RED CROSS HITS STRIDE IN ITS ANNUAL DRIVE

Energetic Young Workers Aid—One-Fourth of the Town's Quota of Membership Dollars Raised.

Though the annual Red Cross drive for memberships did not start off in Manchester as promptly as in some years or in some communities, it bids fair to accomplish as important results because the organization affected this time is a particularly active one. There are more young workers than in any previous year and they have started off with a bang, having already obtained more than a fourth of the town's membership quota, which this year is a thousand more than previously allotted to Manchester.

When one remembers that the National Red Cross is the first and inflexible recourse of the nation whenever disaster brings its demand for instant rescue and relief work, and that it has never yet failed to meet an emergency as no other agency possibly could meet it, the quick response of the people of the community to its appeal for membership support is understandable.

How Red Cross Works

On the very day that the news of the Porto Rico hurricane came, National Red Cross headquarters at Washington started its national relief drive and four staff members to Manchester to board a navy destroyer for the scene of the disaster. No one knew any details, only that something terrible had happened. By the time these representatives had taken the first view of the situation and dispatched the briefest summary of it, the Red Cross had a government ship ready at New York, immediately loaded it with $160,000 worth of rice, beans, salt pork, flour and other supplies and started it on the rescue of the starving thousands.

Before the storm had struck Florida the Red Cross had started a party of relief workers to that point. They were there almost as soon as the hurricane. What they did for Florida everybody knows.

In the last year the Red Cross has acted in 89 disasters. With the single exception of the Florida relief, for which special contributions were necessarily sought, the relief work was paid for out of the funds raised in the membership drive last year.

During the last five years the Red Cross has given instant aid in an average of eighty disasters a year of all sorts. In the very great majority of all the disasters that come from the Red Cross treasury, supplied by the annual dollar memberships of millions of Americans.

It is for dollars to be employed in this miraculous work that the men

These pieced-together fragments of a photograph, found in a cornfield near Norristown, Pa., beside the body of a pretty young woman, have now added to the mystery of her identity and the reason for her murder. After both the body of the victim and the girl shown in the left of this photo had been identified as that of Mrs. Bertha Wilgus, of Bridgeport, Mrs. Wilgus appeared in person to declare that she was very much alive.

WHOLE CITY TERRORIZED BY 'HATCHET MURDERER'

Bloodhounds Used to Trace Fiend Who Killed Three and Wounded Others; Rounding Up Suspects.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 21.—Bloodhounds were to be turned loose today in an attempt to pick up the trail of the "hatchet murderer" who already has taken three lives here, wounded two other persons and terrorized the city.

Horror-stricken Omaha slept behind barricaded doors last night while 250 policemen and scores of American Legion members patrolled the streets in the belief the fiend slayer might appear at midnight, as he did in his other nocturnal raids.

All through the night suspects were being brought in by police. The majority were negroes, for the "hatchet man" is said to be a negro. Some resembled the murderer's description, but detectives did not believe the "hatchet man" was among them.

May Be Maniac

A check-up of various institutions for the insane and feeble-minded failed to show escape of any inmate whose description tallied with that of the man now sought.

The slayer is described by Mrs. Harold Stribling, whom he forced to accompany him to a swamp near Carter lake, Iowa, where she succeeded in escaping him, as a negro youth of light complexion, about 21.

Mrs. Stribling's husband, a former University of Nebraska student, lay near death today from wounds sustained when attacked by the "hatchet man" prior to the kidnaping of Mrs. Stribling.

CHICAGO CANDY STORES SELL BOOZE TO KIDDIES

Speakeasies Located Near Schools, Officials Discover; High School Student Shot.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Further raids against "ice cream parlors" and "candy stores," in which it is charged liquor is being sold to school children, were planned today by local authorities working in co-operation with federal prohibition agents and school authorities.

The vigorous campaign against speakeasies located within six blocks of any school building was precipitated by the fatal shooting last Sunday of William Adamoytis, high school student, by the keeper of a so-called ice cream parlor.

Anthony Juskus, who did the shooting, claimed self-defense and was bound over to the Grand Jury on a manslaughter charge. Police who found a store of hidden liquor in his place claim he had been making a business of "debauching" school children through the sale of liquor.

SITUATION IN MARKET FILLED WITH DYNAMITE

Public Buying Wildly and Break Must Come, Says Expert—Nothing to Warrant High Prices.

New York, Nov. 21.—With an absolute disregard for the fundamentals in trade and finance, the public is rushing pell-mell into the Stock Market in a frenzy of excitement, searching every nook and corner for profits, William J. Wollman, head of the brokerage and investment banking house of W. J. Wollman & Co., told International News Service today.

"The public is making money—lots of it," said Wollman, "but the probabilities are that the bulk of public traders will leave the market on the floor of the exchange, a violent reaction in prices, with disastrous results might easily occur, bringing about a mild panic before the outside world was cognizant of what was going on."

Situation Dangerous

"Never was the situation in Wall street as dangerous as it is today. With the floor of the Stock Exchange inadequately manned, the ticker an hour behind and practically useless as a reflection of activity on the floor of the exchange, a violent reaction in prices, with disastrous results might easily occur, bringing about a mild panic before the outside world was cognizant of what was going on."

"Those who are buying stocks at current levels are disregarding also the important matter of dividends and returns and are discounting the future prosperity of the country too far ahead. Either there must be a corrective reaction or a long period of doldrum markets to permit business to catch up with the market."

The Fundamentals

"Getting down to the fundamentals," said Wollman, "there can be no doubt of the strong position of American finance, trade and industry. The big business concerns—the steel manufacturers, the motor car builders, the copper and oil companies, are all making money, and ploughing back a good portion of their earnings into their own business. But that is no reason why stock prices should go on skyrocketing without even a corrective reaction."

Wollman pointed out that the growth of new industries is now making a powerful appeal to people who car afford to speculate over the long range.

"The airplane industry," he declared, "is in its growth and appeal to the public investor, is paralleling the automobile and the radio industries in their formative years."

"It is now apparent that the business of the principal manufacturers of planes this year will be about 300 per cent greater than in 1927, the former record year. More than 600 planes are being turned out monthly, and the output by the end of the year will be at the rate of 700 a month. Here is something to fire the imagination of investors as well as traders in purely speculative stocks, for wise elections will mean fortunes to thousands of men who are willing to wait for them."

SENATE SWAMPED WITH MANY BILLS

Fear Thousands Will Be Sidetracked in Mad Rush for Legislation.

Washington, Nov. 21.—A top-heavy legislative program awaits the Senate, while a rather easy session confronts the House, although both branches of Congress must enact $4,700,000,000 worth of departmental appropriation bills.

This was the legislative outlook of Congress today with its first meeting of the short session two weeks away.

The Senate's calendar will be so heavy, administration leaders admitted, that thousands of bills will be slain in the mad rush for legislation. The jam is due partly to the long filibuster last spring by opponents of the Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam bill.

The Boulder Dam measure has the right of way in the Senate under an agreement entered before the last session ended. This will not insure its enactment by any means, but the bill must be disposed of in some fashion before any other important business can be transacted. The appropriation bills, however, will supersede it, probably

WINTER'S FIRST SNOW STRIKES NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 21.—The first real snow flurry of the season descended here today, giving boys on their way to school something to conjure with. On October 26 a few flakes fell but today's snowfall was more like the real thing.

HOOVER TRIES HAND AT DEEP SEA FISHING

After Fish Weighing 300 Pounds and Over—Has Picture Taken With Football Champions.

Aboard U. S. S. Maryland, Via Wireless to Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—President-Elect Herbert Hoover will try his hand at deep sea fishing today off the southern tip of California, known all over the world as the Mecca of fishermen in the western hemisphere.

Mr. Hoover exchanged his white flannels for the sturdy canvas clothes of a fisherman this morning and busied himself with getting his troll lines and other deep sea equipment in readiness in his guest for tarpon, marlin, sailfish and yellowtails. He is out avidly for "bites," scaling upwards of 300 pounds.

The fishing will be done from a motor launch, about 40 miles southwest of Cap San Lucas. Mr. Hoover has studied these famous spawning grounds from afar for many years, and today he was eager to have a try at the game fish which are so abundant in these waters.

Making Good Time

Since leaving San Pedro, the Maryland bearing the Hoover party on the good-will tour to Central and South America has been making good time.

It is expected that the Maryland will steam into the first foreign port—Amapala, Honduras—Sunday. The battlement, however, will have to maintain a speed of 17 knots.

Important Measures

Among the measures expected to be dealt with by Congress are: The national origins clause, changing the basis of immigrant quotas. The measure has been postponed twice and an effort is expected to be made to kill it despite a strong demand for the law.

A drastic deportation bill, aimed chiefly at alien law violators. The bill is on the House calendar.

Extension of the restricted system to Canada, Mexico and South America as provided in the Box bill pending in committee.

The Schneider bill legalizing entrance of immigrants smuggled in before 1921. Anti-restrictionists propose to extend it to 1924, thus legalizing entry of 1,000,000 aliens.

The Box bill and deportation measure are expected to furnish the firework for the law. Rep. Albert Johnson (R) of Washington, committee chairman, and Rep. John Box (D) of Texas, ranking minority member.

The national origins clause, designed to increase the percentage of northern European immigration, may be side-tracked but not without a fight. President-Elect Hoover, however, is opposed to this measure.

The present status of the Canadian immigration case in the Supreme Court, in which lower courts held that British subjects under treaty have the unrestricted right to cross and recross the border for business purposes, may spur the fight to apply the system to Canada.

SHIP'S CREW REFUSED TO OBEY COMMANDS

Environment Decides Sex, Scientist Asserts

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 21.—That environment, influences the sex of the unborn young was asserted by Arthur M. Banta of the Department of Genetics, of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, in a paper he read today at a session of the fall meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, being held here.

Dr. Banta said that it is probable that this sex control is accomplished through the control of a sex determining mechanism. Concerning the work he said in part: "It is well known that in most animals there is a sex determining mechanism, the so-called sex chromosomes, and that with most organisms the sex to be developed depends upon whether a female or male influence has affected fertilization."

"But there are certain cases in which sex determination does not readily seem to fall under the operation of such a mechanism. Mothers under normally favorable conditions produce only daughters. If, however, mothers are crowded together, or are otherwise subjected to conditions which retard their development, their young instead of developing into exclusively female offspring develop into a large percentage of males. It is clear then that sex in this animal is subject to control by environmental factors."

SIR THOMAS LIPTON TELLS ABOUT HIS ONLY SWEETIE

Noted Yachtsman Says It Was His Mother—Says He Will Bring Another Yacht to America.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 21.—Sir Thomas Lipton has lots of hobbies besides tea and yachts. But they are all the same kind—all ladies.

That is the reason he is a bachelor, he said today. "I like 'em all," he said, "couldn't seem to choose among them so I didn't choose at all."

Besides, Sir Thomas has another reason for confining his affections to "ladies of the sea"—his yachts. It was his mother.

In Reminiscent Mood

In a reminiscent mood, the big, gruff Irishman, who is known throughout the world for his success as a tea magnate and his sportsmanship as a yachtsman took an old daguerrotype of his "one and only love" from his dressing table and told huskily how he had never found another like the sweet-faced lassie there portrayed in garb of the early '60's.

"It wasn't only the pancakes she used to fry, and the pie she used to make, it was the sweetness and wisdom of her," he said. "Never a time did I go to her in trouble that she didn't help me."

Curse she's gone now, but I had gotten somewhere near the top before she died, thank heaven, and I repaid her a little. I used to tell her she could have a dozen fine carriages if she wanted 'em, but she never wanted much, more's the pity," he went on.

Memorial Home

The Lipton Memorial Nurses Home in Glasgow was built in honor of his mother, Sir Thomas added. Vehement in his assertions that a "Shamrock" should enter the next contest for the America's cup, which he pointed out, has been held by American yachtsmen for seventy years, Sir Thomas related several anecdotes pertaining to the sailing careers of his previous racing yachts—all Shamrocks.

"There's one man who doesn't want me to sail another Shamrock into an American port," he said. "His name is Belcher, and he lives in a little harbor town on the Atlantic coast. This is the reason for my aversion to 'em Shamrocks, according to a letter he sent me."

"It seems that when the Shamrock II sailed into port, his wife rose to the occasion and presented him with a baby son; with the advent of Shamrock II, a few years later, a baby daughter was born to the same household, the letter said, and simultaneously with the arrival of Shamrock IV, still some years later, a third baby made its appearance."

"That's enough—don't come again!" the letter begged, according to Sir Thomas.

Refused to Obey Orders in Hour of Gravest Danger, Second in Command Admits on Stand—Captain Delayed Calling for Help Until 10 O'Clock Monday Morning.

New York, Nov. 21.—Admission that officers aboard the liner Vestris which sank a week ago Monday with a loss of 110 lives, refused to obey orders in the hour of grave danger was made on the witness stand today by Robert Johnson, chief officer and next in command to the captain of the ill-fated ship.

Johnson testified at the government inquiry into the disaster which is running at the federal building concurrently with the steamship inspection service quiz at the Customs House.

Squirming about in his chair under a severe cross fire of questions from United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, the witness insisted he did all he could to stop leaks and prevent the influx of water into the listing and sinking ship.

Q.—(By Tuttle)—Was there an officer detailed to each lifeboat? A.—Yes. Q.—We have had testimony that few officers were in the boats. Why? A.—They wouldn't go. Q.—Would Not Obey

Indicating his amazement at Officer Johnson's statement, Tuttle said: "Didn't you control your officers?"

"Well," replied Johnson hesitantly, "the boats were lowered. I said to them to get in them. They wouldn't get in. What would you do?"

Tuttle in a surprised tone repeated: "You ask me what I would have done?"

Pressed for an explanation why the officers were not in the boats, Johnson replied that he "couldn't go around and look for them." He was "too busy."

No General Call

Q.—Was there any general call to man the lifeboats? A.—No. Q.—Why not? There was no answer.

Johnson could not explain why the women with children were left sitting in lifeboats dangling over the port side for nearly two hours. He "wasn't on that side." He insisted that in spite of all the trouble aboard the ship the captain never discussed the calling for assistance before ten a. m., Monday.

At the inquiry in the Customs House Edward J. Marvin, of Montclair, N. J., a survivor, told a graphic story of how passengers and crew of the Vestris scrambled madly for positions in the lifeboats, once the women and children had been lowered over the port side in the first two lifeboats put over the side.

New York, Nov. 21.—A graphic story of how passengers and crew of the ill-fated Vestris scrambled madly for positions in lifeboats, once the women and children had been lowered over the port side in two boats, was related on the witness stand today by one of the survivors, Edward J. Marvin, of Montclair, N. J. He was testifying at the U. S. Steamboat inspection service inquiry into the disaster which cost 110 lives when the Vestris sank off the Virginia capes a week ago Monday.

"The order to lower the lifeboats came about 10:30 Monday morning," said Marvin, first class passenger. "The women and children were placed in lifeboats Numbers 4 and 6. Ours had to be used to push the two boats over the side. There was no confusion while this was going on, however."

