

"DRY" LEADER SAYS VICTORY IS TEMPORARY

Prohibition Chairman Here Says Enforcement Must Be Non-Political—Calls for Renewed Efforts.

Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the National Prohibition committee, told the congregation at the South Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning that the victory won ten years ago when the Eighteenth amendment was adopted would be temporary if same forces that obtained that victory did not see to it that the amendment was enforced. The greatest problem confronting the prohibitionists, asserted Dr. Colvin, is combating powerful wet propaganda, well organized wet political machines, and keeping prohibition enforcement out of politics.

Dr. Colvin defended the constitutionality of the Eighteenth amendment, and also presented arguments for treating the liquor problem nationally rather than by states. He maintained that the liquor problem is a national problem, that it has the same results throughout the nation. He insisted that the liquor interests are organized nationally, or had been, at least, before prohibition, and therefore it was just to fight those interests on a national basis.

Reviews Fight

The speaker, who occupied the pulpit at the South Methodist church at the regular morning service yesterday, arrived at his destination after a concise review of the fight in this country, to have the Eighteenth amendment adopted. He said that the adoption of the liquor prohibition amendment was the culmination of a great reform movement. He called it the greatest step towards "national righteousness" in the history of the country.

In 1783 Benjamin Rush, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, offered a resolution in Congress deploring the sale of intoxicating liquors. In 1845 the first temperance society in the country was organized at Simsbury, this state. In the 1850's a movement for the adoption of state prohibition began and Maine was the first to "go dry." Its legislature adopting the plan in 1851.

Given A. Setback

For a long period the prohibition question was placed in the background because the slave problem became dominant in the minds of the people. The Civil War came and little thought was given during those trying times to any kind

MURDERER OF SIX DIES IN THE CHAIR

Paul Jaworski, Arch-Bandit Meets End Calmly—Another Slayer Electrocuted.

Rockwell Penitentiary, Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 21.—A ghost-like figure with a dazed expression on his blanched face, shuffled into the dimly lit death chamber here today and was quickly shunted into the electric chair. Before he could utter a word, a grotesque brown leather mask was drawn over his head and 2,000 volts of electricity shot through his body. Before the sizzling white and the crackling, sputtering sound that accompanied it had died away, he was dead. Thus ended the spectacular career of Paul Jaworski, the killer, arch bandit, stick-up man and sworn enemy of society.

24 Witnesses

Twenty-four stunned eye witnesses looked on transfixed, in the tomb-like silence of the palace as guards hurriedly brought in another prisoner, Calvin E. James, a youthful bootlegger-slayer. In the flash of an eye, he, too, "rode the thunderbolt," as they say in prison parlance.

Killed Half Dozen

Jaworski, killer of half a dozen men during his wild rampage of crime across Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois, paid the supreme penalty specifically for the death of Isaiah Gump, a payroll guard slain in a $45,000 holdup at Mollenaur, Pa. James was electrocuted for the slaying of William Dunstan, a drug clerk, of Doylestown, Pa., over a $150 liquor debt.

Both Jaworski and James died without uttering a syllable. Both men were pronounced dead four minutes after they had sat in that

Ruth, Broken-Hearted, Vague As To Future

New York, Jan. 21.—Appearing broken-hearted and still dazed, Babe Ruth was back in New York City today, trying to pick up the threads of life dropped when he received the shocking news of the tragic death of his wife.

The "big fellow" seemed totally at a loss to decide on plans for the future.

"How long are you going to remain here?" a reporter asked him. "I don't know."

"Are you going to take up your regular training?"

"I haven't made any definite plans," the Babe answered dully. But he lost his apathy at the next question.

"Where is Dorothy?"

"Please don't ask about the kid," he exploded. "It's bad enough as it is."

The mystery of Dorothy's identity, whether the 9-year-old girl is their own or the adopted daughter of Ruth and his tragically burned wife, may be decided today, however, when Mrs. Ruth's will is to be filed in Supreme Court.

Solomon's Favorite Wife Drank His Poisoned Wine

London, Jan. 21.—The historical revelation that King Solomon's favorite wife, Moti Maria of Memphis, an Egyptian sacrificed her life by drinking poisoned wine intended for the world's wisest man, is contained in a parchment found with the mummy of her body in excavations at the amount of the temple, according to a Cairo dispatch today, according to the Egyptian newspaper "El Mokattam."

The excavators found a wonderful underground chamber filled with art objects, tapestries, ornaments and a gold coffin, the Cairo newspaper said. After the coffin had been opened a parchment was found in the mummy wrappings. It contained writings, supposedly in the hand of Solomon, extolling the virtues of his favorite spouse.

The parchment is said to recount a plot upon Solomon's life fostered by Amertio, his father-in-law. Moti evidently knew of the cabal for, when poisoned wine was offered to Solomon, she seized the cup, drank it and died in the arms of her husband. The parchment extols the many virtues of the self-sacrificing Moti.

NOTED PLAYWRIGHT DIES IN HIS STUDIO

Leonard Cline Had Been Dead Five Days When Body Is Found.

New York, Jan. 21.—An autopsy was to be performed today on the body of Leonard Cline, author, playwright and former newspaper man, who was found dead in his Greenwich Village studio apartment, following the finding of the body yesterday indicated that Cline had died of heart failure and that he had been dead five days.

