

RUSH SERUM IN AIRPLANE TO FAR NORTH

World War Ace is Carrying Anti-Toxin to Fur Depot Within the Arctic Circle; Eight Hundred Mile Trip.

Edmonton, Alta., Canada, Jan. 3.—In answer to a plea from the vast reaches of the Arctic to save a life placed in jeopardy through the inroads and ravages of diphtheria, Captain Wilfred ("Wop") May, intrepid Edmonton aviator and noted air force ace during the World War, was flying to Little Red river today with 200,000 units of anti-toxin. One man is already dead, another is dying and the serum is urgently needed to prevent a spread of the disease at the post, which is fifty miles north of Fort Vermillion and about 800 miles from Edmonton in a direct line.

On Last Leg.
Captain May was to leave McLennox this morning in his commercial plane on the last leg of the race against death. He is expected to reach his destination by noon today. The plane took off from the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Aero Club flying field at 12:45 p. m., yesterday and arrived at McLennox at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The machine is open and in order to prepare the pilot for the intensely cold weather, a specially prepared electrically heated suit had to be manufactured.

Word was received here yesterday by the Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health, that the original victim, the factor of the Hudsons Bay Company post, had died but that the serum was urgently needed to prevent a spread through contact cases. A total of 200,000 units of the serum obtained from the University of Albert hospital was sent.

Doctor's Appeal.
The message for help had been forwarded from the post partly by means of a dog team, it was an urgent request from Dr. Hammon, the physician at the post, for anti-toxin to save at least one life and possibly more.

MAKE ROADS SAFE, SAYS GOV. ALLEN

Bay State Executive in Inaugural Message Makes Some Suggestions.

Boston, Jan. 3.—Governor-Elect Frank G. Allen in his inaugural address to both branches of the Legislature today pledged himself anew to use every effort "to make the highways of Massachusetts safe for pedestrians and automobilists alike."

Drastic measures to keep down the appalling list of motor fatalities in Massachusetts—706 last year—were suggested by the new chief executive as follows:

1—Rules and regulations for control of traffic and the establishment of through routes and signals, and police direction of the same—complete standardization of the traffic law.

2—Require by statute that every automobile operated in this Commonwealth be submitted at regular intervals to an inspection by competent persons, to establish whether its safety devices are in proper condition so that they may be used to protect the operator of the motor vehicle and the public in general.

3—Examinations more drastic in character than now are required of applicants for licenses so as to preclude the possibility of persons physically and mentally incompetent obtaining the right to operate motor vehicles, and the operator after an interval to be required to take a second examination.

4—Enactment of legislation to provide that any driver who has been involved in a serious accident in which he was at fault shall have his license revoked for a definite and very substantial period of time, and to provide that any driver involved in a fatal accident while he is under the influence of liquor shall be prevented permanently from obtaining a license to drive a motor vehicle in Massachusetts.

5—Abolition of grades on the main routes of the roads and on important grade crossings.

Make Own Survey.
The governor further suggested that the legislature provide sufficient funds to enable the state insurance commissioner to obtain data and statistical knowledge in

NOVEL RADIO BILL JAN. 12

37 Stations to be Shifted to Various Cities by Means of Electric Clocks.

New York, Jan. 3.—Thirty-seven stations in the NBC system will be linked in an elaborate "shifting" broadcast system on the night of January 12 when the new $14,000,000 tunnel of the Great Northern railroad through the Cascade mountains, east of Seattle, is dedicated. It was made known today.

The voice of Mme. Schumann-Heink in San Francisco, George Olsen and his orchestra in New York and the speeches of world famous figures at Washington, New York and at the tunnel's mouth will be heard during the time the railroad's transcontinental flyer, the Oriental Limited, makes its first journey through the tunnel. The broadcasting points will be governed by the second hand of a stop watch, synchronized with electric clocks in New York and San Francisco. Graham McNamee, NBC announcer, will be on the train and will speak before and after the flyer enters the tunnel.

GIBBET READY FOR HANGING OF L.A. COUPLE

Another Snyder-Gray Case In South—Doctor Involved—Pair to Be Executed On Saturday.

Franklin, La., Jan. 3.—Forty-eight hours before the time set for their execution, Mrs. Ada Bonner Leboeuf and Dr. T. E. Dreher, conspirators in the slaying of the former's husband, learned today that their last dim hope had flickered away.

Gov. Huey P. Long has announced definitely that he will not intervene in the double hanging of the man and woman set for between the hours of 12 and 3 p. m., Saturday, and Sheriff Charles Peot of Franklin has started erecting the scaffold from which they will be hanged.

Were Hopeful
Until word came of the governor's announcement, Mrs. Leboeuf and Dr. Dreher both had been hopeful.

"I guess that's our last chance gone," said Dr. Dreher when he learned of the chief executive's decision. Mrs. Leboeuf did not speak, but turned her face and gazed out of the window of her cell.

A close study of the case, a parallel to the famous Gray-Snyder murder, was made by Gov. Long before he finally came to a decision. His reconsideration of the case came as a result of the state pardon board's recommendation that he extend executive mercy to the doomed couple.

Women's club organizations, eleven of the twelve jurors who brought in the hanging verdict, newspaper reporters who covered the Leboeuf-Dreher trial, and individuals in every walk of life, flooded the chief executive with appeals to save the conspirator-slayers from the gallows. There had been threats against his life, if he permitted the hangings, or if he stopped them.

One of the principal grounds on which many of the appeals were based was that Jim Beedle, a trapper who was tried along with Mrs. Leboeuf and Dr. Dreher, and who pleaded guilty to the actual commission of the crime, was given a life sentence. They contended that the same sentence should have been meted out to all.

The crime for which Mrs. Leboeuf and Dr. Dreher were sentenced to hang went down in Louisiana crime annals as one of the most revolting on record. The dissected body of James L. Leboeuf was found July 1, 1927 in Lake Palourde, five days after he had been killed and his body stuffed with iron slugs to keep it from rising.

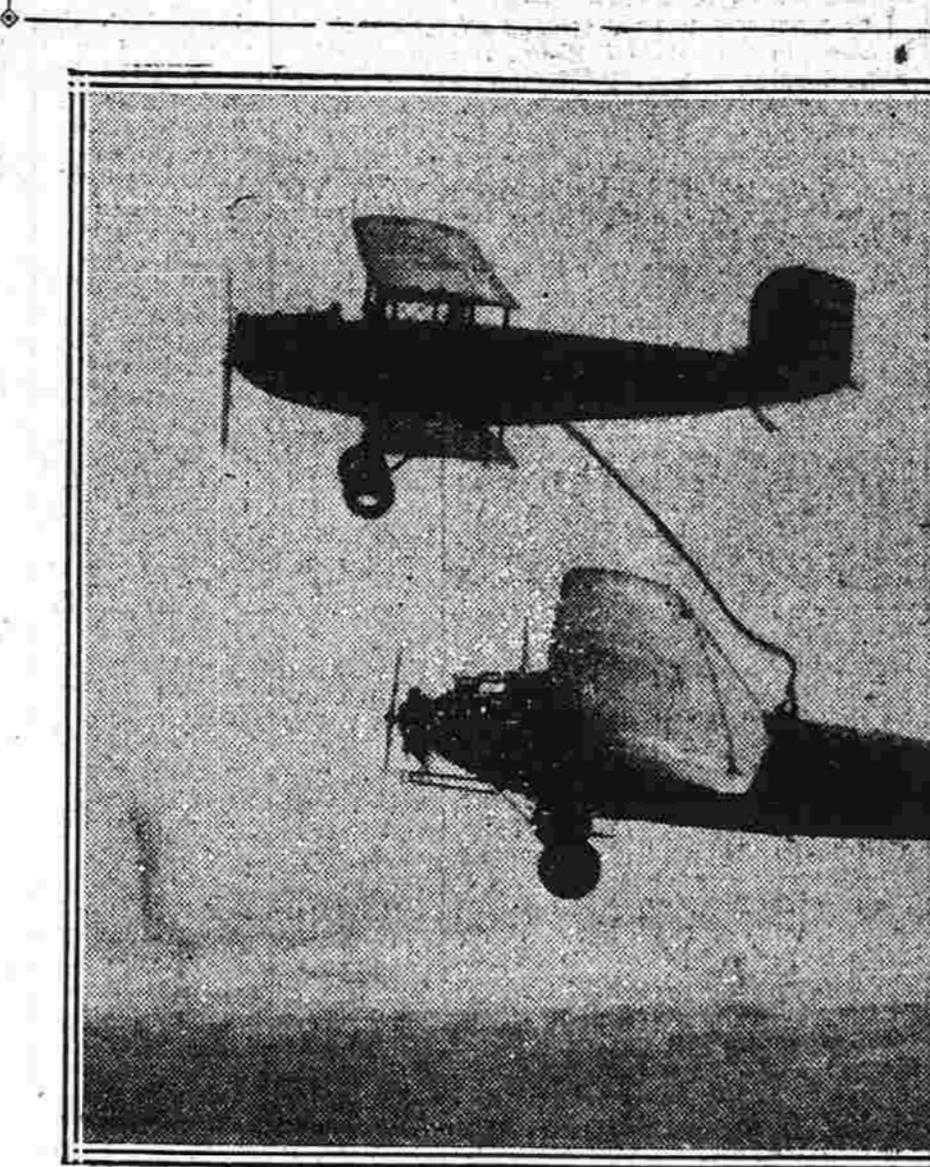

SALVATION ARMY SOON TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES

Niece of Commander Booth Visits Her in London and Trouble is Over.

London, Jan. 3.—Settlement of differences in the Booth family—the family that controls the Salvation Army—may be imminent, as Salvation Army high council meeting set for next Tuesday approaches, according to the Evening News today.

Catherine Booth, a niece of Commander Evangelina Booth, called at the latter's hotel today and the two conferred several hours. Reports that family differences may be composed were based upon this meeting.

RE-FUELING IN AIR

This remarkable photograph, taken from another plane, shows the big army transport Question Mark being refueled in mid-air during its attempt to set a world record for sustained flight as it flew between Los Angeles and San Diego, Calif. Gasoline and oil are transferred from the supply plane, flying above, by means of a long hose. Major Carl Spatz, commanding officer of the Question Mark, is directing the transfer at the lower end of the hose.

HISTORY'S BIGGEST SUIT BEGINS IN WASHINGTON

Billions Involved in Fight to Determine Rate Making for All of the Railroads In America.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Eyes of the railroad and financial world turned to the Supreme Court today as it tackled the so-called "fifteen billion dollar valuation case" the outcome of which may determine the ultimate value for rate-making purposes of all American railroads.

Two small railroads operating 14 miles of main line track in St. Louis and suburbs furnished the basis for an attack upon the Interstate Commerce Commission's theory of valuation and rate-making and the recapture clause of the Esch-Cummings law of 1920.

Famous Lawyers
These railroads, the St. Louis & O'Fallon and the Manufacturers, owned chiefly by the Adolphus Busch Estate, were represented by widely-known counsel and the government called as special counsel General and Walter L. Fisher of Chicago to aid the attorney-general's office and the commerce commission.

The argument was to be opened by Frederick H. Wood for the railroads. With him were Robert H. Kelley, Leslie Craven, Daniel N. Kirby, with Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce appearing as "of counsel." The Great Northern railroad was permitted to file a brief as a friend of the court as was Donald Richberg, representing the viewpoint of the "Progressive Bloc" of the Senate.

Greatest Suit
The decision to consider the treaty before the naval bill, which throw fresh obstacles in the path of enactment for the latter measure. Large groups of pacifists, while endorsing the treaty, have opposed the naval bill, which authorizes the construction of fifteen new cruisers and a giant aircraft carrier.

Opponents of the bill have declared the United States would be subjected to charges of hypocrisy, if after ratifying a treaty to outlaw all war, it began strengthening the navy.

The administration proposed the increase in cruisers in order to bring America's cruiser strength closer to that of Great Britain.

Italian Steamer Sends Out Distress Signals

New York, Jan. 3.—Wallowing helplessly in heavy seas with a broken rudder the Italian steamer Kobe, bound for Philadelphia, Venice, flashed distress signals today.

The message received by the Radio Marine Corporation gave the Kobe's position as Latitude 38:45 North and Longitude 52:12 West, about 600 miles at sea.

The steamers Anselmo De Larrinaga are speeding to the Kobe's assistance, according to other wireless messages intercepted here.

SEEKING KIDNAPER OF GIRL STUDENT

Parents Get Letter from Her Saying Her Captor is Insane.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 3.—Police today were searching for a mysterious "old man with a cane" as the kidnaper of Doris Turner, popular 16-year-old high school student.

Parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Turner, informed police that they were certain the girl had been kidnapped yesterday morning.

She was missing from the time she left her home for school early in the day. Later her parents received a special delivery letter, which they said was in the girl's handwriting, saying she had been kidnapped by the old man who carries a cane.

Daughter's Handwriting
The Turners were positive it was their daughter's handwriting. It told of her being late for school and being picked up by "the old man."

The man, the schoolgirl wrote, gave her a handkerchief, and she said she didn't remember anything after that until he asked her if she wanted to write her parents.

The girl described her kidnaper as "a kind old man about half crazy, but not desperate." She said she was so nervous she could hardly write.

The letter, addressed to the girl's mother, was believed to have been mailed from the main Atlanta, post office.

NOTED NURSE DEAD

New York, Jan. 3.—Miss Anna Caroline Maxwell, "The American Florence Nightingale" who did active work in both the Spanish-American and World Wars is dead here today. Miss Maxwell, who was 77, died as a result of a serious illness of several months duration.

