NAME DAWES NEXT ENVOY TO BRITAIN

Announcement Comes as No Surprise—May Take His New Post Early Next Month.

Washington, April 10.—Formal announcement was made at the White House today that Charles G. Dawes is to be the next ambassador to Great Britain.

The announcement came as no surprise, for it had been known that inquiry has been made of the British foreign office as to whether the former vice president was persona grata. A reply was received from London this morning that Gen. Dawes is entirely acceptable to the British government, and the announcement immediately followed.

Gen. Dawes is now in San Domingo, where he is heading a commission of financial experts to revise that little republic's fiscal system. Just when Gen. Dawes will take over his post is problematical. It depends largely upon how soon he can conclude his work in San Domingo. Ambassador Houghton sails for home on April 27, and for several weeks it is probable the Embassy will be left in charge of the first secretary.

Harmony Move

The selection of Gen. Dawes for the British post marks another long step toward the restoration of that complete harmony in the Republican Party, which was threatened by the bitterness of the struggle over the presidential nomination last summer.

TEXAS FORGOT TODAY'S DATE WITH COURT

Famous Night Club Hostess Kept Judge Waiting 15 Minutes—Is Calm as Wit- nesses Testify.

New York, April 10.—Texas Gulman, the life of Broadway's night life kept the U. S. Federal court waiting 15 minutes today before she appeared at the continuation of her trial for maintaining an alleged nuisance in connection with the sale of liquor at the Salon Royale, dusk-to-dawn club.

"I forgot all about it," explained Gulman. "Besides, I don't want to go to jail dressed like Little Eva. Tex didn't hurt anybody's eyes. She was dressed in a georgette yellow flower-designed dress under a raven-black velvet coat and wore a little Bo-Peep velvet hat.

Texas again wore her diamond wristlet as she took a brave man to look it straight in the face.

Several of Tex's charming girls were in the courtroom to lend moral or otherwise support to their boss. One was in complete blue creation and the other in a fawn-colored ensemble. Their looks did credit to the establishment.

Used Smelling Salts.

Tex had a pencil in one hand and an imported bottle of smelling salts in the other. She used each alternately making notes furiously during the testimony of prohibition agents, and then inhaling the reviving salts desperately.

Prohibition Agent S. David Beazell, the first witness, testified concerning alleged purchases of liquor at the club.

Hoover to Get Season's First Salmon

Proof is this that all salmon don't come in cans. Horace W. Chapman of Bangor, Me., is shown holding a 15-pound beauty—first catch of the season on the Penobscot River—which he announced he would send to President Hoover. With Chapman is Frank S. Rand, likewise of Bangor, who aided in gaffing the first of the spring run.

Japanese Savant Claims He Can Produce Rain

Tokio, April 10.—Nasataka Nobuhara, of Tokio, who has spent his entire life experimenting to induce artificial rainfall through electrical energy, claims to have been successful and to have evolved a system whereby he can bring about showers at will.

A bill was introduced in the Diet authorizing the government to spend funds to investigate, but it was defeated.

The extreme drought experienced in Tokio brought wide public interest to Nobuhara's claims. The nature of his experiments was kept secret. He asserts that the continuous discharge of electricity by his process for 10 hours will produce clouds from an otherwise clear sky; that a light rain can be induced in 14 hours and that within 36 hours, a precipitation of a quart and a half per foot can be caused.

Nobuhara's father began experimenting with artificial rainfall during the great drought in Japan in 1879. He continued his experiments until his death 12 years later when the work was taken over by his son, the present experimenter.

SETS MAY 8TH AS FINAL DAY FOR ASSEMBLY

Leader Johnson to Present Resolution Tomorrow; Says There Will Be Time to Finish Business.

Hartford, April 10.—Judge Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester, leader of the Lower House of the Legislature, announced today that he intended to present a resolution tomorrow setting May 8th as the day for final adjournment of the Legislature. "There will be plenty of time for business if committees will report their bills promptly," he told the House.

Samuel A. Eddy, Speaker of the House, supplemented the announcement by demanding that committee chairmen get their reports next week.

Both Houses of the Legislature today rejected a $3,000,000 appropriation bill.

The House rejected bills as follows: Appropriating $5,000 for the Guilford sanitarium; appropriating $245,000 for a geological survey in connection with the Federal workers; appropriating $50,000 for flood control at Naugatuck; appropriating $1,000 for enumeration of illiterates; appropriating $300,000 to increase capacity of the state tuberculosis sanitarium; appropriating $50,000 for improvement of roads in state forests; appropriating $2,000,000 to build a state infirmary; appropriating an indefinite amount to establish co-operative forestry associations; making it necessary to have a permit while learning to drive an automobile; providing for return of fees when a gas station permit is refused; providing further statutory definition of the words "electric" and "gas" companies; making new regulations for killing deer found destroying property; authorizing the rivers, harbors and bridges commission to establish an office outside the capitol; providing for recording of removals of household goods by truckmen; providing that a permit is necessary for removing household goods; providing that reports of accidents to compensation commissioners shall contain the ages of persons hurt; providing for rating of autos less than Jan. 1.

REPORTED AS LOST LINDBERGH IS SAFE

Lands at Border But Will Not Tell Where He Spent the Night.

Brownsville, Texas, April 10.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who arrived here unexpectedly from Mexico at 9:30 o'clock this morning, after he had been reported "lost" took the air again at 11 o'clock today for an unannounced destination.

The flying colonel did not say where he had spent the night, but it was believed he landed at Tampico late yesterday.

It was believed Col. Lindbergh would continue to New York.

He hopped off from Vauvenau Field, Mexico City, at 1:30 yesterday.

The "Lone Eagle" took occasion today that he intended to reach Brownsville last night. He said Mexico City dispatches were "unauthorized" and refused to divulge his whereabouts during the 18 hours he was "missing."

FURNITURE AND GEMS WERE TAKEN BY EGAN

Discoverer Of Bomb Made It Himself

New York, April 10.—Thomas J. Callery, a postoffice employe, was arrested today charged with having made and mailed the bomb which was found in a local postoffice last Sunday addressed to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Callery is 45, unmarried, lives in Hoboken, N. J., and had been employed in the general post office, where the bomb was discovered, for the last seven years.

"I'm innocent—I didn't do it," he insisted. "I don't see why I should be blamed."

He was locked up in a police station, after on a charge of violating the federal statute dealing with sending explosives through the mails. He was to be arraigned later before a United States commissioner.

Mrs. Watkins Says Hartford Lawyer Took Her Jewels Worth $25,500 and Stripped Their Home in West Hartford—Declares She Has Not Enough Money to Send Mother's Body to Pennsylvania for Burial.

Hartford, April 10.—Mrs. Roger W. Watkins, wife of the broker who is now serving time in Wethersfield because of his activities before was given the severest test of any witness who yet has appeared to testify in the case of William F. Egan, lawyer, who is being tried by Judge Isaac Wolfe on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the Watkins affair. Judge William S. Hyde, of Manchester, cross-examined Mrs. Watkins today and pressed her until she seemed to have lost her composure.

Under the gentle guidance of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alborn, Mrs. Watkins related a tale of turning over to Lawyer Egan $25,500 worth of jewelry and told how Egan had stripped the Watkins home on Walbridge road, West Hartford, of all its furniture, including $6,000 worth of antique rugs. Mrs. Watkins said she had taken the Watkins Lincoln car and traded it in for a La Salle car.

Look Her Jewels.

Mrs. Watkins catalogued her jewels that she said Egan had taken. They included a diamond ring valued at $5,000, a square cut diamond and a solitaire, each valued at $4,000, a diamond bracelet valued at $6,000, and some other things.

Mrs. Watkins said that when she and her husband were in flight with police from Connecticut seeking them, she talked with Egan three different times by telephone. On April 10 and May 15, last.

Then she told of her experiences while in jail here pending release on bail. She declared Egan visited her there and told her there was no need to worry for Judge Yeoman was now on the bench and he would see that her bail was reduced to a point where it would be possible for her to win freedom.

Then she said that Egan and his law partner Frank Healy, had gone to Mr. Alborn's summer home, according to Egan, and "couldn't do anything."

Once, she said, Mr. Egan called at the jail and told her he was in a hurry because "Judge Yeoman is waiting for me."

Gets Bill for Funeral.

Mrs. Watkins turned to the matter of the death of her mother, Mrs. Tresslar. She told of receiving a bill from Egan for the funeral services, and declared that her mother's body is still in a vault in Cedar Hill cemetery, here, "because I have not money enough to take it to Pennsylvania for burial."

Then Judge Hyde took Mrs. Watkins under his care on the witness stand. She admitted she had lived with Watkins in various cities in his home, and she knew her husband was making money in Hartford, she said.

Judge Hyde wanted to know if the West Hartford home wasn't the best she had ever known; she wasn't sure about that. While she had never had antique rugs in any other home, she thought her home in Cleveland was just as nice as the one in West Hartford. She told Judge Hyde she had $75,000 when she came here.

Then she told of a telephone call from her husband who asked her to give a draft for $50,000 to Egan. After that she was shown a draft for $70,000 with what purported to be Egan's signature. Mrs. Watkins couldn't be sure that really was her signature. She really didn't remember about the document. Egan she said that Egan had cashed a $25,000 draft with the advice: "Don't lose it."

Had Unlisted Phone.

Under Judge Hyde's questioning Mrs. Watkins admitted she had not asked her husband if he was ever coming back, when she talked with him while he was in flight.

Late in the morning Mrs. Watkins told Judge Hyde that Watkins had an unlisted telephone installed in his home on Walbridge road. Watkins previously had testified that Egan ordered this phone put in. Several times during the examination by Judge Hyde, Mrs. Watkins exclaimed "I don't remember" as he pushed her for answers to his questions. Judge Hyde's questioning was noticeably forceful in contrast with the cross examination of previous witnesses in the case.

Charles G. Dawes

While there is no question of politics entering into the selection of Gen. Dawes—for his qualifications are outstanding and are unquestioned from any source—it is nevertheless characterized by party leaders in Washington as a "very fortunate choice" from a political standpoint.

Was Candidate Also

Dawes himself was a candidate, although passively so, for the nomination which went to Mr. Hoover. The former vice president was active in behalf of his old friend,

SELECTMEN GRANT STORM SEWER JOB

East Hartford Contractor to Do Work—Board Holds Monthly Meeting.

Peter Yacovone, of East Hartford, was the lowest of 16 bidders for the construction of the West Center street storm water sewer when his bid, tendered by the Board of Selectmen last night, Yacovone's bid was $10,351, and was $2,032 lower than the town's estimate of the cost. Yacovone was not given the contract until this morning, when Treasurer George H. Wadwell being authorized to investigate the contractor's financial responsibility.

There were bidders for the work from all over Connecticut and one contractor from Rhode Island sent in a bid. The Manchester Construction Company, Henry Ahern and Alexander Jarvis, Jr., were the local firms bidding. The concrete pipe is already on the job having been constructed in the Dougherty lot at Center and McKee streets. Special equipment for handling this heavy pipe is necessary and for that reason the town construction forces are unable to do the work.

REBELS PREPARE FOR LAST STAND

Pursued by Federals in Mex- ico They Plan to Fight in Sonora.

With powerful Federal forces applying pressure from the northeast and southwest, the rebel armies today prepared for a last stand in Sonora.

Gen. J. Andreu Almazan's expeditionary force of more than 10,000 men has completed the subjugation of Chihuahua after a series of successes during which more than 1,000 miles were covered in pursuing the retreating rebel forces.

Before nightfall, Ciudad Juarez, which the rebels captured in a sharp battle some time ago, was expected to again be in Federal hands. All through the night rebel contingents evacuated the city. This morning, the Federals were a few miles away.

On West Coast

In northern Sinaloa on the west coast, the Federal army of 13,000 led by Gen. Lazaro Cardenas pressed closely behind the rebels there retreating northward toward Sonora. A battle is anticipated at San Blas, Sinaloa, where the rebels are said to be concentrating.

Naco, Sonora is still held by the Federals. The rebels, however,

COBBLER MURDERS DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Then Kills Himself by Cut- ting His Throat—Double Fairfield Tragedy.

Fairfield, April 10.—Joseph Mayher, 60, today killed his daughter-in-law, Elizabeth Pach Mayher, 22, in his home here today and then killed himself by cutting his throat.

The bodies were discovered this afternoon.

Mayher, a cobbler, and once an inmate of the Norwich hospital for the insane, used a cobbler's hammer and a knife in the attack on his daughter-in-law, according to mute evidence found by police, and then used the knife on himself.

Terrific Struggle.

The attack occurred in the kitchen of the Mayher home on Longfellow avenue. The kitchen bore signs of a terrific struggle between the man and the girl. Walls were splashed with blood and furniture was upset and broken. In the middle of the floor lay the bodies, rather close together.

The bodies were discovered by Mrs. Julia Bok and Mrs. Elizabeth Pach, the mother of the girl. They had come to the house to take Mrs. Mayher to Bridgeport on a shopping trip.

The dead girl's husband has been a patient in Bridgeport hospital for many weeks, the victim of an internal trouble. Officials of the hospital felt it would not be wise to notify him of the tragedy.

GOBER RESIGNS

Washington, April 10.—An echo of the indictment last year against Rep. M. Alfred Gober, Dry Congressman of Illinois on charges of smuggling liquor into the United States, which came today in the resignation of William M. Gober, United States district attorney at Jacksonville, Fla.

Gober was instrumental in having the Grand Jury indict Michaelson but then permitted the matter to lay dormant.

The Department of Justice refused to say if the Michaelson case has any connection with Gober's action. They did say his resignation will be accepted, the date to be decided by Attorney General Mitchell. Michaelson, who takes his seat in Congress Monday, is due to appear for trial at Key West May sixth.

College Students Tell Dean They Will Not Help to En- force Law.

Charlottesville, Va., April 10.—The so-called "whiskey rebellion" among students at the University of Virginia, founded by Thomas Jefferson, had this college town and the campus agog today.

Although somewhat startled by the white light of publicity, and indignant over charges that liquor was being manufactured in the basement of their Chapter house, students of Delta Tau Delta fraternity struck doggedly by their decision today to adopt a pledge against drinking which they contend cannot be enforced.

