

NOTED AUTHORS PLAN TO HELP HOOVER CAUSE

Five Hundred of Nation's Leading Writers Pledge Support to Policies of Re- publican Party.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Five hundred of the nation's leading authors and publicists have pledged their support to Herbert Hoover for the presidency, according to a statement issued today at Republican headquarters.

The list includes names familiar in every household and many of the writers will take the stump to aid Hoover's cause. Some of the leaders in the movement were Isaac Marcossan, Kathleen Norris, Zane Grey, Harold Bell Wright, Earl Irwin, Booth Tarkington, Bruce Barton, Robert W. Chambers, George Bar Baker, Frank N. Doubleday, Daniel Froham, and Edward W. Bok, of peace award fame.

Most of the publicists announced their reasons for supporting Hoover. Bok said Hoover is "by far the best equipped man, mentally, for the position." Marcossan said: "Hoover is eminently qualified in every way to be president." Kathleen Norris declared she supported Hoover because "I need someone at the head of our affairs who is wise enough to appreciate our advantages and possibilities and strong enough to use them." Gray will support him because of "character indicated by past performances and fitness for office."

Durant's Views
Will Durant characterized Hoover as "far and away the most capable man in American official life; and when I find a capable man, who is also honest, I take up my hat."

Will Irwin added that Hoover has the "finest mind and the most incorruptible character of any man who has offered himself for the presidency in my time." Wright declared his support "because I think him the best man for the position."

Albert W. Atwood, Hamlin Garland, Margaret Deland, Lucy Pratt, Lucy Stone Terrill, Sophie Kerr, Don Marquis, Henry K. Webster, Berton Braley, Edward Locke, Herman Hagedorn and Irving Fisher gave similar reasons. So, too, did Arthur Buterick, Thomas L. Mason, George Weston, David Starr Jordan, Albert Edward Wiggam, Edward S. Van Zile, William Walter Smith, Dorothy Scarborough, George Haven Putnam, Charles J. Bullock and Vernon Kellogg. Hundreds more joined the list.

Working on Speech
Hoover meanwhile was turning his mind to the speech he will deliver at Elizabethton, Tenn., on October Sixth. In this speech, he will touch on the institution of free government at the little Tennessee town back in 1772, compare that first effort at local self-gov-

COUNTY LEGION TO MEET HERE SUNDAY

Will Listen to Addresses by Local Clergymen at Quar- terly Gathering.

American Legion posts of Hartford County will gather at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Bisell street at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for their quarterly county gathering.

Two Manchester clergymen will give short talks during the afternoon. They are Rev. James A. Collins of the South Methodist church and Rev. Frederick C. Allen of the Second Congregational church. Routine business will take up the greater part of the afternoon. Luncheon will be served at 6 p. m. Luncheon will be served at 6 p. m. Luncheon will be served at 6 p. m.

Fred C. Lorch, adjutant of Dilworth-Cornell Post of this town, will represent the local organization, most of whose members will be at the Old Golf Links attending a football game between the Cubs and Windsor Locks which is being sponsored by the local Legion post.

This football game Sunday is being played by the Cubs for the benefit of the local Legion fund. A parade will precede the game and the line of march will be from the School Street Recreation Center to the Old Golf Links at the Center. A band, a delegation of Legionnaires, and the two football teams will march in the parade which starts at 2 o'clock. Mayor John Hyde will kick off the football at 3 o'clock.

WEARS SAME COLOR HAT AS HIS WIFE'S DRESS

Berlin, Sept. 21.—The Maharajah of Patiala, visiting Berlin with his six wives, has set a new style for the fashionable life of the German capital.

He wears a turban of exactly the same color as the dress that his favorite wife is wearing at the moment.

During a shopping expedition through Berlin's fashionable shops he ordered with each dress for the favorite raiment a turban of the same color and material for his own use. But he made it a point to select personally the materials and colors of the dresses.

HE HATES KIDS; TRIES MURDER; IS 8 HIMSELF

New York Youngster Caught Stoning an Infant to Death; Is Not Sorry Over His Deed.

New York, Sept. 21.—"I hate babies, I hate kids," said 8-year-old Edward Eroning of Richmond Hill today at the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children where he is under observation as a result of his stoning baby Rose Marie Ward, two months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ward of New Gardens.

The child's face was twisted as in pain as he expressed his hate. Doctors say that something twisted in his mind cause him to nurse a grudge against all things little and human.

"He has always been that way—hating other children," said Edward's mother sorrowfully. "Ever since he was two we have had mental specialists working with him. We can't let him go to school because he picks on the smaller children."

Stones Baby.
According to William Lovelace, a chauffeur, Edward had taken baby Rose Marie from her carriage before her home yesterday to a "secret" spot and methodically stoned her to death. Edward had hurled several rocks larger than golf balls with terrific and pitiful effect at the baby seated a few feet away when Lovelace happened by.

The Ward baby was treated by Surgeonmeister at the Mary Immaculate hospital. She had a painful gash on the head and the surgeon thought her skull might be fractured. Other ugly bruises where stones flung in fury by Edward had struck her covered the baby.

Edward is unrepentant. He is only eight, but he does not cry. "I hate babies," he keeps muttering.

HEIRESS SAILS TO WED TUNNEY

To Be Married in Italy on October 5, Friends Re- port.

New York, Sept. 21.—Miss Polly Lauder, the debutante heiress to $50,000,000, who is engaged to Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, will sail tonight for Italy, it was said in apparently reliable sources today. When she returns she will be Mrs. James Joseph Tunney.

Her present plans include a wedding ceremony at Sorrento, Italy, and a year-long honeymoon abroad.

Miss Lauder passed her last two days in New York shopping. It is said that her trousseau includes a $10,000 mink coat, and more than forty dinner and evening dresses and sport costumes and $1,000 worth of lingerie and other accessories.

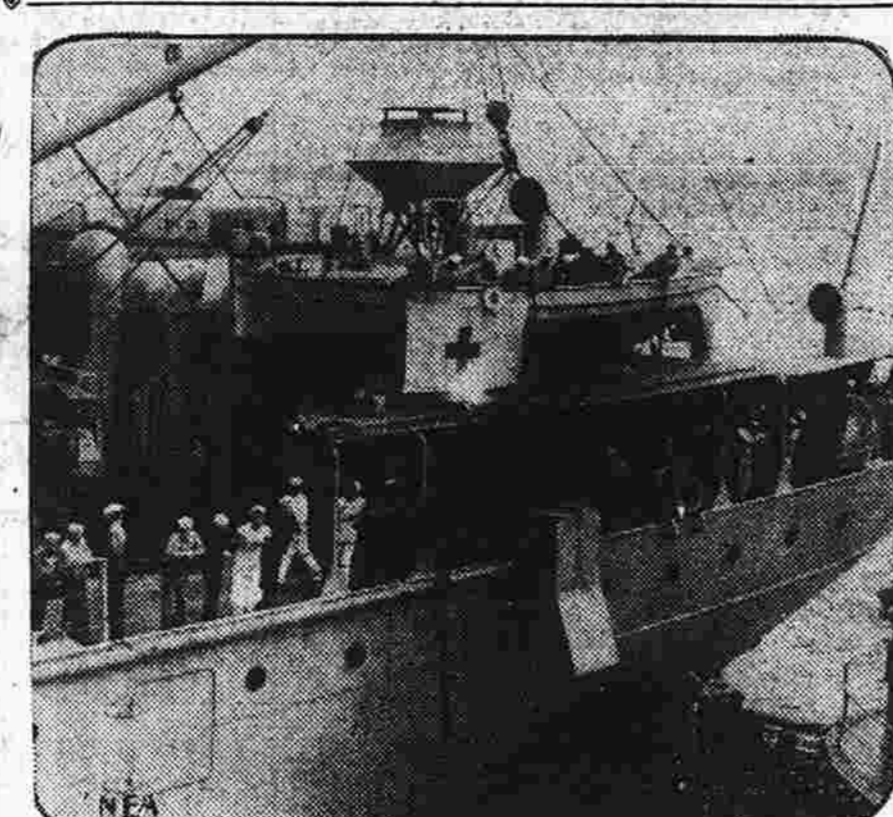

Great Secrecy
The greatest secrecy regarding her sailing plans is being maintained. Although no confirmation could be obtained, it is understood she will sail on the Cosulich liner Sarnia for Naples. The most authentic reports available say that Polly and Gene will be married on October 5 in sun-flecked Italy.

It is understood that Polly will be accompanied by Mrs. George Lauder, her mother; her brother, George; a sister, Mrs. Edwin S. Dewing of Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. Percy Rockefeller and Henry C. Rowland, the novelist.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH
Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 21.—Nelson Coddington, 42, of Devon, met death accidentally at Greenwich on September 17 when he was killed by an 11,000 volt wire of the New Haven railroad system, according to Coroner John J. Phelan today.

Coddington was a foreman of a wire gang working on a bridge when he was killed.

New York Sends Aid to Porto Rico

STATE OFFICE BUILDING TO COST TWO MILLIONS

Plans Already Completed But Legislature Must Vote On Funds—To Be Beautiful Structure.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 21.—Several million of dollars will be invested in new state-owned buildings in the next two years if the 1929 Legislature approves the plans of guardians of the state's welfare. The principal new buildings will be a new state office building, a new hospital for the insane, and a new tuberculosis infirmary. The public health buildings are to be on Hilliard street to Henry Ford, go to Fairfield county while the office building naturally is to be Hartford's.

The state office building, which should cost two millions according to its planners is to combine beauty and utility in unusual ways. In the first place it is to conform in appearance to the Supreme Court building and to the new Buckingham Auditorium, a gift from private funds to the citizens of Hartford which now is being erected.

Three Entrances
The machinery and instruments constitute several different pieces, but mainly they are a Mather direct current motor, made right here in Manchester in the plant now occupied by the Orford Soap Company, a Warren inductor alternator, of variable frequency and variable high voltage, and also a Howell voltage indicator. The Mather motor in this group is one of the first electric motors ever made, and the same is true of the other two instruments. All are in working condition.

Mr. Ford has sent his personal check for $140 to the Norton Electrical Instrument Company for the collection. They will all be shipped directly to Dearborn, Mich., where the Ford plant and main offices are located. James W. Bishop, a representative of the Edison Company of Brooklyn came here to investigate the instruments through the agency of Dennis P. Coleman, local Ford automobile agent.

The Letter
Mr. Coleman wrote to the Detroit office telling of the instruments and as a result of this Mr. Bishop came to Manchester, looked over the collection and agreed to buy it. A check for the $140 was sent together with the following letter: "Manchester Motor Sales, 'Manchester, Conn. 'Gentlemen: 'We are enclosing Mr. Ford's check No. 32,284, for the sum of $140.00 payable to Norton Instrument Co., to cover one Warren S. K. W. generator, one 3 H. P. Eddy motor and several antique electrical instruments." (Continued on page 2)

AL'S RELIGION IS BASIS OF FOE'S ATTACKS

So Says Nominee Who Blames Republicans for Starting Rumors; Handles Question Without Gloves.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 21.—The grisly spectre of religion in politics, which has been lurking in the shadows of Al Smith's fight for the presidency ever since the historic melee at Madison Square Garden, was out in the open.

It was literally kicked there last night by Gov. Smith himself in a dramatic speech that for sheer political audacity and blunt speaking probably has no parallel in American political history.

Here in a state that for years was dominated by the Klan, and where the Klan still wields considerable influence, the Democratic nominee took off his gloves and grappled with the religious issue bare handed. He named names in the process.

He declared that his Catholicism was the real basis of the attacks that have been made against him, he denounced the injection of the religious issue into American politics, and he sensationally accused the Republican campaign directors of fostering it and conniving at it.

Nothing Like It
Nothing like that has ever happened before in an American presidential campaign.

He spoke to tens of thousands of Oklahomans and Texans, inside and outside the Coliseum and through the nation-wide radio hook-up his speech went into probably millions of homes.

As Gov. Smith tore into his detractors, the frequently turned and faced the Rev. John Roach Straton, one of his bitterest opponents, who sat back of him on the platform.

THIEVES CONFESS TO LOCAL BREAK

Youths Arrested in Vernon Admit Robbing Flats Gas- oline Station.

Three young men, James O'Riley, 18, George Fitzmaurice, 19, and Fred Bellocchi, 18, of Hartford, arrested in Vernon last night when they attempted to rob Clark's gasoline station, have confessed to breaking into the Flats Gasoline Station conducted by Paul Hagedorn of Oakland street on the night of September 12 and stealing seven boxes of cigars, cigarettes and breaking the plate glass window of the store door to enter.

They are three of a gang of five that are wanted not only in Vernon and Manchester, but also in Hartford, Glastonbury, Portland and Middletown. One of the members of the gang is held in Middletown and the three taken last night by the Rockville police, are now in Hartford where they will be brought to trial on the charge of stealing four automobiles.

After their cases have been disposed of in Hartford, Manchester authorities will take a hand, but from their present record, which the police of Manchester and Hartford have, it is likely that it will be some time before they are brought to Manchester for trial.

Had Two Stolen Cars
When arrested last night by the Rockville police they had two cars that were stolen, both of these were

GOV. OF FLORIDA ASKS THAT FUNDS BE RUSHED

Strangle Banker's Son; Promise To Surrender

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 21.—Promise of surrender indicated in a note to police was made by the island gang which kidnaped and strangled to death 611 Jamieson, 10-year-old son of Frederick Jamieson, wealthy Honolulu banker.

"We will give ourselves up to God and the gallows within 25 days of the date of the crime," said the rudely scrawled document now in the possession of the Honolulu police.

A hotel waiter's coat, a bloody shirt identified as the one worn by his classroom, a hotel napkin and a table knife were clues found

To Ask Federal Aid as Money Is Urgently Need- ed—Relief Workers Ex- hausted After Working Day and Night—Dead Toll May Reach 800.

The work of burying Florida's dead and searching for the missing lagged today as exhausted survivors and relief workers, hollow-eyed from lack of sleep since the West Indian hurricane struck on Sunday wallowed in the deep muck and water covering the stricken section around Lake Okechobee in western Palm Beach county.

Most of the survivors, half-famished, almost totally unclothed and crushed by the death of relatives, are physically unable to aid in the relief work.

The need of money is so pressing that Red Cross officials in the state are considering the advisability of requesting federal aid to the extent of $500,000. Gov. Martin, of Florida, has appealed to mayors of all cities in the state to send funds immediately to the stricken area. In addition, individuals are contributing from private citizens and various organizations throughout the country are coming in.

700-800 Dead
With a total of 700 and 800 dead in Palm Beach county admitted by Red Cross officials in West Palm Beach, in addition to the hundreds of missing, shipments of bodies continue to reach the Palm beaches from the everglades by truck and boat. One barge with 100 bodies is being towed here through a canal.

MRS. MACPHERSON LONGS TO CONVERT BAD PAREE

Noted American Evangelist Says There Is No City In World Which Needs Reli- gion So Badly.

Paris, Sept. 21.—There is no city in the world which needs religion so badly as Paris, according to Mrs. Almee Semple Macpherson, famous American evangelist, who stopped over here on her way to England.

Mrs. Macpherson told International News Service today that she felt a divine call to open a series of religious meetings here even though she could not speak a word of French.

After seeing the gayety and shadows of Paris, Mrs. Macpherson summed up her feelings as follows: Paris—with its lights dancing upon the river and the burnished thoroughfares. Paris—with its laughter, its music, its shuffling feet and its broken hearts. Paris—with its rich clothed in purple and fine linen, faring sumptuously every day; its poor laid at the gates full of sores, and its haughty daughters drawing their silken robes about their bodies, hiding their slinking into the shadows of the river quays. Paris—with its unslashed, tarnished and sensation mad; shallow as an empty platter, dancing at its own funeral, laughing from hollow rimmed eyes at the empty jets of Satan as, with Jingling baubles, Satan ever leads them to the crumbling edge of retribution.

"It is only a few hours since I arrived, but already I have asked myself a hundred times how best I could start a revival and how best I could proclaim salvation through Jesus. There is no city in the world that needs the religion of Jesus so much as Paris. Somehow, even though I cannot 'parlez vous', it seems criminally negligent to pass this way and not lift up my voice as did John of old crying out 'Repent ye, for the Kingdom of God is at hand.'"

