head blown off by a shotgun. State police are working on the theory that the woman was stabbed to death elsewhere and that the man drove her body to the spot where it was found and then killed himself. An investigation is under way here and in Danbury and Bridgeport.

Bodies Discovered. A farmer discovered the bodies of the woman's body was protruding through a window of a Ford sedan. He notified that state police and Lieutenant John Kelly, of the local barracks, took charge of the case.

Woman Identified. The woman was identified late this morning as Margaret Moffitt, 36, of Wilton, for three years a maid in the family of Miss Alice Smith and Mrs. George Martin, sisters, living in Wilton. State police also learned that the woman left the Smith-Martin home with Bowater last evening. The couple had been going to the city for a week.

The state police also learned that Bowater purchased the car in which the bodies were found at New Haven on Tuesday of this week. The salesman was located and interviewed within a fairly short time of the discovery of the tragedy.

Bowater, according to the investigation had $5,000 on deposit in three banks. The City National bank of Danbury held $2,000 for him, and two Bridgeport banks each held $2,000.

Dr. R. W. Lowe, local medical examiner, went to work on the case at the request of the state police within a short time after the bodies were found. He discovered the woman had been stabbed in the neck and in the breast. A knife had penetrated her breast three times, once directly in the heart.

The man had been shot with both barrels of a double-barreled shotgun. The force of the gun had blown a portion of his head into the road beside the car.

As the investigation proceeded the state police announced they believed that the couple had died as the result of a suicide pact. A note was found in Bowater's clothes and is being held for the coroner along with other exhibits in the case. This note, it was said unofficially, indicated that the couple had agreed to die together. Bowater wrote the note, it was said.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM STATE OF ILLINOIS

Mexico, Montana and Wisconsin to the west and that they have 50-50 changes in other states in which Gov. Smith has spoken, to wit: Nebraska, Colorado, North Dakota, and Minnesota. One of the more optimistic of the Smith managers here is George N. Peek, who retired as a oil manufacturer in Mulline, Ill., to drive the McNary-Haugen bill through Congress and then bolted the Republican Party to put Gov. Smith in the White House. He is the chairman of the Smith-for-President independent organizations committee, which is endeavoring to capture the farmer vote in the disaffected middle west for the "Happy Warrior". This organization has been amply supplied with funds by the Democratic national committee and Peek believes the work has been so effective that he adds Oklahoma, Indiana, and South Dakota, to the other list. Peek's claims have drawn derisive laughter from Good.

Have Difficulties. However, Good does concede that the Republicans have their difficulties in New Mexico, Wisconsin, Tennessee, North Dakota, Missouri and Kentucky—the order in which the states are listed including the degree of difficulties envisioned by Good. But he is confident that these states will be swung safely into line before election day rolls around.

So confident is Good about the situation in Montana that he also predicts that Senator Burton K. Wheeler will have a close shave in his race with former Senator and former Governor Joseph M. Dixon, if, indeed, Wheeler is not left at home. Wheeler, however, regards himself as already re-elected and has gone out to campaign for some of his Progressive colleagues in other states.

Gov. Smith was to have a respite from these political predictions today which is more or less officially predicted in Chicago. At noon he will lead his personal party in a parade through the crowded Loop section out to Evanston on the north and then double back through the city and pass through the "Black Belt" on the south side, down to the University of Chicago and wind up at his hotel.

Today's Parade. The route of the parade is at least thirty miles long and it will require about three hours for him to cover it. It is estimated that half a million people will have the opportunity to get a glimpse of the famous burly derby and the famous Smith smile.

The parade is just the beginning of a busy day for the governor. Tonight he speaks in the 101st Regiment armory—the last speech he will make in the west before election. The hall holds less than 10,000 and it is reported that at least 200,000 people will strive for those with other exhibits in the case. His reserved tickets have been issued, and there is expected to be a mad scramble.

Although the governor has prepared his speech, he is keeping the subject to himself. It was indicated, however, that he will yield to the pleas of the Chicago leaders and throw off the restraint which has characterized most of his speeches and cut loose with a real rousing speech.

DEMOCRAT RALLY A KNOCKING BEE

Mr. Morris, Dr. Dolan, Mrs. Cornell and Mr. Carmody All Are Critics.

Charles G. Morris, candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket, last night told an audience in Tinker hall, in a Democratic rally, that proper care was not given to the ill and insane of Connecticut although, he said, the expenses of the state had increased 400 per cent in the past fourteen years. Appropriations were not made by the Legislature, he said, but by department heads.

The appropriations were being overdrawn in large amounts in nearly all departments, he asserted, pointing to the condition of the highway department which has already been called upon to close down a lot of their work and to drop from their payroll nearly 100 employees because there was no more money left to pay the salaries, not to say about carrying on the needed work of road maintenance and new roads building.

Dr. E. G. Dolan, of this place, state central committee man for the Fourth District, took occasion to refer to posters that have been placed in the silk mills and the letter written by Horace B. Cheney on tariff and his refusal to further discuss it.

No Prosperity

Mrs. Edna Cornell of Manchester, N. H., a former W. C. T. U. worker, said that prohibition had not worked out and she was sorry for the time that she had given to the work with the results obtained. She also said that there had been no prosperity in her section of New England with textile factories closed or working on shorter hours and reduced pay.

Senator Joseph M. Tane, who was secured as a last minute speaker, referred to the record that Governor Alfred E. Smith had made in bringing about changes for the better in the canning and bottling plants in New York state and said Smith was a man who had a wide vision, a wonderful knowledge of small details and could be depended upon to take care of the small matters as well as the large ones of the government.

Raymond L. Carmody, president of the Smith-Robinson club, took occasion to denounce the attitude taken by Cheney Brothers, which he said was political oppression.

ZEPPELIN CREW CALLS ON HOOVER AT CAPITAL

words, they promise a great broadening of human contact. "I sincerely hope that I shall be in Washington when you and your brave crew are here, and that I shall have the pleasure of meeting you all."

Call on Candidate. In response to this invitation, the Zeppelin crew called on Hoover to receive his congratulations in person.

Among those in the party were Hugo Eckener, the commander, Albert Grzesinsky, Prussian minister of the interior; Count Brandenstein Zeppelin, son-in-law of the late Count Zeppelin; Captain Ernest Lehmann, first officer; Dr. Rudolph Benkendorf, chief of the aeronautics division of the German republic; and Knute Eckener, son of the commander.

Hoover planned to devote a part of the day to putting the finishing touches on his New York address, which will deal with the relationship between government and business. Due to the statements of his Democratic rival, Gov. Alfred E. Smith, about Republican finances and Republican claims to economy, Hoover will cite some financial statistics upholding the Republican claims.

His Western Trip. The Hoover board of strategy meanwhile was planning the itinerary of his western trip. At the expense of Missouri leaders, Hoover probably will make a prepared speech in St. Louis, that city being favored over Chicago. If he nominates undoubtedly will be Mississippi food connoisseur, inland waterways, the St. Lawrence waterway project and related subjects.

Hoover likewise will stop at Indianapolis to make a personal appearance on the swing west and undoubtedly will visit Chicago too, whether or not he speaks there. Some of his advisers also have insisted upon a visit to St. Paul and Minneapolis and another group have urged him to visit Milwaukee. Whether his itinerary is decided upon in the middle west Hoover undoubtedly will visit Denver on the last Saturday night of the campaign and probably will close the campaign with a radio address either from Los Angeles or his home in Palo Alto, Calif.

The extent of his itinerary will depend entirely on political conditions as the campaign enters its final week. If a landslide Republican victory looks absurd, the nominee will gain his own way for a homeward trip but a single speech. If his advisers decide the middle west needs encouragement, his advisers probably will win him over to their plan for a number of speeches.

BUTTER AND EGG MONEY.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?" "I'm going a-gold-digging, sir," she said. "Then I can't wed you, my pretty maid." "That'll cost you $50,000, sir," she said.—Judge.

PRESIDENT EXTOLS NATION'S PROSPERITY

that under free institutions and equality of opportunity the distribution of wealth is solving itself in accordance with natural laws, he said.

Growth of the South. Dealing with the growth of the south since the Civil War, the President found much of which to boast.

In the southern states alone the wealth, the manufactured, the mineral, and the farm products, the banking resources, and the exports are of about the same value today that they were in the whole United States in 1900," he pointed out. "The yearly production of farms, the mines, and the mills exceeds $19,000,000,000, while construction contracts run about $1,000,000,000."

Inland waterways likewise were touched upon. "Our national expenditures and authorization for inland waterways have run into hundreds of millions of dollars," he declared. "Some of this in the Mississippi valley has already been demonstrated to be commercially profitable. The water-borne traffic on the great Lakes has reached the enormous total of 116,000,000 tons in a single season. Plans are being made for a canal waterway from the Great Lakes to the sea."

President Coolidge came to Frederickburg by special train this afternoon from Washington, and planned to return this evening.

PROBE IN PHILLY BOOSTS THE PRICE

viously retailed for two dollars now costs three.

Plead for Delivery. While the International News Service correspondent was chatting with his bootlegger guide, a personal enemy of the latter telephoned and pleaded for delivery. The market price plus the hazard of the rum investigation plus the delivery price was a "spite" commission was quoted. The personal enemy accepted gratefully. The cleaning up of the liquor industry in Philadelphia is being effected through the markets in many large cities of the country, it was predicted. An estimate was offered that Chicago received fifty per cent of its raw alcohol, Cleveland seventy-five and New York ninety per cent from Philadelphia.

A Police Scandal.

The bootlegging element here feels that the present investigation with its revelations of exactions is entirely a police scandal. A number of saloon keepers are reported to have turned the tables on their extortionists by demanding "protection money" for keeping silent as to what Paulson took from Peter.

The reform movement, at least in one case, struck home. The titan-haired beauty mentioned prominently in the early days of the rum explosion, is now leading a quiet and simple life. This kid came from the west several years ago. The night life caught her in its whirl. Then came the pop-off.

But now she only goes to the movies.

"I want to be a nice girl from now on," she said. "Please don't mention my name."

As the trials and Grand Jury hearings continue each member of the Philadelphia police force is on the alert for a half day as a carrier. The average number of possible stops for the regular carriers is 293 and the half day carrier has a possible 173 stops. There are 400 boxes in the office and 365 are rented.

cally. They are Piny Jewell, 51, former president of the Investment Bankers' Association and a member of the firm of Coffin & Burr, Boston, Mass., whose skull was fractured; and Thomas W. Dysart, 48, of the firm of Knight Dysart & Gamble, St. Louis. Dysart was a member of the syndicate that backed Col. Charles Lindbergh's flight to Paris. He sustained a broken left wrist, a fractured rib and internal injuries.

Hope was held for Dysart's recovery, but physicians feared that Jewell was dying.

Other passengers injured were Harry L. Duer, 35, of W. W. Lahan & Co., Baltimore; Alden H. Little, 35, of Chicago, executive secretary of the Investment Bankers' Association; Ferdinand Eble, 35, of Atlantic City, former University of Pennsylvania athlete, and Ralph Somers, 19, of Atlantic City. Little suffered cuts and bruises which were not serious.

The plane plunged down through the main trunk lines of Atlantic City's telephone and telegraph wires, crippling the city's wire communication. The wires and the mud of the marshes broke the force of the plane's fall somewhat, probably saved the passengers from instant death.

Witnesses of the accident included the wives of four of the bankers and B. F. Mahoney, of San Diego, Calif.

BUSINESS GROWS AT NORTH END. P. O.

Receipts Expected to Pass $30,000—Nursery, Bon Ami Shipments Aid Total.

The receipts for the Manchester postoffice for the year 1928 will exceed $30,000, the highest in its history of the office which has been known at different times by three different names.

The early records of postoffices in Manchester show that what is now known as the Manchester postoffice was the second office established in town and was located in Oakland, that being on the old stage or turnpike line and was known as the Oakland Postoffice. In 1849, the earliest date for which figures are available concerning any postoffice in Manchester, the receipts for the year were $76 and the "salary" of the postoffice was $31 a year.

In the same year the Manchester Green Office, the first office established, did $466 worth of business when the postmaster was paid $158. Buckland also had a postoffice in those days known as the Buckland Corners office and its business for the same year was $104 and the government paid the postmaster $44 a year.

With the coming of the union mail to the center of the north end district the postoffice was moved from Oakland to Union village and thence to Depot Square.

Ernest P. Brown, the present postmaster, took office in 1920 with the receipts of the office were $16,805.89. The office has continued to show an increase each year until this year the receipts will go over $30,000, or nearly twice that of five years ago.

Last year the receipts of the office were $24,229 below the $27,000 necessary to have brought about an increase in the salary of the postmaster, but now there is every indication that the $30,000 mark will be reached.

The increase in the business, Mr. Brown stated is due largely to big shipments made by the Burr Nursery Company, just at present there are about 4,000 packages of nursery stock a week going out of the office. The Bon Ami Company is also sending samples to the number of 5,000, to high schools and schools of domestic science. These are followed later in the winter, or the shipment of larger packages by the Bon Am. Company.

The receipts of the office for the past three-quarters of this year, as compared with those of a year ago, show that they are already $1,000 ahead, and so far this month the receipts are $1,500 more than they were for the whole month of October in 1927.

Comparative Figures

The figures for this year as compared with those of last year are as follows: Jan. to April 1928 1927 $5,371.11 $ 6,325.46 Apr. to July 11,652.18 8,833.37 July to Oct. 4,348.68 5,045.83 $21,371.97 $20,207.6

In the last quarter of 1927 the receipts were $6,546.05. The office now has 100 carriers and one who works a half day as a carrier. The average number of possible stops for the regular carriers is 293 and the half day carrier has a possible 173 stops. There are 400 boxes in the office and 365 are rented.

CHENEY GIRLS A. A. PLANS BIG SOCIAL

Miss Bodreau's Poem of Invitation Is Novel Feature; Prizes for Costumes.

Extensive plans have been made by Cheney Brothers' Girls' Athletic Association for their annual Halloween social to be held at Cheney Hall on Friday evening, October 24, a week from tonight. It will begin at 7:30.

The grand march will start promptly at 8:30. Everyone must be masked until after the grand march. Prizes will be given for the prettiest, funniest and most original costumes.

THE EXECUTIONER, HOGBOOM, PLACED A LONG BLACK CAP-LIKE HOOD OVER HICKMAN'S HEAD. IT FELT ALMOST TO HIS SHOULDERS.

The hangman then pulled down the 5/8-inch rope which had been placed in a position on the scaffold so it would not be seen by the prisoner as he walked up to the platform.

Hogboom then placed the rope about Hickman's neck, the heavy knot directly beneath the youth's right ear, the purpose of this being to render him unconscious if the fall of some five feet and more did not instantly break his neck.

The executioner and Charles Alston and Fred Hogboom, a brother of the executioner, worked in absolute harmony, their movements being clock-like in precision. One guard adjusted a strap around Hickman's feet. His hands already had been strapped at his sides, giving him a stiff and gawky appearance.

The other guard dropped the black cap over Hickman's head and shoulders and worked quickly to do than the others. He glanced quickly at them as they looked toward him. An unspoken signal told him the last moment had come.