Mad Scramble

"But, once the women and children were over the side a mad scramble occurred. The crew dashed for the other lifeboats. So did the passengers."

"I rushed toward lifeboat Number Eight. There was a hole in it and a deckhand was patching a piece of tin over the hole. I said to myself: 'Here's one lifeboat I won't get in.' I finally got in lifeboat No. 10."

Marvin testified that it was with the greatest difficulty that lifeboat No. 10 was launched. For one thing, the ax used to cut the ropes was dull and pen knives had to be used to sever the ropes.

Q.—(By Dickerson N. Hoover, head of the steamboat inspection service, who was presiding.)—What was the condition of the lifeboat you entered? A.—Lifeboat Leaked

A. It leaked badly. It was in that condition until we were finally picked up. There were twelve fatally injured.

STILL DISCOVERED IN STATE'S PRISON

Also Drugs Smuggled Into Charleston and Money Lent to Prisoners.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 21.—While revelations of collusion, bribery, and smuggling of arms, narcotics and liquor at Charlestown state prison continued to increase, expectations today were that the voluminous report on conditions at the institution prepared by the district attorney's office would be made public shortly.

Meanwhile, having nipped a wholesale jail delivery plot in the bud, prison officials announced that the ringleaders would pay for their plotting by solitary confinement for life. Stephen Hoppe, jail breaker extraordinary, has the brains of the plotted break, officials say. Others in separate cells today were: Leo J. Nolin, convicted murderer; John Ferrin, liever Phillip Cronin, serving a long term for holdups.

Probe Started

Following the shooting and killing of Turkey Frederick Pfleger a fortnight ago, Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle started a probe. The result is contained in a report of 30,000 words, which was expected to be turned over to Commissioner of Corrections Sanford Bates.

Among the startling revelations unearthed was that a system existed whereby a prisoner was able to obtain money with which to purchase drugs.

According to officials, Nolin operated a "money lending" business and charged 25 per cent for changing prison credit slips into cash. It was also charged that a still for making moonshine was found in the cell of a prisoner.

LOTS OF LUCK IN STOVE EXPLOSION

Pola Leaves Garage Just Ahead of Blast, Cars Escape Metal Barrage.

Luigi Pola, well known coal and wood dealer of 55 School street, can thank his lucky stars that he is alive and well today. Only a matter of moments stood between him and death or serious injury yesterday.

Less than five minutes after he left his garage and went into the house for supper, a small stove in which he had started a fire fifteen minutes earlier exploded, damaging two automobiles a few feet away. The explosion was heard all over the neighborhood. Mr. Pola, and his family rushed to the garage to find the stove in a hundred pieces.

The building is a brick four-car garage which Mr. Pola built last July. Two of the stalls were empty. The stove stood at the north end of the garage between the point where Pola's new Graham truck and his Overland sedan were standing. Only three or four feet separated the cars from the stove.

Cars Little Hurt

The blast, after the freakish way of explosions and lightning, failed to damage the cars to any great extent. The Overland was the worst sufferer, a chunk of iron piercing the cowl. The truck was more fortunate. The hub cap on the left front wheel was struck squarely by a big piece of iron and badly dented, yet not one of the wooden spokes was broken. Another piece of metal passed through the inner fender of a running board. There isn't a less important part in an automobile.

Three garage window panes were broken but no glass was even cracked in either automobile. One of the windows broken was on the same side of the garage as the stove and near the opposite end of the building.

Mr. Pola figures his damage is about $100 all told. Both cars and the garage were insured. He could give no reason for the stove exploding. He had started it up at 8:30 last night for the first time in order that the motors in the cars might not be cold in the morning. Nothing but wood was being burned in the stove, Mr. Pola said.

SEATS COME HIGH

New York, Nov. 21.—Membership in the New York Stock Exchange, Wall street's exclusive club, was valued for the first time today at half-a-million dollars. A seat sold at $25,000, an increase of $30,000 from the last previous sale, and topping $500,000 after a sensational climb from below $200,000 a little over two years ago.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Nov. 21.—Treasury balance Nov. 19: $119,629,201.94.

MAY GET MEDAL

New Britain, Conn., Nov. 21.—Joseph Bartumoli, aged twelve, risked his life to rescue a small boy from a burning barn on Lawlor street, Monday afternoon, has been recommended for a Carnegie medal. Mayor A. M. Paonessa, in the presence of the boy, dictated a letter to the Carnegie Medal Commission, this afternoon relating the circumstances of the rescue. Then the mayor announced that if the medal were not forthcoming he would ask the city to issue a medal.

Bartumoli, after rescuing one boy, led two horses, and when he learned another boy was still in the building started back through the roof to fall in, and had to be restrained by force.

GRAND RABBI SEARCHED

New York, Nov. 21.—Grand Rabbi I. Twersky, father of Rabbi Jacob Twersky, of Milwaukee, was detained for three hours today following his arrival here from Antwerp on the line Olympic.

The Grand Rabbi was searched personally and his baggage ransacked by custom agents. The Grand Rabbi came to America to visit his son in Milwaukee and to confer with other American rabbis. A delegation of New York rabbis, who had gone to the pier to welcome Grand Rabbi Twersky, expressed their indignation at the action of the officials and the methods used in the search. Rabbi R. Bahlowitz, spokesman for the delegation, said that a protest would be made to Washington with a demand for an apology.

OFFICERS OF VESTRIS WOULD NOT MAN BOATS

In the boat but nine of them were defective. Sunday night—the night before the sinking—the Vestris listed so badly to the starboard side it was with difficulty that passengers were able to traverse the decks, Marvin said. He noticed about that time that the ship was standing. The engines had stopped.

Marvin testified that while the passengers were at dinner Sunday evening the ship gave a violent lurch. The chief officer dashed out to see what was wrong. He (Marvin) saw furniture piled high on the starboard side where it had slipped across the floor. He talked to the purser about what was transpiring and was told: "Yes the engines have stopped but that is good seamanship. The captain has been at sea for 40 years."

"I was uneasy all night," the witness continued. "When I awoke about 8 o'clock Monday morning the water was up on the port windows although the storm had subsided by that time. The ship was listing badly. I saw several children huddled in the smoker with their lifebelts on."

"I thought an S O S had been sent out Sunday and I was surprised that no S O S had even been sent thus far. I noticed that the crew was tossing cargo overboard—the only small packages—things they could get their hands on. They were not using winches to toss the cargo out because, I was told there was no steam to operate the winches."

Proceeding Marvin to the stand was George B. De Valle of New York, a third class passenger, who talked with a decided accent. He said that shortly after the Vestris left New York the glass in his cabin port hole crashed through and water sloshed in steadily thereafter. He asked the witness if it but the steward could not "because there was no gasket on the port hole."

Stewards baled in and around the cabin all day Sunday and Sunday night, he asserted.

"There must have been a half inch of water in the cabin all the time," he said.

Q. (By Hoover.) What happened Monday morning?

A. When I awoke the ship was listing and leaning. It ascended to the boat deck. It was inclined at such an angle that I could not walk without grasping ropes. De Valle described how he boarded one of the lifeboats on the port side which continually banged against the side of the vessel. "The wind was abeam and the ship would not steer," John replied.

Q. (By U. S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle.) Why not?

A. I knew it wouldn't steer and we had to keep the beam hard over to keep the vessel on its course.

The witness insisted that the only list Sunday was that caused by the wind, and that when the wind subsided the list stopped.

Q. At 7:30 Sunday evening the ship lurched. Why didn't she come back?

A. Because of the shifting of the cargo in hold No. 1.

Q. How much was the list after the lurch of the ship?

A. Ten degrees.

Q. Did the list increase during the night?

A. Asked what he was doing about the list Sunday night, Johnson replied that he "was working on the half door" as water was coming through it. He also examined the cargo and coal bunkers. He admitted the ship was not in safe condition. Asked why, as chief officer, he hadn't tried to find out if there were other leaks he replied:

"Well, I sent the ship's carpenter around to make soundings."

Q. He said yes, he had reported to the captain that water was running in the coal bunkers. The captain came down and ascertained that to be a fact.

Q. Was there an officer detailed to each lifeboat?

A. Yes.

MISS MORROW MUM ON LINDY REPORT

Daughter of U. S. Envoy Will Not Confirm News of Her Engagement.

New York, Nov. 21.—Miss Elizabeth Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, one of the storm tossed passengers who returned today from Cherbourg on the Olympic refused either to affirm or deny her reported betrothal to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

"I won't discuss that," she said firmly and though ship news reporters asked her with a number of questions in an effort to draw her out she stuck to her first declaration.

Miss Morrow was a member of J. Pierpont Morgan's party. The banker with whose house her father was associated before he became the Mexican envoy, intervened when the questioners became too persistent.

Mr. Morgan would not comment on the recent activity in Wall Street, on his trip abroad or on any other subject, contenting himself with the simple declaration that he had been going hunting.

When photographers finally got Miss Morrow to pose for a picture, she invited them into her stateroom. Mr. Morgan in a nearby stateroom, got wind of the preparations and ordered the picture men away, backing up his decree with the aid of the ship's officers.

The photographers later cornered Miss Morrow on deck and the flashlights boomed despite the banker's protests. Miss Morrow would not talk about her future plans.

RUTH KEYES QUIZZED IN ROTHSTEIN PROBE

Best Detective in New York Department Is Placed in Charge of Case.

New York, Nov. 21.—Ruth Keyes, blonde "free lance model," of Chicago and the last hope of police for solution of the Rothstein murder mystery faced a barrage of searching questions today at the district attorney's office.

During her tee-a-tete with her questioners, a poorly dressed individual, about 28, was hurried into the room by detectives, who rushed him out in 15 minutes. It was reported that the "mystery man" was claimed by her as an eye witness of the shooting of Rothstein in the Park Central hotel.

It was learned today that Lieut. Dick Oliver, long known as one of the ablest detectives in the police department, has been assigned to the Rothstein case.

His transfer was accomplished without tumult, while Mayor Walker was regarded as "hedging" on his declared intention to force a confession from the "mystery man" by summary action. Because Oliver entered the case so quickly, it was whispered that he might be given entire charge of the probe, with unlimited powers over the city detectives.

PROFESSOR STRICKEN

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 21.—Rev. Dr. Charles Allen Dinsmore, professor in Yale Divinity School, stricken with indigestion, was about to deliver a lecture here last evening, is under treatment today at the home of Dr. Charles A. Brown, a physician who is a personal friend of Dr. Dinsmore. Announcement was made here this afternoon that Dr. Dinsmore had so far recovered that he would be sent to his home in New Haven tomorrow morning.

SUICIDE'S WILL FILED.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 21.—The will of Fred Bewate, who on October 19 killed Miss Peggy Moffitt, of Wilton, at Ridgefield, and committed suicide, was filed for probate here today by Attorney Philip Reich, who on September 20 drew the will and was named executor. An estate of $7,000 in cash and securities is given by Miss Moffitt in England. Bewate failed to mention his mother, also a resident of England, in the document.

MEDAL FOR FLOWERS

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The highest international award in horticultural circles is held today by the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research at Yonkers. It is the large George Robert white gold medal which was formally presented at a meeting of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in Boston. The George Robert White medal has been awarded yearly in international competition since 1908.

EUROPEAN NATIONS DROP VISA ON PASSENGERS TO ENCOURAGE TOURISTS

Berlin.—Although the official summer "tourist season" ordinarily ends with August, September and October saw some 4,000 Americans visitors in Berlin. Once more, too, as in the preceding months, they far outnumbered the guests from any other one country.

Even the neighboring Austria, which formerly furnished the largest contingent of tourists from other lands, was represented in September by hardly more than half as many visitors as America. Almost 5,000 non-Berliners were attracted to the German capital every day during the month.

The growing realization of the importance of the tourist traffic—and not merely from an economic viewpoint, but also as an important factor in furthering cultural and political relations among the nations—has just resulted in adding several more European countries to the list of those that have abandoned the requirement of a visa on foreigners' passports.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Sarah McGrath. Mrs. Sarah McGrath, 68, of this town, died Monday in a Norwich hospital. She leaves one daughter, Miss Violet McGrath of Manchester, one son, William of Orlando, Fla., and one sister, Mrs. James McVeigh of this town. The funeral was held this afternoon from the undertaking parlors of William F. Quish at 225 Main street with burial in the East cemetery. Rev. Watson Woodruff officiated.

Stanley Matushak. The funeral of Stanley Matushak, killed in an automobile accident on the Camp Meeting road, Sunday, was held at St. James' church this morning. A requiem high mass was celebrated. Mrs. Margaret Sullivan sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and at the offertory, De Reiff's "Ave Maria." At the elevation Mrs. Sullivan sang "Ave Maria." At the close of the service Mrs. Sullivan sang "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling," and Organist Packard played Chopin's funeral march.

Funerals. Rudolph Kissman. The funeral of Rudolph Kissman of 237 Spruce street was held yesterday afternoon with the services at his home and at the German Zion Lutheran church. The services were largely attended and there were many floral tributes. Rev. H. F. R. Stechholz officiated and burial was in the East cemetery. The bearers were Raymond Montie, Walter Montie, Herman, William, Arthur and Paul Kissman.

Stanley Matushak. The funeral of Stanley Matushak, killed in an automobile accident on the Camp Meeting road, Sunday, was held at St. James' church this morning. A requiem high mass was celebrated. Mrs. Margaret Sullivan sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and at the offertory, De Reiff's "Ave Maria." At the elevation Mrs. Sullivan sang "Ave Maria." At the close of the service Mrs. Sullivan sang "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling," and Organist Packard played Chopin's funeral march.

Funerals. Rudolph Kissman. The funeral of Rudolph Kissman of 237 Spruce street was held yesterday afternoon with the services at his home and at the German Zion Lutheran church. The services were largely attended and there were many floral tributes. Rev. H. F. R. Stechholz officiated and burial was in the East cemetery. The bearers were Raymond Montie, Walter Montie, Herman, William, Arthur and Paul Kissman.

POLICE OF FOUR STATES HELP RACE WITH DEATH

Child Driven 500 Miles to Bridgeport Hospital to Undergo an Operation.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 21.—A powerful motor car, escorted by relays of motorcycle policemen, thundered through four states in a victorious race with death which ended here today.

Six-year-old Catherine Adams, who lives in a sparsely settled section of northern Maine, was rushed to this city on the advice of physicians when it was determined that only an operation could save her.

The child, suffering from congenital dislocation of the hip, was placed in an automobile at Lisbon Falls, Me. At 10:30 p. m., her father, Frank Adams, was at the wheel and her mother supported him in the rear seat at the start of the 500-mile journey.

Motorcycle policemen of Maine accompanied the car to the New Hampshire border, where the state police there cleared the way to Massachusetts. Another relief took over in the rear seat at the Vermont border to Bridgeport. Doctors George Hawley and Arthur Griswold, bone specialists, were prepared to operate when the child arrived at 7:15 a. m.

It is said she will live.

FAMILY IS EVICTED AS MANY LOOK ON

Cattle Driven Off, Hay Tossed From Barn, Furniture Put In Road.

