

HOOVER READY TO LEAVE ON FLORIDA TRIP

Concludes His Business at Capital—Will Make No Announcements Until After His Return.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Herbert Hoover has about concluded the business that brought him to the capital. His departure for Florida for a month of rest and reflection upon his Cabinet choices is now set for Sunday.

He will leave Washington with his notebooks crammed with data and suggestions that bear on everything from C. Binet material to his inaugural speech and future legislation.

The president-elect has cleared up an enormous amount of work in the nearly two weeks he has been here. He has settled the question of the extra session of Congress. There is to be one, starting in April. He has decided upon a thorough-going fact-finding investigation of prohibition by a committee of experts of his own choosing. He has outlined what he wants done concerning the inaugural ceremony. He has seen and conferred with upward of three hundred people, including nearly every Republican member of the Senate, and the chairman of all important committees of the House. And there is reason to believe he has arrived at some fairly definite conclusions about some of the men he wants in his Cabinet.

No Announcement—Yet

It is not likely, however, that there will be any announcement concerning Cabinet choices until shortly before March 4. To announce them at this time would be simply putting them up as targets to be "shot at," as well as subjecting himself to pressure to find other places for the disappointed ones.

A fair example of what might be expected occurred in the case of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, the one member of the Coolidge Cabinet that Washington considers is sure to go into the Hoover Cabinet.

Within 24 hours after the publication of stories that Mellon would be retained, protests began to roll into the Hoover offices in the Mayflower from those who are opposed to Mellon policies.

Protests came by telegraph, and Senator Aye (R) of North Dakota, and Senator Couzens (R) of Michigan, protested in person.

More Protests

Published stories that Wm. J. Donovan, of New York, is a likely selection for attorney general brought a similar flood of protests. Friends of Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana, attached themselves to Donovan on the ground he "prospered the persecution" of the Montana Senator in retaliation for what Wheeler did to Harry M. Daugherty. The fanatical dry protested that Donovan isn't dry enough to be attorney general. The Ku Klux Klan protested that a Protestant must head the Department.

TAX REFUNDS ROWS START IN SENATE

Insurgents Charge That Secretary Mellon Made Them In Secret.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The administration's fight to enact the new cruiser bill became involved in the Senate today with skirmishes over prohibition enforcement and tax refunds, in connection with the first deficiency appropriation bill. The supply measure, carried a $75,000,000 appropriation for payment of refunded taxes and a $25,000,000 increase in prohibition enforcement funds. Both items have aroused considerable opposition, the insurgents charging the tax refunds were made secretly by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon while Mellon himself led the opposition to the increased dry appropriation.

Hopes of Drys

The Senate Drys, led by Senator Harris (D) of Georgia, were confident of keeping the $25,000,000 item in the deficiency bill, despite Mellon's opposition. This little row threatened to assume considerable political importance, as it may alienate some of the Dry Republican votes which will be necessary to confirm Mr. Mellon should the

Late Events in Life of Marshal Foch

"Bah—I've lived through many of these before!" Critically ill from a heart attack in Paris, Marshal Ferdinand Foch, commander-in-chief of the Allied armies in the closing stages of the World War, laughed at physicians who told him he was facing one of the major battles of his great career. Above, Marshal Foch is shown right, with Commander Howard P. Savage of the American Legion, center, and General John J. Pershing on the occasion of the doughboy's national convention in Paris. Below, left, the marshal is pictured in full military dress. At the right is seen the statue which was unveiled in his honor at Cassell, France, while Foch himself (indicated by the arrow) looked on.

Vice President Curtis Refuses Gift Of House

Washington, Jan. 17.—Once Curtis and special telephone connections with Capitol Hill—the latter inspired perhaps by a memory of the time when Vice President Dawes was asleep in his hotel and not reached soon enough to enable him to reach the Senate and break a tie vote.

In recent years there has been considerable agitation to have a special house provided. Mrs. John B. Henderson, local society leader, several times has offered the government a beautiful home on 36th street belonging to her, but Congress has never accepted it. Both Mr. Coolidge, when he was vice president, and General Dawes have frowned on the idea.

CONFIDENCE GAME IS FAILURE HERE

Salesman Tries to Sell Stock That Had a False Boom On the Market.

Evidently caught after the skyrocket boom of Ford Motors of Canada stock burst, a New York brokerage house, said to be Kresel and Company, of 27 Beaver street, New York City, tried to make a local business man pay part of the loss.

The local man, whose name is not disclosed for obvious reasons, is in the habit of making investments, displaying the market once in a while. He was advised by a phone call from New York yesterday that Ford Motors of Canada was going to pay a dividend and the stock was ready for a big jump.

The Inside Facts

As a matter of fact Ford Motors of Canada did take a big ride in the New York exchange yesterday all as a result of a rumor that the concern was to pay a dividend very

PAPAL DOMAIN NOW SMALLEST IN THE WORLD

New State Will Have Population of 10,000, Tiny Railroad Station But No Entrance to the Sea.

Rome, Jan. 17.—The new Papal State to be created when the long standing conflict between the Vatican and the Italian state is settled will be the smallest in the world, from the standpoint of territory.

It will be an "island" of land and buildings within the city of Rome. It will extend from St. Peter Square to a point behind the Vatican gardens, including the Vatican buildings and some adjoining properties. The population is estimated at about 10,000.

It is unlikely that visitors from Rome will know when they cross the "frontier," or when they step out of Italy and enter the Pontiff's domain.

No Sea Entrance.

The often announced plan of granting the Vatican a strip of territory stretching from St. Peter Square to the sea has been abandoned as impractical. Italy does not wish to see a repetition, even on a small scale, of the "Dantzig Corridor" upon her soil.

(The Dantzig Corridor is the neck of land granted to Poland to give her an outlet on the Baltic.)

Announcement of the settlement of the long conflict, which has made Poles virtual "prisoners" in the Vatican since 1871, is expected to come from Pope Pius XI, possibly before Easter. The announcement will be that a con-

HOUSE STARTS MOVE TO KEEP WORLD PEACE

No Exports of Arms from U. S. to Warring Nations and Election to Decide If U. S. Will Start War.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Congress was faced today with the prospect of a deluge of "sure fire" remedies for war in the wake of the ratification of the Kellogg multilateral peace treaty.

Instead of halting the activities of extreme advocates of peace for the time being the Kellogg treaty ratification apparently set in motion a new fight for the enactment of measures which Congress has frowned upon in the past.

The outbreak was particularly noticeable in the House which was deprived of a part in the long controversy over the ratification of the "Pact of Paris."

Some Proposals

The new proposals, all described as logical sequences of the anti-war treaty, ranged from plans to "starve war" by prohibiting shipments of arms to warring nations to the holding of an election before the United States can go to war.

The movement in the House received the sanction of Rep. Stephen Porter (R) of Penna., chairman of the foreign affairs committee, who

HELEN'S ROMANCE REAL 'LOVE' GAME

Fiance of Tennis Queen Tells How He First Met Miss Wills.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 17.—Miss Helen Wills, unconquered on the tennis court, has found her match as a "poker face"—as she is called—in her betrothed, Fred S. Moody, Jr., handsome young San Francisco broker.

Moreover, the beautiful Berkeley tennis queen, whose classic features have been likened to those of the Grecian queen of beauty, Venus, has found her "Adonis" in the tall, athletic dark curly-haired youth, whose serene went straight to her heart.

A Love Game

In fact, it was a love game, set and match, Moody confided today in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

The game started in Cannes, France, in 1925, the decidedly shy young broker said. "I was traveling abroad with my parents when I met Helen at Cannes. She was playing her first tennis match abroad that year. My brother had known her, but I had never met her at home.

"Yes, I guess the fact that we both lived in the San Francisco bay region had quite a bit to do with our becoming friendly right away in a strange country.

"We visited art salons and museums and saw quite a bit of one another while we were abroad that time," Moody recalled.

Interested in Art

Moody is interested in art and in painting, "but no more than the average layman," he ventured. When Miss Wills' efforts in the field of art was mentioned, however, he displayed much more than the average interest, exclaiming, "I think she is making very good progress. I noticed a big improvement when I compared some of her early drawings and paintings with some she had done recently."

Moody's shyness disappeared

STATE LEGISLATURE HAS BRIEF SESSION

King Of Afghanistan Captured By Rebels

London, Jan. 17.—An unconfirmed report is current in India that the Afghan rebel leader Dacha Sakao has captured former King Amanullah and the new king, Inayatullah Khan, said Central News dispatch from Bombay this afternoon. Amanullah retired in favor of Inayatullah when powerful tribes rose in arms against him because of the western European reforms he and Queen Souriya sought to introduce in Afghanistan. This news was received after repeated advices had reported Amanullah had reached Kandahar safely. The conflicting reports cast doubt upon the actual whereabouts of the former ruler.

"BADE" IS HEARTBROKEN, AT HIS WIFE'S FUNERAL

Tears Stream Down His Face as Body is Lowered to the Grave; Her Family Accompanies B. B. Star.

Boston, Jan. 17.—Tears streamed down the grief-stricken face of "Babe" Ruth as he stood in a driving snowstorm in Old Calvary cemetery today and watched the white casket containing the body of his wife, Helen Woodford Ruth, slowly lowered into her grave.

"Lord have mercy on her soul," he prayed, his mouth quivering with emotion.

The stooped shoulders of the world-famous ball player sagged and he seemed to be on the verge of collapse. He was hugged in by a saddened little group of his wife's relatives, most of whom were sobbing with "Babe" without restraint.

Mother Dry Eyed.

The aged mother of Mrs. Ruth stood next to Babe, gazing at the grave as dazed. No tears came from her eyes but grief was written in every line of her face.

On the other side of Ruth stood Miss Nora Woodford, his 19-year-old sister-in-law. She clutched Ruth by the arm for support and sobbed as if her heart would break. Other sisters and brothers of the deceased cried audibly as "Our Father" and "Hail Mary" as the body was being lowered into the grave.

Somewhere off in the distance, over the snow-clad hills of the cemetery, church bells tolled.

Burial took place shortly before 11 a. m. after funeral services had been said by Father Richard Burke of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church at the modest frame dwell-

WALL ST. NEUTRAL IN STEWART FIGHT

Rockefeller's Attempt to Oust Chairman Has No Effect on Stock Market.

BY W. S. COUSINS, L. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Jan. 17.—The bitterest factional fight in American industrial history, the fight to oust Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil of Indiana board, will not be waged, and is not being waged, in the Stock Market.

International News Service learned from unimpeachable sources today that the Stewart interests are not buying a share of Indiana stock in the open market. Despite the vigorous bally-hoo that is being raised in parts of Wall street, and on which Standard Oil of Indiana has jumped about 12 points in the last two or three days, Stewart is holding aloof from the market, and standing pat, with his friends and supporters, on their holdings of stock, which they believe are sufficient to swing the vote to Stewart on March 7.

His Last Visit

When Col. Stewart was in New York last week, he brought with him the first drafts of 1928 earnings statement of the Indiana company, which he would have made public had he not learned, on his arrival here, of the launching of the Rockefeller attack against him. The Rockefeller bombshell changed his

Assigns Committees, Receives a Few Bills and Executive Nominations and Then Adjourns Until Next Tuesday—The Committees

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 17.—The State Legislature met today for a brief session, heard committee assignments, received a few bills and a number of executive nominations, and then adjourned until next Tuesday at 11:15 a. m.

Representative Tobin presented a bill which would amend the charter of the City of Waterbury that the city would pay for the service clothing of each policeman and fireman.

Senator George E. Hall, of New Haven, proposed that architects be placed under state supervision in the future by means of an examining board, which would have power to grant licenses to them. The bill defines closely the qualifications a person must have to become an architect in this state.

Capital Increase

Capital of the American Trust Association of New Haven, would be tripled, and thereby become $300,000 under another bill presented by Senator Hall. The association is the management of a fraternity at Yale which proposes to erect a large building for students.

The Judicial Council, raised by the 1927 legislature, to make suggestions for changes in court procedure in the state, made its presence felt today by bills which included the various recommendations of the Council. The recommendations have been widely spread in the state by the council following a printing of the report under approval of the State Board of Finance and Control, and legislators believe the public is fully aware of the recommendations.

Governor Trumbull transmitted to the Senate a group of reappointments to state positions, as follows:

Judge Walter M. Pickett, New Haven County Common Pleas Court; Judge Charles B. Waller, New London County Common Pleas Court.

Clarence M. Knox, of Weathersfield, state aviation commissioner.

Lester E. Shippee, East Killingly, bank commissioner.

Dr. Harold A. Bancroft, of Hartford, consulting physician on insanity at state prison.

SENATE COMMITTEES

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 17.—The State Senate, organized for business of its 1929 session, today received its list of committee appointments. The list, indicating who will study and report on the various bills that may be presented, is as follows:

Mussolini's Ambition. It has been an open secret that Premier Mussolini wished to bind his name with the historic agreement. Other Italian statesmen in the past tried to solve the problem, but without success.

The present negotiations, which are now believed to be upon the point of successful conclusion, were exclusively revealed in detail by International News Service on December 18.

soon. But, someone, wiser than the rest, wired the president of the Canadian Ford company and learned that no dividend would be paid and instead there was a deficit of $4,000,000. When this information was broadcast the stock dropped back even lower than it had been previously.

