MANY OFFICIALS LEGION GUESTS ARMISTICE DAY

Lieut.-Gov. Brainard, Atty.-
Gen. Alling, Many Mayors and Gold Star Mothers to Be on Reviewing Stand.

Lieutenant Governor J. Edwin Brainard, various State Commissioners, Commanding Officers of the various units of the Connecticut National Guard and the mayors of Bristol, New Britain, Willimantic, Meriden, Hartford, the local Section, state officers of the American Legion, and Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling will be guests of Elworth-Cornell Post, No. 102, of the American Legion, in Manchester's big Tenth Armistice celebration Monday. They will occupy the official reviewing stand which will be placed at Main and Myrtle streets.

The distinguished guests will be here for the parade and will be entertained at dinner following the big time. In addition to the various officials the Legion has invited all of Manchester's Gold Star Mothers to occupy the reviewing stand during the parade as guests of honor.

Decorations.
Manchester has taken on the appearance of a gaily decorated city within the last few days and all will be in readiness when Monday arrives. Flags and bunting are flying from nearly all the buildings along the line of march. The wire poles are being draped this afternoon and all that the committee hopes for now is good weather—and generous contributions to the funds out of which the expense of the affair will be paid.

Legionnaires began a house to house canvass for contributions last night. They met with fair response, but the donations from the citizenry must be added to considerably yet in order to reach the necessary $7,000 budget. Monday's full page advertisement outlining what the 16th Infantry regiment is doing for Manchester is no charge caused much favorable comment in Manchester. It aided the campaign for funds considerably.

TWO NEW POINTS IN LAMBERT CASE

Former Local Man Did Write
Letter at 10 O'Clock Night
Girl Was Killed.

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 9.—Police today announced two new points in their investigation into the slaying of Olga Bayes, stenographer, for whose death Paul Lambert, formerly of South Manchester, is being held. They produced a letter which Lambert reported writing to his friend in Brooklyn, N. Y., which they say was postmarked at Stamford at ten o'clock of the evening on which Miss Bayes was killed. They also found that Miss Elizabeth Cook, with whom Miss Bayes lived, was definitely able to fix the time at which Miss Bayes left the house on the evening she was killed.

Lockwood's Statement

E. F. Lockwood, in whose home at Shippan Point Lambert was demonstrating aluminumware on the evening Miss Bayes was killed, has insisted the young man was there from 5 to 10 p. m. Mrs. Ann Pollock and Miss Mary Parent, employees of the Davenport Coffee House, insisted they saw Lambert in the coffee house just about the closing time of 8:30 p. m.

Lambert had admitted writing a letter to his friend in Brooklyn from the lobby of the Davenport hotel, according to police. A local policeman went to Brooklyn yesterday and returned with the letter which bore a ten o'clock postmark.

Miss Cooke's Story
Miss Cooke has told the police that she was expecting two New York girls to visit her on the evening when Miss Bayes died. They were late, arriving at 8:19 p. m. She asked why they were late, and they said they had trouble in locating the house. Then they said they were just directed by a charming young lady who said she lived with them. Miss Bayes had then not proceeded far from the house where she boarded.

DRY AGENT PAYS $1 FOR A DRINK

New York, Nov. 9.—Testimony by James L. White, special agent in charge, who brought here from Columbus, Ohio, to aid in drying up the night club belt, in Federal Court yesterday revealed what agents drink and how the government foots the bill.

BIG PROBLEMS BEFORE HEADS OF BOTH SIDES

Democrats Must Reorganize Party and Republicans Must Study the Southern Situation.

New York, Nov. 9.—With the turbulent, breath-taking 1928 election passing into history, and struggling returns continuing to emphasize the magnitude of the Republican sweep, the practical politicians who run things in both parties in between elections began to come out of the storm cellars today and take stock of the future.

There is not much disagreement among the leaders of either party as to what must be done, but there is vast disagreement on how it must be accomplished. And these differences of opinion provide the fuel that will keep the political fires burning until the next general election two years hence.

For the Republicans, the task immediately ahead is that of striving to consolidate their amazing gains, particularly in the south and border states that contributed to their victory in such startling fashion.

HINT AT SOLUTION OF ROTHSTEIN CASE

Police to Quiz Personal At- torney of Broadway Gam- bler Later Today.

New York, Nov. 9.—Solution of the Arnold Rothstein murder mystery may be a step nearer by tonight.

GIRL'S STORY TO FREE MAN FACING THE CHAIR

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—Facing the electric chair, Cero Gangi, of Brooklyn, N. Y., doomed as a murderer, today had won temporary freedom as the result of a statement made by a 21-year-old girl.

Where Factory Blast Showed Death on Many.

Explosion of a large quantity of chemical and celluloid had just showered sudden death on many persons in the Preble Box Toe Factory, Lynn, Massachusetts, when this photo was taken. Firemen are seen starting the first search for dead and injured. The blast was attributed to a cigarette.

DEATH TOLL MOUNTING IN LYNN FIRE HORROR

Nineteen Dead, Two Missing and Three More Expected to Die—Lighted Cigarette Cause of the Tragedy.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 9.—Death toll in the Lynn fire horror continued to mount today.

Fourteen victims were instantly killed, four others died in hospitals, dismembered parts of another body were found in the street, two men were missing and it was feared that three of the twelve injured in hospitals would not live.

A large force of men and teams from the Lynn street department today began moving tons of concrete debris which once was the factory of the Preble Box Toe Company and which was torn apart by an explosion yesterday.

While state and city authorities today continued their rigid investigation, police and other investigators placed together what happened in the factory. Before they expired at Lynn hospital, Israel Clements, Everett Lewis and James Wright said they were waiting to start work when an official entered smoking. As he passed, "he mer said, the official flipped the lighted butt of the cigarette or cigar into a barrell in which was stored inflammable material used in the manufacture of toe pieces for shoes.

State officials stated that had it not been possible for the men with blazing clothing to get outside, the fire would have been confined within the building and the death toll would have been much smaller.

Vapors Exploded
State Fire Marshal George Neal said that he was convinced, "that during the night the factory became filled with highly volatile vapors and that when a tiny flame reached them from the cigarette

GOVERNOR IS TOLD THAT REAL MURDERER IS ANOTHER MAN; GIRL CLOSELY GUARDED.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—Facing the electric chair, Cero Gangi, of Brooklyn, N. Y., doomed as a murderer, today had won temporary freedom as the result of a statement made by a 21-year-old girl.

The girl, Philomena Romano, told Governor Alvin T. Fuller that Samuel Gallo was the real murderer of her brother-in-law, Joseph Fantasia for whose murder Gangi was condemned to death.

Gov. Fuller, who granted a temporary reprieve, today called a meeting of his executive council for the purpose of granting a full reprieve to Gangi to give time to new counsel to prepare their case and present it to the court, the case to be based on the alleged new evidence.

Messiah Miss Romano was under police guard in a frenzy of dread that she might be killed for talking too much. Gallo is serving a sentence of two years in jail for attempting to bribe a witness in the Gangi murder trial.

Towns Pay $1,841,317. Into State's Treasury

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 9.—The state's bank account is about to receive an addition of $1,841,317.50, by reason of the fact that the annual state tax on towns and the annual military tax are due to be paid tomorrow. William H. Blodgett, state tax commissioner, certified the fact to E. E. Rogers, state treasurer, today, showing that the tax on towns will total $1,800,000 and the military tax $41,317.50.

NEW YORK RESULT IS STILL IN DOUBT

Ottinger Refuses to Concede Roosevelt's Election; May Ask a Recount.

New York, Nov. 9.—With only one upstate district missing, a plurality for his Democratic opponent of more than 21,000 and the passing of more than 60 hours since the closing of the polls, attorney General Albert Ottinger today was still withholding his concession of the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as Governor of the state.

Acting on orders telegraphed by Gov. Al Smith, upstate sheriffs assisted in speeding returns from outlying districts to county seats with the result that last night the state vote was complete but for one district in Otsego county, where the governor directed the sheriffs to see that the ballots were properly guarded in addition to handling the figures to election headquarters to speed tabulation of the final totals.

Republican checkers at the polls upstate submitted figures to Ottinger's headquarters which did not compare with totals reported by election officials and caused the claim by Ottinger's managers that mistakes of 5,000 votes on Oneida and 2,000 in Monroe counties had been made in Roosevelt's favor.

The race for U. S. Senator or former Senator Royal S. Copeland (D) and Alanson B. Houghton, (R) former ambassador to Great Britain, is so close that the result was still in doubt today.

DESTRUCTING HOMES

Riposto, Sicily, Nov. 9.—Driving thousands of homeless before it and laying waste to uncounted acres of rich farm land in eastern Sicily, the molten flood of lava from the now active Mt. Etna relentlessly swept onward today.

VINCENY RICE PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE

New York, Nov. 9.—Vincent Rice, 17, of New Brighton, Staten Island, accused of the murder of 15-year-old Alice Joost, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of murder when arraigned today in Richmond County Court.

SPENT NO MONEY

Washington, Nov. 9.—It didn't cost Senator L. P. Poilett (R) of Wisconsin and Senator Greene (R) of Vermont a cent to be re-elected, they reported to the secretary of the Senate today.

Hoover Sees "Solid South" Disappearing From Amer- ican Politics—To Plan to Consolidate All Sections of Nation and Study Their Various Problems.

Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 9.—President-Elect Hoover is hopeful that the "Solid South" is an obsolete term in American political jargon.

He sees the disintegration of the old party alliances below the Mason-Dixon line in last Tuesday's election as marking a milestone in United States history.

He believes that the political forces which put electoral votes in the Republican column from Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas are permanent rather than merely transitory, and others to consolidate the Republican position in the enemy territory with a view to re-establishing in genuine form the two-party system throughout the entire south.

Political intimates of the president-elect who are with him at his home on San Jacinto are an authority for the fact that all of the pleasing elements in the final election returns, before him today, none affords Hoover so much gratification as the "break" in Dixie.

His satisfaction, however, they declare, neither from the standpoint of personal triumph nor purely partisan interest, but rather because he foresees a quickening of political interest and a stimulus to political competition for the entire nation in the more keenly competitive atmosphere expected to develop from the history-making results south of the Potomac.

Many Telegrams

Hundreds of telegrams from the south congratulating Hoover on his victory have been received at the White House.

It is no secret among Republicans that a major aim of the campaign strategy was to crack the "Solid South." Hoover himself gave considerable attention to that part of the campaign.

Deny Charges

Hoover's friends repudiate charges from Democratic sources, made in the thick of the battle, that the Republican appeal in the south was in fact an exploitation of the sectionalism against which Republican leaders inveigled in their public declarations.

OBREGON'S SLAYER TO BE EXECUTED

Nun Also Found Guilty—She Gets Sentence of Twenty Years.

Mexico City, Nov. 9.—Mexico's most sensational trial was at an end today. After a seven-day trial, a jury sitting in the San Angel district court needed less than an hour to decide that Jose de Leon Toral was guilty of the murder of President-elect Alvaro Obregon.

Immediately after the jury brought in its verdict, Toral was sentenced in death by a firing squad. The Mother Superior Maria Concepcion Acededo de La Lata was guilty of being the "intellectual author" of the crime.

