

GUARDING HOOVER AGAINST RED PLOT

Police Find Room Full of Bombs and a Map Showing Route Taken by American Good Will Party.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 12.—As the result of the confiscation of a room full of bombs and other explosives on the eve of the visit of President-Elect Herbert Hoover to Buenos Aires, the greatest precautions ever taken here to insure the safety of a distinguished foreign visitor were under way today.

The Hoover good will party is due here from Mendoza, on the Argentine-Chilean frontier, tomorrow afternoon upon a special train guarded by 30 picked soldiers. They were selected from the San Martin grenadier squad, the crack regiment of the Argentine army.

Thousands of police, secret service agents and soldiers will be on duty when the train arrives and a special body guard will protect Mr. Hoover when he appears in public.

Argentine officials deeply deplore the incident which is attributed to anarchists. Officials, from President Irigoyen down regret that it should have taken place on Argentine soil.

In addition to the bombs the police found a detailed railway map with the route of Mr. Hoover's special train marked in pencil.

A youth who was arrested in the house where the explosives were discovered is being grilled by the police. It is understood that the police expect to make further arrests.

Plans were made to send detectives to meet the Hoover special some miles west of Buenos Aires. The railway tracks will be patrolled and searched as the train approaches this city.

The Communist-Anarchist element has long been active in Buenos Aires. During the railway strike bombs were exploded upon the railway line near this city, but the damage was small.

The activities of the Reds were increased by the Sacco-Vanzetti case when threats were made to blow up the United States Consulate. A bomb was exploded last year in the Buenos Aires branch of the National City Bank when a number of persons were killed and wounded. Recently a bomb was found before a church.

Fearing a demonstration by "Reds" during the visit of Mr. Hoover the police have been active for some weeks. Known Communists

CONGRESS TO ACT ON THE DOPE EVIL

Rep. Porter Says Opium is Sold by European Firms the Same as Food.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Disclosure of a vast international "dope" smuggling scheme in the Rothstein murder investigation in New York has spread alarm in Congress, with the result that definite movements were put under way to check the drug evil in the nation. Representative Stephen Porter (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, indicated that he was preparing to seek Congressional action to halt violations of the Hague opium treaty by European nations.

FORGETS GEMS WORTH MILLION IN HOTEL ROOM

Reporter Finds Heirlooms and Notifies Lady Heath, Famous English Aviatix Who Claims Them.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Recovery of jewelry and family heirlooms valued at $1,000,000 and owned by Lady Heath, England's foremost aviatix, was announced here today by Al Dunlap, president of the Press Club of Chicago.

The jewels were left here in a hotel room dressing table drawer by Lady Heath when she departed hurriedly for Washington Monday.

Dunlap discovered the heirlooms in the drawer when he went to the room to obtain an autographed photograph of Lady Heath, promised him by the famous aviatix. Notified of their recovery, Lady Heath in Washington today instructed Dunlap to insure them for $1,000,000 and send them to her.

Very valuable. Lady Heath, over the long distance telephone Dunlap and others in Chicago today, said she did not care to have it known that the jewels were worth such a sum. Aside from their actual value, they are extremely valuable to her because of their family heirloom status and that was why she asked they be insured for $1,000,000. She told Dunlap, the latter stated, that she would tell friends the gems were worth only a small sum by comparison, $10,000, or some similar amount.

Overlooked Gems. Lady Heath visited Rockford, Ill., Monday and was summoned to Washington. In her hurry she overlooked the gems which were in his pocket for several hours, unconscious of their value, seeking their owner. Forgetting for the moment that Lady Heath might have left them behind, Dunlap wished to find their owner before seeking their own and carried them to a jewelry store.

The man behind the counter gave one look and gasped. "It's a fortune, a vast fortune," he said weakly.

The gems traced their ownership to Lady Heath and immediately communicated with her.

POLICE SHOOT TIRES TO OVERTAKE FORGER

Had Cashed Checks in William Bearing Names of College Officials.

William, Conn., Dec. 12.—William business men, honoring checks bearing the name of Dr. Charles L. Gates, president-emeritus of the State College at Storrs, and Prof. R. W. Longley, of the college faculty, were in City Court here today when Raymond A. Jacobs, 23, of Stafford Springs, was placed on trial charged with forging the names and cashing the checks. Jacobs pleaded guilty and was bound over for trial in Superior Court in bond of $1,000, and was sent to Brooklyn jail in default of bail. The court was told that Jacobs had cashed nine checks ranging from ten to thirty-five dollars, but he was charged with three counts only. Jacobs' wife is employed at the college, and for that reason the checks were cashed without trouble.

Police yesterday received word that Jacobs was driving in Mansfield, and set out in search of him. Jacobs was overtaken and recognizing the police tried to dash away in his car. He was halted when his rear tires were flattened with bullets. He had a number of blank checks with him, police said.

WARDEN HOLTON DEAD

Milford, Conn., Dec. 12.—Charles H. Holton, warden of the Borough of Woodmont, died at Milford hospital today from the effects of pneumonia following injuries he received Monday when he was struck by a trolley car at Woodmont station. Mr. Holton, who was 72, was a native of Keene, N. H. He was a member of the Milford School Board, and for many years had been a member of the New Haven symphony orchestra. He is survived by his wife.

Warden Holton stumbled against the side of the trolley car as he stood at the station. It was believed he did not hear the car approach. His skull was fractured and four ribs broken but until pneumonia developed he was said to have a chance to recover.

Coroner James J. Corrigan of New Haven will start an investigation this afternoon.

Lone Negro Battles With 200 Policemen

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Machine guns, tear bombs, repeating rifles, shotguns, pistols and fire hoses today poured incessant streams of lead and water into a three-story brick house in which a lone negro defender battled more than two hundred policemen during the night before he was finally shot down when a squad finally crashed through the doorway.

Six policemen received painful but not serious wounds as the negro, believed to be demented, rushed from window to window of the house firing a shotgun wildly at detectives and firemen who had hidden behind buildings and in alleyways for the long siege.

THINGS ARE PRETTY GOOD ON BOWERY THIS YEAR

Barometer of Country's Labor Conditions Shows That There Is No Prospect of "Bread Line."

New York, Dec. 12.—Down in the Bowery, a barometer of the country's labor conditions, times are pretty good. That is to say, the run of floaters, bums and jobless is less than is customary on the eve of winter. There is no immediate prospect of a "bread line" such as was in evidence last Christmas.

Urban Ledoux, the hobo's friend who is widely known as "Mr. Zero," is doing business at the same old stand—a food and rest emporium called the "Nickel-O-Dome." There he gives free breakfasts to the "head broke." He made a tour of the flop houses this morning and passed out only 600 breakfast tickets. That shows how scarce are the cases of absolute destitution. A year ago the number ran up into the thousands. Now most of the drifters can afford a nickel or a dime for a meal and ten cents for a "steamer chair" bunk for the night.

On the Pacific coast conditions are satisfactory. Reports from San Francisco state that "employment conditions are normal." The usual number of itinerants are drifting into the big cities, their work in the hazy fields and timber country having ended for the season. But the employment and wage index in Pacific coast cities have been showing an upward trend for the past four months.

The writer traversed the Bowery from end to end today. There were seen the usual type of bent, broken down, and shabby men that may be "down but not out." Why, wasn't he the first man to inaugurate Salvation Army Christmas dinners? That was in Chicago, in 1893, when so many were stranded after the Columbia Exposition.

BANDITS GET $50,000 IN YONKERS HOLD-UP

Wound Two Guards of Money Car and Escape With the Payroll.

Yonkers, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Four bandits armed with sawed-off shotguns today held up a money-car of the First National Bank of Yonkers, wounded two of the guards and escaped with cash estimated at $50,000.

The bank delivery truck was en route from the Yonkers post office to the bank.

Adolf Kauter, one of the guards, received several shotgun slugs in the arm and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, Yonkers. The driver, Richard Higgins, was struck on the side of the head by part of a charge but was not seriously injured. He refused medical attention.

COMPANIONATE WEDDING.

Paris, Dec. 12.—Ralph Barton, distinguished caricaturist, and his wife Taillefer, beautiful pianist and composer, who were married in Greenwich, Conn., two years, are today converts to the cause of companionate marriage.

Barton will maintain an apartment in New York. His wife will continue to live in the French capital and they will see each other from time to time. Barton, who has married three times previously, asserted that he believed the companionate union to be the ideal wedded life.

PRESIDENT, IN SPEECH, LAUDS THE WRIGHTS

Opens Aeronautics Conference in Washington; Delegates Present from All Parts of World.

Washington, Dec. 12.—A closer bond of amity and understanding among the nations of the world will be welded through the medium of the ever-spreading wings of aviation, President Coolidge predicted today in formally opening the International Civic Aeronautics Conference, assembled here to discuss more intensive development of aerial commerce.

"All nations are looking forward to the day of extensive, regular and reasonably safe intercontinental and interoceanic transportation by airplane and airship," the President declared. "What the future holds out even the imagination may be inadequate to grasp. We may be sure, however, that the perfection and extension of air transport throughout the world will be of the utmost significance to civilization.

Mr. Coolidge reviewed for the conference the consistent leadership the United States has exercised in the field of aviation from the time, just 25 years ago, when Wilbur and Orville Wright accomplished the first flight ever made by man in a power-driven heavier-than-air machine, to the present day, which finds the continent literally crisscrossed with commercial airways touching into every section. He paid particular tribute to the Wright Brothers, the survivor of whom has been in a conference with some veterans of the Smithsonian Institute over who actually made the first flight. Giving them full credit, and referring to that memorable day at Kitty Hawk, N. C., he said:

"Human flight, with wings, which had begun the imagination since the beginning of time, became a practical reality in the day the airplane of Wilbur and Orville Wright rose from the wind-swept dunes of the Atlantic coast. It is only in memory, but Orville Wright who piloted that first plane, is still actively interested in that science. We are glad to have him as one of our delegates to this conference."

Rev. Watson Woodruff, pastor of the Center Congregational church, of which Mr. Hohenthal was a member, officiated, both at the home service and at the church, which was thronged with friends and admirers. Floral tributes, attesting to the high esteem in which he was held, were banded high about the casket.

Incorruptible, Patriotic. In his eulogy, Rev. Woodruff paid tribute to Mr. Hohenthal's patriotism, not only towards the town, but towards the state and nation as well. He spoke of his readiness to serve his community; of his honesty among other qualifications. He praised Mr. Hohenthal as "one of our great incorruptibles."

The bearers were: Thomas J. Rogers and John H. Hyde, representing the Sons of Temperance; L. Heebner and W. J. Crockett, representing the South Manchester Fire district; Louis St. Clair Burr and Dr. E. P. Anderson, of Hartford, representing the Prohibition State committee. The honorary bearers were: F. A. SLIGHT OPERATION IS PERFORMED ON KING

London, Dec. 12.—A slight operation was performed upon King George today to drain the poisonous fluid from the right lung.

The following bulletin was issued at Buckingham Palace early in the afternoon.

"The slight improvement in the King's condition notified this morning has been maintained. Some purulent fluid round the base of the right lung was removed by puncture this morning. Further drainage is necessary.

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewitt, Dr. E. H. Whitby, Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard, Sir Humphrey Rolleston and Lord Dawson of Penn.

The fact that the physicians were able to perform the "puncture operation" was accepted as proof that his general strength had improved somewhat. Previously the King was said to be too weak to permit such treatment.

It was generally believed in unofficial circles that today's operation on the King was purposely postponed until after the Prince of Wales had arrived in London because of fear that the King's heart might not withstand the extra strain imposed upon it.

EARLY BULLETINS

London, Dec. 12.—An official bulletin which indicated that King George may yet win his gallant battle with death was issued by the royal physicians this morning.

The bulletin stated that the King's condition was generally a "little better," that his temperature was "somewhat lower," and that he was maintaining the slight improvement noted late last night.

"The King had some hours of sleep. The slight improvement noted late last night is maintained. His Majesty's temperature is somewhat lower and his general condition is a little better."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn. It was timed 10:30 a. m.

Pleased the Crown: Everywhere the bulletin was regarded as highly satisfactory. The fact that His Majesty's temperature was lower and his general condition improved moved the throng which had waited in the cold and fog outside the palace gates for hours almost to cheerfulness. Those inside the palace were similarly cheered.

"NEEDLE OPERATION"

London, Dec. 12.—A medical authority explained to International News Service this afternoon that "the needle operation" performed on King George is a highly critical one.

This authority said that the afternoon bulletin means that the "needle exploration" was successfully tried once before but that today the poisonous fluid was found and extracted.

For that reason, said the informant, the bulletin is "good news." This informant added:

"The operation performed upon the King is a highly critical one, but the fact that it was successfully now gives the physicians information needed for further treatment. This operation probably will be repeated as soon as possible."

"The operation was performed with a needle fitted with a large ring or suction apparatus on one end." International News Service's informant continued. "The operation consists of a puncture between the ribs to reach the lining of the chest wall."

"It is customary for this operation to be performed by the removal of a section of the rib, under a general anaesthetic, but in cases of very severe illness, a local anaesthetic is used and the rib section is not removed."

"In the King's case it is certain that a local anaesthetic was used, and the rib was not removed."

FIND BODY IN WELL

Wellesley, Mass., Dec. 12.—What police believed to be a murder, was uncovered today with the discovery of a man's body in a well on Clifford street here. The man's face had been mutilated with a shotgun. Police expressed the belief that the body was thrown into the well following the shooting.

Police believed the victim was a man named Cragora, a roomer at a boarding house on Clifford street. Police said a shotgun and two empty cartridges were found in Cragora's room. Efforts were made to establish the ownership of the weapon.

CELTIC STILL AGROUND

Queenstown, Dec. 12.—Hope for the retrieving of the stranded White Star liner Celtic had not been abandoned today although efforts to refloat her have been stopped pending the removal of the cargo.

The liner is fast upon the rocks at the entrance to the harbor. It is estimated it will take the crew several days to remove the cargo and pump the water from the hull.

PRINCE IN SECOND VISIT TO FATHER

Los Andes, Chile, Dec. 12.—Burdened with good wishes and gifts from a thriving Chilean officials, President-Elect Herbert Hoover and his party left today to carry their goodwill message to Argentina.

