Says Previous Statements About Notorious Bandit Were Not True.

Dedham, Mass., Sept. 27.—Miss Helen Elaine Bradshaw, 23-year-old Titian-haired Hartford, Conn., divorcee and sweetheart of Stephen Hoppe, today retracted statements made on the witness stand at Hoppe's trial for the slaying of Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis, of Quincy.

Before a crowded courtroom today she declared untrue her previous statement that she was with Hoppe early in the morning of October 4, 1927, the time the Quincy policeman was murdered.

In reply to questions by Assistant District Attorney Wm. P. Kelly, the girl stated that after finishing her testimony yesterday she got a Quincy taxi to take her to see Kelly, whom she told that she had not testified truthfully.

"I lied about the number of days Mr. Bersig (Hoppe's alias) was away," she said today.

"Did you go to Police Captain Doran and tell him you did not dance with the defendant on the morning of October 4," she was asked.

"Yes," she replied.

The Connecticut girl was not bothered in the least by frequent laughs that swept the courtroom as she answered the questions shot at her by Kelly.

Hoppe had his composure today and seemed agitated. As Miss Bradshaw took the stand she smiled at Hoppe.

During her testimony, in changing much of that given yesterday, Defense Counsel James P. Cassidy raised much objection but was overruled.

Miss Bradshaw had previously testified that she went with Hoppe to an inn at Meriden, Conn., Monday night, October 2, and returned to Hartford early Tuesday, October 4. Patrolman Hollis was slain at 4 a. m., October 4.

DRY AGENTS SHOOT WOMAN IN AN AUTO

Lorain, Ohio, Sept. 27 — Miss Betty Heywood, 22, of Elyria, was in St. Joseph's hospital here today with a bullet wound in her neck, while three prohibition officers were in city prison, held for investigation.

The officers, Walter Knitter and Louis Cicco, of the police prohibition squad, and Frank Kledy, a deputy sheriff, were stationed near the city limits here last night to watch for an automobile loaded with liquor, which police had been "tipped" was to arrive some time during the night.

Shortly before midnight, an automobile driven by Charles Edward and occupied by his wife, their baby, and Miss Heywood and her father, Richard Heywood, came into the city. The prohibition officers demanding the car stop. Edward said he was about to comply when his wife advised that she drive away, since she feared robbery.

Accordingly Edward speeded his machine. A shot was fired from behind, piercing the rear curtain and striking Miss Heywood. Kledy was the only one of the three officers who would make a statement today. He said that Cicco fired the shot.

Through Miss Heywood's wound is regarded as serious, she will probably recover, physicians said today.

The bell alarm at the Manchester police station, connected with the Home Bank & Trust Company was given its final test this morning. The bell is set off from any one of several different points in the bank and is connected with its safe. Its alarm is so loud that when it rings in the police station it can be heard in any part of the building, although all doors may be closed.

There is also a siren on the outside of the bank building which would sound in case there were an attempt made to work on the vault during the hours when the bank is closed. This can also be sounded by touching buttons in different places in the bank.

crats could not carry it. The result that year was Roosevelt, 125,856, Wilson, 106,426, Taft, 64,334.

Four years ago, President Coolidge won the state by a majority of 25,654 over both La Follette and Davis. The figures were Coolidge, 420,759, La Follette 339,192, and Davis 55,913.

Managers Hopeful

Notwithstanding this record, the Smith managers this year are distinctly and sincerely hopeful. Their confidence is based largely on the assurances of old La Follette leaders that most of the independent vote of 1924 will go for Smith, and upon other widely varying factors local to the situation in Minnesota. They are counting upon the present low price of wheat, for one thing, and for another upon the fact that some of the most influential farm leaders of the state are against Hoover.

Magnus Johnson, the first Farmer-Labor representative in the Senate, for example, has set out for Smith and is campaigning the state for him. Sen. Hendrik Shipstead, the Farmer-Labor Senator who defeated Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, and is now running for re-election, is remaining silent on the presidential contest. But Shipstead's friends are working openly for Smith. George Cashman, the Democratic nominee for Senator, withdrew from the race only this week in order not to complicate matters by taking any strength away from Shipstead, thus leaving the contest between the Farmer-Labor candidate and Walter S. Nelson, the regular Republican nominee.