Miss Maxwell received her first training in Boston and was at one time director of nursing in the Massachusetts General hospital. She was called to St. Luke's hospital here in 1889, but left that institution within two years to establish the Nurses School at the Presbyterian hospital.

She won national fame in this position and remained as the guiding genius of the school until she retired in 1921.

STATE BOARD MAKES PUBLIC BUDGET ITEMS

Connecticut Will Need $69,000,000 to Meet Its Expenses for the Next Two Years.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 3.—The State of Connecticut will require $69,940,000 to meet expenses in the two years from July 1, 1929, to June 30, 1930. The first year will use $34,175,000, and the second $35,765,000. This item was contained today in the annual budget message which the State Board of Finance and Control will send to the coming General Assembly. To meet these expenses the state will receive $74,020,000, or $23,050,000 the first year and $36,970,000 in the second year.

Among the items of expenses recommended in the report is $25,380,000 for capital outlay which will include new construction and new projects. This is divided: $12,100,000 the first year and $13,280,000 the second year.

Ordinary Expenses
Ordinary recurring expenses of the state will be a bit less than $22,000,000 for each year, and approximately $600,000 a year will be needed for contingencies, according to the recommendations. It is estimated that the available cash balance in the general fund at the close of each fiscal year will be in excess of $250,000.

Some Totals
Among totals indicated under major capital outlays are the following:

State office building site, $248,500; new office building, $2,250,000; fisheries and game, for acquisition of shooting rights, $50,000; forest and wild life land acquisition, $100,000; Fitch's Home for Soldiers' $240,000; Middletown State Hospital new construction, $100,000; Norwich State Hospital, $104,500; new state hospital, $150,000; Long Lane farm, $150,000; Fairfield county $1,750,000; tubercular sanatoria, Laurel Heights, infirmary at Seaside, and other improvements $230,000; Mansfield Training School, two dormitories $427,000; State Farm for Women $105,000; Long Lane farm, $150,000; State college lavatory $46,620; Groton Airport $123,750.

The board recommends that $150,000 be set aside to be used as the attorney-general may require in fighting the Massachusetts water diversion plan. Extra money is asked for the fund to aid soldiers, sailors, and marines, and $250,000 is asked to build a factory at the state prison to give employment to prisoners. The sum of $248,500 is the site for the proposed state office building now being assembled. Plans for building call for its erection at a cost of $2,250,000 more.

THIEF ROBS GIRL THEN DROPS LOOT

Panicky Thug Waylays Cashier on Street But Cash is Soon Recovered.

New York, Jan. 3.—A panicky young man snatched $1,600 in bank notes from the hand of a girl yesterday shortly after noon on East Seventy-sixth street, between First and Second avenues, ran into a hallway across the street and, apparently, believing that he was pursued, dropped the money and disappeared.

Escapes Easily
The thief easily accomplished his escape. Detectives, after a search of the tenement house and the neighboring buildings, recovered in a back yard not only the money intact in its paper package but the thief's disguise, a worn brown sweater and a pair of black horn spectacle rims without lenses. They believe that the robber, new at the game, quickly threw away his disguise and the money through fright.

Girl Was Bookkeeper
Miss Dorothy Assenheim, 21 years old, of 3,030 Holland avenue, the Bronx, bookkeeper for the Monroe Moving Picture Theatre at First avenue and Seventy-sixth street, was on her way to deposit the money, the theatre receipts of two days, in the National Bank of Yorkville, Eighty-sixth street and Third avenue, when she was robbed.

WAR DEPT. BUDGET HITS ECONOMY PLAN

SCENTED MURDER AT BROAD BROOK Death of Mrs. Mary Pelton Found, However, from Natural Causes.

David Lynch, 53-years-old tobacco worker, has been cleared of all responsibility in the death of Mrs. Mary Pelton, aged 50, who was found dead in bed at her little home in an isolated section of Broad Brook, New Year's morning.

When the woman was first discovered, Lynch, it appears was sitting in an adjoining room unconscious over the death. He was intoxicated and had made effort to report the death of the woman with whom he boarded. Both worked at a tobacco warehouse and no one else lived in the house.

No Foul Play
Dr. J. A. Coogan, medical examiner from Windsor Locks, said that in his opinion death was due to heart trouble and that there was no indication whatsoever of foul play. She had been dead at least 24 hours, he said. Others said that Mrs. Pelton had been drinking heavily. When she was found by neighbors, Mrs. Pelton lay across the bed fully clothed except that she was without shoes. It was apparent that she was just preparing to retire for the night when stricken.

Reports spread quickly that Lynch had murdered the woman, but the authorities were satisfied that he was in no way responsible. However, they did find sufficient reason "to induce Justice of the Peace Oscar J. Depatie to order Lynch committed to the state farm for inebriates at Norwich. Judge Depatie, however, insisted that the confinement was not the result of the sudden death of Mrs. Pelton.

GILBERT ON ARRIVAL MUM ON REPARATIONS

Tells Reporters That His Report Explains Everything; Will Soon Return.

New York, Jan. 3.—S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for the reparation payments accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert arrived this morning on the Cunard liner Berengaria. Mr. Gilbert, as in previous years when returning upon the completion and announcement of the result for the year of the Dawes Plan, was both non-committal and mysterious. He met all questions relatives to the report which was issued to the European and American press on Wednesday by referring back to the report. There was no explanation; no amplification.

Asked if he had heard, as yet, of criticism the German press that he had not made mention of those German commercial loans made in foreign countries, which in turn had made possible much of the meeting of the reparations, he replied: "Those figures are included in the report. I mentioned them to the extent that it was correct to mention them."

Told that there had been repeated rumors that he would resign from his work as agent general after the present year had ended, he would not make a direct answer other than to say "I do not know of that." He added that he expects to be in the United States but two weeks and then he will return to Germany.

"QUESTION MARK" UP FOR THE THIRD DAY

But Fog is So Dense That There is Fear She Cannot Be Refueled.

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—Leaving in her wake a new American record for sustained flight while refueling, the giant Army monoplane "Question Mark," roared through sunny skies above southern California today on its third day in the air. It has already been aloft approximately 49 hours at 8:15 a. m.

While the great gold and brown plane was maintaining its attack on the world's air record, another question mark arose in the minds of Army officers with reports of a falling barometer and changing weather conditions at San Diego.

So dense was the fog above the southern city that the big test plane failed to reach Rockwell's field during the night and doubt was expressed whether contact with the southern day in the air. It has already been aloft before this afternoon.

Supply Bill Asks for Increase of 35 Millions Over Last Year—Flood Control and Army Housing Causes In- crease—Other Appropri- ations Slashed.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The economy aspirations of Congress suffered a shock today when the House appropriations committee reported the annual War Department supply bill providing $435,428,415 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, an increase of $35,111,774 over last year.

The increase, the committee explained, is due chiefly to Mississippi flood control work, pay increases and the new Army housing program.

In an effort to hold down the total while Congressional leaders and government officials are arguing over the possibility of a deficit, the committee slashed present appropriations wherever possible without crippling the national defense. It was declared in the report. The budget, however, was exceeded by $256,605.

Flood Control
The actual sum recommended for military activities, is $223,338,815. For non-military activities, including flood control and rivers and harbors work the total is $107,089,600.

In the face of the demand for economy, the committee's report showed that it had not provided sufficient funds to keep pace with the 5-year air program designed to make the American Army second to none in aviation.

A total of $33,578,683 was recommended for the air corps, an increase of $8,729,141 over last year. Even with this increase, the report stated, the Army will be 106 planes short of the full strength of the 5-year program at the end of the next fiscal year.

Will Hamper Work
In submitting this proposal, the committee invited the attention of Congress to its hearing, which disclosed that the assistant secretary of war for air division said that the prospective shortage of 106 planes would "seriously hamper" the work of the air corps.

The committee did not provide funds for new buildings at Scott field, Illinois, the Army's lightest-than-air base, and stated that the bill contemplates a reduction of the Army's activities with this type of airship. By the end of 1930, it was stated, the Army will have but three airships or "blimps." The committee has taken the position that this is primarily the field of the Navy.

The bill contemplates a regular army of 12,000 commissioned officers and 118,750 enlisted men next year, substantially the same as at present.

A total of $32,319,799 was proposed for the National Guard, to increase its strength from 153,000 to 190,000 men. A cut in the number of organized reserves to be trained from 19,443 to 16,382 is contemplated in the reduction of $251,606 over last year for the organized reserves.

Funds were proposed for an enrollment of 127,141 for the reserve officers' training corps, the same as this year. The committee boosted the budget estimate for the civilian military training camps, to make possible training of 37,500 instead of 35,000 youths.

A total of $30,000,000 was urged to carry on the Mississippi flood control program. The total appropriation for rivers and harbors including flood control, was $50,000,000 as compared to $55,386,310 last year.

TOY FINALLY REMOVED FROM INFANT'S THROAT

Swallowed Three Weeks Ago, Doctors Use No Anesthetic During Operation.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 3.—Baby Frank Brooks, 18-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks, Acow, W. Va., is recovering today following the removal of a toy motorcycle an inch and a half long from his throat late yesterday. The baby swallowed the toy about three weeks ago while eating candied popcorn, in which the toy had been inserted as a prize.

Physicians inserted an Esophagoscope into the child's throat and withdrew the obstruction. Anesthetic was not used and the process required but a minute. It was said. An incision was not required.

NEW RADIO PARLEY TO BE HELD SOON Canada, Cuba and Mexico Fighting Bitterly for Wave Lengths.

The Radio commission recently assigned many of the short waves, but reserved 88 channels, announcing that their distribution would be subject of discussion by the North American countries.

A preliminary meeting was held last August and a tentative allocation of the short waves arranged. The conference adjourned so that the plan could be given adequate study. Mexico was not represented.

Others Complain. The other North American countries insisted that the United States has taken possession of the high frequency channels. Development of the more specialized and commercial uses of radio in the short wave bands have been hampered as a result of the big share of facilities appropriated by this country.

CAMPAIGNS COST OVER 25 MILLION

Major Parties Make Reports to Congress—Democrats In Debt.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Any doubts about the Hoover-Smith contest being the most expensive presidential campaign in history were dispelled today when party organizations, large and small, figuratively threw open their financial ledgers for public inspection by filing their reports with the House of Representatives.

The two major parties admit having expended nearly $12,000,000. As politicians reckon it, however, this is only half the story. When the amounts expended by minor organizations and thousands of individuals—of which there are no official records—are taken into consideration it is not improbable, they say, that the 1928 election cost in the neighborhood of $25,000,000.

Democrats Report. The Democratic Party's report, filed today, shows that the party wound up the year on Dec. 31 with a huge deficit of $14,431,331. This is larger than had been anticipated, although it has been known for some time that contributions to the Smith cause did not keep pace with expenditures during the campaign.

James W. Gerard, national treasurer, reported receipts from all sources of $5,444,958, and expenditures of $5,342,249, leaving an apparent balance in the treasury of $102,709. But there are unpaid notes held in New York banks of $1,609,000 to reckon with. The loans are figured in the total receipts, so the net deficit is nearly $1,500,000.

G O P Has Balance. The Republicans are more fortunately situated. Their report filed yesterday, showed receipts from all sources of $6,541,748 and expenditures of but $6,256,637, leaving a favorable balance in the party chest of $285,111. There are no bank loans confronting the Republicans, either.

Democratic indebtedness consists of three notes for $500,000 each, arranged through the County Trust Co., of New York, with which James J. Riordan, a warm friend of Gov. Smith, is connected, and a $100,000 loan advanced by John J. Raskob, the national chairman.

Among the numerous messages of New Year's greetings received by the president-elect was one from President Moncada, of Nicaragua.

SKATING CONDITIONS AT "SPRINGS" RINK

There is good skating at the "Center Springs" rink today. The part that was cleaned off, towards the west end of the pond, was a little rough last night, but this was slightly smoothed with the result that it is now the upper part of the rink which was partly covered by snow and was not cleared off, is also in perfect condition, the water flowing over the snow and resulting in a clear smooth surface.

TO VISIT EGYPT

New York, Jan. 3.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., sailed early today for Egypt, where he will take a pleasure trip along the historic Nile.

The wealthy philanthropist left on the Navigazione Generale Italiana motorship Augustus and was accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller; her youngest son, David; Dr. James H. Brewster, the university of Chicago Egyptologist, and his son Charles, and several friends of the two families. They will remain in the land of the pyramids for three or four months.

Schools of the town reopened on Thursday after a vacation of twelve days. Most of the teachers from out of town went to their homes to spend their vacations.

The ice has been in good condition for skating for the past week. An overworked meadow about half a mile from the center makes a delightful place for the young people and children to enjoy the sport and has the added value of being perfectly safe as the pond is everywhere shallow. The meadow is covered with skaters every day in good weather.

Mrs. Sherwood Miner has received word of the serious illness with pneumonia of her sister, Miss Hannah Fuller of East Haddam.

Bradford Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Smith, spent a few days this week as the guest of his aunt, Miss Florence E. Smith, who is principal of the Seymour School in West Hartford.

The assessors will meet at the town clerk's office on Saturday next. Their task of making the assessments has already taken a good deal longer than they at first expected.

Miss Anna Epstein who has been employed at the Amston Grain Mill for the past two or three years has left for New York City where she will locate. She spent the last day or two of her stay in Hebron; at the home of her sister, Mrs. Morris R. Ackmolvitz.

Jack Tennant, Jr., spent the Christmas and New Years holidays at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tennant.

