

CABINET MEETS TO CONSIDER PARLEY BREAK

If Reparations Conference Collapses, Germany Will Face Hard Times—What Caused the Deadlock.

Berlin, April 19.—The break in the reparations negotiations in Paris was considered at a Cabinet meeting this afternoon.

While no official statement was issued, it was believed that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation of reparations experts, would be urged to try to save the conference and to work for provisional settlement.

If the reparations conference actually disintegrates, Germany will face hard times, it was agreed by the press and business circles here.

But the hope persisted that a way would be found to discuss a provisional settlement for the next 15 years, for which period the allied and German reparations figures are comparatively close.

Prices Drop.

The collapse of the negotiations in Paris had a depressing effect upon the Berlin Bourse and stocks dropped from 10 to 20 points before the list became steady.

The whole situation was carefully canvassed here. It was pointed out that Owen D. Young, of the United States, chairman of the experts' committee and the English favor provisional plans. However, it is not yet certain what effect Lord Revelstoke's sudden death will have upon the opinions of the British delegation.

What Caused Collapse.

It is declared here that the substitution of political for economic considerations, and especially the merging of the reparations and war debt issues were responsible for the collapse.

Many blame Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation, for raising political considerations of himself, but Dr. Schacht also presented a non-political plan, and left the door open for further negotiations. Newspapers called attention to the fact that Dr. Schacht emphasized the fact that Germany already had paid 46,500,000,000 marks but that he did not get a chance to explain his two sets of proposals.

Predictions are generally made that the Dawes plan, under which Germany is now paying reparations, will break down as soon as transfer of protection of German currency goes into effect and payments to the Allies are accordingly curtailed.

WASHINGTON'S VIEWS

Washington, April 19.—Administration officials were discouraged today at the failure of reparations experts to arrive at a fixation of Germany's war bill.

Eventually a settlement will be reached, it is believed here, chiefly on the ground that there will be no real economic equilibrium in Europe until the perplexing tangle is adjusted for all time, and all concerned know it.

Germany cannot be expected to go on with "a will to work and pay," but without a knowledge that at some fixed time the monetary penalty for having lost the war will have been paid, according to the

LORD REVELSTOKE IS DEAD IN PARIS

British Delegate to War Debt Parley Dies Suddenly in Hotel.

Paris, April 19.—Lord Revelstoke, 66, British delegate at the conference of reparations experts here, was found dead in bed at his hotel this morning.

Lord Revelstoke was chairman of the sub-committee which yesterday was unable to reach any agreement with the chief German delegate at the reparations conference, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, regarding the ultimate sum and number of annuities Germany should pay the Allies.

He was expected today to report to the plenary session of the experts, possibly its last meeting after ten weeks of toil, that a deadlock on the figures had been reached.

The death of Lord Revelstoke may have a far-reaching effect upon the negotiations. His report and recommendations to the plenary session naturally will be delayed.

May Back Down

In the meantime, it is believed possible that the German delegation may fall back from its adamant stand in which it offered annuities of 1,650,000,000 marks each over a period of 37 years, as opposed to the Allied offer demanding a minimum of 37 annuities, graduated from a minimum of 1-

HOUSE, SENATE, AT ODDS OVER FARMERS' BILL

Lower Branch for Hoover's Plan While Upper Drafts Different Bill—May De- lay Passage.

Washington, April 19.—The new farm bill, an agricultural relief measure entirely acceptable to President Hoover, was debated again in the House today while Senate farm leaders sought to agree upon the draft of a different bill.

Administration forces were in complete control of the House, with even the rebellious old farm bloc standing staunchly behind the bill which has Mr. Hoover's approval. The outlook was just the opposite in the Senate, where Senator McNary (R.) of Oregon, introduced a bill containing an export bounty or debenture provision—a relief proposal that the White House regards with cold disfavor.

The Senate agriculture committee met again today in an effort to agree upon the McNary draft. The bill, aside from the debenture plan, carried approximately the same terms as the House bill, including the creation of a Federal Farm Board, the formation of stabilization corporations for each crop and federal aid for co-operatives. Senator McNary incidentally predicted the Senate committee would approve his bill.

Leaders' Prediction

While debate continued in the House, administration leaders confidently asserted the bill would be passed next week by the Lower Branch of Congress in exactly the form in which it met Mr. Hoover's endorsement. While it was expected that several attempts would be made to amend the bill, administration spokesmen said they had enough votes to insure its enactment in the present form. They planned to block a vote on the debenture provision under the House rules, while even the old Farm Bloc has agreed privately to abandon the equalization fee, which brought veto to two other farm relief bills in recent years.

The sentiment in the House apparently was overwhelmingly in favor of enacting a bill, which would meet with presidential approval. The House farm leaders openly declared they were tired of fighting for legislation, certain of defeat, and they prepared now to battle a bill which would become a law if approved by Congress. Among the House Republicans, who have abandoned the old equalization fee and thrown their support to the new bill, were such farm bloc members as Rep. Haugen, of Iowa; Rep. Purcell, of Indiana, and Rep. Williams.

JURY ACQUITS HELEN MORGAN

Night Club Hostess So Happy She Kisses Every Man of Jury.

New York, April 19.—Twelve good men and true, erstwhile jurors all, smiled reminiscently today as they patted twelve left cheeks which, for a fleeting minute, were graciously kissed by the starry-eyed Helen Morgan following her acquittal on a nuisance charge in Federal Court here last night.

"They can't change their minds, can they?" was the first reaction of the famous songbird of the Helen Morgan Summer Home to the verdict she had nervously awaited for more than two hours.

On receiving a reassuring answer, Helen wiped her eyes and recovered her composure. Then, impetuously she thanked the jurors as if that were not enough, kissed them one by one.

Verdict Explained.

The verdict itself was simply explained by Juror No. 2, Thomas Morrissey, an elderly retired business man.

"We couldn't take the word of the two agents who testified against her," Morrissey explained. "Lon Tyson, of Texas, and John J. Mitchell, prohibition agents, who testified to alleged 'high jinks' in which Miss Morgan participated at the club, including the singer's preference for brandy—she drank it 'straight,' they said—and her penchant for throwing currency to entertainers in the Furnace Club, a neighbor to the Summer Home."