Minnesota also has a gubernatorial election this year, with Gov. Theodore Christiansen, Republican candidate to succeed himself. Christiansen was for Lowden in the presidential contest, and Hoover's victory at Kansas City is said to have left many sore spots among the regular Republicans.

It is upon a foundation containing these and similar factors that Democratic hopes and confidence are based. The Sixth of November will provide the answer. Meanwhile the battle wages hot.

Those in Party

Accompanying Gov. Smith into Minnesota is Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D) of Montana, who was La Follette's running mate in 1924. He is one of those who have assured the New York governor that he will capture most of the old LaFollette vote of four years ago.

Accustomed as he is, and has been to turbulent politics for a quarter of a century, Gov. Smith emerged from North Dakota with his head in a whirl from the bewildering maze of the Republican-Democratic-Nonpartisan League-independent mix-up in that state. His managers, however, claim they have the edge in the state, since Smith's Omaha speech, and even the Republicans are inclined to concede that the Democratic nominee has a "fifty-fifty chance."

Gov. Walter Maddock, who two years ago was elected lieutenant-governor on the Republican ticket, and who succeeded to the governorship upon the death of Gov. A. C. Sorlie, is a candidate to succeed himself. He bears the endorsement of the Democratic Party, the Non-Partisan League, and claims considerable support from insurgent members of the Republican Party.

Gov. Maddock fenced considerably with newspaper correspondents aboard the Smith train as it rolled through his state over the question of whether he was personally for Gov. Smith.

In reply to the blunt question "Are you for Smith," Gov. Maddock replied that he wanted "to make my stand absolutely clear in that respect."

Maddock's Explanation

He then explained that he was chairman of the North Dakota delegation to the Republican convention at Kansas City that nominated Hoover, that he was an original Non-Partisan Leaguer and that his chief interest in this campaign was the ultimate benefit of agriculture.

"I am for the best interests of agriculture," he said, "and the agricultural organizations of North Dakota are 80 per cent for Gov. Smith."

"And you are with them?"

"All down the line."

Gov. Smith had a trip through North Dakota that contributed to his "rattle confidence of victory" in November.

From Bismarck, the state capital, where Gov. Maddock boarded the train, Gov. Smith travelled to Fargo, the largest city in the state. At Bismarck the crowd that greeted him was not unusually large, but at each succeeding stop along the main line of the Northern Pacific at Jamestown, Valley City and Fargo, the throngs grew larger and more enthusiastic. Nearly 10,000 people were jammed around the station at Fargo last night.

Gov. Smith makes his entrance into Minneapolis at 10:25 o'clock this morning. He will spend the day in Minneapolis, and then cross over to St. Paul for tonight's speech, leaving tomorrow morning for Milwaukee where he will speak Saturday night.

COL. ROOSEVELT CALLED IN ALBANY POOL CASE

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for more than half an hour today was before the Albany county Grand Jury which is investigating the alleged Albany baseball pool. As a result, District Attorney Charles J. Herrick announced, new life was injected into the inquiry.

Col. Roosevelt was not subpoenaed by the district attorney but Mr. Herrick requested his presence over the long distance telephone last night. The colonel stopped in Albany on his way to the Republican state convention at Syracuse and was before the Grand Jury for 37 minutes.

Mr. Herrick announced afterwards that Col. Roosevelt had given him the names of several additional persons who will be subpoenaed. The inquiry will be continued with new vigor, he declared.

Col. Roosevelt himself, after coming out of the Grand Jury room, said he did not know whether any information he gave was such as would result in the indictment of any of the "men higher up" who are supposed to be the quarry for the present probe.

Records Checked

The records of what these released prisoners have done were checked over by members of the faculties of the University of Illinois, University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

Charges that the habitual offender, due to his knowledge of "the ropes" regains his freedom more easily than the novice were found to be false.

