

DUNCAN RETAINED AS CEMETERY HEAD

Incumbent Wins on Third Ballot at Town's Largest Meeting—Five Candidates In the Field.

The biggest town meeting, perhaps, in Manchester's history was held in the High school assembly hall last night, the thousand, or thereabouts, voters and taxpayers being attracted to the session because of a five-man contest for the office of East Cemetery superintendent. Three hundred of the thousand were there for no other reason than to vote in or to witness the oddest political battle in many a moon. When Alexander Duncan stood firmly entrenched as sexton after the third ballot, the three hundred left the hall without a thought for the rest of the town's business.

Cemetery Fight First
Willard B. Rogers, moderator of the meeting, realizing that the big crowd in the hall was interested in the cemetery job primarily, suggested that this section of the call be considered first. William J. Crockett moved that this action be taken and the crowd was all in favor of it. James Stevenson was first on his feet placing in nomination the name of Robert J. Finnegan. Mr. Stevenson characterized his candidate as a man well able to do a day's work.

Edwin T. Ferris was the first to be recognized and he nominated James H. Johnston, saying it was unnecessary to speak words of praise for his candidate since everyone knew him. John McMenemy was then recognized and he placed in nomination Alexander Duncan, the present incumbent. Mr. McMenemy said that he had known Mr. Duncan for many years and had never been able to find any fault with his conduct either as a man or as a workman. He said he believed any objections that had been raised to Mr. Duncan's work were as the result of personal matters. Mr. McMenemy said that it was obvious that those opposing Mr. Duncan

WILD AUTO KILLS FORMER RESIDENT

Mrs. Anna Edwards Run Over by Driveless Elec- tion Car in Mystic.

Mrs. Anna (Bird) Edwards, 58, formerly of Manchester, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile while on her way to the Town Hall in Mystic to vote.

The accident was a most unusual one. Mrs. Edwards, who is the mother of eight children, was walking up a steep hill on her way to the Town Hall. As she started to cross the road, an unoccupied automobile parked beside the road cast its brakes and started down the hill. The wild car struck Mrs. Edwards, knocked her down and ran over her. She was killed instantly.

The automobile is owned by Selectman Conrad Kretzer and was being used by Ferguson Rennie, Jr., to bring voters to the polls. It is understood to have been parked carelessly against the curb with the brakes not properly applied. Rennie is being held under the technical charge of manslaughter.

Mrs. Edwards removed to Mystic more than fifteen years ago. She had lived on Birch street here. Her marriage to John Edwards took place in Manchester. She was a sister of Mrs. Thomas J. Ford of 14 Short street. There are numerous relatives living here and Mrs. Edwards had a wide circle of friends in Manchester.

In addition to her husband, John, she is survived by five sons, Robert, Walter, Albert, Ellsworth and William Edwards, and three daughters, Mrs. Clifford Doherty and Mrs. E. Edwards, all of whom live in Mystic. There are also three grandchildren. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon.

FIFTH OF VOTERS ELECT OFFICERS FOR THIS TOWN

G. O. P. Exceeds Four-to-One Tradition, Its Women Vote 7 to 1—Murphy Is Beaten for H. S. Body.

Only about one out of every five voters of the town of Manchester took the trouble to go to the polls yesterday in the annual town election. Of some six thousand qualified electors the voting was done by 1,152 of them, 174 of the number being women, 978 men. The vote for registrars, usually accepted as the key to the party affiliations of the voters, showed that the Republicans slightly exceeded the traditional four-to-one plurality over the Democrats, that vote being 904 Republican, 212 Democratic.

Mrs. Wilcox Wins
In the only real contest at the polls—Republican nomination being equivalent to election and Democrats nominating in all other instances only enough candidates to fill the positions to which the minority party is legally entitled—Mrs. Jane Wilcox, with 213 votes, and William E. Buckley, with 216, beat out Edward J. Murphy, with 201, for one of the two Democratic places on the High School Board, for which position he received eight more votes than for the place on the High School committee.

Of the 174 women who went to the polls 150 voted the Republican ticket and 24 the Democratic. According to this showing the women's vote was more preponderantly Republican than the men's, being slightly more than six to one, while the total vote was about four and a third to one Republican.

The bulk of what vote was delivered was registered after 6 o'clock last evening, voting being fairly continuous from that time till the polls closed at eight. All day the voters straggled in and there was nothing approaching a real rush until evening.

The result of the balloting follows:

NAVAL BALLOON LANDS
Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Naval balloon, Number A-738, which left Lakehurst, N. J., last night, manned by a crew of five student officers, commanded by Senior Lieut. C. D. Custer, of Marion, Ind., landed today a few miles from here, at Shawangunk foothills. School children observed the balloon flying low over a hill and the teacher dismissed the school, the children going through the fields and assisting in pulling the balloon down. It is stated the balloon will be deflated and shipped back to Lakehurst.

MRS. CLARKE'S FUNERAL.
New Canaan, Conn., Oct. 2.—Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine McGrath Clark, victim of a Spokane hatchet murder on September 22 last, were held in St. Aloysius church here today. Rev. John F. Moore, pastor of the church, conducted the mass. Mrs. Clarke's body was taken to Norwalk for burial in St. Mary's cemetery this afternoon.

KING BUSINESS PICKS UP IN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

Success of Zogu in Albania Encourages Monarchists In Germany, Austria, Po- land and Turkey.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—The king business is picking up. Encouraged by the success of the ruler of Albania in changing his name from plain Mr. Achmed Zogu to his Royal Majesty, Zogu First, King of the Albanians, and the veritable scramble of the big and little powers to recognize him, the monarchists of many nations are realizing fresh hopes.

In Germany, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Turkey and even South Africa the Royalist movements have received new impetus from the coronation at Tirana. Even in Italy, which already has a king, a royal bee is reported to be buzzing in the bonnet of "Zogu's big brother, Il Duce Mussolini."

Success Press Agent
Zogu's success has been spread far and wide by an efficient and active press bureau, which was one of the first things he acquired. And democracy, already dealt a body blow by the numerous dictators, either Fascist or proletarian which have sprung up all over Europe, seems to be due for another wallop.

In Germany there is being formed another "Kaiser Party." Its aim is the abolition of monarchist sentiment and the preparation of a

Zeppelin Is Off Again On Long Trial Flight

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 2.—The new super-dirigible "Count" Zeppelin started from its hangar here at 7 a. m., today on what may be its last trial flight before Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the huge craft, essays to pilot it across the Atlantic ocean to the United States.

The ship headed northward on today's trip which may be of thirty hours duration. A large part of northern Germany will be traversed. The ship will hover over Berlin for a time out of respect for President Von Hindenburg, who is celebrating his 81st birthday today.

The ship may then head northwest and pass over parts of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and the Baltic Sea before heading back here.

A large supply of the new "blue-gas" fuel was taken along. This will be subjected to exhaustive tests enroute so that it may be decided definitely whether or not it shall be used on the trans-Atlantic trip.

In addition to the crew of 89, there were 32 passengers aboard. These included officials of the ministry of transportation and two women passengers, one the wife of Herr von Kardoff, vice-president of the Reichstag.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 2.—With harmony and unanimity such as have rarely been seen even in the well-disciplined convention of New York state, the Democratic state convention today nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt for governor, selected a politically well-balanced ticket to support him, and then adjourned at 1:10 o'clock.

The complete ticket follows:
For Governor—Franklin D. Roosevelt, of Hyde Park.
For Lieutenant Governor—Colonel H. H. Lehmann of New York.
For State Comptroller—Morris S. Tremaine of Buffalo.
For Attorney General—Albert Conway of Brooklyn.
For U. S. Senator—Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York.
For Associate Justice, Court of Appeals—Leonard C. Crough of Syracuse.

The entire ticket was nominated virtually by acclamation. No other names were presented, and there were no roll calls. The ticket was satisfactory to Gov. Al Smith and the leaders, and the delegates swallowed it whole and with enthusiasm.

The naming of the slate was preceded by several hours of eulogistic oratory in behalf of the various candidates, principally for Gov. Al Smith, "The Happy Warrior," and Franklin D. Roosevelt, whom Joseph V. McKee dubbed "The Valiant Warrior."

Convention Hall, Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Franklin D. Roosevelt was unanimously nominated for the governorship of New York at the Democratic state convention here today.

Roosevelt's name was the only one to go before the convention and there was not a dissenting voice. After Mayor James J. Walker of New York City had placed Roosevelt's name before the convention, after ex-Mayor George R. Lunn, of Schenectady, himself an aspirant, had seconded it, Chairman Oliver Cabana of Buffalo, naively remarked:

"There being no other names placed in nomination, all those in favor of the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt will say, 'aye.'"

A great roar of ayes rolled up to him. It was by acclamation that Gov. Smith wanted Roosevelt named, and that was enough for the delegates.

Rest of Ticket.
After Roosevelt's nomination, the convention set about the selection of the rest of the ticket. Col. Herbert H. Lehmann was nominated for the lieutenant governorship by Congressman Meyer Jacobson of Rochester. He praised Lehmann's political sagacity and astuteness as shown in the management of Gov. Smith's last gubernatorial campaign. He eulogized his war record, and his vast business experience.

Lehmann's nomination was seconded by Joseph V. McKee of the Bronx.

On motion of Maurio Block of New York, the nomination was then closed and Lehmann's nomination went over unanimously.

Warwick Kernan of Oneida, re-nominated Morris S. Tremaine of Buffalo, for state comptroller, and the nomination was seconded by John K. Love of Erie.

Tremaine's nomination was speedily accomplished.

Albert Conway was nominated for the post of attorney general by acclamation.

Justice Leonard C. Crough of Syracuse, was nominated for associate justice of the court of appeals. Both nominations were by acclamation.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Governor Al Smith was a confident as well as a happy warrior today.

He was happy because he had accomplished what he came to Rochester to achieve—the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the governorship of New York. He was confident because he believes, with other Democratic leaders of the state, that Roosevelt is by thousands of votes stronger than any other candidate the Democrats could have named this year, and a strong candidate at the head of the New York state ticket has been next to Gov. Smith's heart ever since he was nominated at Houston in 1912.

As one of the state leaders put it upon emerging from a hotel room conference early this morning: "Frank Roosevelt is two hundred

BOOTLEGGERS GET BACK THEIR BRIBERY MONEY

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—Bootleggers here who have been paying huge sums to police officers, according to court testimony, for "protection," have now turned the tables on dishonest officers of the law, the district attorney's office reveals.

The illicit liquor dealers, it was said, are now demanding "protection" payments from the men they formerly bribed, in return for promise not to testify against the officers.

ICE BOX BANDITS START SENTENCES

Get Life Imprisonment; Their Lawyers Say They Will Not Make Appeal.

Putnam, Conn., Oct. 2.—Albert J. Raymond and Roland G. Lalone, the Worcester youths found guilty of the Willimantic last week of the murder of State Trooper Irving J. Nelson, of New Haven, in a brief trial, had a "fair trial" and their counsel had that and nothing else to say today when the two were presented before Judge E. M. Yeomans to be sentenced.

In a space of three minutes the youths were ordered to be taken to the state prison at Wethersfield "for the rest of your natural life," and within half an hour they were actually on their way to the prison in company of four prison guards under charge of Charles A. Gates, of Willimantic, high sheriff for Windham county.

In the court room here at the time of sentence were the mothers of the boys, the brother of Lalone and the sister of Raymond. The four relatives had been in the court room at Willimantic all through the trial, and came here today for the last event. The youths themselves took their sentence calmly but their relatives were profoundly affected.

Transferred Case
Judge Yeomans, who had transferred the cases of Lalone and Raymond, from Willimantic, where the boys were tried and found guilty of murder in the second degree, to Putnam where he was to hold trials in civil cases today, called the cases at 10:55 a. m. As the town clock tolled the hour of eleven the judge had finished delivering the sentence.

Five lawyers, four from Worcester and one from Willimantic, who had defended the boys, were in court today. Judge Yeomans called upon them to declare if there was anything to be said in behalf of the boys. Judge Frank H. Foss, of Willimantic, announced he had been asked to speak by his brother attorneys. Judge Yeomans nodded assent. Judge Foss then declared that he and his colleagues in the defense were satisfied that there was nothing more to be said.

No Appeal
Judge Foss' declaration removed the possibility of an appeal being taken from the jury's verdict. Previously this point had been in doubt.

Judge Yeomans next called the prisoners to the bar, and speaking slowly and distinctly pronounced the one sentence that the Connecticut state "proves" in cases where a verdict of murder in the second degree has been handed in by a jury.

