

FUND RAISING BEING WATCHED BY CANDIDATE

Hoover Shoulders Responsibility to Prevent Scandal in Campaign Finances; Confers With Treasurer.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Herbert Hoover today shouldered responsibility, in part at least, for the prevention of scandals in the raising and spending of $4,000,000 in his campaign for the presidency by summoning J. R. Nutt of Cleveland, national party treasurer, and Jeremiah Milbank, eastern treasurer, before him for a report on their activities.

The Republican nominee is declared by many of his aides to be extremely anxious to avoid anything that might bring about a repetition of the charges made against the Republican national committee following the Harding campaign, which resulted in a Congressional investigation.

Complete Budget
Hoover is understood to have insisted upon a complete budgeting of all expenditures and has urged Treasurer Nutt to raise his fund among as many people as possible. The institution of the small donation division is credited to Hoover personally.

At one time it was reported that Hoover would insist upon the campaign budget being limited to $3,000,000 the approximate amount spent in the Coolidge campaign. National committee heads, however, after completing a tentative budget declared that it would be necessary to set the goal a million dollars higher.

Raskob's Charges
The charges of John J. Raskob, Democratic national treasurer, that the Republicans were seeking a "slush fund" were not taken seriously among Hoover's advisers today. Although Treasurer Nutt declared that "things are coming along fine" there have been persistent reports that collections are slow in coming in.

Canvassing the financial situation comprised only part of the activities of the nominee today. He also summoned James W. Good, western manager, Rep. Walter H. Newton, western speakers' bureau. Despite efforts to press him into immediate action, Hoover has decried a short personal campaign. His own speaking tours, it is now pretty definitely determined, will be crowded into a period of several weeks, and he will spend much of this time in Washington.

The fact that Hoover will be required to go back to California to cast his ballot will result in an extension of his stumping tours which was not counted on originally.

EXPECT 48 NATIONS TO SIGN THE PACT

Whole World Invited to Agree on Treaty to Outlaw War.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The American government expects early adherence to the Briand-Kellogg multilateral treaty outlawing war by virtually all the 48 sovereign nations which were sent invitations to adhere.

Russia was the sole large nation not included in the State Department. France, however, has transmitted to the Soviet government an invitation to adhere, thus relieving the United States any embarrassment in this direction because of lack of diplomatic intercourse.

Hartford Flyer Killed; Plane Crashes At Field

Hartford, Aug. 29.—Fred E. Harry Copeland and Inspector George Prainatis, of the State Air Service, went to Boot's aid and took him unconscious from the wreckage. When they took him to the hospital Boot appeared to have been fatally hurt but later attendants there announced he might live but that his condition was critical.

A plane similar to the one Boot was flying fell at Pottier Field, Providence, about a month ago and caused the death of Osmond M. Mather, of Hartford.

MOTHER AND BABE KILLED IN WRECK

Husband Held by Police; Said He Was Forced Off Road at Milford.

Milford, Aug. 29.—Mrs. James Fazzino, of 148 Liberty street, Middletown, and her nineteen months old daughter Mary, were crushed to death on the Milford Turnpike at the Orange line today when a car driven by her husband, upset.

Fazzino is being held in police headquarters here pending an inquest by Coroner James J. Corrigan. Fazzino insists he was side-swiped by a passing car, forced off the shoulder of the road highway and upset.

Some Mystery.
Mystery attaches to the case. Some time previously a girl walking on the highway was struck by a hit-and-run driver and taken to a hospital in New Haven where her condition was reported as serious. Fazzino disclaims knowledge of the case. However, according to police, bear no marks of this accident. Neither does it show signs of having been struck by another car.

Residents in the district heard the crash and went to the aid of the victims. Fazzino was not hurt. His wife and child were terribly mangled, their heads having been crushed.

Delay in securing official attention caused the bodies to be left by the road for two hours. The accident occurred in Orange. Dr. W. H. Fisher, Milford medical examiner, investigated and then ordered Fazzino held for the coroner.

POISON IN BEER KILLS THREE IN NEW BRITAIN

New Britain, Aug. 29.—Three men are dead from drink, poisoned beer, and a man and woman are held up here on suspicion because police believe the man and woman have been engaged in an illicit love affair, and that the poison beer is to be traced to them.

The dead are John Weiss, 38, and John Stehr, 58, both of 215 Curtis street, and John Stein, 49, of 325 Broad street.

Those under arrest are Mrs. Katherine Weiss, 32, wife of John, and Samuel Weiss, 32, John's brother.

Weiss and Stehr died Sunday. An autopsy was performed on Weiss and today the surgeon announced death was due to cyanide poison.

Stein, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Weiss, went down to call on her today, having heard of the rumors of suspicion. He asked for some of the beer at 11 a. m., drank two bottles and died within two hours.

NEED MILLION TO HELP DEMS IN MID-WEST

Papers Largely Republican in Farm Belt So Large Advertising Budget Must Be Planned.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—"A million dollars to carry the middle-west," was the Democratic program for the great agricultural belt as national managers wound up today their three-day conference here with Smith-Robinson warriors from ten states of the upper Mississippi valley battleground.

John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, outlined the party program today as he prepared to depart with his chief lieutenants for Hot Springs, Arkansas, for the notification ceremonies Thursday evening of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, the vice-presidential nominee.

"The national committee plans to spend $500,000 on the farm drive in the ten corn-belt states," Raskob said in summarizing the program approved by the regional conferences here.

Press Republican
"There are 600 counties in these states and it is our plan to operate organizations in all of them. Reports here indicate that a majority of the newspapers throughout the agricultural section are normally Republican in policy. We shall therefore take other means to reach the voters with Governor Smith's view of the advocacy of equality for agriculturists."

Seldom if ever has a Democratic campaign been so thoroughly organized in the middle-west, according to Raskob. As evidence of the intensity of the farm drive he cited telegraphic reports from district leaders in 34 of the 40 congressional districts in the territory in this conference. The budget approved calls for an average outlay of a little less than $1,000 for each county in the region.

Two district organizations are to be established in the middle-west to corral the feminine vote, according to the program approved by Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice-chairman of the national committee, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the women's advisory committee. One drive will be centered upon the woman's vote in the moist cities, and another, Mrs. Taylor's drive, upon the issue of farm relief.

AL TAKING TIME IN HIS CAMPAIGN

May Not Start Until Next Month—Plans a Whirlwind Finish.

New York, Aug. 29.—Governor Al Smith is taking his time in getting his presidential campaign underway but he is planning a whirlwind finish, his advisors revealed today.

Based on his experiences in five gubernatorial campaigns in New York state, the Democratic nominee has become convinced that an election is won or lost during the last week or ten days of the campaign. Because of this Smith plans to "take it easy" until about the middle of October when he will really begin to get into action.

Indications are that Smith's campaign may not get underway until after the middle of next month and for the first few weeks he will not make more than two or three set speeches each week. The governor has frankly told friends he is afraid that if he starts out with too much of a rush his voice may fall him during the last ten days of the campaign just when he wants to be at his best.

His Western Trip
While he is not expected to announce his itinerary until next week, Smith is understood to already have decided to spend most of his time in the western states, with an occasional jump to the middle west. If he finally decides to go to the Pacific coast he is expected to make the trip during the first part of October.

Because he is afraid of developing throat trouble, the governor has passed the word along to his party managers that he does not intend to make any open air speeches or even short talks from the rear of his special train during the campaign. In the last gubernatorial campaign the governor was warned by a throat specialist that he never should speak in the open air and he has decided to follow that advice in the coming campaign.

Smith was to leave early today for Syracuse where tomorrow he will be in Albany.

When a Cloudburst Hit the Catskills

No, that isn't a filling station for motor boats that you see in the top picture, but a view along one of the streets of Rosendale, N. Y., as the flood waters were receding in Rondout Creek, in the Catskills. When a cloudburst sent a twelve-foot wall of water down the little valley three persons were killed, and damage was done to the extent of $1,000,000. Lower photo shows rescuers headed by Father M. O'Reilly, left, of Kingston, who saved 27 boy campers from a tree where they had clung all night.

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 29.—Democratic leaders merged upon this city today to attend the notification ceremonies tomorrow night formally appraising Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas ranking favorite son, of his selection as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

The south has not notified a national candidate of his selection since the Civil War. Arkansas has never had the honor before. Dixie and the state appeared today is determined to signalize their new place in politics with fitting ceremonies.

Governor Parnell has proclaimed Thursday a state-wide holiday. Hot Springs is bedecked in her gayest bunting. Democracy moves in by carload.

Governor Smith will not be here to see his running mate notified, but he has designated his eldest daughter, Mrs. John B. Warner, to represent the family.

Mr. Warner is expected tomorrow morning. With her will come John J. Raskob of the national committee; Senator Peter Gery of Rhode Island, chairman of the national advisory committee; Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice-chairman of the national committee; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the women's advisory committee and a group of committee members and state leaders from the middle west, who are concluding today in St. Louis their conference upon the farm belt campaign.

Senator Robinson rested today. He endeavored to avoid callers as much as possible to save his voice and energy for the notification broadcast tomorrow night.

Fifty-five radio stations from coast to coast will be linked for the address, scheduled to begin at 8:30 p. m. Co. trial Standard Time.

Claude G. Bowers, New York newspaper editor and keynoter of the Houston convention, will deliver the formal address of notification.

AVIATOR IN COURT.
Stamford, Aug. 29.—Rene Fonck, the French war aviator, was in conflict with local statutes today when his chauffeur turned to the right against a red traffic light. Fonck deposited five dollars with the police sergeant, had a traffic violation charge nulled, and went his way.

NEW YORK PLANES SEARCH 3 STATES FOR LOST FLYERS

HOCK THE GEMS TO FOIL YEGGS

Paris, Aug. 29.—The Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact has nothing on the pact between municipal pawn-brokers and flatdwellers to outlaw the second story man.

While it is merely a "gentleman's agreement," the anti-second story man pact is being strictly observed. In practice it works out like this: When the Parisian family leaves for the country estate, gold and silverware are taken to any of a thousand pawn-brokers and unceremoniously "hocked." In the pawn-brokers' vaults it is safe from the activities of the night prowling gentry.

The procedure is doubly useful should the head of the family require some extra cash for vacation requirements. A branch manager of the Credit Municipal, city pawn-brokers, says that cooperation actually exists between the loan shops and solid bourgeoisie families, whereas a few years ago such families would have considered it a disgrace to have dealings with "uncle."

$250,000 IN GEMS GONE IN 3 THEFTS

Woman's Necklace Stolen While Dining; Salesman's Jewels Taken From Auto.

New York, Aug. 29.—New York police today were investigating three daring jewel robberies in which pearls and diamonds valued at more than $250,000 were stolen.

Canvass of pawnshops here was being made in an effort to locate a $100,000 pearl necklace stolen from Mrs. Jerome Loucheim, wealthy Philadelphia, at Saratoga Springs; $100,000 worth of uncut diamonds stolen from the automobile of a New York salesman in Philadelphia, and seventeen strings of pearls, valued at more than $50,000, taken from the showrooms of Jacques Blenheim & Co., jewelers.

Mrs. Loucheim reported that her necklace was stolen while she was in the Lido-Venice restaurant, at Saratoga, or on her way home. The necklace, she said, was composed of 130 matched pearls.

The diamonds were taken from the automobile of Frank Hardin, salesman for J. R. Wood & Sons, while it was parked in front of a jewelry store in Philadelphia. The daring robbery of the Blenheim establishment, though perpetrated on August 17, has just been reported to the police.

The necklaces were taken from a safe deposit vault in the Guaranty bank and taken to the Blenheim show rooms on the sixth floor of the bank building. They were placed in separate envelopes and all of these were put in a black bag which was left on a counter in the show rooms.

Several hours later employees noticed the black bag had disappeared. A frantic search failed to reveal it.