Of the 3,000 cases, 55.3 per cent of those paroled were first offenders, 31.3 per cent were occasional offenders, 11.0 per cent habitual offenders and only 1.5 per cent professional offenders.

59 Back In Prison

Out of the 625 men discharged from parole, after Pontiac, records show that 59 were back in state prisons, three had been killed in gang wars and one was wanted for murder.

The result of the study revealed that of the 3,000 cases 10.9 per cent of the men were guilty of minor violations and 14.7 per cent of major violations prior to completion of parole.

Therefore, the commission pointed out, the problem is to find out what type of man will make good and what type will fall before paroles are granted.

Arm In Arm

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 27.—The marriage license bureau in the very imposing City Hall furnishes upon any morning, bright or stormy, an excellent cross-section of the people who make up the Manhattan scene.

The Little Church Around the Corner may have the reputation, but the marrying justices of the marriage license bureau get the business.

Here sits, for instance, in an ordinary waiting room of a public building, a young woman adorned in the fluffy white things of a wedding gown. It is a cheap wedding gown, but it has the required amount of fluffery, lace and silk. It is the only wedding gown in the room. All other couples are in street clothes. The young man who is to wed the young lady in the wedding gown has not had so much as the price of a blue suit. He wears a suit of some brown mixture—and it has been worn before. Perhaps the pooled fortunes went into that wedding dress. At any rate, no bride who ever trod the aisles of a cathedral, ranked by ring bearers, bridesmaid and such ever got a greater thrill. Her mother chirps about her, like a nice old bird.

Romance, illusioned and at its peak, single in the air. In the corner sit an old man and an old woman. They sit hand in hand. They do not smile. Neither do they speak. They just sit and look. They sit and look and perhaps they think. And if they think, they must be thinking of contrasts in romance. Here in the December of life they come in contact with it again. Probably two lonely souls, tired of looking lonesomely from windows of the Bronx, yearning for companionship and drifting, at last, into a second—perhaps a third—marriage.

And there is the frightened youth with the frightened maid. They have come alone. Perhaps they have eloped. They seem terribly young. They sit close together. They look dazedly about. Now and then they talk, but when they converse they whisper. They seem afraid of their own voices; of their own words. They find themselves at the doorway of a great adventure and whistle, as it were, to keep up their courage. They look about to see how the other folks are acting. They find everyone peering at everyone else. Romance, as well as misery, is in the company. They whisper comments about each other.

And so they come and go through the day. Hundreds, thousands—out of the slums, the palaces and the far-away places. Drama! Well, we thought so. And it's one of the sights of New York—if you asked us.

HIGHWAY PAVING HIT NEW RECORD IN PAST SUMMER

Department Built Greater Mileage Than In Any Other Year—Total 185 Miles.

During the past summer, the Connecticut Highway Department has had under construction a greater road mileage than at any time during its 33 years of existence, according to a statement made today by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. At the midway point of the summer paving season, July 1, there were 185 miles of Connecticut highway either being paved or being prepared for paving, a total which exceeds by nearly 50 miles the average summer's work.

The road building work laid out for the past summer, in addition to being the department's largest program, included the reconstruction of some of the state's most important arteries of traffic, among them being the practical completion of the Boston Post Road from the New York state line at Port Chester to the Rhode Island state line at Stonington; the laying of several important stretches of road on Route 2 between Hartford and New Haven through Meriden; and putting the finishing touches on the new road over Southington Mountain.

Another important piece of highway engineering in process this summer was the building of a new road, between Danbury and New Milford, one of the most largely used highways in the northwestern section of the state. The reconstruction of the State street road between New Haven and North Haven, an optional portion of the New Haven to Hartford route, was another of the more important projects.

Of the concrete paving, the largest, single stretch placed in the hands of one contractor was the laying of about seven miles of paving on the road from Canaan to Salisbury and extending from Salisbury toward Great Barrington, one of the most important routes into Massachusetts, upper New York state and Canada. In North Haven and North Branford on the Middletown-New Haven highway, 23,975 feet of concrete were laid this summer, while 31,777 feet of concrete were built through Woodbridge to Seymour, one of the many routes connecting Waterbury and New Haven. Nearly five miles of concrete were laid on the Plymouth Hill route between Thomaston and Plainville, establishing a greatly improved artery to link Torrington and Winsted and the western part of the state with the cities in the central area.

