Conn., Aug. 17.—Fire in the town lock up here caused excitement today without doing material damage.

The fire occurred in the cell occupied by one Edward Sutton, being held for federal authorities as an army deserter. Police say Sutton tossed a cigarette butt on top of a locker in his cell and so started a fire. An unconfirmed report had it that Sutton set fire to the cell in an effort to escape.

"Not a chance," said the police in reply to a question as to this phase of the episode.

Bridgeport, Aug. 17.—Donald Campbell, a local boy, today filed suit in Superior Court, through his father, against Lieut. Earl W. Fleet, of Hartford, asking $7,500 damages for injuries received near Lordship park on July 15, 1927. The writ declares that Fleet flew so close to the boy, who was seated on a truck, that the air from the plane's propellers caused the boy to fall to the ground and break an arm.

"Does your husband lie awake at night?"

"Yes, and he tells them in his sleep, too."—Tit-Bits.

SHE'S ON TO HIM

Financial circles do not question the ability of Gov. Smith's friends to get together $50,000,000 capital in short order once the plan is definitely approved. There is doubt, however, among practical politicians of both parties, as to the political soundness of the idea. One important Democratic leader, for example, pointed out that while he knew nothing of the project, it ap-

BEAUTIFUL GIRLS IN STATE PICTURES

Two Big Features to Be Shown Tomorrow—"Police Reporter" Begins Tomorrow.

With all attempts to glorify the American girl on the screen having proved to be futile in the past, Fox Films has stepped out without any sense of trumpet and is said to have done that very thing as one of the many high lights in the production, "None But the Brave," directed by Albert Ray which is coming to the State theatre Saturday only.

One important sequence of the production called for a bathing beauty parade. Fifty-eight real bathing beauties were needed and from a field of thousands of the leading beauties of Hollywood the forty-eight were selected after arduous eliminations and then the sifting process came whereby an even dozen, who rightly could be called the most nearly perfect specimens of feminine pulchritude, were selected to act as entries in the international pageant, gone, by the way, in Technicolor.

The twelve selected from several thousand were Sally Phipps, Eleanor Black, Jacqueline Wells, Edna Sumida, Leota Winter, Ada Williams, Lola Salvi, Irene Murray, Virginia Parett, Dora Dore, Marguerite Andrus and Betty Lorraine.

Now comes a new edition to the hall of fame in the person of beautiful Natalie Kingston, who is making her debut as a Western heroine opposite Tom Mix in his latest thriller for Fox Films, which begins an engagement of one day at the State theatre, beginning Saturday.

Miss Kingston at one time was featured at the New York Winter Garden as premier danseuse at the same time that little Nancy Carroll was holding forth on that stage. Her rise in pictures is due to careful training and an unflinching ambition to succeed.

Chapter One of "The Police Reporter" will start tomorrow.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hanna of Hollister street were given a party in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary. The guests were the employees of Thomas Smith's grocery store and other friends. A mock marriage was performed, with Harold McLagen as minister, Rudolph Heck the groom and Fred Krahn the blushing bride.

Refreshments were served after the mock marriage. Later in the evening Mrs. Hanna entertained with a clog dance for which she is noted. Fred Sankey played several harmonica solos. Francis Keefe gave several recitations. The outstanding event of the evening was the acrobatic dance which was given by Harold McLagen and Francis Keefe.

The guests presented Mr. and Mrs. Hanna with a handsome set of dishes which Mark Hanna accepted with a fitting speech.

Mr. Anderson, who was formerly connected with the United States Revenue office in Hartford, will continue with his insurance work. The New York agency for this part of the state was formerly cared for by Charles Heckman of this town, who recently left for California.

Miss Henrietta Kanehl of Center street left today for New London to attend the wedding tomorrow afternoon of a former classmate at Connecticut College, Miss Hazel Pondellon and Ensign John H. Purcell, at the home of the bride's parents. It will be a naval wedding and a large number of guests have been invited. Turney's Name "Gene" Recalls "Bobby" Hart

When Gene Turney left New York last night for his trip to Europe he was registered under the name of Gene Turney and not James Joseph Turney, his correct name, for it is as Gene he will always be best known. This recalls the changes of a name from "Gene" to "Bobby" that took place in the old roller polo days in this state.

Bobby Hart, known in the sporting world as a big show umpire and baseball player and now holding an indicator in the Western Association, was baptized Eugene Hart when he was a boy in Kensington, Conn., and was called by that name all through his younger days. He was "Gene" Hart when he first broke into the professional ranks as a roller polo player. He played with the Wallingford team in the old state league when Manchester, Rockville, New Britain, Hartford and Middletown formed the circuit, the local games being played in the old armory on Wells street.

Hart was a second rush on the Wallingford team and later, when that team broke up, he went to Rockville and played with the Rockville team. The Rockville and Manchester teams were the last to leave the league and as a result they played often.

Schaffer, first rush on the Manchester team, went to Hartford in the national league of Roller Polo Players and Hart was adopted as a member of the New Britain team, league leaders. The captain of the team was Fred Jean, still playing polo.

Tom Burgess, goal for the New Britain team now steward of the Elks club in Albany, N. Y., in a fanmail, has about polo in Albany told the writer this story.

"When Hart came to the New Britain team he was sent in as a feeder for Fred Jean, who could hit the ball harder than any man who traveled on skates with the possible exception of Cofer, the Hartford captain at that time.

"There was no time to work out signals and when the ball was to be passed after a man made a get-away it would be done so by calling 'Jean, Jean' was mistaken for 'Gene, Gene' often so it was decided that to avoid confusion Hart would change his name and he was called 'Bobby'. That's how he happened to have his first name changed and it stuck to him ever since. In baseball when he played the outfield in the old Connecticut League and as a baseball umpire he was known as Bobby Hart and only those who knew him when he was a young fellow remember his correct name as Eugene."

Activity in Local Developments Keep Him Busy All Season.

Edward J. Holl, one of Manchester's well known real estate men, has had one of the best seasons since he has been in business. The Bluefields Addition occupying what was the site of Cheney Brothers, is an excellent piece of property requiring very little grading to make it one large beautiful lot. Joseph Hublard, mason contractor, is just completing a $12,000 sidewalk and curb contract in this tract. The town of Manchester has completed work on McKee street and Hartford Road, which streets bound the tract on the west and south. The work consists of macadamizing the extra strip of land needed to make the streets the required city width.

Mr. Holl reports the recent sale of a lot on McKee street in Bluefields Addition to John Struff. A house is to be built on the lot for him by the E. J. Holl Building Service. A building lot has also been sold in Bluefields Addition on McKee street to Bursack Brothers of Hartford Road. It is understood that a building for business purposes is to be erected on this lot.

George Smith has purchased a lot at the corner of Lancaster Road and Wellington Road. The E. J. Holl Building Service is building an English type dwelling for him there. The E. J. Holl Building Service is erecting an American Colonial house for John Carroll of Hartford, who has purchased a lot on Autumn street in Hollywood. Mr. and Mrs. August Wittkowski have purchased a lot on Benton street in Greenacres and a home is being built for them by the E. J. Holl Building Service.

The E. J. Holl Building Service has just completed a seven room American type house for Franklin C. Dexter on a lot on Wellington Road in Hollywood. David Wilson's new house which was built by the E. J. Holl Building Service has just been finished on Wellington Road. A lot has been sold and a Colonial type house has just been started on Wellington Road by the E. J. HOOPER NO FANATIC

Declarations that Herbert Hoover is a fanatical bone dry, made by press association dispatches, need to be subjected to the light of the reader's intelligence.

This was in defense of his refusal to close the breweries in order to conserve grain.

That is exactly what prohibition has done. The Volstead act, by establishing an entirely arbitrary standard of what constitutes "intoxicating" liquor has practically stopped brewing and put a premium on illicit distilling and conversion.

When Mr. Hoover declares against "nullification by indifference" it does not mean that the Volstead act cannot be amended without nullifying the constitution.

That is the Smith plan of abandoning any federal standard of intoxicating content and leaving it up to the states to establish such a standard which would surely result, in some dripping wet states, in laws making 40 per cent whiskey "non-intoxicating."

