Gifford Pinchot Will Make Boyhood Dreams Come True

Here are Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot and their son, Gifford Bryce Pinchot, 13, who will leave soon for a cruise in the South Seas, that remote and alluring section of the world made famous by the writings of Herman Melville and Robert Louis Stevenson. Below is Pinchot's craft, the Mary P., on which the expedition will sail.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington.—Boyhood dreams of a romantic expedition among the remote and romantic islands of the South Seas will soon be realized by Gifford Pinchot. And his son, at the age of 13, looks forward to the voyage with the same youthful imagination which possessed the father, now 64 years old.
The Pinchots, father, mother and son, will sail away this month on a combined scientific and vacation voyage which will take them to many remote Pacific islands.
On the schooner, Mary P., which was once the Cutty Sark, but was renamed by Pinchot for his mother, they expect to return with a valuable collection of rare birds, fish, marine mammals and American vertebrates and insects for marine museums.

Members of the party will make their own beds and wash their own dishes.
The Two Boys
The two boys of the party are known to parents and friends as "Giff and Stiff."
"I want Giff and Stiff to learn how to handle a schooner and to be able to take observations and find their position," says Governor Pinchot. "Giff will have charge of all the firearms and be responsible for their condition. Stiff will be signal officer and there probably will be considerable wigwagging from ship to shore at times."
Mrs. Pinchot's secretary, Morris Gregg, is going along to be our radio operator.
The National Museum here will have first choice among the Pinchot specimens, but some will also be brought back for the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences and the University of Pittsburgh.
The National Museum is offi-

Those Who Are Going
This is the roster of the expedition:
Gifford Pinchot, the famous conservationist and former governor of Pennsylvania.
Mrs. Cornelia Bruce Pinchot, his wife, who ran for Congress last year.
Gifford Bryce Pinchot, their 13-year-old son.
Steve Stahlnecker, young Pinchot's roommate at school.
Dr. A. K. Fisher of the U. S. Biological Survey, an expert on terrestrial natural history.
Walter Fisher, his son, head of the Department of Biology at Stanford University, expert on marine natural history.
Howard H. Cleaves, a nature photographer.
Dr. Thomas O. Otto of Baltimore, who will be ship's physician.
And possibly Judge George Woodruff of Pennsylvania, once captain of the crew and a famous football player, who was a classmate and later a close associate of Pinchot, who has now invited him to go along.

Long Awaited Trip
Gifford Pinchot knows a great deal about the South Sea islands because he has been reading about them for the past 40 years. The idea of going to them first came to him while he was in college, he says. He has always been intensely interested in natural history.
The Cutty Sark, or Mary P., is made of steel and carries three masts. Originally she was the yacht Ariadne, built in 1901 to sail around Cape Horn. She weighs 250 tons gross, is 148 feet long and 26 feet across the beam and draws 16 feet of water. She has accommodations for a party of nine at, in one single and four double staterooms, and will carry a crew of 15. Pinchot says there won't be much refrigeration and that the party will live largely on canned goods and whatever may be shot or caught, including porpoise meat.
Mrs. Pinchot will have charge of the "grub", supervising one steward and one cook. Those two will be the only servants, so mem-

NOTICE! Special Town Meeting

Notice is hereby given to the legal voters of the Town of Manchester, that a Special Town Meeting of said Town will be held in the High School Hall in said Manchester on Monday, March 11, 1929, at eight o'clock in the afternoon, for the following purpose, to wit:—
For the purpose of the discussion only of the report of the Charter Revision Committee.
Dated at Manchester, Connecticut, this 6th day of March, 1929.
JOHN H. HYDE,
ROBERT J. ROGERS,
ROBERT J. SMITH,
WELLS A. STRICKLAND,
ALBERT T. JACKSON,
Board of Selectmen of the Town of Manchester, Conn.

ally co-operating with the expedition, supplying it with collecting material and lists of specimens it would like to obtain. For instance, the museum wants a series of skulls of Pacific ocean porpoises, which have never been adequately studied by scientists.
The Mary P. will sail from Philadelphia and will be gone eight or nine months. She will touch at Key West and Havana and proceed through the Yucatan channel to the Grand Cayman islands, from which the National Museum hopes to get some land shells and insects. There will be another stop at Swan Island off the Honduran coast and the party will go through the Panama Canal and down to the Galapagos island, far off Ecuador, dry and volcanic.
Then a 3000-mile cruise to the marquisas, a heavily vegetated island group, and on to the Tuamotu Archipelago, which consists of low coral islands. The only island on the itinerary which has regular mail service will be Tahiti. The Pinchot party will take in the Cook and Austral islands if there is time, but in any event will return with stops and collections at Tubua, Gambier and Pitcairn islands.
One Man and a Bible
A hundred years ago a crew of British sailors killed two officers and kidnaped some native women and went to settle down on Pitcairn island. One man had a Bible, with which he finally converted all the others to religion and in time, it is said, a model community was developed.
Also on the return route are Easter Island, with its great monoliths, artificially cut but of unidentified handiwork, and the great rock called Sala y Gomez. This rock is half a mile long and rises 100 feet out of the water.
"We will try to collect material permitting identification of bird migration routes by studying contents of their stomachs," he says. "To that end we will collect vegetation from these islands."
"In the Galapagos there is some of the finest game fishing in the world, tuna, broadbill swordfish, marlin swordfish, yellow tails and many sharks.
"Our equipment includes a complete whaleboat, 24 feet long. We won't bother any full-sized whales but we will probably try our luck at some small whales and blackfish, which are sometimes 30 feet long.
"I don't know yet whether we can bring back much alive, but there are some islands where birds are so tame that they can be picked right up from their nests and I should like to bring back some of those six-foot Galapagos turtles, which the whale ships used to carry along and eat for meat as the need arose. But they are hard to find since man introduced to the island dogs, cats and rats which practically exterminated them by eating the young.
"We hope to do much under-water photography and so are taking two diving helmets and a collapsible shark cage—not to keep sharks in, but to keep them out."