Caught in Tumble. Now it appears that several brokerage houses were caught in the tumble. Evidently this firm that sent the local man its information was among those caught, and was trying to unload before the news about the upset leaked out of New York. A stock salesman, giving his name as B. E. Keen, and representing Kresel & Co., came to Manchester, remained at the Hotel Sheridan last night, bright and early he got in touch with the local investor and tried to interest him in "100 shares of Ford." The price was set at $1,812.50, the stock being quoted this morning at 18 1/2. The salesman sought a deposit of $800.

Was Cautious. The local investor, fortunately, did two things. He decided he had better investigate both the stock and the brokerage house, and also call the Chamber of Commerce. While the salesman was in his office four telephone calls, reported to be from New York, came for Mr. Keen. He gave every impression that his services and the stock he was selling were very much in demand.

At just the opportune moment a Manchester policeman, John McGlinn, chanced along. Patrolman McGlinn stood at the store entrance and looked in. This bit of action gave the stock salesman the "willies." He realized that he wasn't making much progress with his prospect, and that he might be detained at police headquarters if he persisted too long. He quickly picked up his stock contracts, which had already been made out, and left the store.

Had he remained ten minutes longer Secretary George E. Rix of the local Chamber of Commerce would have known of his presence here and would have stepped into the local office. An arrest would naturally have followed since the salesman's proposition was fraudulent.

STUDY BAD CHILDREN

London.—Incorrigible pupils of London schools are now turned over to the new "child guidance clinic" for observation. Psychiatrists are in charge of the bureau, under the supervision of the Child Guidance Council, and patients are referred for observation at the discretion of school medical examiners.

WILBUR MOTT DEAD

East Orange, N. J., Jan. 17.—Wilbur A. Mott, former prosecutor of Essex county and special prosecutor in the first Hall-Mills murder investigation is dead today at his home. He had been suffering from pneumonia for several days.

HELEN'S ROMANCE REAL 'LOVE' GAME

when the question of Miss Wills following a career was broached. Helen, Very Busy

"I certainly do want her to keep up her tennis and her art after we are married," he declared. "I think it a fine thing for a girl to be interested in athletics and art. Helen is a very busy girl and I believe it a very good thing for girls to be busy. "She will keep up her tennis as long as she is a champion and a long time afterwards, I believe, and she will always be interested in painting and writing."

Asked if he liked athletics, Moody, who although he did not attend college looks as though he might have been a football or crew captain, said, "yes, I used to play football, and I like tennis and golf—but, business takes most of my time."

Worked as a Sailor. However, Moody has not devoted all of his life to business. When he graduated from the Potter School in San Francisco, instead of following the heavily beaten path to college, Moody went to sea.

He started out as an ordinary seaman on a sailing vessel and made three trips to Honolulu. He learned seamanship and navigation and qualified as a deck officer, after which he made several long voyages, one taking him around the world.

A large part of his education was obtained in Europe where he spent seven years of his life, going to school in Switzerland part of that time. Moody is a member of one of the pioneer families of San Francisco and is extremely popular among his fellow brokers despite his natural bashfulness and his poker face with which he will gaze over the net at its counterpart through life.

ment of Justice, Donovan is a Catholic.

For these reasons, if for no other, Mr. Hoover has decided to keep his own counsel concerning Cabinet appointments until shortly before inauguration. Probably no appointment could be made that would not draw protests from some quarter, and he considers it would be unfair to make targets of his friends and future aides.

Today was an off-day for the president-elect. He has been conferring and meeting callers eight hours a day every day since he has been in the capital, save Sundays. There were no engagements today. Mr. Hoover decided he needed the time to get caught up with his correspondence, which has been exceedingly heavy since his return to Washington, and also to attend to some personal business.

The stream of visitors will begin again tomorrow, however, and last through Saturday. Mr. Hoover now plans to close his desk Saturday night, and leave for Miami Beach either Sunday or early Monday morning.

WALL ST. NEUTRAL IN STEWART FIGHT

plans somewhat, and within 24 hours he boarded the train for Chicago, taking all of his papers and projects to lay before his board of strategy in his home city. Then followed his first official statement, in which he threw down the gauntlet to the Rockefellerers and told them he had accepted their challenge.

The Silent Vote. There is a big "silent vote" in the stock holdings of the Standard Oil Company and upon the swaying of this vote will depend the outcome of the fight. Thousands of shares are locked up in strong boxes and safety deposit vaults, with the dust of decades upon them, proxies having been put through as a matter of routine year in and year out. Here is where the big offensive will be concentrated during the next six weeks, and hundreds of investors who have never given an annual meeting second thought will be swayed hither and yon by rival forces seeking the privilege of voting their stock.

YOUNG PUTNAM, INSANE.

New York, Jan. 17.—Nicholas H. Putnam, 20-year-old descendant of General Israel Putnam, famous as a revolutionary War fighter, has been committed to the Bloomingdale asylum at White Plains, N. Y. for the treatment of mental disorders, it was learned today.

Young Putnam, who is said to have suffered from "illusions of grandeur" made quite a name for himself in recent years as a playboy.

His aunt, Miss Ida Carleton of Park avenue, and Clifford Carleton, who is supposed to be his legal guardian, had the youth taken to Bellevue hospital, where Dr. Samuel Feiga of the hospital's staff, examined him and then applied to Supreme Court Justice Churchill for an order of commitment to the asylum.

HOUSE STARTS MOVE TO KEEP WORLD PEACE

probably will call public hearings in the near future. "When the multilateral treaty has been ratified by a sufficient number of nations I would favor legislation providing that when the President recognized the existence of a state of war between foreign nations, it shall be unlawful to export arms and munitions and other contraband of war from the United States to the warring nations," said Porter.

Rep. Korrell (R) of Oregon started the ball rolling by introducing a resolution prohibiting the exportation of arms to any nations which violate the Kellogg "Pact of Paris." He would put upon the President the duty of deciding when nations have violated the pact.

A Logical Step. "My resolution represents the natural and logical step to be taken by our government following its submission and conclusion of the multilateral treaty or the Pact of Paris, as it is more generally known," he said.

Rep. Fish (R) of New York announced that he would press for action upon his resolution prohibiting the President and Congress from declaring war until an election has been held on the question. Agitation also had begun for consideration of the floor of the Burton resolution designed to prohibit export of arms to any warring nations, whether signatories of the Kellogg pact or not.

It was disclosed in the discussions today that peace advocates in Congress were prepared to press a resolution prohibiting export of arms to Bolivia and Paraguay if they had declared war in their recent dispute.

BABE RUTH WEEPS AT HIS WIFE'S GRAVE

ing of the Woodfords at 420 West Fourth street, South Boston. Large Crowd

A crowd of several thousand men, women and children had assembled near the home when Ruth, accompanied by Superintendent of Police Michael J. Crowley, and two other friends arrived in a limousine.

Ruth's shoulders were bent as he slowly made his way up the front steps while the faithful ones behind him wept. His black felt hat was pulled over his eyes and he cringed as the photographers made their pictures.

He knelt beside the flower strewn casket and, blessing himself, said a prayer. Then he went to a back room where his wife's mother sat dazed in her rocking chair, her family striving to console her.

Ruth kissed the elderly woman and cried brokenly as he patted her on the shoulder. Priest Says Prayer

The priest then came forward and all the family gathered in the front parlor while he said prayers over the casket. Throughout this ceremony Ruth's huge frame shook with sobs.

When father Burke had finished Ruth stood up before the casket and took a last look at the face of his wife who was burned to death when flames swept the bungalow of Dr. Edward H. Kinder, Watertown dentist, with whom she had been living since she became estranged from the famous ball player.

Ruth bent over and tears fell upon the white face in the casket. Then he closed the casket gently. The huge bouquets of flowers, including an exceptionally large one from the grieving husband bearing the words, "Rest in Peace," were carried to two open automobiles outside. The profusion of flowers contained cards bearing the names of nationally known baseball men, such as Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, Lou Gehrig, Herb Pennock and Miller Huggins.

Slowly the six pall bearers carried the casket out of the house, down the steps and slid it into the black motor hearse.

Funeral Procession. The family filed out slowly, first the brothers, Edward Woodford, World War veteran in an army coat, Thomas Woodford, William Woodford and Michael Woodford. Snow was falling in large flakes.

Then came the aged mother, on the arm of her daughter, Mrs. Johanna McCarthy. Behind them were other sisters of the deceased, Mrs. Catherine O'Donnell, Mrs. Mae Tighe and Miss Nora Woodford.

And then, leaning on the arm of Superintendent of Police Crowley, came Ruth, making no effort to hide his tears from the gaze of the throng of several thousand that lined the sidewalks across the street, or were perched on vantage points.

Slowly the cortege started for the old Calvary cemetery, over winding roads long since familiar to "the Babe" when, as a rookie pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, he had courted the beautiful, dark-haired Helen Woodford.

DETECTIVE ACQUITTED

Elkhart, Ind., Jan. 17.—Harvey L. Smith, 31, former Alabama detective was acquitted in Elkhart Superior Court here today of the charge of slaying Mrs. Genevieve Stula, 31-year-old South Bend beauty shop operator.

NEW ENGLISH IS MADE FOR USE ON AIR FIELDS

Los Angeles, Cal.—An entirely new form of the English language is spoken daily around the hangars and runways it was revealed at the recent national air races at Mines Field.

For instance when a pilot tells you to "hook 'em up" in taking off from a small field, he means to raise the plane clear of obstacles that may be in the path.

Then he says a ship is "tooting along" he means the same thing an automobile driver would mean if he said his car was running along fine.

When he "pancakes" a plane, or "mushes her in" he means that he is making it lose forward speed in landing to keep it from hitting the ground on its "nose"—its front end.

When he means to say that he hasn't flown in a week, he announces that he hasn't "cracked a throttle" in that time. And when he wants to say that a pilot is a Goebel or a Lindbergh or a Kingsford-Smith, he drags out the good old word "hot" to express efficiency, daring and nerve.

New Expressions. From Ensign Frank E. Williams, attached to the naval aviation base at Long Beach now and formerly in the army aviation corps, some of the new expressions here named were obtained. And to represent commercial aviation, others were taken from the vocabulary of Bob Teutt, who flew the Kendall ship to the races from Pennsylvania.

Sharp turns in the air are called "fantails." A "dead stick landing" is one made with the propeller stopped. A "ball out" is navy slang for jumping out of a plane to make a parachute jump.

"Squat" is the term in vogue for a slow "semi-stall" landing. "Stalling" is holding the plane's nose up until flying speed is lost and the plane drops out of control until speed is regained.

"Banking" is lowering one wing while turning, similar to the position taken by a race car on a banked race track. "Prop" is a simple translation for propeller, and "skidding" means the same thing it does in ordinary English, except the deed is done on the invisible alleys of the air, instead of rain-wet asphalt streets.

Well Known Terms. A "nose-over" is the army term for the unhappy (for the flier) event of landing and turning the plane over on its back. A "stable plane" is one that is steady and tends to fly without the constant movement of the controls—so that the flier presumably may day dream or meditate, as he sails over the much advertised silver lining every cloud is alleged to possess.

The greatly misused verb "zooming" actually means pulling the plane upwards sharply after a long glide toward the ground. And "blind flying" of course, means flying in the rain or fog with no chance of seeing up, down or to the side, making it necessary to guide the plane by instruments.

And there are dozens that everyone already knows, like "take off," "gliding," "stunting" and "forced landing." These, too, that designate and describe stunts, are highly flexible and plastic, but after drying, it becomes rigid and strongly cemented together.

SMITH MAKES PLEA FOR PARTY FUNDS

that the former governor intended to remain in the political limelight. To Stick to Job

Asserting that a militant party organization must be organized and that it must "stay on the job" constantly instead of functioning only six months in four years, Smith advanced a plan to provide money for this purpose as well as to wipe out the $1,500,000 deficit in the Democratic party campaign fund. He asked for contributions from the rank and file and announced that every contributing dollar of $2 or more the Democratic national committee will send the donor a book containing copies of his campaign speeches. The book is illustrated with campaign photographs.

Dangerous Practice. To allow a small group of wealthy men to meet the deficit would place too much power in the hands of a few, the speaker warned. His own contribution, he said, would be a forfeiture of royalties which publishers had offered him for publication of the speeches in book form.

Democratic leaders praised the plan and predicted that contributions from the rank and file would amount to a considerable total. One contribution of $25 was promised by the Far Rockaway, N. Y., Democratic Club only 15 minutes after the ex-governor had completed his speech.

MARTYR TO SCIENCE

Washington, Jan. 17.—Science today claimed another victim. After an illness of three months, Dr. Joseph Goldberger of the Public Health Service died this morning in the Naval hospital, a victim of a mysterious disease which had baffled some of the country's most noted physicians.

Dr. Goldberger had been a leader in the fight against the dread disease pellagra, and had conducted numerous scientific experiments. Three months ago he contracted an infection as a result of one of his scientific researches.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 17.—The stocks of the Metals companies—Steel, Copper, Lead and Zinc, held the center of the stage in a new forward movement today, which carried prices upward all the way from 3 to 16 points. Radio jumped nearly 20 points and stocks of the large companies reached higher altitudes in a brisk buying movement.

The bankers came to the relief of the bulls in the early afternoon, pouring in a good supply of money that had been left over from their mid-month settlements. Though the early money rate ruled at 8 per cent, a reduction to 7 per cent was made in the afternoon.