TOGGING THE ISSUE Much attention will be directed to the outcome of the campaign of the State Police against the system of transporting tobacco workers, many of them children, between the towns and the plantations in trucks which are sometimes owned by the tobacco farmers and sometimes by transport contractors.

The activity of the police is, of course, the direct result of the recent tragedy on the Talcottville-Rockville road when three young boys were killed when a heavily laden truck overturned and burned.

In fact, it would almost seem as if, in their anxiety to make up for past omissions, the State Police may be precipitating a new situation not altogether desirable.

of the police to enforce safety measures of this sort would have been overstrained and nothing but applause would have greeted it.

Whether there is any wisdom in complicating this simple duty with a campaign conducted on technical grounds and bringing up well nigh abstract legalistic questions is a subject on which there may well be differences of opinion.

SMITHS-FOR-HOOPER The bizarre theory once entertained, that if a man named Smith were ever named for President of the United States and were only strong enough to hold his party vote the hordes of his clan would be enough to elect him, is getting something of a whack on the button in Queens county, New York.

COLORED VOTE Every Presidential election year, along about this time, we hear about large gatherings of disgruntled northern Negro voters who have resolved that the time has come to quit the Republican party and go over to the Democrats.

same state the other day yielded up his leadership, broken in health, though he too is a young man.

Politics as it is played nowadays is not a short-season business with long and enjoyable vacations. One who leads must work—in the case of such great states as New York he must work day and night, week in and week out.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Evening Herald, stamped, addressed, large envelope to reply.

WHEN SHOULD WE USE MILK? Milk forms about as perfect a food as can be devised for infants up to about two years of age.

Curdling is the first process of the digestion of milk, and the smaller the curds the more readily the milk is digested.

It is better not to take milk between meals or with regular meals but to use it as an entire meal by itself, with either the acid fruits or raw non-starchy vegetables.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The Kellogg multilateral anti-war treaty, while attacked in some foreign quarters as more likely to promote peace than to discourage it, is nevertheless a source of hope to most of the American peace societies.

They are willing to cheer for the moment and attempt later to use the treaty as the basis for more definite and concrete measures against war.

Secretary Kellogg's own assurance that the original text of the treaty would stand alone and that his liberal interpretation of it were in no way a part of the pact and could not be considered as reservations, has, if it has not exactly cleared the air, at least quieted the fears of some peace movement leaders that the new covenant itself would leave a large gateway to war wide open.

It is naturally uppermost in the minds of the peace movement. The Irish branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom long since got on the job with a campaign to press upon the envoys to the Paris signing party the desirability of beginning to plan for disarmament at once.

Secretary Kellogg and all the other signers are consequently receiving petitions from the league, which holds forth in 25 nations, demanding worldwide disarmament.

All branches of the league promptly accepted the Irish suggestion. The league has 50,000 members and Jane Adams of Chicago is its international president.

Miss Dorothy Detzer, executive secretary of the American branch, has been panicking Mr. Kellogg and the State Department as often as anyone was shot in Nicaragua, but is now enthusiastic over the Kellogg treaty.

chinery. In all law, it is necessary to declare the law. Now we are going to know just what the attitude of the nations of the world is toward war.

Miss Detzer says peace sentiment is on the rise, she points to the course of the State Department in publishing a pamphlet explaining our policy and action in Nicaragua, prepared after many inquiries for light had been received from school pupils who couldn't understand what all the shooting was for.

"Elimination of war is inevitable and it may come in our own day," Miss Detzer says. "Meanwhile, we are willing to encourage all steps toward peace, big or little. We feel strongly and keenly about the terrible in Nicaragua. But when Mr. Kellogg gives us something like this peace treaty we are willing to regard it as an instrument of use in attaining the ultimate goal."

WHAT IS IMAGINATION? PROBLEM STILL BOTHERS COLLEGE AUTHORITIES.

Cleveland, Dr. Bertha M. Luckey, chief of the local public psychological clinic although she has made an intensive study of imagination declared that she has not yet discovered what it is. "The problem is to discover just what imagination is," Dr. Luckey asserted. "When we find it we will need to find some way to train it. "So far it would seem that education has contributed very little to imagination. Many of the great est writers of creative literature had very little formal schooling. Thomas Edison never went to college. "Imagination without order is merely fancy. But imagination that is directed, leads to progress. "People who succeed in life are people with imagination."

Mary Brian—Fears Guns No More

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Calif., — Wuxtra! Wuxtra!
Mary Brian, prominent screen star, has joined the staff of NEA Service and The Herald. Don't be alarmed, fans. She isn't going to desert the silver screen, nor is she going to mete out any punishment to a helpless typewriter. She merely is going to supervise the writing of one story—this story about herself.

Lots of Supervisors
You know Hollywood is infested with a supervisor complex. A couple of years ago a supervisor was unknown around here. But now everybody in the film village wants to supervise something—even if it's nothing more than the cranking of a worn out Ford.

Mary learned that we were going to write a story about her, and came plowing through the six feet (more or less) of paper scattered about our desk and announced that she was going to supervise the job.

Mary has been spending most of her time these days playing the part of a carnival sharpshooter in "Varsity" with Charles Rogers. She makes a very charming little sharpshooter too—as the accompanying picture will prove. It is more or less of a college story in which Mary meets young Rogers while playing in a small town near Princeton.

Straight Shooter
She just told me that she never had a gun in her hand until she started this picture. She was afraid of them. But now she handles those six shooters like a veteran. Every time she goes to the beach she has to stop at a shooting gallery to make sure that her aim is still good.

It really is a shame that Mary has been made out as the gaga dapper in so many of her films because she actually is quite a regular girl with her full share of intelligence. And she could divide her beauty with someone else and still have enough. (Shut up, Mary, nobody will know that you told me to say that.)

It is quite refreshing to run across someone like Mary occasionally in this town, that has made pain and powder famous. Although she has been in the racket for more than three years, she has still managed to escape that swelling of the head which so many of our actors and actresses suffer. She's just her own sweet, energetic self when not in front of the cameras. And she didn't tell me to say that.

FOREIGN TRADE IN NEW ENGLAND SHOWS INCREASE

Boston, Mass. — Foreign trade in New England states, with each of the six states showing substantial increases except Rhode Island, made a $4,751,587 gain in 1927 over the export of 1926, according to statistics compiled by the Department of Commerce. This represents a gain of 2.4 per cent.

Total exports in 1927 were valued at $197,392,406 as compared with $192,640,719 in 1926. The Department pointed out that these figures were based on through bill-of-lading. Therefore the value of New England-made goods shipped through non-New England ports, such as New York, is not included.

Connecticut Record
Of the six states Connecticut made the greatest individual gain in the value of her 1927 exports over 1926 surpassing her last year's figure of $46,750,487 by $2,150,248 or 4.6 per cent. Massachusetts also made a good gain of $2,001,831. All the other states with the exception of Rhode Island showed increases.

The principal commodity exported from Connecticut is typewriters, which in 1927 amounted to $5,414,097 or 11 per cent. of the total. The value of rubber tires exported was nearly twice that for 1926, and giving this commodity second place in importance. Other products showing increases in this state were metal working machinery and brass bronze products.

Massachusetts' principal export commodity is upper and patent leather valued together at $30,445,119 in 1927 or 17 per cent. of the total. A substantial gain over the 1926 figure was made in the quantity of patent upper leather exported. Cutlery and parts, rubber tires, and abrasives were other commodities which were exported from Massachusetts in larger amounts this year.

Important Exports
Rhode Island ranked third of the New England states in the value of commodities exported. Tools, textile machinery and cotton cloth formed a large part of her total exports in 1927. The leading products exported from Maine in 1927 were manufactures of wood, machinery, vehicles and parts, leather boots and shoes, the last named showing a large gain over the figure of 1926.

Knitting machinery and parts was the outstanding export commodity of New Hampshire. In 1927 it amounted to $1,907,996 or 27 per cent. of the total. The value of this commodity was $262,972 greater in 1927 than in 1926. Vermont's principal export commodity, metal working machinery, more than doubled its 1926 mark, reaching a total of $1,012,187 which amounts to practically 30 per cent. of her total exports.