He raised his right hand, it was the signal for the three men in the little box-like room on one side of the gallows. Hardly had he raised his hand when these men must have slashed at the three small cotton cords, one of which connected with a heavy iron ball which in turn released the trap through which Hickman's body shot to death.

Detective Faints. The moment the trap was sprung one person fainted and fell to the floor. Later another man fainted. Detective Dick Lucas of Los Angeles.

The two prison doctors, Dr. Blecker and Robinson, waiting inside the roped square at the foot of the gibbet stepped forward as Hickman's body dangled momentarily and began to curb the motion of the rope.

Dr. Blecker put out his right hand and stopped the movement of the dead man. He then mounted a small ladder, unbuttoned Hickman's black blouse and held a stethoscope on his heart.

Standing near Hickman's dangling feet Dr. Robinson reached up and grasped the slayer's left wrist. Hickman had clutched the hem of his coat with his right hand as he dropped and the fingers of his left hand were clenched tightly.

His neck, reddened by the vice-like grip of the noose soon whitened until it took on the shell like color of flesh.

The knot had been drawn tightly under his right ear and it was seen that his head was tilted slightly.

40 Years Of Electricity In Street Lighting Here

The formation of the Manchester Electric Light Company with the election of a new board of officers recalls that it was in 1888 forty years ago, that electric lights were installed for the first time on the streets of Manchester. The power for these lights was furnished through the Mather Electric Company and the first street lights seventy-five in number, were located along the principal streets at the north end.

Up to that time, what street lights there were outside of gas lights along Hartford road in the south end, were of the gasoline variety. The success of the electric lights at the North End, which were increased by twenty-five in 1889, impelled to the Village Improvement Society at the south end to seek a charter for the south end.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Edward G. Dolan of Cambridge street will entertain the Smith-Robinson club at bridge and whist at her home this evening.

The first regular supper and meeting of the Men's club of Second Congregational church will take place this evening at 6:30. George F. Borst who heads the committee of arrangements has secured as speakers, George E. Rix, secretary of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, and William H. Cowles, the well known fruit grower at Manchester Green.

Miss Edna Howard and Miss Harriet Richmond students at the Willmantic Normal School will spend the week-end at Wesleyan University and attend two of the fraternity dances as guests of local boys attending that college.

A cottage prayer meeting under auspices of the Church of the Nazarene will be held this evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. John Larsen in Coventry. This will take the place of the regular Friday evening class meeting at the church.

Mrs. Charles Fish of North Elm street entertained the Young Women's Club at her home at her home yesterday afternoon. The party took the form of a musicale and was in honor of the retiring president, Mrs. Edward A. Smith, who received a shower of flowers from the individual members and a handsome bouquet from the club. The hostess served refreshments and a pleasant social afternoon was spent. Mrs. Fish was formerly Miss Doris Post of Hebron.

Archibald McCollum, who has just passed his 82nd birthday, was tendered a party by a group of about thirty friends at his home at 143 Florence street. Mr. McCollum was given a purse of gold in addition to tobacco and cigars.

Royal D. Webster, former resident of this town, has just been promoted to manager of the Southbridge, Massachusetts General Electric Company. It became known here today. Mr. Webster was formerly sales-manager of the Manchester Electric Light Company here. Mr. Webster and his family removed to Webster, Mass., where he was employed as sales-manager of the Southbridge and Webster General Electric Company. He still retains that position, but is now also manager of the Southbridge branch. Mr. Webster has a wide circle of friends in Manchester.

The men's apparatus class at the School Street Rec which meets from 7 until 8 Thursday evenings, now is scheduled for an additional weekly session from 2 to 3 on Saturday afternoons, starting tomorrow. The present members of the class are George Stavitsky, Harold Madden, Robert Sturgeon, William Brennan, L. G. Filliere, Albert Dowd, James Reardon, Bernard Sheridan, Jack Stratton, William Roscoe, Richard Kingman, Pasty Vince and William McBride.

A large snapping turtle parading down South Main street yesterday afternoon attracted a lot of attention and forced traffic to give it the right of way. Two men finally spotted the turtle as it proceeded intelligently along its way, and stopped it over on its back. Then one of them picked it up by the tail and started off towards the Globe Mill ponds.

Mrs. H. E. Weber, wife of Rev. H. E. Weber of the German Congregational Church on Winter street, this morning telegraphed her husband of her safe arrival in Indianapolis, where she had gone to attend a reunion of her mother's relatives. Mrs. Weber was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. John Sault of Jersey City. The telegram states that before leaving New York they witnessed the arrival of the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin.

Charles H. Holman of 31 Summit street is a member of the National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association, and is to attend its fifth annual meeting being held in Chicago from October 22 to 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Sargent of 160 Bissell street returned last night from Long Island City, where they were called by the death of Mrs. Emily Hunter of that city, a former resident of Manchester. Mrs. Hunter is survived by her husband, two sons and two brothers. Mr. Hunter accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Sargent on their return to Manchester and will remain here a few days.

The Concordia Lutheran church on Nov. 7, 8 and 9 will conduct a bazaar in the Sunday school room for the purpose of raising funds to pay off some past debts incurred by the church. Jacob Winzler has been appointed chairman of the committee and already arrangements have been completed whereby these societies will run booths: Ladies Aid society, Sewing Circle, Young People's society, the Sunday school teachers and the Willing Workers society. In addition to the regular church bazaar attractions, Rev. H. O. Weber pastor of the church stated today that some type of special entertainment would be offered each night.

Dr. A. E. Friend returned to town yesterday after an absence of ten days during which he attended the session of the College of Surgeons last week at Boston, after making a trip to New York City where he saw the landing of the Graf Zeppelin.

Those who failed to make their returns of tickets for the travelogue on Jerusalem, to be given at High school hall tonight, at the Swedish Lutheran church yesterday afternoon to the ticket committee should be at the hall at 5 o'clock tonight, if possible, with tickets or money. Stephen A. Haboush from Gallea, is presenting this program tonight at 8 o'clock at High School hall under the auspices of the Sunday school of the Swedish Lutheran church.

CENTER CHURCH GREETED TOWN SCHOOL TEACHERS

Annual Reception Held Last Night; Federation in Charge of Affair.

Center church folks entertained Manchester's public school teachers last evening with a harvest supper and informal reception. This is a custom established several years ago by this church. This year the arrangements were in charge of the newly organized Women's Federation. It was their first social undertaking of a public nature and was pronounced a complete success by all who attended. The chapel and parlors were beautifully decorated by the committee of the federation whose duty lies in that direction. Quantities of autumn leaves, garden and field flowers and cornstalks were used; with yellow candles to illuminate the tables.

In the receiving line were the pastor of the church and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Watson Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Verplanck, Clerk of the Church, C. E. House, and Mr. and Mrs. Ebert Shelton. Mr. Shelton representing the deacons, Rev. Mr. Woodruff extended the church's welcome to the teachers. Others who spoke were Superintendent of Schools, E. A. Verplanck, C. P. Quiby, principal of the High school, and Mrs. J. A. Hood, representing the Women's Federation. Instrumental music was provided by The Troubadours under the direction of Walter Joyner. Miss Mildred Sutherland gave readings and there were songs by the church quartet. Fully 150 teachers from schools in different parts of the town accepted the invitation. The Washington school had a 100 per cent attendance from the principal to the kindergarten department. The Hollister street school also had 100 per cent attendance. The supper consisted of baked ham, baked beans, potato salad, rolls, coffee, apple pie and cheese. Arrangements were in charge of the home service committee, of which Miss Mary Hutchinson is chairman, and the social committee, Mrs. James A. Irvine, chairman. Mrs. C. W. Holman is president of the new federation of the women's organizations of Center Church.

CURTIS RAPS SMITH IN JERSEY CAMPAIGN

Camden, N. J., Oct. 19.—Senator Charles Curtis, running-mate of Herbert Hoover on the Republican presidential ticket, today had opened his campaign in New Jersey with an attack on Gov. Alfred E. Smith. Speaking to 10,000 persons last night at Camden, he will here, Curtis denounced Smith's campaign tactics. "The gentleman who thinks he is running for president on the Democratic ticket," said Curtis, "changes his position so often in his campaign talks, which he is making throughout the country, that I have worn out my shoes trying to keep up with him. But no matter what he says, or where he goes, he'll never be president of the United States."

Rockville

Minneceul Exonerated Deputy Coroner Michael O'Connell of Stafford Springs made public his findings late Thursday afternoon pertaining to the Minneceul case. Fred Minneceul was not negligent in the death of Frank Arton who was fatally injured October 1. Deputy Coroner O'Connell in his findings states "I find that said Fred Minneceul was not operating his car at an excessive rate of speed and had it under proper control when Arton was struck and I further find that said death was not caused by the criminal act, omission or negligence of Fred Minneceul or any person or persons."

Field Day at Bernant's The field day which was held at the Bernant farm in Ellington Wednesday was attended by about 100 visitors and growers from every New England state. In the morning there was a machinery exhibit of every description being demonstrated. Luncheon was served at noon. It was estimated that the potato fields at the Bernant farm showed a production of 300 bushels to the acre. The day proved a success from every standpoint.

Radville Taken to Wethersfield Joseph Radville, driver of the truck which overturned on the Rockville-Talbotville road, resulting in the death of three boys, started his sentence Thursday at the state prison in Wethersfield. His sentence is from one to five years. Mr. Radville seemed resigned to his fate as he surrendered to Sheriff Vinton.

Big Dance Tonight The second of the series of dances at the Princess will be held this evening with Benny Conn and His Bellhops of Worcester, Mass., furnishing the music. Several of the best amateur dancers in the state will attend the dance tonight and participate in the prize box trot.

Reception for Pastor Rev. A. E. Hendricks, pastor of the First Baptist church, was given a reception Wednesday evening. About 100 attended including visitors from different churches. In town, Rev. J. C. Jackson and Rev. W. C. Bittman of Hartford were present and spoke. Rev. Hendricks was born in South America, and came from Willimantic to Rockville where he has been pastor for about two months. He is an accomplished musician and is highly endorsed by the State Baptist Association.

Plan Halloween Dance The senior class of the Rockville High school have perfected plans for the annual Halloween dance that is to be held in the Sykes auditorium on Friday evening, Oct. 26, with Max Kabrick and his orchestra providing the music. The proceeds of the dance will be added to the Washington trip fund.

Miss Friedrich Entertained Miss Dora Friedrich of Harlow street was the guest of honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter of Clifford street, Hartford, Wednesday evening. The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion. Various games were played during the evening and a dainty luncheon served by the hostess. Miss Friedrich will be married in the near future to Ernest Shirley of Hartford. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Friedrich and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Friedrich, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bertache and George Cichowski, all of Rockville; Mr. and Mrs. John McDowell, Mrs. Mary Carter, Miss Marion Carter and Ernest Shirley of Hartford.

Accident Thursday Noon Mrs. Robert Carroll of Union street was knocked down and slightly injured Thursday noon in front of the United States Envelope Company by a motorcycle driven by Raymond Preuss, 21, of Davis avenue. Preuss was going west down West Main street following an automobile and Mr. Carroll, not seeing him approaching, stepped in front of his machine. She was treated by Dr. E. H. Metcalf for bruises and a nervous shock. Police Captain Stephen J. Tobin investigated.

Notes Rockville Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold the first of a series of social dances tonight in the K. of C. hall. O. P. Morin is chairman of the affair. Mrs. Edward Williams of East Douglass, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. S. R. Adams of Mountain street. The Vernon Grange will confer the third and fourth degrees on a class of candidates tonight in the new Grange hall. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blake have purchased the Angell house on Orchard street.

75 BOY SCOUTS TO JOIN IN OVERNIGHT HIKE

For the first time in more than a year, Boy Scouts of the Manchester district, have made plans for a joint overnight hike, it was said today by Commissioner Helge E. Pearson. It will take place tomorrow and Sunday, with rendezvous in Glastonbury. Expectations are that between 50 and 75 scouts will form the party. They will be from the first six troops, which have a joint membership of about 150 boys. The Scouts will provide their own shelter and carry their own lunches. The schedule calls for leaving the terminus at the south end at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon. The Scouts will go to the cabin which Troop 5 built on Clifford D. Cheney's property. Upon arriving at the cabin, the Scouts will take part in an athletic program during the late afternoon. In case of a hard rain, the hike will be postponed for a week. The return hike will be made early enough Sunday morning for the boys to be home in time to attend church, Commissioner Pearson said.

This Skunk Has Friends And Seems Deserving

For three years a skunk has made his abode under the front porch of the home of Harry Melkjohn on Park street. For three years he has in an unobtrusive manner greeted the owners whenever they returned home after having spent an evening out. Practically all black, with a slight strip of white down his back, he is an impressive and unusual reception committee of one.

When the family is at home in the evening Mr. Skunk peeks in at the window, inspects his friends activities and after assuring himself that all is well along the Pocomac, leaves them to their own devices while he goes foraging for food.

At first his presence rather perturbed the owners but as time passed by and Mr. Skunk proved himself a thorough gentleman they began to tolerate his presence. Today his inquisitive prowlings and reception committee activities are looked forward to by members of the family and if Mr. Skunk fails in his usual appearance they all wonder how come.

Mr. Skunk, despite all the established prejudice against his breed has gradually established himself in the regard of one family within the limits of Manchester.

CALL FOR FULL MEETING OF ARMISTICE BODY

Much Work to Be Done and Attendance of All Workers on Monday is Asked. A meeting of the general committee and the sub-committee of the Armistice Day Celebration will be held at the Legion rooms in the State Armory next Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

START ARCHERY CLASS AT WEST SIDE REC

For the first time in the history of the Recreation Centers, archery will be taught. A class will be formed by Associate Director Miss Viola Lalonde who, has had considerable experience in this sport. Bows and arrows will be supplied to beginners. The range will be at the West Side playgrounds. Anyone interested in this sport, whether man or woman, is asked to report at the School Street Rec at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

BRIDGEPORT TEAM PLAYS CLOVERLEAVES

Park City Champs at Hickey's Grove Sunday; Have Very Strong Team. Manager Eddie Coughlin of the Cloverleaves announced this morning that he had obtained the Sokol Rosebuds of Bridgeport to play his team at Hickey's Grove Sunday afternoon.

The Rosebuds won the semi-pro championship of the Park City last season and in their first two games this season have rolled up victories by the overwhelming scores of 25 to 0 and 42 to 0. The New Haven Atlantics who meet the Wallingford Eagles this week, were the first victim. The Cloverleaves will practice at the State Armory at 7 o'clock tonight.

FIVE DOLLAR FINES FOR MISSING DRILLS

The attendance at the drills of Company G, 169th Infantry, C. N. G., will undoubtedly be much more satisfactory in the future. Captain Herbert H. Bissell has decided that hereafter $5 instead of $1 fine shall be imposed for members who are absent from drill without satisfactory excuse. Many of the soldiers have been failing to attend the drills regularly.

EXHIBITION OF . . . FURNITURE FASHIONS

Occasional Pieces

During this exhibit we are showing a beautiful and unique collection of occasional pieces. Their individual appeal and style will give your rooms real distinction. And you may purchase these pieces with assurance that, although you want your home interesting and original, the cost is not prohibitive as our fascinating display includes hundreds of pieces at very moderate prices.