Mr. Hoover was highly pleased over the success of his visit to Chile, regarding it as the climax of his good will visit in South America.

From Los Andes to Buenos Aires the Americans will get a panoramic view of South American life and scenery. They will cross the Andes, ascending into the Argentine mountains which resemble the western prairies of the United States of fifty years ago, with their vast ranches and herds of grazing cattle and wild horses. POLICEMAN AND WOMAN DROWNED IN AN AUTO

Police Unable to Account for Tragedy—Woman Was Married.

New York, Dec. 12.—A new sedan plunged into a creek in Oyster Bay, Long Island, today bringing death to a policeman and a married woman.

The car, Mrs. Edith Bishop, wife of a wealthy builder of New Hyde Park, and Harry Island, said to be a policeman of Huntington, Long Island.

Mrs. Bishop's body was found in the submerged sedan sitting at the wheel. Island's body was found 15 feet from the automobile after the "crack" which feeds a reservoir, was drained by police.

Mrs. Bishop's husband arrived at the scene and identified his wife's body.

Police are unable to account for the tragedy.

An empty whisky bottle also was found floating near the car. Farmers living in the vicinity told police that they had heard a crash shortly after midnight, but did not investigate.

Wild Cows Roaming Around This Vicinity

Tales of the West come to mind when one learns about the three "wild cows" which have escaped from a hundred-acre pasture at Love Lane. The animals have been missing for a month. Every once in a while, someone reports seeing them and a wild chase starts but the cows have thus far escaped capture.

The cows are owned by Shea Brothers, Dennis and Daniel, of Avery street. They are of the Guernsey breed and have been at pasture all summer. Four of the group were rounded up a month ago and was planned to cull the remaining three the next day. However, when the owners returned cattle herders, are the counterpart of the American cowboy.

From the pampas country the special train will pass through a rich farming area similar to the agricultural belts of Illinois and Iowa.

Famous Monument

This afternoon the train was scheduled to pass the famous "Cristóbal de los Andes", a 1-foot bronze monument on the extreme summit of the continental divide. The aims of the figure are outstretched, one in the direction of Chile, the other towards Argentina. It was erected in 1898 by public subscriptions taken in Chile and Argentina to commemorate the peaceful settlement of the boundary dispute through the arbitration of the King of England.

Members of the party had to prepare for all kinds of weather during the next day or two—from overcoats to wear on top of the Andes to cool linens for the heat of the pampas.

Hoover Pleased

Mr. Hoover was greatly pleased over the announcement by President Diaz, of Chile, that a contract has been awarded the Foundation Co. of New York, for the construction of 662 new schools to cost 60,000,000 pesos. They will be built in all parts of the country.

One hundred and twenty-two of them will be for secondary grade students and the others for primary grades.

After looking over the plans to the engineers' club at Santiago, Mr. Hoover commented that "schools are the seat of a nation's strength and progress." He said the American nation will feel justly happy to contribute to the building up of Chile's educational system.

According to plans when the party left here, Mr. Hoover would not leave the train at any point on the mountains.

He was fully clothed, had used his father's pistol and had been dead six hours, according to Medical Examiner Thomas M. Durrell.

good effect even if it was only temporary.

The Duke of York, brother of the prince, called at York House at noon. The prince already was up, dressed and had breakfasted. A few minutes after 12 o'clock the royal brothers entered the Duke's automobile and were driven to Buckingham palace. Less than a dozen people saw the prince leaving. He was wrapped in a heavy anorak overcoat with the collar turned up about his ears.

Crowds As Usual

There was a crowd in front of Buckingham palace when the car swung through the gates, but no demonstration. The prince and the duke jumped out and ran through the portals where they were met by their mother.

The prince told his mother he was overjoyed at the good news from the bedside. He said he felt rested and refreshed after a good rest and was no longer fatigued from his journey across Europe.

The Duke of York had reached the palace at 11:30 o'clock. After remaining about half an hour he left for York house with his brother.

All England is thrilled by the details of the dramatic journey which the prince made from his African hunting camp. He traveled more than 6,000 miles if one includes his journey through the jungle to Dar-Es-Salaam and the detour he made in Egypt, after leaving the Enterprise temporarily.

Spectacular Trip

This long and spectacular trip by land and sea began in the Tanganyika jungle of East Africa on Nov. 28. The prince made his way to Dodoma where he took the little narrow gauge railway to Dar-Es-Salaam on the coast.

On Sunday, Dec. 2 he embarked upon the swift oil-burning cruiser Enterprise without waiting for his brother the Duke of Gloucester.

The Enterprise raced up the African coast at top speed making the first stop at Suaz, at the entrance to the Suez Canal, where the prince disembarked. He traveled by rail to Cairo and Port Said where he again boarded the warship. The Enterprise sped over the Mediterranean to Rindisi, Italy, where a special train was waiting to carry the prince across Italy, Switzerland and France to Boulogne.

tation, the president stressed the safety of air travel.

"In 1927," he observed, "the Imperial Airways Ltd. (of England) carried 52,000 passengers over 2,500,000 miles without injury to a single passenger. In 1842, eight English railways, carrying 10,503 passengers over 3,582,338 miles, killed 22 and injured 34 others."

The president placed the present-day value of commercial aviation in this country at more than $15,000,000.

"This conference, I know, will have far-reaching results in the advance of a science in industry which appeals both to the spirit and reason of man and which as the years go by will cement more and more firmly the bonds of international brotherhood," he said.

Mrs. Nichols was the minister. Mrs. Schoen the best man and Miss Elsie Daly the bridesmaid.

The decorations were appropriate to the Christmas season, red and green. A tree stood in the center of the living room loaded with packages for the bride. When opened they contained jokes and verses which she read to the amusement of the gathering. The real gifts were found in the concealed beneath the garments of the dummy bridegroom. Mrs. Jenn' Dowd gave an amusing recitation and the remainder of the time was occupied with games and a buffet lunch.

Miss Daly and Edward H. Von Deck will be married on Christmas eve at the home of the bridegroom's parents on Farm Drive.

The municipal budget in Philadelphia contains an item of $100,000 for a Bureau of Music. They have to have one in Philadelphia, so the occasionally police and city officials can face it.

At the inquest it was testified she had been quarreling with him for three days and in a climactic struggle for the knife he had been stabbed.

The maximum sentence in the event of a conviction for manslaughter is 20 years in prison.

The quarrel, according to the police, followed the return of Mrs. Kirkwood from a vacation when she claimed to have found traces of femininity by the Delaware river today at a spot between Columbia, N. J., and Stamford, Pa., for the remains of little Julia Mordziantska, third victim of the lust of Peter Kudzinowski. Searchers were unable to find the body there yesterday.

The child-slayer was to be taken to the scene where he said he threw the mutilated body of the 5-year-old Jersey City girl from a freight train, and also was to be taken to the spot near Lake Hopatcong, N. J., mentioned in his confession as the place where he lured the boy from a picnic and strangled and mistreated her.

Because of conflicting statements made by the defendant yesterday when he was taken to both places, police believe he may have buried her near the scene of the crime, and that his story of the journey on a freight car may be a myth. They pointed out that it would have been a physical impossibility for him to have thrown the bags containing the severed parts of the body and weights on a line from the train over a high trestle on the edge of the bridge eight feet distant.

When taken back over the scene of the crime, Kudzinowski retraced his actions with the utmost relief, detectives said. They were filled with revulsion at his elaborations on the crime.

"What I threw the body," I remember, I just missed hitting that sign," she slaver recounted when taken to the bridge.

MOVE TO SAVE SLAYER

Stanton, Mich., Dec. 12.—The first move to save Jimmie Deacons, 15-year-old slayer of his former school teacher, Flossie Carter, 27, from prison was made today.

Acting at the request of John Deacons, the boy's father, and Frank Miller, his attorney, Judge William Rasmussen announced he will appoint an "informal" commission to decide whether the 15-year-old boy was insane when he killed the school teacher.

The "informal" commission reports Deacons mentally unsound, a formal sanity commission will be named by Judge Rasmussen.

While the sanity question was being discussed, Chief Deputy Sheriff Frost was questioning Deacons further about changes he has made in his original confession.

RED CROSS HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION

G. S. Bohlin Again Named President—Chapter Has 2002 Members.

Manchester Chapter, American Red Cross, held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon at 5:15 at Watkins Brothers chapel on Park street. Reports were submitted by the chairman and heads of various departments and an executive committee and board of officers elected.

Chairman Samuel Bohlin reported that the sum of $2,842 had been sent for relief of the hurricane sufferers in Porto Rico this fall. He was also able to report a total of $2,550 secured from this year's roll-call under the chairmanship of Frank Ganey. This represents 2,002 one dollar member ships and some gifts. Appreciation was expressed for the splendid co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce in making the drive a success.

Miss Jessie Reynolds, reporting for the home service committee of the chapter, stated that 127 ex-service men and 432 civilian letters in connection with the work were written. 1,482 visits had been made, 24 Christmas bags were sent to U. S. troops on duty in foreign countries, 12 infant layettes had been prepared and forwarded to the American Red Cross headquarters for the relief of the suffering in making the drive a success.

The following were chosen as members of the executive committee: Mrs. H. O. Bowers, Miss Helen Chapman, Mrs. C. W. Holman, Mrs. M. J. Moriarty, Miss Jessie Reynolds, C. Elmore Watkins, F. A. Van Ness; treasurer, Lucius Pinney; secretary, Mrs. Howard Keith. Dr. D. C. Y. Moore was appointed on the tuberculosis committee; Dr. Robert Knapp, first aid; Mrs. C. W. Holman, child welfare.

GUARDING HOOVER AGAINST RED PLOT

ist chiefs have been under surveillance by government agents. There were a dozen secret service agents on the special train when it left for Mendoza to pick up the Hoover party. In addition there will be a United States Secret Service agent, who has accompanied Mr. Hoover since he left San Pedro, Calif., on Nov. 19.

Hoover Special

The "Hoover Special" consists of three private cars, two dining cars and one lounge car and a special coach for the baggage.

United States Ambassador Robert W. Bliss and a high official of the Argentine foreign office traveled to Mendoza on the train to greet Mr. Hoover when he crossed the frontier from Chile.

General Vaccarezza, of the Argentine army was appointed honorary aide to the president-elect while the party to Mendoza on the special.

Special guards will be on duty at the railway station here and at the United States Embassy. Secret Service agents will mingle with the crowds at the station and in the streets when the president-elect is driven to the American Embassy.

DETAILS OF PLOT

London, Dec. 12.—Determined to make President-elect Hoover's stay in Argentina a pleasant one and wishing to guarantee him the greatest possible safety, President Irogover has made public the details of a plot against Mr. Hoover life discovered by the Buenos Aires police, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Argentine capital stated today.

The Argentinian president issued a statement in which he said he had ordered the police to intensify their observation of all known Anarchists following a raid during which two bombs, four hand grenades, several revolvers and much ammunition was found.

The raid was made upon a house known to have been inhabited by dangerous Anarchists. A detailed map of a railway system was also found, together with a quantity of counterfeit money, the police reported.

According to the Exchange Telegraph report, the railway map was to have been utilized by the Ingrown toe-nails are mean things to have. If you don't believe it, ask George H. Williams, local business man.

The "Before-Breakfast" gym class at the Rec was scheduled for a hike to Highland Park and back today but George, only charter member of the class, was unable to be present.

Other members must have heard of the sore-toe ailment and thought it as good as any. Helge Pearson and Evan Nguist were the only members who showed up. The hike was postponed until the toe-nail epidemic subsides.

THINGS ARE PRETTY GOOD ON BOWERY THIS YEAR

old men, but fewer of them. Attracted by a sign in front of the Salvation Army's hotel reading: "Don't commit suicide! If you are a victim of rum, or drugs, or have been trimmed by scheming sharks, come in and talk it over." He paid the piece a visit. About 200 men were shuffling about. In the gospel hall we found Lieut. Col. Wallace Winchell, the superintendent, reading the Good Book to a small but attentive audience.

Not What It Used to Be.

"The Bowery isn't what it used to be—it isn't the problem it once was," said Col. Winchell later. "I've been here off and on for 40 years. It isn't anything like it was in 1891 when it was described as 'New York's Inferno.' Then it was full of wide-open saloons and ribald places. It had a wild sort of glamour that attracted certain men. That glamour is gone.

At present the men who come here as winter approaches are of a different type. Most of them have lost their jobs on railroads, in the mill towns or on farms. Some come with no money but get to drinking spate and are 'rolled' for every cent they have. There is an organized racket of 'rolling' drunks. Hoodlums treat these men, slung them and believe them of their money. The victims become wards on our hands.

"I think the situation is quite normal now, as far as jobless men on the Bowery are concerned. But I do fear it will get worse and I am sure we will have bread lines in January or February. When real winter sets in there always is a big migration to New York, Chicago and other big cities that have reputation for taking care of needy men. We are ready for them on the Bowery."

The colonel cast a benevolent eye over his motley, poorly-dressed congregation. "He loves this business."

FINANCIER DIES

Fairfield, Conn., Dec. 12.—The death here today of Herbert Meriton Knapp, 75, head of the Bridgeport Title Guaranty & Trust Co., recalled a great sea mystery. Knapp's father, Captain Rufus Knapp, was owner and master of the world's greatest sailing vessel, the Leviathan, which sailed for Liverpool in 1853 with a large passenger list, and was never heard from again.

Herbert M. Knapp lived in Fairfield all his life and was a banker from the age of sixteen years. He was once a teller in the Pequot National Bank here and afterward a member of the banking firm of Burr and Knapp.

CONGRESS TO ACT ON THE DOPE EVIL

that it would be Congressional. It is believed that Congress may be asked to investigate international drug smuggling activities and present a formal record to the world of violations by European nations.

Porter pointed out that Secretary of State Kellogg had instructed American diplomatic representatives to induce foreign countries to carry out the Hague opium convention, which pledged them to limit manufacture of narcotics to medicinal needs.

All European nations were urged to enact law to carry out the agreement.