Meredith, N. H., Nov. 21.—While 200 persons, standing in the snow covered road, looked on in silent amazement, P. E. Elliott and his deputies today evicted two women and three men from their home on the hillside here.

The family on the lonely hilltop had been reported to be barricaded and armed for a siege but no resistance was offered.

The sheriff had taken the precaution to arrest Arthur Keyser, alleged leader in the battle of heirs over the 200-acre farm, when the latter came to town in his milk truck.

Furniture from the Keyser farm was moved into the road, 26 head of cattle were driven to a hired barn in the vicinity, 100 tons of hay was tossed from the barn loft. Chickens were carried out in bur-lap bags.

James Nave, formerly of Lancaster, Ky., who is a relative of Elliott, had given orders of "no gun play" and all the stern-faced men and women with tear-dimmed eyes did as they were told. "It's unfair; it's unfair." They must be given shelter by the town.

SCREEN STARS TO WED

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 21.—Both John Barrymore and Dolores Costello remained uncommunicative today regarding their marriage plans.

The noted stage and screen actor appeared at the court house yesterday and filed intention of marrying Miss Costello, film actress and daughter of Maurice Costello, one of the pioneer actors of the motion picture industry.

Under the laws of California, a wait of three days must elapse between the filing of intention and the wedding ceremony. Barrymore, it is understood, will finish the picture in which he is working in two days. Miss Costello is scheduled to finish hers in ten days.

TO ARREST MAYOR

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 21.—The arrest of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City in connection with the State Legislature's contempt proceedings against him, was ordered today by Russell E. Watson, counsel for the Legislature. D. Frank Garrison, sergeant-at-arms in the state Senate, was ordered to make the arrest. Watson said, however, that the warrant would not be served today.

Mayor Hague had refused to testify before a legislative committee, probing alleged irregularities in Hudson county where the mayor is a political power.

50 SOVIET SETTLERS ON WRANGLER ISLAND FEARED DOOMED TO SURE DEATH

Moscow.—Fifty settlers on Wrangler Island who volunteered to brave the Arctic to validate Soviet Russia's claims to that bleak speck of land, are facing almost certain death from disease. All attempts to get fresh food and drugs to the little band have failed. The last radio reports from the colony, picked up early in the summer, indicated that virtually all of the settlers were suffering from scurvy.

Winter set in towards the end of September. The last icebreaker, the Stavropol, started from the Siberian coast with a cargo of food, clothing and medicine late in August. It got to within 60 miles of Wrangler Island and was stopped by impenetrable ice.

Two airplane expeditions sent out previously were forced to land on the ice before reaching the island. A third expedition will be attempted if weather permits.

THE ALARMIST

"Harold, how much do you love me?" "Well, you see, love is not the sort of thing you can weigh up in shop scales, is it? But, still—I love you."

"But—but would you—would you go through fire and water for me?" "Now, look here, if that's the sort of fellow you want, you'd better marry a fireman."—Tit-Bits.

JAMES CONLIN DIES.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 21.—Word was received here today of the death in Jersey City, N. J., of James J. Conlin, a leading Bridgeport business man. Mr. Conlin underwent an operation at Jersey City last week.

LEOPOLD CASE GOES TO THE JURY TODAY

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 21.—The case of Louis N. Leopold, former furniture dealer, charged with first degree murder in connection with the burning of his Baldwin street warehouse last February, will be given to a Superior Court jury by Judge Carl Foster late this afternoon. Judge Foster started his charge to the jury at 3 p. m. Arrangements are being made to lock up the jury if necessary.

L. L. Lewis, state's attorney, spent the entire morning session of court in making a plea for Leopold's conviction. The state's attorney, in course of his arguments mentioned Morris Shelnitz, of New Haven, arrested in connection with the fire and now held as an accomplice. Mr. Lewis declared Shelnitz "will be prosecuted to the limit" for his share in the affair, for Shelnitz "has no promise of immunity of any sort."

Thrills Aplenty in this amazing picture story of the underworld of New York—packed with drama and astounding in swift-moving action—a production that will long linger in your memory.

SOVIET GRATITUDE TO SCIENTISTS FOR SERVICE RENDERED

Moscow.—Sixty former wealthy scientists and professors have retained possession of their town house by special grant from the Moscow Soviet as a reward for services rendered the Soviet government. They have positions in universities or as technical experts in the government. A recent survey of the municipal housing commission, however shows that there are at least a hundred other persons who have lived unmolested in their own houses since the revolution, in spite of the nationalization of property and the increasing demand for living quarters. They are now facing eviction.

Most of the houses so occupied were in such bad condition that it was not thought worth while to repair them and turn them into workers dwellings. The former owners have gradually repaired them and installed modern conveniences at their own expense. Now that the houses are considered to be in the class of "income producing," they are to be divided up among the families clamoring for quarters, one for each room, with the owner, if he is lucky, occupying one of the rooms.

FIRE IN HOTEL

New York, Nov. 21.—One hundred men, clad in night attire, scrambled out of Edwards' hotel in Brooklyn early today and shivered for an hour in the streets while firemen extinguished the blaze.

knobs an hour in order to keep on schedule time.

On this trip southward, the Navy is doing itself proud in every detail of the cruise. The big battleship cleaves through the water with never a quiver, and the crew of 1,300 officers and men operate with clock-like precision.

Football Champions. Miles Timmins, of Boston, was one of the proudest athletes in the Navy today, for Captain Timmins and his stalwart football squad was photographed with Mr. Hoover on the quarterdeck of the Maryland. He was congratulated by Mr. Hoover for winning the championship of the fifth division in Saturday's game at San Pedro. Timmins was a former star on the Mechanic Arts high school football team at Boston.

Two communications have been sent to the American Legations at Panama and Guatemala in which Mr. Hoover expresses regret that he cannot visit either country. The note to Panama said:

Mr. Hoover requests the American Legation to express to the president of Panama his deep and sincere regrets at being unable owing to pressure of time to call at Panama and to pay his respects to the president and peoples of a country, in whose prosperity, progress and happiness he has the most friendly interest.

The following was sent to the American Legation at Guatemala:

"Mr. Hoover requests the American Legation to inform the president that he had hoped to have the pleasure of calling at Guatemala but owing to the pressure of time and difficulties of landing and the danger in the event of bad weather, he has been compelled to abandon this project and asks you to express to the president his cordial appreciation of the president's most cordial invitation and his extreme regrets that he shall not have the pleasure of calling and paying his respects and of visiting a country in whose progress and prosperity he has the deepest interest, and for whom he cherishes the most friendly sentiments."

BLACKMER APPEARS

Paris, Nov. 21.—H. M. Blackmer, missing Teapot Dome oil witness, whose extradition is being sought by the United States government to answer charge of perjury in connection with his income tax returns in Colorado, appeared in court today for "identification," but there was no decision of any kind bearing upon the case.

Blackmer's appearance at the palace of justice was a formality. He gave his age as 58 and his residence as the Hotel Plaza Athenee, Paris.

Officials said that Blackmer must again appear personally next week before the "Chambre Mise en Accusation."

by unanimous consent, due to their privileged character.

Senate Program. The Senate program tentatively adopted by administration leaders includes plans to enact the new "big navy" bill, which provides for the construction of 15 fast cruisers and an airplane carrier, for passage of a new farm relief bill, for some action on President Coolidge's veto of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill and for ratification of the Kellogg anti-war treaty.

Due to the prospects of a new filibuster against the Boulder Dam bill, some administration leaders were fearful for both the Navy bill and the Kellogg pact. It likewise may cause such a legislative jam after the Christmas holidays as to make impossible the enactment of the proposed farm relief bill.

Administration forces will seek to carry out the farm program but the Boulder Dam bill may prove the stumbling block. It alone has bright prospects of final action, though that action may not be enactment. If the filibustering opposition postpones a final decision until the new year, administration leaders may agree to sidetrack it in order to carry out the remainder of their program.

The appropriation bills, due to their privileged position in Congressional legislation, are sure of enactment.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Two persons were killed and 16 others injured today when a St. Louis-Chicago motor coach crashed into a truck near Braidwood, Ill.

The coach, Chicago-bound, careened into a large truck operated by an inter-state freight transfer company.

TO AID UNEMPLOYED

New Orleans, La., Nov. 21.—Governor Brewster of Maine, addressing the governor's conference here today, urged the necessity for a three billion dollar building reserve fund to alleviate the unemployment problem. The fund, he said, was proposed by Herbert Hoover and put before the governors at his request.

TOO LATE FOR CLASSIFICATION

To the memory of C. Willis Tryon, formerly of this town, who was killed in the war, N. Y., by a hit and run autoist on Nov. 21, 1927.

The finest tribute we can pay unto our dear brother today is not of speech or roses red but living, throbbing hearts; instead.

The dead friends live and always will. Their presence hovers round us still. It seems to me they come to share Each joy or sorrow that we bear.

and women of the Red Cross teams are now canvassing Manchester.

Help the Workers. There are more young workers on the Red Cross teams appointed by Chairman Frank Gainey than have ever before taken part in one of these campaigns. The way they have been hustling for the past two days, much of the work being done in the evening, after the solicitors themselves had put in a full day at their regular vocations, has brought the list of annual members up surprisingly.

Citizens who take into consideration the sacrifice of time and effort being made by these team workers and who consequently receive them with courtesy and save their time as much as possible will be giving something besides money to the Red Cross.

Thirteen Teams Working. Last night the team canvasses for this enrollment turned in to the Red Cross headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce rooms nearly $300. This is the largest sum turned in in one day by the teams since the drive opened. Its addition brings the total subscribed to date to $655.40 out of the total quota of $2,500 assigned to Manchester this year.

About ninety workers are enrolled under the leadership of thirteen captains and under their directions are conducting a systematic canvass of the residential sections of the town. The drive officials wish to emphasize the fact that no solicitations will be made at stores, factories or business places. The reason for stressing this point is that the canvassers have found that in some instances housewives claim

TELLS PROFESSIONAL GIRLS ABOUT MEALS

Mrs. Marion Dakin of the state college extension service gave the Professional Girls club of Center church an interesting and instructive lecture last evening on the subject of "A Square Meal for the Professional Woman."

Practically every member of the club was present and a number brought their friends. Mrs. Dakin explained the constituents that formed the proper diet for a day and the "square meal." Two sides of the square are made up of the carbohydrates and fats, and the other two sides the vitamins and minerals. She gave the girls valuable advice on the choice of energizing and tissue-building foods, and answered a number of questions on this and other topics they were interested in.

Miss Ruth Cowdell, chemist of the Oxford Soap company, graduate of Connecticut rural college, was in charge of the program for the evening and assisted in serving the refreshments by Miss Gertrude Carrier and Miss Hazel Hughes.

BOY KIDNAPED

New York, Nov. 21.—Police today continued their wide search for Joseph Storillo, 7, who disappeared from his east side home four days ago under circumstances which point to kidnaping.

The boy's mother believes the lad was kidnaped and was angered when police expressed doubt of this theory. She has six other children. The boy was last seen Saturday night standing in front of a motion picture show.

ABOUT TOWN

Thomas Veilville, a missionary to China, will be the speaker at a meeting in Gospel Hall at 7:45 tonight.

Building permits issued this month indicate that many prospective home owners are planning to construct houses themselves rather than through the agency of real estate developers. A great majority of the permits issued in recent years have been to realty agencies that in turn sold to individuals.

Miss Ann Valukonis of Plainville and Nicholas Canazzo of New Britain, a carpenter, who obtained their marriage license for the 12th, Armistice Day, but did not call for it as the town clerk's office was closed, were married here yesterday afternoon by Justice of Peace Stuart J. Wasley.

In response to many requests, the ladies of St. James's church have decided to conduct a food sale in connection with the bazaar now going on at St. James's hall. They will offer a big variety of home-made cakes, pies, cookies, doughnuts and other food stuffs and preserves, made by the good cooks of the parish. Among those in charge will be Mrs. Joseph Leary, Mrs. William Coker, Mrs. James Fogarty and Mrs. William Humphries.

More than 300 tickets have been distributed by Mrs. Merrifield and her pupils to parents and friends, for the complimentary recital to be given this evening at the Hollister street school hall. Miss Lillian will engage big variety of songs between the numbers by the players of fretted instruments.

Annual inspection and a supper at the State Armory this evening will engage the attention of Mary Bushnell Cheney auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans.

STRICKEN IN AUTO

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 21.—James Skelly, 68, a prominent grocer here, was found dead beneath his roadster on the Wolcott road today. Investigation indicated that Mr. Skelly had been seized with apoplexy while at the wheel of the car, that the car had swerved into a pole, rebounded, and upset. Joseph "Red" Garren, a local boxer, came upon the car while doing road training work and, unable to lift the car alone, ran for aid. Mr. Skelly was a native of Farmington. He leaves eight children.

SOCIAL SERVICE GROUP TELLS OF WORK DONE

Reports on Work Accomplished During First Year, Has Raised Fund of $835.95.

At a recent meeting of the Social Service Committee for the town of Manchester, and the Memorial hospital, an outline of the work accomplished in its first year was presented in the report given below. Until October of last year Miss Jessie Reynolds carried on this work with funds generously given whenever needed, by a very few Manchester people. It was rightly felt that the responsibility and support of work of this kind should be shared by the community as a whole, and it was toward that end that the Social Service Committee was formed—primarily, to raise funds to enable Miss Reynolds to carry on her work as thoroughly and efficiently as possible. The committee is composed of Mrs. Lawrence Case, Mrs. D. M. Caldwell, Mrs. A. E. Friend, Mrs. Robert Dougan, Mrs. E. C. Higgins, Mrs. Howard Boyd, Mrs. Walter Luettgens, Mrs. M. H. Strickland, Mrs. George Waddell, Mrs. George Lundberg, Miss Frances Cheney, Mrs. Carl Bengs, Mrs. Charles Trebbe, Jr., Mrs. Warren Keith and Miss Reynolds.

During the past year the committee has raised $835.95, through solicitation by letters, by food sales and bridge parties. The year's expenditures of $710.05 were made in response to calls for clothing and housekeeping supplies, rent, food and coal, and medical attention. The year's expenditures of $710.05 were made in response to calls for clothing and housekeeping supplies, rent, food and coal, and medical attention. The year's expenditures of $710.05 were made in response to calls for clothing and housekeeping supplies, rent, food and coal, and medical attention.

Back of the expenditure of actual money are the stories of twelve families or individuals which the committee has been able to help in this one year. The instances of hospital treatment for children whose parents could not possibly afford skilled care for them, or the placing of a practical nurse in a home where five children were ill—one with pneumonia—and the care of herself too ill to care for all of them. Another family, also with five children was afflicted with housekeeping necessities and clothing to make their home livable and enable the children to go to school. In this case, in several others work was done for the father so that the family might continue to be self-supporting. The payment of a month's rent, in cases where the man of the family has been ill or out of work, has given several families a foothold again. Six families were given coal to help them through the winter, and groceries were supplied to seven different families. There were also several cases where the committee supplied articles which would make more comfortable an invalid in the family, or a patient recuperating at home from an operation of long illness.