Leonard Cline

Cline was released last July from a Connecticut prison where he served ten months for fatally wounding his life-long friend, Wilfred P. Irwin, following a drinking bout on his farm in Willimantic, Conn.

THREE PERSONS HURT IN BAY STATE BLAZE

Damage Estimated at $100,000 in Weymouth—Six Families Homeless.

Weymouth, Mass., Jan. 21.—Three persons were injured, six families were forced to flee to the streets, and damage estimated at nearly $100,000 was done today by a general alarm fire which destroyed a fire station, a three-story wooden block and a dwelling house in Lincoln Square, Weymouth Landing.

Those suffering severe burns were Timothy McCarthy, a fireman, Chester Foster, a helper in the fire station, and an unidentified man.

The fire razed a three-story wooden block which housed stores on the ground floor. The upper floors were used for dwelling purposes by four families.

An adjoining two family home was also destroyed.

The fire station, an old two-story wooden structure, together with one piece of apparatus went up in flames.

90 PASSENGERS ARE TAKEN OFF GROUNDED SHIP

Wrecking Tugs Now Trying to Pull President Garfield Off Reef; Connecticut Res- idents Among Passengers

New York, Jan. 21.—With her 90 passengers safely removed and bound for Nassau on the steamer Pan-American, the grounded liner President Garfield was being emptied of her cargo on Manilleto Reef today with the prospects that she would be refloated in time to pick up the passengers at Nassau almost on schedule.

This word was received here this afternoon by the Dollar Line offices. Not a passenger was hurt, not an ounce of baggage or cargo damaged, the line said. High praise was paid to the efficiency of the Pan-American in its transfer and the commander of the President Garfield, Captain T. P. Quinn, for his prompt action in bringing a relief ship to the scene.

Slightly Damaged.

The President Garfield is not believed to be but slightly damaged and is expected to continue its round-the-world trip within the next 24 hours.

The work of transferring 7,000 tons of cargo consisting largely of automobiles to barges from Jacksonville and Palm Beach, was started this morning.

With the hatches empty and the ballast tanks free of their burden, the vessel will be freed from Manilleto Reef by the rising tide and without the aid of tow lines, in the opinion of Captain T. P. Quinn.

A wireless message from Captain Quinn to the company officers stated that the Merritt-Chapman-Scott salvage tug "Warbler" was alongside, with the barges sent from Palm Beach, sixty miles from the scene of the mishap.

No Leakage.

Captain Quinn radioed that the water had been pumped from the

CHICAGO'S POLICE IN BIG ROUND-UP

Eight Hundred Picked Up In Series of Raids In All Parts of City.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—What is called by Police Commissioner William Russell as the greatest roundup of underworld characters in the history of Chicago ended here today when the county jail door clanked shut on the 80th prisoner.

All of this vast number had been arrested within a period of six hours beginning at midnight Saturday. The county jail is jammed from the collar to the roof.

"The police department has finally struck," said Commissioner Russell. "My men are determined to drive the man with the gun from Chicago."

Meanwhile Chicago's half-world has—cried and ran for cover as the terrifying sirens of bureau cars echoed through the streets.

Crooks Leaving.

As the unprecedented police round-up gained momentum yesterday and last night, a panicky exodus by the city crooks, racketeers and hoodlums tried to match its pace.

Every section of the city was invaded simultaneously. Downtown hotels, speakeasies, dance halls, cabarets, even the fashionable night clubs along the Gold Coast swarmed with detectives and uniformed police.

Gangland was in a panic. The prisoners ranged from unshaven, cap adorned thugs to immaculate, groomed men in evening dress. Every recognized gangster and racketeer and every person found in possession of a gun, were taken into custody.

Thus the raids progressed the length and breadth of the city. No section escaped, and the known ringleaders of gangsters or racketeers was passed up.

Commissioner Russell proudly boasted today that, although a few minor characters slipped through the police dragnet, the main offensive accounted for the "four hundred of Chicago gangland," all of whom are now "on the inside looking out."

COURT RECESS

Washington, Jan. 21.—The Supreme Court today recessed until February 18.

Face Charges of Ten Murders

A hunch that Detective Sergeant McCarthy had when he saw them in a high class hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., led to the arrest of Fred Nave, left, and Clyde Roberts, right, alleged members of the famous Ace Pendleton gang of bank robbers, who are blamed for ten murders in Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, New Mexico and Utah. Rewards totaling $50,000 are to be shared by McCarthy, shown in the inset, and two other detectives who aided in the capture.

OFFERS PRIZE OF $50,000 FOR ROUND WORLD HOP

Denver Newspaper to Give Reward for Non-Stop Trip; Aviators Say It Will Be Done in Near Future.

New York, Jan. 21.—A non-stop refueling flight around the world for heavier than air craft is entirely feasible from every point of view a poll of leading aviation experts made here today by International News Service shows.

The poll was taken because of the widespread interest in the east in the $50,000 prize offered by the Denver Evening Post for the first flight of this kind.

"The proposed non-stop refueling flight around the world is the next logical step in long distance flying," Earl L. House, vice president of the Mott Aircraft Corporation said. "The United States has the planes and engines which have proved their endurance, and the pilots who can fly them. If proper ground organization can be established through Asia and Asia Minor, the thing is entirely feasible as a sporting proposition. We wish to commend the enterprise of those suggesting the flight."