Treaty Violated

"It is perfectly obvious to everyone that they have violated this treaty by failing to enforce its provisions, with the result that dopings exist throughout the world," Porter said.

He named "one or more" of five European countries as the chief violators and asserted that in some European nations "dope" is sold by factories with the same freedom that food is sold.

The house having already passed the Treasury Department appropriation bill carrying $1,411,260 for narcotics law enforcement without change, Rep. Fish urged that the Senate increase the figure $200,000. Rep. Black sought to remedy a condition brought about by the recent wet and dry fight in the House when authority for use of a revolving fund was stricken out on a point of order that it was general legislation.

LOST ATLANTIS IN NORTH SEAS IS NEW THEORY

Berlin.—A new solution of the mystery of Atlantis, the fabled island of a glorious civilization that became a victim of the sea, is advanced by an anonymous writer in the Neue Berliner Zeitung.

According to his theory, Atlantis was part of the British Isles and the Scilly Islands are the last remnants of it.

The name Scilly, this writer declares, comes from the old Gaelic caolthead, which means division, and which finds its counterpart in the Scandinavian skilja and the German scheiden and thelten, meaning divide.

The name Atlantis, according to this author, is obviously of Gaelic origin and comes from Atland, meaning Waterland or fatherland.

Also, since the same Atlantis contains the Scandinavian word At, meaning field or plain, instead of the equivalent of Gaelic word tann, the writer deduces that Atlantis was populated by Scandinavian, that is Germanic tribes.

Backing Up Arguments
Finally, the very fact that the Atlantic ocean took its name from Atlantis is proof positive to the writer that Atlantis was washed by the waters of the Atlantic, and not by those of the Mediterranean, as some recent researchers have suggested.

He backs up his philological deductions by certain references of the Greek philosopher Plato, which also indicate that Atlantis was located in northern Europe. But more particularly he uses as authority the so-called "Original Bible of the Indo-Germanic races" which formerly was supposed to be spurious, but which this writer declares to be genuine.

This chronicle contains the following entry:
"In the fourteenth year of the reign of Ardean (an Iberian king who ruled from 1045 to 1030 B. C.) the waters of the mighty sea flooded the further end of Breotian and broke a way for themselves through and through. And many islands, torn from the land, remained amidst the waters. And alas! Many were those who perished in the floods."

This, the writer concludes, can only refer to the destruction of Atlantis, and this chronicle even gives the exact date, namely 1030 B. C. Scientists are agreed that Atlantis went down sometime between 1000 and 1300 B. C. The confusion which exists regarding Atlantis the writer attributes to the Phoenicians who were then the only seamen in the world and who today are known to have sailed all around Europe, and to have maintained a brisk trade with the Baltic tribes from whom they bought the precious amber.

Blame Phoenicians
These Phoenician sailors, says the writer, not only indulged in the mariner's joy of spinning yarns, but were also wily enough to keep the source of their amber secret and to paint the danger of getting it in the much lurid colors. That is why they were able to pass off on the credulous Greeks the tall tales of the pillars of Hercules beyond which nobody dared venture, and thereby kept the ideas of the ancients regarding the size and shape of the world confined in the main to the Mediterranean.

KIDDIES TO SEE "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

Special Children's Matinee at State Tomorrow Afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:15, the children of Manchester are to see the unusual opportunity of seeing "Uncle Tom's Cabin," that stupendous film spectacle, which is now enjoying the distinction of being one of the greatest pictures ever produced.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is being presented at the State Theater tomorrow and Friday. It is, as nearly everyone knows, an adaptation of the world-famous story written by Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The story itself is laid amidst the colorful background of the South during the Civil War period. Realizing the educational value of the picture, the management of the State immediately decided to give the local kiddies a chance to see it.

MUSIC SCHOLARSHIPS ANNOUNCED BY KEMP

Free Courses of Instruction on Viola and Violoncello Are Offered at Music House.

Announcement has been made through Kemp's Music House of free music scholarships on viola and violoncello. These important members of the violin family are frequently heard in ensemble and solo with piano accompaniment. Both are necessary in orchestral works.

The viola is slightly larger than the violin. The same technique is employed on both instruments. Its music is written in the viola clef, and the range is one fifth lower than the violin. Because the spacing of the tonal intervals is slightly wider than on the violin the study of this instrument is a great aid toward strengthening the left hand and many great violinists find a small amount of time spent with the viola equal to serious and prolonged practice on the violin, and with far less physical fatigue.

The 'cello has a very noble character in its voice, the tone being soulful and inspiring. Artists delight their listeners with brilliant performance in the upper register and as quickly startle them with an arresting depth and power of tone on its lower strings that penetrate the coolest personality. While the method of tone production in principle is related, 'cello technique is quite different from that of the viola and violin. Its music is found in three clefs, bass, tenor and treble. The advantage of piano study in considering this instrument is the ability to read both bass and treble clefs without difficulty. It would be possible for a student of the violin to select this instrument provided sufficient ability to progress could be demonstrated in connection with knowledge of the violin.

Manchester has a great many students of musical instruments but it is doubtful if there are at present, any students of either the viola or 'cello. Both are greatly needed in school, church, community and professional orchestras. And too, the possibilities of classic trio and string quartette work are wonderfully attractive to parents who wish their children to study music but not to have them consider it as a career. To these, opportunity is presented to study Chamber Music of the Masters, composed in great part to delight the Royal Courts of Europe. Because of the scarcity of professional viola players, many violinists avail themselves of the opportunity to enter concert and full symphony orchestras in the viola section and many times remain there because of an attachment for their instrument affected by its peculiarities of tonal beauty rather than move into the violin sections where vacancies develop.

Four free scholarships will be given on each instrument, for a period of one year. The only expense will be for the text books and instruments which may be purchased through Kemp's Music House on a very liberal extended payment plan. The instruments are to be the property of the students, and the cost does not include in any part any teaching expense whatsoever. W. B. Joyner, director of the Community Orchestra, will be the instructor of viola and 'cello. The courses are available to pupils of eighth grade or first year High School. Applicants for scholarships will be required to have at least two years previous study of the viola to take up the viola, and at least two years of piano, to study the 'cello. After reasonable progress has been made, pupils will be given ensemble training with the Community Orchestra and should be able to enter school and church orchestras playing music especially adapted to these purposes. This very liberal offer gives parents an opportunity to buy a musical instrument of high quality on an extended payment plan of no greater financial burden than the cost of the lessons would be if they were being paid for, and under this plan they would have no expense for lessons during the term of payment for the instrument. In making this offer available to school children of the grades mentioned, it has been felt that by proper selection of serious minded applicants the addition of these instruments to school and other young orchestras after satisfactory progress has been made, is bound to give support to other players which they previously have not realized and will also strengthen the further progress of music in Manchester. Additional information can be secured from Mr. Kemp of Kemp's Music House.

A Doctor Talks About Cascara

It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?
The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels, of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons:

First of all, there is no HABIT formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened, but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grow less and less. Its influence is long-lasting. You don't find yourself worse bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy Cascaret that every drug store always has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

Three other noon hunters, Keiberg and Alec White, and Norman Warner, all of Gilead were invited guests. At the next meeting, Dec. 19, the third and fourth degrees will be conferred. Mrs. Willfred Field was to have taken the degree work but was ill and unable to be present. Thirteen members of Columbia Grange went to East Hartford Grange Friday evening, to observe Neighbor's Night. Columbia's part of the program consisted of a tableau, "Two Little Girls in Blue," by Harrie Field and Gladys Rice; a reading of one of Kipling's poems by Clayton Hunt, and a soprano solo by Mrs. Edith Isham. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lyman of Hartford spent the week-end with relatives in town. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lyman of Plainville spent the week-end at the home of Mr. James Utley. A flowering quince bush belonging to Raymond Clarke, seems to have made a slight mistake in the season, as one branch has several clusters of pink buds almost at the opening point. In fact had it not been for the abrupt drop in temperature a few days ago it would have been in blossom by now. At present the buds are encased in ice. The Ladies Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Hunt Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Fred Hunt and Mrs. Clayton Hunt will be the hostesses. The rehearsals for the Christmas cantata are under way, two having already been held. The next one will be next Tuesday evening. SENATORS DISPUTE OVER THE MARINES Norris Wants Them Taken Out of Nicaragua—Bingham Opposes Him.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The administration's hint that American marines will be retained in Nicaragua at least until after March 4, when President-Elect Hoover takes office—drew sharp criticism in the Senate today from the groups that have fought to withdraw the troops. Senator George W. Norris (R) of Nebraska, insurgent leader, intimated that the administration had deceived the Senate last spring when that body was informed the marines would be held in the Pan-American republic until after the election, held early this month. He demanded that the troops be withdrawn at once. Bingham in Favor Senator Hiram Bingham (R) of Connecticut, who defended the administration's policy toward Nicaragua in the debates last spring, endorsed the continued occupation. He declared the marines were there by invitation of the Liberal president of Nicaragua and that they should be kept there as long as the existing government desired them. American officers to train the armies of the little nations on this continent. The Nicaraguan muddle probably will be aired once more when the Senate considers the regular naval appropriation bill. This measure will contain appropriations to cover the salaries and expenses of the marines used in Nicaragua and opponents of the occupation can then make a direct fight for their withdrawal.

Identification Bureau Suggested By Council

This is the fourth in a series of articles prepared by the Judicial Council on proposed court reforms.

Scientific authority records that finger prints are reliable as a means of identification of the criminal. Finger prints used as a manual seal are found in the Assyrian clay tablets in the British Museum and these are believed to be the first recorded finger prints used for this purpose to give authenticity to documents.

The taking of finger prints is a simple process. A thin layer of ink is spread upon the tips of the fingers which are then placed upon a sheet of paper, making an impression of the pattern of ridges and furrows of the skin, composed of a multitude of lines or ridges, which, it has been ascertained by experience, are not alike in any two hands.

Miss Laura K. Kingsbury of Connecticut Agricultural College spent the week-end at home here. About thirty young people from the surrounding towns of Gilead, Somers, Rockville, Vernon and Coventry attended a party given by Miss Cora Kingsbury in honor of her sixteenth birthday.

Mrs. Alphonsine Brault, widow of Alexander Brault, a resident here for several years, was married recently to Henry Miller of New York.

Charles Flynn of Baltimore and Thomas Mulligan of Providence were tried by Justice John C. Vergason, Friday afternoon charged with breaking and entering, theft from the building and theft of an automobile. They were bound over to the March term of the Superior Court. Bonds set at $2,500 each were not furnished. Mrs. Roy B. Pettengill, on learning from her son that the door of a nearby cottage, owned by her aunt, Mrs. Cora Reardon, of New York, was open, immediately went to the house and found Flynn and Mulligan in one of the rooms. She ordered the man to her home and then notified the State Police force, was sent to arrest them.

BOLIVIA-PARAGUAY

The row between Bolivia and Paraguay, which threatens to produce war at the very inopportune moment of Herbert Hoover's good-will visit to South America, is over a tract of land, about a hundred miles wide and a couple of hundred miles long, lying on the disputed boundary to the northwest of Paraguay and the southeast of Bolivia.

The territory under dispute is remote from commercial communication with the rest of the world, though potentially probably valuable for rubber, yerba mate or Paraguayan tea, which grows wild and has come to be a staple in Europe, and other forest products.

It is a serious mistake to imagine that a war between Bolivia and Paraguay would be a burlesque affair. Both these countries have been bathed in blood over and over again in the past—Paraguay having been, in fact, engaged in the most devastating war, so far as results are concerned, known to modern times.

Each country has a small skeleton standing army, three or four or five thousand men, but each also has a considerable proportion of reservists, more or less trained, and a professional military class educated in modern methods of warfare.

The outbreak of a real war between the two nations could hardly fall to be followed by a long, bloody and disastrous struggle, which it is greatly to be hoped the hemisphere will not be called on to witness.

BUSY PRESIDENTS

President Coolidge having, in his article contributed to the great anniversary edition of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, called the attention of the country anew to the onerous character of a President's job, the subject has automatically come under general discussion, with numerous authorities pointing out that most of the difficulty and harassment of the position comes from the accessibility of the President to the public.

It would seem that sooner or later this sort of tradition must be defied. Why should the head of the United States government enjoy less privacy than the head of the United States Steel corporation or Henry Ford? Yet if the thousands of persons who insist on doing business personally with the Presdent of the United States were to try to get personal audiences with these functionaries not one in a hundred would get past the third assistant office boy.

It would not be in the least surprising if Mr. Hoover, who has a peculiarly strong liking for working in solitude and for making his own appointments instead of having appointments made with him, would prove to be the first President to set precedent at naught and rule that the President's office must be filled by a full time worker instead of by a part time handshaker.

America could very soon adjust itself to the perfectly rational idea that the President is entitled to as much freedom from contact with the public as he finds it necessary to demand. That he should be on show at all isn't a necessary condition of government.

THE HOOVER PLOT

Argentina, needing population for the development of its undoubtedly great resources, has been receiving for the last two decades an influx of immigrants somewhat comparable to that which flowed unrestricted into this country until the belated adoption of the present immigration laws. The plot to assassinate Herbert Hoover, if indeed it existed in any such definite form as the dispatches from Buenos Aires indicate, is one of the fruits of that sort of unrestricted immigration.

It would be ungracious and unmannerly to intimate that the plot to bomb Mr. Hoover's train may quite possibly have been less near to fulfillment than indicated in the statement of President Irigoyen, and Americans should feel nothing but gratitude to the Argentinian authorities, who anticipated and took competent steps to prevent any such outrageous proceeding. But it is permissible to trust that in no event would there actually have been an attack on the American messenger of good will. It is characteristic of reds that not one in a hundred of the bombs they start to make is ever exploded and not one in fifty of their dark plots is ever put into effect.

We doubt very much whether Mr. Hoover, who has been in many strange places and faced numerous real dangers, is worrying much over the Buenos Aires plot against his life. But it does give the Argentinian government a chance to make an effective gesture. The size of the body guard assigned to watch over the safety of the American President-elect is imposing. Americans will accept its excellent intentions at their face value and with gratitude.

REAL LIFE DRAMA

The movies would do well to take over the plot of the career of Alton W. Reynolds, if only for the purpose of proving that the conventional fabric of the "hokum" drama has its counterpart in the warp and weft of real life.