Immediately after sentence had been pronounced Judge Yeomans signed the necessary papers and

TUNNEY-LAUDER WEDDING PUT OVER ONE DAY

Former Champion Meets Fiancee at Naples and Motors to Eternal City for the Ceremonies.

Rome, Oct. 2.—The marriage of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, and Miss Josephine Lauder, $50,000,000 American heiress, which was scheduled to take place here this afternoon, has been postponed until tomorrow.

BULLETIN
Rome, Oct. 2.—Nuptials among the nobility never attracted any more attention than the marriage of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, and Miss Josephine Lauder, which was scheduled to take place here this afternoon.

After Miss Lauder had left the Italian liner Sauronia at Naples she and Tunney, as well as other members of their party left for this city. They arrived shortly after noon.

Tunney and Miss Lauder traveled by motor car. The other members of the party came by train.

It was declared that Tunney always planned to have his marriage celebrated in this city and he purposely circulated reports it would be here only to attract attention to throw reporters off the track.

It was understood that the Civil rites would be performed by the new governor of Rome, and that they would take place in the Capitoline Palace. The religious rites, it was said, would be conducted in the American church of Santa Susanna.

GENE AND POLLY MEET
Naples, Italy, Oct. 2.—Gene Tunney and his bride-to-be, Miss Josephine "Polly" Lauder, left here today for Rome where they are scheduled to be married at the Hotel de Russie this afternoon.

The couple, happy that they were reunited aboard the S. S. Sauronia this morning, are motoring to the Italian capital in the former heavyweight champion's automobile. They are accompanied by Miss Lauder's mother. Others of the bridal party who arrived this morning with "Polly" left for Rome by train.

Gene and "Polly" reached their destination to be married in Rome at 11 o'clock Friday.

CHICAGO GANG BURNS VALUABLE RACE HORSES
Reigh Count Kentucky Derby Winner, is Saved by a Stable Boy.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Race horses valued in the hundreds of thousands of dollars were dead today as the result of a fire which last night destroyed the stables of John D. Hertz, located on Leona farms near Gary, Ill., thirty-eight miles northwest of Chicago.

Hertz is president of the Yellow Cab Co., at present involved in a local taxicab "war" with a rival company. Two Yellow Cab garages were mysteriously bombed Sunday night.

The disastrous stables fire, according to Hertz, was started by someone who smashed a steel gate in an outside fence.

Reigh Count, Kentucky Derby winner and rated as the year's champion of the American turf, was heroically saved by a stable boy. Reigh Count's stable mate, Anita Peabody, winner of the Belmont futurity of 1927, was also saved.

NATION'S BUSINESS MEN FLOCK TO HOOVER'S AID

National Republican Committee Continues to Line Up Big Leaders of Industry—Ford Among Them.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The Republican effort to line up business men behind Herbert Hoover's candidacy for the presidency has been highly successful while a similar Democratic drive to win support for Governor Alfred E. Smith has proved abortive. It was announced today at Republican headquarters.

The Democrats drew first blood, it was admitted, through the selection of John J. Raskob, the General Motors executive, as chairman of the Democratic national committee. His appointment, it was added, set in motion a movement of business men to the cause of Gov. Smith.

The Republican leaders, however, claimed the movement was halted when the business world studied Hoover's pronouncements on the tariff, and his selection of prosperity, economy in government and efficiency in administration as his outstanding issues. The business tide began to swing toward Hoover, they added, when he gained the public endorsement of some of the most prominent men in American business.

The Hoover converts, as referred to, included Henry Ford, Thomas Edison, J. Leonard Replogle, E. T. Stotesbury, George Eastman, Henry Leland and John Hays Hammond.

"Efforts of Democratic leaders to line up business men for their presidential candidate through circular letters have met with unfavorable reactions in some quarters," the Republican national committee statement said. "Some of the farbacks have been furnished to the Republican national committee."

The announcement recited how Julian S. Myrick, member of a New York insurance firm, had answered Democratic appeal by pledging support to Hoover.

"America and the world would probably be better off had Mr. Hoover been chosen by the Republican party as its nominee" for president in 1928 instead of 1924," said Myrick. "However, countries like individuals, make mistakes. Our country now has the opportunity of correcting one of the greatest candidates that has ever been offered to it."

Another endorsement
The committee also issued an endorsement of Hoover by W. W. Nichols, internationally prominent engineer, of New York. Nichols declared Hoover was better fitted for the presidency than any other candidate in the history of the country.

Hoover meanwhile continued to work upon correspondence at his headquarters, while holding up his Elizabethan, Tenn., speech. He concluded the speech last week but will not give it out to newspapers until Thursday. He delivers it Saturday afternoon at the little town in northeastern Tennessee.

Hoover will leave for the engagement at 11 o'clock Friday night, reaching Bristol, Va., at 10:48 (C. S. T.) Saturday for a ten minute stop. He will detrain at Childers, Tenn., at 11:30 and motor to Elizabethton, where he will lunch with southern leaders and finally speak at 3 o'clock (C. S. T.). Following the address, he will board his train to visit the Soldiers' Home on the outskirts of Johnson City, Tenn., and then tour the city. He will leave for home at 7:15, reaching Washington at 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

CONNECTICUT MAN MURDER VICTIM

Police Keep Details of Fifteen Year Old Case, a Secret— Reported as Suicide.

Great Barrington, Mass., Oct. 2.—Chief of Police William J. Oshman today was completing the last few links in a chain of evidence which will result in a murder case arrest and will lift the veil of mystery from a slaying. A case that fifteen years ago was set down as suicide or accidental death.

The man, whose body was found in a brook and was buried in Potter's Field in 1913 as a poor "unknown" has been discovered to be a rich and prominent manufacturer of a neighboring Connecticut manufacturing town, according to information today. Details of the affair are closely guarded.

He may have come here to hide or may have been traced here by a person seeking revenge. He was known to have had a considerable sum of money.

The name of the victim and the identity of the slayer as well as the motive were secrets closely guarded by Chief Oshman.

BRISTOL MAN KILLS WIFE, CHILD, SELF

Uses Two Shotguns in Tragedy—Couple Had Lately Been Divorced.

Bristol, Conn., Oct. 2.—Howard Andrews, 38, today shot and instantly killed his divorced wife and their daughter, and then killed himself.

The tragedy occurred in front of the home of his wife's parents on Wolcott road, and was the direct outcome, police believe, of Andrews' failure to secure the custody of the daughter through a court action which recently was decided against the man.

The tragedy seemed to have been planned deliberately, police say. Andrews drove to the house with two loaded shotguns in his car. He passed the house and found his daughter walking toward school. He picked her up, the child climbing gaily into the machine.

Calls Mother.
Then Andrews asked his daughter to go into the house and call her mother. The child obeyed. Her mother appeared, and walked toward the car. Andrews shot the child in the head. The child died instantly.

The mother started to flee toward the house. She received the full charge of a shotgun in the back, dying instantly too.

Immediately Andrews seized his second shotgun, put the muzzle against his head and pulled the trigger.

Andrews' wife was Miss Esther Gustafson, 38. Their daughter, Beverly Ellen, was six years old. The Gustafsons also live on Wolcott road, about a half mile from the Andrews' home. Andrews was well-known as a building contractor.

NEEDS $7,000 FOR ARMISTICE FETE

Finance Committee Asks Contribution for the Big Nov. 12 Celebration.

The Manchester Chamber of Commerce is sending out a circular letter to the businessmen and manufacturers asking for their support in a campaign to help raise funds to defray the expenses that will be incurred in making Manchester's Armistice celebration a success. It places the amount needed at $7,000.

George E. Mix, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce is acting as secretary for the Armistice Day Finance committee, which is composed of the following: George H. Waddell, chairman; Harold C. Alford, treasurer; George E. Mix, secretary; C. R. Burr, Albert Dewey, Charles W. Holman, P. J. O'Leary, N. E. Richards, W. W. Robertson, Lewis H. Sipe, Robert J. Smith, Scott H. Simon, Robert V. Treat, F. A. Verplanck.

The letter of appeal follows: "November 11, 1928, is the tenth anniversary of the ending of the World War, the most frightful conflict the world has ever known. It seems right and proper that there should be some unusual ceremony or observance of this occasion."

"To that end, the military and patriotic organizations of Manchester have asked the support of the community in staging the most elaborate and spectacular Armistice Day parade and celebration ever attempted here. The proposal has been given indorsement and promised support of practically every civic and fraternal organization in Manchester."

"A proclamation will be issued by the chairman of the Board of Selectmen declaring Monday, November 12, a holiday and asking for its general and thoughtful observance. The industries and merchants have already given assurance of a general holiday."

"The presence of practically the entire 15th Infantry has been promised by Col. Hunter. Two troops of Cavalry, the Tank Corps, and a large group of aeroplanes are also practically assured. Many organizations have already pledged floats and marching delegations for the parade."

"Must Be Gracious Host" "The food and transportation of the visiting military units must be paid for by Manchester, the host of this occasion. There are other necessary expenses for music, decorations, publicity, etc. which will bring the total to about $7,000."

"It is felt by the general committee that practically every citizen of Manchester will wish to contribute something to the expenses of this occasion. It is to be in the truest sense a community celebration and, if properly financed and carried through, will reflect credit and give publicity and prestige to Manchester."

"A card is enclosed which you are invited to fill in, sign and return at once to the Treasurer of the General Committee, Harold C. Alford. It is hoped that you will make a generous contribution to this fund and will give it your immediate attention in order that the committee may know what funds they have at their disposal."

"Yours very truly, George H. Waddell, Chairman—Finance Committee, October 2, 1928."

Maybe the old cow crossed the road to get a better view of high priced feed. Children should be scenery and not heard.

for the superintendency simply wanted to take his job away from him. Mr. Duncan was not a politician, and the nominator, and therefore was handicapped in a contest with others who knew politics better.

After the nominations had closed Mrs. Mabel Rogers asked if she might discuss the situation. Moderator Rogers ruled that she might and then Mrs. Rogers made a forceful and convincing speech in the interests of Mr. Duncan. Mrs. Rogers said that she believed that the Selectmen or the East cemetery committee were to blame for any faults in the cemetery and wondered if all the candidates would be willing to put on their overalls and work as Mr. Duncan does. She concluded with the assurance that what the cemetery needed was a new interest, a new spirit and a new policy instead of a new person. She was warmly applauded.

All the candidates had prepared ballots and Mr. Rogers appointed as tellers, James Stevenson, Austin Cheney, Frank Monte, Edwin T. Ferris, John McMenemy, Edward J. Murphy, Otto Nelson and Harry Russell.

Majority Necessary Moderator Rogers said that Town Counsel Hyde had ruled that a majority would be necessary to elect. In that case Mr. Rogers asked the candidates if they would agree to election by a plurality.

They agreed but there was objection by William Schielde and the chair ruled that a majority would be necessary. The balloting proceeded during the business of the session.

All of the candidates remained in the contest for the second ballot in which 904 votes were cast in the following manner: Duncan 412, Johnston 260, Jackson 195, Finnegan 105, Walsh 47.

Following this ballot Austin Cheney suggested that all but the two high men, Mr. Duncan and Mr. Johnston, withdraw. Mr. Walsh, Mr. Finnegan and Mr. Jackson withdrew in the order named and the third ballot was prepared. A total of 881 votes were cast this time and they were as follows: Duncan 498, Johnston 383, Jackson 187, Finnegan 105, Walsh 47.

A resolution was passed appointing Mr. Duncan East Cemetery superintendent again. John Tresk was named sexton of the West cemetery and Martin Koehler of the Northwest (Buckland) cemetery without objection. The town was empowered to employ not to exceed 16 policemen. The reports of town officers, presented through the annual town report books, were accepted.

Appropriations The following appropriations were made: Alms $22,000, Highways $75,000, Oiling $15,000, Municipal Garage $500, Concrete Gutters $5,000, Walks and Curbing $5,000, Storm Water Sewers $25,000, New Bridge $3,000, Cemetery $15,000, Garbage Collection $15,000, Parks and Care of Trees $12,500, Street Lighting $25,000, Police $35,000, Schools $385,000, Memorial Day $750, Board of Health $5,000, Building Inspector $1,200, County Tax $9,500, State Tax $22,000, Military Tax $5,000, Conn. River Bridge $340, Second District Stock Tax $250, Third District Stock Tax $600, Fourth District Stock Tax $10,000, Fifth District Stock Tax $10,000, Seventh District Stock Tax $300, Eighth District Stock Tax $500, Ninth District Stock Tax $2,200, Traction $3,000, Trade School $5,000, to be expended under the direction of the High school committee; administration $11,000, Advertising and Printing $2,000, Election Expenses $2,500, Assessments and Collections $12,000, Municipal Building and Town Court $5,500, Miscellaneous $6,000, Bond Payments $81,000, Interest $50,000, Dog Tax $2,200, Public Library $2,000, Town Court $8,000, State Police Orders $25.