The secretary is an aristocrat in the world of furniture. Tall and dignified, useful as well as ornamental, it has occupied a position of honor in the history of furniture. You can have an authentic colonial style (similar to illustration) in rich brown mahogany for as little as $68.

Occasional chairs are in more demand than ever before. As a result furniture craftsmen have designed many new and interesting chairs, but still the Cowwell is by far the most popular. The beautiful chair illustrated to the right has a solid walnut frame, covered in finest quality mohair with cushion and back in choice wool tapestry and is priced at $79.50.

Occasional tables have always been a most necessary adjunct to every well-appointed room. We are showing many new styles that are both interesting and useful. The Butterfly table (illustrated to left) is made entirely of maple in natural finish with a most pleasing effect and sells for $21.

With hundreds of other occasional pieces in our display we feel confident that we have just what you may desire. But if we haven't we'll gladly get it for you. Again we invite your inspection of this Fall exhibition of furniture fashions.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

In order to help the members of the Freshmen class to become better acquainted with each other the beginning dancing class will be for Freshmen. The members of the other classes will be in the advanced class, which meets an hour later. The annual meeting of the members of the Triangular debating teams took place at Middletown Wednesday, Manchester was represented by Principal C. P. Quimby, Robert Smith and Jacob Rubinow. At the meeting it was decided to hold the Triangular Debates on March 20. The definite topic to be debated has not yet been decided. The questions "Resolved, that we have more to hope for than to fear from Science;" that immigration should be prohibited for a period of five years; that the United States should cease to protect capital invested in foreign lands by arms except after war has been declared; and that the great stress now laid on advertising is to be deplored were all up for consideration. But it was decided to delay the final selection until January 21 at which time each school will send to the other schools its choice for the topic and also its alternate choices. The topic receiving the most number of votes for first will be selected, or in case the schools are not unanimous in their choice for first the topic receiving the fewest number of votes will be the topic for the debate. Each school will also appoint the judge for the city at which it is not debating. It was also decided to make three small replicas of the H. Wales lines cup of which one will be given to the school which wins each yearly triangular debate, for permanent keeping.

Group four of the Washington trip will hold a food sale at Hales next Thursday. This group is also planning to give a novelty dance in the latter part of November. The following committees have been selected to make arrangements for the dance: Refreshment: Lucille Grant and Evelyn Tedford; orchestra, Carroll Wilson and Marie Keating; tickets, Robert Glenn and Edward Dzialowski; Ruth Shorts is secretary of the group and Marjorie Donahue is treasurer.

Group three is conducting a sale of miniature megaphones and rosettes at the West Hartford football game. This group is also going to present a benefit movie at the State Theater.

Group two is planning to hold a bridge party in the early part of December.

Miss Alice Modin has received a Bronze Underwood Pin for typing 42 net words per minute.

According to an announcement made yesterday by Principal Quimby the date of the West Hartford football has been changed to Thursday, October 25. If the school supports the team at least 600 strong will be dismissed early in order to form a gala parade behind the band and march to the field. It was also announced that if 800 or more get out on the field and root for the team that through the kindness of a local business man the boys of the school will be furnished with red berets and girls with white ones. It is the earnest desire of those connected with football in the school to make a clean sweep of all the league games but Meriden and West Hartford stand in the way.

Stephen A. Haboush, "The Shepherd Boy of Gulliver" was the speaker at the assembly yesterday. His talk was at the same time instructive and amusing. During the course of his address he asked the pupils two questions, "What is the language of Palestine?" and "How many here have ever seen Arabic numerals?" The first question remained unanswered correctly in spite of the large number of answers received. The correct answer, Arabian, however was finally offered. After this Mr. Haboush wrote the Arabian alphabet on a blackboard and showed that, although the alphabet contains three more characters than the English alphabet, by its use letters can be written more quickly and in less space. The answer to the second question was correctly offered by most of the pupils. Mr. Haboush will speak tonight at the high school and the high school orchestra will play prior to his address. All high school pupils will be admitted for twenty-five cents.

NEW CHAIN ESTABLISHES HARTFORD BRANCH

Dunhill Corporation Takes Over Former Caesar Misch Store on Asylum Street.

The very fast growing newly organized Dunhill Chain Stores Corp. with the home office in New York City, has taken over the Caesar Misch Store at 240 Asylum street, Hartford, and after most extensive alterations, has remodelled this store into one of the most beautiful in the city. A new front has been installed in a very artistic design. The entire scheme of the windows is in the new modernistic mode, presenting a spacious lobby with a sky-blue dome of pretentious proportions.

The interior of the store has also been remodeled and newly fitted, thereby affording over 6,000 square feet of selling space, and rendering the new Dunhill establishment the most spacious as well as the largest time-payment store in the city of Hartford. The new Dunhill Chain Stores Corp. is one of the fastest growing chain organizations that has ever been organized. It is composed primarily of young executives whose sole purpose is to deviate entirely from the old methods of doing business. They intend to pass on the wonderful values affected by their tremendous buying power, to the customers.

This idea is very novel insofar, as it has never been applied to charge account clothing stores heretofore. The Dunhill Stores are pioneers in this type of value giving, time payment, clothing merchandise and they feel that they will be very successful in their new plan for they claim that the people of Hartford will be very quick in realizing real value. Thomas G. Dennis, manager of the local store, is an old time resident of Hartford, having lived there all his life and having been occupied in a similar capacity for another organization for the past ten years. Mr. Dennis is a well respected resident of Hartford, who will be more than glad to cater to as many friends and customers of the past as well as to the new ones that will naturally flock to Dunhill's for their clothing wants.

The management extends a cordial welcome to everybody whether they purchase or not, to come and visit the most modern and best fitted clothing store in the Hartford area and to feast their eyes on a terrific outpouring of values such as has heretofore been unknown in the city.

visitors in Willimantic and Hampton, Monday afternoon.

The Grange held its regular meeting Tuesday evening. The stage was decorated to represent a forest with the moon shining through the trees. Other decorations were in keeping with Halloween. The first part of the evening's program was songs and dancing by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Porter in Gypsy costumes. Mrs. Porter representing a Gypsy Queen told fortunes. The second part took the form of a Halloween party, sweet cider, cookies and apples were served.

Several of the ladies met at the hall Thursday afternoon to take the quilts, preparatory for the sale to be held in connection with the chicken pie supper the 24th.

Members of the Hebron Young Women's club motored to Manchester Thursday afternoon to attend their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Fish of Elm street.

IT TAKES ALL-BRAN TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

More and more people are eating bran for "health's sake" these days. And it's a fine thing. But not everybody realizes what a difference there is in so-called "brans." Doctors say it takes 100% bran to supply enough roughage to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only be partly effective.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. It does a work part-bran products cannot hope to equal. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN often. With milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's though—in the red-and-green package. Use it in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NOT POLITICS

Attorney Raymond L. Carmody, president of the Manchester Smith-Robinson club, is quoted as having, at the political rally of Democrats here last night, "denounced the political oppression exercised by Cheney Brothers which placed the job of the mill worker in jeopardy if he did not vote the Republican ticket."

Concerning the rest of the statements made at the meeting there is no more fault to be found than there is with political arguments of the opposition, always. But this statement is one that should be branded as to its quality. It is absolutely, inexcusably—it is no more than fair to say maliciously—untrue.

No employe of Cheney Brothers was ever, so far as ever heard in a lifetime spent in this town, threatened or bulldozed or even unfairly influenced into voting any political ticket.

The only part taken by Cheney Brothers, directly or indirectly, in this campaign, so far as either we or Mr. Carmody knows, was the publication of some United States government statistics as to wages paid in the Cheney mills and wages paid for the same class of work in competing countries. It was sheer valuable information.

To talk of political oppression in such a connection is to have—to indulge in reckless, unsupported and libellous misstatement. Such slanders are not politics—they are vicious personal defamation.

VICARIOUS DISHONESTY

We grant and have always granted the personal liberty of Governor Alfred E. Smith. In his long political career the nearest thing to graft that there is any evidence of having touched him was his occupancy of the office of sheriff of New York county—where the incumbent got something like forty thousand dollars a year for doing practically nothing—and that graft, or gift, is and was strictly legal; hundreds of honest men hold scandalously overpaid jobs.

But Governor Smith's associates now and in the past will bear looking at, especially in the light of his attempts to charge Herbert Hoover with responsibility for the oil thefts because he was a member of the cabinet along with Fall and Daugherty.

Some little while ago Senator Borah made a speech in Minneapolis, some paragraphs of which failed to come to our attention till we received a pamphlet copy of it. And in those paragraphs Borah picked up the oil petard and hove it back at Smith with tremendous effect. He said:

"Is he willing to adopt the rule of vicarious responsibility in this campaign? When Murphy died four years ago—not so far away as the oil scandal—the New York Times, an able supporter of Governor Smith said, 'Tammany Hall has a long record. For New York it is just as much of a disgrace as it was fifty years ago, that it is so often ruled by this secret and self-appointed oligarchy. Murphy was the exemplar and beneficiary of a system which without official responsibility degrades our official life and which condemns New York City to suffer from mal-administration and the lowest moral standards in public office.'"

"Of that organization the distinguished governor has been a leader for a number of years. And the same day that the New York Times published this editorial the governor gave an interview in which he said, 'I am suffering from the loss of a close personal friend of many years' standing. He was a noble, clean, wholesome, right-living man.'"

Of the several notable mistakes that Governor Smith has fallen in to in the course of this campaign, his rather feeble and altogether futile effort to smear Hoover with oil was probably the worst. It opened the way for such shafts as this of Borah's, few of which had been employed till Smith himself proposed the "vicarious responsibility" game.

THE REASON WHY

In Hartford yesterday a conference of Chamber of Commerce secretaries and members listened to rather scathing criticism of Chamber of Commerce methods from C. L. Campbell, secretary of the Connecticut Light and Power Co. Mr. Campbell seemed to think that much if not most of the effort of Chambers of Commerce generally and those of Connecticut in particular is rather pitiful. Some of his criticism was undoubtedly justifiable. But what lends particular interest to the incident is the development, rather late in the proceedings, of the circumstance that Mr. Campbell's corporation has been trying to use the State Chamber of Commerce to make a certain kind of survey of the territory of Connecticut for the exclusive benefit of the Connecticut Light and Power Co., and has not received precisely the kind of service it desired.

It is rather beside the fact to note that Clark Belden, executive vice-president of the Connecticut Chamber explained that one reason why the Light and Power Co. hadn't received satisfactory service was that it didn't attend to its own end of the correspondence concerning the survey and had failed to make clear just what it wanted. The really interesting development is that there is at least one agency in this state over which the Connecticut Light and Power Company does not appear to have attained complete domination. That in itself furnishes a certain amount of satisfaction.

RITCHIE DESCENDS

We have always entertained a large measure of admiration for Governor Ritchie of Maryland. He is a brainy and courageous man and his official record is a splendid one. It is a matter for profound regret that at Stamford last night he showed that he is temperamentally lopsided, to such an extent that he permits even his fine intellect to be verbalized by his impulses. His Stamford speech was unworthy of his reputation and of his character.

It is all very well for light-weight ward spellbinders to play the religious issue of this campaign to the limit; it is another thing for a person of Governor Ritchie's standing in the eyes of the country to declare, as he did, that if Governor Smith is defeated it can be for no other reason than because he is a Catholic. Here is an assertion of the wildest kind, the untruth of which is perfectly obvious.

We do not know to what extent religious bigotry will animate voters in the coming election—it would be folly to pretend that it will not influence the casting of many ballots, in both directions, but nobody can even guess in what number. But we do know that the records show that there are a great many more Republicans than Democrats in the United States and there is no earthly reason why Republicans should not vote their party ticket this year and no reason to believe that they would not, though Smith as well as Hoover were a Quaker.

Attempts to bulldoze the American voter into voting for Smith on potency in being branded a hateful religious fanatic are a miserable business in which we are astonished to find Governor Ritchie participating.

"POLITICAL" CRIMES

In practically every civilized country a pronounced distinction is drawn in the severity of punishment and in the stigma attached to conviction, between political offenders and persons found guilty of crimes of violence and property. This is every argument for this condition. The trouble is that, in this country, there is a marked and growing tendency to treat as political offenses crimes that can be so regarded only by holding the most complete misconception of what politics is.

Maurice E. Connolly, president of the New York City Borough of Queens until last May, when he resigned under fire, was convicted on Wednesday of having participated in a ten million dollar sewer pipe graft—and has been sentenced to a year in jail and fined $500. Nobody anywhere will maintain that the sentence, though it is the maximum according to the statute under which Connolly was tried, is anywhere near commensurate to the crime. Yet there will be few protests.

The fallacy that such crimes are "political" is responsible. They are nothing of the kind. They have no more to do with politics than they have to do with Red Cross work. They are just plain thieving, and it is ridiculous that any city official who helps in the stealing of ten million dollars of the people's money should be treated like a mere misdemeanant.

IMPOLITE

The Springfield Union, reprinting a brief editorial from a Connecticut contemporary, credits it to the "Hartford Current." No matter if our respect for our venerable neighbor of the Capitol City were only a twentieth as great as it is, we would never, never be likely to thus confuse its dignified title with the pee-wee cousin of the raspberry.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 19.—Nothing is quite so disturbing to the peace and calm of Manhattan life as the arrival of "visiting firemen" from the west who insist on having their lives made momentarily turbulent. If these "visiting firemen" turned out to be old friends, everything would be simple. You could reason with them and ask about Joe, Gus and Gertrude; you could gradually suggest going out somewhere, could make their eyes pop out by taking them to a man-sized barroom running full blast, or steer them to some colorful little out-of-the-way place. This, very likely, would not be what they wanted, but they would swallow it like good soldiers and, mapah, you would see the last of them.

But the visitors who come upon you are more likely to be friends of a friend—strangers of whom you have never heard. There is, for instance, in my morning mail a letter from a none-too-close relative which informs me: "They have always wanted to see Greenwich Village, and since you are there you can show them around. Don't be afraid! They're good scouts! You can take them anywhere."

Now I ask you! It makes me ponder concerning the life my friends must think I lead. These good folk will come intent on seeing the wild life of the gay and giddy Village. And what shall I do about it? What does anyone in New York do about such matters?

For some three years I have dwelt in Greenwich Village, because it made me feel more "homey"; more as though I were living in a small community. There is little of the severity of the cold lines of brownstones encountered in the mid-town and up-town belt. The places are, on an average smaller. In the morning as I wake myself to the subway I can see women going to the market places with their baskets. Most of them are wearing aprons. In summer it is even possible to come upon an occasional sunbather. There is a chumminess and a neighborliness to be found in few parts of Manhattan.

Riverside Drive is austere, aloof and impersonal. The hotel apartments about town freeze my neighborly blood. I can't live in hotels. They give me the heebie-jeebies. But I could go about the Village without speaking to a soul for years and still have an overwhelming sense of being part of the life.