Son of parents whose fortune came from tobacco, but of a mother whose social aspirations were limitless, Alton Reynolds was sent to an exclusive school and sedulously groomed for a "great gentleman's" position—if there be such a thing. He fell in love, while still a "prep" student, with the daughter of a railroad worker in East Norwalk, this state.

Last Saturday Reynolds, with the boy, now 14, and with a relative of his wife, went duck hunting. Their boat was upset. The father made a heroic effort to save the lad—and succeeded. But he was drowned in two feet of water when he fell in utter exhaustion. So was the other man drowned.

To the little East Norwalk cottage of the young widow came hurrying the grief-stricken, remorseful mother, now owner of a title. Let the movie producer supply the details of the remainder of the tragedy. And if he would point the tale to the full, let him somehow make it clear that if there was one single thing that, in the life of Alton Reynolds, he had no need of it was the countenance and backing and boosting that his mother had expected to give—and then withheld—a futile punishment indeed. He must have been a man, this young electrician. He was a man when he gave up his chance of riches to marry for love. He was a man when he died that his boy might live. His widow will have noble, beautiful memories to console her. But what will the mother have?

FLU

With the Department of Public Health contributing to the joy of the holiday season by promising us cases of flu in our Christmas stockings, the worst of it is that there is no way of taking such a present back to the store and exchanging it for something we would like better. Such being the case, the best thing to do about the threatened epidemic is to forget it—until we begin to sniffle and develop small aches in our bones. Then go to bed.

Flu epidemics get all their real victims from among those who are too busy or too belligerent to quit their jobs or their fun for a couple of days. The graveyards contain many thousands of people whose idea of licking the flu was to "work it off."

IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 12.—Only a few of the quaint old herbalist drug stores survive in New York.

Just the other day wreckers, making way for the new subway, laid one low in lower Sixth avenue. Here, but a few months ago one could have found two venerable chemists toying the day at diminutive scales, weighing quarter ounces of spices and soothing roots. All efforts to get them to introduce the modern-day patent devices had failed. They were among Manhattan's most picturesque figures, going about in well-worn skull caps and getting their trade from the oldsters of another generation.

One still remains down in the Bowery belt, just around the corner from Chinatown. Here in a little glass window jar can be seen the only leeches on public exhibition in New York, so far as I know. All about have sprung up the soda water and lunch counter drug stores which now over-run the city and draw a tremendous trade. But only death or the wrecker brings change to the old chemists' shops.

Just before the stock market "went crazy" a few weeks ago, an elderly man put on his hat and coat, shook any number of traders by the hand and departed by train for his little estate in Connecticut. Therewith ended the patient career of Richard L. Stamford. Those newly-rich speculators of the past flurry may not have known of his presence in the Exchange, yet for more than a quarter of a century Stamford had been the official starter and finisher of the day's trading. It is the ringing of a gong that begins the trading and ends it. Stamford has been the man who came to symbolize the waking hours of the Stock Exchange.

During the rush hours he took care of the reporters who dashed around after figures and information concerning the rise and fall of prices and the extent of the selling. For it was a reporter that he first came into the Exchange. He was then the one man engaged in sending prices and sales over the ticker. Today it requires a hundred to attend to that task.

And although he was in a position to "listen in" on tens of thousands of tips and to hear of impending deals, he never indulged in speculation. Wherefore he owns his own home today.

Gotham Glimpses: Thomas Melghan, seeming much older and more dignified than ever, entering the Mayfair Club. . . . Lady Heath, the titled flyer, starting for the flying field. . . . Beverly Nichols, the very boyish young Britisher who edits the latest of "smart" magazines, "The American Sketch." . . . And it's one which, judging from the first issues, will soon be a thing of the past. . . . Nichols calls it "an esthetic revolt against vulgarity." . . . But it's really much better than that and far less serious than the slogan sounds. . . . And he takes himself far less seriously than advance accounts indicated. . . . "Theater 1929." . . . Issued by those young revolvers against the Broadway theater who call themselves "The New Playwrights."

Eminent authors cutting capers at the annual benefit of the Authors' League of America. . . . There I saw Wallace Irwin in blackface. . . . Also Jesse Lasky, the movie magnate; Arthur Train, Ellis Parker Butler and Owen Davis. . . . George Dorsey, who told the world why it behaves as it does, didn't behave so well himself in a very merry sketch. . . . George Creel is president of the league, which includes most of America's leading writing folk.

WASHINGTON LETTER. Washington, Dec. 12.—The attorney-general of the United States is in the unenviable position of a man who has finally succeeded in solving a tough problem only to have it go all to pieces on him and present itself in an entirely new way.

To begin with, as the report points out, it is possible to estimate the amount of liquor smuggled in from Canada a little more accurately than that which comes in from other places, because much of the Canadian liquor passes through the Canadian customs, and official record is made of it.

During these years there has been a steady diminution in the number of ships seized for importing contraband liquor. The total for the fiscal year 1928 was 370—a reduction from 516 in 1925.

LICENSES SUSPENDED. A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the State Motor Vehicle Department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace.

FEW SKYSCRAPERS IN AMERICAN CITIES, IS REPORT OF ARCHITECT. Chicago—America is not a land of skyscrapers, despite the popular belief to that effect, according to a study which has been made for Walter W. Ahlschlager, Chicago architect, who has designed the seventy-five story Chicago Apparel Mart, which when completed will be the tallest and largest building in the world.

MASTERLY EPIC IS
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

Old South Transported to State Screen Tomorrow and Friday.

The old South that was, with its courtly gallants and charming belles, is literally transported to the screen in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the stupendous Universal masterpiece extraordinary, which opens at the State Theater tomorrow for a special two day showing.

One could almost inhale the sweet scent of magnolias and hear the soft voices of the darlings at the close of a long, foot-on-picking day. The one word to describe this masterly picture is "epic." Certainly no other photoplay since the beginning of the industry has achieved the response, both as to emotions and risibilities as has this one.

Of drama there is a pleatitudes. The roles of Margarita Fische as Eliza, George Seigmann as Simon Legree, James Love as Uncle Tom, Mona Ray as Topsy, Virginia Grey as little Eva, and the other experienced players are portrayed with an amazing realism and fidelity to the characters of the story.

The comedy touches which are painted in with deft strokes of a masterly brush, are capably handled by Lucien Littlefield, Aileen Manning, and Nelson McDowell.

The big scenes are splendidly done. The death of little Eva, Eliza crossing the ice, the classical handling of the auction and river scenes, the marvelous reproductions of Southern life as exemplified in the Shelby, St. Clare and Legree plantations are all beyond reproach. Harry Pollard directed this gigantic film.

POLICE COURT

Because of a row that took place at John Bronkie's garage on Hartford road last Saturday Bronkie was in the Manchester police court this morning on the charge of assault and breach of the peace. Bronkie struck Wilbur T. Little and he had him arrested. The assault charge was nolleed by the prosecutor and Bronkie pleaded guilty to breach of the peace and paid a fine of $10 and costs. He was represented in court by Attorney William S. Hyde.

The case of Salvatore DePumpo, charged with having in his possession a gambling device, which has been postponed from different times and was to have come before the court on Monday and again today, will not be heard until Saturday. Each time an adjournment has been taken it has been at the request of the attorney for DePumpo, who is an out of town lawyer.

The driver applied his brakes to stop and in the process Mr. Reed fell and was injured. The car skidded and Mr. Reed tried to get out of the way but was hit by the running board of the car which stopped headed west with Mr. Reed partly under the car. REV. LEGG NOT RETIRED;
HAS SPECIAL POSITION

It was inadvertently stated in Monday's Herald that Rev. Ernest A. Legg, who recently moved from Windsor to 15 Delmont street this town, was a retired minister of the New England Southern Conference. This is an error.

At the conference held last spring in Fall River he requested a special appointment and this was approved by the conference. So as an effective member of the conference he is assistant Educational Director of the Connecticut Humane Society in Hartford. Since spring he has on Sundays been supplying the pulpit at Winoserville up to Nov. 14, when illness necessitated his being confined at home. He has not relinquished his pastorate. His health is improving, and he hopes soon to resume his duties.

Roughly speaking, 400,000,000 people speak Chinese in its various dialects.

Each, as called, stepped on the stage and gave a short convincing talk on conditions in the country represented, comparing it with present conditions in America.

During the service a collection was taken up and pledges to support the school were given. The members of the Students

There are indications that the meeting of the Manchester Improvement Club which will be held this evening in the fire house at Main and Hilliard street will be well attended. L. N. The meeting tonight is the last of the year under the present board of officers and officers will be elected in January.

86 P. C. Of Muscle Shoals Power Said To Be Wasted

Above is a view of Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Ala., where 87 per cent of its available and installed power capacity has been permitted to go to waste this year because of the lack of a buyer. Below are part of the eight 30,000 horse power generators, 57 feet below the water line, only three of which are being used and these only part time. In the diagram at the right, the figure of the man gives an idea of the size of one of the big turbine generators, the moving parts of which weigh 320 tons and whirl at a speed of 100 revolutions per minute.

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer

Muscle Shoals, Ala. — Through the roaring sluice gates of the government's gigantic Wilson dam here, built with the Liberty Bond money of the American people, a fortune is flowing to waste today. Fifty million dollars were spent, thousands of men toiled like beavers and years were consumed in building this great hydroelectric plant on the Tennessee river. Completed three years ago, it is one of the largest, finest and most costly in the world.

A solid wall of concrete as high as a 10-story office building and nearly a mile long, it holds back an artificial lake 17 miles in length. Buried deep in its recesses are eight 30,000 horsepower turbine generators which could supply an area for many miles around with current for homes, farms, factories, street cars and lights.

And yet today 87 per cent of the power that Wilson dam is equipped to produce is going to waste in the form of water that flows unharnessed past the dam.

A bare 13 per cent of the available production is being bought by the Alabama Power Company, the sole purchaser, which holds a contract with the government. With this exception, the Tennessee river—despite the fifty millions that have been spent and the thousands of men who have toiled—flows as unharnessed to the sea today as it did when the Cherokee Indians pitched their wigwags on its banks and gazed upon its turbulent waters.

Turbines Are Idle

A battery of eight mighty turbine generators, each unit of which cost the government nearly $750,000, stands practically idle. Only three of these units are being used and these only part time; on some days they are not used at all.

The Alabama Power Company, owning the only transmission lines out of Muscle Shoals, purchases only as much power as it needs to bolster up its own lines. Some days it takes more, some days less, some days none at all.

Daily figures for November show that present purchases are averaging only about five per cent of the plant's capacity, 95 per cent going to waste.

Total figures for the first 10 months of 1928 show an average of 13 per cent used and 87 per cent wasted. Under its contract the Alabama Power Company pays the government .002115 cents for about two mills, for the power it takes, and at this rate, since Jan. 1 it has paid the government the sum of $410,915.38—while the government has lost a potential income of $2,761,000.

It is difficult for the layman to visualize the enormous size of Wilson dam, where the government's $50,000,000 investment is now producing gross revenues of less than a half million dollars a year.

as big around as a barrel. Every second three thousand cubic feet of water rushes through the water wheels.

The other four turbine generators are of 35,000 horsepower each and have whirling parts that weigh 320 tons.

Although only three of the units are being used part time at present, government engineers say there is sufficient water to operate all eight units at full capacity 80 per cent of the time.

Meanwhile, Congress is unable to decide what shall be done with Muscle Shoals except for the temporary contract, renewable every 30 days, by which the Alabama Power Company buys as much or as little—as it chooses to feed into its own transmission lines.

City Can't Buy Power

Meanwhile, the enterprising little city of Muscle Shoals, Ala., is trying to buy power at the same rate paid by the Alabama Power Company—about one-tenth of a cent per kilowatt hour—but has been refused on the claim that the government could not economically sell on a small scale.

Meanwhile, under the 30-day contract arrangement, nobody is willing to invest in expensive transmission lines to Muscle Shoals; also, the franchises in nearby cities are already held by the Alabama Power Company or companies affiliated with it.

Meanwhile, the cities of Florence, Tusculum and Sheffield—which girdle Muscle Shoals—are using power obtained from the Alabama Power Company. For this, the average householder pays as high as 10 cents per kilowatt hour.

Meanwhile, the government's great $75,000,000 nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals, which Wilson dam was built to operate, stand silent and deserted except for caretakers and watchmen.

MEMBERSHIP OF RECS HIGHEST IN 5 YEARS

Announcement was made today by Director Lewis Lloyd that the membership of the Recreation Centers has increased to a point where it exceeds any mark reached within the last five years.

There are 678 persons enrolled compared to 664 which was the highest point reached last year, that coming in December. Women still lead in the enrollment race with 357 against 221 men.

Latitude is said to have been first determined by Hipparchus of Nice, about 162 B. C.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

LONDON TO HEAR SHAW LECTURES ON CIVILIZATION

London.—Although he avowedly declared that his latest book was his "Last Will and Testament to Humanity," George Bernard Shaw has consented to try and enlighten the world on something besides Socialism.

He has promised to give a series of lectures in London this winter on "The Future of Western Civilization." Whether by that time "inequality of income" will have been solved by the "Intelligent Woman," Mr. Shaw, is unable to say, for he doubts if there even will be a future.

In Noah's Time

"My difficulty," he says in discussing the nature of his subject, "will lie in the fact that, as Western Civilization has neither a present nor a past, there is no reason to believe that it will have a future."

"There was no Western civilization about Noah or Abraham; yet

In any countryside in western Europe today these patriarchs would stand out as very advance spirits.

"In Dayton, Job would be imprisoned for carrying modern thought to dangerous and blasphemous excesses."

"Our urban masses would let Job alone, because they could not be induced to take any interest in him; they would neither know nor care whether his ideas were modern or not."

Speaking of civilization as it is today, Mr. Shaw said: "To find a civilized country we must turn to the bees and the ants; and even there we have no reason every ant understands the whole business of the hive and the ant-hill, instead of merely doing what some designing bee or ant orders."