Federal Judge Thomas' charge to the jury was identical to that he gave the men who adjudged Texas Guinan not guilty last week. He told the jurors that if the talented singer had aided or assisted in maintaining or carrying on a common nuisance where intoxicating liquor was sold, regardless of whether or not she was a proprietor of the club, then she was guilty.

And the jurors' answer, after 2½ hours of deliberation, was "Not Guilty, Your Honor."

Your Last Glimpse of Waldorf's Peacock Alley

For two generations a rendezvous of the world's smart set, the famous old Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York will close in a few days. And here you get your last glimpse of colorful, glittering Peacock Alley, known since the gay nineties to kings of empire and industry, society leaders, diplomats, queens, generals and hundreds of celebrated persons. Peacock Alley and the Waldorf will be closed May 1 for the demolition that will make way for a 50-story skyscraper.

CLUB SEASON ENDS WITH FINE MEETING

Get Together Members Dine and Hear Talk on Early Industries.

A dinner by Chef Osano, more delicious than ever, if such a thing is possible, a splendid speaker and sparkling entertainment brought to a most successful close the final meeting last night of the Get-Together Club, until fall. Reports of meetings and the treasurer's report were read and accepted and the attendance prize was awarded to Stewart Cheney.

Music Program.

After the dinner, at which Bill Wandell's Singing orchestra entertained with the latest hits, the male quartet sang several numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Eunice Case Hohenthal. Robert Von Deck sang vocal solos and the encores for both were too numerous to mention. Al Behrend obliged with a violin solo and to make the program completely musical, Michael Barry, drummer in "The Spirit of '76," beat stirring marches on his drum. His appearance was the signal for much cheering by the diners.

Howell Cheney told of the Craftsmanship Medal awarded to Cheney Brothers and named men who had been responsible for it. He also told of the company for a period of 44 years, on an average.

William Cheney was called for a recitation and his humorous doings for not being able to do it were extremely funny. However, he finally agreed to recite choosing a poem by Eugene Fields entitled "Willie." It proved a knockout.

Mr. Cheney then introduced the speaker.

Edwin P. Root, president of the New Haven Clock Company, who took for his subject, "The Infant Industries," and throughout his talk held the interest of his audience on his subject. His remarkable sense of humor caused outright laughter at times and the quips he directed at several of the diners were thoroughly enjoyed.

BLAST KILLS TWO SOLDIERS.

Honolulu, T. H., April 19.—Two soldiers were killed and four others were injured when a 15-inch gun exploded at Fort Kamehameha, military authorities reported here today. The dead:

Sergeant K. R. Webb and Private H. Clark.

Both were members of Battery B, 55th Coast Artillery.

Names of the injured were temporarily withheld by army authorities.

The breach of the gun was blown away by the concussion.

SAY MOONSHINE AGE CAUSED HIS DEATH

Jury of Educators Make Re- port on Chicago Tragedy; Blame Present Age.

Chicago, April 19.—Scientific analysis of the "moonshine age," as compiled by six eminent educators, was being pondered over by Chicago parents today following the coroner's jury report on the death of George Lux, killed in an automobile accident during a "whoopie" tour of roadhouses with his boy and girl friends, most of them high school students.

The crux of the six distinguished jurors' findings was that young Lux died a victim of the "moonshine age," and that no one in particular was responsible for his death. The 18-year-old driver of the car, the jury bluntly stated, was intoxicated and yet, no action against him was recommended. He, too, it was inferred, was a victim of the age.

Constructive Report.

The report, as delivered to Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, was constructive, however, as well as fault-finding. It recommended far-reaching and drastic official action to control the violent excesses of modern youth. For instance, the shutting off of liquor sales to school children and passage of a law to limit the number of persons in the front seat of an automobile to two.

The problems in the main, while not of their own making, must be solved by the young people themselves, the jury found.

Those on Jury.

The jury was composed of Sherman Steele, professor of law at Loyola University; Prof. Samuel Stevens, head of the psychology department at Northwestern University; Prof. E. W. Burgess, noted sociologist at the University of Chicago; Edward J. Tobin, Cook county superintendent of schools; Paul T. Buzszi, head of the Lutheran parochial schools of Northwestern Illinois; and Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools in Chicago.

They concluded their report with a recommendation "that the public press continue with renewed enthusiasm its exposure of crime and corruption and use its powers to create a public opinion which will place a premium upon law and order, decency and character."

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, April 19.—Treasury balance April 17: $290,699,822.55.

STAR OF 'CARNIVAL' IS NOT DISFIGURED

Hartford Surgeon Says Miss Forrest Will Retain Beau- ty Despite Injuries.

Hartford, April 19.—Beautiful Ann Forrest may retain her beauty despite injuries received in an automobile crash early Tuesday morning when she was returning from an after-theater party in the car of John C. Warner, millionaire Hartford broker, her physician Dr. James Lynch reported early today.

Miss Forrest is recovering at the St. Francis hospital. She will be confined here for three or four more days, Dr. Lynch said. She will then be permitted to return to New York to her apartment in the Hotel Blackstone where she had planned to make her home during the New York run of "Carnival" in which she had taken the lead with popular success.

Her Face Lacerated.

The diminutive Broadway star has four severe face lacerations which required a number of stitches from the expert fingers of Dr. Lynch. His original impression that the former movie star will be permanently disfigured, was qualified somewhat after an examination of the wounds early this morning.

In her place in the lead Thursday night Miss Agnes Young, her understudy, danced through the careful plot of "Carnival" and kept the show on its toes in the star's absence. Miss Young will play the lead at the New York opening.

Meantime, police are still investigating the cause of the accident, which occurred at 1 o'clock Thursday morning and failed to reach their attention until some two hours later.

BAY STATE HOLDS ITS PATRIOTS' DAY

Ride of Paul Revere and William Dawes, Jr., is Re- enacted Near Boston.

Boston, April 19.—Paul Revere's lanterns hung from the steeple of the Old North church on Salem street today, inaugurating the observance of the 153rd anniversary of Patriot's Day.