BULLET DODGER SHOOTS HIMSELF

'Scarface Al' Capone Lucky in Numerous Gun Fights is Victim of An Accident.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—"Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago's one-time most spectacular gang chief and "hooch" nabob is today in a hospital in Hammond, Ind., with bullet wounds in his right and left legs and in the groin.

Capone, who during the heyday of his power in gangdom successfully dodged the bullets of his enemies, shot himself accidentally after he and Johnny Patton, "Boy Mayor of Burnham" had finished a game of golf on the Burnham links.

According to current reports, Capone and Patton were getting into an automobile when the gang leader's pistol was discharged. A bullet plowed through the fleshy part of his right leg, narrowly missing the abdomen and then embedded itself in his left leg.

Patton rushed his wounded friend to the hospital where physicians said Capone's condition was not serious.

ICE BOX VERDICT NEXT WEDNESDAY

Both Sides Agree to Limit the Arguments to But Four Hours.

Willimantic, Conn., Sept. 21.—The Worcester youths on trial here for the murder of State Trooper Irving H. Nelson, of New Haven, will know their fate by next Wednesday afternoon, according to plan of attorneys on both sides. The attorneys have agreed to limit their arguments to a total of four hours when the time for arguments is reached next Tuesday. The arguments and other court proceedings such as possibly some recrossing witnesses will occupy the court all day Tuesday and Judge E. M. Yonmans is expected to charge the jury on Wednesday morning.

Use Three Lawyers
Unofficially it is understood that only three of the defense counsel will participate in the arguments. Attorney Moynihan, who has played a leading part in the defense is to remain silent when arguments are under way. Howard C. Bradford, state's attorney, will open the arguments. He will be followed by Attorney Foss, Thayer and Hall, of the defense. Then Samuel B. Harvey, special state's attorney, will wind up the arguments. By that time the court day will have ended and an adjournment to Wednesday morning probably will be taken.

THE NEW WHO'S WHO

New York, Sept. 21.—Charles A. Lindbergh, James J. Walker, Walter P. Chrysler, Clarence Chamberlain and Colleen Moore are among the 3,831 persons who today make their debut among the great in the 1928-29 volume of "Who's Who in America."

But among those omitted are Ruth Elder, many a mayor, heads of several huge corporations, Charles A. Lindbergh, Clara Bow and others whose names are linked in the public mind with those who made the grade of fame.

Evacuation of the flooded area between Pahokee and Canal Point by quarantine unless the remaining bodies are removed by tomorrow may be deemed necessary, according to Red Cross officials.

REFUGEES ARRIVE.
West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 21.—Women and children began arriving here today from Pahokee and other towns in western Palm Beach county which were flooded by the waters of Lake Okechobee following Sunday's hurricane. The threat of an epidemic in the stricken sector is becoming alarming and it is deemed of prime importance to remove the survivors as fast as possible.

Thousands of acres of farm lands in the devastated area are flooded with muddy brownish water. The ridges of the dikes are the only dry spots. In most places the water is from three to five feet deep over the land.

As the bodies continued to arrive here by truck and boat, predictions were freely made that the Red Cross estimate of between 700 and 800 dead in Palm beach county would be exceeded. In addition, hundreds are missing.

Buried by Dozens.
Bodies of negroes are being buried by the dozen at a public cemetery here. Grave diggers are working overtime.

One shipment of 100 bodies is brought here on a barge through a canal.

It is not believed that any further attempts will be made to bring bodies out of the flooded district, however. Corpses are now being buried wherever found by the weary workers, who are finding the task too much for them. The exhausted survivors, wallowing in the muddy flooded section, are unable to give much assistance to relief workers from the Palm beaches and other cities.

Howard Seelye chairman of the Palm Beach County Red Cross committee announced last night that the entire everglades district along the shore of Lake Okechobee would have to be evacuated and sprinkled with lime unless all unburied bodies are removed by tomorrow night. He declared that relief workers could not remain in the devastated section any longer than that and that a quarantine would be necessary.

Need Federal Aid.
Sally expressed the belief that federal aid may be necessary, estimating that $500,000 was needed at once for the work of rehabilitation.

Reconstruction is well under way in West Palm Beach. The city's streets are almost clear of debris and carpenters are speeding the work of building new dwellings.

Gov. Martin, of Florida, has asked mayors of all cities in the state to send immediately whatever cash

Have You Television Face Then Fortune Awaits You

New York, Sept. 21.—A quest is in progress for the "perfect television face."

Tests are being made daily in the General Electric Company's television studio at the Radio World Fair at Madison Square Garden, to find if possible, the "perfect television woman" and the "perfect television man."

Fame and fortune await the man and woman who will be selected, for they will be engaged to star in the first public broadcast of a television drama. The play is to be broadcast over WGY, every one within listening distance who has a radio will be able to hear it, and those who have television attachments will be able to see it, as well as hear it.

The "perfect television type" should have red hair of Titian hue, to the left. He had reported that Dr. Stratton would "heckle" the governor but he remained silent. By his side sat Dr. Mordcaif P. Ham, another Fundamentalist who has been preaching against the Democratic nominee.

At one point, when Gov. Smith cited the appointments he has made as Governor of New York, showing heavy preponderance of Protestants over Catholics, the crowd interrupted the governor's speech with continued shouts of: Ham! Ham! Ham! Pour it on him.

Must Speak Out. "I have been told," said the governor bluntly, "that politically it might be expedient for me to remain silent on this subject, but so far as I am concerned no political expediency will keep me from speaking out in an endeavor to destroy these evil attacks."

There are two thousand pastors in this state for you. Mrs. Willebrandt holds a place of prominence in Washington. She is an assistant attorney general of the United States. By silence after such a speech the only inference one can draw is that the administration approves such political tactics.

He waved aloft a circular, unsigned, but purporting to be a member of my faith to vote for me on any religious grounds. I want them to vote for me only when in their hearts and consciences they are convinced, that the best interests of the country will be served by my election.

Decide on Issues. "Let the people decide this election on the great and real issues of the campaign, and upon nothing else."

The governor was literally deluged with congratulatory telegrams today for his action in bringing the "whispering campaign" still further into the open. They started coming within an hour after he concluded, and they continued today in ever-increasing volume.

Mrs. Willebrandt was not the only one named by Gov. Smith. He also "called" ex-Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, one of the Democrats who bolted the Smith ticket and announced for Hoover. The real basis for Owen's bolt, he said, was to be found in religious grounds. This is Owen's home state. If he had friends in the audience they were silent.

AL'S RELIGION IS BASIS OF FOE'S ATTACKS

As for the fiery cross of the Klan, he declared "the world knows no greater mockery than the using of the blazing cross, the cross upon which Christ died, as a symbol to instill into the hearts of men a hatred for their brethren. Christ preached and died for the love and brotherhood of man."

In the same issue of the Kentucky Baptist publication that printed the story of the intoxicated driving, Gov. Smith said he found the morning worship for the following Sunday to be "What Think Ye of Christ?"

"If I were responsible for such a wicked libel," he said, "I would be more deeply concerned about what Christ might think of me."

The governor was almost constantly interrupted throughout his speech by cries of encouragement and approval from the audience. One phrase in particular kept coming up: "Pour it on him."

Gov. Smith was somewhat in doubt as to just what this meant until old Oklahoma and Texas campaigners informed him it was a colloquialism in the southwest country, meaning "Give it to 'em."

There was almost total silence. Ten thousand people sat forward on the edges of their chairs and watched, as though fascinated, the spectacle of a presidential candidate publicly defending his religious faith and passionately denouncing his detractors.

Organization leaders in Oklahoma were jubilant over the effects of the candidate's speech. They declared it was the one thing needed to put Oklahoma into the Democratic column in November. The religious issue has been acute in Oklahoma, and that coupled with the dry sentiment has been causing the Democrats real worry.

Ex-Senator Thomas P. Gore, for many years Oklahoma's blind representative in the Senate, and a canny political judge, told the International News Service Correspondent that he believed Smith had "greatly helped" the Democratic cause in Oklahoma, irrespective of the toes stepped on.

Plymouth, Vt., Sept. 21.—Home skain for probably the last time as President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge crammed every minute possible into the few short hours of his stay at the old homestead here this morning.

Other graves in the Coolidge family plot also claimed the executive's attention. Alongside young Calvin are buried the President's father, mother and sister.

LIQUOR JOINTS IN KANSAS CITY GET STIFF BLOW

Kansas City, Mo.—Hard hit by raids prior to and following the Republican National Convention, hard liquor joints in Kansas City are fast becoming passe and, as a result, home brew manufacturing is widespread.

That is the gist of a report issued by Chief of Police Lincoln R. Toyne who recently conducted raids from downtown to outlying residential sections of the city.

Ninety "speakeasies"—some of which were really regulation bars—have been changed from the 1918 "flavor" except in products—were closed just before the delegates arrived in June, and there followed a gradual closing down of the less pretentious "joints" in a total of 575 raids.

Because the "hard liquor" became scarcer with each close-down, drinking mals, hops and accoutrements in their windows in place of the hitherto usual grocery or drug displays.

Liquors Seized. Only 1,742 gallons of mash and 1,682 gallons of corn whiskey have been seized in numerous raids since May 15, Chief Toyne's report shows. Compared with five years ago, or even two years ago, the same number of raids would have netted many times that amount.

Wines are found in a great many of the homes, especially in the Italian quarter. It is shown in the raid statistics.

In the place of the old "speakeasy," where a "shot" meant a generous glassful of corn liquor that tastes like gasoline smells, has some the apartment house—"third floor north," etc., if you follow the taxi man's instructions—where the drinker can rest in comfort and drink home brew.

LONDON TRAFFIC VIOLATORS GET POLITE NOTICE

London.—A new verdict for first offenders—"Naughty, naughty, don't do it again," has been inaugurated by the London police for dealing with violators of traffic ordinances.

In the future, motorists guilty of trivial offenses, provided they have not been summoned before, will not be fined, but will merely receive a politely-worded printed notice from the Commissioner of Police warning them not to offend again.

The new policy, it is anticipated, will relieve to a large extent the pressure of work at London police courts, and it is hoped that it will prove a sufficient check to further violations.

Motoring offenses have increased by leaps and bounds in the last few years, and the courts have been seriously handicapped in their efforts to deal with them. In 1924 there were 42,729 cases, and last year, there were no fewer than 79,834. The majority were minor cases, such as driving on the wrong side of the street or parking too long in one place.

The warnings will not be issued for dangerous driving in any form, and will give the police more time to concentrate on the serious offenders. They will also lessen the chance of a second offender escaping, for a careful record of every warning issued will be kept.

Only Experiment. The new decision is largely by way of experiment, and its success depends a great deal on the support given to the police by all classes of drivers.

At the same time as the warning scheme was announced, the police department stated that it was starting a new war on "noisy" machines. The use of a muffler cut-out is one of the most serious traffic offenses here, as the police have made every effort to dispense with unnecessary noises.

stolen in Hartford and are now being returned to Hartford for claimant.

Operated From Hartford

The gang has been operating, the police say, for several months. Hartford has been their headquarters. The goods stolen have been disposed of in Hartford to a "fence" and it is for this person that the Hartford police are now looking and his arrest is expected today.

On the morning of September 1, five men, wearing masks and carrying revolvers stopped at a garage in South Farm, a section of Middletown, and there held up the night man and took $12. They made their escape, but the man held up was able to detect the last three numbers of the car, which was 333. The same morning a car was found on the East Farm boulevard, deserted and badly used up, which had for the last three numbers, 333. This car had been stolen. The Middletown police on the same night, just before midnight arrested Victor Galanto, of Middletown, who later confessed that he was one of the gang and gave the name of four others.

The Other Members James O'Reilly, 18, George Fitzmaurice, 19, and Fred Bellocchi, 18, were all mentioned as was Dominick Bozo of East Hartford, the other three mentioned being from Hartford. The Hartford police were asked at that time to pick them up, but were unable to locate them.

The report of the capture of the young men in Middletown was broadcasted and when the report of the robbery at the Oakland street station was reported that same morning of their arrests Chief Gordon got in touch with the Middletown police to learn what time the arrest had taken place.

It was learned that the young men had been out of the city since they committed in Manchester and since then there has been an effort to locate them. The Hartford police have been working with the Manchester police on the case, but were unable to capture them. Their operations extended as far north as Springfield and among the other places that they are known to have entered are stations in Glasgowbury, Portland, Middletown and Vernon.

Local Police Act When the Rockville police made the arrest last night they got in touch with the Manchester police and this morning Lieutenant Barton went to Rockville. Detective Charles Halliday of the Hartford police was also sent to Rockville. When it was learned that they had stolen four automobiles from Hartford, the crime committed in that city was considered more serious than the one in Vernon and in Manchester so it was decided to allow Hartford to take them.

In company with the Hartford detective and Lieutenant Barton the three were brought to Manchester at 12:45 this noon and questioned as regards the robbery on Oakland street. It is said that they have confessed and that they have also admitted that the goods which were stolen from the different places, such as cigars, tubes and tires and other automobile supplies have been sold by them to a man in Hartford.

After their cases are disposed of in Hartford the authorities in Glasgowbury, Manchester, Rockville, Portland and Middletown where they are known to have operated, will take them. Another member of the gang, Bozo, is still at large, but the East Hartford police are after him and expect that he will be arrested today.

TROOP 5 The Boy Scouts of Troop 5 met for their second meeting of the fall season last Wednesday evening. Twenty-four boys and five officers were present. After the color ceremony inspection of patrols was held, which was won by Patrol 1. A snappy setting up drill was conducted by the patrol leaders. Fat Carlson is getting so that he can almost touch his toes now. Good boy, Fat, you'll lose that waistline yet.

During the instruction period which followed the first class Scouts were instructed in the Pioneering Merit Badge and several boys passed their requirements in lashing and splicing. The second class and tenderfoot Scouts were supervised by Art Anderson, Herman Johnson, Irving Carlson and Carl Gustafson who taught respectively signalling, map making, nature and tenderfoot tests.

Games followed in which Patrol 1 won the rubber in three games of "Chase the Tail." A new game called "Rattlesnake" was introduced and Earl Johnson got a bit the worst.

As the customary campfire which is held on the troop hikes is an impossibility an ingenious substitution was thought of in the form of a candle-fire.

At the candle-fire Patrol 1 put on a stunt called "There Ain't No Santa Claus." Patrol 2 and 4 united in a sketch called "The Dull Knife" and Patrol 3 ended the evening's entertainment with the "Mob Scene from Julius Caesar."

Closing with "By the Blazing Candle-fire" and the Scout Oath the Troop was dismissed.

A contest is being held within the troop and the prize for the six highest ranking Scouts will be a trip to New York in November.

ABOUT TOWN

Recent cards received from Archibald Sessions, who has been absent this summer on a world tour, indicate that he has been visiting Naples and Pompeii. It is expected he will return to town early in October.

Group 4 of the Memorial hospital linen auxiliary will have its first fall sewing meeting Monday afternoon at the School Street Recreation Center. All members of the auxiliary are urged to be present and to invite their friends, or newcomers to Manchester to assist in the work.

Miss Althea Murdock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Murdock of Essex street, and a graduate of the Connecticut Business college, has entered the employ of the Manchester Water company.

Miss Ruth Smith, daughter of Mrs. Nora Smith of Golway street, left Wednesday for Tufts college, Medford, Mass., and her sister, Miss Marjorie Smith, left yesterday for Brown University, Providence, R.I. Both young women have given up secretarial positions to pursue study at higher educational institutions. They were graduated from the Manchester High school with the classes of 1925 and 1926. Miss Ruth Smith took an active part in school dramatics and was a member of the Town Players.

A Democratic rally, the first of the present campaign, will be held tonight in Tinker Hall. George Dougherty of Manchester, who was graduated at Princeton in June, will be one of the speakers at the rally. He will cast his first vote in November and his topic tonight will be "Why I Am A Democrat."