MOVIE STAR'S HUSBAND SEEKS AN ANNULMENT

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 17.—Gill Boag and Gilda Gray have come to the forks in the road. Boag is to seek annulment of his marriage to the famed dancer and film actress. That was the announcement today of Attorney Milton M. Golden, who said he had received a telegram from Boag, now in Berlin, directing him to institute action in the Los Angeles courts at once. Attorney Golden states that the basis of the action would be charges of "prenuptial fraud."

Boag formerly was a New York cabaret proprietor and Miss Gray's manager. His wife is believed to be in London, where she is reported to have signed a British film contract.

Property valued at $1,000,000.

will be involved in the action, according to Attorney Golden. The couple were married in 1924. Rumors of marital difficulties between Boag and the dancer have been current for some time. It was reported several months ago that Boag and his wife had agreed on a property settlement.

WE'LL venture to guess that you and your colleagues waste less money on bootleg gasoline and oil than any other class of citizens. That's one bargain no doctor can afford.
After all, your car comes pretty close to being the most important equipment a medical man has to have. Sick patients want the doctor quick—a crippled machine is no excuse. Also, you know something about diet. You don't expect human beings to thrive on second-grade food—same way with an automobile.
You deal with reputable drug houses as a matter of course, and you safeguard your transportation by insisting on good oil and gas. It's easy to pull up at the pump that has a reputation behind it—easy, and a lot safer.
Many states now require motorists to pass eyesight tests before granting driving licenses. Anybody with half an eye can see that the Socony pump gets most of the traffic—and keeps it moving.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service, Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU and ROD BREYER are happily married, until LILA LOREE plots to separate them. She had once refused to marry Rod because she was poor. She meets and marries CYRUS LOREE and persuades him to aid Rod in business while she gains Bertie Lou's confidence by showering her with favors.

Gradually she arouses Rod's interest and faith in her while she plants seeds of doubt about his wife. When Bertie Lou discovers that they see each other secretly, she is heartbroken and flirts with young MARCO PALMER to retaliate.

Rod will not commit himself to Lila, although he and Bertie Lou have drifted far apart. Tired of her waiting game, Lila tells Rod she loves him and wants him to go away with her. He repudiates her disloyalty to her husband, and she taunts him by saying that his wife is out with Marco. Rod drives to the Palmer estate where he sees Marco and Bertie Lou in lounging attire and departs without learning that they were merely coming upstairs from the swimming pool.

Rod leaves Bertie Lou with no explanation, and she thinks that Lila has won. Both women try to find him without success. Bertie Lou obtains a position and waits for Rod to get a divorce. The suspense and dreariness of her lot cause her to seek forgetfulness in Marco's gay crowd.

She has a nervous breakdown and, while convalescing, decides to buy a "dream home" with the money Rod had sent her when he left. Marco is devoted through all her troubles, and begs her to marry him. His wealth tempts her, but she tells him she still loves Rod, and asks him to stop calling on her. He will not give up hope. Bertie Lou goes ahead with her house plans, and tries vainly to get some word about Rod.

CHAPTER XLII
When Bertie Lou's house was completed in late Spring she advertised it for sale.

A thin, oldish young man left a cheap furnished room in a poor section of the city on the day the advertisement appeared and bought a bunch of bananas from a fruit stand. The dealer wasted no money in paper bags.

The young man tucked the newspaper-wrapped bundle under his arm and went back to his room. He had been ill nourished for weeks, so he climbed the four flights of stairs slowly.

In his room he set about preparing his frugal lunch. A banana and a glass of milk.

Perhaps he would get a job that day, or the next. It was a long lane he'd been wandering down. Jobs had marked it like milestones. Jobs that he could not hold because a face with soft brown eyes and tender lips lurched itself between his eyes and the door of his ledger. Figures and memories did not mix in bookkeeping.

One kindly boss had told him to take a course in concentration. The trouble was that he concentrated too deeply, but not upon his work. Once he had been out of a job for weeks and his money had gone entirely before he found another, a temporary place, special work. He had gone hungry then. And he had not eaten a solid meal since, even when he was employed. It proved to be a sound idea, because it enabled him to eat the other half of the time. That is to say, he was without work as often as he had it. But he was never down to his last penny again.

There was one job on which he seemed to be making good when he was served with papers in divorce proceedings. Then he slipped back into the habit that had cost him his earlier positions. He fell to dreaming of Bertie Lou.

He was always thinking of her. Even now when, his lunch over, he started to peruse the male help wanted columns of the newspaper that had been wrapped about the bananas.

was brand new but he would have sworn it was the same house. His memory must have played him a trick.

Then he looked down the street, at the other houses. No two were exactly alike, but in some there was a similarity. He told himself this house must have been copied from the one he had liked so much. "Not a very lucky house, in spite of its charm," he mused, thinking of the advertisement.

He wondered if anyone was around to show it to him. He thought he saw a movement at one of the windows. A moment later he lifted the wrought-iron knocker and announced his presence.

The door was opened by a girl with a round, good-natured face whereon were heaps of freckles and a nice grin.

"This is the house that was advertised, I believe?"

"Why yes, it is," the girl told him pleasantly and held the door open wider. "Won't you come in?"

Rod stepped inside. One glance showed that the interior, as much as he could see of it, was just like the other house. "If my memory is accurate," he said to himself.

"Pretty nifty, isn't it?" the girl who had admitted him remarked. Rod nodded absent-mindedly. It was charming. The way Bertie Lou might have furnished it, he thought. No matter where you put her she made her surroundings attractive.

He'd have been surprised if he had been granted a glimpse into her hall bedroom. Bertie Lou had lacked any incentive to beautify it. He had forgotten, too, her untidy bedroom in the last apartment they'd lived in together. But she did have taste and a feeling for the right things.

At first she had intended furnishing this little house from the things she had in storage. But they did not fit into her conception of it as an abode of happiness. Had she started out with Rod as he had begged her to she never would have bought for this house the things she had chosen for their apartments. She wanted everything here to be perfect—as she and Rod would have had it had they built it together.

Governed by this obsession, she finally sold the furniture in storage and bought all new things. Simple things, that cost but little more than the money she realized on the sale of the more costly furniture. There had been a few pieces to return, as she declared herself unable to complete the payments on them.

There was nothing for Rod to recognize, except the exquisite taste that characterized Bertie Lou. But good taste was not exclusively Bertie Lou's.

Still, he let himself fancy that Bertie Lou had furnished it for their home. And he had another illusion, too, one that was not so easily understood. He imagined that some unseen person was watching him. Several times he turned his head quickly and once he was sure he saw a bit of dress disappear from sight just within an open door.

But why should anyone hide? Perhaps he was not conversant with the mysterious person in a make-up allowance, but was it necessary to follow him all over the place?

Rod was puzzled, until he decided that there were two women alone in the house and they were nervous about his presence. "I guess I do look like a tramp," he remarked mentally, excusing them. "It's a wonder they let me in. They must know I've as much chance of buying this house as I have of buying the public library."

cent to remain under her sway. But no, she could not deceive herself. She had hoped too much in vain. Rod had come back because memories were all he had now to heal a sick soul. Perhaps he was sorry; perhaps he even wished he could recall the days of their marriage.

Bertie Lou told herself these things. And then she remembered the manner in which Rod had deserted her, the cold, impersonal note he had left.

No, she would not forgive him. (To Be Continued)

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton © 1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

"It seems that vegetables are the things to give young children to eat," said a certain mother recently, "and I, for one, agree. But I see people feeding children cold-slaw with strong dressing and cabbage boiled with ham or corned beef. Surely such things are too strong for a little child's stomach."

"They are," of course," replied the dietitian in a children's hospital. "You would think that people's common sense would tell them that."

"I wish they would start a cookbook for children," sighed the mother thoughtfully. "I think it is what we mothers need. And I say to that Amen."

It may be of some help to mothers for me to jot down a few recipes here for preparing vegetables for little children, or to go back still further, tell them what vegetables to use.

Boil in Soup Stock.
Spinach, lettuce, beet-greens, carrots, chard, turnips, onions, string-beans, celery, peas, and asparagus are good.