St. Joseph Lead pushed along vigorously to 78 for a new gain of 8 points in the leadership of the low-priced metal stocks. Chile Copper jumped 7 1/2 to 82 on reports that the Anaconda company would pay more than $30 a share for the minority stock taken over. Higher prices were also quoted for Anaconda Copper, International Nickel, Inspiration Copper and Greene Cananea Copper.

United States Steel common sold at the highest price in its history when the stock sailed over 173 in an enthusiastic buying wave in the forenoon. Wall street heard today that the directors, at their meeting on January 29, would order another stock dividend similar to the one put through in January, 1927. The Steel Corporation now has close to $650,000,000 surplus.

"Comfort-indoors? I'll take a well-cushioned divan—a gay-colored hearth rug—and a brisk little Gas Fireplace. And not even a blizzard from Greenland will disturb my scheme of things!"

A happy combination of comfort features gives the Gas Fireplace preference in modern homes. There are no logs or coal scuttles to be lugged. No fires to be built and poked. No ashes to be hauled away.

The warmth it gives is as steady as the heat in your oven. And just as easy to regulate.

Our new models are suitable for installation in any fireplace.

THE BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH

Gilbert Swan, Famous New York Columnist, Tells a Few Facts About Interpreting Manhattan

Gilbert Swan, whose column, "In New York," is one of the most widely read newspaper features in the world, steps out of his role of columnist in the accompanying article to give you some of his own ideas about his job as a roving reporter in the world's greatest city. "In New York" is a daily feature in The Evening Herald and in hundreds of other newspapers in North America. Millions of readers follow Mr. Swan in his daily adventures, about Manhattan. In this article he tells you how he feels about it.

One of those London journalists who skylark about our land between ships, and then rush home filled with interpretative wisdom, recently prepared the following paragraph, among others, for an English newspaper:

"New York does not realize its debt to the syndicated columnists who make that city far more interesting than it really is."

Which is, of course, ridiculous. The complete reverse is true, as I see it. The columnist does not exist who can make New York even fractionally as interesting as it is. The columnist is not likely to be born who can begin to keep pace, day by day, with the drama, color, movement, life, eccentricity, incongruity, drama, tragedy and flavor of New York.

Just a Reporter
I do not think I am over-sold on New York. I do not think I mirror the type known as the New Yorker. In fact on those occasions when I am called upon to play the role of "man about town," I feel a little silly and self-conscious. I do not take kindly to white spots, trick suits and self-exploitation, nor any of the gate-crashing phases that are presumed to aid in "putting a guy over" in New York. I prefer to believe I am a reporter. As a reporter, I hope I know a story when I see one. And New York contains every story a reporter could hope to write.

If you don't see the story that

Gilbert Swan

No visitor has time to see New York. No native has time to see or feel New York. And the man doesn't live in New York who dares to feel it too keenly. He couldn't survive. He has to run away, to play and forget and not grow too introspective or too retrospective. And the staccato parade of events helps him. So he remains sane, if not always sober.

Not one of us escapes the confusion that is felt by the veriest yokel. But some of us have trained ourselves, or tried to, to see those things that escape the millions who come to New York every year and get but the most casual and superficial glimpse of some of its physical aspects, see a few shows, attend a night club, raise a little of the "old Ned" and go back home.

And millions more are ever packing grips and trunks for the "big trip."

They don't see New York. They don't even skim New York.

The Columnist's Job
And that's where I come in. That's where all of us who write of New York come in. Some of us see better than others and some of us write better than others. Who's who in this particular competition becomes a matter of personal taste and habit. It's certainly nothing for me to express an opinion about.

I'm trying to explain why people should like New York columns, if they do; and why they should learn to, if they don't.

For the market place of the world is this island—the market place for art, for literature, music, just, fun, drama, everything and anything.

The melting pot is here, and the money starts. The riches, the poverty, the styles, the splendor—everything that reflects in American life, sooner or later. There is drama and there is drabness and dullness.

And all this, from day to day, a New York columnist seeks to capture.

No Alibi Now

"Pardon me, officer, I didn't see you!" . . . This alibi won't work for motorists who speed past corners manned by traffic cops wearing these new red reflectors on white belts, which stand out prominently in the glare of headlights. Pictured here is Officer Joe Chan of Cambridge, Mass., who is equipped with the unique device.

TALCOTTVILLE

M. H. Talcott is ill with the grip. Miss Alice Talcott is recovering from the same malady.

HEBRON

There was no service at St. Peter's Episcopal church on Sunday owing to a break in the furnace which will make repairs necessary before the church can be heated. The session of Sunday school was also omitted.

A delegation from Hopevale attended the Sabbath school convention of Seventh Day Adventists, held in Hartford on Saturday last. Those present were Mrs. Leroy Benninger, superintendent of the Hopevale Sabbath school, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Coates and their daughter, Miss Eleanor, the Misses Mabel and Hazel Broome, Mrs. Edward Fredericks, Miss Ruth Allen, teacher of the Hopevale Private school, and Joseph and Shirley, children of Mrs. Benninger.

The thermometer registered from two degrees below zero to ten below in different parts of the town at 7 o'clock Monday morning. This is about the lowest point reached by the mercury this winter hereabouts.

Mrs. E. G. Lord had as dinner guests on Sunday her daughter, Miss Clarissa, who was at home for the week end, her niece, Miss Helen Gilbert, who was also spending the week end at her Hebron home, and Robert Will, a senior at Wesleyan who spent part of the day here.

Miss Maude Clark of East Hampton spent the week end at the home of her mother Mrs. O. E. Clark.

Morris Rackmilowitz was a week end visitor at his Hebron home this week, returning to his business in New York on Monday.

There was no meeting of the Christian Endeavor here Sunday evening owing to the violent snow squall which came up late Sunday afternoon and made the going very treacherous. A car coming down Post Hill at a rapid speed skidded and the two front wheels broke through the rail fence at the side of the road. The car was slightly damaged but the occupant was not hurt. Many accidents have occurred at this point since the putting through of the state road. Charles Miner was driving down this hill just in front of the above mentioned motorist and had to maneuver to avoid being struck.

Many cases of grip or influenza (the difference seems hard to distinguish) continue to be reported. Mrs. Alphonse Wright who was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, recently, threatened with pneumonia, is reported to be improving. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wright, parents-in-law of Mrs. Wright, are both prostrated with grip at their homes here.

Mrs. Edwin T. Smith was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Rilla Barrows, in New London on Monday.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ames W. Sission were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jacques and their son Harry, Jr., of Hartford, accompanied by a friend.

It has been learned that the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ward in West Hartford, caught fire recently from an electrical short circuit. It was supposed, burning all furniture and clothing in their sleeping apartment. There were no other injuries and the fire was soon brought under control.

British Regulars; otherwise there could have been no Thermopylae, no siege at the Alamo.
 When two nations begin to wonder whether their armies or their navies are as good, one as the other, and to stew and worry about it, they have entered on the road to mutual conflict, because by no measurement save that of the test of blood can such a question be determined.
SMITH'S SPEECH
 Alfred E. Smith's radio broadcast last evening, though apparently delivered in the hope that it might possibly arouse some party interest in clearing up the Democratic National Committee's big financial deficit, still leaves many people somewhat mystified as to the inner reason for its delivery.
 The recent Presidential candidate said nothing particularly new—no important idea, not already familiar, was presented through the medium of the costly hook-up. There was the old familiar talk about the necessity of a united opposition party and the now somewhat hackneyed juggling of figures to show that a change of less than half a million votes would have won the election for Smith—if he could have had them distributed just to his liking. But only one thing can be picked out of the address that can possibly be interpreted as carrying a real reason for the spending of all that radio money.
 Mr. Smith pointed out that it is customary for the Democratic party to neglect its deficits until the year of the next Presidential election, and that this deficit is always carried by a very small group of persons who, as he puts it, are very liable to be deeply interested in the candidacy of some one person.
 This may offer a clue to the address. The group which will carry the deficit this year is a very small one indeed. So small, in fact, that a good many Democrats have the impression that the financial backing of the party centers pretty exclusively in the person of John W. Raskob. If this is so, and if Mr. Smith is now warning the party against such backing and such personal possession of a party, the inference is fairly clear that Mr. Raskob does not intend to carry that deficit in the interest of Al Smith.
 Inasmuch, too, as Mr. Raskob has recently developed a tendency to cuddle around in the vicinity of Governor Roosevelt, and inasmuch as Governor Roosevelt and Mr. Smith are generally believed to have developed some slight mutual coolness, it might appear as if the speech were delivered in a rather strained expectation of dropping a small wrench in the machinery of a 1932 Roosevelt-for-President boom well in advance of its genesis.

THE TREATY
 As thoughtful contemplation of the Foreign Relations Committee's report on the multilateral treaty—which is as near to a reservation or an interpretive resolution as the treaty quibblers could attain before adoption of the pact by the United States Senate—of which we are capable falls to disclose anything of the slightest importance as fruit of the many days of discussion to which the treaty was subjected. That long and tiresome debate, so far as its effects upon the ratified treaty goes, can be properly represented by the character zero. The nation is committed to nothing more, nothing less, by so much as the weight of a snowdrop, than if the treaty had been ratified with a cheer at the moment of its introduction into the Senate. But we have lost every bit of the possible benefit to the peace of the world that would have grown out of unhesitant and joyous ratification.
 We have simply told ourselves—and have taken excellent care not to formally tell the other signatories—something that we all perfectly well knew before; that the United States regards the Monroe doctrine as woven into the fabric of our theory of self-defense.
 The Monroe doctrine itself is a declaration that the United States would regard any attempt to colonize or exercise political control over any more territory on the Western Hemisphere by any Eastern Hemisphere power as inimical to our safety. How utterly unnecessary, then, for a formal declaration at this time that that doctrine is bound up with our ideas of self-defense.
 As matters stand the ratification of the treaty, so far as the other parties to it are concerned, is absolutely without reservation and without special interpretation. As matters stand the treaty means exactly what it always meant to every American citizen.
 The mountain that labored and brought forth a mouse had at least the mouse to show for its travail. The Senate has labored and produced a vacuum.
 But it has killed a lot of time at a heavy per diem.

ADVICE TO LAWYERS
 Judge Isaac Wolfe of the Superior Court gave some excellent advice to a group of twenty-one fledgling lawyers whom he was swearing in as members of the Connecticut bar when he advised them to use plain English and not too much of it when trying cases before juries.
 Grant that it is part of the business of a lawyer, particularly a young one, to impress the jury with the fact that he is a person of learning and not a mere whippersnapper, it is at least equally important that the jury should know what the show is all about; and juries are not always composed entirely of persons whose reception is as good on polysyllables as it is on short words. Neither, as Judge Wolfe intimated, are juries on the average eagerly receptive of long, involved and windy argumentation—they are liable to let their minds go fast asleep, even if their eyes keep up an appearance of wakefulness, under the influence of a monotonous rainfall of words.
 But there was something else that Judge Wolfe said which might well be thundered into the ears of every law student from the day of his matriculation. He urged them "to be honest with the court."
 And therein the learned judge drew a picture of the millennium. When attorneys who are in legal fact members of the court in which they practice shall no longer devote any part of their talents to attempting to deceive that very court, then more than half the evils of our system of jurisprudence will automatically have disappeared.

SMUGGLING
 One of the numerous industries seeking additional tariff protection at this time is the manufacture of small arms. None, it would seem, can with greater fairness be granted all the tariff protection that the traffic will bear. As was pointed out yesterday by Colonel Whelen of the Ordnance Department to the Ways and Means Committee, the government is absolutely dependent for its major military protection on the private manufacture of small arms, for in case of war the government's own small arms plants would be but a drop in the bucket.

 Nor is the sale of small arms by private manufacturers a function that can possibly be made to bear unduly on the purchaser. The purchaser of a rifle, if compelled to pay a few dollars extra on its price, is by no means in the position of the consumer of a necessary staple who is required to pay higher prices through the operation of high tariff schedules. He has of all people the least ground for complaint, when the higher price he must be paid is nothing but his very occasional contribution to a constructive subsidy to national defense.
 Just the same there is one point that needs to be considered in this connection and is going to require consideration in various connections presently. Which is that there is a limit beyond which tariffs on small commodities cannot be elevated without putting a premium on smuggling. Already it is suspected that there is going on in America a big contraband trade in European-made cutlery, as scores of thousands of pocket knives are making their appearance in the channels of trade which it is obvious never paid a cent of duty.
 Booze is not the only thing that it pays to smuggle, even now, and with further increases of tariff rates on articles that can conveniently be "run" the problem of contraband merchandise is likely to develop into an important one.

AVIATION IN SOUTH HAILS ARMY WING AT SHREVEPORT, LA.
 Shreveport, La.—Aviation in the entire South is expected to be aided with the location of the Third Attack Wing of the United States Army Service in Shreveport.
 Recent announcement of the selection of the 22,000-acre site only three miles from the heart of Shreveport on which to locate the infant branch of the army service, is the result of two years' negotiations between the War Department and this city. Other southern cities also made bids for the development.
 The field is expected to be improved immediately at an estimated cost of $7,500,000. When completed hangars, buildings and equipment for 110 Curtiss Falcon planes, 197 officers and 1,340 enlisted men, in addition, to a hospital staff and quartermaster corps will have been erected and installed.
 The Attack Wing is the only military organization of its kind in the world and result from experience gained by this country during the world war.