The State theater opens the first of its fall season three day presentations with the feature "Our Dancing Daughters" starring Joan Crawford. Advance notices rate this picture as the best ever done by this versatile actress. The theme of the picture deals with the everyday problems that face the modern youth of today. The second of the three day feature is "Lilac Time" starting its run at the State a week from Sunday. Booked as the greatest love story ever presented on the screen with the World War as its background, Colleen Moore romps home with the honors in this presentation.

Walter B. Joyner who successfully conducted the community orchestra last winter will resume his classes in violin instruction at Kemps Music House this week.

Miss Natalie Burnham of Hartford will assume the work at the Center Congregational church which Miss Hazel Trotter, recently resigned, has held for some time. Burnham starts on her new duties on Sunday and will be a part-time worker. She will devote her efforts and special work with the young people of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Williams of Hudson street received a cablegram this afternoon from their son Ernest who sailed from New York 13 days ago for South America, to visit his brother Richard, who is there in the interests of the General Motors, Inc. The message was sent from Rio De Janeiro, the first landing place, and is to the effect that Mr. Williams had a fine voyage and good weather. He had cleared the region of the West Indies before the tropical hurricane. He will sail down to Buenos Aires to join his brother for a few days and together they will take an inland trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mans of 45 Pearl street will leave tomorrow for Boston, taking with them their 16 months old daughter, Betty, who will undergo treatment at the Children's hospital.

5 YEAR OLD BOY IS HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Arnold Cleveland Taken to Hospital Unconscious From Injuries.

Arnold Cleveland, 5, of Ridge street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cleveland, was struck by an automobile driven by William Bray of 33 Stone street at 12:30 this noon. He was picked up unconscious and taken to Manchester Memorial hospital, where he regained consciousness. Although it was thought at first that his injuries were serious he was found to have only a minor injury to the hip and cuts on the face and body.

He will be kept at the hospital for observation, however, as there is a possibility that there might be internal injuries.

24 HOURS FAST MARKS 'DAY OF ATONEMENT'

Next Monday figures in the Jewish calendar as the "Day of Atonement" and is observed as a fast day. The observance of the day starts at 6 o'clock on Sunday evening and continues through until 6 o'clock Monday evening during which time there is a strict observance of a fast which is followed after its closing hour, by special dinners served at the homes or messes of families at which there is generally a family reunion, or a gathering of guests.

During the period of the fast special services are held and places of business are either closed or left in charge of Gentile employees.

There are now about twenty-five Jewish families in Manchester and their services are held in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

DOOMED MOUNTAIN GIRL GETS LAST MINUTE STAY

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 21.—Out of the clasp of the doomed, Mrs. Eula Mae Thompson, young mountain woman, condemned to die in the electric chair for a holdup and murder a year ago, went back to Chatworth, Ga., her native home, for a sixty day reprieve today.

The reprieve was granted late yesterday by Gov. Hardman to give her more time to study certain aspects of the case and decide whether she should commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

The state prison commission recommended commutation of sentence.

APEMAN TREMBLES AS HE FACES MOB

Police Rush Him to Jail; His Mother Admits Her Identity.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 21.—Covering and trembling, his cap pulled down over his face, and coat collar turned up as though to hide from a mob, Gordon Stewart Northcott, Los Angeles "murder farm" owner and accused slayer of four boys, arrived here today in charge of a police squad.

As the train pulled into the station hundreds of curious citizens thronged the Canadian Pacific station to see the alleged slayer. Northcott jumped off the train, manacled to an escort. A score of police surrounded him as he was pushed into a waiting automobile which took him to Okaigala prison.

While Northcott was being taken to the Okaigala jail, his mother, Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, wanted in connection with the five asserted child slayings at Riverside, California, admitted her identity to police as she sat in a cell at a Calgary police station.

Since her arrest the woman insisted that she was a widow, without children, and that her name was Mrs. J. Black. Today, however, she confessed her identity after she had been shown a picture of her son with the information that he had been arrested and accused as the actual slayer.

HEMMEED IN BY FIRE. San Diego, Calif., Sept. 21.—Five persons, one a woman, are hemmed in by the brush fire raging today in Chihuana district, near the Riverside county line, according to word telephoned this morning by Forest Supervisor Elliott from the force fighting the flames. George L. Marcock and his wife were on their ranch with a ring of fire around it, Elliott said, and three firefighters were isolated from the main body of fighters when brush began burning on all sides of them.

Now that obey has been struck out of the marriage service we suppose the next forward step will be to change that phrase to "to love and to cherish until divorce do you part."

Announcing the Opening Of Keith's BRANCH STORE

(PURNELL BUILDING—OPP. PARK ST.)

OUR CONVENIENT UPTOWN SHOWROOMS ARE NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS AND INSPECTION

We take great pleasure in announcing our new uptown showroom, and in presenting to the public this extra inducement of convenience in their furniture shopping, added to the many other advantages for which this company has been known in the past.

The best of our furniture offerings will now be on display uptown, where you will be more certain to know about them. For smaller items in particular, the hurried shopper will be better accommodated.

You will find the same values in both stores, based on our famous "Low Cost" principles—the same terms, the same attention, the same facilities, and the same service.

Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Porter were among the guests of those who were present at Springfield Fair, on Sunday.

Miss Caroline E. Kellogg was a dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Phelps in Andover on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Goldman had recently as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Goldberg of New York and Mr. and Mrs. B. Smullen of Brooklyn. The Misses Paula, and Freda Goldman and their brother Samuel, who formerly lived here are spending a vacation this week at the Manhattan home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Hewitt and Mrs. Hewitt's nephew, Edward Merritt were visitors recently at the home of Mr. Hewitt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hewitt. They also visited Mrs. Hewitt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey in Columbia.

Mrs. Mary Mitchell is the guest for a few days this week of Mrs. Elizabeth Hills in Willimantic.

Miss Helen Rathbun has returned from a visit in Marlborough where she was spending a vacation at the home of Mrs. J. Sloan, and at the home of the Rev. Delmar Markie in Fairfield. Mr. Markie has given St. Peter's school an urgent invitation to locate in Fairfield. Mrs. McCarty, above mentioned, was a former Hebron resident. She is slowly recovering from an accident in which she broke a rib and otherwise injured herself. Her life was despaired of for months.

Quite a number from this vicinity attended the recent fair held in Marlborough.

Miss Eunice Porter, her niece, Miss Thelma Cummings, Wesley Deegan and a friend spent Sunday at Sound View.

Mrs. Charles Hilding entertained the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church at her home Wednesday afternoon. In spite of the bad storm about twelve members were present. The time was passed in conversation, music, etc., and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The various state roads through the town have received a fresh coat of oil.

The double line of telephone and electric light poles through the town has been removed, giving place to a single line, serving for both. In many places trees have been trimmed very close to accommodate the wires, to the great detriment of the trees. Their symmetry is spoiled and perhaps their lives jeopardized. A great grouse was taken from a handsome tree planted some years ago in the middle of the green in the spot where the old elm used to stand. An ugly telephone pole stands directly in front of this tree at the south, the wire passing through its branches.

Fourteen members of the Hebron and Gilead Grange are present at a joint meeting at Columbia, held at Yeomans Hall Wednesday evening. The program was furnished by the Hebron Grange, and consisted of musical numbers, readings, and a report from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Owen of their trip to the lecturers' conference at Burlington, Vt. Mr. Owen is Master of the West Hartford Grange and Mrs. Owen is lecturer of that grange. They have recently made their home in Gilead.

HIGHWAY DEPT.

RECEIVES BIDS FOR 746 TREES

Hundreds to Be Set Out Along Conn. Roads During Fall in Beautification Program.

Bids for the planting and care of 746 new trees to be set out along Connecticut highways as part of the highway department's beautification plan will be received at the office of the department's Landscape Architect at New Haven today, according to an announcement made by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. The trees are to be planted along highways in Litchfield, Hartford and Tolland counties to supplement the work done along these lines on highways in other counties last spring.

White Elm predominates on the fall planting list, there being 466 trees of this type on the list open for bid. Sugar Maple is the next largest type with 167 trees. The balance of the list consists of 31 Red Maples, 2 Silver Maples, 33 Pine Oaks, 29 White Ashes, 3 Weeping Willows and 19 White Pines. These trees together with those set out during the spring months will bring the total number set out by the department this year close to 1,900.

It is stipulated by the highway department that no bids may be entered except by landscape architects, nurserymen or certified tree experts; and that if it so desires the department may call for references or evidence of previous work accomplished by the bidder. All planting must be started by October 15 at the latest in order to obviate any chance of death of the new trees by frost. The successful bidder is expected to supply all the stock called for in the proposal whether raised in his own nurseries or obtained from outside sources.

In addition to furnishing and setting out the trees, the contractor is required to fertilize, mulch, water and prune them and to guarantee completion within one year from the date of contract. He is also required to replace during that period any defective, dead or dying trees. The trees are to be planted on 22 sections of state highway.

Raymond Bancroft who has been a guest of his sister Mrs. Walter Button and family, has returned to his home in Ellington.

News has been received from Noank of the death of Maurice Barward Fuller, age 54, who died at Noank after a long illness. He was the son of Lucius H. and Helen Briggs Fuller of Putnam, Conn. He attended Harvard and later studied medicine in New York City for a short time until prevented by ill-health. He traveled extensively in Europe after which he spent some time in New Mexico. He leaves a wife, his father, who is one of the leading insurance agents in the eastern part of Connecticut and at one time Senator from the 16th Senatorial district, and a half brother Raymond August Fuller of California. He was a nephew of Hon. Edward Eugene Fuller of Tolland and a grandson of the late Lucius Seymour Fuller and Mary Bliss Fuller, who were life long residents of Tolland.

The regular meeting of Tolland Grange was held Tuesday evening in the church vestry. After the regular business meeting the lecturer placed the literary program in the charge of the three graces who furnished an excellent program, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings, recitations and talks by the members of the Grange. The committee in charge of refreshments were Mrs. C. Hibbard West and Mrs. Cassavant. A social hour was spent which all enjoyed together.

FARMERS.
Hoover Has Given Them Practical Help.

"No living man," says a great authority, "has done so much, practically, for the American farmer, to help his prices and enlarge his markets, as Herbert Hoover has done." December 31, 1918, the Allies cancelled all their orders for American pork. America was producing a surplus of four hundred million pounds of pork a month under price agreements with the Allies. If the packers bought hogs without the foreign market, they would go bankrupt. If the packers did not buy, the farmers would go bankrupt. Meanwhile, in Central Europe, people were starving for lack of the very food our farmers could not get rid of. Hoover won a remarkable diplomatic victory, when he induced the Allied governments to relax their blockade and permit our farmers to market their surplus. His farm relief plans are born of a knowledge of farm problems.

Route No. 325 "RIVER PIRATE" HAS FINALS AT STATE TONIGHT

Fans Praise Victor McLaglen's Latest Film; "Beautiful But Dumb," Co-Feature.

Tonight will witness the last screenings of "The River Pirate," the Fox Films feature at the State Theater, which has proven to be one of the best entertainments seen here this season. Victor McLaglen is seen in the title role, with Lois Moran and Nick Stuart in the romantic leads. Earle Foxe, Donald Crisp and a cast of well-known screen veterans of the great Charles Francis Coe story.

Tonight also marks the final showing of "Beautiful But Dumb," Patsy Ruth Miller's latest production. This delightful comedy-drama has a generous sprinkling of humor running through its entire plot. It tells the story of a girl who realizes that being beautiful and dumb is the modern manner in which to lure the men. She is madly in love with her office boss, who regards her as just a plain efficient stenographer, instead of the girl she really is. How she finally wins his affection is told in the most entertaining manner.

The picture is said to be Patsy Ruth Miller's greatest effort since her elevation to stardom. She is given able support by George Stone, Eileen Sedgewick and Charles Byers.

The usual pleasing selection of short subjects will round out the program.

BANNER WEEK-END FOR STATE THEATER FANS

Two Fine Features Tomorrow; "Dancing Daughters" Sunday.

For those who like comedy at its height, with considerable plot, not to mention thrills thrown in, we recommend the Universal farce comedy, "A Hero For a Night," which comes to the State Theater tomorrow. It starts with a laugh and ends with the audience hysterical.

Glenn Tryon, the popular comedian, who has been forging to the front so rapidly of late, plays the role of a smart-alec young wisecracker, who files his home-made airplane to Russia just to prove to his girl friend how good he is. We don't know whether the author wrote the story with Tryon in mind or not, but if he did not, the director should get all the credit in the world for finding him for the production.

Patsy Ruth Miller is charming as the heroine and is an excellent foil for Glenn's innumerable smart cracks and farcical lovmaking. In fact, she hands out quite a few of both herself. We hope to see more of this comedy team together.

The picture was directed by William James Craft from an original screen story by Harry O. Hoyt. The supporting cast includes the lovely old gentleman, Burr McIntosh,

25,000 HOMELESS PEOPLE IN LONDON, SAYS CITY MISSION

London—London has 25,000 persons without any home of their own.

This estimate is made by Tom Bow, member of the London City Mission who works in the common lodging houses of the capital.

"Heathenism as intense in its own way as any to be found among the backward races and a prevalence of vice and wrong hardly exceeded in any capital of the world are to be found in London's metropolitan lodging-houses," writes Bow in the organ of the Mission.

"Then men are a queer lot," he adds. "The professional begging letter writer, street singers, match sellers, who are beggars in disguise, and social derelicts all live in the common kitchens, which are always open."

They have a curious "lingo," of which Bow gives some examples. "A peddler says his 'stiff' has run out. He has plenty of 'swags,' 'snells' and 'stretchers,' but he is 'swing' a 'leg' in order to find an 'Oxford scholar' for his 'brief.'"

In other words, he is a street vendor whose license has expired. In London's lodging houses the "needy" is a hawk; a "skippere" is a real hobo; a "mash-maker" is an umbrella maker; a "griddle" a

MUD

Is it part of the whispering campaign to inquire how come, else, the unseasonably hot airs blowing out of the West?

FIGHT OF DAVID I.

David I. Walsh, instead of carrying the Smith candidacy along with him to victory in Massachusetts, as so many Smith adherents have hoped, will have the battle of his life to bring about his own election now that Benjamin Loring Young, former speaker of the Bay State House of Representatives, has been nominated to contest Senator Walsh's seat.

The last time Walsh ran for the Senate he had for an opponent a man who is probably more cordially disliked by more people in the Republican party of Massachusetts than any other person in it with one exception, William M. Butler's candidacy was a present of the senatorship to Walsh, who can beat any weak Republican in the state at any time. But Loring Young is a cut off another piece of cloth altogether. He is strong, able, personally as popular as Butler is unpopular. He will poll the full Republican vote with the exception of the sprinkling of mill town workers over whom Walsh exercises an uncanny influence. And Young's standing with the independents and independent Democrats is so high that his gains in these quarters should offset Walsh's peculiar strength in the industrial towns.

No other nomination that could have been made would be so promising of a restoration of the Massachusetts junior senatorship to the Republican party.

The exception referred to above is the celebrated Alonzo B. Cook, who again captured the Republican nomination for Bay State auditor. The G. O. P.'s old man of the sea seems to be absolutely impossible to get rid of.

DESTRUCTION

Graft prosecutors trapped an envelope which had been handed to a young woman by a police captain on his return from a two weeks vacation. The young woman had been directed to hand it to another woman. While it was still in the possession of the second woman, on a circumlocutory round intended to bamboozle snooters, it was subpoenaed. This was in Philadelphia. The envelope is supposed to have contained the graft gathered in for the captain, during his absence, by his collector.

DRY-FOOT LAW

Stimulated no doubt by propagandists' reports of the success of prohibition in the United States, the Republic of Portugal has undertaken a particular reformation of its own which the royal government of that country never had the temerity to tackle. It is not the consumption of alcohol which has stirred the ants of Portugal to successful action, for the only persons in that country who do not drink at least wine, are those with stoppages of the esophagus and who can't swallow anything.

It is the practice of going barefoot which has loomed, in the agitated minds of the busybodies, as a menace to the physical, spiritual and moral well-being of the nation. And they have done at last what the dry did in this country, they have succeeded in persuading or bullying the Portuguese Congress into passing a law making it a penal offense to go without shoes in public.