Only about fifty persons were in the courtroom when the sentences were read but outside the building thousands were gathered eagerly awaiting the outcome of the trial. About 400 armed soldiers walked about through the crowd to prevent disorder.

Toral took the judge's sentence with remarkable composure. He immediately asked the judge for permission to address the court. He also asked for permission to broadcast a message to the world through the radio microphone in the courtroom and appeared to be vastly disappointed when this request was refused.

Nun Calm

The Mother Superior received her sentence with a flickering change of expression. She had apparently stooped herself for the worst. Both were taken back to their cells.

Thursday
Breakfast—Baked eggs, Melba toast, Stewed raisins.

Dinner—Clear tomato soup (beef broth with tomato added), Roast beef, cooked string beans, Salad of tomato—spinach—asparagus, Pineapple sponge.

Friday
Breakfast—Coddled eggs, broiled ham, waffle, Applesauce.
Lunch—Sandwiches of real wholewheat bread and peanut butter, Salad of shredded lettuce, ripe olives.
Dinner—Baked halibut, stewed tomatoes, spinach, McCoy Salad, No dessert.

Saturday
Breakfast—Cottage cheese, stewed peaches.
Lunch—Carrot loaf, cooked lettuce and parsley, celery.
Dinner—Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, buttered vegetables (carrots, turnips and beets cooked separately and diced together).

Head lettuce with olive oil, Apple whip or ice cream.
*Potato Soup—Peel and dice potatoes to equal three cups and place over fire with three or four cups of water. Cook until tender and add about three cupfuls of milk or thin cream and the desired amount of chopped parsley. Serve with thin strips of Melba toast. By using celery instead of potatoes you have a delicious non-starchy soup.
Wholewheat Muffins—To a well beaten egg add one cupful of sweet milk. Stir in one cupful of real wholewheat flour and beat until smooth, then add a half cupful of the wholewheat flour into which has been sifted one level teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix thoroughly and bake in muffin tins in a moderately hot oven until brown. The quantity makes six medium or eight small muffins.

Those who are overweight or who, for any reason, wish to eliminate the starches from their diet, may substitute any of the luscious raw acid fruits or their juices: apples, apricots, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, plums, pineapple, tomato or melon.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Soft Teeth
Question: Ollie B. writes: "My teeth are very soft and brittle. Will you please tell me what causes this and can it be remedied?"
Answer: Your diet is probably lacking in important mineral elements, such as calcium, magnesium and fluorine. I have a special article giving a list of the mineral elements which I will be glad to send you if you will send me a self-addressed envelope and four cents postage.

Feeding a Three-Year Old
Question: Mrs. K. H. asks: "Should not cheese and raw carrots and other raw foods be fed children three years of age?"
Answer: Children of three years can be fed any foods suitable for an adult. The foods you have mentioned may often be used to advantage when the child is only two years old, but the proportions and combinations of foods must be carefully watched. Send for a special article on "Feeding the Baby after Weaning" enclosing a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

Asthma
Question: M. D. J. writes: My father, 75 years of age, is troubled with asthma. He has tried eating only an orange for breakfast, but a nurse has told him that going out in the cold morning without a hot drink will make the asthma worse. Do you recommend dieting?"
Answer: Any typical asthmatic case which is not too complicated with other disorders can be cured through diet treatment alone. Special instructions will be sent upon request.

Strychnine for Heart Trouble
Question: S. G. asks: Should one take medicine containing strychnine if the heart is fast, painful and jumpy, or is it only for slow hearts?"

Answer: Strychnine is usually given to enervated patients with slow pulses. When the heart is fast, painful and jumpy, it is usually because of overeating or gas pressure against the heart at that particular time. Strychnine is not usually necessary when the correct diet is used. I have a special article on Heart Derangements that I will be very glad to send if you will write to me care of this newspaper and enclose four cents in stamps, and a large, self-addressed envelope.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

This evening the debating club will hold a social in Assembly Hall. The committee in charge, Eleanor Dwyer and Robert Smith have arranged a fine program including entertainment, refreshments and dancing. Each member of the club will bring a guest and a large crowd has signified their intention of attending the social.

On December 3 George Flavell and Jacob Rubinow will debate at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club on the subject, "Resolved that the great stress laid on modern advertising is to be deplored."

The following awards have been made in the commercial department: Sterling silver pins to Frances Schultz, 40 net words; Josephine Peisch, 40 net words; Florence Boyce, 41 net words, Nellie Yokitis, 43 net words, and Martha Kismann, 46 net words. Marjorie Pitkin was awarded a solid gold pin and a Sterling silver pin for 51 net words.

Group Four of the Washington trip will have two stands selling food during the Armistice Day celebration. There will be one stand on the lot next to the Masonic Temple and one stand at the Golf lots. The American Legion will also share in the receipts, so by patronizing these stands people will be helping two associations.

Due to the fact that most of the pupils were at the football game this afternoon, the regular Friday afternoon dancing class was postponed until next Tuesday afternoon.

The program for the assembly yesterday was arranged by Miss Oates and Mr. Potter of the history department and Miss Condon of the art department, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice. The first number was the singing of Kipling's "Recessional" by a selected group from the Girls Glee club. John Johnston then gave Robert W. Service's famous poem "Grandpere."

This was followed by a tableau entitled "In Flanders Field." This represented the flag-bearers of the different nations in the World War, standing around the white crosses in Flanders Field. The Boys Glee Club then sang "In Flanders Field," John Johnston singing a solo introduction to the song.

Margaret Kenny then gave a reading, "Jean Dupre" another of the famous war poems of Robert W. Service. A group of senior girls then sang "When the Boys Came Home," the music of which was written by Ollie Speak and the words by John Haynes, secretary to President Lincoln. The assembly closed with the singing of some of the wartime songs of 1917-18 by the entire student body.

WATERBURY LADY FELL TO FLOOR ON ACCOUNT OF A SEVERE DIZZY SPELL

Mrs. H. Behr of 174 Mill Street, Waterbury, Conn., Rid Herself of Dizzy Spells and She Is Not Afraid of Falling Anymore—ERBJUS Did It.

Mrs. Behr says: "For two years I have had kidney trouble and when I bend forward or backward I would have awful pains through my back and it was hard for me to straighten up."

"I had indigestion so bad that it felt as though I had a great big lump in my chest and I had severe headaches and dizzy spells."

"One day I fell on the floor and hurt myself badly. I always felt tired and some days I felt so bad I couldn't do my housework and would have to go to bed."

"I heard a great deal of ERBJUS and I decided to take it. I have now taken 7 bottles and I am greatly pleased for what it has done for me. It did all I could ask—ERBJUS has completely restored my health."

4 MORE VIOLATE TRAFFIC LAWS

Cars Parked Wrong Way, They Pay $2 Without Costs in Court Today.

Four more prominent men appeared in the police court this morning for violation of the state motor vehicle laws. Each paid a fine of $2, without costs. The offenders all parked their cars on various streets against traffic. This is a State Law and not a town ordinance as many supposed. The police authorities, through the newspapers, have been warning the auto drivers that this practice of parking against traffic is a dangerous one and must be stopped. As a result more than thirty men have had their cars tagged and the owners ordered to appear in Court during the past week.

These violations occur largely on the side streets, which in many cases are narrow. For the benefit of automobile drivers, we herewith present the section of the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Laws which has to do with this violation: Sec. 29. No vehicle shall be permitted to remain stationary within ten feet of any fire hydrant, or upon the traveled portion of any highway except upon the right hand side of such highway, in the direction in which such vehicle shall be headed; and, if such highway shall be curbed, such vehicle shall be so placed that its right hand wheels, when stationary, shall when safety will permit, be within a distance of twelve inches from the curb. No vehicle shall be permitted to remain stationary upon the traveled portion of any highway at any curve or turn off at the top of any grade where a clear view of such vehicle may not be had from a distance of at least one hundred and fifty feet in either direction. The highway commissioner may post signs upon any highway at any place where the keeping of a vehicle stationary shall be dangerous to traffic, and the keeping of any vehicle contrary to the directions of such signs shall be a violation of this section. No vehicle shall be permitted to remain stationary upon the traveled portion of any highway within fifty feet of the point where another vehicle which had previously stopped, continues to remain stationary on the opposite side of the traveled portion of the same highway. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a vehicle from stopping, or being held stationary by any officer, in an emergency to avoid accident or to give a right of way to any vehicle or pedestrian as provided in this act, or on any highway within the limits of an incorporated city, town or borough where the parking of vehicles shall be regulated by local ordinances. No gasoline or other fuel shall be placed in the tank of any motor vehicle while the engine of such vehicle is running.

EMPEROR OF JAPAN ENTHRONED SATURDAY

Kyoto, Japan, Nov. 9.—Thousands of visitors poured into Kyoto today for the enthronement of Emperor Hirohito tomorrow. This ancient city, formerly the capital of the empire, was filled with soldiers and the imperial colors fluttered everywhere. The enthronement ceremonies tomorrow will be divided into two parts and will last the greater part of the day. Although Hirohito has been ruler of Japan, first as regent and then as successor to his father, the late emperor, for seven years, the official ascension to the throne was postponed until today.

Grand banquets and feasts will be held for the next few days, attended by princes and princesses of the blood, government officials and high dignitaries and foreign envoys.

HIGHLAND PARK

In connection with the dance tomorrow evening at the Highland Park Community club, several motion pictures will be shown for the entertainment of those who do not care to dance. The house committee has arranged for the showing of a 5 reel film, entitled "Little Orphan Annie" which comes highly recommended, as well as another by the state dairy commission, named, "Why We Wait". The Saturday evening programs this season will be in charge of the various committees of the club. Next Saturday night the Welfare committee will be in charge and on Saturday evening, November 24, the social committee, assisted by all the others will put on the annual Father and Son banquet.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Friday, November 9.
"Heavens Above, Is This Love?" is the title of the weekly comic-musical presentation by Larry Brier's and His Funnel Troupe. WEAF and associated stations at 9:30 Friday night. Again the titles of the musical selections provide the continuity for the development of the plot, which this week deals with the first adventure of a young man falling in love. An educational feature will be broadcast by WTIC at 7 o'clock when Prof. Larabee and Prof. Stanley of Union College present the dialogue, "Philosophy—A Luxury or a Necessity." Other highlights for 7 include music by Dorlik's ensemble and Jules Schwarz, baritone, through WTIC, a recital by Mel Simpkin's Singing School through WSAI and the Choccolatetown carnival through CFCE. Pietro Mascagni's popular short opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be sung in English for listeners of the WOP and the Columbia system of stations. The story of this opera centers around a young Sicilian peasant who returns from the wars to find Lola, his old sweetheart, married to Alfio. Turiddu turns his attention to Santuzza and makes love to her, but when Alfio is called away he renews relations with his old sweetheart, Lola. Santuzza in despair tells Alfio of his wife's meetings with Turiddu and the two men have a duel in which Turiddu is slain. Music native to Mexico and South America will be presented through WTIC at 6 by the Wilson Tiplea orchestra under the direction of Jose Contrado Tovar, conductor and pianist. Two selections will be contributed by Luis Ibarquero, young Mexican operatic tenor.