The request that the various fraternities adopt pledges to stamp out drinking in the Chapter houses was made by Dean Page as a result of an investigation which followed last fall's North Carolina-Virginia football game. At that game, which was attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge, a Fredericksburg pastor charged he saw scores of "drunken students."

NEW BILL PROVIDES FOR H. S. COMMITTEE

Senator R. J. Smith Intro- duces Amendment Pro- posal Today.

Senator Robert J. Smith today introduced into the General Assembly a proposed amendment to Manchester's town charter to provide for the election of a High School committee. This action is made necessary through the failure of the voters to accept the Charter Revision committee proposals which would automatically have taken care of the raising of a High School board.

A temporary High school committee is now serving, but the bill introduced today allows for the election of five members to the permanent committee and that there be a continuing one. Today's bill also gives the proposed High school committee authority over the State Trade school, here which the present temporary committee does not possess.

The Bill

The bill offered by Senator Smith follows:

"There shall be a High school committee consisting of five members, each of whom shall be elected at the annual town meeting. At the first meeting held for the election of said members one shall be elected for a term of one year, two for a term of two years and two for a term of three years; and at all subsequent annual elections, one or two members of said committee shall be elected for a term of three years to succeed the one or two members whose term expires as a result of three years; and no person shall vote for more than three candidates.

"Vacancies occurring in said committee shall be filled by the remaining members of said board until the next annual election of said committee, when the vacancy shall be filled by ballot. Members of said board shall serve without compensation.

"The board shall elect from its members a chairman and a clerk, and shall appoint a treasurer.

"The High school committee shall have all of the powers of school district committees and

GANN PUZZLE PUT UP TO DIPLOMATS

Secretary Stimson Passes the Buck as to Where Sec- ond Lady Will Sit.

Washington, April 10.—The flag of social triumph was run up today from the tops of the White House by Secretary of State Curtis Gann and his half-sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann.

The Diplomatic Corps of Washington, comprising more than two score representatives of Kings, Queens, Sultans and plain Presidents, decided to recognize Mrs. Gann as the vice-president's sister and to accord her the status usually held by the wife of the president at all formal diplomatic functions.

Washington, April 10.—A World Court, sitting not in Geneva, but here in Washington, and composed of some two score diplomatic representatives is going to decide the momentous question that has had Washington all in a lather for a week past.

That question is: "Where is Mrs. Edward Everett Gann going to sit" at official functions.

Facing his first great crisis as secretary of state, and that coming before he hardly had his chair warm, Henry L. Stimson, with true diplomatic fin de siecle, stepped into the breach and passed the buck right back to the diplomats themselves.

Diplomats to Decide.

Consequently it is Vice-President Curtis' half sister and official hostess is seated below the wives of the ambassadors and ministers at official functions, it is the diplomats themselves who will take the onus for it.

A quick decision is necessary if international amities are to be preserved, for tomorrow night Senator Don Carlos Davila, the Chilean ambassador, is giving a dinner at the Pan-American Union. Don Carlos has an appointment today with Sir Esmé Howard, the British ambassador, who is dean of the corps, and it is likely a meeting of the full corps will be called later to weigh the matter with all the solemnity that is inherent in such a grave matter.

Secretary Stimson not only washed his hands of the entire affair, but in letters to Sir Esmé and to Vice President Curtis, whose assistance that Mrs. Gann be accorded as Second Lady of the Land ranks gave rise to the whole row, intimated that the State Department was concerned with weightier matters.

"Instructions have been given departmental officials," he said, they are "to give no further advice or suggestions in such matters." The Department of State, he said, has no authority to determine questions of precedence among American officials "nor of general social precedence around Washington."

Furthermore, shocking as it may be to the young men of his department, the secretary observed he did not believe the department should any longer even assist in determining such questions.

Some Consolation.

This much Mrs. Gann gets out of the Stimson decision:

Any courtesy the diplomats may choose to show Mrs. Gann, "will be most agreeable to me," Stimson told Sir Esmé in his formal letter.

Stimson coughed his letter to the British ambassador in these words: "As I have written to the vice president, I believe that while Mr. Kellogg's letter, corrected during the custom which has prevailed during recent years, neither Mr. Kellogg nor any other secretary of state has intended to make official rulings on such questions."

BUNION DERBY

Waynesburg, Pa., April 10.—Paul Simpson, of Burlington, N. C., and C. C. Pyle's trans-continental Bunioneers over the 33 mile stretch from Uniontown to Waynesburg on the eleventh lap of the Derby this afternoon in four hours, 46 minutes and 15 seconds. The run yesterday's lap was made in the train.

Simpson's feat gave him a total elapsed time of 76:05:18.

PHONES CUT OUT

Washington, April 10.—The White House was cut off from all telephonic communication with the outside for some hours today, creating considerable confusion in the transaction of the normal business of the executive offices.

A gang of negro workmen, tearing out part of the basement in the remodeling scheme of the mansion, cut a cable which knocked out all the phones.

KING'S DAUGHTERS PLAN ACTIVITIES

Ever Ready Circle, King's Daughters, met last evening with Mrs. Carl Benson at the Midland Apartments. After prayer and singing a hymn of the order, Mrs. L. A. Gilmore read the Easter story from the bible. She then told in a dramatic way the story of Barabbas and his relation to the Crucifixion.

The entertainment committee announced a "finger" tea to be given at Watkins Brothers on Thursday, April 25 at 3:30. Mrs. C. R. Burr will give a talk on Norway and illustrate it with motion pictures taken during her trip to the Land of the Midnight Sun last summer. The girls of the recently organized Junior circle will assist in serving refreshments. Mrs. Herbert Tenney reported on the formation of another Junior circle at Hockanum. Miss Ethel Fish, who has been appointed senior leader of the Junior circle here, gave an account of the first meeting held at her home last week. It was voted that Ever Ready Circle sponsor the work of the Juniors. Financially, provide their plus, certificates of membership and materials for hand work.

Mrs. Gerald Risley was appointed delegate to the annual meeting of the King's Daughters Union, Saturday, April 20, at the Church of the Redeemer in Hartford. The annual conference of the King's Daughters of Hartford county, to be held Thursday, May 2, in the parish house of the Congregational church in Windsor, with morning and afternoon sessions and luncheon. Mrs. George Pryor of Jewett City, state president, will be the speaker.

Ever Ready Circle will conduct a rummage sale in May and members were reminded to save articles for the sale also newspapers for the collection.

A social time followed the business and an amusing game for computing one's age was directed by Mrs. C. R. Burr. Ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Burr, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. F. C. Allen and Mrs. C. J. Strickland. An organization service for the Juniors will be held at Second Congregational church Tuesday evening, and the next monthly meeting of Ever Ready Circle will be held Tuesday, May 14 with Mrs. A. P. Lydall of Hudson street.

PICK LAKE PLACID.

Lausanne, Switzerland, April 10.—The Olympic committee has decided that the 1932 winter games shall be held at Lake Placid, N. Y. The amateur question was tabled until the Berlin meeting of the committee beginning May 21, 1929.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, April 10.—The heavy hand of high money rates and the withdrawal of bank funds from the Call Loan Market hung over the financial district today, and the industrial stocks which forged ahead in the morning post most of their gains in the early afternoon.

The amount of bullish enthusiasm in Wall street today was not sufficient to stimulate any great volume of stock buying, in any section of the market, and when the money rate moved up from eight to nine per cent stocks were thrown overboard by the small traders as well as the professionals on the big board.

A 14-point break in Kolster Radio to 31, completing a shrinkage of 47 points in the stock since the first of the year, and the sharp reactions in a number of the high-priced specialties pulled the pros from under the bulls. As in the last two sessions of the market, weak-kneed speculators for the rise saw little to be gained and much to be lost by rushing into the market at this time and the buying power of the market as a whole has consequently shrunk. Sharp reactions and rallies in the high-priced favorites did little more than emphasize the unsettled and bewildered existing in the big financial district.

Strong support was extended to U. S. Steel Common and other market favorites. By this time next week the public will know the price at which the Steel Corporation's new stock is to be offered to stockholders and an opportunity will be afforded to set a value on the rights as well as on the stock on the new basis. Steel held up nearly 4 points at 137 1/2, before giving way to profit taking and professional selling.

Sale of copper metal was reported today at 19 3/4 cents a pound, against the recent 24-cent peak. The copper stocks sold off and recovered when copper producers explained that at twenty cents a pound they can make better profits than the 1928 totals, and that no one expected the 24-cent bulge in copper to hold very long. Anaconda Copper, moved up about three points to 144 1/2 and higher prices were quoted for Kennecott, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and Green Cananea.

Bulls in the oil stocks had much better success than in other sections of the market. Pan American Oil was again the outstanding leader in this group, selling in good volume above 55. Mid-Continent and Sinclair sold higher. Buying of the latter is attributed to Robert W. Stewart and his associates who are reported to have joined Harry F. Sinclair in a new gigantic oil venture at the end of the summer season.

Yellow Truck moved up spectacularly to 45. A big future has been predicted for this company, which is controlled by General Motors, General Motors, Radio and other leaders in the bull campaign of other years, were on the shelf today, rallying moderately in the late trading.

Bank calls for mid-month settlements drove the rate up to nine per cent, but funds flowed in freely and no further increase was expected today. Business reports were favorable, the Iron Age reporting March and first-quarter steel production so large as to raise doubts as to how long the pace can continue. U. S. Steel Corporation's March unfilled tonnage increased 265,000 tons.

CARD SOCIAL HELD IN THIRD DISTRICT

Fully 175 people attended the card social held at the new Porter street school last night, conducted by the teachers and mothers in the Third district. There were 40 tables of players in the different sections of bridge, straight whist and set-back. Several of the children were among the players and three of them captured prizes, Annie Anderson, first, and Dorothy Sinnamon and Doris Bolen, showing them to be pretty good players.

In bridge winners of first awards were Mrs. Ernest Wilson and Everett Durkee; consolation Miss Catherine Riley of Hartford and Mr. Adams of Glastonbury, Fred Robinson held the highest men's score in straight whist and Mrs. Harry Trotter, the women's while consolation awards fell to Mrs. Sidney Cushman and Samuel Richmond.

Ice cream and home-made cake was served. The party was voted a success and as a result several fine pictures were purchased for the new school.

ings as to the precedence in which American officials and their wives should be received within the houses of the members of the diplomatic corps, but that such decision rests wholly within the discretion of the members of that corps themselves.

He added that any course they would take would meet with no objection on the part of the State Department.

Do Not Like Job. That the diplomatic corps does not relish the job Stimson handed back to them, was evident today. Originally, Sir Esme had asked the State Department what ruling it had made. This coincided with the time of the Kellogg letter to Curtis definitely placing his sister below the diplomatic wives.

At the meeting at the British Embassy Monday night, called to decide what to do about Mrs. Gann, a proposal to accord her the rights of a wife of a vice president was voted down, and during the discussion some of the diplomats pointed out that it was not up to them "to pull the State Department's chestnuts out of the fire." They further pointed out that to dictate to "Senators' wives," over whom they had no control, would be improper. And besides that, it was these same Senators' wives, one high ranking diplomat pointed out to his colleagues, who had objected originally to according Mrs. Gann the rank she and her brother were fighting for.

He referred to the failure of Mrs. Gann to be elected to the presidency of the Congressional Club, an honor usually given the wife of the vice president. Mrs. George H. Moses, wife of the president pro tempore of the Senate, was selected instead.

So the world will await tomorrow night and maybe it will awaken Friday morning to find that Ambassador Davitt decided to be "agreeable" to Secretary Stimson and take Mrs. Gann in on his arm, and maybe not. Quen Sabe?

The intriguing part of it is that Vice President Curtis will be the ranking guest there, and must be given precedence even over the guest of honor, Minister of Finance Pablo Ramirez, of Chile.

MISSING COLLEGE GIRL IS LOCATED IN FLORIDA

Friend Recognizes Banker's Daughter at Miami Beach; She Is Coming Home.

Boston, April 10.—Miss Rosamond Morse, missing 17-year-old daughter of a Brookline banker and object of a search international in scope, was found today in Miami, Fla.

The student at Miss May's school here was recognized on the street in Miami from a photograph sent out by a detective agency and police of her home town, Brookline, and published throughout Florida. Edward W. Morse, father of the girl who vanished from her Brookline home on January 4, admitted this afternoon that he had talked with Rosamond over the long distance telephone to Miami and had arranged for her to come home on a train leaving at once.

The name of the person who recognized Rosamond in Miami and got in touch with a private detective agency here was not revealed. However, it was learned that a detective was dispatched to Florida and interviewed Rosamond today, finally arranging a telephone parley between the girl and her anxious parents. It was not revealed why Rosamond went away.

ABOUT TOWN

The Sewing club of the Army & Navy club auxiliary will meet tomorrow evening with Mrs. Mabel Thornfield of Cambridge street.

Past Matrons of Temple Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star will hold their monthly meeting tomorrow evening with Mrs. Minnie Goslee of Madison street.

Moses Linnell of North street, who has been employed by Mark Holmes in his furniture department leaves this week for Florida where he is to make his future home. Mrs. Linnell has been in Florida the past winter and he will join her there. He has secured work in that state and intends to enter the hog growing business, having secured an option on a large tract of land for that purpose.

The report of Building Inspector Edward C. Elliott, Jr., for the month of March 1929 was five times as large as in the month of February this year, when there were no permits taken for dwellings. It is just half what it was a year ago when the total permits for the month of March amounted to $165,205 and the permits for dwelling houses a year ago last month numbered seven against four for March this year.

Ward Cheney Camp, Spanish War Veterans will hold its regular business meeting at the State Armory tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

The high school class of 1929 will make its last bid for the cooperation of parents and friends in raising funds for the Washington trip by its benefit performance, next at the State theater. The feature picture will be John Barrymore in "The Tempest," a drama of Red Russia. The co-feature will be Buster Keaton in "Spite Marriage." Boys and girls in the senior class have sold enough tickets to insure a full house.

OUTSTANDING SCHOLASTIC STAR

Track experts say Howard Jones, who ran the 220 in the unprecedented time of 24 seconds, was the outstanding scholastic track star of the winter meets around New York.