JOHN WHYTE IS CHOSEN AS PRINCETON CAPTAIN

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 12.—John Reed Whyte, of Princeton, N. J., has been elected to captain the Princeton varsity football team next season. The election of Whyte, who plays tackle, was in accordance with the tradition that has sprung up in Princeton since the war that a junior linesman be named the captain.

DARTMOUTH SIGNED

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 12.—Gwynn Wilson, athletic manager of Southern California, today is reported to have signed up Dartmouth for a game in Los Angeles in 1930. The Hanover college, it is understood, did not ask for a return game.

California and Notre Dame plan to sign a five year agreement, when their present contract expires next year. Carnegie Tech announces that it has definitely signed to play the Trojans on December 14.

The streams and lakes of Florida occupy approximately two million acres or approximately one-fifteenth of the state's area.

PARIS NO PLACE FOR HONEST GIRL IS WRITER'S VIEW

Paris—Paris is no place for an honest woman. This is the opinion of a certain Parisienne writing in "La Rumeur."

"It is becoming absolutely impossible for a Parisian woman, none too young and none too beautiful, to walk alone in Paris without being followed, approached and even accosted by one of the many 'women-chasers' who seem to be more numerous than ever."

"For example, one fine day, I decided to go shopping. No more than twenty feet away from my house, the trouble begins. A man in khaki raincoat is at my heels. He passes me, walks back to meet me and then walks on again."

"I keep on walking, faster and faster. If I stop to look at a shop-window, he stops as well, and professes an invitation. Finally, I lose him crossing the crowded place de Chely, only to meet with another 'chasseur' who tries to persuade me to accompany him in automobile."

"If I go into a cafe I am most likely to be bothered by still another, or I am told that women are not served. For many of the establishments are beginning to consider the woman alone as public property."

Monsieur C. Latre, answering the protest, declares that the women themselves are to blame, or rather their short skirts and daring dress. "Few men," he writes, "will follow a woman unless her eyes are saying, 'Perhaps.'"

In spite of Britain's international reputation as a tea-drinking country, it was really the French who introduced the popular five o'clock beverage into their English cousins, according to Jean Le Coq, writing in "Minerva."

The oldest mention of the use of tea is to be found in Pepys' Diary, says the "Frenchman," in the lines: "It is the twenty-eighth of September, 1660, and I have just drunk my first cup of tea."

Four years before this period, Paris had already become familiar with the benefits of the drink. Doctor Vauthier had written how Mazarin, suffering from gout, wanted to try out a tissue infusion which a Dutch merchant had introduced from Holland. This was in 1656.

It cured Mazarin's gout and proved to be a marvel for French women's headaches and all sorts of ill, nervous and rheumatic of nature. It needed no more than Mazarin's approval to make tea the most popular cure for all ills imaginable.

French doctors immediately endorsed the new drink, but unfortunately only their richer patients could take it, for tea at this moment, was exceedingly rare and expensive. Louis XIV, always a gourmand, adopted its use when all else failed to facilitate his digestion.

For a long time, tea remained in France as well as in England, the ambrosia of the rich. In the seventeenth century, the divine Marquise de Sevigne writes that "it is very fashionable to take a cup of tea with the Carmelites in the rue Boulevarde."

It was Sister Louise de la Misericorde who created the mode of the Salon de The. Cille women of the day went there after hearing mass at Notre Dame.

Madame de Sevigne also writes that it was Madame de la Sabliere, the delightful mistress of la Fontaine, of Fabie fame, who first had the idea to put a drop of milk into her tea.

By the beginning of the eighteenth century, tea was indispensable at every smart reunion of poets, musicians or society matrons just as it is in Paris today, only it was served at three o'clock instead of five.

La Diffa, racing mare, never won an important purse for her proprietor on the turf but as a dead horse she brought home the money.

Entrusted to a Chantilly trainer by Senor Jimeno Perez, Argentinian, La Diffa leaped against a pitchfork in her box. A bullet in the head put her out of misery.

The trainer had a signed agreement with Senor Perez protecting him in event of accident to the horse but the court found that this included only mishaps on the track, during training or a race.

Senor Perez was awarded $600.

A wood substitute, containing sawdust mixed with chalk and chemicals is said to be combustible only at high temperature.

ILLINOIS BUILDS $20,000,000 IN NEW ROADWAYS

Chicago, Ill.—Illinois received $9,280,164.08, or more than any other state, from the federal air road fund for highways under construction as of July 31, 1928, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club.

"That sum is being applied to 622.9 miles of highways now being built at a cost of $20,188,584.26. The balance of the expense will be defrayed by state funds. New York received $7,489,393.95, the second highest grant from the federal government. That state has 483.6 miles of highways under construction. The cost will be $41,915,000.

"From the standpoint of federal aid received for roads approved as of July 31 for construction, Illinois is second. Texas leads. That state received $2,842,089.38 for 387.9 miles of proposed roads at a total cost of $6,730,764.34. Illinois received $1,826,433.15 for 128.1 miles of projected highways, for which the estimated expenditure is $2,665,454.99.

"Motorists of the nation have a credit balance of $500,000,000 with the federal government, which constitutes one of the most convincing arguments for continuation of the federal aid policy," Mr. Hayes continued. "This sum represents the balance of money paid into the treasury in the form of the war excise tax as against the amount expended by the government for federal aid. From 1918 up until the recent repeal of the automobile war tax, motorists as a class have paid the government in excise taxes on automobiles and parts a total of approximately $1,100,000,000.

Since the beginning of federal aid, the government expended over $600,000,000 as its share for the construction of highway projects.

Government Aids
"This means that the government has spent just a little more than fifty per cent of the amount of motor vehicle revenue paid by the motorists as a class to the treasury department. At this rate the government still 'owes' the motorist approximately $500,000,000. With this balance sheet, there should be no question as to the continuation of the federal air policy, perhaps even on an expanded scale," Mr. Hayes continued.

"The war excise tax on motor cars was repealed at the last session of congress, largely through the organized efforts of the American Automobile Association and its 1,065 affiliated clubs, with a resultant saving to car owners of over $60,000,000 annually."

CONFESSES TO MURDER

Newark, N. J., Dec. 12.—John Newland, alias Charles Robinson, 35, under arrest here on a charge of shoplifting, has confessed, according to the police today, to a murder in Buffalo.

Newland was arrested in a department store. It is alleged that he was trying to steal two scarfs valued at $1 each and a pair of gloves at $2.

His fingerprints were sent to the central fingerprint bureau in New York City, and it was reported back that he was wanted for the murder of his brother-in-law, Edward Wilson, in Buffalo, on April 12, 1928.

Before the war about 500,000 people emigrated from England every year.

Coach Clarke Announces First String Squad For M. H. S. Basketball Team

Short Passing Attack to Be Feature of Local Quintet; Rockville Opens Team's Season Here Friday.

A first-string squad of ten players have been selected by Coach Wilfred J. Clarke to represent Manchester High school in basketball this season. Not a single veteran of last season's combine is back. All have graduated with the exception of two letter men who were substitutes last season.

The squad as it now stands consists of four forwards, Dan Wrenn, "Hop" Ozlitz, Don Healey and "Tub" Johnson; two centers, Howard Turkington and Vinanzio Dogliani; and four guards, George Greenaway, Herb Crockett, Ernie Dowd and Hugh Morlarty.

Coach Clarke says he had not decided upon a starting lineup for the game with Rockville here Friday night, adding that one man seems to be about as good as the rest. There is no individual star on the squad this season, but the players are more evenly matched and therefore Coach Clarke predicts an even more successful season than last.

Coach Clarke is developing a short passing attack for his team to use and judging from the manner in which his charges have grasped this instruction, it is going to take a good defense to keep it silenced.

Rockville High opened its season here last week Friday by trimming the Trade school five quite handily.

HEAVIES WILL TUMBLE OFTEN ON KAYO CARD

Ed Hurley Has Booked Hoffman and Schooner Among Others for Tomorrow Night.

George Hoffman of New York, former Olympic champion boxer and the past six months in the professional end of the sport, his bouts including the semi-final to the Tunney-Hesney battle, will make his first professional appearance in Connecticut tomorrow night at Foot Guard hall in Hartford.

His opponent will be Al Schooner of Boston but formerly of East Hampton, a 185-pounder, who is one of Jack Sharkey's sparring partners. Hoffman fought twice as an amateur in Hartford, beating

George Hoffman

Joe Howard decisively on both occasions and putting on display before the Hartford fans the best left-hand amateur ever unleashed here.

Schooner, too, is a former amateur. He has been fighting professionally more than a year and has a number of kayoes to his credit. If he beats Hoffman, he will be matched at Boston with either Con O'Kelly or Jim Maloney.

There will be a six-round special in which two keen Hartford rivals, Brownie Tucker and Joey Flynn will clash. Tucker is the local colored sensation. Five four rounders, with heavyweights and middleweights as participants, make up the card.

Jack Kelly of Waterbury will fight Chet Thomas of Boston, another of Sharkey's entourage. Big Boy Burlap of Westerly takes on Jim McCarthy of New Haven, Ray Saborn of Hartford battles Vic Carlson of Terryville, Gunner Gordon of East Hartford meets Hy Diamond of Hartford and Johnny Walker of Boston tangles with Eddie Ellis of Springfield.

1928 All-Southwestern

Members of the All-Southwestern eleven shown here are, top row, left to right, Bartlett, Hume and Williams; below, Sanders, Koch and Ford.

Koch And Williams Unanimously Named

By ZEKKE HANDLER, Football Editor, Fort Worth Press.

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 12.—The 1928 All-Southwestern football team, selected by 20 sports writers and coaches, shows:

Position	Player	School
E.	Bill Ford	Texas
T.	Gordy Brown	Texas
G.	Choc Sanders	S. M. U.
C.	Willie Bartlett	Texas A. & M.
G.	Dochey Koch	Baylor
T.	Jack Williams	T. C. U.
S.	S. J. Petty	Texas A. & M.
Q.	Redman Hume	S. M. U.
H.	Virgil Gilliland	Baylor
H.	Ross Love	S. M. U.
F.	Garland Beavers	Arkansas

Southern Methodist University, favorite before the start of the championship campaign, went to West Point and held Army to a 14 to 12 score, but the game wrecked the Mustangs' hopes for a title.

The team, badly battered by the Cadets, had trouble with several teams. Baylor defeated the Mustangs, 2 to 0. Texas Christian whipped them 15 to 6, on Thanksgiving Day, and many believe the 6 to 2 victory of Southern Methodist over Texas, the crowned champion, should have been 9 to 6 for Texas. Slow motion pictures of the game showed Captain King of Texas plunged over twice for a touchdown, but officials ruled he had not.

At any rate, Texas captured the title after the S. M. U. defeat by defeating Texas Christian and Baylor tied for third. Texas A. & M. was fifth and Rice, without a single victory or tie in five games, sixth and last.

Of the men chosen on the mythical team, two were unanimous choices—Koch for a guard position and Williams for a tackle position. Two of these men, Sanders and Hume, received various nominations for the All-America squad.

Outstanding players, in addition to those named on the first all-conference team, were Dexter Shober, triple-threat star of Texas; Lester Brunbelow, guard, and Howard Grubbs, quarterback, of Texas Christian; Witche, Griffin and Paradaux of Baylor; Herting and Alnoch of Rice; Dossy, Zarametis and Burgess, of Texas A. & M.; Geis and Winters of Arkansas; and Powell, Trigg, Fincher and Bacus of S. M. U.

UHLE, OF INDIANS, TO GO TO DETROIT

Chicago, Dec. 12.—George Uhle big right-hand hurler, was sent to Detroit by the Cleveland Indians in the first trade completed at the annual meeting of the American League here yesterday.

Billy Evans, president of the Cleveland club, gave Uhle in exchange for Jackie Tavener, speedy little shortstop, and Pitcher Hollister.

The deal spiked reports that Uhle was to come to the White Sox. Uhle, once the ace of the Cleveland hurling staff, fell into disrepute with his bosses last season because of his unmanageability to discipline.

THEY RATE THE BEST
Pacific coast critics say Post and Robesky, guards; and Heinecke, center, were the three best men at those positions in their section this year.

ST. JOHN NAMED CUBS' MANAGER

U. J. Lupien Honored for President But Cannot Accept; Banquet Dec. 22.

Arthur E. St. John, general manager of the Oakland Nurseries, was last night named manager-elect of the Cubs Football Club for the 1929 season. U. J. Lupien, head of the Service Department at Cheney Brothers, was named for president of the organization but he informed The Herald this morning that he would be unable to accept the office. Mr. Lupien, who is one of the most enthusiastic football supporters in Manchester, said he regretted the fact that pressure of other duties made it impossible.

This means that the Cubs will have to name another president at another meeting. In addition to manager, St. John was re-elected secretary and treasurer attesting to the club's satisfaction with which he handled this work during the past season. Jake Greenberg was named assistant manager. Others voted on for manager were Sam Prentice and Ben Clune. Tom Kelley was unanimously named to again coach the team next season.

The players voted to stage the annual banquet of the club at the Oasis Club in Hockanum a week from Saturday night which will be December 22. Jake Greenberg, Charlie Minocucci and Arthur St. John are on the banquet arrangement and invitation committee. At the banquet, Coach Kelley will receive a donation of $200 in gold. Manager Peter Vendrillo and Assistant Manager Peter Hanney, both of whom have announced their retirement, will receive $50 in gold and the players will receive their checks for the season's split which will be about $25. Financial Secretary Sam Prentice and Trainer Frank Busch will receive a player's share.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GIVES $25,000 TO HELP GAME

Chicago, Dec. 12.—The opening session of the annual meeting of American League magnates and managers here was not a total loss, a casual review of the minutes reveals today.

One trade was made, the junior circuit subscribed to the idea of donating $25,000 to the American Legion plan of fostering juvenile baseball.

For those who are addicted to figures, it took Detroit and the Yanks two hours and six minutes, of an average to conduct a ball game. Boston played a ball game in an hour and 56 minutes. So did the Athletics. All of which proves that speed is nothing.

HEYDLER IS RE-ELECTED

New York, Dec. 12.—John A. Heydler was re-elected president of the National League for another four-year term at the league's annual meeting here yesterday afternoon. Heydler was first elected to the presidency in 1918 and apparently has garnered a "life" job in that capacity. No announcement was made of any increase in his salary which is now reported to be $25,000.