A reward of $3,000 has been offered for the return of the Blenheim pearls by an insurance agency.

FRANCE MAY WITHDRAW TROOPS IN RHINELAND

Berlin, Aug. 29.—A report that France will consent to further Rhineland evacuations if Germany will intervene with the United States to bring about an international conference for consideration of war debts and reparations was published today by the newspaper Berliner Zeitung Am Mittag.

This newspaper, which is believed to have obtained its information from sources close to Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the foreign secretary, summarized the situation as follows: Premier Poincare is ready to evacuate the second Rhineland zone immediately. Germany agrees to link up the question of evacuation of the third zone with reparations and war debts. Germany would act as mediator between France and America to prepare the ground at Washington for a final war debt settlement after the American presidential election in November.

M. M. Merrill, Manager of Curtiss Field and Com- panion Missing Since Afternoon—Many Ma- chines Join in Search.

Curtiss, Field, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Ten airplanes took the air here today, led by C. S. (Casey) Jones, president of the Curtiss Flying Service, to begin a search for M. M. Merrill, manager of the service, who was last heard from when he left Buffalo at 4:10 p. m. Monday, in Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's Curtiss-Falcon biplane bound for Curtiss Field.

Jones took off in a Fairchild cabin monoplane and was immediately followed by three more Fairchilds, two Curtiss Falcons, a Stearman, two Army planes and a Junkers.

Through Three States
Before departing Jones announced that they would fly in a wide fan formation over the course usually taken by planes flying from Buffalo to New York. This course will take them through northern New Jersey, northern Pennsylvania and southwestern New York.

Each plane is carrying two observers who will watch the ground through powerful glasses as the planes move along.

Each plane is equipped to drop a note to any town or farm in the event the Merrill plane is located in a spot where it is not possible to land.

Grave fears were entertained for the safety of the two missing flyers because they knew every foot of the way between Buffalo and Curtiss Field. They had fuel for only five or six hours flying.

They left Buffalo about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. When they failed to arrive Monday night, some surprise was felt and this feeling developed into concern when they did not "report in" yesterday. Merrill would realize that his continued absence would cause anxiety at the flying field.

The general belief of pilots is that either motor trouble or unfavorable weather forced the two flyers to land at some remote spot.

NO VISIBILITY
New York, Aug. 29.—When M. M. Merrill and Edwin M. Ronne flew from Buffalo airport Monday afternoon, since they have not been heard from, they encountered an area of virtually no visibility.

This information was learned today from Captain Homer M. Barry, aviation editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, who flew here from Chicago on the same day in a Stearman Whirlwind, accompanied by his wife, the former Patricia Dougherty, and Martin Straus, president of the Hartman Furniture Company.

"The weather closed in so tight around us near Bellefont, Pa., that I was clearing the tree tops by only 100 feet or so. There was no ceiling at all. In all likelihood, Merrill had to cope with the same conditions."

"We stayed down in the valleys and passed by the two missing flyers, the fog and rain were so thick we couldn't have kept our bearings. And it looked a good deal worse to the north, in the general direction of Buffalo. The going was very rough."

SEARCH NEAR BUFFALO
Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29.—A Colonial mail plane piloted by A. E. Moulthrop and Nathaniel Duffy reported to the local airport today that they had found no trace between Buffalo and Elmira of M. M. Merrill and Edwin M. Ronne, missing flyers.

Moulthrop said they had searched the ground carefully over the route usually followed by planes bound for New York. They will continue to search for New York in their search for the missing aviators.

ELIMINA THE BASE
Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 29.—With the airport here as a base several planes today will take part in the search for M. M. Merrill, manager of Curtiss Field, N. Y., and Edwin M. Ronne, manager of the Buffalo, N. Y., Municipal Airport who vanished in Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Curtiss-Falcon plane after taking off from Buffalo late Monday afternoon. The search will cover parts of two states—New York and Pennsylvania.

Nathan E. Duffy, assistant to Ronne, arrived here last night from Buffalo to direct the search for the lost aviators. The planes will thoroughly cover the territory near Troy, N. Y., and Canton, Pa., because of the belief that the missing

MAY TAKE WATER FIGHT TO COURTS

Health Board Gets Into Row Over 5th District's Unpaid Bill.

An unpaid water bill of $250, due to the South Manchester Water Company for water supplied to the Fifth District School building and an order that unless the bill is paid that the water shall be shut off at the school on Saturday, today brought action in the school and health boards, but pending a decision from the state boards, both school and health, the climax is being held up.

The school shall not be closed because of lack of water is the statement made by Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, chairman of the town board of health, while E. J. Murphy, chairman of the town school committee, has expressed the opinion that the school will not reopen until the trouble over the water bill is adjusted to the satisfaction of the school board.

Dissension over Fifth district finances, which has been stewing for four years, is still in the courts and the reason for the water bill not being paid, is the opinion of Frederick R. Manning, treasurer of the district, as well as attorney for the district, that it might weaken the standing of the case now in court to pay any part of the bill.

A Family Fight

The trouble in the Fifth district is due to a long standing family feud in the district and this has drawn others into the contest until the district is about evenly divided.

Two years ago, when Arthur E. Loomis was committeeman in the district, an addition was built to the school. The outdoor toilets were removed and in the addition new plumbing was installed for the accommodation of the pupils, who last year numbered eighty. The drinking water supply previous to the installation of the city water supply had come from a well in the front part of the school yard.

The well has been condemned as it is too low. The school yard drains into it and there are other conditions around the school that make it unfit for drinking purposes. Since the regular water was piped into the school the well has not been used.

The alterations were made by Mr. Loomis who was acting, he has stated, on the advice of the town school board. The bill for the work, which was done by Mr. Loomis and Contractor Amie Demars, was not paid. The district meetings fought over the bill and it was later taken to the courts. Judge Thomas Kelly in the Court meeting being held on the 27th, gave judgment for Mr. Demars and Mr. Loomis and from this decision Atty. Manning appealed to the supreme court, where it is pending.

When a demand was made last week on Mr. Manning for the payment of the water company's bill he refused on the grounds that it might effect his case. The order to discontinue the water followed.

This morning Dr. Moore was arranging to meet officers of the State Board of Health and is of the opinion that the water company will not be allowed to shut off the water in the school building. There is talk of an injunction to prevent this.

In this action, however, the School Board does not seem to concur. Its members have talked the matter over in an informal way, without their meeting being called, and while they have taken no decided action the chairman's opinion is that the school should be closed until the trouble is settled to their satisfaction once and for all time.

One solution of this would be for the Town School Board to guarantee the water bill for the past year and arrange for the water company to continue to supply water.

Water Company's Stand

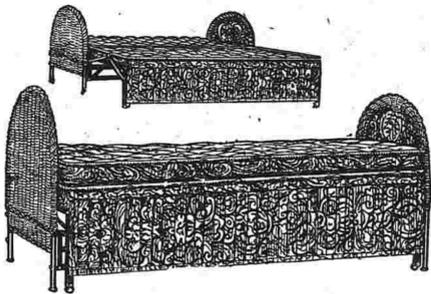

The South Manchester Water Company's position on the question is one of dollars and cents. The water mains were extended from Keeney street and Hackmatack junction to the school, a distance of over an eighth of a mile. The number of users of water in that section did not warrant the extending of the mains except for use of the water in the school and the possible development of the section later. For the money expended in bringing the water to the school the company has not received one cent of return. In addition to the bill of $250 that has already accumulated for water rent there is an interest charge.

School is scheduled to open in the district Tuesday.

Perley Stevens to Play Tonight.

Sandy Beach Ballroom is offering a special attraction tonight with a return engagement of the famous Perley Stevens orchestra of Boston. This splendid dance band made a decided hit with the patrons of the ballroom on their first appearance in July and are conceded to be the finest dance orchestra that has appeared at the ballroom at Crystal Lake this season. A large crowd is sure to turn out this evening to hear the "jerk of Boston's" finest musicians and a new attendance record will no doubt be established at Sandy Beach Ballroom.

Saturday afternoon a big Bathing Beauty Contest has been arranged for Sandy Beach Park and will offer free to the public a galaxy of handsome girls in gorgeous and colorful costumes. The contest is open to any girl who desires to enter and there is no charge for entrance. Following the bathing beauty contest which will commence at 4 o'clock, there will be a big dance in the evening with music by Norb Saegaert and his King's Restaurant Melody Boys of twelve piece including singers, comedians and instrumentalists. Mr. Saegaert has gathered together a fine dance band including Tommie Marshall, pianist, Harry Goldfob and Jack Keeney, saxophonists, Henry Murphy, banjoist and vocal soloist and several equally as well known musicians.

There will be a dance at the ballroom Labor Day night with music by Al Behrend's orchestra of 10 pieces.

Union Christian Endeavor Meeting

Another meeting of the series of union meetings will be held this evening by the Rockville Christian Endeavor Union at the Coventry Congregational church. There will be brief addresses by Winifred and Elizabeth Davis of Ellington.

Night Blooming Cereus

A night blooming Cereus belonging to Mrs. Arthur Newell of Park street attracted considerable attention during its blooming period on Friday evening when it burst forth into bloom at 9 p. m. Mrs. Newell has cared for the plant for over eight years, this being the first time it has blossomed. The blossoms closed at 5 a. m., it was the size of a bread and butter plate.

Miss Elizabeth White

Miss Elizabeth White, aged 60 years, died at the Rockville City hospital at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. She was born in Alma-house, England, the daughter of William and Mercy (Moore) White. She has resided in Rockville most of her life.

Miss White was a member of the Union Congregational church and was very active in Red Cross work during the war. She was an artist and conducted painting classes for many years.

She is survived by a half sister, Mrs. Emma Cann and three nieces, Mrs. Rhodella Turner of this city, Mrs. Hazel Braumlich of Clinton, N. J., and Mrs. Anna Gregson of Georgia.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 o'clock at her home on Union street. Rev. George S. Brookes will officiate, burial will be at Grove Hill cemetery.

Notes

Mrs. Oscar Phillips and children of Davis avenue are visiting in Newark, N. J.

Raymond May of Turners Falls, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. Robert Liebe of Prospect street.

Miss Christine Bush of Somerville, N. J., is the guest of her father, Julius Bush.

Howard Shoph, manager of the Grant Store, is spending a two weeks' vacation in Lancaster, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sweeney of Vernon avenue are enjoying an auto trip through New York state and Pennsylvania.

Perley Stevens and his band will play at Sandy Beach tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bilson of Orchard street are motoring through Maine.

Mrs. Harry Friedrich and son Gordon of Village street are spending a few days at Pleasant View.

Clifford Gustafson of Hackmatack street, graduate of Manchester High School and now director of physical education at the high school in Sayville, L. I., left this morning for that place, but instead of making the trip either by train or automobile as most persons would have to, he went by sailing yacht.

Gustafson is the owner of the thirty-foot sloop "Sunshine" which he bought last year and in which he returned to Hartford by way of the Connecticut river at the close of school in June. He has kept the yacht moored in the river near the Hartford Yacht Club during the summer. Many local persons have had the pleasure of a sail on the sloop this summer.

Oliver Gotberg of School street is making the trip to Sayville as skipper Gustafson's crew. If the breeze is too light with a gun this morning, part of the trip will have to be made under motor power. They plan to stop at a shore resort near Saybrook tonight and continue the journey across the sound tomorrow.

NEW STRATON DEBATE STOPPED BY CLERGYMAN

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 28.—A debate between Dr. John Roach Straton, of New York, and ex-Senator T. W. Hardwick, of Georgia, on the candidacy of Governor Al Smith was headed off today by Rev. C. A. Upchurch, state Anti-Saloon League superintendent.

J. S. Riffin, local Smith man, challenged Dr. Straton to turn his anti-Smith speech here next Monday night into a joint debate with the ex-Senator from Georgia, but Rev. Upchurch, before receiving a reply from Dr. Straton, declined the challenge.