And how can I tell that to future visiting firemen, unless I write it here and they, by chance, see it? Yes, we have our quota of speak-easies in the Village. But up town has bigger and better ones. Our eating resorts are more likely to be confined to $1 diners than to jazzsome orgies. I don't know a single wild and woolly model. And those artists I know work as hard, or harder than I do, and have no time for the "La Boheme" stuff.

Heaven knows, Fisher White looks like some of the pictures I've seen of artists! But wouldn't it be anti-climax to walk a visitor into a studio in which the artist has a cute honey-bear, two parrots and a small fleet of tiny fish, with which messagerie he releases himself? Or to Walter Seaton's where, likely as not, the model will turn out to be his wife, who helps him out in emergencies. And so it goes.

Of course, there are always the made-to-order tourist joints. But I've tried to avoid them because they're so obvious and, to me, rather dull. I've set foot in but a couple such.

And if I tell them we live as simple a life as possible in Greenwich Village, they'll never believe me. They'll go home and ask what kind of a guy I am. And I know thousands in the same fix here. GILBERT SWAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 19.—Presidential campaigns never again will be what they used to be. William Jennings Bryan traveled more than 18,000 miles in the campaign of 1896 and spoke as often as he could persuade the engineer to stop. But it won't happen again.

For several reasons. First, the radio has changed everything. To-day the candidate can reach millions from one end of the country to the other. If campaign speeches decide elections, then radio and the newspapers will provide that decisive factor rather than personal stump speeches of the candidates regarded from the standpoint of their effect within earshot.

Again, political parties have come to realize that it is important to keep their candidate in good health. The horrible possibility that a candidate might collapse or even die during a campaign, leaving his party in an unprecedentedly unfortunate position, has often been brought home to them.

Another reason Bryan's record is not likely to be beaten is that he was only 36 years old, and possessed of powerful physique. Hoover and Smith are no cripples, but each is 18 years older than Bryan. It probably will be a long time before we have another 36-year-old candidate.

The most cogent reason of all for the curtailment of speaking programs for the candidates again gets us back to the radio. It explains why Governor Smith has not been making a far more arduous campaign and accepting the many requests he has had for additional speeches.

A candidate has only so many good speeches in his system—so many different speeches, that is. There are only certain issues on which he dares to touch at all.

But over the radio he can't make the same speech twice. If he does, most of his audience is likely to claim that they've heard that one before and turn the dial. That, your correspondent judged from a few nights of listening in, was the main trouble with Borah's speaking tour in Smith's wake.

It is now being explained that, for the reason outlined, Smith simply can't afford to accept more invitations for speeches than he considers vitally necessary. Especially if he is to save his supreme effort for the last week or two before election day.

He is confining himself to about 20 speeches for the campaign. Including his acceptance speech, he has now made eight, talking on farm relief, religious bigotry, Republican corruption, water power, prohibition, state issues in New York and inland waterways. There is more for him to talk about, including the tariff, but not a great deal.

There is little doubt that, barring the radio handicap, Smith would gladly have accepted the opportunity to make several additional addresses. Instead, he is forced to content himself with personal appearances through part of the contested territory.

Hoover is up against a similar handicap, but is fortunate in that it fits in with his strategy. That strategy has been to virtually ignore Smith and so the fewer speeches he makes the better. Smith is trying to sell himself to the country; Hoover believes that he has already been sold to the country and that conditions can win for him with little positive aid from himself.

Hoover Alphabet

HOOPER PROTECTS THE CHILDREN.

Infant mortality and childhood diseases have long been questions and inevitables. When it is a question of saving children, Hoover does not admit the inevitables. In 1921, Hoover founded the American Child Health Association. In addressing this association five years later he said, "Our ideal is not only a child free from disease; it is also a child made free to develop to the utmost his capacity for physical, social, and mental health. Our work is racial defence. If we want this civilization to march forward toward higher economic standards, to moral and spiritual ideals, will march only on the feet of healthy children."

(To Be Continued.) Dry officials might say that straw votes which show Al Smith ahead of Hoover really are rye votes.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Herald. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

DRIED BEEF Dried beef is one of the most delicious and tasty meats, but is not quite as digestible as the fresh beef because the smoking and salting have had a toughening effect upon its protein. The usual method of preparing beef for drying is to soak it for about ten days in a mixture of salt, sugar or molasses and, usually, a small amount of saltpetre. The meat is then taken out and smoked like ham, cut into thin slices, and dried. The thick flank or round steak is the part generally used.

Even though not quite as digestible as when fresh, dried beef is quite wholesome, if soaked in water to remove the surplus salt, and has the added advantages of keeping for a long time in almost any climate and being easily transported because of its light weight.

When properly prepared, dried beef shows a fine, firm, red texture and has the agreeable tasty flavor which accompanies all smoked meats.

The Indians found that by mixing dried beef, buffalo, moose meat or venison with acid berries, dried currants or raisins, a very concentrated food was produced, which would sustain life almost indefinitely and was for this reason especially suitable for carrying on long expeditions.

In preparing chipped beef, it should be removed from the first water in which it has been soaking, then boiled in fresh water. Cream dressings with flour should not be used, but some of the following recipes will be found both appetizing and wholesome.

Cooked Mock Pemmican To one pound of chipped beef, soaked for one hour and parboiled for 10 minutes in fresh water and then drained, add one-fourth cup of raisins and one-fourth cup of chopped celery. Stew in enough water to cover until the celery is soft, then remove the cover and evaporate most of the water. Add two tablespoonsful of butter and serve.

Dried Beef and Spinach One pound of dried beef, soaked, parboiled, drained and chopped, should be mixed with three cups of washed spinach. Place in a baking pan in a hot oven. Keep the pan covered until the spinach has wilted, then remove the cover and add one-fourth cup of cream and bake for twenty minutes. Add one tablespoonful of butter and serve.

Chipped Beef Sandwiches Between slices of buttered whole-wheat bread, spread with lettuce, mustard and chipped beef (either soaked or dry).

Creamed Chipped Beef Parboil for 15 minutes the amount of chipped beef desired. Drain off all the water and add small amount of cream which has already been slowly heated in another vessel. This makes it possible to combine the cream and beef without cooking them together. Do not add flour or anything else to the mixture. Serve only with cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables and no starches.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Kidney Stricture Question: I. D. asks: "Can stricture of the kidneys be cured?" Answer: Stricture of the kidneys can be cured but, of course, I could not advise you through this column about such a serious condition.

Stomach Worms Question: Mrs. J. asks: "What is the cause of stomach worms?" Answer: Stomach worms are caused principally from using under-cooked meats. Your physician or druggist can give you a worm remedy, after which you can avoid further trouble by preparing your meats properly.

Potash Question: Mrs. K. O. writes: "A doctor told me that wholehearted bread contains too much potash, causing nervousness, but that rye bread is all right. Please give me your opinion." Answer: In three analyses of rye and wholehearted flour which I have at hand, the rye contained slight more potassium or potash than the wholehearted, and a great deal more than the white flour. However, I do not know of any reason for suspecting that potassium in foods would produce nervousness.

Auto-intoxication Question: A. H. writes: "I have recently been examined. Heart, lungs, etc., in good condition, but have depressed feeling all the time. Am sitting down all day and get little exercise." Answer: You are undoubtedly toxic from eating too much and not exercising enough. Even though you do not have any specific disease at the present time, you must remember that self-poisoning is the foundation upon which practically all diseases are built. Get rid of this trouble and avoid worse trouble which will otherwise follow.

MENUS

For Good Health

A Week's Supply Recommended By Dr. Frank B. McCoy

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Oct. 21, '28.

Sunday
Breakfast: Poached eggs in milk on Melba toast. Stewed apricots.
Lunch: Baked squash, spinach, celery and ripe olives.
Dinner: Roast chicken or veal with Melba toast dressing, baked eggplant, cooked celery. *Salad of tomato - spinach - asparagus, ice cream.

Monday
Breakfast: Baked egg, genuine wholewheat bread and butter, stewed prunes.
Lunch: Stewed corn, cooked string beans, shredded lettuce.
Dinner: *Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, cooked small carrots (buttered and sprinkled with chopped parsley), salad of raw celery and cold cooked string beans. Baked apple.

Tuesday
Breakfast: Cottage cheese, Melba toast, applesauce.
Lunch: Baked potato, cooked cucumbers, endive salad.
Dinner: Baked mutton, cooked lettuce, cooked turnips and tops, salad of grated raw beets on lettuce, stewed figs.

Wednesday
Breakfast: Coddled egg, broiled ham, Melba toast, stewed prunes.
Lunch: Macaroni (wholewheat product) seasoned only with butter, cooked oyster plant, raw celery.
Dinner: Baked Belgian hare, cooked beet tops, squash, salad of shredded raw cabbage and parsley, apple whip.

Thursday
Breakfast: Wholewheat muffins and peanut butter, stewed pears.
Lunch: Carrot loaf, cooked spinach, cooked celery.
Dinner: Vegetable soup (with cream instead of meat base) roast pork, cooked string beans, combination salad of tomatoes, celery, parsley, carrots; stewed apricots.

Friday
Breakfast: French omelet, Melba toast, stewed prunes.
Lunch: Cooked okra, cooked small parsnips, lettuce.
Dinner: Baked white fish, baked egg plant, beet tops, salad of sliced tomatoes, pineapple gelatin (no cream).

Saturday
Breakfast: Ground wholewheat much and milk (no sugar).
Lunch: Cooked carrots and peas, stuffed celery.
Dinner: Veal loaf, cooked beets, asparagus, McCoy salad, dish of cooked berries.

*Tomato-Spinach-Asparagus salad: Select small firm tomatoes, trim out stem and cut almost through into six or eight sections. Base must be left solid so tomato can be spread out like a flower. Place on a bed of crisp spinach, and heat center with chopped spinach leaves and parsley, standing an asparagus tip between each section. This last addition will please the children, for the asparagus looks like small candles. The final result is so colorful and attractive that even those children who must be "coaxed to eat vegetables," as some mothers write me about, will be eager for this salad if care is used to make it small, dainty and "party-like" in appearance. A dressing of peanut butter thinned with milk may be used if desired.

**Vegetable soup: In making vegetable soup, when a meat base is desired, always use the same kind of meat that is used for the meal which follows. For instance, the Monday evening meal calls for Salisbury steak. Purchase an extra amount of ground beef and make a broth of it, adding the desired quantity of the same vegetables which are also used at that meal, as carrots, parsley, celery and string beans. Keep your soup combination the same as your dinner combination.

Questions and Answers
Question: L. V. P. asks: "Is it necessary to keep a band on the abdomen after the naval hernia healed and do you advise orange juice to be given a nursing baby or only when cow's milk is used?"
Answer: It is not usually necessary to keep a binder on a baby after the naval hernia healed unless the baby is having an attack of colic or severe crying that might result in a rupture. Orange juice should be added even to a nursing baby's diet, since the milk of many mothers is deficient. If the mother's diet is well balanced her milk will usually supply all that the baby requires, but even so the orange juice is a good measure of precaution. I suggest that you send for my article on the weaning and feeding of infants, enclosing a large self addressed, stamped envelope.

Reducing Pills
Question: Anna asks: "Are prescription tablets injurious? If not, would it be harmful to take four tablets a day? What is there in them to reduce one. If they are harmful, can you give a prescription not injurious to reduce one?"
Answer: I do not recommend patented medicinal preparations in this column, but can assure you that so far as I know there are no reducing pills which are harmless. Perhaps the least harmful ones are those which are only laxatives. The simple, safe plan is to reduce through diet and exercise.

The Itch
Question: M. G. asks: "Will you please state how to cure itch—not eczema, but just plain, old-fashioned itch? I know of people who have been trying for almost a year to get rid of it."
Answer: The true itch is caused by a microscopic insect which forms small burrows under the skin. If you had sent me your name and address on a large, stamped envelope, I would have mailed you my special article on this subject outlining the best method of overcoming the trouble.

DRAMA OF TODAY'S YOUTH AT STATE

"Modern Mothers" and "Shadows of the Night" Here Tomorrow.

What is the matter with our modern generation? Who is to blame when our children stray from the path of upright understanding?

These two questions help to form the colorful background of "Modern Mothers," a Columbia picture starring Helene Chadwick and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., which is one of the feature films scheduled at the State theater for tomorrow's continuous show.

Vague glimpses into a modern home, its joys, its troubles and its sorrows, are to be found in this stirring drama of human love and sacrifice. Pathetic scenes of deep understanding, thrilling moments of suspense—they all can be seen in this fascinating tale of the youth of today.

A superlative cast of well known screen celebrities are seen in support of Miss Chadwick and Fairbanks. The champion feature for tomorrow introduces Flash, the marvelous dog, in "Shadows of the Night," a thrilling story of love and adventure in the underworld of a big city. Lawrence Gray, Louise Lorraine, Warner Richmond and Polly Moran are seen in the supporting cast.

The final chapter of "The Police Reporter" and a Fox Imperial comedy will complete the program. On Sunday and Monday, the management of the State is presenting George Bancroft, the famous star of "Underworld," in his latest starring vehicle, "The Docks of New York."

For the final time tonight, the State will offer Phyllis Hayer in "Tenth Avenue" and Laura La Plante in "Flinders Keepers."

IRENE RICH AT THE CIRCLE SATURDAY

Shares Honors With Tom Mix In Double Feature Program.

Irene Rich has the role of Fritz Foy, in "Powder My Back," her latest starring picture, which comes to the Circle Theater on Saturday and Sunday as part of a big double feature program.

Supported by a well-balanced cast including Audrey Ferris, Andre Beranger, Anders Randolf, Carol Nye and Clary Fitzgerald, "Powder My Back" proves an excellent starring vehicle for the talented Miss Rich.

Fritz Foy is a musical comedy star, who seeks revenge against the mayor, who had exposed a publicity hoax involving Miss Rich and her press agent, Andre Beranger, and subsequently ordered the authorities to close the show.

As the story continues, Miss Rich's heart softens and a romance develops between her and the man she sought to injure.

"Powder My Back" is a Warner Brothers classic and was directed by Roy Del Ruth from a story written by Jerome King.

The associate feature at the Circle for Saturday and Sunday brings the one and only Tom Mix, famous western star, in "A Horseman of the Plains," his latest William Fox production.

A wide assortment of hair-raising thrills are packed into this rapidly moving story, the kind that have made Mix popular. Together with Tony, his wonderful horse, the two furnish plenty of dandy feats that are sure to satisfy those who crave action in their picture entertainment. Sally Blane plays opposite Mix as the girl in the case, and Charles Byers makes an ideal and much hated villain.

The opening chapter of "The Haunted Island" and a dandy comedy will round out the bill.

WEDS HER CHAUFFEUR

Bridgeport, O.—Anna Janette Brienstein, 50, wealthy widow and member of one of the pioneer families of eastern Ohio, has married her chauffeur. He is Ismail Exelino, a youth of 22.

PROSPERITY?

Washington.—An official survey recently completed shows that out of 14,315 persons over 65 interviewed as to their dependency, less than 25 per cent were "kept" by relatives or charity, and of this total charitable institutions were credited with less than two per cent.