During the forenoon once again "Paul Revere" and "William Dawes, Jr." spread the alarm "to every Middlesex village and farm" as on that famous day, 154 years ago.

"Paul Revere," impersonated by Sergeant George E. Cobb, of Troop B 110th National Guard cavalry rode from North Square to Lexington Green, while "William Dawes, Jr.," Sergeant Ranger W. Benton of the same organization, retraced the Dawes route from Eliot Square, via Roxbury to Lexington.

Following the historic re-enactment of the two famous patriots, came a military and civic parade from Columbus avenue, to the Boston Common parade ground.

Towns Celebrate

Fitting exercises with parades were held in Concord, Lexington, Arlington, Medford, Brookline and Somerville.

Lexington started its ceremonies with a huge rally by Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts to the number of 1,900, on Lexington Green. The annual parade started from the Adams school grounds in East Lexington and proceeded to the monument on Battle Green. Wreaths were placed on the monument and volleys of rifles were fired in honor of the Minute Men.

In Concord, the Boy Scouts also held a large share in the ceremonies with an athletic contest on the early part of the program, while patriotic exercises followed on Monument

BUT SIX YEARS FOR AMENDMENT TO BE A LAW

State Legislature Passes Resolution to Give As- sembly Power to Allow for Absentee Voting.

Hartford, April 19.—The Lower House of the Legislature today passed a resolution which proposes an amendment to the state constitution giving the General Assembly power to provide for absentee voting. The matter will be acted on two years hence by the General Assembly of 1931 before it is submitted to the voters. After that another Legislature must pass upon the measure. Hence six years must elapse before the amendment can go into effect. The vote in the House on the resolution was 154 to 1.

The Senate today received a favorable report on a bill calling for appointment by the governor of a commission of five to investigate pension systems for municipalities, and make recommendations to the next General Assembly. The commission must serve without pay.

A favorable resolution was recommended repealing Section 24 of the home rule for Towns Acts. That section allows towns to amend their own charters, but is much inoperative today.

Approve Nominations

The Senate today approved the nomination of Marshal J. Bradley as judge, and Charles E. Rathbun, deputy judge, of the Town Court of Bloomfield. The House approved the nomination of Wm. E. Sears as judge and Seth M. Beecher, of the Town Court of Seymour, and Leslie W. Newberry judge of the South Windsor Town Court.

Unfavorable Reports

Unfavorable reports in the House today were:

Authorizing a bond issue in West Hartford, the bill being withdrawn; exempting from taxes the property of the Merriam Post, G. A. R. of Meriden, another bill on the matter to come; six motor vehicle bills concerning operators' licenses, weights of commercial vehicles, reflectors, registrations, and brakes and rules of the road, the subject matter to be in a general revision of the motor vehicle laws.

Favorable reports in the House follow:

Extending the time to organize the Danbury Title & Mortgage Co., incorporating the Connecticut State Title & Investment Co., providing for reports on hunting, trapping and angling; providing for location of railroad tracks on highways; providing for changes in powers and duties of the Milford Board of Finance; establishing a retirement system for Stamford school janitors; and providing additional regulations for dairy inspectors.

Bills passed from the House calendar follow:

Authorizing Ansonia Water Company to increase capital to $3,000,000.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT ORDERS DISCRETION IN THE JONES LAW

Tells Federal Lawyers to Be Very Careful to Apply Drastic Law Only in Ex- ceptional Cases—Aimed at Big Bootleggers Not at Hip Toters and Home Brewers, She Says.

Washington, April 19.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt's instructions to U. S. district attorneys to be very careful and discreet in seeking to send prohibition violators to prison for five years under the Jones Act constitutes the first official admission Washington has made that it is probably going to be very difficult to apply the drastic provisions of the act.

The prosecuting arm of the government, keenly cognizant of the great hue and cry that went up when it became known that it would be possible to send a hip flask toter to jail for five years and fine him $10,000, has been studying the situation for some weeks. Acted upon by district attorneys throughout the country has been sought. They were asked to report on their local conditions. The attitude of judge, whether they thought juries would convict under the Jones Act, and similar questions designed to bring out a guiding chart for the formulation of a general policy. Mrs. Willebrandt's instructions are the result of that survey.

"Only good strong cases involving a commercial character," she brought under the Jones section of the Act, Mrs. Willebrandt advised them. All other cases, involving having a pint on the hip, or a quart in the house, home brewers for home consumption, all these are to be prosecuted, if at all, under the old "mistake-of-law" section of the Act.

"Your discretion in these matters," said Mrs. Willebrandt's letters, "should be carefully exercised with a view to the best interests of justice and the creation in the public mind of a new confidence in the effectiveness of the new law as an enforcement measure."

Her Motives

Mrs. Willebrandt, who is to become the enforcement arm of the prohibition, after the bureau is transferred from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, was actuated by three motives in advising district attorneys to "go easy."

1. The fear of a universal application of the maximum penalties of the Act will contribute materially to the unpopularity of prohibition.

2. The fear that juries would be reluctant to convict under it. A jury might not hesitate to convict a violation of a law involving an unusually a fine, but it might balk at convicting for a felony involving a maximum of five years imprisonment, $10,000 fine and loss of citizenship in any case.

3. A desire to win the first test of the Jones law before the United States Supreme Court.

This last reason is considered by the prosecuting arm of the government to be fairly important.

Realizing that the first violator convicted under the Jones Act and "given the limit" probably will carry the case to the Supreme Court for a test case, Mrs. Willebrandt wants to have that test made on a case that is as nearly fool-proof as possible. She doesn't want to go before the highest tribunal with a case that is not rock-ribbed from the government's point of view.

She realizes that the decision of the Supreme bench carries with it a moral and psychological influence difficult to underestimate. She wants that first decision to be for the government.

Meanwhile, the prohibition pot was set to boiling merrily in Congress today by Senator Clegg (D) of South Carolina, the only legislator who frankly and publicly admits that he "drinks wet and votes dry." Senator Clegg says he takes an occasional drink "for himself," but he votes dry "for his constituents."

