

GIRL ATTEMPTS TO BURN SELF IN A FURNACE

Takes Off Clothes and Thrusts Arms, Legs and Head Into Firebox—Her Eerie Story to Police.

Lake Forest, Ill., Oct. 31.—Mystery surrounding the horrible burning of pretty Elfrieda Knaak, former University of Chicago co-ed and Sunday school teacher, was cleared today with the girl's own story, sobbed from a bed of pain in a Lake Forest hospital.

Miss Knaak said she held her body to the roaring mouth of the furnace to "purify" herself and show her faith when her "psychic sweetheart" failed to keep an appointment with her.

Her head, arms and feet were horribly burned. Even if she recovers, physicians say, both arms and possibly the right leg will have to be amputated.

Eerie Love Rite

The eerie love rite, unparalleled in the lore of psychic phenomena, occurred Monday midnight in the police station where the man she claims as her "spiritual lover"—Charles W. Hitchcock—was employed as night marshal.

Hitchcock is 45 years old and the father of four children. By day he is a teacher of salesmanship, public speaking and expression. Miss Knaak seemed not to know that for the past week Hitchcock has been laid up at his home with a broken leg.

The young woman's story of how she climbed to the mouth of the furnace and held herself there until she apparently dropped unconscious to the floor, tallied with facts in the possession of investigators. Her nude body was found near the furnace early yesterday. She was rushed to the Lake Forest hospital.

Her Confession

At the first consciousness, State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county bent forward and asked:

"Who did this?"

"I did it myself—for faith, for purity," she signed.

By deers, this story was drawn from her.

"I have known Mr. Hitchcock for four years. I studied from him while I was teaching school in Waukegan. A few months ago I got to know him spiritually."

Heard Voices

"Understand, this was no material love affair. Advanced psychology made me understand him. For several weeks I have been hearing

THRILL MURDERERS TRIAL NOV. 13

Prosecutors Say They Have Perfect Case Against College Students.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 31.—A "perfect case" has been built up against George Harsh and Richard Gallogly, alleged "thrill" murderers, prosecutors announced today.

The two college youths probably will go on trial Nov. 13. The date, however, is still tentative.

Defense counsel indicated today they would seek separate trials for the sons of wealthy families. Should this be allowed the state plans to put Harsh on trial first, because they believe they have a stronger case against him. Harsh confessed, police said, to killing two store clerks during a series of hold-ups and implicated Gallogly.

Over in Fulton tower, Harsh and his companion were settling down to jail routine. Harsh maintains a confident manner.

In reply to queries, police said they have made no attempt to connect Harsh with a daring holdup and murder in Milwaukee.

Another Murder

Although they have forwarded photographs and fingerprints of Harsh as requested by Milwaukee authorities, they have not thus far grilled the erstwhile university student regarding the killing of Emil Muszwiler, aged grocer, in the Wisconsin city.

Detective Chief A. Lamar Poole said he would not question Harsh about the Muszwiler murder until he was asked to do so by Milwaukee police, who, according to reports, are trying to connect him with the fatal shooting.

It was stated by authorities here that Harsh, who spends his vacations with his widowed mother near Milwaukee, was in the Wisconsin city during September, the month of the killing, and that the gun reported to have been used in the series of Atlanta crimes was brought here from that place.

ANOTHER LOEB AND LEOPOLD CASE?

Here are the Atlanta "thrill slayers", the 21 and 19-year-old college students who are charged, upon the confession of one, with two murders and seven hold-ups. George Harsh, Jr., left, Oglethorpe University sophomore and son of a wealthy Milwaukee shoe manufacturer, is said to have confessed to the series of crimes and to have implicated Richard Gray Gallogly, right. Gallogly, a fellow student and chum of Harsh, is a son of a prominent Atlanta family.

Real Queen To Seek Fame In Hollywood

Ranee of Sarawak in Borneo Is White Woman Married to White Man King—Her History.

London, Oct. 31.—For the first time in its history, Hollywood is going to have the wife of a ruling potentate among its aspirants to film fame.

Her Highness the Ranee of Sarawak, queen of the ruler of the romantic independent kingdom on the Faraway Island of Borneo, is leaving London shortly on a trip through the world, her final destination is Hollywood, where, in common with thousands of others, she plans to seek recognition in the land of the Klieg lights and cameras, offering as her stock in trade a number of scenarios and a wealth of experience concerning that quarter of the world where her husband is king.

Strangely English

An English woman will not be a dusky, bejeweled, sari-wearing Ranee who will seek entrance to Hollywood's gates, but instead a modestly dressed English woman of middle age, the daughter of one of England's oldest and most aristocratic families.

Nor will she be looked upon as a white woman who has made some strange alliance with a swarthy eastern ruler, for His Serene Highness, Rajah of Sarawak, ruler of some 500,000 natives, is himself a white man known in private life as Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, hereditary ruler of his kingdom by virtue of a century old edict of the Sultan of Borneo.

Lady Brooke, or "Her Highness," as she prefers to be known, revealed her plans to International News Service during the course of an interview at her palatial home "Ascot Hill," standing on a rise above the famous race course where the society of England gathers each spring.

TEN YEAR SENTENCE

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 31.—"The most outrageous case of its sort in the records of Fairfield county," according to Loren W. Willis, assistant state's attorney, was presented to Judge E. C. Dickenson in Superior Court here today when Augustus Lowden 42, of Greenwich, appeared to answer a statutory charge. Lowden pleaded guilty and Judge Dickenson sentenced him to serve ten to twenty years in state prison.

Judge Dickenson then sent Oscar Gaudin, 36, of New Haven, to jail for six months when the man pleaded guilty to transporting "intoxicants. Gaudin was arrested at Darien July 29 while driving a truck containing several barrels of wine.

Pasquale Varlo, 46, went to jail for one year after pleading guilty to a charge of assault with intent to kill. Varlo had a quarrel with Charles McLoughlin over a dog and shot McLoughlin in the arm.

ROGERS PAPER CO. PURCHASES CASE CO. MILL

North End Plant at Oakland and Mill Streets Sold by A. Willard Case Company Today.

The sale of the A. Willard Case Company's paper manufacturing plant at Oakland and Mill streets in the north end to the Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company, of this town, was announced today by an official of Case Brothers. The north end paper plant has been idle for a long period. It has been kept in first-class condition, however, and can be put into operation almost immediately. Paper stock and supplies, not a part of the plant, were being removed from the mill by Case Brothers today.

Deaths Cause Suspicion

When a Willard Case, the founder and owner of the company, died on Dec. 22, 1925, the management of the concern was taken over by his son-in-law Joseph N. Viot. Mr. Viot died a little over a year ago and no one of the Case family could be spared to take charge of the north end plant. Other members of the family are busy attending to the operation of other mills controlled by the Cases. For this reason it was decided to dispose of the Oakland street plant.

No Statement

Charles Ray, president and treasurer of the Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company, declined to make a statement in connection with the sale.

Political Experts From Both Sides at a Loss to Figure How These Millions Will Vote Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 31.—The most spectacular presidential campaign in a generation turns into the stretch with both sides publicly proclaiming a great deal of confidence and privately admitting quite a few doubts.

The Democrats are asking themselves if Gov. Smith can hold the east. The Republicans are asking themselves if Secretary Hoover can overcome the admitted Republican disaffection in the farming states. And both Republicans and Demo-

SUSPECT IS HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

Stamford Stenographer Dies From Attack by Stranger On Lonely Road.

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 31.—Victim of a brutal attack on the lonely Magee road in Shippan Point after she had accepted a lift from a passing motorist, Olga Bays, 20, pretty stenographer, died early today in Stamford hospital.

The girl, repulsing the advances of the lone driver, was beaten by him and then thrown from the car as it crossed the bridge over a creek. In falling she struck a jagged rock and her skull was fractured.

Two hours before she succumbed to her injuries, a man of striking appearance about 30, a university graduate, and reputedly New York millionaire was taken into custody.

Held Suspect

The suspect's identity was not disclosed. He was brought here last night from New York by Stamford detectives in charge of Chief of Police John Brennan.

The case against him is built on a chain of circumstantial evidence and is expected to be clinched by the dying girl's own statements.

The girl told police she was in a hurry to meet a friend at the Stamford station where they were to see Gov. Smith's train go by. When the stranger came along in the car she accepted his invitation to take her to the station. Instead he swerved off the main highway to the unlighted Magee avenue road, near the city dump, and when his actions became offensive the girl attempted to fight him off. The stranger beat her, Olga said, until she lost consciousness.

All Kinds Of Offers Await Zep's Stowaway

Berlin, Oct. 31.—Clarence Terhune, 19-year-old St. Louis adventurer, who stowed away on the Graf Zeppelin thus opening the way to international limelight and a good job, will find all kinds of offers awaiting him when the Graf Zeppelin reaches Friedrichshafen.

America and Germany are already competing for the young man. Among the offers are some from music halls, others are from business concerns and one is from an animal circus which will shortly go to America.

The manager of the Hagenback Animal Show, of Hamburg, tried to steal a march on his rivals by sending a radiogram direct to Terhune on board the Zeppelin. He offered the American youth a job at his own price, but it is believed that American dollars will win over German marks when the stowaway begins to consider the many proposals.

If Clarence desires to become a journalist he will find the opportunity awaiting him for a position as reporter is among the offers on hand.

The Tietz department store at Aachen, which follows American methods of advertising, sent word that there is a good job awaiting Clarence in that department if he desires to go into trade.

All Germany is interested in the sensational exploit of the 19-year-old youth and he is certain to be the attraction when he lands.

REAL ISSUES STRESSED AS CAMPAIGN WINDS UP

Prosperity, Tax Reduction and the Protective Tariff Rushed to Front Line by Republicans.

Washington, Oct. 31.—National prosperity, tax reduction, business stability and the protective tariff were rushed to the front line trenches today as the Republican Party's major issues as the campaign to elect Herbert Hoover president entered its final stage.

While the Republican nominee began the work of closing up his capital headquarters, the leading spokesmen of the party hammered some business issues as a final reason for a Republican victory next Tuesday.

Hoover will touch upon the same issues lightly in his St.

HUGHES CAMPAIGNS IN NEW ENGLAND

Calls Smith's Stand on Prohibition a Sham Battle and Tells Why.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 31.—Declaring that the "war of words" would soon be over and the "mudslingers and wise crack artists" would leave the stage, calling for a careful weighing of the campaign issues and assailing Gov. Alfred E. Smith on the prohibition, tariff and other problems, Charles Evans Hughes today had carried his speaking tour for Herbert Hoover into New England.

Before an enthusiastic audience of 7,000 persons here last night, the distinguished jurist warned against the "invasion of the disreputable politics" as advanced by the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Smith, he said, endorses policies which "if I understand him right would introduce government into business on a vast scale with a vast increase on bureaucrats."