The item of Miscellaneous was increased from $4,000 to $6,000 so that $2,000 could be expended for Child Welfare. It is usual to allow that much each year but for some reason no appropriation was sought this year and the Selectmen thought it was not wanted. E. L. G. Hohenhalt made the motion.

Next Meeting It was voted to adjourn this meeting until March 2, 1929 at which time the tax rate subject to cover these appropriations will be laid. It will probably be a 15 mill rate this year. The Selectmen were empowered to borrow sums not to exceed $700,000. The Selectmen's layouts of the Keeney street and Academy street were approved. A deed giving a strip of land at the corner of North Elm street and Green Road to the town from W. W. Robertson was accepted with thanks. A deed for a strip of land purchased from Samuel Yulyses on Florence street was approved. A deed giving to the town land on Florence street from Casper and Rose Sasiella was accepted with thanks. The deed of the so-called Connecticut Company property at the Center was accepted.

Center Church Swap Then the meeting took under consideration the proposed exchange of land with the Center church. It was finally approved after the various town officials had explained with a large map just exactly what the transaction was. E. J. Holl objected because of the fact that a firehouse was located in the rear of the church and he did not want to see the right of way abandoned. It was voted, however, with but one or two voices in objection.

The Selectmen recommended that the salaries of three assessors be $2,250 distributed among the three assessors at discretion of the Selectmen. There were some objections to an increase and to providing the assessors with clerical assistance, but the Selectmen's recommendation was finally carried.

DISTRICTS TAXING ON A SHORT TOTAL

Entire School Appraisal Shows Grand List With $694,000 Missing.

Some Manchester school district, or some two or three or all of them together, has lost track of a big wed of taxation.

Never before until this year has every school district in this town laid a tax in the same year. And it is the fact that all the districts are making appraisals at the same time that has brought out a discrepancy that otherwise might have escaped notice.

In laying district taxes the method is for each district to name an assessor who goes through the town assessors' books, transfers to the district's books the lists of taxpayers residing in the district and accepts the valuations as they appear in the town's records. On the district list so made the tax is laid.

All the district lists have been made up. Together they are supposed to contain all the taxable property in the town of Manchester, as listed by the town assessors. But it appears, upon examination, that they do not. They fall short by the handsome sum of $694,000.

The grand list of the districts are as follows: First, $251,020; Second, $2,581,932; Third, $1,943,990; Fourth, $1,024,420; Fifth, $800,000; (former Sixth included in Ninth); Seventh, $1,000,000; Eighth, $7,258,569; Ninth, $37,120,962. The total of these is $51,980,953.

The total of the grand list of the town, however, is $52,675,121. There is no way of accurately estimating how much tax money the district lists as a whole will be wanting if the vanishing of also seven hundred thousand dollars from the district lists, because the rates of taxation vary, but it will be considerable.

Nobody has volunteered a guess as to where the exempted property is situated, and there is no way of finding out unless all the districts go to the trouble of checking over the work of their list makers.

Head for Rome Tunney led "Polly" and her mother to his waiting automobile and they whirled away from the dock, he added for Rome. The other members of the bridal party went to the railroad station in three other cars which had been hired by Tunney.

A magnificent pre-nuptial banquet was given by the Consul Inc. (owners of the Saturnia) on board the ship in the harbor Bay of Naples Monday night. Only the Lauder party and Captain Stuparich, of the ship, were present.

The menu cards were on beautiful parchment inscribed "pre-nuptial party given in honor of Polly and Gene with the best wishes for joy, happiness, health and love by the Consul Inc."

In addition to "Polly" the party consisted of Mrs. Lauder, mother of the bride; her brother, George Lauder; Mrs. Edward Dwing; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rowland; Diana Rowland; Dr. and Mrs. Carns Weeks; Miss Virginia Storm; Miss Faith Rockefeller and Miss Helen Shigo.

Mrs. Lauder was artistically printed and alongside each there showed a letter from the names of "Polly" and Gene. Liquor was served after the meal in the colors of the Italian flag. Toasts were drunk to "Polly" and Gene and to the United States and Italy.

On the table was a golden plaque of "Polly's" head, a work of pastry art made by the ship's chef. There was also a candy replica of Tunney's home at Stamford, Conn.

ter an hour and a half talk aboard the Saturnia.

Tunney boarded the ship which brought Miss Lauder from America at 6:20 o'clock this morning after spending hours on the dock patting nervously to and fro. The ship actually docked at 2:15 o'clock in the morning but no one was allowed to go aboard or leave the ship until medical officers had made their examinations. In the interim, the former heavyweight champion and his fiancée exchanged greetings through the port-hole of her cabin.

As soon as he was allowed to, Tunney bounded up the gang-plank and went straight to Miss Lauder's suite where the bridal party accompanied by the reporters and cameramen were waiting for him.

The couple fondly greeted each other in the seclusion of the suite and remained there for an hour and a half discussing their wedding plans.

Many Reporters Meanwhile reporters and photographers in the huge throng at the dock besieged the vessel. Some cameramen boarded the vessel in the next dock to get a good view of the first-class gangplank.

At 7:40 Gene and "Polly" left the suite and attempted to avoid the reporters and cameramen by leaving the ship by way of the steerage companionway.

Miss Lauder was fetchingingly dressed. She wore a grey top-coat over a red dress. Her hat was also red and she wore a diamond brooch at the neck of her dress.

While her fiancée ineffectually attempted to avoid the crowd, Tunney was considerably rankled at Tunney's attitude and mingled ribes with its cheers. "Polly" attempted to look stern also, but nevertheless smiled now and then.

Head for Rome Tunney led "Polly" and her mother to his waiting automobile and they whirled away from the dock, he added for Rome. The other members of the bridal party went to the railroad station in three other cars which had been hired by Tunney.

EMERGENCY DOCTORS

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore and Dr. A. F. Lundberg will be on emergency call in Manchester tomorrow afternoon.

The Emblem club will enjoy a social tomorrow afternoon at the Elks home in Rockville. Mrs. Oscar Peterson of that city is chairman of the committee. A special meeting will follow to make preparations for the convention to be held in Boston, at the Elks home there, October 15.

Several automobile parties composed of members of Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth, will leave for New Haven early this evening, to attend the meeting of the court there when the grand royal matron, Mrs. Rose Short of Bridgeport, will make her official visit.

The meeting of Chapman Court at the Masonic Temple here Friday evening will be advanced to Thursday evening, as many of the members wish to attend the meeting in Waterbury Friday evening when the royal matron will visit the royal patron's court there.

The Italians of Manchester have united all their lodges for plans and representation in the Armistice Day parade. The money to defray the expenses of building a float will be raised among themselves. The exact nature of the float has not been decided on but a majority of the members favor that the float should depict some phase of the World War and the Armistice.

The Patrick Gorman home on Main street, opposite Bissell street, is being remodeled and will be converted into a two-flat house. The upper part will be occupied by Robert J. Gorman, one of the heirs under the settlement of the estate. Work on the changes will start at once. There has been talk of this house at some date being purchased by a fraternal organization as a home, but with the changes that are now being made this will hardly be carried through.

Mary Bushnell Cheney Auxiliary, Spanish War Veterans, will hold a meeting tomorrow night at eight o'clock in the State Armory.

A Chester Wilson, Walter Sheridan and Lawrence Williams leave tomorrow for San Antonio, Tex., to attend the national convention of the American Legion.

Mrs. Frank Rieg of East Middle Turnpike is entertaining several out-of-town relatives, among them her uncle, Phily W. Braham of Porterville, Cal., who came here to attend the funeral of a sister who died recently as Fiskdale, Mass.; her grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Spooner of Warren, Mass., and several others.

Tonight in the Salvation Army Citadel, the famous Salvation Army Silver Band, together with the Songster Brigade, will render a special program of instrumental and vocal music. A nominal charge will be made for admission. After the concert refreshments will be served in the basement. The public is invited.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the South Methodist church will meet for sewing and business tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p. m.

Rev. A. B. Anderson of the Nazarene church in Hartford will be the speaker at the local Nazarene church tomorrow evening at 7:30. This is the regular midweek service. A cottage prayer meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Allen Soper, 32 Spruce street.

The sheriff at first believed it would be necessary to transfer the boys back to Brooklyn jail where they had been held since June when they were brought into Connecticut from Sorinfield, Mass., at the request of Winham county prosecuting officials, who had secured an indictment.

A few minutes later Sheriff Gates found that the prison authorities could take the pair at once and directly the trip across the county was started.

COLUMBIA Mr. and Mrs. Willard Clarke of New Haven were guests recently of Mr. Clarke's mother, Mrs. Lucy Clarke.

Mrs. Alice Turner of Willimantic was the recent guest of her sister Mrs. Jennie Hunt.

Mrs. Raymond Lyman fell on the steps of her home a few days ago badly wrenching the ligaments of her knee. She will be unable to walk for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson of Post Hill, with their little grandson Leonard, have been spending a week at Pleasant View Beach.

Mrs. Charles Pitcher, Miss Edith Pitcher, of Westfield, N. J., and Miss Millie Robinson of New Haven were over night guests Monday of Mrs. H. W. Porter. Tuesday accompanied by Mrs. Porter, they visited Lebanon, Willimantic and Glastonbury.

The new government map of areas quarantined for eyes and brows tall moths has been received by the local post office, and this section of Connecticut including Columbia is now in the infected area.

ROOSEVELT NOMINATED BY N. Y. DEMOCRATS

thousand votes stronger in New York than any other Democrat save Al Smith, himself.

It was Roosevelt who dubbed Al Smith "The Happy Warrior." That was at the Houston convention. Twice before that, at San Francisco, in 1920, and at Madison Square Garden, in 1924, it was Roosevelt who placed Al Smith's name in nomination for the presidency.

Gov. Smith stopped at Rochester returning from his western tour determined to make Roosevelt his successor as nominee for governor. He did not have to sell the proposition to other leaders of the state.

All For It They were all for it. The job was harder than that—he had to sell it to Roosevelt himself. Physically crippled as he is, Roosevelt has unflinchingly pleaded against being named. Only yesterday he telegraphed Gov. Smith that his health precluded his running.

This telegram was followed by hours of conference on the fifth floor of the Seneca hotel. A half dozen names were jumbled about. Some objection was found to each of them.

It was early this morning that Gov. Smith reached the telephone and asked for long distance. He got Roosevelt on the other end of the wire at Warm Springs, Ga., where his doctors keep him most of the time. The others in the room smoked and looked at the ceiling while the governor talked. He talked long and earnestly. In the end, he clicked the receiver and said: "All right, he'll run."

There was applause that could be heard outside the room in the corridors of the hotel.

Ticket Made Up That was that. The rest of the ticket was speedily made up for presentation to the convention today, and "The Happy Warrior" of Roosevelt's fancy went to bed in the small hours of this morning, really happy and very confident that the state ticket in his own New York this November will be a help rather than a hindrance to his own candidacy.

New York and its 45 electoral votes is vital to the Smith candidacy. If it is to be successful in November his nomination at Houston was due, in part, to the conviction of Democratic leaders from other states that he was the only Democrat who could carry the Empire State for the presidency.

Ever since Houston, Gov. Smith has wanted to have Franklin Roosevelt succeed him. And since the Republicans at Syracuse named Albert Ottinger, a Jew, with the tremendous appeal that his candidacy will have to New York's large Jewish population, he has been more set than ever upon seeing to it that the national ticket is not handicapped in New York by a weak state ticket.

It is an ideal choice. He is a stateside Democrat, who never has been affiliated with Tammany. In fact he won his first political rebuff by fighting Tammany, and defeating the late Charles F. Murphy's candidate for the state legislature from Dutchess county.

The ticket is backed by putting on Col. Herbert H. Lehmann, a Jew of New York, for lieutenant governor. Lehmann is finance director of the Democratic national committee, and an important figure in the Sun campaign. The rest of the ticket is considered well proportioned by the practical politicians that make up the Democratic leadership of New York state.

The Democratic campaign in New York this year is to be prosecuted on the Smith record of eight years in Albany and upon the Republican record during that time. The Republicans have controlled the legislature throughout Smith's tenure.