Clegg tossed three resolutions into the Congressional hopper which are designed to set off fireworks when and if they ever come to the debating stage.

Liquor On Ship

The first would make prohibition "follow the flag" by prosecuting owners and operators of American flag-ships for selling liquor anywhere on the seven seas. This is destined to hit the Levianth and other big passenger liners.

The second would forbid foreign embassies and legations in Washington from serving liquor to Americans, or American embassies and legations abroad from serving liquor in their own domiciles. The former part of this resolution would be a severe blow to Washington import liquor for their own consumption.

MILES WINNER OF MARATHON IN NEW TIME

Breaks Record by 4 Min- utes; Won Race in 1926; Michelson Comes In Fourth.

Boston, April 19.—Johnny Miles, fleet little Canadian, this afternoon won the 38th annual Boston Athletic Association marathon from Hopkinton to this city. Miles, winner of the race in 1926, built up a new record today. He won over the course in 2 hours 33 minutes and 8 4-5 seconds as against the previous record time of 2:37:07-4-5 made by Clarence De Mar last year.

Much of the way today the race was a thrilling duel of the mile and a half between the youthful warbler of the colors of the Olympic Club of Hamilton, Ont., and Albert "Whitey" Michelson, the white-haired plumber of Portchester, N. Y., for whom year after year this long distance running classic which carries with it national marathon championship honors has proved a hoodoo.

Karl Koski, of the Finnish-American A. C., New York, romped in second time in 2:35:24.

Michelson finished in fourth place. His time was 2 hours, 37 minutes and 22 1-4 seconds.

Denar finished ninth.

MRS. C. H. BISSELL GETS D. A. R. POST

State Resident is Elected Re- cording Secretary—Mrs. Hobart is Made President.

Washington, April 19.—Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of Cincinnati, will serve the next three years as president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

When ballots were counted the result showed 1,321 votes for Mrs. Hobart and 922 for her lone opponent, Mrs. Julius Young Talmadge, of Athens, Ga.

So sweeping was her victory that she swept into office her entire slate. They were:

Mrs. Wm. Rock Painter, of Missouri, chaplain general; Mrs. Charles Humphrey Bissell, of Conn., recording secretary; Mrs. Margaret B. Barnett, of Penn., correspondent secretary general; Mrs. Harriet Vaughn Rigdon, of Ind., treasurer general; Mrs. Josiah A. Van Orsdel, of Tenn., historian general; Miss Anne M. Lang, of Oregon, reporter general; Mrs. Russell Wm. Magan, of Mass., librarian general, and Mrs. Samuel Jackson Kramer, of New York, curator general.

Of twelve candidates for vice president general the following eight were elected:

Mrs. Robert B. Campbell, of Kansas; Mrs. Daniel M. Garrison, of Maryland; Mrs. Ralph V. Landingham, of North Carolina; Mrs. Herbert Backus, of Ohio; Mrs. N. Howland Brown, of Pa.; Mrs. Wm. F. Manchess, of R. I.; Mrs. Katherine White Kittredge, of Vt., and Mrs. Wm. Smith Shaw, of Maine.

CHURCHES PLANNING VACATION SCHOOL

Tentative plans were made last evening for a church vacation school for the children of the North Methodist and Second Congregational churches, at a meeting held at the Rev. M. S. Stocking, Representatives of both churches were present, including the religious education committee of Second Congregational, E. P. Walton, Mrs. Irving Campbell and Mrs. W. W. Bell. Others from the church on the vacation school committee are Rev. F. C. Allen and L. J. Tuttle, and from the North Methodist, Rev. M. S. Stocking, Clarence L. Taylor, Mrs. C. F. Balch and Miss May Hanna. Mrs. Balch was re-elected treasurer of the joint committee.

It was decided to open the school on Monday, July 8, and to continue it for three weeks along the same general plan as for the two past seasons, with a primary, junior and intermediate department, each one to have a paid superintendent.

Clarence L. Taylor was appointed chairman of the general committee. A meeting for further discussion of the project will be held Thursday evening of next week with Rev. M. S. Stocking.

view expressed by one well-informed official.

It was pointed out that under the present Dawes plan annuities must be met for an undetermined number of years and that under it Germany has no future relief to which to look forward.

Officials said that owing to the nature of the negotiations with France on the one side seeking full monetary satisfaction for its war damage and to meet its foreign debts, and with Germany on the other, fighting to reduce the payments, it is natural that there would be extreme difficulty in arriving at a settlement.

While it was not anticipated here that the present negotiations would reach an impasse, as they have, officials felt that even though the meeting has failed to reach an agreement, the reparations fixation would be completed within a comparatively short time from the sheer force of necessity.

DeMOLAY PLANNING PUBLIC INSTALLATION

A public installation of officers of John Mather chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held on Monday evening, May 6. Everyone interested is invited to be present and witness the ceremony.

The speakers have not, as yet, been announced. The slate of officers which has been elected follows: Sherwood House, M. C.; Carlton Walthers of Rockville, S. C.; Russell Moore, J. C.; Bertie McConkey, scribe; Lincoln Murphy, treasurer. Those chosen for the appointive offices will be announced later.

PAINO SENTENCED

New York, April 19.—Angelo Paino, multi-millionaire Queens sewer contractor, today was sentenced by County Judge Frank Adel to 4 to 8 years in Sing Sing prison following his conviction of aiding an attempt to bribe Borough President George U. Harvey. Paino was accused of supplying the $10,000 bill which Harvey alleged was offered him.

Following the sentence in Queens County Court, Judge Adel announced he would entertain a certificate of reasonable doubt and fixed tentative bonds which would temporarily free Paino at $10,000. Paino's conviction was the fourth in the sensational probe into Queens borough sewer graft.

DEATHS

Harold Sargent Harold Sargent died at his home, 186 Center street, last night after a lingering illness. He was 25 years old and son of Mrs. Mary E. Sargent, and a brother of Joseph H. Sargent who was killed in an automobile accident at Manchester Green on February 20. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Samuel J. Massey of New Haven, and Miss Minnie Sargent, a buyer for the J. W. Hale Company, also a brother, James Sargent.