The former secretary of state characterized the Smith stand on prohibition as a "sham battle." Pointing out that the Constitution can be changed only by a vote of 36 states, the speaker asked:

A Sham Battle

"If this is not a sham battle, why are the majority of the Democratic candidates in the House and Senate running on a platform pledging themselves to support the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act?"

Mr. Hughes said he was not satisfied with present conditions, but added: "I must admit that I do not wish to see matters made worse and that I believe would be the result of his (Smith's) election. He would not change the constitution or the laws, but I believe there would ensue far greater demoralization than we have had and that the difficulties of obtaining even the measure of enforcement that we now have would be far greater."

RELIGIOUS RIOTS

Mexico City, Oct. 31.—Many persons were killed in a violent attack by Liberators (Religious) rebels at Axtorillo El Alto, Jalisco, yesterday, said a dispatch from Guadalajara today.

Several hundred well armed rebels attacked the town and fighting raged for nine hours before Federal reinforcements from Guadalajara forced the rebels to retire. The outskirts of the town were strewn with dead. It was the heaviest assault since the religious uprising started.

Giant Dirigible, Delayed by Bad Weather, Is Forced to Deploy Northwestward Along Bay of Biscay on Coast of Western France—Expected to Reach Home To- night But Last Message Leads Zeppelin Experts to Plan for a Landing Tomorrow Morning.

Friedrichshafen, Oct. 31.—Delayed by bad weather which forced her to deploy northwestward along the Bay of Biscay on the coast of western France, the Graf Zeppelin is not expected here until tomorrow morning.

Ludwig Duerr, constructor of the Zeppelin, ordered all landing plans for tonight cancelled.

The Zeppelin Works received the following radiogram from Commodore Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship:

"The Graf Zeppelin at 4 p. m., German time (ten a. m., E. S. T.), is 100 miles southwest of Brest, N. F. It was upon the basis of this report that Herr Duerr announced that the airship would probably land the first thing Thursday morning. Later he ordered the ground crew of 200 men to disperse."

ARRIVES TONIGHT

Friedrichshafen, Oct. 31.—Based upon the report that the Graf Zeppelin was approaching the French coast, the Gulf of Gascony at 11:21 French time (12:21 p. m., German time) it was believed this afternoon she would reach her home hangar between 10 and 11 o'clock tonight (German time) unless tail winds enabled her to accelerate her speed across France. It she traveled at 60 miles an hour she should reach Friedrichshafen between 10 and 11, but aided by tail winds she might push her speed to 80 miles an hour or better which would enable her to arrive here ahead of that time. The distance to Friedrichshafen from the Gulf of Gascony is approximately 640 miles.

Extra searchlights have been set up to aid a night landing.

Heavy rains are reported over France, but a strong wind was blowing out of the west.

SOME CRITICISM

Berlin, Oct. 31.—There was considerable criticism here and in Friedrichshafen today over the American weather reports which were issued to help guide the Graf Zeppelin. It was pointed out that while the American bulletins were sometimes erroneous those of the Hamburg weather station were accurate. The Hamburg forecasters predicted both the storm which damaged the Graf's port fin and the voyage westward and the Labrador storm on last Monday night, while the American stations, in both cases, persistently reported fair weather.

OVER FRANCE

Bordeaux, France, Oct. 31.—The wireless station at Mèhugac reported that the Graf Zeppelin flew over the Gulf of Gascony at 11:21 o'clock this morning, French time.

The Gulf of Gascony is on the extreme southern coast of France, just above the Spanish border, near Biarritz, indicating that the Zeppelin has been forced onto a course far south of that contemplated, just as was the case on the airship's westward flight.

It is some 400 miles southwest of Paris.

From the Gulf of Gascony the Graf Zeppelin with its 24 passengers, crew of 40, and one stowaway, will have to travel more than 600 miles in a direct airline before reaching its home hangar at Friedrichshafen. As it was almost noon when the ship reached the gulf, it was estimated that it would not reach its destination until late tonight.

NEARING EUROPE

Berlin, Oct. 31.—Having successfully weathered terrific gales on the first half of its return flight from Lakehurst, N. J., to Friedrichshafen, Germany, the Graf Zeppelin was believed to be nearing the European continent today.

Latest reports from the Zeppelin stated that the 24 passengers, the crew of 40, and the lone stowaway aboard were all well and had apparently suffered no ill effects from the buffeting of the winds.

The Zeppelin, according to weather experts, has now entered an area of better meteorological conditions. It is still believed to be holding to

A voice say 'have faith—have faith.' That was his voice. "Thus we commenced, though material distance might place us far apart. "I had an appointment with him last night. He did not keep it. I had given him all, all my love. When he did not appear, I commended with him in the spirit world before the fire. Again I heard the voice—'have faith.' "To prove my faith, I thought of the fire. I removed my clothing which I burned. Then—I burned myself."

No Suicide Attempt

After calling for a drink of water, the girl rested a moment and then continued, a triumphant smile lighting her countenance: "But I survived. I proved my faith, and I'll live. Be sure of this: I knew I would survive. This was no effort at suicide."

Dr. A. J. Rissinger, who attended the young woman, said the story seemed incredible. "To believe it," said Dr. Rissinger, "you must accept these facts: "She first placed one foot, then the other, in the furnace, and kept each there for some little time. Then she thrust in head and arms and held them there under what certainly must have been terrific pain. The firebox is only 12 1/2 to 8 1/2 inches."

Marshal Hitchcock, located at his home in Hatfield, denied that he had ever had any sort of love affair with the girl.

"I gave her lessons in sales psychology for two years," he admitted. "She then withdrew to take a position with a Chicago publishing company, then she has visited me for advice. When she encountered difficult problems I told her how to handle them. That was the extent of our relations."

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Nora Fitzgerald

Mrs. Nora (Shea) Fitzgerald wife of John Fitzgerald, Sr. of Brainard place, died last night at 11:15 after an illness of less than a week. She was not considered as seriously ill until late Monday night. Death resulted from the formation of a blood clot in the region of the heart.

Born in Killarney, County Kerry, Ireland, sixty-seven years ago, she came to this country in 1882 and made Manchester her home. She was married in St. James's church, forty-two years ago to John Fitzgerald, by Rev. James A. Campbell, the first parish priest of St. James's. Every since her marriage she has lived within 200 yards of the home to which she went as a bride, first on Main street and then, with the opening of Brainard place, thirty years ago, on that street where she and her husband erected a home. She lived there until her death.

Mrs. Fitzgerald essentially a "home lady," maintained warm friendships with many persons throughout the town. Of peculiarly sympathetic nature, she was a comforter and helper in many a home visited by bereavement or trouble. Her acts of kindness were innumerable. She had reared a family of five boys, Paul, John, Louis, Harold and Edward; and three daughters, Alice, Helen and Julia Fitzgerald, all of whom lived at home with the exception of Louis, who lives in Rockville. They were all at her bedside when she died, as was her husband and one sister, Miss Helen Shea, of Boston.

Mrs. Fitzgerald is also survived by a brother, Daniel Shea, of Boston, and another brother, Cornelius Shea, and a sister, Mrs. Mary O'Connor, who live in Ireland. Three of her sons, Paul, Louis and John were in the military service during the World War. The others, Harold and Edward, were too young.

The funeral will be held Friday morning at 9:30 at the home and at 10 o'clock at St. James's church, where a requiem high mass will be celebrated. Burial will be in St. James's cemetery.

G. W. FERRIS QUILTS BOARD OF RELIEF

Sends in Resignation When Illness Prevents His Serving Actively.

The serious illness of George W. Ferris which will probably prevent him from serving as an active member of the Board of Relief has resulted in Mr. Ferris's resignation being presented to George H. Wadell, Secretary of the Board of Selectmen. Mr. Ferris since becoming a member of the board, first by election, and afterwards by appointment has served as clerk. His term would not have expired this year and as Edward W. Lynch had not been appointed that would leave only one member of the Board, E. L. G. Hobenthal, Jr., to serve for the coming year. Mr. Ferris was identified with Cheney Brothers for 52 years, retiring in August, 1927, and at the same time holding an interest in Ferris Brothers, a hardware concern then located at the corner of Main and Oak streets.

George W. Ferris

In becoming a member of the Board of Relief he adopted a different method than what had been previously followed, as he made a record of each complaint, the amount asked to be rebated, and also a full list of the property. It was during his first term as a member of the Board of Relief that they functioned as such, for in addition to giving relief they carefully went over the books of the assessors and their own accord made several deductions. They also added to the lists several pieces of property which had not been listed by the assessors in previous years. Mr. Ferris is a Republican and as a member of the Board was pleasant and congenial to all who found it necessary to go in the office for business. This now leaves two places on the Board of Relief to be filled by the Selectmen as no successor has yet been named to fill the position of Edward D. Lynch.

STATE RESTS CASE AT LEOPOLD TRIAL

Waterbury Arson Case May Go to the Jury Late This Week.

Waterbury, Conn., Oct. 31.—The case of the state against Louis Leopold, charged with having been responsible for the deaths of two boys when his Baldwin street store was destroyed by fire last February, was rested this afternoon before Judge Carl Foster and a Superior Court jury, and the defense planned to start its work before recess for the day. Before resting, attorneys for the state endeavored once more to have Sergeant Henry Johnson, of the local police department, put on the stand to tell of a conversation he had with Leopold when Leopold was arrested. The state also wanted the sergeant to tell how Morris Shelnitz, then a patient in New Haven hospital, had identified Leopold in connection with the fire. Judge Foster ruled against the state, as he had done before. Arthur Schroder, a local insurance agent, was the last witness for the state, and related Leopold's negotiations for additional insurance during the week before the fire. An expert furniture man was called to describe the condition of the furniture found after the fire. He declared it appeared to him to be largely second-hand furniture and not what the insurance policies called for.

BEBE DANIELS AT STATE TOMORROW

Is Starred in "Take Me Home;" Also Zane Grey's "The Water Hole."

"Take Me Home," the latest Bebe Daniels picture which comes to the State Theater for tomorrow and Friday, is going to turn out to be a complete surprise—a surprise in the sense that Bebe Daniels has cast off the slapstick type of role for a better dramatic one, and her characterization in her new role as a stage actress was exceptionally well done.

Those of her fans, however, who like Bebe giving one of her characteristic performances in a light comedy vein will not be disappointed with her latest offering. There is comedy in the picture, and it is handled by Miss Daniels in her own excellent way. There are many light moments when the audience is lifted with laughter proving that comedy has not been clipped out of the picture altogether.

"Take Me Home" is a comedy drama of back stage life. It is a story of a chorus girl and a love affair which brought her success. There is a smashing climax that has many thrills and humorous moments.

Miss Daniels is supported by Neil Hamilton, Lilyan Tashman, Joe E. Brown, Doris Hill and Marcia Harris. Marshall Nellan directed.