Wash these vegetables and trim them for making soup. Cut them into small pieces, then boil slowly until they are tender in a little soup stock (water in which beef or lamb has been boiled). They may also be boiled in plain water—as little water as possible.

For babies old enough to take vegetable soup in addition to their milk diet the vegetables may be strained and only the juice used. In straining, the vegetables may be gently squeezed with the back of a large spoon. This will make the soup cloudy but it is the best way to get the nutritious elements contained in the vegetables.

Puree for Older Babies.
For older babies who can take the vegetable pulp, the vegetables should be forced through a very fine sieve. This is known as puree. When children are still young they can take the vegetables finely chopped, or mashed with butter or white-sauce mixed in. This is right for children in their second year. All vegetables should be salted a little but no other seasoning be used.

Enough vegetable soup may be prepared for three or four days, except when the weather is very hot. It should be kept in a cool place, and each day before being used should be heated again to the boiling point.

Potatoes are best baked for the younger children. For older children they may be mashed or boiled. Never fried or cooked in grease.

To Cook Rice.
Rice is good for children. It always should be thoroughly washed and cooked in plenty of water without a cover; 4 cups water, 1 cup rice, ½ teaspoon salt. Let water boil and add rice slowly while water is boiling. Boil 45 minutes and strain. The water may be used as a foundation for soup.

A PROPOSAL FOR SCHOOLS OF MARRIAGE.
"If public schools took the responsibility of giving girls a course in 'How to Pick a Husband,' fewer marriages would go on the rocks."

"That is one cure for the marriage-divorce problem, suggested by Mary Hickey, specialist in patching up marriages in one of New York's biggest domestic relations courts.

"Pet dogs have their pedigrees established and new houses have their titles searched. But husbands are taken on faith," she complained.

"When I started this work years ago I was shocked to hear a woman say she married her husband after three weeks' acquaintance. Now it is nothing to hear a 'good looking guy' at lunch time and attention to deciding on their husbands as it takes them, say, to pick a hat."

"Schools concentrate on every known subject under the sun but the most important thing in a woman's life—marriage, I think, something should be done to start marriage courses."

NORMA JEAN SHOWS 'EM

She's First Girl Baby Born in Merritt Family in 300 Years.

Toledo, O.—For 300 years there had been no girls born in the Merritt family, and then—the other day—Norma Jean Merritt arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Merritt, of Toledo, are the proud parents. And mother and child are doing quite well, thank you.

Chubby, hazel-eyed Norma Jean nestles snugly in the arms of her 16-year-old mother and cares not a rap that she has upset 300 years of the Merritt family tradition. According to the family Bible, she is the first of her sex to be born into the family since the original Merritts tiled the soil of their farm on the outskirts of Paris.

In the old family Bible is an entry that says no girls have been born into the Merritt family since the stock came to America about 100 years ago. And it mentions no Merritt girl baby for two centuries before that.

Mrs. Anna Merritt of Pandora, O., 83-year-old widowed great-grand-mother of Norma Jean, is the proud possessor of the ancient family Bible and will have the honor of making the entry of the girl baby's birth.

"You know," she says, "I had a feeling that some day we would have a baby girl in the Merritt family. There were no Merritt girls as far back as my grandmother could remember. We can't explain why the children have been sons for so many years—it is just a mystery."

BOY WITH SLINGSHOT OR AIR GUN APT TO BE PUBLIC MENACE.
By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN.
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In the summer season the boy equipped with an air gun or a slingshot becomes a serious menace to everyone in his vicinity unless he has been taught definitely the proper use of these accessories of play.

Recently two San Francisco physicians reported several instances in which eyes have been practically ruined by careless employment of these devices. One boy sixteen years of age was hit in the right eye by a BB shot from an air gun. Although the device itself is not extremely powerful, the metal entered the right eye and caused swelling and bleeding. After the swelling had subsided, an investigation revealed the BB shot in the eye and it was necessary to perform an operation in order to remove the metal. After this the eye recovered, but with some permanent scarring and loss of vision.

In another case, a boy eleven years of age who was playing behind a wooden box was hit with a BB shot fired by a boy who was using the box as a target. The shot entered his left eye and brought about an immediate loss of vision. The result here also was an operation with some permanent loss of vision in the eye. The metal was found only by the use of the X-ray.

In a third case a boy eight years of age was struck in the left eye with a staple from a slingshot while playing Indian with some other boys. The shock ruptured the capsule of the eye and tore the delicate tissues beyond the point of complete repair.

By modern use of the X-ray it is possible to find foreign substances when they penetrate the eye and to remove them, when necessary, in a many cases, when the foreign material is clean in a sense that it is free from bacteria, and if it is in a portion of the eye where it does not obstruct vision, it may remain for a considerable period of time without removal.

Sometimes the inflammatory reaction tends to get the foreign material without any further trouble. Certainly any child that is permitted to use an air gun or slingshot should be thoroughly impressed with the fact that such a device is a menace if improperly employed and destruction of materials or of human tissue should mean permanent removal of the devices from the possession of the boy who cannot be trusted with them.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SCAUER

The 75-year-old mother of a murdered woman in Evanston, Ill., did not know how her daughter had met death. She had been told that the woman had been injured in an automobile accident. So the Evanston News-Index, the paper which the old mother read, printed one special copy, just for her, with a fictitious story about the "accident," even as newsboys were selling thousands of other copies with lurid details of the murder.

We talk about this callous, money-mad world in which we live. Here's a little story which rather denes it.

MEXICAN BABIES
Babies won't go to motion picture shows, in Mexico if President Calles has any authority—and he has. He has just issued a decree prohibiting movie houses, admitting persons carrying babies under two years of age. He explained that the theater air was bad for the babies and that movie-going interfered with their regular hours for sleeping and feeding.

Maybe Mexico is a little smarter right there than we are. Our national policy, if any, on the baby welfare question is to the effect that "mother knows best" and it's up to her. But our mother does not invariably know best—sometimes the mere fact that she is a mother and blinded by emotion makes her know the least what is good for her child.

On the other hand, maybe our national policy, if any, recognizes that something is due mothers as well as babies, and goodness knows if some of them didn't take their babies with them to the picture shows, there'd be precious little gallivanting in their lives!

GOOD LUCK, BETTY!
Betty Simpson, 25, of Oklahoma, was discovered aboard the Aquitania as a stowaway when that ship docked in Southampton a few days ago. She had no passport or money, a small bundle of clothing, and a huge gob of wanderlust. She confessed when found that this was her fifth stowaway trip and that she always picked the best boats. In spite of this good advertising, the company received a tip from the law that she shall take its due course with Betty.

Betty may have been a bad girl, but she's not a stowaway.

REPAIRING AUNT (aboard train): Billy, do you know what happens to little boys who talk lies?
BILLY: Yes; they ride for half-fare.—Answers.

They tell us now that Ma will no longer need to hurry up with the supper dishes, clean up the kids, get ready herself, and see that Pa looks presentable when the family starts off for the movies. For the movies are to come to the houses before long. It will be a simple matter of sitting around the radio and watching pictures just as we now listen to music and speeches and all the sound things that are put on the radio.

It all sounds to me like another smart commercial attempt to keep woman in the homes. Seriously, just what is the advantage of this over the present movie system? Most home-stayers welcome the opportunity to get out. As a matter of fact, so many of our supposed modern marvels seem to have little advantage over the old, other than that they are new.

Have you noticed, though, the many new inventions for the exclusive use of the home? The "seeing" telephone, the radio movie, the mechanical man, and all the others? It doesn't look as if the usually wild world of science believed there was much in this belief that most people were prejudiced towards their homes.

CALL THE CONDUCTOR (aboard train): Billy, do you know what happens to little boys who talk lies?
BILLY: Yes; they ride for half-fare.—Answers.

Author of New Serial Has Had Exciting Career

ELEANOR EARLY

Eleanor Early, author of "Whirlwind," The Herald's new serial, has had a career that is almost as unusual as the story she has written.

Miss Early was born and raised in New England. She now lives in Wellesley, Mass.

Upon her graduation from a kindergarten training school she became a newspaper reporter in Boston. She covered her first murder trial at the age of 19, and fainted when the jury brought in the verdict.

"Later," she says, "I grew hard-bodded and did not stuff."

