Congregation Up in Arms When It Learns Rev. Colpitts Had Been Chosen for Other Position.

The South Methodist Episcopal church parishioners lost a well fought battle yesterday when their pastor, Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, in a series of developments over the week-end at the New England Southern conference at Brockton, Mass., that at times threatened open rebellion in the local church. Because of the failure of the members of the New Bedford district in the conference to agree upon a district superintendent Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, of Kansas City, Kan., decided to appoint Rev. Robert A. Colpitts to that superintendency.

MANCHESTER WILTS UNDER HEAT WAVE

Thermometer Reads Over 90—Hottest April 7 on Record.

While Old Man Mercury rose to better than 90 degrees yesterday afternoon, Manchester was forced to suffer the consequences in the hottest April 7 on record for this vicinity. Hartford reported the hottest weather of any place in the United States yesterday with the lone exception of Norfolk, Va.

Those fortunate enough to own automobiles went for rides so that they might enjoy a little fresh air, something that wasn't stirring of its own accord yesterday. A number of Manchester people went to the shore to spend the afternoon. Others sat quietly at home with shade-drawn windows. Confectionery stores reported a rushing business yesterday, there being a big demand for soft drinks and ice cream.

PREDICT COLD WEATHER.

New Haven, April 8.—A falling off in temperature that will make wintry conditions is predicted by the local weather officials here today following the setting of an early-April high temperature record yesterday and today. A maximum of 82 degrees was reported for April 7 by Leonard M. Tarr, head of the local weather office, who finds that the temperature is the highest recorded here as early in the month though the 21st of March, 1921, had a maximum of 84 degrees. April 10, 1922, also had 82 degrees. The highest April temperature ever recorded in New Haven was 91, on the 27th in 1915. The maximum here last Saturday was 51 degrees, while the minimum this morning was 66. The cool weather now in the west is expected to be felt here late tomorrow morning.

FIRST HEAT PROSTRATION.

New York, April 8.—The first heat prostration in the record for the torrid wave occurred today when Albert Klaus, 55, was overcome. The temperature was near 80, but thunderstorms were said to be on the way. Between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday the temperature mounted to 86 degrees, making the day the hottest April 7 on record. The heat was ten degrees above the previous high record of 76 for the day, established on April 7, 1919. It was estimated that more than 300,000 sufferers from the heat sought the cooling breezes of Coney Island alone. About 5,000 persons went bathing in the surf at the popular amusement resort. Thousands resisted the many airports in the metropolitan district or traveled to nearby seacoast resorts.

CHENEYS WIN A. I. A. AWARD FOR FINE SILKS

Unusual Distinction Comes to Local Firm—First Med- al Ever Bestowed by In- stitute on Organization.

Cheney Brothers have been awarded by the American Institute of Architects, "that the Craftsmanship Medal of the Institute is to be awarded to the Cheney Brothers for their modern machine woven silks. In the past this medal has uniformly been awarded to a single individual. This proposal, therefore, tends to create a new precedent in the recognition of a firm or corporation.

"The distinguished products of the Cheney looms are literally the result of highly organized team work and no single individual can be designated as primarily responsible for them, the Institute's announcement reads. "In the judgment of the committee the precedent proposed will prove a valuable one. The more highly developed the achievements of quantity production become, the more impossible it will be to find any individual primarily responsible for the excellence of the results. The encouragement of systematic co-ordination in the production of beautiful products should prove no small recognition of the results."

Signal Honor.

It will be recognized to be because of outstanding achievements in architecture that the Cheney Brothers have not only created a new precedent in the award of the Craftsmanship Medal by bestowing it upon a firm, but that they should have singled out Cheney Brothers for this honor. In doing this, however, they have simply been guided by a compelling force of the circumstances surrounding the outgrowth of the development of beautiful creations in modern industry.

Such accomplishments today are composite in their nature. It is no longer the single individual craftsman who by himself creates articles of beauty upon a large scale. The production of a beautiful line of varied examples is the result of the work of many hands and it is recognized to be fitting that the award for success should be shared in common by them all. There is certainly still need for the individual creator, but it is proper that the contribution of the organization as a whole should be brought out into the light and recognized.

"This is a distinction in which all those who have labored for this end, whether in South Manchester, New York, or in Paris, can share in and be proud of," said Charles Cheney today.

Charles Cheney, president of Cheney Brothers, has been designated as the individual to receive the award on behalf of the organization which will be bestowed at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Architects to be held in Washington, D. C., on the evening of April 24.

RAILROAD SIGNALS TO RULE TRAFFIC

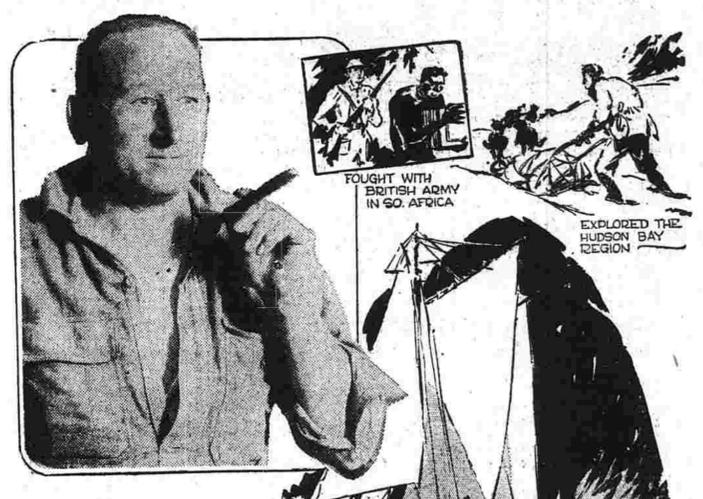

Commissioner Stoeckel Gives His Views of How Plan Will Be Worked.

Solid streams of traffic, starting, operating for a time at a given speed, and stopping, with the precision of automatically controlled railroad trains, although each vehicle will have its own driver, is the picture of future conditions on many highways as visualized by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel.

He presents this view in the current bulletin of the State Motor Vehicle Department while discussing the necessity for the use of reason as a test in making laws which will allow latitude and discretion to fit the time and the event. "Because direction of mass traffic is a science in itself," he says, "it must necessarily soon include definite and distinct signal systems, traffic rules and regulations similar to those used on railroads. Traffic will in the future proceed with more exactness than it has in the past. There will be occasion on each road and at each signal in accordance with exactness of performance in accordance with signal systems and directions by authorities will be reasonable and hence enforceable. As a result it may be expected that some traffic will move by signal much the same as we have seen railroad trains move for many years."

HIS LIFE JUST ONE LONG ADVENTURE

Artist Joe King herewith pictures some of the thrilling incidents in the thrilling life of Captain John Thomas Randell, skipper of the Canadian run runner I'm Alone, shown above. In the British navy during the World War, Captain Randell won the D. S. C. for sinking a couple of German submarines; he fought in South Africa, he was in the thick of Gallipoli's bloody battles, he flew an airplane and drove a dog team in the Arctic and he helped the Royal Northwest Mounted Police solve a baffling murder mystery. And then, seeking more adventure, he turned to rum running.

Then, before that, he fought with the British army in South Africa. He was at Gallipoli, too, during the World War; and later on, with the battle fleet, he was at famed Scapa Flow, helping British ships the North Sea secure. Two years ago he took command of the steamer Morso and sailed from Halifax to the Arctic on a scientific mission for the Canadian government. He explored desolate coasts in Hudson's Bay, flew an airplane over ice packs, drove a dog team on journeys to the interior, helped the Northwest Mounted Police to solve a murder mystery—had, in short, a fine time.

"I'm Alone" Skipper Bares Rum Secrets

New Orleans, April 8.—The illegal business of smuggling alcoholic liquor into the United States is one of the industrial giants of the eastern and southern seaboard of the nation. Liquor comes in in a flood—hundreds of thousands of cases annually. The traffic is handled on a strict business basis. It is sold, curiously, the glamour and thrill of the old-time smuggler and the efficiency and cold calculation of the modern high-pressure business enterprise.

These facts are revealed as an aftermath of the sinking of the British smuggler I'm Alone by the U. S. Coast Guard cutters Walcott and Dexter. Captain John Thomas Randell, who dived from the deck of the sinking smuggler and was rescued by the coast guards and brought to New Orleans in irons as a prisoner, told an interviewer about them as he lounged beneath the apple blossoms in a peaceful orchard in rural St. Tammany parish, across Lake Ponchartraine from New Orleans, and waited for his trial in federal court.

Life of Excitement
Captain Randell can tell an interesting story. He has craved excitement all his life—craved it, sought it and found it. The episode of the I'm Alone is only the latest incident in a long series; the latest, and hardly the most interesting or thrilling. He holds, for example, a Distinguished Service Cross, awarded him by Great Britain for sinking a couple of German submarines during the war.

Then, before that, he fought with the British army in South Africa. He was at Gallipoli, too, during the World War; and later on, with the battle fleet, he was at famed Scapa Flow, helping British ships the North Sea secure. Two years ago he took command of the steamer Morso and sailed from Halifax to the Arctic on a scientific mission for the Canadian government. BOMB IS ADDRESSED TO GOV. ROOSEVELT

Accidentally Discovered by Sweeper in Post Office Before It Was Sent Out.

New York, April 8.—Experts of the bomb squad today were searching their files in an effort to trace the sender of the bomb addressed to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, which was accidentally discovered in the general post office here yesterday.

It was hoped that some information in the records might identify the manufacturer of the bomb as one who has been in the hands of the police previously. Peculiarities in the manner of constructing infernal machines have been recorded here and it was believed that some detail in the construction of the bomb sent Gov. Roosevelt might provide a clue. The smallest eggs are election commissions which function in

SINCLAIR LOSES FIGHT TO ESCAPE SENTENCE

To Call Mrs. Watkins At Tomorrow's Trial

Hartford, April 8.—The trial of William Egan, lawyer, on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the business career of Roger W. Watkins, is expected to be ended by the time the Superior Court's week ends here Friday afternoon. The state probably will rest its case tomorrow afternoon when Mrs. Roger W. Watkins has given her testimony. Watkins will resume his place on the witness stand tomorrow morning to take up his testimony where he stopped last Friday afternoon. Mrs. Watkins will follow, it was indicated today, and will tell of town when her husband's troubles were piling up thick and fast a year ago. That both Watkins and his wife will be cross-examined closely by the battery of defense counsel also was indicated today. The men who are representing Egan in the trial intend now to lay the foundation of their defense by questions put to and answers returned by the chief witnesses, as the Watkins couple are considered.

EXPECT NO TROUBLE AT MEXICAN BORDER

Clash Between American Troopers and Mexican Soldiers on Saturday is Being Cleared Up Today.

Washington, April 8.—The situation at Naco, Arizona, which suffered from bombing from rebel planes and an exchange of shots between American cavalrymen and Mexican soldiers last week, appears to be clearing, Secretary of War Good declared today. "The situation is moving along in about as normal a way as one could expect who has knowledge of Mexican border conditions," he said. "Gen. Lassiter has pretty full instructions and broad powers. We do not contemplate sending new instructions because of Saturday's event."

Referring to the bombs which were dropped for the third time at noon Saturday and to a clash that took place between the Cavalry and Mexican soldiers at 3 a. m. Saturday, Good said the situation was more acute than as a result of the occurrences but there was "nothing to indicate it was any more so today than then."