Paired with the above feature for tomorrow and Friday is Zane Grey's "The Water Hole," a thrilling, fighting tale of the Arizona wastelands starring Jack Holt.

In bringing this latest of Zane Grey's stories to the screen, none of the so-called beauty and atmospheric charm has been lost. In fact, critics claim it to be the greatest western picture of the season.

Holt, in the role of the daring young westerner, who rescues the fair heroine from many hairbreadth escapades, has the most brilliant role of his career. He is given able support by such noted stars as Nancy Carroll, Jack Perlin, Tex Maynard and Ann Christy.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 6, B. S. A., of the South Methodist Church, held its regular meeting last night in the Scout room. Senior Patrol Leader, son lined the troop up and Patrol Leader Borst received the patrol leaders' report. The scoutmaster put the troop through a calisthenic drill which kept the boys on their toes. The scoutmaster dismissed the patrols to their dens notifying the Flying Eagle patrol and the Panther patrol to assemble in the scout room. These two patrols held a first aid quiz, which was run off as a contest. A scout from one patrol would ask a scout from the other patrol a question which he was supposed to answer and if he failed he would go to the side that asked the question. The team having the largest number of men at the end of the contest won.

Scout Elmer Borst gave a report on his trip last Saturday to Oyster Bay as a delegate from Troop 6 to the Roosevelt Memorial ceremonial, which was held in that place. This affair is held every year and scouts representing different troops are sent as delegates. Borst stated that there were at least a thousand scouts in parade.

All Manchester troops will soon be preparing for contest work as a committee is at work now preparing a schedule of events and dates. These contests were held last year and many close results were the outcome. The Boy Scouts invite parents and the public to attend these meets.

Thursday night at the Recreation Center the Scoutmasters Troop will hold its annual meetings, when officers will be elected.

Dated at Bolton, Oct. 22, 1928.

Going Up!

Nightly, now, her smile is winning new hearts all over America. She is lovely Corrine Burton, whose New York home is the New Weston Hotel. Her march to fame includes a season each in "The Music Box" and "The Scandals;" and now, under Chas. Bowers' direction, she's going up in the movies!

"I don't believe in overlooking any point which may help make your presence pleasing," says Miss Burton. "Recently, I learned the method of caring for the hair, which is all the rage among New York girls, now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your hair. It makes my hair so easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my scalp and hair so clean and comfortable that I don't shampoo half as often as I used to. It gives my hair such a silky, soft and lustrous appearance that friends comment on it."

Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand of hair, restores its natural color, gives it new lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragrant. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles. Lovely, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.—Adv.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR "JOASH DAY" Third Anniversary of Dedication of South M. E. Church Comes Sunday.

A unique scriptural ceremonial will be held at the South Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday, November 4, the third anniversary of the dedication of the church.

Rev. R. A. Colpitts, pastor of the church, issued the following statement about "Joash Day" this morning.

When a few years ago the people of the South Methodist Church decided to erect a great modern ecclesiastical structure, their adventurous spirits admitted a serious handicap.

The French capital will, for instance, have a world championship bout on December 1, when Corporal Izzy Schwartz, flyweight champion, meets "Spider" Pladner, European champion and challenger.

Auguste Escoffier, Prince of Parisian cooks, undisputed chief of French chefs, has recently composed a kitchen gem in honor of the Italian Dictator Mussolini.

Mauch Chunk, Pa.—This borough saved some money and freshmen in the local high school learned the meaning of "labor" recently.

Philadelphia.—It cost John Murphy $20 to kill a cat. Agent Price of the Anticruelty Society told Magistrate Cozens that Murphy threw the cat against the wall of a church with the remark "it won't annoy me again."

Mule Market Slow In South As Crops And Prices Waver In The Balance

Warrensburg, Mo.—In Missouri, that state so noted for the massive mules which have served on battlefields and farm so obstinately yet nobly throughout the last decade, it is generally conceded by buyers of the animals that there must be a bad cotton crop in the South, else the mule market would not be so bad.

As goes the cotton market so goes the mule market, is another of those complicated associations with the markets. At least that is the opinion of Walter Jones, one of Missouri's largest mule buyers.

PRIZE FIGHTING GETS COMEBACK WITH PARISIANS

Paris.—Not since the days of Georges Carpentier, "Gorgeous Georges" as industry known such prosperous times in Paris as just now. Every festive reunion is crowded like the New York subway, and fight promoters are eating caviar for lunch.

The sudden eagerness of local fans to see the "sock and dance man" in action, and to pay for it, is explained by the appearance on the fight scene of such colorful native stars as Roubis Humery and Pladner, one a world champion and the other two championship contender.

WHITE RATS IN MARATHON RACE FOR SCIENTISTS

Berkeley, Calif.—Sixteen white rats are running a marathon in little wire cages at the University of California to permit scientists to increase the world's knowledge of the effect of the ductless glands and of vitamins upon energy output or activity.

Dr. Joseph Yoshloka, research associate in psychology and anatomy working under Dr. Herbert Evans, discoverer of vitamins E and F, is conducting the experiments, one phase of which had its beginning back in 1916.

At that time Dr. T. B. Robertson, in the department of biochemistry, isolated "tethelin" from the anterior lobe of the pituitary gland which was claimed to hasten the healing of wounds.

Dr. F. E. Smith, working under Dr. Evans, a few months later failed to substantiate this result but found that the anterior lobe of the pituitary gland regulates metabolism, growth and visual development.

Since that time slaughter houses in every part of the San Francisco bay region have contributed the pituitaries of freshly killed cattle. Pituitary, the drug which is made from the posterior lobe of the same gland has an entirely different action from that made from the anterior lobe.

Science has discovered that this former vital substance has an important effect in hastening the birth of the child.

Hyper-pituitarism, abnormal function of the pituitary lobe is a cause of one type of gigantism. Hypo-pituitarism, or subnormal function of the pituitary, leads to one type of infantilism, the true dwarf.

Drug Den In Private Apartment Stirs Capital's Narcotic Officers

Washington—With the Cafe Le Paradis padlocked, a certain element of the capital's young set has resorted to opium for a thrill. Mere scraps of girls in their early teens are said to have indulged in the habit.

Police believed this city, of all others in the country, would be the last where narcotic peddlers would establish a clientele. It is here that the great army of narcotic operatives of the U. S. Department of Treasury plan their drives against drug vendors.

Observations of citizens led the authorities to their discovery. Scores of young men and girls enter and leave the apartment, residents in the vicinity of an apartment house in the residential section said. Police watched the house and verified the tip. They suspected it was a speakeasy.

Police charged the apartment in a raid. Those inside refused to open the door. Entrance was forced and the raiders found Robert De Soto Miller, 42, and a young couple. The youth and girl appeared dazed. They gave furtive glances at the officers and said nothing. Miller came to their rescue. He assumed ownership of the apartment and the couple were permitted to leave.

Drugs Are Found Search of the premises revealed a quantity of drugs had been hurried down an air vent. Evidence was found that more had been washed down a wash basin.

In another air vent the raiders found an improvised opium pipe. It showed signs of much use. Two "stoves" for heating the drug were among the paraphernalia seized. The police said they were still warm.

Miller was held on a charge of violating the Harrison Drug Act. It is thought he was just preparing a "dream party" for the couple when interrupted. The little ship of a girl managed to declare she had just entered the apartment when the raiders forced their way in.

Only Miller knows how many young boys and girls have attended his nightly parties. The neighbors said his premises were in full sway every night. Police would like to learn the names of the young people who have smoked the pipe. They want to notify parents so they might be cured of the habit before it becomes a craving.

Narcotic operatives said that ninety-five per cent. of addicts first indulged in "dope" at such parties. Invariably those registered claimed they took their first "shot" or "stove" from an opium pipe, merely for a thrill. The other five per cent. became addicted to drugs by medicine administered by unscrupulous physicians to relieve them of some ailing sickness.

As a rule the first relation with drugs usually develops a craving that haunts the mind and batters the nervous system for its constant use, officials said.

One narcotic agent remarked about the "dope farm" Capt. John Logan, head of the Baltimore Van uniters of America, conducted to cure addicts who wanted to rid themselves of the habit. He said approximately 200 men and a half dozen women entered the hospital and professed willingness to follow instructions so they might be cured.

The cure consisted of two "shots" of morphine or cocaine daily. One was given in the morning and the other at night. Each day the amount of drug was reduced. The cure was mainly a taper method, the patient receiving less and less every day until he reached the day when he received none.

As the cure progressed and the amount of drug had decreased to a very small amount, the patients lay about in agony. They begged and pleaded they be given the drug. The narcotics were locked to prevent thefts. It was summer. All days the men lay about on the floor, or the front steps, ever waiting for the health department physician to arrive and administer the treatment.

The amount of "dope" given now is not sufficient to satisfy their craving. Many of them left the hospital to seek the drug the best they might. Quite a number died, their bodies falling to withstand the top of narcotics. The remaining were considered "cured."

Only One Cured Only one of this group was actually cured. The others fled before the final day of the "farm." He was a physician but had been brought down from his profession by the habit.

This doctor, the only one of the patients to receive his certificate as cured, remained in Baltimore and the Volunteers of America kept constant check upon his movements. He studied again on medical and surgery books and landed a place on the staff of Mercy Hospital.

Captain Logan was proud. He often referred to the physician as one addict who was actually cured. Then he received a shock. A physician and nurse at the hospital were arrested by narcotic operatives. They were charged with robbing the hospital's drug supply. The thefts covered a few years—entire time the doctor was on duty there—the nurse systematically took the drugs and delivered them to the physician. She was dismissed and the doctor was sent to Atlanta prison. He couldn't resist the temptation.

"The doctor told me he got the habit from a 'shot' administered to him during an illness," the agent who told about the Baltimore treatment added. "Addicts find it hard to quit the racket and I fear that the majority of the young boys and girls who frequent Miller's apartment will find it a big struggle to leave the pipe of happiness alone."

"The motor industry of Europe is advancing at a rapid pace and American-made cars practically dominate the market," he said. "It is becoming more and more evident, however, that in order to retain this dominance in the foreign market American manufacturers must sooner or later locate and assemble their products abroad."

Sloan declared that in England and the Continent alone the export volume of General Motors Corporation will exceed $100,000,000.

SUICIDE MANIA IN GERMANY ALARMING; MANY ARE CHILDREN

Berlin—The suicide mania among Germany's youth is assuming alarming proportions.

Latest statistics show that in 1928, Prussia alone produced this record: Suicides between the ages of 5 and 15: Fifty boys and nine girls. Suicides between the ages of 15 and 20 were 2159 boys and 861 girls.

In Berlin, every seventh suicide is committed by youths between 5 and 20 years of age, and every sixth death within that age range is a suicide.