Hebron and Gilead Christian Endeavor societies went to Colchester Sunday evening to attend the tri-county Endeavor union meeting at the Congregational church. The attraction for the evening was a Christmas cantata rendered by the choir of Colchester and Westchester under the directorship of Mrs. W. O. Seyms.

Allen W. H. Sterry returned on Wednesday from his vacation spent in Ridgefield, Mr. Sterry will remain a week or so longer owing to the illness of her infant daughter. She is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hull.

TWO DEAD, ONE DYING IN FIGHT OVER LAND

Doctor Shoots Father and Then for No Reason Kills Two Sons.

Belleville, Ont., Jan. 3.—Charles Twells, said to have been at one time a practicing physician in India, was held here today on a murder charge, the outgrowth of a triple shooting last yesterday in which Twells' sons, Kenneth, 11, and Colin, 9, were killed.

Twells' brother-in-law, Arthur Corfield, was twice wounded in the head and his condition is said to be serious.

Corfield went to the Twells' home to clarify the division of equipment of a farm which both worked on shares. Daid Mattia, Jr., neighbor, accompanied Corfield.

Twells and Corfield quarreled over the division and Twells is alleged to have shot Corfield with the pistol and then, for some unknown reason, shot and killed his two young sons.

REPARATIONS REPORT IS TOO OPTIMISTIC

Paris, Jan. 3.—Despite the protests of the German press that the Gilbert reparations report is too optimistic, it is being studied today by French and British experts for reference when the new reparations conference opens.

French officials take the stand that the report, which is an official although a non-government document, "proves that Germany can pay."

The semi-official Temps, in a long editorial analysis of the document, declares it is proof that Germany is able to meet her present obligations of approximately $600,000,000 annually under the Dawes plan.

When the new reparations commission meets, late in January or early in February, it is believed that the German delegates will attack the Gilbert report as "more optimistic than is justified by the actual facts."

Help Check Influenza! Local People Urged to Help Prevent Epidemic Spreading

At bedtime take a laxative, if you are constipated, and rub Vicks VapoRub on the throat and chest. Vicks medicated vapors are then released by the heat of the body, and breathed in all night long, direct to the air passages. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like an old fashioned poultice, drawing out tightness and pain and helping the vapors to break up the congestion. If you feel feverish call a physician.

Medical authorities now agree that influenza is a germ disease—most commonly spread by breathing in the germs. If the system is in good shape—the membrane of the air passages in a healthy condition—these germs do not usually breed. It is only when the bodily resistance is lowered that the germs do the most harm.

Start Protective Treatment at Once Right now while influenza is so prevalent every precaution should be taken to protect the air passages. When you feel one of these "Flu Colds" coming on don't wait; start the following treatment at once: Get a jar of Vicks VapoRub and place some up each nostril, or melt some in a bowl of hot water and inhale its medicated vapors. This helps to keep the air passages in a healthy condition, thus making it difficult for the germs to breed.

HOOVER EXPECTED AT CAPITAL SUNDAY

Absord U. S. S. Utah. (Via Arlington, Va., Radio Station)—Jan. 3.—President-Elect Herbert Hoover, who is due in Washington on Sunday evening, probably will have his first meeting with President Coolidge at luncheon on Monday.

This was the understanding on shipboard today. The Utah is less than 1,000 miles off the Virginia coast. Despite the fact the ship has been steadily northward bound for 15 days the weather is still uncomfortably warm in daytime. The decline in temperature has averaged one point a day since leaving Montevideo.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover are enjoying the voyage and the president-elect is taking things easily in preparation for the rush of activities he will encounter in Washington. Mr. Hoover was an interested observer when the Jan. 1 inventory was taken of the stores in the many departments of the ship.

Among the numerous messages of New Year's greetings received by the president-elect was one from President Moncada, of Nicaragua.

SEN. JONES ASKS FOR DRY PROBE

Washington, Jan. 3.—A sweeping investigation of prohibition enforcement by a special committee of five Senators was proposed in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Wesley L. Jones, (R) of Washington, one of the dry leaders, only to meet with immediate opposition.

Jones sponsored a resolution of inquiry under which Vice President Dawes would name five Senators to conduct the proposed investigation. This drew criticism from Senators King (D) of Utah, a Dry and Senator Bruce (D) of Maryland, a Wet.

Bruce charged the Jones resolution would "forestall" an impartial investigation of prohibition enforcement, which President-Elect Herbert Hoover promised during the last campaign.

King simultaneously introduced a bill transferring the enforcement of prohibition from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice. King declared it was an "absurdity" to have prohibition enforced by the "tax collecting agency of the government." He declared the Jones proposal, saying there was no need for a further investigation of enforcement as violations were so numerous every citizen was aware of them.

The Jones resolution was referred to the Senate Judiciary committee, where the Wet undoubtedly will fight its approach.

U. S. W. V. LODGES INSTALL OFFICERS

Ward Cheney Camp and Auxiliary Hold Banquet at the Sheridan.

The members of Ward Cheney Camp and Mary B. Cheney Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, held their annual installation banquet at the Hotel Sheridan last night, at 6:30 p. m.

The banquet room was appropriately decorated with red, white and blue and evergreens as the comrades and sisters entered all gave the "flag salute".

At the guest table were seated the installing officers and commander and commander-elect of camp and auxiliary, and president-elect of auxiliary.

The installing officer, Past President Mary Warren and Past President Jennie Sheridan conducted ceremonies for auxiliary. The officers are:

President, Florence Treadwell. Senior vice-president, Elizabeth Olds. Junior vice-president, Elizabeth Maher.

Chaplain, Fannie Waterman. Patriotic instructor, Jennie Sheridan. Historian, Mildred Tedford. Conductor, Edna Fuller. Assistant conductor, Josie Keating.

Guard, Mary Peckenham. Assistant guard, Lottie Behrend. Pianist, Mildred Tedford. Secretary, Mary Warren. Treasurer, Mary Johnson.

A past president gold jewel was presented to retiring president Peckenham by Past President Warren from camp and auxiliary by Past Department President Mary Johnson, to which Mrs. Peckenham responded with feeling, expressing her appreciation and thanks to both camp and auxiliary.

The installing officer, Mrs. Warren was presented with a gold piece from auxiliary, which she graciously acknowledged. Past President Peckenham then presented a silk scarf to her treasurer, Mrs. Mary Johnson, for which the latter extended her appreciation and thanks.

The new president, Mrs. Treadwell, turned the gavel over to Commander J. Maher who in turn introduced the installing officer, Past commander of Ward Cheney Camp, E. Martin Ogden, of Hartford who appointed Commander Maher as master of ceremonies and the following officers were installed.

Commander, Nathan Jenner. Senior vice commander, Thomas Murphy. Junior vice commander, Arthur Keating. Quartermaster, Nelson L'Heroux. Adjutant, Charles Warren. Trustee, Jere Maher. Historian, Joseph Behrend. Patriotic instructor, Edward Bail.

Officer of day, William Robinson. Officer of guard, Edward Waterman.

A past commander's jewel was presented to Past Commander Maher by Past Commander Ogden in behalf of the camp and Past Commander Maher presented installing officer Ogden with a "mystery box of good will" from the camp. Each comrade responded as only a veteran can. Remarks were made by many present and congratulations extended to the new officers of camp and auxiliary.

The new commander has lived here for the past two years and was transferred here from G. A. Hadsell Camp of Bristol and his three daughters to the local auxiliary. Their home is on Hamlin street.

The quilt was drawn by Mrs. Joseph Behrend.

Although most artificial silk fabric is made of wood pulp, it can also be made from cabbages, bananas or any other vegetable matter from which cellulose is obtained.

BURR CO. TO RECEIVE PLANTS FROM AFAR

A carload of seedlings mostly young fruit trees, arrived at the Manchester freight station this morning from Yakima Valley, Wash., for the Burr Nursery company. The seedlings will be stored until spring when they will be set out in the plantations and growing grounds of the company.

The company has also received word that there is now on the way from France, a shipment of seedlings, mostly fruit trees, which will arrive the latter part of this week or early next week.

Twelve carloads will be sent through from New York in specially constructed cars. They are making their trip across the ocean in specially constructed compartments.

Later on the company is to receive shipments of roses from France, from California and from Texas, where Mr. Burr is interested in growing companies. The present foreign shipment is from the Franco-American Seedling company of France.

While in the past the Burr company has not gone greatly into the rose producing end of the nursery business, this branch is now to be developed.

$3,800 IN FINES

Danbury, Conn., Jan. 3 — Danbury's City Court resembled a banking house today as the clerk collected fines imposed by Judge C. A. Hallock on a dozen men and women who had offended against the liquor laws. The fines totaled $3,800, the costs almost half as much again.

The fines were imposed on a group arrested by state police on the night of December 23. Only two of the prisoners received jail sentences.

PRACTICAL IDEALISM
 That the state of New York has an idealist as its new governor is pretty well evidenced by a single paragraph of Mr. Roosevelt's inaugural address. Declaring that New York's citizens, more than those of any other state, have reason to realize the interdependence of men one upon the other, he says in that paragraph:
 "Without the help of thousands of others, any one of us would be naked and starved. Consider the bread upon our tables, the clothes upon our backs, the luxuries that make life pleasant, how many men worked in sunlit fields, in dark mines, in the fierce heat of molten metal and among the looms and wheels of countless factories, in order to create them for our use and enjoyment.
 Frankly we are more interested in that small part of Governor Roosevelt's address than in those parts which deal with the special problems of the government of the state of New York. Because there are thousands of people in New York who know a great deal about state expenditures and state taxes and the needs of state institutions, but there are very few, there or anywhere else, who realize what poor things they would be if left to themselves and denied the co-operation of other and to them unknown human entities.
 And fewer yet are those who realize that the more communities are congested the more helpless, individually, become their human atoms. Contrast the condition of the six million people of New York with the situation of an equal number distributed as are the populations of Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, or even Vermont.
 Such populations as these latter, should some enormous social or physical cataclysm destroy the fabric of existence as it is lived today, conceivably could make shift to sustain life, each family or each individual by its unaided efforts—could clothe and feed and shelter itself after the fashion of primitive man. But populations such as those of the metropolis, with the sustaining support of distant workers withdrawn, could do nothing at all but die.
 Perhaps the primary fault of education in this country is its failure to instill into the minds of succeeding generations the slightest understanding of the rudiments of economics. It is submitted that if the germ of this thought of interdependence could be implanted in the minds of all the children of America in just one generation, we should have, when those children grew up, the wisest and the most successful nation that the world has ever seen—and the kindest.

QUICKLY VERIFIED
 There appeared in these columns yesterday an article expressing this newspaper's belief that most of the cases of injurious "hounding" of ex-convicts by police were fictional and that by far the greater part of the police everywhere is disposed to give a published criminal a decent break after he has paid the penalty.
 The article was written on Tuesday afternoon. Yesterday morning, by something of a coincidence, the New York Daily News carried a letter from an ex-convict which so completely supports the view of the Herald editorial that we cannot refrain from re-printing it. The letter follows:
 "The 'hounding' of ex-convicts who are 'trying to go straight' just doesn't happen. I speak from an experience of ten years as a crook and eight years in some of the toughest jails and prisons in this country.
 The wall about 'hounding' is just a bid for sympathy when a crook gets grabbed on another job or sports around without any means of support. I used to make the same cry, so I know what I'm talking about.
 Since I have been playing the game in the level, my greatest encouragement has come from police and detectives whom I used to suppose so anxious to persecute me. On my last release from prison, I received financial aid from the very detectives who arrested me; this on my promise to get a job and stay on the level.

 On another occasion a sergeant of detectives saved me from being railroaded out of a good job when a shyster lawyer and his client, whom I had gypped some years before, tried to blackmail me.
 My present employer—one of the whitest and squarest men that God ever made—has given me every opportunity and encouragement to come back, and I'm coming back strong, I enter deadlines, restricted, and financial districts, banks and buildings with millions of dollars floating around. Yet I am never molested, picked up or told to keep out. The simple reason is that I am on the level and the police know it.
 A man's greatest enemies after he leaves prison are his former free and prison associates. If he is out to do the right thing, and to play a square game, he can count on the support and backing of the police. The best breaks I ever got were from those who know my record and know that I'm keeping a clean slate.
 "Police persecution" is a fairy story, but it makes a great bid for morbid public sympathy.
 EX-73902 (SING SING),
 EX-21202 (ATLANTA).

This subject is important, not because here in Manchester we have any criminal class at all, but because the police of the whole country have been completely misrepresented, as to their attitude toward past offenders who are trying to live decently, in fiction stories and films which constitute a considerable part of the education of the people in this town and in every other town.
 The testimony of the New York ex-crook is far from local to that city in its interest. It bears on a question on which the whole American people are being misled, and the effect of that misleading is a bad one on public morale everywhere.
LAME DUCK CONGRESS
 It is rather surprising to find the Springfield Union, a newspaper that in many relations manifests symptoms of progressivism, very nearly alone in combatting the idea that inaugurations of Presidents and beginnings of new Congresses should be advanced to the beginning of the year following election. The Union holds to the belief that the three months intervals and the short sessions of lame duck Congresses are quite necessary as periods of preparation for the turning over of the affairs of the nation to new administrations or new national legislatures. It can see no particular relationship between the existing situation and the greater speed of transportation and communication, nowadays, than in the time of the Constitution's adoption.
 For our part we can't see a thing, cited in favor of the delay in changing governments until the March following a November election, which couldn't be cited in favor of electing a President or a Congress a couple of years in advance of their taking office.
 If a person elected to the Presidency or to Congress needs three months in which to fit himself for the job, then he probably needs a lot more than three months, because no fellow can fit himself for either position in twelve weeks. So, according to the Union's logic, we should have better Presidents and better Congressmen if we should elect them and then have them take a two years' course of observation of how the machine is operated.
 That would be, of course, merely ridiculous. But it would exceed the present system in its ridiculousness only in degree.