Highly Enthusiastic.

Thomas L. Hill, president of the American Society for the Promotion of Aviation, which sponsored the recent cross country solo flight of Richard James, 17-year-old Flushing, Long Island schoolboy, was unusually enthusiastic over the Denver newspaper's offer.

"It will be a great thing for aviation," he said. "It will impress people with the safety and convenience of air travel more than anything else has done. A round-the-world flight without a stop is a sound project. Motors and planes have proved that they can stand the strain of a flight of that length and the recent performance of the Questing Mark on the Pacific coast answers the fuel problem. There will be little danger attached to the flight across the United States and the Atlantic. The real danger lies in the hop from Tokyo to Honolulu, where all the skill of a highly efficient navigator will have to be brought into play."

In Near Future.

"I have no doubt but that a

PRESIDENT-ELECT LEAVES CAPITAL ON HIS VACATION

DOCTORS TO REMAKE LITTLE BABY GIRL

Chicago, Jan. 21.—A baby girl, both legless and with only one arm, will be entirely "re-made" by modern science, Dr. Henry Dueson Thomas, professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Illinois College of Medicine announced today.

Two artificial legs and an artificial arm, equipped with wires attached to little loops of permanent skin will permit the child to control muscles and actually walk, eat, write and perform other acts of a normal child, Dr. Thomas claimed.

Crowd of Several Hundred Bids Him Farewell at Sta- tion—Wife and Small Per- sonal Party Accompany Him on Special Train Bound for Miami Beach, Florida.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Herbert Hoover said farewell to the capital today.

Accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and a small personal party, the President-elect left for Miami Beach, Florida, at 10:37 o'clock on a special train on the Atlantic Coast line.

Mr. Hoover did not arrive at the station until a few minutes after the scheduled departure of the train at 10:30 a. m.

A crowd of several hundred persons gathered in the concourse and applauded the president-elect.

The departure was further delayed while Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood on the rear platform to be photographed. They waved goodbye to the crowd as the train gathered momentum and disappeared into a tunnel.

CRUISER BILL FACES MUCH OPPOSITION

Leaders Believe a Well Laid Filibuster is in Progress to Defeat Measure—Bills Jam Senate.

Washington, Jan. 21.—With six weeks remaining before the death of the Seventieth Congress, the administration today faced the task of enacting two major measures, the new cruiser and the reapportionment bills, before completing its legislative program.

The House, having completed its share of the Congressional program, appeared reconciled to the end but the Senate threatened to prove a lively opponent right up to the final gong. Both the cruiser bill and reapportionment bill have passed the House but require Senate approval to become laws. Both face serious opposition.

Other Bills

Hundreds of other bills will be enacted by both branches before March 4 but these chiefly will be of local character or a personal nature. So far as major legislation is concerned and with the possible exceptions of the cruiser and the reapportionment bills, the legislative record of the Seventieth Congress and the Coolidge administration appears to have been written. The six remaining weeks probably will be given over to politics and oratory, though the Naval bill will become a law.

The chief activity of the House this week will be to further tariff hearings in committee session as a preparation for the coming special session of the new Congress. Next in importance will be the hearings on radio legislation. The House is continuance as secretary of the treasury.

 But let this attempt on the part of the drys to bully the new President and control his choice of cabinet officers only go so far, and we can be very sure that policy as well as impulse will throw the scales in favor of Mr. Hoover reappointing Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mellon accepting. Nothing is surer than that Herbert Hoover is not going to stultify himself at the very outset of his Presidential career by jumping through a hoop at the crack of the dry whip.

CLINE'S LACK

Leonard Cline, the stormy petrel of Mansfield, who died alone in New York, perhaps on the semi-anniversary of his liberation from Tolland jail for the killing of his friend and comrade Irwin, was one of those human mechanisms that appear every now and then, fabricated of fine metal, delicately and cunningly organized, designed to function effectively, brilliantly, but lacking in that primary essential a balance wheel.

As a result the mechanism ran erratically, by fits and starts, with crazy energy at moments, stalling and getting on dead centers at another moment. The balance wheel that Cline lacked was that sense of responsibility without which even brilliant minds come pretty near to being useless. Any system of education, public or home, which does not develop that sense is a failure.

LYING DOWN ON THE JOB

Three motor deaths in Connecticut over the week-end, in January, will not suffice to command the attention of the Connecticut Legislature, which so far has given no evidence that it considers the slaughter of citizens on the roads any of its business. It is doubtful if three dozen deaths in the same time would stir a single legislative pulse. Possibly if the number were three hundred somebody at Hartford might have a glimmering notion that really something ought to be done about it—but there is no evidence to support the hope that it would go any farther than that.

Apparently the Legislature of Connecticut conceives its duty to consist in making laws to provide against non-union barbers and hairdressers from competing with the union variety, making appropriations for the housing of more public officials and attending to matters that are really administrative. Such small affairs as taking a firm grip on the automobile situation and shaking some of the perils out of it, the General Assembly appears to be the affair of the Almighty, not to be interfered with by such modest creatures as legislators.