BOMBS THROWN INTO ASSEMBLY HALL IN INDIA

English Diplomats Have Narrow Escape from Death as Machines Explode; Panic Among Spectators.

London, April 8.—Attempted assassinations with bombs in the Indian Legislative Assembly at New Delhi led to two arrests, according to advices printed by afternoon newspapers here today. Two bombs were thrown in the Assembly House which was crowded at the time. One fell near Finance Minister Sir George Schuster. Panic broke out in the gallery. A number of persons were knocked down and some were injured. India office officials said they had no confirmation of the attempted bombings.

An evening newspaper published in New Delhi sent the information that a bomb exploded, wrecking three government benches, and filling the legislative chamber with fumes. The police immediately locked all the doors, it was said, while several were made for the authors of the crime.

Sir George Schuster was among the injured, according to the New Delhi paper. Two arrested. The two men arrested here said to have confessed. A pamphlet headed "Hindustan Socialist Republican Army" was flung to the floor with the bombs. Sir John Simon, head of the English parliamentary commission which went to India to investigate political conditions, was in the chamber and witnessed the outrage. Parliament adjourned for ten minutes, but when it reassembled the room was so acrid with fumes that it was decided to call off the session. The meeting was consequently adjourned until next Thursday.

The outrage was connected with the fact that the president of the assembly, Patel, was scheduled to give a ruling at today's session upon the public safety bill, which has aroused much controversy throughout India.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF.

Springfield, Ill., April 8.—James Carpenter, 27, today shot and killed his estranged wife, probably fatally wounded her friend, Mrs. Jewel Matuscki, 20, and then committed suicide. Carpenter went to the Matuscki home looking for his wife. Encountering Mrs. Matuscki he opened fire on her and when his estranged mate fled to the street he followed her and fired five shots into her body.

Millionaire Oil Magnate Ap- pealed to Supreme Court from Decision of Senate Committee—It Gave Him 90 Days for Refusing to Answer Questions Dur- ing the Teapot Dome In- vestigation.

Washington, April 8.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate and central figure in a number of trials growing out of the Teapot Dome oil lease, must serve ninety days in jail and pay a fine of $500 for contempt of the U. S. Senate in refusing to answer questions propounded to him five years ago, the U. S. Supreme Court decided today.

Unless the wealthy oil man's expensive battery of legal talent can perform a legal miracle, there seems no escape for Sinclair from serving this three-months sentence, in view of today's decision. This is the first one of Sinclair's convictions upheld. There is another now pending before the Supreme Court against Sinclair, growing out of the jury-showering in his conspiracy trial with ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall some months ago. That contempt sentence is for six months.

The assumption is that Sinclair will have to serve his 90 days in the District of Columbia jail, inasmuch as the contempt of the Senate for which he was convicted took place here.

Washington, April 8.—Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, today lost a fight in the Supreme Court to escape a ninety day jail sentence imposed for refusal to answer questions of the Senate public lands committee during the Teapot Dome investigation. The case was fought through two courts before reaching the Supreme Court. Sinclair was found guilty by a jury in the District of Columbia Supreme Court. In addition to the three months jail sentence he was fined $500. The Circuit Court of Appeals was unable to decide the question of law and certified the case to the high court.

Refused to Answer
The indicted grew out of a session of the Senate public lands committee on March 22, 1924. Sinclair declined to answer any questions on advice of counsel. He contended in the trial that the Senate committee was abusing its power to compel testimony to aid in legislation, and was engaged in a judicial inquiry to obtain evi-

Archbishop Curley of Balti- more Mentioned as Possi- ble New Cardinal.

Rome, April 8.—A papal consistory may be held at the Vatican at the end of the next month when several American prelates may be elevated to the cardinalate, according to information from Vatican circles today. It had previously been reported that Pope Pius XI would restore Italian predominance in the Sacred College through the creation of a number of Italian Cardinals to take the places of those who have died this year. Now, however, it is reported that the Pontiff will allow the present ratio to remain with the Italians in the minority. Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, is mentioned as one possible recipient of the red hat. According to reports three Americans may get this high honor as well as two Englishmen. Romans and foreign visitors were thrilled on Sunday when the Alpine, Italy's crack mountain troops, met here in convention. The delegates, singing war songs, marched to the basilica of St. Peter's, where they attended a mass. The Pope appeared at a window of his private apartment in the Vatican and blessed the soldiers. The Pontiff was obviously impressed by the martial display. He waved his hat to the troops. The warriors came to a halt before the papal apartment with their eyes fixed upon a balcony window.

JUDGE ON TRIAL

Sacramento, Cal., April 8.—Charged with misdemeanor in office, Superior Judge Carlos C. Hardy of Los Angeles, will face impeachment proceedings here today. Charges against the jurist came as the direct result of his acceptance of a check for $2,500 from Angelus Temple, of which Mrs. Althea Semple McPherson is pastor. The evangelist contends the money was given to Judge Hardy as a "love offering," and both deny that it was for legal services. Great interest is being manifested in the trial here and hundreds of applications have been made by the public for reservations in the Senate Chamber, the scene of the trial.

PICK HOTTEST DAY FOR HIKING CONTEST

Fire Commissioner Bill Crockett and Dick Ruddell Take Long Walk Yesterday Morning.

A long walking contest in which two prominent local men figured ended in a draw yesterday when the contestants appeared ready to collapse.

The route took them out through Manchester Green along the road that goes to the south at the lower end of the so-called "Nigger Hill," and continued on a line south until the Camp Meeting cross road was met.

Both were game, insisting they could finish the walk. At that time both men were both leg weary and some of their friends say that it would have been dangerous to have them continue.

OVER 6,000 VISIT THE MODEL HOME

Richman House in Marvin Green Inspected by Great Crowd Yesterday.

A rare spring day with summer temperature was a considerable boon to the formal opening yesterday of Leonard J. Richman's modern, Model or "Dream" Home in the Marvin Green development here.

Open This Week. The Richman model home will be open all this week, afternoons and evenings, for those who have not already seen it, and for those who wish to repeat their inspection tour.

Leonard J. Richman who conceived the idea of the Modern Model Home, Elman and Rolston developers of Marvin Green, the architect and all the local contractors who had a part in the building and furnishing of the home were present yesterday as a reception committee.

Modern Development. Twenty years ago a scene like this would have been impossible. In the first place, there were not available the materials and furnishings which make this house attractive.

Great Interest. Never in history has there been available such variety as at present and there never was anything like the interest shown in the better homes. Almost every magazine now contains one or more articles giving instructions how to decorate rooms and with actual illustrations, many times in color.

All materials are not born decorators. Women fear much more at home in the handling of fabrics and colors than men, but very few are able to do a good job of decorating unaided.

HOOPER AND BIG BUSINESS

When Herbert Hoover's candidacy for the Presidency first began to take on substantial form there was a good deal of sub-rosa talk about his not being acceptable to big business. There never was any reason why Hoover shouldn't be acceptable to business men of any kind, since no man in the United States was more likely to contribute to the general prosperity of the country than he; and bona fide economic prosperity must, of course, be the foundation for the success of business big and business little. In fact, it was probably the confidence of the public that Hoover's election would be good for business in general, far more than any other reason, that brought about his overwhelming election.

But since Mr. Hoover has been President he has at least twice indicated those qualities of which a certain type of big business men is suspicious. The first time was when he abruptly smashed the system of secret refunds of federal taxes. The second time was when he declared himself, the other day, as very much in favor of granting tax cuts first of all to all earned incomes in preference to incomes from investments.

There is nothing about either of these manifestations of Hoover principles to occasion any uneasiness to any business man or interest that is at once honest and gifted with plain common sense. Both ideas are right and both are sound and both are economically scientific. But they are opposed to some ideas which have grown up on big business like excrescences—like the idea that business, somehow or other, ought to get a little gravy from the government because it pays the election expenses.

Hoover is a million miles from being a demagogue, but the lines he has started to follow are the lines that will, with good reason, gain him a high place in the confidence of the ordinary people of the country. And big business will learn from him, we expect, that its best and eventual interests are never served by playing the hog.

SURPRISE WEATHER

Yesterday's extraordinary weather was accompanied by an illustration of climate psychology. There were very few if any persons who did not realize well enough that it was a very warm day, a hot day in fact, for the time of the year; but there were also very few who realized that it was a day that would have rated hot for August. And so it was not an unusual thing to see people going about in wraps, looking a trifle heated perhaps but happy in their holiday makings, quite unworried by any thoughts of sunstroke. Now add then, for that matter, a woman, generally riding in an automobile, retained her fur coat and managed to retain her equanimity at the same time. Almost nobody was prepared to believe that the thermometer was registering 90 in the shade; because, you know, it simply isn't done, in early April.

On a similar day, two months later, almost any man or woman would collapse at the mere thought of wearing early spring clothing, ignoring the shade or cutting back pose bushes in the sun. Yesterday they did these things with hardly a thought of the weather, beyond a casual realization that it was "almost like summer."

All of which goes to show, possibly, that our midsummer suffering from extreme heat is more or less due to our state of mind. We expect to wilt, so we wilt. We expect to almost collapse, so we do almost collapse. We know that we must not work in the hot sun and we do not work in the hot sun. We wear the lightest of clothes and find them burdensome, since we know in advance they are going to be burdensome. Possibly.

On the other hand, perhaps, at this time of the year we are far better fortified by our bracing winter's training to withstand a hot day than we will be along in August, after many weeks of humidity and heat have sapped our resistance, perhaps.

Anyhow it was a lalalalooza of a Sunday.

THE WATKINS CASE

The trial of Attorney William E. Egan for conspiracy in the so-called Watkins frauds is being watched with the keenest interest throughout the state, but with a peculiar silence. Even on the streets there seems to be considerable reluctance on the part of the people to express themselves concerning the eventual outcome of this case and its conceivable ramifications. There is everywhere an air of watchful waiting. And as a rule the waiting is patient and in content, because there is a very definite confidence that whatever is true about this affair will eventually be brought out by the inexorable state attorney for Hartford County, Hugh M. Alcorn. There is a very general faith that this aloof and sometimes rather bitter prosecutor is going to lay bare the whole extent of the Watkins conspiracy before he has done with it, and that the developments will come with remorseless disregard for the political or social credit of anybody in any way involved in the tangle.

It is this complete confidence in the purposes of the able prosecutor in this case which makes the public so willing to wait for the completion of the picture before passing judgment on any of its aspects. The common attitude is: "Whatever happened, Alcorn will show it up; we'll all know about it."

If there is nothing further to the Watkins fraud case, after the disposition of the present Egan trial, then the people of the state will be pretty well satisfied that there is no cause for further inquiries or further trials. That would not be altogether true if the business were in the hands of a less capable, less determined or even less ruthless prosecutor than Mr. Alcorn.

WELL DONE

The membership of the South Methodist Episcopal church is to be congratulated on the outcome of the short, lively little war it carried on over the week-end for the retention of its pastor, Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, the transfer of whom to another field was threatened by the ill-considered action of the Southern New England Conference.

Especially are the people of the South Methodist church to be congratulated on the spirited and effective fight that they made against the displacement of their leader. While organization may be as necessary in religion as in any of the other large processes of civilization, and while submission to constituted authority is recognizable as a primary element of organization, it is always vital that the rights of the governed shall be observed; and to be sure that they always will be observed it is essential that the governed shall at all times be watchful and on guard and shall be willing, if need be, to do battle against unjust and unreasonable control.