Upchurch is sponsoring the anti-Smith rally at which Dr. Straton is to speak.

The Democratic Party in the south is going to remain dry and will be an effective agency to prevent the repeal of prohibition, Josephus Daniels, ex-secretary of navy, informed Straton in a letter "correcting an impression left by Dr. Straton that I had bolted Gov. Smith."

Those that seek to attack the truth are themselves hypocrites. I want none of them as friends. Mrs. Burham has named the child Vera, from the Latin veritas, meaning truth. Can I say more?"

In March, 1927, this woman recommended him to another woman whose home was in West Fifty-Ninth street and who had a "pupil" who wanted a model.

Medvedeff wears he was paid $150 after two visits to the woman. He identified "Miss Annie" as Mrs. Burham.

Efforts to get in touch with Mrs. Burham today were fruitless. She has moved from her former address and no trace of her whereabouts could be obtained.

Medvedeff's wife, who lived in Holyoke, Mass., with her father, Aaron, and her twenty-one months old child, Carolyn, is now in New York. She has not seen her husband for some time.

FATHER BEGS FOR GUN AFTER MURDERING SON

Asks for Weapon So He Can Kill Himself—Tragedy Follows Quarrel.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Arthur F. Falk, Chicago park commissioner, who shot and killed his only son, during a quarrel, with a gun he had given the boy for Christmas, today begged for death.

Sitting in his cell, overcome by grief, Falk pleaded with a guard to give him his gun that he might end his "miserable life."

At the inquest yesterday, Falk, still slightly under the effects of moonshine liquor, collapsed over the body of his son. He had to be carried bodily from the undertaking rooms.

Falk's only daughter, Vernice, who with her mother witnessed the tragedy in the Falk home, also collapsed at the inquest. The coroner continued the investigation until September seventh.

The shooting occurred early yesterday when the elder Falk came home under the influence of drink and quarreled with his son, Eldridge, 22.

will be the guest of honor at the New York state fair. Tonight he will speak at the annual farm dinner given by Jerome H. Barnum, publisher, but he has made it plain that presidential campaign issues will not be discussed.

Before going to the fair tomorrow Smith will sit in at a meeting of the Democratic state committee when M. William Bray of Utica, will be elected chairman to succeed Lieutenant Governor Edwin Corning of Albany.

The governor plans to return to Albany tomorrow night and spend a quiet week end at the executive mansion. He expects to remain at Albany most of the coming week, perfecting plans for his itinerary.

Rockville

Perley Stevens to Play Tonight.

Sandy Beach Ballroom is offering a special attraction tonight with a return engagement of the famous Perley Stevens orchestra of Boston. This splendid dance band made a decided hit with the patrons of the ballroom on their first appearance in July and are conceded to be the finest dance orchestra that has appeared at the ballroom at Crystal Lake this season. A large crowd is sure to turn out this evening to hear the "jerk of Boston's" finest musicians and a new attendance record will no doubt be established at Sandy Beach Ballroom.

Saturday afternoon a big Bathing Beauty Contest has been arranged for Sandy Beach Park and will offer free to the public a galaxy of handsome girls in gorgeous and colorful costumes. The contest is open to any girl who desires to enter and there is no charge for entrance. Following the bathing beauty contest which will commence at 4 o'clock, there will be a big dance in the evening with music by Norb Saegaert and his King's Restaurant Melody Boys of twelve piece including singers, comedians and instrumentalists. Mr. Saegaert has gathered together a fine dance band including Tommie Marshall, pianist, Harry Goldfob and Jack Keeney, saxophonists, Henry Murphy, banjoist and vocal soloist and several equally as well known musicians.

There will be a dance at the ballroom Labor Day night with music by Al Behrend's orchestra of 10 pieces.

Union Christian Endeavor Meeting

Another meeting of the series of union meetings will be held this evening by the Rockville Christian Endeavor Union at the Coventry Congregational church. There will be brief addresses by Winifred and Elizabeth Davis of Ellington.

Night Blooming Cereus

A night blooming Cereus belonging to Mrs. Arthur Newell of Park street attracted considerable attention during its blooming period on Friday evening when it burst forth into bloom at 9 p. m. Mrs. Newell has cared for the plant for over eight years, this being the first time it has blossomed. The blossoms closed at 5 a. m., it was the size of a bread and butter plate.

Miss Elizabeth White

Miss Elizabeth White, aged 60 years, died at the Rockville City hospital at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. She was born in Alma-house, England, the daughter of William and Mercy (Moore) White. She has resided in Rockville most of her life.

Miss White was a member of the Union Congregational church and was very active in Red Cross work during the war. She was an artist and conducted painting classes for many years.

She is survived by a half sister, Mrs. Emma Cann and three nieces, Mrs. Rhodella Turner of this city, Mrs. Hazel Braumlich of Clinton, N. J., and Mrs. Anna Gregson of Georgia.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 o'clock at her home on Union street. Rev. George S. Brookes will officiate, burial will be at Grove Hill cemetery.

Clifford Gustafson of Hackmatack street, graduate of Manchester High School and now director of physical education at the high school in Sayville, L. I., left this morning for that place, but instead of making the trip either by train or automobile as most persons would have to, he went by sailing yacht.

Gustafson is the owner of the thirty-foot sloop "Sunshine" which he bought last year and in which he returned to Hartford by way of the Connecticut river at the close of school in June. He has kept the yacht moored in the river near the Hartford Yacht Club during the summer. Many local persons have had the pleasure of a sail on the sloop this summer.

Oliver Gotberg of School street is making the trip to Sayville as skipper Gustafson's crew. If the breeze is too light with a gun this morning, part of the trip will have to be made under motor power. They plan to stop at a shore resort near Saybrook tonight and continue the journey across the sound tomorrow.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 29, 1923

ROSE FIGURING Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National Committee has figured it out that Governor Smith is going to receive 309 electoral votes, leaving 222 to go to Mr. Hoover or who have you. After that, we should say that Mr. Raskob will need to take a few days off for golf or fishing. He has accomplished a terrific task.

These 309 votes are the output of states which, Mr. Raskob says, "any prudent business man would at this time classify for Smith." There is a trifle of three other states which he is fairly confident about, but which he is not yet ready to positively claim. They are North and South Dakota and Wyoming. Somebody must have sent him a letter because there is no mention of Connecticut.

Here is Mr. Raskob's "prudent business man's" list: Alabama, 12 electoral votes; Arkansas, 9; Florida, 6; Georgia, 14; Louisiana, 10; Mississippi, 10; North Carolina, 12; Texas, 20; South Carolina, 8; Virginia, 12—or the well known 14 of the Solid South; Kentucky, 13; Tennessee, 12; Oklahoma, 10; New York, 46; New Jersey, 14; Rhode Island, 5; Massachusetts, 18; Wisconsin, 13; Minnesota, 12; Nebraska, 8; Missouri, 18; Maryland, 8; Arizona, 3; Colorado, 8; Montana, 4; New Mexico, 3; Nevada, 3—or, for the North, East and West, 195, with a grand total of Mr. Raskob's 309.

As a prudent business man Mr. Raskob might be willing to extend unlimited credit to an automobile agent who was betting his money on Smith carrying Nebraska, Minnesota, Tennessee and Oklahoma, all or any, but he shrewdly suspected that he would ask for several highly responsible endorsers. And we have some doubt that he would accept as confidential advisor any prudent business man who listed Missouri, Kentucky or Massachusetts as in the bag for the Democracy.

As a matter of fact this Smith candidacy always appears a lot more impressive when it is looked at as a general spectacle than when it is analyzed. Grant that Smith will carry the Solid South—which isn't at all sure with relation to North Carolina and not so everlasting certain with relation to Virginia—and New York, which is very uncertain indeed, and then give him Maryland and New Jersey for good measure, and you find him still lacking no less than sixty-five electoral votes of election. Which is a fair kind of a bunch to pick up here and there in drips and drabs from little states which he has at best only a chance of carrying.

There is, of course, not the remotest chance that he will carry Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska or Oklahoma, and if he lost not another one of Raskob's fantastic enumeration he would only have the exact number of votes needed to elect. While the certain delivery of the electoral vote of Tennessee to Hoover, or the scarcely less certain carrying of Kentucky by the Republican candidate would tie the craps on Smith's chances.

The trouble with Smith's situation is that there are two few electoral votes that are at all sure to go him and too many that are sure to go to Hoover, while of the more or less doubtful ones, the best that the Democrats can possibly expect is a split that will leave them floundering in the soup.

CLAIMS DURANT PRIZE The first claimant for the $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant for the best plan to enforce the Eighteenth amendment is the New York World. That newspaper takes advantage of the situation to recapitulate some of the utterances of high enforcement officials in the past. One of them is Mr. Lowman, whom the World quotes as saying that it would take 30,000 men to enforce prohibition in New York alone. The World therefore introduces the employment of 300,000 throughout the country, the proportionate number. It quotes former United States Attorney Buckner as saying that enforcement in New York state would cost seven times as much as the appropriation for the whole country, or seventy million dollars. Proportionately the cost for the whole country would be seven hundred million dollars. The World advocates that, it advocates the removal of all restrictions on wire-tapping and the establishment of the "under-cover" service asked from Congress by General Andrews; and the abandonment of attempts to develop a harmless denaturant. It advocates the creation of a new federal bench of several thousand judges to hear violation cases and doubling the present judiciary to hear appeals. And it advocates the abolishment of trial by jury.

In all these advocacies the World follows closely upon plans at one or another time recommended by dry officers or dry propagandists. But for all the cleverness of the presentation it seems to us that the newspaper is a bit off the track. Mr. Durant did not offer a prize for the best plan to enforce the Volstead act but the best plan to enforce the Eighteenth amendment, which experience may yet prove to be an entirely different matter.

WANT HIM NOW A few days ago the New York Democrats thought they were going to draft United States Senator Wagner to be their candidate for governor. Mr. Wagner, who was elected to the Senate when just enough Republican drags bolted Jimmy Wadsworth to seat his equally wet opponent, sees no percentage, however, in giving up a perfectly good senatorship with several years yet to run, in order to add strength to the state ticket and so perhaps help elect Smith to the Presidency while getting licked himself. He positively refuses to play the game that way.

It was about the time the Democrats were so sure of Wagner that they left Franklin D. Roosevelt, crippled nominator of Smith at Houston, sitting out on the steps of the Albany capitol, in the rain, while Tammany claquers packed the room where Smith was delivering his acceptance speech. He was quite forgotten about. Now the Tammanyites have remembered Mr. Roosevelt again. It has suddenly occurred to them that he would make a cracking good candidate for the governorship for which Wagner refuses to be drafted. About the strongest candidate, in fact, they could get. So just at present Mr. Roosevelt isn't likely to be permitted to sit out in the rain again—not until he refuses to run, as he probably will.

Mr. Roosevelt's loyalty to the Democracy is amazingly persistent. But he knows his onions in New York politics, and it is doubtful if he is likely to accept a nomination where he would be likely as not to be traded off by the Tammany machine on the basis of two votes for the Republican gubernatorial candidate for one vote for Smith.

HAG-RIDDEN The die-hard ultra-isolationists are already beginning to call on the United States Senate to reject the multilateral treaty which Mr. Kellogg signed at Paris, along with the representatives of fourteen other nations, on Monday.

It is a terrible thing to become obsessed with the idea that all of Africa and South America, are engaged in an absorbed conspiracy to trick this country of ours into some sort of situation where we will have to go to war against our will because some foreign ally whistles to us. But the die-hards have gotten into that way.

The Springfield Union sees in that Paris treaty, which to almost everybody else appears to be about as innocuous and no-account an instrument as was ever signed with fess and feathers, a subtly conceived trap for the gullest feet of the Goddess of Liberty and the next generation of doughboys. "Don't ratify it!" the Union shouts in panic stricken alarm.