CAN'T BE DONE
 William R. Hearst's offer of a $25,000 prize for the best plan to repeal the Eighteenth amendment and bring about a genuine reform in the use of alcoholic beverages is a little difficult to comprehend.
 What plan can be devised for the repeal of the amendment, other than the formula for such a proceeding definitely prescribed by the Constitution itself, is difficult to imagine. That some plan might be devised to nullify the amendment is conceivable. But Mr. Hearst says "repeal," and the only way to repeal a Constitutional amendment is to proceed under Article 5 of that instrument, by a two-thirds vote of both Houses of Congress and ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states.
 We fall to see how there can be a "plan" at all, so far as getting rid of the amendment by repeal is concerned. That there are a hundred possible plans for substituting better legislation for it, once it were repealed, is, however, easy enough to believe. And if contestants were permitted to confine themselves to that department of the problem some extremely interesting and perhaps valuable ideas might be elicited by the prize offer.
 There is just one thing that stands in the way of the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, but it is a monumental barrier to action. That thing is the inherent inability of the average human being to admit, after proof, that he has been mistaken on any measure of which he has been an enthusiastic partisan. There are enough advocates of Volstead prohibition who will remain advocates of it in the face of everything, simply because they originally believed in this method of reform, to block the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment during the life of the present generation.

 We have steadily held to the belief, however, and still hold to it, that the elimination of the amendment will come, eventually, through Supreme Court action. But how anybody can submit a plan to bring that about is more than we can see—and if it were submitted, and were ever so good, it would still not be a plan for "repeal."
 Mr. Hearst had better rephrase his offer.

IN NEW YORK
 New York, Jan. 3.—It's a long trek from the dim squator and wine-soaked odor of a tiny "gargotte," or inn, in Genoa's Portoria section to a dim lit, plush curtained, elegantly attended theater in the mid-Fifties of the Broadway belt.
 But when the plush curtains were drawn the other afternoon, Pasquale Taraffo pieced together the story of this climb, in excellent Spanish which I couldn't understand, but which an interpreter could.
 Taraffo is the latest addition to the Spanish invasion which has been under way for a season—in fact it dates back to Raquel Meller, who really came from Paris, even if she did sing Spanish songs. Segovia, the guitarist, arrived a year ago and no Manhattan theater is large enough to house the crowds he draws. L'Argentina, who can do things to tennis rackets and Al Jolson can do things to mammy songs, has had the tea-table-circles all hot and bothered this semester.
 And now comes Taraffo—and if I seem to pass over the others to reach him, it is because Taraffo had a story to tell—the sort of story I should like to tell about New York places and things if I knew where to find them.

The dark lane of Genoa's Portoria section is not a pretty place. We who go slumming would find it "colorful," "amusing" and all that. But also we would find it drunken. Here, some years ago, appeared a youth with a broken, nondescript guitar. He deposited himself on a bench in the corner and began to play for the herd of drunken hanger-on. He played because he needed food. A loaf of bread was all he asked of life. But even this took a few coppers. So he sat and played in the corner and had pennies tossed in his hat. And so he came again to play—and again, and again.
 Taraffo will tell you the story, if you are still there. Outside in the lane dirty young ragamuffins race about as usual, and women stand in wrangling groups. But the bar bums of yesteryear are gone. A very different crowd comes today. And they come because word had traveled of a lad who sat in a corner and played a guitar.
 There are writers there now, and critics and artists who come and play. The squallid gargotte has become a musical mecca wherein now hangs a large painting of a young man, below which is an inscription: "Pasquale Taraffo—master of the guitar." Of course, the American concert agents found him sooner or later. And that's that.
 The big town gossip—When Ethel Barrymore opened her new theatre the name of the director appeared as E. M. Blythe, which happens to be Miss Barrymore's family name. . . . Only a few caught on.
 Thyra Sampter Winslow gave her annual holiday party the other night and something like 1000 people must have crashed the gate. . . . One of the wisecracking guests remarked that "you could dance on a dime and still get change."
 M. Samuel Goldwyn's Christmas pencil is now used to correct the minor and major errors of this author's copy. . . . Come again, Sam! . . . Eddie Cantor, whose name has appeared in the department at one time or another, is expecting another heir. . . . It seems that Eddie has been trying to these many years to become father of a son, but always the stork fooled him and brought a girl. . . . He has about half a dozen children now, all girls. . . . "And," he remarked the other evening, "if this one is a girl I'll give up and have a chorus of my own."
 GILBERT SWAN.

THE CRUSTACEANS
 The lobster, crab, crawfish and shrimp are crustaceans. They are covered with a greenish shell armour which becomes red upon being boiled. These shellfish, instead of having their bones inside the flesh as do most animals, are reversed and have the shell upon the exterior.
 The "indigestible" reputation of the lobster is usually because of the sauces and mixtures that are eaten with this tasty meat. Used in its proper season, and freshly boiled, lobster meat is quite as wholesome as any other, but it should never be combined with cheese. The meat contains from 17 per cent to 19 per cent protein.
 Most market lobsters vary in length from ten to fifteen inches, and should be transported from the fisheries to the kitchen while still alive. Canned lobsters, crabs and shrimps are also wholesome.
 The life history of a lobster is somewhat interesting. The egg is a dark green and is attached to the mother's abdomen, increasing in size for about ten months, when it hatches. It then floats near the surface of the water and undergoes a casting off of its shell for five times before it becomes a mature lobster. The little larvae lobsters are destroyed in millions by storms and fish. This infant lobster is also carnivorous and each one considers the other a delicious morsel of food. It is estimated that only one lobster out of five thousand eggs reaches maturity. However, since the female lobster may produce from ten to sixty thousand eggs, there is no actual danger of race suicide among the lobsters.
 After the larval stage, the young lobster assumes the shape of the full grown lobster and begins to live its life at the sea bottom, its principal food being fish. As the lobster increases in size it casts off its hard outer shell, revealing a soft inner one. It increases rapidly in size until the shell hardens again. This process is repeated throughout the life of the lobster. It is most valuable for eating just before it has cast off its old shell, the new shell being flavorless and spongy in comparison.
 There are a few individuals who find lobster meat disagreeable with them. These are usually people suffering from acidosis or uterine cancer, but most people, however, will find the flesh quite wholesome and an interesting variety to the diet.
 The meat of crabs closely resembles lobster, but is not of quite as delicate a flavor. They are wholesome, but because they may be covered with contaminated substances, should be thoroughly cleaned, and cooked before eaten.
 Shrimps, prawns and carmelotes are found in abundance in many parts of the ocean. There is less danger of contamination from these smaller crustaceans than from lobsters and crabs. The flesh is considered by many to be superior in flavor, and they are slightly richer in mineral matter, especially iodine. These meats should be eaten with non-starchy vegetables. They are excellent to use in salads.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 Fallen Arches
 Question: R. F. K. asks: "What is the best exercise to take to strengthen the arches of the feet?"
 Answer: The best one I know of is to walk pigeon-toed part of the time; when you are taking your daily walk, try to walk about one-third of the time slightly pigeon-toed, catching your weight on the big toe side of the ball of the foot.
 Tapioca
 Question: M. M. F. asks: "Does tapioca contain starch? Is it a good food?"
 Answer: Tapioca is almost a pure starch food and should be eaten such as the diet. The food, like all starches, should be well cooked and not used with other starches or proteins, but with greens.
 Orange Juice and Egg, York
 Question: Mrs. H. asks: "Will a mixture of orange juice and egg yolk cure long standing digestive disorders?"
 Answer: The mixture you ask about is a simple combination, and many people find it agrees with them better than the ordinary had much food and also bodily tissues, and the other's oxidation is sluggish and insufficient to burn up the normal amount of food. A reduction in size of the thyroid is no sign of tuberculosis.
CAUCASUS TRIBES RUSH TO JOIN SOVIET ARMY
 Tiflis, Georgia.—The hoary mountain tribesmen of the Caucasus who have been fighting each other with primitive spears, battle axes and cutlasses for centuries because they had nothing else to do, are swarming into the Red army with great gusto. The volunteer quota for Dagestan and other mountain republics was exceeded by more than 100 per cent. The chairman of the Daghestan executive committee begged Moscow authorities to extend the quota so that only a few warriors would be disappointed.
 Until the revolution the tribes had been held in subjugation. The Soviets opened enlistment to them for the first time this month.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Thursday, January 3.
Fehrnyn Stanawa, artist, illustrator, dramatist and former motion picture producer, will be the guest speaker in the feature hour to be broadcast by WTIC and associated stations at 8 o'clock Thursday night. Mr. Stanawa will be assisted by Jack Shilkrut's orchestra, a male quartet and instrumental soloists. The renowned Russian baritone, Ivan Ivanovitch, and Carolina Lazzari, brilliant operatic contralto, are scheduled to appear before the microphones of WOR and the Columbia stations at 9. The traditional Russian folk air "Song of the Volga Boatmen" is included in Ivanovitch's program. The artists will be accompanied by a symphony orchestra, a musical reception to a noted flautist in a duet palace toward the end of the Eighteenth Century will be the theme of the program by Milady's musicians through the WJZ chain at 9 o'clock. The flute and the harpsichord, both popular instruments of that era are heard in Iacchini's "Musette" and one of Mozart's dances. Extra Gilek, soprano, will be the featured vocalist, presenting "O Ma Tendre Musette" and two delicate French airs. Half an hour later WEAF and allied stations will feature a male quartet, tenor soloist, and a concert orchestra. Other highlights for Thursday night are Charles Gypsy band through WGR at 7:30, Henry Fillmore's band through WHK at 9 and the Harpelle charity ball through WCAB at 10:30.

Miss Ella Mitchell of Bridgeport and Mrs. Emma Strong of Newark, N. J., spent the day Monday in Columbia at the home of Miss Harriet Fuller. Mrs. Eugene Lafleur has as her guest Mrs. Donald Green of Meriden. Mrs. Haywood, Miss Francis Haywood, and Mrs. Dowd of Hartford spent New Years in Columbia at the home of Mrs. W. H. Carpenter. Frederick Bailey, Jr., has returned to his home in Westfield, Mass., after visiting his grandmother here. Mrs. Bailey spent Monday in East Hampton. Mr. and Mrs. Moshe Paranoj and Mr. and Mrs. S. Berkman of Hartford have been spending Christmas week in Columbia, at the home of Ralph Euel, returning to Hartford on New Years Day. Mrs. Bessie Trythall and daughter Shirley and Miss Marie Field spent New Years Day in Williamantic at the home of Mrs. Trythall's sister. The rural carrier had a holiday on New Years day, there being no mail deliveries. Sunday afternoon a car passed through town whose driver evidently had been looking "upon the wine hedge" around the Green, completely demolishing the sign pointing to Columbia Lake. This sign had a concrete post set in concrete, and the impact tore it up by the roots. The wooden sign on the top being splintered, parts of it being taken completely around the road. The driver kept right side up and narrowly escaped a telephone pole and the last seen of him he was proceeding merrily towards Hebron. Spectators in the houses confronting the Green deemed it almost a miracle that he could remain right side up and feel it is very fortunate that no one was on the corner at the Green at the time. It would seem that the special providence which he said to water over fools and drunk men must have been in force to have enabled him to get as far as Columbia without killing himself or some innocent bystander.

days and dismissed the application for the writ. Judge Elbert B. Hamlin, of Litchfield county's Common Pleas Court, sent Colonnese to jail on November 12, and fined him $300 on each count beside. His offense was against the liquor laws. BEGINS AT HOME "How did you manage to get that lovely car?" "A charity lottery." "Managed to draw the winning number?" NEW COURT RULING

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 3.—When a man is sent to jail for thirty days on each of two counts, he must serve sixty days in jail. Such was the decision rendered here today by Judge Edwin S. Thomas, of the United States District Court, in the case of Frank Colonnese, of Litchfield, Connense, asked for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that his freedom under the Federal Constitution was being violated after he had served thirty days in jail. Judge Thomas ruled that Colonnese must serve sixty

How the Hittin' Lumber Care

BY ISRAEL KLEIN. When a man praises his motor for its economy of operation, especially on the basis of mileage, and another knocks the same type of motor for its utter lack of efficiency and its great cost of maintenance, ask both how they got that way.

The one, you will find, drew his conclusions last summer when everything was in the motor's favor. The other happened to notice how often he had to refill his gasoline tank of late.

Both take a wrong slant on the expectation of a motor's operation. They fail to consider external factors over which the engine has no control. Under certain conditions the best of engines will fail to stack up to the specifications of the manufacturer, while the worst motor may surprise its engineer.

The cause of this idiosyncrasy is twofold: the weather and the driver.

Given agreeable weather and a considerate driver, and the highest efficiency can be obtained from any motor, according to its expectations. What is regarded as a poor engine may perform better at less cost than one considered better, just because the driver has operated it in accordance with the weather. The driver, in other words, knows his motor, what it requires for efficient operation and how far he can go with it to obtain peak results.

Such a driver keeps his motor always in good condition and operates it at a speed consistent with its highest efficiency. He doesn't demand of it any more than he might expect of it. And so he has an economical motor that lasts him a comparatively long time.

In poor weather, the best driver can't get the mileage and efficiency out of his motor that he got in better weather. This is true especially in winter when there's snow on the ground and the best resources of the driver are called upon if he would get the most out of his motor.