For want of courage and a proper spirit of militancy the South Methodist might easily have suffered an irreparable loss—for the withdrawal of this particular pastor at this particular time would have been a sad blow to the church. All Manchester will applaud the quick determination and vigorous action of its Methodist friends at the south end.

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE

Soldiers of fortune have been in all wars since the beginning of time. Some of them have been vastly lauded. But after all the man who kills his fellow men for the sport of it, or for a price, is a very different sort of a soldier from the one who fights for love of his own land.

Press reports say that many if not most of the war aviators participating in the Mexican slaughter on both sides are Americans. To our way of thinking these young men might be in better business. There probably isn't one of them who, at heart, gives a hoot for the cause in which he is making war. The American federal flier who drops a bomb on a rebel camp, knowing that it will tear human beings to pieces, or the American rebel aviator who bombs a border town, taking a chance of killing some of his fellow countrymen on the American side, is engaged in a work of paid assassination, and that's about as good a face as you can put on it.

United States army planes have been assembled on the border, it is announced, with orders to shoot down all rebel planes seen flying over American territory. If any are shot down and their occupants are found to have been Americans, there will be tears shed for them in their native land.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

SELF-RELIANCE

An original thinker is a rare individual. He may sometimes be mistaken in his opinion, but he usually can create a place for himself in "Who's Who."

To achieve greatness, a man must first learn to think along original lines. He must develop self-reliance. Every really successful man or woman has learned this art early in life. The man who is weak and wavering in his thinking and in his method of handling the problems of life rarely enjoys more than a mediocre success.

If you would give your child a good start in life, teach your child to decide problems for itself—to act on its own initiative whenever possible. You can give your child no greater handicap than that of pampered attention while he is still young.

Every individual who has accomplished something in this world has had problems to solve in his early youth. Would you expect the physical muscles of your child to develop if you forbade him to crawl or walk? Why, then expect his mental strength to develop if you do not permit the child to do its own thinking? Mental exercise is certainly as important as physical gymnastics.

Children want reasons for doing things, and when a child asks a question, it should be given a reasonable and truthful answer. Of course, the child requires a guiding hand from someone who has had more experience, but nevertheless, the child should be allowed to make its own decisions whenever possible.

Many parents make the mistake of saying, "Well, I don't want my child to go through the difficulties I had when I was young, and I am going to give him every opportunity. I am going to make life easy for him." The danger of this policy is that it may lead to a spoiled and pampered child—a child which will grow up into an impossible adult, unable to function amidst the harsh realities of the world.

People who are handicapped by too much parental guidance in youth usually become too dependent upon others as they grow older and unable to rely on themselves. In deciding the many problems of everyday life, they surround themselves with an imaginary world of their own liking. They are timid and often useless. They may, however, endeavor to overcome this handicap that they rebel against parental authority and, in fact, authority of any kind, and become extremists in their endeavors to make themselves believe that they are different.

Do not depend upon others to do your thinking for you. Secure their advice, yes, but decide for yourself. Be self-reliant, and you will be strengthened in all of your endeavors.

Questions and Answers

Acne

Question: Mrs. N. R. writes "Am greatly pleased with the results from using your diet for acne. The hard lumps have almost entirely disappeared, and the face is clearer and smoother now. However, purplish marks or scars from the lumps remain. Will they gradually disappear, or is there any treatment I could use for them?"

Answer: I am pleased to know that you have obtained such good results in overcoming your trouble with acne. The purplish marks are liable to remain for some time—until the congestion has entirely cleared up. A treatment with hot and cold wet applications should be of assistance and if this does not entirely overcome the trouble, these spots should be treated with the ultra violet or actinic light.

Hominy

Question: R. H. K. writes: "Kindly give me your opinion of hominy. May it be combined with any food, and how may it be served?"

Answer: Hominy is a very wholesome starchy food, but should not be combined with acids at a meal. The best method of preparing it is to soak it in water for several hours. Then rinse it two or three times in hot water to remove any traces of lye or other irritating materials used in its preparation. It should then be slowly boiled for about a half an hour and seasoned with butter or cream only.

Varicose

Question: H. J. E. writes: "I would like to know if you have a diet which would help me overcome a bad case of varicose. I have been operated on but am still bothered with it."

Answer: I am sending you an article on varicose veins which outlines an ice treatment that would be very beneficial in your case of varicose. It would also be well for you to follow a body-cleansing regime through fasting and dieting, and take cold sitz baths for about five or ten minutes before retiring each night.

Motor vehicle registration in the Bay State has shown an average increase of 7 per cent over a considerable period of years, excepting two years ago, when a slight decrease was noted, it was said.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—The man who longs to "get back to nature" but fears that the paved highway, the automobile and the hot dog stand and tourist camp have just about wiped nature in its primitive form off the map of the United States, can stop worrying. The great outdoors is still extensive—untamed and wild as it was in the days of the pioneers.

This is revealed by Arthur Newton Pack, president of the American Nature Association and associate editor of Nature Magazine. Mr. Pack, who probably knows more about this particular subject than any other man in America, points out that anyone who yearns to get out into the wilderness where he will neither see nor hear anything that reminds him of civilization can easily gratify his wish.

"Some outdoor enthusiasts," he explains, "got excited recently over the invasion of forest areas by highways and summer resorts, so the Forest Service undertook a study to determine just how much of the areas of the national forests could still be classed as wilderness."

Much Untamed Forest

"Results showed approximately one-third of the gross acreage of the national forests is still sufficiently untamed to come under that class, and there are large areas which are in no immediate danger of the encroachment of gasoline fumes, bathtubs and other marks of civilization."

"The Forest Service adopted the widest possible margin of safety, to minimize the possibility that some person might lay a finger on a part of the map classed as wilderness and assert that he had driven his automobile to that point. The minimum size of a real 'wilderness' area was taken as comprising 10 townships, 360 square miles, or 230,000 acres. It was determined that at present there are 74 areas, ranging from 360 to 10,859 square miles in extent, which so far can be determined, are without roads."

"Thus there is still an abundance of space in this country which a nature lover can only reach afoot or on horseback. Even the work of automobile roads reaches, it does not go everywhere. And Mr. Pack goes on:

"This all refers to the national forests, and they must not be confused with the national parks, which have their wild areas too; areas where there are no red and green traffic lights, where man's footprints are the only reminders of civilization, where birds and animals only wonder at your coming, and where it took you so long to discover the real way to live."

"I have made many trips into such regions, and all my shooting has been done with a camera. Once you get attuned to the call of the bird and the song of the waterfall, you will not shoot with anything else."

"Everyone who has heard these calls is, of course, strong for more open spaces. The population growth of the nation demands them. Try to take Wild Park out of Cleveland, Forest Park out of St. Louis, Fairmount Park out of Philadelphia, Rock Creek Park out of Washington or Central Park out of New York—it would be the quickest way I can think of to start a riot. Then think how much more the great open spaces are going to mean to this ever-growing nation."

"Experts tell us that our population is growing at the rate of a million a year. That means a population of 150,000,000 by 1950 and 200,000,000 by the year 2000. As things go that date is not so far away. The best time to acquire these national play places, then, is right now, because this greatest cash business in the world is constantly growing."

Mr. Pack likes to refer to nature as "the greatest cash business in the world." He'll demonstrate for you that it deserves the title, too.

Fifteen Million Fishers

For instance: last year 15,000,000 fishing licenses were sold in this country. That means a sizeable sum was spent merely for official fees. But that doesn't begin to cover the total spent on fishing. Each of these 15,000,000 fishermen spent something for his pole and tackle. Most of them spent a good bit on other equipment. Many of them spent fancy sums to travel to and from the places where they intended to fish. All in all, fishing for sport caused the spending of a good many millions of dollars.

Yet that is only a small subdivision of the general subject. Golf comes under the heading of outdoor recreation—and if you'll stop to figure on the money spent on golf in this country last year, you'll agree that the total is growing. Then add the money spent on camping, touring, hunting and so on—and it's easy to understand Mr. Pack's insistence.

WAPPING

The Friendly Indians or Junior Y. M. C. A. held their meeting at their club room with their leader, Rev. Harry B. Miner, on Thursday afternoon.

The Federated Workers held their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon at the parsonage, with an attendance of about 24. During the afternoon they gave Mrs. Miner a miscellaneous shower. She received many beautiful presents of pyrex, glass dishes and linen. Refreshments were also served.

The monthly meeting of the Federated Sunday School Board was held on Thursday evening at the church vestry when the Sunday school social for the month of April was planned for. It was decided to hold the social on Friday evening, April 19, at the parish house.

Miss Kate M. Withers' class is to provide for the refreshments and Rev. Harry B. Miner's Y. M. C. A. boys are to provide the games. It was also voted to send $20.00 to the Sunday School County and State association.

Miss Ellen J. Foster and Robert Sharp were selected to attend the Connecticut summer school of Religious Education which will be held at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs from August 13 to Aug. 24.

Following the board meeting at 7:30 o'clock the teacher training class was held with Miss Edith F. Welker, director of the religious education in the Hartford County Council in charge of the story telling class, and Rev. Harry Miner the religious training class.

Mrs. Gertrude E. Hollister of Marble street, Manchester, celebrated her 87th birthday by having a shower of post cards, on Friday, March 5. Mrs. Hollister was formerly from this town.

Harry Bekrup is confined to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Hills and family motored to Willimantic on Friday and spent the day with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hills.

Mrs. C. Allen of Hartford, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lane of Pleasant Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pierce entertained their parents at their new home recently.

Mrs. Henry Gay has been quite ill at her home for the past three weeks. Mrs. Gay was before her marriage, Miss Edna Stevens of Wapping.

Frank Stevens, who makes his home with his daughter, has been very ill but is improving slowly at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin C. Bolles and daughter Jeanne of Ellington street, spent the week-end in Springfield, Mass. Saturday. They called on friends in Broad Brook on their return trip also.

Mr. and Mrs. George West, Mrs. Margarette Pulford and son Ralph, and Arthur Sweeney motored to Mineola, R. I., where they spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Pauline Ratray. Mr. West remained there for a longer stay, to recuperate after his long illness.

The five persons who were placed in the receiving vault, during the winter, have been buried in the Wapping cemetery recently. They were Mrs. Anna Brad Snyder, Mrs. Ellen Hooper, Mrs. Ida Clarke, Mrs. Sarah Loomis and Miss Eva Heritage.

Fred Chapman and son William of Pleasant Valley visited relatives and friends in Marlborough recently.

Wapping Grange will hold its seventh regular grange meeting tomorrow evening, April 9, which will be their 44th anniversary, and it will be in charge of the past masters: Franklin Welles, chairman; Edward P. Collins, James M. Preston, Mrs. Mary Hills, Levi T. Dewey, Walter N. Foster and Lucius V. Platt.

VERMONT DENIED.

On April 8, 1777, Vermont attempted to join the American colonies as the 14th state, but its petition was denied.

Few states have had a lengthier or more colorful struggle for recognition than this rocky pioneer, Vermont. Originally, the territory was claimed by New York, but on Jan. 15, 1777, the settlers in the land met in formal convention and declared their independence. It was New York's opposition to the recognition of Vermont as a separate state which influenced Congress against it. New York was already a powerful member of the Colonial group and Vermont represented only a handful of earnest pioneers who wanted to go beyond the original Colonial plan in their search for liberty.