There is a type of individual who wouldn't write his name with a nail on a cake of ice lest some body might have a secret process of converting the ice into paper and write in a promissory note ahead of the signature. There is an ugly if not short word for this brand of caution. It is "cowardice," and there is an adjective that goes with it—"stupid."

DARK AGE ITEM The news dispatches have carried items concerning the issuance of a warrant in Boston for the arrest of Dr. Horace M. Kallen of Bethel, this state, well known philosopher and former Harvard University lecturer, for blasphemy, and concerning its withdrawal from the judge of the Boston Municipal court, without any positive identification ever having been made of the complainant in the case.

The act of "blasphemy" attributed to Dr. Kallen is that, in the course of remarks made at the Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting, he declared that "if Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists then Jesus Christ was an anarchist." It is doubtful if there is in all the world any government that would entertain the thought of inflicting punishment upon a person who expressed the thought embodied in that clause—outside of Massachusetts. Dr. Kallen's purpose in making the comparison was absolutely obvious. He was justifying the position of Sacco and Vanzetti; he certainly was not attacking the "social theories of the Savior.

We know, of course, that Jesus was far from teaching the unnecessary of law—though there has always been a little group of theorists who have called themselves by variants of the term "Christian Anarchists" and who have persistently argued that Christ's only law was love and that no other law than love was heeded for the happiness and well being of the race; a rather beautiful theory, but one that is forgetful of the insincerity of the world's civilization. Dr. Kallen hardly belongs to that school.

Whoever was responsible for the warrant for the philosopher represented the last-ditch rear-guard of the dark ages. It is a pity that his identity never became known. It would be worth a ten-cent admission to get a peek at the shape of his head.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Herald. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

ARTHRITIS DEFORMANS In this disease a pain of the joints is the first symptom. It may be either an acute or chronic form. In the acute type there is some fever, and the joints are swollen and sore to the touch. The finger joints are most often affected, the spine next, and the knees third, although any joint in the body may be attacked. The joints become swollen because of a thickening of the capsule of the joint and the surrounding tissues. Gradually there is a bony enlargement producing great deformity. This is accompanied by an atrophying and wasting of the muscles. Extreme cases are pitiful as the patient becomes helpless, with his legs and arms drawn up and fixed, unable to walk. This disease occurs most frequently between the ages of twenty-five and fifty, although it may occur in children and the extremely aged.

Arthritis is considered a secondary infection to some other part, possibly the sinuses, nasal passages, pyorrhea, bronchitis, gonorrhea, prostatitis, inflammation of the middle ear, tonsillitis, pelvic diseases and infections of the intestinal and bile tracts. Meat is not the cause of this disorder as many people suppose. Arthritis patients seem to be unable to handle the ordinary amount of carbohydrate foods. The toxins in the blood stream seem to originate from the fermentation of the sugars and starches in the intestinal tract. Many patients suffer severe pains after using these in their diet. Lactic acid from sour milk and fermenting cabbage also seems to contribute to the soreness.

As the body endeavors to protect the joints against the acid of the blood, it throws out a secretion around the joint which solidifies into bone. This inflammation and deposit produce an enlargement of the joints, forcing them out of shape and causing a deformity. This is sometimes so severe as to throw the joint entirely out of its normal position. Arthritis deformans is usually considered incurable, but I have seen some remarkable cures in this disease, even in advanced cases, where the patient had the stamina to closely adhere to the dieting regime for a long period of time. Quick results cannot be expected because of the bony changes that are taking place. First, the original focal infections must be cleared up by fasting and local treatments. Then the extreme virulent toxins present in the patient's body must be eliminated, and lastly, the bone must be given an opportunity to completely heal. With this disorder it is advisable for the patient to remain reasonably quiet so that there will be no greater irritation of the joints. The patient must be kept constantly warm during the process of cure. It is of the utmost importance that the diet be regulated to avoid all fermentation in the intestinal tract.

Questions and Answers Question: R. G. writes: "For some time I have been troubled with swelling at the corner of my left eye. When I press at the side or under it there is a discharge which seems to come from a pin-point of an opening in my lower lid just as though there was a hair out. I have very little pain from it, but I would like if you could tell me what to do, as I am afraid it might cause some disease of the bone of my cheek or nose." Answer: It would be wise for you to consult an oculist and have him give his opinion about the cause of your trouble. If the treatment which he suggests does not help you, write me again, giving me his diagnosis and will make whatever suggestions I think best. Question: Mrs. Jerry B. writes: "Have been reading your health articles and listening in on your radio talks and am very much interested. Will you please give a list of non-starchy vegetables?" Answer: Practically all vegetables are non-starchy except potatoes and Hubbard squash. Here is a list of those I consider best to use, both raw and cooked: Celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, cucumbers, egg plant, beet tops, turnip tops, small beets, small carrots, small parsnips, pumpkin, lettuce, okra, chayotes, oyster plant, mallow, kale, zucchini, parsley, endive, alligator pear, and ripe olives. Question: Mrs. A. G. S. writes: "Please advise me what to do with a child that holds its breath till it is black in the face and lifeless. What causes this condition?" Answer: When a child cries so hard that it holds its breath for a long period of time it is usually because of indigestion due to wrong feeding. He is frantic to tell you about it, and probably loses his temper because he cannot properly express himself. The shock from the application of a cold towel over the body is a good cure for this habit. The tides of the ocean are influenced by the moon, modified somewhat by a similar influence of the sun.

WASHINGTON LETTER By RODNEY DUTCHER Washington, Aug. 29.—Up to election time the politicians feel that nothing is too good for the women. After that, it seems to be different. As long as there are votes to be corralled, their sex, with its 25 or 30 million possible ballots, is the equal of the male in every respect. This will be the third presidential election in which the ladies have been permitted to function. Meanwhile they have been put on a more or less equal footing on both the Republican and Democratic national committees with one woman member for every man member, given vice chairmanships and had special jobs created for them to encourage them to round up their sisters under the party standard. The candidates never neglect to make soulful appeals to American womanhood and the party platforms continue to felicitate all concerned on the fact that the sexes now have equal rights. Many earnest gals go out and work their heads off in every state for one state of candidates or the other. Isn't it wonderful the way women are playing a bigger and bigger part in national affairs? But after the votes are counted and all the male politicians prepare to line up for places, the ladies generally are taken for a sleigh ride and dumped into a deep snowbank. If a single one happens to get a finger into the gravy boat, it becomes a national sensation and everybody beats the drum in celebration of this new recognition of the way American women are forging ahead and taking their places beside the men. Your correspondent can think of just about three women in the government service occupying really large and important jobs. They are Mabel Walker Willebrandt, one of several assistant attorney generals; Civil Service Commissioner Jessie Dell and Chairman Beatie Parker Brugman of the United States Employees' Compensation Commission. Except for these women and perhaps a few holding minor positions the plums of the national patronage orchard appear to be regarded as forbidden fruit for their sex. One hears vague rumors that Smith or Hoover would appoint the first woman cabinet member, but they're quite unsubstantiated. After looking over the roster of the executive departments as now constituted, one almost wonders how the government gets along with so few women. The president's three secretaries and his executive clerk are all men. Owing to the tradition of feminine tact and diplomacy one might expect to find a few women in State Department jobs, but of about 50 such jobs considered important enough to list in the Congressional Directory one finds only two women to be among 20 or more assistants to the collector. So many women these days handle the family budget that there ought to be a few in the Treasury Department, but there aren't. Clerks and stenographers, of course, as in all the departments, but we're not thinking of those. Of 115 administrative or executive jobs listed for the Treasury and its numerous subsidiary bureaus—internal revenue, customs, budget, public health and so on—we find that Mrs. Brownie Kerr is chief clerk of the Budget Bureau and that Mary M. O'Reilly is assistant director of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, customs, budget, public health and so on. We find that Mrs. Brownie Kerr is chief clerk of the Budget Bureau and that Mary M. O'Reilly is assistant director of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, customs, budget, public health and so on. We find that Mrs. Brownie Kerr is chief clerk of the Budget Bureau and that Mary M. O'Reilly is assistant director of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, customs, budget, public health and so on.

Finally, the Department of Labor actually has two bureaus "manned" completely by women—the Women's Bureau and Children's Bureau. So much for the departments. The Civil Service Commission has two women assistant chiefs of division, but in the General Accounting Office, Internal Commerce Commission, Bureau of Efficiency, Board of Mediation, Federal Reserve Board, Federal Trade Commission, Shipping Board and countless other miscellaneous groups women in responsible positions are as rare as hot dog stands in graveyards. There are four women among 435 members of the House and none in the Senate. Three are widows who took their husbands' jobs. Funny, isn't it, that with the politicians working the women for all they're worth during the vote-getting season, they don't give them a few nominations? If you want more evidence of the recognition the women get when it comes to the big object of politics to most politicians, look at the federal jobholders outside Washington—judges, district attorneys, collectors of the port, postmasters, marshals and the like. FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

(170) Fourteen Gas and Electric Utilities.

In addition to the 32 utilities engaged solely in the production and distribution of electric current and the eight companies engaged solely in the production of illuminating gas, there are fourteen utilities in Connecticut which produce both electric current and illuminating gas.

At the beginning of last year the fourteen gas and electric utilities had assets totaling $99,827,711, of which $69,486,473 was fixed capital. Operating revenues amounted to $18,513,115, $15,159,727 being derived from electric and $3,353,388 from gas operations. Total operating expenses for both divisions amounted to $10,850,924. The total operating expenses for the electric division were $8,466,898, and for gas, $2,384,026. The gross corporate income was $6,162,074 and the net income, $4,838,579. There was a combined surplus of $5,027,777.

Of the 15,423 stockholders of the gas and electric utilities, 33,025 are in Connecticut. The value of the shares held in Connecticut at par is $41,324,576, the total stock outstanding amounting to $50,868,200. The total amount paid in dividends by the companies for 1926 was $4,200,493.

During 1912 there were eighteen companies in this classification, having total assets of $18,209,499. There was a total surplus at the close of the year of $379,130. The total gross operating income from electric operations was $2,223,249, and from gas, $873,297. Total expenses for electric operations was $1,371,003; of gas operations $643,230, showing a gross profit of $1,082,313 and a net profit of $104,058. Only eleven companies paid dividends, the amount being $440,298.

New York, Aug. 29.—A lot of things have happened since strong men wept over their only to the nasal strains of "She's Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage." The song, Russell, for instance, has lost its lustre of maudlinity. If and when it is trotted out, the crowd laughs uproariously. A certain speakeasy cabaret in the Greenwich Village belt has filled its tables due to the presence of the singer of such sobby old ballads. Invariably its presentation, done with mock solemnity, gets a heavy laugh. Everyone with a memory, or with a grand-daddy, can hark back to a day when this song, like a great many others, was more or less typical of the moral viewpoint of the times. And there were the embryonic basses who all but fell down stairs on the last deep notes of "When the bell in the lighthouse rings ding-dong." Which brings us to the ever popular subject of the transient quality of fame. Both these songs were written by Londoner, sojourning in America. Arthur Lamb was his name. And he has collected many an honest dollar for his efforts. It was easy-come-easy-go with Lamb. The other day he had, I doubt if more than a few hundred, but in all America knew his name. In spite of the fortunes he must have made from his many popular songs, he died without a penny in his pocket. In fact, in the little town where he passed on, they knew so little of him that preparations were being made for burial in a pauper's grave. Someone in New York happened to learn about his death and money for the burial was forthcoming. It's an old, old story, with new names and addresses. Which reminds me—"Mary Earl," a name to be found on many a copy of sheet music, is really Robert A. King, I am told. He is the writer of a number of hits, including the "Beautiful Ohio Waltz," which, a few years back, sold into the millions. More than one man in Manhattan has done very well by assuming a feminine name and appearing to carry on a woman's work. Two fiction writers that I know of have successfully used women's names when writing. And, to my knowledge, no one knows the difference to this day. One of the most successful "love-lorn" departments, though it appeared under a woman's signature, was, for many years, carried on by a man. Many a prizefighter has been cast in the stage role of a fighter. Singers have played the role of fighters. Singers have played the role of singers and dancers have appeared as dancers. But for the first time, unless my memory fails me, a newspaper man has been cast to play a reporter. He is Russell Crouse, who of late has been columnizing on an afternoon Manhattan paper. Those over-night "discoveries" don't always "take." There was, for instance, a young man named Edwin Pawley. A couple of seasons ago he appeared in a play, "The Same Woman." Critics didn't get wildly excited about the play, but broadcast Pawley as a "find." But he dropped out of sight just the same. The other night when "Elmer Gantry" opened, Pawley was "discovered" all over again. This time he may get the breaks—and, again, in a couple of seasons they may "find" him once more. It happens that way, now and then, on Broadway. GILBERT SWAN.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Wednesday, August 29.