THE ROAD TO WAR
 Now that the multilateral treaty is out of the way the next bone of contention in Congress is the fifteen cruiser bill. We shall hear a tremendous amount of talk about parity and balance of naval power. And not one single one of the disputants will have, or possibly can have, any clear idea as to what would constitute naval parity between the United States and Great Britain. Not even the blustering old admirals themselves—because no two of them are ever agreed or any where near agreed.
 There is just one way of finding out which of two maritime powers has the more effective navy, and that is for them to go to war and fight it out. That, by the same token, is the inevitable way in which this question of parity or non-parity will be determined. In the end, if we as a nation permit ourselves to become obsessed with the idea of making sure that no other country shall have a superior navy.
 Wars are not fought, in the words of Mercutio, "by a rule of arithmetic;" not by counting guns and planes and ships and awarding the victory, through a jury of accountants, to the side which makes the more impressive showing in the tables; but by application of the tools of conflict. Otherwise the embattled farmers at Concord and Lexington could never in the world have turned back Gage's amply armed and numerically superior

FACTS ABOUT CONNECTICUT
 Compiled by the CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
 (200) Internal Revenue Totals $36,000,000
 The $36,110,447 in internal revenue collected in Connecticut last year was 1.2% of the $2,865,683,130 collected in all states by the United States Government. Connecticut stood 17th among the states in total receipts. During 1922 the internal revenue from Connecticut amounted to $50,224,645 for the United States, $3,197,451.083.
 Corporations furnished the largest amount of the internal revenue, the income tax from this source amounting to $18,008,704. Individuals paid in $15,731,045 in income tax. The transfer of net estates of decedents resulted in internal revenue amounting to $1,367,515.
 The tax on distilled spirits and alcoholic beverages which totaled $21,195,551 for all states amounted to only $12,352 for Connecticut. Virtually all of this was from licensing liquor dealers. Tobacco and tobacco manufacturers paid $143,778 in revenue. Stamp taxes totaled $72,650, while manufacturers' excise taxes totaled $23,723. The sale of automobiles and motorcycles in the state was responsible for $146,336 of this amount; the sale of pistols and revolvers for $72,431 and cereal beverages, or substitutes therefor, for $13,955. The licensed sale of narcotics brought $8,219 in receipts.
 Patrons of Connecticut's theaters and concerts paid in taxes, $12,837 during the year. Dues for social, athletic, or sporting clubs, which charge over $10 annually, were taxed for a total of $216,523, while roof gardens and cabarets paid in $6,297 in taxes.
 To collect the internal revenue in Connecticut during the year it cost the government $197,124. The total cost for the United States was $12,167,252.

IN NEW YORK
 New York, Jan. 17.—The "big town gossip":
 Gretchen Dick sends me this tale concerning Edward Johnson, the Metropolitan star who inherited the costumes of the late Caruso—these having been given him by Caruso's widow as a sort of passing-along-the-laurels gesture. Any way Johnson was appearing at a concert in Syracuse in mid-December. Some musically alert townsfolk took along a friend, who had been feigning great critical and appreciative qualities where music was concerned. After the great tenor's second aria, the crowd roared its applause.
 "Yes... yes, he is very good," the pseudo was heard to remark. "Yes, very good indeed. But you can see that he could never make the Metropolitan, for instance."
 And on board Mussolini's garish ship, Vulcania, the Atlantic Monthly gave a large hand to their famous little girl, Mazo de la Roche, who comes from the Newfoundland country and wrote the prize novel, "Taina." And Mme. de la Roche, who is to winter in Corsica, told a tale of some distant relative who had been thrice wedded. And on Thanksgiving Day he gave a dinner to which he invited all three of his mothers-in-law. They all attended, and had a very pleasant time. Asked later why he had arranged so strange a gathering, he replied: "Oh, you know—there's safety in numbers!"
 So to a post-New Year party given by Nan Martin, who wrote "Lord Byron Broadway," which will soon be done in the talking films. . . . And she told me that she had been a trouper for many a year, doing everything from a black-faced comedy dance turn to "straight." Having composed many tunes she was given the task of writing the theme song for her own picture, which doubtless sets a precedent. . . . And, later in the night, to a gathering for Alberta Vaughn, the slender-waisted movie actress who did the telephone girl series for F. B. O. . . . And having come from a "dress" party was greatly embarrassed to find myself the only person in "soup and fish" . . . Which, if you haven't experienced, I urge you to avoid.

GILEAD
 The Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening was omitted on account of stormy weather.
 Elton Bartholomew, was ill in bed several days last week with grip. He is now spending a few days with his mother Mrs. Alice Bartholomew in Mansfield.
 The Grange held its regular meeting at the hall Tuesday evening.
 Mr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Perry and son Laurence were dinner guests Sunday at Mrs. Mary Mitchell's in Hebron.
 Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fish and daughters Barbara and Shirley of Manchester were guests of Mrs. Fish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Post.
 Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Foote attended the meeting of the Connecticut Farm Bureau Federation at the Hotel Garde Hartford, Tuesday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Myron Post of East Hartford were Sunday visitors at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Post.
 As C. Daniel Way is ill at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, his son Dr. Walter D. Way of Westport, N. Y., is here assisting in the management of his business.
 Mrs. Elizabeth Lord passed her 101st birthday Tuesday. She was born here and has lived in this town most of her life. After her marriage to Mr. Hinman Lord they lived in Marlborough for a few years but afterward purchased a farm here where they resided until his death. She was a regular attendant at the local church as long as her health permitted. She makes her home with Mrs. Gertrude Hough in Hebron. She has one brother Alfred Hutchinson who has recently passed his 88th birthday.
 Quite often words and expressions that are at first entered in the dictionary as colloquial or slang eventually become perfectly good members of the standard vocabulary.
 . . . And, to my amazement, found myself anonymously kidded in the current Variety, the intimation being that I had sought to be "itzzy," or something. . . . Whereas, heaven knows I wanted to run down the fire escape or to trade my dress-up clothes for a pair of overalls.

ONE IN EVERY FOUR LICENSED TO DRIVE
 State Motor Vehicle Dept. Expects Record Number of Applicants for 1929.
 About every fourth person in Connecticut will be licensed to drive an automobile during 1929 if the normal rate of increase of new drivers continues through the year, State Motor Vehicle Department officials estimate. Approximately 350,000 application blanks for license renewals were sent out yesterday to drivers who held licenses during 1928. Before the end of the year the total is expected to reach 385,000, or a little less than one-fourth the estimated population of the state.
 Operators' certificates now in force will expire on February 28, and a new license will be required on March 1. Persons who held licenses during the past year will not be re-examined and applications may be made by mail. The renewal fee is $3, and payment by mail should be by check, money order or express order, payable to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. All mail applications must be made to

So Your Home May Be Up-To-Date This Year

MAKE sure your home is up-to-date this year by bringing to it furniture that is "ahead-of-date". This suite assures long lasting style because Berkey & Gay, the leading stylists, selected it for nationwide presentation. It was recently advertised in the Saturday Evening Post, and is being displayed for the first time in Manchester today.

HELP FOR CHILDREN SHOWS STEADY GAIN

Conn. Organization Holds Annual Session In Hartford Today; The Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid society held at the Webster Memorial building in Hartford, this afternoon, Mrs. Grace C. Cary, Hartford, district secretary, was granted a three months' leave of absence in recognition of the splendid service she has rendered to the society during the past ten years.

The meeting was characterized by a sketch given by members of the staff called an "animated" report showing the nature and division of the children's work done by the society. Those who participated were Mrs. Grace C. Cary, Mrs. L. B. Makinson, secretaries of the Hartford and Fairfield districts, Miss Adella Rombold, Miss Grace Thomas, Miss Helen Edwards, Miss Helen Flitts of the Hartford staff and Miss Kathleen Sibley of Fairfield. Miss Katherine Murphy of Willimantic portrayed the part of the foster mother, and Henry Mitchell of Manchester the part of an older boy becoming of age and going out of the society's care.

Serves 1194 Children. Ralph Barrow, executive secretary, summed up the report with the total figures showing 1194 children served by the society during 1928. Two hundred and ninety-four had been given in foster homes; complete physical examinations were given all the children admitted to the society's care; many requiring additional medical and dental treatment.

Reports were made by Robert H. Schutz of West Hartford, Chairman of the Finance Committee, showing contributions for the year totaling $30,086, which Mr. Schutz said was an increase of $3,000 over last year. Mr. Schutz expressed the society's gratitude for these contributions and said that the applications for service to children were increasing in volume every year, and that with increased financial support there would come greater usefulness.

Charles W. Jaynes, assistant treasurer, gave the complete financial statement for 1928. This report showed total income of $95,864 and total expenses of $93,768.87, leaving a cash balance of $2,095.71, December 31, 1928, of $2,095. Mr. Jaynes said that since the monthly expenses averaged $8,000 it is necessary to secure additional funds continually.

Mr. Gale announced that during the past twelve months now bequests totaling $8,416 had been received by the society's treasurer, the Hartford National Bank and Trust company. He stressed the fact that the society's most urgent need is increased endowment.

Year's Officers. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Philip B. Gale, Bloomfield, president; Miss Marjory Cheney, South Manchester, vice president; Mrs. S. B. Hemingway, New Britain, vice president; Thomas Hewes, Farmington, vice president; Paul M. Butterworth, West Hartford, secretary; Mrs. Curtis H. Veeder, Hartford, assistant secretary; Hartford National Bank and Trust company, treasurer; Charles W. Jaynes, West Hartford, assistant treasurer; Robert H. Schutz, Hartford, chairman finance committee.

Mrs. D. Newton Barney, Farmington; Charles E. Chase, Hartford; Mrs. Charles P. Cooley, Hartford; Rev. John M. Deyo, Danbury; Joseph R. Ensign, Simsbury; Philip B. Gale, Hartford; Mrs. Samuel R. Hemingway, New Haven; W. H. Rattenbury, New Britain; Robert H. Schutz, Farmington; Robert H. Schutz, Hartford; James L. Thomson, Hartford, were elected to serve as directors until December 31, 1931.

464 KILLED BY AUTOS IN STATE DURING '28

Over 12,000 Injured in Same Period—47 Killed in December.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 17.—Definite figures furnished today by the State Motor Vehicle Department show that 1928 had 27,534 automobile accidents where 1927 had 26,832 and that 464 persons were killed and 12,012 persons hurt in 1928 as compared with 356 killed and 11,979 injured in 1927.

The fatalities were so numerous as to set a new record for the state. The month of December, its accident figures being available today for the first time, saw 47 deaths and 965 persons injured in 2,494 accidents.

Accidents by cities in December were reported thus: Hartford, 355; Bridgeport, 278; New Haven 256; Waterbury 149; Stamford 98; New Britain 81; Greenwich 69; Norwalk 64; Meriden 52; New London 51; Danbury 36; Norwich 33; Manchester 29; Middletown 27; Naugatuck 21; Willimantic 16; Putnam 14 and Winsted 7.

LONDON HEARS HOOVER YARNS

TIMES STORY OF HIS "GENIUS FOR ADVERTISEMENT" BRINGS STOUT DENIAL AND STARTS FLOOD OF ANECDOTES

By MILTON BRONNER. London.—Although in their editorial comment and news reports about the American presidential campaign the big London papers have been strictly neutral, a recent article in the famous Times has started a flood of Hoover anecdotes. This is, of course, largely due to the fact that Hoover is personally known over here because of his war work and after-war work, whereas Al Smith has never been in London.

The Times recently has published an intimate analysis of the personalities in the campaign. The writer said Hoover "has always had a genius for advertisement." This quickly brought a sharp response from Sir William Goode, himself an interesting personality, and educated in Ireland. He served as a purser in the British mercantile marine and then joined up with the Fourth United States Cavalry. He then turned to journalism and held various desk positions in New York city.

FAMINE IN INDIA AGAIN DREADED AS RAINS FAIL

London.—Famine—the scourge of India—is again facing inhabitants of a large and populous section of that country, and disastrous results are feared.

According to word reaching here from Simla, the failure of the yearly monsoon, in India regarded as a beneficent natural phenomena, as it brings rain and consequent fertility to the vast expanses of soil has rendered the country dry and arid.

Enormous areas are affected, and it is to be feared that the consequences to the teeming population of whom perhaps 80 per cent. are dependent upon agriculture, will be catastrophic.

As a rule, the monsoon "breaks" about the middle of June, and India is then swept with torrents of rain. But this year, the monsoon was not only late, but lacking in its usual violence, and as a result, the rainfall has been greatly below the normal.

GLANDS CANNOT MAKE AGED MAN SWEET SIXTEEN

Paris.—"Faust was a myth and even monkey gland treatment is incapable of making part of that myth a reality."

Dr. Serge Voronoff, whose grafting operation is generally believed to restore youth, admitted that science cannot make gray-haired persons feel like "sweet sixteen."

Mental vigor and not the last years of romance, he explained, is what most patients hope can be borrowed from African simians. "Not more than five per cent of the persons who come to me to be operated on do so because they desire to appeal to the opposite sex," he said.

Dr. Voronoff said he made these reflections after witnessing Arnold Bennett's play "Professor Estlin" in which Dr. Faustus shakes off eighty years and falls in love with a nineteen-year-old student. "The gland operation cannot even guarantee a fresh complexion," said Dr. Voronoff. "If a patient's wrinkles are smoothed out it is an accident."