Score by halves:

In what proved to be the fastest and most exciting game of the season, Manager Ben Clune's Rec Five scored a four point victory over the speedy Hartford Knights of Lithuania last evening at the School Street Rec gym. The score was 30 to 26. In the preliminary, the Rec Girls defeated the Aetna Fire quintet of Hartford without much difficulty, the score being 32 to 18.

The Rec-Knights court tussle was a nip and tuck affair, especially in the second half when the lead changed hands two or three times. From a score standpoint, it was easily the most interesting game of the season, but the brand of basketball did not come up to that shown in the past two games. This was due to the fact that players on both teams were over-anxious resulting in much loose handling of the ball. The fact that the game was bitterly contested added to the burly-burly.

The Knights forged into a 10-4 lead early in the game but the Rec's defense tightened so perfectly that halftime found the Rec on the long end of a 12 to 10 count. One of the features of the first half was an amazingly accurate pass which McCann made to Stavitsky under the basket from a seemingly impossible angle while lying flat on the floor following a spill.

Norris Big Star
Roy Norris proved to be the star of the game for Manchester. Most of his good work was confined to the second half. The first half found his opponent Stanley Shimkus doing most of the scoring for the visitors. The Knights took a 24 to 20 lead at one point in the second half and it began to look as if they were enroute to victory.

IT SOUNDS VERY SWELL.
Some of the officials who had worked Western Conference basketball games last season complained about the hard treatment they received from some of the players and the spectators. The athletic heads of the universities in the conference learned of this when they sought to sign up officials for games this season.

The University of Illinois was the first up with a new code of ethics, that had been adopted at a mass meeting of the students. It was adopted later by the conference as a whole and it merits reprinting.

The code is as follows:
"A true Illinois sportsman:
"Will consider all athletic opponents as guests and treat them with all the courtesy due friends and guests.
"Will accept all decisions of officials without question.
"Will never hiss or boo a player or official.
"Will never utter abusive or irritating remark from the side line.
"Will applaud opponents who make good plays or show good sportsmanship.
"Will never attempt to rattle an opposing player, such as the pitcher in a baseball game or a player attempting to make a free toss in basketball.
"Will seek to win by fair and lawful means, according to the rules of the game.
"Will love the game for what the winning will bring him.
"Will do unto others as he would have them do unto him.
"Will win without boasting and lose without excuses."

Illini Nice People
It was this same University of Illinois that was the executor of magnificent act of sportsmanship and sentimental gallantry at the close of the late football season.

Dr. Jack Wilce, retiring after 15 years of coaching at Ohio State because the alumni virtually had driven him out, took his team to Urbana for the last game of the season against Illinois.

A little ceremony took place before the game that would have been appropriate if it had been staged before the home town crowd and if the circumstances attending the finale had been more pleasant.

Dr. Wilce was called to the field in the Illinois stadium and presented with an engraved testimonial, signed by the student body, in which he was paid the tribute of a competitor for his sportsmanship and his ability.

Tigers Gettin' Hot
Last season when the Philadelphia Athletics were hot on the trail of the New York Yankees, Bucky Harris, then managing the Washington Senators, expressed the opinion that the Athletics would not beat them out. The Athletics were up in the race because the Yankees were crippled down to their speed, he said.

"I think that Detroit is potentially the strongest team in the league next to the Yankees," he said. "And hat goes for the Athletics, the Browns and my ball club."

His judgment was correct the Tigers may have come ball club bolster the outfield, Dale Alexander to dress up the field and Johnny Prudhomme to help the pitchers.

Indian Owners Would Like To Have Rogers

By BILLY EVANS
 What do you think of the deal whereby the Chicago Cubs acquired Hornsby?
 Since the champion batsman of the National League was sent from the Boston Braves to the Chicago Cubs, in one of the biggest trades of recent years, that question has been put to me by hundreds of baseball fans.
 "I wish he was coming to Cleveland instead of Chicago," has been my immediate reply.
 However, that answer has never quite satisfied. While it conveyed to them my opinion, that any major league would be more than welcome to a player of the caliber of Hornsby, it didn't quite answer the point at which most of the fans were driving, as to how Hornsby would fit into the Cub lineup.
 Because Hornsby, within as many years, has been a member of four different major league clubs, there seems to be the impression in the minds of many fans that he must be a bad actor, hard to handle. I know Rogers Hornsby pretty well and it is my belief that never was there a more erroneous estimate of a player's character or temperament. I have always found Hornsby a gentleman on and off the ball field. In the heat of battle he is satisfied only with victory, one of the few remaining fighters, who figures no game a good game unless it ends in victory. The fighter, the player with strong convictions, always makes enemies.

 Then there are those who wonder how Hornsby will fit into the ways of Manager Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Club. Apparently there are some fans who fear the two will clash as to authority. I doubt if anything could be farther from the truth. It wouldn't surprise me at all if the punch added by Hornsby made the Cubs a most dangerous contender. That is all the club has lacked for a couple of years in its quest for a pennant.
 Instead of Hornsby clashing with Manager Joe McCarthy, I look for the two to work together perfectly. There is no question as to the ability of Joe McCarthy as a leader of players. He has demonstrated his ability in the majors and the minors. Teams managed by Joe McCarthy are always interesting because they are in there fighting, and usually in the thick of the pennant struggle. I feel that Hornsby will relish playing under so capable and aggressive a leader and do his utmost to add further laurels to the many now held by Joe McCarthy.
 I regard the deal the Cubs made for Hornsby a real ten-strike, that it will make an interesting club, more interesting and colorful than ever, and will make the Cubs a real pennant contender.
 Take it from me, I could imagine nothing more pleasing than to be able to add a Rogers Hornsby to the roster of the Cleveland club. The gossips who feel that Hornsby may not fit into the Cubs' scheme of play are certain to be disappointed.

ROOSEVELTS TO MAKE NEW TRIP TO SOUTH ASIA

Chicago. — Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Kermit Roosevelt are to lead another zoological expedition for Field Museum of Natural History, to obtain rare animals in certain practically unexplored mountains, and jungles of southeastern Asia, Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum has announced.
 The expedition is sponsored by William V. Kelley, of Chicago. It will start a few days after the presidential election, and will be known as the William V. Kelley-Roosevelts Expedition to Eastern Asia of Field Museum. Mr. Kelley is one of the prominent benefactors and patrons of Field Museum and is a corporate member of the institution.
 Plans were completed during a recent visit of the Roosevelt brothers to Chicago, when they conferred with President Stanley Field of the museum, Director Simms, and some of the scientists who will be members of the expedition. The expedition has two main purposes. The first is to make a thorough collection of mammals, birds and reptiles in a remote part of French Indo-China where condition of climate and travel are so difficult that hitherto no comprehensive zoological collecting has been done by scientists of any nation. The second objective is to explore certain unknown territory lying northward of Indo-China along the gorges of the Mekong River, and abutting on the borders of Burma, Siam and Yunnan.
 Two Divisions
 To accomplish these objectives, the expedition will be divided into two contingents. The Indo-Chinese division will be led by Harold Coolidge, Jr., of Boston, a young mammalogist. He will be accompanied by three other naturalists, among whom are Dr. Josselyn Van Tyne, assistant curator of birds at the museum of zoology at the University of Michigan, and Dr. Ralph E. Wheeler of Cambridge, Mass., who will be medical officer and assistant naturalist.
 The other division will be composed of the Roosevelts and Suddam Cutting of New York City. This is the second expedition the Roosevelts have led for Field Museum, the first having been the James Simpson-Roosevelts Asiatic expedition in 1925-26. Mr. Cutting was also a member of that expedition and in 1926-27 he was a member of the Chicago Daily News Field Museum Abyssinian expedition. The Roosevelts and Mr. Cutting expect to sail from New York for India about November 10. There they will assemble equipment and proceed to the Yunnan border. Their principal work at first will be exploring. The party will be equipped to make a survey, however of the native fauna, and such large mammals as are of most interest will be collected. It is thought likely that several hitherto unknown species may be obtained. Reports from native sources indicate that a large deer of an unknown species may be found.

 Another large mammal to be sought is the peculiar ruminant known as the takin. This animal is one of nature's anomalies, and is perhaps best described as a "goat-antelope." It is a distant relative of the European Chamois, but is thicker and clumsier by comparison, having a very heavy body, short legs, heavy hoof, and horns which meet at the base and sweep outward and then upward.
 Later the party will strike northwest and work down the gorges of the Mekong to Saigon, to meet the second division of the expedition, led by Coolidge, next June. Thence, with the Roosevelts leading, the whole expedition will set out to make a collection of the large mammals of Indo-China. Among those to be sought are tigers, leopards, elephants, rhinoceroses, tapirs, water buffaloes, various types of bears and deer, and wild boars. Trained native skinner will accompany the party. Work will continue until the end of the year and perhaps longer.
 In Indo-China
 The second division of the expedition, headed by Mr. Coolidge, will start out from Vancouver, December 22, on the steamship, "Empress of France," for Hong Kong. There they will embark on another ship for French Indo-China. In the mountainous district to be explored conditions of travel are extremely difficult. The only means of transit consists of under-sized ponies belonging to native tribes. Because of this all food supplies were sent out six months ago, and have been slowly pushed up a thousand miles of river to various posts in the interior.
 Special permission has been given for the work in French Indo-China through the courtesy of the Paris Museum of Natural History and the French government. The Siamese legation at Washington, D. C., has also rendered valuable assistance.

The Nut Cracker

With the cleated shoes hung up to dry, the football rules committee now will begin its heavy work. Some day it may be suggested to them to put the rules into plain English. Some radical with an idea like that is just bound to bob up.

OR EACH FOOTBALL TEAM MIGHT CARRY TWO EXTRAS. THESE MEN WOULD BE HABEAS CORPUS SHARKS. A JUDGE COULD BE APPOINTED BY AGREEMENT OF BOTH SCHOOLS AND EVERY TIME A PLAY CAME TO BE QUESTIONED, THE BARRISTERS COULD HOLD FORMAL DEBATE WHILE THE GLADIATORS RESTED.

 JUST A LITTLE TEASING
 The captains of the North Carolina and Georgia Tech football teams are centers, and in a recent game down south they engaged each other in an animated conversation that caused the spectators to become curious.

When Harry Schwartz, the North Carolina captain, returned home, he explained to a reporter what had been the subject of his conversation with Peter Pund, the Georgia Tech captain.

"After Pund got in the game and several plays were made he came up to me and asked that neither of us use our hands on defense," he said. "Why, I was never more surprised in all my life. I had never heard of such a thing. All that I was doing was to hit him on the flap of his headgear on both sides of his ears. I was not pushing him over, just boxing his ears as he kicked the ball back each time."

Pund Wouldn't Go There
 "It seemed to worry Mr. Pund, as he was making bad passes, which, of course, pleased me plenty. When I told him to go to—he said he was going to tell the referee. This remark was so funny I could not help but laugh. Mr. Pund did not tell the referee."

After hearing the tale of the North Carolina captain, one of Mr. Pund's young men remarked:

"It's a good thing that Peter never gets mean. He's the most powerful man in football."

He Should Have—What?
 Frank Murray, head football coach at Marquette, is warmed up to toss a hot protest at the rules committee this winter about the action of Jimmy Keegan, a referee who worked in the Marquette-Holy Cross game.

Marquette had scored a touchdown, which tied the score at six all. The teams lined up for the point after touchdown play and there was a delay which Murray admits was the fault of the Marquette team. When the legal limit of 30 seconds had passed, Keegan stepped in, picked up the ball and ruled that Marquette had forfeited the chance to convert the point.

Murray insists, and he claims he has plenty of support, that the referee had no authority to make such a decision.

While the officials are considering this complaint and others that may arise, they might discuss means and methods of keeping a slow-footed umpire out of the play or put their heavy-legged gents through a course of training in sprinting.

In a recent game between Western Reserve and Wooster the umpire, E. D. Jones, found himself between a Reserve ball carrier and the Wooster safety man.

The Reserve back was smart enough to adapt a comical situation to his own advantage and when the umpire set out in mad flight for the sidelines, Hal Bott, the ball carrier, used him as interference. The umpire finally saw that he couldn't run out of the situation and he decided, with a burst of brilliant strategy, to take a flop.

But in taking his dive to the turf he rolled into the Wooster safety man and took him clear out of the play and Blott sauntered over for a touchdown.

1928 By NEA Service Inc. RUTH DEWEY GROVES AUTHOR "WHEN A GIRL LOVES LOVE FOR TWO"

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 Face introduces JERRY RAY to ALESTER CARSTAIRS when he crasht his airplane into the camp she is sharing with her roommate. She likes his pilot, DAN HARVEY, but Alester showers her with attention.

Dan tries to win her, but she says she does not believe in love but hope to marry money.
 Jerry loses her job on Alester's account, and she gets her place in a chorus. She works hard and Alester takes her to Atlantic City for the opening.

She wins promotion to a special dancer number. They have to move to Boston and Alester causes her to miss the last train by stopping at a roadhouse for dinner. He thinks of the plane but Dan refuses to go up in the storm. Alester prepares to take Jerry himself and Dan sees they are determined, he goes.

They run into an electric storm and tragedy threatens when lightning sets fire to a wing but the heavy rain smolders it and Dan gets the machine down to a safe landing.

They get a train on to Boston when the press agent plays up the story—featuring Jerry for publicity and Dan for his bravery. When the show gets to New York Jerry is a finished dancer and Alester proposes and wants to announce the engagement, but she begs him to go along.

Dan comes to attend the show and Jerry calls him back stage for a visit. Alester finds them together and brutally informs Dan they are going to a party to announce their engagement, and invites him to go along.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVI
 Dan was plainly dumfounded by Jerry's words. She saw indecision, amazement and anger struggling for control of him, though she understood only that he was disturbed.

He wheeled upon Alester and in a cutting voice asked him if it were true. "Are you taking Jerry to Leontine Lebaudy's place?" he demanded.

Alester did not answer him directly. He spoke to Jerry. "Please go and get dressed," he said. "Dan and I will wait for you in the car."