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUGNER
Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hesitatingly admits that his forthcoming marriage will trim his wings a little, keep him on the ground more than heretofore, make him a bit more reluctant to take unnecessary risks, and all that.
Many interesting observations can be made from this little news note. One wonders if Lindy had been in love, either in a single or married state, in May of 1927, if that epochal flight would have been made.
True, other men, engaged or wed, attempted the same thing, time without number. Three of them, whose marital affairs seemed on the surface quite satisfactory, made the same flight westward.
Commander Byrd, undoubtedly in love with his wife and family and home, has voluntarily left them for years of hardship and danger and the possibility that he will never return from the frozen wastes of the far south.
It is evident that some men find even the pleasantest of romance no barrier to their own "careers."
Men themselves have helped their cause of having their cake and eating it, too—namely, having their romance, by coining various epigrams and poems and platitudes to make the most rebellious woman feel that she is a piker indeed if she does not tamely acquiesce and accept the idea that woman's lot is to tend the hearth while her man goes down to the sea on ships or up in the air in mechanical birds.
VERSE TELLS IT
There's the sweet couplet—"I could not love thee, sweet,"
"I loved I not honor more."
What woman can resist that in all its implication that this man who loves her and whom she loves is a washbuckling, courageous gallant off to tilt with all the wind-mills and real obstacles that a sense of honor demands.
Many a woman's keen analysis has doubtless set to work upon the pretty rhyme and asked, a bit bitterly, "just what is this 'honor' that men prize so highly?"
And the same bitter analysis, quite unobstructed by personal emotion, is often forced to admit that the glim "honor" of the couplet is really just a little boy's plaything, his toy somewhere out there away from home and the responsibilities and even the pleasures of home.
There are women, too, so "sold" on the idea that a true helpmeet sends her man forth to tilt with this poetical "honor" of which she has heard so much; so "sold" on the idea that the more power a woman has over her man, the more will she goad him into doing the difficult thing of flying from her side to the tasks and challenges "out there" that they feel a little bit hurt if their men do renounce life apart from them too much.
It is conceivable that an Anne Morrow who falls in love with an eagle of the skies is going to have a bit different attitude when the she becomes a ground sparrow or, at least, a hawk with wings much less fleet than those of the bird he once was.

Anyway, it's all interesting speculation!
Five young women of New Jersey have had considerable notoriety of late due to their part in a strange lawsuit against the U. S. Radium Corporation. Poisoned by radium absorbed into their systems from their lips the brush used to paint luminous watches, each of the five were given $10,000 and pensions of $50 a month as long as they lived. At the time of the trial each expected that she had no more than a year to live.
Now comes science to say that perhaps it is not radium but mesothorium which has invaded their bodies, and if the latter is true, cure is possible. Here's a neat legal angle. What about that $10,000 and the $50-a-month-for-life awarded on the basis that life was impossible for more than a year?
THE PURSUIT!
When a Mongolian girl reaches the age of marriage, the word goes forth that on such and such a day she will be wed. Suitors cluster about her tent. She rides forth on a fast horse and the "suitors pursue." The one who catches her first is supposed to be her husband, but she has a cute little whip and if she doesn't like the one who approaches, she lashes him off, giving more time for the one she does want. When she stops lashing, she is grabbed off her horse by the winner.
So tells Owen Lattimore in his "The Desert Road to Turkestan."
It's a bit roundabout, but the Mongolian maid's methods doesn't seem so unlike that of our own gals, somehow.
Wiry kangaroos from Australia are now contributing their tendons to American surgery. The muscle sinew from these animals is used by doctors to take stitches in human cuts.

MOTHERS CLUB ANNUAL

The annual meeting of the Manchester Mothers' Club will be held Friday evening at the South Methodist church. The business session will open promptly at 8 o'clock to allow for the election of officers and sufficient time for the speaker of the evening, William B. Elwell, assistant principal of Crosby High school of Waterbury. His subject will be "Modern Poetry." Mr. Elwell is much in demand for his lectures and readings throughout this section of New England.
The nominating committee, which includes Mrs. Harry Straw, chairman, Mrs. William Rush and Mrs. Robert Dewey, held a meeting with the chairman last evening and drew up a slate of officers.
Mrs. Joseph Tedford is chairman of the hostesses, who include Mrs. Theodore Brown, Mrs. J. S. Carry, Mrs. Edward Dolan, Mrs. Harold Belcher, Mrs. George Harris, Mrs. Bessie Howe, Mrs. James Johnston, Mrs. Lillian Keene, Mrs. Warren Keith, Mrs. James McVeigh, Mrs. Charles Mikowski, Mrs. H. L. Tenney, Mrs. Charles Trebbe, Mrs. Harry Miner, Mrs. Earl Miner and Mrs. Arthur Wilkie.

TAYLOR EXECUTED

Boston, March 6.—George E. H. Taylor, itinerant "dancing barber" from the coast regions of West Virginia and lower Ohio, persisting his innocence, early today died in the electric chair at Charlestown state prison for the murder of Miss Stella Pomkala, known as Kale. The broken body of the 21-year-old Lawrence photographer's assistant was found on the sands of Salsbury beach in June, 1927.

Three hours before his death the ex-Marine adopted the Baptist faith. He walked firmly and calmly to the execution chamber. His last act before he took his place between guards was to kiss the Bible.
Herr Ellenberger of Berlin, who talked for several days, set a new marathon elocution record. The show must have been one for men only.

OLD ROMANCE IN HOUSE OF LORDS TITLE CONTEST

BY MILTON BRONNER

London.—A regular medieval Scottish romance is Sir Walter Scott's name occupying the attention of the Committee for Privileges of the House of Lords.

History, romance, old letters, an ancient papal bull, old records, queer deeds—all took up the time of the learned lords who sat as a court in the case.

Record of 1429. On behalf of the claimant, it is asserted that the records show that in a Scotch Parliament held in Perth in 1429, nine persons sat as lords of Parliament.

But before he received this second and higher title, he married first his cousin, Egldia Hay, by whom he had one son, the third Alexander de Seton.

Answering the charge that the third Alexander de Seton never made claim to the peerage of Gordon, it was pointed out that the annulment of his mother's marriage made his claim of his claim.

Further, his half brother, George, by his marriages, was a very powerful person. His first wife was the daughter of the Lord Chancellor of whom Sir Walter Scott wrote that he was "despotic of faith, mercy and righteousness."

But now comes the papal bull of Pope Eugenius IV of 1447. It is addressed to the Bishop of Moray. From this document it appears that when the second Alexander de Seton asked for annulment of his marriage with Egldia Hay, he contended one in vogue in the past and that he had duly received dispensation to contract that marriage.

After the annulment thus obtained, he contracted his second marriage, that with Elizabeth Crichton. But some years later he feared excommunication from the pope because of this deceit. He, therefore, made an appeal to the pope. In his bull, Eugenius absolved Alexander from excommunication, enjoined certain penances, allowed him and Elizabeth to contract marriage anew, and declared all his past and future offspring from her as legitimate.

Counsel for the claimant urged that the conclusion from this bull was obvious. The third Alexander de Seton, offspring of the marriage of the second Alexander with Egldia Hay, was a legitimate son of a legitimate marriage, duly allowed by the church, despite the fact that husband and wife were cousins. This third Alexander was, therefore, the legal heir to the title of Lord Gordon held by his father.

BUCKLAND WAXES GAY OVER ITS DIRE 'POVERTY'

Parent-Teachers Association and Guests Get a Lot of Fun Out of 'Poor' Social.

Despite the rainy weather last night the assembly hall of the Buckland school was crowded for the monthly meeting and entertainment of the Parent-Teacher association. Principal C. P. Quimby of the High school was the speaker of the evening and took the general subject of education for his theme—education in the church, the school and the home.

The entertainment committee, headed by Mrs. Louis L. Grant, announced that musical numbers would be given by a ladies orchestra. This turned out to be a kitchen band, the players being young girls of Buckland. The troupe also presented a sketch entitled "Memories." A saxophone and cornet duet was given by Warren and Beaton Case and monologues by Arthur and William Davis.