FINAL ELECTORAL VOTE: HOOVER 444, SMITH 87

New York, Nov. 9.—Additional and slowly incoming figures on Tuesday's election only served to emphasize today that magnitude of Herbert Hoover's electoral and popular vote victory over Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Final and official figures probably will not be assembled for several weeks yet, but incomplete and unofficial figures indicate that the popular vote cast will reach approximately 53,000,000.

There has been no change in the electoral tally since Texas flopped over into the Hoover column yesterday, adding her 20 votes.

The result of the electoral vote was: Hoover 444; Smith 87.

"SAY IT WITH SABLES" AT STATE THEATER
The adventures and escapades of a gold-digging adventurer, whose love for sables brings about a death furnishes the theme of Columbia's "Say It With Sables," which is one of two film attractions at the State theater tomorrow.

There is not a dull minute in the entire drama and at times the audience is worked up to a high tension.

The plot is skillfully developed, working up to an unusual surprise climax, which is entirely unexpected. Early sequences show Francis X. Bushman as a wealthy banker with Margaret Livingston as an adventuress, playing him for sables. The action affords opportunity for many tense love scenes and ends with the banker summarily dismissing the girl. Then follows a delightful sequence between Bushman and a Miss Chadwick, who plays the part of his wife.

Frank Capra has done an excellent job of the direction. The supporting cast includes such famous screen personalities as Arthur Rankin, June Nash and Edna Mae Cooper.

The associate film feature for tomorrow presents the dauntless and daring Tim McCoy, famous MGM western star, in "The Bushranger," his latest and greatest thrill-drama.

Half-raising thrills, breath-taking of horsemanship and a sweet love romance has been woven deftly into the plot. Not once does McCoy fail to impress his audience with his keen sense of humor and his athletic ability.

Sunday and Monday brings Richard Dix in "Moran of the Marines," Paramount picture in which the popular star is supported by Ruth Elder, famous trans-Atlantic flying queen.

PAY THE FIDDLER
It is difficult to understand how any Manchester person could read the full page advertisement relative to the coming of the 169th Regiment to Manchester on Armistice day, which was printed in this newspaper yesterday, and still hold himself aloof from all responsibility for taking care of the big fetes' expense account.

Here we have the spectacle of many hundreds of citizen soldiers, in no way connected with Manchester, giving over their entire day to helping to make our parade a success—contributing the equivalent of several dollars each to say nothing of denying themselves all diversion on the holiday—while by far the greater number of the residents of the town itself haven't parted with a single cent or put themselves out in the slightest degree to insure the success of this most significant anniversary celebration.

As a matter of fact the actual money value of the presence here of the 169th—counting day's pay, transportation and rations—is just about twice as much as the people of Manchester have put into the fund for the entire celebration.

On the face of matters as they stand at this writing the people of Manchester appear to be satirically willing to have their great holiday supplied and paid for by anybody, in town or out, who will assume the burden.

We don't believe the face of matters, however, represents the Manchester spirit in the remotest degree. The people of this town have ever preferred to stand on their own feet and pay their own way. We don't believe they intend to hang around now, like a lot of charity children, and have some mysterious Santa Claus provide them with their Armistice day celebration.

We are convinced that the failure to subscribe has been due far more to the lack of proper machinery for collecting public contributions than to any unwillingness to contribute.

If the finance committee had arranged adequate facilities for the reception of cash in any sums, however small, the necessary amount, it is our conviction, would have been raised long ago.

Now that the Legionnaires themselves have been forced to come to the rescue of the situation and start a drive to eliminate the obvious deficit, we haven't the least doubt that the response will be prompt and generous. Manchester people are not pikers. But they must have a fair chance to show their liberality.

THE KNIFE

While election post-mortems are beginning to get tiresome, it is worth noting at this time and storing away for future reference, the fact that the famous Tammany hall, which cut so large a figure in determining the issue against Governor Smith, double-crossed its own nominee at the polls. It is impossible to study the figures of the voting in Manhattan without drawing the conclusion that Smith was assassinated in the home of his own organization.

Tammany is nothing if not practical. It could have used a Presidency in its business if it could have got it. But there isn't the remotest chance that the master-minds of that organization did not know full well, many days before election, that Smith stood no show at all of carrying enough states to elect him, regardless of a victory in New York. This being the case, the agile and practical mind of Tammany, which is in politics every day of every year and not just for a few months once in four years, applied itself to preventing the mantle of its sovereignty from resting on the shoulders of Al Smith.

Al has been a wonderful asset for Tammany. He has been that singular phenomenon, an honest man in the wigwag—one of a leaven of just a few and of this few the most conspicuous. But, unless they could have him in the Presidency, the warriors had had enough and too much of Al and his interference with many a Tammany project and method. Wherefore, since he could not be elected in any event, it was the wisdom of Tammany that he be dumped, jettisoned, thrown to the wolves. And so, instead of Al's getting that much needed 600,000 plurality up to the Westchester line, Tammany attended to the business of cutting the Manhattan vote by gobs and sneaks and wagonloads, so that Smith, beaten anyhow in the country, would be not only beaten but discredited and done in his own state.

It wasn't exactly anticipated, throughout the country at large, that Tammany would pull this particular trick. But the country had a better like on Tammany, as being quite capable of this trick or any other, than Tammany had ever imagined. And that general and shrewd estimate of Tammany was one of the very first reasons why the country voted as it did.

Still and all, it was not wise of Tammany to slay its own champion right out in the face of all the world. Because the country, some time or other in the future, might otherwise have been complacent enough to accept some Tammany candidate for President. Now, however, with this paramount example of the ruthless peridy of the wigwag spread on the record, no Tammany candidate for the Presidency will stand a ghost of a show with the American people in a thousand years.

Tammany has shown itself to be all that has been said about it—and a great deal worse.

SMILING INAUGURAL

There are a great many people in the United States who believe that the inauguration of a new government should take place many weeks nearer to the date of its election than under the present system. And it must be confessed that there is a great deal of sound argument in favor of such a change.

But there is one reason, perhaps not a conclusive one but at least important in its own way, why it is an excellent thing that inauguration day does not come until four months after a Presidential election. It gives the sears of battle time to heal, the factional bitterness to subside, partisanship to fade from the picture, so that all men and women of all parties, who can afford the time and the money, can go to Washington and participate joyously together in the induction of the nation's new head.

It is already reported that the inaugural ceremonies next March are to be on a much more elaborate scale than in recent years—though that very dreadful event the inaugural ball is not to be resurrected. There will be, it is said, a splendid pageant. Mr. Hoover is accredited with saying that he thinks the government ought to stage a good show for the thousands of Americans sufficiently interested to make an arduous trip to the national capital—which is good sense and good hospitality.

By that time the people of the country will have gotten used to the idea of Mr. Hoover as a President rather than as a political candidate. Our guess is that they are going to like the idea, all of them, much better than many of them have recently supposed. Hoover is going to be an All-American President. And all America is going to be well pleased if his inauguration takes on a less exclusive, less austere and more jovial spirit than has been the case in recent years.

Hoover's smile is said to be a peculiarly charming one. Sure, then, let's have a smiling inaugural.

ETNA

Mt. Etna, which has just been engaging in one of its periodic and always spectacular eruptions, is perhaps the volcano longest known to civilized man. It figures in the earliest traditions of the Mediterranean littoral and all sorts of fantastic legends have taken form about it.

It is, also, one of the world's most imposing "live" mountains. Rising almost from the shores of the sea it towers to nearly 11,000 feet in height, its summit being only 18 miles north-west of Catania, port on the eastern shore of Sicily. Some idea of the opportunity for damage afforded by its eruptions may be had from the fact that the area of Etna is some 460 square miles and that the distance around its base is about ninety miles. There are hundreds of small craters, any one of which is likely to start a lava stream. And since much of the mountain side is arable and many hundreds of peasants live and have their little farms on the mountain slopes, an outbreak can nearly always be de-ended on to send many of them fleeing for their lives.

On the whole, Etna is a volcano to brag about. We folks in this part of the world, however, are perfectly content to let the Sicilians have Etna, and do the bragging. Perhaps they need it—they don't have presidential elections over there.

ROAD MURDERS

Thirteen persons were killed in Connecticut last week in automobile accidents. The death list so far this year is 370, an increase of 80 over the same period of last year. Also it is observable that if last week's rate had been maintained throughout the earlier months of the year the total of dead would now be nearer six hundred than five hundred, or more than double the killings in 1927.

Now that the Presidential election is over, the paramount issue before the people of Connecticut is a drastic reform in the control of automobile traffic. They are not likely to accept the theory that it is sufficient to wait for an improvement in the next generation.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Nov. 8.—The campaign passed with a great deal of talk about prosperity, but with an astonishing dearth of any new constructive suggestions as to how it might be maintained.

It was commonly recognized that the country had prospered through a period of some depression with an unusual volume of unemployment, but no one arose on the political platform to explain how a recurrence of the condition could be prevented.

Probably no one expected the unveiling of a cure-all which would guarantee happiness and employment for each and all, beginning March 4, 1929. But it did seem as if the politicians might have done a little better than merely dust off some of the old stock.

Wandering off the political arena in search of a new idea on prosperity, your correspondent encounters a pamphlet called "Progress and Plenty," by William Trufant Foster and Wadill Catchings, published by the Policy Foundation for Economic Research. Foster is director of the Foundation. Who's Who recommends him as an experienced educator and Catchings as a manufacturer with impressive connections. The Policy Foundation is reputable so, as Al Smith would remark, let's see what they say about it.

The Foster-Catchings theory seems to be that prosperity is a haphazard, uneven sort of thing. The authors find, in a fabulously wealthy nation of tens of thousands of poverty-stricken families and millions more "struggling anxiously on the edge of want." And they show how, as production increases, the number of workers falls off. Notable advances toward full employment are always followed by business recession and loss, so why not straighten that out?

Increased output per unit of labor steadily decreases employment—"nobody knows where the blessing of increased knowledge will next bring the curse of unemployment." Too many machines; too much materials and money, so Foster and Catchings describe the problem. Lack of buyers is the answer to the questions why all that productive power can't be used.

The authors join in discrediting John Stuart Mill's hoary theory that economics was concerned only with production and that consumption took care of itself. Production does not finance consumption. Money distributed to consumers in connection with making a product in a given year isn't enough to enable consumers to buy the product at a profit to the producers.

Yet, they must do that with the production of industry as a whole or bring on depression. Producers must make profits and save money; consumers must also save. These profits and thrifts cause a dangerous hiatus, which Foster and Catchings call "the dilemma of thrift."

The deficit has been made up at certain times in the past, largely by chance," they say. "Largely by planning, it can be made up at all times in the future." But how money must also flow into consumers' hands to match the constantly increasing output of consumers' goods.

They contend that a right flow of money is possible; that with enough knowledge to flow of goods in relation to flow of income, money can be put in the hands of consumers to enable them to buy. Increase of flow of money to consumers has for brief periods been contrived by construction of new capital facilities such as factories, power plants and railroads and through construction of new public works. Lately industrial output has been increased by increased volume of installment sales, but the rate of increase cannot be continued indefinitely.