Mr. Sargent was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal church. Funeral services will be held at his late home, 186 Center street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Alfred Clark will officiate and burial will be in the family plot in the East cemetery.

OVER 200 ATTEND DeMOLAY DANCE

With over two hundred persons in attendance, presenting a gay and colorful appearance, the John Mather Chapter Order of DeMolay dance held in the Masonic Temple last night brought to a successful conclusion the final event of the season. Charles Miller's broadcast orchestra, according to those present, was the best that has ever played here for Masonic affairs. Delicious soft drinks were served between dances.

The Charter Oak chapter Order of DeMolay of Hartford will hold its annual dance on Friday, April 26, at the Hartford club with Lionel Kennedy's orchestra providing the dance music. This affair is to be strictly formal. A large representation from John Mather chapter is expected to attend. Tickets may be obtained from James McCaw, Jr.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

Children of the fifth to eighth grades entertained their parents and friends with the presentation of the three-act modern play, "Her Blessed Boy," at the Manchester Green school assembly hall last evening. The teachers of the respective rooms coached the cast and the school orchestra furnished music between the acts.

The blessed boy himself was Tom Johnson. Other principals in the play were the following: Mrs. Tingle—Dorothy Jenney. Aunt Virginia—Betty Bowen. Aunt Faith—Barbara Stoltenfeldt. Helen Tingle—Eleanor Wallace. Edith Tingle—Ethel Mohr. Betty Radway—Minnie Ristau. Eileen Malone—Pearl Drager. Mrs. Malone—Ruth Palmer. Tom Tingle—Stuart Joslin. Charles Tingle—Carl Oppenheimer. Howard Tingle—Edward Balgwin. Dennis Malone—Raymond Streeter. Those who played doubles were Margaret Fairweather, Julia McKee, Billie Park and Jack Puter.

A play entitled, "Polish Old Fashioned Wedding" will be presented in Turn Hall, on North street, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock by members of the Polish National Catholic church. After the performance dancing will be held.

ABOUT TOWN

What seemed to indicate a falling off of about $3,000 in the receipts of the Manchester postoffice on yesterday for the first six months of the year, took a sudden change today with the arrival at the Manchester postoffice of five tons of Bon Ami, to be shipped by parcel post. A large purchase of stamps was necessary as the shipments are being made to all parts of the country. The back section of the office looked like a freight house this morning. There was a large shipment of nursery stock that came from the Burr company and this was out of the way at 10:30 and work was started on the five-ton shipment from the Bon Ami company.

The Young People's society of the Zion Lutheran church will hold a social tonight at 8 o'clock in the church. An entertainment will be presented and refreshments served.

Rev. George B. Gilbert of Middletown will be the speaker at the meeting of the Lions club, Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Hotel Sheridan.

About a hundred persons, including men, women and children, will take part in the annual Recreation Centers' gymnastic and dancing exhibition at the school street building this evening. The program will start at 7:30. A very small admission fee will be charged and the public is invited. The program of eleven numbers will demonstrate the work done in the various classes throughout the winter months. Director Lewis Lloyd, Associate Director Miss Viola LaLonde and Instructor Frank E. Busch will be in charge. In addition to the program in the large gymnasium, there will be an exhibition, in the women's reading room, of handcraft work done during the winter months by women members of the West Side Recreation Center.

The Park Hill Flower Shop, now located in the south end store of the Cheney building, has leased the store made vacant by the disposal of the Barret & Robbins stock, situated in the Park building, just north of the Manchester Trust Company. The store which they are to occupy was today being repainted and attention given to the floor.

Christian Endeavorers and their friends of High school, age 14 and a jolly social at Second Congregational church last night. It took the form of an imitation track meet. Other features were games, the singing of popular songs and a skit in pantomime by Franklin Smith, Laurienne Strickland and Roger Winton. Gordon Tuttle acted as announcer. Refreshments were such as might be served at an honest-to-godness track meet and consisted of frankfurters, sandwiches, soda, ginger pop and other soft drinks.

Memorial Lodge, No. 38, Knights of Pythias will sponsor a fashion show of women's and men's apparel this evening at 8 o'clock at the assembly hall of the Hollister Street school. Miss Frances Conrow will sing. Mrs. A. N. Merrifield's plectra orchestra will play several numbers. Miller and Levy the well known vaudeville team will entertain. General dancing will follow the program, which is free to all. Leo K. Stiles, chairman of the committee of arrangements will act as master of ceremonies.

ONCE REJECTED BOOKS BEING PROMOTED AGAIN

Chamber of Commerce Finds That 10-Year-Old Encyclopedia Is Being Offered Here.

Prominent business men are being solicited today by agents selling a "Times Encyclopedia," which, according to the Chamber of Commerce, is but another name for a "World Encyclopedia" that was sold here somewhat a year ago and whose agents were finally driven out of town. The encyclopedia, according to the Chamber of Commerce is printed from plates at least 10 years old and on which the copyright has expired some time ago. The agents in town today are soliciting business men making a very low price on the sets in order to get the endorsement of their product so that it can be used as a general sales argument.

A year ago the World Encyclopedia salesmen were apprehended by the Chamber of Commerce and it was learned at that time that old plates had been secured by a middle west book publishing concern. This concern printed hundreds of thousands of copies and then proceeded to flaunt the books as a brand new encyclopedia. The Chamber asks that these books call the Chamber office, Telephone 1469.

BOYS DO HISTORY OF U. S. IN PLAYS

9th District Grade Pupils Put on Demonstration of Progress Since Civil War.

A series of four original dramatizations, depicting the history of the United States since the Civil War, was presented yesterday afternoon and again this morning in the auditorium of the School Street Recreation Center by a cast of about 125 boys from the Ninth District eighth grade under the personal supervision of principal Miss Elizabeth M. Bennett. Seventh grade pupils saw the presentation yesterday and eighth grade pupils today. It lasted about two hours and a half.

This history was written by the boys in the eighth grade history and composition classes and was dramatized by the latter. It was written as a review and summary of the eighth grade course in American history. The plays were staged and directed by the boys themselves. They were all responsible for obtaining their own costumes and properties.