SELECTMAN ARRESTED

New Britain, Conn., Nov. 21.—Kazimir Majewicz, second selectman of the town of New Britain, was placed under bail here today for a hearing next Monday on a charge of driving a car while he was under influence of liquor. Majewicz was arrested on Beaver street while riding with his wife who either fell or was pushed from the car, according to witnesses. Majewicz was elected selectman last spring.

Better Than Any Diet

AY less attention to what you eat; not one person in a thousand need diet; or ever really has indigestion. Acidity, flatulence and heartburn are caused by excess stomach acid and food fermentation. Following a hasty lunch, or too hearty a dinner, a little "Pape's Diapepsin," instantly neutralizes excess acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and heals the acid-inflamed stomach lining as if by magic. Your recovery is quick, and complete. Make a special point of getting a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapepsin" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles. With "Pape's Diapepsin" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy without fear of pain or discomfort to follow. At any rate, it's worth the trial, for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

WATKINS ACCEPTS CLUB PRESIDENCY

Becomes Head of Manchester Choral Club as Bendall Refuses Election.

C. Elmore Watkins has accepted the presidency of the Manchester Choral Club, offered to him at the recent election of the club. Mr. Watkins is exceptionally well known in Manchester as a vocal artist and business man of ability. It is confidently expected that under his regime the choral club will reach new heights of artistic success, the path for which was so capably paved by the sterling qualities of leadership and untiring efforts of his predecessor, Fred Bendall. Mr. Bendall resigned the presidency because business activities required so much of his time that he did not feel he could longer do justice to his work as head of the choral club. He recommended some one of the many capable members of the club who could devote a bit more time to the work. Mr. Watkins was the candidate chosen. The Choral Club at its last meeting definitely decided to present two concerts this season, one in January and one in April.

CURFEW ENFORCED

Newark, N. J., Nov. 21.—Curfew shall ring tonight and every other night, as 138 parents here found out today. The "delinquent" elders were to be arraigned in court charged with having permitted their children to roam the streets after nine o'clock in violation of the ancient curfew law.

New Hair Mode from Broadway

"Everyone admires my hair, now that I'm doing it the new way that nearly every really smart girl I know is using," says Miss Agnes Trayney, popular dancer, now appearing in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita." "My hair doesn't need shampooing more than once a month, now. My scalp feels better than it ever has felt. I have gotten rid of all my dandruff. My hair is much easier to arrange, and it stays that way. All I do to keep it like this is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush every time I use it. It's wonderful how Danderine adds to the beauty of your hair, makes it look so silky and lustrous." Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand of hair and restores the natural color and lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragrant. The big bottles are just 25c at all drug stores. Beautiful, smooth, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.—Adv.

ONLY ADULTS ATTEND BAZAAR'S FIRST NIGHT

Large Gathering Dances, Hears Music and Enjoys Show by Ladies Minstrels.

The opening of the three night bazaar in St. James's Hall drew a large gathering last evening, although the attendance was limited to adults only. The entertainment, provided by the Ladies Minstrels of Manchester, was well received. The sketch presented an interior view of a theatrical employment agency and each person applying for a position was given an opportunity to demonstrate. They were passed on one at a time as they entered. The agency was decorated with portraits of moving and stage stars. After all the applicants had been given opportunity to display their "wares", in the form of songs, dances and recitations, they united in a chorus. Preceding the entertainment was a concert by Al Behrends orchestra, which also played for the dancing that followed. This evening the entertainment will be provided by a women's minstrel troupe from Norwich. The booths all did a good business last night and a still larger crowd is looked for tonight. The bazaar will come to a close tomorrow night.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated. In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market. The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year. Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, but you may try it free by using this coupon.

To Top Off the Turkey A Mellow Pumpkin Pie

The harvest again brings its offering of golden yellow pumpkins to crown the Thanksgiving feast. And housewifely thoughts are turning to delicious spiced pumpkin pies and tarts, baked to a deep, rich brown and topped with swirls of whipped cream. To save time and work during the busy Thanksgiving season, try this tested recipe for pumpkin pie. It can be baked without "watching" in the oven of a modern gas range equipped with a heat regulator.

The Manchester Gas Co.

2 cups steamed pumpkin
3-4 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1 pint scalded milk
2 tablespoons flour

After running the pumpkin through a sieve, add sugar, flour, salt, spices, milk and well-beaten egg. Line pie pan with crust and add filling. Set the oven heat regulator at 350 degrees and bake one hour.

ANDERSON GETS BACK STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

Milford Police Recover Famous Constable's Car in an Auto Repair Shop.

Milford, Conn., Nov. 21.—The new car that Amos Anderson, Darien policeman, lost yesterday in Stamford, has been recovered and two men are under arrest in Stamford as the result of activities of Milford police, and an alert motor mechanic. The prisoners are Thomas Kearns, 28, of either 32 Relay place, Stamford, or 2272 Broadway, New York; and Walter Ryan, 28, of either 27 Fulton street or 42 York street, West Haven. Kearns and Ryan each had two addresses for the police. Each had a car on which the engine serial numbers had been carefully erased. The car Ryan had was the one Amos Anderson lost. Ryan wanted a local garage man to strip the accessories for him. He was told to leave the car and return later, because of the size of the job, and he did, only to find police waiting for him. They picked up Kearns who drove Ryan to the garage, and found Kearns' car also had been relieved of the engine number. Immediately after the arrest an extensive search was started on the theory that the man may have been responsible for thefts of many cars. Then Ryan and Kearns were taken to Stamford, where they are to have hearings today.

MAUD ALLAN TO APPEAR BEFORE LONDON PUBLIC AT CONCERT IN JANUARY

London—Miss Maud Allan, the famous classical dancer, is to appear in public again, in London, next January. Her re-appearance will take place at a Sunday afternoon concert at the Albert Hall. A symphony orchestra will play Tchaikowsky's Sixth Symphony and Miss Allan will give expression to the poetry of the music by dancing throughout the recital. After the symphony Miss Allan will dance one or two of her famous dances including Dubinsky's "The Vision of King Edward and Queen Alexandra." It was just over 20 years ago that Miss Allan created a sensation by her dance "The Vision of King Edward and Queen Alexandra." Although her performances were banned in Manchester and other cities, she appeared twice before King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

WILLIAM BOYD AT THE STATE TOMORROW

Has Stellar Role in "The Cop"; "Show Girl" Is Co-Feature.

A most engrossing story of the underworld of a great city is "The Cop," William Boyd's latest Pathe starring vehicle, which heads a double feature program at the State Theater for tomorrow and Friday.

It is a picture production that will exert a powerful appeal upon all who see it. The celebrity and popularity of the star, the winsomeness of Jacqueline Logan, his leading woman, the dramatic strength of the supporting players, the tense drama packed within the limits of the story, the ability of the director—all these important factors make "The Cop" a piece of resistance that picture fans cannot afford to miss.

J. P. McEvoy's famous story, "Show Girl," which ran serially in the Liberty Magazine, has at last been dramatized for the screen by First National with petite little Alice White in the leading role. It will be presented as the companion feature at the State for tomorrow and Friday.

"Show Girl," according to advance reports, is one of the snappiest, peppiest and funniest light comedies of the current season. Miss White in the role of Dixie Dugan has a part that calls for plenty of action—both comedy and serious alike—and she handles her part to absolute perfection.

Prize Winning Float

Above is pictured the prize winning float in Manchester's big Armistice celebration entered by the French societies. It was designed by John F. Tournaud and was intended to picture as closely as possible a cenotaph in memory of Victory and the peace of the World War allies. It was designed to represent a monument carved out of a solid block of marble. Its color, pure white, represented purity—the purity that arose from the ruin and misery of the battlefields. The four angels of peace holding the victory palms represented victory and peace for the allies. The flags of all the allies placed around the monument represented the unity of the allied nations.

The monument rested on a base 12 feet square and 3 1-2 feet high. The shaft measured 12 feet high and the tip of the monument was 15 1-2 feet above the ground of the float. All the names of the allied nations were inscribed on the monument in cut-out letters to represent carved stones. Beauty, dignity and simplicity were the keynote of the entire float and because these points were so successfully carried out this entry won the first prize.

NO DELIVERY SERVICE FROM PARK ST. SELF-SERVE

Of course, everybody wants to know why we are opening another grocery and market. We opened our famous Self-Serve Grocery eight years ago. Four years ago we opened our Health Market. They have proved a phenomenal success from the beginning. We have never been able to properly handle the crowds who wish to trade with us. This new Self-Serve and Health Market is provided to take care of our overflowing business. The prices at both stores will be just the same. At the Park Street Market we will carry a most complete line of fresh fish, shell fish, seafoods of all kinds, and delicatessen.

We have used the best engineers in the business in the laying out of our new market. The meats will be cut with electric saws. At the Delicatessen Department the very latest electric slicing machine is provided with an automatic stacking arrangement which eliminates the need of clerks handling meats that do not have to be cooked.

Our first consideration is quality. Our second consideration is price. We have demonstrated to the extent of 300,000 people a year that "It Pays to Wait on Yourself."

We invite you to visit both stores. As formerly, deliveries anywhere in town will be made at the Oak Street store with the additional charge of fifteen cents for each delivery. No delivery at Park St. store.

We open Thursday morning at nine o'clock. We trust that you will feel at liberty to visit our new store whether you desire to purchase or not.

Fresh Fish Department

"The handling of seafoods safely"—will be our slogan. Our fish storage boxes in the basement are the very latest. The fish will be shipped during the night from Boston and New York. Our display and cleaning cases on the main floor are built to eliminate all odors of any kind. We will carry as complete a variety as the people of Manchester demand.

Delicatessen Department

Cheese in bulk and in packages—all kinds of imported delicacies—cooked meats including our own and Grote and Weigel's of Hartford—the best selected milk and cream from Bryant & Chapman daily. A little later we will carry a complete line of salads and other cooked foods. Everything is under automatic refrigeration.

Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Dept.

Mr. John Andisio, who has devoted his lifetime to the study of the fruit and vegetable business, will do nothing else but buy for this department at both stores. At the Park Street Market we will carry the fancy fruits and vegetables which we cannot carry under the Self-Serve plan at the Oak Street market. When you think of the best in fruits and vegetables, think of Hale's.

SALVAGE

While every effort is being made to show that the owners of the lost steamship Vestris had nothing to do with delaying the S O S signal until too late and that the ship and her life saving equipment were in excellent condition when she left port—matters concerning which a great many people will continue to be skeptical—even the indignant British newspapers and the deeply offended Lampart & Holt managers will scarcely deny that the Vestris' passengers were sacrificed to an effort to save salvage.

It is quite beyond the bounds of reason to assume that Captain Carey would so long have delayed the summoning of assistance had he not been face to face with the knowledge that his company would have had to pay a huge sum, perhaps half the value of ship and cargo, perhaps more, had his vessel been towed to port or the beach by some steamer summoned by wireless.

As it turned out, of course the ghostliness of his mistake in risking the lives is completely obvious. But the question arises, why should ship masters ever be put in such a difficult position—why should the stake set up against humanitarian impulse be so huge as to warp men's judgment in concerns of wholesale life or death?

Call the Vestris and her cargo worth a million and a half—perhaps that is much too low perhaps much too high. But take it at that, and we have Carey facing the fact that he was spending three-quarters of a million dollars or thereabout of his company's money the instant he called for assistance. And would the service rendered have justified any such cost? It certainly wouldn't anywhere in the world save at sea. Nobody who saves a ten thousand dollar automobile by driving it out of a burning garage expects to demand five thousand dollars for the service. No fireman who rescues a hotel guest from a blazing hotel expects to file a legal claim against the hotel proprietors for a thousand dollars or five thousand or whatever.

Marine salvage awards are based on ancient law born in savage times. There is neither sense nor justice to them. And here is one case at least where the salvage system, approved by international law simply because international law has never concerned itself with revising it, has caused the needless loss of scores of human lives.

Nothing is more obvious than that, for the prevention of future decisions like that made by Captain Carey, as well as in the interest of abstract justice, the maritime nations should get together and readjust the matter of marine salvage so that the payments shall be predicated on the service rendered, as a compensation, and not on the semi-practical ethics of a thousand years ago, which in effect turns a wreck into a prize.

THREE ROUSING CHEERS

New England people have enough concerns of their own and enough general interests without keeping any sort of tabs on the New York subway situation, which is an involved and complicated matter affecting New York people a thousand times more than it does anybody else. So that the merits of the 7-cent fare case now before the United States Supreme Court are not in themselves anything for outsiders to agitate themselves over.

But there is one aspect of the case which does concern not only New York City and the Interborough Company but the country as a whole. And that is the short and snappy action of America's highest legal tribunal in slamming the whole complicated mass of briefs back into the hands of the lawyers and instructing them in effect to cut out the bunk and tell their story to the court in understandable terms and a whole lot less language. The nation will feel like standing on a bench and giving three rousing cheers for Chief Justice Taft and his associates for this long needed and scathing rebuke to the time wasting practices of the legal profession.

The city and the Transit Commission had filed seven briefs totaling 992 printed pages and the Interborough and Manhattan Elevated had filed nine totaling 810 pages, while the complete record, including appendices and copies of statutes, contained 2,700 printed pages, or 878,000 words.

While the lawyer's privilege of wasting the time of courts, as though the case in hand were the only one with which the tribunal would ever have to concern itself, has come to be regarded as almost a sacred right, here is one time when the limit of patience was exceeded. The rebuke is valuable especially in the example it sets to lesser courts everywhere.

The Supreme Court has not only buttressed its own dignity, it has done a service to the American legal system the value of which can hardly be estimated.

BAN ON THE KLAN

In upholding the Walker law adopted by the state of New York, which requires oath-bound secret societies like the Ku Klux Klan to give publicity to their regulations, their oaths and their memberships, the United States Supreme Court upsets a pretty deep seated conviction held by a good many people that no such law was valid. That the Walker law would be declared unconstitutional was the conviction of many a citizen who had no particular interest in the Ku Klux Klan, at which the statute was aimed.

As matters stand now any person in New York state who joins an order which comes under the scope of the Walker law and which does not comply with the publicity requirement, is likely to be arrested and punished if he attends a meeting of the body—and there is no relief for him in the claim that his constitutional rights have been violated.

In the case before the court the appellant set up the claim of discrimination, in that labor and benevolent orders, including the Masons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Columbus, were not required by the law to make such publicity reports. The court holds that this claim is of no avail since the distinction had been made to reach organizations that make secrecy surrounding their purposes and membership "a cloak for acts and conduct inimical to personal rights and public welfare."

This will jolt a lot of people who have always labored under the delusion that if one secret society could be interdicted by law in this country every secret society could be. They now find that they were completely wrong about it.

SEEING THE LIGHT

As near as we can figure it out America's allied debtors are beginning to guess that a revision of the German reparations is not so intimately tied up with their debts to America as they have fancied it to be. If some arrangement can be made whereby Germany can buy off her sixty years of reparations payment by one slam-down of about four billion dollars, they are beginning to see, they will do well to call it a day, evacuate the Rhineland and mark the war "finished." Because they themselves are never in the world going to keep shipping money to us by the bushel for sixty long years.