7:00-7:30- "Here's to the Maiden of Beautiful Fifteen," an old English toast, will be sung during the Wayside Inn program to be heard through WJZ at 10:30 Wednesday night. "The Hunt Is Up," another old time air, will open the program, which is concerned with the adventures of Young Rufus and Lady Dorothy, their Jacolite friends, inn keeper and the sheriff of Nottingham. Songs of the North to cool summer radio listeners of WOR and the Columbia stations will be broadcast at 9 o'clock in a new theme program entitled "From the Northland." Half an hour later the United Military Band will present through these same stations "The Evolution of Tenkes Poole," by Lake. This selection begins with the primitive tune and carries it through various harmonies up to the well known snappy rhythm song today. Light opera for Wednesday night will feature "Prince Ananias," by Victor Herbert, for the Philco stations through WJZ and associated stations at 9, Gilbert and Sullivan's miniature opera, "Trial by Jury," by Koster through WOR and Columbia stations at 10 and Riddiogo, through WJZ and Philco stations at 10:30. This latter, a comic opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, is replete with ghosts, murders, mysteries and evil curses.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, spoiled and potted, tells CRAIG NEWHALL, when he asks her to marry him, of her romance with JOHN LAWRENCE, who went to France with the A. E. F. and never returned. "Do you," she asks Craig, "want to marry me now?"

And Newhall, refusing to be jealous of a dead man, takes her in his arms and kisses her devoutly, little dreaming that Sybil will marry him to please her dying father, whose happiness she desires more than anything in the world. They drive home to tell the news to Mr. Thorne. The house is lighted from top to bottom and two solemn men, with black bags, are leaving by the front door.

"Daddy's dead!" shrieks Sybil, and crumples in Craig's arms.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

Craig lifted Sybil to the ground. "Full yourself together, Sybil," he coaxed. "Dr. Parker hasn't come out yet. Perhaps it is only another consultation. Here, let me carry you."

He took her in his arms and she clung to him, sobbing, like a child. "And I was home, Craig! I left him—and he died. And I wasn't there. Oh—oh, Craig!"

He felt her tears on his cheek, and the convulsive sobs that racked her body.

"There, there, baby," he cradled her tenderly. "We won't go in honey, until you're feeling better. Just try to stop that crying. You'll make yourself sick, baby."

Her father's name was on her lips when she fainted. Craig carried her in and called Dr. Parker.

He leaned against the garden wall, still holding her, so that she seemed to get comfort from his quiet, strong body. In a few minutes she grew still, and only her limbs trembled, and her breath came in sobbing tremors.

"I'll call a doctor," he said. "If Daddy's alive, I wouldn't call. It might startle him. But you can't wake the dead, Craig."

Her voice rang shrill and sweet. "Oh, Daddy! . . . Daddy!"

His name was on her lips, when she fainted. Craig carried her in, and they laid her on the broad window seat in the hall, and called Dr. Parker.

He came from the death chamber with his little bag and his stethoscope.

"It's his heart," he said, and prepared a hypodermic, while Tad rushed for brandy, and Mrs. Thorne wrung her hands wretchedly, and called on God to witness her grief. "And I was home, Craig! I left him—and he died. And I wasn't there. Oh, God, God . . ."

It was Craig who took her away, and coaxed her, presently, to take a drink of brandy herself. Tad was sobbing like a baby.

Then Sybil opened her eyes. And, lucidly, she spoke strange words, clear as tinkling bells.

"You thought I fainted," she said, "but I died instead, and talked with Daddy. He said . . ."

"Oh, merciful God!" cried Mrs. Thorne shrieking her terror. "Sybil! Sybil! Edward! COME BACK TO ME . . ."

She crumpled at their feet—such a piteous little gray thing. Her gray hair in loosened waves about her face, all old and gray. And her dress of drab, gray stuff clinging in unlovely fashion to her poor thin body.

Irretrievably Craig thought of ashes. Ashes of love, of youth, and beauty. Nothing left of them, but a little old woman, anguishing.

Valerie was coming home for the wedding.

"I suppose," she wrote, "that it wouldn't be the thing to have a big wedding now. I'm absolutely heart-broken about it—about your father. I mean, did he suffer much? I suppose I can wear my wedding dress just the same. You see I've everything all bought, Tad. Mother thinks it would be quite unnecessary to change our plans completely. Though, of course, we sympathize so much with your poor mother."

"Was it an awful shock? He's been falling for so long, I suppose you sort of knew. But, then, it's dreadfully hard to realize. I remember when my Aunt Emma died it was like that. Such a shock, though we really ought to have been prepared. It's so complicated afterward. It won't do to have time to make a will. When Uncle Robert died, there was such a lot of trouble. Aunt Mary brought suit, and the lawyers got it all. Every cent. But, my goodness, of course there won't be any trouble in your family."

"I suppose you'll all get a third. I always thought it was awfully unfair for the widow to have two-thirds. And then, if there's a daughter, she seems to get all the left. But Sybil wouldn't be like that, of course. She would want you to have your share, I know. She's so broadminded, and then she works, too. Business women love to be self-supporting, I've noticed. I wonder if you'd love me any more, Tad, if I knew more about business. I'm awfully dumb about figures and things. Mother says I never did realize the value of money, and Daddy says you'd think it grew on bushes the way I spend it. But then, that's the way they brought me up. I tell Daddy he has only himself to blame."

"I'm just crazy to see you, Tad. There are millions of men over here—lots of rich Americans—but I've never seen anyone half as handsome as my Tad. . . . How is Sybil? I hope she's better now. Brain fever sounds so horrible. But perhaps that was only a false alarm. And don't forget to tell me how your mother is. You don't suppose she'd feel badly do you, Tad, if I wrote a veil?"

"Probably Sybil won't want to be a bridesmaid, but I thought I might have a maid of honor, anyhow. A wedding without ANY attendants is so mournful, somehow. And I think we ought to try to keep away."

smiling, even if your hearts ARE broken, don't you, Tad? . . ."

Tad did not intend that his mother and Sybil should see Valerie's letter. It was on his plate at dinner time.

"A letter from Val," Sybil told him. "We're dying for the news. She and her mother made a great pretense of cheerfulness before each other. Sometimes Sybil thought the effort was more wearing than natural grief would have been. Emotions repressed during the day have a way, she discovered, of bursting forth at night."

She used to lie on her back, after she had gone to bed, with her arms crossed over her face, to smother the sobs. During the day she preserved an assumed gaiety, so successful that sometimes her mother looking at her mournfully, would declare: "Sakes alive, Sybil, no one would ever guess your poor father hasn't been in his grave a month. The way you go on, child! Talking and laughing—my goodness. It doesn't seem right!"

Her little tirades annoyed Sybil, who had grown to treat her mother like an irritable child. The unfortunate woman took very little interest in life.

"The least I can do," thought Sybil, "is to be patient with her."

Letters from Valerie were always an epoch. Lucky Valerie, coming home to their wonderful Tad, Sybil, when the letters came, roused herself to artificial eagerness.

She wished that Valerie would find something to write about besides clothes, and "lots of rich Americans," and the thrills of Paris. English enthusiasts were beginning to pause at Sybil. She knew that she actively disliked Valerie.

She wondered if her dislike was tinged with jealousy. Valerie was so young and so happy. Valerie had not been beaten by life. Life, indeed, had smiled on her in passing, and scarcely touched her at all. Sybil felt, fantastically, that Valerie lived in a sort of aura of lovely colors—rosy, golden shades, touched with dawns and sunsets. While she—Sybil—lived in clouds of heavy black and sullen grays, through which she plodded, tragically, while Valerie danced.

"Read it, Tad," begged his mother, "out loud, Sybil and me."

"Just minute—let me glance through it first myself."

"Oh, you sweethearts!" admonished his mother, playfully, "with your lovey-dovey letters."

He read it through, and stuffed it in his pocket.

"Lord!" he exclaimed, "I just happened to think, Tom Henderson's waiting for a phone call from me. Excuse me a minute, will you?"

The telephone was upstairs. In a moment he was down again.

"Awfully sorry, Mother, but I must run down to see Tom. He's waiting for me. I'll have a bite downtown somewhere, and I'll be home early. Sorry I have to leave you."

The women began their meal in silence. Dallying with her salad, Mrs. Thorne looked up hesitantly.

"Did you think," she asked tremulously, "that Tad acted sort of funny about that letter? You don't suppose there's anything wrong, do you, Sybil? Sometimes I've wondered if Valerie isn't just a little self. And Tad's such a good boy—it seems like I couldn't bear anything. . . ."

There were tears in her eyes, and she raised her napkin unsteadily to her trembling lips.

"Oh, Mum," Sybil slipped from her chair to put a consoling arm about her mother's slender shoulders. "You're looking for an angel for your wonderful Tad. There isn't a girl on earth really good enough for him—and we're the ladies who know it—are't we, darling?"

Privately Sybil had her forebodings, and they made her somewhat more tender of Tad. "Poor little Tad," she said within her teeth. "Poor little devil," and for him—and we're the ladies who know it—are't we, darling?"

There's a fine Oriental, but better any day an honest domestic than a shoddy Oriental.

Choosing Color Scheme.

The color scheme may be taken from the chintz at the windows, from a picture, or from some bright upholstery. All decoration is a balancing of picture surfaces against plain ones, with stripes and checks and the like to hold them together. We may decide whether we want the windows, the floor or the upholstery to be the pictures, and then we will make everything else harmonize. In a busy living room, with many books, flowers, and pictures we may want to set them off with plain rich surfaces everywhere in the draperies, the rug, the upholstery. The wall and woodwork should be treated as one. A putty color, which is slightly darker than the ivory we have used so much gives a richer background. Dust or no dust, the floor should be stained a medium walnut color. A light floor kills a room.

A real living room is never finished. Year by year, it is growing. Sometimes we must wait months to find just the picture or vase we have wanted for a certain space. Only in this way can we achieve a truly "joy-of-living" room.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

NICOTINE REMOVAL NOT PERFECTED PROCESS

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Since so much material has been written on the danger of nicotine in tobacco, several manufacturers have placed upon the market cigars, cigarettes and loose tobacco from which the nicotine has been removed by various processes.

The usual method is to rewater the tobacco by treating it with superheated steam or by heating in vacuum chambers.

None of these processes is successful in the complete removal of the nicotine, so that the term "denicotinized" does not mean completely without nicotine, but merely with much less nicotine than in ordinary tobacco.

One of the dangers of smoking denicotinized preparations is the belief of the user that only the nicotine in the tobacco may be harmful, whereas there are many other constituents which, taken in overdoses, may interfere seriously with health.

The person who smokes denicotinized tobacco is likely to smoke much more than if he were to smoke ordinary tobacco, believing that it is entirely free from nicotine and without regard to the other constituents.