AMATEUR CRIMINAL

Charles Toman of Kansas City, at 25 the father of three children, was in a hospital corridor when they told him that his fourth child had arrived in an adjacent ward. He had no job, no money, no coal and no credit at the grocer's. He flipped one of the few cents in his pocket. It came down "steal" side up. He sallied forth and held up two drug stores, got $135, bought some coal, paid up the grocery bill and told himself "never again." But he was an amateur and a burglar and it was no time at all before the police traced the crimes to him. He got ten years.

Holding no brief for the fellow who goes out on his muscle just because he is hard up, one cannot but feel, nevertheless, that there is something twisted, if Toman had been an underworld crook he would have had bondsmen, clever lawyers, quite possibly political influence. In one way or another the chances are that he never would have had to actually serve ten years or anything like it. As a freelance beginner he has to take the law according to its letter and his medicine along with the law.
 The wrong is not that this man should be punished but that he should be punished much more severely than if he were an intentional and habitual criminal.

NO LINK MISSING

Dr. Austin A. Clark of the United States National Museum, a biologist of distinction, is touted as having propounded a new theory of evolution which to some measure supports the belief of the creationists, inasmuch as he holds that there is no such thing and never has been such a thing as a "missing link" between man and monkey and that man appeared on earth in practically his present physical development.
 Just why this should be heralded as a new theory we cannot understand. It has been held by a great many scientists—by some as a probability and by some as a possibility, for a long time. Darwin's theory was never swallowed, hook, line and sinker, by all scientifically learned men. Apparently somebody has seized upon a rather ordinary declaration of Dr. Clark in an attempt to make a "dull Monday" sensation out of not so much.

The incident prompts us to remark, however, that we can't, for our part, see so very much to this "missing link" proposition. Our idea is that the link isn't missing at all. Anybody who compares the mental, physical and moral attributes of a well disposed chimpanzee with the same elements as demonstrated by the creatures who audibly discuss their private affairs and opinions, without intermission, in theatre or picture house, must arrive at the conclusion that the links not only meet but overlap.

BANKRUPTCIES

There seems to be some chance that the recently exposed scandal in the bankruptcy court in New York may result in some good coming out of evil. Federal Judge William Clark of New Jersey has declared war on the silphoid system by which bankrupts have been discharged on recommendation of referees without any real knowledge on the part of the court as to whether the bankrupts are honest or dishonest. He intends, in a word, to administer the law as it was intended to be administered. He may turn out to be the Moses of a great movement.

PEN SLIPPED

Mr. Hoover probably didn't read over the note he sent to a Waterbury young girl who had transmitted to him an original pencil sketch of the incoming President; else, such is his native modesty, we doubt if he would have permitted to stand just exactly those words, "I wish to thank you for your beautiful sketch."

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 21.—Wherever the gold balls fall over the green this coming spring semester, I predict the frequent repetition of gags to be heard in Broadway's latest song and dance hit, "Follow Through."

But the one that pleased me most is sprung by a golf tutor in the process of giving a lesson in the comedian.

"Oh, I have it, I know what the matter with your game now," spouts the tutor.
 "What's that?" bites the comic.
 "You stand too close to your ball—after you've hit it."

From here and there come further ominous warnings that tuxedos will be "passed" this winter. Manhattan society of the more-or-less ultra sort will not have them. The well dressed man will get little else but scorn if he dare bob up in a tuxedo with tails and dear old-fashioned evening clothes.

The leading style mentor of New York bursts into type before my frightened eyes at this moment, crying aloud: "For the last time, I give notice that tuxedos and dinner jackets will not be countenanced this season."

That would happen! Just as I got my last year's tux finally paid for!

And, oh yes, there was another golf gag in that music show that might bring a laugh at the club.

EPILEPSY IS CURABLE.
 There are a number of diseases which may simulate epilepsy, but if a person has once seen a true epileptic fit, he can usually thereafter easily distinguish the disease. An epileptic attack is often preceded by some "aura" such as a hallucination, a sense of constriction in some part of the body, or a feeling of anxiety. At the beginning of the attack, the patient usually emits a sharp cry and falls unconscious upon the floor without making any effort to protect himself against injury from falling. The voluntary muscles undergo acute spasms followed by tonic convulsions. During the attack, the muscles of the face and jaws may work furiously and often cause the tongue to be bitten. The mouth may froth. Loud breathing follows and then a profound sleep, from which it is impossible to awaken the patient for a time. Patients sometimes have nocturnal attacks of epilepsy for years before they discover it. They may awaken in the morning with a sore tongue which they have bitten during sleep, or they may find their eyes exhausted after what they often consider "nightmares."
 These attacks may recur one after another or only once in several years. There are also minor attacks of epilepsy, known as petit mal, which are not typical fits, but only a momentary loss of consciousness, without falling, in which there may be a flushing of the face, sweating and headache, and a variety of similar symptoms.
 Sometimes epilepsy is complicated by a twilight state, lasting from an hour to several months, wherein long journeys or other acts may take place without the patient's knowledge. Some of the acts in this stage may be quite natural, but they may be extremely violent. Murder or incendiarism may be committed. As the disease progresses, the patient's character changes—easily enraged, there is egotism, lying and an apparent disregard for ethics. Under excitement, criminal acts may be performed. The disease sometimes terminates in death of insanity.
 Not every convulsion can be considered an epileptic however, since there are digestive convulsions of early childhood, hysterical attacks from tumor pressures, and various types of poisoning and intoxications.
 Heredity, accidents, alcoholism and various diseases and reflex conditions may influence the appearance of epilepsy. There seems to be some change in the superficial cells of the cortex (gliosis) which makes them especially susceptible to any form of toxemia.