"Wait a minute," Dan spoke up as Jerry started to leave them. Then, to Alester: "Surely you aren't earnest? You can't take the girl you're going to marry out there!"

Alester's eyes shifted furtively, then settled upon Dan's face with a challenging defiance. "Well, are you coming?" he asked gratingly.

Dan studied him at length before replying. He recognized a desperate bravado behind Alester's defiance—knew that Alester was not to be turned from his purpose—a purpose that held a menace.

"All right," he said tersely, "I'll go."
 Jerry turned away without a word and hurried to the dressing room, where she slipped into her new evening gown. She had thrilled to the purchase of the lovely satin creation, but tonight she did not give it a thought.

Here makeup had been removed quickly, but now that she stood before her mirror, ready except for the drop of perfume on her delicate earrings, she was reluctant to return to Dan and Alester.

"I'll wait here for Evelyn," she said to herself, and sat down to polish her nails.

Evelyn joined her shortly. "Don't sit in her gown!" she cried when she saw Jerry. "Run along to Alester. I'll be out in two minutes."
 "I'll help you," Jerry said, and began getting Evelyn's things ready. She handed her a folded towel to pin around her head and removed the top from the cold cream jar.

herself and Dan and then a hasty departure.
 Upon their arrival they found the party in full flower. Guests were gathered at the tables. There was one, however, that was unoccupied. It was laden with costly bouquets and sparkling glass.

Leontine welcomed them in the hall and when they had left their wraps in the dressing room she led them to the reserved table and told them to find their places.

Evelyn saw with a sinking heart that the favors and place cards were doled dressed as brides and groom, holding bits of cardboard. She leaned over to read what was written on one of them:

"Miss Lebaudy invites Miss Estelle Agnew to sit here and partake of the pre-nuptial feast. She is sitting in honor of Miss Jerry Ray and Mr. Alester Carstairs."
 Evelyn straightened and looked at Jerry. But the latter was standing before a place where Leontine had laid a spray of orange blossoms.

Evelyn moved on in search of her own card. A waiter was placing an extra chair for Dan. Shortly Evelyn found herself beside him. She wondered how he felt over this surprise. But his face was a dead mask that revealed nothing.

Leontine had greeted him with no sign of displeasure at his unexpected arrival. Dan would not have minded had she protested. He was no longer sensitive over small matters.

Leontine made a supreme effort to bring a festive spirit to the occasion. Her guests immediately took up the cue, except those who were honoring and their friends.

She could not touch the food before her, and only the mineral water that she had requested could she force down her dry throat.

She dared not look at Dan or Evelyn lest they divine her terror. Once she spilled a few drops of water on her gown. Leontine wiped the little accident and smiled.

Soon afterward a waiter appeared at Jerry's elbow with a note on a silver salver. She glanced at Alester and saw that he likewise was receiving a message.

She read the contents. Leontine wished her and Alester to go upstairs during the next dance and receive in the privacy of her boudoir the gift she had prepared for them.

Down the table Leontine nodded to Jerry's interrogating glance. Alester, too, sent his hostess a questioning look. . . . she smiled at him with serene mockery.

Dan and Evelyn had not been dancing, but when the music blared out again she jumped impulsively to her feet and exclaimed: "Let's dance! I can't sit still another instant!"

Her voice was raised almost to shrillness with suppressed hysteria. She knew now, beyond a question of doubt, that Jerry had got herself into a mess. The girl's face was white, and utterly devoid of its usual bright glow. . . . it made Evelyn's heart ache to look at her.

"And she's such a quixotic little fool!" she thought she said to herself as Dan swung her into the rhythm of the dance. Actually she was speaking aloud, just barely escaping broken utterance.

Dan bent his head nearer but made no reply. "Oh, well," Evelyn thought, realizing that he had caught what she had said, "what's the difference?"
 "What do you mean?" Dan asked as she remained silent.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL by World Famed Authority

HUMAN EFFICIENCY IS REDUCED BY NOISES.
 By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN.

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.
 In its special report submitted to the minister of health of Great Britain, the British Medical Association has qualified noises as pleasant or unpleasant; loud or soft; offensive or inoffensive. The effects of noises vary with their quality, rhythm and duration. The report classified as an unnecessary noise made at times of the day or night when it was most likely to be disturbing; any noise that was loud, screaming, strident, or discordant, and any noise that was discontinuous and unhythmic. Perhaps some of the Wagnerian music might fit into such classification, but it was obviously not included under the definition.

Question—Should a wound caused by a dog bite be cauterized?

Answer—Cauterization of a dog bite with fuming nitric acid is sometimes used to kill the virus, but should not be depended upon to prevent rabies. In every case the Pasteur treatment should be used, particularly if an investigation of the dog's head reveals rabies in the animal.

Scarf Loops.
 Even the ten cent stores now carry scarf loops through which kerchiefs can be slipped so they won't have to be knotted. Some more expensive ones include a lovely carved amber one that quaintly represents two hands clasped together.

Grain Shipments from the port of Vancouver have increased in the last seven years from less than one million bushels to over eighty millions.

Human Adaptability.
 A healthy person is capable of adapting himself to all sorts of peculiar influences, but invariably such adaptation brings about a certain amount of wear and tear on the nervous system. Investigators have found a definite relationship of unnecessary noises to loss of personal and industrial efficiency. Most noises occurring in industry are rhythmic, uniform and continuous; they do not involve sudden changes of quality, pitch or intensity, nor occur so suddenly as to startle the hearer. Street noises are entirely different than noises taking place in industry.

Moisture Essential to the Perfect Fruit Cake
 Perhaps you have never attempted to bake a fruit cake and fear a failure but you need have no doubts. The rich dark fruit cake is one of the most comfortable to work with since it can't be light and fluffy as we expect other cakes to be. There's so much fruit in it it just naturally has to be firm and solid.

By SISTER MARY
 The one essential for the perfect fruit cake is moisture and to insure this quality, steam the cake before baking. A fruit cake must be thoroughly "done" or it will not keep indefinitely. Prolonged baking has a tendency to dry the fruits while only steaming fails to produce the combination of cooking methods is ideal. Line the pans with heavy parchment paper and there will be no hard corners or edges. A cube pan is particularly good since it permits the heat to penetrate from the center as well as the edges.

Although much of the fruit can be purchased almost ready to put into the cake, some time must be spent in preparing the fruits and nuts, so it's a good plan to get much of this work done the day before the actual baking of the cake.
 The following recipe is for the traditional rich black fruit cake. Chocolate is added for richness and color. Brandy which was supposed to be the preservative of fruit cake is not used in the recipe. Thorough baking, chocolate and the use of strong coffee or grape juice in the place of milk will keep a cake moist for weeks and produce a delicious flavor.

Fruit Cake
 Two cups butter, 1 cup light brown sugar, 10 eggs, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup grape juice or sweet cider, 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 table-spoon allspice, 1 teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons nutmeg, 3-4 cake Baker's chocolate, 2 pounds seeded raisins, 1 pound seedless raisins, 1 pound cleaned currants, 1-2 pound shredded citron, 1-2 pound candied cherries, 1-2 pound candied pineapple, 1-4 pound candied orange peel, 1-4 cup candied lemon peel, 2-3 cups blanched and shredded almonds, 2 tablespoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon salt.
 Prepare fruit and almonds. Cut cherries in halves and pineapple in thin slices. If citron and candied peels must be sliced and shredded, wash well before cutting. Mix prepared fruits and sift 1 cup of flour over them. Mix well with a fork until perfectly blended.
 Cream butter and slowly beat in sugar. Sift in one cup of flour and beat hard. Add eggs well beaten and beat hard. Add chocolate and fruit or elder. Mix thoroughly and add remaining flour mixed and sifted with salt, soda and spices. Be sure that flour, soda and spices are thoroughly mixed before adding to first mixture. Beat batter until perfectly smooth. Add prepared fruit and nuts and mix well. Turn at once into prepared pans and steam three hours. Remove from steamer and bake forty-five minutes in a slow oven.

NEW TINWARE.
 Before using new tinware for cooking, rub all over with fresh lard to season and fortify against rust. Wash later with hot soda water.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
 1928 by NEA Service Inc.

There are things to remember if you are planning to make your newborn a fresh-air baby.
 Fresh air can cure, but it also can kill.
 Two young mothers in duplex apartments had babies.

The one on the left had a baby born in September. The baby on the right was born late in November.
 The mother of the later baby, as soon as she was downstairs, looked out at the chilly gray December afternoon and exclaimed, "Why, Mrs. Smith's baby is still taking his afternoon nap on the porch! I'd have to do that with mine."
 Her nurse had left and so had her mother. She had no one to tell her that Mrs. Smith would not have had her baby out there if he had not been weather broken during the sunny fall days that followed his birth.

It was a gray day and cold—but dry, and there was no wind blowing. The carriage was in a sheltered spot, and Mrs. Smith's baby had two hot-water bottles beside him, and one at his feet. He was snugly covered with warm robes, beside his coat and bonnet. The top of his cap was adjusted so that the air he breathed had the "edge" off it, and his experienced mother had thrown, for safety, an extra cover over that so that no draft could creep into the baby's throat.

So anxious was she to have a "fresh-air baby" that she did not inquire into the why's and wherefore's, but the very next day, out went her poor little mite into the cold, cold world to weather it as best he could. No extra covers, no hot-water bottles, no extra cover over the hood, and facing the wind at that. He was there for an hour. And only three weeks old!

He caught cold and nearly died of lung congestion.
 He won't be exposed again, for the doctor told his mother several things. One of them was that a baby has to "grow into the weather."

Another thing to consider, he told her, is the weather itself. "Take him out, when he is old enough, if it is moderately warm and sunny and dry," he said. "But not in a snow, or rain, or during a thaw. In his perambulator he is only two feet from the ground. You cannot be too careful about airing a very young baby."

Like everything else, where a baby is concerned, this matter of fresh air takes judgment.

The WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SWANBERG

"Three babies in three years is too many. No wonder you're here before me asking for a divorce." That's what Judge Harrison Ewing of Cleveland, O., told Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kourin, married less than four years, when they asked him for a divorce. Papa Kourin earned $24 a week. They didn't get the divorce, but they got orders. "No more babies for three years," ruled the judge, intimating that if they didn't take him seriously they'd wish they had.

The judge's reasoning that three babies in three years on $24 a week was all wrong and good enough reason for marital troubles seems sane enough. His judicial rights in issuing such a command are another thing. Even that tolerant and modern Judge Ben Lindsay, questioned his colleague's right to impose birth control.

This makes a queer situation. The laws of the United States forbid the dissemination of birth control information. Yet a judge on his bench can threaten people before him unless they use it. His not to inquire where they get their information nor just how much good it is. But he's indicating that he knows they can get it if they want it, law or no law. Doubtless the judge's methods again.

Lady Macbeth Awakens
 Nobody's nor just how much when Florence Reed, actress, does the Lady Macbeth sleep walking scene, and get away with it. Florence was doing the classical sonambulistic scene when two gentlemen of the audience snickered. Florence suddenly woke up, called for lights, and demanded that the ushers put 'em out. The gentlemen decided to leave without being put out. They probably decided long before Florence got that. This Shakespeare business wasn't worth their $2.50, anyway.

Florence isn't the first actor to "bawl out" her audience. It's all part of the present status of supply and demand—too many people with the price of theater tickets for the number of theaters; if you don't like the show, lump it, somebody's else'd like to come in. That's why we stand like dumb sheep behind ropes waiting to see some astinine movie.

Niagara Honeyymooners
 Society item. The Count and Countess Folke Bernadotte honeymooned at Niagara Falls. That must have been a bitter dose of medicine for the proud American judges. Esther Marville, going to Niagara Falls for a honeymoon, just like any ten-cent store ribbon clerk!

But the groom, you see, was a foreigner. America was Niagara Falls to him. How could she refuse? Such a magnificent gesture on the bride's part augurs well for the "and so they lived happily ever after" ending.

Her Red Dress
 Lady Astor wore a new red dress to Parliament the other day instead of her customary black, we are told, and quite a to-do ensued. Our own congresswomen confess that they don't dare wear anything at all sensational or the floor gets too excited and gassy! And yet they say that we accept our women in public life on the same basis as men—demanding that they do a good job, and not much caring what they wear nor how they get their hair.

Maybe we do attract. Congress would get quite steamed up if Senator Herfflin suddenly appeared without his white waistcoat, or if Speaker Nick should appear in a green suit. It's human to note the unusual in appearance in either man or woman.

Orchid

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ORCHID—whose real name is ASHTORETH ASHE—has met in strangest fashion, with an old friend—SADIE MORTON.

It was HOLLIS HART, Ashtoreth's employer, who first called her Orchid, because she was so exquisitely beautiful—but that, really, is another story.

Sadie Morton also had another name. The name was entirely Sadie's own idea. "MAE DE MARR" she called herself, because, she said, was an awful dumb-sounding name. Maybe she was right.

Anyhow, as Mae de Marr, she inspired considerable Don Quixotic chivalry in the heart of the rich and famous Mr. Hart. Mr. Hart had actually given her a check for $10,000, with which she rented and furnished a lavish apartment and bought herself clothes to gladden the heart of a chorus girl.

His interest, by the way, was entirely high-minded. He had, you see, so much money he hardly knew what to do with it.

"Mae" proves an unappreciative little wretch and threatens him with breach of promise. Hart reveals the whole astonishing story to Ashtoreth. As he concludes his narrative, who bursts into the office but "Mae de Marr!"

Hart takes a dove to introduce the girls, but "Mae" has recognized Ashtoreth.

Ashtoreth, who had no idea of the identity of the mysterious Miss de Marr, is humiliated beyond words. She persuades the girl, who begins to cry violently, to accompany her to the wash-room. And presently decides to go home with her and inquire into the astonishing situations.

She gets permission from the office manager, and they take a taxi to Mae's apartment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

The apartment lobby was white and sparkling. The floor was a fountain in the center, with gold fish swimming ornamentally, as though they were getting paid for it. And palms that reared tremendous fronds, and looked artificial, the way palms always do.