Sharkey, by the way, has gone on the vaudeville stage. O'Gootty says he doesn't know what part he's playing, but with that glare he ought to be at least Mr. Hyde, Osgo or Faustus.

TREATED LIKE AN ORPHAN

Many of the American Association baseball writers are puzzled because the Detroit Tigers let Johnny Neun slip away from their possession during the winter months.

One of the puzzled ones is Dick Meade, columnist on the Toledo News-Bee and former president of the Toledo Heus.

Meade, after watching Neun in spring training, writes this: "When the Detroit management requested waivers on Neun in the winter, it was the idea of President Navin and Manager Bucky Harris that Johnny's lingering appendix illness removed the will to play major league baseball. The Tigers were planning on assigning Harry Hellmann to first base, had closed with Toronto for Dale Alexander, and had drafted Dud Branon from Louisville.

"As the situation is now presented, Branon is going back to Louisville soon, Hellmann is slow, too fat and too sociable for the job and Alexander, while a corking hitter, is a dud as a fielder. The Detroit people might have suspected the present outlook in December, yet they did not hesitate to send Neun away.

Nobody Wanted Him

"It seems that a number of big league teams might have used Neun, who was one of the greatest all-round first basemen in 1927. At this stage, it seems first base is the major weakness of the big league clubs.

"Bob Quinn isn't satisfied with Todd at Boston and Shires is a dud at Chicago. At Washington, Joe Judge is in his declining years and is not expected to play over 100 games. Pittsburgh might have used him instead of the cumbersome Shesly.

"The Braves are going along with Sisler, still able to hit when his dimmed eyes, but awkward and indifferent at the bag. Even the Cubs could have found a place for Johnny as Grimm, still a fair hitter and fielder, is very slow.

"Yet, all these clubs permitted Neun to slip into the minor, without batting an eye.

Wants Another Chance

"It has always felt that Johnny was too good a man to step out of the majors unless something was wrong with him. I put up my idea to Neun and his happy smile quickly dismissed any suspicion that he was unwell.

"I'm not only in good health," he replied, "but I actually feel better than I have in three or four years. Probably my appendix trouble was working on me for some time before I realized what the trouble was. Two weeks after the operation last summer I felt a new man.

"I am ten pounds heavier than I ever have been and I am stronger than at any time in my career. I've always liked to play ball but the urge is greater than ever this spring. Perhaps it is the feeling that I am still a major, leaguer, which provides the determination to prove this season that I have a right to go back where the big money is.

"It is up to me to play my way back to the majors."

COX IN TEXAS LEAGUE

Dick Cox, former Brooklyn player who also was a fighter once, is now playing with Shreveport in the Texas League.

Sharkey has, or had, a sign in his front yard saying "This is the home of Jack Sharkey, Esq." O'Gootty says he ought to put something under that like "Beware of the Dog."

WAPPING

Miss Margaret Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jennings of New York, but who formerly lived on Demming street, of this place, is visiting her cousin Miss Mary Jennings for a month.

The Pleasant Valley club will hold the last of their popular whists on next Friday evening, April 12th at the school house. All whist and bridge players are cordially invited. Prizes will be presented to the winners and refreshments will be served by the committee in charge.

Mrs. William Thresher entertained at bridge whist on Tuesday afternoon. There were five tables. Mrs. Thomas Smith of Manchester took the first prize and Mrs. Louis J. Tuttle the second. Refreshments were served.

Miss Dorothy Cotton of Windsorville had as her guest over the week end Miss Edna Dorman of Broad Brook.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Rau, on Sunday, March 31, at the Hartford hospital.

Mrs. Walter S. Billings, who has been spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fiske of West Haven, returned to her home here on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Inez Piles has been confined to her home here with a severe grip cold for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll of this village were the guest of friends on Billington avenue, Rockville, recently.

John M. Gordon and Miss Grace M. Davis, both of North Hampton, Mass., were married Friday, by Rev. William W. Malcolm at the First Congregational parsonage of South Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Newberry are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shepard on a trip to Atlantic City.

Mrs. Edwin Wilson of Bangor, Me., has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Judson G. Piles for several days.

Mrs. William Thresher and Mrs. Helen Tripp, of Pleasant Valley gave an afternoon bridge whist, which was held on Tuesday afternoon, April 9, at the ice cream parlors at Burnham's station.

Allen Barber of Windsorville, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia is showing a slight improvement.

Rev. and Mrs. Harry B. Miner motored to New Jersey Monday for a short visit with relatives and friends.

PAYMASTER MISSING

Boston, April 10.—That Lieutenant Robert J. Montell, paymaster of the U. S. Vega, naval supply ship, has been missing since Friday and that the Boston Police Department was requested to search for him, became known today.

Police admitted that Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the Chalkstone Navy Yard requested Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley, to have a search instituted for Lieut. Montell.

Commander Francis M. Robinson, in command of the Vega, was said to have reported the incident to the Bureau of Navigation at Washington.

Naval officials made it clear that no charge had been lodged against Lieut. Montell, but that they were worried about his absence.

CHICAGO GANG WAR

Chicago, April 10.—In a renewal of the cleaning and dyeing war in Chicago, one bandit was shot and probably fatally wounded, another was seriously wounded, a third escaped and a Deputy U. S. Marshal was probably fatally shot here today.

Deputy Marshal Peter Larson, interrupting three men intimidating a truck driver, was shot for a cleaning concern, fell with a bullet in his side. While sprawled on the sidewalk, the deputy drew his gun and wounded Hugh Burns, son of a former policeman hero who was killed by bandits ten years ago.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht

are trying to think up some funny stunts for this summer. They ought to go to see Sharkey showing the folks how he fights.

Mr. McGraw's Giants took an airplane ride down in San Antonio the other day. It's still a couple of months early for Mr. McGraw to go up in the air himself.

Andy Payne, winner of Pyle's cross country trot tournament last year, is going along this year as a riding spectator. That reminds O'Gootty of the soldier who hired a bugler to play reveille every morning so he could turn over and enjoy his sleep.

Reports from the Senators' training camp say Garland Braxton's screw ball is working again this year. A couple of years ago the boys got to nailing it pretty regularly.

A writer, describing a recent training game of the Braves, says it was played with the worst infield he ever had seen. It just happened, though, that he was writing about the playing field, not the athletes.

There are still sports left in the world. People are reported to have bet on the outcome of a steeplechase over in England the other day.

Today's high treason is reported in critical accents from Clark Griffith. Maybe the Judge will fine him several millions.

The Judge told Ban Johnson to keep his shirt on, but Ban persisted in shedding his jerkin at every opportunity.

Well, Ban passed from the picture, his shirt flapping gloriously in the breeze. Now that Griff has begun to wave his, one wonders what may happen.

The magnus may hold another meeting. The familiar gesture of the judge is to slap his contract vigorously upon the table, offering it back to the gents who hired him.

It just may be possible that some day the magnus will all have their shirts off at the same time, and thinking $50,000 a year wasted for advice to keep their waists fastened, will snatch up the precious paper.

What would be the result? Well, the judge simply would have to pay his way into the games — that's about all.

The Tigers may not go to the coast next year "because there are so many chances of making whoopee" out there. Mr. O'Gootty says they ought to find some other town in which to play their home games, too.

Speaking of Whoopee, that reminds us that George Uhle is with the Tigers this year.

A writer called Boston the home of the two great battlers, John L. Sullivan and Jack Sharkey. And it was Holy Week, too.

quest, the Delta Tau here declared in a letter that such a rule as he proposed could only be enforced in two ways: (1) By a system of fines for violations, which would make the officers of the Chapter "no more than snooters" on their fellows, or (2) By application of the honor system, which "would create an unhealthy atmosphere for the existence of the honor code."

Furthermore, it was contended, the law was "impracticable of enforcement because of its unpopularity."

The outspoken stand of the "Deltas" had a number of electrifying results. The travelling secretary of the national organization of the fraternity made an inspection trip here, and the Chapter is now threatened with revocation of its charter.

C. E. Cuddy of Roanoke, president of the local Chapter, went to New York today to confer with officials of the Arch Chapter. Before leaving he gave International News Service the following statement:

"Charges which place our Chapter before the public as a distillery and a renegade in the sight of the University of Virginia are entirely unfounded."

"The statement that liquor is being distilled in the basement of the fraternity house is absurd in itself. It is further charged we have refused to cooperate with the university in efforts to reduce drinking here. On the contrary, we, with other fraternities, have given the authorities every assurance of our cooperation in the elimination of drinking. As far as we know there is no issue between the authorities and this fraternity. It is true that the national body has instituted proceedings with the purport of an investigation looking to the withdrawal of the charter of this chapter. This, however, is a matter between the national fraternity and ourselves."

People who believe there are no more cantinables should go see a game of water polo.

Kindergarten Pupil Breaks An Arm in Fall on Waxed Floor at "Green."

A protest is likely to be entered against the use of the assembly hall at the Manchester Green school for dancing and card parties as the result of an accident to a kindergarten child that occurred yesterday afternoon.

Because of the crowded condition of the school it is necessary to use the auditorium for the kindergarten class. Yesterday, Marjorie McMann, age 5 years, a kindergarten pupil, slipped and fell on the floor, breaking an arm.

THREE STRAIGHT HORSES

In the bad old days when the boys used to shake dice on the mahogany, two "horses" out of three did the trick. But today there are three straight horses in the news. It develops that Cheney Brothers, who have owned more horses in their time than a cavalry corps, have just disposed of the last survivor of their industrial stables. It also develops that the Town of Manchester, which became motorized 100 per cent, a year or so ago, finds that after all it cannot get along without a horse at the town farm, and Town Treasurer George E. Keith has been authorized by the selectmen to buy one.

COULDGE A DIRECTOR

New York, April 10.—Former President Calvin Coolidge has been appointed a director of the New York Life Insurance Company to fill the post left vacant by the death of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, an official announcement issued today by the company said.

In a letter to Darwin P. Ingle, president of the insurance company, Mr. Coolidge formally accepted the nomination. He will be elected to the post at the May meeting of the directors.

HOLDS DRIVER RESPONSIBLE

Bridgport, April 10.—Edgar Haugh, of Danbury, was today held criminally responsible for the death of Mrs. A. B. See of Danbury, in an automobile accident in that town last Saturday morning, according to a finding handed down here by Coroner John J. Phelan. The coroner declared that the evidence showed Haugh was intoxicated at the time the accident occurred. He and two women, one Mrs. C. H. H. of Danbury, were returning from a North Salem, N. Y., tea house when Haugh drove his car into a road pole and wrecked it.

Prohibition Agent John J. Mitchell followed Beazell. He said Agent James White introduced him to Miss Guinan at the club.

The introduction, "This is the famous Texas Guinan," White said in introducing Mitchell, agent on stand.

"What's famous about you?" Mitchell testified he inquired of Texas.

"Don't you know?" came back Texas. "I'm Mary Pickford."

Mitchell testified that Texas appeared to be the big boss of the club. He said she gave orders to the orchestra and waiters.

"She was also master of ceremonies," said Mitchell.

"What did that include?" asked Assistant U. S. Attorney Norman Morrison, sent on here from Washington by Mabel Willebrandt to prosecute Miss Guinan.

"Quitting down all the drinks," answered Mitchell.

CASCARETS STRENGTHEN THE BOWELS

HANDY HINGED-TOP TIN BOXES THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

The ugliest wrinkles are those made in the face from smiling when you feel like cussin'."

INSTEAD of exercise

Millions of busy men and women are learning the secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Cascarets give your bowels as much real exercise as they get from an hour with the boxing gloves! Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things produce only mechanical or chemical action. They weaken your bowels.

Every time you use Cascarets your bowels become stronger. They are made from Casara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this! That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million boxes a year, and people everywhere depend on them to relieve headaches, biliousness, dizziness, bloating, indigestion, constipation, etc.

NIGHT CLUB OWNER IS GIVEN HEARING

Texas Guinan Before Judge Thomas on Charge of Selling Liquor.

New York, April 10.—The United States government yesterday entertained Texas Guinan in a courtroom.

Entertained a charge of maintaining a nuisance in connection with the sale of liquor in her former night club, the Salon Royale.

Entertained her with evidence by Prohibition Agent James L. White, who testified to at least twelve visits to the club when he purchased liquor, saw men throw and "dragged" out, listened to Texas singing songs which thumbed a figurative nose against the dignity of law and order.

And most damaging of all, the hawk-nosed, dapper, sleek-haired prohibition agent, who comes from Colorado, declared that Texas said she owned a fifty-fifty interest in the club, and at another time when he ordered liquor declared "we only have white wine left."

Texas Calm
Texas, resplendent in cables of diamonds about her wrists (not to mention similar decorative effects surrounding her neck and fingers), appeared unperturbed by the evidence.

"The only thing that worries me," said the lass who made "suckers" famous, "is that I wish Agent White would say salon instead of saloon. His English ain't so good."

As luncheon recess was declared, Texas passed the witness on the way out and wagged her finger at White, like a mother reproving a child.

"You know you're an awful, awful liar," she said, laughingly.

Morrison's Charge
Assistant U. S. Attorney Norman Morrison especially, designated by Assistant Attorney General Mabel Willebrandt, to prosecute the case, charged Texas with being a stimulator of "whoopie" in the "institution."

Agent White further added to the entertainment by relating how Texas sang "Out the Window. He Must Go" when an intoxicated patron was ejected.

Another time Texas sang a song entitled "If They Padlock Us Here We'll Open Another Place in Chicago," according to the witness.

White reacted in full a song, alleged to have indirectly thumbed its nose at the law, which Texas sang.

It went like this:

"It's tough to be a hostess in a Broadway cabaret

"It's tough to holler 'hello, sucker.'

"When you want to fall in love until you are almost sick

"You use your art and wiles and every woman's trick

"And then I found my lover was a Central Office Dick."

(Correspondent's Note to Readers: For those who do not know anything about music a "Dick" is Broadwayese for "detective.")

Before they began picking a jury for her case, Tex witnessed a dozen of the waiters in her club "The Salon Royale" plead guilty.

She appeared indignant that they should plead that way.

"They're all foreigners," she said. "They don't know what the prohibition law is all about."

The twelve lined up behind one another to enter guilty pleas before Federal Judge Edwin Thomas, of Connecticut, rated the "Tough Judge."