The incident is significant because it shows that at this early date there were two groups of colonists. One who wanted only independence from Great Britain and a group which was looking for independence from one of the colonies themselves.

Vermont was not admitted to the Union until 14 years after its original request, and until after it had been forced to threaten an alliance with Great Britain.

FAMOUS CIRCUS RIDER IS DEAD AT AGE OF 50

Denver—Martin K. Hines, at one time declared by the late President Woodrow Wilson as the best equestrian in the United States, died here recently, at the age of 50 years.

Hines was a veteran of the Spanish-American war. After his release from the cavalry, he became associated with Barnum & Bailey circus for whom he performed many sensational feats with his horses. Hines retired from the circus in 1920.

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 8.—Just a couple of tales today to show you that "life is like that."

The other night they were staging a party on the Ile de France for Joan Lowell, the newest literary figure. She had, a few hours before, signed up with D. Griffith for the picture rights on her "The Cradle of the Deep." The price was $75,000. And all about the newspaper camera men were banging their flashlights.

"Now I ask you," she said, as we paced the deck under a diffused moon. "Can you beat it? Just a couple of years ago I was hearing a trail around Hollywood trying to get a job as an extra. I was the same person I am today, and yet they gave me the air. Finally I got a small bit with Charlie Chaplin, but became discouraged and left. Today they toss a fortune in my face just for the rights to put on the picture and they tell me I have to star in it. We haven't even talked about what my salary will be, but it will doubtless be plenty. It certainly is a cock-eyed world."
With which I heartily agreed.

A few hours before I had lunched with Edwina Booth, a tall and lovely blond who hailed from Provo, Utah. Edwina had been selected from a small mob of Hollywoodites for the part of the "goddess" in "Trader Horn." She was on her way to Africa to make the film. Anyone who knows anything about pictures is well aware that this is the chance of a lifetime for an unknown. Whoever might have been chosen for the part would be certain of fame a year or so hence.

"But it's the way I got the part that stops me," began Edwina. "It goes to prove that when you speak out of turn they at least won't forget you."

"I had been working most of the night on retakes of a picture in which I had a small bit, and I was terribly tired. I had gone home to Pasadena and was just falling asleep when, about 7 o'clock in the morning, the phone rang. It was the studio. They asked me to come out. I said I couldn't; that I was too exhausted. But, said the voice, it was a great chance. I went out.

"Well, when I got there, I found it was merely a press agent stunt they wanted me for. I was to line up with 14 other girls and be photographed as one of the crowd seeking the Trader Horn part. I was so darn mad that I all but wrecked the place. I waited until made a great scene. I must have the photo was made and then out I walked.

"It seems that about a week later they had exhausted most of the possibilities and couldn't find anyone for the part. The casting directors threw up their hands. Director Van Dyke got the report and, naturally, was annoyed.

"Say," he told them, "Have you called in that girl who raised so much h— around here the other day? They hadn't. So I was called. And I got the job. He had singled me out because my fit of bad temper had made an impression.

"Now I ask you... isn't this a crazy world? As long as I was a nice, well-tempered person, I went around playing small parts. Then I throw a tantrum and land a starring role. Is there any sense to things?"

I agreed that there wasn't. But, as I commented in the opening paragraph... "life is like that." Or is it?

HEBRON

The League of Women Voters held its monthly meeting at the Christian Endeavor Rooms at Hebron Center on Wednesday. Mrs. Elton W. Buell was the leader. The main topic was "Efficiency in Government." The "Lame Duck" session of Congress and proposals for a change; also "Federal Aid in Relation to Connecticut" were questions discussed.

Frank Holbrook, aged 78, was stricken with apoplexy a day or two ago. His condition is reported as critical.

The Rev. T. D. Martin, rector emeritus, officiated at the morning service at St. Peter's church on Sunday, April 7. There was a celebration of the Holy Communion and Sunday school. Service began at 10:30, Sunday school at 11:45.

The weekly meeting of the Bible class was held at the home of Mrs. Della Porter Thursday evening. The study of the book of Habakkuk was continued.

The Rev. George L. Barnes rector of St. Andrew's church, Meriden, and his family, were visitors at St. Peter's rectory on Thursday. The Rev. Frank L. Benfield of Norwich, New York, is expected to officiate at St. Peter's church on Sunday, April 14.

With the favorable report of the committee on roads, rivers, and bridges of the general assembly, the prospect of a trunk line from Gilead to Manchester begins to look bright. The proposed highway will be of much advantage to Hebron and Gilead people, especially to fruit growers in the northern part of Gilead and to the farmers of that place, furnishing a shorter route to Manchester and Hartford. It will also give a better route for tourists from those points to Norwich and New London.

A thunderstorm with considerable rain occurred shortly after midnight Saturday morning.

Quite a number of people from this vicinity attended the auction of household goods and antiques at the Clark place in Marlborough just beyond the Hebron line, on Friday. The attendance was large, people coming from many different parts of the state.

Mrs. Anne C. Gilbert and her daughter, Miss Helen, spent the week end at the "Mayflower" Inn, Washington.

It is understood that the American Legion members are looking about for a place they can buy and put into shape for use as a club house. They have one or two places in view as possibilities.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Stack of Brooklyn, N. Y., spent part of Easter and remained for the week end as the guests of Mrs. Stack's mother, Mrs. John Hilding. Mrs. Hilding, who has been in a declining state of health for a long period of time, is gradually failing.

Donald, the young son of Lucius W. Robinson of Columbia, is staying for the present with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lord.

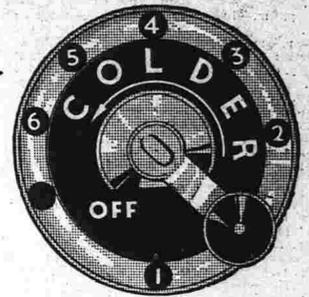

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. H. Sterry and their infant daughter returned from a short visit in Ridgefield with Mrs. Sterry's parents. Mr. Sterry continued his work with Americanization teaching at the night school in Columbia through vacation week. Schools here opened on Monday.

ALASKA FINDS PLANES USEFUL FOR TRANSPORT

Chicago—Alaska, one-fifth the size of the United States and with less than a thousand miles of railroad, finds the airplane its most useful form of transportation, according to the American Air Transport Association. The government is using the airplane for exploration work by men of the Department of the Interior. By using airplanes the Department was able to put men on the job two weeks earlier than by the old points, reduce the size of the pack train and reduce survey work to days which ordinarily would require months when cruising is done on foot. Last year's explorations included, among other things, discovery of a large river, numerous lakes, uncharted glaciers, and an active volcano.

LAST OF HORSE SHEDS AT SOUTH END PASS

Those at St. James's Church Being Moved to Bissell St., to Become a Garage.

Pedestrians and motorists rubbed their eyes when they saw something vast, queer but strangely familiar moving through south end streets this morning—something that was like a house but yet not a house, though it had a roof. The huge object filled most of Bissell street, when it turned into that thoroughfare, and west bound traffic was out of luck for a while. Whatever the thing was, it was on wheels and was towed by a big truck. By and by onlookers remembered where they had seen that structure before. It was part of the horse-shed that for thirty-five years or so stood, until today, on St. James street, in the rear of St. James' church. Those sheds today were being cut into six sections, to be converted into a garage on Bissell street. John T. Hayes was cutting up the sheds and Hudson W. Hollister was doing the moving. The job is expected to be completed tomorrow. These are the last of the old time church horse-sheds to disappear from the south end. At the north end, horse-sheds still stand behind the Congregational and Methodist churches, but are seldom if ever used. Those at St. James' were built for good many years after the completion of the church and were very spiffy horse-sheds indeed, since there were a lot of separate compartments with gates and locks and keys, which were engaged by the year by parishioners. Parts of the sheds have been used as garages in recent years.

The Menu is as follows: baked beans and brown bread, boiled ham, salads, rolls, pickles, coffee and pie.

BADLY CUT BY OWN SPIKE IN POLE VAULT

Fred Marks, High School Sophomore, Gets Unusual Injury While Practising.

Fred Marks of 216 School street may be lost to the High school track team for the entire season as a result of an unusual accident with which he met while training. Marks, who is a good prospect in the half-mile, was practicing pole vaulting. After clearing the bar, his left foot reached the ground first and the right one instead of hitting the ground, struck the side of the other foot, the spike shoe inflicting a bad cut. The muscles were badly torn and took four stitches to mend them, beside the stitches closing the cut. Marks, who was 17 years old yesterday, will not be able to return to High school, where he is a sophomore, for some time.

RICE JURY DRAWN

Willimantic, April 8—A jury panel of 100 names was drawn today by Curtis Dean, clerk of the Superior Court, to sit in the April term that will be opened here tomorrow and adjourned for one week. Thomas Mazzola, charged with murdering his wife's mother, and Tregor Rice, charged with murdering William E. Jackson, are scheduled to be tried during the term, but which one will be called first has not been announced. Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin is to preside over the term.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Katherine Bosson is chairman of the large card party which the teachers of the Porter street school, assisted by the parents will give in the assembly hall of the new building tomorrow evening. Playing will begin at 8 o'clock and there will be three sections, bridge, setback and straight whist with 12 prizes in all and refreshments. The proceeds will be used for the school picture fund. Mrs. Julia Sheridan of Park street who entered St. Francis hospital last week underwent a major operation Friday. Her many Manchester friends will be glad to know she is making favorable progress. The Lindy Social club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murphy, 72 Birch street tomorrow evening. Cards and other games will follow the business and the ladies are requested to provide refreshments. Claus Anderson of Maple street, whose left leg was severely burned when a vat boiled over in the Old Mill of Cheney Brothers plant nearly a month ago, is slowly recuperating at his home. A benefit moving picture performance under the auspices of the senior class of the High school will be held Wednesday evening at the State theater. The feature picture is John Barrymore in "The Temptation" with Buster Keaton in "Spite Marriage" as the co-feature. The proceeds will go to the Washington Trip fund. Miss Antoinette Jarvis of Center street, Walter Cooley of Oak Grove street and Miss Bertha Kupfer-schmidt of Rockville entered the Connecticut Business college on April 1. A one-act play entitled, "Marrying Money" will be given by the F. M. S. club on Saturday evening, April 13 at Orange hall, under the auspices of the Svea Hall association. Setback will be played after the entertainment and refreshments served.

MANCHESTER MEN SAVE EIGHT IN HARTFORD FIRE

See House Ablaze, Break in and Rescue Inmates Who Were Fast Asleep.

Three alert Manchester men prevented what might have been a catastrophe early Saturday morning when they rescued eight persons, all sound asleep, from a burning house in Hartford. Three of the persons in the house were children. Although the house, located at Meadow and Village streets off the Connecticut boulevard opposite the Velodrome, is in a comparatively thickly settled community, no one had noticed the fire, which had already gained considerable progress when the three Manchester men, William F. Sperber, Clifford E. Joyce and George E. Truman, made their discovery. The fire was raging in the attic. Flames were pouring out of all sides of the attic when Sperber turned in the alarm. Three young women who were being taken to the homes in Hartford by the Manchester men ran doorbells, striving to arouse the neighbors, and Truman and Joyce tried to wake up the people in the house. Failing to get a response, Sperber broke a front window to gain admittance, cutting his wrist slightly. Truman and Joyce succeeded in taking the men long to arouse the occupants once they were inside. Three babies sleeping in one of the rooms on the first floor were carried out of the house, in much the same fashion as a double play is made in baseball—Sperber, Joyce and Truman. With the babies safe, the rescuers rushed upstairs and found three men sound asleep. The fire had eaten its way into one of the bedrooms. After everyone in the house had left, the Manchester men assisted in removing the furniture and practically all of it had been taken out of the house before the fire apparatus arrived. Then, to make matters worse, the water pressure was low and the firemen were unable to combat the fire which had been allowed such a big headway. As a result, the house was almost totally destroyed.