Progress in South The first presentation of the four part program, in three scenes, showed the progress of the South since the war. The first scene was descriptive of the desolation in the South and the difficulties confronting the returning soldiers at the end of the war. The second scene represented the reconstruction period. The final scene depicted the Atlanta Exposition showing the wonderful progress made following the freedom of the slaves, proving that freedom of the slaves, instead of being a hindrance, was actually an aid to progress.

Taking part in this production were the following from Miss Reed's class: Norman Lashinske, Ernest Bergren, Winston Hudson, Arlon Judd, Arthur Brown, Edward Kovis, Elmo Falotta, Robert Holmes, Joseph Sartor, Wadsworth McKinney, Robert Cotton, Salvatore Angello, Joseph Sasiela, Robert Muir, Clifford Keener, Fred Bissell, Elmore Hultine, John Matcchett, Ralph Nyman, Andrew Edguskus, Clarence Stone, Joseph Schoen, Russell Stevenson, Andrew Binok, Thomas McPartland, Walter Tedford, Edmund Rich, Raymond Olson, Stanley Little, Harold Civello, John Carabino, Fred Baldwin and John Hall.

Stories of Development The second part of the program showed the development of the West since the war. The first scene dealt with the Homestead act and its effect on the East; the second scene, the emigration into the West; the third, a discussion regarding the trans-continental railroad, and the fourth pertained to the settlement of Oklahoma.

The following pupils from Miss Eaton's class took part: John McGann, Edward Macauley, Emily Andrews, James Antonio, Sherwood Nyman, Hugo Benson, Maynard Clough, Hente Bensch, Francis Dellaferra, William Mack, David Ruddell, Winslow Wright, Fred Belber, Herbert Tedford, Elmore Witofake, Albert Eagleson, Elmore Vincent, Stuart Kennedy, Ellis Martin, Kenneth Edwards, Carl Larson, Massimo Vuillemet, Dana Cowles, Albert Hilding, Wilbert Hadden, Francis Moriarty, Wilbert Tedford and Robert Alexander.

Inventions The third part of the program dealt with inventions and was acted by pupils from Miss Sweeney's class. Scene one had to do with transportation by automobiles, with ships and airplanes while scene two dealt with electricity—lights, telephone and radio. Taking part were Tony Sartor, Barbara Hyde, Harold Schuetz, Gladys Wilson, Merrill Rubinow, Clifford Janicke, Wodis Tolson, George Fischer, Joseph Mistretta and Winston Smith.

The final part of the program depicted the United States as a world power and was presented by pupils from Miss McGuire's class. It was in four scenes. The first represented the territorial expansion of the United States since the Civil War; the second showed the influence this country gained in China at the time of the Boxer Rebellion; the third had to do with the struggle between peace and war in Europe, ending in the World War, the entrance of the United States into that war and the final victory for the Allies; the fourth was a tableau showing the efforts being made to establish a world peace.

HOUSE, SENATE, AT ODDS OVER FARMERS' BILL

of Ill. Others like Rep. Dickinson (R) of Iowa, have indicated they, too, will support the Hoover bill. The Big Test.

The big test however will come in the Senate, where the farm bloc members have demanded equalization fee, debenture plan or some other substitute certain to give the farmers relief. The Senate farm blocers have declared the House bill a "mere gesture" which would throw the burden of relief back on the farmer's shoulders. They have demanded "real" and "actual" relief from the government. They may be able to force adoption of the debenture plan, in which event a long drawn out battle between the House and Senate conferees would result, with the outcome in doubt.

Administration leaders planned to secure a vote in the House by next Wednesday at the latest. The Senate meanwhile stood in adjournment until Monday, when warm debate will start. The bill probably will not reach a vote in the Senate until May 1.

OIL CAR EXPLODES

New York, April 19.—William Short, 50, was painfully burned and an entire neighborhood was thrown into a panic today when a 200-gallon tank car of crude oil exploded at the plant of the Queensborough Gas & Electric Light Co. in Rockaway Park. Police reserves were called to the scene, while firemen extinguished the blaze that followed.

CHORAL CLUB SOLOIST HAS FINE REPUTATION

Voice and Personality Impress Jersey City Critic Deeply; Concert Here Monday.

The most recent press notices about Allan Jones, tenor soloist who will appear as the assisting artist in the Men's Choral Club concert, Monday evening, at the High School Auditorium, go far towards establishing an enviable reputation for Mr. Jones as a singer.

On March 22 he appeared as soloist with the Choral Ensemble of Jersey City and so impressed the critics that the Jersey Journal carried his name in headlines as follows: "Tenor's solos feature of choral ensemble concert." The critic then went on to say, "He has a voice that may be called unusual, clear, pure, high, strong, well cultivated and coupled with a personality that literally carried the audience out of themselves. He sang the best loved of several operatic arias, and sang them to satisfy the most exacting. He had also a group of ballads, and was more generous with his extras. He, of course, could not satisfy his audience so delighted were they, but gave good measure of encores and gave also the greatest pleasure to all. The first part of the program included the tenor singing 'O Paradiso' from 'L'Africain' and he sang it divinely, while for an encore he gave the beautiful love song from 'Manon', in both bringing memories of the immortal Caruso."

In his appearance with the Choral club, Mr. Jones will sing an excerpt from "Children's Crusade" which will be sung in its entirety at the South Methodist church on May 19. "The Magic Song" by Myer Hellman will also be one of the tenor's numbers.

BODY POISONS MENACE HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Rid Your System of Them

By neglecting constipation, body poisons get in their deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, cloudy complexion, which are the first signs, soon are followed by factors that wreck health, ruin ambitions and steal beauty.