"All those men couldn't be guilty," declared Tex, looking at the lineup.

Despite the fact that it was Judge Thomas who sentenced her brother Tommy Guinan to jail on liquor conviction, Texas said "she liked the looks of the judge."

Texas, with Helen Morgan, actress and night club hostess, were at first indicted for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws but later the indictments were changed to charge them with maintaining a nuisance. Miss Morgan goes on trial after Texas finishes her act.

Theaters

At The State
Tonight the State theater will be turned over to the senior class of the South Manchester High School who will present their scheduled benefit program for the purpose of raising money for their Washington trip fund.

A splendid double feature bill has been arranged, both of the attractions ranking among the most popular releases of the season.

John Barrymore, who is recognized as one of America's most distinguished actors, has the principle role in "Tempest," a United Artists' Sound picture, which is one of the two features here today and tomorrow.

"Tempest" is a thrilling and colorful drama of the early periods of Russian history when the strong hand of the Czar ruled supreme. The entire production is filled with fiery romance and fast-moving action. It presents Barrymore in the most vivid characterization of his screen career.

The second film feature presents Buster Keaton, the popular film comedian, in his latest and greatest fun special, "Spite Marriage."

In this rib-tickling comedy, Buster is seen as a young bridegroom who tries hard to prove to his pretty wife that he is a man of brave and intellectual ability. And, believe us, he has some job.

A snappy variety of State Short Subjects will also be shown in conjunction with the two features.

FRADIN'S OBSERVES 6TH ANNIVERSARY

Unusual Values Offered to Shoppers Here at Birthday Celebration.

For many years now Fradin's store has been celebrating its birthday anniversaries at this time of year. The event has become one of wide-spread interest to Manchester and suburban shoppers. Such a reputation for value giving has been built up that the thousands of women of this city and surrounding towns wait for this event, coming as it does in the height of the spring season. This is Fradin's sixth anniversary.

Never before has so much thought and action been given to this store-wide celebration. Weeks of preparation has meant larger stocks with lower prices, an accomplishment of this store that is widely known. Fradin's have determined to create greater savings for their customers than ever before and assure you that this merchandising event will surpass all similar successes that have marked the progress of the store.

J. Fradin.

Since Mr. Fradin came to town he has endeavored to secure public confidence through a consistent policy of honest merchandising, truthful advertising, courteous service and fair prices. The policy has brought hundreds of customers to the store and has laid the foundation for an ever increasing business.

For weeks, and with untiring efforts Mr. Fradin has scoured the markets to bring to Manchester the latest styles in apparels at lowest prices. Affiliations with the organization of 90 stores all over the country enables Mr. Fradin to assemble a stock of spring apparel of style and quality that will be appreciated by all his present customers and many new ones.

Mr. Fradin wants to have this anniversary event be one of a renewal of acquaintances among his hundreds of customers. He will be pleased to see them and welcome them.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

A list of operators whose licenses have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the State Motor Vehicle Department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of these drivers operating motor vehicles.

HOWELL, LOOTER OF CARS, GETS PRISON

Stormy Petrel Draws Two and Half Years—Powers Put on Probation.

William Earl Howell, 26, of Cooper Hill street, who recently failed in two separate attempts to commit suicide by slashing his wrists while in jail, was sentenced yesterday to serve from two and a half to three and a half years in the state prison at Wethersfield, when convicted on a charge of larceny in Tolland county superior court in Rockville.

Howell, who was arrested with William E. Powers for stealing clothing and supplies from automobiles parked outside the meeting place of the Vernon Center Grange one night last February, was arrested several weeks later in New York City, mainly through information supplied by the Manchester police department. At that time he made a futile attempt to escape.

Probation for Powers.
In court, yesterday, Howell pleaded guilty before Judge Allyn L. Brown. Powers was given a suspended sentence to the Cheshire Reformatory and placed on probation for a year. Rev. James Stuart, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church here, was appointed as special probation officer to see that Powers conducts himself properly.

FREIGHTER AGROUND

Woods Hole, Mass., April 10.—The freight steampship Ala, carrying forty officers and men and a general cargo from Boston to Philadelphia, was locked hard and fast for four hours on treacherous Nobska Point at the entrance to Woods Hole today.

The Ala anchored off shore for some time after being freed and noles below the waterline were plugged preparatory to proceeding to New York for complete repairs. The freighter apparently went off her course in rounding Nobska Point.

PARENTS UNDERSTOOD

THIS BABY'S LANGUAGE

"We thought we were going to lose our baby, teething," says a Kentucky mother. "He couldn't digest anything and was getting thinner every day. After one of his fretful, crying nights, I thought of Castoria and got some. A few drops made him comfortable, and after a few doses, he seemed like a different baby." Doctors everywhere recommend purely-vegetable, harmless Castoria for colic, constipation, croup and other ills of babies and children, and millions of mothers know its gentle influence is best. Avoid imitations. The Fletcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria.

SINCLAIR

For seven years the oil scandals have rung in the ears of the nation almost unceasingly. Practically every move ever made in the raising of the federal oil reserves by speculators and government officials in collusion has been laid bare over and over again. There has been inquiry upon inquiry and trial upon trial and now, at the end of it all, Harry F. Sinclair must go to jail for three months. Fall and Doherty have definitely escaped all legal penalty. Sinclair alone is the goat. And even his punishment has nothing to do with the oil deals themselves but is imposed for an offense for which his enormously highly paid lawyers are entirely responsible. They told him not to answer questions put by the famous oil probe committee of the Senate. He followed their instructions—and for doing that he is to go to prison.

It is not much of a sentence that Sinclair is to serve—ninety days in the common jail of the District of Columbia—but it will be a bitter dose for this free living multimillionaire. He will become a fellow prisoner with the riff-raff of the national capital—only about one of three of them white men. He will probably be cellmate with a cheap bootlegger or a wife beater. He will have a job—washing dishes or clothes, maybe, or just possibly keeping the accounts of the jail kitchen. For this is no pampered county jail, but one under the direct eye of the Congress which he defied and insulted—and it would be a brave jailer who gave him any more consideration than the law permits.

And the worst of it is, from the Sinclair point of view, that there is another and longer sentence to the same jail hanging over him—one of six months for contempt of court in having the jury in his trial with Fall followed by detectives. That sentence is yet to be passed on by the Supreme Court—but that court has no loving illusions concerning one Harry Sinclair, as has already been shown on two celebrated occasions.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

The United States Supreme Court's decision denying the Interborough Company's inherent right to establish a seven-cent subway fare in New York is of interest to all parts of the country for two reasons, one of general application and the other relating to a problem by which almost all states and cities are confronted.

It is of broad general interest that the court has made short shrift of the claim of the Interborough that it was entitled to relief by the federal courts because it was threatened with "confiscation" by the state. This is a term which has been heard much too frequently in recent years. Whenever any city or state takes measures to restrict or control a public service corporation it has become the fashion for the latter to set up the cry that its values are being "confiscated" and to threaten to appeal to the United States courts for the protection of its constitutional guarantees. In the present case the bluff has been called, and the issue is a highly satisfactory one.

It is of special and particular interest to those communities where trolley companies are perpetually seeking to be relieved of the obligation to operate minor lines not productive of profit, retaining only the "gravy" lines where the operating gains are high, that the Supreme Court has ruled indirectly on this question in the present case. The ruling is that the Interborough subway lines and the elevated lines, one profitable and the other unprofitable, should be considered as a unit for fixing rates. Beyond much doubt this establishes a precedent for the consideration, as a unit, of the profitable and unprofitable lines of a trolley company, not merely for rate fixing, but in relation to maintaining service to the public. It is a poor rule that won't work both ways, and the Interborough decision may very well be invoked hereafter by utilities boards when electric railroad corporations seek to get rid of their "deadwood" lines at no matter what inconvenience to the public.

BAY STATE POLITICS

Throughout central and western Massachusetts the sound of the raspery is heard in the land as former Governor Alvan T. Fuller, abandoning all idea of becoming an ambassador, lets it be known that he would as soon as not make the run for the Senate in 1930 against whatever candidate the Democrats can trot out. Central and western Massachusetts Republicans do not seem to care so greatly for Fuller as they did in a time now quite long gone by. They have come to the conclusion that he belongs too intimately to the "Boston crowd" and they have no idea of letting any of the Boston crowd walk off with the job of their own Freddie Gillett.

To be sure Senator Gillett will be a hundred years old in twenty-two years more, if he lives that long—and likely enough he will; but his neighbors in the western half of the Bay state would rather have an eighty-year-old senator whom they like than a fifty-two-year-old candidate for senator whom they don't like, and who, to attain to election, must invent some way of blemishing the public's memory of recent revelations in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

As for Calvin Coolidge's possible candidacy, Western Massachusetts evidently doesn't believe it is possible at all. And therein Western Massachusetts shows that it knows more than a lot of folks in Washington and elsewhere who are doing much guessing about Bay State politics. It can't imagine cautious Calvin, in the light of his several recent experiences with the temper of the voters in his home state, taking the chance of being licked in a senatorial fight by any such spouting fountain of words as Honey Fitz—that would be a terrible anti-climax for a successful retired President.

Western Massachusetts knows well enough that the Coolidge talk is blab, and as it is out to beat the Boston crowd at all costs, and Fuller at all costs plus interest, it is steadily adhering to the honorable Freddie—who really is entitled to another term, anyhow, because his first one was so horribly ruined by the intrusions of the impossible Butler.

NO TIME FOR NONSENSE

While the action of Secretary Stimson, in washing his hands of the Curtis-Gann precedence row, was unexpected, in view of the fact that for many years the settlement of such matters has been regarded as an historic if unofficial function of his department, we are not sure, upon reflection, that the secretary has not taken the best possible course. Refusal of the State Department to follow the policy of the past in dignifying purely social problems with its monitoring is certainly an evidence of correct appraisal of the importance and value of such controversies as the present one—which are nil.

"The United States government," says Mr. Stimson in effect, "doesn't care an official hoot what a foreign diplomat or anybody else does in the matter of seating his guests, or inviting them or leaving them off the guest list. Do as you please."

The problem, then, resolves itself into one for solution by social experts who have the time and the calibre of mind for such puzzles. Nobody in official Washington is going to make any trouble for anybody else over the ridiculous Curtis-Gann episode. The Vice-President seems to be the only member of the administration who doesn't realize that the position of guests at a dinner party has nothing in the world to do with the business of running the United States.

SMALL BEGINNINGS

The Bridgeport Post, which has just moved into a completely modern plant, had occupied at least four homes previously in the 45 years of its existence. It has come from smaller beginnings, probably, than any other newspaper of importance in New England. It was the outgrowth of an amateur print shop run by two brothers as a part time proposition, both of them being employed in a Bridgeport factory. One day the brothers had a hundred dollar windfall and on the strength of it they established a tiny little neighborhood daily newspaper, printed on a platen job press. It was about the size of a pocket-handkerchief and consisted of four four-column pages. It dealt only with matters and affairs of the East Side of the city. In no time at all it became an institution, moved across the bridges and gave battle to the existing three dailies. As it grew it moved again and again. Now it believes it has found a permanent home. We don't know how much it would take to buy the Post today, but probably several million dollars. Which isn't so bad, out of a hundred dollar stake.

FOLLOWING THROUGH

Down in Meriden the authorities have instituted a graduated scale of punishment for persons who maintain gambling machines. The fine is $50 for the standard slug machines, $10 for the penny-in-the-slot variety. This appears to be based on the theory that the seriousness of the offense depends on the amount of money the machine steals from the customers. Following up that idea, when an honest roulette wheel loses money for the house—which the things sometimes do—the court ought to indemnify the gambler who owns it for his loss, the money to come out of the public funds.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—Despite all the whoop-te-doo over the fact that a dry congressman found himself in trouble with the prohibition laws, there is probably less liquor at the capitol today than there ever was. The Michelson incident has undoubtedly scared some members, but the tendency toward caution began some time ago. Congressmen have learned to use discretion. They have learned, in most cases, that it doesn't do to vote for a law designed to send people to prison for five years and then openly flout that law. Too many persons are apt to be sore about it.

Thus the members of the Senate and the House who keep liquor in their offices have become fewer and fewer, among the dry contingent especially. And there is not so much public drinking, either by legislators or government officials here. No new test-tasters are reported, of course, but conditions aren't as smelly as they were.

Several Kinds of Them

1. The man who votes dry, professes to be dry and is dry.
2. The man who votes dry, professes to be dry and is wet.
3. The man who votes dry, professes to be wet and is wet.
4. The man who votes wet, professes to be wet and is wet.
5. The man who votes wet, professes to be dry and is wet.

The third group is the smallest. One of them is a western congressman who was quoted as saying last fall to his constituents that he voted dry but when offered a drink "acted just like everybody else."

Another is Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina, who says: "Everybody in South Carolina knows I take a drink. I get up on the stump and tell 'em I do. But I'm representing my constituents when I vote dry."

Senator Blease is a bluff, florid-faced, frank, plain-talking gent of 60, who wears suspenders, colored shirts, butterfly neckties and no vest. Some people contend that he is no statesman, but he has practiced law for 40 years, knows human nature, says what he likes and isn't letting anyone put anything over on South Carolina.

He says South Carolina produces the best corn liquor in the world, just as Congressman Charles M. Stedman of North Carolina says the best corn liquor in the world comes from North Carolina. Spokesmen for other southern states deny both claims.

"I myself wouldn't keep liquor in my office or in my house," Blease told your correspondent, "though I'm not saying what other people ought to do."

"I haven't any liquor in my office now or in my hotel room. I couldn't get any into my house, anyway, because Mrs. Blease is a prohibitionist."

"But if you ask me if I will have a drink that's something else. There isn't any law against taking a drink."

"If I buy it I'm conniving at a violation of the law. And if I carry it I'm transporting it, in violation of the law. I don't believe any public servant ought to take any part in law violation."

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

THE CAUSES OF APPENDICITIS.