NOTED PASTOR RESIGNS TO BECOME EVANGELIST

Boston, April 8—A new independent evangelist, unlike Billy Sunday, Gypsy Smith and some of the others, will make his "debut" in Denver, Col., in June. He is Rev. Dr. Jasper C. Massees, who has resigned his pastorate of Tremont Temple, to "swing around the circle" of America. Using few gestures and no theatricals but sending home his message in a clear, pleasant voice, Dr. Massees does not desire to talk to large audiences. "Twenty thousand people is too big an aggregation; you can't touch them," summarizes the views of this tall clergyman of impressive personality. He will work with small groups and single churches. Although Dr. Massees will not be officially separated from Tremont Temple until July 15, it was learned today that he has been invited to conduct a two weeks' evangelistic campaign in Denver just prior to the annual session of the Northern Baptist convention. The Massees evangelistic campaign in Denver will precede this convention and cover its first day, under the joint auspices of the convention, the Colorado State Baptist convention and the five churches of Denver.

NOTICE!

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Monday, April 8. Down in New York, Detroit is famous for two things. First, it is the town from which the automobiles come. Second, it is the burg that produced George Olsen, king of the marionette to Broadway for his marionette in "Kid Boots." Whoopee! It is good news therefore, that George Olsen and his merry-makers are to be the headlines in the family party broadcast by WEAF and associated stations tonight. Assisting Olsen and his merrymakers will be a male trio. The program will consist of feature music presenting the light and gaily joyous atmosphere of spring. Henry Burble, humorist, will present a burlesque "When Nero Played the Ukulele" during the entertainment to be broadcast over the Columbia system at 8:30. Included in this hour will be selections by the Courtiers orchestra and quartet in which they will express their satisfaction with life by singing "I'll Never Ask For More" and "That's What I Call Heaven." The warmly brilliant Russian orchestra, assisted in the music of Kremlina Echoes, directed by Paul Oudizky, that may be tuned in from WJZ chain station at 10. Gretcheninoff's "On the Gay Street" and the choir songs from Tchaikowsky's seldom-heard opera "Eugen Onegin," will be interpreted by a native Russian choir. TIME TO START DIGGING

Nature Head Tells Hows to Begin Spring Gardening Work

By ARTHUR N. PACK,
President, American Nature Association.

Written Especially for NEA Service and The Herald.

April showers may help bring May flowers, but not without some real work in the garden. The water April provides must get into the ground and the way to get it there is to dig.

With frost gone, dahlias, primulas, gladioli and roses can be set out. Roses must be pruned, not extensively but just enough to cut back to new growth. If planting seeds use moss to cover them, as it will keep the moisture, or if planting very fine seeds mix them with dry sand to spread them around.

Separate the clumps in planting dahlias after the eyes or buds have begun to push through the base of the stalk or head—but be certain at least one eye goes with each cutting. The cut surfaces should dry several hours before planting, then should be placed in holes 12 to 18 inches deep, refilled to within six inches of surface.

Do not use fertilizer at this time. Here the tuber is laid flat, eye side up, and covered loosely. Water only moderately, but fairly consistently.

Planting Roses.
Do not plant roses too near trees, heavy shrubs or hedges and be certain that they have good drainage. Dig your bed to a depth of three feet, place a 12-inch layer of stones in the bottom, cover these with inverted sods and then refill with well rotted cow manure. Get cuttings or grafts from reliable houses for your best varieties. Plant grafts deeper than own-rooted plants.

To fight off the enemies of the rose, the midew, black spot, caterpillars and aphids, a commercial preparation of sulphur, arsenate of lead and nicotine is applied by the most reputable seed houses. The most rapidly spreading brown canker can be best warded off by spraying with Bordeaux carbonate and by cutting all affected branches about an inch below the blotch. Rose bugs can be battled with a liquid spray supplied by seed houses, or by picking the bugs off and dropping them in kerosene.

As to dahlias from seed, plant in boxes three inches deep in rows about an inch and half apart and cover not more than half an inch deep. Sprouts should appear in a few days or a week. When they are three or four inches high, pot them and leave them in a cool place until April is well along before transplanting out of doors.

Um-m Strawberries!
If the frost is gone plan your strawberries, raspberries and asparagus. Asparagus needs a rich ground and plants very satisfactorily in a bed five feet wide in rows six inches apart. The crowns should spread out. Do not plant too deep.

Strawberries should be three feet apart. Pinch off most of the runners. As for raspberries, loose soils are best, while partial shade does not hinder. You can use them for screening a corner of the garage. Space two or three feet apart in rows six or seven feet apart.

Do not worry if you see birds coming around your fruit crop when it is getting ripe. Often they are after the cut-worms and grubs. Even if they take a berry or two they repay you for them.

Water Lilies.
You will, of course, want a small water pool with water lilies in it. Plant in water from one to two feet, in a basket if the bottom is gravelly, or in the soil itself if rich, anchoring with a stone if necessary. At least one cubic foot of soil should be allowed for each plant, the best mixture being three parts of fibrous loam with one part well rotted cow manure. Swamp muck should not be used.

Set with the crown of the plant even with the surface of the soil, then cover with an inch of sand to keep the water clean. As lilies bloom about two weeks after planting, they will help you work hard on later flowers. Young fish, either minnows or gold fish, will solve the mosquito problem.

Now is the time for canary breeding. Place material for nest building where the birds can get at it. Store the eggs in bran until they are enough for a setting. Just before the eggs are hatched, dust with insect powder. Young birds are fond of hard boiled eggs crushed very fine and mixed with wheat bread. As for their general care, write to me for Bulletin 39, "How to Care for Your Canary Pets," care of the American Nature Association, Washington, D. C.

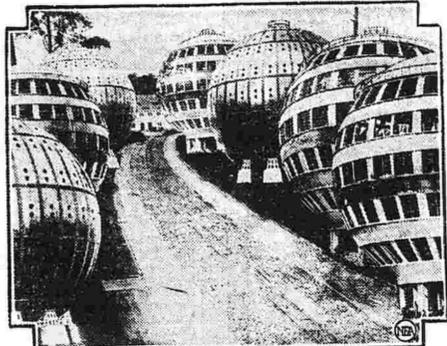

SEARCHLIGHT TO ALL LOST SKIFFERS, FLASHING EVERY TWO SECONDS

Hirschberg, Silesia—Every year brings so many cases of skiers who lose their way in the Riesengebirge, with attendant fatalities, that a regulation highhouse searchlight has been installed on the roof of a mountain shelter-house in the mountains.

It flashes every two seconds, and can be seen at a great distance, serving as a guide in fog and darkness. Other winter sport districts in Germany are contemplating erecting similar light beacons.

German Homes Are Balled Up

It looks like German householders may get balled up trying to find their own homes. Because ball-shaped houses are the latest mode in architecture over there, and here you see how an avenue lined with the strange structures will look. They are said to allow for much more fresh air and sunlight than ordinary houses and are being built on a large scale in Germany.

BRUNDAGE SEEKS ADVICE ON A. A. U.

Chicago, April 8.—Questionnaires seeking opinions on proposed drastic reforms within the National Amateur Athletic Union were in the mails today, addressed to all governing officials of amateur organizations. The blanks, containing 66 questions, were sent out from the office of Avery Brundage, president of the N. A. A. U.

Admitting there is an urgent need of modernizing the forty-year-old constitution, to cope with present-day conditions, Brundage seeks the advice of his colleagues on the following recommendations:

1. Consumption of close harmony between the A. A. U. and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.
2. Formation of a high judiciary commission of five or more men to be supreme in all matters of amateur eligibility, the commission to function for amateur athletics as Judge Landis does for baseball.
3. Creation of a better understanding and keener appreciation of the A. A. U. by the public.
4. Recognition of the A. A. U. by kindred organizations as the governing body in all amateur athletic competition, excepting that which is strictly collegiate.
5. Clarification of the dividing line between professionalism and amateurism, the uncertainty of which has shaken the public faith in the A. A. U. in the past.

MUNICH WILL STAGE SUMMER MUSIC FESTIVAL

Munich—The annual Wagner and Mozart festival plays, which have proved such a great attraction in past years, will be held next summer from July 23 to August 31. The first performance on July 23 will bring Wagner's "Meistersinger" in the Prinz Regent Theater and "The Marriage of Figaro" will follow on July 24 at the Residenz theater.

Richard Strauss has promised to conduct some of the operas. They will be presented by the Bavarian State theater under the direction of Hans Knappertsbusch, the general music director.

HANDSOME MEN AND WOMEN SOUGHT FOR PARLIAMENT SEATS

London.—The chief agents and organizers of the three political parties—Conservative, Liberal and Socialist—have come to the conclusion that good looks and sartorial presentability will play a big part in the next election, for the main and simple reason that the women of England now have the vote.

Other things being equal, the handsome Parliamentarian candidate with a charm of manner will be selected against the man who is not so well favored with good looks. The fact that official word to this effect has been passed around in the ballrooms of all three parties is proof of the importance which is attached to the women's vote. Elderly candidates will not be discarded entirely, but the general average will be much younger than ever before and, if possible, much more handsome.

The ideal candidate, according to a prominent politician, is as follows:

"The best kind of candidate from the 'appeal' point of view is a fine, upstanding man of about thirty-five. Too rosy and inexperienced an appearance is not exactly a recommendation."

"Voice is of immense importance. The candidate with the right kind of voice, with real sincerity and a plea in it, can win more votes from the women than the merely good-looking men."

Political observers feel that the Liberal average of good looks will beat the Conservative, while the Socialist apparently have few "Adonises" in their ranks. The latter party, it is understood, plans to appeal strongly to the women by launching a number of youthful women candidates, who will be distinguished by their fashionable dress and attractive appearance.

RICH GIRL POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

"I'm sorry you did that," Mildred said quietly, and Stephen had a sense enough to know she meant it.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE, stenographer at the Judson Hotel, has her fox fur snatched from her in a crowd, but STEPHEN ARMITAGE catches the thief and returns the scarf. He asks to take her home. Not wishing to seem ungrateful, she invites him to dinner.

Her evening is spoiled when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, phones her to return to the hotel. Stephen escorts her to the hotel where Pamela recognizes him as the salesman who had sold her a car. She snubs Mildred and tries to lure Stephen away by pretending she wants to buy another car.

Then Pamela meets HUCK CONNOR, who becomes infatuated with her, and she amuses herself with playing with both men. When Stephen favors Mildred the manager asks her to be careful or Pamela will have her discharged. But this may not be so easy as her brother, HAROLD, is in love with Mildred. He is rather a weakling and Mildred warns him against gambling with Huck's crowd and permits him to call at her home in order to keep him from them. While he was there Stephen phoned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

Stephen had experienced a definite reaction in regard to Mildred. Rather tolerantly regretful at first of what appeared to be the end of their blossoming friendship, he found after a night of sleeping on it that he did not want to let her go.