To what extent the reformers have been egged on and financially supported by the shoemakers, as the drys were egged on by special interests and are supported by bootleggers, we don't know. But we reserve the right to make a silent guess. Anyhow, the Portuguese people, a very great many of whom go barefoot from choice when not from necessity, are sufficiently stirred up about the business so

"get" him through political influence greater than his own. If the illicit liquor business and its illegitimate children make it possible for fixers to hand over a hundred thousand dollars a year to one man in Philadelphia, what chance is there that the police forces of American cities generally will much longer be able to sustain even a reasonable degree of rectitude?

Here is a fruit of Volsteadism that may set even the most obstinate of the drys to thinking. A hundred thousand a year for just one officer in just one precinct in just one American town, for the privilege of doing comfortably the illegal business which the crooks would do anyhow, even if uncomformably. It provides a mere hint of the moral and ethical destruction that we are up against.

THE VITAL SPEECH

There is reason to believe that the speech which Herbert Hoover is scheduled to deliver at Elizabethton, Tennessee, on October 6, will be the most effective single utterance ever made in a Presidential campaign in the United States. It will deal with the economic and industrial development of America and it will, with complete certainty, treat the most vital of all subjects with an understanding and clarity of which no other American, in any position or in walk of life, is equally capable.

After all, the one outstanding issue in this Presidential election is the perfection of our economic system so that, as Mr. Hoover has expressed it, there shall be a well compensated job for every person who wants to work. That must be the basis on which any perfected civilization must rest. With an economic system, stabilized so that business, agriculture and industry are assured of permanent successful activity, this country will be ready to go on to the solving of cultural, ethical and political problems of great but less immediate importance. First we must have our foundation squared and cemented. It is for leadership in this direction that Mr. Hoover has been selected by the Republican party as the individual best equipped of all the hundred and twenty millions of Americans. On October 6 Mr. Hoover will show the nation that the choice was wise.

AT A SACRIFICE

Justice has been so tempered with mercy in the case of the Manchester boys who staged the hold-up at the State theatre some weeks ago about that the ordinary beholder can see the mercy. Obviously this is one of those cases where the welfare of the offenders themselves is given precedence over the stern exactions of the good of society. Almost the poorest use that can be made of a boy is to lock him up; and the youthful participants in this crazy adventure will likely enough make good use of the opportunity thus given to them by the court to rehabilitate themselves. On their account and their families' congratulations are in order.

It should be brought home to them with the greatest force, however, that when society deals thus gently with the individual who has challenged it with crimes of violence it does so at the risk of great cost to itself in encouraging other evil doers to go and do likewise. Such sacrifice deserves appreciation expressed in terms of the most exemplary conduct on the part of the beneficiary.

that there is an excellent chance of a revolution.

There are a number of peoples who are a bit more touchy than we are about government interference with personal liberty. Apparently the Portuguese are one of them.

SEVENTEEN NEGROES

If a few Negroes of the type of Jack Johnson, discredited pugilist, are working among their people in the interest of the Smith candidacy they probably have personal reasons, at which it would not be hard to guess. However, even Harlem and Boston and Indianapolis Negroes are not likely to miss the significance of the Florida tornado death lists. One of them, and it is typical, is that sent out from South Bay. It reads: "Oliver Wilder, Laura Wilder, Joe Rashley, Dave Rashley, Mrs. W. C. Thigpen and daughter, Mrs. A. J. Rowe, Mrs. W. H. Booth, Virgil Boots, Ray Boots, W. H. Boots, Mann Thigpen, seventeen Negroes."

That fairly represents the status of the Negro in the Solid South, whence is derived now and always will be derived the major strength and stability of the party of which Governor Smith is the candidate.

OUR SENSES.

Have you ever considered that all of your consciousness of the external world comes to you through your special senses of seeing, hearing, touching, tasting, smelling, and equilibrium? If at birth a person were deprived of the organs which register these sensations, it is doubtful if he would ever realize that he lived.

Most of our actions are complex reflexes from stimulations that have come to us through these sense organs. For example, if we see an automobile coming at us while we are crossing the street, we dodge or otherwise endeavor to avoid being struck. If we hear a footstep climbing the stair at night, we listen intently, and may even get up to find out who is there. If we smell smoke as of burning wood, we look around to find out whether or not the house is on fire. In fact, you will be able to trace practically every movement or thought that you have to some impulse that has come to you through some of your organs of sense.

We have the eye for detecting variations of light; the ear for detecting noises; the nose for detecting odors; the taste buds in the tongue and mouth for overseeing our food; touch organs in the skin and internal organs for registering heat, cold and internal sensations; we have the semicircular canals in our skulls near the ears, for observing our equilibrium. These sensations are carried by nerves to the brain, where they register and start channels of impulses which may cause us to perform very complicated physical movements.

All of our knowledge of the world has come to us through the sense organs, and it is interesting to trace the development of the first recognition of these sense by an infant. Probably the first knowledge that a baby has of the external world comes to it through its sense of touch. It becomes conscious of the support of the oed, and of things coming in contact with its arms and legs. Gradually it realizes the difference between being held by the mattress and its mother's arms. The undirected physical movements of the baby's arms and legs bring its attention to clothes, pillows and crib. One of the reflexes that a child seems to be born with is to try and grasp any object placed in his hands.

As for a baby cannot see objects, it is merely conscious of lights and shadows. Gradually its eyes become conscious of large moving objects, and the eyes will follow them in a horizontal position, since the muscles for raising the eyeballs are not developed until some time after birth. The newborn child is deaf, but as the air enters the middle ear through the eustachian tube, the hearing developed. Possibly sound at first is simply a disturbing factor. The child becomes able to distinguish between harsh and soothing tones, and the mother's lullaby has been evolved in practically every country of the world as an aid to quieting the child. Hearing does not develop fully for from several hours to several days after birth.

The child at first is not conscious of a sense of hunger. The sucking of milk for the first few weeks seems to be purely a reflex action. Oddly enough, the sense of smell seems to be more acute than the sense of taste in recently born babies. It is interesting to watch a baby's enjoyment of experimenting with its new-found senses. If a baby is given an object, or if an object is placed within grasping distance, first the infant looks at the object, then grasps and tastes it, and mothers develop gray hairs because baby insists on tasting everything, but this is simply a natural method of the child trying out its new-found senses.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Question: Mrs. A. G. writes: "I have a most annoying feeling come over me at times. It begins in my head, then seems to make my body stiff. Does not last long, but when it goes away, it leaves me with a very bad headache all the rest of the day. Could you tell me what it is and what to do about it?" Answer: It would be necessary for me to know more about your trouble in order to give you a correct explanation of the cause and cure. I cannot attempt to diagnose cases without personal examinations.

Question: Mrs. J. writes: "I am fond of pancakes and coffee for breakfast. Sometimes I use oatmeal and poached eggs in addition. Would this hurt if I am careful with my other meals? I never see you mention pancakes in your menus. Can you give me a good recipe for them?" Answer: I do not recommend the ordinary pancake because it is exceedingly hard to digest, and a breakfast such as you describe is apt to make you lousy and sleepy the remainder of the day. Even if your digestive system is good, the strain will tell in time. A good substitute for pancakes is a thoroughly toasted waffle in which the starch is completely dextrinized. I do not advise much butter or syrup on the waffle. In addition, one or two eggs may be used cooked in any manner except frying, and some stewed fruit, preferably prepared without sugar. I do not advise the use of breakfast cereals except in the case of children, and those doing heavy work.

Question: Rose writes: "Am thirty-two years old and my hair is just beginning to get curly. Could there be anything wrong with my hair or scalp? Am feeling fine, but would just like to know the reason for this change in my hair." Answer: Hair frequently turns curly toward middle age, and this change is no doubt due to the results of a bad fever or to a radical change of diet. I have known many cases where thin, straight hair became curly after a fasting and diet treatment.

WASHINGTON LETTER By RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, Sept. 21.—Senator J. Boiesworth McWhorter's re-election to the Senate is in some doubt, according to confidential advisers from the senator's home state. If there's anything that Senator McWhorter dislikes in an election, it's opposition. And now there's another get after his job. This is not the same get after him such a close race in 1922. It will be recalled the farmers in the senator's state were all very busy on him in that year and there was every indication that they were going to retire McWhorter in his kraut-packing business. The senator's enemies say luck saved him, but the senator insists it was his own stroke of genius. The night before election he put all the McWhorter precinct workers to killing spiders, whereupon it rained so hard that all farmers trying to get to the polls were bogged in the mud. Some say it would have rained anyway, but the senator points out that everybody knows it will rain if you kill a spider.

Anyway, the senator is back on the firing line, making two or three speeches a day. His evening speech is a powerful tribute to the Star-Spangled Banner. The senator believes that "The Glory is a grand old flag and demands that the members of his

to take minor jobs and that this would allow him to go stumping the country for the national ticket with all expenses paid when the bad news sent him rushing home. The cause of the slip-up is something of a mystery. When Senator McWhorter went to the national campaign headquarters to tell the national chairman that he was already to start out, the national chairman suggested that he had better be watching his own fences because it would be a terrific loss to the party if McWhorter were to fail of re-election. When McWhorter explained his arrangements the chairman said you never could tell and that lots of times opponents suddenly sprang up unexpectedly. But the senator insisted and haunted headquarters for several days, hinting slyly now and then that he was already on the job and that of course remuneration was no object, but— When all of a sudden came the news that someone was out against McWhorter and all previous plans were off. Some of McWhorter's friends are unimpaired, claiming that the national committee actually incited the trouble at home, but the senator himself pooh-poohs the idea. He blames the bolsheviks.

audience appreciate its significance. The senator's morning speech deals with the sanctity of the home and the fact that the youth of today is the America of tomorrow. For holidays and other special occasions, like Saturday nights, the senator saves his speech about the red, red radicals. This is the same speech which did such splendid service in 1922, 1924 and 1926. Of course, the senator has had some slight trouble with hecklers, paid by his opponent to yell out and charge Senator McWhorter with avoiding important issues and ask about his record. Usually, the senator merely raises his voice and drown the hecklers out, but sometimes one of them gets a question through the big wind. Then the senator answers manfully. When they ask him about arm relief he says he is for it. And when they ask him about prohibition he tells them the story of Goldilocks and the Three Bears. There are those in the McWhorter camp who shake their heads and express the fear that the senator's campaign method may have outlived its usefulness. But the senator replies that it always has won for him and that it will win for him again. Wonder if that popular song "The Best Things in Life Are Free" wasn't brought back to America by some of the summer visitors to Edinburgh.

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC.

EXCLUSIVE REPRESENTATIVES FOR CRAWFORD AND CHAMBERS RANGES

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 21—Bits of Gotham gossip—Jack Warner, one of the now very important Warner Brothers, has as his valet the former prize-fighting Turk, Abdul Majid.

These Warner boys, as may have been noticed, have been doing very well lately, what with their stock leaping ten points at a time, their on-salut in the field of talkies, their acquisition of the Stanley theater circuit and their reported taking over the Keith-Albee circuit.

It was Sam Warner, I am told, who visioned the future of the "talkies" and staked the family shirt on its progress. He died about a year ago.

Now that they're large in the amusement limelight, maybe you'd like to hear about the Warner Brothers. There were Al, Sam, Jack and Harry. And they all came from Poland, brought as babies by their parents.

Today Harry, 43, is the president; Albert is the business man and Jack, when not in New York, supervises the Hollywood plant.

It was, if I remember, just about a year ago that I was doing an interview with Harry Warner. And he said something like this: "Put this down and stick it in your hat . . . a year from now the wise birds of this business won't be able to recognize their own industry. It will have been turned upside down and inside-out."

One hears such comments daily about Broadway. Had this scrivener heeded, he might now be driving speed-boats on the Hudson instead of jotting down how it happened.

Which reminds me that Al Jolson was one of the heavy benefactors of the market boom in Warner stock. I am told he made more than a million—and he is already a millionaire.

The other day, talking things over in his niche in the Ritz Towers—that giraffe-like building "just off the avenue"—Jolson insisted that they were "paper profits" to date.

An unusual and highly interesting personality is this "biggest box office attraction." His face is tanned to a plum-colored hue. He wears a suit to match the peculiar shade and sits in a chair that seems to have been matched from the same cloth.

On this particular day, a theatrical weekly had reported him engaged to marry little Ruby Keeler, the "tap dancer."

"And that's the way it goes," he was saying. "I'm going to get out of this town for a while—going to London and get away over in Europe. It's not all it's cracked up to be, this funny way life has of drifting. You seem to be sitting on top of the world. But are you? Take me . . . I don't know for sure whether or not I've got a real friend. I know I've got plenty of yes men. But are they friends? I like to go to theaters and to play around. And yet, if I'm seen with the same girl more than twice, the tabloids come along and say I'm going to marry. And that's the way it goes."

His eyes were sad, and there was a wistful note in his voice. . . He wasn't trying to be theatrical or sentimental. . . He was a human being, caught in a net of what they call success. . . of them get that way in Manhattan, if they're sensitive.

TOWN PLAYERS ADOPT AMBITIOUS SCHEDULE

Expect to Fill Out-of-Town Dates and Have Various Casts at Work.

At the meeting of the officers and chairman of committees of the Town Players, held at the School Street Recreation Center last night, a schedule far more ambitious than any ever attempted by the players in the past was drawn up.

The Town Players' season will get under way immediately. The play reading committee will select one of the following recent Broadway productions: "Square Crooks," which was presented by the Poll players during the past summer; "Spooks," also presented by the Poll players, and "The Brat." One of these plays will be produced and will be presented in either the Circle or State theater during the latter part of November.

To Meet Oct. 2 or 3 The first regular meeting of the Town Players will be held either October 2 or 3. All active and associate members are requested to be present also all members of last year's High School senior class who were members of the Soc and Euxin club and all others interested in any phase of dramatics.

The Players plan to have two or three plays in rehearsal at all times, one cast, the "first company," working on recent Broadway releases to be presented in Manchester and at any college, school or club that can be interested in booking the Players; a second cast working on one-act plays and longer productions to be played for granges, churches, and theaters in nearby towns.

Under this new system more players will have an opportunity to work and an income provided for sets, costumes, and lighting effects.

Such an ambitious schedule means activity for all old members and opportunity for new members. To encourage all associate and active members to attend the first meeting and to interest as many new people as possible in the meeting "A Cup of Tea," a one-act farce, will be presented in the Rec auditorium on that evening.

Miss Eugenia Walsh, who played the lead in "Minick," will share the lead in this one-act with Miss Beatrice Armstrong, who supported her in that play. The men in the cast will also probably be some of the members of cast of that show.

GERMAN WRITER SEES MAN'S INFERIORITY IN FLEA OLYMPIC GAMES

Berlin.—Olympic records scored by men and women athletes at Amsterdam are trifling compared with what insects perform every day without filling the world with much noise about their sporting achievements, say an anonymous entomologist writing in the Rheinisch-Westfaelische Zeitung and pleading for "Olympic Games of Insects," where the world would see much more to go crazy about than recently in Holland.

"Just think of that little unpleasant animal, the flea. It jumps two hundred times his own length, which means that man would have to jump over the highest skyscraper of New York to equal its record. . . And what about the oyster whose muscles are so powerful that by closing its shells, it produces energy equal to lifting fifteen kilograms. Man would have to carry an entire loaded freight train on his shoulders to equal this record.

"Have you watched a fly carefully? Well, a fly can carry a match with its feet if lifted by its wings. Try to beat this record, man, and you would have to lift a tree of eight metres length and half a metre in diameter.

"Man is so proud of his strength and fantastic world records, but his achievements are poor as compared to the titanic records of little, despicable insects."

OR, MAYBE, THE COOK A man who found a button in his salad remarked, with great presence of mind: "I suppose it dropped off while the salad was dressing."—Tit-Bits.

A citizen of Berlin wrote to his newspaper urging that English be adopted as an international language. Probably it would have a hard time taking hold in the United States, though.