It is all right for Mr. Coolidge to look stern and say, "You owe it and must pay it," and for political parties to assert that the debts must be settled as per the books; but it isn't human nature to pay through the nose for a dead horse when the horse has been buried for more than half a century. And it isn't human nature for the creditor to go to war for the collection of such a debt.

Acting on that realization, it is now becoming probable that the allies will compound with Germany, then settle down to wait for the right time to repudiate their debts to America, either with or without our consent.

And what, if you please, could we do about it? AN ACQUITTAL Robert W. Stewart, who swore before a Senate committee that he knew nothing at all about the distribution of the Liberty bonds profit of the Continental Trading Company, in Mr. Sinclair's now notorious oil deal; that he never received any of the bonds and had no knowledge that anybody else did—and whose three separate major statements have since been proven to be unqualifiedly false since he got $759,500 of the bonds, has been acquitted of perjury in the giving of this evidence.

there was no quorum of the Senate committee present when he testified. The court instructed the jury that, if the hearing were not a valid one, as it would not be in the sense of a quorum, the question of false swearing need not be considered at all.

On that basis Mr. Stewart, who was probably the most insolent and defiant witness ever summoned in any of the oil investigations, is freed. And the great man, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, no less, condescended to hug the women members of the jury which acquitted him.

It is possible that Stewart, when he lied to the Senate investigators, after taking an oath to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, was fortified with the knowledge that he was not in the presence of a technically qualified body and that the oath was not, in the circumstances, legally administered. It is possible, of course, as to the probability, each person is entitled to his own opinion.

The women members of the acquitting jury may have been delighted to have the great Mr. Stewart hug them; but there are a great many honorable gentlemen in the United States who would not particularly care to shake hands with him, just the same.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Nov. 21—Hoover may turn out to be a better or worse president than Coolidge, but it is pretty certain that he is going to be different. His forthcoming South American visit encourages those who believe he will make a new type of chief executive, one that the change will be all to the good.

Few things could do more to strengthen our interests in this hemisphere than Hoover's trip. It is a masterpiece. Latin America is an important prop to our prosperity, and the least resistant field in our war for world trade. Hoover now appears to have meant what he said when he insisted during the campaign that there were some things a president could do about prosperity.

Some time between now and inauguration a brief checkup on the sort of president Hoover is likely to make, based on past performance, may be in order. Now that the members of parliament are only smoldering, this may be as good a time as any. Let's enumerate, first for better and then for worse, in a thumbnail analysis:

1. Hoover will enter the White House with greater potentialities than any president within memory. His background of achievement goes far outside that of Harding or Coolidge. It transcends that of the coldest, scholarly Wilson. It affords high hope that Hoover will always put the interests of the nation above that of party.

2. There have been innumerable instances of a personal humanity about Hoover which suggest that he isn't going to forget all about the underdog; that although his may not antagonize Big Business, he will at least attempt to see that the "masses" don't get all the bad breaks.

3. Hoover has initiative. His administration promises progress in what direction one cannot predict, but we are not in for a period of standstill. He ought to be able to guide and guard American prosperity at least as successfully, and perhaps more so, than any other man mentioned for the presidency in 1928 could have done.

4. He is well equipped to put the machinery of government on a more efficient basis than it ever has operated on.

So much for Hoover the engineer. Hoover the administrator, Hoover the organizer and Hoover the humanitarian. On the other side of the picture here are his visible flaws: 1. Politically speaking, he is not entirely scrupulous. That does not mean that his personal character is not spotless or that any other successful politician has such things as scruples. The charge is made that he permitted important members of his political machine to circulate religious propaganda during the recent campaign.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him in care of THE HERALD. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

MACARONI, SPAGHETTI AND NOODLES.

With the coming of the winter months, the average person will be able to digest and assimilate larger quantities of the starchy foods. Among the more wholesome starches we find the Italian pastes, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and a host of similar product manufactured out of white flour and water in one of hundreds of shapes such as stars, crescents, shells, the alphabet, sheets, etc. Sometimes eggs are added to these pastes, but this type is actually not so desirable as the cheaper brands manufactured without eggs.

The invention of these products is generally credited to the Italians, but the records of history show that the Chinese were the real inventors, and that the idea for these pastes was introduced into Italy by a party of German traveling merchants. However, it was the Italians who realized the value of the idea and finally the manufacture of these products became a secret process, jealously guarded by Italy for fully a hundred years but, of course, this secret could not be maintained forever.

The flour from hard wheat is most commonly used for manufacturing these pastes and it is mixed with a small amount of boiling water and mixed and kneaded by powerful machinery until the dough is smooth and tough. It is then forced out of a cylindrical press through the small holes of a perforated iron plate. The shape of the holes regulates the mold of the product, the smaller kinds being sheared off by rotary knives.

In Italy many colored varieties are manufactured being colored yellow with eggs, green with spinach juice and red with beet juice. The latter two types are the more wholesome.

Recently many firms have manufactured wholewheat, macaroni. This has a slight dietetic advantage, since it contains some mineral elements that have been removed from the white flour. However, all of these pastes should be eaten with meals containing non-starchy vegetables and the latter will supply the mineral element to make up for the deficiency of the flour.

Since these products are highly starchy foods, they should not be combined with cheese or tomatoes as done in the average recipe. The macaroni is a very powerful and does not form a good combination with any starchy food. The best way to prepare these pastes is to cook them in unsalted boiling water. Care must be taken that the water is thoroughly boiling, not merely hot. The latter should always be separated from the water and seasoned with butter or cream.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Rheumatic Fever. Question: G. W. asks: "What are the symptoms of rheumatic fever?" Answer: The principal symptoms showing the approach of rheumatic fever are soreness of the joints or muscles, loss of appetite, fever which usually varies from 100 degrees to 101 degrees except when it occasionally, at the start, goes as high as 104 degrees. Constipation, and coated tongue are usually present and tonsils are generally swollen but these organs may be inflamed as a result of the general toxemia and cannot usually be considered as a cause of the fever, although a fever from acute tonsillitis often resembles rheumatic fever.

The Lunchbox.

Question: Mrs. G. W. J. asks: "Will you kindly give me a few suggestions as to what would make a wholesome and nourishing lunch? My husband works in a sawmill and takes a lunch with him in the morning. Up to the present it has consisted of bread and meat or ham sandwiches. I am quite aware how faulty that is considered, so would appreciate your help very much."

Answer: You can put up a good lunch with real wholewheat bread, sandwiches, and also add some non-starchy vegetables which can be kept warm in a thermos bottle. Be sure to get the real wholewheat bread. At lunch time the sandwiches may be freshly buttered, and peanut butter or lettuce added. Such vegetables as the following may be used in the thermos bottle: Spinach, asparagus, string beans, squash, celery. In addition to these cooked vegetables, add to the lunch some fresh lettuce or celery. Wrap these fresh vegetables in a damp cloth and they will remain fresh until lunch time. I will be glad to send you an article on the subject of packing lunches if you will send a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

WATCH OUT!

A pickpocket was visiting a member of the mob in jail. "Say, Lefty, I hired a lawyer for you this morning, but I had to give him my watch as a retainer," said the dip. "Well, he kept it!" asked Lefty. "Well," replied Society's Wolf, "he thinks he did!"—Judge. realization that it is necessary if they are to rise. But Hoover is now sitting on top of the world. He can be himself. He need not fear anyone. He can afford to tell anyone, at any time, just where to get out.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 21.—Once a year, when the streets grow sloppy under foot and melancholy hangs the skies, I make a pilgrimage to 180th Street. There on a highland, far removed from the noise and bustle and lovely old home which, for reasons best known to historians, is called the Jumel Mansion.

To visit the Jumel mansion on a melancholy morning, is equivalent to going to the attic and talking down grandpa's picture album, or pondering the history of faded tin-types and well-worn cameo. Having no attic, no grandmother, no tin-types or cameos, I must presume that the Jumel mansion offers one of Manhattan's pleasant escapes from the chaos of the present into the glowing and quaint romance of the past.

From the highland on which perches the Jumel mansion it is possible to watch kink-haired pickaninies sailing stinks down the flowing gutters. It's possible to catch a glimpse, in passing, of a black-and-tan jazz cafe and the garish signs of a high-wallop musical show. Inside the Jumel mansion, one is thrown abruptly back to lavender and old lace; to powdered wigs and pantaloons; to huge pictures of revolutionary day folk upon the walls and to charming old rooms, through which seem to walk wraiths of the romantic figures who played their part there—and died.

Roger Morris, a Britisher, built the mansion for his bride in 1765 and that when the Colonial cause was won, his property was lost, so he packed up his bride and went home.

Going from card to card, it is possible to piece together a thrilling melodramatic story of the times.

With Morris gone and the Colonials in power, the mansion became a tavern—a sort of stopping point for coaches on the Post Road out of New York. Washington, to help celebrate the victorious turn of events, came back to his one-time quarters, bringing with him a merry party of cabinet officers, their wives and girl friends for a festive dinner party, at which much that was stronger than the Volstead law allows was quaffed.

Within the next few years, however, it fell into disrepair and finally was salvaged by one Stephen Jumel, friend of Napoleon, who would have brought the conqueror back to his redecorated home had not a few affairs at home kept Napoleon occupied.

After the downfall of Napoleon, Mme. Jumel was expelled from France by the government of Louis XVIII after she persisted in riding through the streets of Paris with the insignia of the eagle wings, Napoleon's emblem, on the sides of her carriage. But Stephen Jumel must have obtained a reversal of the edict, for she returned to France in 1821. She was present at the coronation of Charles X. She emarked on a career of reckless extravagance, wasting the fortune of her indulgent husband. Four years of this and the Jumels were obliged, through financial straits, to close their home in Paris. Mme. Jumel returned to the mansion on Washington Heights.

Now there was gossip of Aaron Burr visiting the home. Burr had been vice president. In 1828 Stephen Jumel came home, an old man. Jumel's death in 1832 caused another wave of gossip. He fell from a hay cart, was taken up insensible and was died after the fashion of treatment of the day. The next morning he was found dead—next with the bandage of his arm. He had bled to death.

In 1833 Mme. Jumel was married to Aaron Burr. There are biographers who say Mme. Jumel was overbearing and dominating beyond endurance in the later years of her life. At any rate Aaron Burr did not remain long in the great house on the hill. One day he walked out of the mansion never to return.

Was there a ghost in that old house then? At any rate, it was a house in which Mme. Jumel no longer found it possible to live. She leased the home and went restlessly from place to place.

At the last she became a little queer. After years of wandering, she returned to the creepy old mansion. Faded and bent she sat in that house of melancholy. Alone, she set up a table—a dinner she imagined she was giving to Joseph Bonaparte, Brooding, remembering. On a highland perched over Harlem stands the house of other days. Quiet and old and melancholy. Brooding, remembering. GILBERT SWAN.

"WINGS" CLOSES AT STATE TONIGHT

Colossal Film Epic Wins Loud Praise From Local Movie Fans.

Tonight marks the final opportunity for Manchester movie-goers to see "Wings," Paramount's colossal air spectacle, which has been playing to capacity audiences at the State theater since its opening here on Sunday evening.

"Wings," which is adapted from a story by John Monk Saunders, is said by critics to be the greatest and most stupendous war drama that has ever reached the screen. To see off the hundreds of thrills that are to be found throughout the picture, a beautiful and inspiring love theme is woven deftly into the story.

Clara Bow gives the most vivid portrayal in her career as the star of the production. She is given able support by Buddy Rogers, Richard Arlen, Gary Cooper, Hedda Hopper, Richard Tucker and Jobyna Ralston.

"Wings" will be presented twice tonight—at 6:45 and 9:00. Popular prices prevail at all times.

CITY CLERK BOUND OVER ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Audit of Willimantic Official's Books Shows Shortage of $5,000.

Willimantic, Conn., Nov. 21.—James S. Donahue Jr., former city clerk and treasurer, was bound over for trial in the Superior Court on a charge of appropriating city funds for his own use, following a City Court hearing today. Judge Frank H. Foss ordered Donahue held in jail of $5,000 after Donahue's counsel demurred to the complaint and the judge over-ruled the demurrer.

Donahue resigned his city positions on September 23, 1927, after serving from June, 1925. An audit of his books completed on May 9th last was said to show he had a shortage of $5,010.87. The city sued bonding company for the amount. Meanwhile Donahue moved to Providence, R. I., and was arrested there yesterday.

YOUTHFUL BURGLAR

New York, Nov. 21.—Fourteen-year-old Andrew Rogers believes in beginning his chosen career early. He is a burglar. Andrew is a runaway from the Children's Village Refuge at Dobbs Ferry, is being detained by the police today after being found asleep in a vacant building in Brooklyn with a flashlight and a pistol beside him. Andrew, according to the police, confessed to nine burglaries, five of them in Montreal.

JITNEY PLAYERS START FIRST WINTER SEASON

Southern New England feels an especial pride in watching the growth of the organization known as The Jitney Players, for it first came into being at Madison, Conn., and its headquarters are still there, at the historic "Little Red House." Heretofore The Jitney Players have sallied forth in their caravan early in June, and early in September the tents were folded and put away to await the coming of another summer. Not because of their efforts to expand, but because of their merit and the quaintness of their charm, the fame of these performances grew apace, and now The Jitney Players are starting their first winter season of indoor plays.

They are still headed by Mr. and Mrs. Bushnell Cheney, and still directed by David Belbridge of New York. The cast includes such old Jitney favorites as Frances Simpson, Gene Magnes and Robert Parsons, while among the new comers will be several men and women who are now appearing in Broadway productions.

For this year, starting the first of January, the Jitney Players are repeating last summer's success, "A Trip to Scarborough" by Sheridan, reviving the much loved "Dragon" by Lady Gregory, and adding one play which is new to their repertoire, "Shakuntala" and ancient Hindu classic, replete with the romance and mysticism of the East. All these plays are given with musical settings which are being specially arranged for the Jitney productions.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the State Motor Vehicle Department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of those drivers operating motor vehicles.

HOUSE-WARMING

Mr. and Mrs. John Struff were pleasantly surprised recently when a number of their friends gathered to give them a house-warming at their new home on McKee street. Games, dancing, vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed. Stanley Biske played the accordion, and in behalf of Mrs. John Hurley, presented the young couple with a handsome bridge lamp. The ladies came supplied with good things to eat and a buffet lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Struff were previously surprised about two weeks ago by a party made up for the most part of relatives. Dr. Mathew Conley of Waterbury, cousin of Mr. Struff in behalf of the gathering and with wishes for good luck and prosperity presented to them a vacuum cleaner.

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT KILLED IN NEW HAVEN

Mrs. Fred A. Warner of Doane street and her sister, Miss Alberta Works, will go to Saybrook tomorrow to attend the funeral of their uncle, William Trask, who formerly lived in Manchester and was employed by the late Judson Nettleton of Woodbridge street. Mr. Trask had been employed by the New Haven railroad 27 years and planned to retire on a pension January 1, Monday while attending to his duties as section foreman on the line, he stepped out of the way of one train and was instantly killed by one coming from the other direction.