More than $10 was realized from the "poverty social" fines. Those who had curled hair, bobbed hair or wore jewelry were subjected to fines of a nickel or a dime. Those who smiled and those who had long faces were fined and everybody was fined on some pretext or another. Those worst dressed had the smallest entrance fee to pay. It created a lot of fun and the whole program was pronounced the most enjoyable of the season. Home made cake and coffee was served and dancing followed, to music by the teachers' orchestra.

Friday evening of this week the Parent-Teacher association will sponsor an entertainment for the benefit of this year's graduating class. Mrs. Frank Smith has been instrumental in securing a group of young people from St. Mary's church to present the three-act play, "Bobby Takes a Look," under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Davis. The school children are displaying the tickets for the play and it is certain that nobody in the district will be overlooked. Home-made candy will be offered for sale during intermission.

On Monday evening, March 11, the young men of the district will give a public whist and dance in the Buckland school assembly hall. They have announced that the two first prizes will be $2.50 gold pieces, that they will also offer two other prizes and an attendance prize. Refreshments and a social time will follow the card games. The boys have engaged Case's orchestra to play for the dancing which will take up the remainder of the time.

STATE HOSPITAL AID TO GO INTO BUDGET

An adverse report, decided yesterday by the Appropriations Committee of the Legislature, on a bill appropriating $10,000 to Manchester Memorial hospital, does not mean that the hospital will have to get along without any state aid for the next two years.

The bill is only one of a number of hospital appropriation measures adversely treated at the same time, and was killed by the committee only because provision for such appropriations are to be made under the budget.

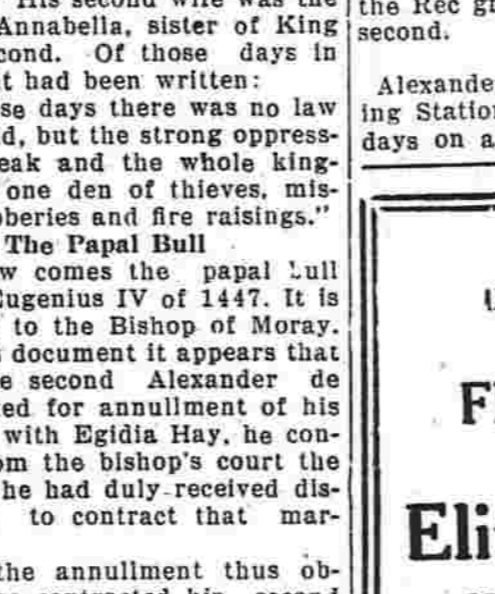

A more scientific method of apportioning state aid to hospitals has been adopted than the haphazard one in vogue in the past and state money is now to be awarded to hospitals according to a definite system, depending on the per capita cost of treatment and the number of non-paying or part-paying patients cared for. Under this arrangement it is believed that the Manchester hospital will not suffer.

Man Who 'Sold' Brooklyn Bridge 'Picked Up' Again; To Get New Term

New York.—A picturesque old police character—George C. Parker, man of many aliases who years ago thought nothing of "selling" Brooklyn Bridge over and over—has been "picked up" again by detectives and is in jail awaiting sentence.

George is a confidence trickster whose birth precedes the shots that were fired on Sumter's wall. In his day he was a "slick" talker and a snappy dresser.

Three he was arrested for larceny and twice for forgery. He was in and out of jail as often that whenever he left it was taken for granted he would come back. He always did.

George hadn't been heard from for a long time until the other day. Then he made his appearance, with a detective who had arrested him, in a Kings County court. He had cashed a check that had bounced back with startling elasticity.

Other old time police characters are seemingly having their last fling. Only a day or two before the police captured Willie McCabe, aged sixty-two, who, they say, is the last of the old time safe operators.

It looks like a sad Christmas for the last of the old time crooks.

MEXICAN FEDERALS TO CRUSH REVOLT

Additional troops are being recruited. Communications cut. Railway communication between El Paso, Texas, and Mexico City has been cut. Telegraphic and telephone communication is interrupted.

Federal troops are approaching Vera Cruz, capital of the State of Vera Cruz, which had been seized by the insurgents.

Three thousand federal troops under Gen. Miguel Acosta, who is expected to have reached Esperanza, half way between Mexico City and Vera Cruz.

President Portes Gil, of Mexico, has assured Dwight W. Morrow, the United States ambassador that he is confident the revolt will be quelled. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the famous American aviator, who was marooned in Mexico by accident to his plane, is still in Mexico City. He and his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of the American ambassador, spend much time together.

Former President Calles, who was especially appointed Mexican secretary of war, issued an official statement indicating his belief that Vera Cruz will soon be taken by the Federalists. Calles said that propaganda leaflets were being dropped from airplanes offering amnesty to the rebels who lay down their arms.

FOREIGNERS SAFE. Washington, March 6.—The Mexican revolution is proceeding on a basis of non-molestation of foreigners and foreign interests, according to dispatches reaching Washington today. Thus far not a single case of anti-foreign feeling or of injury to Americans as a result of revolutionary activity has been reported.

A dispatch from Nuevo Laredo, timed night of March 5, states that conditions there were tranquil, although Gen. Torres and Serratos, professing loyalty to the Gil government, were moving their troops to strategic points.

This dispatch confirmed that Monterrey was in the hands of the Rebels.

An American development concern at Nuevo Laredo, employing about fifty Americans, reported no molestation.

Report "All Quiet."

Another dispatch from Guaymas, a port in Sonora, said:

"Travelers arriving at Guaymas from Hermosillo by automobile report all quiet afternoon of March 4. Gen. Amantia and the 29th Battalion and other troops and Indians loyal to the Gil government have taken to the mountains. There was no news of any combat and Guaymas is in the hands of the Revolutionists."

"The Mexican vessel Bolivar has been seized by the Revolutionists."

"The Gloria, an American fishing vessel, is in the harbor."

"Gen. Manzo, leader of the Sonora Revolutionists, has informed merchants and bankers business should continue as usual. Revolution has ample funds. There will be no seizures for forced loans. But our opponents will be executed."

Gen. Rizo, a former Gil commander at Guaymas, has revolted and is leader of the Rebel forces here.

From Hazatlan in Sinaloa came a delayed dispatch saying:

"All federal offices, including the telegraph office, were closed this morning. Employees placed on the train for Guadalajara, and Mazatlan is being evacuated by Federal troops. Rebel army is reported to have been at San Blas, repairing railroad. Have no means of communication except steamers. Only municipal authorities left in the city."

EARLY BULLETINS.

Mexico City, March 6.—The rebellion in Mexico today took on the aspect of organized open warfare with the rebels continuing to hold the ascendancy in the north and federal troops marching determinedly towards Vera Cruz, on the eastern coast.