"The operation is a boon to persons who need intellectual stimulus in that it overcomes physical fatigue, which affects the mental machinery."

"But the effect of the gland may not be permanent. Some patients feel the need of a new operation after three or five years after the first grafting."

Arnold Bennett in his play apparently intends to convey a moral which impresses me. There is an ethical problem in the fact that Dr. Faustus ruins a girl's life. Is it right to prolong or renew the life of one of evil character? My answer is a question. Should a surgeon refuse to operate on an unquestionably bad man?

Did Bernadotte, one of Napoleon's marshals, later King of Sweden and, still later, ancestor of Estelle Manville's husband, sneak off to India when a young man and lay havoc with the dancing girls in the native temples?

Against this, the London 'Sketch' publishes what is purported to be a diary kept by the young blade during his Indian adventures.

According to this diary, Bernadotte not only went to India, but down there he became involved in an espionage affair of serious proportions and, simultaneously fell violently in love with an Indian dancing girl.

Washington, Jan. 17.—In a ceremony unusual in American history, President Coolidge today affixed his signature to the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Industrial stocks were strong at the opening today, with new gains of 1 to 3 points in the active issues. General Electric jumped 3 1/2 to 239 1/2; Radio was up 3 at 355 1/2 and Electric Autolite up 3 1/2 at 150. U. S. Steel moved into new high ground, up 1/2 at 172 1/2. Studebaker sold up 1/2 at 88 1/2; Curtiss Aero was up 1/2 at 182 1/2 and New York Central up 1/2 at 190 1/2.

SCHOOL BASKETBALL

One of the most exciting basketball games of the season was played at the Hollister street school last night when the sixth and seventh grade of the Robertson school tied their score after a five minute overtime period. Extra time gave the seventh grade the victory, with a score of 20-22. Smith starred.

The eighth grade B from the Robertson school played Manchester Green and were defeated by the Green team 32 to 11. Johnston starred for the Green team. Manchester Green lost their first game Friday night when the Eighth grade C of the Robertson school defeated them 25 to 11. The last named team is so far undefeated. Stanley Wachreski of the Robertson school starred.

Predicts Two Club Race Again For The American

Walsh Thinks There Will Be Little Change in the Ultimate Standing Next October

Editor's Note: This is the second and last of a series of articles by David J. Walsh, dealing with the profit and loss shown by the ball clubs of each Major League, either by trades or natural depreciation, since the close of the 1928 season.

BY DAVID J. WALSH

New York, Jan. 17.—They tell about the patient who suffered a bad rally and the ball club which lost fifteen games straight and then went into a slump and, if neither of these cases has too much in common with the American League of today, it is because of the fact that, if some of its strong points are weakening, some of its weak points are strengthening. Individually, then is evidence of tangible improvement in only a few cases and then largely in a nominal sense. But, as an organization, the league is coming on. It is a better league today than it has been these three years because it is beginning to take on what the aristocracy would term an aspect of balance.

Second Division Better

Granting that improvements have been achieved, here and there, it will have to be conceded that much of this has been effected in the second division and, if this isn't encouraging, then you are beyond all aid and may your sons grow up to be college cheer leaders.

The New York Yankees, for example, will do no better for the simple reason that they will be much too busy being somewhat worse. The Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns have added nothing of note between seasons and, if they improve at all, it will be because some of their young men will be that much better for another year on this earth. All I can say for the Washington Senators is that, if they bettered themselves, they have done so in strict privacy. The Senators, as a matter of fact, may find that they are off about ten percent, the Yankees probably the same. The really improved outfits are the weak clubs of Cleveland and Boston and another second division entry, the Detroit Tigers. This should mean the beginning of the end of these cake-walk processions in the American League.

Few Changes

However, there probably will be little change in the ultimate standing next October. Everything points to another two-club race between the Yanks and Athletics, with the latter having a great chance. The Yanks need at least one more pitcher who can win ball games and, with infield uncertainties and possibly some decline on the part of the Hon. Babe Ruth, they may find that they have run their race. As it was, they were raced right up to the wire to win by two or three games last year.

The Browns made a great play for support in coming from seventh to third place in one season. But they haven't improved a whole lot and they still have a long way to come. They were 19 games behind the lead at the pay off in 1928 and, while the Athletics were equally in arrears in the preceding year and still came back in 1928 to cut their liability by some 16 games, they had only one club to catch. The Browns have two and will do well to make it at all close.

Counts On Pitchers

Walter Johnson is counting on a lot of young pitchers coming through and, if that doesn't do it, it will be just too bad. It may be that, anyway. Men like Judge and Rice are getting no younger with amazing speed and there is a spot at second base which might become an impalpable or yawning chasm at a moment's notice. The Senators couldn't touch 500 in finishing fourth last year and, frankly, they don't look the part for 1929.

The White Sox also have a cavity playing second base for them and there is no apparent change imminent unless some youth suddenly decides to have his fling. Classes, too, may come on at shortstop but nobody can guarantee results there, either. In fact, the Sox have too many questions to answer in their infield for their own good, in spite of an outfield punch, fair catching and good pitching. They don't figure to get out of the second division.

Tigers Are Good

The Tigers, on the contrary, are a good, cautious bet in this respect. Harris is a great man with a new line up lacks the outfield punch that has come to be associated with Detroit clubs of the last 25 years, he will get something out of the pitchers and probably will lift the morale of the entire outfit. He is just the man to handle Uhl and the latter may have one of his big years. If he does, the Tigers will go places. However, much of the club's success depends upon Schube at shortstop and Johnson, the coast outfielder. Schube wouldn't do with the Cardinals but things do happen in the course of a year or so. The Tigers figure to finish better than thirty-three games off the pace, in any event.

Local Sport Clatter

The big attraction in town Saturday night will be the appearance of Hartford High here. The Capitol city school is quite new and the defeats it has been receiving here the last few years and consequently has booked a two-game series this season. Tomorrow night, Manchester-plays at West Hartford in a league game.

The Herald Bowling League meets tonight for the first night's session in the second and final round. Three teams are tied for first place and another is only one point behind.

Judging from the way Olson's Terrible Swedes took New Britain and Plainfield into camp, the Rec Five isn't so bad after all. It's going to take a mighty good team to turn back the Rec on its home floor; make no mistake about that. Middletown plays here next Tuesday night, Tomorrow evening, the Rec Five journeys to New Haven where it will take on the fast St. Michaels, conquerors of the fast Hartford Knights of Lithuania.

Plans are under way for the formation of a hockey team to represent the local High school. If one is formed, Tom Kelley will be the coach. Inter-class games have already been played and considerable interest aroused.

GUS—HE RASSLES

Gus Sonnenberg was one of Dartmouth's best football players but when he left college he didn't go into the pro football game. He became a professional wrestler to get a stake to start him in business and he went right to the top of the class. In the picture above he is shown as he completed training for a recent match in Boston against Strangler Lewis for the world's championship, which he won.

shortstop and I guess this Averill from the coast is a real outfielder. But the club needs a first baseman and pitchers and probably will go nowhere in particular until it gets a few of each. It will be harder to beat, however.

So, fortunately, will the Red Sox. They made an excellent deal for Myer with Washington, a deal that will tighten the infield and maybe give the punch an extra kick or two. But, of course, the Sox have too far to come. They were almost 45 games back of the Yankees at the 1928 finish and, to mean anything, an improvement would have to be more than an improvement. It would have to be a complete reform. Still, the Browns did it last year.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

Champions come and champions go in most sports within a few years of each other, but Jimmy Smith has been a champion bowler for the past 25 years and probably will be as long as he cares to roll a ball down an alley.

Seems as if a fellow who has been pre-eminent in his particular field for 25 years would have enough of the racket, but not Jimmy Smith. He is trouping about the country today, from coast to coast, giving exhibitions and engaging in special matches, and showing no signs of being willing to call it enough.

No one took this former pinboy from Broomfield seriously back in 1905 when he beat Jimmy Voorhes to a match that had all bowlers around Brooklyn, Newark and vicinity agog at his ability. But consistency won them over and he was soon recognized as the champion of the bowlers.

Smith has bowled 16 perfect games—not counting the perfect scores he has made while practicing or in friendly games.

He once topped 7311 pins in 30

YOU and BASKETBALL

By H. C. Carlson, M. D.
University of Pittsburgh Coach.

Just as in shooting, practice is the basis for improvement in passing. You should make every pass accurate in practice, for as you practice, so you play.

In the manner of delivery, there can be greater variety of passes described than for shooting. In passing you may be pressed and still get away a good pass because of the greater area for the reception of passes.

For general purposes, I put passes in two classes: a baseball pass in the back court for a long pass, and a push pass for inside the offensive territory where short passes are more fitting. Each of these types includes aerial and bounce passes, of course, with different pressure applied to the situation.

As in baseball, certain players can be better than others. To start cutting and passing, stand on the sidelines until your receiver gets the ball; then start fast straight across the floor. Your passer will go back to you to your original position and your receiver will wait for you until you get the ball.

GOOD MAN IN HIS PLACE.
Frank Orth, former Wisconsin stroke and captain, who was acting coach since the death of the veteran "Dad" Vail, insisted that Mike Murphy, the Yale freshman coach, be secured to take his job.

CAPTAIN OUT OF LUCK.
Seven letter men and five stars from last year's freshman team are fighting for places on the Stanford varsity basketball team. Captain Harlow Rothenberg may not win a regular guard position.

WELL! WELL! WELL HERE'S A GOOD ONE

Louis Klinkhammer, whose duty it is to see that the members of the Rec Five get the proper amount of sleep, can claim credit for the Rec's victory over Olson's Terrible Swedes!

It seems that during the afternoon, Louis went down to the Rec with a dust cloth, climbed all over the rafters to get at the electric lights which he gave a thorough cleaning. And that is why the Rec players staged such a sensational shooting exhibition last night.

Good work, Louis, keep it up!

KEARNS DIGS UP NEW CANDIDATE FOR RING CROWN

Sees Jackie Fields as Next Welter Champ If Joe Dundee Consents to Match.

Chicago, Jan. 17, 1929.—Jack Kearns, who guided Jack Dempsey into the world's heavyweight boxing title and wealth and fame, claims he is about to greet the world with another wearer of crowns.

This time the well-dressed Mr. Kearns has invaded the welter ranks and he has predicted that if Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, can be chased into the ring with his new find, Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles, the crown will change hands.

Kearns has just arrived in Chicago with Fields, established a western headquarters here and set the waves in motion.

Chicago is a favorite battleground of Dempsey's old manager. It was here a few years ago he enticed Tiger Flowers, then middleweight champion, into between the ropes with Mickey Walker, of New Jersey, the former welter king, How Walker won the fight and the title is now ancient history but some scribes hereabouts are still writing, talking and broadcasting about the demerits of the decision that lifted the laurel leaves from the negro's head.

Promoter Mike Malloy will introduce Fields to Chicago fans on January 28 at a show in the White City arena. Jack McCarthy, a youngster from the tough and rough West side here, who has come up from the bottom of the slum in the past few months, is most loudly mentioned as Fields' first Chicago opponent. Billy Light and My Sullivan of St. Paul may also box Fields here, as well as Freddie Mueller of Buffalo.

Promoter Jim Mullen is seeking to stave Joe Dundee for a title fight against Fields early this spring. Mullen is said to have already made an agreement with Kearns for Fields' services in that fight.

Not New Find

Fields is no new discovery, as Mister Kearns may have led the fans and press to believe here in the prairie cities. He was highly touted on the Pacific Coast as a lightweight as much as four years ago but his boom . . . that time blew up like an oil well when that little Irish fighter, Jimmy McLarnin, knocked him cold in a couple of rounds—maybe it was three rounds. The other night McLarnin was stopped by Ray Miller of Chicago in a Detroit ring. Kearns avows the Fields kayo may now be forgotten.

In this connection there is a rumor McLarnin has been greatly weakened in recent battles making weight for lightweight opponents. It is said he contemplates entering the welter class. McLarnin is a favorite in Chicago, where he knocked out Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion. If the Irish wisp advances to the heavier class he will be eagerly sought for a Chicago appearance.

DREW MEETS SMITH ON HURLEY'S CARD

Martini-Dwyer Semi-Final; Seeche vs. Sarva, Also on Tonight's Card in Hartford.

Hartford, January 17.—Johnny Drew, Worcester junior lightweight, who has launched out on a comeback after an absence from the ring of nearly a year with the exception of one bout, meets Steve Smith of Bridgeport in the star bout of the show at Foot Guard hall tonight.

Drew, a clever boxer and real ring general, will be pitted against a slugging, aggressive boy in Smith, so that it will become the old story of a boxer against a fighter. Drew has beaten many good boys, among them Billy Petrolle and Bill Kennedy, and had a draw with Mike Dundee.

In the semi-final, two young and coming featherweights will mix in Benny Martin of New York and Joe Dwyer of Boston.

A special six-rounder and three four-rounder bouts will open the show.

The first bout is set for 8:15.

OLSON'S SWEDES Are Victorious at Plainfield

Olson's Terrible Swedes from Joplin, Missouri, had little difficulty in defeating the Plainfield Pros last night by a 40 to 33 score. While the final score was fairly close, the visitors led 25 to 7 at halftime. Gullie and Rae led the attack for the winners with "Whity" Bernot proving the star for the losers. Plainfield's defeat was a feather in the Rec's hat, coming on the heels of New Britain's defeat.