COPS SCOUR CHICAGO TO FIND KIDNAPERS Chicago, Sept. 21.—Acting on the demand of Judge Frank Comerford that the secret Mafia organization responsible for the kidnaping of ten-year-old Billy Ranieri be crushed, police and forces of the state's attorney's office are today scouring Chicago's "Little Italy" in an effort to unearth extortion Terrorists who have thrown thousands of Chicago parents into panic.

Slowly but surely the gigantic dragnet of the law is ensnaring in its tentacular meshes the abettors of the Ranieri kidnapers. Witness after witness was brought today to the Criminal Courts building, where Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hoffman and Charles Mueller penetrated little by little the stoic silence of the banditti.

Police made another dash into a West Chicago suburb, expecting to locate the farm house where Billy Ranieri was held for the thirteen days of his captivity while his abductors negotiated with his frenzied father for $60,000 ransom.

By arresting the farmer and his wife who kept the boy for the kidnapers, authorities hope to secure evidence that would convict every member of the band of extortionists.

Giants Cause Not Hopeless As Cards Blow The Second

Walsh Thinks St. Louis Showed Weakness by Not Being Able to Protect Its Advantage.

By DAVID J. WALSH
New York, Sept. 21.—If you asked the St. Louis Cardinals today, they would tell you that they are riding side-saddle to the National League pennant after winning the first game of their double-header with the Giants yesterday. If you asked the writer, he might venture to say that, after the Cards had won and then had blown the second game, the Giants' cause is not hopeless as might be indicated by their two-game deficit with only nine remaining to be played.

There is something psychologically disquieting to any club when it goes into the eighth inning behind a 4 to 2 lead, with its favorite pitcher in operation, and can't protect its advantage. What makes this omission all the more heinous is the fact that a victory in this second game virtually would have carried with it the National League pennant.

Six batters away from the goal of their hearts' desire and yet unable to reach it, if Alexander, seemingly about to score his first decision over the Giants this year, simply had failed to get the hitters out, one might lift a careless shoulder and call it a break of the game. But Alexander, far from blameless though he might be, had to see the first run of the inning score on Jimmy Wilson's passed ball and Maranville filled the bases with a fumble on Jackson, before he pitched that home run ball to Hogan. The Jackson tap should have ended the inning and, to all purposes, the game with the score 4 to 3, for the Rabbit had a force play at all three bases and nothing more to do about it than to pick up an ordinary ground hit.

Shift of Fortunes
The sudden shift of fortunes, reducing the Cards from the status of a potential pennant winner to that of merely a leading contender again, must have been somewhat disconcerting and, offhand, it might seem that the Giants are in the better position morally, to go after tomorrow's finale. As a matter of fact, they thought they were beaten in that second game yesterday and until the Cards refused to have it that way, were just playing for their straws as required by law. It really is a terrible thing to lick the other guy and then see him win, after all.

No, the Cards aren't "in," at least, not yet. They might be, but that one tomorrow, in which case their lead will be only one game with eight to go. It is my notion that a one-game lead is nothing to write Aunt Fanny about, even with only one to play. The key game of the situation, therefore, must come tomorrow. If the Cardinals lose it, the thing will become a fight to the finish with the Giant-Card game of September 30 the great "convincer" for one club or the other. If the Cards win tomorrow, however, the Giants very well might forge the entire matter as hurried as possible.

Still, these mathematical certainties at the end of a pennant race have a way of turning into mathematical interrogations. The Cardinals naturally are well "up" on the situation and must so remain until we see what, if anything, happens tomorrow.

History, and fairly recent history at that, proves that there is nothing mathematically certain until the last vote is in, however. Thumb back through memory's pages to the Year of Grace, 1922, and you will recall that the Yankees left for home with a 4½ game lead over the Browns after their famous series at Sportsman's park. At that particular juncture, the Yanks had only four games to play, the Browns five, therefore, the Yankees ultimate victory was certain, wasn't it? No, Williamie, it wasn't.

All they had to do was to win one of their four while the Browns dropped one out of five and it was over. But the Browns won five straight from the tough clubs while the Yanks were beaten by the lowly Red Sox and only pulled out the third and pennant deciding game by a whisper.

Cubs Completely Insured Against Grid Injuries

One of the most tremendous strides in amateur and semi-pro football circles is being undertaken this season by the Cubs of this town. Accident insurance, covering the entire squad has been placed with the Clarence H. Anderson agency of this town. After many conferences with the Century Indemnity Company of Hartford, Mr. Anderson finally placed the policies. Unlike the college or professional player, the semi-pro or amateur grid-warrior must work daily for a living with football as a side line. As the earning capacity of providing for most always come first, it was a hard matter to interest many promising young men in this great sport because of lack of protection. Not many players had much confidence in the so-called benefit contests arranged to aid an injured player, hence the evident reluctance in coming out for the team.

Through Mr. Anderson's clear cut statements regarding the policies, many of last year's champs returned this season. Every question was answered fully and thorough and detailed information was given the club officials concerning the policy. The fact that the Century Indemnity Company is fully aware that it is taking this risk adds a bit more to the credit of that company and its agent here.

There is not the slightest doubt but what the so-called professional player stopped insurance companies from accepting any sort of a football player as a risk. Many of the stars, especially so, a few years ago, abused this privilege so far that the majority of the companies discontinued a policy of this sort.

However, modification of the rules which has eliminated many of the more objectionable features and unnecessary roughness to such an extent that the companies are seemingly a bit more inclined to favor the amateur and semi-pro player.

Coach Jack Dwyer, dean of intercollegiate football here, said last evening that he considered his squad very lucky to obtain accident insurance even for one year. He stated that he had tried unsuccessfully for years to get an outright policy covering local football players. He further complimented Mr. Anderson on his success in protecting the Cubs for the coming season.

YANKEES HAVE BEST AT FIRST

Gehrig Is Pick of Initial Sackers Says Farrell In Survey of Contenders.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
Any method of analyzing the position by position strength of the two teams that may meet in the world series is difficult. An exercise of individual opinion and a certain amount of guessing are essential when only one player is being compared to one other rival player.

When as many as seven players have to be considered in trying to dope whether the American League team or the National League team will be stronger at any one position the task becomes the more difficult in the same ratio.

The pennant race in the two major leagues may extend to the very last day of the season and under the circumstances it may not be inopportune to indulge now in a little dooping and play at comparisons with all the men who are on an eligible team.

For the sake of brevity and simplicity, the infielders, in this series, will be treated as individuals rather than as a group and the first basemen of the six clubs standing for the first place championships will be taken up first.

Gehrig Is First Choice
Considering the general quality of their game, their disposition, experience and qualification for "money playing" in a short series, the Cardinals' contenders are rated as follows: Gehrig, New York Yankees, 1; Bottomley, St. Louis Cards, 2; Terry, New York Giants, 3; Orwoll, or Fox, Philadelphia Athletics, 4; Grantham, Pittsburgh Pirates, 4; Grimm, Chicago Cubs, 5.

This is a convenient way of saying that the American League will have the advantage on first base if the Yankees win the pennant. If the St. Louis Cardinals win the National League pennant Lou Gehrig would have only a slight advantage over Jim Bottomley.

Gehrig and Bottomley have been great first basemen during the season. Bottomley was not in the best of physical condition and he will not be a sound man if he gets into the series. Gehrig has batted in more runs and he handles throws better than Bottomley.

Fox Lacks Experience
If the Cardinals should win the pennant, the Cardinals would have a better man on first than either Orwoll or Fox and if the Giants should get into the classic, Billy Terry ought to be better at that most important position than either one of the young Athletics because of his greater experience. Fox is a brilliant boy, but he showed the handicap that the lack of experience imposes by his play in the last crucial series against the Yankees.

It follows from the rating above that the Yankees or the Athletics would be better fortified at first base than the Pirates with Grantham or the Cubs with Grimm if they should happen to get into the series.

It is almost certain that Bottomley will not be able to play his best game in the world series if his services are needed. He is just out of an attack of flu and you don't snap out of that thing in a hurry. If anything should happen to him young Orsatti would have to be used and it would be a tough spot for him.

Gehrig also has not been in the best of shape, but he is suffering from wear and tear and he ought to be able to recover with even a brief rest.

The second basemen of the contending teams will be discussed in the next article.

Local Sport Chatter

It is understood that Lefty St. John, Elmo Mantelli and Jack Stratton will be in a football uniform Sunday with the Cubs rather than baseball togs with Manchester Green. If so, the Green will use Green, Brennan and Sullivan in the outfield with either Prentice or McVeigh on the mound.

This information coupled with the statement from Manager F. Gordon McCarthy that Sipples will positively pitch for the Community, makes it look like a defeat for the Green Sunday. Such an outcome would tip the scales at two victories a bit and make a fifth and deciding game necessary.

It is understood that if such a game is needed to decide the championship, it will be played on Saturday, a week from tomorrow at Woodbridge Field. A least that is what Manager Sam Prentice has indicated.

Expectations are that Manchester will be one of the best basketball seasons in years when the 1928-29 campaign rolls around. There will probably be only two teams—the High School and the Rec Five. However, there is a possibility that the Community Club may again have a team, but that is far from certain.

George Stavitsky, rated by The Herald as the most promising basketball player Manchester has produced in many years, may play with the Reds next season. If he does cast his lot with the Reds, it will improve that team immensely. What a combination they ought to have with Holland, Faulkner, Norris, Stavitsky, Bissell and Madden to pick from!

Jack Dwyer says "Yump" Dahlquist has improved fully seventy percent as a quarter-back since he took over the reins of the Cubs two years ago. Dwyer predicts Dahlquist will be a real star before long.

Already the Cubs and Cloverleaves have come to grips. The Cloverleaves think that the suggestion made in The Herald recently regarding the title is okay, but the Cubs can't see it that way. However, that's only natural. Anything one side favors, the other always kicks full of holes.

The winner of the Community Club-Manchester Green series will probably be recognized as the baseball champs of the town. The Gibson's Garage team was in the running, but it isn't plain to see how the teams can find time to finish the second half of the Twilight League and then engage in a play-off series as would undoubtedly be necessary.

If the Green loses Sunday, it is possible that Eddie Boyce, ace of the Green's twirling corps, may pitch the fifth and deciding game. Boyce hasn't worked in a single game of the series yet.

Manager Pete Vendillo announces that the Cubs will dedicate the old golf links, their new gridiron, in an appropriate manner Sunday. There will be a parade from the school street Rec to the grounds with both teams and a band participating followed by further ceremonies at the field. John Hyde, George Waddell or some other town official will kick-off.

Boston knew Sybil Thorne when she was 18 for her madcap adventures and great beauty.

A few anxious months later came the telegram of which Sybil had had many a premonition— "Missing in action."

When Sybil's father's health broke completely and it became apparent that he could not live long, Sybil yielded to the request he had often made—that she marry him.

Wanting time to think things over, Sybil and her friend, Mabel Blake, went to Havana.

Eustis was a drunkard. Conditions became unbearable. After two weeks Sybil left and returned to the States with Mabel.

those who menace its existence," M. Krlenko said. "Why it is necessary to specify definite sentences for definite crimes? How can we tell that first offender sent up for six months for petty larceny will be a better citizen when he comes out than another first offender who served five years for burglary? In the light of improving society it is folly to base sentences on the nature of crimes committed. The criminal himself must be taken into consideration."

Craig pressed her arm lovingly. "I thought Sybil looked wonderfully well," he lied loyally.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, bride of two weeks, leaves her husband on their honeymoon. She is returning from Havana with MABEL BLAKE, a Boston social worker, with whom she took the voyage on which she met RICHARD EUSTIS, who wooed and won her in five days. On their wedding night, Richard becomes intoxicated and remains in that condition the greater part of the time. Sybil, disgusted with him, leaves him, returning to Boston with Mabel who, meantime, has become engaged to JACK MOORE, an American whom she met in Havana.

Sybil's marriage has been particularly unfortunate because of her engagement to CRAIG NEWHALL, who has loved her devotedly for several years. Mabel hopes that a quiet divorce may be obtained, and that Sybil may still marry Craig. But Sybil is going to have a child that complicates matters.

Prior to her engagement to Craig Sybil loved JOHN LAWRENCE, a soldier who was sent to France on the eve of their marriage and never returned. Following the death of her father and the marriage of her brother, TAD, to VALERIE WEST, a selfish and flighty little thing, Sybil suggested to Craig that she take a vacation with Mabel in order to reach a decision regarding her marriage with him. Because of her persevering love for John, Sybil fears that she may not love Craig enough to marry him. Then she meets Eustis—and life grows more complicated.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

Sybil leaned comfortably back in her chair.

"Mother wasn't very well you know, and they packed me off to boarding school about as soon as I could walk. Dad had plenty of money then.

"From the beginning I was a square peg in a round hole. If a little girl at convent school doesn't conform to the standard pattern of propriety, she fits about as well as a little skunk at a garden party. Nobody had much use for me, except the Mother Superior—and she didn't see me often enough to count.

"So I grew up into a rebellious, discontented child—the product of my environment. All an accident, you see. If mother had been well, I could have lived at home. Association with Tad and my father would have made a different girl of me.

"Then when I was 12, I went to public school for a while. I was such a misunderstood little wretch, nobody liked me. Of course I knew it, and that made me more miserable than ever. I simply couldn't make friends.

"After a while they sent me to Miss Middleton's. And before I was there very long an accident happened. The rest of the girls made Red Cross bandages, and bought thrift stamps. But I never was a conformist, and refused to do my 'bit.' They thought I was a Bolshevik, and I got in wrong again. After Easter vacation I announced that I was through school—and, for once, I won out.

"I always worshipped Tad. Well, he was in France. Another accident. Some maniac killed a grand duke somewhere. I've forgotten their names now. Probably everyone else has, too. All a crazy accident—and the world went to war.

"Then I met John Lawrence. And I don't believe a girl ever loved more than I loved him. We were going to be married, when they sent his regiment over. Another accident—missing out with grief. I almost went crazy with worry.

"And pretty soon they told me he was 'missing in action.' 'Presumably killed,' his lieutenant wrote. They were getting blown up in columns. Millions of men came through alive. Tens of thousands were killed. Life or death—it was just an accident.

"I became a different person when I knew John was dead. I had always been an idealistic little thing, sort of rebellious and arrogant on top—but underneath, oh, my dear, I used to be quite sweet and nice. But then my hopes died, and my dreams—and all my lovely ideals.

"It was after that I started running round and making a fool of myself. And I got a reputation you know. If John had lived, I would have married him, and been an exemplary little wife. I would have had three children by this time, and been a model of all motherly virtues. I was cut out for domesticity, really.

"Then Daddy died. And Tad married the wrong girl. And—oh, my dear. Of course, there's no use talking, but—

Mabel patted her hand comfortingly.

"There, dear. Don't get yourself all excited."

"I'm not. But Mab, what chance have we anyhow? Creatures of circumstance. Buffeted around—"

"You're too retrospective, Sybil."

"I know. It's a modern disease. But, if you have mind you have to use it—once in a while. Life's such a riddle. Here I am—"

"Asking those questions?" interrupted Mabel, "which of old men sought of seer and oracle—and no reply was told."

"Sybil, you're plainly surprised. I didn't know you read Wilde. It was Craig who taught me to enjoy him."

"Oh, I'm not as dumb as I look, dear," volunteered Mab good naturedly. "I know my Rubaiyat, too. Wise old Omar had the answer when he said:

The moving finger writes;
and, having writ,
Moves on: nor all your piety
nor wit
Shall lure it back to cancel
Half a line, or scribble
Nor all your tears wash out
A word of it."

Sybil had sent a wireless to Tad, and they were at the pier to welcome her. Mrs. Thorne and Tad and Craig Valerie was sorry—she had an engagement.

"Why, you're thinner," cried Craig, as he took her hand. He did not offer to kiss her.

"A little." She was very casual about it. "It's stylish to be thin. Emaciation is all the rage. Lordy, it's good to see you all again! How have you been, mother? Bless your heart, Tad—you old married man—how are you? And Craig—you're looking like a million! Aren't you people at the Cape?"

"We closed the place yesterday," explained her mother. Val wasn't enjoying herself at all. She thought she'd be happier in town."

"In town! This weather?"

"Well, Fall's almost here, you know. Sybil. Here it is September, already."