That Monterrey, the industrial capital of the State of Nuevo Leon, has fallen before the onslaughts of rebel forces under Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, is now admitted by the war ministry.

The government, however, minimized the importance of the fall of Monterrey, stating that there were few loyal troops in the city at the time and that the city was taken with virtually no fighting.

(According to rebel versions of the fall of Monterrey, the rebels seized the city after an all night battle during which the first bloodshed of the rebellion occurred. The rebels claimed they were opposed by 1,000 federal troops of which they captured 650. They also claimed numerous federal casualties, listing Gen. Lurriaga among the dead.)

Garrison Recaptured. The war ministry also announced great progress in the drive to the sea towards the city of Vera Cruz. It stated that the entire rebel garrison of Orizaba, numbering about 500 troops, were recaptured. Orizaba is only 80 miles from Vera Cruz.

It was also stated that 350 rebels surrendered to the federal vanguard at Esperanza, Puebla, near the Vera Cruz state boundary. Seven large electric and steam locomotives and much other rolling stock was recaptured at the railway junction there.

Gen. M. Molinar commanded the federal force which captured Esperanza. He reported that he encountered no opposition.

The federal force which took Orizaba consisted of 8,000 infantry and cavalry under the command of Gen. Almazan, the government indicated that virtually no opposition was encountered there either.

This force has now been augmented to 15,000 for a concerted drive upon Perote and Vera Cruz, according to the war ministry.

War Minister Calles in an official bulletin indicated that the rebel force defending Vera Cruz under Gen. Aguirre was not sufficiently large to offer effective resistance to the federal forces.

According to unofficial estimates here, Gen. Aguirre's forces total between 3,000 and 4,000 men.

quired to prevent Stewart's ouster, a "grapevine" tabulation of the returns indicated today.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, representing the Rockefeller, let it be known that the fight was directed solely against Col. Stewart and that "no drastic changes in the directorate of the company" would be made.

It was also reported that in the event of a Rockefeller victory there would be no "tampering" with the $400,000,000 stock melon cut by the Stewart management a few weeks ago.

"Field Marshal" Aldrich, who is a brother-in-law of the junior Rockefeller, admitted today that he had left New York with 59 per cent of the company's voting strength pledged against Stewart, yet he would not make a boast of victory.

At his hotel in Chicago, he said: "We will not make any claims of victory until the checking of proxies is completed."

DAVID BUICK DEAD

Detroit, March 6.—David D. Buick, who spent a fortune on his "impossible dream of horseless carriages" and reaped only poverty in return, is dead here today at the age of 74.

The one-time wagon manufacturer who lost out in the tumultuous automotive industry because of inability to meet its financial expansion, died of cancer in Harper hospital here last night.

"Yes, it's true that I found the Buick Motor Car Co., and that the stock I once owned is now worth millions of dollars," he said a short time before his death. "But I'm not complaining or accusing anyone of cheating me. It was the break of the game, and I—lost out."

Without bitterness he revealed that friends of other and more prosperous days had refused to help him.

Until a month ago Buick had worked doggedly at an instructorship in the Detroit School of Trades that gave him his livelihood in recent years.

His widow and one son, Thomas Buick, survive.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

RUTH LESTER, secretary, finds the body of her employer, "HANDSOME ARRY" BORDEN, Monday morning sprawled beneath the air-shaft window of his private office. He was shot some time between one and four Saturday afternoon.

McMANN, detective sergeant, questions the following suspects: RUTH, MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife and mother of his two children, who admits calling on him Saturday afternoon; RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who says she called on Borden Saturday afternoon to get the torn half of a $500 bill he promised her; JACK HAYWARD, Borden's fiancé, whose office is across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

Hayward says he returned to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon to get his and Ruth's valises. He was left in his desk. McMANN's belief in Jack's guilt is strengthened by the testimony of MICKY MORAN and OTTO PFLUGER, elevator boys, and of BILL COWAN, Jack's friend, who tells of having heard Jack threaten Borden's life.

A detective is sent for CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress. BENNY SMITH, Borden's office boy, says he returned to the office Saturday afternoon to get Ruth's gun for target practice but it was already gone. ASHE, Borden's manservant, tells McMANN of a woman with a beautiful contralto voice of whom Borden lived in fear.

MINNIE CASSIDY, scrubwoman, tells of going to Borden's office at 1:30 Saturday, answering his phone while he was out, and of telling the woman with a "beautiful alto voice" that Borden refused to talk to her. Then he asked her to call later. Ruth asks Mrs. Borden if her husband knew some woman with a beautiful contralto voice. The widow haughtily evades the question. LETTY MILLER, scrubwoman in Jack's wing of the building, is brought in for questioning.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

Minnie Cassidy must have found Letty Miller already at work in some office that had closed early for the day, for when the cleaning woman who "did" Jack Hayward's offices appeared within three minutes, she was carrying her broom, floor mop and scrubbing pail, filled with oily dusting rags. Birdwell, the detective, opened the door for her, and was hailed by his chief, McMANN.

"Any further report from Clay on Cleo Gilman?"

"No, sir."

"See if headquarters has got any line on Jake Bailey, Borden's bodyguard," McMANN directed, then, as Birdwell withdrew, the detective sergeant glanced negligently at Letty Miller. "Come on over here. I won't bite you... Now, take that chair, and don't fidget. I'm not going to keep you long. You'll have plenty of time to do your work. You're Letty Miller, the woman who regularly cleans John C. Hayward's offices?"

Letty's thin, calico-clad body accepted the support of the edge of the chair McMANN indicated. Her face was raised anxiously; faded brown eyes peered at the detective, nearsightedly through ugly, steel-rimmed spectacles. Gray-haired, frail, timid—no wonder, Ruth thought. Letty Miller had appealed to Jack's tender heart, so that he had tipped her more than he could afford. Was it in her power now to repay him for his kindness? It was hard for Ruth to take the witness out of the detective sergeant's hands.

"Yes, sir," Letty quavered.

"You cleaned Mr. Hayward's offices last Saturday afternoon?"

"Yes, sir."

"At what time, or approximately what time?"

The cleaning woman pursed her colorless lips in thought, then answered slowly: "I couldn't say exactly, sir, but it was after half-past two, because I was in another suite at half-past two and happened to look at the clock and remember that I still hadn't cleaned Mr. Hayward's offices, though ordinarily they're among the first I get to."

Ruth's cold hands gripped each other fiercely as she waited for McMANN to put his next question: "And why didn't you take the witness out of the detective sergeant's hands?"

"Because Mr. Hayward came in when I was just ready to begin," Letty answered, with a tiny flash of defiance.

"And ordered you out, eh?" McMANN suggested significantly.

"No, sir," Letty retorted, almost spitefully. "He told me to go right ahead with my work, but just then his phone rang and while he was answering it I took my things and left."

"Very considerate of you, I'm sure," McMANN commented drily. "And what time was this—when Mr. Hayward returned, I mean?"