HUBBIES KEEP OUT

Chicago.—The male population of the Illinois corn belt along the Vermilion river are all pretty good cooks. They learned the art while their "woman folks" were taking a vacation in a grove on the banks of the river. Two signs erected at the entrance to the female paradise proved the ladies were in earnest. One: "No Dogs Allowed." Two: "No Husbands Allowed."

VATICAN WORKERS BUSY TO SAVE ANCIENT TOWER FROM COMETET COLLAPSE

Roma.—Workmen of the Vatican were busy today saving from collapse one of Rome's historic Christian battlements, the eleven century old tower built by Pope Leo IV for the protection of the Vatican Basilica against the Saraceni. Invasions of the Ninth Century. Inspectors found the architectural office found in a ritual buttress supporting the tower a dangerous crack that imperilled the entire structure, threatening its collapse. Workmen were summoned immediately.

still stand along the line of defending walls constructed by Leo IV so as to enclose the hill and the Basilica against the Saraceni, who had taken the city of Ostia nearby. All three towers are of remarkable strength, and now are used for astronomical observatories by Vatican Scientists. In recent years there has been a growing movement to restore ancient ruins or at least preserve what remains of many of the relics of early Roman civilization. Other ancient structures about the Vatican will also have the attention of the church authorities.

The old Caesar Misch Store is now the new Dunhill's

The NEW STORE
TOMORROW
in all its new Glory

TO-MORROW — at a famous old address, a new page will be written in Hartford's apparel-store history.

To-morrow the new doors open upon what was, till recently, the Caesar Misch Store; but is now the new Dunhill's.

The Caesar Misch store has been established in Hartford so long as to amount to a tradition. Its name has come to be synonymous with honesty and integrity, with unvarying rectitude and courtesy. On its books are carried the names of many thousands of Hartford families.

No one realizes more than Dunhill's the inestimable value of this well-earned and highly deserved reputation. We intend to maintain it jealously, to keep on in the same high-road of straightforward dealing.

But in some vital ways we must depart from the old Caesar Misch establishment. That was a store of yesterday. Dunhill's is a store of to-day.

Dunhill's is going to interpret the spirit of the modern age as expressed in clothes, to the people of Hartford.

Dunhill's policy will be the small profit policy—to sell merchandise not only on the basis of style but on the basis of honest worth.

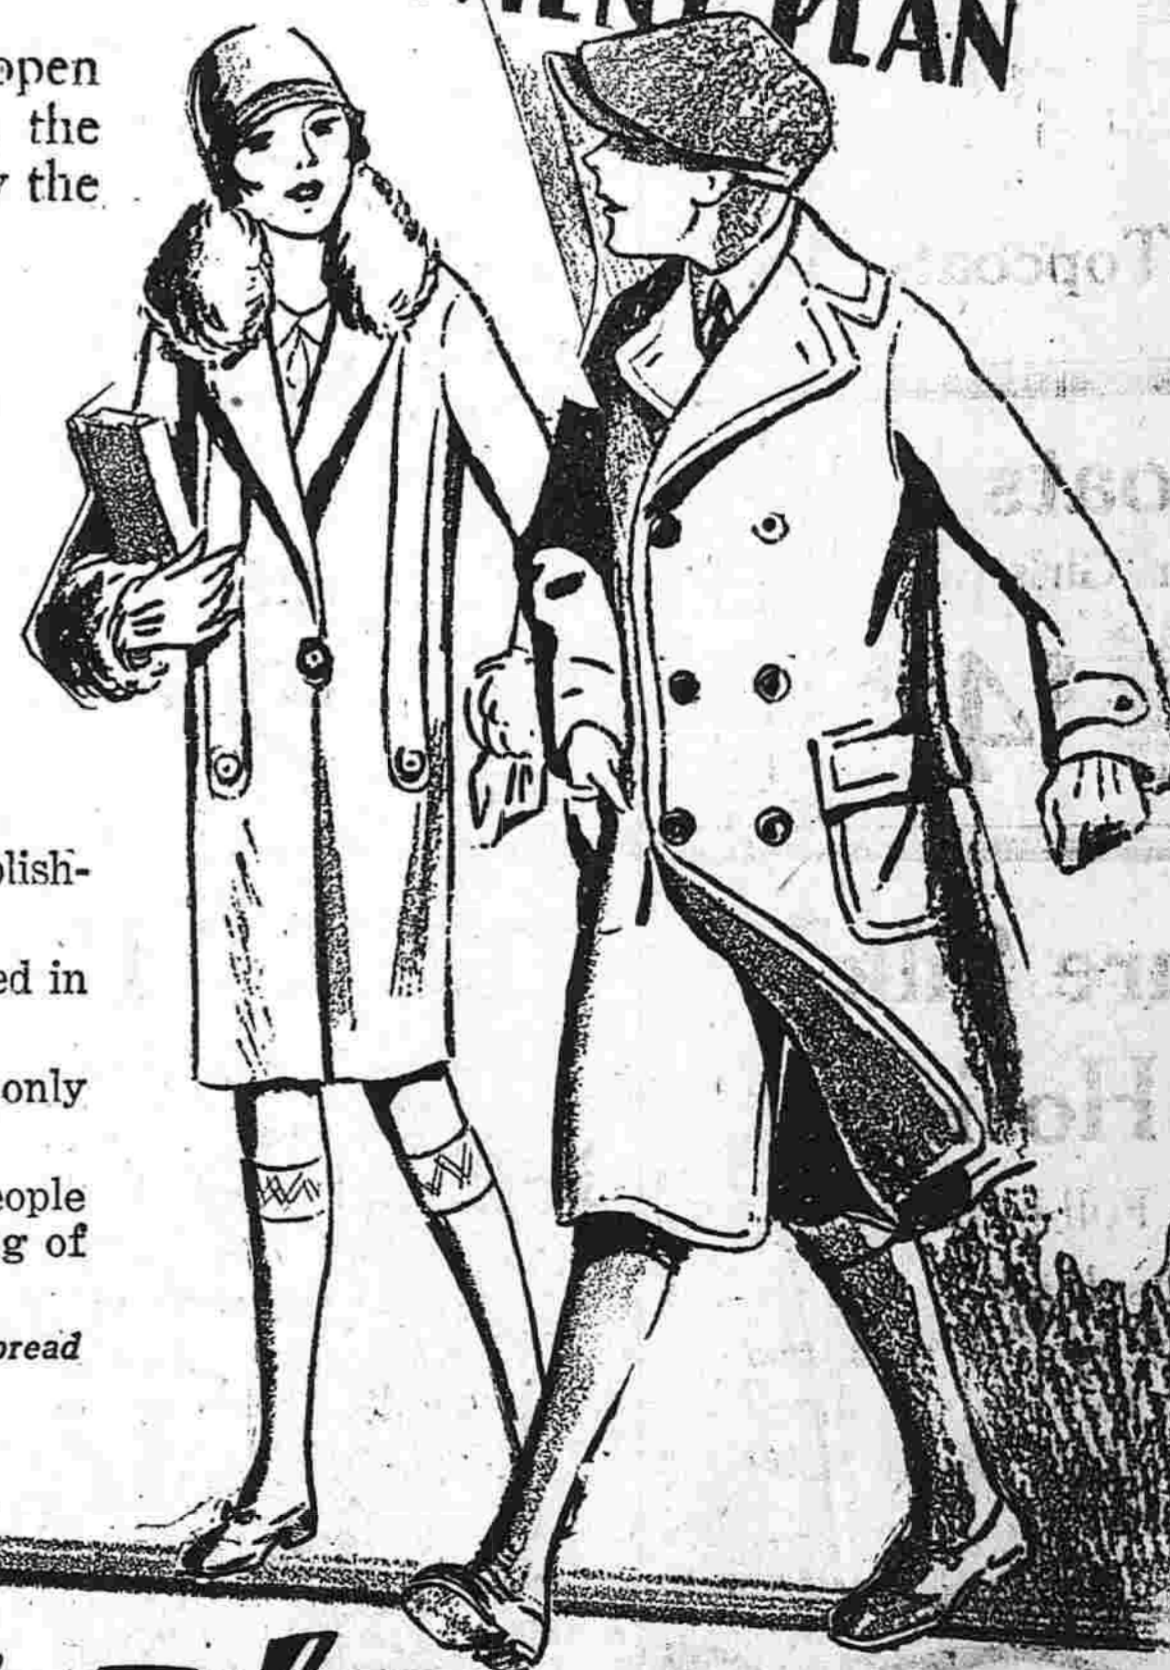

Dunhill's Time-Payment policy will be one to appeal to self-respecting people—the 20-Payment Plan—one that allows a sufficient period for the paying of even a large purchase without dragging it out indefinitely.

You are invited to visit the new Dunhill's to-morrow. A feast of values has been spread for you—a taste of what can be expected throughout our future career.

Merchandise—

Always the newest and the most beautiful. To represent every garment truthfully—to offer only such merchandise as we can approve of without reservation.

Prices

To represent only the real and actual worth of the merchandise and including only the smallest profit on which this business can be safely carried on. To include nothing for the convenience of our time-payment plan, because it costs us nothing to extend that privilege.

20-Payment Plan

To extend the benefit of our time-payment plan freely and generously—to be considerate and understanding of those who may not find it convenient to meet weekly payments—and to conduct ourselves not only as merchants toward those with whom we deal but as friends, too.

1928 By NEA Service Inc. RUTH DEWEY GROVES AUTHOR OF "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO" etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

JERRY RAY decides that love is a delusion, and after observing some of the wrecked love marriages in her own circle, calmly tells her room-mate, MYRTLE, that she intends to marry for money.

Jerry denies herself all the little everyday luxuries and saves her money carefully for a vacation at Atlantic City in "the best hotel." She confides to Myrtle. But the money is stolen from her room the night she drew it from the bank before her departure. Jerry is stunned at her loss. All her plans for the wonderful two weeks at the shore resort are spoiled, but Myrtle finally persuades her to go camping with her on the north shore of Long Island.

They get a cheap camp site and Myrtle's sweetheart, GEORGE, drives them out and assists in getting their tent and equipment arranged before he has to return to the city. Left alone, the girls take a swim and then are busy enjoying their evening meal when Jerry started at the sound of an airplane's whirring over their heads. She looks up, cries for Myrtle to run and springs backward, but too late!

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

Dan Harvey wasn't a commonplace face at all. Jerry realized vaguely that she had never seen it before. Yet it did not surprise her that it was there. It wore such a friendly expression she felt quite at ease with it. Only it shouldn't have looked so unhappy.

Why was there so much pain? Oh yes, something had happened! "How are you now?" an anxious voice inquired. "Lord, I hope you haven't any broken bones," it added fervently.

Jerry moved to sit up. The young man helped her. Suddenly she thought of Myrtle. "Is anybody hurt?" she cried. "No, but you," "Everybody's all right but you," he answered. "I'm afraid your outfit is wrecked, though. And I think we'd better take you to a doctor. Do you think you can stand?"

Jerry wasn't sure that she could, but he assisted her to her feet so she could try. She wavered a little and then steadied herself with his help.

"How did you escape?" she asked when her glance fell upon the crumpled plane.

"A bit of luck. It isn't as bad as it looks. Now you wait until I get something for you to sit on and then I'll go for a car." He left her to hunt round for a stool or chair.

Jerry saw Myrtle searching in the wreckage also, and a second young man poking around in the cockpit of the airplane. She called Myrtle. The latter came running over. She had been searching for the iodine. It was the only remedy at hand and she thought Jerry ought to have something.

"I thought maybe you were dead," Myrtle said cheerfully. "You were such a long time coming." "Say, what do you think of this?"

She was interrupted by Dan Harvey, who brought a brook-neglected chair and propped it up for Jerry to sit on. The other young man came up as Jerry was thanking his companion.

"Go and get a car, Dan," he ordered abruptly.

"Right," Dan returned. "This young lady must be taken to a doctor immediately."

Jerry looked up in alarm. "I'm all right," she declared hurriedly, but she was as white as paper. The young man of the commanding voice frowned.

"Go for Dr. Belden," he said curtly, "and send Marsh over here with some bandage. Some damned reek fished my flask from the ship."

"Please," Jerry begged. "I don't need a doctor." She was comforted with his fee. A doctor was out here—gosh, he'd charge a fortune! But the young man called Dan was off without further words.

"Where's your drinkin' water?" the other asked of Myrtle.

"We have boiled any yet," she told him. "The stove wouldn't work. But we've got some ginger ale."

"Better get it for your friend, then," he advised, looking at Jerry. She was leaning over, her elbow on her knee and her head in the palm of her hand, obviously in pain.

"I'll get a blanket and you can lie down," Myrtle said and went to dig in the wreckage again.

"How do you feel?" the young man queried anxiously of Jerry.

"It's my head, I got a bump," Jerry told him. "I'll be all right in a minute. I don't want a doctor."

Dan Harvey's wasn't a commonplace face. Jerry realized vaguely that she had never seen it before.

brushly. Jerry expected Myrtle to resent his tone but apparently she was unaware of it for she trotted off obediently to do as he told her. "He must be used to bossing people," Jerry thought and opened her eyes to take a close look at him. She saw a young man in his early twenties, good looking in a coldly conventional blond way. There was nothing of distinction in his features. But a tiny golden brown mustache and an assured manner caused Jerry to overlook that fact. Others, too, had failed to weigh Alester Carstairs' savoir faire against the inanity of his countenance.

Jerry was much impressed with his ready command of the situation and when a man whom even she recognized as a butler arrived hurriedly in a station wagon she began to perceive that someone of importance had crashed their camp.

"The brandy, sir, and a first aid kit," the butler said, bringing over a basket and placing it on the ground beside Jerry.

"All right, Ma'am open it. Here, give me the brandy." He poured a little in a glass the servant handed up to him and offered it to Jerry. She shook her head.

"I don't drink," she said. "please don't bother."

"You must," he said commandingly. "It will put you right until Dr. Belden gets here."

"I'd rather not," Jerry protested and turned to Myrtle. "Please wait the towel again," she begged. "it felt good."

"Perhaps the young lady would like some smelling salts, sir," the butler interposed as his master interposed a piece of pressing the unwanted drink upon the girl. "I've some here."

"Let's have them then," his master snapped.

Jerry found the aromatic crystals delightfully pleasant. She must, she thought, get some to send to her mother. They would help her, maybe, when she had one of those dizzy spells.

Myrtle had retrieved a pillow from a clump of wild blackberry bushes and Jerry was resting quite comfortably when Dan returned with Dr. Belden. Her head ached with dull persistency but she had spent an agreeable half-hour talking with Alester.

She knew his name now—he had finally got round to introducing himself—and she thought whimsically that the mountain had come at least half way to Mahomet. For who didn't know that Alester Carstairs was one of the most eligible young men in the best four hundred in New York society?

She couldn't have done better if she'd had a year at Atlantic City. He was nice looking, too, and everything that he said and did showed that he probably didn't know there were such things in the world as jaundiced wall paper, oil-cloth tablecovers, 10-cent bath towels and unfulfilled desires.

He seemed to have noticed, too, that she was rather nice even with her head in a towel and her face powdered, just as she had come from her swim in the Sound. Jerry knew perfectly well that she had a lovely complexion and a perfect body. She hoped Alester liked gold green eyes and burnished hair.