They had dinner together at the Touraine. Valerie was late, as usual. She was very dazzling as she came flying in. American beauty was the vogue just then and Val's ensemble was unquestionably stunning. The color had devoured her glowing cheeks, and the bit of mink about her high collar was most becoming.

"Hello, everybody. Sorry I'm late. Win Wingate was at Barb's tea—and he's a perfect howl. I simply couldn't get away. Why, Sib, what's the matter? You look like a wreck. Guess Havana's fast life got you, darling. Too many cocktails make crows' feet."

Sybil could have choked her. "I'm all right," she said evenly. "Thanks for your solicitude."

Craig pressed her arm lovingly. "I thought Sybil looked wonderfully well," he lied loyally.

She felt his eyes on her all through dinner, searching, anxious—so kind and good. And she thought, irresponsibly, of other eyes—mad blue eyes, that devoured her body and soul. And she wondered, as she toyed with her salad and smiled across at Craig, what had happened to Richard.

There had been a wireless message from the boat from Jack Moore, lacking all other arm lovingly. "Everything fine," he had radioed. "Of all the dumb messages!" sputtered Sybil, and showed it to Mabel. "It doesn't mean a thing."

"Oh, yes, it does, and I think," opined Mabel coolly, "that Jack is quite worthy of being trusted."

That was the day the redoubtable Mr. Moore, fortified by a few drinks, dropped round to the Seville for the avowed intention of telling Richard what he thought of him. He delivered himself with scant forbearance and considerable eloquence, saving his finishing touch for his grand finale.

"Sybil and Mabel," he proclaimed, wiping his forehead, for the strength of his endearsors had made him hot and moist. He smiled with sardonic satisfaction.

"Sybil and Mabel," he announced, "sailed this afternoon."

Richard looked at him blankly. "Sailed?" he repeated stupidly.

"Yes—sailed!... And you've lost one damn fine little wife, prodded Moore savagely.

"I don't mean Sybil's really gone?"

"That's exactly what I mean. And, what's more," gilded Jack, "she never wants to see you again."

"The devil she doesn't!" Richard sprang angrily to his feet. "You keep out of this Moore," he threatened with his wife.

"More's the pity," taunted Jack. "We'll take care of our own affairs," countered Richard furiously. "And I'll thank you to mind your own business."

Jack smiled maddeningly. "Don't thank me," he begged politely. "Because you know—really, Eustis—I've already got my finger in the pie."

Nonchalantly he fingered the offending card of Isabella Petite.

"I wonder," he speculated idly—"how do you get that way, Eustis?"

He flipped the soiled pasteboard contemptuously.

"Isabella Petite?" he read. "Amistad and Cognac. A tri-guena. Abajo. Ground for divorce if I'm mistaken, my friend. I think, if you don't mind, I'll keep the co-respondent's name and address. They might come in handy."

He took out his billfold, and deposited the little card carefully between the pages of a notebook. Richard laughed.

"More, you're an awful fat-head," he sneered. "You don't really think, do you, that you've got any grounds for divorce there? Why, you poor chump, some bell boy dropped that most likely. I never saw it before."

"Sybil's got sense enough not to go to court with any such flimsy evidence. Do you suppose there's a judge who would believe—do you suppose—after taking one look at Sybil—any jury's going to believe I deserted her—to go chasing a little half-breed?"

"Well—I don't know." Jack was blandly indifferent. "Anyhow I guess drunkenness is grounds for divorce in Massachusetts. And with Mabel and me to testify against you, Sybil won't have much trouble getting rid of you."

"But—good God, Moore—don't you know I'm crazy about Sybil!"

"Yeah!" Moore had an annoying drawl. "Well, she ain't crazy about you."

"Didn't she leave any message for me, Jack?"

"Only that she never wanted to see your face again."

"I don't believe it!"

"Well, have it your own way. But if you want to keep out of trouble here's a tip. Sybil's got a brother—a big six-footer, I understand and something of a boxer. I reckon he could clean you up with his little finger, any time you tried to make trouble for Sybil. And if, by any chance, he got incapacitated, I'm no glided lily myself."

"If I were you, Eustis, I'd steer clear of Boston for a while. It would be about as convenient for you to desert Sybil as anything I can think of at the moment. Nice respectable divorce, don't you know. No more dirt than necessary. Think it over, old man."

"You—you—" Richard was speechless with anger and chagrin.

"No offense intended," Moore assured him. "Just a friendly tip."

"Get out of my room!"

"Certainly. Your room, as a matter of fact, is about the last place I'd choose to park. By the way, is that Sybil's trunk over there? I'll send the porter up for it. Goodby, Eustis. You might tell Isabella, if you see her again, that I think Mrs. Eustis owes her a vote of thanks."

Outside the room, Moore squared his shoulders and drew a deep breath. Downstairs he scribbled a radiogram: "Don't worry. All's well."

And Mabel, when she received it, smiled. "The darling fool," she murmured. "He doesn't know what he's talking about."

For weeks Sybil waited fearfully for word from her husband. Every time the telephone rang she feared a message. She watched for the postman as she had watched once, years ago, when every day brought a letter from John Lawrence. Nervously she sorted the mail, looking always for the forgotten stamp that would mean Richard was still in Havana.

Jack Moore had written that he understood Eustis had moved from the Seville to a smaller hotel in the suburbs, where John Arnold had taken a permanent residence. Arnold had become friendly with an American widow and had financed the opening of an American Tea and Gift Shoppe of which they were to be co-partners.

Richard was probably in on it, too, wrote Moore. Living expenses were high in Havana, and he had reason to believe that Eustis had already found himself in debt.

Away from the glamour of his presence, Sybil put Richard calmly down as an adventurer and a pillanfer.

"I don't care that for him!" she would say, and snap her fingers derisively in the lonely darkness of her bedroom.

But then, when sleep would not come, she would put her hands wildly to her head to still the mad, delirious beat in her temples. And, by and by, she would lie quietly on her back, with her arms stretched along her fevered body.

"O Love! O Fate! Once he drew
With one long kiss my whole
Soul through
My lips, his sunlight drinketh dew."

"I hate him! I hate him!" she sobbed, and her heart was full of loathing.

Weeks passed, and there had been no word. Once, as she glanced apprehensively through the day's mail, she remembered that she would not know Richard's handwriting if she should see it.

"I never even had a love letter from him!" she reflected bitterly. The car rings he had given her only gift. The little apple circlet she had worn as a wedding ring had mysteriously disappeared, and Sybil regarded its loss as a good omen.

"I've nothing," she told herself, "to remind me of him—not a keepsake nor a gift. Nothing to haunt me but wretched memories."

She thought less often of John Lawrence, and more frequently of Craig Newhall.

(To be Continued)

(Sybil thought there was nothing to remind her of Richard Eustis. But Sybil did not know. Read the next chapter.)

Mr. Featherwell had gone pretty shabby all summer.

When his wife remonstrated, he said, "Oh, wait until fall. Then I'll get some real clothes. You're going to be proud of me this winter."

"Well, it's about time," answered Mrs. Featherwell. "I was ashamed of you all last winter. That old blue overcoat was a fright. I'm going to give it to the furnace man when I get it out of moth-balls. I'd have given it away in the spring if nobody would have given it house-room then."

The next morning being Saturday, Mrs. Featherwell appeared at the breakfast table, all hatted and coated and ready to go.

Billy and Tommy and Leola and June also looked too "tweedy" and outdoors for a day at home. It was evident that a shopping expedition in town impended.

Mr. Featherwell had not forgotten the shock that succeeded just such an expedition as this in the spring—the shock coming two weeks later when he opened his first-of-the-month bills.

His insouciant, "Oh, anything does for the summer!" when his wife took issue with his own appearance later was not due entirely to indifference. It smacked somewhat of the Rollo atmosphere.

Mr. Featherwell, after paying for the flock of blue suit-size pasteboard boxes that came regularly for a fortnight after the trip, was stony broke.

So the wheat-cakes lost their appeal a bit when he saw the signs on another non-stop flight.

"Bessie, business hasn't been so good all summer," he began lamely.

"Oh, cut that out, Ed," said Mrs. Featherwell. "I know it all by heart. But here are four children to clothe and, excuse me for living, myself, too. It's the change of season when every self-respecting family has to buy new clothes for cold weather. The children need everything from crown to toe and I'm not going to be all fall getting it done. You can meet us at five and we'll go to the Casino for dinner and then to the movies."

Mr. Featherwell's silence was

Help yourself to a bean and the sweetest girl in the world, say Doris Webster and Mary Hopkins, ingenious authors of those two former stunt party books called "I've Got Your Number" and "Marriage Made Easy." The new scream for evenings-in is "Help Yourself." The lady authors swear that by following the rules of the game any young man or woman can literally help himself or herself to any sheik or sweet patootie the respective sex wishes.

If you're a girl, you answer insignificant questions such as these:

"Would you rather go to a restaurant with a clever young man who doesn't know what to do than with a correct young man who is a bore?"

"Do you think it is woman's business to make men toe the mark?"

Boy friends are asked such character-decision questions as—

"Have you any parlor tricks?"

"Are you bored by staying at home in the evenings?"

Try it on the crowd. Like all egotistic things, it goes over well.

THEY'RE FROM MISSOURI

Up pops this little matter of today's young people again, Mrs. Margaret Wells Woods, lecturer of the American Social Hygiene Association, says that youth has every right to challenge the conventions of the preceding generation, and it's up to the latter to defend their customs and folk lore.

There is indeed something to be said for the argument that youth should not be expected to accept certain taboos and customs just because of tradition if they can be given no real reason why in this world of today the same customs should hold true.

But one does wonder a little just what equipment youth has for this challenging of the accepted. It takes knowledge to question either truth or falsity.

It takes a man, of course, to tell what's wrong with her system. Henry Ford does it. No, I guess he doesn't do exactly that, either. He merely says that there's too much drudgery in the great American home and something must be done about it.

"Although a man's actual working hours a week have decreased, hardly anything has been done to eliminate the fundamental drudgery of housekeeping," he says. "There has been no decrease in the hours of wives."

Oh, is that so? Ask your mother or grandmother about it. If they could have finished their housework by mid-afternoon as women of their same class do today, they would have considered themselves in Paradise.

Mr. Ford, however, is saying a mouthful when he continues:

"There is some machinery to use in the kitchen today. We have the vacuum cleaner, the various electric appliances—the electric washing machine, the electric ice boxes—but most of them are still too expensive. We must find some way to reduce the cost and some way to lighten the other labor of women."

Now you're talking, Henry! Do for the girls in the kitchen what you did for the man with the horse and buggy!

REFUSAL TO VACCINATE PUPIL HEIGHT OF FOOLHARDINESS.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN.

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Practically every school in the United States that is conducted along scientific lines requires today that the child bring with him on the first day of school a certificate that he has had recent and satisfactory vaccination against small pox.

Two hundred years ago the person without the scars of smallpox in his face was a rare one in the community; today the person with such scars is a living testimonial of his own ignorance or of that of his parents.

Safe Procedure.

Vaccination against smallpox is as safe a procedure as is known to medicine. Complications are rare when vaccination is properly performed, and protection is so certain that neglect of this scientific procedure represents the height of foolhardiness.

The other form of preventive inoculation which must be especially considered in relationship to the child's first attendance at school is toxin-antitoxin immunization against diphtheria.

Practically all physicians are agreed that this method does increase the immunity of the child against the disease, that the method is quite safe, and that the ravages of diphtheria, and so serious, are avoided.

Republicans iron out their differences; Democrats fight out theirs.

Declarer—clubs A K Q 8 6

The average player would confidently proceed to play the Jack of clubs on the first round of spades when—low and behold!—he might find that East holds no spades at all, the distribution being: West clubs 10 7 4 3 2; East clubs none.

As a result of this hasty play, East is assured of winning a trick with the 10 of spades whereas this could have been avoided had the declarer played the King of spades on the first round. Declarer would immediately have discovered that East was blank of spades and could thereafter have fished with certainty to capture the 10 of spades.

TO INTEREST YOUTHS IN SUNDAY SERVICES

Rev. R. A. Colpitts to Conduct Evening Meetings With View Toward Attracting Young People.

After having quietly observed the life of Manchester for the past six months the pastor of the South Methodist Church, Rev. R. A. Colpitts, is persuaded that few towns have a more substantial or promising body of young folks than are to be found here.

In the light of the modern commercializing both of pleasure and of vice he marvels not that so many but rather that so few make shipwrecks of life.

Because of this deep interest in the abounding young life of the community he is planning to broaden and enrich the Sunday evening worship services at the South Methodist church this season so they will make a bit wider appeal both to youth and to older people.

His new program will begin next Sunday evening with a community gospel sing, using some of the old Moody-Sankey hymns.

Mr. Greer, the new assistant, will sing "Spirit of God" and Mr. Colpitts will have as subject "Tracking a Young Man."

Stores Closed Monday

Ward Store Opens Middle of October

Advance Agent Confident New Concern Will Attract Big Business Here.

The new Montgomery Ward Company store to be located at 320 Main street between Park and Locust streets will be opened about the middle of October.

Mr. Maynard will be in town the rest of this week completing details for the opening of the store.

He is connected with the Montgomery Ward Company's office in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Maynard stated today that these stores are an experiment to determine if it is possible to stimulate mail order buying by bringing the public in closer contact with the merchandise. A limited number of these stores will be installed in various parts of the country in order to find out the attitude of the public.

WARD STORE OPENS MIDDLE OF OCTOBER

The new Montgomery Ward Company store to be located at 320 Main street between Park and Locust streets will be opened about the middle of October.

Mr. Maynard will be in town the rest of this week completing details for the opening of the store.

He is connected with the Montgomery Ward Company's office in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Maynard stated today that these stores are an experiment to determine if it is possible to stimulate mail order buying by bringing the public in closer contact with the merchandise.

A limited number of these stores will be installed in various parts of the country in order to find out the attitude of the public.

Junior Department Store

Mr. Maynard also said that the stores will be what might be called a "Junior Department Store" where as many as possible of the items most urgently needed for each season of the year will be carried in stock for sale direct.

Mail orders will be taken at the store for merchandise not carried in stock, but which can be selected from the catalog.

Tires and auto accessories, paint, washing machines, sporting goods, house furnishings, rugs and some lines of wearing apparel will be carried in stock.

Montgomery Ward and Company's said to have many thousands of customers living within a trading radius of Manchester.

Each of these customers will receive a personal invitation to make South Manchester their principal shopping point in the future.

Draws For 80 Miles

At the opening of one of these stores recently in Arkansas City, Kansas, rural customers from distances as great as eighty miles attended and the event was declared by local merchants to have made it the greatest business day Arkansas City had ever known.

The manager of the local store will be an authorized agent of the Montgomery Ward Company and will be empowered to make adjustments on complaints and to back up the company's guarantee of "Satisfaction or your money back" on all purchases, whether by mail or through the store.

"We are trying to discover," said Mr. Maynard, "the most practical method of carrying in stock a large range of the more than 35,000 items in our catalog. While our business has grown to enormous proportions, we feel that a great many more people will order by mail if they have an opportunity to buy some of our merchandise over the counter and thus have an opportunity to judge the quality of our goods."

HOSPITAL NOTES

Admissions reported today at Manchester Memorial hospital are those of Mrs. Anna Blivish of 65 North street and Mrs. Virginia Polinski of 24 Union street.

Those discharged were Mrs. Mary Hunt of East Middle Turnpike, Mrs. Johanna Schmidding and infant daughter of Coventry, Mrs. Hazel Anderson and baby girl of 11 Anderson street and Mrs. Gunhild Nilson and infant son of 15 Ashworth street.

The census today is 56 patients.

BACK TO OLD PEN JOB

Columbus. — Frank Lee Smith, 66, is back at his old job of laying bricks at the Ohio Penitentiary. This time he is working on a new chapel. While "doing time" fifty years ago he helped build the old cell block. He did his first "stretch" for larceny; this time he got 15 to 20 years for safe breaking.

60 SCHOOLS FOR NOYES ESTATE SCHOLARSHIPS

Chicago—A new list of 27 colleges and universities where American world war veterans, their children and descendants may obtain free tuition under the LaVerne Noyes Scholarship Foundation, was announced here by the trustees of the Noyes estate, 2500 Roosevelt Road, Chicago.