You can guard against constipation with a simple remedy—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is a delicious cereal—100% bran—that brings sure, natural relief from this widespread evil. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is a bulk food. It sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes and stimulates normal action. Results are guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve it with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Use it in cooking—recipes are on the package. Don't neglect constipation. Begin eating ALL-BRAN today. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, dining-cars and restaurants. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THEATERS

Jane Cowl at Parsons. The revival of Stephen Phillips' "Paolo and Francesca" which brings Jane Cowl to the Parsons theater, Hartford, for a three days' engagement, commencing next Monday, April 22, for three days, gives the new generation of theatergoers their first opportunity to see this great romantic drama. Over two decades have passed since its presentation in America. These two decades have proven the lasting qualities of Phillips' poetry and of his sound dramatic craftsmanship. It is pleasurable that in its return to the stage, "Paolo and Francesca" is invested with the finest histrionic talent of our time, Jane Cowl, whose artistry made Juliet memorable for the present generation of theatergoers, graces the role of Francesca da Rimini. Paolo and Giovanni will be played by Philip Merivale and Guy Standing. The first night will be Monday, April 22, at 8 o'clock.

Today is the Anniversary of BATTLE OF LEXINGTON On April 19, 1775, the American revolution began with the battle of Lexington. Thanks to the ride of Paul Revere the night before, the colonial minutemen were prepared for the coming of the British troops. The battle, fought on the village common, ended with the retreat of the British toward Concord. Fighting began before five o'clock in the morning, after a night of terror. Women and children, roused by rumbling drums and ringing bells fled to isolated farms, so with the coming of dawn—and the British—Lexington was practically deserted, except for determined men who knew that war could not be avoided any longer. A check made by the committee of safety on this same day revealed that there were only 12 field pieces in the entire state of Massachusetts. Weak arms, indeed, with which to challenge the British government! But there had been collected 21,549 firearms, 17,441 pounds of powder, 22,131 pounds of ball, 10,000 bayonets, and other comparatively large stores of arms and provisions. This is interesting because it proves that the colonists had regarded for some time their fight for freedom as inevitable.

CAN'T FIGHT FOR TWO MONTHS. Tuffy Griffiths, prominent light heavyweight, injured his hand a bout late in March and won't be able to fight again for two months.

Schradertown is tackling the burning problem of the far western tribes should be allowed to go in this modern day and generation. With Gus and Louise's views as the arena of conflict, the Widow Biddle as the confidante, and Arthur Tracy's Schradertown band hovering in the offing, read to make overtures—or to pick up the pieces—the next chapter of this weekly music-comedy will be heard over the WEAFF network at 7:30 Friday night. Three famous veterans of the soundest ring, Lottie Aymar and Josie La Monte, who were premieres riders in the old days, and George H. Adams, equally noted clown, will be "Uncle Bob" Sherwood's honored guests during the circus program that WJZ and associated stations will broadcast at 7:59 Friday night. "Uncle Bob" will tell some thrilling tales from the personal experiences of his guests, and will then introduce them to the radio audience. Other highlights that will be well worth listening to are concerts by the Bonnie Laddies male trio, at 7 over the WJZ network, Rich's mandolin club over WSB at 8, and the harmonica orchestra City Livery Club over WEG at 8:15. Famous Negro personalities will be introduced by WABD at 8:15, and an hour later hymns will be interpreted by the Little Town Church male quartet over WJZ.

REACH DISABLED SHIP

Boston, April 19 — The Coast Guard cutter Mojave reached the side of the freight steamship West Hika, drifting helplessly with a broken rudder, and was attempting to take her in tow, according to a radio message to Coast Guard headquarters here today.

The Mojave radioed at 8:30 this morning that, after battling heavy seas she reached the side of the stricken vessel approximately 375 miles due east of the Delaware Capes. The message also stated that the crew of 23 men aboard the West Hika were safe and in no danger.

Coast Guard officials stated that it was not known whether the West Hika would be towed to Boston or to Bermuda, but thought that it would be Bermuda.

Get Your Cook Book!
With the Clark Jewel Red Wheel Gas Range you receive a handsome 173-page illustrated Time and Temperature Cook Book which explains the proper use of the Red Wheel Oven Heat Regulator. Actual samples of cookery are shown and other information given which you will find most valuable.

Easy
Terms

WITH the set you can cook a Whole Meal perfectly in the Red Wheel heat-controlled oven of a Clark Jewel Gas Range. And you can do it while you are miles away from the heated kitchen. When you return, the meal—soup to dessert—will be deliciously "done" and ready to serve. Just think—no worry! No care! You cannot get this set in stores. But buy a handsome, new Clark Jewel Gas Range and this valuable set is yours. Come in Today.

The Set Consists of:

- 1 large-size Double Roaster with perforated rack that will hold the largest turkey.
- 1 one-quart Stew Pot with ring cover.
- 2 two-quart Stew Pots with ring covers (designed to be used as a Double Boiler insert).
- 2 three-quart Stew Pots with ring covers.

Very Compact

When you are not using the complete set just nest it inside the large Roaster (as shown in illustration No. 1) and it will not occupy any more space in your kitchen than the bread box.

(With Red Wheel Oven Heat Regulator)
A full enameled range with improved control valves and gas manifold beneath cooking top for greater convenience and efficiency. All-steel durable construction. Can be obtained with oven at right or left. Ovens lined with porcelain enamel. Be sure to see it.

$128

Many Special Features

Since the lids are perfectly flat the Cooking Pots can be stacked in the oven without danger of tipping or falling (see illustration No. 2).

By merely inserting one specially designed 2-quart Cooking Pot in the other you have a large Double Boiler that you will find most useful. This is an exclusive feature.

The Whole Meal Cooking Set is made of highest quality aluminum (very heavy). It has the Seal of Approval of the Good Housekeeping Institute.

Easy to Clean—Bright Finish

The Cooking Pots are easy to clean because they have rolled beads without seams or crevices to hold grease or dirt. Each handsome piece has a high polish.

You will be proud to have the neighbors see the set in your kitchen. Come in Now, before this marvelous offer closes! Let us show you the handsome new Clark Jewel Models.

WRONG AGAIN

The much heralded clean-up of the German reparations question, long anticipated as a forthcoming solution of many international problems and a cure for much unrest in world business and finance, has gone on the rocks. The extraordinary spectacle is presented of the conquered debtor nation fixing its own terms of reparation, with a "take it or leave it" declaration which permits no further argument.