"Nothing serious," the doctor pronounced after a few minutes; "but I'd like you to come to my office tomorrow for a more thorough examination."

Jerry looked at him helplessly. How could she get to his office? Apparently one of the group at least must have read her thoughts. Dan looked at his employer.

"You won't need me, Alester," he said, "until the plane is repaired. I'll be glad to drive Miss... Ray isn't it?... to the doctor's office if she will let me."

Alester nodded, then suddenly a change came over his face and he said shortly: "I can do that much

For Miss Ray myself. What hour, doctor?"

Jerry turned her eyes to Dan. She saw a grimace settle about his lips. It puzzled her. Surely he could not mind having his offer rejected when obviously he had made it in courtesy only.

But it was remarkable, the way he had understood her unspoken need. There had never been anyone like that in her life before, except her mother. Perhaps she ought to tell Alester that she'd prefer to go with Dan.... the thought started.

Prefer to go with Dan? Why, Dan was only a private aviator.... His blue-gray eyes were watching her intently. She liked his eyes. Jerry brought her mind sharply back to the decision that faced her. She must say something—make her choice.

"Three o'clock," the doctor said and both Alester and Dan turned to Jerry for her answer.

Life of Senator Charles Curtis Is One Filled With Adventure

Senator Charles Curtis

By ANNA STEESE RICHARDSON

In a million windows and on millions of walls hang pictures of Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican candidate for the vice-presidency. And from posters like these the kindly eyes of Senator Curtis look down on the women who are working in committee rooms for the election of the Hoover-Curtis ticket on November 6th.

Most of these women think of Senator Curtis as the man who has served his state in Congress for 30 years or more, or as the man who consistently supported equal suffrage legislation.

Only a few are familiar with the more colorful events of his life, and these are worth knowing.

Youth Marked by Experience

His youth was marked by experiences of which all our small sons dream, adventure after adventure. Left motherless at 3, he went to live with his maternal grandmother who was Princess Julie of the Kaw Indian tribe.

He rode Indian ponies at the age when boys of today are still in kindergarten. Afterward, as a mere boy, his riding attracted the attention of race-track authorities and for eight years he was a jockey.

To his maternal grandmother's care he owed his splendid physique and powers of endurance, but the Princess Julie felt that life should hold more than health for her grandson. So she sent him to his paternal grandmother in Topeka who enrolled him in the public school. However, the family funds would not supply even the bare necessities to which the growing boy was accustomed so he went to school by day and drove a hack by night. Next, fired with a desire for learning, he served as reporter on the Topeka Times and studied law at night. At 21 he was admitted to the bar, a record even for those vigorous days.

Next came the event in his career which endeared him to the women of his state and to all those who came under its influence in nearby states.

City and County Dried Up

Some of his friends induced him to run for county prosecutor in Shawnee county, Kansas had gone dry and young Curtis announced at the very outset of his campaign that if elected he would enforce the law. No one took him seriously. A few laughed at him openly.

"Don't get me wrong, boys," he warned them. "If I'm elected, I will enforce every law and some of you may live to regret it."

And he kept his word. Immediately he took office, he began to clean up Topeka. Within 30 days every saloon in the city and Shawnee county was closed. As sign of their approval, his constituents re-elected him, and they have been re-electing him ever since.

It pays to keep your word.

Women who want the Charles Curtis type of man elected as vice president should know him better if only through the printed page. His story is told interestingly in three pamphlets:

"Curtis, the Man Who Never Broke His Word."

"Charles Curtis, Consistent Supporter of Humanitarian Legislation."

"Charles Curtis as His Friends Know Him."

Copies of these leaflets will be sent free of charge. Address your request to the Women's Information Bureau, Republican National Committee, Barr Building, Washington, D. C.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Shadowing of the eyelids and curling of the eyelashes now are the finishing touches to a facial as given by the smartest beauty shops. There seems no limit to the little tricks done in the 40,000 beauty parlors of the nation in which Madame and Miss America spend some $5,000,000 every day. There now are contrivances which "spray the face with sunshine," till outer layers of skin fall off, leaving fresh, tender skin beneath.

Ear-rings mean about as much to a Chinese woman as skirts do to we Occidentals. The lowliest slave maiden always has worn her hoops of brass just as the Mandarin's lady has worn her jeweled ear pieces. They are outraged by an edict which violates a custom of long centuries.

MAN, OR JOB? Alice S. Ryan, secretary of the American Master Hair Dressers' Association, explains beauty shop progress thus:

"The thousands of unmarried working women approaching middle life are cognizant of the fact that they will be supplanted by their positions by younger persons if they fail to retain a sprightly, youthful look. Women who are employed, for instance, are the women who are dyeing their hair."

I wonder. Do beauty shops run to the tune of millions of dollars because women want jobs or because women want husbands and romance?

SMART JULIANNA Princess Juliana of Holland, that country's future sovereign, recently entered her own competition in a class song competition at Leyden University which she is attending. The song, submitted without a name in a sealed envelope, won over 120 others.

Commoners have always doted on believing that those to the manner born were dumber than they and their offspring. This little tale may make us grant that even blue and noble blood can mean talent and brains, too.

NO EAR-RINGS! Chinese women no longer may wear ear-rings, according to the Nationalist authorities in North China who stop women and girls in the street and take off their ear-rings and unbind their feet if they are not conforming with the new law.

Ear-rings mean about as much to a Chinese woman as skirts do to we Occidentals. The lowliest slave maiden always has worn her hoops of brass just as the Mandarin's lady has worn her jeweled ear pieces. They are outraged by an edict which violates a custom of long centuries.

Have you just received a note from the teacher that William is not getting along in school? That he won't pay attention and can't get his work, that he sits and looks out of the window and won't study? He has been late twice in a week. He plays in school and disturbs the children around him.

You are thinking up things to say to William. Perhaps you have even gone into the closet under the stairs to see if that old switch is still hanging on its hook, and wondering if a little dressing down now wouldn't do William some good.

The two switchings William got in the spring mellowed him a bit for the time being, but as nearly as you can remember three days after his last trouncing William played hooky and went swimming.

William! William! William! The apple of your eye, but a long sharp thorn in your side! You—to have an incorrigible boy like that! How could it have happened? It Watch yourself, stern parent, not William. Don't beat him and nag him and scold him until he hates both you and home.

Talk to him and explain your hopes to him, and make a companion of him. Above all things, have understanding and sympathy for him. And not until then had you better hang up your sign, "God Bless Our Home."

William is growing, and he doesn't like books, and lessons—there's his business about his lessons, even his one day of truanting have been for countless ages, characteristics of boys who turned out to be anything from presidents down.

William's growing, and he doesn't like books, and lessons—there's his business about that, but books and lessons are not always criterions of a boy's worth. He likes to stop and play marbles, and waste his time standing before score-boards, and sneak off to swim, or go to too many movies, but aside from these heinous crimes your William may be pure gold.

Everything Serene As Cubs, Cloverleaves Agree

Sees No Change In Rules Of Football For A While

Lateral Pass, Dead Ball on Fumble and Goal Posts to Remain, Says Sports Expert.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Oct. 19.—For the first time since they took the bustle of the players and put them on cheer leaders, we seem to have achieved a game of football that is coming into acceptance even if only by a minority of those actively identified with the proposition. The writer naturally has talked with only a comparative few of the thousands who make football their life but these have been unanimous in their tacit affirmation of the rules as they are constituted at the moment. At the very worst, they feel that the code should be sent out on approval for an interval lasting well into the third year.

It is the writer's opinion that, if the goal posts continue on the end zone, the lateral pass still is operating and the dead-ball-on-a-fumbled-punt remains in force with some degree of satisfaction at the end of the interval in question, they may stay with us not a great deal less than forever. Minor repairs, perhaps, but none of those machine shop jobs where you leave the car as security and hope the man will have the common decency never to mention the bill again.

The football rules committee, which after all represents the only and ultimate sentiment in the matter, isn't going to do anything radical without provocation or even with it. This committee has been "provocated" before absolutely to no purpose because it is uncommonly consistent in a least one respect. It never actually disapproves of itself. If charity begins at home, it is firmly convinced that self-appreciation pays off the second mortgage. It has reared this step-child; it will stand by it as long as it has a leg of its own.

Lateral Pass to Stay
It, therefore, is encouraging that criticism, always to be expected in the face of perfection itself, seems to be at something of a minimum. As far as an observer goes, the lateral pass appears destined to become an integral part of the attack. A new play last year, it performed was approached discreetly or not at all. But now they are beginning to sense the possibilities of this play and generally it is coming into general and expeditious use. As it develops it may throw too great a burden on the defense, in which case they may have to hobble it. But it isn't likely they ever will throw it away entirely.

The committee made a dead ball of the fumbled punt to take an element of great uncertainty out of the game and the football coach never breathed who would think of objecting. Those who kick are all for a life of untroubled security, never having had one. Some of them indeed, are for going further with this rule. Glenn Warner, for example, is for making a dead ball of all fumbles. I think you can write the fumbled-punt rule in the book in indelible ink.

The Goal Posts
There has been some adverse comment on the current position of the goal posts on the ground that it discourages field goal kicking. Rockne isn't even sure that it does that, since he points out with justice that it opens the angle on kicks from the sidelines and corners. At that, the average coach claims that he isn't for drop kicking, per se, since most of them are specialists or at least give too much attention to their art. I have known coaches, however, who were able to successfully conceal this antagonism with the score tied and thirty seconds to play.

Anyhow, for those who like their posts on the goal line, there are a dozen who can give you some very plausible reasons why they should remain, as is. Who, for example, hasn't seen the goal line change that had to be shot on one side of the line or the other in order to avoid the posts? Merely by accident, the attack, which had earned its position on the threshold of a score, found itself hampered unnaturally on its climb.

Another sound argument advanced in favor of the present rule is that it leaves the end zone open to passes from any angle. And it does make some contest of the matter of kicking the point after touchdown.

As for the time limit on the huddle and shift, both provisions are in to stay, whether you like them or don't. For the committee does and there aren't any post-entries in a case like that.

MCGINLEY GIVEN $500 AT BANQUET

Hartford Times Sports Editor Paid Glowing Tributes At Testimonial Dinner.

Arthur B. McGinley, sports editor of The Hartford Times, who has attracted wide attention because of the witticisms and humor in his columns, was feted by a gathering of 350 friends who gave him a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Bond in Hartford last evening. The guest of honor, in addition to the $500 in gold, received a purse of $500 in gold.

Among the notables present were Walter Trumbull, sports editor of the North American Newspaper Alliance with which The Times is affiliated, Mayor Walter E. Batterson, Secretary of State Frank A. Falloti, Rabbi Morris Silverman, Judge Alexander W. Credon, Harry I. Horton, of The Hartford Courant, Charles C. Hemenway, associate editor of The Hartford Times, Father James Dargan and John McGinley, brother of the guest of honor. All were present upon to speak during the evening and each responded with glowing tributes to "Mac."

Arthur B. McGinley began his newspaper career in New London and later served in the World War. He was the sports editor of The Times in 1921 and has been with them ever since. He has worked his way up until he is regarded as one of the leading sports writers in the East. "Mac" is quite well known in Manchester having spoken here a number of times. His latest recent talks were at the City Club and at the Country Club where he addressed the Kiwanis Club. He plays the Country Club course here frequently.

Those from Manchester attending were Police Commissioner William B. Rogers, Ronald H. Ferguson, city editor of The Manchester Evening Herald, Edward "Mull" McCarthy, Earl Ballisep, Robert E. Carney of The Herald, Alex Simpson, golf professional of the Manchester Country Club and Thomas W. Stowe, sports editor of The Herald.

The British Board of Boxing Control suggests that Phil Scott is a likely candidate for the under-Boys, control yourselves.

A NEW YORK WRITER SAYS THE AMERICAN PUBLIC REALLY HASN'T GOT DOWN ON PHIL. MOST OF THOSE BRITISH HEAVIES, HOWEVER, FURNISH THE LOWDOWN THEMSELVES.

Scott will be ready for a couple of more fights in this country though, as soon as he gets the lay of the land.

England proposes that the New York Boxing Commission help lift Phil to the heavyweight throne. Our British friends must think the commission is a bevy of piano movers.

O'Goofy, who has gone literary of late, says "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" is a story about a British prize fight.

Colonel Ruppert of the Yankees is a great reader, too, being a collector of first editions. O'Goofy always waits for the sporting extras.

NO TICKETS FOR GAME

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19.—Some 17,000 people have been denied the privilege of buying tickets for the Army-Yale football game, and yet the game, scheduled here for October 27, will yield nearly $300,000 from spectators alone. The Bowl has seats for 74,786 spectators and about 91,600 seats have been requested, with West Point asking 3,000 more than usual. The tickets sell for four dollars apiece, and the demand for them is larger than ever before.

ON A DETOUR

Father (1 a. m.): Is that young man asleep?
Daughter: Hush, father! He has just asked me to marry him and make him the happiest man in the world.
Father: Just as I thought. Wake him up.—Tit-Bits.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Passaic, N. J.—Batting Levinsky, of Philadelphia, outpointed Vietro Curri, Brooklyn heavyweight, 8.
At Yonkers, N. Y.—Eddie Rossi, New York, outpointed Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn, lightweight, 6.

MAJORS PRACTICE

The Majors football team will hold practice this evening at the corner of Hudson and Manchester Green Road. Hereafter practice will be held on Tuesday and Friday evenings starting at 6:30 p. m. The Majors expect to play in Rockville Saturday afternoon.

Local Sport Chatter

If the High school beats Meriden tomorrow, it will be assured of at least a tie for first place in the final standing of the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League. The game will be played in Meriden at Hanover Park.

The Cubs' new football field at Mt. Nebo has not been laid out where the Majors and Tigers played. Instead it is located on the baseball running from home plate toward centerfield.

The Cubs are going to have a thirty-five piece band from Rockville on the job to help dedicate their new field. Mayor John Hyde will again show the boys how to kick off.

Joe McCann, former local football player, writes from Trenton, N. J., that he had the pleasure of watching the Graf Zeppelin pass overhead escorted by fifteen airplanes. Joe saw Princeton play Hermont and figure's Roper's outfit doesn't look any too impressive.

The Wallingford Eagles have cancelled their game scheduled with the Cubs for a week from Sunday, Assistant Manager Peter Hapenny said last night. They've got a better guarantee elsewhere, it is understood.

Mike Suhle is going to bowl with the Bon Ami team when The Herald league gets under way, he said last night.

Hooks and Slides

SOMETHING NEW.

If you're ever at the Northwestern football field when Coach Dick Hanley's football squad is in practice you will notice that the first team players run against dummies while going through signal drill. Hanley thinks that when running through signal drill, the conditions should be as nearly as possible to what they are in a game.

It also takes the players confidence," he says. "When a player gets the idea that he is good, it takes an awful lot of batting around by opposing linemen to get that idea out of his head."

On each play against the dummies, the Purple players are supposed to go through the same motions that they would do in clearing the way during a regular game for their backs. In other words, the dummies must be taken out in realistic fashion.