Danbury to the northwestern sector of Connecticut and into New York and Massachusetts. In Ashford, 31,798 feet of macadam were laid on the Warrenville-Phoenixville road; 31,000 feet on the Bloomfield-Tariffville-Granby route; and 32,000 feet through Windsor Locks.

This work, most of which will undoubtedly be completed before the close of the year, finishes the 1928 with the exception of a few short stretches of State Aid Road which are likely to be taken care of in addition.

DEATH FOR KIDNAPER Chicago, Sept. 27.—Preparations by the state to secure the death penalty for Angelo Pettit, alleged chief of an extortionist ring here, are under way today following his indictment in connection with the kidnaping of ten-year-old Billy Ranieri, for ransom.

The indictment, the largest ever returned by a Cook county Grand Jury contained 48 counts. It contained 32 more counts than the indictment returned against Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, kidnapers and slayers of 'Tobby Franke'.

The charges provides death in the electric chair. Meanwhile police are still searching for the "kidnap" farm where the Ranieri boy was held for two weeks for a ransom of $60,000.

FIGHTING 46 YEARS ON CROSSINGS HERE Present Board of Selectmen Gets More Results Than Anyone Previously.

The decision of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company to provide an all day and all night gate service at the Main street railroad crossing and the continuation of the hours that a flagman will be on duty at the Apol street crossing, was accomplished by the present Board of Selectmen in much faster time than many other boards were able to do in years past.

The records of the town meeting of 1882 show that Manchester people were much opposed to the conditions that existed at grade crossings in town even in those days and when appeals made to the company did not get results the town meeting went on record as favoring the discontinuation of the freight yards in their location and having them moved further to the west or at some other point that would prevent the switching of cars over the crossing. Gates with an all night guard were demanded and in addition to this demands were made for flagmen at the Williams and Middle Crossings. Nothing came of this demand. It was at the crossing referred to as the "Middle Crossing" that two men were killed early this year.

The company, on learning of the demands made at the town meeting, promised to give the protection desired in the following spring, but it was not done and now, forty-six years later, one part of the promise made at that time is to be carried out.

GERMAN YOUTH STICKS TO HIKING IN SPITE OF INCREASED AUTOMOBILES

Cologne.—No increase in the number of automobiles in Germany can decrease the love of the country's youth for hiking.

The new "Jugendherberge" in Cologne, the largest of these shelters for youthful wanderers, has just recorded its 5,000th guest. It was not opened until last December, and at the end of February had registered only 300 visitors, so that in the last six months it has sheltered on an average more than 275 wanderers every day.

Dartmouth Football Boss —And The Boss' Boss!

Pictures of prominent football coaches are common on newspaper pages during the fall season when they are commanding squads of young hopefuls who want to do or die for dear old Alma Mater. But few pictures are shown of the bosses of the football bosses. In the above picture the boss of the big boss of Dartmouth football is shown. He is Mrs. Jesse Hawley, wife of one of the most successful coaches in the country. From the stern look on the face of the coach the boss may have just asked him for a new fall wardrobe.

Fragments of Bodies Gathered in Blankets and Buried in Trenches.

Madrid, Sept. 27.—Advices from Melilla today said that many of the Spanish soldiers killed in the powder magazine explosion yesterday in a military reservation were blown to bits and the fragments scattered far and near. More than 40 were killed and upwards of 200 injured. So terrific was the blast that the ground rocked as though shaken by an earthquake. Many corpses were so mangled that identification was impossible. The fragments were gathered up in blankets and buried in common trench-like graves.

If Cards Win, M'Kechnie Will Be Second Manager To Cop Flag In Two Cities

By BILLY EVANS.