 For many years I have seen one case after another yield to treatment with fasting and dieting, and manipulative treatment to the intestines. Practically the only cases which cannot be cured by these methods are the ones caused by injuries to the brain from accidents. For these, surgery offers the only hope, and the patient sometimes recovers as soon as the brain pressure has been relieved.
 Many experiments clearly prove that the intestines are the principal source of the toxins of epilepsy, but still many physicians have not profited by these facts. Epilepsy is still spoken of in whispers, and patients are told that there is no hope for them.
 (In tomorrow's article I will explain THE CURE OF EPILEPSY.)

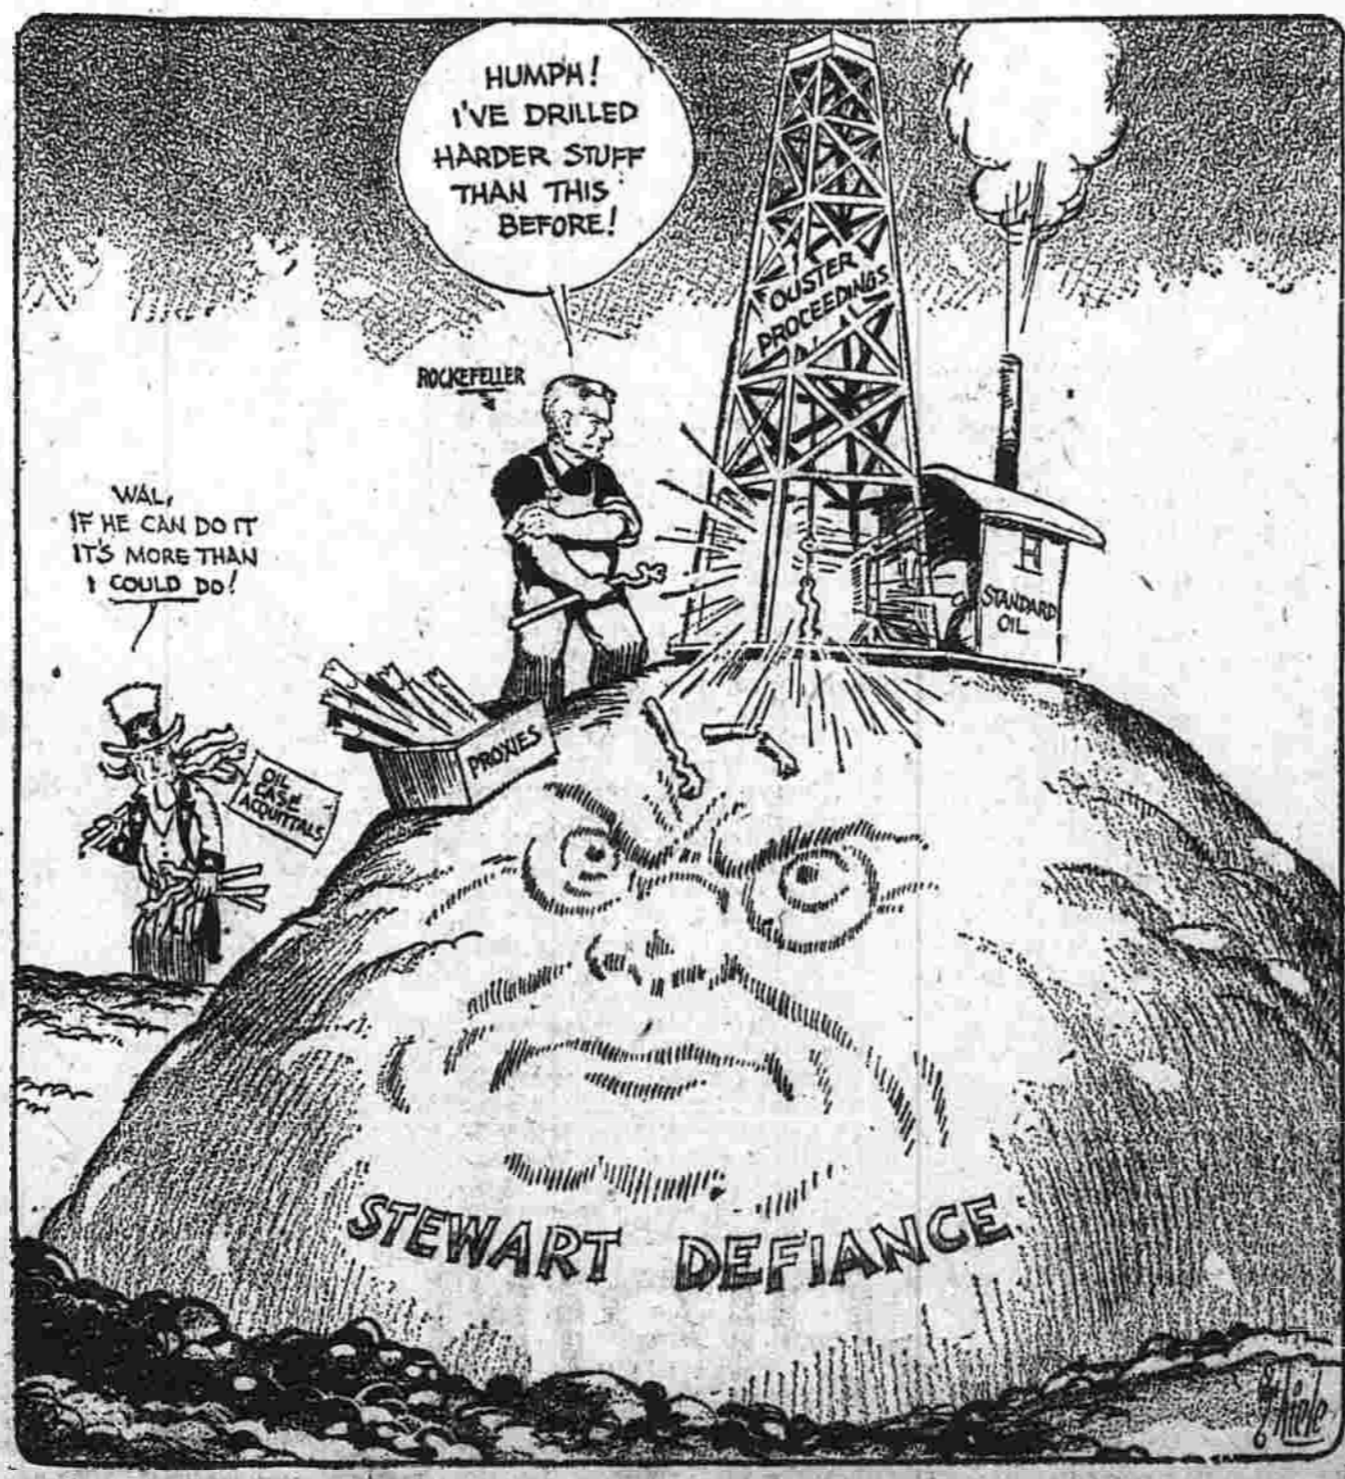

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Pylitis
 Question: B. K. asks: "What are the symptoms of pylitis? Is it possible to have it at intervals for a period of years? Is it curable? If so, what is the cure?"
 Answer: Those with pylitis usually develop a fever, but the most characteristic diagnostic point is the presence of pus in the urine. It is often associated with other disorders. The treatment would depend upon the findings from a thorough diagnosis.
Bread with Meals
 Question: Mrs. C. L. W. asks: "Will you please tell me why you never recommend bread with meals in your menus, only Melba toast? What harm is there in eating yeast bread and baking powder bread?"
 Answer: I do recommend bread occasionally in my menus, but I believe most people use too much bread to the exclusion of other more vital foods. When any kind of bread is used it should be taken with non-starchy vegetables and not in addition to other starches or with protein foods.
Feasting
 Question: P. C. writes: "I am a girl of twenty-one years and perspire very much. What would you advise me to do to stop this?"
 Answer: Take at least two sponge or shower baths daily. Rub the skin briskly with a towel each time, also increase your elimination of toxins through the lungs, kidneys and bowels.