Again Letty Miller pursed her lips in thought. "I couldn't say to the minute, sir, but it must have been about 10 minutes to two. We come on at 1:30 on Saturdays, but we do halls and baseboards and lavatories until the tenants begin to leave at one. And last Saturday I'd done four suites of offices before I went in to do Mr. Hayward's—and seen him, like I told you. So it must have been pretty near two—say from 15 to five minutes of two."

"You like Mr. Hayward mighty well, don't you, Letty? He's been good to you—about tips and so on?" McMANN asked suddenly.

Letty's lined, pale face flushed a dull red. "Of course I like him, sir. He's a good, kind gentleman, and I'm sure—"

"I thought so!" McMANN interrupted grimly. "All right, what next? When did Mr. Hayward leave? I suppose you're going to be very helpful and tell exactly when he did leave?"

Both Ruth and the scrubwoman glared at him then, but McMANN did not seem to mind. He did seem a little nonplussed, however, when Letty answered defiantly: "No, sir, I'm not, because I don't know when he did leave! I wasn't in that corridor then. When Mr. Hayward came back I took my pail and mop and broom and went around the corner to an office I knew was closed for the day, because it's always closed all day Saturday. And from there I went to the office next to it. I didn't come back to Mr. Hayward's office till after half-past two, I'm sure, and I didn't see him again."

The hope that had routed Ruth's overpowering fatigue when she had remembered that Letty Miller had seen Jack on his return to his office died a violent death, leaving the girl utterly crushed, and so tired that she felt she could not even lift her eyes again, no matter what happened.

If only Letty had waited, had watched for Jack to leave, had seen in his office from two until 10 minutes past two, so that she could have refuted Bill Cowan's damning story about the telephone call!

While McMANN continued his questioning of the cleaning woman, Ruth sat in a small, inert heap in her chair, staring with deep troubled eyes at her tax hands.

Dimly she realized that McMANN gained no further information; Letty had not worked in the corridor on which Borden's offices were located, hence had not had opportunity to witness the arrival or departure of the dead man's visitors; she had not heard the shot fired, or, if she had, had not noted it consciously; when she had cleaned Jack Hayward's offices she had not glanced across the airshaft, through Jack's window to Borden's, had, therefore, neither seen the promoter nor noticed whether his window was closed or open. As to Jack's gun, Letty had never seen it, she said; on Saturday, when she had wiped off the desk drawers, the bottom drawer had been closed, and she had not opened it, or any other drawer.

Ruth did not even raise her head when Letty Miller was dismissed, with the usual instructions from McMANN, but she had the impression that Letty's near-sighted, dull-brown eyes peered at her pityingly, asking her to forgive her for not having been able to clinch Jack Hayward's alibi. But she could not look up, and Letty was gone.

"Detective Carlson wants to report, sir," Birdwell announced from the door.

"All right; show him in," McMANN replied curtly. "Hello, Carlson; go on with your report. You've seen all the stock salesmen that showed up, haven't you?"

"Yes, sir," Carlson answered cheerfully, as he lowered his fat body into the chair vacated by Letty Miller. "Four of 'em blew in with libels all neatly wrapped up and ready to deliver. That accounts for all of Borden's boys except Adams, and Grant, one of the salesmen, just received this wire from him. I've checked his alibi with his landlady. He's been renting a room in an apartment, of which he gave the address, and I called the woman on the phone. Looks straight, all right. Here's the wire."

McMANN accepted the yellow sheet and scanned it frowningly, then, with courtesy which Ruth was not too utterly tired to appreciate, passed it to the girl. It was a long day letter:

"I have just read of Borden's murder. Saw him Saturday, left office about one-ten. He ordered me to Chicago, because he thought I was spending too much thought and time on my girl. Went directly to my room, Mrs. London's apartment, 128 West Sixty-fifth street, talked with Mrs. London for half hour and packed my trunk and bag. Had lunch with Mrs. London. Called my girl, made a date with her, and left apartment about three o'clock. Met girl downtown half-past three. Was with her till my train left for Chicago eleven-ten Saturday night. Don't give my girl's name unless necessary. Miss Lester knows Borden was sore at me and I don't want police to think I quarreled with Borden and killed him. I did not. He did bowl me out for falling down on job but gave me another chance. Show this wire to police if they haven't found real murderer. Am stopping at Drake Hotel. Will come back immediately if necessary. Adams." Ruth read it, and let the sheet flutter down upon Borden's desk.

"Well, Miss Lester, what do you think?" McMANN asked.