Appendicitis never develops suddenly in a mysterious manner. It must be preceded by a chronic inflammation of the appendix, or a sluggish caecum for a long time before one can develop an acute attack. Such foods as starches, when eaten in too large a quantity and improperly digested, accumulate in the ascending colon and, if they remain too long, ferment and produce large quantities of gas and cause a dilatation of the colon in the area of the appendix. When this backing up and sluggishness has continued for months, or even years, it is easy to understand that this start of the alimentary canal can become irritated and inflamed. Colitis is the inevitable result and this spreads to the appendix, or a particle of fecal matter may actually be forced into the appendix, which then becomes inflamed. It usually succeeds in forcing these fecal particles back into the colon.

The condition of chronic appendicitis and sluggish colon need not exist, providing the simplest hygienic rules are followed. Constipation must be entirely overcome and colitis prevented. This can easily be accomplished by following five simple rules:

First, have regular times for evacuating the bowels every day, and do not wait for them to notify you that they are full.

Second, once or twice daily take a system of setting-up, exercises, and especially use the ones while lying on your back on the floor such as raising the legs and the trunk, and in this way strengthen your abdominal muscles.

Third, eat a large quantity of green and non-starchy vegetables both in the cooked and raw forms. Fourth, walk three to five miles daily.

Fifth, whenever you feel a discomfort in the intestines, it is a good plan to use no food but some acid fruit for a few days. Do not use too many sugars and starches, and avoid any combination of food which will produce flatulence.

If you will follow these rules it will be practically impossible for you to develop colitis and will, therefore, be impossible for you to develop appendicitis. Until constipation and bowel fermentation have been overcome entirely, it is a good plan to take at least one enema daily to keep your bowels as clean as possible.

Out of thousands of cases of chronic and acute appendicitis which I have handled in the past twenty years, I have never yet had to sign a single death certificate, and the treatment has been essentially the same in all cases as described in yesterday's article. It some cases it was apparent that the pus sac had formed and was already broken before treatment was started, but this pus was absorbed and eliminated during the fasting treatment. I have carried some patients through several days of delirium while the pus was being absorbed, but in every case the patient got well.

Do not delay in following out these when you feel the first symptoms of appendicitis, because by beginning the treatment early enough you can save yourself much time and avoid much discomfort. If you have not had an attack of acute appendicitis, but feel a discomfort in the lower right section of your abdomen, it is a good plan to undergo a corrective diet so that you will not develop appendicitis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

(Baby Perspires.)

Question: Mrs. O. J. O. writes: "Our baby boy nearly four months old is in the best of health, but perspires so much about the head. When he wakes up his pillow will be soaked, and when he nurses (he is breast fed) the sweat just pours off his head. I have been told it is the sign of rickets. Is this so? Also, he is very constipated and I give him milk of magnesia every day."

Answer: The cause of the baby perspiring heavily is probably due to the fact that you have too many clothes on him, or that he is wrapped too warmly when nursing. It is not necessary to have a great deal of covering on babies, and this is a great mistake that so many mothers make. Of course, I cannot tell you whether or not the case of this condition in your baby is rickets without having the opportunity of making an examination, but will gladly send you an article on this subject if your doctor believes this to be responsible.

(Meat Substitutes.)

Question: Mrs. B. writes: "I have been a vegetarian for a number of years but notice that you advocate meat in your menus frequently. What could I use as a substitute?"

Answer: A vegetarian is someone who limits his diet to protein in the diet. A lacto-vegetarian may use cheese, milk and eggs to supply protein. The vegetarian who insists on no animal products would necessarily be limited to the nuts and legumes for the foods which are rich in proteins. Of course, other foods contain quite a percentage of protein as well—even cereals and potatoes. I advocate meat in the menu because I have found it is more readily digested and assimilated than the other protein foods.

WATKINS BROTHERS

54 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

IN NEW YORK

Son of Millionaire Wanders With Gypsy Players, Though Father Won't Stake Him—$100 a Day Paid Girl Smokers.

New York, April 10—The "Big Town" gossip, Jo Davidson, the internationally famous sculptor, returned to Paris the other day because he couldn't find an American barber who could trim his whiskers properly.

And a group of "gypsy" players, who wander through the eastern countryside of summer months putting on old English comedies, has as its star performer one Bushnell Cheney. He happens to be the son and heir to the silk millions, yet he prefers the vagabond trail of his theater group to the financial world in which he could cut a wide figure. And they do say that Cheney Sr. has steadfastly refused to underwrite the traveling plays for a single dime.

And Molly Picon, who is "the darling of the East Side," will soon be known to a national audience, thanks to the talkies. Although the favorite of the Ghetto for years, she will be "seen and heard" by tens of thousands of New Yorkers for the first time. Which is a typical example of things in Manhattan. They could go to see her in the flesh for the expenditure of a nickel's carefare. And, whether or not you believe it, I know scads of people who have never been on Second avenue, which is the East Side's Broadway.

And one of the biggest cigaret concerns in America has been paying several smartly dressed young women $100 a day to parade up and down the "Avenue," smoking as they go. The first appearance was made during the Easter parade. The idea is to accustom the world to seeing women smoke in the streets, with an eye, of course, to future sales.

New York's richest woman, I am informed, is Mrs. Payne Whitney. The late Payne Whitney is said to have left a fortune of $200,000,000. But her taste is not for display; nor does she fancy the limelight. One of Manhattan's most modest inhabitants, her ambition is to write good poetry. She already has two volumes of adult verse and one written for her two children. These have not been given general public circulation.

In contrast is that new generation of publicity mad rich folk who go to extreme lengths to gain even slight recognition. Whereas the richest and most important of the social figures lives unobtrusively, the hundreds of "would-be" make frantic efforts to seem important. I know of at least a dozen who actually hire press agents to keep their names in the newspapers. They organize their campaigns like a theatrical production about to go out on the road.

One of the latest rackets is to "be seen" at snappy night club openings or at first night performances of certain Broadway plays. The "second-string" columnists, who prepare for the Manhattan dailies items concerning who was at such-and-such a place, are almost certain to mention them. A trick costume at a charity fete is generally good for a picture in the rotogravure sections of the Sunday papers. And the endorsement of everything from a brand of cigarets to a beauty cream in a profitable source of income, as well as a means of getting their pictures in the papers. The "younger set" is particularly active in this connection, and such is the social competition in a great city like New York that some go to amazing lengths to keep their names before the public. Not even the chorines, the movie ladies or Broadway actresses are more versatile at space grabbing.

JUAREZ EVACUATED

El Paso, Texas, April 10—Juarez was completely evacuated of Mexican rebel troops today. Gen. Marcelo Caraveo led the last remnants of the insurgent garrison out of the city late last night. Caraveo's trains left toward Casas Grandes. Only a civilian guard was left in control of the city to prevent looting. The Federals were reported within ten miles of Juarez at the time of Caraveo's evacuation. It is understood the Federals will enter the city sometime today.

EVERY ROOM FURNISHES DECORATING PROBLEM

Each One Is Different in Itself and Must Be Treated in Accordance With Own Type.

In home decorating, every room in every home furnishes a different problem. Hardly two can be treated alike, for all rooms are either different in architecture or are built into homes of varying types; have a different exposure or the exposure changed by nearby trees or houses; or the fixed background, such as floors, walls, ceilings, woodwork trim and lighting fixtures are different.

Just such problems as the average person finds in furnishing his or her own home were solved by Watkins Brothers when they furnished and decorated Manchester's Model Home at Marvin Green which is now open for inspection.

The living room of the home was found to have exposure to south, west and north . . . located on the warmest corner of the house yet slightly to the northern light and at the same time open to the rays of the afternoon sun due to the absence of trees outside. The walls had been tinted an unusual brown color very pleasing in the completed scheme, but nevertheless bringing more warmth into this already warm room. The woodwork, including the mantel piece, is also finished in a warm, walnut color.

In choosing their color scheme, Watkins Brothers selected a plain jade green, seamless carpet in a rug size to cover the floor. The plain covering, unbroken by design, gives space to the room; seems to make it larger; pushing back the walls that have a tendency to make the room seem smaller than it actually is, due to their warm, advancing tones. As an added dash of color, however, a bright rug, a reproduction of a rare Oriental, in reds, greens and blues, is placed before the hearth.

Following this general color scheme, two of the main pieces of the room, the davenport and an arm chair, have been covered in a dark green, wool tapestry with a small pattern showing touches of henna. The decorators selected a Jacobean patterned cretonne having a blue and henna pattern on a light background, for the window hangings and for the covering of a second, large upholstered chair. This fabric was selected for three reasons. First, the fact that the walls and the floor were plain and the two major pieces of upholstery were practically plain, together with an abundance of plain wood used in both furniture and trim, a figured fabric was the natural thing to use to add interest to the room. Second, the Jacobean type of design and the texture of the material was appropriate for the room as the house is of a modified Early English design. Third, the colors, combining the warm henna and the cooling blue, harmonized perfectly with the greens and browns of the balance of the room and introduced a third color.

In selecting the furnishings the first question to settle was, What is the room to be used for? To live in, of course, but just chairs would not be enough. Perhaps the lady of the house would like a desk to use during the afternoon which would come in equally handy at night when school lessons must be learned. Unquestionably the youngsters of the house would be learning music, too, a piano was a necessity as well as a means of entertainment. Chairs would have to be comfortable and of varied sizes.

With the needs considered and the pieces to be used selected, the arrangement came next. Due to a door, it was impossible to place the davenport in the most preferred place . . . directly across from the fireplace . . . so it was moved down on the same wall to the right to give a proper balance to the room and at the same time not too far from the hearth. A comfortable chair was arranged at each side of the open fire for those who would want to get closer to the warmth on cold winter evenings. The grand piano was placed in such a position that it is a point of interest from the hall, yet placed so that the light from the south window falls over the players left arm, and at the same time the player can easily face the room.

Not a chair will be found, with the exception, of course, of the desk chair, which will not make it possible to carry on conversation with anyone in the room without shifting about. The desk will be found placed so that there is a window at the left of the writer as it is in a corner almost isolated from the rest of the room.

Each chair has its table nearby to hold books, magazines, candy or smoking equipment and each chair also has its lamp for evening use. A coffee table is near to one of the fire place chairs and the desk, piano and davenport are also furnished with properly placed lamps.

So we find, after carefully analyzing a room like this, that everything has a reason for being as and where it is and that this particular room has been given careful thought and planning. "Only by such attention to the smallest details can a truly correct decorating scheme be achieved," say Watkins Brothers, the decorators and furnishers of the Model Home.

DEEP SNOW IN BERKSHIRES

Pittsfield, Mass., April 10.—A severe snowstorm swept the Berkshire hills today delaying automobile traffic over the principal roads. At the top of the Berkshire trail in the Town of Windsor snow was 12 inches deep at 1 p. m. and still falling fast. Conditions were the same on Jacob's Ladder and Lebanon mountains.

The storm extended across Massachusetts to the sea coast.

We have to laugh when we hear some birds call themselves "Misses." Did you ever hear Lincoln called Mister?

SMITH VS. COUGHLIN SUIT NOW ENDED

Bondsman Pays Court Costs and Case That Interested North End Is Concluded.

The final curtain has descended on the Smith vs. Coughlin lawsuit that has attracted considerable attention especially among the North End residents. With the finding that Smith had no right to be where he was when he fell and that he was a trespasser, the only remaining question was that of a bond. Edgar Mohr, who had signed the bond in the spirit of good fellowship, decided when the case looked real serious to have nothing further to do with it and withdrew as bondsman. A new bondsman was secured. Mohr withdrew and took a receipt to that effect. The bondsman that succeeded him has now settled the costs. The case is ended but the argument lingers on.

AUTO DRIVER JAILED

Middletown, April 10.—John L. Hall, of Essex, a factory foreman, was sent to prison today for a term of one to three years and fined $500 after Judge Carl Foster, in Superior Court, found Hall guilty of a charge of homicide with a motor vehicle.

When Frederick Kriesling, of Middletown, was run down and killed by an unknown driver on Christmas night, 1928, state police took up the search, and eventually arrested Hall. Hall later admitted the blame, according to police, but today he told the court that James Buckston, of Essex, was driving the car when it struck Kriesling. Buckston testified that he drove the machine from Essex to Middletown while Hall drove it back and was involved in the accident.

BIG LINERS TO RACE

New York, April 10.—Prospects of as merry a big boat race as ever was held on the old Mississippi or any of the seven seas loomed today as the huge Leviathan, now privately owned, got steam up in her enormous boilers to sail at 10 a. m.

And while the former U. S. government ship was putting everything ship-shape at her pier over in Hoboken, the crack Cunarder Mauretania was being given the last touches for her sailing this evening at 5 p. m. from her Hudson river dock.

Line officials had nothing to say for or against the report that there was to be a race of races across the Atlantic with the Cunarder giving her Leviathan rival a seven hour handicap. The Mauretania holds all or nearly all speed records for trans-Atlantic trips.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

J. C. Caldwell, M.D. AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.

HUPMOBILE
reduces all prices $55⁰⁰ to $260⁰⁰

to give the motoring public immediate advantage of HUPMOBILE'S new expansion program

Early in January HUPMOBILE acquired a new plant in Cleveland, comprising more than a million square feet of modern and advanced automotive manufacturing facilities.

This was the first step in HUPMOBILE'S 1929 program of expansion, giving HUPMOBILE a doubled production capacity for its famous Century cars.

Now comes the second step; that of passing along to the public the economies which HUPMOBILE'S extended production plans make feasible.

These price reductions embrace all models in the 1929 HUPMOBILE Century Six and Eight lines and range from $55.00 to $260.00.

Consistently, for more than twenty years, HUPMOBILE has won and held its public by fine motor car quality at notably low prices.

But today, in this new schedule of prices, HUPMOBILE excels itself in value-giving.

An Invitation to the Homemakers of South Manchester

Mary Dunbar

Will Conduct Two Homemaking Classes At This Store Thursday, Apr. 11th, Only 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Homemakers of South Manchester and Manchester are cordially invited to be Miss Dunbar's guest at this store Thursday afternoon and evening. Miss Dunbar will give you some new and interesting ideas in cooking and entertaining.

Miss Dunbar received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Economics at the Kansas State College. She also took up post graduate work in food nutrition at the University of Wisconsin. She has been head dietitian at three of the largest Chicago hospitals. Miss Dunbar has also traveled from coast to coast giving interesting lectures on diet and nutrition. She is now connected with the Jewel Tea Company as their head dietitian in the home service department.