BRAINS COUNT IN BASEBALL

The Washington Senators were playing an exhibition game in Clearwater, Fla., last spring. Sisler was on third base and Goslin was on second. Sisler was standing on the bag and the Goose moved way down the base line. Suddenly the Goose was struck with a plan in a third strike. He tore down the base line and made the bag with a beautiful hook slide. He not only stole the base away from Sisler but he spiked him in making the slide.

It was the third out and Goslin went right out to his position on the dirt off his uniform. When the slide had been retired the Goose did not come into the bench. He went out near the club house in left field where old Joe Cantillon was seated.

Goslin went over and sat down with his head down and didn't have a word to say.

"You ain't over any sat down with his head down and didn't have a word to say."

"I don't blame you for stealin' the base," Joe said.

"Whaddye mean?" the Goose growled.

"You had such a great lead you'da been a sucker not to try it," Joe said and the Goose arose and stalked into the dugout.

In another game later under almost identical circumstances Goslin did the same thing and spiked Sisler a second time.

Didn't Hang Around

Bucky Harris and Clark Griffith parted as good friends when Harris went to Detroit to accept the management of the Tigers. Griffith weighed as much as four years ago but his boom . . . that time blew up like an oil well when that little Irish fighter, Jimmy McLarnin, knocked him cold in a couple of rounds—maybe it was three rounds. The other night McLarnin was stopped by Ray Miller of Chicago in a Detroit ring. Kearns avows the Fields kayo may now be forgotten.

In this connection there is a rumor McLarnin has been greatly weakened in recent battles making weight for lightweight opponents. It is said he contemplates entering the welter class. ## Brought Bing Back Connie Mack, another of the old-timers, is also one who likes to have the boys drop into his office to chew the fat. Most of the ball players don't like to do it. The other fellows might hang around the boss.

Bing Miller used to pay regular calls on Mack during the winter months and even after he was traded to the St. Louis Browns he used to have the run of the office.

Finally Mack made a deal with the Browns and brought Bing back home.

"We have you half time as it is so we'd better make a full time job of it for you," Mack told him.

Wiganowski's New Record

Wiganowski's new record of 436, three pins more than Beletti came in a friendly match between himself and Joe Sargent at the Charter Oak Alleys. They bowled ten games and in the sixth, seventh and eighth games, Wiganowski rolled 156, 124 and 156. This is the first time in the history of Manchester, so far as is known, that a town bowling record has been broken twice the same night. Usually they don't come much oftener than once a year.

Wiganowski made two more strikes and two less spares than Beletti and made ten more pins on fillings. In other words he made five strikes, 13 spares and topped 148 pins on fillings. He registered a double-strike in the first game.

Another interesting angle of the evening's happenings is that Wiganowski averaged higher than Curtis and Sargent higher than Murphy, but in view of the fact that they were not bowling for the title, their efforts were more or less in vain.

Curtis Averages 122 Against 113.9 for Rival; Beletti Hits 433 But Wiganowski Rolls 436 Same Night.

By TOM STOWE

Bowling occupied the spotlight in Manchester last night, several happenings of importance taking place. First, Norman "Lefty" Curtis won the first leg of his match from Howard Murphy, holder of the individual town duckpin championship by 81 pins and therefore stands a good chance of annexing the title in the final half of the match Saturday afternoon. Second, Tom Beletti established a new town three-string record of 433, two pins higher than the former record, only to have Billy Wiganowski snatch the honors away from him a few hours later by rolling 436 in a friendly ten game match with Joe Sargent, both men averaging over 120 and higher than Curtis and Murphy.

Curtis won from Murphy because he was steeper, more accurate and had more luck on the comebacks. Murphy plainly showed the effects of his long layoff from the game, missing a number of easy spare breaks which he ordinarily would have dropped. Curtis made seven more strikes than Murphy and got 87 more pins of his fillings. However, Murphy beat Curtis by six pins on actual pinning.

See New Champ

Backers of Murphy admitted last night that they held little hope their favorite would be able to overcome the 81 pin lead when he rolls on his own alleys at 3 o'clock next Saturday afternoon. However, they do believe that Curtis will not be able to hit anywhere near an high score off his own alleys. Incidentally, last night's match was bowled on Joe Farr's Charter Oak alleys.

Curtis averaged exactly 122 while Murphy's average was 113.9. The spare breaks and spares made were about even. Curtis made 27 out of 45 as compared to 25 out of 43 for Murphy. Curtis won eight out of the ten games rolled, losing the first two and taking the next eight. Three of the games were decided by the pin and won by Curtis in the last box which Murphy entered with a lead which ordinarily would have been sufficient. Each time, however, Curtis came through with marks when needed most.

Six Games Close

Curtis got the bulk of his lead in four games. He took the third by 17; the sixth by 26; the seventh by 21 and the tenth by 28. Many started off strong on the first two games and gave his backers hopes that he still had his eye and arm working in perfect rhythm. However once Curtis got going strong, Murphy began to slip. He was having trouble with his head pin properly with his first ball and missed some easy spare breaks. He also got 87 more pins on fillings. Both missed 18 spare breaks.

Beletti hit his new three string record of 433 at Murphy's alleys while rolling practice games with Murphy to warm him up for the match with Curtis. His last three scores were 146, 153 and 134 which totals two more pins than "Ike" Cole who hit 421 in the mill league several years ago. Beletti made three strikes and fifteen spares and annexed 138 pins on his fillings. Minus the loss in the thirty boxes, Beletti missed a two pin spare break in the last box.

Another New Record

Wiganowski's new record of 436, three pins more than Beletti came in a friendly match between himself and Joe Sargent at the Charter Oak Alleys. They bowled ten games and in the sixth, seventh and eighth games, Wiganowski rolled 156, 124 and 156. # Orchid

BY ELEANOR FARLEY

THIS HAS HAPPENED.
ASHTORETH ASHE, determined little stenographer has from a proposal of marriage from her wealthy employer, HOLLIS HART is said to be the most eligible bachelor in America.

You can hardly blame Ashtoresh for being elated. She is a very beautiful girl, but poor as a church mouse and infinitely removed from the charmed circles in which Hollis moves. He is old enough, perhaps, to be her father, but a rather handsome man and lovable.

He tells Ashtoresh that he loves her with all his heart, and gives her a little tender name—Orchid. Because, he says, she reminds him of the loveliest flowers that grow. Ashtoresh loves him, too. At least, she thinks she does. Probably almost any girl would love a handsome multi-millionaire, who made her divinely, and adored the very ground she walked on.

They have been together for a glorious week, in a little house on a mountainous island in the West Indies. The meeting was entirely accidental, but Ashtoresh—naturally—made the most of it. She was traveling at the time for her health. Hart was taking one of his frequent cruises, and had stopped off at Dominica on his way to South America.

Now they are on their way back to Boston, returning on the cruise ship which Ashtoresh unceremoniously abandoned at Dominica as soon as she saw Hollis.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIII

They sat on the deck at night, and talked about their wedding trip. "You've never been to Paris?" he asked.

"I've never been anywhere," she told him. "Paris! My goodness, Hollis, stenographers don't go to Paris."

He smiled at her fondly. "It will be very wonderful," he said, "showing you the world, my dear. It would be so too bad to go honeymooning with a girl who'd been everywhere, and seen everything. It's going to be glorious, taking you to my favorite haunts and shrines. The old hyacinth place in the country, where George Sand used to live—"

"The country, Hollis!" Ashtoresh interrupted breathlessly. "My dear, you'll never be able to lure me off the rue de la Paix. I've been reading about that place all my life. About how the jewelers' shops blaze like windows aflame. And how you sit in the cafe on the corner, and watch the world stroll by. And the women are the loveliest, and the smartest on earth. And every little shop is so crammed full of fashion and of elegance, that you're simply dazzled with splendor."

"Baby!" he chided. "The rue de la Paix isn't in it with Fifth avenue. But wait until you see Notre Dame and Sainte Chapelle."

"What's Sainte Chapelle?" she interrupted.

"The loveliest chapel in the world," he told her. "The most awesomely beautiful spot in Paris. Its windows are like gems. As an architect built it to house his holy relics. From the Holy Land he had brought a piece of the True Cross, and a nail that has pierced the sacred hand of Jesus. And he commissioned the greatest artist in the world to raise a tabernacle worthy of his hallowed treasures. And the great artist was inspired by God himself. And so he created Sainte Chapelle—for you and me and all the world to reverence."

Ashtoresh did not like to appear ignorant.

"Oh, yes, she said. 'I remember now reading about it. And I saw the movie about Victor Hugo's Notre Dame, so I know something about that too.'

Hollis smiled indulgently. "Wait until you see the Madonna of Notre Dame," he said.

"I don't care much for Madonnas," she confessed. "They're so big and they're such blandly holy expressions. I suppose it's awfully irreverent to have such preferences. But I'd lots rather see Josephine Baker."

"That," he told her, "is because you've never seen the Holy Lady of Notre Dame. She's my favorite girl, so you'd better like her. She's a little bit of a thing, Orchid, and she doesn't look particularly holy. As a matter of fact, she's a young modern mother—and God knows how many centuries old she is. A little slim thing, with tiny features. Holding her baby in a frightened sort of way, and not complacent at all, like the other Madonnas. Nobody knows who fashioned her, nor when. Nor where she came from."

Ashtoresh compromised. "Well, of course, we'll go and see her," she agreed. "But you'll take me to see Josephine Baker, too, won't you, Hollis? And I want to go to the Folies, and the Casino and Montmartre. And all the dressmakers. And every single blessed cafe in Paris."

"Well," she said, "it's certainly wonderful, the things money will do. I'd never have believed people could change like the women on this boat. When I was with Mona, they snubbed me outrageously. Because Mona wasn't anybody. And I wasn't anybody either. And they felt million times better than either of us."

"But now! My dear, they're simply falling over their fat selves, trying to make up. If I'm good enough for you, I'm good enough, it seems, for them. The old hypocrites! Why, Hollis, do you realize that I might be the most immoral thing in the world. What do they know? I left the boat at Dominica, and was away for a whole week. And I've heard anything they've heard about that place. But what do they care?"

"Just because you've got money, you can buy their good opinion of me. They don't snub me, because they wouldn't offend you. And they're just as fawn as I'm perfectly sickening! They'd give anything in the world to be friendly with you. Why, darling, they'll even swallow me!"

Her vehemence amused him. "It is pretty raw," he admitted. "But what do we care, Orchid?"

"Oh, I don't care," she retorted airily. "It just makes me sick, that's all."

"The Dunks want to have a dinner party for us tonight," he told her.

Ashtoresh sputtered wrathfully. "I hope," she declared, "you told them to go to the devil."

"Well, not exactly," he admitted. "It was Mrs. Dunks, you see, who asked me. But I sort of implied something of the sort. I told them we had another engagement."

She giggled happily. "And we'll sit right beside them," she cried, "all by ourselves!"

"Exactly," he agreed.

"The Simpsons asked this morning if we were engaged," she told him. "I informed them that our relations were an entirely personal matter."

"You did?" he chuckled. "And what do you suppose they're going to say now? You shouldn't talk that way, darling. I shan't have my lily maid informed. But if she's a foolish little girl, and talks about such things, don't know what I can do about it."

"Oh, it's all right," she said. "They purred and smirked, and said they thought it was simply too romantic for words."

"Mrs. Harvey announced this morning that she thought you were a perfectly charming young lady," and such a lovely manner."

"Holly! She didn't?"

Ashtoresh leaned forward to look into his face. "Honestly? Did she, dear?"

"Honestly," he affirmed.

"And that's the woman," declared Ashtoresh, "who told Jack Smythe that she could tell an adventuresome every time, and if I wasn't a bold hussy, she never saw one!"

"The big slob!" he observed.

"Well, darling, that's the sort she is. Lots of people exactly like her. Money's all that counts in their rotten little world."

"No," she demurred. "It isn't just money. If it was, they'd have noticed Mona. She had gorgeous clothes and jewels and things. But she only rated their contempt. Family has something to do with it, Hollis. Tradition and background, and all that sort of thing. Now, if you were nouveau riche, they'd snub you, too—for taking up with me. But you're Hollis Hart from Boston. You're generations behind you of the sort of thing they worship."

"You can do no wrong. Because you come from one of the best families in America. Because you're one of the biggest financiers in the country. Because you're handsome, and well bred—and rolling in the filthy lucre they pretend to despise."

"They'd give anything in the world if they could feel superior to you. But, my dear, you've everything they've got, and so much more, that there's nothing they can do but lick your boots. You've been everywhere that they've been—and everywhere else besides. They can't criticize your manners, nor your clothes, nor your education. They can't show you up on a single thing—and so, my dear, they must kowtow."

"You're the biggest, richest, most important man in the ever had a chance to know. And they'd toady to me, if they could, in order to impress themselves on you. Oh, I know."

Hollis patted her hand under the steamers rug.

"Little Bolshevist," he called her. "But tell me, dear, is this man Smythe the novelist who put Mona in a book? I heard them talking in the bar about Parish-Girl. Was that the name of it?"

"Yes," she said. "And what do you bet, Holly, he doesn't put you and me in his next novel? Adventurous stenographers and handsome millionaires make the nicest plot."

"Well," he smiled, "we've lived a perfect beginning—you and I—for any novel. I wonder what the next chapter will be."