Again the tutor takes the comic as his bait and recites:
 "The last pupil I had was just like you. One day he decided to use an ant hill as a tee. The moth crawled out of his hole and watched him tearing up the turf with his club. She climbed up on the golf ball and called back to her family, 'Children, hurry up and come up here where you'll be safe.'"

The fire department of Great Neck, L. I., a New York suburb, claims the most celebrated troupe of helmet wearers. Since this is a famous actors' and writers' colony and the department is a "home bucket brigade," practically every member is a celebrity. Its chief is Jack Hazzard, one of Broadway's best known comedians.

SENSE and NONSENSE

WASTED ENERGY The Negro woman was being cross-examined.

"Are you sure that you know where your husband was on the night this crime was committed?" "Er ah didn't," she replied "den ah sure busted a good rollin' pin ova the head ob an innocent man!"

Sam (on outside looking in)—Look heah, niggah, is '30 in for life?" Rastus (on inside, looking out)—Not me, I ain't—jes' frum now on.

At a revival converts were coming forward. A negro came striding down the aisle and dropped on his knees. He was bare-footed and two enormous feet stuck up behind as he knelt.

The visiting revivalist, old and very near-sighted, started up the aisle, kneeling here and there beside the converts. He peered earnestly at the negro, patted him on the shoulder and murmured: "Bless you, brother." Then kneeling behind him and putting a hand on each of the negro's heels, he said, "And bless these two dear boys."

An old negro preacher was making a visit to the revenue warehouse. Revenue officer: "What'll it be, Erasmus?" Erasmus: "Ah wants some sacrilegious wine."

Revenue Officer: "Some sacrilegious wine? You mean sacramental wine, don't you? And what kind do you want?" Erasmus: "Well, boss, at last Sunday's meetin' the congregation took a vote, and it was unanimous for gin."