The governor himself made that certain last night when he appeared before the state legislature and made one of the most notable speeches of his long political career. It was devoted to state matters. He ripped into the Republican record with both hands.

The "A" that New York state knows so well was in rare form. Fresh from his tour of the west where he dealt with national issues, the governor felt he was home again in dealing with state issues and was his usual witty, dramatic, wise-cracking self.

He began by making a report to his home-folks on his western tour. "Take it from me," he said, "I never had such a time in my life. I enjoyed every minute of it. I report a little bit short on sleep. They were up early in the morning on the western prairies and they were knocking on the window as early as half past six with the familiar

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Bertha A. Hentschel Mrs. Bertha A. Hentschel, aged 75, died early this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Oswald Fisher, of 153 Porter street.

Hentschel suffered from a lingering illness. She had lived in Manchester eight years coming here from Manchester, N. H. She was born in Brandenburg, Germany.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Fisher, one son, Charles A. Hentschel of Manchester, N. H., another daughter, Miss Margaret G. Hentschel, of this town, and four grandchildren survive. Mrs. Hentschel was a member of the Presbyterian church of Manchester, N. H., and the funeral service will be held at Goodwin's Funeral Home in Manchester, N. H., Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. John Kamm of Manchester, N. H., will officiate and burial will be in Pine Grove cemetery in that city.

FUNERALS Funeral of Mrs. Cobb Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Saunders Cobb, wife of Judson W. Cobb were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late home, 25 Division street, and were largely attended. Rev. J. Stuart Nell of St. Mary's Episcopal church officiated. The floral tributes which were many and very beautiful testified to the esteem in which Mrs. Cobb was held by a wide circle of friends.

The bearers were her six nephews, Frank Downs of Bridgeport, Charles Saunders of Bolton, Harry Saunders of Bristol, George Gunn, Jr., William Saunders and Earl Scorial of East Hartford. Burial was in the East cemetery.

NOTICE I wish to hereby express my deep appreciation of the kindness and loyal support accorded me by the voters of the Town of Manchester in town meeting assembled. Especially do I feel most grateful to Mrs. Mabel Rogers for her kind and courageous defence of one who, for obvious reasons has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. To my good friend Mr. McMenemy do I also feel deeply grateful.

Signed ALEXANDER DUNCAN

CARD OF THANKS We wish to extend our heartfelt appreciation to all who sympathized with us in the death of Mrs. Armiens Demars; also to those who contributed floral tributes.

Report That Italy's King Is To Abdicate Throne

Berlin, Oct. 2.—The Communist newspaper Welt am Abend published a Paris report today that King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy, plans to abdicate and that Premier Mussolini has in mind a coup d'etat that would exclude Crown Prince Humbert from succeeding to the throne. Mussolini is said to oppose Humbert because of his anti-Fascist leanings.

King Victor Emmanuel, according to rumor, is embittered by the action of the Fascist Grand Council in assuming the right of naming the successor to the throne. The rumor that King Victor Emmanuel intended to abdicate was recently printed by the English Socialist newspaper Daily Herald, of London. It was denied in Rome.

POPULATION OF U. S. MOSTLY IN CITIES

Census Bureau Makes Public Figures of Cities Having Over 30,000.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Continued greater concentration of the people of the United States in urban communities was disclosed today by the Census Bureau's estimate of population of cities on July 1. Estimates were made public for cities which in 1920 had more than 30,000 population. In cases where exceptional circumstances prevented an accurate estimate, or where the last federal or state census showed a decrease in population, no figures were issued.

New York City had a population of 6,107,500 July 1, a gain of 144,144 since the state census of 1925. Other leading cities had the following estimated population: Chicago, 3,157,400, a gain of 455,698 in eight years. Philadelphia, 2,064,200, a gain of 240,441 in eight years. Detroit, 1,378,900, a gain of 136,856 in three years. Cleveland, 1,010,300, a gain of 213,459 in eight years. St. Louis, 845,100, a gain of 175,203 in eight years. Baltimore, 830,400, a gain of 56,574 in eight years. Boston, 799,200, a gain of 19,580 in three years. Pittsburgh, 673,800, a gain of 79,523 in eight years. There are 27 cities in Massachusetts of over 30,000 population and twenty each in Pennsylvania and New York.

The total population of United States August 1, was estimated at 118,401,000. Populations of other cities were estimated as follows: Connecticut. New Britain 72,800. New Haven 187,900. Stamford 43,800. Massachusetts. Springfield 149,900. Worcester 197,600. New York. Buffalo 555,800. New Rochelle 48,800. New York 6,017,500.

DUNCAN PHYFERS HEAR PROF. HAAKE

Professor Alfred P. Haake, director of research for the Furniture Manufacturers' Association of America and formerly advertising manager for the Furniture Exchange of Detroit, was the speaker at the October meeting of Watkins Brothers Duncan Phyfe Club, held at the Watkins store last night. Professor Haake chose as his subject "Salesmanship" and outlined how every person in an organization is really a salesperson. The October meeting held last evening is the first meeting of the club this fall and had been postponed two weeks in order that arrangements could be made to have Professor Haake address the members. Professor Haake also addressed the Kiwanis meeting yesterday noon as the guest of C. Elmore Watkins.

MUM AT MEETING BUT WANT ANOTHER

Keeney Streeters Object to Layout Approved by the Voters.

A special town meeting is in the making with residents of Keeney street as the petitioners for it. They are disgruntled over the decision of the voters at the annual town meeting last night in accepting the selectmen's layout of Keeney street, which provides for a fifty foot roadway, though nobody objected then.

It was explained by the selectmen at the meeting last night that the bounds had been lost and that it was almost an impossibility to relocate them, and the selectmen had set out a line that would provide for a fifty foot roadway.

The original layout of Keeney street, as shown by old records, was sixty-six feet, but it was not properly defined. As Keeney street does not carry heavy traffic the board recommended a new fifty-foot layout.

There was no word of objection last night, but this morning residents of Keeney street were at the Municipal Building, seeking information as to the number of votes necessary to sign a petition in order to call a special meeting. When told that twenty names were required they said this number would be secured. They want the decision changed but what street lines they would like to have established was not made known.

Patrick Madden, father of the largest family in Manchester, twelve in number, in addition to himself and his wife, was charged with intoxication at this morning's session of the town court.

He entered a plea of guilty, but when Judge Johnson was informed that Madden was the father of twelve children, ten of them living at home and only two of them working, and that he had been in the police court only once before and that five years ago, he suspended judgment so that the head of the Madden clan might return to work this noon.

LOCAL AUTO KILLS MAN IN ROCKVILLE

Fred Minicucci Held in Bail Till Death of Frank Anton Is Probed.

Fred Minicucci, 19-year-old Manchester youth, was the driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured Frank Anton, 33, of 113 Brooklyn street, Rockville, in that city last night.

In Rockville Police Court this morning, Minicucci, who lives at 178 Oak street here, was released under $2,500 bonds furnished by his father after his case had been continued until October 15 to await the coroner's finding.

The accident occurred on West Main street at 7:40. Minicucci was driving west, down grade, when Anton suddenly ran out into the road, Minicucci asserts, directly in front of the Manchester car. He was knocked down and his skull fractured. Removed to the Rockville City hospital, Anton died at 9:45.

Brakes Were O. K.
According to available information, there were several cars parked on the south side of the street and one on the north at the time of the accident. Also, another automobile was coming east up the hill. The road is 30 feet wide. Anton, who had attended a Polish meeting, started across the street, waiting for the east-bound car to pass, and then, believing the coast was clear, started to run the rest of the way. The brakes on the automobile driven by Minicucci and in which John Connelly of this town was riding, were tested after the accident and found to be in perfect working condition. Measurements also show that Minicucci stopped the car within twelve feet after hitting Anton.

The nature of the charge if any, which will be placed against the local young man depends on the decision of Coroner John E. Fahey, who will conduct an inquest into the death immediately.

Anton was a weaver for the J. J. Reegan Manufacturing Company in Rockville. In addition to his wife, he leaves two children, John, 9 years old and Eddie, 7 years old; two brothers, George and Tony, of Rockville.

TUESDAY, OCT. 2, 1928 TOWN ELECTION STRAWS

The surprising thing about yesterday's town elections in Connecticut is the sturdiness with which the Republican and Democratic voters stuck to their habitual party affiliations, as indicated by the returns.

There is a disposition on the part of Democratic leaders to seek encouragement in the fact that the vote of each party, in the towns voting yesterday, totals very nearly the same, on each side, as the vote in those towns for McLean and Spelacy in the senatorial election of 1922.

The trouble with this kind of estimating seems to be that the Democrats are comparing town election totals in 1928 with state and senatorial election totals in 1922—which is not a wise thing to do.

Take the case of Manchester, for instance. The vote in yesterday's election, while probably proportionate enough, was less than twelve hundred. Yet there isn't the slightest doubt that on November 5 it will run very close to, if it does not exceed, five thousand.

And what is true of Manchester is true of many other Republican strongholds in the state. The vote at the town election utterly fails to show the strength that will be developed on Presidential election day.

We specify Republican strongholds because there are no comparable Democratic Gibraltar among the towns of the state. Such of them as do go Democratic win their local victories by polling the full strength of their party in town election. There is no such reserve of Democratic voters as of Republicans.

More Democrats will vote, of course, in the towns in November election than voted yesterday, but for every additional one who goes to the polls there will be four or five of the Republican reservists, so to speak.

Instead of the towns giving Hoover the ten or eleven thousand majority that the Republicans polled yesterday they are far more likely to give him from twenty-five to forty thousand, or more.

As a matter of fact, if the town elections indicate anything at all it is that Connecticut is as profoundly Republican this year as it has habitually been for many years.

SMITH'S TURN

Mrs. Willie W. Caldwell, Virginia member of the Republican National Committee, wrote on the stationery that she commit to a woman friend in Virginia, stating that "Mr. Hoover himself and the National Committee are depending on the women of the country to save the United States in this hour of vital moral-religious crisis from being Romaniised and rum-ridden."

"I cannot fully express my indignation at any such circulars. Nor can I reiterate so strongly that religious questions have no part in this campaign. I have repeatedly stated that neither I nor the Republican party want support on that basis."

We should not care to be in the position of the bigoted, mischief-making Mrs. Caldwell. We should not care to be in the position of any person who has been attacking the Democratic Presidential candidate on the ground of his religious affiliation.

A trouncing such as Mr. Hoover gave to this particular person, deserved as it was, is not the sort of thing that any American citizen will care to remember having received at the hands of a great leader of the American people, Mrs. Caldwell has been well punished.

Also the position of Herbert Hoover is, for once and all, made perfectly clear. He is filled with disgust and contempt for such campaigning. He repudiates and disavows religious bigotry, absolutely.

Now we know that Governor Alfred Smith is not deterred by lack of courage from repudiating those Democratic equivalents of Mrs. Caldwell who go about the country calling Hoover a Britisher and assailing his Americanism. Smith has the nerve to repudiate these people, because he once repudiated W. R. Hearst at a time when many of his advisers told him it was suicidal to do so.

If, then, Smith does not repudiate these slimy attacks on Hoover, just as Hoover has repudiated slimy attacks on Smith, there is only one conclusion to be drawn—and that is that he believes in that kind of attack, when it is directed entirely against the other fellow.

We know where Hoover stands, with relation to foul tactics on the part of his supporters. Now where does Smith stand?

WISCONSIN

Assertions from Democratic sources that Senator LaFollette intends, toward the closing days of the campaign, to come out with an anti-Hoover declaration to match that of his colleague, Senator Elaine, may throw a temporary panic into the hearts of some timid Republicans, but even if true it is extremely doubtful that the disaffection of LaFollette would cause the loss of the state to Hoover.

To be sure Wisconsin is a state of curious political complications, and to be sure its largest city, Milwaukee, is as likely to be affected by the prohibition aspects of this campaign as any in the country; it is essentially a German city and its people would love to get their beer legally. But the vital element in the situation is that there is next to no Democratic vote as a nucleus on which an important Smith movement might crystallize.

In 1924 there were only 68,000 votes cast for Davis as against 221,000 for Coolidge and 453,000 for the elder LaFollette. Nothing can be surer than that Hoover will get the entire Coolidge vote of four years ago. Nor is there the slightest reason to believe that the 453,000 of LaFollette vote, the major part of which was sturdy Republican but given to LaFollette as a personal tribute, will go preponderantly to Smith. It would be almost revolutionary if enough of those LaFollette Republicans were to turn to Smith to give the Democratic candidate an even split of the Progressive vote. And if the Progressive vote should be equally divided between Hoover and Smith, with the addition say of 235,000 to the 1924 total of each of the old parties, the result would be 293,000 for Smith as against 536,000 for Hoover.