Mr. Trask had been employed by the New Haven railroad 27 years and planned to retire on a pension January 1, Monday while attending to his duties as section foreman on the line, he stepped out of the way of one train and was instantly killed by one coming from the other direction.

HOUSE-WARMING

Mr. and Mrs. John Struff were pleasantly surprised recently when a number of their friends gathered to give them a house-warming at their new home on McKee street. Games, dancing, vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed. Stanley Biske played the accordion, and in behalf of Mrs. John Hurley, presented the young couple with a handsome bridge lamp. The ladies came supplied with good things to eat and a buffet lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Struff were previously surprised about two weeks ago by a party made up for the most part of relatives. Dr. Mathew Conley of Waterbury, cousin of Mr. Struff in behalf of the gathering and with wishes for good luck and prosperity presented to them a vacuum cleaner.

Sharkey Is Furnishing $50,000 Home In Boston

Jack Has Become Real Society Swell, His Friends Assert—Servant Problem Bothering Him.

New York, Nov. 21.—The Tunney influence, committed to betterment and uplift among vegetating ears, has claimed a prominent convert, according to audible gossip that filtered up the backstairs from the servants' quarters today. The Jack Sharkeys, of Boston, have joined the young married set of and contiguous to Chestnut Hill, where field trials in suburban swank are held daily. They are preparing to exchange neighbors with the late Mr. Sharkey, whose name attained considerable prominence in the newspapers several years ago in a professional way, has purchased a $50,000 home in this exclusive domain of the rich and has been sponsored by the action of established millions, is in a position to bow formally whenever bowed to. Meanwhile, his managing director, Mr. John Buckley, has been most conspicuous at Boston's "first nights" theater. Mr. Buckley being a man of very commanding presence. His white shirt front alone has been the cynosure of many envious eyes. Mr. Buckley is not one to neglect the amenities of his position as associate of Mr. Sharkey, of the Chestnut Hill Sharkeys.

Proper Background

Work upon the latter's estate is going forward apace, I am informed, and soon his imposing residence will be furnished in taste, also in some opulence. It is said that Mr. Sharkey has taken it "on the nut" to the amount of $20,000 in order to give his new home just the proper background. The expression in question was used by a young society man from Rye Beach, It isn't likely that Mr. Sharkey would know him.

In the rear of the estate is a four-car garage and, of course, the servants' quarters will be kept up because the help nowadays are so independent. It's a problem, really.

Other Problems

Another problem, for all I know, will revolve around the question of whether the butler should wear livery or just plain black. The latter is more dignified. The chauffeurs, of course, can have the third car on nights off and the cook and the scullery maid will be allowed visitors up to eleven o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The housekeeper will be held to strict accountability for the enforcement of discipline within the menage.

Mr. Sharkey will be at home often but not always. He has his duty to his public. This he will perform from time to time throughout a busy winter season, democratically stripping to the waist like any commoner. He thus will have his moments when he will mix freely with the man in the street; also with the man in the ritz. Always well to see how the other half lives, you know. In closing, I wish to state that I am against the further conversion of vegetating ears. I make this protest from motives purely selfish. Who am I to demand a working press seat at the next heavyweight championship fight with all the society editors to be taken care of?

MISUNDERSTANDING OVER PLAY SUNDAY

Kelley Clears Fay of Accusations Made Regarding Rough Play Involving Mullen and Mozzer.

Coach Tom Kelley of the Cubs last night asked the Herald to clear up a misunderstanding which has existed since the game Sunday. Players on the Cubs team and spectators about the "Cubs" players' bench have expressed the opinion that Coach Jerry Fay of the Cloverleaves did not live up to an agreement he made before the game regarding withdrawing any player from the game who was guilty of rough and intentionally illegal play.

The play in question was when Felix Mozzer and "Whitey" Mullen had their mix-up near the Cubs' bench in the second half. Coach Kelley and several other persons say that they saw Mullen hurl Mozzer into the tape as the players on the bench by unnecessary and intentional roughness. Mullen was carrying the ball around end on the play in question and a few saw what actually happened. Those who saw Mullen rough Mozzer were of the opinion that Fay should have taken him right out of the game like Kelley did several of his players.

However Coach Kelley now states that he has talked with Fay and believes that Jerry did not see the violation as he claims. For that matter, neither did the three officials who were right close to the scene. Fay's view was also screened by several players who stood between him and the Cloverleaves' bench was across the other side of the field. The officials called no foul on Mullen but did impose a 15 yard penalty on Mozzer for illegal play on Mullen. This occurred be-

Hanley's Purple Ready for Dartmouth

Two football eleven, each beaten at twice this season by opponents, will stage one of the big inter-sectional battles next Saturday when Dartmouth journeys into the Midwest to play Northwestern. Both teams have been weakened by injuries this season and hope to enter this final game with all of its members in fit condition. Coach Dick Hanley's team is functioning at its strongest now and hopes to give Jess Hawley's eleven another defeat. Here are five stars of the Northwestern team: Walter Holmer, fullback and captain, whom Hanley thinks is one of the best fullbacks in the business this year; Yatz Levison, quarterback, and Will Griffin, a halfback; Mickey Erickson, center, and Frank Baker.

Hi-Y Club Gets Shield for Swimming Title at Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Hartford County YMCA Athletic Association was held in the new banquet hall, Hartford YMCA, Saturday evening, with eighty representatives of member teams representing Bristol, Enfield, Kensington, Highland Park, New Britain, North Granby, Simsbury, Southington, West Windsor, Manchester, West Hartford, and Wapping.

Harry N. Anderson, head commissioner of the association, presented an account of America's part in the Olympic games at Antwerp last summer. Trophies were presented to the winners of County YMCA championships during the past season, as follows: Intermediate basketball—Southern section; New Britain Lions, Farmington Valley section; Simsbury Cardinals, County Intermediate basketball championship, 3-year Hartford Times cup; New Britain Lions, Senior basketball champions, New Britain South church, presented with a 3-year cup by the Hartford Times.

Senior baseball, Spalding baseball trophy presented to the Kensington Triangles, 1928 tennis champions, singles—Frank Lanza, Kensington; doubles, Frank Kramer, E. Berlin, Bruno Miglioli, E. Berlin; 1928 swimming champions, Manchester Hi-Y, presented with a trophy presented to the County YMCA athletic emblems were presented to the forty-boys who won places on the County YMCA championship swimming team to compete in the State Inter-County meet on December 1st.

Athletic plans for the season were announced as follows: Nov. 26—Basketball Leagues begin. Dec. 1—State swimming meet, Hartford. Jan. 19—County indoor track meet, Manchester. Nov. 2—State Inter-County indoor track meet, New London. Feb. 9—County Junior basketball tournament—1st and 2nd rounds. Feb. 16—County basketball leagues finished. Finals, Junior basketball tourney. Feb. 23—State basketball tournament—1st round. Mar. 2—State basketball tournament—Semi-finals. Mar. 9—State basketball tournament—Finals, Middletown. May 4—County outdoor track meet, Willow Brook Park, New Britain. May 25—State outdoor track meet, Wesleyan.

Tommy Conran, former holder of the town duckpin title, last night shattered the high three string record for his alleys when he rolled scores of 143, 162, and 129 for a total of 424. The previous record was 410. Conran made seven strikes and twelve spares. Incidentally, Conran is hitting the pins pretty good right now and it wouldn't surprise to see him challenge Howard Murphy for the title before long.

CONRAN SHATTERS OWN ALLEY THREE STRING WITH 424

Several boats support the O'Brien boat which is down for ten rounds. Mickey in a return match; Vic Morley takes on Eddie Thomas of Boston; Buster Nadeau battles Jimmy Picardi of Boston; Joey Flynn of Hartford meets George Kraz of East Hartford and Frankie Vozzola of Hartford boxes Nick Christy of Bristol.

New York, Nov. 21.—One hundred and thirty pounds of New York University dynamite will go into action against Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh next Saturday when Dur Hornel, midget Violet fullback, skirts the Skibo ends. Coach Howard's football team is functioning at its strongest now and hopes to give Jess Hawley's eleven another defeat. Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21.—On the eve of the Yale game, Harvard's football team is enveloped in the cloak of mystery and secrecy demanded by tradition. Secret practice has been inaugurated at Soldiers' Field.

New Haven, Nov. 21.—The veteran Johnny Hoben has regained his quarterback job on the Yale eleven, replacing Bob Wilson. Hubbard is back at right half, but the other crippled regulars apparently are in no condition to break into the Harvard game.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21.—On the heels of the rumored rumors that Arnold Horween, head coach of the Harvard football squad would resign at the end of the season and that "Eddie" Casey, Freshman coach, would succeed him, William J. Birmingham, director of the Harvard athletics, yesterday issued the following statement: "I am responsible for Horween's coming here to Harvard, and my confidence in him now is greater than when I asked him to coach in March 1926. If any changes occur in the Harvard coaching staff, they will be announced through the Harvard Athletic Association. Neither Mr. Horween nor I will have anything more to say on the matter."

O'BRIEN MATCHED WITH ADONNIS

Brownie Tucker Also on Card, Matched With Mickey Roberts Again.

Frankie O'Brien will meet a good boxer and a hard puncher when he faces Eddie Adonnis of Athol, Mass., in the star bout at the Foot Guard armory in Hartford tomorrow night. Adonnis, who has been in the ring professionally three years, has a record dotted with knockouts. He has knocked many of the well-known New England writers and middleweights. Last summer at the Hartford Velodrome Adonnis outclassed the rugged Farmer Hill of Westley, R. I. and the referee was forced to stop the bout.

O'Brien Needs Win
The Athol boy clashes with a rugged boy and a hard hitter in meeting O'Brien, Frankie, after a summer of idleness, caused by cancellation of bouts through rain and injuries to opponents, launched his fall and winter campaign with a win over Frankie Koncinski of New York and he sees Adonnis as a victim number two in his onward march.

O'Brien is claimant of the New England middleweight title since his win on a foul over Al Mello at the Velodrome last summer, and he is ready to meet Adonnis in defense of his claim. Frankie would like another bout with Harry Ebbels, who Friday night meets Phil Kaplan in the Garden.

Several bouts support the O'Brien bout which is down for ten rounds. Mickey in a return match; Vic Morley takes on Eddie Thomas of Boston; Buster Nadeau battles Jimmy Picardi of Boston; Joey Flynn of Hartford meets George Kraz of East Hartford and Frankie Vozzola of Hartford boxes Nick Christy of Bristol.

Local Sport Clatter

In case the Cloverleaves win the next game from the Cubs making a third necessary, Referee Clyde Waters and Umpire Jay Merriman will not be able to officiate because of previous engagements. Others will have to be obtained.

One thing is certain. There is positively no danger of a frame-up between the two teams to insure three games. The rivalry is too intense and the feeling too bitter for such a transaction. It would leak out in a minute. Fans can bet their money without the least bit of worry in this respect.

Dr. Moran now says he was "only kidding" when he remarked that some fans bought tickets for them in half and gave part to someone else for admission at last Sunday's game.

Jimmy Quish, star tackle on the Cubs, was injured to such an extent that he didn't know his team had scored and Jim admits himself that the most he knows about the game he learned from reading The Herald the next night. Jim is all right now and will be back in the lineup next Sunday.

Except for the loss of Ernie Dowd on the eve of the Naugatuck game, it must be stated that Coach Kelley has had remarkable luck with the members of his High School team so far as injuries are concerned this season. There have been no serious accidents, such as broken bones. Knock on wood.

There will be practice for basketball inclined members of Cheney Brothers' Girls' Athletic Association Friday night from 7:30 to 9 o'clock at the West Side Rec. Coach Mac Macdonald will be in charge.

Johnny Powers is getting into the lineup quite frequently this season for Connecticut Aggies who play their hardest game of the season Saturday with Boston College. The Aggies haven't had their goal line crossed this season. They, too, had better knock on wood, for Boston College is undefeated.

Jerry Fay figures the Cloverleaves are capable of playing a much better game than they did last Sunday. He looks for a victory for the Cloverleaves Sunday at Hickey's.

Jack Stratton says the reason why he didn't attempt a field goal in the first game was because he thought too many would think he was looking for all the glory.

Both teams claim they have a lot of plays which their quarterbacks did not use Sunday that will be seen in the second game. The Cubs used a few of their trick plays and the same holds for the Cloverleaves.

Manchester High school has a band of which it may well feel proud. This organization made a big impression on the large crowd which watched the Manchester-Windham game when it marched around the field the halves, a la college style.

According to all reports Coach Kelley and Coach Fay sure did give the boys a talking to last night when they reported for practice. The result should be a big improvement in both teams next Sunday.

Southworth New Cardinal Pilot

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—Billy Southworth, idol of St. Louis baseball fans when he played here with the Cardinals in 1926 and 1927, today was named to succeed William "Doc" Grooms as manager of the Cardinals in 1929. President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals, who made the announcement after a conference with Southworth at the Cardinals office this morning stated that McKeehan would be retained as manager of the Rochester Red Wings of the International League, taking over the post filled by Southworth during the past season.

BARGAIN NIGHT IN HERALD LOOP

Tomorrow night is bargain night in the Herald Bowling League. The teams that are apparently the best in the league are matched and vice versa.

At Murphy's alleys the Bon Ami and West Sides will clash with the Beethoven, Center Church, mingling and Highland Park meeting Manchester Construction.

M. H. S. Season Big Success Regardless Of Naugatuck Game

Kelley Obtained Two Principal Objectives—League Title and Windham Scap; Loss of Dowd Makes Team More Determined to Beat Naugy; Visitors' Line Not Strong.

Regardless of the outcome of Manchester High's important battle with Naugatuck High at the West Side Playgrounds Friday afternoon, it cannot be denied that the 1928 season has been the most successful in the school's history. Seven of the eight games of the schedule have resulted in victories for Coach Tom Kelley's crimson-garbed warriors! What more could anyone ask? It's almost a perfect record.

There are two big objectives on the High School's football slate annually. One is to win the championship of the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League and the other is to beat Windham High of Willimantic. This season, Manchester won the league title for the first time and also beat Windham for the second time in the history of the two institutions. This does not mean the locals are not anxious to take Naugatuck into camp.

Big Glory at Stake

Naugatuck is the only undefeated schoolboy team of importance in the state and if Manchester can defeat them it will be a big feather in the hat of Coach Kelley, who not only has piloted the High School to a great season, but who has also steered the Cubs through an undefeated season and one leg of the town championship. According to all reports, Naugatuck is coming here a top-heavy favorite to beat Manchester.

With Ernie Dowd, star quarterback and signal caller, out of the local lineup because of strained abdominal muscles, it cannot be denied that Manchester will be immensely handicapped. When Coach Peter J. Foley of Naugatuck scouted Manchester in the New London game he had a few weeks ago, he told the writer that the man he feared most was Dowd. Yesterday, it was stated that Ernie would probably be in uniform and might get into part of the game, but last night it was learned that this was very improbable.