Scientists tell us the earth moves in three directions at one time. The earth's performance, however, is not sensational when compared with that of a barber shop porter of our acquaintance. He was introduced to a white-headed ghost one evening under propitious circumstances, and as we recall it he scattered in five or six different directions simultaneously.

Dinah, crying bitterly, was coming down the street with her feet bandaged.

"Why, what on earth's the matter?" she was asked. "How did you hurt your feet, Dinah?"

"Dat goo 'n nothin' nigger (sniffle) done hit me on de hald wif a club while I was standin' on de hard stone pavement."

Judge: "Gilty or not guilty?" Rastus: "Not guilty, suh." Judge: "Have you ever been in jail?" Rastus: "No, suh; I never stole nuthin' before."

Four Negroes were having little success in moving a piano up some stairs. In exasperation, one of the front team called to those in the rear.

"Hey. Quit dat, quitin'!" The retort came back immediately. "Dat ain't the trouble, it's you'all stoppin' dat startin'."

LETTER GOLF

EASY TO GET A DATE It's a simple matter to arrange a DATE with your best GIRL if you use the letter golf way. Par is five and one solution is on another page.

Letter Golf grid with letters D, A, T, E and G, I, R, L.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

"Rastus: I'm sorry to hear that you've buried your wife." "Yassuh, boss, ah just had to she was daid."

"Don't you wish you had a job, Rastus?" "Not now, Sambo; all holidays am gone."

"What is the meaning of all this?" cried Scouty. "We have gone amiss. Who does this big hand belong to, that has grabbed our engine tight. We haven't done a thing that's wrong? Why can't we travel right along? Although it may be just a joke, it doesn't seem quite right." Then Copsy looked around and said, "Oh, look! I see a giant's head. A monstrous man had seized us and we're in an awful mess. What makes him laugh and shiver so? His body's swinging to and fro. I'm sorry that we took this ride. We're done for now, I guess." The monstrous giant then cried, loud, "Ha, ha! I've caught the Tiny crowd. What funny little fellows. Why, you're tiny as can be. I do not envy you at all. Say, don't you wish that you were tall, and had big arms and shoulders, and a fat, strong fist like me?" "Well, maybe so," one Tiny said. "And then the giant shook his head. "Oh, no, you don't," he shouted. "Being small is really quite fine. Why, you can travel here and there, and almost float out on the air. You're lucky you don't have to lead a clumsy life, like mine." The Tinsles then were glad to hear him say that there was naught to fear. "I promise I won't hurt you," said the giant, with a grin. "When everything is said and done, we five simply have some fun. And, if you will agree to that, I think we'd best begin." "Hurrah!" cried Scouty. "Sure, we're game. Remember though, you'll be to blame if anything goes wrong with us. This whole thing's up to you." This made the giant laugh once more. In fact he broke out in a roar. And then he said, "Oh, I'll take care, in anything I do." (The Tinsles go to the Giant's house in the next story.)

SWEDISH PASTOR GIVEN A SURPRISE

Rev. P. J. O. Cornell Honored by Congregation in Party Saturday Night.

A birthday party, under the disguise of a Men's and Ladies' society supper, was held on Rev. P. J. O. Cornell of the Swedish Lutheran church Saturday night. Rev. Cornell was presented with a sum of money by Henning Johnson on behalf of the congregation.

Rev. P. J. O. Cornell.

Rev. Cornell observed his seventieth birthday this month and his seventeenth anniversary as pastor of the Manchester church. The surprise, of which he was totally unaware, robbed Rev. Cornell of the power of speech but he recovered shortly and thanked the congregation heartily. Mrs. Cornell was the recipient of a beautiful basket of flowers, presented by Miss Pearl Johnson. During the evening Rev. Julius Hulteen of Hartford and Rev. Abner Ahlquist of New Britain spoke, lauding Rev. Cornell for his work in Manchester and wishing him many years of continued success. The G. E. Club sang four numbers and Helen Berggren rendered solos. Miss Berggren's very popular being called back to encore her number, Clarence Anderson and Fred Soderberg gave a comedy sketch. A Swedish "smorgasbord" followed the entertainment.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The first solid gold pin in typewriting awarded this year was to Venanzio Bugini for typing 56 net words per minute. Other awards were given to Frances Schultz for 45 net words and Robert Miller for 40 net words.

Following a custom adopted by many schools members of the senior class have adopted a standard type of skull cap to be worn by members of the Senior Class only. The caps were worn for the first time at the weekly assembly when the seniors marched into the assembly hall wearing their new head coverings. The body of the caps are white and the visor part a dark red, to show the school colors. The caps were the object of no little attention when they were first seen by the townspeople, but it is expected that they will soon be a familiar sight on the thoroughfares.