It is only the most wildly enthusiastic Democrat who can see the possibility of a swing of more than half the Wisconsin Progressives of 1924 to the Smith column, and that would be at all likely to ensue only if both the Senators from that state should come out flatly in a surrender to the Democrats—an eventuality that is extremely unlikely.

It looks as though, at the worst, the Republican ticket in Wisconsin would have a majority of more than two hundred thousand to play with.

GOING FAR

We share, of course, the universal respect for the stellar reputation of Charles Evans Hughes as a lawyer. We are not, however, impressed with the necessity of the State of Connecticut going outside its own boundaries in the employment of legal talent for its fight to prevent the state of Massachusetts from diverting Ware and Swift liver waters from the Connecticut.

Former Justice Hughes is a great counsellor. But Connecticut is not poor in brilliant and profound legal minds. It has lawyers of its own to whom the adequate presentation of the commonwealth's case in this cause would be a task well within their talents and learning.

We take it that the cause of the state of Connecticut in this controversy is a just one. We take it that the purpose of the United States Supreme Court is not to act as a referee to determine "which side has the smartest lawyers," but to adjudicate according to law and equity.

It is our private view that if Connecticut cannot win this litigation on the diversion of the river waters, without the employment of possibly the highest feed lawyer in America and by the aid of its own legal minds, it ought to lose.

GOING ABOUT

A few years ago when a Connecticut resident read the results of the small town elections in his state it was likely to be more or less as though he were reading of the outcome of balloting in Czechoslovakia, except that the names were easier to pronounce. Nine times in ten he couldn't even tell you in what part of the state any particular town was located.

The personages involved meant nothing to him. Nowadays it is in a general way, acquainted with the majority of Connecticut communities. He knows what kind of a looking town this one is; he has a sort of how-do-do friendship with a gas station man in the next one; he has had lunch at a certain restaurant in the third. And so on.

Instead of being a resident merely of a town or a city, Mr. Average Citizen now belongs to a state—and in a sense the state belongs to him.

This is one of the good things about the automobile. It widens the horizon and stimulates the understanding of the people of entire commonwealths—makes them all neighbors.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 2.—Harlem's own particular Park avenue is but one block long and is known as Striver's Row. Here lives the social aristocracy of the "black belt"—those "who's who" of the negro arts and crafts, some of whom have been thinly disguised in the stories of Carl Vecken.

The location is 139th street, and it is doubtful if New York boasts a more exclusive block. The buildings themselves are among the most beautifully designed and architectured in Manhattan, having been planned by the late Stanford White for another generation.

When riches and fame and wide popularity came upon certain individuals of the negro capital of the world, they began to look for a particular quarter in which to dwell.

Today, with all the homes personally owned, all the regulations of an ultra-exclusive neighborhood are rigidly enforced. The block has its own "neighborhood association." Newsboys and peddlers are not allowed to cry their wares; no stores or shops are tolerated and no signs may be hung. Shade trees—rare indeed in New York—shelter its streets. The regulations forbid loud music and unseemly noises after midnight. A branch of the colored B. P. O. E. is the only intrusion of an atmosphere not strictly homelike.

The late Florence Mills, "Harlem's blackbird of song," was an early dweller here. Once, however, having been denied admittance to a certain uptown apartment, because of her race, Miss Mills bided her time and saved her pennies. Then she bought the place—and moved in.

A half dozen of the literary and sophisticated set have homes here. One of the earliest settlers on the block were Mrs. Walker and her daughter, who made millions through a device for taking kinks out of curly hair. The Walker mansion on the Hudson is one of the show places of the river resort belt. The Walker salon has, for years, been a rendezvous for the intelligentsia of all races and creeds.

I recall a certain gathering—the first I had attended of the Harlem intellectuals—in this block, when, among those present, was a stalwart Russian who had won the name of the poet of the Soviet revolution; a young Mexican cartoonist, still very much in vogue; two writers of the sophisticated school; a Chinese scholar and a Hindu mystic—to say nothing of a scattered group of New Yorkers, most of whom were whites.

Here, the races mix with casual freedom. Few social gatherings and teas but are attended by a dozen or more of the sophisticates from the uptown white intellectual circles.

On this street dwell, also, a number of the colored performers who have made money and reputation in the theater. Flournoy Miller, of the team of Miller and Lyles, has an ornate establishment. He has also Evelyn Peer, one of the colored revue favorites.

PREPARING FOOD APPETIZINGLY

A good cook, having nothing on hand but a few cold boiled potatoes, scraps of meat, some stalks of celery, and perhaps one or two vegetables, can make a very appetizing meal. Some of the most delectable dishes are prepared from the simplest ingredients.

There is certainly an art to cooking. One person can cook string beans and make them taste like green slush that grows around swimming pools; another can prepare them so tastily that one dish calls for another. The reason that vegetables are often unpopular is that they are usually prepared in a tasteless, flavorless, sloppy form.

Vegetables that have been properly prepared are most delicious and will often be preferred to desserts. A good cook must be ingenious. There is an old saying that invention is the mother of necessity, but that invention is the necessity of the mother. A pleasant appearance and a delightful odor should accompany every food. These are the best digestives. If we see or smell a food that we like, our digestive secretions begin to flow.

In preparing food one should avoid monotony, as with life, variety is the spice. Almost any food may be prepared in many ways such as salad, roast, stew, hash, or soup, or by plain boiling. To lend variety the foods may be chopped with a knife, grated, passed through a meat chopper, mashed, or left whole. A salad should not be a mere dab on a dish for the purpose of making other foods attractive by contrast; it should be the principal part of a meal.

Properly prepared salads are most delectable and refreshing. Baking is a wholesome method of preparing any food, even those which you might not ordinarily think of as being baked such as carrots, beets, cauliflower, string beans, peaches and celery. The larger and more solid foods may be simply placed in the oven with a par underneath to catch the drippings, but the smaller leaf vegetables should be placed in a baking pan with a cover of some kind to maintain their moisture. In this way one can combine a number of different vegetables.

Some of the most appetizing dishes may be prepared in the form of stews, hashes, and soups. No wholesome food should ever be Balanced Rocks!

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 2.—The importance of the vaguely bounded independent vote has been receiving more and more attention with the approach of the presidential election.

If the Republicans get the bulk of it a Democratic victory will become an impossibility. If the Democrats get it they will have an extremely valuable nest egg, to say the least. The fact has led to considerable sentiment of those of the 5,000,000 La Follette voters of 1924 who won't vote this year for Norman Thomas. That means some 4,000,000 votes, more or less.

As a matter of fact there probably is a much larger normal independent vote than the La Follette total indicated. There must have been many of progressive tendencies who refused to jump to a third party four years ago and yet found no reason for bolting from one major party to the other. The progressive vote, considered in a broad sense, might be placed at a proportional mean between the La Follette total and the combined Wilson and Roosevelt vote of 1912.

There is sound reason for belief that the progressive or independent vote, because of its fluidity, is generally underrated.

One commonly hears that the United States is normally Republican and the fact that Republican presidents have served 52 of the 68 years since the Civil War is used to prove it. On the other hand, it is easily demonstrable that the country is not normally conservative and that conservative Republicanism of the standpat type has had a surprising number of ups and downs.

In figuring what the nation is normally it is hardly fair to go beyond 1880. Before Lincoln's election we were normally Democratic; for the next 24 years we were consistently Republican. The Democrats were hopelessly divided in 1860 and had not even recovered in 1876, when Tilden, their candidate, won a popular majority of 250,000 votes.

The Republicans won in 1880, Cleveland, with the aid of thousands of Republican bolters who couldn't swallow Blaine and who were certainly the progressives of their day, won in 1884. Then the Republicans in 1888, the Democrats in 1892 and the Republicans in 1896. Counting the Hayes-Tilden election, popular sentiment switched from one party to the other at each of six elections covering the 20 years 1876-1896.

If a large number of milder progressives, independent voters, mugwumps or whatever you want to call them hadn't refused to trust the country to Bryan we might have gone right on alternating indefinitely. As it was, McKinley was re-elected in 1900 by some 850,000 votes.

But then new complications entered in. Roosevelt soon succeeded the murdered McKinley and the presidency was again out of conservative Republican hands. In 1904 the Republicans had to nominate a progressive and the Democrats felt they had to nominate a conservative. The progressive won.

Roosevelt then put through the nomination of Taft in the belief that Taft was also a progressive and would carry out his policies. The nation took Roosevelt's word for it, elected Taft in 1908 and got four years of conservative—sometimes called reactionary—administration. Standpat conservatism dropped down to bedrock in 1912. Roosevelt ran as a straightout progressive and Wilson was distinctly a progressive Democrat. Together their votes beat Taft's by three to one. There followed what Wilson meant to be eight years of progressive Democratic rule and the first four years of it, at least, beat all records for progressivism. What we may continue to call the progressive vote saved Wilson's neck in 1916.

By 1920 Wilson had alienated huge numbers of progressives who rode on the landslide which buried Cox. Four years later saw enough progressive sentiment to form a third party, but we are now finding eight years of what may be called a conservative regime—the longest period of it since reconstruction days.

The last 48 years of the presidency are thus seen to have been divided equally between the conservative Republicans and the Democratic and progressive Republicans. They are divided as follows: Conservative Republican: 1880-84, 1888-92, 1896-1900, 1908-1912 and 1920-28. Democratic: 1884-88, 1892-96 and 1912-20. Progressive Republican 1900-1908.

The progressive this year can take his choice. Many La Follette leaders of 1924 and the Nation and New Republic, the two leading liberal weeklies, have declared for Smith. On the other hand, members of the most effective progressive group in public life, including such senators as Howell of Nebraska and Frazier and Nye of North Dakota have declared for Hoover.

ASKS GUNNERS TO LET GROUSE LIVE

State Board Appeals to Sportsmen Not to Shoot Partridge This Fall.

Almost on the eve of the opening of the hunting season, which for most game begins next week, the Connecticut State Board of Fisheries and Game has just issued an appeal to gunners of the state to refrain this fall from shooting partridges, so-called. The Commission, being bound by the game laws which give it no power to declare a closed season on any variety of game, even in an emergency, asks the hunters to voluntarily declare a closed season on partridges, or grouse, to give them a chance to recover from the effects of the epidemic which has been very seriously reducing their numbers.

The Commission is circulating all fish and game clubs in the state. Following is the letter sent out by the Commission's superintendent, John W. Titcomb:

Serious Situation
"The sportsmen of Connecticut are confronted this fall with a very serious situation in regard to grouse. During 1927 birds were abnormally abundant, not only in Connecticut, but throughout almost all of the territory inhabited by grouse. This abnormal situation was the subject of remark by the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, in Connecticut during the open season of 1923 birds to the number of 27,695 were reported by 33 per cent of the hunters. In 1924, 5 per cent of the hunters reported the killing of 14,551 grouse. In 1925, notwithstanding the ravages of the grouse disease, 68 per cent of the hunters reported the killing of grouse to the number of 21,826. In 1926, 68.7 per cent of the hunters reported killing birds to the number of 24,154.

"We have, then, reports from a certain percentage of the hunters that 60,631 birds were killed during the years 1924, 1925 and 1926 in spite of the havoc wrought by disease. It is anybody's guess as to the number of birds killed by sportsmen who have not reported their kill. In addition to the licensed hunters who have not reported there must be included the men and youths who hunt on their own farms without a license and who, for that reason, cannot be called upon to furnish a statement of their kill.

"The falling off in the number reported for 1924 is in part explained by the fact that owing to the Governor's fire proclamation there were only 29 days of open season, but it is also partly attributable to the fact that the mortality from disease was apparently at its height just preceding the 1924 open season. Figures of the kill during the fall of 1927 will not be available until the hunters have renewed their licenses for 1928.

Every Dead Bird a Loss
"The State Board of Fisheries and Game makes no assertion that the hunters are responsible for the decline of the grouse. It is a periodic disease which attacks them, but attention is called to the fact that during the period under investigation the survivors were far fewer in number than in previous periods of declination.

"It is believed that, if an adequate brood stock is left, the birds may come back within a very short time, but under existing conditions, every bird killed lessens the likelihood of restoring the numbers to normal.