But by proper manipulation such a driver can operate his car more economically than one who has no conception of what snow and sleet and cold do to a motor.

Stopping is just as important as starting in such conditions. Let alone the danger of skidding into a neighbor, there is the probability of harring up the tires in the effort to stop a sliding machine with the wheels locked. Chains do not help much when there's soft snow or ice on the ground. They'll give a car a start and perhaps make stopping slightly easier. But they won't do even this when the motor is speeded up quickly in an effort to make a quick getaway, or when the brakes are applied suddenly in order to stop short.

By applying engine power sanely and evenly, and acting the same way with the brakes, the highest efficiency can be obtained from the automobile under conditions of snow and ice.

We can't drive as serenely in winter as we do in summer.

GARBER BROTHERS

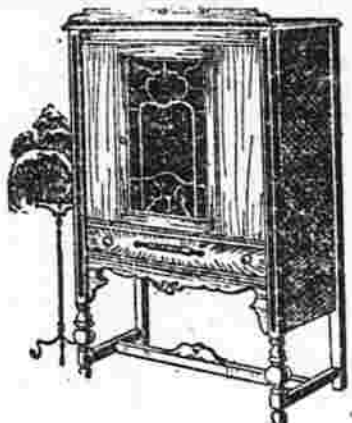

Beautiful 3-Piece Large Bed-Davenport Suite in Quality Jacquard

For appearance, for comfort, for durability, and for convenience, this suite at $139—represents the ultimate. You won't find its equal anywhere under $225. The davenport opens up into a full sized bed. Covered all over in a beautiful jacquard. The 3 pieces complete as illustrated. $139

HERE ARE OUTSTANDING VALUES! in One-of-a-Kind SUITES and Odd Pieces

Quality for Quality and Price for Price Comparison You Cannot Hope to Equal Them.

Odd China Closets $28

This is an odd china closet—left over from better quality dining room suites. The price of $28 in no way bespeaks its quality—for it should command a price of at least $50. Seeing is believing—so don't fail to see this exceptional value.

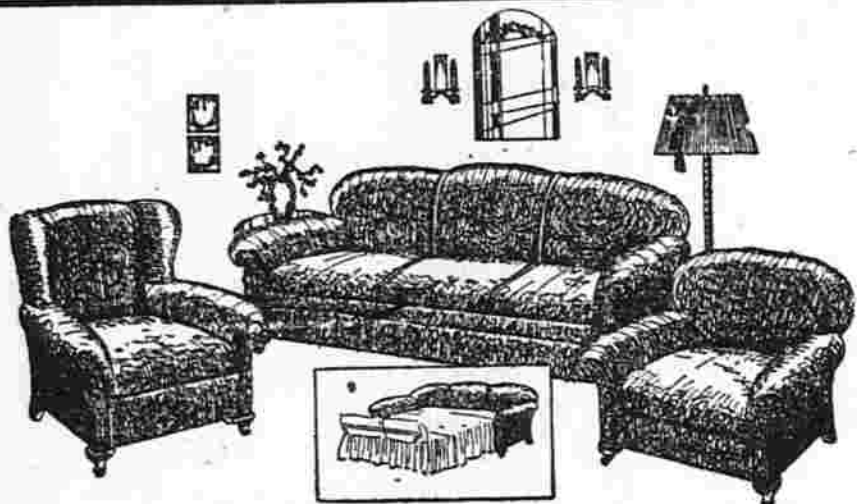

4-Piece Bedroom in American Walnut Veneer—$225 Value

Absly constructed of American walnut veneer in combination with quality gumwood—5-ply construction. Comprises a chifforobe, dresser, full size vanity and full size bow-end bed. A wonderful value. It must be seen to be appreciated. $115

10-Piece Dining Room Suite American Walnut Veneer—Complete

This stalwart 10-piece Suite is a rare value, indeed. Comprises a china closet, extension table, buffet, server, five side chairs and one arm chair. Constructed of walnut veneer or gumwood. $135

3-Piece Jacquard Bed-Davenport Suite—Unequaled Value at

Here is an excellently constructed suite. It will outlast any suite selling elsewhere at the same price. A cozy davenport, which at will turns into a comfortable bed—a club chair and Wing chair. This is the only suite of its kind. $110

2-Piece Carved Frame Suite in Beautiful Green Mohair

This suite is out of the ordinary—as you will unhesitatingly admit when you see it. In the first place the frame is beautifully carved. The covering is genuine ANGORA MOHAIR in a rich, soothing green shade—with cushions reversible in damask. Comprises a davenport and chair—just as illustrated. This two-piece suite is worth at least $250. $140

4-Piece Suite in Antique Walnut Veneer—A Marvelous Value

Just imagine! Only $98 for this suite, which is constructed of walnut veneer with quality gumwood. It is finished in antique walnut. Comprises a dresser, chest of drawers, French vanity and full size bow-end bed. $98

8-Piece Dining Room Suite American Walnut Veneer

Here is an 8-piece Dining Room Suite at a give-away price. Comprises a buffet, oblong extension table, five side chairs and one arm chair. Walnut veneer on gumwood. Richly finished. $95

3-Piece Living Room Suite in Jacquard—A Wonder Value

This 3-piece Living Room (like illustration) although ridiculously low in price—can not be compared to other suites selling elsewhere at the same price—for the simple reason—that it was built to sell for $145—and is a good value at that price—at Garber Brothers you save $66. A worthwhile saving, don't you think so? $79

Overstuffed Wing Chairs

Only 15 Chairs for 15 Comfort-Loving People

$29.50

Sink into this chair—lie back in it—and, oh, how comfortable it is. This chair is built expressly for comfort. Constructed throughout of resilient coil springs, hand-tied on webbing. Choice of jacquard or velour. A chair of this quality should sell upwards of $40. There are only 15 chairs to be had . . . It's a case of first come, first served.

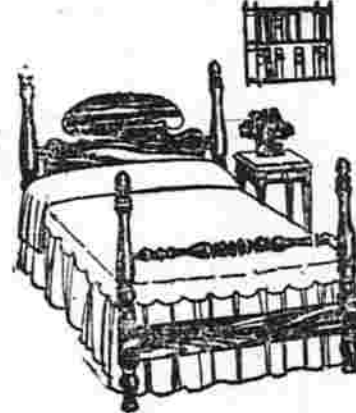

8-Piece Dining Room Suite in Huguenot Walnut Veneered

Another 8-piece Walnut veneered suite at a price that is far below what the suite should really sell for. Consists of a buffet, oblong extension table, five side chairs and one arm chair. $85

3-Piece Suite in Mohair

Here is a three-piece Living Room Suite in genuine Mohair. Hand-tied resilient coil springs on webbing. Reversible cushions in Mohair. Luxuriously comfortable and durable. Comprises a davenport, club chair and wing chair. An excellent $137 $225 value.

Full Size Four Poster Bed

A charming four-poster-bed that boasts of a rich colonial heritage. It is constructed of a splendid grade of cabinet wood—richly finished in hand-rubbed mahogany—or, if you prefer, in walnut. $16.75

3-Piece Fiber Suite Upholstered in Cretonne

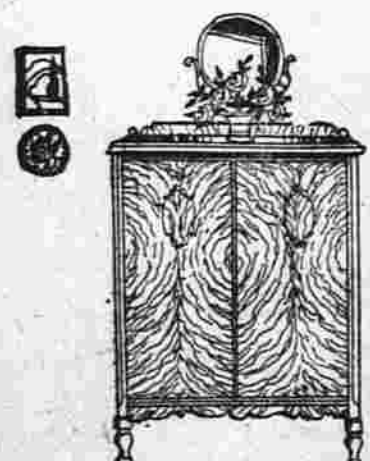

Here is a fiber suite for your sun-room. Colorful, comfortable, and a marvelous value. Loose automobile cushions and covered in a delightful pattern of cretonne. A $90 value. $55

3-Piece Fiber Suite—Upholstered in Cretonne—A Bargain

A sturdy 3-piece suite, with automobile cushions. Cushions and backs are upholstered in cretonne. Made of closely woven fiber hair. $45 $80 value.

Odd Chifforobes

$24.50

There are only 5 chifforobes to be had—each one—is left over from expensive suites—ordinarily a piece of furniture of this character should sell for at least $60. If you have use for a good chifforobe—do not overlook this offer.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ASHTORETH ASHE, venture-home little stenographer, has had a most unpleasant experience on shipboard. Ashtoreth, on a cruise to the West Indies, has been the innocent cause of a fierce quarrel between her roommate—MONA DE MUSSEL, and JACK SMYTHE, an Englishman.

Ashtoreth goes to the boat deck with Smythe, who has warned her that he proposes to kiss her. Then from the shadows steps Mona de MusseL. Mona, in a wild fury, denounces the Englishman. And tells Ashtoreth that he makes love to her order to "put it in a book—and sell it." She swears that he made love to her—and then published the tale of their amours.

The vehemence of her tirade choked her, and she stopped for breath. She put her handkerchief to her mouth, and then she took it away there was blood on it. Ashtoreth persuades her to go down to their stateroom and sends for the ship's doctor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI.

When Ashtoreth came in, Mona had slipped into a crimson smoking jacket and was propped on her elbow, rousing her lips.

She had a gold-backed mirror in one hand, and in the other a little silver pot of ruby paste.

"Now Mona, you know the doctor said you shouldn't so much as raise your arms!" scolded Ashtoreth. "Give me that stuff this minute."

Mona dabbed unconcernedly with her long forefinger.

"I look chastised," she explained. "I put on my mouth. Then I go to sleep."

Ashtoreth sat by the side of the berth.

"Mona," she said, "I'm awfully worried about you. The doctor says you've had a little hemorrhage, and he wants you to stay in bed until your temperature goes down. If it isn't normal by the time we reach Guadeloupe, he says you shouldn't try to go ashore. You'll have to stay right in your berth until we get to New York."

Then you're to have your lungs X-rayed. I don't want to frighten you, or anything like that, but—honestly, Mona—you must be very careful."

"It's so hot!" she complained, and tossed the sheet aside.

Ashtoreth pulled up the covers.

"Be good, Mona," she admonished. "You're to keep absolutely quiet, and stop throwing things around."

Mona reached for her hands as she smoothed out the sheet.

"You grieve for me, ma chérie?" she asked.

"Grieve? Oh, no," exclaimed Ashtoreth; "there's nothing to grieve about. You're not dangerously sick or anything like that."

"Non?"

The Frenchwoman raised her expressive brows.

"I have tuberculosis of the throat, ma chérie. And now, maybe, I have it of the lungs also. Doctors in Paris—they tell me I've not long to live."

"Oh, Mona!"

Ashtoreth caught the sick woman's hands to her heart.

"The doctor did not tell you, eh?"

"No—oh, no!"

"Maybe he does not know?"

Mona sighed. "Maybe he is what you call a horse doctor. But the doctors in Paris they know. And they tell me."

Ashtoreth's heart beat madly. She was shaking all over.

"I don't believe it!" she cried.

"Now, Mona, you know the doctor said you shouldn't so much as raise your arms!"

"It couldn't be, Mona. You're too beautiful!"

The French woman smiled.

"I have loved. I am not going to be old."

She smiled again, and shivered. And they were silent for a while.

Then she said, "The fire of my life burns low. It is a light that will go out sometime, like all lights everywhere."

She drew Ashtoreth's fingers to her lips.

"I am not afraid," she whispered. "I like the dark."

Ashtoreth was trembling violently. A horrible fear obsessed her. As if Death had come on stealthily feet across the shining sea, and entered, unbidden, their little cabin. She seemed to feel its presence.

Mona lay on her back now. There were bright spots on either cheek, burning red. And her eyes were blazing blue. Her skin was hot, and very dry. Presently, she dropped her lids and remained so still that Ashtoreth thought she slept.

Ashtoreth stood up then, and went to the portico. She saw the moon on the water, making it so magically lovely, that there seemed nothing real anywhere about it. The night was full of beauty and mysticism. And Ashtoreth's spirit was troubled with vague imaginings that had never come to her before.

Mona's Swinburne lay open, on the couch Ashtoreth took it in her hands, and saw that it was open to the marked passage she had read the night before:

"From too much love of living, From hope and fear set free...."

Mona opened her eyes.

"You love poetry?" she whispered.

"I don't believe it!" she cried.

In fire— Ah, well; you would not understand!"

"Did you write it, Mona?" exclaimed Ashtoreth incredulously.

"Non—non!"

Mona shook her head weakly.

"I am not clever, ma chérie. I cannot write what is in my heart. I find it in a magazine, and copy it."

A lady by the name of Madame Alice Duer Miller wrote it. Read the last again, 'il vous plait."

Ashtoreth repeated slowly:

"If I were you, I would have held my hand"

In fire— Ah, well; you would not understand."

"Non," murmured Mona. "He would not understand."

Ashtoreth folded the paper.

"And you want Jack to have it?" she asked.

Mona nodded.

"Put it in an envelope, and ask the steward to give it to him. Day after tomorrow we reach Antigua, and he goes."

"Well, I shan't as much as speak to him again, my dear! I never heard of such a mean thing in my life. But, Mona, as you absolutely sure it was you he was writing about? You heard him deny it. It might have been a sort of a composite woman? A conglomeration, you know, of all the women he has ever known?"

Mona shook her head.

"It was I," she insisted. "I know ma chérie."

Ashtoreth was intensely curious.

"I never heard of the book," she remarked. "Was it popular, Mona?"

"Popular?—out—so-so—"

Mona's blue eyes flashed.