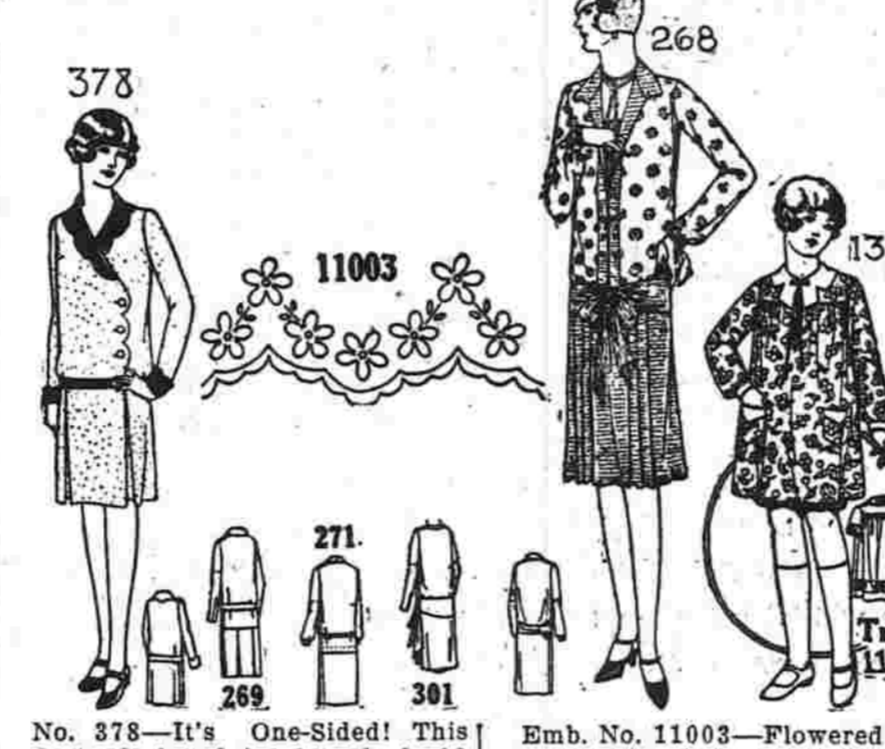

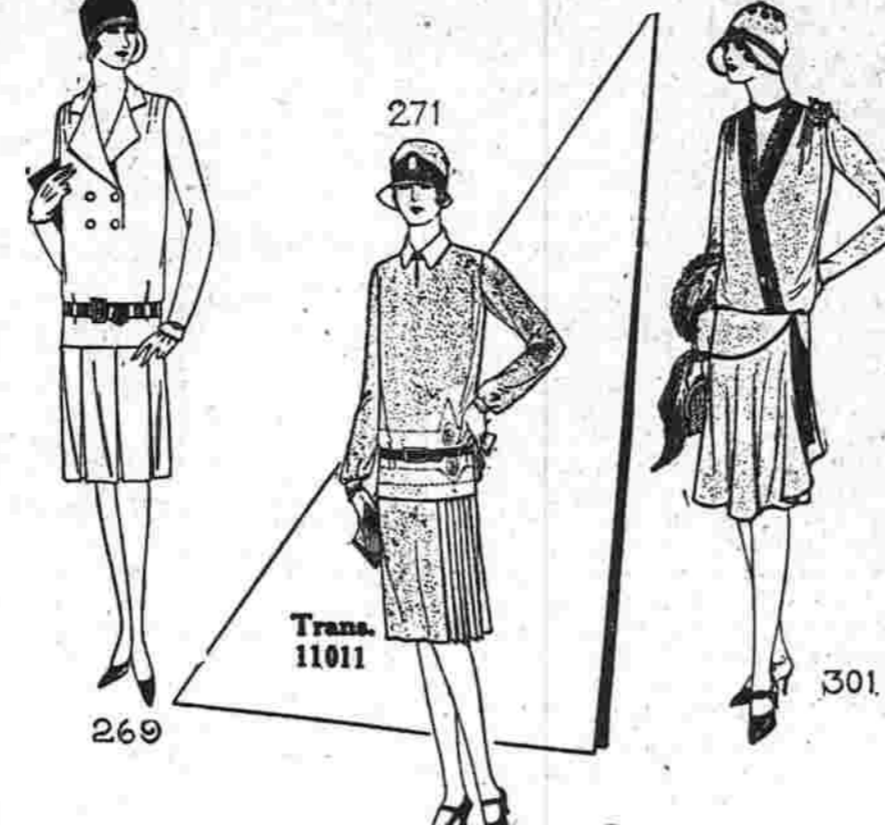

"I think he's telling the truth," Ruth answered dully. "It had not occurred to me to suspect Mr. Adams. I think it was fine of him to volunteer this information so promptly."

"Or very clever," McMANN said slowly. "Get the name of the girl from that chap Grant, Carlson, and go see this Mrs. London personally. I don't quite like the looks of this. Too pat. Give the girl the works, too... Did any of the salesmen have keys to this office, Miss Lester?" he added, when Carlson had left.

"No. No one was supposed to have a key but Mr. Borden, Benny Smith and myself," Ruth answered.

"Rita Dubois had Mr. Borden's key from Friday until today, but I never knew Mr. Borden to trust anyone else so far."

"Of course Borden would have admitted Adams, unless they had

American Business, Manufacturing In England, Outdoes British Tariff

By MILTON BRONNER

London.—American-owned British factories, belching out smoke from coal mines in British fields, running machinery manufactured in British plants, giving employment to thousands of British workmen and helping in part slowly but surely to restore to Britain some of her old-time prosperity—this is one of the most significant phases of after-the-war Great Britain.

Every summer the British newspapers speak of the American invasion, meaning thereby the thousands of tourists who spend Yankee dollars in visiting the tight little island. But the real American invasion is not a summer one. It is an all-year affair, growing bigger and bigger. It is the march of American business, the reaction of American business to the British tariff to minimize such protective tariff walls as "the safeguarding of industries act" and the "imperial preference act."

Significant Figures

Here are a few figures which must be taken merely as approximate:

More than 6,000 American manufacturing, wholesaling and trading concerns have either offices, agents or British representatives in Great Britain.

More than a dozen large concerns have assembling plants in Great Britain.

Several hundred American manufacturing concerns are allowing British firms to make their products on a royalty basis, supplying them with blueprints and details of patents and in return getting a steady flow of dollars back to America.

About twenty big American concerns have established large manufacturing plants in Great Britain, involving an outlay of more than 25 million dollars and giving employment to about 25,000 men and women.

The biggest army of invaders comes from the automotive industry.

One big automobile corporation has a large assembling plant right in London and another huge concern is erecting a big plant near the city. Three American tire manufacturers have established plants in England. One of these opened a couple of weeks ago, already employs 3,000 men, and has enough ground to expand its plant practically to a size equaling that of its factories in America.

Other invaders are drug and breakfast food manufacturers and factories for phonographs and records, gasoline pumps, razor blades and some well-known proprietary articles.

What Tariff Covers

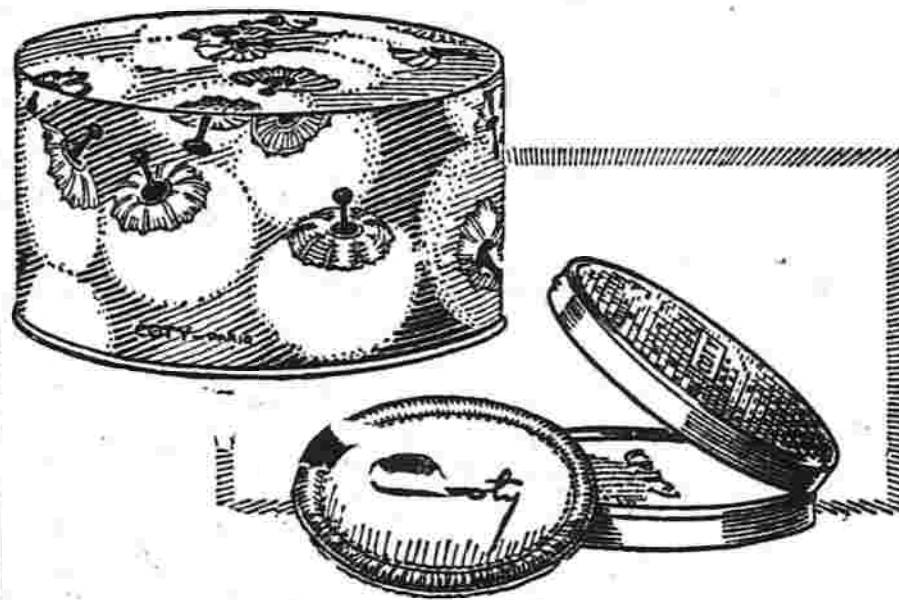

Great Britain is officially not a protective tariff country, but little by little is being made so by the safeguarding of industries act. Already the following articles, if manufactured outside England, have to pay duty: movie films, clocks, watches, motor cars, musical instruments, optical glass and instruments, precision measuring instruments, wireless valves and vacuum tubes, ignition magnetos, cutlery, gloves, buttons, phonograph records, artificial silk and articles made of silk or artificial silk.

By establishing plants in England American firms are avoiding this kind of tax. But there is another point, too. Some time ago representatives of Great Britain and all the self-governing dominions got together and agreed to give an imperial preference to goods manufactured in Great Britain or the dominions.