"The situation is so serious that states with laws which provide that the hunting season may be closed by proclamation are taking advantage of that authority. New Hampshire, Massachusetts and New York, our immediate neighbors, have taken steps to provide a close season for grouse this fall.

"The State Board of Fisheries and Game appeals to all sportsmen of this state to establish voluntarily a close season for grouse by refraining from hunting them this fall, and further calls on them to urge visitors from other states to cooperate in conserving the limited breeding stock which has survived the epidemic.

"If the sportsmen refrain from grouse shooting the question arises, what shall they hunt this fall?"
"The Department of Agriculture, through the Bureau of Biological Survey, has issued an edict shortening the open season on woodcock and the Federal Law takes precedence over State Law in that respect. This shortening of the season on woodcock, while they appear to be plentiful in our immediate vicinity and perhaps throughout the New England states, is based upon information obtained by the Biological Survey from inquiries and investigations which indicate that, taking its range as a whole, the woodcock as a species is decreasing in numbers.

"The Board is morally obligated to enforce the regulations of the Federal Migratory Bird Law and will endeavor to do so. It is, therefore, important to give publicity to the fact that the open season on woodcock this year instead of conforming with the state law which permits killing woodcock from October 8th to November 23rd will be from October 20th to November 19th inclusive.

Have Done Well
"It is hoped that this year the pheasant will provide a good buffer for the activities of the hunters who would naturally prefer to shoot grouse and have a longer season of woodcock. The Board distributed during July and August, in greater numbers than ever before, ten weeks old pheasants, all strong flying birds, which should be fully mature before the opening of the season on October 8. As this has been a very favorable breeding season for pheasants, despite the continued rains throughout June, it is hoped that the hunters will have a very good pheasant season.

"We are circulating the fish and game clubs, both public and private, urging the members to refrain from shooting in grouse and are receiving some favorable responses from this appeal.

ADDISON

Clifford Plank is building a new house a few rods south of Hebron and will be able to move in about November 1st.

A new house or bungalow has been built 100 rods west of Bell Street by a man from Hartford, a Mr. Hamilton, on pasture land purchased from Carl Schonhaar.

Hartford Girl Wouldn't Eat

"Everybody in the neighborhood was crazy about Jean Frances. She was the happiest, brightest little thing you ever saw," says her mother, Mrs. George Ventres, 36 Capitol Ave., Hartford. "She looked so healthy we thought she'd never have any trouble. But she began to be constipated. It made her fretful, cross and feverish. Her breath got to be terrible and her tongue was nearly always coated. She didn't want to do anything but lie around. She wouldn't eat and was losing weight fast.

"Then a friend recommended California Fig Syrup and I began giving it to Jean Frances. It brightened her up right away. She began to eat heartily and her stomach and bowels started acting perfectly. Soon she commenced gaining weight again and she's been perfectly well, strong and happy ever since."

California Fig Syrup is made from two of Nature's greatest laxatives—ripe California Figs and First Quality Senna Leaves. Children like its rich, fruity taste. It regulates their stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

The genuine, endorsed by physicians for over 50 years, always bears the word "California." All drug stores have it.—Adv.

OPPORTUNITIES: Hoover Opens Them to Everybody

Our greatest national extravagance is the human waste that results from business cycles, hard times, and unemployment. Hoover has attacked this problem systematically. He was the first to go to the root of the trouble. The unemployment conference, appointed by the President at Hoover's suggestion, studied the causes of hard times, and found ways to prevent them before they occur. Stable markets for our goods—that is what we need, and that is what Hoover's department created. Commercial scouts in the remotest corners of the earth are finding out what farm produce or manufactured goods may be needed there and sending the news to the Department of Commerce at Washington. A new railroad is to be built in the Orient. It will need rolling stock, structural steel. American

YANKS ENTITLED TO BREAKS, A STUDY OF RECORDS SHOW

Davis J. Walsh Continues His Survey of Respective Merits of the Contenders In World's Series.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles by Davis J. Walsh comparing the respective merits of the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals who will meet in the 1928 World Series, starting on Thursday.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, Oct. 2.—If the current array of New York Yankees finish a distant second to the St. Louis Cardinals from the important angle of defense—and no one figures to get out a petition against that idea—the Yanks must be conceded the put in considering the even more important matter of attack. They clearly are entitled to the break in this respect, even though their superiority is arrived at through the somewhat fallible system of league-to-league comparisons. This can be done to more equitable effect in the present instance because pitching in the National and American leagues this year has achieved a reasonable parallel.

Therefore, if one club hits for a team average of .295 in the American League and the other for .282 in the National, the assumption is that it is prone to hit the baseball more frequently; also more forcibly, considering the fact that its extra bases total 820 to 761 for the Cardinals. In line with this general data on attack, it may be mentioned that the Yanks have scored 57 more runs and have made 62 more hits than the Cardinals. So much for generalization.

Shock Hitters

Becoming specific, we turn to the shock hitters of the two outfits. Ruth, Gehrig, Meusel and Lazzari, of the Yanks, and Hafey, Bottomley, Harper and Frisch of the Cardinals. They are the men who will drive in the runs or else there is a vague likelihood that there will be none.

The important factor here is what kind of an average these quartets may strike in a concerted way. Individuals, of instance, can and do go wrong in the big series. It is far less likely that the quartet will fall at one and the same time.

The figures I will quote have been culled from a full season's play and, therefore, give the Yanks none the worst of the breaks, since they couldn't hit a horse with a whip during August and early September. However, this isn't early September. Their hitting has been on the ascendant during recent weeks and should be almost normal for the series.

Some Figures

Therefore, judged purely as one set of hitters against another, the Ruth-Gehrig-Lazzari-Meusel combination might seem to have more than a little on Bottomley, Hafey, Harper and Frisch. The quartet averaged .314 against National League pitching; the rival big four hit their kind of pitching for .341. Even a difference in pitching, that might be construed as markedly in favor of American League pitching, wouldn't account for the above discrepancy. The dynameters of the Yankee attack unquestionably have an edge here over those of the Cardinals.

WIVES CAN'T TEACH

Youngwood, Pa.—When the bell tolls in the belfry of the little red schoolhouse here at the opening of the September term, school children will go back to school and a staff of single teachers. After a heated argument it was decided by directors to bar married teachers.

House rents are 12 1/2 per cent cheaper than they were in 1924. Nobody uses houses much any more.

Cardinals' Attack

The Cardinals' attack is more diversified. With Frisch batting in third position. Always a dangerous hitter, he can drag a bunt nicely and is by long odds the best base runner on the lot. However, base stealing, merely as such is seldom more than a negligible factor in World Series results, unless the opposing battery work happens to be very rancid. It might be, at that, considering what the Yanks are pleased to call their catching.

Still, there may be two factors operating against Frisch's batting and base running. He will run nowhere if he doesn't get on and the records indicate that he isn't doing this with the frequency of better days. As for his drag bunt, that will be out in those games which he is forced to bat right handed against Zachary and Heimach.

Having matched first basemen, second basemen, left fielders and right fielders as potential hitters in the Gehrig-Bottomley, Lazzari-Frisch, Meusel-Hafey and Ruth-Harper analogies—to the general detriment of the Cardinal entries—the comparison can be carried right down the line without affecting the situation greatly. Koenig, for instance, is a far better hitter than Maranville; Robertson and Dugan and High and Holm are about a stand-off; so are Wilson and Bengough, who figure to do most, if not all, of the catching; likewise Douthett and Paschal, rival center fielders when Sherdel and Mitchell work.

However, a St. Louis right hander would bring on Durst and the

Conquers Gulf

Memphis Girl Wins Annual Marathon Swim in Mississippi.

Pretty Athenais Eichling, of Memphis, Tenn., was the winner of the annual 14-mile Biloxi-Isle-of-Caprice marathon swim on the Gulf of Mexico. She outclassed 23 entries to win the field and it took her only six hours and seventeen minutes under a broiling sun to do it. She's one of the reasons why these towns along the Gulf Coast are popular resorts.

Yankee comparison suffers accordingly. And now that I have removed this terrible weight from the manly bosom, meanwhile proving that the Yanks might be expected to hit harder, further and maybe more frequently, I feel it incumbent upon me to add: and what of it?

It all evens up when you consider that the Cards have the pitching and the Yankees haven't. Even the weakest of hitting can be made to look good by the opposing defense, which is largely represented by opposing pitching. It will take first class pitching to keep the Cardinals' style, and with Penneck unavailable, the Yanks figure to have all too little of this.

Viewed from the other side of fence, it seems to me, too, that I have a vague recollection of the Yanks having been kept within somewhat reasonable bounds by Alexander, Sherdel and Haines two years ago.

In brief, good pitching will be the best of them; indifferent pitching will make the worst hitting look good. What has this to do with the Cardinals? Only this: It figures to make their good hitting look better.

That, they lead in distance hitting, too, can't be denied. There is no Ruth or even a half-Ruth in the Cardinal batting order. Jim Bottomley hit 31 home runs to Ruth's 54 over the regular season but the comparison isn't even as close as that. Suppose the Cardinals had got that undeniable break of doing quite a respectable portion of his season's hitting in the small National League parks at Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston. He didn't get the Cardinals' 77 games at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, either.

So the comparative home run hitting of the Yanks against the Cards, 133 to 113, isn't a fair one. Yet it shows the Yanks well in front.

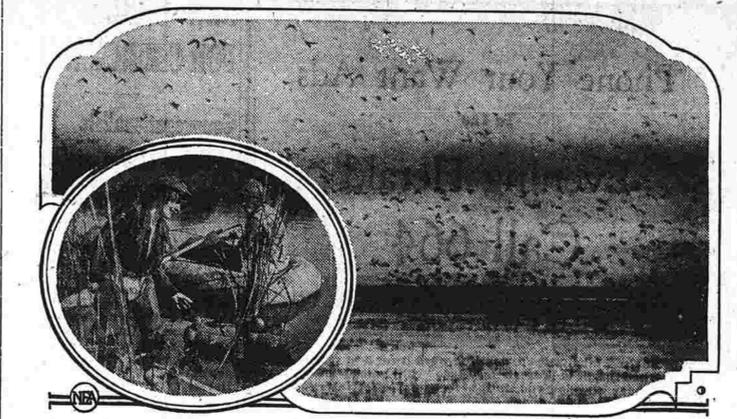

On the basis of quartet against quartet, the Yanks also lead in homers with 102 to 87, in doubles by 146 to 127 and in triples only by one, 38 to 37.

BANG! THE DUCKS ARE OUT AGAIN

Football isn't the only sport that draws its thousands when the bite of autumn chills off the ardor for summer sports. The duck hunters will be at it soon in legions and the hardy hunters will have to make room for the fair nimrods, who, in this day of virile feminism, can handle a gun as well as they can manipulate a golf club or a tennis racket. The army of hunters will be augmented by large numbers of baseball players, who find a great attraction in hunting after the tedium of a long season of work on the diamond. Here's a glimpse of a flock of ducks who were surprised at one of the northern lakes by two fair hunters.

Tad Jones Sought Players Who Had "Competitive Spirit"

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 2.—When Tad Jones coached Yale football teams, the first characteristic he looked for in his grid candidates was "competitive spirit."

"When I knew a man had the real competitive spirit in him I felt pretty sure he would make a good man," Jones said.

"You see men in sports who are sheep on the practice field but regular tigers in a game. This type rises to full power when the moment demands it. Those are the kind of men I sought."

"The other type, and the kind I steered shy of, always do their best when the result means nothing. In a pinch they collapse. These are the kind I term poor competitors and the kind I wasn't so anxious to have around."

Jones resigned as coach from Yale last fall but is certain to be around young Mal Stevens to render advice, if needed, this fall.

FIRST HUNDRED HARDEST

Walker Hagen, the eminent author and golf strategist, has detected a weakness in the game of Bob Jones.

"Jones doesn't like eighteen-hole matches apparently," Hagen said during the amateur championship tournament.

"He has the right idea that the longer a match goes the more class tests."

Out in Front, Maybe

Ducky Yates, a 250-pound golfer, who knocked off George Von Elm in the first round of the amateur championship tournament, didn't feel so big when he looked at the draw.

He saw that he had been tossed into a match with Von Elm and his opponent had been selected by the critics as one of the two or three big shots who might meet Bob Jones in the final.

"I'm out right now," Big Yates said when he saw the draw, but he went out and blasted Von Elm out of the tournament.

When he came in from his losing round, Von Elm offered a very logical alibi for his defeat.

"I took too many strokes," he told the scribes.