Depressions are costly and inflict human suffering because corrective features don't automatically get to work. Under the Foster-Catchings proposal for "planned prosperity," they would. First, the authors demand a great national fact-finding agency through which the government would display "storm signals" for business men as freely as it does for mariners. Complete data would be kept on changes in employment, prices, stocks on hand, foreign trade, crops, credit conditions, projected expenditures for construction and all the features of the dramatic moving picture of business." Considering the fact that the government never has even figures on unemployment, the need is obvious inasmuch as the 1920-21 slump cost $10,000,000,000, the cost of this fact-finding wouldn't be exorbitant. In possession of this data, the government, "the largest consumer in the world with a yearly expenditure of four billions," should make appropriations, borrow money, spend money, pay debts, refund taxes and pass other fiscal measures only with due reference to economic conditions and the consequent probable effect on general welfare. Foster and Catchings propose special "Federal Budget Board" to advise the president, Congress and government departments concerning the probable effect on the general welfare of all fiscal action. Appropriations would be expanded at a time when the national situation most needed the new money.

The third and most important function of the board would be to afford leadership to private business, whose individual units now act independently. A national business policy would be developed, so that all industries might govern production, expansion and other measures in accord with their effect on prosperity. Everyone would bow, head or spend money only on the most careful advice, and his lead would be generally followed. Foster and Catchings believe their scheme would stabilize prices. It would enable the government to design and control dangerous trades, it necessary, by taking money out of circulation by the various means through which it now does so. No new radical departures are suggested, they say, but only intelligent direction of present federal powers and practices.

IN NEW YORK New York, Nov. 9.—In New York's upper west side, the little children of the rich dally partake in a pageant of pampered luxury. They arrive at their private schools in Rolls-Royces, accompanied by smartly clad maids of governesses and attended by chauffeurs in gold braid or tailored liveries. The tuition fees of one of these smart schools would keep an average child in food and raiment for a couple of years. The little girls wear those cute, short-skirted dresses—imported from France. The little boys would not think of appearing without French labels in their suits. They are surrounded on every side by swank and are taught, almost from their cradles, to be disciples of smartness and reflections of the family riches. There is an unreal attachment to them, when one considers the gay attributes of childhood. And yet, in spite of all their breeding and training, the spirit of childhood will out and, when unguarded by nurses and maids and tutors, they have been known to revert to type. In extreme contrast is School No. 10 on New York's great East Side. Here the youngsters arrive at school on home-made coasters, one roller skate—and, now and then, tragically enough, bare feet in mid-winter. Here are packed the young of all the peoples of the world. Here are the children of Russians, Chinese, Hindus, Germans, Irish, may expect in the future. Tens of thousands of people have been attracted to Times Square each night by talking picture speeches made by famous men and women. In future campaigns it is not hard to believe that the candidates will be photographed and recorded, in their leading species, which can then be sent to every village and metropolis, giving an eminently more vivid and thrilling effect than the radio, for instance. A THOUGHT Wee to the crown of pride, to the drunkards of Ephraim, whose glorious beauty is a fading flower, which are on the head of the fat valleys of them that are overcome with wine.—Isaiah 28:1. Drunkenness is nothing else than a voluntary madness.—Seneca. SHOOTING INTO WRITING London—A schoolboy at Cambridge has been shocked into learning how to write. Try as he would the youth simply could not get the idea until a specially constructed electrical device was attached to his desk. He was given a steel pen and instructed to write between lines on a card-board. When he touched the lines there was a buzzing noise; if he went outside the lines a bell rang; when he gripped his pen too tight he received an electric shock in the back of the neck. After six months the experiment proved successful.

MORE THAN 200 EAT FINE CHICKEN PIE

More than 200 North and South Methodist folks, and a number from other denominations enjoyed a delicious supper Wednesday in the banquet hall of the South Methodist church. The meal was prepared and served by the Ladies Aid Society under the direction of the joint chairmen, Mrs. Mary Behnfeld and Mrs. Gertrude Trotter, assisted by the members of the society. Chicken pie and all that goes with it was served in generous supply. The tables were brightened with many red candles and vases of red alder berries. During the meal Jessie Hutchinson played selections on the piano.

An entertainment followed, put on for the most part by the Camp-fire girls in full regalia. Mrs. Bet-telne Lashinske sang, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Robbins. The Misses Florence and Eva Metcalf acted as leaders in the ceremonial work. During a change from the campfire costume to middy blouses and skirts, Miss Hazel Briggs delighted with two humorous recitations, delivered in a finished manner. The girls then gave some of their comic motion songs acquired at Camp Mohawk in Litchfield during the summer, which were heartily applauded.

DOLORES DEL RIO AT CIRCLE TOMORROW

Beautiful Star at Her Best in "Gateway to the Moon."

A romance of unusual beauty, taken against the wild background of a South American jungle, is promised by Fox Films with their release of "The Gateway to the Moon," in which Dolores Del Rio, the Charmaine of "What Price Glory," has the stellar role of Toni. This beautiful and tempestuous drama heads an elaborate double feature program at the Cozy Circle tomorrow and Saturday.

It is a tale of strange adventures, primitive passions and the white man's greed for wealth and power, in which Miss Del Rio plays the part of a half caste Indian girl in love with a young English railroad builder, played by Walter Fitzgerald.

The story itself is said to contain every element of drama that goes toward making up a superlative entertainment. Suspense, mystery and even humor abound in plentiful measure and brought into being by a cast of supporting players of unusual merit.

Ted McNamara, who achieved fame with his part in "What Price Glory," is again cast in a meth-producing role. Others who contribute fine performances are Anders Randolf, Leslie Fenton and Virginia La Fonde.

The companion feature will be Reginald Denny in "Good Morning, Judge!" a picture that is absolutely destined to chase the glooms out of your system.

In this, his latest release for Universal, Denny Frances through a series of mixed-up affairs that will bring howls of laughter from the throats of the audience.

Mary Nolan and Dorothy Gulliver, two famous screen beauties, have prominent roles in support of the star.

1923 By NEA Service Inc. RUTH DEWEY GROVES AUTHOR "WHEN A GIRL LOVES LOVE FOR TWO"

"One doesn't mind the opinion of a servant," he said, and Jerry felt squelched.

THIS HAS HAPPENED Fate introduces JERRY RAY, a shoplift, to the store manager, ESTELLE CARSTAIRS when he crashes his airplane into the camp she is sharing with her roommate, MYRTLE. Her heart responds to his pilot, DAN HARVEY, but Alester is struck by her beauty and showers attention upon her. A letter from her mother revealing poverty and illness strengthens Jerry's determination to try to marry wealth.

Unable to buy a new gown for a big party Alester has invited her to, Jerry yields to the temptation to take one from the store—sneaking to slip it back next morning. At the party LEONTINE LEBAUDY, who is infatuated with Alester, is the cause of the dress being ruined.

Jerry is in a panic. She confesses to the store manager, who discharges her. She seeks another job, and is surprised one evening when Dan calls on her. He proposes and she tells him that she thinks love is a delusion and that she intends to marry for money. He leaves after trying to warn her against Alester.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

Jerry's heart gave a great leap. Alester had come back. He couldn't stay away.

Dan Harvey would probably be astonished to know that, Jerry thought triumphantly. It occurred to her no surprise that Dan should enter her mind at the moment. He had been there almost continuously since the night before.

And Alester was admitting that she had infatuated him. Perhaps he would know now that he must ask her to marry him. She didn't suppose they'd have a regular engagement; she wouldn't blame Alester if he wanted to be married quietly to avoid publicity. But she would like to tell Dan Harvey . . . Alester hadn't proposed to her yet. Her laugh was audible. Alester thought she laughed at him.

"Go ahead, make the most of it," he said. "Girls always do when they've got a chap wrapped around their little fingers."

"You don't seem to like it," Jerry replied. "I've always heard that it was a glorious feeling to . . . to love somebody."

"Oh, I like it well enough," Alester responded; "but I'd rather I'd fallen for a girl who had some idea what it was all about."

Jerry flut.

"Perhaps I could care, if I'd let myself," she said defensively. "But I told you in the beginning that I don't believe in love."

"Well, I've an idea that you like other things—the same things most girls like—the same things with satisfaction. And I can give them to you. That ought to give me an advantage."

"It does," Jerry admitted, but she was not thinking in the same vein along which Alester's thoughts ran. She was being amazingly truthful, but he did not understand.

"I've a surprise in store for you," he told her a few minutes later. "You haven't had dinner, I hope."

Jerry said no. He had telephoned as she was preparing to leave the house for the delicatessen store around the corner to get something for a cold supper. Myrtle was out with George, looking over the site of the hotdog stand he and his friend were going to have built. Jerry had spent the day at home, "doing" her nails and her laundry after she returned from church.

For lunch she had consumed an apple and some Graham crackers. It was necessary to save every penny now she was out of work for several weeks if she were unlucky.

"I'm starved," she said frankly. "But don't take me to a road-house."

"No," Alester said. "I won't. You'll like this place."

Jerry wondered where he would be taking her. It was unlikely that Alester could care for the average tearoom, she reflected. They drove through Roslyn and on toward Sea Cliff, and she was still in the dark as to their destination.

When at last they turned off the highway to take the familiar road that led to the old house near the shore where she and Myrtle had camped she wondered even more. What could he be going there for? She knew of no restaurants in the immediate vicinity. Alester drove up near the porch without enlightening her. Jerry saw that the swinging hammock and the wicker chairs were still there.

"Why, you haven't taken your things away!" she exclaimed in surprise.

Alester helped her out of the car by catching her in his arms when she stepped from the running board. He held her only a fraction of a moment and then released her. He did not wish to alarm her. Jerry had never tolerated any undue familiarity.

"No," he said; "I left them here so we could have this little party just by ourselves. You'll enjoy it, won't you?" He had not used precisely that tone to her before. It was filled with an appeal for her approval. Jerry was pleased.

"Marsh will serve our dinner," Alester hurried on in response to her affirmative smile and nod. "I couldn't think of any other place where we could be alone and . . . I want to talk to you, Jerry. I'll enjoy having dinner here immensely," Jerry assured him and ran up the steps to the porch. Marsh was just coming out of the house, carrying a folded table. To Jerry he looked disturbed in spite of his almost expressionless features. He placed the table at the side of the porch commanding a view of the Sound and went back into the house.

Alester came up and followed Marsh inside. Jerry could hear their low-voiced conversation but could not distinguish the words. Alester seemed to be insisting upon something. Strange, with a servant, Jerry thought.

Again Marsh came out. This time he laid the table for two. Jerry saw him place a bunch of orchids at one plate, and he plainly took care that something within their folds should not be too deeply hidden. Jerry's curiosity was fired.

Could it be, could it be an engagement ring? What else could Alester want to talk about to her here, in this isolated spot? The setting was perfect for a proposal she could not ask for more.

"And I'm certainly not romantic," Jerry said to herself, while her heart pounded away for dear life.

Alester joined her, a tray in his hand. On it were two small glasses with yellow liquid.

"Cross your heart it isn't a cocktail," Jerry said when he held the tray before her.

"Of course it is, silly," Alester replied casually; "but we must toast the house."

Jerry hesitated. She had said she'd never take an alcoholic drink again, but this was a special occasion.