For instance, an article manufactured in Great Britain competes with an article from America. Both are imported into a British dominion. The British article has a big advantage. The tariff on the British manufactured article often is one-third less than on the American.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

THE ALAMO MASSACRE

Ninety-three years ago today 250 Americans died in one of the bloodiest massacres in our history. They were members of the American garrison of the Alamo, an ancient mission church at San Antonio, Texas.

The merciless attack, on March 6, 1836, was led by General Santa Anna, who by a series of revolutionary gestures had put himself at the head of the Mexican government. It occurred just four days after Texas had declared its independence to Mexico.

The butchery caused great excitement in the United States. "Remember the Alamo" became as stirring a phrase to Texans as "Give me liberty or give me death" was to the American colonists a half-century before. And on April 21 of the same year the Texans, under Sam Houston, overwhelmingly defeated Santa Anna's army of 1,500 men at San Jacinto, and took Santa Anna himself prisoner.

During all this while, the United States maintained a neutral position. It refused to become involved even when the Mexican Congress failed to ratify Santa Anna's promise of independence for Texas, given when he was taken prisoner at San Jacinto. It permitted, however, reinforcements for Houston to pass over American soil.

COP KICKER GETS OFF WITH A FINE OF $100

Moronovich's Jail Sentence Changed to Cash Penalty by Superior Court.

Days were changed to dollars by Judge Isaac Wolfe in Hartford County Superior Court yesterday afternoon in the case of Nicholas Moronovich, of Kensington street, who appealed a sentence of 55 days in jail handed down by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in Manchester Police Court on Monday, February 11. Judge Wolfe made it $100 and costs.

Moronovich was arrested on Saturday night, Feb. 9, for making a disturbance at the Sub Alpine Club on Eldridge street, where a wedding was in progress. It required the combined efforts of Patrolman David Galligan, Joseph Prentice and Raymond Griffin to subdue him. During the tussle, Office Prentice was kicked in the mouth and several teeth loosened.

In police court here, Moronovich was found guilty and sentenced to spend 15 days in jail for breach of the peace and 30 days for resisting an officer.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and the aged. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

AMAZING SELECTIVITY

The Philco covers the entire broadcasting wave band—ranging from the highest at 550 kilocycles to the lowest at 1500 kilocycles. This means that Philco covers all the low wave-length stations. Many well-known receiving sets do not reach below 1400 kilocycles, thus making reception impossible on ten radio channels out of a total of 96.

VAST DISTANCE RANGE

Philco's super-power makes possible distant reception during the daytime. The Philco is thus an all-family set. Not only for the man-of-the-house at night, but for the lady-of-the-house during the day. After you have your Philco you will be surprised to find how many delightful radio features are on the air during the daytime.

SUPERB TONE

Listen to an orchestra. You don't hear a skeleton performance of the leading instruments, but a true reproduction of the complete ensemble. Not a single instrument is lost. The drums are there, the velvet tones of the viola, the pattern accompaniment of the bass viol—all are preserved and harmoniously blended. The breadth and character of the original are retained. Close your eyes as you listen and you will realize that you are hearing not a radio performance but an actual RE-production, just as rendered before the microphone.

NO AERIAL NEEDED

Thanks to its plus power, the Philco will give you perfect reception of local stations and even of many distant stations without an aerial. It may be picked up and taken with you on your vacation. Merely plug it into the light socket and attach the ground. In 30 seconds it is ready to operate perfectly, in its new location.

FOUR CONDENSERS

Built like a fine watch. Look under the lid of the Philco. You will find not only the four condensers which are basically necessary to achieve the power and selectivity which the Philco gives. You will find more. Twenty-five generous plates to each condenser. Three-bearing condenser shaft. Rugged mounting cradle. Cadmium plating to prevent rust. Output transformer. Fully shielded power pack.

Dempsey To Be A Rival Of Garden Corporation

2 HARTFORD FIVES IN BIG NATIONAL BOWLING TOURNEY

New Haven Sending Three Teams to Richmond, Va., March 11; 1930 Tourney In Connecticut.

By John A. Deridder.

At the stroke of twelve on Monday March 11, the Honorable J. Fulmer Bright, mayor of Richmond, Va., will officially open the second National Duckpin Bowling tournament of the United States at the Health Centre Alleys in that city with teams from many sections of the country taking part who will compete with each other for the next three weeks in gaining national championships on the polished lanes with the various cities and towns of Connecticut playing a big part.

Outside of Virginia, Maryland, and Washington, D. C., the state of Connecticut has entered the largest number of teams including men and women of any state in the country. Teams from Hartford, New Britain, Meriden, New Haven, Waterbury, Bristol, Danbury and Wallingford have entered teams in the men's division taking part in the five man team events, the doubles, the singles and the all-around championship.

The only team in the state to be represented by members of the fair sex this year will be the Charter Oak girls of Hartford who finished fourth at Baltimore last year. This team also won the state girls league championship in 1928 and they will appear with the same team with the exception of Mrs. Dixon who has been replaced by Mrs. Martindale who was runner-up in the Hartford City title for girls last season.

New Haven is leading with the number of teams entered from this state with three teams, one from the Roger Sherman alleys and two teams from the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. The starlight alleys of Meriden have entered two teams, Hartford has entered two teams, and Bristol has entered one team.

It is planned to have all the Connecticut teams bowl the same day and a special day will be named to be known as Connecticut Day at the tournament which is expected to start on Saturday, March 30. A reception committee named by Mayor Bright have arranged a fine entertainment for the visiting bowlers and it has been requested that as soon as teams arrive in town they report to the alleys to Secretary Iseemann.

The entry list from all sections of the country is gratifying to those in charge with almost twice as many cities entered this year. It is also gratifying news to hear that the 1930 National tournament will be held in Connecticut and all the Connecticut teams should speak of the many fine points regarding their state as it is the writer's opinion that the best writing for bowling for the Hartford Times for the past five years that this section of past England is the center of the duck pin game and without a question of doubt at least 300 or more teams would take part in a tournament held in this state.

NEW BRITAIN PLAYS IN BRISTOL TONIGHT

A spectacular basketball battle—one of the most thrilling of the season—is anticipated tonight at the Bristol Armory when the New Departures tackle the revamped New Britain quintet. This contest will be the first of the three in the series between the clubs to determine the right to the state title. Bristol has won three of the four games played and if they can topple the Lanphenmen tonight will automatically push last year's state champions out of the running, leaving only Meriden and Bristol to battle for the mythical honors.

OUT OF THE PAST

If a prizefighter in the days when this picture was taken had tried to give a lecture on Shakespeare to the Yale students he would have been locked up.

One glance is enough to assure anybody that these three huskies could not under any circumstance recite segments of Othello or even Venus and Adonis.

Jack Jeffries also was a fighter, but he lived in a golden age of heavyweights and was not quite good enough to tackle Fitzsimmons, Corbett and men of that type.

Jack Sharkey Now Claims Championship Of World

Johnny Buckley Sends Telegram to Boxing Commission Saying His Man Wants to Meet Dempsey.