"Dreadfully ornate and fearfully expensive," reflected Ashtoreth. The elevator was a golden cage, manned by a dour Ethiopian in green livery. Descending from it at the moment was an expertly enameled and very fancy lady, with a small white dog. The lady wore a red dress and a red sweater ornamented with a number of bells.

A woman, with a black Pomeranian, rose from a huge chair. And the two met in the middle of the lobby. As they moved, strong perfume was wafted from their furs. They walked uncertainly, on very high heels.

The dogs, who immediately rose on their hind legs and began to whine and bark shrilly and pull on their respective leashes.

"Some class," said Sadie, and gazed at the foursome admiringly. "That Pom is a beauty, and she feeds him on chicken livers and grade A cream. They're the best apartments in the house—those two. That's summer ermine on the blond, Ash. It looks like canaries' breasts, don't it?"

Ashtoreth appraised the two broad backs. "Do you know," she said, "what they remind me of? Contented cows. Up to their chins in lush."

Sadie giggled. "They're smart—that's what they are," she approved. "Catch them getting up at 7:30 and grabbing a street car downtown every morning to pull a skinny pay envelope once a week."

Ashtoreth elevated her little chin. "I guess," she observed, "we all come pretty near earning our money. And that goes for your fat friends, too, Sadie."

"Oh, well," Sadie shrugged her narrow shoulders, and she threw the way you look at things, I suppose. Come on and see the love nest."

It was on the third floor front—Sadie's apartment overlooking the avenue, she threw the door open promptly and, running in, switched on the lights. Mauve and purple and periwinkle.

"Some shack!" she observed. "If I do say it as those the stuff. Ashtoreth stood in the middle of the room. There were heavy curtains drawn across the windows, and an odor of state incense hung like a dark cloud over the place. The furniture was heavy and expensive. And there was a dreadful abundance of lamps.

"Well, ain't it some little cabin!" demanded Sadie exultantly, pulling a silken tassel that hung beneath a rose shade that looked like a huge inverted mushroom.

There were mulberry hangings and plump satin pillows, and foot rests with fat cushions. Ashtoreth felt a sense of oppressive luxury and thought that such a room must make a woman lazy, surfeiting her with indolent ease.

"Wouldn't your mother just love it, though!" Sadie was saying. "I thought of her when I bought that velours suite, Ash. Over-stuffed, just like your mother loves. And that's a sort of velvet tapestry on the back. It's real refined, I think."

Sadie patted her velours lovingly. "Guess how much it cost, Ash." "Oh, I couldn't. I never bought any furniture in my life," protested Ashtoreth. "Mother'd adore those lamp shades, too. She's simple crazy about all shades of purple and rose."

"Lovely, ain't they?" agreed the proud possessor of eight purple

"What did he have to say? Told you I was blackmailing him, I suppose!"

chiffon shades. "And see my rug, Ash."

"Oh, my!"

If Ashtoreth's exclamation was ineffectual, Sadie probably laid it to awe.

"Just as soft as moss," she murmured. "And indeed it was. So, for that matter, was the divan. And so were the chairs."

"Sit down," instructed the complacent little hostess. "No—look in the bedroom first. It's just like the movies."

She led the way in. "See my French doll. And all the little boudoir pillows. And look at the mirrors in my vanity."

Ashtoreth, leaning against the door. "I certainly never imagined you'd have a room like this, Sadie, she avowed. "My dear, that's the prettiest satin puff on your bed."

"Eighty-five dollars," proclaimed Sadie, fawningly. "Oh, gee, I've been spending money like I was crazy, Ash."

Suddenly she became sad. "Come on in the living room," she suggested, and we'll have a good old talk first, though. It's all green, Ash, with orchid enamel. And I've got the cutest towels you ever saw."

Honestly enthralled, Ashtoreth exclaimed over the rubberized shower curtains, where morning glories climbed against the sheer of lovely green. And the tub, tinted so delicately it looked like a pool of clear green sea. The tiled floor was of the same color and the walls were lavender. Sadie had violet bath suits in great crystal jars. And perky little curtains at the window of orchid organandy.

"It's heavenly!" pronounced Ashtoreth. "If I lived here I'd spend my whole life taking baths."

"I do, just about," admitted Sadie. "And listening to the radio," she amended. "Sometimes I cook, too. Come look at the kitchen."

Again Ashtoreth admired in all sincerity. A red brick floor, with a tea kettle and saucepans to match! And at the windows ruffy curtains, freckled with crimson dots.

"Adorable!" she cried. "I never saw such a darling place in my life."

There were cigaret stubs in the sink and on the electric range. A dirt saucepan on the table and a percolator streaked with coffee. Soiled dishes were piled on one side, streaked with bleeding egg yolks, and cold, fat bacon.

"It's sort of messy," apologized Sadie. "Look, dear, did you ever see an electric cocktail shaker? If I got any of that bum gin left we'll have a little drink, and you can see how it works."

"Oh, no thank you," Ashtoreth protested hastily. "Honestly, I don't care about cocktails. Besides, I have to go back to the office."

"One cocktail won't hurt you," "But I don't like them, Sadie." "Hey, be your age." Sadie was cutting two oranges and a lemon.

"Personally," she said, "I'm just about passing out. There's some anchovies in the ice chest, Ash. And some caviar. Get some crackers off the shelf there."

But Ashtoreth had wandered into the living room. Books, she reflected, were conspicuously absent. Though there were magazines on the table behind the divan. Moving picture magazines and "confessions."

"I'm going to write my life story," announced Sadie, coming in with goblets and a shaker on a tray. "And if I don't make the rest of them James look like a bunch of pikers! Sit down, Ash. Here's to you, old dear!"

But Ashtoreth scarcely touched her lips to the frosted glass. "Fun, Sadie!" she echoed. "Now for heaven's sake, tell me about it."

Sadie took a carton of cigalets from the table.

"Did you recall," she giggled, you got a boss that's awfully keen about archaeology." There was a day, Miss Ritz, you didn't have such regard for your mother's romantic nature. However, let bygones be bygones, as the poet says. Go on with the dirt."

"Well, he noticed my ring, and then he commented on my name. And pretty soon we were sort of chatting—you know how it is."

"Yes, I know," agreed Sadie dryly. "And pretty soon he asked you had you a date for dinner."

"Oh, no!" Ashtoreth assured her hastily. "He gave me some letters, and that was all there was to it. Then this morning he called me in again—he'd just had your letter, Sadie—and it was natural enough, really—he was curious. He asked me what I thought of it."

"He read you my letter?" "Why, yes. You see, he didn't imagine that we knew each other. It—well, truly, I hadn't thought of it so uncharitable or anything like that."

"No? Well, it wasn't your letter," observed Sadie.

Her face was scarlet. She poured herself another cocktail, dropping her cigaret on the rug and twisting her toe on it angrily as she stood up.

"The dirty bum!" "Honestly, Sadie, if it hadn't just happened that the girl he showed it to was I, and the girl who wrote it was you, you'd never have thought a thing about it."

"Well, maybe I wouldn't. Go on—what did he have to say? Told you I was blackmailing him, I suppose?"

Ashtoreth coughed. "Well, weren't you?" she demanded.

(To Be Continued)

Sadie has a couple cocktails and becomes communicative. A gold-digger's startling version in the next chapter.

In Memphis a girl was arrested for trying to kiss a man. Something has to be done to protect the world's future fathers.

"What had he been telling you, dear? You musta vamped him," Ashtoreth flushed.

"It was strange," she confessed, "because honestly, Sadie, he never saw me until yesterday. I went in to take some letters and he happened to notice my ring. He's interested in antiquities."

"Antiquities?" "cut in Sadie. "What's that?" "Oh, old things—he's awfully keen about archaeology."

"Arche—what?" "The study of old things," explained Ashtoreth. "Ancient peoples and their customs, and arts."

"Oh, And how long since you been studying this arche-busness?" demanded Sadie suspiciously.

Ashtoreth remembered her all-night session with Cleopatra and the last of the Pharaohs.

"I don't know much about it," she confessed, with a maddening little air of superiority, so that Sadie could hardly have guessed how little she did know. "But my name, you see, is Egyptian, and I suppose it rather interested him. Did you know?"—and Ashtoreth selected just a little—"that mother named me for the moon goddess of Egypt? Mr. Hart seemed to think it was a beautiful idea."

"Yeah!" Sadie scoffed. "And what a joke that used to be before

HATES LADY TUTOR SO HE KILLS HER

Fifteen Year Old Boy Makes Strange Confession; Says He Also Loved Her.

Stanton, Mich., Dec. 12.—Jimmy Deacons, 15-year-old confessed murderer of his former school teacher, Flossie Carter, 27, admitted today, according to Deputy Sheriff Irving Frost, that his hatred of three years for the woman was inflamed to a higher pitch by her refusal to let him hug and kiss her when she stopped her car on an abandoned road.

"I killed her because I hated her," the boy had said in his earlier formal confession. "She slapped me in front of other boys when I was in the fifth grade. Ever since then I hated her."

Today, however, Frost said he admitted that a secret infatuation for her equalled his hatred.

Father a Janitor Jimmy's father, John Deacons, the school janitor, expressed great surprise and doubt when informed of his later confession.

"I can't believe it," he said. "I've watched him all these years and he never would go around with girls."

"I tried to hug and kiss her and when she wouldn't let me I started to choke her," the boy answered, according to Deputy Sheriff Frost. Jimmy told him he once liked the teacher and thought she was "fine" until she punished him and refused to speak to him for a long time.

Seeks Life Sentence Prosecutor Briggs said today he will ask the Probate Court to waive its rights to punish the boy as a juvenile. The court is expected to grant his request. Immediately he will plan his campaign by which he intends to try to send Jimmy to prison for life.

Jimmy was arraigned last night in the county jail before Justice John W. Nickerson. The boy's

CROSSING UNPROTECTED SO THREE ARE KILLED

Tender Was Reading When Special Arrived—Engineer Did Not Blow Whistle.

Woburn, Mass., Dec. 12.—Investigation today into a crash between a hockey fans' special from New Hampshire to Boston over the Boston and Maine railroad and an automobile, in which Mrs. Anna Smith, of South Boston, mother of three children, Emily Withers, 15, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and William Borowski, 19, of Billerica, were killed, revealed three things.

Angelo Lagone, the North Woburn crossing tender, unadvised of the approaching of the special, was reading a magazine in his shanty and did not lower the gates. The locomotive crew did not sound the whistle in accordance with instructions, assuming that the crossing was protected. Four other automobiles on the crossing narrowly escaped being struck.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

SENSE and NONSENSE

Yesterday has gone— Tomorrow may never come. Today is here! Do what you have to do today So sayeth the prophet.

SOLEMN TRUTH We stand amazed, the while we scan This race we know as human. For clothes, we notice, make the man, And lack of them, the woman.

This is not the time to think of the future—think of the present. It takes more than a pair of garters to decorate the limbs of a Christmas tree.

When suspicion comes in at the door love crawls under the bed and eavesdrops.

"Six hundred acres of corn, that's some corn. What will it total?" "Depends on whether I cob—can—or bottle it!"

Jimmie (visiting his uncle in the country)—"Oh, Uncle George, your hired man is not honest. He let the cows drink a whole of water just before he milked them."

Many a man who can get by at home with a blond hair on his coat lapel is now trying to figure out how he can get a Christmas tree into the house without his children finding out about it.

ONE-LINE SAYINGS "It's better to have" Halitosis than no breath at all."

It may be more blessed to give than to receive but it's more fun to receive.

A genius is a successful crank.

It is a short road that has no advertising sign.

As ye Christmas card so shall ye be Christmas carded.

A skeptical man is one who sprinkles Listerine on his onion beds.

What ails temperance is the in-temperance of some of its advocates.

Boy: A noise with dirt on it.

Strange that men should call money "dough". Dough sticks to your fingers.

There is nothing one can do about "dirty shame" unless he sends it to the laundry.

Dumb Dora thinks a vice-president is an evil executive.

Making love while the moon shines is where the son shines.

If the other fellow's religion suits HIM what's it to you?

The year is nearly gone; prepare for your Christmas swapping early.

VETER GOLF

GOLFERS FIND THESE IT doesn't take golfers long to find the TOUGH SPOTS on a golf course, but it takes letter golfers a little longer. In fact, par is nine, unless you can better the solution on another page:

Grid for the word 'TOUGH' with empty spaces for letters.

SPOTS

THE RULES 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Rule for success: Eat lightly, sleep plentifully and work like the devil.

THE KNYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) When Santa saw the Tinnies in their new suits he began to grin. "You look just fine," said he, "although they fit you rather tight."

Miss Christine Mason, director at the Manchester Community club gave a demonstration of candymaking at the White House Monday afternoon which interested more than 20 of the housewives from various parts of the town. A cooked fondant was made as the basis of a variety of candies, with the addition of nuts, chocolate, cherries and fruits. Miss Mason candied grape fruit peel, which was new to most of the ladies present and proved very nice. She also gave several recipes for penuche and other popular candies.

PHONES Pinehurst
"GOOD THINGS TO EAT"
KNOWING BEANS AND THINGS.
Some folks, it is said, don't know beans. Plenty of them don't know turnips. That there is a decided difference in turnips is something that never occurred to lots of people. Yet there is decidedly. Some are fine and some are middling and some are poor, watery, stringy things. Risley of Vernon raised a lot of particularly good ones this year. We have 'em—at 35 cents a peck, 95 cents a bushel.
Fine frosted Parsnips are in, too. And the Vegetable Department is bragging today about the quality of its Hard Cabbage; its white, crisp Celery; its brittle, flavormore Lettuce; its kiln dried Sweet Potatoes, and its Carrots. New Bunch Carrots are 10 cents, three for 29—and especially fresh and nice. Good Native Potatoes are only 89 cents a bushel.
Florida Oranges of fine quality and good size, 39 cents a dozen. What a flop in prices of oranges! Everybody can have 'em now, without feeling that they taste too strong of money.
Baldwin Apples—good for any use and best for some—59 cents a basket.
Comes the Meat Department with suggestions of Mettwurst, Small Sausages—and they are deliciously seasoned—at 35 cents; Sausage Meat at 28 cents pound; Daisy Hams and Small Pot Roasts—the small-family kind.
Phone 2000.