"The wedding," she supplemented.

"That's right," he agreed. "Novels today always begin with the marriage, don't they? You know that's the way they used to end—and then they lived happily ever after. But modern novelists have sensed that the plot is only just beginning there. The drama and the tragedy these days follow the marriage. And it's very, very seldom that anybody lives happily ever after."

She pressed his hand warmly. "But we will!" she cried. "We'll be different, won't we, Holly?"

"Of course we will," he told her. "We are different, aren't we, dear?"

"Oh, my goodness, yes!" she exclaimed. "Just as different as can be."

Hollis smiled at the wise old man. "And the wise old moon twinkled back again. Probably that was because the moon had heard so many lovers make the same protestations."

"Let's talk some more about our wedding trip," she suggested, and nudged cozily against his shoulder.

"We might go around the world," he proposed, "and stop off at the places we liked."

"For how long?" she asked.

"Oh, a month, or a year, or forever."

She shivered delightfully. "Oh, Holly, isn't it just too wonderful—being rich!"

"You'd like Africa," he told her. "And the Garden of Allah, where roses and jasmine grow in the desert."

"Oh, I saw the movie!" she exclaimed. "Is it like that?"

"It's lovelier," he pronounced solemnly. "You can't see the colors on the screen. Sunset, and moonlight, and the dawning. You'll love the bazaars, too, Orchid. And I'll buy you all the eastern jewelry and perfumes in Constantinople."

"Have you been to Turkey, too?" she asked. "I heard a Turkish lady lecture once in Boston. Madame Halide Edib. She told all about the harems—but, my goodness, I never dreamed I could see the heavenly things she talked about. The voice and person, they declared they could not bear the idea of so much perfection existing on earth."

Ashtoresh shivered. "Were they drunk?" she asked.

"Oh, no—quite sober," he said. "Emotional—that's all. The world, my love, is full of the strangest people."

"And we're going to see them all!" she cried. "Oh, Holly, I'm thrilled to death!"

A cabin boy came hurrying down the stairs.

"Wireless for Miss Ashe," he said, and handed her a white envelope.

(To Be Continued.)

Had you forgotten about Monty English, Ashtoresh's boy friend from Boston? (To tell the truth, she had almost forgotten him herself.) There'll be more about him in the next chapter.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
 ©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Mr. Smith sat down to the table and looked at the children.

"Max, go and wash your hands. Ruth, throw that gum away. No, don't stick it under the table. Junior, where is your handkerchief? Stop that sniffing."

"Oh, John, you're so hard on the children! I wish you wouldn't be so cross," pleaded Mrs. Smith plaintively.

"I'm not hard on them," said her husband. "But I don't intend to eat any dinner opposite paws like Max's, and Ruth knows I dislike gum. And certainly when Junior needs to blow his nose he needs to blow it, that's all. I'm not cross. I'm just telling them."

But the children were peevish as well as their mother. Their father had used a crisp tone that resented, and it took several reassuring looks from their mother to bring back their good humor. The looks seemed to say, "I know he's a tyrant, but we have to put up with it. Don't mind him."

Now Mr. Smith was right and he should have had the support, not the censor, of his wife. It was not the first time he had spoken of the hands, the gum, and the sniffles.

Parents Should Agree
 Mrs. Smith should have said, "Children, I wish you would listen to your father. I think it's high time you were remembering about these things."

A house divided against itself, even in little matters like these of the Smith dinner table, is all wrong. It should not be so. Parents must cooperate if there is to be any success in training the children.

One father said, "I don't know much about children. I don't know much about training. I leave the matter of discipline to their mother. Whatever she says is right."

This is rather begging the question, or dodging the issue. It is the other extreme and I don't commend it, but at that it is better than pulling the opposite direction. That never lets children anywhere, or parents either.

Daily Health Service

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WELL
 by World Famed Authority

DOES A CERTAIN FOOD MAKE YOU SICK?
 By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN.

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Ten or 15 per cent. of all people respond to the eating of certain food substances with constitutional reactions.

The foods to which they are sensitive may be such wholesome articles of diet as milk, eggs, cereals, or such appetizing luxuries as strawberries and shellfish.

A baby sensitive to egg can be made severely sick by feeding him an amount of egg too small to be weighed on a chemical scale.

A person sensitive to honey may be made severely ill not only by eating honey as such, but by eating it when it forms merely a portion of the flavoring in cake or some confection.

Lack of Nourishment.
 Much more serious is sensitivity of infants to milk. When a child has an allergy, which sensitivity is called, to milk, it becomes severely ill on tasting a small quantity and is unable to get satisfactory nourishment. In the absence of nourishment it becomes much more easily subject to diseases of all kinds.

Dr. W. W. Duke has described in Hygiene patients who were so sensitive to eggs that they were made ill by the eating of the trace of egg contained in hen meat; on the other hand, they would eat rooster with impunity.

One man, 50 years of age, who had had asthma for many years and of a type so severe as to produce complete prostration, was found to be sensitive to fish and fish glue. On close questioning he remembered that three of his

The WOMAN'S DAY

Bridge lessons and parties are now offered by one city's leading community center.

Side by side with sewing and cooking and baby-tending classes outlined in the settlement houses' winter programs, the bridge lessons and parties hold their own, and make one pause for thought.

Once upon a time these centers for the poor contented themselves with seeing that the women who came there were taught how to prepare appetizing meals out of a soup bone and little more; how to make children's dresses out of washed and bleached flour sacks; how to make 10 cents do the work of a dollar; how to keep their children and selves neat and clean with a bar of soap a month and all the water carried up four flights of stairs.

The idea that the poor should be given pleasure in addition to material relief was not yet a part of such social agencies' program. At least it did not enter their plan for poor women. To show these unfortunate how to make some of their family burdens lighter was deemed enough.

Even social agencies, you say, accepted the age-old taken-for-granted place of woman in the world—burdens were her heritage; suffering and sacrifice and deprivation her lot; here the responsibility to others, never to self.

These modern bridge lessons and parties offered the women who go to settlement houses are significant of what has happened to woman within the past generation.

She has become a person, not just a wife or mother or daughter or sister. She is accorded personal rights even as are husbands and fathers and sons and brothers.

It is just taken for granted that she shall have her evening out for bridge as much as her husband shall go out to bowl or swim.

She is no more expected to use her occasional evening away from home in a class learning how to make children's underwear than a father is expected to devote all his

TAX REFUNDS ROWS START IN SENATE

President-Elect continue him in the next Cabinet.

The tax refund matter was a direct Anti-Mellon move, as the battle revolved around the McKellar Bill, which proposes to strip Mellon of all power over tax refunds in excess of $10,000. Heretofore, Mellon has been the judge and jury of all tax refunds and credits, although his decisions were subject to review by the Board of Tax Appeals.

McKellar's Plans.
Senator McKellar (D) of Tennessee, proposes to turn original jurisdiction on all refunds above $10,000 over to the Board of Tax Appeals. The Senate Judiciary committee has approved the bill.

The refunds and credits, given out by the Treasury Department, it will be shown have totaled $3,317,804,000 since the war—about one-seventh the total cost of the World War to America. This sum almost equals the British debt, does equal the French debt and is double the Italian debt to the United States.

With such statistics at their demand, the insurgents predicted they would strip Mellon of his great refund powers. In the course of specific refunds included in that three billion dollar total.

With the deficiency bill out of the way or sidetracked, debate will be resumed on the cruiser bill. The fate of the naval measure remains in doubt although it can command a majority in the Senate if brought to a vote.

THE TOUGHEST OLD CAN NOW BE STOPPED

Lingering coughs—the kind that hang on and hang on and rob a man of his sleep—the kind that makes him peevish and all worn out.

Those are the breed of coughs that prove that common cough syrups are about as useful as a bottle of ginger pop.

The quickest and surest way to get rid of a persistent cough is to take a teaspoonful of Broncholine Emulsion four times a day.

It's made to stop the old-timers—the tough ones—and it does it without any loss of time.

For ordinary cough one or two doses is usually enough. Magnell Drug Co., and dealers everywhere can supply you.—Adv.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Jan. 17.—Stocks of the American metals companies, with a few of the high-priced specialties, furnished the enthusiastic leadership in today's new advance in industrial stock prices.

U. S. Steel carried its spectacular climb to above 173, crossing that figure for the first time in its history, to the accompaniment of another burst of bullish propaganda from Wall street sources. St. Joseph lead moved up to 73 1/2, a gain of nearly 10 points from yesterday's low; International Nickel set up a new high record around 58, and new gains of a point or two were scored by Anaconda, Shile and Kennecott Copper, Bethlehem and Vanadium Steel, Crucible, Greene Cananea Steel foundries and Inspiration Copper, back of this vigorous rise is the strong market for all metals in the home and foreign channels of consumption.

The amusement stocks which have been attracting so much attention in the last week or two, were well advertised by the pools, with strong movements on the tape.

Low's Fox Film, Famous Players and Consolidated film industries advancing 2 points on the average, among the big specialties, Radio jumped 10 points to 362. Electric Autolite was up 10 and Wright Aero 3 1/2.

New York Central led another brilliant run up in the railroad group, with a 4-point advance to 139 3/4, and a few of the so-called merger rails pushed into higher territory.

The 3 per cent rate for call loans attracted a good volume of outside funds.

A wave of profit-taking in the second hour blocked the progress of all stocks reflected uneasiness in Wall street over the Rockefeller-Stewart fight in Standard of Indiana. Radio's new 16-point jump to 362 was a feature of this period, and most of the metals' stocks were strong enough to hold their own.

Commodity markets were dull, with narrow price changes, cotton, grain and rubber selling fractionally higher in the early trading.

SALVATION ARMY HEAD

To Take General Booth's Place Until Council Names His Successor.

London, Jan. 17.—Chief of Staff Higgins, of the Salvation Army, was virtually head of the great international organization today following the action of the High Council in declaring General Bramwell Booth unfit to continue as supreme leader. General Booth has long been seriously ill at his home in Southwold. He is 72 years old.

The following notice, signed by the Salvation Army lawyers, was posted outside international headquarters:

"During the interval between the vacating of office by any general of the Salvation Army and the appointment of a successor, the chief of staff is authorized and empowered under the constitutional deeds of the army to exercise, with certain specific limitations, all powers and discretions pertaining to the generalship."

The Good Will club, the Parent-Teacher association in the Ninth District, announce a whist and dance for tomorrow evening at the City View dance hall on Keeney street. The usual number of prizes, six, will be awarded the winners and refreshments will be served under the direction of Mrs. Jemima Smith. The remainder of the tune until midnight will be given over to general dancing to music by a three-piece orchestra. Irving Keeney will have charge of the floor arrangements.

ABOUT TOWN

Special meetings are being held at Gospel hall all this week. W. H. Humber of Fairhaven, Mass., the speaker at these meetings, spoke in Manchester three years ago and is known to many residents. The public is cordially invited to attend tonight and tomorrow night, the last services at which Mr. Humber will speak. The meeting starts at 7:45.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Wheeler of Hartford, formerly of Broad Brook, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia H. Wheeler, to Clarence W. Thornton, son of Mrs. Sarah and the late John Thornton of 411 Main street.

HEN MOTHERS KITTENS

Red Wing, Minn.—A setting hen is mothering three deserted kittens on the farm of August Lubnow, Hartland township, Wis. When it became apparent that the mother cat wasn't coming back to care for the helpless kittens the hen literally took them under her wings. The orphan phans seem to appreciate their nightly "feather tik" and in the day they may be seen following their adopted mother around the barnyard.

$17,000 A LEG
New York.—An unusual settlement was made in favor of Mrs. Josephine Donohue here recently when a Supreme Court jury awarded her $17,000 for the loss of a leg suffered in a traffic accident. The judgment was against the owners of two cars and the chauffeur of another. Mrs. Donohue sued for $50,000.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

STEAM PIPES TO MELT SNOWS ON MOUNTAIN ROADS

Chicago, Ill.—Steam heated highways may greet the traveler in the west if plans made by California and Nevada highway officials are carried out, according to word received by the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor Club.

Plans have been practically completed to experiment next winter in heating a four-mile stretch of the Victory Highway with steam pipes to determine whether it is practical to attempt to keep Sierra passes open during the winters by this method.

Oil For Fuel

Highway Commissioner J. C. Durham, of Washoe county, Nevada, says that a 200-horsepower boiler has been purchased and will be installed near the Southern Pacific railway tracks. It will be fired with fuel oil obtained from tank cars on a siding.

Three lines of two-inch pipe provided with steam traps at 500-foot intervals will be placed below the surface of the highway for four miles.

They will be buried in silicon, a heat insulator, six inches below the ground, with the insulation forcing the heat to the surface and preventing its dissipation through the ground.

To Melt Snow

It will be kept in the pipes during cold weather, and the boiler maintained at top pressure during a snowstorm.

It is proposed to have the road warm when a storm is approaching in the hope that the snow will melt as soon as it falls.

If the plan is feasible, it is said that California and Nevada will provide funds for heating 16 miles of the highway. It is claimed by Nevada road engineers that only that strip of the route through the Sierras prevents maintenance of an open road throughout the winter.

ASTRONOMER MAY TALK WITH MARS USING MIRRORS

Paris.—It was only natural that the most contentious ways of doing even the most practical things should proclaim that mirrors, and not the radio, is the best way to talk to Mars. This, at least, is Monsieur Pierre Blois' private opinion writing in "La Liberté" after the Englishman's experiment.