Cop, Hubby Grigger. Hauling thinks he has one of the best haircuts in the Western Conference in Bill Calderwood. Incidentally, Calderwood is one of the most colorful players on the squad.

When he finished his final exam last year, Calderwood rushed to the old home town and married the old home town sweetheart. Then he brought her to Evanston to live and went looking for a job. He took the civil service exam for the police department and led the field in his mark. He became a cop.

He stayed right on the job this year until football started and then got a leave of absence to help win some games for Northwestern.

And against Butler, he gained 96 yards in 13 bucks.

Well, What Next? Pop Warner at Stanford and Jess Hawley at Dartmouth have furnished two interesting incidents this season.

Pop got tired of watching his players be every place but where the ball was and painted big circles on the seat of the trousers of his backfield players.

"You don't seem to be able to follow the ball," he cried, "so let's see if you can follow those circles."

Hawley also uses signs for his innovation. He has what really are guide posts for the backs. The guards on his team have the backs of their trousers painted white and the tackles have their painted black. It makes it much easier to locate where one is supposed to go.

My, Such a Flop! Wonder where all those fellows are who last winter said Lloyd Warner would prove a flop in his second year in the majors?

That, you may remember, was one of the things said pretty freely. The youngster had hit over his head, he wouldn't do it again he would flop, he would be just another ball player—so they said.

Well, the season is over and the averages reveal that Warner batted around .338 in 152 games for the Pirates this year. Only eight players who participated in more than 100 games had a better average.

It seems Donie Bush was right. He said Little Poison was a real ball player and he was this year for the Pirates.

Georgia Tech Expects To Defeat Notre Dame

Southerners Have Never Beaten Rockne's Eleven But Stand Good Chance Saturday.

By BOB MATHERNE

Once again, as it has been every year for the past six years, Georgia Tech awaits its annual clash with Notre Dame—and sees prospects of a victory over the Irish.

Georgia Tech never has beaten Knute Rockne's team. They have been playing annually under a home-and-home agreement and each year for the past six years the Irish have beaten the Golden Tornado. The scores have been small and the scores have been large, but Georgia Tech always had the lower score. In two games the Georgians defeated to cross the Irish goal line, never have the southerners been able to sneak over more than seven points on the Irish.

This year, you hear from Atlanta, it is going to be different. Atlantans have figured that way all the year and the early season games for both teams seem to indicate they have all the right in the world to feel that way.

They meet this coming Saturday in Atlanta—Georgia Tech is undefeated. Notre Dame has been defeated once. The Irish have won two victories, one over Loyola from New Orleans and the other over Georgia Tech twice—once by a 12-0 score in New Orleans, and won twice. Their big victory of the season was that of last Saturday when they downed Tulane, a team whose followers confidently expected victory over Georgia Tech, by a 12-0 score in New Orleans.

Coach Wallace Wade at Alabama, in a pre-season review of the prospective strength of the southern eleven, predicted a brilliant season for Georgia Tech.

"They should have a fast, heavy and experienced team this year," he said. "They have a great backfield of veteran stars in Thomason, Mitchell, Durant and Randolph and it would not surprise me to see them rank as one of the outstanding teams in the country when the season is completed."

His prediction has held to date. Regardless of the defeat by Wisconsin, one of the best teams in the middle west this year, Notre Dame is likely to trim the southerners

FOXY PHANN

The Yanks may have the greatest wrecking crew in baseball but they shouldn't forget what Harry Frazee did to the Red Sox again this year. Georgia Tech, however, has a better chance of defeating Notre Dame than she ever had before and a pretty good idea would be to toss a coin to decide the team you wished to bet your dough on.

It won't be an easy victory for either team—and the odds, because of the veteran and nice material on hand, may be with Georgia Tech. But who can be sure of anything this year, after what has happened already?

Y'SEE, IT'S THIS WAY.

"What do they mean by the 'witching hour'?"
"Don't you know? That's the hour when the wife greets you with, 'Well, which story is it this time?'"

TOWN FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP WILL BE SETTLED BY A SERIES

Receipts to Be Split Sixty-Forty; First Game at Mt. Nebo Nov. 18, Second at Hickey's Nov. 25; Tender Lineups Oct. 27; Cloverleaves Seek Three New Players.

The Cubs and Cloverleaves have grown up. They've been able to settle the details for deciding the town's football championship without the usual wrangling. Their meeting last night was the most peaceful and orderly session ever held between the north and south.

Everything came out just as was related beforehand in The Herald yesterday. The teams decided to play the "best out of three" game series with tie games to count. The first will be at Mt. Nebo on November 18, two Sundays before Thanksgiving Day, and the second will be at Hickey's Grove November 25. A third, if necessary, will be waged at Mt. Nebo. The total receipts of the series will be split sixty-forty.

Touch of Humor
The meeting was held in the office of Dr. A. B. Moran and the Cubs were represented by Coach Thomas F. Kelley, Manager Peter J. Vendrillo, Assistant Manager Peter J. Hapenny and Secretary and Treasurer Arthur E. St. John. Dr. Moran, club president, and Coach J. Leo Fay represented the Cloverleaves. The meeting lasted an hour and a half and not all of that time was taken up with a discussion of the series. The officials of both clubs were the target for considerable kidding by the other. This was especially so far as Hapenny, Moran and Fay were concerned.

Hapenny added a touch of humor to the proceedings quite often with witty remarks. There was many a hearty laugh when, after Moran had brought in light refreshments consisting of cake, gingerale and cigars, Hapenny warned his backfield star, St. John, not to participate because it might be a north end trick to put him out of the way. However, "Lefty" ate heartily and was none the worse to-day.

The only hitch in the proceedings was about the eligibility lists. The Cubs were ready to submit theirs, but the Cloverleaves asked a couple of weeks' delay. This was granted and it was decided that the lineups must be submitted on Saturday, October 27. Anyone who has ever played with either team before is automatically eligible, whether he plays before the championship game or not. This means that such men as Ding Farr, Jimmy Mistretta, Eddie Gill and others may play on or before Oct. 28.

Seek New Players
Coach Fay said he needed three new players—a backfield man and two linemen—but he promised not to obtain the services of any professional players. In all probability, they will be from out of town. Who they will be, is not yet known. There will be no limit as to the number of players each team may have on its eligibility list.

It was agreed to allow the rival coaches to select the officials. The ones obtained will not be as expensive as those hired last year. It is considered unnecessary to waste such a big amount of money for good officials. Both coaches feel that cheaper men just as efficient can be secured.

It was tentatively decided that each team will have twelve ticket sellers at the games and that an attempt will be made to obtain the services of Lewis H. Sipe, secretary and treasurer of The Home Bank

Short And Peppy Drills Are Best

BY JOCK SUTHERLAND
Coach Univ. of Pitt.

The cry that football takes up too much of the players' time is, in nine cases out of ten, unwarranted. Some coaches may overwork their players, but the majority of them understand the problems of their men and deal with them accordingly.

In planning his practice schedule a coach should consider among other things, the experience of his candidates and the spirit and enthusiasm of the squad.

If the schedule permits the squad to develop slowly, the coach has an opportunity to work with "green" material and is not forced to "cream" instructions into his players.

The makeup of the squad—that is, the age, physical and mental ability, and scholastic aptitude—must be taken into consideration.

It is more important to have spirit and enthusiasm than long hours of practice. An hour of peppy drill is worth more than an afternoon of listless practice.

Long, drawn-out practices send a boy home weary and dull. He forgets what he has been told. It is just as bad to have an over-coached team as an under-coached team.

The average student should be able to give one and one-half to two hours to football practice every afternoon without his studies suffering in the least. The majority of students waste the time between their last classes in the afternoon and dinner hour, anyway.

Some coaches believe that long hours of practice and intensive preparation for an important game put the squad on edge, but I am convinced that it is more important to keep up the spirit of the players.

I usually have an hour and a quarter of snappy practice daily. If a boy wants to put in additional time, I have no objection. One of the best halfbacks I ever had was an apparently hopeless prospect when he came out for football his sophomore year. He was out on the field an hour before practice began in the afternoon. He took a ball home with him at night and practiced carrying it under either arm. He practiced punting in the street in front of his fraternity house.

The boy developed fast. He played in a few games his sophomore year, was a regular the next season and a star his senior year.

Jimmy Hagan, who shared honors with Cactin Gibby Welch, Pitt's All-America halfback last season, was a mediocre player when he came to Pitt but he was determined to make the team. He diligently practiced in his spare moments on passing and punting, and soon became a regular. He is the boy who scooped up a fumble in the Tournament of Races game with Stanford and raced 19 yards for a touchdown.

PUBLIC WELFARE MEETING.

The Department of Public Welfare held a meeting in the State Capitol yesterday. In the absence of the president, Dr. Williams, Mr. James T. Moran of New Haven presided. The following homes were licensed to care for children: Mrs. Helen Alling of Plainville, for 1; Mrs. Felix Garceau of Yantic, for 2; Mrs. Horowitz, Chestnut Hill, for 2; Mrs. Allen Latham of Solliciting town, for 1; and Mrs. Herbert Watson of North Franklin, for 2. The Commissioner of Child Welfare reported the welcomed fact that for three months the number of children for whom other desirable plans could be made had far exceeded the number actually committed to County Homes. Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell of Norwich was appointed to represent the Department at the opening of the first Federal Prison for Women located in Virginia, to take place soon. The Christian Record Publishing Company of College View, Nebraska, was licensed to solicit funds to be used in sending a publication to the blind. The secretary spoke of the urgent need for legislation which would give the department authority to refuse licenses for soliciting funds to outside organizations which had no claim on Connecticut money. As the law now reads, it is compulsory that such a license be issued providing the applicant is a bona fide charity and has integrity.

DOCTOR'S SCISSORS LEFT AFTER OPERATION WAS THOUGHT TO BE CANCER

Nice—Annie Crotch, an Englishwoman living in this city thought she was suffering from cancer until the doctors removed a pair of pincers from her stomach recently.

She had her first operation in London a few years ago, later coming to France where she continued to suffer. The doctors then thought the trouble might come from the bladder, so she went under the knife a second time, with no better results.

Miss Crotch came to the conclusion she had cancer, so had an X-ray made which revealed a pair of surgeons' pincers in her stomach. They were left there by her first surgeon, eight years ago.

ACTORS SPLIT ON TALKIES

Clara Bow Declares Sound Films Are "Lot of Hokey"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles on the new talking movies. Today's story gives the views of prominent actors.

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 19—What will become of our present crop of motion picture stars if talking films remain in vogue? That is the question in Hollywood these days. When Warner brothers came out with their first Vitaphone production about two years ago, actors and actresses alike condemned it. They feared speaking films would throw them out of jobs.

As yet not a player in Hollywood has refused because of the talkies. Many old-timers have staged come-backs. But most of the folk out here whose faces are their fortunes would like to see the "producers forget all about dialogue in films. And many base their opposition to talkies on logical reasons.

Pie for Jolson
Al Jolson is with Vitaphone films hook, line and sinker. He would be. They took him off the stage and gave him a prominent place in pictures at almost double his enormous salary. His first production, "The Jazz Singer," started the ball rolling. Financially, it has been the most successful film of the year.

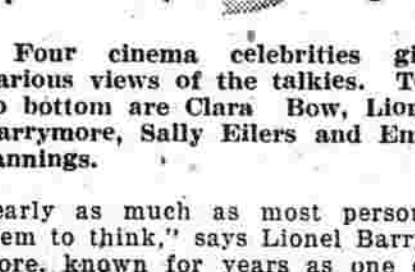

"I would like to make a talking picture although I do not think they will long remain popular with fans," says Sally Eilers, who far outshines the 1928 crop of newcomers.

"But I think the producers are going at this talking business all wrong. They think too much of voice and not enough of screen personality and acting ability. Many stage stars look marvelous behind the footlights. But when their faces are enlarged twenty or thirty times in a close-up, their appearance is far different. Producers don't think of that, however. The voice is good and all other necessary qualities are forgotten."

What Chaplin Says
Charlie Chaplin, who is the king of pantomimists, does not oppose sound effects, but he dislikes dialogue in films tremendously.

"The art of pantomime is complete. It doesn't need words," says Chaplin. "If we put speech into motion pictures we are complicating something it has taken us years to simplify. I will never use dialogue in my pictures. I can say far more with a gesture than I can with words."

"I do not believe the advent of dialogue has changed pictures

Four cinema celebrities give various views of the talkies. Top to bottom are Clara Bow, Lionel Barrymore, Sally Eilers and Emil Jennings.

nearly as much as most persons seem to think," says Lionel Barrymore, known for years as one of the finest actors on both stage and screen. "A voice is not as important as the gray matter and personality behind it. Even an unpleasant voice can be made pleasant by a pleasant personality. Personality has always been the prime factor on the screen and it always will be, dialogue or no dialogue."

Jolson and Chaplin Differ Radically on Subject.

Flapper Queen Speaks
Clara Bow, red-headed queen of moviedom, thinks that talking pictures are a lot of hokey. They can't possibly last, she says. And adds:

"Dialogue will reduce the quality of acting about 50 per cent. If actors must think about what they are going to say, they can't give their full attention to their performance. A few players in Hollywood might be able to do that, but most can't. And the producers can't suddenly bring in an entire new crop of actors."

"The movie set, at best, is a cold place to work. And when the sound pictures rob us of our music while we are working, it will be most difficult to give our best performance. I find it much harder to go through a particularly emotional scene when I know every word, I am saying is being recorded."

Lloyd Has Faith
Harold Lloyd is convinced that dialogue in motion pictures is here to stay. In his opinion spoken words will speed up the action in films. Heretofore titles have been injected to cover up slow spots. With dialogue that will be impossible. Consequently stories will have to be fast moving and should be more entertaining.

"I am about neutral on the subject," remarked Emil Jennings. "I do not think spoken words will ever aid me to convey a thought on the screen. Neither do I think they will be detrimental. Naturally I will have an accent when I speak. But my characters wouldn't speak perfect English anyway."

TOMORROW: Some leading exhibitors speak their pieces.

QUESTION OF VOTES

Hartford, Conn.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Neese must either establish a legal residence on dry land or be barred from voting. Their home is a houseboat on the Connecticut River and election officials have ruled the couple cannot vote unless residence is established in one of the city's wards—none of which extends beyond the river bank.

The oldest assembly in the world is thought to be the Welsh bardic congress, the elisteddod.

COVENTRY

Miss Alice Hill of this town and Alton Temple of Hopkinton, Mass., were united in holy matrimony at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hill, Wednesday, October 17 at 1:30. The wedding march was played by Master Howard Hill on the violin, cousin of the bride, who was accompanied by his mother Mrs. Hartwell Hill. The couple stood under a beautiful bower of autumn leaves and asters. Rev. J. N. Atwood performed the ceremony. The couple were attended by the bride's sister, Miss Florence Hill and friend Charles Campbell. The bride wore a white silk georgette crepe with a tulle veil and carried white roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in pink silk crepe trimmed with rhinestones. The bridal party left very soon after the ceremony to visit the studio and have their pictures taken. There were about 80 guests present, coming from Boston, Mass., Hopkinton, Mass., Patchogue, R. I., Vernon, North Brookfield, Mass., Manchester, Andover, New Haven, Tolland, Rockville and Coventry. The single ring ceremony was used. Mr. and Mrs. Temple left for the honeymoon to parts unknown but will be at home in about two weeks at their new home in Oysterbrook, Mass. The bride presented her sister with a beautiful white gold lavallere and the groom gave the best man a radium clock for his auto.