"Don't you trust me?" Alester went on. Jerry thought he sounded reproachful. Surely one glass could not harm her. Not to take it would give him the impression that she didn't trust herself. She reached out a hand halfway to the tray and then drew it back. It was Alester, she remembered, who had assured her that the silver fizz was as harmless as a soda.

"No," she said suddenly, "no, Alester, please, I don't want it." She expected him to try to force it upon her and was gathering her strength of will to resist him.

"All right," he surprised her by saying. "I won't urge you to, Jerry. Please remember that."

Jerry rose and took it and he escorted her to the table with the dignity becoming a queen. When they were seated he noticed that her eyes were fastened upon the orchids.

"They're your flowers," he said. "You know, Jerry, lovely, but they're the flowers that should be yours. All the beautiful things should be yours. I've seen pearls on necks so stryng the oysters that bore them must have turned over in their graves if they'd owned one of these. I can hear any old pearl that's lucky enough to find a home with you broadcasting his good fortune back to his oyster bed to make his fellows envious."

Jerry didn't know why he qualified his statement about the flowers. She knew that they belonged to a classier girl. Well, she knew that, but she could be classy, too, if . . .

"But you've got to live up to orchids and pearls and charge accounts on Fifth Avenue," Alester went on, attacking the boys' d'oeuvre on his plate with relish.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1923 by NEA Service, Inc.

One day a woman was showing a friend over her new house, when opening the door of the room occupied by her two little girls she was dismayed to find everything in a clutter.

The twin beds had been bounced on, jumped on, and somersaulted on, until they were nothing short of a mess. The bureau drawers were piled up, and stockings lay around under chairs, the closet door stood wide open revealing the jumble within; everything was in confusion.

She closed the door hastily and apologized. "I never saw such children. They can't seem to learn the meaning of order. I had that room spick and span this morning. Do you have any trouble, Mrs. Smith?"

Whether Mrs. Smith did or not we cannot say, but this much we might give long odds to being true. It would depend on Mother. Elizabeth herself a good bit whether the children were neat or not neat in their habits, and caring for their room.

As it happened, the children of the lady who was so distressed over the topsy-turvy-ness of her youngsters, had come by their carelessness honestly.

She had tried to train them to keep their bureau drawers closed and in order. She had talked about jumbled beds until she was tired. Probably half a dozen times a day she had set "Margaret, Elizabeth, look at that closet door standing open! Pick up your shoes! Throw those soiled stockings in the clothes hamper! Do this, do that. Don't you know that little ladies keep their room in order?"

Now, in general, an inspecting troop with a button on his coat, and soiled boots on his feet.

If the mother of the little girls had been more careful of her own room she would have had less trouble teaching them about theirs.

True, hers was not quite so bad, but it was untidy enough for them to get the idea that it didn't greatly matter. She sat on the edge of her bed to change her shoes. Hairpins and powder and soiled gloves littered her dresser. Her curtain was pulled back to let in the light. Of course she was busy and there was every excuse for her.

SOME DISEASES HAVE RACE ASSOCIATIONS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

A few diseases are particularly associated with races or with special types of human beings. It is known, for instance, that diabetes is more common in Jewish people than in others. Obesity occurs among them to a larger extent than among people generally. On the other hand, they have a comparatively higher resistance than do other groups to tuberculosis and their sobriety is proverbial so that alcoholism is exceedingly rare.

This does not mean that they are total abstainers, but rather that they do not drink to excess. In this connection, it is interesting to point out, as does Sir Humphrey Rolleston, that when the modern Jew cuts himself adrift from the influence of his race, he does not remain sober.

One of the unusual conditions which occurs more frequently among Jews than gentiles is called thrombo-angitis obliterans, a form of disease of the blood vessels with redness of the feet, severe pain occasionally, and sometimes such interference with the circulation that removal of the limbs may be necessary.

It is a rather interesting fact that recently, since the condition has been definitely established, cases are also seen in other races, so that of 300 cases seen in one large clinic, 50 per cent were Jewish and the remainder was distributed among many peoples.

Rolleston considers that there is a racial liability to the special disease of the arteries here concerned, and that excess smoking is in some way associated with its onset.

As has been pointed out, diabetes occurs more frequently in Jewish persons than in others. Indeed, it has been estimated, as being from twice to six times as high as in other races. There is a definite relationship between overweight and the onset of diabetes. One series of figures indicates that diabetes follows overweight in one out of every twelve gentiles and in one out of every eight Jews.

That obesity must have some definite relationship is indicated by the fact that Jewish children do not have diabetes more often than gentile children, but that the increased rate occurs most frequently between 40 and 60 years of age.

The WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUGNER

As we have said before, young John Coolidge probably thinks it's no soft snap, this being First Young Man of the Land what with all the automobile driving, and so on.

But what young John gets is a mere figment compared with what a First Girl of the Land would draw. Just ask Mrs. Nicholas Longworth about the Land what she would do about the way her every move was watched and recorded. Still, Alice seemed to enjoy it, and even young John doesn't seem so terribly annoyed by it all, or he has enough of his charming mother's tact to cover his displeasure.

It's rather human to like much attention, whether one admits it or not.

ANOTHER UNSOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

Mrs. Kell sat down and wrote us a letter when she had proved ALL-BRAN a "savior" for constipation. Read her voluntary tribute:

April 4, 1927
"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN for quite some time and I want to tell you how much I appreciate it. I have found it a sure cure for constipation. It is a remarkable regulator for the stomach. After using it, my family and I certainly will not be without it. I have even seen so far as to send some of it to my mother in Poland, Europe."

Graciously yours,
Mrs. Anna Knepp
77 Walnut Street, Newark, N. J.

Perhaps you know what terrible affliction constipation is. It is everywhere it thrives. Earning health. Marring beauty. Causing headaches, back pains, foul breath, loss of sleep—indeed, leading to more than forty serious diseases.

But did you know it can be easily relieved by a pleasant cereal, food? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Eat two table-spoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking. At grocery. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

KAISER QUIT THRONE TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
 Berlin, Nov. 9.—Today, the tenth anniversary of the Kaiser's abdication and the proclamation of a German republic revealed Germany as somewhat abashed if not "ashamed" of the revolution. Large numbers of Germans, apparently, are still somewhat uncertain if the republic is "respectable" despite the presidency of Von Hindenburg. Except for newspaper comment the anniversary passed unhonored and unsung—more a day of mourning than rejoicing. Members of the government agreed to remain silent and most Republicans did likewise. Nationalist papers thunder against "Germany's Day of Shame" and the "German Saturnalia." Communist papers demand a "German Soviet Republic." The Democratic Morgenpost admits "The memory of November 9, 1918, is no cause for rejoicing, for it is tragic that the birthday of the republic coincides with the military collapse." All voices agree that, despite the miraculous German economic and political recovery, which makes American visitors exclaim: "What price defeat?" Germany is still harassed by the Versailles Treaty, or as the Nationalist newspapers characterize it: "Groaning under the chains of Versailles."

MACHELL MOTOR SALES NOW IN NEW LOCATION

Mr. Machell Now Has Smooth Sales and Service Organization in Manchester.

Machell Motor Sales, authorized dealer of Willys-Knights and Whipets in Manchester are now located on Center street in the quarters formerly occupied by the Elmer Automobile Company. More central and better service quarters prompted E. R. Machell to secure this location together with the Willys-Knight franchise. All parts and accessories as well as tools and equipments were purchased from Mr. Elmer by Mr. Machell who now has a very modern service station in the rear of the sales building and is ready to render service on most all make of car.

Mr. Machell came to Manchester from Wethersfield, where he conducted a garage and sales room for a number of years with marked success. After selling his services in Wethersfield he came to this town and purchased the Pickett Motor Sales on Maple street at that time selling Hupmobile and Durant cars and later the De Soto. His desire to concentrate on one good line of cars led him to secure the franchise for the Willys-Knight and Whipet, discontinuing all other makes.

Robert Alexander, formerly manager of the Elmer Automobile Company Manchester branch, plans to affiliate with Machell Motor Sales as salesman of Willys-Knight and Whipet cars, and wishes to advise his many friends and customers that he will be in a better position to serve them than ever before through the co-operation of the new management.

E. R. Machell

George E. Taylor of Hartford and Viola M. Walters of 14 Snipe street, Rockville, have filed marriage intentions at the Town Clerk's office.

Lebbeus F. Bisell, chairman of the Republican town committee for the past 12 years, has announced that he will resign. The party regrets his decision as they will miss his leadership.

C. J. Pickett

Mr. Warren otherwise known as Pete, head mechanic is a Manchester man, well known to the motorists as one of the best, always ready to do difficult work with a smile.

C. J. Pickett is well known to the motorists of Manchester, formerly connected with the Willys-Overland Co., as factory representative in the Boston territory, later coming to Manchester as a Willys-Knight dealer. Mr. Pickett's record as salesman in an enviable one, having sold 450 cars in this town since coming here in 1925. His appointment as sales manager for the Machell Motor Sales is a just acknowledgment of good salesmanship. He has today a very smooth working organization. Three full time salesmen, three part time salesmen, three mechanics go to make up the organization.

RED MEN'S FLOAT TO SHOW INDIAN VILLAGE

Miantonomah Tribe of Red Men will hold a masquerade dance at the "Four Corners" in Buckingham tomorrow night. It is hoped that through this dance enough money will be raised to defray the expense incurred in building a float for the Armistice Day parade. Prizes of $2.50 in gold will be given for the most original and for the prettiest costume in the grand march.

The float that will represent the Red Men in the Armistice Day parade will represent an Indian village. Members of the Red Men have been scouring the surrounding country side for fir trees with which to form the background for the wigwams and at last have secured enough. Members of the tribe will complete the work of building the float over the weekend.

For the benefit of deaf people to whom the ordinary alarm-clock is of no use, a new invention of a Bavarian bounces a rubber ball on the sleeper's head at the hour selected.

GLENNEY'S

SECTIONAL TITLES WILL BE AT STAKE Walsh Dopes Out Who Will Win the Big Ten Games Tomorrow.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Nov. 9.—It will be survivor against survivor tomorrow on the embattled gridirons of the east, middle west, the south and southwest, with the sectional titles in each thing laid on the line for the team that can come and get it. Ohio State against Iowa with the Big Ten championship at stake; unbeaten Army in the throes of its annual brannigan with Notre Dame; Carnegie Tech and Georgetown undefeated and united, fighting desperately to stay with the eastern pace; four leaders of the southern conference coupled for the day and Southern Methodist engaging the Texas Aggies in the big moment of the southwest's season.

A perfect show-down of cold hands, and maybe I mean feet, arranged by the official schedule. Any showing up to be done will be arranged by the winners.

Meantime, the 98 per cent wrong club has met with a full quota, meaning me, in attendance. I mean the quorum was full. Anyhow, the club has been arranging things, too. It has arranged for the following results in the climax games referred to:

Ohio State to win the western conference by beating Iowa; Army to win from Notre Dame by inches; Carnegie Tech to beat Georgetown; Georgia Tech to beat Vanderbilt; Texas to beat Baylor and Texas A. & C. to win from Southern Methodist, but only in the event of a tie; Hume is out of the latter's lineup.