Psychologists attribute this suicide mania to three causes: Father and son conflicts; awakening love; Excessive school requirements.

Conservatives, of course, also blame the times, the revolution, the destruction of veneration for establishment order and authority. Germany's youth, however, has always been prone to suicide ever since Goethe wrote his "Werther's Leiden" which made "Wertschmerz" popular and suicide fashionable—a state of emotional exaltation which finds expression in the song that "for bonny Annie Laurie I'd lay me down and die."

It is held remarkable, however, that this age of sport and freedom has only intensified this mania.

GENERAL MOTORS CORP. HAS PROSPEROUS YEAR

New York, Oct. 31.—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, who has just returned from a five weeks business survey abroad, said today that the corporation would establish a record year and earnings for 1928 would approximate $16 million common share. He was non-committal as to what action the directors would take at their meeting November 8 except to say that stockholders could rest assured they would receive "something of a pleasant surprise."

"The motor industry of Europe is advancing at a rapid pace and American-made cars practically dominate the market," he said. "It is becoming more and more evident, however, that in order to retain this dominance in the foreign market American manufacturers must sooner or later locate and assemble their products abroad."

Sloan declared that in England and the Continent alone the export volume of General Motors Corporation will exceed $100,000,000.

FEW FOREST FIRES

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 31.—Connecticut today appeared to be on the road for a new record in the matter of autumn forest fires, according to Austin F. Hawes state forester, who reported that but three fires have been discovered to date with destruction of only small areas of plant life. The previous light fire season occurred in 1920 but even then there were 400 fires burning 1,000 acres of land. The state forester also reported having forty-one trained crews ready to fight fires this fall.

TEACHING IN MATHS TO AVOID LOSING GOLD

REC NOTES

The School Street Recreation Center will be the scene of a big Halloween dance and frolic this evening. The large gymnasium has been appropriately decorated in Halloween attire under supervision of Elmer Johnson and Eric Crawford. Black and gold tissue paper, cornstarch and pumpkins constitute the trimmings.

Indications point to a large attendance. Directors Lewis Lloyd and Miss Yola Lalonde have arranged a program which they feel sure will prove entertaining. One of the main features will be the witches' dance by twelve members of the West Side High School Girls' club.

Prizes will be awarded for the prettiest and funniest costumes, but it is not obligatory that one be in costume. McKay's Serenaders will furnish the music. Miss Lalonde, Mr. Lloyd, Mrs. Walter Wilkinson and Frank Busch have charge of the program.

Due to the Halloween frolic, the women's gym and swimming classes for this evening have been canceled.

Members of the Manchester Police Department have expressed a desire to learn more about swimming and a class has been set aside for them to be held every Thursday afternoon from 4 until 4:45. Frank C. Busch will be in charge.

The second annual five-mile cross-country run for the championship will be held Thanksgiving Day morning, November 29. The same course as last year will be used. The start will be at 11 o'clock in the morning. Anyone wishing to compete should give his name to the School Street Rec.

Attendance at the public setback parties held every Monday evening at the East Side building is increasing steadily.

Due to the requests for additional instruction in handcraft, a new class has been formed for Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock. Sessions are now held three times a week, on Mondays and Wednesdays from 2 to 4 and on Fridays from 7:30 to 9:30. All are at the West Side Rec. The classes are busy now making gifts for Christmas. The hooked rugs class will not begin until January 1.

All women interested in setback are invited to the public card party at the West Side Rec on Cedar street tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. A whist party will be held at the East Side Rec at the same time Friday afternoon.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

AS TO QUALITY For the past two days Pinehurst has been emphasizing in this space the fact that all its interest, its courtesy, its service, go into the filling of the little economy order as well as in attending to the elaborate purchase involving much more cash. Every word we have said goes. This food shop plays no favorite and has no halfhearted notions about doing business only with wealthy or extravagant people.

But there's another point that we must emphasize, too. That is Q-U-A-L-I-T-Y. On that point Pinehurst never gives ground for an instant. The food we sell has got to be simply and irrevocably THE BEST. This is of special timeliness just now, for there never has been a time in our recollection when there was so much inferior food in the market, especially in the meat line, as right now. The prevailing high prices of meats are responsible, of course—they are bringing onto the market classes of stuff that ordinarily would go into by-product.

Pinehurst isn't dealing in these things. Isn't going to. Couldn't afford to under any circumstances. It has taken us too long to get where we are—to build this reputation for Good Things to Eat—to sacrifice it at this stage of the proceedings.

Even that soup bone that we have been talking about comes from a heavy, properly fattened, healthy steer—and a good soup bone, even, is several times as good a proposition as a poor one. And this holds good through the whole line of our commodities. Pinehurst Quality continues and will continue to mean something definite.

QUALITY, plus friendly courtesy, plus the best service we know how to give, and the lowest workable prices, are at the base of Pinehurst business principles. The phone, remember, is 2000—and it will bring you nothing but QUALITY goods.

The new Buick is the new Style

Men and women on every street--in every city and town--are pronouncing the new BUICK with Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher, the most beautiful automobile of the day.

Never before in the history of motor car manufacture have the motorists of America welcomed any new automobile as they are welcoming the Silver Anniversary Buick with new Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher! Sweeping into the market at a time when motor car lines were practically standardized—when imitation was destroying individuality—the epic Buick creations introduced an entirely new mode—

A mode of body-symmetry—of size and magnificence—of soft contours instead of straight lines—of embossed side and hood panels involving the most costly steel paneling work employed on any car in the world! And as the weeks have passed—and the full significance of Buick achievement has become apparent to the public—enthusiasm for this car has swelled and grown to unprecedented proportions!

Buick sales records have been broken. Production schedules have been increased again and again! The great Buick plants are working to the limit of their capacity to supply the demand.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 31, 1923

OH NO, IT ISN'T

Frequently during this campaign it has been stated in print that never before in the history of this country has there been such bitter feeling shown in a Presidential contest. This is the veriest nonsense. It is true enough that the present battle has not been, at all times, pretty fought; that many things have been said that cannot fall to leave scars, and that there has been a not inconsiderable element of dirt among the ammunition expended. But it is utterly untrue that passions have been aroused to an unprecedented extent.

Those who declare that they have must be scantily familiar with the history of their country; because the campaign is a mild and innocuous thing compared with the bitter, murderous mood of the American people during the Presidential contest of 1860. Restraint was thrown to the winds, then, and differences in political belief made desperate enemies of friends and neighbors. The most rabid charges made by any responsible agency in these days against either of the Presidential candidates is polite and considered criticism compared with the abuse heaped on Abraham Lincoln by his political enemies.

In 1923 we know perfectly well, all of us, that no matter who is elected next Tuesday we are going to live along, afterward, in amity and good-neighborliness. We differ sharply as to several very important matters—such as the tariff, prohibition, public policies of various sorts—and we do not minimize the likelihood of serious economic mistakes being made by government as to the result of the election. But we are at least agreed that, whether anything happens to make times better or worse, we shall not fly at each other's throats and go to slaughtering each other, as our fathers and grandfathers did as the result of the campaign of 1860. Very much to the contrary. We have all got to live under the same laws and under the same government and we shall all do so, loyally and as serenely as possible, knowing that if we err in our national decision this time we shall at least have full opportunity to rectify our error after four years. And we are not fools enough, in the light of our historic experience, to devote that four years to destruction and mutual murder, as did the factions in the 60's.

Yes, this campaign has been bitter enough—is sufficiently bitter in its closing days. But we have learned some sense, at least, as compared with our national state of mind sixty-eight years ago, and shall not let the bitterness poison the sources of our national life. That makes all the difference in the world. And it is this newspaper firm belief that by the time the next President is nominated there will be only a handful—and these the hopelessly spiteful and unregenerate by deliberate choice—who will not have forgotten all about the acrimony and mud slinging of this campaign.

After all, mud slinging isn't brickbat slinging. Mud cracks no skulls—and it only sticks to people who don't wash.

MAKE-BELIEVE

One of the most telling points made in the speech of Charles Evans Hughes at Worcester last night was his inquiry why Governor Smith, if his anti-prohibition campaign is not a sham battle, does not get the voters of the country to elect a wet Congress to support him in his program.

There is no question but what Smith's strength with the independent and wet voters lies in his promise to do something to ameliorate prohibition. But it is well known that, without a Congress of his own mind, no President could do anything whatever in this relation. If Smith were really out to bring about prohibition reform, would it not be a vital part of his campaign to fight for the election of Senators and Representatives favorable to his views, as Mr. Hughes points out? It would appear that any real crusader against the dry laws, seeking the Presidency, would rather be defeated in an effort to get real control of the liquor law situation than to be elected by devices which would leave Congress in control of the dials.

Yet Governor Smith gives not the slightest hint that he expects the dry Democrats of the South to elect wet Congressmen. He is perfectly willing they shall elect whom they please as their representatives and senators, though they be as dry as a cork leg, provided he gets the votes of the Southern states.

Mr. Hughes is making a splendid campaign for Mr. Hoover; but at no point is he hitting the Democratic candidate as hard as in showing up the insincerity of Smith's appeal to the anti-prohibitionists.

OF LITTLE FAITH

Massachusetts Democratic leaders don't seem to have a great deal of faith in the discrimination of their party's voters. They have been raising a hubbub because, on the blanket ballots in use in that state, the name and voting space of the Democratic electors is directly in line with the name and voting space of the electors of the Workers' Party—the Foster-Gitlow communistic group.

On the Massachusetts ballot the voter puts his cross at the right of the name for which he wishes to vote. If all Democrats should do this in the Bay State on Nov. 6 every Democratic vote would register. But apparently the Democratic leaders are fearful that some of their followers can't be instructed to check at the right side—or, rather, that the instruction won't "take." They are afraid that some Democrats will check on the left side of the column, and the space at the right of the Democratic column is at the right of the Workers' Party column, so that Democrats so checking would register their votes for those two engaging citizens, Foster and Gitlow for President and Vice-President.

The Democrats take this danger so seriously that they not only have prevailed on the election commissioners to stagger the names and spaces on a million ballots yet remaining to be printed but have applied to the courts to compel the commission to throw away the million already printed and substitute staggered ballots in their place.

Aside from being a sheer waste of money this doesn't seem to be very complimentary to the intelligence of the voters themselves. However, it may be worth the cost to remove the alibi.

CONVERSION?

Governor Smith has stated that 80 per cent of the Democratic candidates for Congress have replied affirmatively to the request of Mr. Raskob that they pledge themselves to support the Smith tariff program—which Mr. Borah describes as the most marvelous exhibition of an entire change of mind in the annals of time.

We are not so sure we agree with Mr. Borah on this point. It may indicate a change of mind, and then again it may indicate a change in phraseology. The southern Democrats used to be hot for a "tariff for revenue only." But they epitomized their tariff theories in the Underwood bill, and we have Mr. Smith's own word for it that the Underwood bill was predicated on the theory of a "competitive tariff." Mr. Loneragan and Mr. Kopplemann, who spoke here the other night, are likely enough among the 80 per cent who pledged themselves to agreement with the Smith program. Yet both spoke for the "competitive tariff."