After Calvin Coolidge's election in 1924 she went to Washington and wrote society news. "Then," she relates, "I stepped from polite circles into tough ones." She covered big prize fights and did a series on night clubs.

Opened Tea Room

Tiring of that, she opened a college tea room in Wellesley, where, she confesses, she almost died of inactivity and boredom. So she went to Europe.

In Paris she became, for a time, a dancer in a musical comedy. In London she worked for a while on a Fleet Street newspaper. She gambled at Monte Carlo, and in Seville she posed as a Spanish girl for an English artist.

Then she went to Africa. She visited the Garden of Allah with a regular desert sheik. But, says Eleanor Early, the sheik had fleas and she became discouraged and returned home. Since then she has traveled a good deal in the West Indies and has written several articles about that part of the world. She is author also of a number of short stories.

"Whirlwind" is Eleanor Early's first book-length fiction. She wrote it expressly for NEA Service and The Herald. Critics have pronounced it the finest newspaper serial in years.

It is a story of unusual power, describing the career of a Boston society girl who lost her sweetheart in the war. Sybil Thorne, the heroine, was the sort of girl who made people talk. Nearly everything Sybil did was food for Boston gossip or "copy" for the newspapers.

If you want to read a serial that is really "different," that will grip you with its powerful emotional appeal, read "Whirlwind." It starts in The Herald Thursday, August 23.

Tilden Was Never Paid For Magazine Writings

As a Result, Lawn Tennis Will Have a Difficult Time In Barring the Famous Net Star.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Aug. 17.—It began to look today as though Mr. Will Tilden is not as smart as some people think he is. He's smarter. Will, they say, has found a way to "beat his case" when he comes up before the executive committee of the U. S. L. T. A. One week to night and, a man on a limb, the idea seems fool-proof. It is understood that he hasn't been paid to date for the disputed articles at Wimbledon. According to Wallace Merrihew, editor of American Lawn Tennis, one of those who drafted the player-writer rule and a die-hard friend of Will's, he is likely to be very careful not to be paid for them either now or forever henceforth. The rule, specifically states that a violation, to be a violation, must be "for pay or consideration."

"It wouldn't surprise me in the least if Tilden refused to accept money or any other consideration for the articles that are under way," Merrihew declared. "I know personally that he received neither money nor consideration while he was abroad and I am just as certain that he has accepted neither since his return. I feel I can also say for him that he has no intention of sacrificing his status by receiving at any time for the articles he wrote while abroad."

This statement was confirmed more or less, at the office of Tilden's syndicate, those in charge declaring that they had never heard from Tilden except for the receipt of the articles he wrote nor communicated with him in any way since he left America.

Tilden's defense next week thus can take either of two courses or both. He can first make the executive committee prove that the text of his articles was an actual violation of the player-writer rule, a matter that seems to be open to reasonable doubt in some minds; then, if convicted on that count, he can calmly inform any who may be interested that the rule couldn't have been violated, either in spirit or in fact, because the articles were written free gratis, and for the downright fun of it.

Call this an evasion if you like; it doesn't alter the fact that the rule is quite clear in the matter of stating that guilt only follows when pay or consideration is involved. In this instance, free writing is much like free love. It just doesn't count.

Some may profess to be amused, too, at the idea that Tilden will spin the vulgar dollars not only publicly but privately as well. The fact of the matter is that there isn't enough of them involved in the transaction to achieve actual publicity. My understanding is that Will was to receive $700 for his endeavors and, while the amount in question may not be more than one hundred times all the money in the world to some of us, to a man with a private income of $25,000, a business income of $15,000 more and privilege of living free for about eight months of the year, it is or should be mere nothing.

Bill Tilden landed safe and sound in New York. A more successful return than those he made in the Davis Cup matches.

A lot of Dempsey fans are wishing him many happy returns, even if it isn't his birthday.

Johnny Risko MAY fight Sailor Jack Sharkey, later on, for $100,000. A gob—and a gob of dough.

Chelsea has won two games and lost 10, in the Boston Twilight League. Good night!

Speaking of bouts, Rickard is fortunate he doesn't have to put on his heaves in the middle of the summer.

The Yanks are reported to have a string tied to Charles Jeffcoat, the Albany pitcher who trimmed them 4 to 3 Clap hands, here comes Charley!

NAT. LEAGUE RACE AT SIZZLING POINT

New York Must Win Two Over St. Louis to Stay in Race.

New York, Aug. 17.—The hot National League fight centers today in St. Louis, where the league-leading Cardinals start a 3-game series with the second-place Giants. The New Yorkers must win two of these crucial contests to stay in the race, as they are still 3½ games behind the Red birds.

Chicago, and not St. Louis, has been John McGraw's chief source of woes this year. The Giants have won but two games in the Windy City all season, and captured only one of the three games played with the Cubs this week. Ex-Giants cost them the other two contests. A hit by Freddy Maguire beat them on Wednesday and yesterday Art Nehf, discarded by McGraw two years ago, had no trouble in registering a 6 to 2 victory over them.

St. Louis also is finding the going rocky. Three Cardinal pitchers—Rhem, Haines and Hald—were given a 9 to 4 shellacking by the lowly Boston Braves yesterday. Big Ed Brandt pitched for Boston and Lance Richbourg drove in six runs in his first three times at bat with a homer, a triple and a double. Heinie Mueller, making his first appearance with the Braves, got two hits against his old club.

Yanks Improving.

The Yanks and the Athletics finally emerged from their batting slumps. Buster Gehrig smacked three doubles while Waite Hoyt was limiting the White Sox to four hits, winning 11 to 1.

The A's nicked Detroit pitchers for 17 hits and overwhelmed the Tigers 18 to 6 scoring nine runs in the second canto. Simmons, Fox, McManus and Hargrave hit for the circuit.

Although hit hard, the lion-hearted Burleigh Grimes hung up his 21st victory of the season for Pittsburgh, when the Bucs landed on Brooklyn for five runs in the eighth. Pee-wee Waner contributed four hits.

The Phillies are stepping out of character on their present western tour. Led by Sothen, who got four hits, they lambasted three Cincinnati hurlers for 22 safeties and swamped the Reds under a 13 to 4 score. Milligan, ex-Cornell pitcher, hung up his first, victory for the Phils.

Four runs in the ninth staked Cleveland to a 10 to 8 win over the Red Sox. Washington smothered the Browns, 7 to 2, in an 8-inning affair.

BON AMI BEATS HEIGHTS 4 TO 1

Soapmakers Triumph In Five Inning Game Halted By Darkness; Brainard's Hit Helps.

The Bon Ami team won from the Heights last night 4 to 1 in a poorly played game that went but five innings, being called on account of darkness. It was played at the Heights.

This was the only game in the Twilight League and attracted a good crowd.

Tom Faulkner, pitching for the Heights, got himself in trouble in the third when he passed two men and Brainard hit into deep right for a single scoring the soapmakers' first run.

Their other runs were gifts, due to loose playing around first and second. An opportunity for a double play was lost when Foley lost a toss to second and this filled the bases, putting men in a position to score two runs when another hit was sent into right field. With two down Pop Edgar, who was pitching for the Bon Ami team dropped one over first base that should have been an out and another run was scored, Pop getting credit for a hit.

The shadows were a big help in the last inning and Pop staved off any further hopes for the Heights by fanning the two last men up. For some unexplained reason, the box score of the game was not submitted by the Heights and consequently is not published.

ESTABLISHING GREAT RECORD

Out of the first 23 games he pitched this season, veteran Dutch Reuther completed 21 of them for the San Francisco club. His record during that time was 19 victories and four losses.

Great Race Develops As Bluebirds Win 7-4

SPORTS Great 2-24 I clic. The Bluebirds defeated the Sparrows yesterday morning at the West Side playgrounds in the junior playgrounds league by the score of 7 to 4 putting all four teams almost on even basis.

Cotton made a wonderful catch in right field. He was on the dead run, and leaped high in the air to pull down the ball with his glove hand making one of the greatest catches so far in the league. Viot pitched good ball for the winners only allowing two hits, he was wild at times walking eight men.

Mahoney pitched good ball but his team mates gave him poor support, making eight errors.