Classes Will Be Held On Our Second Floor

plan to make another attack upon the town to prevent the possibility of being harassed by a third Federal force from the north.

ALMAZAN'S CAMPAIGN
Mexico City, April 10.—General J. Andreu Almazan, dashing commander of the Federal expeditionary force which recaptured Monterrey from the rebels at the beginning of the revolution and then successively took Saltillo, Torreon, Jimenez, La Reforma, Chihuahua City and many less important places, today informed President Portes Gil that he expected to enter Ciudad Juarez, the border town opposite El Paso, before nightfall.
Almazan's troops entered Chihuahua City late yesterday without encountering opposition. Gen. Marcelo Caraveo's rebel force in the city had evacuated northward this morning within a few miles of Ciudad Juarez.
In his dispatch to the president, Almazan said the "pacification of the State of Chihuahua was virtually completed." He added that he had received an offer of surrender from the rebel garrison at Ciudad Juarez to which Caraveo had retreated.

EXPECTS NO OPPOSITION
Although the Federal expeditionary force consists of 10,000 men including infantry, cavalry, artillery, and bombing planes, sufficient to overwhelm the rebels garrison, Almazan does not expect to have to use force to take the city. The rebels are now reported to have evacuated Juarez westward for a last stand in Sonora. Almazan will push on towards Casas Grandes in pursuit.

A battle now looms on the west coast at San Blas, Sinaloa, according to dispatches from Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, Federal commander of the force which is pushing the rebels northward.

NOON STOCKS

New York, April 10.—Stock prices in most sections of the market were forced moderately upward this forenoon on a wave of speculative buying which represented mostly the short covering of the traders who were "jumping on the market" in yesterday's 10 per cent money flurry.
Word was passed around that something important would happen in the money and credit situation within the next two weeks, probably the abandonment of the Reserve Board's deflation program, on the understanding that the warnings had accomplished their purpose in staying off a season of wild speculation in the stock market.

Wooth's new 4-point jump to 218 accompanied the announcement by president Hubert Parson that the stock would be split two-for-one and the par value of the stock reduced from 25 to 10. American Can was a favorite above 125.

Stockholders of the U. S. Steel Corporation will hold a special meeting on April 16 to receive a report on the plans of the directors for issuing the new stock and to pass upon the same. The price asked for the new stock will probably be stated, and this will establish the market value of the "rights" on the common stock. Steel Common has been a favorite this week and efforts to depress the stock have not been very successful.

Pool work in Yellow Truck was responsible for the new 3 1-2 point jump in the shares to 44 1-2 in active trading today.

Bankers meet today to vote on proposition to increase the charges for handling "street loans" for the out of town banks, which is another step in the process of making speculation a more expensive process.

Despite the softening of the copper metal market, stocks of the copper producers were active and strong in the second hour, with Anaconda in the lead this stock moved up 3 points to 144 1-2, while Kennecott gained 3 5-8 at 85 1-2 and Cerro de Pasco was well bought above 100. Nevada Consolidated and Smelters easily recovered their early losses. Trading showed down in many sections of the market in this period and prices moved in a narrow range.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent.

SNOW IN WINSTED

Winsted, April 10.—The expected happened today. Litchfield hills again wore their usual April coating of snow where two days ago they were steaming in a temperature well up in the eighties.

Norfolk had two inches of snow at eleven o'clock this morning, and Winsted had a half inch of snow and slush. The mercury at Norfolk was 34 and Winsted was only a fraction higher as to temperature.

When the rain and snow developed here Winsted firemen were still drying out hose they used on East Lake street to put out a brush fire that swept two acres of land but was stopped before it reached any buildings.

RICH GIRL POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MILDRED LAWRENCE, stenographer at the Judson Hotel, has her fox fur stolen from her in a crowd but STEPHEN ARMITAGE catches the thief and returns the scarf. He asks to take her home. Not wishing to seem ungrateful, she invites him to dinner.

Her evening is spoiled when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of her employer, phones Mildred to return to duty. Stephen escorts her to the hotel where Pamela recognizes him as the salesman who had sold her a car. She snubbed Mildred and tries to lure Stephen away by pretending she wants to buy another car. Then she meets HUCK CONNOR, who becomes infatuated with her, and she amuses herself by playing with both men.

When Stephen fears Mildred the manager asking her to be careful of Pamela will have her discharged. But this may not be so easy as her brother, HAROLD, is in love with Mildred. He is a weakling and Mildred permits him to gamble with her. However, he suspects that she cares more for Stephen than for him and refuses to stay one evening when he calls. As the weeks pass Mildred realizes that Harold is becoming hopelessly involved with Huck's gamblers and that Pamela is winning Stephen.

"I'm going up to Westchester with Harold Judson," she said when Connie answered her call. "Tell mother I'll be home later, maybe."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIV

It came to Mildred as a distinct shock that Harold was looking like a ghost. She'd been too greatly preoccupied with her own troubles to notice the change in him before it became pronounced.

But one day he stopped at her desk as usual and started his unending plea for a date and Mildred saw that the hand he held was the sheet of paper in her typewriter to make her stop working was decidedly unsteady.

She looked up at him then in swift alarm. His face confirmed her fear that something was wrong with him. There was a shadow in his sunken eyes and his skin was devoid of color. But it was the haunted, desperate expression of his eyes that startled her.

"Harold," she cried, and then hastily lowered her voice. "What is the matter?"

Harold was surprised, taken of his guard. "Noth—ing," he stammered. "What do you mean?"

"The way you look!" Mildred exclaimed. "Has anything happened to you?"

Harold had regained his poise. "Nothing has happened to me," he said doggedly, "except that I'm in a fever over you, as always. If you've any desire to help me let's have dinner together tonight and."

Mildred put a hand on his arm in an entreating gesture. "You'd better see a doctor," she said pleadingly. "You look terrible."

Harold covered her hand with one of his own. "You need all the medicine I need," he declared. "If you'd give me a chance to tell you how I need you, Mildred..."

"Please, Harold. People are looking at you."

"Let 'em look. Unless you're afraid Stephen Armitage might happen along and get an eyeful," he said carelessly.

"Don't be absurd," Mildred retorted—too quickly.

"Still thrilling to that poor animal cracker's love songs, are you?" Harold pressed, made unpleasant with his biting jealousy. "Well, from all the observation posts I've occupied, it looks like he's picked a balcony close to the dear old home sweet home for his love scenes. Thought he Johnny judgment. Nothing but Johnny, after all, trailing a girl like Pam."

"You're her brother," Mildred reminded him sharply.

"All the better to know her," Harold asserted. "But I'm not criticizing Pam. She can't help it if her aura is golden and... sticky. A man ought to know better than to get caught in it."

Mildred smiled kickedly. "But you spread the same lure in my way," she pointed out. "You'd buy what you want, too, if you could."

"Right! If you can't love me I'd rather have you love my gold than fall for someone else. And I'm glad to hear you say you think Pam has made up her mind to get the truth about Huck Connor if she could and she was prepared to stay out late to do it."

"Looks like the beginning of a happy evening," Harold told her. "Was afraid you'd want me to take you home when the curfew rang."

"It all depends upon you," Mildred warned him. "Don't make love to me and I'll be a regular Cinderella. Except that I haven't a ball dress."

"Want to stop at your place and change?" Harold asked.

"I'd like to, if you don't mind waiting, but there aren't any ball dresses in my wardrobe."

"You don't need fine feathers," "What's a married man's line, Harold?"

"But I'd like to dress you in..."

"I know; it's sweet of you," Mildred interrupted. "Come on; you know what's ahead of you before you get to Westchester."

"Policemen," Harold groaned, "on every corner."

But in spite of the impediments to their progress they both enjoyed the drive to Mildred's home, and Harold got only one ticket.

"Wait down here; I'll be just a minute," Mildred said at the entrance to her dwelling.

Her minute grew into 10, 15 and then Harold went up to remind her that he was waiting. At first no one answered his ring at the door. He pressed the button again, beginning to entertain a vague uneasiness. Presently he heard someone fumbling with the double lock; then the door was thrown open and Connie stood there in the hall with a white, frightened face and shaking hands that she put out impulsively when she recognized him.

"Oh," she cried, "we forgot all about you. Come in, please. Mother's had an accident."

She stepped back and Harold entered the hall. "Where's Mildred?" he asked. "Have you called a doctor?"

Connie nodded. "Mildred'did. She told me to go down to you; but mother was suffering so it slipped my mind."

"Can I be of any service? Get anything from the drug store?" Harold inquired.

"You might try. It's a very bad burn. We've put oil and flour on it and Dr. Brill will be here soon, but maybe the druggist could give you something to relieve the pain a little."

Harold was turning away when Mildred cried out in terror from her mother's room.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

I shall let Sam Brewster tell the story to you, as he told it to me—Sam's a great friend of mine. I taught him in school—now he's a man grown and doing well in business. Whenever I meet him he has a chin test. This time he got started on the Crider's, and Mrs. Crider, whom I know and like and admire.

"Harvey Crider's home, did you know?" said Sam. "Yes, he came home from Minneapolis for Easter. Got a few days off. He's been with a copper company ever since he graduated from college and I guess he's shooting right up. My folks are all away and they invited me over for dinner. Bee was there, too. She's got a good job with the St. A. vesting. Company—commercial art, you know, that's her line. I knew she'd make her mark some day. She used to do all the covers for the 'Armada' in high school. I was tickled pink when she got her chance to go to the university and study."

Sam was so suspiciously enthusiastic about Bee that I could scarcely get him back long enough to tell me about Mrs. Crider. "She's well, I hope?"

"Well, oh, yes! Just fine. My but she is a nice looking woman. And the best cook! The dinner was gorgeous. Their house always looks so cheerful and homelike and she makes you so welcome. I'd rather go there than home from college, too, and the twins Betty and Lon were right on hand. Nasty kids, though, I can't stand them."

"How's Mr. Crider?"

He grinned. "As sarcastic as ever. Gee I believe he gets worse! I hate the way he talks to his wife. And you know and I know all she's done for him. The family has to have a goat, I guess, and she's it. Whose fault is it, do you suppose? I pitched into Harv all right."

I think I startled Sam by answering. "Hers, very likely. The children took their cue from their mother when they were little and she stood for it. Now she has to. A mother should insist on respectful treatment from her children from babyhood on."

"Say—that's right, I guess," admitted Sam. "Yes, they always were easy to her and she stood for it. I remember, well, it's too bad, that's all I've got to say."

HOW TO ENRICH UNPRODUCTIVE SOIL IN GARDEN
BY ROMAINE B. WARE

If you have poor soil in your garden you need not think you cannot have a garden. Good gardens have been built up with only sea-shore sand to start with. Poor soil is generally sand, clay or gravel and all of them may be improved and all of them will be improved by the addition of humus. It is generally the humus content of the soil that gives it its quality. Of course if you have too much humus you will have a sour soil and will be unable to grow some things, but this is seldom found.

Humus may be added to the soil by several methods. Green manuring is practiced in many cases but is not practicable in a small plot. It consists of planting a cover crop of something like soy peas or soy beans and turning them under when fully grown and before the foliage begins to ripen. If this is done two or three times, even the poorest soil soon will become fertile. To small plots of soil, humus that is added by spading in well-rotted barnyard manure. If this is not to be had, you may use commercial humus that may be purchased by the sack. Pulverized peat moss will do the trick also, as will leaf mold.

Humus makes the soil friable, aids it to hold moisture, makes it possible for the bacterial life of the soil to operate. Without humus the soil is difficult to work and plants have a hard struggle to exist. Even in a heavy clay soil that makes like stone there is plenty of plant food if you can add humus to break up the cohesion of the clay. With the addition of humus, the soil may be worked and the working of the soil tends to better it.

BAKED DINNER MENU

BY MRS. A. S. MIXTER

Mrs. Mixter gave a dinner menu today from WTIC radio station having for its piece de resistance baked ham. The recipes follow:

Baked Ham with Apples
Place a thick slice of ham in a baking pan. Sprinkle the ham generously with mustard, cover ham with thin slices of apple and cover the apples with brown sugar. Fill the space in the pan around the ham with thin slices of raw potato, and cover with milk. Bake in a moderately slow oven until the ham and potatoes are tender. It will take from 50 to 60 minutes.

Cabbage and Nut Salad
2 c. minced cabbage.
1-2 c. finely chopped green pepper.
1-2 c. chopped peanuts.
1 tsp. salt.
1 tsp. pepper.
Mix all ingredients and serve on lettuce with French or cooked dressing.

Grapenut Bread
1 c. grapenuts.
2 c. sour milk.
1 egg.
1 c. sugar (scant).
2 tsp. melted shortening.
3 1-2 c. flour.
1 tsp. salt.
1 tsp. soda.
4 tsp. baking powder.
Add sour milk to grapenuts and let stand 10 minutes. Add beaten egg, sugar and flour sifted with soda, salt and baking powder and melted shortening. Beat well. Put in greased baking pan and let stand 15 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven at 375 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes. (Mrs. Rachel Carnahan, Bloomfield.)

Fig and Lemon Pie
1 3-4 c. boiling water.
2 tsp. cornstarch.
2 tsp. sugar.
3-4 c. sugar.
Juice 2 lemons.
Grated rind 1 lemon.
1-2 c. finely chopped figs.
2 eggs.
Sift dry ingredients into top of double boiler. Pour boiling water onto them, stirring constantly. Cook for 15 minutes. Slightly beat eggs and with figs, add to cooked mixture. Let cook 3 minutes. Remove and add lemon juice and rind. Turn into plate lined with pastry; wet edge. Make lattice of pastry strips across top. Bake 40 minutes at 350 degrees.

THE ANSWER.

Here is the answer to the Letter Golf puzzle on the comic page:
BLANK, BLAND, BLEND, BLEED, BREED, GREED, GREET, GREAT.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

They sat opposite me in the limited diner, obviously mother and daughter. The daughter, smartly tailored, very much a woman of the world, a bit bored at the ordeal of ordering, handling the menu with expensively manicured fingers, challenging waiter to see that the fruit is well-iced.

The mother was an obviously not a woman of the world; awed and pleased and very conscious of the fun of breakfasting on the limited, with daughter both amazed and even embarrassed in a sophisticated way at her mother's evident provincialism.