It seems highly probable that no Democratic congressman cares a whoop whether there is a general tariff bill or not, so long as there is plenty of tinkering, through many little bills, and so long as they are on the "competitive" basis.

On the whole this doesn't look like any more of a conversion than that of the ass who resolved that hereafter he would not be an ass but a donkey.

DIFFERENT

Oglethorpe University, in the state of Georgia, has produced two unusual specimens of the results of pampering, plenty of money, the lack of discipline and satiation with the ordinary pleasures of life. These two students, to get a thrill, engaged in several holdups and murdered two men.

Now a flock of lawyers has been engaged to defend them and we shall probably have the Leopold-Loeb case all over again. The state of Georgia has become, in the course of many years, somewhat notorious for the eagerness with which its citizens resort to the rope or the firebrand as curative agencies in the treatment of emotional crime. True, it is not customary in Georgia to lynch white persons, that institution having been established for the purpose of dealing with the crimes of Negroes, presumed in Georgia not to be reachable by the example of legal process. But in the present instance it is to be inquired whether any Negro's crime was ever less intelligible or more the fruit of brute impulse than the crimes of these Oglethorpe students.

DAVIS' QUEER POSITION

John W. Davis spoke for Governor Smith at Hartford last night. Of all the speakers in this campaign he occupies the most singular position. His last night's audience interrupted him with cheers at many points in his speech—generally when he mentioned the name of Governor Smith. And poor Mr. Davis had to stand there and hand out the support of the most meticulous party regularity to the Democratic candidate, in the full knowledge that the same individuals who were waxing so enthusiastic over his words went to the polls, four years ago, and smote him hip and thigh with their ballots.

No Republican plurality of eight thousand for Coolidge could have been heaped up in 1924 in the city of Hartford without many hundreds of Democrats voting for the Republican candidate. And their real reason for doing so was sheer vengeful anger at the failure of the New York convention to nominate Smith.

It is, of course, to be expected that these 1924 Coolidge Democrats should be willing to forgive and forget the affair of four years ago. The willingness of Mr. Davis to be equally forgetful, however, displays well-nigh angelic.

THE PUMPKINS OF HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en was originally a day set apart by the church for the vigil of the Feast of All Saints, and the original meaning was "Hallowe' Evening." The superstition of the peasants modified the original sense and surrounded Hallowe'en with delightful and mysterious tales of ghosts, witches and hobgoblins, possibly a survival of the ancient Druidic rites when women were lit to keep away the witches, ghosts and wicked souls, called forth that night by Shamen, the lord of death.

The children in Europe celebrated the day by scooping out the interior of large turnips, and cutting in eyes, nose and mouth so that when a candle was placed inside the shell, the light shone through in a realistic manner at night. These were the original Jack O' Lanterns, but it was not long before the playful peasantry substituted pumpkins for turnips, because they were not only easier to prepare, but presented a more hobgoblin-like appearance.

The demand for pumpkins around Hallowe'en and Thanksgiving has so increased the price that they are now a profitable crop. The pumpkin was cultivated along the fields of corn by the Indians long before the coming of the white man as it still is by American farmers fully five centuries later.

Pumpkins vary in size from one to two pounds to two hundred pounds or more. The fruit is hard next to the rind is most nourishing and is eaten in many ways, from the pumpkin soups of France, and Italy to the pumpkin pie of America. The seeds have long been used as a remedy for tapeworm—in fact, they are regarded as almost a specific.

Pumpkins, although a fall crop, may be kept until spring if stored in a cool dry place and protected from frost.

Quite an industry has recently developed for the purpose of drying and grinding pumpkins into pumpkin flour for the use of bakers in preparing pumpkin pie. The pies prepared from this flour are equally as well flavored as those prepared from the fresh pumpkin, and have the added advantage that we may now enjoy pumpkin pies the year round. The dried pumpkin is equally as nutritious as the fresh, which is rich in sodium and phosphorus. Here are a few suggestions for pumpkin recipes:

Pumpkin and Spaghetti Soup Use two cups of chopped pumpkin pulp, a quarter of a pound of spaghetti, and six cups of water. Cover these ingredients, and boil slowly until the spaghetti is cooked, then add one cup of hot milk and boil for one minute. Add one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and season to taste. (This is a starchy soup and should not be used with acid fruits or a protein meal.)

Pumpkin and Potatoes Two turnips (optional), three cups of chopped pumpkin pulp, four medium sized potatoes peeled. Boil these ingredients in salted water until soft. Drain and mash. Add one-fourth of a cup of condensed milk or cream, one tablespoonful of butter, mix and serve. The juice that is poured off may be used as the base of a soup. Baked Pumpkin, Apples, Raisins Cut off the stem end of a small pumpkin, scoop out seeds, and fill pumpkin shell with chopped apples, raisins and pulverized walnut meats. Mix ingredients with ground Melba toast, moisten with small amount of milk, and place in baking pan. Bake in moderate oven for fifty minutes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Running Sore Question: K. S. P. asks: "Can a running sore from a bone be cured? If so, what is the remedy?" Answer: Your question is too broad a one to be answered in this column. Many running sores from the bone can be cured if the right treatment is taken in time, but a careful examination of each case must be made to determine the cause. The method of treatment would depend upon the findings of such an examination.

Non-Weight Producing Foods Question: Mrs. R. S. writes: "Please advise what foods can be eaten without putting on weight. I walk about four miles a day." Answer: The non-starchy vegetables and acid fruits are not fattening. All fats, proteins and carbohydrates are fattening to some extent to people who are susceptible. Some protein may be used in the anti-fat diet, but the carbohydrates and fats should be avoided until the habit is normal.

Stomach and Brain Trouble Question: Mrs. H. A. S. asks: "Would a continued stomach trouble destroy brain cells and they be lost forever?" Answer: I am sure that any stomach trouble always has an effect upon every part of the body, including the brain. The brain cells are constantly dying and new ones growing in their place; unless there is an abnormal degeneration of these cells they are always replaced. When a large group of brain cells becomes destroyed, it is liable to produce paralysis or some other trouble which is very marked. In such a case, the destroyed cells are usually not restored.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc. 54 YEARS at SOUTH MANCHESTER

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 31—Just four blocks west of that amusement apex known as Times Square, the scenes of life shift rapidly and the glamour of lights is soon forgotten in the drab gloom of squalor. Where, at 42nd and Broadway, men struggle to pay $10 a seat for the latest musical hit; four blocks west men pick clear-cut butts from the sidewalks and hum dimes for rooms in a flop-house.

Where, at 42nd and Broadway, eater fronts glare and flaunt their gaudy amusement wares, four blocks west the buildings are in sad need of paint; ancient circus signs and show bills make shredded pattern on old building sides; bluesy-looking tenements and cheap rooming-houses run down to the river; an odd mixture of old shops stare vacantly and shabbily into the street.

A bit more than four blocks, down from the world's amusement magnet, there is one little painted place which, at first glance, could be mistaken for an old-clothes store. And in the window there is a hand-printed sign which reads: "Applications for Santa Claus now being filed." There are other signs admonishing the stray sheep to "Come to Jesus tonight" and to find comfort at the "rightly-prayer meetings."

But it's the "applications for Santa Claus" that makes you stop and look in.

Looking in, you see a great counter laden with old clothes. The counter is made from two saw-horses and three loose boards. About the counter are men and women, pawing and overturning. They are humans with pennies and dimes to spend. Some haven't even the pennies and stop to ask if there's anything to be given away. They are admonished to "come back in the morning and we'll see what's left."

The rough counter takes up but a portion of a small ante-room. It is separated by a partition from a larger room. An arch connect's the two. Through the arch one sees lines of rude wood benches and a sort of pulpit adorned with Biblical quotations. Mission workers slip in and out. As the door swings open and shut, the noises of Broadway are carried by the wind, down the street toward the river. There are let-over-ones of music from a radio store, the magnified bedlam of thousands of automobile horns and that indescribable sound that crowds make as they rush about.

A little more than four blocks west of the gateway to a mad playworld, four tattered men stand about a desk, a few feet from the spot where other men and women maul about in a pile of old clothes. They are "making applications for Santa Claus." Two are middle-aged; one is old; one is in his early thirties. All are marked by poverty—and there is that beaten look in their eyes; that abused and hunted look.

"Well you see," the little bald-headed man begins, as he dries the last application with a blotter, "You see we have learned to start early so that we will get out the most ready. Just before Christmas, you know, all sorts of bums come up looking for Santa Claus jobs. And we've sometimes so hard up for men that we take anyone. But we'd rather give the jobs to men who really need the work and the money. So we begin to register them early so that we will have time to make proper investigation."

That young fellow you just saw has a sick wife and a baby. He hasn't had steady work in weeks and winter's coming on—and he doesn't know how he'll keep them warm and fed. Now we'll try and get him something, but he'll be first on any list we make out for Santa Claus jobs. You know we send them out on the street to raise money for the poor for Christmas and the jobs last for six weeks or more, and they can make up to $17 a day. Yes, that's why we register them now—so that we can pick the neediest."

GILBERT SWAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, Oct. 31.—Pennsylvania has 38 electoral votes, Ohio 24, Indiana 15, Illinois 29, and Michigan 15, a total of 121.

Here is a solid group of populous states accustomed to voting the Republican ticket in a presidential year. Most impartial calculators believe Hoover will carry them.

The Democrats might win the election, even if they all remained solidly Republican, but their task would be comparatively simple if they could break into that bloc. They insist they will and they may, but the "dope" is that they won't.

As usual, in this series, we find ourselves thinking of what happened in 1920 and 1924 and trying to figure out just what Smith can take away from Hoover. Politics is full of too many uncertainties for anyone to accept the assurance that the five states now in discussion are certain for anyone, despite their enormous Republican majorities in the recent past.

If Smith carries any one of them, it probably will be Illinois, although his managers seem to be surprisingly optimistic about Pennsylvania.

His Illinois hopes are based on the likelihood that he will carry Cook county and the possibility that farmer discontent downstate will prove extensive enough to keep down the G. O. P. majorities outside Chicago. It is predicted that the state ticket will run far ahead of the national ticket, but Smith has a long way to go to wipe out the 876,000 plurality which Coolidge had over Davis four years ago. The Coolidge plurality over the combined Davis-LaFollette vote was about half as large.

The death of Boss George Brennan was a blow for Smith. It hasn't been demonstrated yet that there was anyone in Chicago half able enough to step into his shoes. Shortly before Brennan's death there was a rumor about that he had made some sort of a deal with the Republicans by which Smith would be the beneficiary. At any rate, Brennan was heart and soul for Smith, and his continued leadership would have brought more brains, money and effort into the Illinois contest than appears to have been used.