"You will hear of it. It is to be a cinema. I've been asked to play the part of the bad woman. I tell them all no."

"Who asked you, Mona?"

"A movie man in Paris. He 'ear about me, and he see me also. He was one of the big fat men from Hollywood."

Ashtoreth thought that was very exciting.

"Mr. Smythe must have sold the movie rights then," she smiled.

"And I suppose some other girl will have the part. I should think you'd have loved it, Mona! Have you ever been in pictures?"

The effort of conversation had tired the sick woman. She moved restlessly.

"In Paris—out," she said. "The movie man wanted me to have my voice tested for the talkies. He said I talked like the girl in Meester Smythe's book."

"What was the name of the book, Mona?"

Mona looked at her sharply.

"You 'ave not heard," she questioned, "of 'Pariah-Girl'?"

"'Pariah-Girl'—no. I don't think so.... Doesn't 'pariah' mean out-cast?"

Mona sat up suddenly in bed.

"Out-cast!" she screamed. "Mon Dieu!"

And she beat with her closed fists upon her breast. Her nostrils dilated. And the pupils of her eyes disappeared beneath her lowered lids, so that the whites showed frightfully.

She raised her voice in long, sobbing wails. And tore her hair.

Jack Smythe tries to justify himself—and then the captain sends for Ashtoreth. "While there is life, they say, 'there is hope'—but poor Mona is desperately ill.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Biologists, psychiatrists and psychologists are discovering more things each day about children. Theories are advanced, tried out and discarded. But the one thing that they all seem to agree upon, is that too much mother is not good for children.

A child to be perfect, according to the newest theory, should have, not one mother, but several. These "mothers" should rotate, each being able to give the child one thing in which she is scientifically perfect.

In this way the child will have no dependency—no complexes, no inhibitions, no "mother fixation"; the latter we are told, is about the worst thing that can happen to anybody.

I am on the side of these learned gentlemen to this extent—that I am convinced a good many misguided mothers are ruining children by kindness and weakening on themselves or to be happy anywhere out of their mother's sight.

We all know the mother who has to resort to tricks to get out of the house if she has an errand or a day's shopping to do, or wishes to go to a party.

Indeed we even know the mother who won't go out at all unless she can take Betty or Tommy along. She trusts no one and refuses even a temporary separation from her offspring.

Mothers Blameless Now these mothers are not to blame. Their intentions are the finest in the world. But somewhere in generations past someone gave out the idea that a little child didn't thrive quite so well out of his mother's company, even for short periods. She also believes that Betty or Tommy love her so well that she can't bear to make them suffer, even for an hour or two.

I shall try to break the news gently to these ladies that the reason their children scream themselves blue in the face when they see her put her hat on, is about one part love to ten parts anger that their comfort is going to be interrupted.

"Mother" is associated with contentment and comfort just as the man in the gray uniform associates himself in their minds with letters.

Tommy wants her there so he can get at her if he needs her. He wants her there to think for him; he likes to know that somebody is around to whom he comes first.

He wants someone to be ready to kiss the sore place if he gets hurt; he wants petting.

If she goes away all this is interrupted. He has to come second for a little while with somebody else—or even third. He knows he is not as important to anybody else as he is to his mother.

Every mother should accustom her children to the sight of her leaving them when necessary. It is understood, of course, that she provides for their safety and comfort while she is gone.

This And That In Feminine Lore

There is a tendency on the part of many women to abandon the bob and let their hair grow. Perhaps this always has been so since the bob became fashionable, but designers claim a change is about to take place in women's styles which will mean longer hair. This will cause the new hat brim to widen in consequence to cover up the unbecomingness of the growing period.

Mid-season millinery combines straw and felt. One of the smartest new hats is of tweed silk straw in navy blue and white with a banding and facing of navy blue. These straws woven to imitate tweed are intended to accompany the tweed ensembles for the southern resorts or for spring wear in the north.

Spring-like effect of the straw is subdued and prevented from looking too unseasonal by the use of new glove felt for millinery is as soft to the touch and as pliable as a kid glove.

Savory Scalloped Oysters One quart oysters, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 cups diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, fine cracker crumbs, buttered crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter.

Drain oysters from liquor and dry between towels. Beat eggs slightly with salt, pepper, paprika, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Butter a casserole well and sprinkle with a thin layer of fine cracker crumbs. Dip each oyster into egg mixture then into cracker crumbs and place in prepared casserole. Continue to do this until a smooth even layer is made in casserole. Over this sprinkle a layer of celery and parsley. Continue layer by layer of oysters and vegetables until all is used. Pour over remaining egg mixture combined and with oyster liquor. Cover with a half-inch layer of buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a hot oven. Serve at once from casserole.

Beverly Nichols, the English satirist, who by the way lectured in Hartford last month before the Women's club, made the statement that the funniest thing he saw ever here was a man tying a lady's shoe in public. This Mr. Nichols interpreted as the symbol of abasement of the American male. This attitude, however, is defended by Charles Hanson Towne, editor of Hartford's Weekly, Carl Van Vechten and others. Editor Towne says: "We're imbeciles where women are concerned, but we glory in our imbecility. It is natural for an American gentleman to offer to tie a lady's shoe as it is for him to walk on the outside of the street when he is with her, or to lift his hat when he meets her on the avenue." He goes on to say that he has seen German hausfrau remove their husband's boots and has no doubt English women would do the same, but an American woman—never!

Swiss and Spanish Steak In compliance with the request for a recipe for Swiss steak, I give such a recipe about the time the Coventry ladies held their supper and Christmas sale. Without looking that one up, I am using one from one of the Chicago meat packers which is similar, the difference being, as I recollect, that the members of the fragment society used suet drippings to saute the meat, and added carrots to the casserole of Swiss steak, while this present recipe calls for bacon. Flank steak is used and a fourth of a cup of flour with a seasoning of pepper and salt is pounded into the meat; two or three strips of bacon are placed on the bottom of the dish and the meat is browned on both sides and a fourth cup of water or stock added. More may be needed during the baking which will take at least an hour. Spanish steak is prepared in practically the same way, with the addition of a half can of tomatoes poured around the steak. For the church supper the ladies cut the pieces of steak, round I believe, into individual portions for serving.

Wash dates well and drain. Make a thin syrup using 2 tablespoons sugar to 1 cup boiling water. Allow 2 or 3 dates for each person to be served. Dip dates in syrup and place on a shallow pan. Put into a moderately cool oven to plump and dry. Remove stones. To one package of Philadelphia cream cheese add 4 tablespoons finely chopped nuts and 2 tablespoons preserved ginger. Work in cream until mixture is smooth. Season to taste with salt while mixing. Fill prepared dates with this mixture and arrange on a bed of lettuce. Drop a spoonful of mayonnaise in the center of each plate and top with a spoonful of whipped cream lightly seasoned with salt and made pink with paprika.

The bouffant frock is the choice for the debutante for their coming out parties this season. It is essentially a costume for the youthful figure in fall or pussy willow taffeta in the peach, canary yellow, Nile or jade greens, apricot or the always popular pink, nothing can surpass it for bridesmaids' gowns or dances. White is excellent for the young girl with rich coloring. The bouffant dresses of this season are anything but plain. Some of them are cut with double bouffants, others with pelumps or side while some have panels of the silk or of tulle.

MARY TAYLOR

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Better understanding and a feeling of good will throughout the world is stressed by Mrs. William H. Hoffman, newly elected national president, in a New Year's proclamation.

"The Girl Scouts and Girl Guides," declared Mrs. Hoffman, "is a worldwide movement representing twenty-nine countries and it is through our common bond expressed in our Girl Scout and Girl Guide promise 'to try to do our duty to God and our country; to help other people at all times; and to obey the Scout laws' that we are endeavoring to develop a consciousness of world citizenship and thus make for peace and good will throughout the world."

"With our number now nearing 200,000 in this country and more than 1,000,000 in the world, let us reach out across the sea and join hands with our sisters and repeat together on the first of this New Year the keynote of our sisterhood: 'A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted.'"

A Girl Scout is loyal. A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others. A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout. A Girl Scout is courteous. A Girl Scout is a friend to animals. A Girl Scout obeys orders. A Girl Scout is cheerful. A Girl Scout is thrifty. A Girl Scout is clean in thought, word and deed.

The monthly troop leaders' class will be held from 2 to 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, January 5 at 180 Main street. For first-class requirement credit, each leader is to hand in the name of a tenderfoot she has trained.

The Girl Scout Council will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday, Jan. 8, 1929, at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Earl G. Seaman, 105 East Center street.

Troop 1 will hold its regular meeting Friday at 6:15, Jan the 4.

Troop 4 This troop will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at 6:30 at the Lincoln school.

Troop 6 There is to be a meeting Monday

MATCHING SHOES

Last season matched the costume in color. This year they match in fabric. The latest style is to have shoes made of the same material as your coat, frock, evening gown or ensemble.

RAINY DAYS

A new rainy-day ensemble is of rubberized crepe in soft wistaria shade. The coat is slightly molded, has cape sleeves and a cute Postillon collar. The hat is fine felt, with a long back to shed the rain.

YELLOW-BLUE

Medium blue and a bright yellow promise to be a popular color combination for spring. A yellow blouse tucks into the circular skirt of a blue suit.

HONEY MUFFINS

If you use two or three tablespoonfuls of honey instead of sugar when making muffins the next time, your family will exclaim over the "new taste."

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SCAWNER

THE SHE'S SO VALUABLE
Raymond Young of Newark, N. J., is suing the United States Radium Corporation for $100,000 compensation for contraction of "luminescent leprosy" in the company's dial painting shop by his wife, Mae Canfield Young. He places this amount as the only adequate compensation for "loss of a wife's and mother's services."

DID HE BEFORE

The comment is probably unjust and perhaps unnecessarily cynical. But whenever one reads of suits brought by husbands placing their wives' services at certain rather high amounts, one wonders just how conscious they were of the value of said services before the suit was possible. Tell any husband that he couldn't replace his wife's work in the home for some thing like several hundred dollars a month and he'll laugh a sardonic "Ye-ah-ah?"

Both Mr. and Mrs. Chester P. Mills submitted plans for effective enforcement of the prohibition amendment. His won the $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant. Hers won second. A nice question is whether he influenced hers or hers influenced his; whether one or the other wrote both, borrowing the respective spouse's name for the entry; or whether this is one of those rare marriages of single interests symbolized by each half of the partnership engaging in the same activity from personal choice. In any event—

POOR SCHOOLMARM

Permittees or some practical reform system for sheltering and feeding school teachers were demanded by the Ohio State Teachers' Association in recent session.

They explain that really desirable homes do not want to be bothered boarding school teachers, and that the present situation offers the teacher little more comfort in the way of room and board than it did the old-fashioned teacher who "boarded around," going to each family at butchering time, or when some special crop was just in.

NOT DOMESTIC

I have often observed the school teachers' seeming lack of domesticity as contrasted with women in other business and professions, and wondered about it. I have known few school teachers who set themselves up in housekeeping apartments, though women who work longer hours and have fewer holidays count the price of both and work none too high to pay for the superiority of an apartment of one's own to the dubious stability of boarding and rooming.

Why don't they? They'll answer, of course, that their day's work is too arduous. Fiddlesticks! My own observation is that the average school teacher doesn't know what work is as contrasted with the average woman in business.

JOHN AND FLOSSIE

Every picture seen so far of the two who are rather humorously known as "America's Most Famous Sweethearts," John Coolidge and Florence Trumbull, show the celebrated two either in, about to get in, or just leaving Miss Florence's sport racer. Young John doesn't have a car; he doesn't earn enough yet, but his fiancée is a governor's daughter, and the car, along with other things, is just taken for granted. Not that we haven't been assur-

TUCK-INS

Pajamas are a little smarter now when the blouse tucks into the trousers. There may or may not be a sleeveless cardigan taping it all.

GOLD AND WHITE.

Nothing is lovelier for evening right now than gold and white. A brocaded georgette has an all-over design in fine gold flowers, like dots against a lattice work of very, very fine gold threads. It is made with gold shoulder straps and gold flowers at both sides of the hips.

LINGERIE TOUCH

Three layers of shaded georgette in cream, beige and deep tan, fashion a sweet little collar for a brown velvet frock for a young girl.

Fashion Plaque

Much to-do was made about the paths of this. And yet, it is so pathetic after all! They spoke of the dead woman's hunger for that romance and beauty which life had denied her, breaking forth in one desperate attempt to get something. Well, maybe she got it. They're not so much to be pitied as the humans living barren lives who never make an attempt to break out nor know how to do it if they would. Who is to say that the seemingly psychopathic trait of buying luxuries which she could never use may not have been this woman's salvation and had real meaning for her?

PRINCESS THEME.

Spring coats and little frocks lean towards the semi-princess theme. One of a new dull orange has its back gored and piped to emphasize the new line.

COLORFUL BLOUSE.

A blouse allows its blouse color freedom. The blouse is of beige crepe de chine with intricate incrustations of Egyptian red, yellow and black.

 Referee: Nixon.
 Halftime score: New Britain 11, Manchester 10. Personal fouls: Manchester 12, New Britain 8.

Kenneth Beer, the bespeckled ace of the Trade School basketball team who last week performed the unique stunt of playing throughout an entire game without taking a single shot, yesterday did quite the opposite. His success was almost unlimited.

To make a long story short, Beer registered 30 of the 34 points his team made in losing a thrilling nip and tuck battle to New Britain Trade on the latter's floor yesterday afternoon. His work for the day included twelve goals from the floor and six out of six from the fifteen foot stripe line, not to mention floor work.