The four combined Washington Trip groups have decided to undertake a subscription campaign for the publications of the Crowell Publishing Company. E. Newton Smith district manager for the company spoke Friday at a Senior Class meeting and told how many schools were availing themselves of an opportunity to substantially increase their class funds by securing subscriptions to any of the following magazines: "The American Magazine," "The Woman's Home Companion," "Collier's Weekly," "Farm and Fireside," and "The Mentor." After the meeting Mr. Smith spoke to a meeting of the group leaders and explained the more minute details of the campaign. The groups one and two were officially designated "The Red Flashers" and groups three and four "The Blue Streaks" to see which team would secure the greater number of subscriptions. Group Leader Robert Treat was elected commander of the forces working in this campaign. Bulletins will be posted daily showing the number of subscriptions obtained by each team and there will also be an "Honor Roll" for those individuals that secure the greatest number of subscriptions. As a special inducement valuable prizes will be given to any student securing a certain number of subscriptions, the value of the prize being determined by the number of subscriptions. Most of the groups have already raised their share of the subscription campaign together with the carnival and benefit movie is expected to set a new record for funds raised by the groups for the pilgrimage to Washington.

RESERVES DECISION ON CREAMERY OWNERSHIP

Common Pleas Judge Hears Suit on Alleged Lapse of Title in Wapping.

There is much interest in the outcome of the suit for possession of the Wapping Creamery building which has just been tried before Judge Malloy in the court of common pleas in Hartford. Judgment was reserved. The property in question originally belonged to Oliver Thrall of Wapping. The property was sold to the Wapping Creamery Company with the reservation that the manufacture of butter should cease, it should revert back to its owner. Last April, it is alleged, the creamery suspended operation, the business being transferred to Vernon. When the later proposition proved a failure, the company returned to its original place only to find the doors locked. It appears that Michael Custer and his wife, Annie, owners of the old Thrall property, now claim possession of the creamery. The Creamery Company claims that it continued at least partial operation.

G. E. KEITH SOCIAL CLUB HOLDS FIRST BANQUET

Times It as Send-off for Furniture Merchant, Leaving on California Trip.

The newly formed social club of the G. E. Keith Furniture Company timed its first annual banquet, held on Saturday evening, so that it would constitute a fitting send-off for Mr. Keith, about to start on a trip to California. The banquet, which was accompanied by instrumental and vocal music, was held in the club's new quarters in the Keith store building. The club room had been decorated and the dinner prepared by a committee consisting of Robert Sanderson, John Gill and William Murphy. The affair began immediately after business hours, the menu, which was served at 9:30, consisting of fruit cocktail, consommé, filet of sole, sauerkraut and frankfurters, fancy cakes with whipped cream and coffee. Miss Clulow played the piano and Frank Blakely the banjo and mandolin. Clifford Whitehouse sang several novelty solos. After the banquet the club elected the following officers: President, John Gill; vice-president, Edward Kratt; secretary and treasurer, Bertie Clulow. The banquet was so much of a success that the club membership is all enthused over the next get-together, which is dated for February 26.

ORANGEMEN'S SOCIAL CLUB NAMES OFFICERS

The Washington I. O. O. L. club held a meeting at the clubrooms on East Center street Saturday evening. There was a large attendance of the members as it was the annual business session with reports and election of officers. The affairs of the club are in a prosperous condition and everything points to a successful year in 1929. The new officers and executive committee are as follows: President, Joseph Muldoen; vice president, Hamilton McKee; secretary, Joseph Flavell; treasurer, William Reid; committee: Thomas Stratton, James Vennard, Joseph Cranston, Joseph Benson, Ephraim Macauley, David Morrison, William Freeburn. After the meeting the men enjoyed a clam chowder supper and a social time, enlivened by songs and funny stories.

BIG MASQUERADE WEDNESDAY, FEB. 6

Annual St. Mary's Ball to Be In Charge of Hector Macdonald as Chairman.

The thirty-third annual masquerade ball of the St. Mary's Young Men's club will be held at Cheney hall, Wednesday, February 6. The committee with Hector Macdonald as chairman is working hard to make the event the biggest yet. Others on the committee are Fred Rogers, Robert Wilson, John J. Fox and William Mercer.

Hector Macdonald.

Special arrangement has been made with Bill Waddell's orchestra for a concert from 8:00 to 8:15. Dancing for those in costume begins at 8:15 continuing until 9:00. At this time the grand march will begin. At 9:15 awarding of prizes will take place. Four prizes will be given as follows: Best ladies costume, $10 in gold; second best ladies costume, $5 in gold; most comical man's costume, $10 in gold and the best group, three or more persons, $10 in gold.

Last year, Harold Clemson won the prize for the most comical man, bringing this honor to the family seven times. Clemson came to the hall with a sight-seeing bus in which he posed the dummy of a man and a baby. The bus was plastered with signs telling of the wonders of Manchester, including the local volcano, the School street dump. It was also equipped with a bell and four wheels, out of alignment. Clemson's costume was such it could not be described. It is hoped that there will be enough competition this year to give the Clemsons a race for their money.

Following the awards dancing will occupy the spotlight until 1 o'clock in the morning. Refreshments are to be served during the course of the evening in the dining room.

The annual masquerade is an affair that draws a crowd from Hartford, Rockville and Willimantic as well as large numbers from town. As the dance, each year, exceeds the proportions of the ones held in former years, it is expected this year to surpass all previous efforts, both in brilliancy of costume and in size. The attendance last year was well over a thousand. The Connecticut Company has offered to co-operate with the club by furnishing special cars if necessary.

SEVEN SCHOOLS HIT SAVINGS TOP RECORD

Seven of the eight in the Eighth and Outing Districts made a hundred per cent. in their deposits under the School Saving System during the week ending January 15.