It may seem curious that whereas not a single Republican leader in Illinois was out for Hoover before the Kansas City convention, they have all been shouting loudly for him this fall. There is or has been a G. O. P. factional fight in Illinois, but it hasn't been allowed to impede the national campaign. There would now be not the slightest question about Illinois if the state were not wet, partly agricultural and possessed of a large Chicago negro vote, nor a Republican, but this year split.

If Chairman Raskob's claim for Pennsylvania is well based, Raskob must know something that few others know. The Coolidge plurality over Davis was about a million and even if Smith gets the 300,000 LaFollette votes of 1924, it seems to the ordinary observer too much to overcome. Hardly anyone questions, of course, that Smith will do much better in Pennsylvania than either Cox or Davis did.

The Democrats fired their Philadelphia city chairman, who was accused of trading with the Vore machine and claim to be assured of an honest count. The Democrats are excited and have picked up a number of prominent Republicans to support Smith, but even if Smith were to carry both Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, the rest of the state, except for the coal mine regions, probably would return majorities against him.

Similar prophecies of reduced Republican majorities are made for Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. Smith will run strong in the cities, but Hoover is expected to be invincible in the less densely populated sector.

Indiana has a farm vote, some of which probably will go to Smith. A warm factional war in Republican ranks and the fact that the state is pretty sick of its Republican scandals are likely to react in Smith's favor. Apparently distrustful of his erstwhile enemy, Senator Jim Watson, Hoover set up his own Indiana organization, and some of Jim's people are sore. But Smith's religion and his wet stand are expected to carry a special appeal to women voters and save the day for Hoover.

In Ohio the Democrats claim to have recruited large numbers from the Republican ranks, especially among foreign extraction and negro voters. Ohio, too, has had its Republican factional troubles, hanging over from the pre-convention struggle. But although Smith is likely to carry Cleveland and may get west Cincinnati, Republicans don't seem to be worrying about the state.

There is a possibility that Smith will carry Detroit, but no one seems to be predicting that he will carry Michigan. His main asset in Michigan is National Committeeman William C. Comstock, the Democratic candidate for governor, who has been plugging for Smith just as if he expected the whole ticket to win.

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT

Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(191) Connecticut As a Consumer of Lumber
Connecticut people require nearly ten times as much lumber as the forests of the state produce. The consumption during a recent year was 392,340,000 board feet, which is equivalent to 250 board feet per capita. This is in striking contrast to the per capita consumption of the Pacific Coast state which during this same year was 320 board feet.

It costs $4,000,000 to transport the lumber used in this state in one year, from other states and foreign countries. The state's largest freight bills are for lumber imported from the western states and from the southern pine region. The freight charges on the 79,132,000 board feet shipped to Connecticut from the Western region in a recent year was 1,498,546, while the freight bills on Southern pine totaled $1,216,766. The total amount of Southern pine used in Connecticut for the year was 115,631,000 board feet. The central region sent 9,781,000 feet into Connecticut during the year and the Lake region 1,360,000 board feet. Approximately 100,000,000 board feet were imported from foreign countries, mostly soft wood lumber from Canada.

Lumber imported by Connecticut from its neighboring states amounted to approximately 20,000,000 board feet during the year. The total importation from the northwestern region which includes the New England states, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, totaled 86,436,000 board feet. The freight charges on this lumber were $282,074. From Massachusetts, Connecticut imported in a recent year 16,877,000 board feet, from New York 1,901,000 board feet and Rhode Island 1,102,000 board feet. Of the 392,340,000 board feet used in Connecticut, 110,051,000 board feet, or nearly 28 per cent, were used in the manufacture of wooden products.

MANCHESTER LETTERS ON GRAF ZEPPELIN

About Two Dozen Sent From Here to Germany by Dirigible; Mrs. Bengs Sends Most.

At least two dozen letters and postcards from Manchester are aboard the air liner Graf Zeppelin which is now near Friedrichshafen on the completion of its trans-oceanic flight from Lakehurst, N. J. It was learned today. Assistant Postmaster William S. McCann said that about two dozen letters and postcards were mailed at the south end post office to go by dirigible. About a dozen were mailed at the north end office.

The price of a stamp to send a letter to Germany by steamship is five cents while a post card costs only three cents. However, to go by air, an additional charge of one dollar is made on each letter and fifty cents on each post card.

Mrs. Emma Bengs, wife of Carl Bengs of 121 Park street, probably takes all honors for sending the most mail on the Zeppelin from Manchester. When the dirigible came across on its first oceanic flight, Mrs. Bengs received three letters and four postcards. The mail sacks aboard the "Zep" now contain three letters and four postcards written by Mrs. Bengs to friends and relatives in Germany.

Mrs. Harry B. Bissell of 43 Elwood street received a post card on the first trip and sent back two.

Tigers' 1928 Outfit Is Team Of Destiny

Dopesters Figure That Princeton Will and Must Beat Ohio State on Saturday Afternoon.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 31.—In 1928 football at Princeton University about to spawn another team of destiny, one of those fancies of fate without which Hollywood would be just a barren "arrow." That approximately was the local idea today as a group of young men, humorously known as the student body, began to see study in the light of a virtue for the first time while they thumbed back six years through the leaves of their football diary to prove that Princeton will and must beat Ohio State at Columbus on Saturday.

Six years ago, Princeton had a football team that apparently couldn't go wrong, if it would. The fact of the matter was that it wouldn't. They say here that the 1928 outfit is much the same, only more so, and after it beats Ohio State—Their story, not mine—it will have placed eastern football in the position it long has deserved—still their story—and long has escaped in a high, sensational manner, the afterthought being mine. The east has become a bit over-stuffed on the patronizing air with which it is viewed by the rest of the country.

Have Great Chance.
This year, it has a great chance to produce an unchallenged champion of the nation and Princeton figures it can do its part by beating the team that possibly is headed toward the Big Ten title. If that is achieved, the Army, having beaten Southern Methodist in the southwest and Yale in Harvard, winners over two southern conference teams, then can draw a line through Yale and Princeton to levy authority on the Big Ten. All it would need after that is victories over Nebraska, probable Big Ten champion, and the impending winner on the coast, to take title to the national championship. And all John Bananas needs toward his first million is $999,999.99. I know this because I personally saw him spend the other cent this morning.

A pretty picture with Princeton. It is a pretty picture and it hasn't much wrong with it except that the best of the south, Georgia Tech., Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Florida, etc., don't figure in the analogy while one of its worst, Virginia, got a scoreless tie with Princeton.

It is this incident around which resident optimists are weaving their notion of destiny. Princeton might have been scored upon in this game. It wasn't. It should have lost to Cornell on Saturday. It didn't. That, they say, was the team of destiny all over again, a team that apparently didn't have anything, yet always had enough. It was the team that went west to Chicago to do the best it could. Its best, with Chicago leading by 13 to 7, was just to go to bed and sleep very bravely without it.

The present Princeton team only is like its predecessor in the fact that it has appeared in an unprepossessing light. It differs in the fact that, on paper, it has the semblance of strength. It has Miles and Wittmer, the two backs who beat the Buckeyes last year. It should have better than fair forwards, with Howe, Bartell and Lawler, 1927 veterans, and Stinson and Barfield, 1927 substitutes, with which to do business.

The intangible something that links cohesion with strength, however, hasn't clicked as yet. This should be very disturbing, from the standpoint of Ohio State.

The woman scorned is insipid matter compared to Princeton football team that has been denied its click and suddenly finds out about it.

BAKER KNOCKED OUT

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 31.—Enthusiastic followers of Jackie Fields today hailed him as the "welterweight champion of the world" as a result of his sensational two-round knockout of Sergeant Sammy Baker here last night.

The "title" was a little far-fetched, as Joe Dundee officially rates as champion. But if Dundee attempts to sidestep the California wallop, it is a foregone conclusion Fields' friends on the coast will "crown" him by acclamation.

The crowd was a disappointment to promoters only about 15,000 fans sprinkled Wrigley field as the first preliminary went on. Stragglers brought the crowd to about 18,000.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Los Angeles—Jackie Fields, Los Angeles, knocked out Sergeant Sammy Baker, of Mitchell Field, N. Y., leading welterweight contender, 2nd round.

At Atlanta, Ga.—Young Stribling knocked Sid Terris, North Carolina heavyweight, 3.

At Boston—Jack Gagnon, New Bedford, Mass., heavyweight, won decision over Tony Fuentes, of San Francisco, 6.

At New York—Eddie Guida, New York lightweight, won decision over George Balduo, of Maine, 10.

LONG AND SHORT

Speaking of Football

Three Commonly Used Defenses for Pass Are Explained by Famous Pitt Coach.

By "JOCK" SUTHERLAND, University of Pittsburgh Football Coach

There are three recognized and commonly used defenses for forward passes: The man-for-man defense, the combination of both. There are also variations of the above.

I won't venture to say which of these defenses merits special mention. I use all three, depending upon which of the three I think best suited to meet the attack expected.

The man-for-man defense calls for certain defensive backs and the center to cover certain offensive men. Each man is responsible for the offensive players he has been assigned to cover. The defensive player follows his man to the sidelines. He goes down the field with him, never letting him get out of reach.

In the "zone" defense, defensive backs are assigned certain territory to cover or guard. They play ball rather than any particular backs or ends.

The combination of both means what it implies. Some defensive backs and the center, if he is playing out of the line, are held responsible for territory, while other players are instructed to watch certain men.

Occasionally, to reinforce the defense when passes are expected, a guard, a tackle, or an end is instructed to cover some offensive man who is eligible to receive a pass, or to drop back into his own territory to guard a designated zone.

Sometimes a guard is assigned to cover territory over the center of the line. This is only done when there is considerable yardage to be gained, and the guard is reasonably certain no play will be sent through his position.

Defensive ends on the so-called "weak side" of the line are frequently "dropped back to cover flat" territory, the area between either end and the side-line. This is done in most cases when it is difficult for the end to rush the passer.

Tackles are used in much the same way. They either drop back and cover territory or have an understanding with the defensive backfield that they will cover some eligible back.

The practice of bringing out certain men such as guards, ends or tackles to cover eligible pass receivers is never used unless there is absolute certainty that a pass will be used, and the question of which linemen to use depends upon the attack and the player's versatility.

Next: Coach Sutherland gives his ideas of why plays fail.

HERALD BOWLING LEAGUE TO ROLL THURSDAY NIGHTS

Twelve Teams to Start Next Week; Matches at Murphy's, Farr's and Conran's; Officers Elected.

The Herald bowling league will be a twelve-team circuit and will begin operation on next week Thursday night. Matches will be held at Murphy's, Farr's and Conran's alleys.