Not Safe to Play

Dr. N. A. Burr, the attending physician, informed The Herald that Dowd's injury was a bad strain and that it was not safe for him to play. Straps have been applied which should not be removed for two weeks. These would not give much protection to the young man if he played. The injury is nothing serious, but if further strain were added, it might take a long while for complete recovery. Dowd was first injured in the New London game when he was tackled hard and thrown out of bounds. Dowd pluckily refused to admit his injury and in the Windham game it was aggravated.

No one feels worse than Dowd over the fact that he will be unable to play. It is a severe blow to Manchester's chances, whatever they might have been, in the full season. Nevertheless, the high school is going into that game determined to win. The loss of Dowd has made them feel that this is all

FIDEL LA BARBA, JACK FIELDS SEEN AS FUTURE RING CHAMPS

"Little Fiddle" and Jackie Were Olympic Champions In 1924; Have Bright Future.

It is interesting, as a coincidence if nothing else, to observe that the only one step removed from a ring championship, are two Olympic champions of 1924.

Fidel La Barba, former flyweight professional champion and the next world's bantamweight champion if the figures are not all wrong, won the Olympic flyweight championship four years ago and one of his teammates, Jackie Fields, won the featherweight crown in Paris.

It is interesting, as a mere mention at least, that the list of champions crowned in that memorable town hall in Paris included Otto Von Porat, of Norway, who won the heavyweight title.

Von Porat, it so happens, was very much in the professional heavyweight mention until recently when he lost a ten-round decision to Gallino in New York. Von Porat, it is interesting to note, didn't remove himself entirely as a possibility in a class that isn't filled with distinguished artists.

"Little Fiddle," as La Barba was known in Paris, returned from the Olympic games and proceeded to win a match with Jack Thompson and if Dundee had any reason to fear Thompson he has every reason to be just scared to death of fields.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Fate introduces JERRY RAY to ALESTER CARSTAIRS when he crashes his airplane into the camp. He is sharing with her roommate MYRTLE. She likes his pilot, DAN HARVEY, but Alester is struck by her beauty and shows her attention.

Unable to buy a gown for a party she has invited her to, Jerry yields to the temptation to slip one from the store where she works, for the evening. When they tangle her with being a "dry dad" at the party, Jerry drinks too much. A rowdy dancing partner throws her into the pool to revive her. Dan appears to help her, but Alester takes her home.

She is discharged from the store when she confesses about the dress. Jerry seeks another job and is surprised one evening when Dan calls. He proposes and she tells him she does not believe in love, but hopes to marry for money. He leaves after warning her.

Alester drives Jerry to the deserted camp, where he makes advances which she repulses. Dan happens along and, under cover of his presence, Jerry forces Alester to take her home. When he learns that she has lost her job on his account he uses his influence to get her a place in a chorus.

Rehearsals are hard for her, but she is befriended by EVELYN STARR, who is in love with JAEEL THANE. Evelyn gives a party and when Alester says he cannot take her, Jerry invites Dan. Jael takes exception to Jerry's presence in Evelyn's home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

Jael did not come up to Jerry as she expected. Instead he stood off a few feet from the guests to whom Evelyn was presenting Dan and waited quietly until she turned to him with Dan beside her.

Dan put out his hand when Jael's name was given him, but Jael did not take it. Evelyn looked at Jael, startled by his strange attitude. Dan appeared bewildered for a moment, then he dropped his arm to his side, bowed to Evelyn and went to join Jerry.

Jael's voice cut the embarrassing silence in low, clear tones.

"Just a moment," he said, and such was Dan's surprise that he instantly wheeled back to face him.

"I believe you have made a mistake," Jael went on, without raising his voice.

"Jael!" Evelyn had a hand on her arm, her eyes entreating him to silence.

Dan waited.

"If you do not understand me we will step into the hall and I'll make myself clear," Jael said to him.

The few people near them were listening now in amazement. Jerry stole close to Dan, trembling with apprehension. He felt her hand touch his own, and glanced down into her troubled face. He guessed then that she was involved in this unexpected situation.

He faced Jael again. "If you will," he said with ominous calm in his voice. Jael bowed.

Evelyn placed herself between them as they moved away and thrust out her hands in a swift gesture.

"Jael, what is it?" she cried in distress.

"Get Miss Ray's hat," he said shortly. "She's leaving."

Dan's eyes snapped as he turned upon him. "If she wishes," he said, as a conclusion to Jael's remark.

Jerry came up to him, white and shaken.

"Please," she said, "don't go out with him, Dan. I don't want to stay. I shouldn't have come. I know he doesn't like me."

"Is he the host?" Dan said to Evelyn.

Jael answered for her. "No," he said "but I will not permit her to be imposed upon by..."

Dan's hand shot forth and seized him by the shoulder.

"Perhaps you'd better not say," he said with suppressed fury, "if you don't need an enemy of Miss Ray's to characterize her for us."

Jael tore himself loose from Dan's hold. "But Miss Starr needs to have her characterized," he retorted hotly. "If she knew how Miss Ray got into the show business she wouldn't have asked her here."

"Oh, Jael, please..." Evelyn began tearfully.

Jael did not reply to her. Dan had seized him by the arm and was propelling him out of the room into the foyer. He was almost beside himself with rage—a rage that was partly inspired by the knowledge that he couldn't beat the man to a pulp.

The feel of Jael's thin arm under his strong fingers sickened him. Why, the fellow was little more than a skeleton! And the whiteness of his face did not reflect fear, Dan knew, because his eyes blazed with courage.

He did not try to resist as Dan shoved him through the doorway. Out in the foyer Dan released him.

"Now, you dirty rat, say what you have to say, and say it quick, because in two minutes you're going back in there and apologize to Miss Ray or I'll thrash you within an inch of your life!"

Jael did not cringe.

"You may do that," he acknowledged, "and I might even apologize—though I shall not—and still it wouldn't make Miss Ray anything else than what she is."

Dan sprang at him. Jael stood unflinching before the attack. His fearlessness itself defeated Dan's purpose. He could not strike a man who was a physical weakling. His hand dropped helplessly.

"The advantage is yours," he said in disgust, "you rotten little bum."

The words infuriated Jael.

"Come on, fight," he invited daughter's hopeless love for Jael Thane.

"See here, Jerry," Evelyn said, "until I talk to Jael, I'm sure everything will be all right when I tell him that I know all about you and Alester."

Evelyn left the room and Jerry was alone with her mother.

"Poor Evelyn," the mother murmured softly, "I wish she had never met Jael. He's a great burden to her and she loves him so much she feels impelled to humanize him."

Jerry was embarrassed by this confidence. She felt certain that Mrs. Starr offered it only in response to an uncontrolled nervous emotion. She scarcely knew what to say, but she was spared the necessity of answering.

Evelyn burst into the room to announce, in obvious excitement, that Alester had come.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

DON'T TRUST YOUR EYES TO QUACK DOCTORS
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

During the last few years a half dozen quacks of assorted varieties have sought public attention with scare-head on their advertising matter. They quack away your glasses. Like quacks of all varieties they relied on the power of suggestion, knowing that the person who throws away his glasses will make a special effort to see without them, and will believe for a while that he actually sees better. Unless of course he suffers with such severe grades of nearsightedness or astigmatism that he is unable to see at all without his glasses.

Result of Popularity
The Director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has pointed out recently that when glasses first came into popular use—and eyestrain was a popular topic of conversation, glasses were frequently prescribed when they were not necessary.

In many instances the people came for glasses and would feel that they had not been satisfactorily treated unless a prescription was given to them; in other cases, manufacturers were promoting glasses too strongly.

It is perhaps as a result of the reaction against overprescribing that the fakers of today have been able to get a considerable following of persons to throw away glasses and thus to harm themselves.

The three chief reasons for wearing glasses are: to protect the eyes, to see well, and to see without fatigue. Nowadays in all industries in which the eyes are likely to be subjected to danger from chips the workers wear special goggles to prevent injury to the eyes.

In the case of difficulties of vision, eyeglasses act exactly in the same way as a crutch acts to aid a weakened limb. They lend support sometimes sufficient to permit the eye to recover to a considerable extent from its weakness. On the other hand, there are many cases in which the structure of the eye is wrong and in which eyeglasses can never be dispensed with satisfactorily.

Beyond all this there are many diseases and forms of intoxication from food and bacteria which affect the eye particularly. In such cases a correction of the disease or a removal of the dangerous substance from the diet will permit the eye to overcome its deficiency.

The chief reason for consulting a physician, at least in the very beginning, in relationship to a disturbance of the eye is the fact that he will be concerned with the human body as a whole and with its diseases as a whole, rather than with the eyes primarily. On the other hand, the man who is primarily in the business of selling glasses is likely to concern himself only with eyes and with prescribing glasses if there is the slightest excuse for such a prescription.

Some Good Advice
Proper glasses can relieve eyestrain; on the other hand, improper glasses may make the condition much more severe. The director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness gives definite advice as to the selection of a competent authority on the eyes: "If he keeps a store or has a sign with 'specialist' in letters a foot high, or if his office looks like a high-class barber shop with many machines and few books, you can be almost certain that he is not the man for yourself or for your children."

TASTY SALAD

Stuff celery with raisins and Roquefort cheese mixed with cream, cut into one-inch pieces and serve on Romano, with French dressing sprinkled with paprika.

VINEGAR BATH

At hot bath, to which two cups of vinegar has been added, will remove stiffness after strenuous exercise.

STOPPER HINT

When putting a stopper into a bottle, always give it a half turn round after it is in. This prevents sticking.

NEST SALADS

Separate head lettuce carefully, then make nests of the washed pieces. Into these put a salad mixture made of tuna fish, chopped green peppers, pecan nut meats and chopped apples, covered with mayonnaise, Top with a devilled half egg.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts-Bank ©1928 by NEA Service Inc.

"Look here," said Ted's father to Ted's mother, "every time I tell him to do something he answers that you've given him other orders. I distinctly told him this morning to carry the rest of those screens off the back porch down to the cellar. And they're still there. He says you told him not to touch them."

"Yes, I did," answered Ted's mother with asperity. "He had a shirt on that he can wear to school tomorrow. If he touches those screens it would have meant another shirt on me. My ironings are big enough."

"He could have put on something old, couldn't he?"

"It was almost dark when he came home, and he was tired."

"I see," said Ted's father, knowing it was no use to argue. "I'll tell Ted's teacher gave the class tonight. The fall evenings were long and frosty and the exemption she had given them as long as outdoor play was possible was at an enormous price."

"Darn these old books," growled Ted banging his arithmetic on the table. "I've got about a million problems to do."

"It's a shame!" declared his mother. "You work for all day in school and you shouldn't have to ruin your eyes at night."

"How many problems have you

"Five," answered Ted. "When did you get home?"

"About 5:30. We were missing ball."

"Well, you've had your exercise and a good supper. At four o'clock I quarter to seven. Then you'll have an hour to read a story—how good I guess your high school sport will be."

"That's the way you are, Tom!" indignantly shot out Ted's mother. "The minute I show the child a little sympathy you take the other side."

"No such thing," deflected his father. "I'm trying to make him buck up and do what he's told."

"Take the teacher's part, that's right. My word doesn't count for a thing in this house."

If Ted grows into a law-abiding citizen he won't have his mother to thank. She won't allow him to bow to any authority but her own. Children, like grown-ups, have more masters than the parents. Mothers should realize the necessity for obedience to other laws than their own.

On the street children must do what city laws say. In school they are under the teacher. At home they owe as much obedience to fathers as to mothers. It is not a one-master world for any of us.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Nun Conception, known as "Intellectual author" of the murder by Jose Toral of Oregon, Mexico's president-elect, has been sentenced to twenty years imprisonment. Toral will die before the firing squad. Throughout the trial the wild nun insisted that the elderly nun was innocent of any plotting with him, and begged for her freedom. Here is a hint for a soldier of fortune author, indeed, of a number of books about this meek-faced nun who, moving quietly about her tasks of caring for the widowed and fatherless, seems with no or few words to be setting a crime that with powerful results on church and state. Another proof that a woman is either cause or objective involved in most all crime!

NEW MOVIES

Would you like to see a movie with a heroine as beautiful as Helen of Troy and a hero who was neither a Roman nor a Greek? "The Sign of the Cross" is a new voice in Hollywood. A German director, who insists that his pictures be made with experiences, full of sentiment and drama, can come in, real life to women who are not unusually beautiful and to men who are neither perfect of physique, polished as a jewel in manner, nor handsome of face.

WHAT'LL PUBLIC SAY?

This director's attempt to substitute "the good man and woman who look like everyday people for the doll beauty and football captain men" who are our present heroes.

Here's a nice question: Does the public want romance rather than reality? Will it prefer the glamorous tales woven about supernatural people unlike themselves, the people lacking thought that even ordinary people can have rich emotional experiences?

LOCAL GROUP GOING TO BIG CONFERENCE

League of Women Voters in All Day Session at Broad Street House.

A great many members of the Manchester Women League of Voters are planning to attend the Connecticut Conference on International Relations which will be held at the Women's Club house at 187 Broad street, Hartford, all day tomorrow under the auspices of the Connecticut section of the National Committee on the cause and cure of War and the Connecticut council on International relations.

The morning session will open at 10 o'clock with an address on "The Need to End War" and "What everyone should know about the Kautl-lateral treaty". The speakers will be Miss Emily Louise Plumley representing the Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Milton Simon representing the National Council for Jewish Women, Senator Alice Pattison Merritt, Mrs. Josephine Whitney representing the National Women's trade union league and Miss Primrose Woolverton representing the Y. W. C. A.

The round table luncheon that will be served at 12:30 o'clock will be addressed by the following speakers: Mrs. Harrison Elliott, Miss Alice W. Hunt, Clayton Ernst and Miss Esther Everett Lape. The following topics will be discussed: "Methods of Building a Club Program on Foreign Affairs", "World Friendship for Children", "International Fellowship for Young People" and "The United States and the World Court."

The afternoon session will center about the topic "To what extent can we hope to abolish international war and what steps can be taken toward this end?" The speakers that will address the gathering on this topic are: Dr. Raymond T. Rich, President Ada Comstock of Radcliffe University, Professor Charles P. Howland of Yale, Miss Esther Everett Lape, President James L. McConaughy of Wesleyan University and Professor E. Wilder Spaulding of Trinity College.

The conference has gathered together a group of prominent speakers for this meeting and at present the number that have signified their intention of attending has been far larger than what the committee dared to hope would be interested. A large representation of the Manchester Women League of Voters has planned to attend.

WANTS HIS MONEY BACK
Washington, Nov. 21.—Back in 1915, Robert J. Thompson of Chicago bought 500,000 marks worth of Imperial German Government bonds. He paid for them $103,000 in Good American gold.

Since then he has been trying to collect on his investment, but without much luck.

Today a suit was on file in district Supreme Court in which Thompson seeks to recover the value of his investment from the U. S. Government. His suit contends that the American government holds enough German property to cover the amount and he wants sufficient of it transferred to him to cover his loss.

ALL CIRCUS FAKIRS AT REC'S BIG FAIR
African Dodger, Wild Man From Borneo and a Hula Dancer to Be Featured Friday.