Couldn't Eat Either

Discussing the part he may be assigned to play in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament, Paulino, the swarthy Basque wood chopper, announced seriously that he had drawn the color line and would have nothing to do with George Godfrey or any other Senegambians.

Rickard, of course, didn't remonstrate because he suffers acute pain when Godfrey's name is mentioned.

It is something of a vague for prominent heavyweights to draw the color line, but there was more behind Paulino's desire than a desire to be in style.

One of the Basque's board of directors confided in the boys that Paulino couldn't sleep for three weeks after Godfrey hit him under the heart last winter in California and that the boy just loves his sleep.

Harris to Detroit

Negotiations between the owners of the Detroit and Washington ball clubs, which have been under way since the early part of the season, make it almost certain that Bucky Harris will be with the Tigers next season.

And if he is transferred to the Detroit club it is easy to figure that he will act as the manager.

Harris and Griffith will part as the best of business and personal friends and Griffith was influenced in starting the negotiations by a desire to help his young manager make a beneficial change.

A COSTLY HANGING

Paris.—A beautiful tapestry, intricately woven at Beauvais, under the direction of Audry, after designs by Boncher, was recently auctioned for about $75,000. The tapestry was originally woven for the Duc de Rohan Prince de Soubise to decorate his hotel.

It makes Gene Tunney uncomfortable to hear profanity. What miserable days he must spend on the golf courses!

NEW LIFE SAVER

Reading, Pa.—Christopher Kirchner owes his life to a water bucket. He was working in a sewer excavation when it collapsed, burying him completely. When freed 30 minutes later fellow workers found the bucket over his head. The attending physician said the air in the container had saved Kirchner from suffocation.

Denver Is Favored to Win in Rockies

Coach of 1927 Champs Figures Utah and Utah Aggies Next Best Teams.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth of a series of articles by seven nationally known football coaches in which the football outlook for this fall in various sections is outlined. In this article, Harry W. Hughes, coach of the 1927 Rocky Mountain conference champions, the Colorado Aggies, reviews the leading teams of his section. The final article of this series will be a review of mid-western football by Coach Clarence "Fat" Spears of Minnesota.

By HARRY W. HUGHES
Coach, Colorado Aggies.

Teams of the Rocky Mountain Conference, on a pre-season reckoning, appear evenly matched for the 1928 football season. In the final standing, the team at the top probably will be one of the larger conference schools with sufficient reserve strength to maintain a winning pace in the face of a heavy schedule and possible injuries.

University, second only to Colorado Aggies last fall, should have the outstanding team in the Rockies this year. They have a strong nucleus from their 1927 aggregation, plus what probably was the outstanding freshman team of all time in this conference.

Albers and Specken, two high class backs of 1927, will find their efforts supplemented by two sterling freshmen, Clark of Loveland and Ragland of Denver. Although Coach Fred Dawson, former Nebraska mentor, is confronted by a heavy schedule, he will be helped by playing practically all his games at home.

Utah and Utah Aggies loom as the next most likely title winners because of their freshman teams and the size of their 1927 squads. Utah has lost a few stars who played lazy football last year. New blood from the freshman team should give Coach Armstrong the makings of a stronger team than the one that held Northwestern University 12 to 6 in 1927.

Will Miss Hawley

Although Utah Aggies lost a number of letter men, few were from the first team. Hawley, big fullback, and Linford, tackle, will be the outstanding losses. Worthington should be able to replace Hawley. Coach Dick Romney is reported to have had an unusually strong freshman squad which will further strengthen his prospects.

Colorado Aggies, winners of the conference championship two years ago, will feel the loss of three outstanding players—Captain Caldwell, half; Rankin, 214-pound fullback; and Pitcher, 196-pound tackle. Graduation of six other letter men, and some scholastic ineligibility, will make it necessary for the Aggies to look "high, wide and handsome" into their freshman squad. The team probably will lack the punch it had last year, although it may have more versatility.

Along with Colorado Aggies are four other teams which must be ranked as having strong potential possibilities. They are the University of Colorado, Colorado College, Montana State, and the University of Wyoming. Colorado State College can hardly be expected to rank near the top this year. Each school, however, has some fine material and may do well.

Smith Will Star

Last year the University of Colorado had a large squad of green men with an outstanding back in "Buck" Smith. He should shine again this year, as should Bagshaw, star on a former freshman team. With more experienced men than a year ago, and a better schedule, the University should rank well at the front.

Colorado College will no doubt build its team around "Dutch" Clark, and Vandenberg, backs. Clark has proven to be the most sensational back produced in the Rocky Mountain division, and it given support would cause lots of grief for other teams.

Brigham Young will be coached by Ott Romney, formerly at Montana State. He should produce a strong team this year.

Montana Looks Good

On paper Montana State has the material for a great team under Coach Dyche, former assistant to Ott Romney.

William Saunders, Navy, and former line coach at Colorado Aggies, is the new coach at Colorado Teachers. He will undoubtedly lay a foundation for the future, being handicapped by lack of reserves.

Stewart Clark, former assistant coach at Wyoming, goes to Western State. McLaren will continue at Wyoming, as will Allen at Mines, but like Teachers and Western State, they are handicapped by small schools and the consequent lack of reserve material.

Rocky Mountain Conference football in 1928 should compare well with other conferences. However, there will be little opportunity for comparison as but three inter-sectional games will be played this year. Utah University plays Craighton of Omaha, Utah Aggies plays Southern California, and Montana State will meet the University of Nebraska.

MANCHESTER WILL HAVE CRACK BASKETBALL TEAM THIS WINTER

Hard to Beat

Rhem is Another Reason Why Cards Are Leading the League.

Another reason you can give for the winning ways of the St. Louis Cardinals is Flint Rhem, their big pitcher from South Carolina. He pitched only average baseball last summer, and the boys didn't know whether he would pitch average ball this year or as he did for the Cards in 1926. It didn't take Rhem long to show them. He's been winning about three games out of every four.

A GOOD SHEPHERD

London.—This good shepherd, Rev. G. R. Channer, reaped what he had sown. When dismissed recently from the parish of Folke for what he termed "no reason" his flock went with him, and each contributed a shilling a week to support him for a month, during which time he conducted services as usual.

'TIS FATE

London.—Fate does strange things. About nine months ago, the fiancé of Constance Harriet Shalton, met his death while motorcycling along the Gullford-Horsham road. Recently, while enjoying the same sport, Constance was thrown from her machine on the same road and killed.

Carney Relates About 1st Reserve Seats Here

This is the last of the series of accounts of baseball games as played in Manchester in 1924. There are some fifty games that might be gone over, but in this, the game with Winsted, Manchester won back its glory and seats were provided for the first time at a game in Manchester.

By BOB CARNEY

The first time that reserved seats, or in fact any kind of a seat, aside from those on the three rail fence in left field, were offered at Mount Nebo grounds was when the Winsted team played in Manchester, and lost 13-4, on July 30, 1924.

Seats being brought to Nebo from Watkins Brothers store, consisting of underlaid chairs, settees and ordinary kitchen chairs and these were offered at 10 cents each for the game. This added to the price of admission, which was 15 cents, made the total cost for the game, including seats, 25 cents, but there were many others who could not get seats who had to stand during the one hour and forty minutes that it took to play the game.

The Manchester team had played in Winsted on May 19 and had been beaten 22 to 0, but had but four hits and was credited with thirteen errors. The South Manchester team was out to win the game and for weeks before it was played it was announced that there was going to be a big fellow and a cork being good hitter and for a big man, fast on his feet.

Jack Cheney had a bad leg and Paddy Moynihan was assigned to the third base position and his place in left field was taken by De-Mill, a short, fat man, who came from Wallingford. One of the field positions had always been weak and to add strength to this Flagg Doyle of Willimantic was given that position. Flagg came to Manchester and begged to be allowed to play. He did not want a cent for his services, he just wanted to play with the Manchester team against Winsted as he had tried out with that team, was named by Mackey, the catcher, coach and captain and it was to "get back" that he wanted to play. His ability as a fielder was well known in Manchester and he was Rec Five Has Great Possibilities; Stavitsky and McCann Enlist; Ben Clune Named Manager Again.

If plans materialize as expected, Manchester will have one of the best basketball teams in many years when the 1928-29 season rolls around next Thanksgiving Day. The team will be the Rec Five, winners of the town championship last season.

From present appearance at least, the Rec will have the only team of major importance in Manchester with the exception of the High School. The chances are that the Community Club will not be represented by a team able to compete with the Rec. On the other hand, the Rec should have a team able to meet the best in the league.

Ben Clune has been appointed as manager of the team by Director Lewis Lloyd. Last night the members of last year's team and a few invited guests gathered at the Rec for a sort of get-together meeting and banquet. Players present and therefore planning to play with the Rec next season were "Cap" Bissell, "Ty" Holland, "Hap" Madden, Roy Norris, "Ev" Strange, "Hank" McCann and George Stavitsky.

With talent like this, there appears no reason why the Rec will not have one of the best teams in the state next season. The addition of Stavitsky, Community star last season, and McCann, of St. Thomas fame, is considered highly important.

Manager Clune said that he planned to open the season on Thanksgiving Day night with a home game. The night to play home games has not been definitely set, but will be either Tuesday or Saturday, probably the former, it is understood. Manager Clune has already been in communication with a number of teams regarding games.

Others who made brief talks were Director Lewis Lloyd, F. Taylor, chairman of the Recreation Committee and Thomas W. Stowe, Herald sports editor. They, too, dealt with basketball possibilities for next season and other points of interest. Mr. Taylor explained the Rec committee's attitude on professionalism.

The basketball talks followed a light lunch consisting of ham sandwiches, coffee, pie and ice cream served by Caterer Samuel J. Houston. McKays, a Severus, played music and a professional entertainer, Gillette by name, from Hartford amused the gathering immensely with his musical contributions and wise-cracks.

Bowers was in good form and with Big Thieson his catcher, he had a man behind the bat that he knew and who knew Bowers. Bowers gave the signals and also placed his men before each ball was pitched, but even with this possible delay in the game was played in record time for games in those days, taking but one hour and forty minutes.

The Winsted team came to town with a goodly number of backers and even the deputy sheriff of the town, the chief arm of the law in those days, was among those who had deposited money in a pool to be used to bet on Manchester.

Herman Cheney was the umpire and he worked in the game alone. There was a dispute and the Winsted team left the field on one occasion, started for home, changed its mind and came back and finished the game.

Manchester got away to a three run lead in the first inning. Behmfield led off with a hit, Joe Sullivan struck out, and Thieson walked them out and walked Thieson came through with a hit, Behmfield scored, Bowers went to third. Thieson stole second and Bowers and he scored on DeMill's hit. Spillane flew out to third and Doyle ended the inning by hitting to third and being thrown out at first.

In the second only four Manchester men went to bat, but in the third another run was added. Bowers was safe on an error. Thieson sacrificed him to second and DeMill singled again scoring Bowers. DeMill going to second on the play, but was out trying to steal third. Spillane ended the inning by flying out to right. The fourth and fifth innings were blank for both teams, a fifth run was added in the sixth and two in the seventh. In the ninth the locals made six hits, drew a base on balls, an error and a sacrifice to allow six runs.

Bowers only scored four hits, retiring the side in the first, second, third, fourth and ninth only three men faced him and in no time were the locals in danger.

It was a sweet victory for the locals and wiped out the deficit of 22 to 0, but it also cost the locals money to win the game. The importing of players cost additional money. The local playing on a season split, but for that game they had to pay a real good guarantee to Winsted, pay two out of town players and give Flagg Doyle his supper and his car fare. Even the additional revenue from the sale of seats the game cost the club $68 to win, but all the players, even to today, that played in that game and they will tell you "it was worth it."

NEW ORGANIZATION FOR CHURCH WOMEN

Congregationalists Form Union of Various Branches—The New Officers.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 2.—Women of the Congregational churches in Connecticut today gathered here to form a union that combines organizations that had been in existence since the early seventies. The new organization is called the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut. The splintered organizations are the Hartford, New Haven and Eastern Connecticut branches of the Women's Board of Missions, and the Women's Home Mission Union of Connecticut.

More than five hundred women gathered at the First Congregational church for the occasion. Officers were elected with Miss Amy Welcher, of Hartford, as the first president, and committees were appointed.

Officers elected are: President—Miss Amy O. Welcher, Hartford.

Vice-Presidents at Large—Mrs. Frederick G. Platt, New Britain; Mrs. George Dahl, New Haven; Mrs. Allen B. Latham, Norwich; Miss Helen E. Brown, Hartford.