Other arrangements for which the club is responsible include the following results by sections:

East—Navy to beat Michigan; Harvard to beat Pennsylvania; Pittsburgh to win from Washington & Jefferson; Princeton to win from Washington & Lee with 100 touchdowns to spare; Yale ditto with Maryland with ditto to spare; Syracuse to beat Ohio Wesleyan; Villanova to beat Temple.

Middle West—Midwestern—Wisconsin and Chicago to play a tie, quite against the popular trend; Purdue to beat Northwestern and the conformists won't like this one either; Minnesota to beat Indiana; Illinois to win from Butler with seven touchdowns; Missouri to come back at the expense of Kansas State; Nebraska to outlast Oklahoma; North Dakota and South Dakota hearing at it, with the writer strictly perishing the Dakotas; Marquette perishing a shade of Kansas.

South—Alabama to win from Kentucky; North Carolina a slight edge ahead on South Carolina, although I really should say that I like the Carolinians' chances; Tennessee a romp with Swansea; Tulare to win from Alabama Poly.

On the Coast—Pacific Coast—California to beat Washington by yards and yards; Southern California to beat Arizona by touchdowns and touchdowns; Stanford too good for Santa Clara.

Only a climactic upset can affect any part of the coast arrangements but many of the others can and probably will be affected without further notice.

However, I like the Navy because I think it has found a punch this will score two touchdowns, whereas there is yet to be discovered a team on which Michigan can score twice. I like Ohio State because I believe its passing game is about to click in a manner too versatile for Iowa.

Notre Dame ought to be set for the Army and Rockne, by this time, ought to have figured some way of restraining Cagle. The Irish probably will hamper him some but not enough. If they stop him altogether, they can't lose.

The tie I have arranged between Chicago and Wisconsin is merely my way of saying that Stagg, never a total loss for a full campaign, is coming back. If he does, it is hard to figure Chicago losing. Whether he does or not, it is equally hard to figure this Chicago team winning. I give Purdue the break because Northwestern because of the notion that it has more punch.

Tech is hard to beat anywhere but particularly in Atlanta and otherwise it might seem to have just an edge over Vanderbilt in offensive finesse. Vandy hasn't shown itself to be defensively foolproof, either. As for Georgia and Florida, the nomination goes to the former because I regard it as being better prepared for a big game.

The rest of the non-long need no particular explanation—at least, not a minute earlier than Saturday evening.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS
 At New York—Al Singer, New York featherweight, knocked out Johnny Lawson, Grantwood, N. J., 5; Kid Chocolate, Cubanbantamweight, was decision over Pinsky Silverberg, of Ansonia, Conn., 8.

At Belma, Pa.—Young Ketchel of Chester, Pa., scored technical knockout over Al Conway of Philadelphia, 6.

THEY'RE STILL CHEERING
 When Alabama Poly defeated Howard in football on October 27, it was the first victory for that eleven in its last 17 starts.

CAPTAINS SWIMMING TEAM
 Halfback Allan at West Point is captain of the swimming team at the academy this year.

Bay State Sunday Ball Recalls Days Of 1895

By R. E. CARNEY

It was one matter that was disposed of at the national election held on Tuesday that will be of more than passing interest to many Manchester people and that was the passage of the Sunday sport law in Massachusetts.

Boston has been the only New England representer in the National League in New England, with the exception of the time that Hartford, with Morgan G. Buckley of Hartford, then president of the league and Providence also in the league in those days.

In the rows of all baseball players during each world series and previous to the series last month, there was the question as to what was the most important series and among the leading writers of today, men who have been in baseball either as players, umpires or writers, a debate is going on, many have claimed that Boston is the best baseball town in the country.

$1.50 For Excursion
 As far back as 1895, when the old New England Railroad ran excursions a few times each summer which cost $1.50 from Manchester for the round trip and also allowed the right to either take a trip to Revere Beach or see the National League games, then played on the Huntington street grounds, there was always a large delegation from Manchester.

Boys of those days were known to spend morning after morning in the wet patches of strawberries picking berries at 2 cents a quart and if there was twenty baskets picked. This money would be saved for two purposes—July 4 or a trip to Boston on one of these excursions to see a ball game.

Boston in those days had such a well known catcher as Martin Berggren. He was an idol of the Manchester fans, for he was one of the men that played with Waterbury, managed by Senator Harold Durant of Giltford and with the late Judge H. O. Bowers, that played in Manchester. Martin was a wonderful catcher and could snap them to second while kneeling down as though shot from a cannon. Martin had a sad ending. He became insane, shot his wife and two children and then himself. It was a real pity to see in those days, but Manchester has seen almost the same thing in later years.

One of the pitchers was Kløberdance. He also played with the same Waterbury team that defeated Manchester so bad at Woodland Park in 1895. Baseball players were not paid as large salaries in those days, but in those days it was necessary to have some other job during the winter. Kløberdance did this and selected the job as a ticket taker at a theater in Worcester. It was a non-union house and the labor unions learned of this and they put the kibosh on the ticket takers of the games in Boston or in other cities where the Boston team played, so Kløberdance went out of the picture.

Long at Short
 At short there was Herman Long, who played with a broken arm. Playing with one arm strapped to the side and also battling one hand. It was an important game, too, for they were playing Cleveland that day, yet Long got a couple of singles. Fred Tinney, an old Brown College star and later with the Yale team when the law school represented the college and was selected by Alanzo Stagg to represent Yale at the Chicago World's Fair, was also a player on the Boston teams in those days. He was a hard hitter and a wonderful fielder, but conceited. Bobby Lowe at second and McCarthy at third made up a great infield.

In the outfield was Hugh Duffy, as good a fielder as ever chased a ball. He was working in one of the mills in Rockville when the late Senator Arthur E. Bowers, just out of Yale, and editor, errand boy and advertising man for the Rockville Journal, placed Rockville on the baseball map by getting them represented in the State League. Duffy was picked up to play the outfield and that was his start in organized baseball. But to the old timers, his name as a fielder will long be remembered. It is doubtful if there are many who will recall that one of the best players of the dyshouses of Rockville by the late Senator Bowers and started on his way to national fame as a baseball player.

Clyde Burrows Pirate Pitcher Goes Operatic

By R. E. CARNEY

Clyde Burrows, former pitcher on the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team, has "gone operatic."

Burrows, who used to organize de luxe "barber shop" quartets among his clubmates, will make his debut with the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company next season.

Since his childhood in Mystic, Conn., Burrows has nurtured in ambition to become an opera singer. Burrows used baseball as a stepping stone to his goal.

At College
 His prowess as a ball player while attending Mercer University at Macon, Ga., caused Burrows to be selected for a place on the All-Southern Collegiate baseball team. He later made the big league as a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After Burrows had saved $3,000 from his ball playing, he threw down his baseball glove and headed for New York City to study music. But the "stinging pitcher" found that three grand did not get one very far up the scale when studying under the music masters of New York.

To continue his musical education he was forced to take a job in a dental office. Meanwhile, numerous lucrative offers from baseball clubs were made to him, but Burrows turned them down. He preferred to keep his lowly dental job for the opportunity it gave him to keep up his musical studies.

In Concert Field
 After three years of this, Burrows entered the concert field. He became known as the first concert singer to introduce a song in Esperanto, the international language. He also won noteworthy praise for his rendition of Loewe's "Edward" which was a sensational success generally used in his program.

Burrows is a baritone. He plans to tour the country in concert before making his operatic debut.

NOTRE DAME-NAVY TO DRAW BIG CROWD Expect Over 80,000 at Yankee Stadium Tomorrow; Betting Odds Even.

New York, Nov. 9.—Army's great football team faces the turn of the road tomorrow in its annual battle with Knute Rockne's Improved Notre Dame aggregation.

The Hoosiers, who made a surprisingly poor showing against Wisconsin and Georgia Tech, are reported to be "loaded for bear" for tomorrow's classic and loom as the most dangerous obstacle in the path of West Point's march toward the national championship.

On paper perhaps Nebraska and Stanford seem stronger than Notre Dame, but the Hoosier eleven that will face the soldiers tomorrow will be nothing like the team which Rockne sent against Wisconsin and Georgia Tech. For one thing, Fullback Fred Collins will be on the job against the Army. Collins is the lad who led the South Bend Warriors to a nine to nothing victory over the State last week.

Interest in the contest here has picked up so rapidly that more than 80,000 spectators are expected to jam the Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

While Notre Dame has been pointing for this game, the gamblers have been practicing new plays to spring on the Hoosiers. And no detail has been overlooked by Coach "Big" Jones in his preparations to stop the nomads from South Bend,

PLENTY OF ACTION ON HARTFORD CARD

Beauregard and Cormier Get Undeserved Verdicts; Hogan Battered.

Al Beauregard of Tataville and Pete Lucel of Clinton, Mass., provided fans with the most action seen in an eight round bout in a long, long time last night when they battled toe-to-toe nearly every minute to top off one of the best cards Ed Hurley has yet arranged for Foot Guard Hall fans in Hartford. Referee Bill Conway gave Beauregard the decision, but in doing so he automatically chalked up an error in his column, for Lucel clearly was the winner, being much the cleaner and harder hitter. Beauregard was more aggressive, that's all.

Vernon Cormier of Worcester was given a questionable decision over Ruby Bradley of Holyoke by another eight rounder in which the more experienced and scientific colored lad seemed to have the edge. Cormier was by far the more aggressive, but was so anxious, he often lost his balance and dove to the floor. Cormier, however, was one of the most willing mixers seen in a Hartford ring in a long time.

Frankie Portell of Hartford easily and completely outclassed Ray Hogan of Torrville in another eight round boxer, had little trouble beating Hogan who is a slugger pure and simple. Mickey Roberts also earned his decision over Hop Wah, the Chinese, Nick Christie of Boston knocked George Welch of Hartford in the third round.

ARRANGE FOR TWO GAMES

Georgia Tech and North Carolina recently signed a contract whereby North Carolina will appear in Atlanta in 1929 and Georgia Tech will visit Chapel Hill in 1930.

ANOTHER BACK GONE WRONG
 Because he was unable to keep up the scholastic requirements, Carl Brown, backfield ace of the Colorado Aggies, was dropped from the squad in late October.

THE PRESS? BERRIES ON THEM!

Harvard, Yale and Princeton, denying the appeal of the metropolitan newspapers to provide better working places and conditions for the football reporters, go back to the old snail that the interests of the newspapers are not theirs. They contend they would prefer to have their football activities ignored by the newspapers and that their stadia would be filled with their own graduate customers if the public didn't even know what teams were playing.

Possibly this may be true. It would be interesting to try one season for an experiment.

Cockeyed Viewpoint

It seems, however, that the athletic officials have a correct view of the wrong snail and that the Yale Daily News had the right angle in an editorial asking the athletic board to cover the press box in the Bowl.

The editorial pointed out that Yale, Harvard and Princeton were not inviting publicity that actually was not needed but that they had a duty to graduates in hundreds of other cities who depended entirely upon newspaper stories to inform them of the activities of teams in which they were vitally interested.

It is somewhat of a joy to report that the attitude of the Big Three toward the press and newspapers is not held by the other sections of the country. And that may be one reason why the Big Three isn't so big any more.

Ah, But He's Bobby!

Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., a 28-year-old newspaperman, said in one of his recent pieces commenting upon the play in the national amateur golf championship:

"True Von Elm was beaten in the first round at Brae Burn and was outdistanced there by Volght and Johnston and possibly Dolp, although I am not certain whether Dolp lost in the first or second round.

We know several deskmen who would have said to a $15-a-week reporter: "Get in the files there and find out whether Dolp lost in the first or second round."

Poor Andy Cohen

Fred Leach, rescued from the Phillies by that great humanitarian, John J. McGraw, has been assigned by his new boss to a permanent post in left field. Andy Reese, relieved of the substitute outfield role, will be moved to second base and Andy Cohen may be transferred from the park. And young Cohen may prosper some place where he will not be capitalized so commercially.

Beatings Come Cheap

Harry Blittman, Philadelphia featherweight, was told by his manager, Boo Boo Hoff, that he was to get $32,000 for fighting Benny Base. Blittman fought him and got knocked for a loop. And all he got was the beating, he claims in the petition in which he seeks a divorce from Boo Boo.

Joe's Clinker

A straw vote among the heavyweights favors Young Stribling as the most promising. Let us be kind to the heavyweights, today, children, and merely say Young Strib is the least unpromising.

- A club in Buenos Aires advertises for boxers. On the list of desirable, sent to an American promoter, appears the name of Joe Gans. Maybe they'd like a peak at Joe.
- Mice, too.

Louis Angel Firpo is starting his comeback effort. He only has to get rid of 60 pounds to reduce to title weight. Why doesn't he hire a butcher?

He takes off ten pounds at a workout, then steps into the dining room and eats a couple of sheep, pigs, or calves. By the time he's ready to fight he'll weigh a scant 500.

Dempsey will fight again for $500,000. He must need a new pair of shoes.

Football Briefs

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9.—Dud Charlesworth, Yale's crack center, will get a rest tomorrow. Art Palmer will replace him against Maryland.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 9.—The Harvard and Yale squads are scheduled to take their final workouts on Soldiers Field today in preparation for tomorrow's game. The Crimson squad had to work out in the baseball cage yesterday because of rain. Crawford is giving Putnam a hot battle for the quarterback post.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9.—Four Princeton regulars, Miles, Whyte, Levine and Jones, are in poor condition and unlikely to play against Washington & Lee tomorrow. Yesterday's practice indicated that the forward pass will feature Princeton's attack.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Army's football squad leaves today for New York, where the cadets will take their annual workout this afternoon before meeting Notre Dame at Yankee Stadium tomorrow. Owing to the wet field, yesterday's practice was confined to blocking and tackling and a brief kicking and punting drill. A football rally was held by the cadet corps last night.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 9.—Owing to a plethora of good material, Navy's lineup for the Michigan game is uncertain. Chances are that fresh men will be put into the game at frequent intervals. Squad B, using Michigan passes, could not gain against the varsity and second teams in yesterday's practice.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Leo Diegel has never lost a golf match in Maryland... And Joe Beckett never was knocked out in the United States... The experiment of using two teams tried in the Western Conference this year has been a failure... Tom Meade, Richard's matchmaker, asked Jim Slattery to fight Tuffy Griffiths... And Slattery said, "No. I don't even know the boy..." Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee football team recently defeated Alabama... And the major was so excited he had to ask what the score was when it was over... And he said he'd like to kiss his boys... The Navy is going to make the first move to make up with the Army... And grant all the concessions.

Has Hair That Won't Mind-- But Toes Will

Iowa City, Nov. 9.—Irving Nelson, a blond young man whose hair will not mind a comb, was one of the greatest high school football, basketball and baseball players ever developed in Omaha. He went to the University of Iowa hopeful that he would become one of those great big conference stars but he found that more than his reputation is needed to make a Big Ten varsity. In his sophomore year this fall he became so discouraged with his football prospects that he turned in his suit and set his mind on the basketball squad.

Rollie Williams, assistant football coach, persuaded him to return to the squad the day before the Minnesota game and when that important game started he had his old place on the bench.

Then arrived the situation in the game when Iowa scored a touchdown and tied Minnesota and the game could be won by converting the point after touchdown.

Burt Ingwersen, the varsity coach, looked around the bench and then nearly captured the young man when he ordered:

"Get in there, Nelson, and kick for that point!"

Nelson got in and kicked the goal and won the game.

Shows No Signs Of Retirement After 45 Years

Ogden, Utah, Nov. 9.—G. L. "Gus" Becker, one of the most famous trapshooters in this country, has been at the game for 45 years—and he gives no signs of quitting.

During this period, Becker has shot at 300,000 targets, at his own expense of $25,000, and has made an average break of 94.2 per cent. of the targets shot at.

He recently performed what is reckoned in the west as a world mark—breaking 171 targets straight-hand shooting. He scored 199 in 200 targets.

One of his favorite feats, which he does for nothing many times during the year at wild west performances, is to play "Home, Sweet Home" on some especially constructed targets built by the late John M. Browning, gun inventor.

"How long am I going to continue shooting?" he repeats when asked. "As long as I can. I love it!"

PROGRESSIVES WIN IN EVERY INSTANCE

Every Candidate Endorsed by Norris Elected—Unusual Victory for Him.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Although Herbert Hoover's landslide victory has overwhelmed political leaders, the Progressive group in Congress today boasted of 100 per cent. landslide of its own.

Every candidate for the Senate, endorsed by Senator George W. Norris, insurgent leader, and every insurgent member of the House was returned to office. This victory was achieved by the Progressives even though the candidates were in three parties and in states scattered from one coast to another.

"The people are talking about Hoover's tremendous victory," said one insurgent, "but the real victory was won by the people themselves in returning Progressives to office. We scored a 100 per cent victory. We didn't lose a state and Hoover lost eight."

The victorious Senate Insurgents were Hiram W. Johnson, Calif., R.; Base, Blittman, N.Y., J. Frazier, N. D., and Robert M. La Follette, Jr., Wis., Republicans; David I. Walsh, Mass., Burton K. Wheeler, Mont., Kenneth McKellar, Tenn., and C. C. Dill Wash., all Democrats; Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minn. All had been personally endorsed by Norris and he campaigned personally for each of them excepting Walsh and McKellar.

CHINAMAN IS BEATEN IN HOLD-UP ATTEMPT

Hit With Blackjack and Pipe He Leads Police in Capturing Bandit.

Norwalk, Conn., Nov. 9.—Harold Munhall, 18, of Crockett street, Rowayton, was arrested today and charged with assault and attempted robbery following an attack on Charlie Pong, a local Chinese resident, in a South Norwalk building where Pong lives. With Munhall held without bail police were seeking two men said to have aided Munhall in the hold-up.

Pong was dragged into a vacant room in the building where he lived by the gang who apparently had been attracted by reports that Pong carried large sums of money. Pong put up a hard fight despite blows from a blackjack and lead pipe and the men fled with Pong screaming in chase.

Police saw Munhall flee in a car and gave chase in a commandeered car, catching him at the door of his home. Then they found the blackjack and pipe. Munhall's car was registered in the name of one of the men being sought in the hold-up. The affair occurred after midnight.

SMITH APPEAL

The lone endorsement by Norris, which the electorate rejected, was his appeal for the election of Gov. Alfred E. Smith to the presidency. His group however, did not support Norris' choice as several Insurgents, particularly Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, and Smith W. Bookhart of Iowa, were outspoken in their support of Herbert Hoover. Many political observers felt Bookhart's valiant battle in behalf of Hoover as responsible, more than any other thing, for the Republican nominee's success throughout the corn belt. Bookhart took the stump for Hoover last July and kept it day and night until election day.

FIGHTING TO SAVE LIFE OF SLAYER

Columbia, Ohio, Nov. 8.—Another last minute fight to save the life of Stanley Hoppe, confessed Toledo child slayer, from the electric chair in which he is sentenced to die tonight, was being waged here today by Eilon H. Young, Hoppe's attorney.

Although previous pleas, both to the Court of Appeals and to the State Supreme Court have failed, the Board of Clemency has yet to decide what recommendation it will make to Gov. Donahay, on Hoppe's plea for commutation of sentence, while Hoppe's attorney maintains that the petition "as of right," filed Tuesday in Supreme Court, automatically stays sentence until the motion is decided.

When this legal angle was presented to Warden Preston E. Thomas, of Ohio State Penitentiary who has been making preparations for the carrying out of the death sentence, he said, "if the attorney general rules Young is right, the execution will be stayed. If he holds the attorney is wrong, it will go ahead as scheduled."

A board of alienists yesterday declared Hoppe to be neither insane nor feeble minded, thus destroying almost the last vestige of hope for the confessed murderer.

CONNECTICUT THIRD IN POULTRY INDUSTRY

According to the latest available figures from the Department of Agriculture, Connecticut ranks third in the growth of its poultry industry among all the states of the Union. In the five years before 1926, the total egg production in this state increased 82 percent. The egg production per hen increased about 24 percent.

This increase in egg production per hen—although less in some states—is said by agricultural statisticians to be due mainly to the better selection of stock and better care of it. New scientific information on the care of poultry is another cause of the increase. Such developments as the utilization of the ultra-violet rays of the sun which supply the much needed vitamin D, by means of cologlass windows for hen houses, perfected brooders of great size and scientific methods of feeding advocated by poultry experimental stations have all played their part in the country-wide increase in egg production during the past few years.

CHEMISTS SEEK WAY TO COMBAT POISONOUS GAS

New York.—The Chemical Warfare Service sees success ahead in its effort to provide protection against carbon dioxide. Major General Amos A. Fries, U. S. A., Chief of the Service, discloses in "Industrial and Engineering Chemistry," a journal of the American Chemical Society.

"Carbon dioxide, the twin brother of carbon monoxide, but not so dangerous, is a product of ordinary combustion and of the respiration of men and animals," says General Fries summarizing progress in the development of by-products of chemical warfare to protect workers from industrial poisons.

"The question of eliminating the injurious effects of carbon dioxide in places where adequate ventilation cannot be secured is an important industrial problem."

Military Importance "It is of direct military importance at the present time owing to the necessity of providing some means of combating poisonous effects of carbon monoxide in submarines when the crews are entrapped therein, through accident or other emergency, as in the recent collision of the S-4."

Dangerous Poison "Carbon monoxide is one of the most dangerous industrial poisons because of its lack of odor, color, and taste and its widespread prevalence."

Seek Protection "Because of its deadly character both in war and in peace this gas has been very intensively studied by the Chemical Warfare Service, particularly with a view to providing some practical method of protection against it."

ULCERS AND ABSCESSSES

Ulcers and abscesses are practically always caused by a break or slight injury to the skin or mucous membranes of the body, which allows the entrance of various bacteria or toxic substances...

The mere presence of micro-organisms is not alone enough to cause pus formation. In fact, streptococci and bacilli coil, which are often found in ulcers, are frequently observed in many healthy tissues...

Foreign bodies, such as splinters, needles and buttons do not usually cause abscesses unless they introduce pus-forming bacteria, or are moved and in this way cause an internal irritation...

FARM BUREAU ARRANGES EDUCATIONAL MEETINGS

Series to Familiarize Farmers With Bureau Service to Be Held Throughout State.

