HOOPER AND FACTS

More and more Mr. Hoover is demonstrating the difference between the balanced, expert thinker and the ordinary, or even the extraordinary, political spell binder.

It was a breath of cool air in the desert when Mr. Hoover, in his first speech of the campaign in the East, at Newark last night, freely and candidly admitted that the prosperity of this country was not wholly the result of the waving of some magic wand by the Republican party.

When a Republican advocate starts from that point of approach he can make out for his party an impregnable case. It is only when he oversteps himself at the beginning, and attributes to a political party qualities almost if not quite divinely omnipotent, that he opens the way to disproof and ridicule.

We are sincerely glad that Mr. Hoover is not following the lead of so many other Republican speakers and talking as if the party were a sort of a fairy godfather who had waved a benevolent hand and converted a hundred and twenty million Americans into a hundred and twenty million millionaires.

freedom—which will never be endangered while America remains America—we cannot but appreciate that this 'religious question' is but incidental, and that the real conflict is and will be between differing types of minds, differing backgrounds of culture and racial thought, differing theories of the social order.

We do not know Talcott Miner Banks and he is not in 'Who's Who,' but he seems to us to represent a large number of Americans who feel that the 'immigration theories of Governor Smith constitute the one great peril in his candidacy—and who still, surprisingly, do not see that the immigration problem not only can become but actually is the one outstanding issue of the campaign.

He says that the present law was enacted by such an overwhelming vote as to be unavailable for campaign purposes this year. In heaven's name, in what way is it unavailable? His brief but definite declaration against the 1890 quotas—carefully never mentioned again by any Democratic speaker or newspaper—constitutes Smith's formal pledge to batter down the barrier against undesirable immigration.

The word has gone out, in every polyglot foreign colony in the United States, that with Smith in the saddle the bars will be torn down and the gates opened to the beetle-browed unassimilable. Smith has won these people and their votes hard and fast bound them to him, by a single word. Surely neither Mr. Banks nor anybody else need expect the Democrats to be such fools as to shout this shameful sell-out to the skies.

In such states as New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois and to some extent in Connecticut this single soft-pedaled issue is worth more in votes to Smith, ten times over, than either the prohibition bluff or the plea for religious tolerance—and we are not minimizing the latter.

And the stiller they keep about it the more valuable it will be to the Democratic party on election day. It is for the Republican party to shout the warning. It is for Hoover's supporters to drag this issue up into the light. There are thousands and thousands of independent voters, led to a considerable degree of sympathy with Smith because of bigoted attacks on his religion and his liberalism toward prohibition, who would as soon vote for the devil as for him if they realized the deal that he has made with the sinister forces of 'the open gateway.'

Inexplicably Republican leaders seem to share in the Banks idea that immigration cannot be made an issue. When they wake up they will realize that it is on that issue and no other that Smith expects to win.

SCIENCE BE BLOWN!

The Star Herald of Colon, Panama Canal Zone, celebrated the arrival there of the Byrd ship City of New York by printing a laudatory editorial which, it seems to us, comes nearer to evaluating the Antarctic expedition at its true worth than anything we have seen up to this time.

'The people of the world, which daily is growing more commonplace and humdrum,' says the Star Herald, 'still have a love of adventure.' Then the editorial proceeds to point out that people can get adventure vicariously by reading about the things that happen to a chosen few. 'It is this entertainment that will be given to millions who will travel with the expedition through the reports in the press that will make the cost of the expedition worth while.'

We are glad that the Canal Zone newspaper, in its naive way, put the proposition in this light. The deuce of it is that ninety-nine newspaper editors out of a hundred, in such circumstances, write under wraps. A newspaper editor is not very often a scientist—very seldom indeed is he a specialist in science. So that when the promoters of adventures like this Byrd expedition begin to talk about the high import of such undertakings in their relation to science—the immense value to humanity through the accruing increase in the sum of human knowledge—they have us stopped at the start. We can't refute them, so it is impossible to contradict them. Yet probably the ninety-nine are unanimously skeptical.

too, the belief that it is a stunt. And to go further and say that we suspect that in their secret souls every man-jack connected with the adventure—from Byrd down and including the sportsmen who are putting up the cash for it—regard it as a stunt.

All the 'discoveries' of the North Pole were stunts. The discovery of the South Pole was a stunt. And if anybody has ever been able to isolate the slightest germ of benefit that has accrued to the human race from these discoveries he has been good and secretive about it.