Of course it wasn't serious, the way he felt about her. No more serious than was his feeling for Pamela. Mildred wasn't so amusing as Pamela, either. He didn't quite know why he was attracted to her. She was just a nice girl, while Pamela . . . well, Pamela kept a fellow guessing. You never knew what she would do next. It was exciting.

But a fellow didn't want excitement all the time. It was restful being with Mildred. He "guessed" he'd better see her again and fix things up.

And then, when Mildred had evaded him, he grew determined to see her.

She couldn't put him off, either, although she told him she felt like seeing anyone that night. Stephen was insistent.

"Oh, all right," Mildred gave in. "If you want to."

She thought her indifference might cause him to change his mind. She hoped he would stay away. At least she told herself she did, but her eyes already had grown brighter and the weariness that had lain like a film over her sensitive features was gone when she returned to the living room. In its place was a look of triumph that brought a scowl to Harold's visage.

"Who was that? Jack Gil-her?" he said sarcastically. "Look out or you'll meet before he gets here."

Mildred went over to see if she could get more volume out of the radio.

"No one in particular, jealous," she said lightly, but the overtones of her voice were joyous in spite of her effort to keep it level.

"I'm that case I suppose you won't leave that devilish invention in the next five minutes and rush off to change your dress while I sit here and twiddle my thumbs," Harold mocked.

Mildred turned with well-feigned surprise. "Why, how did you guess I'm just roasting to death in this jersey?" she asked innocently.

"I'm good at guessing," Harold told her. "But I don't have to guess now. You ought to learn to play poker, Mildred. Your face is as open as a deck of marked cards."

that for me," he burst out passionately. He had buried his face in her hair and Mildred heard him sob. "Oh, don't, don't," she cried, and put her arms around his neck.

They stood there, like that, quietly, for a long moment. Then Harold lifted his face and smiled. The smile tore at Mildred's heart.

"Love's a damn fool thing," Harold said bitterly.

Mildred looked at him steadily and her eyes grew misty with tender sympathy. "I've an idea it might be very sweet," she said softly. "But I guess you and I won't find that out, Harold. We aren't lucky."

Harold uttered a harsh laugh. "What are you worrying about?" he jibed. "You burst out like a midsummer garden or roses just because some guy telephones that he's coming up. Well, what do you suppose he's coming for? If you feel like that about him you've no need to worry over your luck."

"He's just coming because he lives in a hotel and misses his home," Mildred said, trying to deny both to Harold and to herself that Stephen's visit could have a portentous meaning.

"Don't you believe it!" Harold declared warmly. "It's you he's coming for. Who's going to waste his time on parlor atmosphere unless there's a girl in it that he wants?"

Mildred shook her head. "No, you're wrong, Harold," she said. "This is Stephen Armitage, and if you must know, I'm certainly not the girl in his young life."

Harold put his hands on her shoulders and held her firmly, though she had tried to move away. "If you mean Pamela," he said tensely, "don't let her worry you. She plays with every man she meets. She's even putting the spell on Huck Connor."

Mildred shook her head. "That's just it!" Harold retorted. "I should think that you, as her brother, would put a stop to her having anything to do with Mr. Connor. I tell you he isn't right!"

"You oughtn't to say that unless you know something against him," Harold objected. "He seems O. K. to me. Takes his drinks and his losses like a gentleman," as they used to say. Pretty decent sort with the girls, too. I watched Pamela work. She tried her darndest to make him start something, but he kept as cool as any man could."

"Oh, well . . ." Mildred despaired of convincing him that Huck was dangerous. He could have no conception of a man whose emotionalism was buried so deep that a pretty girl could not awaken it against his will, she realized.

"I suppose you'll like to ask me to go," Harold said as Mildred hesitated over warning him any further against Huck.

"Oh, no," she answered quickly, "please stay."

Harold scowled darkly. "What to play me against Armitage?" he asked suspiciously.

"Don't be so stupid," Mildred told him impatiently, hoping he wouldn't want to make an issue of the matter. She feared to have him go now, after the scene they'd been through, feared that his jealous, hopeless mood would lead him into dissipation. But she knew if he guessed what was on her mind he would go.

"I tell you Mr. Armitage is nothing more than a mere acquaintance to me," she said earnestly.

"Then you might have told him you were just starting for China or Bagdad."

Mildred smiled. "Having no serious designs upon either you or Mr. Armitage, I didn't see why we couldn't have a party," she said sweetly. "Get busy and see if you can't bring in something amusing on your set while I change, will you? That's a dear."

"Dear enemy from now on," Harold grumbled. "I still think I'm a sap to stay."

"A fine friend you would be to leave," Mildred called back from the door. "Ste . . . Mr. Armitage might meet you on the way out, but I think I'd cleared the deck for him."

"Wouldn't that be too devastating?" Harold jeered, but Mildred was gone. "A mere acquaintance!" A string of ha-ha's.

His sarcasm failed to ease the ache in his heart, however, and when Mildred came back, looking charming in the new dress she had bought to wear to the theater with Stephen, Harold cursed Stephen Armitage silently and fluently. Suddenly he knew that he couldn't stay and watch her being agreeable to him.

"I'm going to clear out," he said firmly.

Mildred vainly urged him to stay, but in her heart she knew she'd rather be alone with Stephen.

Still, she worried over Harold until Stephen rang the doorbell; then she completely forgot him. She opened the door herself, for her mother was busy with mending in her room. She did not resist. He expected anything then except what actually happened.

"I'm sorry you did that," Mildred said quietly, and Stephen had sense enough to know she meant it.

He had looked irresistible, and he had not resisted. He expected anything then except what actually happened.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

TYING KNOTS IN STRING IS POOR CURE FOR WARTS.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Some people believe that warts can be removed by tying as many knots in string as there are warts on the hands and then burying the string at midnight in the light of the moon.

There are as many charms and magical formulas for the removal of warts as there are different races and tribes of human beings. All of these charms are based on the fact that warts sometimes disappear without any treatment whatever, going away as mysteriously as they have come.

Cause Unknown: The exact cause of warts is not definitely known. Some people believe that they have their origin in a nerve stimulus to the skin, others that they are associated with the action of some special germ. All of the cures for warts that involve burying something at a distance or the reciting of charms of one sort or another are relics of the days when people believed in magic.

Among English country people warts are cured by touching them with stones, peas, rags and so on, and then burying the substance away or burying it at a crossroad where the chance of someone else picking up the disease is good.

Bacon Treatment: In Cheeshire, warts are rubbed with a piece of bacon and the bacon is then put under the bark of an ash tree. The villagers believe that the warts will appear as knobs on the tree.

Modern scientific medicine gets rid of warts either by destroying the blood supply through the use of the electric needle, after which the wart will fall off; by treating the wart with the X-ray, or by the application of strong acids which burn away the extra tissue.

Patriotism is just another version of a man's conviction that his radio set has yours beat a mile.

There is no propaganda that spreads as fast as hate. That is why wars are possible.

What do you think a child's attitude toward everything this side of paradise is going to be if he lives with a family of haters? Why, he is going to turn into a triple-X hater himself, before he is old enough to cut his own meat; the hate jinx will certainly get him if his parents don't watch out.

The other day a little boy came along the street with a butter-wouldn't-melt-in-his-mouth expression, his hands deep in his pockets. He drew near to a row of four houses exactly alike with porches in front and stone walks down to the street.

The second house from the corner had a newly scrubbed porch; also the walk, steps and pavement had had a face-washing. They were still dark and damp in the afternoon sun, the little cherub jerked a piece of chalk out of his pocket, and in an incredibly short time every flagstone looked like a chart in a bowling alley.

Then he shot around the block into his own house, the backyard of which adjoined the backyard of the house with the scrubbed pavement.

Talk Goes On: At noon that day, his mother and grandmother had had another talk-fact about the people across the way. And the whole thing was about the new automobile the neighbors had traded their old car for, the day before. His mother's eyes had glittered with spite as she talked.

That rivalry over automobiles began several years ago—only then it was not automobiles; baby buggies were the bone of contention. The trouble ran the gamut of radios, electric-washers, summer trips, husbands' jobs, and permanent waves.

But warfare had been confined to insinuations, sarcasm and a verbal fencing that had never actually broken out into open hostility.

Of course, the hatred in the two houses has inoculated the children too. They have drunk it with their milk and eaten it with their first mashed potato.

Try to figure out, if you can, the psychology of that little boy's behavior. It would take a book to hold it. The very sneaking hypocrisy of it is significant of the methods of his elders.

That's what hate does. It is the neatest invention of the devil for, like most things of the sort, it comes home to roost. The harm those families are doing is not to each other, but to their children.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

For over six months, Miss Nellis Vedder, a student in the University of Chicago, got meals three times a day, washed dishes three times a day, and did all the orthodox "redding up" while one assistant held a stop watch and another counted her movements, as she tried various methods.

When the six months were up she wrote a thesis about it, aimed to show that most, if not all housewives, since the day of Eve had wasted millions of yards of energy and time, all told, by their hit-and-miss methods in domestic duties.

Miss Vedder's thesis discussed three methods of table setting, dishwashing and general "redding up," the slowest method requiring 38 minutes, 8 seconds, and 1,954 motions for a day's worth of dishes in the average family of four, the fastest requiring only 22 minutes, 31 seconds, and 1,015 motions.

THE BETTER WAY: While the public has not as yet been taken into real confidence as to the difference in the methods, it is revealed that for the housewife who insists on "doing" the dishes after each meal, though the author implies that she really thinks the once-a-day method is most efficient, the preferable process is to have all the dishes passed at the end of the meal to mama, who scrapes them as she places them on a tea-tray at her right. They are then rolled into the kitchen, given a rapid cold rinse, washed under the tap in the hot water, placed in a wire drained with hot rinsing water poured over them, and thus steam-dried. Miss Vedder intimates that "wiping the dishes" is as archaic as making bread or sausage.

Now, harmless and innocent as this treatise seems, one can imagine no more brilliant scarlet flag wafted in the faces of womankind, for if there's one thing which the mass of women resent it's any other woman's intimation that she knows more about how housewife duties should be performed than does she.

I know a certain daughter who has struggled, really tactfully, for several years to convert her mother to the theory of a dish drainer as simpler and more sanitary than "drying" with a towel, and nothing in the bosom of the family precipitates such quarreling.

I know a mother-in-law who doesn't speak to her son-in-law because he essayed to tell her daughter that certain of her housekeeping methods handed on as traditions from her mother were all wrong, mostly because they were dissimilar from certain methods of his own mother.

WISE CRACKS DUE: Many raucous wise cracks will be made, too, at the idea of a scientific collegiate thesis on the subject of dishwashing. Queerly enough, as many wise cracks will be made by women who like to pretend that they are engaged in a serious and noble profession as by men who have an idea that domestic glumcrackery is nothing much than a sweet all-day sucker.

Meriden Main Objective On M. H. S. Track Slate

Each School Has Won Title Twice; Another Win Means Cup; Names of Candidates.

The main objective of the Manchester High school track team this season will be its dual meet with Meriden High which is tied with the locals for the C. C. I. L. silver loving trophy offered to the school winning the cup three times. Manchester and Meriden have each won the title twice and appear to be the strongest teams in the circuit this season. Consequently it is expected that one of the two teams will win the title and the trophy this season.