That was the action taken by the representatives at their re-organization meeting held last night at the Rec. John McMenemy, well known north end bowling fan, was elected president of the league, Tom Clarke of The Savings Bank of Manchester, treasurer, and Frank Cervini, secretary.

It was voted to allow each team to use ten men. Seven of these must be in the hands of the secretary by next week Tuesday night at the latest and the other three may be picked up any time during the first round. The idea of this is to give weak teams a chance to strengthen and thus keep the league all around. There will be another meeting next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the School Street Rec and forfeit fees of $10 and seven-men eligibility lists must be handed in at that time.

There was considerable discussion as to what night the league would operate on. The alley managers said they would rather have some night other than Thursday because the stores are open this night and thus gives them plenty of business. However, the team representatives could not agree between Monday and Friday and the league was finally voted to continue on Thursday nights.

Then came the difficult question of deciding what alleys the league would roll on. Four were up for consideration, Murphy's, Farr's, Charter Oak, Conran's, and Paigan's Casino. The scarcity of teams caused the representatives to decide to eliminate the Casino and also to roll but one match at Conran's instead of two as was the case last year.

The reason for this was to treat Murphy, Farr and Conran alike. Murphy was given three matches, Farr, two and Conran one. This means that each will have two open alleys for use every Thursday night. Murphy has eight alleys and three matches will use six of them. Farr has six alleys and two matches will use four of them while Conran has but four and one match will occupy two of his.

It was voted to have each man pay fifty cents instead of forty-five for the three games each night, the extra nickel to go toward prize money at the end of the season, the same as last year. It was also decided to charge an additional nickel for every man who pins 22, 33, 44, 55, 66, 77, 88, 99, in any box, or total, the fine to be collected by the team captain. It is believed that this will add further interest to the league, furnish quite a bit of prize money and yet cost the individual very little.

The schedule will be drawn up and announced at next Tuesday night's meeting. The teams now in the league are Center Church, Manchester Green, British Americans, Bon Ami, West Sides, Sons of Italy, Cloverleaves, Casinos, Charter Oaks, North Ends, Manchester Construction and Highland Park.

Bib Falk, Wera, Lary May Be New Yankees

Farrell Figures Champs Will Be Remodeled a Bit Next Season.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

The New York Yankees will be at least slightly altered and perhaps generally remodeled before another season opens, it may be gathered from a remark made by Miller Huggins, manager of the club, after his second world series in straight games.

The small manager of the world's champions, a team that seemed to prove itself again as one of the greatest of all times, was asked by an American League official if he had any players on the market.

"The whole ball club with the exception of eight," he replied.

The eight he is said to have mentioned are Ruth, Gehrig, Lazer, Combs, Hoyt, Pipgras, Pennock and Johnson.

By a process of elimination this would place on the market Meusel, Dugan, Durst, Koenig, Gazella, Robertson, Paschal, Collins, Bengough, Wabowski and the rest of the pitchers.

In admitting their intention to make numerous changes in the club, Yankee officials made it clear they were not acceding to the roar of the outlands demanding that the team be broken up. They are, however, a smashing line plunger in Tom Parkinson, his full-back, who is doing most of the ground gaining for Pittsburgh this year. Parkinson is playing his second year of varsity football.

HITS 'EM HARD

Jock Sutherland hasn't the team at Pittsburgh this year that he had in 1927 and he hasn't any "Gibby" Welch about in his backfield. He has, however, a smashing line plunger in Tom Parkinson, his full-back, who is doing most of the ground gaining for Pittsburgh this year. Parkinson is playing his second year of varsity football.

ROOKIE CATCHER MAY BE HELD TO YANKEES

New York, Oct. 31.—The New York Yankees hope to present a much better-balanced catching staff next summer than they have had in recent years and have kept their scouts out in bushes all the year looking over the future Bresnahan and Cochrane.

One of the young men who caught the fancy of the Yankees scouts, as well as scouts for the Cardinals, the Cubs and the Senators, is Pete Jordan, from the Western League.

Jordan was purchased for $22,000 and even though Colonel Ruppert has a lot of money to spend he doesn't part with that amount without getting something for it.

Jordan was said to be the best catcher in his league this summer and the scouts say he is not far away from a steady job in the majors.

NOOK SLIDES

By Henry L. Farrell

REAL AMATEUR RULE
Pere Lacoste, father of the French tennis player, knows how to keep tennis in his family on the basis of a pure sport. He has demonstrated the use of a very practical method in preventing one of the world's greatest tennis players from making a business of his game.

Pere Lacoste owns the big chunk of the Hispano-Suiza automobile factory, and when his little Rene had reached the age where it was time for him to think of a trade he suggested that his little boy go into the automobile business.

Little Rene wanted to play tennis, and he assured his father he could become a champion if he could be given the opportunity.

FIVE YEARS FOR PLAY
"I will give you five years for your tennis," Pere Lacoste said. "At the end of five years you will have to go to work. If you are not good at the tennis you will have to go to work sooner."

Within the allotted five years Rene became the world's champion and his father served the warrant on him. He had to go to work.

Last winter the young man begged for another year. He pointed out that if he could go to the United States and play at Forest Hills he might win permanent title to the American cup. But the father would not be moved.

Lacoste went to work in the laboratory at the factory and didn't come to the United States with the French team.

PERE PICKS HIS SPOTS
The season closed and young Lacoste was notified by his father that he should pack up and go to the United States to study the Wright airplane motor, and the boy made the trip as a student engineer.

It is quite possible that he could have learned just as much about American engines if he had come to this country in August, but there were lots of tennis activities during that period and the temptation might have been too much for a young workman who was at the same time a champion tennis player.

From now on until next spring there will be no tennis to distract an earnest young engineer, and perhaps by the time the outdoor season arrives young Lacoste will have learned plenty about engines and things like that and will be back home in the pere's factory.

IT DID BUST UP
Years ago in the infant days of the Walker boxing law, the New York Boxing Commission was asked to join the National Boxing Association. Joseph Johnson was then chairman of the New York commission, and he declined.

"Those things always end up with an inside political fight," he said.

The national association seems to have ended just that way.

Before the recent annual meeting of the association, which caused the internal dissensions, one of the officers asked a prominent sports writer for some suggestions to place before the meeting.

A psychology professor at Iowa told his class the other day that Minnesota's eleven was tough only because opposing teams thought so. Our good friend, the psychology professor, probably doesn't know what it is to be buried under 12 or 14 tons of falling bricks.

Teams that stop to reconnoiter with psychology while playing Minnesota are merely preparing themselves for that well known otherology, the dox.

U. S. Leadership In Steel Faces Threat From Europe

What is the extent of Europe's industrial recovery and how does it menace the wide spread prosperity of the United States?

Who are the men and what are the movements involved in this restoration of Europe's power?

The Philadelphia Inquirer, believing that answers to these questions are of vital importance to the United States at this time, sent Richard J. Beamish, a staff correspondent and trained observer of industrial movements and conditions to Europe. He has just returned and the series of which the following article is a part is a result of the economic survey.

Article Number Nine
By RICHARD BEAMISH

The industrial trend of the French people is not toward mass production. If it were, France would now be fighting the United States for world leadership in the iron and steel markets.

Even with the individualistic urge of the French worker as a handicap, the production of French iron and steel is increasing rapidly and steadily. Given the efficiencies of American and German mills, and these efficiencies are matters primarily of machinery and mill management—France will become second to the United States in the most important of metallurgical markets.

Acquisition of the rich Lorraine ore beds and mills has made an immense difference in the standing of France. Its former ore resources now place it second only to the United States, the ore veins of the Superior region alone outclassing the rich deposits of the Lorraine basin.

Coal alone is lacking to round out the metallurgical picture. Happily for France, under the reparations payments of the Dawes plan, German coal is coming into French plants in sufficient volume to care for all present and prospective production. Payment "in kind" includes fuel for the big mills. French industrialists may be trusted to provide a continuance of these payments or their equivalent for decades to come.

Consideration of French iron and steel must include some knowledge of the great Continental iron and steel cartel which, originating in Germany, includes not only the mills of France but the great Skoda works of Czechoslovakia and the plants of Belgium, Luxemburg and Scandinavia.

Coal Need Brings Cartel

This cartel grew from the need of France for German coal, the necessity of Germany for Scandinavian ores to replace the lost beds of Lorraine and the economic urge to eliminate wasteful and murderous competition by the weakened industries after the World War when the steel industry of the United States dominated every market. Discussion of this and other important European cartels is reserved for a later article of this series.

Notwithstanding racial antipathies to mass production, France has increased greatly the number of workers in its iron and steel mills, the total iron and steel output and the per capita production. This achievement forecasts steadily growing wealth and power since possession of steel production still means national power in terms of munitions.

Pre-war production compared with the output today tells the story of French restoration in this field. In 1913, 80,559 workers contributed to the nation's steel production. In 1927, the number employed rose to 91,175, this notwithstanding the enormous loss in French man power through the war.

In 1913, the 80,559 workers produced a total of 4,625,852 tons of steel. In 1927, the 91,175 workmen turned out 8,288,215 tons. In other words, the production in 1913 averaged 57.4 tons per man and in 1927 it rose to 90.3 tons per man, an amazing increase even when lined up with the methods and accomplishments of the United States.

In 1913, the French production of pig iron was at the rate of 287 tons per man. Last year it rose to 440 tons per man. Modernized equipment was part of the story but modernized management was the greater part. This increased production has been wrought, be it noted, through a rationalization process which cut away aged and inferior human material as ruthlessly as it sacrificed inefficient and antiquated machinery.

Big Mills on Tidewater

It is useful for Americans to note that Western France, the region adjoining the seaboard, increased 157 per cent, in steel production during the 1913-27 period. There the big mills are virtually on tidewater and can send their product overseas with little or no rail haul. That explains why French steel can be shipped over an all-water route to the Pacific Coast and undersell the product of mills from the Chicago and Pittsburgh districts with long and costly railroad freight hauls.

It also explains why French cast-iron pipe is being laid today in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Allentown, Eaton, Bethlehem and other cities along the Atlantic coast, with American cast-iron pipe mills only a few miles, relatively speaking, from these towns.

While American production of pig iron outside of the big steel plants has been shot to pieces since the war, French blast furnaces have increased in number and capacity. They numbered 170 in 1913. Last year their number was 224.

In 1913, France had 75 electric furnaces for the production of iron alloys. In 1927, there were 225. Of the pre-war open hearth plants, 41 were destroyed by the Germans. These were more than offset by the 53 built by the French during the war. Ten of these were reconstructed glass factories. Eleven open hearth plants were added to the French total by the acquisition of Alsace and Lorraine. Virtually all of this production comes from equipment of the most modern types.

High Speed Steels in Demand

The demand by the automobile industry for high speed steels produced an increase in crucibles from 1284 in 1923 to 1870 last year. Crucibles are now being largely replaced by the electric furnaces of Southeast France, where hydro-electric power is cheap and abundant.