As for the game itself, it was as thrilling as one could ask for. The teams battled on very even terms right up until the last minute and a half to play at which time the score was tied at 34 all. At this point, Jamroga was banished on personal and New Britain forced ahead. Captain Pryzhrzyz was the star for the winners, tallying 19 points.

BIG DOG DERBY ENDS IN BOSTON

Two Hundred Mile Race Attracts Best Animals in North.

Boston, Jan. 3.—What promises to be the premier outdoor event of the winter sporting program in this section, is the New England Dog Sled championship race from some point in northern New Hampshire to Boston, plans for which have just been completed.

The race, one of the longest attempted in recent years, will be held this month, and indications are that nearly a score of Eskimo dog teams will participate. The distance will be approximately 200 miles and prizes totaling $1,500 have been offered.

Route of Race.
 The route of the race, which will finish Saturday, January 19, will take the dog teams through Franconia Notch, North Woodstock, Plymouth, Franklin, Concord, Suncook, Manchester and Nashua in New Hampshire, and Lowell, Concord, Lexington ending at Mechanics Building in the heart of Boston.

Five days will be allowed for the dogs to cover the long course, the start being made on Monday, January 14.

Five Teams Ready
 Five teams are already entered in the event, which is expected to attract every blue-blooded dog sled team in New England. All owners of dog teams sanctioned by the Eskimo Dog Club of America are eligible to enter the competition.

The teams already entered will come from the White Mountain Eskimo Sled Dog Kennels of Edward P. Clark. Each of the teams will comprise eight Labrador and Greenland Eskimo dogs, blue bloods in their class.

Race Over Snow
 The race will be mapped over the route most favorable for snow conditions, and will start from a point to be chosen in northern New Hampshire.

Dog racing in New England has always previously been confined to the northern districts of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. The race, arranged through the management of the New England Sportsmen's Show, will give Bostonians their first opportunity to witness at home, one of the most thrilling and exciting winter racing competitions.

THE JUDGE SET A TRAP

When the Judge fixed his well known stare on the magnates and demanded a confession from them at the winter meetings only the St. Louis Cardinals, the St. Louis Browns, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs admitted that they were keeping club in the minor leagues.

They all had reasons to believe that they might be prosecuted for keeping minor league clubs and the minor league organization had gone on record as being opposed violently to having any of its members kept by the rich men of the majors.

But nothing came of it. When the Judge, in his best Landis manner, had forced the magnates to open their souls, he said nothing. There was no charge to the jury or no sentence.

And the magnates scampered right out with a free and honest soul and went about the process of gathering clubs to keep.

Leading With the Chin
 The Giants blandly announced the purchase of the Bridgeport club and the Yankees admitted purchase of the Syracuse and Chambersburg clubs and confessed a desire for the Jersey City club.

In taking too much for granted from the silence of the Judge, the magnates may have led with their chin because from a very good source it has been learned that the Judge is hot against the chain store idea and that he is thinking up a good scheme to keep the majors working in their own yards.

The Judge told one of his friends after the meeting that there wasn't very much of the chain store system in baseball and that—THERE WASN'T GOING TO BE.

Not "Strong" in Baseball
 "Mike" Strong, one of the few young men who crashed nearly every one of the All-America selections, made the major league magnates do a fireman act into their clothes when he announced that he was interested in a professional baseball career.

"I'll never go for pro football," the N. Y. U. back said. "But I would like to play in the outfield of some major league ball club."

Several of the magnates didn't give the announcement a tumble. About 40 minutes after the New York coach and the Yankees are as friendly it was taken for granted by them that the Y-nks had him if he wanted to be taken.

But it develops that the Yankees aren't hot on him although they were glad to exercise the threat. It has been reported to base ball that "Mike" will not do as a base ball player. The same information was brought to them last year about Bruce Caldwell, the Yale football wot. The Yanks were said to have had him also and Cleveland, Ohio, fourth 1 cash, stepped in and hired him just to show New York, as they said, that other teams had the money to buy good goods. And the Yanks laughed like the dickens and are still laughing.

Strong would attract some publicity but the Yanks don't need any publicity. And one of the best ballyhoos in the business said a few days ago that Strong lost two-thirds of his publicity value when he married so soon after he had arrived at fame.

MIZELL SKIRTING END IN PASADENA BATTLE

on the ground watching Mizell. This picture was rushed across the country in extremely fast time, being received in Cleveland, New York, Atlanta, Chicago and St. Louis before the final play was announced over the radio. To make that possible, a fast motorcycle relay brought the NEA pictures from the Rose Bowl at Pasadena to the NEA office in downtown Los Angeles. Expert photographers rushed development and delivered the pictures to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, a few minutes later for telephoto transmission.

SNOOKS DOWD CHAMPION OF WRONG-WAY RUNNERS

Raymond (Snooks) Dowd pulled the record wrong-way run when playing with the Lehigh eleven. Like Roy Riegels, he got turned around and ran the full length of the field to his own goal line. Then, hearing the shouts of the crowd and his own teammates, he swung around and, dodging all tacklers, again ran the full length of the field to the touchdown. His jaunt covered about 175 yards.

GEORGIA BULLDOGS HAVE YALE AND N. Y. U. GAMES ON 1929 GRID PROGRAM

Athens, Ga.—Two inter-sectional tilts make their appearance on the 1929 grid schedule of the Georgia Bulldogs. Yale is to be played on the home field October 12, and New York University will be met at New York November 9.

The schedule—Oct. 5—Furman at Athens; Oct. 12—Yale at Athens; Oct. 19, North Carolina at Chapel Hill; Oct. 26, Florida at Jacksonville; Nov. 2, Tulane at Columbus; Nov. 9, New York University at New York; Nov. 16, Auburn at Athens; Nov. 23, Alabama at Birmingham; Dec. 7, Georgia Tech at Athens.

TENNESSEE SCHEDULE FOR 1929 INCLUDES TEN STIFF CONTESTS

Knoxville, Tenn.—Ten games, among them Florida, Centre and Vanderbilt, three of the Southern Conference's hardest contenders, are on the university of Tennessee's football schedule for 1929. All but two of the games, with Washington and Lee and Kentucky, will be played here.

The Vols meet W. & Lee at Roanoke and Kentucky at Lexington. The schedule is: Sept. 23, Centre Oct. 5, Maryville College; Oct. 12, University of Mississippi; Oct. 19, University of Alabama; Oct. 26, Washington and Lee; Nov. 2, Carson-Newman; Nov. 9, Vanderbilt University; Nov. 23, University of Florida.

NO POSTPONEMENT OF SHARKEY FIGHT

Illness of Tex Rickard Will Not Delay Match, It is Announced.

New York, Jan. 3.—Although it will be at least a month before Tex Rickard can take up the heavier burdens of organizing and ballyhooing his heavyweight extravaganza at Miami Beach there will be no postponement of the date for the Sharkey-Stribling quarrel which is set for February 27.

Word came from the stricken promoter last night to this effect. Possibly the date may be set back a week, but no longer. The end of February is the height of the Florida season. Early in March the exodus begins. Rickard doesn't want to lose any of the de luxe trade, for he is counting on it to put the show over big.

A BUSY MAN.
 London.—William Owen, recently retired parish clerk and vestry at St. Thomas church, Coventry, figures he was rather busy during 42 years of service to the community. He attended more than 3,000 weddings, 6,000 baptisms and 7,000 funerals.

Dempsey To Come Back For One More Battle

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, Jan. 3.—Jack Dempsey will return to the ring, once and for the last time in a heavy-weight championship fight late next summer. It was definitely declared by Ed Frayne in today's New York American. Stating that he had positive information to the effect that the old champion had accepted terms, the author of the article then went on to say that Rickard will make an official announcement of the fact next week. He added that Rickard "already has the statement prepared for the press," and to this particular observation, I prefer to add nothing.

However, since we all are sitting around telling stories on one another, I think I'll now tell one.

If Jack Dempsey returns to the ring—and nobody can have me ruled off for that remark—he will fight only against one of the four following men:

Jack Sharkey, whom he already has licked; Paulino Uzcudun, whom he thinks he can lick; W. L. (Young) Stribling, whom he hopes he can lick, and Tom Heeney, who he knows he can lick.

That's the program. That definitely is the program—if Jack Dempsey returns to the ring and, as I was saying, nobody can go around cauterizing my articles for a crack like that. Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight champion, will not be considered for a split second because Dempsey has played tag with these Leaping Lenas before and he always finds that he is "it." So Loughran is out like a dead cigarette.

The rest of the program calls, it is understood, for the Stribling-Sharkey fight at Miami Beach on February 27, a meeting between Paulino and Heeney in April at the Garden, the winner to meet the Stribling-Sharkey survivor in June and the final survivor to meet Dempsey for the championship.

Same Old Question.
 At the risk of becoming monotonous, I will add that all of this is predicted on the question of whether Jack Dempsey will return to the ring. This question, I might say, will be decided shortly, if not much sooner. The Frayne story is likely to smoke out a lot of possums.

Among its many claims, it declares that Dempsey has accepted the terms for the match and that the boy friend will begin light training at Miami within a few days. It also states that the Dempsey fight will take place in New York in September, "depending on the length of time it requires Dempsey to get in shape," and that in meeting the winner of the heavyweight elimination tournament, Dempsey obviously will be taking on the best man available.

To this, I might add my amazement at the fact that the word "available" can cover so much and yet miss Tommy Loughran.

Anyhow, the interpretation to be taken, both from Frayne's story and from common belief, is that if Dempsey comes back, he will not face what is termed "a new fighter." The four mentioned are his favorites; in fact, he positively does not care for any of them.

His opinion of Heeney is fairly well known, although he is far too considerate to make it public. He has watched Paulino and not only regards him as a chump fighter but one who has lost his toughness. He undoubtedly figures that he can out-Stribling Sharkey again and, as for Stribling, he may not be so sure but he probably is willing to take a gamble.

N. Y. U. VS. GEORGETOWN
 New Haven, Jan. 3.—New York University will meet the Georgetown University quintet here tonight in the final of the third annual Yale round robin tournament as the result of its 24 to 14 victory over Holy Cross last night. Georgetown's 33 to 7 triumph over Yale enabled it to enter the final round.

SCHMELING FAVORITE
 New York, Jan. 3.—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, today ruled a 6 to 6 favorite to turn back Joe Sebrza in their 10-round duel tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden. The betting center also have made Charley (Phil) Rosenberg a 7 to 5 favorite to defeat Johnny Dundee in the semi final.

SPRING TRAINING
 Chicago, Jan. 3.—The spring training schedule of the Chicago White Sox provides for the departure of the entire squad, 35 strong, for Dallas, Texas, on Feb. 23. Secretary Harry Grabner announced today. The real business of training up for the American League Marathon will be launched on March 2.

CAN'T BEAT THIS MARK
 Knute Rockne's football teams at Notre Dame, in the 11 years he has coached there, has played 111 games, winning 52, losing 13 and tying six.

LONE THREE-LETTER STAR
 Robert Rasmussen is the only athlete at Lawrence College who has won letters in three sports. He got his in football, basketball and track.

HE RAN THE WRONG WAY
 Here is Roy Riegels of the University of California team and captain-elect for 1929, who made a sensational 70-yard run in the New Year's Day game with Georgia Tech at Pasadena—an excellent run except that he got confused and ran in the wrong direction. Riegels grounded the ball one foot from his own goal line. On the next play Lon's punt from behind his goal line was blocked and it was a safety and two points for Georgia Tech which later enabled the Golden Tornado to nose out an 8 to 7 victory.

Sonnenberg Meets Lewis Friday Night In Return Go For Wrestling Title

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
 William Wrigley, the chicle magnate, says that Hornsby cost him almost a half million dollars in cash and players. . . . And that the Rajah is one of the finest characters in baseball. . . . To a young lady from Pasadena, Calif. . . . Howdy Harperster and Leo Raskowski expiated the east-west football game for their home town sheets. . . . And Harpster shot a 75 and a 73. . . . And the players on the two teams all got wrist watches. Knute Rockne said of a football coach who didn't win a major game last season. . . . "He was building character."

Former Dartmouth Gridster Lost Last June When He Missed Famous Flying Tackle Injuring Himself.

Special to The Herald.

Boston, Jan. 3.—Although wrestling has long been considered a minor sport, the genteel art of grappling and twisting humans has swept New England within a short space of time, with the result that this section will again witness a match for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Ed "Strangler" Lewis of Kansas City, Mo., the "champ" is in the Hub ready for his return bout with Gus "Dynamite" Sonnenberg, for the world's title tomorrow night at the New Boston Garden.

The return meeting of the champion and the former Dartmouth football star, has attracted a great deal of attention as Sonnenberg had the big Lewis groggy in their first match, but lost when he missed his famous flying tackle and crashed through the ropes, nearly breaking his neck on the concrete floor.

Lewis Gets $50,000.
 Lewis will receive $50,000 for his share of the purse, the highest price ever paid a wrestler in the east, and it is expected that the match will draw the greatest house in the history of the mat game.

For a time it was believed that Sonnenberg would not return to the game, but his almost meteoric comeback earned him the match with Lewis.

Among those the former Dartmouth tackle planned to the mat were Stanley "the Lion of Poland" and "Farmer" George McLeod, the grapegrower of California.

Sonnenberg has been given the title of the "Iron man" for he has engaged in an average of three matches a week during the season. Recently he threw five men in one week.

Lewis is one of the finest types of athletes. He has trained under all the old masters of the art and has incorporated their best holds in his own collection.