A most obsequious waiter bore in the grapefruit. The golden halves were resting on glossy hot-plate violet leaves which, in turn, were topping scoops of crushed ice in deep silver bowls. He also bore in two dainty gold-edged plates, dolly-dressed, and proceeded to transfer the fruit from the ice-bedded bowls to the plates.

KNOWING GAL!

Daughter stopped him with an impetuous gesture, proceeding to eat her fruit from the bowl, while her mother meekly submitted to the transfer to the plate. When the waiter had gone daughter waxed most articulate. Why, then, she described gestures in diner or hotel eating.

"It's perfectly obvious," she said, "that this fruit should be eaten from the dish with the ice in it rather than taken from the ice onto a warm plate. Why, then, did you do that?"

In the name of commercial concern's idea of what is good form? Look at these scrambled eggs; they bring them in on a silver platter, but insist that they be taken onto a plate, even though the food gets cold in the dishes look nice, anyway," commented her mother, gazing at her empty ice bowl with the violet leaves atop.

Daughter scorned, too, the little silver of assorted mints and gold-tipped cigarettes passed with the finger bowl, but mother took her as happy as a child, while again sophisticated daughter babbled of the lame silly gestures of commercial "swank."

THE COMPENSATION

Here was a vivid example of the reactions of two utterly diverse types of women—the woman who had lived a scrumpy, provincial life, happy as a child over very "inanities" which her too-experienced daughter scorned.

It gave one food for thought about this thing, known as the law of compensation, a realization that too complete experience brought its own price, or satiate and blunted appreciations, whereas too little had its compensation or real appreciation of the smallest experience—even to unnecessary plates with the morning grapefruit.

A digestive thought, too, was the realization of the carpe diem, petty attitude of the mass of today's women on their own, watched them in action in the restaurant of a woman's hotel the other night. Men, for instance, are supposed to be "picky" about their food, but I never saw a man picky about his food. The fat orderer insisted the meat was over or underdone. I never heard such universal attempts to order the table d'hote dinner but to substitute this vegetable or that meat from the other menu.

Is woman's fairly new independence too much for her? Is she still so unaccustomed to it that she fights to force the fact of its existence upon the world at large, even if this fight takes the form of nothing more than sending her meal back to the kitchen?

HEALTH

DAILY COLD BATH WILL NEVER KEEP ANYONE FROM CATCHING A COLD.

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Everybody has his cure for a cold. Some prefer to carry a small bag of asafetida around the neck to keep off a cold. This smells so strong that it will keep almost anything off. Some prefer ten drops of camphor in a half-glass of water, some believe that wearing rubbers in wet weather will take care of the situation. A popular remedy involves the drinking of three glasses of whiskey a day. Many prefer soaking the feet in a hot mustard bath and quite a few prefer orange juice and baking soda.

Every one of these notions is a notion and none cures.

Science's Explanation.

So far as modern science knows, the catching of a cold is due to a state of lowered resistance of the body brought about by fatigue, exposure, bad nutrition, or any other factor that is wearing rather than stimulating to the body. Associated with this there must be contact with the germs or virus that have the power to produce a cold by fixing themselves on the mucous membranes of the nose and throat. The resistance of these membranes may be lowered by unusual dryness or by other causes.

Obviously, the prevention of a cold depends on keeping the body in the best possible physical state and in avoiding contact with people who have colds under modern conditions of civilization, respiratory diseases have increased tremendously and the avoidance of contact with people who have colds is about as difficult a proposition as can be put up to anyone.

Cold Baths Futile.

The cold bath fanatic believes that a man will never be ill if he takes a cold bath regularly every morning of his life. That is another superstition.

Then there is the belief that one is certain to get ptomaine poisoning if he eats oysters in a month not containing an "r"—a relic of the period before cold storage, food preservation and modern scientific food handling.

The months that do not contain an "r" include May, June, July and August—the hot months. During these months the transportation of food is a difficult matter, however, modern refrigeration now permits the handling of all sorts of materials without permitting the propagation of germs due to heat.

The idea of ptomaine poisoning is itself an exploded idea. Practically all of the cases of ptomaine poisoning are infections with germs of the so-called colon typhoid group—germs which affect the intestines more than any other portion of the body.

The Only Danger.

The oyster grows in shallow water. When these waters are contaminated with sewage, the germs from the intestinal tract in the sewage take up temporary residence in the oyster. When the oysters are shipped without proper cold storage facilities, germs multiply.

For this reason there have been typhoid epidemics due to infected oysters. Nowadays the whole oyster industry is controlled by sanitary requirements which make it safe to eat oysters when they are grown, packed, shipped and served under proper sanitary conditions.

There used to be a time when certain foods were available only at certain very limited seasons. Nowadays almost everybody eats strawberries even in winter.

American Golf Stars Set Sail For England

Walsh Says U. S. Almost Certain to Win British Open and Ryder Cup; Maybe Amateur Too.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, April 10.—A most ostentatious team of golfers—ladies, gentlemen and professionals, if you please—will set sail for England late this afternoon on a matter of urgent business. They go in the guise of friendship and all is bound to be a far from a helicopter from the very first. But when it is over and Mr. Hagen has delivered himself of his customary rebuke to the populace, strictly for its own good, the British may not have much left except the self-sufficiency and the right to go out on the course and pick divots.

In some respects, the argosy is the most impressive ever sponsored by American golf and, although Robert T. Jones will not take part, the prospect isn't altogether reassuring to a country that has seen seven of its last eight open championships settle in "the states."

This record has prompted the question, what is the matter with the British golf, and most of us know the answer. There is nothing the matter with British golf, except that the boys over there are too ready to do what the photographer tells them. They are such birds. The American doesn't. He gets it.

This being the case, it would be mildly surprising if at least one major championship didn't return with the invaders. It is possible, indeed, that all three, the British title and the Ryder cup and the American. That, of course, wouldn't be a normal development. It would be a miracle. Yet the golf is there, first, for the capture of the open by the Ryder cup personnel and second, the amateur by George Von Elm, and third, the women's championship by Glenna Collett. Our most plausible chance naturally rests with the open, for here we have the men to make the habit permanent.

For example, sailing with the Ryder Cup team today are Hagen, three-time winner of the British title and its present holder; Horton, the American event last year; Al Espinosa, Ed Dudley, Johnny Golden, Joe Turnesa and Al Watrous complete an official team that probably has had no equal in point of skill and prestige. The other members of the team are, in order of merit, Macdonald Smith, who was beaten out of the title by an unruly British gallery four years ago, is already in England getting himself ready for the bid of a life time and Bill McWhorter, smiling under the implied slight of the Ryder Cup committee, is going along to show them that mistakes will happen and do.

Von Elm is a champ in no major open tournament, and with the possibility of the Tommy Armour, 1927 American champion, and John Anderson, former holder of the French title, will join the troupe at the last minute, the pilgrimage might seem to be complete in all essential details. Von Elm had a reservation on the boat but hadn't taken it up this morning. Neither had Armour. Miss Collett was to have sailed on the Majestic but allowed her reservation to lapse. However, it is understood that she is intending on a later boat.

Miss Marion Turvie, one of the best, and Miss Marion Hollins, once National champion, will be on the Mauretania with Ryder Cup team. Both will be serious contenders in the British championship, Miss Turvie the more serious of the twain. Mrs. Edmund Guggenheim, as an entry, will be somewhat less serious than either. Miss Bernice Wall, another good one, also is dallying with the notion of staking a whirl at the British event. If she does, she probably will sail with Miss Collett.

In any case, the women, like the amateurs, are few in number to have too great a chance at the title. If Von Elm fails, for instance, the American amateur cause probably will fall with him, as only Max Behr, of Los Angeles, and J. Crane, the Boston veteran, remain as entries and neither is a ranking star.

But the Open and Ryder Cup events form another anecdote entirely. We can miss in both but it is very possible that we won't.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—
Bucky Harris has given the Detroit Tiger two sets of signs . . . one for sending and one for receiving. . . . And when the sign goes for 'he hit and run the play won't go unless the runner signs' . . . the Bucky apparently has another sign for use off the field. . . . It's the thumb toward the gate . . . like the umpires use . . . and it means—
"Walvers on a big boy!"
Jimmy McLarnin wants to fight at 150 pounds from now on—until he weighs 170. . . . Shaute and Fonseca, two swell warblers of the Cleveland Indians, were singing at a dinner in New Orleans. . . . MIKE MCTIGUE AT FOOT GUARD HALL TOMORROW

Manages Canadian Welter Who Meets Ute Indian; Tucker vs. Christy.

The appearance of Mike McTigue will be the principal feature of Ed Hurley's boxing card at Foot Guard Hall in Hartford tomorrow night. The ex-world's light heavyweight champion (1923-25) will come to Hartford with his pupil, George Siders, welterweight champion of Canada.

Siders is matched to meet Pete Pacheco, Ute Indian who scored a decision over Hartford's sensational Pinky Kautzman last August. They will clash for ten rounds in the principal go of the evening and Michael Francis McTigue will be in Siders' corner. Eddie Eli of Springfield and Jimmy Rossi of Westfield, R. I., will probably give the fans plenty of action. A knockout is far from improbable as both men hit very hard. Nick Cristy of Bristol will engage in battle with Brownie Tucker of Hartford. Reports have it that the colored comedian from the Capital City has at last discarded his clowning tactics. If so, Christy may be in for a surprise.

There will be other bouts, but these three are the main ones.

Training Camp F-l-a-s-h-e-s

Charlotte, N. C., April 10.—Washington was first in war, first in peace and first to trim the New York Giants twice in succession this year. The Nats walloped the tar out of Fred Fitzsimmons at Augusta yesterday and stamped the Redskins' noses with a 10-0 victory.

The world's champions play the Birmingham Barons here today.

Reading, Pa.—Bill Carrigan's Red Sox engage the Reading team here today possibly in the last exhibition game of the season. Before leaving Richmond, Va., Carrigan was undecided if he would stay away from Boston Thursday. The Sox beat Reading yesterday at Richmond 8 to 1, in a game featured by home runs by Rothrock, Standaert and Gaston of the Hub team.

Norfolk, Va.—The final game of the exhibition series between the Boston Braves and New Haven will be played here today. The Braves, playing heads up ball, yesterday defeated New Haven 12 to 2. Ed Brand pitched the full nine innings without issuing a base on balls and struck out 15 batsmen.

Houston, Texas.—If the Cubs win from Houston today they will have made a clean sweep of the 7 game series here. The Braves made it six in a row yesterday by winning 5 to 2. Charley Root will be on the slab today. Following the game the Cubs will depart for Kansas City where they stage the last preliminary to the pennant season.

OUT OF THE PAST

Here is an old-time training camp scene. It was taken shortly before July 4, 1910, in the Montezuma Mountains near Las Vegas, N. M. A group of old-timers such as these was often seen twenty or thirty years ago, but not now.

On that memorable Fourth of July in 1910, Jim Flynn, the only man credited with knocking out Jack Dempsey, met Jack Johnson, then the world's heavyweight champion, at Las Vegas.

Delgado and Romero, appearing for all the world like a pair of moving picture comedy artists, performed their official duties with such zeal that they were forced to get new guns. Their old ones had so many notches that the handles had nearly vanished. In their efforts to keep the wild and woolly west free of outlaws, both Delgado and Romero had killed more than ten men when this picture was taken.

Times have changed since then. Flynn now runs a garage and still is put in the spotlight every so often as the man who stopped Dempsey. It may as well be stated, however, that the Flynn-Dempsey bout is today generally recognized as "one of those things."

Al Williams is still connected with the fight business, being an instructor at the Olympia A. C., San Francisco.

Flynn was highly regarded at the time this jolly group gathered together before the camera, but his fight with Johnson, held shortly after this photograph was taken, was not a success. It was stopped in the ninth round by state police, who claimed it had developed into a prize fight. Referee Ed Smith gave the decision to Johnson.

Four Boy State Boxers Survive Amateur Field

Holden of Providence Only Other Entry Left from New England; Finish Tourney Tonight.

Boston, April 10.—With only 32 boys, five of them from New England, remaining in the fray today, the last chapter of the three-day National Amateur Boxing Tournament gets under way at the Boston Arena tonight with the semi-final and final round. When the last gong is sounded only eight boys will survive and they will be holders of the coveted national crowns for the coming year.

The second round of the tournament, featured by a number of knockouts, five of them coming in succession, and the elimination of some of the favorites, was held last night and witnessed by 7,000 persons.

Of the nine boys that survived the first night's trial heats of the New England event only five were still in the fray today. They were Albion Holden, of Providence, R. I., in the 118-pound division; Ray Lopez, of Waltham, 160; Harry Allen, of Brockton, 175; Dick Collins, of Boston, 135, and Leslie Baker, of Watertown, 147-pound division.

Perhaps the biggest upset of the evening was the passing of Joe Lillich, of Holy Cross, from the heavyweight class. Lillich, who was a favorite to ultimately win the title, dropped a decision to Clarence Doyle, of San Francisco, in three rounds.

James Quinn, of Norwich, Conn., last New England entry in the 126-pound class, lost a decision to Martin Zuniga, of Los Angeles, finalist in that division last year, after three torrid rounds. Zuniga, quoted as the favorite of the class, had a tough time beating Quinn, who drew a bye Monday night.

All four bouts in the 160-pound class were won by knockouts, two of them in one round. Ray Trumble, of Rockport, Ill., hung a kayo on August Kubart, of New York.

Knockouts of one round each were scored by Ray Lopez, of Waltham, and John Dixon, of Philadelphia. Lopez kayoed Cecil Lee, of Mobile, Ala. Dixon punched Johnny Bowers of Buffalo out cold.

Harry Allen, of Brockton, in the 175-pound class, knocked out Arthur Mayer of Portland, Ore., in one round.

Albion Holden, of Providence, R. I., in the 118-pound division, took a decision from Johnny Fritz, of Baltimore.

Ray Meyers, of New York, lost to Frank Walsh, of Cincinnati in the 118-pound class. Wallace was awarded the decision.

Leslie Baker, of Watertown, picked by many as having a chance to annex the title in the 147-pound class, scored a one-round kayo over Freddy Beswde, of Norwich, Conn.