Ten big surprise attractions are in store for those who attend the first annual fair to be staged by the Recreation Centers Friday evening in the School street Rec gymnasium. It was announced this morning by Director Lewis Lloyd who, with Associate Director Miss Viola Landon, is making arrangements for the affair.

The profits realized from the fair will go toward some worthy recreational cause. In addition to the attractions in the gymnasium, there will be bridge, whist and setback parties for those who wish to play cards after attending the fair. According to the program announced, the fair will not be much different from the annual outdoor affairs except for the fact that there will be no horse-racing or gambling devices.

Mr. Lloyd gave out the "contents" of several of the booths but of course could not mention any names as that would detract from the fun. In one booth will be an African dodger with three balls being offered for a nickel to hit the "nigger baby." In another will be ten pin game with a prize for anyone successful in toping them all in three flings.

One booth will afford patrons an opportunity to have a photograph taken for the family album while in another will be a Hula-Hula dancer who will be referred to as "Gilda Gray's understudy." The "wild woman of Borneo" will be safely caged in another booth while "Blue Beard's Bearded Wife" will be sitting placidly in another. There will be the opportunity to see Liberman's Strongest Man in the World lift 1,000 pounds. Madame Clair will also be present to tell your past, present and future and there will be a fishing pond with prizes for all.

Susa's Tin Pan Band, a five piece minstrel combination will furnish music. Pop-corn, peanuts, pink lemonade and hot dogs will be on sale.

SOBRIETY WON'T WORK
Boston, Nov. 21.—"He is a good scientist, but a poor lawyer," declared Frederick H. Tarr, United States district attorney, when he was informed that Dion H. Francis, 22-year-old senior at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, evolved a method of beating the Volstead law.

Francis developed a scheme of freezing liquor, thus raising the question if the resultant solid is legal to be sold or transported.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy Cascaret.

Cascaring the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this: what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents, because children love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

CASCARETS They Work While You Sleep!

The Food For All Ages—MILK

AMPLE reward for years of healthful living, when grandfather and grandmother can tell the youngsters what plenty of exercise, sleep, and right foods have done to keep them well and happy. Milk and its products revive tired bodies and help to keep cheeks rosy and eyes sparkling.

You, too, can know the animation, the vigor and vitality that comes from regular use of milk in your diet. Order milk and cream for breakfast and for dinner. Use more milk in cooking supper. Let children who need food oftener than at meal time have milk for mid-morning or afternoon. A quart a day for every child, and at least a pint for every adult, is recommended by all leading dietary authorities.

The President of the United States says:

WE HAVE tested the Red Cross in war and peace. It has never failed us. It never will so long as it holds your support. As President of the United States and as President of the American Red Cross, I earnestly ask all our citizens to renew their membership in this legion of mercy.

... CALVIN COOLIDGE

The American Red Cross says:

READ this Roll Call of Service... then you'll proudly help in the rendering of that service by answering now the Roll Call of Red Cross Membership.

"The most destructive hurricane in the history of the West Indies."

The American Red Cross rendered immediate service at every point touched by the hurricane—assisting more than 500,000 victims with clothing, medicines, tents, and daily sustenance. Approximately $5,000,000 will be expended in actual relief work. The Red Cross also rendered aid last year in 66 other domestic disasters, assisting over 700,000 people. Relief work resulting from the Mississippi Flood, America's greatest peace-time disaster, was completed. The persons affected numbered 931,159, of whom 637,476 were assisted by the Red Cross. A relief fund of $17,498,902.16 was contributed through the co-operation of 3500 chapters. Other relief rendered included that given during the New England floods, and the tornado in the city of St. Louis.

"From Mexico to Jerusalem, from Albania to Brazil!"

The American Red Cross knows no frontier; recognizes no "questions of policy"; bows to no social, political, religious, or racial prejudice. During the past year the Red Cross rendered aid in 22 foreign disasters, assisting over 650,000 people—furnishing food, clothing, shelter and medical assistance. Epidemics, earthquakes, shipwrecks, volcano eruptions, fires, floods, typhoons, tornado, famine and landslide—whatever the disaster, wherever, whenever it strikes, the Red Cross acts instantly.

"Lest we forget"

Last year Red Cross workers in 78 government hospitals assisted nearly 30,000 disabled veterans monthly. A monthly average of 56,558 service men and ex-service men and their families were assisted by Red Cross Home Service Workers. $2,584,337 was spent in this work, supplementing the regular government program.

Red Cross workers in 316 camps and stations, assisted 245,000 men of the regular Army and Navy. 47,252 nurses were enrolled in the Red Cross Nurses' Reserve. 30,000 are on the active list, ready to respond to calls from the Army and Navy, with the Red Cross disaster force at home and abroad, or for other kinds of work.

"The less spectacular task of guarding public health."

American Red Cross public health nurses made 1,099,738 home visits and inspected 874,218 school children last year. 244,041 persons were instructed in health classes. 6,529,252 Junior members conducted a service program in the schools for the benefit of their communities, the country at large, and children in other lands. A monthly average of 10,049 civilian families were assisted last year by Red Cross Home Service Workers. 253,040 garments and 2,276,621 surgical dressings were made by Red Cross Volunteers.

What Do YOU Say

If you are proud of America's name the world over as first among the nations to respond to any cry of humanity in need—

If you don't want the American Red Cross to be hampered in its work of mercy during the emergencies of the coming year—

If you are moved in the slightest by the work which the Red Cross has done in relieving communities afflicted by the calamities of the past year—

If you have at least one dollar to give in the name of America to the relief of human suffering—use that dollar to renew your membership for another year.

NEW RULING OPENS GATE FOR CONVICTS

Amendment to Baumes Law Knocked Out by Supreme Court.

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 21—Legal authorities today estimated that 3,000 prisoners throughout New York state have suddenly found a legal path open to them upon which they can take steps to secure their freedom as the result of a decision handed down by the New York Court of Appeals sustaining Supreme Court Justice Joseph D. Senn in knocking out one of the Baumes law penal code amendments.

ATTACH $75,000 PLOT FOR A CLAIM OF $750

Plaster on the Pine Forest Tract Covers 100 Times the Amount at Issue.

A lawsuit involving only $750 has resulted in attachments being placed on all of the forty lots, with the exception of three which have been sold, in the Pine Forest tract. Lots in this section have been selling for more than twice the price of the attachments, and the Hartford deputy sheriff, acting on a writ issued by a Hartford lawyer, has placed attachments on the whole tract, including houses, a protection for the $750 claim of about 100 times the amount of the bill.

WOMEN VOTERS ELECT, HEAR OF CONVENTION

Annual Meeting Held at Mrs. Harold Alvord's Home; Delegates Made Reports.

Mrs. Harold Alvord of Robert road opened her home yesterday afternoon for the annual meeting of the Manchester League of Women Voters. The meeting was large and much enthusiasm was evidenced in both the election of officers and the reports of the state convention held last week in New London. Delegates who were present yesterday and gave short accounts of the proceedings at New London included Mrs. George F. Borst, Mrs. Carroll Hutchinson, Mrs. L. S. Burr, Mrs. George H. Wilcox, and Mrs. Max Bengt. It is expected Representative Marjory Cheney will be present to present yesterday will later report on the legislative round table.

OPERATIONS IN MOVIES

New York, Nov. 21—Medical circles were keenly interested today in moving pictures from France of two Caesarian operations—the first of the kind ever shown here. A group of noted surgeons sat in the ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria hotel and calmly watched the delicate operations which were filmed in minute details. These are part of four films sent here from France in exchange for scientific moving pictures sent abroad from America. The films will make it possible for medical students in small community clinics to witness various surgical feats performed elsewhere.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: "Famous First Ladies"

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

When Mrs. Harrison came into the White House she found many broken sets and pieces of china. What was possible to mend she had mended and riveted that they might be used. A new set of china, costing $700, was ordered from France. Some of these plates are shown in the collection in the Lower Corridor of the White House.

The president was a great lover of exercise and frequently took long walks after his day's work. The family feared for his safety.

GAS BUGGIES—This Way Out

After carefully dressing Junior in his Sunday best, hem, feeling very important, arrived at the editor's office to dictate the terms of Junior's contract for carrying a paper route.

Sorry, but the editor says he's very busy today. If you could come back...

My time is valuable, too. Tell me, this is a matter of the utmost importance concerning the future of the paper, and I can't call again!

I'm flat, too. I was going to ask you for a touch!

That's the idea! Junior will take the route providing he gets a contract covering all the points I outlined.

I see... Ahem... you wish to protect your nephew well. That's a matter outside my jurisdiction. The circulation manager handles those things.

Our policy is to give every employee an even break. If I gave your nephew a contract, I'd be going over the circulation manager's head, and that wouldn't be fair.

Certainly not, sir. Junior wants no favors. My mistake, sir. I'll see the circulation manager. Thank you, sir.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

This automobile age is responsible for girls being driven away from home.

SENSE and NONSENSE!

- A way to abolish accidents. Cast your optics on these rules.
- The last legislature changed the rules for drivers, and it is well for everyone to read up on the new signals and get acquainted with them. An arm protruding from the car ahead now means that the driver is:
1. Knocking the ashes off a cigarette.
 2. Going to turn to the left.
 3. Pointing to a scenic spot.
 4. Going to turn to the right.
 5. Telling a small boy to keep still; he won't buy any more red pop.
 6. Going to stop.
 7. Feeling for rain.
 8. Going straight ahead.
 9. Saying to the wife: "Hell, yes I turned off the water."
 10. Going to slow down.
 11. Waving at a girl on the sidewalk.
 12. Going to back up.

The man who bought a second-hand flivver took it back. "What's the matter with it?" asked the seller. "Well, you see," said the disgusted owner, "Every blamed part of it makes a noise except the horn."

Scarcer Than Honest Men In these modern days one may be sure when he sees A patient explorer like Diogenes, With an anxious expression upon his sad face, That he's looking in vain for a good parking place.

What Second-Hand Cars run into Silent policemen Telegraph poles Safety zones Pedestrians Lamp-posts Taxicabs Ditches Fences Trees Money

Some men keep two runabouts. One they buy first for, and the other they buy clothes. When you consider the exercise some women get in jumping at conclusions, it's a wonder they get fat.

It was speeder's day in the police court. The first offender vowed he was traveling only fifteen miles an hour when apprehended. Next a notorious fast driver told the judge he was going only ten miles an hour. And how fast were you going, asked the judge of Tim O'Brien, third in line. "My, it please the court," said Tim with straight face, "I wuz backin' up, Yer Honor."

Motorist (trying to excuse himself): "I was hurrying up town to see my attorney." Hard-hearted Cop: "Well, you'll have some more news for him now!" Curious Bystander: "I say, did you have an accident?" Battered Motorist: "Not at all—I just turned the car over to see what made the wheels go."

The old-fashioned man who used to be driven to drink now has a son who drinks as he drives.

LETTER GOLF

There isn't a great deal of difference between CLAY and SAND—just six steps in letter golf and maybe you can beat that. One solution is on another page.

C	L	A	Y
S	A	N	D

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

A question of etiquette: In case of an auto wreck, who should speak first? And should the man precede the lady through the windshield?

A road is no safer than its most reckless driver.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Upon the moon brave Clowny crawled, and for a moment he just sprawled around and almost tumbled off. Then Mister Moon said, "Hey! Don't be frightened! You're all right. Just sit up straight and hang on tight. I will not whirl around 'cause you'd get dizzy in the head."

Then Clowny straightened up real quick. The others thought he looked real sick. His little feet were hanging down, and waving in the air. "All ready," said the Moon Man loud. "We're going to leave this little crowd. I'll take you way up higher, where the atmosphere is rare."

A funny swishing sound then came, and like a wondrous streak of flame, the moon went sailing into space, and Clowny looked real scared. The Moon Man shortly noticed this, and said, "We cannot go amiss. I promise you you're safe. Just think how lucky you have fared."

"I'm always glad to furnish fun, but you will be the only one to get a ride upon my chin. My time is short, you see. The Milky Way will be our track, and then I'll have to take you back. The other Tynmites think that you're as lucky as can be."

Up through the milky way they sailed and several stars the Moon Man hailed. "You seem to know all of the stars," said Clowny, with a smile. "You bet!" he heard his friend reply. "You see I'm ruler of the sky. If you would like to, you shall meet a small star after awhile."

They both kept quiet quite a spell. Then Clowny heard the Moon Man yell. "It's time that we're getting back. Now watch how neat I float." The moon then drifted slowly through the air. The first thing Clowny knew, the Tynmites were shouting. And he landed near the boat.

(Scouty and Carry take a star ride in the next story.)

The Ladies Sewing Circle of the Concordia Lutheran church will meet for work tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.
The "unit" leaders are requested to meet at the parsonage of the North Methodist church this evening at 7:30.
The Town Players will hold a rehearsal this evening at the School Street Rec for "The Poor Nut" which will be presented at the State theater some time in December.
Group One of the Washington Fund at the High school which will present "The Whole Town's Talking" as its part of the drive to raise funds for the annual senior class trip to Washington held a rehearsal last night in the assembly hall.
"Hurry, Hurry, Hurry" a three act play that will be presented by the Epworth League of the North Methodist church the first week in December is rapidly rounding into presentation form and will probably be given the first week in December. The play is under the direction of Louis Smith.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Mary's Episcopal church will meet in the Guild room tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is hoped every one of the members will be present as there is much work to be done in preparation for the sale on December 7. The Guild is making a line of aprons, useful and fancy articles and children's and house dresses.

Mrs. Charles Warren of Cooper street entertained yesterday afternoon in observance of the eighty-first birthday of her mother, Mrs. Esther C. Strong, to whom the party came as a pleasant surprise. The guest of honor was Mrs. Charlotte Elliott of Rocky Hill, president of the club in Hartford known as "The Elders." A pleasant social afternoon wound up with a delicious supper served by Mrs. Warren. Mrs. Strong was remembered with many gifts and flowers. She formerly lived in Glastonbury and a few years ago came to make her home with her daughter here.

There will be another children's clinic at the Memorial hospital annex tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

Joseph Hoba, bill poster at the State theater, has purchased from the George S. Smith agency a new Chrysler Plymouth sedan.

The annual visitation of the Red Chiefs to the Mianctonah Tribe of Red Men will be the feature of the regular tribal meeting to be held tomorrow night in Tinker hall. The adoption degree will be worked on new candidates. The degree work will be followed by a banquet at which Claude Truax will act as toast master.

MRS. C. R. BURR'S MOTHER IS DEAD IN DURHAM

Mrs. Clifford R. Burr of 138 Main street yesterday received word of the death of her mother, Mrs. Marion E. Hickox, widow of Dwight L. Hickox, at her home in Durham, Conn., yesterday morning.
Mrs. Hickox was 83 years old and had been ill for about a month. She was fairly well known in Manchester having visited here many times. In addition to Mrs. Burr, she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Herbert S. Heath of Hopkinton, Mass., and three grandchildren, Barbara Heath, Marion Burr and Charles Burr.
She was a member of the Durham Methodist church and a charter member of W. C. T. U. and Red Cross Chapter. The funeral will be held at the Durham Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Lester P. White officiating. Burial will be in the Durham cemetery.