The ladies supper given Wednesday evening was a decided success. The net proceeds amounted to $47. Aside from the financial success of the supper the social side of the affair was also successful, everyone being made welcome and being made to feel entirely at home. The entertainment put on in the evening ing by the employees of the "Airway Sanitary Co." was certainly enjoyed by all. Mr. Moore's sleight of hand mystified everyone. The reading "Alaska" by Mr. Crocker, also his solos held the audience spellbound and the quartet displayed four wonderful voices. About $19 was realized on the entertainment alone.

Friends in town will be interested to hear that reports in regard to Mrs. Samuel Gowdy are more favorable. She seems to understand although unable to speak herself. The family have the sympathy of their many friends who hope for Mrs. Gowdy's speedy return to health.

The date for the annual thank offering has been set for Nov. 16. The committee in charge is Mrs. H. I. Barnes, Mrs. Newell A. Hill and Mrs. Charles Christensen.

The play "Getting Rid of Father" which will be given with the Choral club concert and New England boiled dinner is shaping up fine. The date will be announced very soon.

The Misses Rauh are visiting their grandmother Mrs. Sarah Marr.

Nuts, owing to the vegetable oil they contain, have a high food value. Hazel and Brazil nuts, chestnut, almond, walnut and peanut.

FOREIGN BORN TOURISTS FROM U. S. MUST PROVE CITIZENSHIP IN CANADA

Chicago.—Immigration rules which concern non-citizen motorists crossing the United States into Canada are being called to the attention of motorists by the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor Club.

A naturalized citizen should carry with him either his first or second naturalization papers.

Foreign born tourists who have taken out no papers, must get in touch with the Customs House and arrange to be furnished with the proper papers that will permit re-entry into the United States.

Strict rules against the return to the United States of anyone who is not a citizen apply at ports of entry. During the past few months there have been several cases where non-citizens have crossed into Canada without proper papers and have been refused re-entry. They are now awaiting opportunity to return under the quota law.

"GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

JUST FOR ONCE.

Pinehurst and its customers are on such a friendly basis that, for once in a way, we don't hesitate to make a general request for a favor—especially since we know perfectly well that its granting will work to the customers' advantage.

Here's the gadget! Our delivery system is a pretty finely adjusted machine. There isn't and can't be much allowance for play or backlash in the mechanism. And we find ourselves up against a pretty severe test. We're breaking in a new man in the delivery department and another in the store. And in a clockwork kind of organization like this, that means more or less of the play and the backlash—it's unavoidable.

What we would very much like to have our customers do—as many as find it perfectly convenient, of course—is to take especial advantage, this week, of our Friday evening telephoned order arrangement. The store will be closed, of course, but we have three phones working till nine o'clock taking week-end orders for early Saturday delivery. These orders are put up very early—before most folks are awake—and all ready for delivery by 8 o'clock in the morning. It is a tremendous help in getting rid of the Saturday jam that knocks out the efficiency of so many stores and brings so many bulged-up orders to the kitchen door. This week it is going to make things run very much more smoothly than they otherwise would.

Accept our thanks.
Pinehurst Suggestions:
PORK is very reasonable and very fine. We suggest a crispy-crust, deliciously white and tender Roast of Pork, or a Fresh Shoulder, boned to suit.
LAMB—Rib chops are 49 cents the pound—and perfect. Shoulders of Lamb, boned and rolled. Legs of Lamb—the little ones that are so often hard to find.
NATIVE MILK-FED VEAL—we said Native! Boneless Roasts cut from the shoulder, Rump Roasts, Chops and Cutlets. If you ever eat veal this is the appointed time.
POULTRY: Milk-fed Fowl and Milk-fed Roasting Chickens. The kind that leave just nothing at all to be wished.
Celery, Cranberries, Cauliflower—all Pinehurst quality.
Saturday afternoon deliveries are made up to 6 o'clock.

TOLLAND

The celebration of the 20th anniversary of the dedication of the Hicks Memorial School building given on the evening of October 17 in the school hall by the Tolland school board in cooperation with Miss Minnie Hicks, proved a pleasant occasion. The hall and library room were filled to capacity with the townspeople. An attractive program was arranged by Mrs. Claribel Lisk, who takes position of the schools. The children of the different districts took part and deserve much credit. Mr. Hutchinson, the soloist from Hartford and Mrs. E. H. Cobb of Rockville, the reader, gave interesting and pleasing numbers. At the close of the entertainment an informal reception to the teachers of the town followed. A. L. Young, school supervisor, made remarks fitting to the occasion.

Howard Skelley has sold his farm on the Merrow road to Mr. Benkoszy who takes possession of some this week. Mr. Skelley has purchased the home known as the Methodist Chapel at West Willington Tolland side and will remodel it for a home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomforde and son Alfred Thomforde of New York City are spending some time at their new bungalow and at the home of Mrs. Thomforde's brother Mr. Frank Luhrs and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wochomurka were recent guests of relatives in Springfield, Mass.

Miss Lillian Scott of Hartford is a guest of Miss Hazel West of Suisic district.

Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Beardsley and son Roger of Monroe, Conn. are guests of Mrs. Beardsley's aunt Mrs. Samuel Johnson and Mr. Johnson.

Henry Hill attended the wedding of his sister, Miss Alice Hill and Alton Temple in Coventry, last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Slater and child of Woodstock, Conn., were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Price.

Mrs. Darius Bennett of Willimantic, Mrs. Myron Whitman and sister of Medford, Mass., were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Steele.

Mrs. Joe Beckley and sister Mrs. Virginia Fowler who have spent several weeks at Mrs. Beckley's summer home here returned to New York City Thursday.

The regular meeting of Tolland Grange was held last Tuesday evening in the Federated church parlor. The regular business of the lecturer's hour was in charge of the Lecturer of Echo Grange, Mansfield Center. A fine program was carried out including violin solos, a sketch, recitations, story-telling, and singing. Visiting members were present from Mansfield, Coventry, and Little River granges. Refreshments were served by the following committee. Mrs. John H. Steele, Mrs. Emery Clough and Mrs. Ira Wilcox.

The reports of the commission on revision and codification of the school laws was referred by the General Assembly of 1927 to the State Board of Education. The latter will submit recommendations concerning these reports to the General Assembly next January. In the meantime the State Board of Education is seeking suggestions, advice and criticisms from all interested citizens. Accordingly a public hearing will be held in the high school auditorium in Rockville, Friday evening, October 19, at 8 o'clock. The legislation contemplated in the reports to be discussed, seems to the State Board of Education to be of tremendous significance for public education in Connecticut. At the suggestion of Dr. A. B. Meredith, commissioner of education, you are invited to be present and to bring with you citizens interested in public education and legislation regarding it.

Mrs. Joseph Usher of Stafford road who has been ill with throat trouble is now able to be around.

BUILD GUTTER BONFIRES IN SOME OTHER PLACE

And If That Doesn't Make Sense It Has Nothing at All On the Bonfire.

There has been, in the last few days a great gathering and burning of leaves, all over town. And in many cases, though the leaves are gathered from the yards they are burned in the gutters.

This is a practice which, in many places, is forbidden by city ordinance. Manchester has no such by-law. Yet there are several reasons why the practice is a bad one—primarily that the building of fires of any considerable size in the gutters is very likely to crack the curbing or the gutter or both. This is especially true of concrete gutters and curbs. And particularly if the concrete has recently absorbed considerably moisture, as is the case just now.

Bonfires are tricky things. They have to be closely watched, if built at all, to prevent their constituting a curbs. And to young children. And in this motorized age there are so many parked automobiles everywhere that a bonfire in any gutter is fairly apt to spread so as to involve one of them.

The best way to control a gutter bonfire is to build it somewhere else, so to speak.

TWO DAYS, TWO BUMPS THIS FORD'S RECORD

Two automobile accidents in as many days is the record of Howard Murphy of Spruce street.

Thursday, he and Jacob Sandler were riding in Fred Murphy's Ford when the driver crashed into a fence due to an abrupt stop made by a car ahead of him at Oakland. Sandler was so unnerved that he made the vow never to ride in an automobile again. However, no one was injured.

Yesterday, Howard Murphy and Thomas McCann were on a trip to Willimantic. The Ford stalled near the top of a steep hill and they pushed the Ford in an effort to get it started. However, in doing so, the car got started down the steep incline so fast that Howard Murphy was unable to climb into the car in time. Consequently, the car plunged down the hill and crashed into a telephone pole snapping it off. The car was very badly damaged.

MRS. GEO. H. WILLIAMS WINS HIGH OFFICE

Is Elected Supreme Trustee of Emblem Club at Convention in Elk Hotel, Boston.

Mrs. George H. Williams of this town, president of the Emblem club which has a large membership here and in Rockville and vicinity, was elected supreme trustee at the annual convention held this week at the Elk Hotel in Boston. Mrs. Williams and the three other head officers attended, namely Mrs. Thomas Dannaher and Mrs. Raymond Hunt and Mrs. Thomas Garvin of Rockville. The convention and banquet which were held at the Elk hotel were well attended and it was voted to convene at the same place next year.

The Emblem club is already making plans for a big charity whist to be held the third week in November. Mrs. Thomas Garvin was appointed general chairman. Next week Wednesday the Emblem club will have a public whist in the afternoon at the Elk home in Rockville. Mrs. Mollie Prutting was chosen chairman. The social held Wednesday afternoon was well attended. Mrs. Edwards Burns acted as chairman and the Manchester women on the committee were Mrs. Grace Moore and Mrs. Charles M. Milkowski.

Mrs. Griffin of Rockville won first prize in bridge and Mrs. Arthur Drayton first in whist. The committee served frankfurter sandwiches and tomato cake from a recipe printed some weeks ago in The Herald, and coffee.

CANADA NOW BOASTS
OF 272 MILLIONAIRES
Ottawa—Canada is steadily developing its financial register of money barons and magnates, according to the most recent reports, which reveal that the Dominion has 272 millionaires. Of this number 91
reside in the province of Quebec,
72 in Montreal alone, Ontario has
138, Manitoba 21,
British Columbia 9, New Brunswick 5, Alberta 4, and Nova Scotia 4.
Neither Saskatchewan nor Prince Edward Island yet boast a millionaire but wealth is well distributed in these provinces, largely in privately owned farms.

CANADA NOW BOASTS
OF 272 MILLIONAIRES
Ottawa—Canada is steadily developing its financial register of money barons and magnates, according to the most recent reports,
which reveal that the Dominion has 272 millionaires. Of this number 91
reside in the province of Quebec,
72 in Montreal alone, Ontario has
138, Manitoba 21,
British Columbia 9, New Brunswick 5, Alberta 4, and Nova Scotia 4.
Neither Saskatchewan nor Prince

WAPPING
Wapping Grange held its postponed regular meeting at the Center school hall on last Tuesday evening, with over eighty present, as was Neighbors' Night. The members of Andover and Ellington Granges were their guests. The program was furnished by the visiting patrons and was as follows:
A violin and piano duet, by members of Andover Grange with an encore, a sketch, "Listening In" by Ellington Grange; a vocal solo by Ellington Grange; an encore, a sketch by Andover Grange, "Friend Hubbard"; as Echo Grange could not represent, the lecturer, Miss Clara Chandler, asked Eugene Platt of Wapping Grange for a monologue, which he gave and also responded to an encore. Refreshments were served by Wapping Grange.

Mrs. Franklyn G. Welles, Jr., and infant daughter, Marilyn Dorothy, came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn G. Welles, Sr., of
Avery street, from the Manchester
Memorial hospital, on Tuesday afternoon, where F. G. Welles, Jr., is laid up with an injured knee. He is improving at this writing.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Some people who are important in their own way are also in the way of others.

LETTER GOLF

WHEW! CLOSE.

Par is only five on today's puzzle, so you see it really is a CLOSE SHAVE affair. One solution is on another page.

Grid for the puzzle with the words 'CLOSE' and 'SHAVE' written in the grid.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2-You can change only one letter at a time.
3-You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

The modern woman has been weighed and found wanting everything under the sun.

Some girls are too young to know better, but they are willing to learn.

Home to some Americans is a place where they stop to pay taxes while on their way from one resort to another.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinies eyed the funny man, and Scouty said, "Say if you please tell us all just who you are, and what you're doing here. You say that things grow here at hand, but frankly we can't understand just what you mean. What's waiting now for something to appear."
"Isn't he impatient," snapped the man. "I'll do the very best I can to make your visit pleasant. Just wait, and you will see. You'll find that I'm a friendly sort. I'm just like you. I travel round as carefree as can be."
"and now, as I have said before, a quite unusual treat is in store. Just gaze up that garden spot that's just ahead of you. I'll clap my hands and shout. GAZOOK! And then you Tinies take a look. Say, you will be surprised at what a wonderful thing I'll do."

close-eyed the barren little garden spot, the funny man clapped loud. And then he yelled, "Gazook! Gazook!" and shortly added, "Now, lads, look!" What happened was a big surprise to all the Tiny crowd.
Some little leaves began to grow out of the garden rather slow. "What is it?" shouted Scouty. "Is it something we can eat?" The man replied, "Oh, no! Oh, no! Just stand right still and watch them grow, and you will see that eating them would be rather weird, 'cause now some little heads appeared. They're little folks," yelled Clowny. "They are growing from the ground." And he was absolutely right. A lot of queer tots grew in sight. They started jumping from the leaves and running gaily round.
(The garden tots disappear in the next story.)

Let's Have a Hallowe'en Party!

Hallowe'en, or All Hallow's Eve, the night of October 31st. has for generations been observed with strange rites and revels. If you are planning a party for that night you will find everything here to make that party a success.

The Costume

The spirit of the occasion enters your guest when they come to your party gowned in Hallowe'en costumes. For inexpensive but effective costumes we suggest using gay carnival prints at 29c a yard, colorful cambrics at 12 1/2c a yard, and decorative cats and pumpkins at 5c and 10c a package. Masks and hats are 10c each.

The Table Decorations

The Hallowe'en table must be a bright spot of color. Crepe paper table cloths in orange and black at 25c each and napkins to match for 15c a package are very desirable. Of course, you will want snapping mottoes at 10c each, place cards at 15c a dozen and plain nut cups at 10c a dozen.

The Noise Makers

All sorts of queer noise makers can be found at our Stationery Department—wired black cats that actually "me-ow", whistles cleverly hidden in orange roses, fancy decorated horns and rocking cats with green eyes that really do wink priced at 10c each.

The "Goodies"

We have just received a splendid assortment of Hallowe'en "goodies." Chocolate novelties—pumpkins, cats and witches, at 5c to 29c each Jack O'Lantern creams at 50c, orange and black pumpkin drops at 29c, and salted mixed nuts at $1.50 a pound.