Monday, the Robins and Bluebirds play.

1928 Football Season Is Full Of Bargains

BY BOB MATHERNE

One of the unfortunate realities of this life is that one can't be at more than one place at the same time. That observation comes about after a glance at the football calendar for this fall.

Perhaps it is a trifle early to be talking football, with August gone nearly any place yet, but who isn't? And you can't help but get into a corner conversation on the grand old game if you've seen the imposing array of interesting meetings the schedule-makers have prepared for our entertainment on certain Saturdays in October and November.

The season gets under way on September 21 and won't be completed until the Tournament of Roses game of January 1. In between are the hectic days and the most hectic ones are those last two Saturdays in October, the Saturday in November and Thanksgiving Day.

If you happen to be a free lance on your football game, and are fully able to go any place you wish for your Saturday's fun, you will have quite a time picking the spot after the first few games of the year.

Look at this group to puzzle over for October 20:

Yale-Brown, Tulane-Vanderbilt, California-Southern California, Texas-Arkansas, Harvard-Army, Tennessee-Alabama, Illinois-Purdue, Dartmouth-Columbia, Holy Cross-Fordham, Pennsylvania-Penn State, Bucknell-Lafayette, Colorado-Colorado Mines, Georgia Tech-Notre Dame, and Ohio State-Michigan.

That's not as tough as Saturday to make a choice from as the following Saturday with the Princeton-Cornell, Yale-Army, Nebraska-Missouri, Lafayette-West Virginia, Penn State-Syracuse, Harvard-Dartmouth, Iowa-Minnesota, Michigan-Wisconsin, Chicago-Purdue, Fordham-Washington and Jefferson, Georgia-Tulane, Illinois-Northwestern, Montana-Montana State, North Carolina-Georgia Tech and Washington-Oregon Aggies games on schedule.

Games of November 3 are not as numerous but seem a bit more promising of thrills. This is the day of the Southern California-Stanford, Alabama-Wisconsin, Ohio State-Princeton, Michigan-Illinois, California-Oregon, Penn State-Notre Dame, Yale-Dartmouth, Northwestern-Minnesota, Denver-Wyoming, Missouri-Drake, Brown-Holy Cross, Chicago-Penn, Pittsburgh-Syracuse, Texas-S. M. U. and Virginia-Washington and Lee affairs.

And that ain't all. Your next two Saturdays offer some puzzlers, but the real puzzler is on November 24 and where to go on Thanksgiving Day isn't easy to do up out.

Illinois-Ohio State, Northwestern-Dartmouth, Wisconsin-Minnesota, Army-Nebraska, California-Stanford, Yale-Harvard, Princeton-Navy, Michigan-Iowa, Purdue-Indiana, Fordham-Georgetown and Missouri-Kansas are the big games of November 24.

On Thanksgiving, the choice should come from the Columbia-Syracuse, Southern California-Oregon, Penn-Cornell, Pittsburgh-Penn State, Alabama-Georgia, Brown-Colgate, and West Virginia-Washington and Jefferson games.

That ends the real big days of the football season, but should it happen you didn't get to see two good southern teams in action you can visit (on December 8) Atlanta, where Georgia and Georgia Tech play; or Birmingham, where Alabama and Louisiana State meet; or Knoxville, where Tennessee and Florida play. And on the same day, the Irish of Notre Dame will be entertained by Southern California at Los Angeles.

It sure is too bad one can't be at more than one place at the same time.

Local Sport Chatter

Much disappointment was expressed by baseball fans here last night over the failure of the Green-Gibson's Garage game to materialize. When the reasons became known, supporters of one side razed the other.

Manager Sam Prentice says that it looks as if Gibson's is a one-man team. Without Tommy Sipples, they are afraid to play, he said. Jack Burkhardt was available for pitching duty last night, despite advance reports to the contrary.

What's more, "Big Jack" is anxious for another shot at the Green. He beat them once only to have his team's efforts go for naught because of a protect. Jack says he knows the weakness of every batter on the Green team.

The Green and Gibson's are slated to meet in a regular league game at Hickey's Grove next Monday night and if Gibson's is a one-man team, it will positively be on the mound for the auto repairers. The feeling between these two teams is at an extremely high tension and once they meet, there's bound to be fireworks.

Dodger Dowd will give the members of the Cubs football team a workout at the West Side at 8 o'clock tonight.

Anyone wishing to enter the town championship tennis tournaments for men and women will have final opportunity to do so tonight and tomorrow. The reason for not waiting until after Labor Day to run the tournaments is because the nights are much shorter than thus interfering with playing of the matches.

The Stafford Springs team is playing up at Manchester Green Sunday afternoon.

FACES THREE BOUTS

New York, Aug. 17.—Leo Lomski, outstanding challenger for Tommy Loughran's light-heavyweight title, faces three bouts within the next three weeks. The Aberdeen, Wash., assassin meets George Smith, of Newark, N. J., at Dexter Park on Monday night. Two days later he will take on the rugged Maxie Rosenbloom at Long Branch, N. J. On Sept. 7 he will swap wallop with Pete Latzo, one of his leading rivals, in a ten round bout at the Olympia arena in Detroit.

Latzo won from Lomski on a foul in Brooklyn recently.

State League Twilight Game At Hickey's Grove

League Standing Matter of Guesswork, But Local Team Sadly in Need of Few Victories to Say the Least.

After a couple of weeks of obscurity, the Community Club baseball team springs back into the limelight this evening when it opposes Meriden in a state league game at Hickey's Grove. It will be a state league affair.

Either Weber or Sipples will pitch for Manchester with Kelly or Lamprecht behind the plate. McLaughlin will be on first, Linnell at second, Wright at short, Edgar at third, Kolsch in left, St. John in center and Felton in right. Just where either Manchester or Meriden stand in the second half of the state league schedule is not known. One guess is as good as another. Whoever is secretary of the league apparently has not overworked himself any official information. However, it can be taken for granted that a few victories would not do the Community any harm. Meriden is going to have its strongest team. No lineup has been announced.

Such in-and-out weather! No wonder no housewife knows what to do about providing for the day's meals, let alone a day or two ahead. If ever the climate contributed to hand-to-mouth buying of food articles, it is doing so right now. No telling from the temperature at 10 o'clock at night, whether it is 90 or 65 at noon. So, what to do about dinner! Sheer guessing match.

Fortunately Pinehurst patrons don't have to make up their minds about anything connected with tomorrow's menu until this evening. Pinehurst phone service operates till 9 o'clock, Friday nights, and it remembers with deliveries any time tomorrow that you may specify 3 o'clock in the morning, if you wish.

This service has proved to be always convenient. In these hand-to-mouth days of a temperamental summer it is especially so. Try it. Anywhere in town. Phone number is two thousand.

TRUCK OPERATORS SEEK LAW TEST

Continue to Carry on Plantation Transport Service; Three Twice Arrested.

The trucks that have been carrying passengers to and from the tobacco fields were being operated this morning as usual, but no arrests were made today, action to be taken at the session of the Rockville City Court tomorrow morning being awaited. Its outcome will have a bearing on future action concerning the operation of automobile trucks for the carrying of workers to and from plantations.

Three drivers, who had been arrested Wednesday night, were arrested yesterday. All three were again operating this morning and declare they will continue until there has been a decision under the law governing the operation of the trucks.

Three Manchester drivers were among those arrested yesterday. William Perrett, who was arrested on Wednesday night was again arrested yesterday. Christopher Glenney, his partner in the express business, and Clayton Massey, who drives for James Foley, were also arrested yesterday.

In each case the driver is charged with operating without proper registration and in some of the cases with operating without a proper driver's license.

All the cases are to be contested. Christopher Glenney of the trucking firm of Perrett & Glenney, said this morning. In this action the truck people are being backed by the tobacco growers, who claim that the state is violating their rights in engaging trucks to carry their own employees to and from the plantations.

Mr. Glenney said that his company has been transporting employees of tobacco plantations for several years and that they are engaged in this business and he and his partner do not believe that they had been violating any law. He said that the state police were not sure of their own action, but were trying to get a court decision on the question so that it might be settled once and for all.