These colleges, added to the regular list, give the qualified applicant 60 schools from which to choose. A total of 1,200 scholarships is offered for the coming school year.

Medical, engineering, teaching public health and other special branches are available, in addition to general courses. Entire or partial tuition is paid by the scholarship foundation, depending on the needs of the qualified applicants.

Women who served as nurses in the armed forces are eligible, as are their children and descendants.

The new list of schools follows:

Added Colleges

Cornell University, Indian University, John Hopkins University, University of Kansas, University of Texas, University of Virginia, University of Wisconsin, Washington University at St. Louis, Mo., Purdue University, Baker University at Baldwin City, Kansas, Central College at Fayette, Mo., Doane College at Crete, Neb., Drake University, Franklin University at Franklin, Ind., Hamline University at St. Paul, Minn., Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., Park College at Parkville, Mo., Rice Institute, Houston, Texas, University of North Dakota, University of Oklahoma, University of South Dakota, Washburn College at Topeka, Kansas and William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo.

Qualified applicants also have the choice of the following Chicago institutions:

University of Chicago, Northwestern University, Lewis Institute, Medical College and the Y. M. C. A. College. These are in the old list, which also includes the following Illinois schools outside of Chicago.

Blackburne college at Carlinville, Bradley Polytechnic Institute at Peoria, Carthage College at Carthage, Eureka College at Eureka, Illinois college at Jacksonville, Illinois Wesleyan University of Bloomington, Knox College at Galesburg, Lake Forest College at Lake Forest, Lombard College at Lombard, North-Western University, Decatur, North-Western College at Naperville, Shortell College at Upper Atton, Wheaton College at Wheaton.

$2,000,000 Fund

Mr. Noyes was a farm implement manufacturer, and for many years was a supporter of, and active in the affairs of the Chicago Academy of Sciences free museum in Lincoln Park. Deeply touched by the spirit of sacrifice of the American men and women who offered their lives in the interests of their country, Mr. Noyes worked out a plan to benefit the survivors and their children and descendants.

In 1918 he estimated a scholarship foundation of $2,000,000 at the University of Chicago, and shortly thereafter bequeathed the income from his business, the Aeromotor Company of Chicago, to increase the scope of his educational plan.

The trustees of the estate supervise the distribution of scholarships to all the institutions except the University of Chicago. The trustees are Lewis E. Walker of Evanston, Frederick L. Dole and Joseph J. Fraser.

Any person regardless of race, color or creed, who served in the armed forces 60 days prior to the signing of the armistice, who was honorably discharged and was a citizen of the United States, is eligible.

DISTRICT RELIEF BOARD MEETINGS BEING HELD

October Another Month for Tax Payments; Boards Have Little Authority.

October is another month for tax payments. The Eighth School and Utilities district, the Ninth district and also the Third and Fifth districts are collecting their taxes next month. The rate book in each district has been completed and the districts are holding session with a representative of the board of selectmen, a member of the board of relief and one of the school committees to hear the complaints of aggrieved taxpayers.

These boards are known as a district boards of relief, but the only relief that they can grant is in case an error has been made in including in the grand list of the district that land which is not in the district. They can also rule where the proper division has not been made when land that appears in the grand list is not properly divided when it is in two districts.

MURDERER WAITED YEARS WITH RIFLE; FREED BY TRIBE

Tifts, Georgia. — A murderer, who for three years lay in one spot, rifle in hand, waiting for the opportunity to kill, has been acquitted by a native judge on grounds of "having paid a sufficient penalty."

The strange story of the case was brought to Tifts by Maurice Hindus, American writer and lecturer, from the mountain fastnesses of Swantzia where mountaineers still live in virtual seclusion from the outside world.

Stone houses dating back to the Ninth century have watch towers from which invaders are spotted. The ancient law of blood revenge is still in force.

According to this code Jan Ord-kidzie sought to avenge an insult to his 16-year-old daughter by another member of the mountain tribe. Jan hid himself in the tower of his home, waiting and watching for the moment his foe should venture within range.

Jan's daughter brought him food and drink. Recently after a wait of three years, he spied his man and shot him through the head at a distance of 200 yards. Then he gave himself up to the oldest member of the tribe who decided matters of honor, and was set free.

What Will you do When your Children Cry for It. There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops; and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every drugist has it. FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Manchester Public Market

A. Podrove, Prop. Phone 10

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT" IN HIGH GEAR Business has been running in high gear ever since last Saturday, with the accelerator well down. The food store has excitingly hit its regular Fall stride—it has at Pinehurst, anyhow. Which means that the delivery system has to run like clockwork in order that there may be no delays in Madam Saturday's setting-in on Friday evening. Pinehurst's store closes at 6 tonight, to be sure, but all evening, until nine o'clock, all three phones will be in operation. If you don't want to pre-arrange your shopping orders then, why, phone in the part that you want delivered tomorrow morning. Speaking of Fall—Little Crow Pancake Flour and Buckwheat Flour are in the orders of the day. It's griddlecake time in the Manchester setting. Genuine Pure Maple Syrup is 49 cents a pint—not so bad, eh? Or a good Cane and Maple Syrup for 31 cents a large bottle. With cooler weather comes the impulse for one of those delectable savory, fragrant, sizzling roasts of old fashioned corn-fed Pork. The kind that wrinkles your nose and makes your mouth water as the aroma bursts from the oven. We have a big shipment of the finest Corn Fed from Snelair—Roasts, Chops and Fresh Shoulders which we will bone for stuffing if you want. Also Snelair Hams, Boneless Shank Ends, 29 to 35 cents a pound. Butt Ends, likewise Table Talk Shoulder Hams. Plenty of Pinehurst Quality Corned Beef. Pinehurst Quality, as applied to Corned Beef, has a special significance. It spells perfection. And we don't mean just something. Lean Briskets and Lean Ribs. Then we have a special at 88 cents a pound on some Solid Lean Bottom Round pieces. Not a particle of waste. Lamb Shoulders, boned and rolled, legs and chops. Peterson is sending in, today and tomorrow, some nice fresh Spinach, Celery, Soup Bunches, Carrots and Beets. In Economy Cuts today and tomorrow we suggest: Pineburg Hamburgs, 30 cents; Dried Beef, 39 cents a half pound; Beef Liver, 25 cents; Honeycomb Tripe, Lean Ribs of Corned Beef, 18 cents; Shank Ends of Ham or a good Sliced Bacon, rind off, at 43 cents.

"RESCUE LEAGUE" AGAIN ASKING MONEY HERE

Group Whose "Home" Was Closed by Police Renews Search for Manchester Cash.

It was reported today at the Chamber of Commerce that the American Rescue League is soliciting funds in Manchester. This soliciting organization is also known as the Commonwealth League. Despite the fact that certain disabilities of this organization were made known by The Herald last January a "captain" of this organization is soliciting funds in Manchester again. The society did maintain a farm home in Berlin near Meriden under the leadership of a Captain Robert Jewell. He, however, closed the place last January after an investigation by State Police, who advised such action. The solicitors of this society dress in uniform similar to those worn by the Salvation Army, with whom they have absolutely no connection. Manchester residents are advised not to have anything to do with these representatives.

BRIDGEPORT GANGSTERS IN FREE FOR ALL FIGHT

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 21.—Edward Eposito, 17, is held in jail of $5,000, and Thomas Manente, 18, in jail of $500 pending City Court hearing next week. Eposito is held on a technical charge of breach of peace and Manente on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. They were arrested early today on Pembroke street when police broke up a lively gang fight in which at least forty people were involved. Five shots were fired as police reached the scene. Bricks and stones were flying through the air, blackjacks and brass knuckles taking their victims out of the fray. The gangsters fled when police appeared—all but Manente and Eposito. Police spent about an hour picking up weapons that littered the street. The battle is charged to the account of gangs from the north end and east side, and police say it started in a pool room which was soon deserted for the large freedom of the highway. Frightened residents phoned frantically for help.

SO. METHODIST NOTES

Young people of the North Methodist church and of this church will have an outing tomorrow which will take the place of a treasure hunt. Rev. James E. Greer of the South Methodist church has been chosen to lay the trail leading to the treasure.

The Men's Friendship club held a cabinet meeting Wednesday evening and mapped out a program for the season's work. The first event will be a trip and through the courtesy of the Middletown Luther League a convenient picnic ground has been reserved for the evening's entertainment. Here the local league will enjoy a dog and marshmallow roast after which the evening will be spent in games and a campfire.

Transportation to the picnic grounds and home will be provided by a committee headed by Paul Erickson. Arrangements for the boat ride is in the hands of the executive committee.

Rev. R. A. Colpitts will be the speaker at the American Legion meeting Sunday at K. of C. hall.

FAMOUS SURGEON DEAD. Edgartown, Mass., Sept. 21.—Dr. Melford Runyon, famous New Jersey surgeon, owner of a private hospital at South Orange in that state, yachtsman and for thirty years a summer resident of the Island of Martha's Vineyard was dead at his summer home here today. His son Paul was enroute from New Jersey to complete funeral arrangements.

Suffering from a bad heart, Dr. Runyon came here early in the summer. Late yesterday he was seized by a shock and died during the evening.

Dr. Runyan was in his sixties. Besides owning his own hospital he was surgeon at the Orange, N. J., Memorial hospital and was connected with several New Jersey hospitals.

He is survived by his wife, a son Paul and two grand children.

LUTHER LEAGUES TO TAKE BOAT RIDE

Going to Middletown Tomorrow Afternoon—To Enjoy Picnic on Arrival There.

Tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock the Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church will leave from Hartford on a boat ride to Middletown. About sixty members will make the trip and through the courtesy of the Middletown Luther League a convenient picnic ground has been reserved for the evening's entertainment. Here the local league will enjoy a dog and marshmallow roast after which the evening will be spent in games and a campfire.

FIRST GIDEON BIBLES TO BE PLACED HERE

The Gideon Society of Connecticut will hold a Gideon Dedication service at the South Methodist church, on Sunday, September 30, at 7 p. m. The program will include addresses by Rev. Robert A. Colpitts of the South Methodist Church, Rev. James Stuart Nell of St. Mary's Episcopal church and Rev. Watson Woodruff of the Center Congregational church. The out-of-town speakers will be Charles T. Von Vliet and Francis H. Peabody, president of the Hartford Gideons.

The service will be held to dedicate 40 bibles which will be placed in the rooms of the Sheridan Hotel on that Sunday. The Gideon Society makes a practice of placing bibles in hotels throughout the country. This will be the first time that Gideon bibles have been put in a Manchester hotel.

TWIN IGNITION HELPS

MAKE PLANE RECORDS

Gives Aviators Added Confidence, Says Art Goebel; Likes Nash-Breyer Motor.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 21.—When world fame or lonely death are balanced in the performance value of an internal combustion engine, the men who ride high adventure in these modern, speedy days must give expert and concentrated attention to mechanical details in order to live and blaze new trails.

Col. Arthur C. Goebel, winner of the Dole race from San Francisco to Hawaii and holder of the national coast to coast flight record, is authority for the statement that a sense of security due to the infallible performance of airplane motors actuated by twin-ignition has been a vital contributor to his spectacular success in the air. A single mistake in mechanical judgment, he points out in a letter to the Nash-Breyer Motor Company, Nash distributors in Los Angeles, can be fatal to these tests of speed and science.

Col. Goebel, Col. Lindbergh, Commander Byrd, Lieut. Matland and John P. Wood, winner of the recent National Reliability Air Tour, have all backed their judgment with their lives and ambitions on the principle of twin-ignition. They are all alive and have won their goals!

Lindbergh chose a twin-ignition motor to carry him in the inspired flight that first spanned the Atlantic; and his motor won through storms, fog, sleet and adverse conditions never before faced by a gasoline engine. Byrd chose twin-ignition to blaze a seemingly impossible air trail to the earth's tip.

Col. Goebel chose twin-ignition to carry him over the Pacific to Hawaii and carry him there first among the fastest ships devised at that time. He won the great Dole race and wrote air history. Then he chose twin-ignition in a high-compression, valve-in-head motor for his continuous flight across the continent, and the motor took him from Los Angeles to New York in 18 hours and 58 minutes—faster than man has ever traveled the distance.

His next move was to buy a new Nash "400" seven passenger sedan to insure the same kind of motor performance on the ground that won him immortal laurels in the air, and volunteered the following note of appreciation to the Nash-Breyer Company:

"Just a note to let you know what I think of the twin-ignition, high-compression motor in my new Nash '400' sedan.

"With two spark plugs per cylinder, and two coils, it certainly takes full advantage of the higher compression ratio used, and without a doubt is the most advanced motor car power plant to be had in an automobile today.

"I am hopping off for New York in an hour in my new Lockheed Vega plane, and the engine, of course, has twin-ignition.

"So, whether I'm on land or in the air, twin-ignition gives me a sense of security and satisfaction.

"Because of the fine performance of my previous Nash, I was certainly sold on Nash design and construction, but the new twin-ignition motor hastened my decision to buy a new '400.'

(Signed)
"COL. ARTHUR C. GOEBEL."

STATE D. A. R. MEETING IN GREENWICH, OCT. 5

The state meeting of the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution will be held at Greenwich, Conn., Friday, October 5, by invitation of Putnam Hill Chapter, with headquarters at the Second Congregational church, Putnam avenue. This is the president general's own chapter and the 35th annual meeting and it is expected there will be an unusually large attendance with many of the national officers present. The morning session will open at 11 o'clock.

Orford Parish members who desire luncheon tickets should communicate with Mrs. Lucius Foster or Mrs. Gertrude Purnell before October 1. Train schedules will change before the date of the meeting on account of the return to standard time, and cannot be given here.

LUMBER THIEVES

RESTAURANT AT NORTH

END CHANGES HANDS

Louis Genovese, teller at the Home Bank & Trust Company, today announced the sale of the Blue Moon restaurant business at the north end to Albert Hewitt of Rockville. Ownership will change on Sunday, Mr. Genovese said that he was too busy to get the restaurant business proper attention.

A few months ago, no less than five restaurants were in operation in the comparatively small business section at Depot Square. It was evident that not all of them could prove financial success. The result was that two went out of business.

Mr. Hewitt, the new proprietor of the Blue Moon, operated a lunch cart in the center of Rockville for ten years and is also manager of the American House on Market street.

KNIGHTS OF MACCABEES

HAVE 40TH BIRTHDAY

The 40th anniversary of the Knights of the Maccabees Tent No. 2, was celebrated at a meeting held in the lodge rooms of the Balch & Brown building at Depot Square last night. The program consisted of a smoker and setback party after which refreshments were served. Walter Coolidge was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Manchester Lodge, Knights of Maccabees, was instituted in 1888 and is one of the oldest fraternal organizations in Manchester. Alvin L. Brown, the present record keeper, is the only one of the original officers still holding office or active in the Tent.

BUY SILK MILL

Williamant, Conn., Sept. 21.-John E. Brick, a local business man, has purchased the assets of the bankrupt S. P. S. Silk Company through Federal Auctioneer William H. Kakelee, of New Haven, for $6,400 and has made arrangements for resumption of business in mid-October, according to an announcement here today. A silk manufacturer whose name is being withheld will conduct the business when it starts anew.

The S. P. S. Silk Company's plant has been idle about seven months.

The reason the game hasn't got a chance is because two men will kill forty to fifty birds in one day's hunt and not be ashamed of it.

The Columbia Chapter comprises the towns of Columbia, Hebron and Andover.

NO NEED TO GUARD

SON OF PRESIDENT

Boston, Mass., Sept. 20.—John Coolidge hereafter will be without a bodyguard.

Private advices reaching here today stated that Russell Woods, Secret Service man who had been with the President's son for two and half years, had been recalled to Washington.

The President, it was understood, wants his son to make his own way in the world without outside aid or supervision.

John is working for $30 a week as a statistical clerk at the general offices of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in New Haven, Conn. He is supporting himself and will live at the home of Prof. Benjamin W. Bacon of Yale Divinity School.