It seems to be the opinion of the denicotinized tobacco now available are of little use and that certainly most of them are not sufficiently low in nicotine to warrant unrestricted indulgence on the part of people who suffer ill effects from smoking.

THE WOMAN'S DAY
by ALLENE SCAOVER

There's "a Situation" in the Blank family, one of those situations which demands a capital because it has made such havoc. Th Blank family—father, mother, brother Bill, sister Kate, and sister Kate's numerous progeny are arrayed squarely against Sylvia, the daughter and sister.

It all happened because Sylvia's uncle gave her a summer log cabin. Sylvia and her uncle had been pals since the day Sylvia, about two feet high, all arrayed in a red merino Baby Bunting suit, went hunting with her uncle. And from that time on Sylvia and her uncle went bird-hunting, flower-hunting, mushroom-hunting together, till it was only to be expected that when Uncle reluctantly left a world which he had loved so dearly, he should leave Sylvia the cabin on the lake's edge, hidden in the heart of a pine woods, where they had spent so many happy hours.

Sylvia is the only unmarried girl in her family; the only "child" in an advertising agency. She lives at home because her parents register such protest at the very thought that she might not. They happen to be of a generation which assumes that unmarried daughters should stay at home.

The marriage brokers, and sisters left the family nest and went forth to erect homes of their own. But the parental home is still their home, too, a second home to which they feel free to go at any hour of the day or night and with no regard for the plans of those who live there.

YOUR CHILDREN
by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

If children are selfish, are mothers to blame?

We keep talking about the thoughtless younger generation and wag our heads about the way they were made to walk the chalk-mark when we were young, while all the time we are outdoing each other in making the younger generation what it is.

I overheard one mother tell another she hadn't had a trip anywhere for four years. I happened to know that her daughter had gone on a house party with enough finery and sports costumes and summer furs and what-not to have kept her mother at the sea-side for two weeks and paid for her railroad tickets besides. The daughter was always overdressed and it was not her fault. It was her mother's own ambition to have her look smarter than her friends.

It begins with little things, this idea of renunciation of mothers. For a child's own good, a mother should see that he accustoms himself to little sacrifices to make her comfortable. It is the best way to teach him unselfishness.

She may want him to have the one extra bit of cream on his pudding, but if he says, "Don't you want it, mother?" about one time out of two she should say, "Why, yes, I believe I will have it," and take it.

If she says invariably, "No, Jack, I want you to take it. I really don't wish it," getting into the habit of expecting her to say that very thing and resenting it if she surprises him by accepting?

If there is just room in the car for one more and she says, "No, I have some letters to write—I wish you'd take Jack. He'd love to go, I know," can you blame Jack if, in the years to come, the idea grows in his mind that since his mother is indifferent to her own comfort, why should he trouble himself about it?

No, we can't blame the younger generation for spending too much money, demanding luxury beyond our means, expecting cars, education, trips and what-not at their mother's expense, when mothers themselves have started the trouble.

Another case where an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

HAIR IS CONCEALED

Though coiffures for fall are very important, the new millinery takes no pains to reveal them. As a matter of fact the smart hats do not show any hair at all, but the brims are so interesting that there is no resulting severity.

DOUBLE V-LINE

A yellow chiffon evening gown is cut with a scarf tying below the yoke in the back, which gives a double V-line that is new and charming.

REAL BEAUTY IN OLDER FACES, A SPECIALIST SAYS

Natalie Thurston, beauty specialist, maintains that "Fascinating Forty" has advantages over "Sweet Sixteen," if the older woman takes the care of her personal grooming that she should.

"Blushing youth has no advantages over blushed-on maturity," Miss Thurston stated. "If you doubt it, hire yourself a front row table at any smart night club and see who rates the masculine attention. Sweet sixteen may win the dancing marathon. But when it comes to picking the woman men love to look at, Fascinating Forty gets the breaks."

In my opinion there are more outstanding beauties between 30 and 40 than among girls under 21. Ethel Barrymore, Gloria Swanson, Mary Pickford, the Talmadge and the Gish sisters, all famous for feminine perfection, are well over 30.

"After all, a face is but the mirror of a mind. The average woman does not begin to live until she is 30. After that, experience, plus the perfected cosmetics of this era, give her a 60-40 advantage over youth. The older woman must remember to make the most of her advantage. She really needs to be more careful of her grooming than the younger girl in her first blush of youth."

LIVING PAGEANT OF SCOTTISH GAMES AND SONGS FOR ALBERTA

Banff, Alberta—The Prince of Wales has again given his patronage to the Highland Gathering and Scottish Music Festival in the Canadian Rockies, running here from Aug. 31 to Sept. 3 with headquarters at the Banff Springs Hotel. Initiated a year ago, this living pageant of Scotland's games, dances and folk songs had from the start the support of the world's most popular prince.

During the Festival's four days Banff will witness a gathering of the clans, each wearing its historic tartan, while the twenty mountain peaks re-echo the blood-warming skirl of the bagpipes and the songs that Scots have sung for seven centuries.

Through the courtesy of Colonel the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Canada's Minister of National Defense, who is Honorary Patron of this gathering, the Highland Regiment of the Dominion will be represented by delegate pipers, and there will be additional pipers from other units.

A series of concerts of Scottish music have been arranged by Harold Eustace Key, music director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is staging for the first time in Canada, and for the first time in nearly a century anywhere, "The Jolly Beggars," a cantata with text by Burns and music by Sir Henry Bishop. Prof. S. R. Rait, Historiographer Royal of Scotland, has collaborated in the presentation of a new ballad opera dealing with the Court of St. James V.

The concert programs offer a conspectus of Scottish songs, beginning with the 13th century, continuing through the period of Mary Queen of Scots, the Stuarts and the Jacobites, with selections from the songs of Burns, Sir Walter Scott, Lady Nairne and Christopher North, as well as the Hebridean music recently made popular by Margaret Kennedy-Fraser. These songs will be sung in their original Gaelic or in Lowland Scots by Mme. Jeanne Duseau, formerly of the Chicago Opera; Campbell McInnes, director of diction for the American Opera Company; Miss Marion Copp, noted Canadian singer; Finlay Campbell, Gaelic tenor, and John Moncrieff, basso with the American Opera Company.

More examples typifying the principle of the duck are:

- 7—Dummy holding—clubs A Q 8 5 4; declarer holding—clubs 7 2. Six cards in the club suit are missing. Duck the first time. Five cards in the second round. Four tricks may be made in this manner.
- 8—Dummy holding—spades A K 8 7 2; declarer—spades 5 4 3. Five cards in the spade suit are missing. Duck the first time and you may make four tricks.
- 9—Dummy holding—hearts A 8 7 6 2; declarer holding—hearts 5 4 3. Five cards in the heart suit are missing. Duck twice and you may make three tricks; otherwise you may make only one trick.
- 10—Dummy holding—diamonds A 10 5 4; declarer holding—diamonds Q 8 3. Six cards in the diamond suit are missing. Play the Queen and if West covers with the King refuse to take with the Ace! Duck! On the next round, finesse the 10. Take with the Ace on the third round and you may make three tricks.
- 11—Dummy holding—clubs A 10 6 5 4; declarer holding—clubs K 8 7 2. Five cards in the club suit are missing. By ducking, four tricks may be made. Play the King on the first round. Duck on the second round. Play the Ace on the third round. Unless the cards are divided five and nothing against you, and that is not probable, you will be sure to win four club tricks.
- 12—Dummy holding—spades K Q 5 4 2; declarer holding—spades 9 8 7. Five cards in the spade suit are missing. By ducking you may make four tricks.

The MILK WAY Is the HEALTH WAY

Be Healthy Drink Milk

IN play or home from school, the children are hungry; their growing, active bodies require food. Give them MILK with bread and butter, or crackers, and you will be giving them health in every glass. Easy to give, economical, and good for them, milk is easily digested, and contains the necessary food elements for proper body development in the right proportions. Strong bones, sound teeth, firm muscles and rosy cheeks belong to those who use milk and its products regularly.

Home Run Twins Kayo Hartford Before 7,000

Ruth and Gehrig Hit Successful Homers in Tenth Drawing Cushion Barrage Which Ends Best Exhibition of Season; Four Homers.

By TOM STOWE.

The Home Run Twins, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, broke up the best exhibition game of the season yesterday afternoon at Buckley Stadium in Hartford when they swatted consecutive homers to open the tenth inning and break a 4 to 4 tie with Hartford.

It was a most fitting ending for a ball game. The stage was all set as the Yankees took their turn at bat in the first of the tenth. Gehrig and Ruth were the first two hitters due at the plate. Columbia Lou Gehrig had been having a rather poor afternoon prior, striking out twice and hitting two easy grounders, but on this occasion he socked Van Atta's first offering square over the top of the centerfield scoreboard. Then, up steps the Sultan of the Swat, Mr. George Herman Ruth and he duplicates the feat.

As 7,000 excited fans stood waving their hands and shouting their delight, somebody in the crowd forgot his etiquette and hurled a seat cushion into the field. It was a signal for a rather curious fire. Meanwhile the players had fled from the field into the dugouts and out of the park. But inside the excitement was still at fever pitch. Hundreds of kids swarmed on the field to defend the diamond against the attack.

The cushions, now covered with mud, were hurled back into the crowd by the youngsters and foolish persons in the crowd returned them. Hundreds of cushions were flying in the air at a time and the battle raged until most of the huge crowd had managed to get out of the park. Scores of men and women were either struck in the face or had their suits badly soiled.

But to get back to the game, it was easily the best exhibition of the season. The contest was between Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves were nothing compared to yesterday's game. The Yankees made nearly twice as many hits as the Pirates and Braves combined. There were four home runs in the exhibition. Ruth nailed one of them, Jack Roser one and Gehrig the other.

Ruth's first homer came in the opening inning. Robertson and O'Leary, who had singled before him, got the free ride on the excursion trip. The ball sailed over the right field fence fairly close to the foul line. Due to threatening weather which seemed destined to prevent the game as late as 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the contest was started about fifteen minutes early. As a consequence, many late comers missed the treat of Ruth's first homer. His second, however, made them forget their loss.

Ruth's double to deep center scored Cubs with another in the third. Roser's double and Martinek's single gave Hartford a run in the fourth and then came the exciting sixth when Hartford tied the score. Roser started the fireworks with a home run drive over the right field fence. Successive doubles by Martinek and Hohmann and Maderas' fluke single did the rest. The latter swung hard at Rosy Ryan's offering and the result was the most perfect bunt one could ask for.

Leo Durocher, former Hartford shortstop who wasn't much of a hitter at that time, crashed out a pair of doubles. Ruth was up five times. In addition to his two homer and double he grounded out, second, to first, and hit into a double play. Gehrig struck out twice, hit into a fielder's choice, was safe on an error and cracked his homer. However, the umpire calling the game because of the cushion barrage. This automatically reverts the score back to the ninth. The crowd, nevertheless, was satisfied and regarded it as a 6 to 4 victory for the Yankees, or, rather, for Ruth and Gehrig.

There were probably two or three hundred, if not more, Manchester persons at the game. Everyone who saw the contest can't thank old Jupiter Pluvius, for the weather man sure was kind to stop the rain when he did in the early afternoon. It would have been impossible to get the world's champions here again this season and thousands of fans would have been bitterly disappointed. Over 200 gallons of gasoline were poured on the field and fired in the attempt to dry the surface before the game. Following is the official box score:

At Hartford—

TO OPEN BOWLING ALLEYS THURSDAY

Conran's Alleys and Pool Tables Have Been Repaired; Predicts Banner Season.

The bowling season is not far away. The first news of the forthcoming season is the information that Tommy Conran will have his annual fall opening at his place of business at the north end tomorrow evening.