Sonnenberg, who has to be thrown for a fall, has become the greatest drawing card the professional wrestling game has ever known. Because of his magnetic qualities and his great strength despite his almost dwarf-like size compared to the really big men, Sonnenberg is even more popular than the champion.

Both Confident.
 Gus is confident, claiming that he has gained much needed experience since last June, the time of first meeting. In the first set to Gus had but three or four months experience. He said he will keep within his strength awaiting an opportunity for his flying tackle which he hopes will bring him the world's wrestling crown.

Lewis on the other hands is likewise confident. In the first set to Lewis claims he has perfected a defense against the bull like rushes of Sonnenberg. Meanwhile the champion has specialized in his famous headlock.

Strong Supporting Card Friday Night

Al Beauregard Also on Card; So Are Nick Christy and Vic Carlson.

Matchmaker Ed Hurley announces a supporting card of five bouts for the Bat Battalion-Ralph Nischo star bout which headlines the card to be offered at Foot Guard hall in Hartford, Friday night.

In the semi-final of eight rounds, Al Beauregard, formerly of Tatfield and now of Hartford, will meet Tommy Abboto of New York. Beauregard fought a sensational bout in Hartford a few weeks ago against Pete Luce of Chic. Mass.

Abboto, who is a Filipino, is one of the busiest bantamweights in the metropolitan district. He declared "Spike" Marino of New Haven in his only Connecticut appearance.

As for Nischo, he has fought a sensational draw with Teddy Baldock of England and had him on the floor and performed a feat of defeating Milton Cohen of New York and having floored Cohen a feat that Battalino could not perform in his two meetings with Cohen.

YALE ROWING CREW TO BE GOVERNED BY WASHINGTON RULES
 New Haven, Conn., Jan. 3.—University of Washington crew method will continue to prevail at Yale after six years in which the Yale Varsity crew have lost but three races one to Princeton, one to Harvard, and one to the University of Washington. George W. "Mike" Murphy, assistant coach in charge of freshman rowing, became head coach at Wisconsin on January 1, and Fred Spuhn, head coach at Pennsylvania, succeeds Murphy in charge of the freshmen.

With the arrival of Spuhn on January 1, Yale rowing is in charge of the following University of Washington stars: Ed Leader, head coach; Samuel E. Shaw, class crew coach; Donald Grant, University and Freshmen 150-pound crews coach; and Fred Spuhn, Freshman coach.

Leader took charge of the Yale crews late in 1922. As he proceeded to the bottom of the car, he picked out men to aid him whom he had coached at Washington. Shaw, Grant, Murphy and Spuhn all were once his pupils.

Murphy left New Haven immediately after a banquet given by the Yale athletic association. At the banquet the point was brought out that Murphy was captain of the Washington crew when Spuhn was rowing as a sophomore. Grant was captain when Spuhn was junior, and Spuhn was captain when Spuhn was a senior.

"The finest oarsmen Washington ever had" is the way Head Coach Leader describes Spuhn.

NISCHO HAS NEVER BEEN KAYOED AND FOUGHT THE BEST IN THE COUNTRY
 Ralph Nischo, who has never been kayoed and fought the best in the country including Tony Cannoneri, Eddie Anderson, Vic Burrono and Johnny Vestrie, Nischo sends word that if there is any knocking out to be done that he will attend to it.

Four four-rounders fill up the bottom of the card. Nick Christy of Bristol, who has won all of his bouts on kayoes since turning pro, will meet Jimmy Couch of New Haven in four. Christy is a real sensation in pro ranks, a boy who is expected to go far.

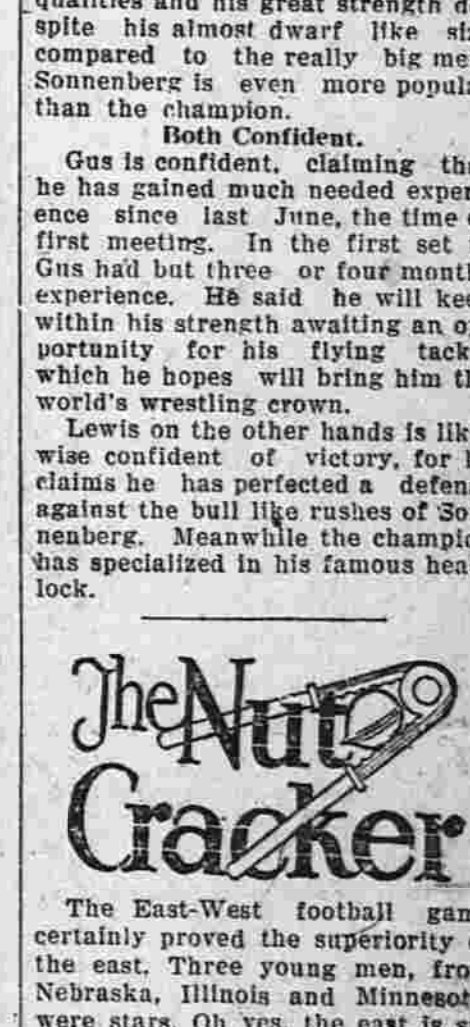

Vic Carlson battles Louis Carmel of Holyoke in a bout that seems sure to end in a knockout as these boys are hard hitters without a great deal of science.

Hy Diamond of Hartford will battle Joe Sawloski of Holyoke and Homer Thiebault of Holyoke will meet Al Annone of Springfield.

The first bout will start at 8:15. The feature bout is down for ten rounds.

HERE'S THE REASON!
 Chicago.—Now we know why gentlemen prefer blondes. The restaurant manager at Northwestern University says it's because they don't eat as much as brunets. "I haven't the slightest hesitation in saying that blondes have smaller appetites than brunets." It is like way he puts it. "And isn't it significant that in five cases to one young men who bring girls to the restaurant are accompanied by blondes?"

"STATE ST. SADIE"

COMING TO THE STATE

Gripping Drama of Underworld is Latest Vitaphone Film—Here Friday and Saturday.

"State Street Sadie," a Warner Brothers' Vitaphone production, will be seen and heard at the State theater tomorrow and Saturday, bringing again to Manchester theater fans the marvelous ability of talking pictures.

Miss Anita Fineman, 18, and Everett Rourke, 19, of Farmington, were also in the car and slightly injured. They were treated at the hospital and discharged. Miss Fineman is a freshman student at Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs. The party was on the way to take her back to school following the holiday vacation.

FIX JANUARY 19 LIMIT, POULTRY SHOW ENTRIES

The eighth annual show of the Manchester Poultry Club will take place at the State Armory on January 23, 24, and 25. Entries will be accepted on any recognized variety of poultry: ducks, geese, turkeys, pigeons and rabbits. All entries must be in by January 19. Blanks may be gotten from James D. Lapp, 246 North Main street, or any member of the Poultry Club.

The judges will be F. O. Grosbeck of Vernon and Professor Warner of Storrs College.

One booklet is now out, containing the rules and regulations of the show. The exhibitors booklet will be printed after January 19.

The ribbons this year are of a much better quality than formerly and cost the club almost twice the amount paid in other years. The admission fee will be twenty-five cents and there will be door prizes.

"WOMEN THEY TALK ABOUT" ENDS TONIGHT

"Women They Talk About," Warner Brothers' highly amusing satire on political life, which received such favorable comment from audiences at the State theater yesterday, will close its concluding performance tonight.

This delightful and sparkling picture features a selected cast of screen favorites headed by beautiful Irene Rich and winsome Andray Ferris. Through the magic voice of the Vitaphone, both Miss Rich and Miss Ferris are given opportunity to speak their parts in tense moments of interest. Others whose voices are also heard are those of Claude Gillingwater, William Collier, Jr., Anders Randolph and Joseph Santora. Lloyd Bacon directed.

The companion-feature for tonight is "The Air Legion," a gripping drama of the aviation services featuring Antonio Moreno, supported by Martha Sleeper and Ben Lyon.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Patients reported admitted today at the Memorial hospital were Miss Alice Simonds of 34 Park street, Joseph Lutter of Center street and George Allen of 113 Henry street.

AMERICAN LEGION IN A UNIQUE DRIVE

Connecticut to Represent "Morvich" in "Derby" for Increased Membership.

Palge A. Seaton of Waterbury, department commander of the American Legion in this state, was advised today of the name of the horse the Legion and Legion auxiliary in this state will represent in the nation-wide "Kentucky derby" membership race of the Legion. The race will get under way today, each state in the union representing one of the winners of the historic horse race classic of the Bluegrass country.

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT IN SKIDDING AT NOTCH

Mrs. Fineman and Son Are Still in Hospital; Others Only Slightly Injured.

Two of the four persons injured in the automobile skidding accident late yesterday afternoon on the Manchester-Willimantic highway near Bolton Notch are still at the Memorial hospital.

They are Mrs. Dorothea Fineman, 55, of Farmington, and her son Gerhardt, 20, who was driving. Mrs. Fineman has a broken right leg among other injuries. Gerhardt has a possible fracture of the shoulder and several cuts about the head. The accident was caused by the condition of the road.

Miss Anita Fineman, 18, and Everett Rourke, 19, of Farmington, were also in the car and slightly injured. They were treated at the hospital and discharged.

Miss Fineman is a freshman student at Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs. The party was on the way to take her back to school following the holiday vacation.

Race Starts Today

Fifty-two horses, representing the various Legion and auxiliary departments, will be assembled at the barrier at 2 p. m. today for a membership race that promises to beat all records in Legion history. The position of the horses will be determined on the membership quota standing of the different departments. Post positions will be awarded to the Legion and auxiliary departments having the best joint percentage of quota. Rail positions will go to those with the lower percentage of quota.

One of the first things the Legion in this state did was to select a jockey for the derivation horse. Every effort will be made to get away with a flying start. At 2 p. m. Saturday, May 18, the horses will be brought down the home stretch.

This is the actual day and hour for the 55th annual Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs, Louisville. The Kentucky derby membership contest was considered particularly appropriate for 1929 in view of the fact that the 1929 national convention will be held in Louisville.

How Determined Under the rules that have been announced at national headquarters the Legion and auxiliary in this state will have to cooperate very closely if the department horse makes a good showing. Winners will be determined on a basis of the percentage of the 1929 membership quota attained. In every state the percentage of the Legion and auxiliary will be averaged to give the standing of different horse. A high average of either the Legion or auxiliary would be pulled down in the event the cooperating organization failed to have an average just as high.

It has been announced at national headquarters that a number of the winners in addition to the regular membership race of the Legion. The race will get under way today, each state in the union representing one of the winners of the historic horse race classic of the Bluegrass country.

Morvich, winner of the 43rd annual Kentucky derby, run May 13, 1922, is the horse that will be entered and backed by the Connecticut department. Morvich achieved an easy victory. He dashed to the front with the rise of the barrier and made every post a winning post. Time for the mile and a quarter was 2:04 3-5.

To Plan Drive Here Dilworth-Cornell Post, No. 102, the local American Legion group, will meet Monday night in the State Armory to take action on this drive. It is possible that the post here can be a big help in putting Morvich, Connecticut's horse across. The membership of Dilworth-Cornell Post is now being canvassed by Adjutant Victor Bronke for a renewal, but there are enough experienced men in Manchester to give the post an opportunity to double and even triple its membership of the past year, a little over 250. Commander Fred Lorch is ambitious to have the post here take a leading part in the state's drive.

LETTER GOLF

DETOUR

Today's puzzle starts out on a nice ROAD, but then comes a detour down a LANE. Par is five and one solution is on another page:

Word puzzle grid with 'ROAD' and 'LANE' filled in.

THE RULES.

- 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW HEW, HEN. 2-You change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

The little train went sailing fast and Clowzy shouted, "Well, at last, we're going to have a brand new thrill. I hope that all goes well. Into the mountain we are bound. How quiet! My, there's not a sound. It sort of makes me nervous, and I almost want to yell." Oh, something's sure to happen quick. The tunnel entrance looks real slick," said Clowzy. "I'll be glad when we've started through that rock. We're getting closer very fast. Feel how the breeze goes whizzing past. In just a moment we'll be there. It's not more than a block!" And then they reached the tunnel door. The engine sailed through with a roar. "Twas just as dark as it could be, and all the bunch were still. On, on they went. Then Clowzy cried, "My, I'll be glad when we're outside. Say! I see some light ahead. Say! This is quite a thrill!" And, sure enough, they reached

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

BEAT THE GRIP Getting a little nervous about this influenza epidemic? Don't do it. The chances are all in favor of your licking it before it starts—if you do just two things: Get oddies of sleep and eat more fresh vegetables and citrus fruits.

Many doctors are agreed that the natural acids of Oranges, Grapefruit, Lemons, Kumquats and so on—which turn to anti-acids in the system, constitute the best possible defense against colds, grip and such disorders. Pinehurst customers evidently are following this advice, for there is a big demand for Oranges and Grape Fruit.

Fortunately the market favors their liberal use. We have lots of fine Florida Oranges at 39.44 and 48 cents a dozen—dripping juicy and solid and of fine flavor. And Grape Fruit are unusually low—Four for a Quarter for good sized ones and some unusually fine big fellows Two for a Quarter. We have a number of customers who are each eating three or four oranges a day as a health measure and we haven't heard of one of them having the grip.

The fresh vegetable diet is easy, even if it is winter. Fresh Carrots, proverbially a health food, are only 10 cents a bunch. Then there is always Spinach—chief of conditioners; Celery, leekers, Lettuce, Parsnips—delicious now that they are well frosted; Cabbage, Rieles's Yellow Turnips—and not one of them expensive; anybody can buy them within the budget.

Pinehurst does not keep open on Thursday evenings—closes at 6 p. m. Phone two thousand.