TOWN REPORTS READY

WEEK BEFORE MEETING

The last section of the town report went on the press this morning and the work of assembling the different sections, cutting and folding will be started tomorrow. On Monday the first lot will be bound, and ready for distribution. The reports will be all completed by Wednesday or Thursday of next week and distribution will start next Tuesday.

This will get the reports into the hands of the voters just about a week before the annual town meeting, when they will be formally presented by the selectmen to the voters for acceptance and made part of the records of the annual town meetings.

It is feared recent rains destroyed the cherry trees along the Potomac in Washington. Most people who visit the national capital, however, are there seeking some sort of plume.

SOONER OR LATER

On his honeymoon Mr. Blunder read of his wedding in his home paper. It stated that the gift of the bride to the bridesroom was a beautiful dressing gown. "I was swears."

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE:

(397) Our Presidents

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

Before Buchanan's term had expired, secession had been elected. When Lincoln came into office in 1861 the country was ready for war and action opened with the capture of Fort Sumter, April 14, 1861, by the southerners. Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers.

The war continued, bitterly fought, with deeds of heroism and sacrifice shared equally by the soldiers of the north and south.

WE CAN ONLY STAY A FEW MINUTES, AMY JUST HAPPENED TO BE GOING BY AND WONDERED HOW YOU WERE.

WE SAW HEM HAVING LUNCH TODAY, AND WOULD HAVE ASKED HIM, ONLY HE HAD A YOUNG LADY WITH HIM AND SEEMED VERY BUSY.

WHY, YES... A PEROXIDE BLONDE-LIKE YOU MUSICAL SHOWS, I THOUGHT AT THE TIME SHE ISN'T THE TYPE OF PERSON AMY WOULD ENTERTAIN...

AHEM! MAYBE WE SHOULDN'T HAVE MENTIONED IT... SHE CALLED HER VIOLA!

OH... SHE'S THE FIANCEE OF HEM'S PARTNER, MR. SMART.

MR. SMART AND VIOLA ARE INSEPARABLE! SHE OFTEN GOES ALONG WHILE THEY TALK OVER BUSINESS... ALEC PROBABLY HADN'T ARRIVED WHEN YOU SAW THEM...

OH, OF COURSE! WE WERE ONLY THERE AN HOUR OR SO...

HOW SILLY OF US NOT TO REALIZE IT WAS A BUSINESS CONFERENCE!

IF SHE ISN'T DUMB DORA... IMAGINE HEM PULLING HER WOOL OVER HER EYES LIKE THAT... TALKING BUSINESS- PHOOEY!!

DON'T YOU WORRY, AMY WAS BURNING UP, BUT SHE WOULDN'T GIVE US THE SATISFACTION OF SEEING IT, WAIT TILL HEM COMES HOME.

Then, ringing throughout the land, came Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, freeing all the slaves. Lincoln had only one thought during all the dark years he held office--to save the Union. "If I could do it, without freeing any slave," he wrote to a friend, "I would do that, but what I am doing, I do to help save the Union."

GAS BUGGIES-Station G. A. B.

WE CAN ONLY STAY A FEW MINUTES, AMY JUST HAPPENED TO BE GOING BY AND WONDERED HOW YOU WERE.

WE SAW HEM HAVING LUNCH TODAY, AND WOULD HAVE ASKED HIM, ONLY HE HAD A YOUNG LADY WITH HIM AND SEEMED VERY BUSY.

WHY, YES... A PEROXIDE BLONDE-LIKE YOU MUSICAL SHOWS, I THOUGHT AT THE TIME SHE ISN'T THE TYPE OF PERSON AMY WOULD ENTERTAIN...

AHEM! MAYBE WE SHOULDN'T HAVE MENTIONED IT... SHE CALLED HER VIOLA!

OH... SHE'S THE FIANCEE OF HEM'S PARTNER, MR. SMART.

MR. SMART AND VIOLA ARE INSEPARABLE! SHE OFTEN GOES ALONG WHILE THEY TALK OVER BUSINESS... ALEC PROBABLY HADN'T ARRIVED WHEN YOU SAW THEM...

OH, OF COURSE! WE WERE ONLY THERE AN HOUR OR SO...

HOW SILLY OF US NOT TO REALIZE IT WAS A BUSINESS CONFERENCE!

IF SHE ISN'T DUMB DORA... IMAGINE HEM PULLING HER WOOL OVER HER EYES LIKE THAT... TALKING BUSINESS- PHOOEY!!

DON'T YOU WORRY, AMY WAS BURNING UP, BUT SHE WOULDN'T GIVE US THE SATISFACTION OF SEEING IT, WAIT TILL HEM COMES HOME.

Then, ringing throughout the land, came Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, freeing all the slaves. Lincoln had only one thought during all the dark years he held office--to save the Union. "If I could do it, without freeing any slave," he wrote to a friend, "I would do that, but what I am doing, I do to help save the Union."

WATER GOLF

YOU'VE HEARD OF THEM You've heard a lot about EARLY BIRDS, they're particularly in evidence around golf courses...

Word search grid with words EARLY and BIRDS.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes...

He (worried): I don't feel right about this powder of yours on my coat. She (nonchalantly): It's quite all right. I have plenty more in my compact.

Experience is dead unless you can sell it for more than it cost you.

SENSE and NONSENSE

FALSE BEACONS This nose of mine, which seems to shine As if I had a bun Is just a bluff-va-va-va-va...

My dark brown brow is sure a wow, But more a bluff than that; No holiday took me away— I go without a hat.

The seashore's far, and under par My purse, no water's near; But chic and cute is my bathing suit, And so I wear it here.

A young preacher arose one Sunday morning to announce the subject of his sermon. "Brethren and sisters" he said, "the subject of my discourse this morning will be 'The World, the Flesh and the Devil.'"

The theory now is that Pat and Mike were women; only two women could have said all the things credited to them.

It's surprising how few bathing beauties can swim. "I can remember way back in the days when the sight of a woman's ankle was as rare as the view of her ears these days."

TRUTH NEVER SOUNDS RIGHT

A customer walked into a furniture store and selected an article, telling the clerk to charge it. "On what account?" asked the clerk.

"How long had you known your husband before you were married?" "I didn't know him at all. I only thought I did."

"Is this a second-hand shop?" asked the young man. "Yes, sir," came the reply.

"Well, I want one put on this watch."

You can tell about how a boy will turn out if you know what time he turns in.

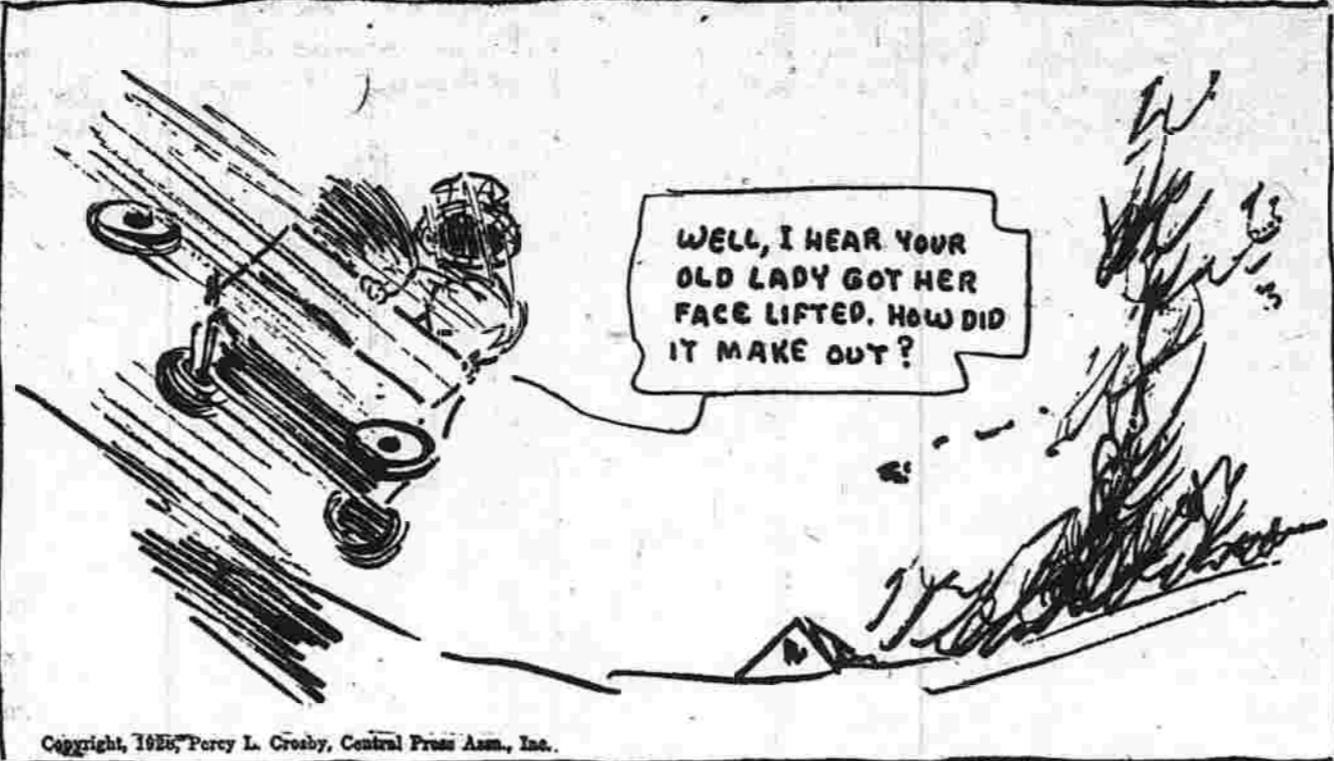

"Did you ever hear," inquired a wagfish acquaintance, "of the American who, owing to an accident to his airplane, suddenly changed his nationality—he came down a Russian."

"Yes," we replied, falling in with his humor, "but we heard further that this aviator carried a passenger who also changed his nationality—he landed on some telegraph wires and came down a Pole."

New Manager to the office boy: "Tommy, if you can ask me a question I can't answer, I'll give you a quarter."

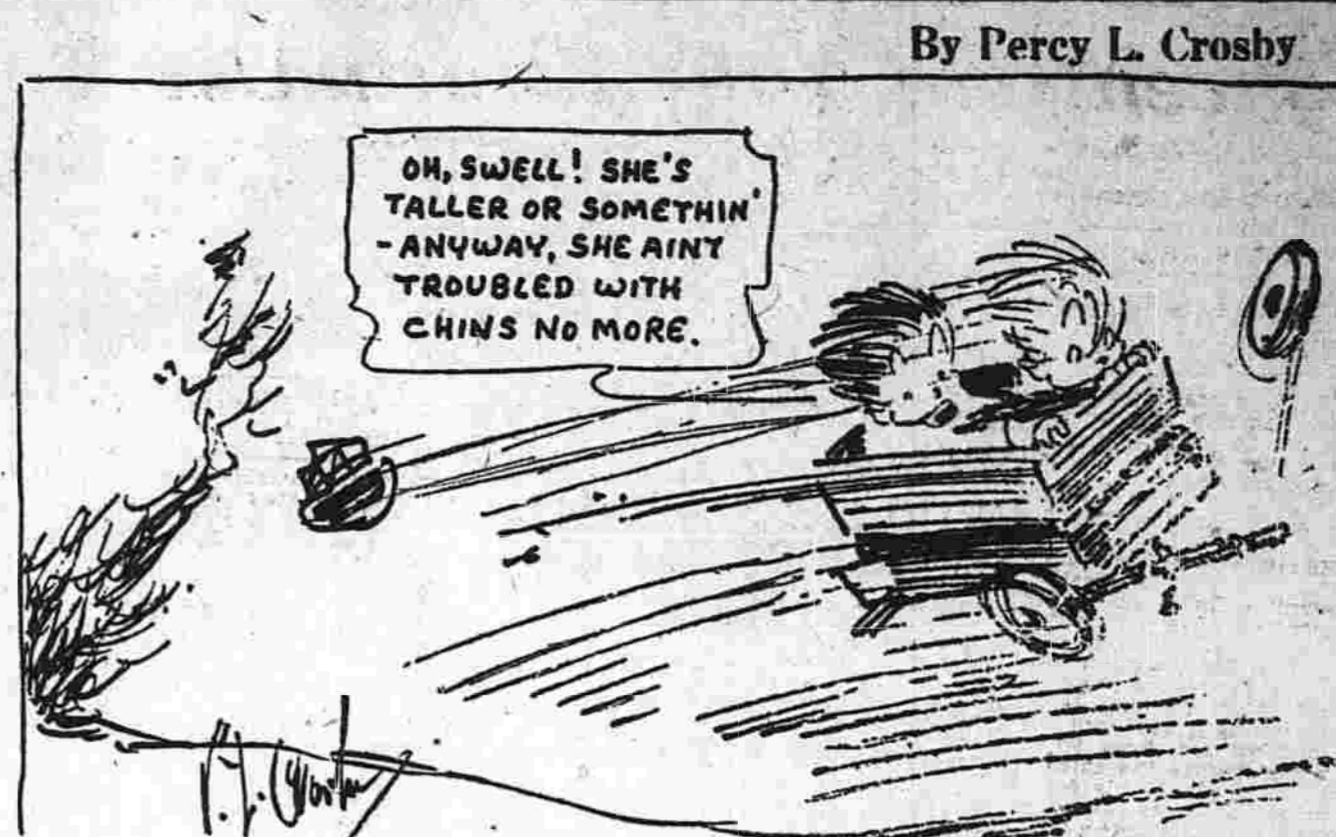

Office Boy: "All right, sir! Can you tell where music goes after it has been played?"

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The dog that cleaned up Animal Land, soon made the Tynmites understand that they must be real neat, and not throw things upon the ground. "I work the live, long day," said he, "and you can be of help to me if you'll just pick up all the scraps, and such things, that are found."

Paul Chih Meng, Chinese student and lecturer who is to speak at Center Congregational church Sunday morning, and before the High school students in assembly Monday, will also speak at the Monday noon meeting of the Manchester Kiwanis club at the Country clubhouse on South Main street.

Mrs. Louise Kapp and daughter of New York City are week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Russell of 169 Maple street.

Mrs. Annesley Trotter entertained with a dinner party at her home on Bigelow street last evening in honor of Miss Mildred Hutchinson of the same street whose birthday occurred yesterday.

Although the Manchester Pipe Band is not to lead the Edith Cavell Command of Hartford British Great War Veterans, the Hartford Great War Veterans, the Hartford Pipe Band that has been secured has engaged the services of Joseph Taggart, pipe major of the Manchester Pipe Band to lead them in the parade.

Members of the Manchester Pipe band have been a little embarrassed by the publication of a report that the band had been engaged to play in the New Britain parade tomorrow and a subsequent denial of the statement by the British War Veterans, for whom it had been stated the band would play.

understanding evidently arose from the fact that some individual members of the Manchester band had been engaged to play with the Hartford Pipe Band, which is under engagement to play for the Veterans in the parade.

Miss Millicent Fox of Oakland street and Miss Sarah McKinney of Main street returned last night from a ten-day steamer trip from New York to Savannah, Georgia. They report a most enjoyable vacation and good weather while in the southern city, and no great roughness of the sea when they were on shipboard as a result of the recent storms.

The annual "Hare and Hounds" race was scheduled to take place this afternoon starting from the High school. The hares, 31 of them, were to leave at 2 o'clock to lay their trails to a rendezvous, which may be either Highland park or the Buncle school. The hounds were to take up the trail later in the afternoon. In all it was expected that over 300 girls would take part.

Mrs. Jacob Lipp of Keeney street was tendered a birthday surprise party Wednesday evening by about 25 of her neighbors, relatives and friends, who brought with them a beautifully decorated birthday cake and all the other requisites for a buffet lunch, as well as a number of useful gifts. Mrs. Lipp was remembered with gifts also from California. Singing and dancing passed the time until midnight.

Miss Alice Harrison of Center street is convalescing after a recent operation for appendicitis. She will be unable to resume her studies at Boston University for a few weeks. Her sister, Miss Elsie Harrison, Miss Anne Strickland and Miss Margaret Lewis have already returned to B. U.