Manchester meets Meriden on May 10 in the Silver City. The local team opens its season on April 25 when Chapman Tech of New London comes to the West Side playgrounds here. May 6, the locals meet West Hartford on the latter's field and on May 13 take part in the state meet at Yale University in New Haven. May 26, Buckley High of New London comes here and on June 1 the league meet will be held at Wesleyan in Middletown. This is the meet which will decide the permanent possession of the trophy in case Manchester or Meriden win. The local team closes its season June 8 with Bristol High here. These seven meets comprise the Manchester schedule.

Coach Charles L. "Pete" Wigren has had a large squad at work for the past week. He has twelve veterans who placed last year back for the team. They are McCluskey, L. Cheney, Greenway, John McCaw, Johnson, Spencer, Murphey, L'Heureux, Scarlatto, Nicola, Robertson and R. Cheney. The tryouts for the Chapman Tech meet will be held the week of April 15, in other words, starting next Monday. The dates for the interclass meets were also announced today. The Freshmen and Sophomores meet May 15; the Juniors and Seniors on May 17 and the winners on May 23.

BIPPUS TOPS FIELD IN SATURDAY SHOOT

A good squad of gunners turned out Saturday afternoon and good scores were made by many men at the Manchester Rod and Gun shoot at the Bolton range. Novice shooters also made much progress and Manchester will soon have several good squads of shooters to represent her at Bristol this summer.

A five-man squad, all residing on Knox street shot a string to decide the championship of that street, and Dave Mullen was crowned. Dave broke 21 out of 25. With the advent of good weather more shooters are coming out each week.

COACHES IN FAVOR OF CHICAGO GAMES

Upset Dope to Beat Champs of Church League; Lead All the Way.

Chicago, Ill., April 8.—The members of the National Association of High School Basketball Coaches are in favor of a continuation of the national tournaments here as the result of the recent action of the National Federation of High School Athletic Association forbidding any of its thirty-one state members from participating after this year.

Forest C. Allen, University of Kansas coach and president of the Basketball Association, presented a resolution to name a research committee to test the effect of the different styles of play on the athletes.

In the list of boys who reported for the American Legion junior baseball meeting Friday night, the names of four were omitted. They are Chester Sendorowski and Harold Cuisello, catchers and John Hedlund and Roy Fraser, pitchers.

Vincent Ingraham, who works at the Manchester Trust company, joined the ranks of Frank Busch's Morning Marathoners today. Billy Sperber, well known business man at the Center, was scheduled to make his second jog over the course but was suffering from the after-effects of horseback riding. Francis Wilson, another of the troopers, believed that it pays to get up early in the morning. He picked up a dollar bill on his way to the Rec this morning. Tom Thowe tipped the scales at 203, a reduction of 22 pounds in four workouts which sort of speaks pretty good for the benefits of such training.

The weather yesterday was ideal for baseball and the lots were filled with groups of youngsters engaged in their favorite pastime. 'Twon't be long now before the season comes around.

But, speaking of baseball, wonder what is in store for Manchester fans. So far, word of the organization of only two teams has reached this office. They are Manchester Green and the Aces. Here's hoping the north end organizes a team to engage in the race for town honors.

Fans who tuned in on Station WLS at Chicago Saturday night heard the broadcast of the basketball game between Athens, Texas and Oklahoma City for the national high school title. Athens won 25 to 21.

The Collecting Company of the 118 Medical Regiment won the championship of the bowling league in Hartford with 23 victories and two defeats. The winners have a personnel which includes all Manchester men. The winners also made the high team single, 521 and the high team three strings, 151 and three string-plung made the high three string.

TEACH RUGBY FOOTBALL TO SOLDIERS IN JAPAN.

Tokio, April 8.—Rugby football has been accepted by the Japanese Army as a semi-official course, according to the new supplement to the military drill regulations published by the Army Department.

In military language the English pastime is referred to as "Ball Battle" with fitting changes made in the position of players. The fullback, for instance, is called the "gateway defense," the three-quarter line, the "third-line of battle," the half-back position "the second line of battle" and the forward ranks, "the first line of battle." The goal posts are termed "the gateway."

No definite date has been set for the semi-final match between Johnny Gardner and John McMenemy in the town championship pocket billiards tournament. As yet, the players have failed to agree on a night. Gardner wishes to play either Tuesday or Wednesday night and McMenemy would like to play Thursday.

"One-Eyed" Connelly, Premier Gate Crasher Pays High to Keep Up With "Profeshun"

Atlanta, Ga., April 8.—"One-Eyed" Connelly today bemoans the current high cost of gate crashing. The premier gate crasher of the world, trekking his way northward after "officially" attending the "Battle of the Palms," at Miami, in which W. L. (Young) Stripling, the Georgia Peach, and Jack Sharkey, the Boston tar, were the principals, had a pitable tale of woe for the sentimental when he stopped over here.

"The upkeep of one's reputation ain't what it used to be," Connelly told this correspondent. "Years ago, a bunch of flowers for a prima donna, or, cheapest of all, a personal message for the promoter was good enough for anybody's gate anywhere. But the business of gate crashing has been elevated to a profession."

Here, between sobs, the stocky little Irishman, his one eye conspicuously missing, and a weather-beaten cap set to a forty-five degree angle with the bill facing east, let it be known that he expended exactly $2.35 more to uphold his reputation at the Stripling-Sharkey proboscis tapping content that a ticket to a ringside seat would have cost him. "This in the face of the fact that Jack Dempsey had sent him a pass to the fight. 'I shot it right back at him, with the explanation that I didn't want to be insulted,'" Connelly declared.

No simple way to reach the sector availed itself after he had refused the free duct, Connelly said, but he finally hit upon a scheme. Posing as the secretary of George Getz, Chicago millionaire, and with the naive explanation that Mr. Getz had his ticket and had forgotten to give it to him, the rest was easy. But then, when one poses as the secretary to a millionaire, one's ensemble, or should gentlemen prefer, attire, must fit into the picture, and Connelly admits that he looked like a "million dollars." That was where the high cost of the "profeshun" came in. The attire was purchased outright, and expenditures that made his gate-crashing act a success were listed as: Tuxedo $38.00; Hat $5.00; Shoes $5.00; Monocle $1.00; Boiled shirt $1.95; Collar 25c; Cuff buttons 15c; Cuff Links 50c; Socks 50c; Total $52.55.

Here, between sobs, the stocky little Irishman, his one eye conspicuously missing, and a weather-beaten cap set to a forty-five degree angle with the bill facing east, let it be known that he expended exactly $2.35 more to uphold his reputation at the Stripling-Sharkey proboscis tapping content that a ticket to a ringside seat would have cost him. "This in the face of the fact that Jack Dempsey had sent him a pass to the fight. 'I shot it right back at him, with the explanation that I didn't want to be insulted,'" Connelly declared.

No simple way to reach the sector availed itself after he had refused the free duct, Connelly said, but he finally hit upon a scheme. Posing as the secretary of George Getz, Chicago millionaire, and with the naive explanation that Mr. Getz had his ticket and had forgotten to give it to him, the rest was easy. But then, when one poses as the secretary to a millionaire, one's ensemble, or should gentlemen prefer, attire, must fit into the picture, and Connelly admits that he looked like a "million dollars." That was where the high cost of the "profeshun" came in. The attire was purchased outright, and expenditures that made his gate-crashing act a success were listed as: Tuxedo $38.00; Hat $5.00; Shoes $5.00; Monocle $1.00; Boiled shirt $1.95; Collar 25c; Cuff buttons 15c; Cuff Links 50c; Socks 50c; Total $52.55.

Victory For Kaminsky Over Bensche, However, Would Be No Big Upset

North and South Each Qualify Two Men for Semi-Finals in Title Pocket Billiards Tourney; Bensche Beats Dunn, 100-69; Plays Kaminsky Tonight.

The town championship pocket billiards elimination tournament being conducted by the sports department of The Herald has developed into a north end-south end affair in its semi-final stage. This is of special interest because of the fact that there is always keen rivalry between both ends of the town in all sports.

Only four players remain in the field of 16 which started. They are John Gardner, John McMenemy, John Benche and Bill Kaminsky. Gardner and Benche are from the south end while McMenemy and Kaminsky uphold the prestige of that section which in late years has been self-named, "God's Country."

JOES BEATEN IN SEMI-FINALS BY CLASSEN, 29-23

Athens, Texas, Team of Giants Then Goes on to Victory in Finals 25 to 21.

Chicago, Ill., April 8.—After eliminating Jena, La., in the quarter-finals of the national high school basketball tournament here, Joes, Col., the team from a little hamlet with only 43 persons, was finally conquered by Classen High of Oklahoma City in the semi-finals here Saturday morning 23 to 23.

BRUNIG MOSKE MAY PLAY WITH CHAMPS

At Least Dame Rumor Says So and Ventrillo Only Smiles; Meeting Tonight.

The Cubs football team will play all of its home games on Mt. Nebo next fall, Manager Peter Ventrillo said today. The town champions plan to spend more than a hundred dollars having the field repaired. The low spot near the east goal posts will be filled in and other alterations made to the field proper.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE: The Boy Scouts

Sketches by Bessey; Synopsis by Braucher

Sir Baden-Powell was inspired with the idea of Boy Scouting as a preparation for life work because of the poor types of men Britain was sending as soldiers to Africa. Some of them actually expected to find electric lights in the desert and to be tucked into bed.

Baden-Powell wrote Scouting for Boys to make young men manly and resourceful and clean and sound in heart.

The movement was brought to America through a "good turn" done by an English Scout helping strangers in the fog.

GAS BUGGIES—Shifty Almost Upsets the Apple-Cart

DAN DRESSER, SEEKING TO MARRY VIOLA FOR THE MONEY SHE WILL INHERIT, HAS ARRIVED IN HARTSDALE WITH SHIFTY SAM SMITH, WHO HE MET ON THE TRAIN. SHIFTY HAS ADDED DRESSER AS A MEAL TICKET AND IS DETERMINED TO STICK TO HIM.

VIOLA AND AUNT JOE MET DAN AT THE TRAM, AND SHIFTY PROCEEDED HIMSELF INTO THE PARTY.

YES! ME AND DAN IS OLD PARTNERS. WE BEEN IN MANY A DEAL TOGETHER. DAN IS ONE OF THE CLEVEREST CR... I MEAN GUYS THAT EVER HOPPED FREIGHT.

WHAT?

YOU GO OVER TO THE HOTEL SAM, AND ENGAGE ROOMS FOR US. GET THE BEST THEY HAVE!

YOU MUSTN'T MIND SAM. HE'S REALLY A DIAMOND IN THE ROUGH. VERY ROUGH, YOU UNDERSTAND, BUT HE'S BEEN MY VALET FOR YEARS. WAY OF TALKING IS EMBARRASSING, BUT HE'S SO DEVOTED TO ME I'VE NEVER HAD THE HEART TO DISCHARGE HIM.

An American, seeking a certain number in the street, met the English Scout. When he asked the boy for directions, the Scout offered to take him to the address given. After the deed was performed the Scout refused to take a tip. The traveler was interested and asked about the Scouts.

LETTER GOLF

SIXTY MINUTE LIMIT: It's easy to PART at the CURB in letter golf. Par is four and one solution is on another page.

Letter Golf grid with letters P, A, R, K and C, U, R, B.