Wherefore, let us cheer for Byrd and his men as courageous fellows who are on their way to find out whether they can lick the Antarctic or the Antarctic can lick them, in precisely the same spirit as alpinists scale the Jungfrau or a chap goes over Niagara in a barrel. The science of it be blowed!

We have wanted to say this for a long time but until our isthmian contemporary showed the way we didn't have the nerve.

WHISPERING

Last Saturday this newspaper ridiculed the idea of labeling the noisy mudslinging activities of the Presidential contest as a 'whispering campaign.' Precisely the same idea struck the cartoonist of the New York Herald Tribune at about the same time, for in yesterday's issue of that paper he expressed it with telling effect. A huge, be-aproned bootlegger is leaning over the close lower half of a Dutch door, behind which booze bottles appear, and bawling at a smaller figure on the sidewalk labeled 'Whispering Campaign,' who is thumping a bass drum and shouting through a megaphone simultaneously. 'Hush!' howls the speak-easy man. 'Waddy y' think this is? A boiler factory?'

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 18.—Notes on nothing in particular and everything in general... Ping pong is back! That polite little parlor pastime of grandma's day is now being done by the 'who's who,' the 'what's what' and the 'when's when.' It has abruptly made its appearance in the midst of this sophisticated era. Although I never was acquainted with it intimately in my cradle days, the old-timers tell me it has grown bigger and better. Sets are now on display in the Manhattan shops and the playing, I am told, has grown rougher in keeping with the times. All the ritzy country clubs now have a set-up. The Westchester-Biltmore and the Newport colonies, the literary round tables, and all such have been equipped with set-ups. The ping pong tables, I am further informed, now measure nine feet. One is now allowed to smash, top, drive and volley. Even Tilden, Richardson and Kinsey are reported using a set for indoor practice.

The time may come when, even as grandma said, the old pastimes will prove better than the new. Jack Dempsey, as most of the world now knows, has turned actor. His play is now being tried 'out-of-town.' But that isn't exactly what this item is about. It seems that there is a scene in which the ex-champ has to whom and pummel an opponent during a stage version of a big fight. From Broadway comes the word that Dempsey has insisted on being a realistic actor, after the best fashion of the modern school of acting. With the result, of course, that the management is hard put to find enough men to 'play opposite.'

Ralph Smith, a former heavy-weight whammer, has been taking more than his salary's worth of punishment. The 'back stage' boys tell me that Dempsey finds it all but impossible to 'pull' his punches. From one authority I have it that the management doesn't expect to keep an actor in the 'opposite' role for more than two weeks at a time. The call has gone out for bruisers who will stand up to Jack's knock-down. To date, I am told, three are prepared to take a 'hardening,' each to appear for three-day periods and then lay off for repairs. This is perhaps the most peculiar theatrical situation to arise on Broadway.

A prominent Tin Pan Alley song selector is on record as saying that successful songs contain one of the following words: 'mother,' 'home,' 'moon,' 'Mary' or 'love.' Yes, and the unsuccessful ones, too. It is like saying that sparrows are more successful than goldfinch. Try, for instance, to find a goldfinch in New York! And try to find a song that dares go to press without mention of a moon, mother or love.

Musicians have begun to drift back into town from their summer road tours and their recent visits to Italy, Germany, Austria, Russia and way-nations. They gather lonesomely at the side entrance of the Metropolitan, the corridor of Aeolian or the sunny side of Carnegie Hall. They talk over their summer fortunes and wonder about rehearsals for the winter symphonies. They are a hearty, happy, backslapping, well-fed, well-winded looking crew—perhaps the jolliest assemblage to be found on any street corner.

The so-called busy bee really is a loafer, says a scientist. Let it be mentioned as an extenuating circumstance, however, that the bee produces slightly more honey than the scientist.

Question: K. L. writes: 'Some time ago I was examined by a doctor who said I had mitral regurgitation of the heart as well as an exaggerated dorsal curvature of the spine. He advised me to quit all exercise whatsoever. I am sixteen years old and feel that I should forget everything that he told me, but what would you advise?'

Answer: You can at least partially correct the spinal curvature by taking the proper kind of corrective exercises. Get the advice of some gymnasium instructor regarding both the exercises for your spine and other exercises which will help in curing your heart trouble.

Question: L. H. asks: 'Is there an oil made from poppy seeds that may be used as a salad oil and is it a good food?'