New York, March 6.—Jack Sharkey, the so-called garrulous gop, claimed the world's heavyweight championship and offered to defend the title against Jack Dempsey in a telegram to the New York State Athletic Commission today.

His last fight. Sharkey and Dempsey met here in the summer of 1927 for the right to challenge Gene Tunney in the Chicago championship fight. Dempsey won by a knockout in the seventh round but the blows immediately preceding the one that ended the fight remain a subject of controversy to this day.

Leo Lomski, challenger for the light heavyweight title, again attempted to gain, through the commission, another championship fight with Tommy Loughran, but appeared satisfied with the official word that the board had received a telegram from Loughran, explaining his position.

Manchester Outscored Nearly 3 To 1 From Floor; Herb Cohen Outstanding

THE "BONER" THAT WON A GAME.

Young Marcus Moriarty, forward on the high school second basketball team can well afford to be jealous of Roy Riegels, captain-elect of the California football team.

Score by halves: Meriden 21, Rec Five 10. Referee: Dan Ahern, Middletown.

When Moriarty was inserted into the Manchester lineup with only a few minutes to go, the score was tied. It was the most exciting game of the year and players on both sides were fighting furiously.

It was proved conclusively again last night that the Rec Five basketball team is not in the same class with the three leading teams in the state, namely, Meriden, Bristol and New Britain.

Kearns Thinks Walker Will Be Next Champion

San Antonio, Tex., March 6.—The new Chicago Stadium will open on Saturday night with a decision over Laddie Lee of Portland, Maine who meets O'Brien at Maine on March 12; Curcio in beating Lee showed that he is a real puncher by having Lee on the floor and on the verge of a kayo on three occasions in the ten rounds.

The duty of trying to hold Cohen in check fell upon the broad shoulders of George Stavitsky but he was unequal to the task.

REAL SLUGGIN' BEE LOOMS AS PROBABLE

The Frankie O'Brien-Johnny Curcio (of Providence) bout that headlines a program of six bouts and thirty eight rounds at Foot Guard Hall in Hartford Thursday night looks like the ear marks of a real slugger.

New York, March 6.—Some of Mickey Walker's plans and ambitions came to light today when Jack Kearns, back in New York after a long absence in California, nominated Mick for the next heavyweight champion.

'WOMAN OF AFFAIRS' AT THE STATE TODAY

Greta Garbo and John Gilbert Starred—"All at Sea" is Co-Feature.

John Gilbert and Greta Garbo in "A Woman of Affairs," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture from a story written by Michael Arlen, opens a two day engagement at the State theater commencing today. It is being presented with a colorful synchronized music score. "A Woman of Affairs" is regarded as one of the most fascinating love stories ever to be transferred to the screen.

To support the two stars in their screen reunion, a cast was selected which includes such prominent film folk as Lewis Stone, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, John Mack Brown and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Clarence Brown, who directed Mr. Gilbert and Miss Garbo in many of their previous releases, was also responsible for the guidance of this stirring photoplay. Most of the action of the film takes place in London social circles, and has to do with a beautiful young heiress who has many love affairs, only to find that she still yearns for a man whom she can call her life long mate. Many thrills and dramatic sequences have been woven deftly in to the story.

Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, a famous pair of film funsters, who need no introduction to local theater goers, are seen to the best of their comical ability in "All at Sea," the companion-feature at the State for today and tomorrow.

"All at Sea" is one of those "nautilus but nice" pictures. By that we mean that it has to do with salty gobs who get themselves into all kinds of hot water. And it's all just because they both are in love with the same girl.

Josephine Dunn happens to be the girl in the case. Others in the cast are Eddie Baker and Harry Prior.

A pleasing variety of snappy short subjects will also be shown on the same program. Friday and Saturday the State will present Richard Dix in "Red-skin," a Paramount Quality Sound picture filmed entirely in technicolor. This picture is now being shown on Broadway at two dollar prices.

LIKES TO TRAIN WITH BIKE

PAIR OF FILMY HOSE HOLDS KEG OF NAILS

Demonstration in Hale's Window Proves Strength and Weaving Quality of Stockings.

One of the most novel tests ever employed to demonstrate the latent strength of an apparently fragile and delicate material is now being demonstrated in a window at Hale's department store, where a keg of 8-penny nails is suspended in the air, the suspending agent being a pair of dainty Blue Crane stockings. At a glance the filmy things seem no more capable of withstanding the weight of a keg of nails than a cobweb of holding up a motor truck. But there they are, quite uninjured. Similar stockings will be given as prizes to those who guess closest to the number of nails in the keg.

NEW BABY DISTURBS

TIRED OFFICE WORKER

"When my oldest boy was just a few weeks old he was badly constipated from my milk," says a Nebraska mother. "He kept us awake so much, my husband almost slept over his desk at the office. Then my doctor got us to give Baby some Castoria and the next day he was much better. His stomach and bowels began acting perfectly and he gave us no more trouble." Avoid imitations of Castoria. The Fletcher signature marks the genuine, purely-vegetable, harmless Castoria, doctors everywhere advise for those ill of babies and children, such as colic, constipation, colds, biliousness, etc.

Hints On How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Among the most peculiar of the notions promoted by food faddists and physical culturists is the idea that starvation is good treatment for all disease.

At a meeting of the Medical Society of London recently several of the leading physicians of England considered the question of fasting in relationship to human health.

When food is withheld from the body, the whole chemistry of the system is promptly changed.

SENSE and NONSENSE

He—You say that woman who moved into the next apartment is a widow?

A Cynic's Market. Honor: Dear and scarce. The old stock nearly exhausted and the new crop rather unpromising.

Virtue: Few importations. That of native growth degenerating. Honesty: None in the market. Patriotism: First quantity, no demand.

Pride: Market glutted. Politeness: Very cheap, but the owners appear indifferent about the disposal of it.

Scandal: Wholesale at every corner where there is a newstand. Choice items altogether engrossed by peddlers and hawkers.

Religion: When brought into the markets it is generally adulterated. Sales nominal.

Love: None offered, except for real estate, real pearls or stardom. Talent: A scarce article. No credit allowed.

Sincerity: Out of season. A man called up a bird store the other day and said:

"What in heaven's name do you want with 30,000 cockroaches?" "Well," replied the householder, "I am moving today and my lease says I must leave the premises here in exactly the same condition in which I found them."

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Bidwell and son Gerald returned yesterday to their home on Chestnut street after several week's absence, during which they took a trip to Florida. They spent some time at Daytona Beach and other places of interest in Florida and en route. They traveled by automobile and had no trouble during the more than 3000 miles covered, except for occasional detours. They came through Washington Sunday and found traffic very heavy on account of the inaugural of Monday.

Mrs. Mary McKinnon of Locust street was the guest of honor at a ago to the main office. Her friends at the ribbon mill, where she has been employed for a number of years, led her to believe she was going to a shower on a bride and she was much surprised to find the chicken dinner and other festivities of the evening were planned for her. As a reminder of their pleasant associations, the girls presented Mrs. McKinnon with a handsome purse.