The French astronomer suggests an arrangement of looking glasses as large as Paris, shooting beams of light at the rate of 300,000 kilometers per second. They would send out regular and irregular signals which would attract the Martians, he believes, if they exist at all.

Monsieur Blois is a bit sarcastic over radio communication with the Maritan sweetheart of Mr. Robinson.

The heavenly love of Dr. Robinson "wandering about on Mars no doubt found a welcome on the part of the Maritan Girls," he says, "but you notice that Mars has not yet answered."

Mr. Blois thinks that the famous Maritan canals are nothing more than optical illusions and attributes them to the effects of light refraction. The red colorations that can be seen during periods of good visibility may not be good evidences of vegetation.

Eat, drink and be merry had been the motto of Paul Esparbes, an old French cobbler at his life, and before he died he gave out instructions for a funeral as gay as his life had been. His friends complied with his request. Four men named Paul carried their namesake to the cemetery to the tune of a fine jazz band, and afterwards enjoyed a fine banquet for which the dead man had given the menu, including four chickens, veal with mushrooms, old wine and older brandy.

Enough typhus, leprosy and cholera bacilli were recently found in a French home to kill off several hundred families. Armand Schirmer, of Negen-sur-Marne, was accused of a little money swindle and when the police raided his premises they found dozens of test-tubes filled with a whole colony of fatal germs in a thoroughly equipped laboratory. He refused to explain the purpose to which he had put these germs. The police have them in safe-keeping at present.

Latest statistics issued by the government show that only 528 persons in France are receiving help because of unemployment.

Plans for a model city have recently been submitted to national architects by Henri Descauramps and include a skyscraper which will put those of New York in the shade, according to all reports.

A cafe will furnish all the wine one can drink, a large restaurant below will distribute meals well prepared by means of dumb-waiters to all the apartments in the gigantic building. Around it will be gardens and woods assuring fresh air to the dwellers.

The subway of this little city, which is planned for somewhere between Paris and Rouen, will have four tracks and the railway stations will comprise an airdrome.

A THOUGHT

In my Father's house are many mansions.—John xiv: 2.

We are born for a higher destiny than that of earth.—Bulwer-Lytton.

17 OVERCOME BY GAS.

New York, Jan. 17.—Seventeen persons were overcome by coal gas in a Brooklyn apartment house early today. Three of them were still unconscious and one is in a critical condition in a hospital.

K. of C. Meeting.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 17.—The quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the Knights of Columbus, set for Detroit, has been changed to New York, according to announcement here today by William J. McGinley, supreme secretary, and will be held at the Hotel Commodore, January 19, 20 and 21.

Al Smith cleaned up over a million in the stock market during the last 18 months, according to newspaper dispatches. Somebody might take the hint and bring the Democratic campaign fund deficit to his attention.

FIRE IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Jan. 17.—A large section of the Paramount Famous Players-Lasky motion picture studio was in ruins today following a fire which swept through it last night. Damage was estimated at a half million dollars. Two firemen were injured when a ladder they were on burned through. Origin of the fire has not been determined.

HIGH SCHOOL OBSERVES FRANKLIN'S BIRTHDAY

Special Program This Afternoon at Regular Assembly Period.

The birthday of Benjamin Franklin was appropriately observed this afternoon at the weekly high school assembly here. Seven speakers, six of them seniors and the other a sophomore, spoke on various phases of Franklin's life. They told of his birth in Boston and first work as a printer; of how he later built one of the earliest circulating libraries in America, served as clerk in the General Assembly for 13 years and later became postmaster at Philadelphia.

Franklin's famous experiment proving the identity of lightning and electricity was made in 1752. He was also one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and founder of the Saturday Evening Post. During his lifetime, Franklin received many literary distinctions and published several political pamphlets and writings on economics. He lived to be 84 years old.

The speakers went into minute detail in covering every angle of the subject. Miss Ruth Behrend told of his boyhood days; Leslie Buckland of Franklin as a citizen; Miss Marion Jills of him as a statesman; Donald Underhill about Franklin as a scientist; Miss Virginia Lowell on the impressions of his autobiography; Robert Mercer about his contribution, "Poor Richard's Almanac"; and Miss Eleanor Dwyer about the character of Franklin.

Arthur N. Potter, teacher of English at the high school, had charge of the speaking program.

MANY ENDORSEMENTS OF JUDAS PRODUCTION

Miss Helene Johnstone Sloane Has Letters from Ministers All Over Country.

Miss Helene Johnstone Sloane, dramatic reader and impersonator in the role of Judas Iscariot, has been endorsed for her work by many of the leading ministers in the country. A few excerpts from letters of endorsement follow:

"The impersonation of the character of Judas Iscariot was very powerful in its appeal. Such a presentation will make people more loyal to Christ."

"Her message is of abiding value. We endorse her work most heartily."

"A more forceful message on 'Wages of Sin' is Death' I have never heard."

Miss Sloane's interpretation of Judas Iscariot, to be given at the high school tomorrow evening at 8:15, is a faithful reproduction of the character as played by Guido Mayr, who won the well earned title "A veritable Booth."

The committee has made ample provisions so that if any who do not consider Center Congregational their church home desire to attend they will be cordially welcomed. The meal will include Salisbury steak, mashed potato, string bean salad, rolls, orange cake and coffee. A trio from the high school under the direction of Miss Marion Dwyer will provide instrumental music and the church quartette will sing.

CENTER CHURCH HOLDS ITS ANNUAL TONIGHT

Center church's annual meeting and supper will begin at 6 o'clock this evening. Miss Mary Hutchison, chairman, will be assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. Edna Case Parker, Miss Bertha Mohr, Mrs. Gertrude Parnell, Mrs. Theodore Bidwell, Mrs. Dwight Bligh, Mrs. Rose Strant, Mrs. Hiram Grant, Miss Florence Snow, Mrs. J. A. Hood, Mrs. Helen Cheney, Mrs. George Lathrop, Mrs. D. C. Y. Moore, Mrs. Carroll Hutchinson, Mrs. Archie Hall, Mrs. J. P. Lamb, Mrs. George Smith.

ASK HARTFORD FLIERS ABOUT AIRPORT SITE

Local Committee on Aviation Wants Suggestions as to Best Place for Field Here.

The aviation committee of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce conferring with Major William F. Ladd and other officials of Brainard field asking their opinion on a suitable site for a landing field in Manchester. The committee believes that as pilots fly over Manchester at least twice a day they will be in a position to judge on the best possible site for a field.

The question of a building on which the name Manchester, Conn., may be painted to guide flyers will also be discussed with the officials. Anyone with such a place in mind should call the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, William Knoff, chairman; L. N. Hebbner and B. Von Pilski.

Finally the pitiless elements drove them to shelter. They pitched their tent. They had enough food for two days.

They spent four days in that tent. Cold and starvation gradually sapped them. The specter of death stood at their elbows.

They wrote their last letters of farewell and completed their diaries. Scott wrote a noble message telling of the cause of the disaster. He dedicated beautiful tributes to his comrades dying near him. He penned notes of sympathy to the relatives of his followers. Death came as he lay in his sleeping bag.

ABOUT TOWN

It is not probable that a successor will be named to E. L. G. Hohenthal, treasurer of the South Manchester Fire District, before the annual meeting, which will not be held until November. Frank Cheney, Jr., president of the district, is performing the duties of the office, signing checks and looking after the payroll. There were numerous occasions during Mr. Hohenthal's life when he was away from town for months and so it is not a new task for Mr. Cheney.

Rev. Oliver T. Magnell, a native of Manchester, who has been on leave of absence, has been appointed to act as pastor of St. Mary's church in Groton as temporary pastor. This is the church from which Rev. William Fox, one of the best known baseball players that Holy Cross college ever produced, has just been transferred from to go to New Canaan.

Delphis St. John, of the Campbell Filling Station, leaves Saturday for Florida where he will spend the next six weeks.

At the annual meeting of the Nurserymen's Association held in Hartford yesterday, Frank Ripplin explained the advertising plan of the association, consisting of advertisements in national magazines, newspapers and by radio talks. Mr. Ripplin was also elected chairman of the entertainment committee and C. E. Wilson was elected as a member of the executive and legislative committee. George Harris was elected as a member of the committee on membership and good will. Mr. Harris was also made a member of the advertising committee. The re-election of A. E. St. John as secretary-treasurer was reported yesterday.

The Cosmopolitan Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Maud Norton of 81 Benton street. Mrs. C. R. Burr will give a travel talk illustrated by motion pictures, of her tour taken last year through "The Land of the Midnight Sun."

The Friendly Bridge club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Frank Ingraham of 91 Foster street.

The general committee, William Thornton, chairman in charge of the Masonic social held last Saturday, will meet tonight at the Temple at 8 o'clock to make final returns on the tickets and complete other unfinished business.

The midwinter institute of the Nutmeg Trail Union will open tomorrow evening at the Burnside Methodist church. Supper will be served at 6:30 and will be followed by classes for instruction and recreation. Epworth leagues of the North and South Methodist churches of this town, Rockville, Vernon, Hockanum, Burnside and East Hartford form the Union.

His topic will be "Climbing the Alps." Mr. Williamson has himself negotiated three of the highest peaks in these lofty mountains. Through the kindness of E. P. Walton and the Hartford High school an opaque projector will show many fine pictures taken by the speaker on his trip. Members of the committee have been busy disposing of tickets for the monthly supper which will be served at 6:30 tomorrow evening. It is expected a large number of the men from both north end Protestant churches will be present.

State bank examiners were at the Home Bank and Trust Company today making their semi-annual visit in accordance with banking customs.

Robert May and James Rogers of Hose and Ladder Company No. 2 made the high score, 186 at last night's weekly sitting of the S. M. F. D. tournament. Manchester Camp, No. 2640, Royal Neighbors, seated its new officers last evening at a regular meeting held at the Moose Home clubhouse on Brainard place. Guests of honor were State Supervisor, Mrs. Rubianna Koenig, and the treasurer of Capitol City camp of Hartford, Mrs. Mary Smith. Mrs. Margaret Griffin was installing officer and Mrs. Rachel Munsie acted as ceremonial marshal. The officers who will serve this year are as follows: Oracle, Mrs. Louise Gilman; vice oracle, Mrs. Mary Hills; past oracle, Mrs. Margaret Griffin; chancellor, Mrs. Mary Frederickson; recorder, Mrs. Agnes Messier; marshal, Mrs. Rachel Munsie; assistant marshal, Mrs. Marie Holland; inner sentinel, Mrs. Susan Morrison; outer sentinel, Mrs. Alberta Peterson; pianist, Mrs. Lillian Pentland; manager for 1 year, Mrs. Agnes Gaylord; manager for 3 years, Mrs. Alice Coleman. The five graces will be appointed by the new oracle, Mrs. Gilman.

State Vice Oracle Mrs. Munsie presented to Mrs. Griffin, the retiring head officer, on behalf of the camp, a handsome cameo pin, and Mrs. Griffin in turn presented Mrs. Munsie, from the camp, a beautiful brown morocco handbag. She voiced the deep appreciation of the members for her untiring efforts for the good of the camp, as well as her work in the state organization and the honor she has thus brought to the local branch. Mrs. Munsie expressed her heartfelt thanks for the beautiful gift and all that it meant. Mrs. Gilman then gave to both Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Munsie a dainty linen luncheon set.

A substantial supper followed consisting of chicken soup, roast chicken with stuffing and gravy, vegetables, relishes, rolls, butter, coffee and ice cream.

PUTS HIM OUT OF ACTION.

Francis Brimley, one of The Herald newsboys has been missing from the group that meet each afternoon in the basement of The Herald building to take their papers and instead a new face has been appearing. When asked why Francis was not getting his papers it was learned it all came from his wearing high shoes to plow through the snow to the houses of his customers. Some time ago he met with an accident that left a tender ligament which required his wearing low shoes. Lately however, he risked the storm shoes. They produced a blister that developed into an abscess and one good newsboy is laid up. He saw to it that a substitute was on the job before he left the route, however.

 Don't let yourself be disappointed in getting your Rowe's Oysters this week. The demand for these deep-water oysters, marvelous in flavor and perfect in condition, is growing rapidly and last week the sale of them was so unexpectedly large on Friday morning that in the afternoon we had to telephone to New Haven and have a lot shipped for Saturday's trade. Pinehurst would respectfully suggest very early reservation orders on the Rowe Solid-packed oysters—finest in the world.

Yesterday we mentioned Spinach as a canned food which has immensely improved in quality just lately. There is another—Asparagus Tips.

Much of the asparagus on the market—the canned, we mean—is finely fleshed and tender, but has a strong, greasy taste that doesn't belong to asparagus at all. Hunt's ALL GREEN ASPARAGUS is entirely free from that objection. It not only looks like asparagus and is like asparagus should be in substance, but it TASTES LIKE ASPARAGUS and like fine asparagus at that. It is our belief that if you try it once it will instantly become your standard for asparagus.

Table Raisins. Something not much talked about, likely to be forgotten except at the holidays. To many people they have become almost a novelty—but a delicious one. We have more than we should have—and we will clean them all out at 29 cents a pound—which is honestly a good many cents per pound less than they cost. Better include a pound or two of them in the forthcoming order.