Answer: Poppy oil, extracted from the poppy seed, is a part of Europe as a table oil. It is of pale yellow color, practically odorless and has a very pleasing flavor. The inferior grades are used in soapmaking and like products. As far as its food value is concerned, it has no special merit.

Question: Miss B. asks: 'Will you please tell me what causes my hands to be exceedingly dry—so dry they often wrinkle in the palm? This is mostly at night. Also, I have a craving for fresh fruit and cool tart drinks—anything cold and juicy. I have been this way for several years.'

Answer: Satisfy your craving for fresh fruit by eating nothing else for a few days. This treatment will help to correct the dryness of your skin. For temporary relief, rub cocoa-butter on the skin. Use a small amount over the entire body each night before you retire.

The Range That Cooks All Foods Better Now Does It AUTOMATICALLY. NOW Automatic cooking for an automatic age... yet cooking as delicious, as appetizing, as simple as you could want it to be. The New Autostat is a marvelous invention which finishes perfectly the cooking you start. All you do is set a dial, put in the food, and light the gas. When the proper time comes, the Autostat turns off the gas, the food cooks until it is done, and the Chambers keeps it warm until you are ready to serve it! Fully as important as the Autosat is the 'cooks with the gas' turned off' principle of the Chambers Range. This feature alone cuts the monthly gas bill in half and in a short time enables the Chambers to pay for itself on gas saving alone... to say nothing of the time and work it saves you. The exclusive Chambers principle is cooking on retained heat... heat you ordinarily waste. Come in today for a demonstration of the world's greatest time- and - money - saving range. Set A Dial—That's All. At exactly the proper time the Autostat turns off the gas... but the food cooks on retained heat until done... and is ready for you whenever you return, no matter the hour. WASHINGTON LETTER. By RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington—In the election year of 1920 the cost of living was higher than at any other time, before or since. That was the year of the first of the last two Republican landslides and the voters turned out the party in power. It seems likely that many voters were good and sore about the high cost of living and that if running expenses had been lower than usual at the time the Democratic voters turned out the party in power. Living costs have been pretty well stabilized for the last six years, so they're not likely to figure in the present campaign except, perhaps, in the case of the farmer, minor or mill worker who isn't receiving the wherewithal to meet them. The latest figure, assembled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows that the cost of living, as accurately as it can be determined, is exactly 70 per cent. higher than in the last pre-war year of 1913. That is, it was 70 per cent. higher June 15 and has had little change or reason to fluctuate since. The high mark was 116.5 per cent., reported for June, 1920. There is nothing to show that the Wilson administration, rather than the war, was responsible for that, especially since 25 or 30 per cent. was topped off that figure before it went out of office. At the end of 1921 we were still paying 74.3 per cent. more to live and as the post-war deflation went on we got down to 63.3, but that's rock bottom since 1913. For more than six years now, living costs have run from two-thirds to three-fourths above war. Subsequent percentage changes, taken for June in each year, have been: 1923, 69.7, 1924, 69.1, 1925, 73.5, 1926, 74.8, 1927, 73.4 and 1928 70. That is a most wretched fortune which is without an enemy—Publius Syrus.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

THE ELBERTAS ARE HERE

Not so many, many, many weeks from now all the gardens will be bare and brown, the fruit trees will be barren, the illimitable variety of summer fruit and vegetable foods will be a memory.

Those are the days when there will be kept appeal in the flavor of the home-canned peaches, the home-made jellies—when will come the reward for September's especial industry on the part of Madame the Housewife.

Wherefore—now is the time, today the day. The Elberta peaches are here—perfection of canning fruit, great beautiful luscious things that will carry into next winter all the aroma and fragrance and beauty of the departed summer.

Also Wild Grapes—if you have made wild grape jelly you know how delicious it is; and if you haven't you must—really must, you know. It's one of Nature's benefices. And the grapes are so cheap—only a dollar for a big basket.

Just phone. We'll send peaches or grapes or both—the very best. There are no seconds.

We can't emphasize too strongly the bargain quality in these Keeney White Eggs. These eggs do not rate "neighborhood," but we assure you that you never could tell the difference. They stand the three-minute boiling test perfectly. We happen to have a lovely contract on these eggs that enables us to keep on selling them at 55 cents. If we didn't have the contract they'd be sixty-five, sure as shooting.

THE PHONE NUMBER IS TWO THOUSAND.