Chicago at St. Louis
Philadelphia at Washington
Detroit at Cleveland
Brooklyn at Boston
New York at Philadelphia
St. Louis at Cincinnati

There is a lot of tempo to this program, any way you care to view it. The Washington opening, not only will send two live contenders out on the same ball field but also will introduce the Capital's idol, Walter Johnson, as a major league manager. St. Louis naturally will go for the Browns. White Sox opening because it knows Howley has something with his Browns, which "doped" seventh but finished third last year. Some even think the Browns are due in 1929.

The Pirates-Club inaugural in Chicago is another live one, thanks to Hornsby and the fact that both are hot contenders. The game will be Hornsby's first in a Cub uniform and that club has been touted so strongly that it would be hard to keep its mugs away with a quarantine sign over every gate. The Yanks drew only the ambitious Red Sox as an opponent but opening day is an event in New York, regardless of the attraction. Besides the Yanks always are interesting and always will be, as long as a certain right fielder is part of the scenery.

FLORENCE JOHNSON TOPS ALL BOWLERS IN TITLE TOURNAY

Wins Three Games; So Do Martha Hadden and Florence Mikoleit; Nan Taggart High.

Florence Johnson rolled the best scores last night in Joe Farr's women's singles town bowling championship tournament at the Charter Oak alleys. In winning three games from Mary Strong, she twice broke into the three figures. Her 115 was second high single for the evening. Nan Taggart's 117 was the highest score.

Martha Hadden, Florence Mikoleit and Florence Johnson each won two games. The tournament after will be conducted on both Monday and Tuesday evenings. In view of the fact that no additional bowlers have entered, the twelve now entered will be in the same group and will bowl each other.

Here are the scores of last night and the number of games won by each bowler:

Name	Games
Mary Strong	100 115-3
Florence Johnson	83 89 87-0

Flora Nelson	92 77 102-1
Nan Taggart	117 99 88-2

Anna Anderson	82 73 76-0
Martha Hadden	96 97 106-3

K. Gustafson	83 87 85-2
Grace Hatch	82 95 85-1

Florence Mikoleit	91 88 108-3
Ellen Johnson	70 85 80-0

Irene Gee	83 74 79-1
Helen Gustafson	75 97 89-2

BOWLING CONGRESS COMES TO AN END

Chicago, April 10.—Hundreds of men who competed in the American Bowling Congress Tournament, many of them possessing prize money and trophies, were enroute to their homes today following the close of the most successful meet in the history of the congress.

The championship event, which closed Monday night, was won by the Hub Recreation team of Joliet, Ill., the score was 3,063. William Klecz and Peter Butler led the doubles event with their total of 1,353, and A. Unke of Milwaukee pulled down first honors in the singles with his score of 728. Winners in both of these events survived yesterday's final assault.

Klecz and Butler divide a cash purse of $500, and Unke receives $300 as first prize in the singles. Otto Stein of St. Louis came through as all events champion with a total of 1975, good for a purse of $180.

Following Pyle's Bunion Derby
Uniontown, Pa., April 10.—C. C. Pyle's trans-continental bunioneers shaved off from here for Waynesburg, Pa., this morning on a comparatively short jaunt of 35 miles with Ed Gardner, big Seattle Negro, still in the lead with an elapsed time of 62:59:40.

Guisto Umek, of Italy, led the pack yesterday over the 62-mile rain swept mountain trails from Cumberland in 9 hours 15 minutes and 15 seconds. It was the hardest stretch yet encountered.

TOWN CHAMPIONSHIP BOWLING TOURNEY STARTS ON THURSDAY

"Slim" Harris, a pitcher who was different even to the spelling of his name, has finally passed from the majors. The Boston Red Sox have sent him to Minneapolis in a trade. However, Slim achieved most of his fame as a member of the Philadelphia Athletics.

After the trade that sent him to Minneapolis, someone asked Slim how he felt about going to the minors and he replied without so much as even a smile: "It will seem perfectly natural. I've been in the minors ever since I joined the Boston Red Sox."

Harris was a colorful figure because of his size and many mannerisms that resulted from perpendicular measurements. The tallest pitcher in the majors, he measures six feet six inches. Harris invariably afforded plenty of amusement any time he tried to field a bunt. At the bat, he was one of the reasons why President John Heydler of the National League came forward with the suggestion that all pitchers should have pinch hitters.

A quiet and reserved fellow on the field, Harris was the last player any one would pick to lose his temper and dash into the grandstand after a tormentor. But he did once in Philadelphia, shortly before he was sent to Boston.

Sensitive about his lack of batting ability, Harris, after striking out in three attempts to bunt, was none too good company as he walked back to the athletic bench. Twice before during the game Harris had done the same thing.

In either case, had he been able to move the runner to second through a sacrifice, the Athletics would have won in regulation time, for a base hit followed in each instance. His inability to even bunt had forced the game into extra innings. This time it was in the twelfth inning that he again failed to carry out Connie Mack's orders to bunt. Philadelphia crowds, a bit critical as everywhere, had taken him to task for each of the three failures.

"Say, Harris, how do you manage to make a living in the winter?" asked a fan who was thoroughly disgusted at the way he was making a go of it. In the summer, Harris was only a short distance from the bench when that remark was shot at him. He was peeved and glanced in the direction of his detractor.

"That big bum! Get wise!" answered his neighbor. "He's a model in a macaroni factory!"

Everyone laughed but Slim. He proceeded to leap over the low railing in front of the grandstand and make for the fan who dared refer to his physique as a model for a macaroni factory.

Margin Of One Pin Gives East Side Women Match

Bitter Rivalry Shown In Annual Inter-Rec Match; Bowl Again Next Tuesday.

The annual East Side-West Side Recreation Center women's bowling match opened officially yesterday afternoon at the School street building with the East Side team being victorious in two of the three games.

The match was exciting and closely contested from start to finish. So keen was the rivalry between the two teams composed of married women that it was necessary to get some one from the opposite sex to "cheat fair" for both sides and Frank Busch did this job very nicely, thanks to aid of cotton stuffed in both ears.

The East Side was trimmed by 15 pins in the first game but came back strong to win the second by 46. Then came the never-to-be-forgotten struggle for the third game which finally was won by the East Side by the narrow margin of one pin.

The teams will bowl again next Tuesday at the West Side. Recently the East Side beat the West Side three straight at the West Side but the latter team did not have all of its players so it has been decided to bowl the match over again. Mrs. Robinson had the high score yesterday afternoon, 97, while Mrs. Farr's 58 was the lowest score. Commenting on her score, Mrs. Farr said that she simply "went stale like pretzlers."

Here are yesterday's scores:
East Side (2)
Mrs. Hayes	77 75 87
Mrs. Grezel	79 82 79
Mrs. Farr	58 81 65
Mrs. Barrett	89 91 83

CHEER LEADER DONS SUIT IN UNIQUE NET GAME

Denver, April 10.—Harry Ukulele—sportsman, not a musician—reports this unique occurrence in a basketball tournament held at Chadron, Neb.

Valentine and Rushville quintets were playing. Valentine had brought along nine men; Rushville seven. Forty-three personal fouls were called during the progress of the game with the result that at the finish Valentine had four eligible players on the court; Rushville three. Valentine put a basketball suit on their cheer leader late in the game and used him as a forward, and with their four-man team finished on the long end of a 30-24 score against the three-man Rushville team.

Exact Number of Entries Not Yet Certain; All to Report at Farr's Alleys at 7:30; Town's Best Included.

The town championship bowling tournament being organized by Joe Farr and Reuben Bronkie is scheduled to get underway tomorrow night.

Because of the uncertainty of the number of bowlers who are going to compete, no schedule has as yet been drawn up. However, all who are planning to enter the competition for the title, are requested to report at Joe Farr's Charter Oak alleys at 7:30 prompt.

Once at the Charter Oak alleys, the bowlers will be divided into two groups and paired up for the opening night's matches. One section will go back to Murphy's and the other remain at Farr's. Then with the exact number of bowlers known, a schedule can be drawn up for the next week.

About a score or more of bowlers are expected to compete for the title. Among them will be the best in town, Howard Murphy, Charlie Kebart, Frank Anderson, Joe Canada and others. Each man will bowl two matches of three games each tomorrow night.

SPORTS WRITERS IN INDIANA ORGANIZE

Indianapolis, April 10.—The Indiana Sports Writers Association was organized here at the coaches' bench when the 18th annual state basketball tournament conducted by the Indiana High School Athletic Association, The Frankfort, Ind., high school team, one of the 754 teams entered in the tournament, won the 1929 title.

Twenty-nine sports scribes met at the Slayport Hotel here after the final game of the tournament, and organized their state association. The association immediately named the first, second and third all star state high school basketball teams and will do so every year. It will also select the all state football elevens.

Robert "Moon" Baker, sports editor of the Newcastle Ind., Times, was elected president of the new association, Miss Mary Beth Plummer, of the Bedford, Ind., Times, was named secretary.

Grantland Grice, Davis J. Walsh or some other nationally known sports writer may be asked to address the next annual meeting of the association.

MASSACHUSETTS GOLF DATES ARE GIVEN OUT

Boston, April 10.—The location and dates for various state championships under the auspices of the Massachusetts Golf Association included a New England interscholastic championship, a newcomer on the list. The schoolboys will gather at the Oakley Country Club for a 72-hole medal play event.

The dates were announced as follows:

WISHING FOR FISHING.

Wishin' again to go fishin' again. That's all I am doing today! Prayin' again to go strayin' again Over the hills and away! Down by the alders I know of a hole Under a stump; and I'll cut me a slit in the sun and invite my soul Our for a season of play!

Yearnin' again for subburnin' again. Seeing the spring is at hand; Dreadin' again to be headin' again Back to the care of the land! Eager to loaf while the loafing is sweet

LETTER GOLF

ACHIEVE GREATNESS. You may be a BLANK, but you can become GREAT easily, today's puzzle proves. Par is seven and one solution is on another page.

Letter Golf grid with the words 'BLANK' and 'GREAT' filled in.

THE RULES.

1—The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEW, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed. One solution is printed on another page.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) When Clowny called his three playmates to come up to the Thunder Gates, they stopped to think a minute. Then wee Scouty said, "Why not? If he is game to go up there, I'll follow him most anywhere. He walked upon the lightning streak and found it wasn't hot. So let's hop out and make the trip. Stay on the streak and do not slip. We'll leave our Goofygo right here. He will not fly away. You see, our cabin must be saved, 'cause when we built it, we all slayed. Besides we may have use for it ere night blots out this day." "Oh, let's not walk," Copy cried. "That would be a lot more fun to ride. We'll stay right here and tell the Goofygo to please giddap. I'd love to go where Clowny goes, but let's be careful. Goodness knows you never can tell when you're going to fall into a trap. The Goofygo then spoke aloud,

CITY CLUB TO DINE

IN BOND, HARTFORD

Annual Banquet on May 1 in Old English Dining Hall of Hotel.

The annual banquet of the Manchester City club will be held in the Old English dining hall at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, Wednesday evening May 1, the committee in charge decided last night. Since this will be the 15th annual dinner of the local club a more elaborate affair than ever before is planned. Jack Sanson, manager of the Princess theater, Hartford, and formerly manager of the State here, is chairman of the committee. The other members are Willard B. Rogers, Thomas A. Brennan and Ronald H. Ferguson.

Jack Sanson.

The City club affair will be the first formal banquet to be held in the handsome new hall of the Old English period which has just been completed in the Hotel Bond. The hall is situated just off the Bond grill and every detail of old English architecture is embodied in the room. The windows are Gothic and the ceiling is finished in open beams.

Eighty members of the club are expected to attend the dinner which will start at 7:30 p. m. It is planned to have but one after-dinner speaker. Both the speaker and toastmaster will be selected later.

Mr. Sanson is arranging for a vaudeville program to be presented during and after the dinner. His experience as a theater manager will allow him to get in touch with some of the best entertainment available in the section. Tickets for the club members will be put on sale at the club within a few days.

PHONES Pinehurst "GOOD THINGS TO EAT"

SEEK HERE—AND FIND.

One of the strong points of Pinehurst is that, while it realizes fully that the bulk of the food business must be done with an eye to giving highest values in staple commodities, it never loses sight of the demand for the special refinements in "de luxe" food items. Pinehurst stocks and does a lively business in many special grade food-things not to be found in the mill-run of stores.

Really fancy Bulk Molasses, for instance—how often can you find it? Yet Pinehurst sells great quantities—particular people all over this section come here for it. Then there is King Arthur Flour—not to be found everywhere, but always here. And the Beechnut Coffees—not only the regular Beechnut but this new "Drip-Grind" Beechnut, claimed to be the finest thing in the world for confirmed Coffee Connoisseurs.

The "Drip-Grind" is especially pulverized for preparation by the "drip" process, which many believe to be the only absolutely right way to make coffee. It does call for extremely high class coffee, to be sure, and the use of plenty of the pulverized material, but the result is exquisite. The coffee does not percolate; it does not boil. It is made much as the Chinese make tea—by letting boiling water pass through it just once. It is asserted that nothing is gained by repeated percolation or boiling, that the first contact releases all the volatile aromatic oils instantly.

A special little device, applicable to any coffee pot, is needed. This is supplied without charge, to the purchaser of two one-pound tins of "Drip-Grind" coffee for $1.20. The free "SpecDrip" device is worth half a dollar.

The perfect coffee is made in two minutes. Telephone 2000.

BUILDING-LOAN ASS'N GAINS $150,000 ASSETS

Local Body's Assets Close to Two Million Mark, Annual Report Discloses.

A total gain in assets of nearly $150,000 for the past year was shown by The Manchester Building and Loan Association in Treasurer Herbert B. House's report read at the 35th annual meeting of the stockholders of the organization last evening at its headquarters in the House and Hale building. The total assets for the year ending April 11, 1929, were $1,972,578.95, compared to $1,823,266.24 for the previous year, constituting a net gain of $149,312.71. The number of shares in force as of April 11, 1928, was 27,458. New shares taken out during the past year totaled 4,530 but 3,804 were withdrawn which leaves a gain of 726 shares. Treasurer House's report showed that $135,090 more of mortgage loans was made during the past year. The figures for a year ago were $1,724,960 compared to $1,860,050 for the past year. Running expenses for the year were $4,788.32. The former list of officers was re-elected.