District Vice-Presidents—Mrs. James F. English, Putnam, Eastern District; Mrs. E. C. Lane, Hartford, Hartford District; Mrs. Newton D. Hobart, Watertown, Litchfield District; Dr. Louise W. Farnam, New Haven, New Haven District.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. E. A. Giddings, West Hartford.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. H. W. B. Manson, New Haven.

Treasurer—Miss Edna Wheeler, Mystic.

Committee Chairmen—Mrs. Walter C. Wood, New Canaan, prayer committee; Mrs. Clayton D. Booth, program and speakers; Mrs. William Warnock, Woodbridge, service units; Mrs. B. S. Winchester, Darien, religious education; Miss Elizabeth Pullen, Norwich, young people's work; Miss Florence Mills, Windsor, children's work; Mrs. Elbert B. Coe, Waterbury, social relations; Miss Edith Woolsey, New Haven, projects; Mrs. J. Fulton Ferguson, New Haven, finance; Mrs. Ralph O. Wells, Hartford, nominations.

TO LAY DOWN MARKERS TO STOP CORNER CUTS

At Philadelphia—Tommy Loughran, world's light-heavyweight champion, won decision over Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., heavyweight, 10.

At Boston—Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, outpointed Pete Pacheco, Indian boxer, 10.

At New York—Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, won decision over Johnny Erickson, New York, 10.

Now New York has a "mother hand." That should be a warning to all of us—where does grandma go these evenings?

As a preventative of accidents that have become numerous at the intersections of streets that enter Main street from the East the police department is to have new street markers laid out.

These markers will start in the center of the road and will extend from a point about fifty feet east on Bissell, Birch, Oak and Maple streets and then go on a straight line out into the Center of Main street, showing where the turps should be made.

When these marks are placed on the street it is expected that it will prevent cutting in on corners.

Do You Recognize A Bargain

Brand new 5 room bungalow complete with steam heat. A cosy home for $5,000.

A real good looking 12 room double on Wadsworth street. All improvements? Certainly. And a good large lot. It is not often we offer a place like this.

Seven room single on Henry street. Fireplace and other paraphernalia that the boss of the house demands in these modern times. Price? Yes, only $3,000.

Hollister Street. Yes. Sure we have them on every street. $7,800 for a well built single. Garage, fireplace, walk and curbing. School close by.

An American Colonial—6 rooms, steam heat, oak trim and floors. All nice white plumbing, 2 car garage, $500 or more cash. Yours for $6,700. Stop paying rent and do something worth while for dear wife and junior and sister.

One for sale list is always complete, and believe it or not we are optimistic enough to say our business is good and increasing. Call in and see us to talk over your real estate and insurance problems. At the same old stand 1009 Main, over Post Office.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Carl Manasso of Bolton and George Hibbert of 39 Deming street were the only two patients reported admitted to the Memorial hospital today. Mrs. Frank Hurlock of 815 Main street was discharged. The condition of Alma Birch of East Middle Turnpike, automobile accident victim, was slightly improved this morning.

One of the big college football teams is to travel 10,000 miles this year. A football player has to get an education some way.

ALUMNI SCHOLARS

Midtown, Conn., Oct. 2.—Eleven members of Wesleyan University's class of 1932 were today named alumnus scholars from the several districts that have been assigned scholarships. In the list are George Bert, of Hartford, and Frederick B. Bosworth, Jr., of Bridgeport. Twenty-three students in the classes of 1929, '30, and '31 already hold scholarships, the only Connecticut student in the group being Russell J. Hinckley, of Bridgeport.

The reasons why young men must join fraternities when they go to college are all Greek to some fathers.

WATER GOLF

GOLF ON THE GRIDIRON
Some of the best football stars find it hard to DROP KICK, but water golf stars should have no trouble at all.

Drop puzzle grid with letters D, R, O, P and K, C, K.

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

SENSE and NONSENSE

We tuned in the other night and heard this one. "Brother Jones," said the deacon, "can't you all donate some small contribution to be fund for fencing in the culud cemetery?"

A man in New Jersey sent Tex Rickard seven dollars, the price of a seat at the recent prize fight because he had received the results of the fight on his front porch over the radio.

Aha! A local man has solved the mystery that agitated the nation so long. Listen to this, Watson: "Congratulate us, congratulate us. Like a flash, it has dawned on us. It was Hickman who kidnapped Aimee McPherson."

There is a Tide in the Affairs of Men From the Bloomington (Ind.) Star: Jim Silvers has been taking New Life Restorer pills, and has written a testimony to the company. They wrote back and asked for his picture to print and now Jim is so all-fired swelled up over it that he says he will run for Justice of the Peace.

The Way We Like Our Alms It's funny how the ladies all are trying to get thin, Chancing heaven, daring hades To become just bones and skin. While the men each would be pleasing Unless he's a spineless chump, When a chance occurs for squeezing Would prefer them rather plump.

Sam—When're you going to pay that $8 for pasturing your heifer? I've had her now for about 10 weeks. Hiram—Why, Sam, the critter ain't worth more'n $10. Sam—Well, sposin' I keep her for what you owe me? Hiram—Not by a jugful. Tell you what I'll do. You keep her two weeks more an' you can have her.

Revised Scripture: Parents obey your children in the Lord and be devilish quick about it. Hickville Tourist: About what is the population of this place? Native: About the post office.

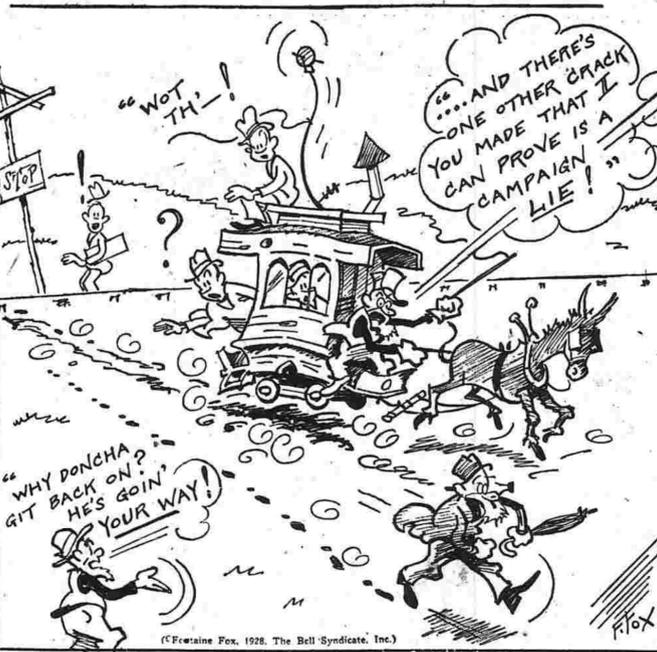

Education is a fine thing but it will not make a smart man out of a fool. He will only be an educated fool at best. Another old fact about girls, if such slight experience as we have had is any criterion, is that they were more ticklish when heavily boned about the waist and arguable territory than they are now when their ribs are easily accessible. When you lose your head, hold your tongue.

REPUBLICAN TOWN COMMITTEE

ABOUT TOWN

Manchester Camp No. 2640, Royal Neighbors, will hold its regular meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the Odd Fellows lodge hall. A good turnout of the members is hoped for as several important matters of business will be acted upon.

Thirteen tables were filled at the Rebekah whist held last night at Odd Fellows hall. Ladies' first prize was awarded Mrs. Kelsh, the second to Mrs. Wisley and the consolation prize to Miss Gibson. Men's first prize went to Mr. Young, the second to Mr. Matchett, consolation to Mr. Wright. Doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Crocker of Russell street and daughter Alice are visiting relatives in LeRoy, N. Y.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Mary's Episcopal church will have its first get-together of the fall Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A large attendance is desired as plans will be made for the year's work. Tea and a period of sociability will follow.

Mrs. Ruth McLagan Gordon is substituting at the Home Bank and Trust Co. during the absence of Miss Helen Berggren.

Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

ARRANGING TIME.

About the time for cooking those stews, soups and other boiled gadgets which cut so much of a figure in the family menu at this time of the year. Even if you don't decide on them till the night before, the timing can be arranged. Of course they take a long while in the cooking. But if you will phone Pinehurst quite early in the morning, ordering the cut of meat, the vegetables and whatever (you can call us as early as 8:30, you know), the materials will go out to you at 8 o'clock and you'll have all the time in the world for the cooking, even if you have a midday dinner.

An interesting point in this business just now is the arrival of new-crop canned foods. Just as the fresh ones from the garden go out, in come the tinned products. We have new peas of this season's growing, white corn, wax beans, strawberries and raspberries, already. Pinehurst quality brands, of course.

IN MEATS: Calling special attention today to Pinehurst Hamburg at 30 cents a pound. To fine quality bacon, sliced and with the rind off, 43 cents. And again to those extremely nice Lamb Chops, either rib or loin. Here, while we're about it, we'll make a Special Offer on the Rib Chops at 49 cents.

C. H. Schell of Coventry has brought in some dandy white Cauliflowers. We have a lot more of Peterson's Spinach—never any finer grown. And new turnips, also locally grown, are in.

Don't forget the early delivery calls. Phone 1000.

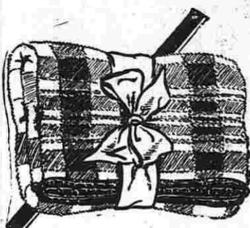

A fresh shipment of Cape Cod Cookies, 4 dozen to a box, 25 cents a box, 2 boxes 49 cents. Little Crow Buckwheat or Pancake Flour. Pillsbury Buckwheat and Pancake Flour. New fall shipment just in.

Keeney White Eggs 55 cents a dozen. Local Strictly Fresh Pullet Eggs 49 cents a dozen. Peaches, Yellow Elberta, $1.50 a basket. Ken-L-Ration for Dogs, 6 cans 90 cents.

ABOUT TOWN

A number from this town are planning to attend the meetings of the New England branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church in Hartford tomorrow and Thursday. Sessions will be held in the Methodist church on Farmington avenue, at 2 and 7:30 p. m. Thursday afternoon there will be brief addresses by returned missionaries. Bishop Anderson will speak in the evening. Special music in charge of Professor Prutting will add to the interest.

Mystic Review, Woman's Benefit association will meet in Odd Fellows banquet hall tonight at 7:15 for its regular business meeting. The time is placed early to permit beginning a public whist at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Nora Curtis heads the committee. Six prizes will be awarded and refreshments served.

The Past Matrons association of Temple Court, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its first meeting of the fall Thursday evening with Mrs. James M. Sheldon of 5 Oak place.

William Rubnow of Rubnow's Apparel Shop is in New York on a business trip.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Boyd of Porter street have returned from a motor trip to Cape Cod and other places in Southern New England.

The Memorial Hospital Linen auxiliary will hold its fall rummage sale on October 10 and 11, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The exact place has not been decided upon but will no doubt be a Main street store. Friends who have donations of clothing or other articles, may have them called for by notifying Mrs. James M. Shearer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bryan of New Britain spent the week-end visiting Mrs. Della Wood of 437 Center street.

The bowling alleys at the West Side Rec have been remodeled and are now ready for what promises to be a busy season. They have been planned, sanded and revarnished and are in fine condition. Any local church wishing to find a place to roll its weekly matches is welcome to use the Rec.

Twenty of the ladies of the Army and Navy club auxiliary held an enjoyable outing Saturday at Harry McCormick's cottage at Coventry lake. They arrived at their destination at two o'clock and spent the remainder of the afternoon hiking, with a dog roast in the open, and in playing various games. At six o'clock the committee served an appetizing supper of baked ham, baked beans, salads, rolls, cake and coffee. Dancing occupied the time until the start for home at 9 o'clock.

The Girl Scout Officers' Association will enjoy a dinner and business meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Frederick Snow, 140 Benton street.

Miss Frances McPherson of Center street gave a shower at her home last evening in honor of Miss Florence Vennard of Benton street who is to be married on October 27 to Erman Walsh of Hartford road. About 20 of Miss Vennard's friends were present and they spent a jolly time playing games and staging a mock wedding. A dainty lunch was served, the dining room being tastefully decorated for the occasion with pink and white crepe paper streamers and flowers in the same colors. Miss Vennard was showered with a choice collection of gifts.

Lady Roberts Lodge, Daughters of St. George will meet tomorrow evening in Tinker hall at 8 o'clock sharp. Plans for Armistice day participation will be discussed and full attendance is hoped for. The business will be followed by a social hour with refreshments. The attendance prize will be donated by Mrs. Kate Robinson.