The Hartford County Farm Bureau, a strictly educational organization, supported by a group of local farmers, the county of Hartford, State of Connecticut and U. S. Department of Agriculture has arranged a series of high class educational meetings to cover the entire county according to an announcement made by Chas. D. Lewis, County Agricultural Agent for the Farm Bureau.

The sole purpose of these meetings, says Mr. Lewis, is to familiarize the Hartford County farmer and his family with the available Farm Bureau services. We believe that as in all other lines of business, efficient production and orderly marketing are the solution of the agricultural problem, and while we realize these meetings do not solve this problem, we hope to bring more and more farmers to realize the help they may get in its solution.

The meeting for the towns of Wethersfield, Rocky Hill, Newington, New Britain and Berlin will be held at the Newington Grange Hall, Thursday evening, November 8, 8:00 p. m. T. C. Waters, director in Rocky Hill will preside at this meeting. S. McLean, Buckingham, State Commissioner of Agriculture will give the main address on what the Farm Bureau offers to the Hartford County Farmer. The program will also include talks by Stanchiff Hale, Glastonbury, Mrs. Wm. Carr, Poponock and Albin Lindquist, 4-H Club Boy, Forestville.

The meeting for the towns of South Windsor, East Windsor, and Enfield will be held at the Scantic Parish House, Friday, November 9, 8:00 p. m., with Miles M. Smith, president of the Farm Bureau presiding. J. H. Putnam, County Agricultural Agent, Franklin County, Massachusetts, will give the main talk on how the Farm Bureau may be used to solve farmers' problems.

On November 12, in the West Simsbury Community Hall, a meeting will be held for the towns of Hartland, Granby, Simsbury and Bloomfield. A. W. Gilbert, Commissioner of Agriculture in Massachusetts, is the main speaker on this occasion. E. F. Manchester, Bristol, and Mrs. A. W. Sweeton, Jr., Canton Center will tell what uses they have made of the Farm Bureau.

In Plainville, at the Grange Hall, November 14, 8:00 p. m., the people from Plainville, Bristol and Southington will gather to hear George Farley, State Club leader in Massachusetts, Harold Kelsey, Middletown, Mrs. L. U. Barnes, Burlington and Marion Bristol, Canton speak.

At Wingfield Smith's mill, Farmington, November 15, 8:00 p. m., with C. F. Woodford, presiding, A. W. Manchester will be the chief speaker. Harold M. Hayes, Granby, ex-president of the Farm Bureau, Mrs. Herbert L. Harrison, Forestville, and two club girls from Southington will talk. The towns of Farmington, Avon, West Hartford, Canton and Burlington are invited to this meeting.

F. J. Seivers, recently appointed director of Massachusetts Experiment Station, will give the address on available services that the farmers may have through the Farm Bureau at the town hall in Poponock, November 16, 8:00 p. m. Sousaphone Section of New York Cadets' Band

Above is the Sousaphone section of the Training College Cadets' Band of New York City, which will render a Music Festival on Saturday evening, in the local Salvation Army Citadel. The band is made up entirely of young men who are now training in the New York College for officership in the Salvation Army. They will be thirty-two strong, and have a very splendid band. They will render a variety program of instrumental and vocal solos, as well as marches and selection by the full band. Lt. Col. Barrett with them.

by are invited to this meeting. J. B. Lewis, Southington, Mrs. Leo A. Grouden, second vice-president of the Farm Bureau, Farmington, and Robert Welch, 4-H Club boy, Hazardville, will talk.

"Thirteen motion picture reels have been secured for these meetings covering Farm Bureau and agricultural activities generally," says Mr. Lewis, "and appropriate selections from these reels will be shown at each meeting through the courtesy of E. M. Mills, in charge of student control, Amherst, Massachusetts."

Community singing will be included on each program and a booklet of old folk songs has been secured for this occasion. "We believe," says Mr. Lewis, "that we are offering the farmers and their families of Hartford County an opportunity to become acquainted with available educational services that they have not had in past years. Admission is absolutely free to all and we sincerely hope that every farmer in the county will bring his family to hear the splendid talks and see the motion pictures that have been arranged for them through the Farm Bureau."

The two reel picture, Fair and Warmer, put out by the American Farm Bureau Federation carries a contest feature with it and everyone at the meetings will be given an opportunity to fill out a little blank stating the services that they should like to see developed in Hartford County. The one who turns in the best blank will receive a Vecto Heater through the courtesy of the American Radiator Company.

HEFLIN CRIES "FRAUD"

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 9.—The cry of fraud in counting election votes in the state was raised today by Senator Heflin (D) of Alabama, foe of Gov. A. L. Smith.

Unofficial returns gave Smith a lead of 14,000 over Herbert Hoover. "Hoover should have a majority in Alabama of 20,000," said Heflin. "Evidence of fraud, corruption and gross irregularity is increasing. We expect to expose and punish these outrageous practices. We are now on their trail."

He charged specifically 3,000 anti-Smith votes had been "thrown out" in Montgomery county.

TELLS HI-Y MEMBERS

OF 3 YEARS IN CHINA

Charles J. Huber Gives an Interesting Talk, Stressing Growth of Modernism.

Shanghai, China, is as modern as almost any American or European city, Charles J. Huber, head of the department of technical research at Cheney Brothers, said in speaking before the first meeting of the season of the Manchester HI-Y Club, which was held last night in the Center Congregational Church. A good-sized delegation of members of the organization was present. Mr. Huber recently returned from spending three years in China in the employ of the United States Conditioning and Testing Company. During that time, he saw much of the country. Mr. Huber said that the average person little realizes the extent of modernism in China, especially in Shanghai, where they have street cars, electric lights, telephones and practically every other convenience which American and European cities possess. The population of Shanghai is 1,500,000 of which 50,000 are foreigners. Some parts of the interior of China, however, are as antiquated as they were 1,000 years ago, Mr. Huber said. Others who spoke were Principal Clarence P. Quimby, Ray C. Pillsbury, superintendent of the White Weaving Mill of Cheney Brothers, and Chester L. Robinson, head of the science department of Manchester High School. The HI-Y Club is composed of boys from the sophomore, junior and senior classes of the high school. Its purpose is the promotion of Christian ideals and leadership in the school and the community.

ST. GEORGE DAUGHTERS HONOR MRS. HEWITT

Mrs. J. H. Hewitt, who is soon to leave for a visit to her old home in England, was honored by the members of Lady Roberts Lodge, Daughters of St. George, at their meeting in Tinker hall Wednesday evening. After the business, Mrs. Hewitt was called to one of the other rooms to confer about the lodge's Armistice day plans. When she returned to the main hall, she was surprised to note that her associates had been very busy arranging and decorating supper tables in a color scheme of yellow and pink, with flowers in favor colors in the same colors, and had provided a generous supply of good things to eat. Mrs. Charles Ditchin in behalf of the lodge presented to Mrs. Hewitt a handsome fitted bag of brown suede. Mrs. Hewitt is actively interested in the lodge here for many years. She warmly thanked the members for arranging the farewell party in her honor and for their most acceptable gift. Mrs. Hewitt recently sold her milk business, the largest in town, to the Bryant & Chipman company of Hartford. With Mrs. Hewitt he is going to take a trip to London, England, to remain the greater part of the next six months. Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt were married in New York and it is 19 years since she has seen her parents or other relatives in London. They plan to sail on the S. S. Minnekada of the Atlantic Transport line, which is scheduled to leave New York on the 24th of November.

WAPPING TALENT IN BAZAAR COMEDY

Mrs. Charles Thrasher, Mrs. Annie Fubig and F. B. Clarke who constitute the committee in charge of the entertainments to be given with the three-evening bazaar next week at the North Methodist church, have arranged with Wapping talent to put on a comedy sketch entitled "Hanging Out the Family Wash." This is sure to be a family maker, abounding as it is with local hits. This will be a feature of Wednesday night's program. Thursday evening the High School Dramatic club will present a play and the third evening the program will consist mainly of instrumental music, furnished by individual members of the Salvation Army band, mandolin numbers by young folks from the Methodist church and the Maxwell Mandolin Club. The low priced season tickets are good for the three evenings of the bazaar.

No matter how badly a girl needs new shoes, they're not much good in a pinch.

SENSE and NONSENSE

RESOURCEFUL.

There was a young lady named Stella Who went to the show with her fella. And when she got there, Her compact was bare So she rubbed on a piece of marsh-mella.

"Crash!" The window splintered under the impact of the hard kicked ball. The small boy who had kicked the ball regarded his handiwork, with round eyes. Finally he decided to own up about it.

"That'll be two-dollars," he said. "But," protested the other, "the boy said you were his father."

"Darling," he asked, as he drew her closer to him, "am I the only man you have ever kissed?"

"You understand, no doubt, that when he dies the whole of his fortune will be left to me?"

"You know that I also have nearly half a million dollars' worth of property?"

"Then, for goodness sake, talk sense! What difference would it make to you if I had been kissed by a thousand men before I met you?"

LETTER GOLF

NOT SO SLOW, EITHER! Today's letter golf hole starts out a little SLOW and apparently keeps up that PACE until the end. At the same time it requires some pretty fair letter golfing. Par is seven and one solution is on another page:

Grid for letter golf puzzle with words SLOW and PACE.

THE RULES 1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Bless Her Heart. "The floors in our apartment are very bad," a brand new wife said to a Manchester clerk. "Have you anything to—"

"Certainly," was the quick reply. "A can of floor wax will fix them up nicely."

Mother: "You must learn to swat the flies, dear. Flies carry disease germs."

"Oh, my! Oh, my!" one Tiny cried. "The captain's fallen on his side. The rope snapped back and hit him, and he's dazed as he can be. I think we all had best retreat before he jumps up to his feet. How he will keep from being mad I really cannot see."

A Week In Washington And All Expenses Paid For Some Fortunate Customer

Every Purchaser Of A Fur Coat This Week Has A Chance. In Addition, Many Special Values

Mr. Paul Herrmann Will Be Here For The Last Day Tomorrow

Mr. Paul Herrmann, senior partner of one of New York's largest and best known fur manufacturers, will terminate his visit at the store tomorrow, Saturday. Mr. Herrmann is an expert fur man, having devoted his lifetime to the fur business. Plan to see this special showing tomorrow even if you are not planning on purchasing a coat. Mr. Herrmann will be glad to explain to you the various peltries.

How Can You Participate?

How would you like to buy a Fur Coat this week with Hale's complete guarantee as to price and quality and have the opportunity to participate in the drawing contest? The fortunate name will be drawn from the list of people who have purchased a Fur Coat this week and the balance of this month. On December first the name will be drawn by Mr. Clarence Quimby, principal of the High School. The person whose name is so chosen will be entitled to a free trip to Washington, all expenses paid, with Mr. and Mrs. Quimby at Easter when they take the High School seniors on their annual trip.

This will be a real opportunity. If you have been hesitating about purchasing your new Fur Coat, the thing to do is to make up your mind right away. WHY? Simply that we have with us this week Mr. Herrmann, an expert fur man. He will have over fifty thousand dollars worth of Fur Coats to show you. A very wonderful assortment at prices as low as dependable Fur Coats can be sold.

We are offering this trip simply to attract your attention to our Fur Coat Department and cause you to make your decision now rather than delay it until later. Remember!