Claim Legal Rights. The tobacco growers have taken the stand that in contracting with truck owners for the carrying of their employees, they are within their rights and are not violating the motor vehicle laws. They point to the decision of Coroner Judge O'Connell, who in his findings on the Rockville road tragedy says he can find no law to prevent this method of transportation unless the vehicle itself fails to comply with state regulations.

It is said the trucks will be operated as usual until the courts have ruled on the case. After the action in the Rockville City Court, should the decision go against the truck owners, there will be an appeal.

BUSINESS IN STATE CALLED SATISFACTORY

Chamber of Commerce Survey Discloses Increased Activity In Some Lines.

Hartford, Aug. 17.—General business conditions in Connecticut during July this year compared favorably with July, 1927, according to a survey of leading communities prepared jointly by local chambers of commerce and the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce. While substantial increases in certain lines of business were reported by some communities, however others reported decreases in the same lines.

Retail business and industrial conditions were reported as generally satisfactory for the majority of the communities surveyed. Increased activity in building was noted in several cities, there being a gain both in the number and value of permits this July over last. Norwich reported a gain of 39% for this year. Norwalk, Greenwich, Bridgeport, New Britain, Waterbury and New Haven also showed increases in value of building permits.

In only one or two of the reporting communities was the consumption of gas and electricity less this July than last. In a few communities, however, there was a falling off of bank clearings and debits and postal receipts.

MR. AND MRS. BYRD ON 2ND HONEYMOON

New York, Aug. 17.—Facing his hazardous dash to the South Pole and at least two and possibly four years absence, Commander Richard E. Byrd has taken a second honeymoon with his wife, mother of his two children, it was learned here today when he arrived from Boston on the liner New York.

The Byrds slipped away to Boston by train early yesterday. There they attended a luncheon in his honor at the Somerset Club. Then they took the boat, arriving here early in the morning, happy and embarrassed as the youngest honeymooners.

"I've had so little time to give my family recently," the flyer, who attempted to make the trip incognito, but was recognized by a group of flapper passengers, said today, "that I just decided upon a second honeymoon and took it on this trip to Boston."

AIRPLANES OF "ENEMY" RAID CITY OF LONDON

London, Aug. 17.—London lies at the mercy of the enemy should a powerful fleet of from 100 to 200 bombing planes be sent against it, according to the lessons drawn today from the four day airplane maneuvers to test the aerial defenses which came to an end at midnight.

But this presumed helplessness against air raiders from a nation powerful in planes, is only theoretical. One of the chief reasons for the "attacks" against the city from the sky was to show wherein the defenses should be strengthened. The work of perfecting air defenses through larger sky fleets and more effective counter attacks from high angle guns will be undertaken by the government later.

For hours last night thousands stood in the streets craning their necks to get a glimpse of the "battle" high in the clouds between groups of pursuit planes and "enemy" machines guarding the bombers. Many in the crowds had seen actual air raids during the war and attacks by British planes against raiding German Zeppelins.

NEW PASTOR CALLED Plainville, Conn., Aug. 17.—Rev. J. Roy Wilkerson, of North Brantford, has been called to be minister of the Congregational church here. He will start his duties September 1st, according to announcement here today.

He is a native of North Carolina, and a graduate of Trinity college in that state, as well as of Yale Divinity School, 1927. He has been a graduate student at Yale since receiving his degree there, and has been doing ministerial work in North Brantford.

AIRWAY BEACON DARK, PILOT'S STUNTS RESULT

Mail Carrier Flies Close to Housetops to Investigate Blinded Route.

The airway beacon on the Burr property east of Oakland street has been unlighted for the past two nights. As a result the air mail pilot who was returning to Hartford at 8:15 on Wednesday night showed the residents of Oakland street a lot of interesting flying. The plane came down low, made a couple of circles and gave, for a time, the impression that it was going to land on the tops of the trees or on the housetops along Oakland street.

The pilot was flying low when coming from the northeast, on his usual course. When he reached Manchester the beacon light was out. The pilot was seen to fly exceptionally low and then to make a turn back to the east and again circle around as though seeking a place to land. But after making a circle around the region where the unlighted beacon is located and flying low over the trees and houses on Oakland street he straightened out and continued on his way to Hartford.

The noise of motor brought many residents out of doors, expecting a crash.

WET DEMOCRAT LEADERS DRY IN OHIO PRIMARIES

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Attorney Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati, Liberal, was leading U. S. Senator Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, Dry, for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator, short term, by 445 votes early today, according to latest revised unofficial returns.

With 16 precincts missing, State Representative John T. Brown, Mechanicburg, held a lead of 2,975 votes over George C. Braden, Warren, for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor for the full term.

Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, as the apparent Republican nominee for governor, defeated Congressman James T. Begg, Sarnesky, by a margin of 5,600 votes according to the latest unofficial tabulation.

A revised tabulation this morning gave Hunt 93,469 votes and Locher 93,024.

MAKES HOLE-IN-ONE ON INVISIBLE GREEN

Capt. Allan Dexter Loses Ball In Drive, Finds It In the Cup at 18th.

Allan L. Dexter, well known former man at Cheney Brothers and captain of the Howitzers Company, registered a hole-in-one while playing in the 18-hole handicap sweepstake tournament at the Manchester Country Club.

Captain Dexter has played golf for some time, but never before succeeded in making a "home-run" drive. He made the ace on the eighteenth hole. The distance is 191 yards.

The tournament was won by John P. Cheney, Sr., and John Hyde. Each had 74 gross with a six handicap. Captain Dexter had a 92.

WEALTHY WOMAN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Westport, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Mrs. Harvey Hubbell and Mrs. Walter B. Lashar, wealthy residents of Bridgeport, Conn., are at Westport Inn today under the care of a physician as a result of an automobile accident yesterday near Essex, a few miles from here.

Mrs. Hubbell, the more seriously injured of the two women, is said to have suffered a broken back. Mrs. Lashar was cut about the face and head by broken glass and suffered a painful injury to her right leg.

The two women were being driven north in a Hols-Royce automobile by Mrs. Hubbell's chauffeur when their machine was sideswiped by another car traveling at a high rate of speed in the opposite direction. The Hubbell machine turned turtle into a ditch and the two women were pinned underneath. Their chauffeur escaped with slight bruises.

The injured women were brought to the Westport Inn by a passing motorist. Local authorities are searching for the machine which caused the accident and which continued on without stopping.

WILLIAMS CONDUCTING SURPLUS STOCK SALE

George H. Williams, head of George H. Williams, Inc., has removed a large portion of the stock of his Rockville store and consolidated it with the stock of the Manchester store in the Johnson Block. The addition of this stock has kept the staff of the store here busy for the greater part of the past week rearranging the stock in order to make room for the Rockville merchandise.

This consolidation creates a heavy surplusage of stock and the local store is running a sale on quality merchandise at such attractive prices that Mr. Williams expects to dispose of all the surplus stock within a few days.

JOHN CARRIES A S.A.X.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 17.—John Coolidge, son of the President was in Madison today as the guest of Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin.

That young Coolidge is pleasure bent was indicated by his luggage which included among other trappings his saxophone and a brand new set of golf clubs.

An important instance of the balance of Nature is involved in the fact that most flowers are dependent for pollination on the visits of insects.

Peking, Aug. 17.—Traces of prehistoric animals hitherto unknown to science were found by the Roy Chapman Andrews Expedition in the Gobi desert of Mongolia, according to members of the expedition who are here today. In a cable report to the American Museum of Natural History Prof. Andrews dwelt upon the tremendous size of some of the animals. Some must have had bodies hundreds of feet long, he said. A fossilized head of one prehistoric monster weighs over 400 pounds.

Visitors Impressed With "Sunnyside"

Miss Ethel M. Fish's Private School Opened for Public Inspection.

Sunnyside Private school, Miss Ethel Fish's new school on North Elm street for individual instruction, was open for inspection yesterday at three different periods between the hours of 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. A large number of friends of the well known teacher from Manchester and other places, and parents interested, responded to her general invitation to view the school.

The three spacious rooms devoted to the primary, intermediate and junior departments were gay with vases and baskets of gladiolus and other cut flowers of the season sent by friends and well-wishers of Miss Fish in, her new enterprise. One of the very first callers in the morning brought for the school the gift of a large American flag of Cheney silk, which the teacher immediately hung on the wall of one of the schoolrooms.