Conran has remodeled the bowling alleys and pool parlor. The alleys have new bumpers and tapes and have been refinished while the pool tables have been re-clothed with new cushions. New cue sticks have also been purchased.

Mr. Conran says that he believes bowling will be even a bigger success than it was last year. He cites The Herald's league as one reason why the interest was increased. This league will be repeated this season. Incidentally, Conran is also hot after Howard Murphy in an attempt to win back the individual town bowling championship which he once held for a period of three years.

Cubs Seeking $500 From Business Men

The Cubs football team, present town champions, are seeking a fund of nearly $500 to prepare them for the 1928 season. The plan is to have a fund of nearly $500 to prepare them for the 1928 season. The plan is to have a fund of nearly $500 to prepare them for the 1928 season.

The officers of the Cubs Football Team have approached the Chamber of Commerce asking their sanction and co-operation in a campaign for funds to finance their team work during the coming Autumn.

"As this is an organization made up entirely of local players, most of them High school graduates, whose activities contribute considerably to the local athletes, the Chamber is pleased to present to the local businessmen, the needs of the Cubs Football Team, together with the estimated items of expense, as follows:

Insurance	$120.00
Field Maintenance	75.00
First Aid Equipment	15.00
Shoes, Pants, Stockings, etc.	235.00
Total	$445.00

"Jerseys donated by P. J. O'Leary. The officers of the organization are: Peter J. Ventullo, manager, 160 School street; P. J. Happeny, assistant manager, 22 Knighton street; Arthur St. John, secretary-treasurer, 134 East Center street; Dr. Charles W. Goff, medical attendant.

"The entire proceeds of the first game which is to be played on September 23, will be given to the American Legion.

"Solicitation of funds will be conducted by members of the team. Contributions to the fund will be governed entirely by their own individual disposition or interest—the object however, is felt to be entirely worthy and the administration of funds, it is believed, will be prudently conducted."

GEORGE E. RIX, Executive Secretary.

GIANTS GO DOWN IN TWO DEFEATS

Now Five and Half Games Behind Cards—Other Results.

New York, Aug. 29.—Rogers Hornsby, widened the gap between the Giants and their pennant chances in adding his fellow Braves to defeat the New Yorkers, 3 to 2 and 7 to 5, thus dropping the Giants five and a half games behind the cards.

Mitchell of the Cards prevented the Cubs from advancing in standing at the expense of the hapless Giants when he shut out the third place team, 6 to 0. Pittsburgh drubbed the Phils in a bargain session, 9 to 2 and 16 to 7. The double win puts the Pirates on a par with the Reds.

Connie Mack's Athletics cut a whole team from the margin of the idle Yankees by turning in a two-play victory over the White Sox. The day brought the Mackmen to within three games of the Huggins crew again. Bishop's homer won the first. The scores 1 to 0, and 4 to 3.

Using four pitchers the Browns trimmed the Red Sox, 8 to 6. The Tigers emerged on top in their brush with the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 4.

BRIMLEY MEETS ROSSI FOR JUNIOR NET TITLE

Austin Brimley defeated Steward Vennart and James Metcalf in the junior tennis tournament at the West Side playgrounds Monday, to win the title. This afternoon, Brimley will play Geno Rossi, winner of the East Side tournament, for the junior town championship.

Marjorie Smith, Jesanis, Gatti, Win Matches in Tennis Tournery

Two Matches Started But Not Finished; Jesanis Wins in Three Sets and Plays Dexter Tonight; Other Scores.

Three more matches were completed in The Herald Tennis Tournaments last night. Two matches were started but not finished because of darkness. More will be played today.

Aldo Gatti, conqueror of Ding Farr in the first round, won his second round match from Earl Judata, 6-1 and 6-4. Gatti won by playing a strong defensive game and scored many points on Judata's errors. Gatti, member of last year's high school team, will meet one of his four in his next match, Ben Cheney, Mac Macdonald, Johnny Boyle and Leonard Berry.

Paul Jesanis won his first round match from Everett Strange in three fast sets, 6-2, 3-8, 6-2. Jesanis plays a driving game and his accuracy last night was fine. Those who watched the match were impressed with Jesanis' form and predict he will go far in the tournament. However, Allan Dexter has a chance to put his finger in the pie tonight when they meet in the second round.

Just as was predicted, Marjorie Smith won her match. That is to say, Marjorie of Golway street beat Marjorie of Elwood street last night. It was a very well played and close match. The scores were 0 to 4 and 6 to 3. Harry Kohls who is in the men's tournament, says he thinks Marjorie will go far in the tournament; that she displayed remarkable tennis last night.

Ruth Behrend took the first set of her match from Mary McVeigh by a score of 6 to 1 and then the permit expired. The set was hard fought and there were many deuce games. The match started much later than was planned due to an amusing incident. When Miss McVeigh came to the court she didn't see her opponent anywhere and went back home. Ruth, it seems, sat behind an automobile and couldn't understand what was keeping Mary. They will play the rest of the match tonight.

Darkness broke up an interesting battle between Ruth Smith and Lucille Grant. The latter took the first set 7 to 5 and Ruth won the next 6 to 1. They were tied at three games apiece, Ruth says, when darkness broke up the match. The last set will be replayed, probably Friday night.

BALL GAME, GREASY POLE CLIMB PLUS TRACK AND FIELD EVENTS

Band Concert, Pie-Eating Contest Also on West Side Playground Program; Fun for All.

All roads lead to the West Side playgrounds tonight for that place will be the scene of a track and field meet program which has included some specialty acts which will be well worth watching. Junior events were to be held this afternoon, weather permitting, the program this evening, starting at 6 o'clock. In case of adverse weather, the program was to be postponed until Friday night.

The first event of importance on the program this evening will be the baseball game between Manchester Green and Dodger Dows's All-Stars. Tommy Sipples will pitch against the Green for the first time this season and much interest has been worked up over just how effective he will be against Prentice's colts. He will be Bert Gibson's ace in case the Green and Gibson's Garage meet in a series for the town championship.

Dowd said today he would use the following lineup: Sammy Massey, 2b; Punk Lamprecht, c; Sammy Kotsch, cf; Gil Wright, 3b; Tommy Sipples, p; Jerry Fay, 1b; Red Thornton, lf; Mike Zwick, rf; Bill Brennan, ss; and Pat Carlson reserve. The Green will use its regular lineup with either Elmo Mancelli, Eddie Boyce or Joe Prentice on the hilltop. The game will start shortly after six o'clock so that seven innings may be played if possible.

The track and field meet program will be carried on during the latter part of the baseball game and will be finished after the game is concluded. Competent officials will be in charge. The events were published in last night's Herald. Some of the athletes who will compete are:

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS
At Newark, N. J.—Tony Canzoneri, world featherweight champion, knocked out Bobby Garcia of Baltimore, (1).

At Boston, Mass.—Dick Finnegan, Boston lightweight, took decision over Bruce Flowers of New Rochelle, N. Y., (10).

At New York—Pal Silvers, welterweight from Brownville, N. Y., gained the decision over Jack Britton of New York, (10).

two Champions in one TYDOL & ETHYL

Like adding Tommy Loughran's speed to Leo Diegel's smooth control!

What a combination . . . if you could merge those two in one! Like adding Walter Johnson's pitching arm to Jolie Ray's flying feet . . . like adding Babe Ruth's mighty swat to Bobby Jones' accuracy.

That's the kind of a combination the motorist gets in TYDOL ETHYL. Tydol, the super-gasoline . . . blended with Ethyl, the perfect anti-knock fuel. Two champions in one.

With TYDOL ETHYL you can drive in high, and give her the gun, in any stress or strain of traffic or hill-climbing, without gear-shifting or spark retarding. And without knock!

TYDOL ETHYL acts like a lullaby in quieting noise, and like an elixir in pepping up carbonized motors. What a combination!

PAID-FOR SERVICES AID POLICE BOARD

Receipts From Outside Make It Possible for Budget to Be Squared. The money received from various outside sources for work done by the Manchester police in special protection of factory plants, at entertainments, etc., is the one outstanding factor that makes it possible for the Manchester police department to live within the appropriations made at annual town meetings and still have in reserve men who are under oath to serve the town as policemen and ready for call when their services are needed.

The Board of Police Commissioners herewith submit their report for the year ending August 15, 1928. Following the reappointment of Edward J. Murphy for a term of three years from October 1, 1927, the Board organized as follows: President, Albert T. Dewey; secretary, Edward J. Murphy; Willard B. Rogers.

Manchester Evening Herald Classified Advertisements

Count six average words to a line. Initials, numbers and abbreviations each count as a word and compound words as two words. Minimum cost is price of three lines.

Line rates per day for transient ads, effective March 27, 1927:

1 Day	11 cts
3 Days	31 cts
7 Days	67 cts
14 Days	1.25
1 Month	4.50

All orders for irregular insertions will be charged at the one-day rate. Special rates for long term every day advertising given upon request. Ads ordered for three or six days and stopped before the third or fifth day will be charged only for the actual number of days the ad appeared, charging at the rate earned, but no allowances or refunds can be made on six time ad contracts after the fifth day.

No "fill forbids" display lines not sold.

The Herald will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement, unless the advertiser has notified the office of such error in writing before the second insertion. The advertiser will be held responsible for the cost of the second insertion if the error is not corrected.

All advertisements must conform in style, copy and typographic regulations entered by the publisher, and they reserve the right to edit, revise or refuse any copy considered objectionable.

WONDERING ABOUT

A CHECK FOR $112

Garage Man Pays a Bill With

It's Cashed by Misrepresentation.

Clarence A. Porterfield of the Porterfield Tire Company at Spruce and Pearl streets, discovered this morning when Thomas Lyons, salesman, and W. C. Wade, industrial manager of the Steelcase Manufacturing Company, called on him to take his order, that one J. P. Darcy, who had represented himself as a salesman for the company, which sells an automobile enamel, was not connected with the sales department of the concern but with its industrial division.

Also that Darcy had no authority to receive customers' checks, and that he had cashed them with one for $112.45 which Porterfield paid him upon his representation that he was the company's sales manager. Darcy later endorsed the check as sales manager for the company, to whom it was drawn, and cashed it at the Manchester Trust Company. This was on August 18, the day he received it from Porterfield.

Porterfield says that Darcy entered his shop and introduced himself. He followed the usual routine of salesmen, talking trade conditions and finally swung the conversation around to Porterfield's order for enamel. Porterfield gave him an order for goods. Darcy then asked if Porterfield didn't want to give him the check which the local man had intended to send direct to the concern, balancing the account. This Porterfield did.

Darcy, after leaving Porterfield's place, went directly down to the Manchester Trust Company, introduced himself and asked to have the check cashed. The bank called up Porterfield's and asked for a description of the salesman. This information he gave them.

During the months of July and August this store has been closed on Saturdays after one p. m. However, the winter schedule will be resumed this week-end and the store will be open Saturdays from now on until six p. m.

G. FOX & CO. OPEN

ALL DAY SATURDAY

New Schedule Is Effective This Week—Have Been Closed Saturdays for Two Months.

G. Fox & Co., Hartford department store, will be open Saturday afternoon, September 1, the first Saturday after the summer schedule. During the months of July and August this store has been closed on Saturdays after one p. m. However, the winter schedule will be resumed this week-end and the store will be open Saturdays from now on until six p. m.

MURPHEY IS HEAD

OF FLOWER SHOW

Chairman in Charge of Affairs to Be Held Next Thursday and Friday.

Charles M. Murphey was appointed general chairman of the Manchester general club's flower show, which is scheduled for Thursday and Friday of next week at Center church chapel. Mr. Murphey was the unanimous choice at a meeting of the executive board and general committee held last night at Center church parlors. He will choose the different committees to look after all details of the exhibit and seedules will be mailed to the members at an early date. Mrs. R. K. Anderson was appointed secretary. The autumn show of the local club was held last season at the Manchester Community clubhouse. The entire west wing was filled with exhibits and there was not space enough to display the flowers to advantage. It was therefore decided that Center church chapel should be secured, was the best and most central location. The officials of the church have granted its use and this will be the third show of the club in the church building.