The total number of men employed in blast furnaces, iron mills, foundries and steel mills in 1913 was 111,567. In 1927, the total was 118,040.

As has been pointed out, the increase in numbers is far outrun by the increase in production. With a cartel in operation to prevent ruinous competition from Germany and other Continental countries, with England removed as a serious rival and with wages of both skilled and unskilled labor approximately one-third of those paid for similar work in the United States, France has become virtually overnight a formidable factor in the steel markets of the world.

Reconstruction work in Europe, the rapidly expanding automobile industry on the Continent, public works in the rich and far-flung French colonies will do much toward expanding and strengthening the hands of the mill owners.

America now rules the world of iron and steel, but none too securely. The day is coming fast when it must reckon with restored Europe. The next article will describe cartels of Europe and their effect upon the United States.

ENGLISH CHIEF TELLS HOW TO CLEAN CHICAGO

London.—Two columns of free advice on how to clean up Chicago is offered the authorities of that city by ex-Chief Detective Inspector Arrow of Scotland Yard, one of London's most famous sleuths of bygone days, who recently expressed his views on the subject in the "Daily Express" here.

"If I had to clean up Chicago I should start at Washington," Arrow wrote.

"The crime problem of Chicago is just the crime problem of the United States in its most acute form," the writer continued. "The only way to deal with the terrorism there is first to tackle the root causes which foster crime throughout America."

Met No Bandits.

"I cannot claim to have had personal experience of crime conditions in America, but for many years I have made a close study of the subject, and I have been in continuous touch with friends in the United States, who are leading authorities on the question. I have no doubt in my mind of how the problem should be attacked."

"Washington must be made to realize that criminals should be punished and not pampered.

"The machinery of the administration of justice needs a drastic overhaul. Murderers must no longer be allowed to escape capital punishment as long as their money lasts.

"Justice must be speeded up. The inevitability of the English criminal law would work wonders if it were applied in America.

"Politics should be divorced from police work. There should be an end to graft in high places—it clogs the wheels of the machinery of justice.

"There should be one criminal investigating department for the whole nation, and one central records office for the registration of criminals, instead of multiplicity of police forces that often work at cross-purposes and fail to pool their resources and information."

Urges Whippings.

Echoing the suggestion of Judge Marcus Kavanaugh of Chicago that the use of the lash should come back into favor, Arrow declared: "I support strongly Judge Kavanaugh's suggestion. He says in truth that no underworld lord can retain the respect of his followers after he has wined under the pain of a whipping."

"When the Federal Government has wined on these lines, then and only then will it be possible for any police chief, however firm and wise and incorruptible to tackle the local problem in Chicago and wipe out the gangs of gunmen and terrorists."

Ex-Detective Arrow sums up his opinions in his closing paragraph:

"Arrest the ringleaders first, make examples of the men who strike terror among their fellows, and the lesser lights of the underworld will soon abandon the profession of lawlessness."

EXPENSIVE PURPS

Elyria, O.—Dogs may be man's best friend, but they are only a source of expense to Lorain county. In a period of three months the canine population cost the commonwealth $1,669 for cattle killed by dogs and for Pastors' treatment of persons bitten by them.

MOTHER SEES TRAGEDY

Covington, Ky.—Mrs. Rollie Yelton, witnessed the death, by drowning, of her husband and three children here recently. She stood on the bank of the Licking river and saw her husband and 12-year-old twins die in an attempt to save a younger child.

Under low tariffs, low wage rates allow European manufacturers to send goods into this country at lower prices than Connecticut manufacturers can compete with.

High protective tariffs equalize the difference in wages, and Connecticut industries have no decrease in production.

Competition with foreign products means curtailed business and decreased wages.

For 70 years the Democratic party has been for low tariffs. The Democratic candidate for president is for a "competitive" tariff. The Democratic party is committed to it in its platform. The non-industrial South controls the Democratic party in Congress.

The Republican party has been for high protective tariffs for 70 years.

Don't go backward. Don't swap for "something just as good."

Connecticut's future business existence, and the welfare of her workmen, are dependent upon Republican tariff protection.

What Doctors Say About the Laxative Habit

What do YOU do when the bowels need a little assistance? If you clear-up the condition with some laxative made with CASCARA, there is nothing better for the system—for the blood.

But if you don't KNOW the laxative you have learned to depend on is of harmless cascara, here's some truly valuable advice:

The bark of a tree called cascara is the most marvelous conditioner mankind has yet found. It stimulates the bowels' muscular action but does NOT weaken. A violent laxative forms the laxative HABIT. You always need more on the morrow. With Cascara, you don't. Its gentle influence carries on sometimes for days, with less and less need of any aid, as time goes on.

So, the very next time you feel sluggish, take only a candy Cascaret. Delightful to the taste, sweet and acceptable to any stomach, and just as efficient as the powerful purges that fairly paralyze the peristaltic walls of one's intestines. The only habit you'll get from Cascarets is the one of going weeks and months without ANY help of the kind. And when you do invoke their aid again, the same small dose suffices. Any doctor can tell you about cascara; and any druggist has the candy Cascarets.

TWO PERSONS GIVE MARIONETTE SHOW. Jean Gros Puppets Used in Interesting Performances in Manchester Yesterday.

The Manhattan Marionettes, brought here under the auspices of the Senior class Washington trip fund, played to a large and enthusiastic audience in the High School assembly hall last night, as well as to a somewhat smaller one of school children in the afternoon.

The Manhattan Marionettes are affiliated with the Jean Gros French Marionettes, Jean Gros being with the exception of Tony Sarg, the foremost exponent of marionette shows in America. The puppets used in the Manhattan show were the property of Gabe Last evening's performance was well handled by two persons who, besides putting the tiny performers through their maneuverings, also furnished the off stage "noises" and played accompaniments for all the singing and dancing numbers.

The marionettes were in charge of Danne Bouchard, an actor, singer and dancer of more than ordinary ability, who may be remembered as the actor who handled the rather difficult role of the second tea in the musical comedy "Treason." It is largely his singing and interpretations of parts for the marionettes that makes the show a success.

Bouchard is assisted by Miss Judith Balter, well known in dramatic stock circles as a comedienne. How two members of the legitimate stage became interested in a marionette show Mr. Bouchard explained. Jean Gros and Boucher became acquainted in New York's "Greenwich Village". At the time the studio Bouchard became interested in the making of marionettes and in his spare time worked on them during the summer months. As a result this fall Gros offered to let Bouchard take a show out. Thus the "Manhattan Marionettes" came into being. Miss Balter joined the company quite as casually.

Marionettes are creatures of art and dexterity of the manipulator. A marionette has a body of wood with legs and arms of the same material hung in sections like a pendulum. The bare frame work of the body is rounded out with paper mache and then the figure is dressed in appropriate costumes. The head is first shaped in a clay mold. Into this mold, when hardened, paper toweling, soaked in flour paste, is packed. This when set, forms the base of the head. The cheeks, nose etc. are then molded on by hand.

Each marionette is controlled from above by about twenty strings. The number of strings varying according to the stunts the marionette is required to perform. The Manhattan Marionette show carries 36 puppets and the show runs one hour and 40 minutes. It carries a portable stage that can be set up and ready for performance in a little over an hour.

POLICE COURT. Arthur F. Sullivan, of Valley street, was found guilty this morning in the Manchester police court, of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and paid a fine of $100 and cost. He was arrested yesterday afternoon at Main and Park streets by Officer John J. McGinn. The officer testified that his attention was called to Sullivan by the manner in which he was operating his car. Chief Samuel G. Gordon and Dr. LeVerne Holmes both verified the testimony of the officer to the effect that Sullivan was drunk and unfit to drive a car. Sullivan admitted that he had several drinks during the day but stoutly maintained that he was not intoxicated.

The continued case of Cecil M. Finlay charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was disposed of this morning, when Judge Raymond A. Johnson found him not guilty. Finlay was defended by Attorney William S. Hyde. According to the evidence Finlay was placed under arrest by Officer John J. McGinn after his wife had registered a complaint to Chief Gordon. The officer went to the Finlay home and found the man in bed. He was drunk, the officer said and several empty bottles of home brewed beer were near at hand. Finlay admitted that he had been drinking and that he had been out in his car during the afternoon. Attorney Hyde maintained that there was no evidence, other than the man's word, to prove that he had been driving the car. Judge Johnson agreed that the evidence was not sufficient to convict.

Somerville, Mass., Oct. 31.—Following the explosion of an ammonia tank, fifteen girls and women were forced to flee from flames and ammonia fumes at the plant of the New England Creamery Co. here today. Aid was summoned from Cambridge to battle the two alarm fire. Firemen were forced to don gas masks in battling the stubborn fire.

Hartford, Conn. Oct. 31.—Flagmen are to replace gates at railroad grade crossings at Garden street, Hartford, and West Main and Center streets, Westington, according to an order issued by the Public Utilities Commission here today and the flagman in each case is to be a member of the crew of the train approaching the crossing. The order will compel each train to stop near the crossing and halt till the flagman signals the engineer to proceed.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: "Famous First Ladies" Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher. Mrs. Adams wrote interesting letters. In a letter to her sister she described the deplorable conditions in Washington in 1800-01. Roads were bad and the country around was wilderness. It was cold, and the White House was "so uncomfortable that thirteen fires had to be kept going in all parts of it or sleep in damp and wet places." Stagnant pools of water stood near the mansion.

Of all the mistresses of the White House, Dolly Madison, Dorothy Payne Madison, ruled there the longest. Madison was president from 1809-1817. Besides, during the Jefferson regime, Dolly Madison frequently officiated at social functions in the absence of Jefferson's daughter.

Madison was Jefferson's secretary of state. Both of Jefferson's daughters were more interested in family than social affairs, so Dolly Madison often presided at receptions. In 1808 Madison was elected president and his wife gave herself over to winning over her husband's political enemies. Every one liked her; none could feel unkindly toward her. (To Be Continued)

LETTER GOLF

At first glance, today's letter golf looks like EASY WORK. It's not so easy, however. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

SENSE and NONSENSE

George Did It. George Clark, a celebrated negro minstrel, on one occasion when being examined as a witness, was severely interrogated by a lawyer.

A Natural Mistake. Boss-Say, where in blazes are you two worthless porters going?

Lo is a good deal like eating young onions. It's all right at the time, but there are after effects.

You don't hear of Col. Lindbergh taking very many ladies in his plane with him, do you?

A negro parson was seeking to impress upon his flock the immensity of eternity. He pointed dramatically toward a window, where was visible in the distance a huge mountain.

The seaside visitor sought the landlady of the house where he was staying and began to make complaints. She listened until her patience became exhausted.

"So Blanche is going to marry the young man who saved her from drowning." "So I understand."