Visitors at Sunnyside for the first time were enthusiastic over the location of the school, which stands on high ground among stately trees, at the extreme south end of North Elm street where the highway bends around to Hollister street. While not far from the Hollister street public school, Sunnyside is away from the sound of trolleys and traffic and is ideally situated for indoor or outdoor study. Miss Fish has tutored for years during her summer vacations and yesterday her pupils were allowed a day off so that she might be free to receive guests. Mrs. Charles Fish assisted in receiving and served at the punch bowl.

The primary department will occupy a large sunny room with three windows on the south, equipped with two-way shades. On one of the walls here is a blackboard which almost fills one side-wall. Visitors were attracted to this room for the tots with its tiny desks and seats. Everything possible has been done for the comfort and happiness of the pupils at this day school and study in such attractive surroundings should be a pleasure.

Indirect lighting for dark days, hot air heating for cool fall or spring mornings, and steam for more severe weather have been provided. The reporter noticed in one of the ante rooms that a bubbler had been installed so that the children might drink when thirsty in the modern, sanitary way.

Desks of the latest and most approved type, with roomy compartments for books have been installed for the older pupils. The teacher's desk in most schoolrooms is usually unattractive, but Miss Fish succeeded in getting one at a leading furniture store that is both ornamental and useful.

Parents or others who were out of town on inspection day will be welcomed at Sunnyside any afternoon or evening up to the date for opening of the school year, September 10.

TO INSPECT CHENEY GARDENS MONDAY

Mrs. W. C. Cheney Invites Members of Local Garden Club to Visit Her Grounds.

Mrs. William C. Cheney of Park street, through the secretary of the Manchester Garden Club, has extended a cordial invitation to all members interested to stop at her garden Monday evening on their way to the special meeting at the School Street Recreation Center. Mrs. Cheney has several magnificent specimens of liliun rubrum in blossom. Ordinarily these lilies attain a height of from 3 to 4 feet but this season they are more than six feet tall and covered with blossoms.

The meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock will be held in one of the upper rooms at the Rec. building, and will be for the purpose of discussing the advisability of a September flower show and taking action thereon. It is hoped every member of the club who is in town on that evening will be present at the meeting.

OLD FASHION DANCES AT MOOSE CARNIVAL

Elders as Well as Young Folks to Have Their Turn on Floor Tonight.

The addition of several new attractions last night to the carnival of the Home Club Association at their home on Brainerd Place, plus the free outdoor performances offered each evening, served to draw the largest crowd that has attended the affair since the carnival was opened on Monday.

The committee announces that tonight and tomorrow night there will be several new attractions, with the special free outdoor entertainment this evening.

Saturday will be the closing and feature night of the Carnival and new outdoor attractions have been booked. The possibility of a prize dancing contest, together with a complete change in the displays, is expected to prove a heavy drawing card.

Tonight Al Berhend's orchestra, which has presented to a well crowded dance floor every evening all brands of jazz and harmony and created a place for Berhend and his band as the feature attraction at the carnival, will strike up a number of old fashioned tunes between the modern dance numbers so that the older folks can enjoy a few rounds of real old fashioned dancing.

LEVINE IS PLANNING ANOTHER OCEAN HOP

Paris, Aug. 17.—Charles A. Levine, American flyer and owner of the trans-Atlantic plane Columbia, is a figure in a sensational race among flyers here to be the first to hop off for the United States and make a non-stop flight.

Levine said he was going to London today to arrange to get trans-Atlantic weather reports from the British meteorological office. If he succeeds he will return here to make some preparations for the flight. He hopes to get away before the first of September although the Junkers plane he bought at Dessau won't be delivered to him until Aug. 24. That would allow only a few days for trials.

If, in the meantime, French or other airmen hop off and succeed in reaching New York, Levine said he would change his plans. In that event, he declared, he might try for a distance or duration record by attempting a non-stop flight to the Orient.

Bert Acosta will pilot the Junkers plane and Miss Mabel Boll, the "Queen of Diamonds," will accompany the two men if they try a trans-Atlantic flight, but it is doubtful if she would do so if they attempt a sky journey to India.

Quite a common form of accident is that in which some blood-vessel is injured. It is essential that the bleeding be stopped at once. The diagram shows the course of the blood from the heart. When an artery is cut, the blood is bright scarlet and spurts out in jets the spurting being caused by the pumping action of the heart.

To stop bleeding, press the artery against the bone. Press on the side nearest the heart. Then it will be necessary to prepare a pad and bandage.

One method of folding a pad to prevent bleeding is shown above. Keep folding until a hard pad of the desired size is obtained.

The artist has shown above how to twist the bandage tightly over the pad. This is called a tourniquet, and if results are not immediate, a stone or some other hard object should be placed inside the pad. The patient should be laid down, if possible, and the injured part raised, so that as little blood as possible flows into it.

LETTER GOLF

CAN YOU HIT THIS?

Here's NAIL you should be able to hit right on the HEAD after no more than five swings at it. At least, five is par and one solution is on another page.

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

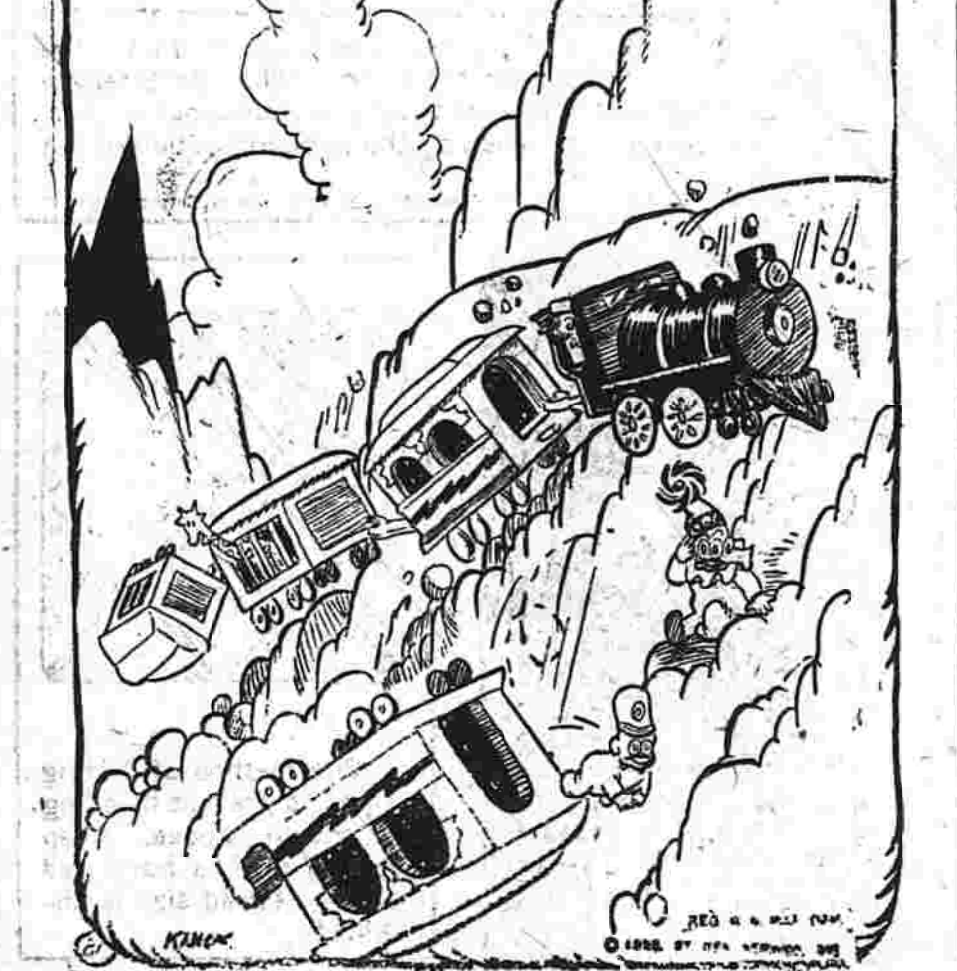

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.