THE RULES. 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEV, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEV, HEN.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The Worm Turns Wife (at busy crossing): "Now remember, Herbert, the brake is on the left—or is it the right?—but don't!"

Her lips quivered as they approached mine. My whole frame trembled as I looked in her eyes. Her body shook with intensity as our lips met, and I could feel my chest heaving, my chin vibrating, and my body shuddering as I held her to me.

Guide: This, sir, is the Leaning Tower of Pisa. American Tourist—Pisa? Let me think. No, that doesn't sound like the name of the contractor who built my garage, but it looks like his work.

Edna—I'm going for an auto ride with Ed. Edith—For shame! Edna—Nope, for fun!

"Better stay away from that gas station over by the hangar. You're likely to get consumption." "How?" "Say, didn't you ever hear of gasoline consumption?"

A hypocrite is a youth who quits school at the 7th grade and yet has wise cracks on his flivver.

Stranded Motorist: "Say, do you know anything about automobiles?" Suburbanite: "Sure! That's why I am riding the street car."

Glare: Brilliant light; also the look a woman give you if you pull out too slowly when she toots to pass.

Pete: "Not a bad-looking sedan you have Al. What's the most you ever get out of it?" Al: "Six times in one mile."

"Why were you driving so fast this morning?" "Well, the judge fined me five-dollars for speeding yesterday and he couldn't change my ten dollars, so he told me to go out and speed it out."

"You can't always tell how good a second-hand car is by the quality of the paint" declares one of our suspicious friends.

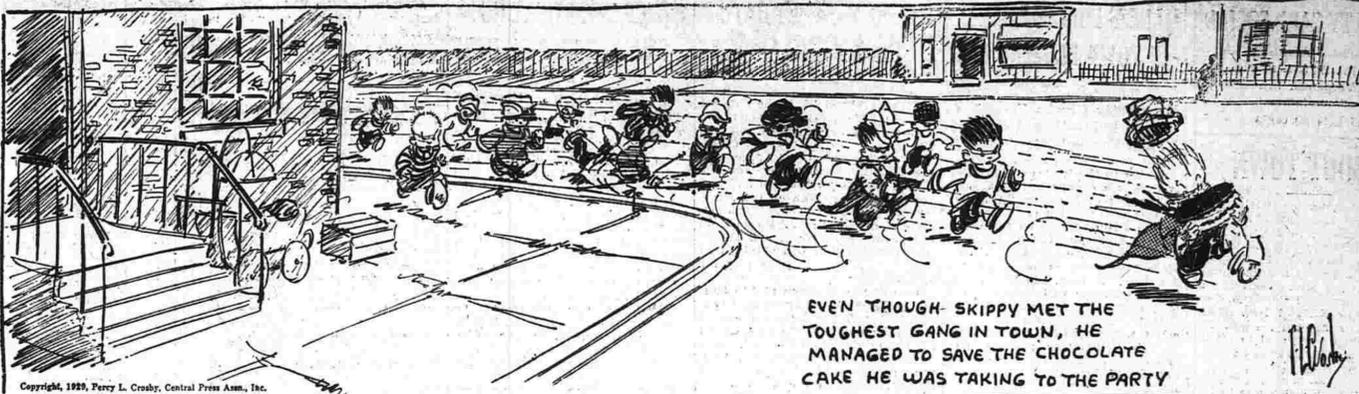

The world grows better. If the family doesn't go riding, Dad spends Sunday in his bath robe instead of his undershirt.

So live that you always have enough money to buy a new tire without laying your car up for a week or two.

When out on a joy ride most young sheiks pay more attention to the clutch than the brakes.

THE TINYMES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The rain storm lasted quite a while, and then the sun began to smile, and all the clouds up in the air turned into white from black. The sky was very pretty now. It changed from dull to bright somehow, but far away the Tintymes still could hear the thunder crack. The Goofygoos then looked around. Said he, "I guess it's safe and sound. The storm has moved away from us. I never like the rain. The month of April brings short showers, but they are needed for the flowers. I guess what seems to be my loss, is someone else's gain."

"That's something we have never tried. I only hope that such a trip won't take our breath away. Go right ahead, do what you please, and we'll all sit right here in ease. I hope you don't get tired out. In the air we want to stay." Just then an echo of the storm flashed by and made the Tintymes warm. It was a streak of lightning. My, you know how lightning flares. At first it scared each other, and then they saw a funny sight. The streak had stopped beside them and it formed a pair of stairs. Wee Clowzy jumped right up and said, "A great plan just popped through my head. That lightning leads to some place and I'm going to find out where." Before the rest had time to speak, he jumped out on the lightning streak, and much to everyone's surprise, he ran up through the air.

(Clowzy finds a new land in the next story.)

FACULTY CARD SOCIAL

High School Assembly Hall TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 8 P. M. Benefit Verplanck Scholarship Foundation Tickets 50 cents.

ABOUT TOWN

A daughter, Louise Patricia, was born at the Manchester Memorial hospital Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Bogue of 23 Trotter street and formerly of Agawam, Mass. The baby is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Converse B. Fitts of Homer and Cortland, New York, and to Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Bogue of Agawam, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Bogue expected to return to their former home within a short time.

The card party which was to follow the regular meeting of St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella, tomorrow night, has been postponed for a week as many of the members and their guests will attend the benefit whist given under the auspices of the faculty of the Manchester High School for the Verplanck Scholarship Fund.

A state-wide contest is being conducted by the Connecticut Humane society in observation of its anniversary, April 14 to 20. They have been endeavoring to enlist the interest of the Boy and Girl Scouts all over Connecticut in the subject of "Kindness to Animals" and are offering six prizes for the six best stories or essays of 500 to 1000 words. These stories must be sent in between the dates above mentioned. The three prizes for girls are: first, a Girl Scout coat sweater; second, Girl Scout wrist watch and third a Girl Scout memory book.

The committee in charge of the afternoon bridge and whist at the White house tomorrow afternoon includes Mrs. Charles B. Loomis, Mrs. Sherwood Martin, Mrs. R. K. Anderson, Mrs. Harry Rylander and Mrs. E. P. Walton. The card party is for the benefit of the Manchester Community club. Playing will begin at 2 o'clock. There will be prizes in each section, refreshments and a social time.

John Larrabee of 38 Strant street, who caught his arm in a compressing machine at the E. F. Hilliard Company mill on March 21, will not be able to return to work for at least two weeks, as the doctor who is treating his arm says that it has not healed sufficiently to be of any use.

The annual meeting of the Manchester Building and Loan Association will be held this evening. Officers will be elected and reports for the year will be submitted.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Blish of Holl street have returned home after spending the greater part of the winter in Florida.

The Buckland Parent-Teacher association will give another of its popular whist and dances in the school assembly hall this evening, under the auspices of the Ways and Means committee, Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong joint chairman. There will be two $2.50 prizes and four other prizes. A social time with refreshments will be followed by dancing. The regular business meeting of the Buckland Parent-Teacher association will be held tomorrow evening.

Arthur McKay of Clinton street is confined to his bed with an attack of acute rheumatism.

The cast for "Norah Mixes In" will have a rehearsal at Old Fellows Hall tonight and tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. This is the three-act play which Sunset Rebekah lodge will give Monday evening, April 15 for the benefit of the infirmary at Groton.

American Legion Auxiliary members will hold their regular meeting this evening at the State Armory. The business will include initiation and a social hour with refreshments will follow.

The party which the Fellowship Bible Class of the Swedish Lutheran church was to hold this Friday night has been postponed indefinitely.

J. Fradin of Fradin's Apparel Shop is in New York today to complete his purchases for the Sixth Anniversary Sale which opens Thursday April 11th.

ILLNESS FORCES CHANGE IN TOWN PLAYERS CAST

Miss Betty Crooks Forced to Drop Role—Miss Alice Marshall Succeeds Her.

Owing to the illness of Miss Betty Crooks a change has been made in the cast of the play, "A Bill of Divorcement" which is to be given by the Town Players as their next performance the latter part of April. Miss Alice Marshall will replace Miss Betty Crooks as the daughter, Sydney, and Miss Madeline Woodhouse will assume the lead which was formally held by Miss Alice Marshall. Franklin Richmond will play the opposite lead. This is Richmond's greatest and best characterization of the season. The rest of the cast will remain the same.

Following is the complete cast: Margaret Fairchild—Madeline Woodhouse. Hilary Fairchild—Franklin Richmond. Sydney Fairchild—Alice Marshall. Kit Pumphrey—Ray Warren. Gray Meredith—Ken Woodbury. Dr. Allot—Wm. Gahrman. The Rev. Christopher Pumphrey—Benjamin Radding. Bassett, the maid—Florence Wilson.

This play was produced by the Town Players during the 1928 season. It is being directed jointly by Miss Helen Estes and Louis Smith.

POLICE COURT

There was but one case before the Manchester Town Court this morning when Frank Zelwitz was found guilty of driving an automobile with improper brakes. The accident that brought him to court occurred yesterday afternoon at 5:15 at Main and Hilliard street when the car driven by Zelwitz struck and injured Joseph W. Wilkalis, and injured a bicycle. Officer John McGinn investigated the accident and found that the hand brakes on the Zelwitz car were of little value. Had the brakes worked as they should the accident would have been avoided. Wilkalis was knocked off his wheel and injured about the head and one arm was hurt. He was taken to the office of Dr. Holmes for attention. Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $25 and costs on Zelwitz.

The trouble with a good many drivers is that they not only fail to stop to think but also do not think to stop.

K. OF C. BANQUET DATE CHANGED TO APRIL 15

Monday, April 15, is the date set for the 28th annual banquet and dance given by Campbell Council, No. 573, Knights of Columbus, instead of Tuesday, the 16th, as previously announced. A large advance sale of tickets was reported by the committee in charge at the meeting held Sunday morning. James D. Burke and Charles J. Magrell, in charge of decorations and music, reported that they had obtained Al Behrend's Melody Boys to play for dancing.

One of the speakers at the banquet will be A. E. Magnell, financial editor of the Hartford Times, a charter member and first Grand Knight of Campbell Council. The affair will be held in Cheney hall, the banquet starting at 6:30 o'clock. Members are allowed to bring as many friends as they wish as the anniversary celebration is open to the public.

BUSINESS STUDENTS HERE AGAIN WIN CONTESTS

The Connecticut Business College typewriting team which is competing in the New England typewriting series turned in a fine record in the second contest held last week.

Florence Cockerham, winner of the first contest, also won the second, typing 67.5 words a minute. Theresa Frachey of Birch street, typed 57.1 words a minute; Lena Fallis, of Beckland, 51.6 words; Carmela Catalano, Center street, 50.6 words; Lillian Thompson, Rockville, 47.9 words; Jennie Batz, Rockville, 45.2 words. The third contest will be held the latter part of April.

POLICE INVESTIGATING SMALL SHED FIRE HERE

Odd Circumstances Surround Blaze on Pearl Street Late Saturday Night.

An investigation is being conducted by the police into a small fire last Saturday night near the small building in the rear of the home of Mrs. Anna J. Rogers at 53 Pearl street. Smoke was noticed and an investigation disclosed that an oil soaked rug was burning and had been so placed that it would burn its way into the leaves that surrounded the shed.

The blaze was discovered by neighbors who extinguished it with pails of water. A chicken wire fence had been broken down to give way for the bringing in of the leaves and the oil-soaked rug.