If the St. Louis Cardinals cop the National League pennant this season—and it seems nothing short of a complete collapse can prevent such an occurrence, Bill M'Kechnie will have the honor of putting over an achievement accomplished by only one other National League manager in the last 29 seasons. And that is, piloting a flag winner in two different cities.

The Court of Last Resort

THE court of last resort in business is the public. Their decision is final. If the public places its approval on a product, accepts it, and buys it in increasing numbers, there are good reasons for it. And if this happens in a highly competitive field like the automobile, then there are special reasons for gratification.

Returns from the forty-eight states of the Union show that Durant gained 20.5 percent in registrations during the first six months of 1928 over the same period of last year. Durant Motors is growing seven times as fast as the automotive industry itself. We appreciate this increased public confidence.

BONANZA GOLD MINE ELUDES PROSPECTORS FOR OVER 30 YEARS

Woodland, Cal.—Location of a bonanza in the Oregon mountains a Day's Creek Ridge is still a dead man's secret.

Returning to his little farm near here, C. J. Meier, veteran prospector, who has devoted most of his life to searching for the fabulous treasure, still has hopes and as soon as he gets another grub stake, back he will go to Day's Creek.

It was 31 years ago that Meier found his partner, Edward Schefflen dead in the Oregon hills.

This was Schefflen's second big strike. He had discovered the famous Tombstone mine in Arizona.

Twenty years later when he and his partner Meier were tapping the Oregon hills Schefflen made his last find.

After Meier had buried Schefflen, he started a search for the vein of ore, and he has been searching ever since.

Each year after he has made enough to carry him for several months he leaves his farm here and again takes up the hunt for the lost bonanza.

U. S. ARTISTS IN FINE EXHIBITION PLEASE FRANCE

Paris—One of the most interesting exhibitions of American art that French people have had the opportunity to see is now going on at the National Library in the rue Richelieu.

It is one of a series of international exchanges intended to foster a friendly feeling between nations. In the same spirit, an exhibition of French engravings is being held in the Library of Congress in Washington.

Many of the Americans show that they have found their sources in old Europe, recording picturesque aspects of Italy, France and Germany.

A Paris taxi-chauffeur who is robbed by his client is about as rare as any rose in December.

Louis Sprit, sixty-two, who has been carrying passengers to all parts of the city for forty years or more, picked up two well-dressed gentlemen who asked him to drive to the Porte St. Denis.

Whether they were just taking their revenge on Paris taxi-drivers in general or needed a little money, has not yet been decided.

How She Likes Her Car

By ISRAEL KLEIN, Science Editor, N.E.A. Service. As the automobile gets older, the personal factor creeps in further. The character of the owner or driver has much to do with the proper care of his car. It shows up with age.

For example, a good character expert can read a driver's personality by the finish of his automobile and the way the motor runs. He can tell how careless or careful an owner has been with his car by merely taking a ride in it and noting its defects.

By studying the habits and practices of the average automobile owner, therefore, insurance companies and automotive dealers have standardized the appraisal of used cars. They have determined the average mileage of the average automobile, for the length of life the average motorist would keep it, as being about 30,000 miles.

Curiously enough, it isn't the engine that breaks down first. In fact, the motor is the last to go. The first part of the car to break down under wear is the frame or chassis.

So, if the body bolts are kept tight, especially after a long run, and the body itself is kept clean and neat, inside and out, it's a safe bet that the rest of the car—the working parts—have been cared for proportionately and need little adjustment.

Of course, after the car has gone 20,000 miles the motor may need regrading and new pistons, slightly oversized, may have to be fitted. But that is almost to be expected on the average automobile and therefore does not reflect upon the character of the driver.

But if the clutch or the transmission or the motor have to be repaired in any serious way before this mileage has been reached, the cause of this work may most likely be attributed to the driver.

Two is company in an automobile—three means you never get lost.

LETTER GOLF

Today's letter golf puzzle concerns a hard, lofty subject—SLATE ROOFS. Perhaps you can do better than the par six solution printed on another page.

Grid for letter golf puzzle with words SLATE and ROOFS.

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2—You can change only one letter at a time.
3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4—The order of letters cannot be changed.