It is expected that gladiolus and dahlias will lead all other flowers at the coming show. There will also be a profusion of asters,

LETTER GOLF

HUNTERS AND NIMRODS!

If you have a hard time during these vacation days landing any FISH, why not try to bag a little GAME? It's easy—in letter golf. Par is six and one solution, which you may be able to beat, is on another page.

Letter Golf grid with letters F, I, S, H and G, A, M, E.

THE RULES

- 1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2.—You can change only one letter at a time.
3.—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

Ras (after a narrow escape at a railroad crossing)—Whaffo yo' blow yo' horn 'at ain't gwine do yo' no good.
Tus—You, 'at wan't my ho'n. 'At was Gabriel.

SENSE and NONSENSE

To a negro on shipboard, "I see you're a landlubber."
"Yas am, 'st finding out how much ah lub's it."

An old negro preacher was making a visit to the revenue warehouse.

Revenue Officer—What'll it be, Erasmus?
Erasmus—Ah wants some sacrilegious wine.

Revenue Officer—Some sacrilegious wine? You mean some sacramental wine, don't you? And what kind you want?

Erasmus—Well, boss, at last Sunday's meetin' the congregation took a vote, and it was unanimous for gin.

"I've got a horse that can run a mile a minute 'cept for two things."

"What am dose?"
"De longness of de distance and de shortness of de time."

"So you want a divorce, Rastus?"
"Yes, suh, fudge, yo' honah—Ah sho'ly does."

"What's de trouble?"
"Count ob mia wife makin' an ironical remark."

"A ironical remark?"
"Yes, suh, she says if you don't go to work, I'll hit you in de face wid dis flat iron."

The colored folks don't rate in de south, but they shine in de North.

"Look here, Carbona, it may not kill you when ah hits you, but you'll starve to death bound!"

Jemina, at de zoo, saw a zebra for de first time. "Rastus," she said, "what kind uv a animal am dat?"

Rastus also gazed in much perplexity 'and awe. He had never see one before, either. "Why, Jem, dat ere are a sport model jackass!"

Sambo sat on de sunny side of de tree, de perspiration running down his face. "Boy, why don't you all seat yo-self on de shady side?" his friend asked him.
"That's all you knows 'bout nature," replied Sambo. "By and by suns going to be on dat side, and den Ah won't hab to move."

House of Corruption.
"Dat dey do to dat Jones boy fo' selling dat booze, Aunt Liza?"

"What dey do? Lawd chile, dey done give him two years in de house of representatives."

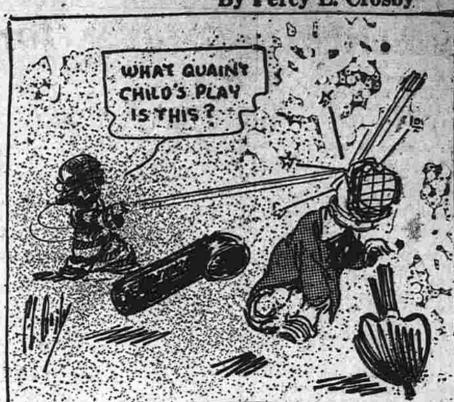

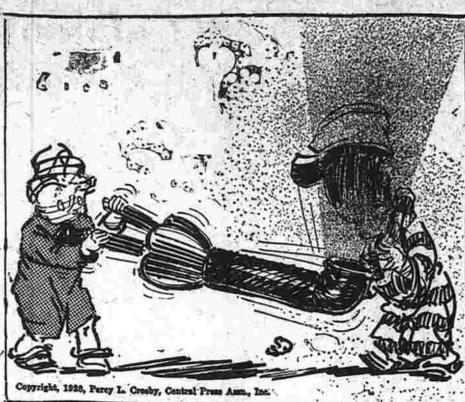

"Mr. Smith, dat ham you sold me sure am bad."
"Whyy, Rastus, dat ham was only cured last week."

"That might be, Mr. Smith, but it sho' musta had a relapse."

"So you nver expect to marry, Rastus?"
"No, sah, Ah 'spects to keep right on makin' mah own livin' till Ah die."

Horses of de Detroit police department understand dat de red light mean "whoa" and de green light "go." What a lot of motorists need is horse sense.

THE KNYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

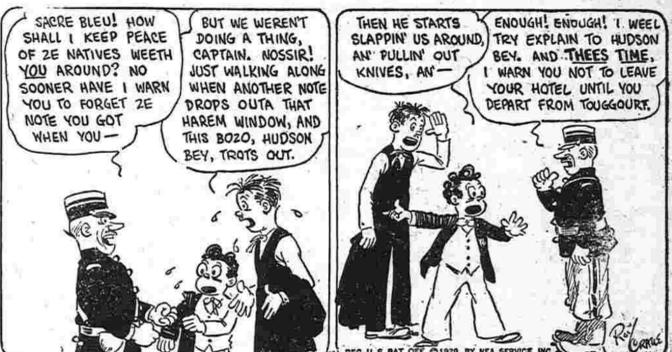

The horse upon which Copsy sat was not too thin, and not too fat. In fact it was a dandy horse, and very pretty, too. The clapping from the circus crowd, of course made Copsy feel proud. Thought he, "I'll guess I'll show them fancy tricks I can do."
He promptly jumped and stood up straight. Somebody shouted, "Say, that's great." Then Copsy did a flip flop. Mercy me, he almost fell. Of course that would be so sweet, but luckily he held his feet. This pleased the crowd so much they all began to loudly yell.
Outside the tent the trainer stood. He smiled 'cause Copsy was so good. And when the act was over he told Copsy, "You were great." "Oh, thank you, thank you," Copsy cried. "I think it's heaps of fun to ride. Tomorrow I'll do lots of other fancy tricks. Just wait!

ABOUT TOWN

William J. Whalen, of The Herald advertising force, has returned to town after spending his vacation with his parents in Lynn, Mass.

Julius Janssen is spending his vacation at his home on Spruce street. Mr. Janssen, who is a graduate of the Manchester High school and of Northeastern University, is now with the Worthington Pump Company in New York City.

Miss Barbara Hampson of Stock Place is spending her vacation in Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Bertha Page and her daughter, Miss Shirley Page, of Ridge street are at Short Beach, Bradford, for two weeks.

Charles J. Pickett, sales manager for Machell Motor Sales, has just returned from a few days visit with his parents in Laceyville, Pa. Mrs. C. J. Pickett is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Singleton, in New Haven.

Peter Canale of Oak street paid a fine of $10 and costs in the Manchester police court this morning for speeding his light delivery truck on Center street. He was arrested last evening by Traffic Officer Roberts.

Three open trolley cars were used this morning in carrying the members of St. James's Sunday school to Elizabeth Park, Hartford, where they held their annual picnic.

Mrs. Aldea Pettigrew of 875 Main street, who has been attending the hairdressers' show in Boston for the past three days, will return home this evening.

A miscellaneous shower was given last night in honor of Miss Angeline Mistretta of School street at the home of Mrs. Frank Diana on Washington street by her shopmates. Miss Mistretta was the recipient of a beautiful floor lamp. Games were played, there was a mock marriage and refreshments were served. Miss Mistretta will be married to Leo Diana September 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strandahl, of Cleveland, who have been spending a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Johnson of 29 Clinton street, left this morning on their return trip home.

Commissioner and Mrs. Robert Hogard, representatives of the Salvation Army from London, England, who have been attending the Camp Meeting at Old Orchard, Me., will stop at Manchester on Friday, en route to New York, to lead the services at the Citadel. Commissioner Hogard is said to be a speaker of unusual ability and the services will probably be largely attended.

Educated folks appreciate quality; others are more apt to buy on the basis of price. Fine shoes and hosiery for men, women and children, schools open Sept. 4. W. G. Simmons Co., 48 Pratt Street—adv.

COWLES'S FRUIT FARM WOODBRIDGE STREET Fresh Picked Sweet Corn, Tomatoes, Squash, Clapp's Favorite Peas, Gravenstein, Wealthy and Early Pippin Apples.

Mrs. W. P. Wilson, her daughter, Miss Evelyn Wilson and Stephen Cushing of New Haven are here for a visit with relatives in town.

Judge William S. Hyde has been agreed upon the commissioner to hear the complaints that have been made and the damages asked in the widening of North Main street, Hartford. There are forty-three property owners who will be heard and they are represented by twenty-nine lawyers.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Arthur Wilkie of 16 Walker street was the only patient reported discharged from Memorial Hospital today. There were no admissions. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Maneggia of 3 Ford street. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Clifford of Hemlock street instead of to Mr. and Mrs. Clarke as was reported yesterday through a misunderstanding.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

DRINKABLE AND OTHERWISE

One gets to feeling like a rain barrel, this weather, if he drinks just water and water. Simply got to have something different; and nobody ever has carbonated drinks enough on hand to last. The answer lies in Good's Flavored Fruit Juice Syrups—three flavors, Orangeade, Lemon and Lime, besides Fruit Punch. All you do is to add one part of the syrup to four to six parts of water chilled to taste—and you have the longed-for assuagement. It's a perfectly dandy drink, and wholesome as milk. Cheap, too, for there's a special price of 44 cents a pint, and a pint will make a lot of cold drinks.

Then we have South Sea Grenadine, Italian Vermouth—non-alky of course—Lemon Juice—Pine-bev. The latter is a delicious pineapple flavored beverage and with the grenadine can also be used to fine advantage in flavoring gelatines and other desserts. Also the always staple orange juice.

People are using quantities of jams just now—the jam sandwich is a seasonable staple. Among Peggy Horner Home Made Products we are featuring this week Peggy's Pure Raspberry and Strawberry Jam at 39c a jar. There isn't much argument needed on that item.

Sardines are another of the muggy-day reliances. We have too many kinds to tell about—Norwegian, Boneless French—the whole list except the poor ones. In the same class of foods, Kipperd Mackerel, Anchovies, Anchovy Paste.

Cider Vinegar that is pure. That's a big consideration in any canning operation where vinegar is indicated. Pinehurst's vinegar is absolute. Send your jug, or we will furnish one. Gallon 50c, 1/2 gal extra of course.

Sweet Potatoes at four pounds for a quarter, are down among the economies in price. Excellent, too. Candied or baked, a pleasing change from the white kind.

Evergreen Corn again tomorrow, freshly picked. Also the Limas to go with it. Yellow Corn as usual. Good Pie Apples, Squash—youth and tender—ripe Peas. Just now the Pinehurst array of Vegetables and Fruits is exceptionally tempting.

By-lines. You know Pinehurst carries quite a line of household conveniences aside from foods. Things you might have to make a little shopping trip to get if we didn't have them to shoot 'ut to you on the trucks along with your food order. For example: Johnson's Floor Wax, Can Openers, Shoe Polish, Tar Box and other popular Stove Polishes, O'cedar and Liquid Veneer, Glass Washboards, Tanglefoot Fly Spray, Black Flag Ant Powder and—oh, loads of such items. Never hesitate to call Pinehurst and inquire for any such small matters. Phone two thousand.

MRS. CHAPLIN'S FUNERAL

Glendale, Cal., Aug. 28.—Arrangements were being made today for the funeral of Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, mother of Charles Chaplin, who died last Monday at the Physicians and Surgeons hospital. The famous film actor was at her bedside when she died. Her husband, Charles Chaplin, died about thirty years ago. He was a London actor, well known for his impersonations. Sid Chaplin, her other son, is in Francis on motion picture work. Mrs. Chaplin came to this country in 1921. Because of mental illness, caused by the shock of the London air raids during the war, she was denied permanent entry. Charles posted a bond annually, guaranteeing her case.