"We will only pay half of what you demand," says Germany in effect, "and we will only pay that if you abolish the Danzig corridor, revise the Upper Silesia frontier and restore the Saar Valley to us at once. We will not abide by the original Dawes plan either. We don't propose to pay anything that we cannot pay without inconvenience. Make the most of that."

What the outcome of this situation is going to be we do not pretend to be able to even guess. The one thing that by universal consent has never been openly mentioned anywhere is the course to be followed by the allies in the event of German refusal to accept the penalty for the crime of 1914. That course will now automatically become the subject of concerned thought in a number of countries. Almost the last thing conceivable is that repudiation of reparations will be permitted, and the present attitude of the Reich looks alarmingly like intended repudiation.

For this impasse two things are largely responsible. One is the maudlin sympathy for Germany which has been built up in the United States and Great Britain, since the war, by persistent propagandizing. Thousands of books and stories have been circulated, nicely calculated to confuse the public mind by representing that nobody, after all, knew what the war was all about—a vicious, lying, treasonable misrepresentation. The other cause is the singular ineptness of the highly analytical Germans in evaluating the state of mind of foreign peoples. The Junkers precipitated the 1914 debacle because, after years of intensive study of the minds of Britain and America, they arrived at exactly the wrong conclusion concerning the inevitable course of both those nations in the war event. They did not think that England could fight, they were sure that America would not.

Now they are taking this insolently defiant attitude because they are convinced that the world will not countenance severe sanctions against Germany in case of default of her war obligations. They are probably as wrong in this as they were wrong in 1914. At all events Germany is doing her best to resurrect that one, final argument of force which from the beginning of time has been called to the arbitrament of such problems as this one that she is creating. That is because she deludes herself as she did fifteen years ago.

BLACKLEGS' TOOLS

The gamblers are well represented in Washington, just as they have been known to be represented in the councils of various American cities at one period and another, and just as they have, from time to time, been known to be represented in legislatures like those of Louisiana, which authorized a great lottery, and of New York, where the race track has always had its delegates on the legislative floors.

There is, to be sure, a difference between the game of the gamblers with a Washington influence and that of the gamblers who have engineered legislation in the cities and the states, but there is no essential difference in the gamblers themselves. In Congress their representatives pose as the champions of "the business interests of the country." That means the stock gamblers.

In a city council the representative of the gamblers would find that his job called for manipulating ordinances or in getting out of office a police chief given to raiding. In Congress the gamblers' delegates just now find that their job is to attack the Federal Reserve Board—the whole Federal Reserve system, if need be. And there are enough of them there to make a lot of noise.

Let there be no illusions about these growlings and showings of teeth at the Reserve Board. They are not in the interest of legitimate business. They are in the interest of unbridled stock speculation. Hundreds of stock gamblers—the experienced, insider type of gamblers—are accumulating vast fortunes out of this unprecedented heavy stock market play. They are not going to permit anything to interfere with their game if by hook or crook they can prevent it. If it becomes necessary to destroy the financial stability of America in order to forestall interference with their game they will be entirely willing to do it. There is no more sense of responsibility among the people who are promoting these attacks on the Reserve Board than among the blacklegs who might overturn a model city government in order that they might run their sand-box faro games, their pinwheel roulette layouts and their phony-dice crap tables.

And their Congressional tools are no better than the crooked adulterers who do the blacklegs' bidding.

EXILE TROTZKY

What interests us in this matter of Leon Trotzky—whom neither Germany nor Norway will permit to cross its borders and who is testing first one and then another European country with a view of finding a place to live, other than Turkey—is, where does he get his dough?

If we, for instance, had been kicked out of the United States and shipped to South Africa, say, and dumped there, we should be more concerned about where tonight's dinner and tomorrow's breakfast were coming from than whether France would accept us as a resident—unless we had been able to save up a bank roll and take it into exile with us. In default of such reinforcement we should expect to be pretty busy finding some kind of a job that would keep our vest buttons and our backbone from fraternizing. Not so, apparently, Mr. Trotzky. In such pictures of him as we see, taken in Constantinople, he and Mme. Trotzky are as well dressed as most folks on Fifth Avenue and are usually riding in a pretty nice car. And, like the lily, he toils not neither does he spin.

Yet Mr. Trotzky can't possibly have any money. He never for an instant admitted the institution of saving, or hoarding, to be a communistic possibility. He never admitted that anybody, even a high Soviet government official, had any right to anything more than the day's living, just the same as the most ordinary laborer. Saving just isn't within the Bolsheviks' ken. The very opportunity to save is equally impossible in that philosophy. That is, as far as the individual is concerned. All increment belongs to the people, to the commune, and is justifiable only as a means to further production.

Somehow, nevertheless, Mr. Trotzky seems to have been able to fix things for himself so that not only can he live but expects to be able to live in whatever country or city he happens to like—if the folks that run it will only let him in.

Perhaps, after all, it pays to be a Bolshevik—if you can be a boss Bolshevik.

DEFIANT LAW BREAKERS

Mrs. Jane Smith, 30, member of a well-to-do family of New York, who lives in Greenwich, is serving ten days in Bridgeport jail. Last October she was convicted in Westport of driving an automobile while drunk. She was fined $100 and her license suspended. The license had not been restored when, in March, she collided with a car driven by another woman, refused to obey the orders of a motorcycle policeman, and was again arrested. This time in Greenwich. The court this time fined her $200 and imposed the ten days jail sentence. The common pleas court, to which the case was appealed, confirmed the court's sentence. So Mrs. Smith is in the coop.

But pretty soon she will be out again. Judging from her record she is not likely to let a little thing like a jail term and a suspended license keep her away from the steering wheel of a car. And if she does drive again, and drive drunk, what is to be done with her?

Our automobile laws are just a little lacking in providing a way of treating persistent, defiant drivers who repeatedly set the law at naught. For such cases a felony penalty should be provided and a considerable term in state prison made a possibility.

MAKING SURE

An attachment is a legal process authorized by some, not all, of the states of the Union, whereby movable property is seized or real estate lien by a sheriff or sheriff's officer, at the inauguration of a lawsuit, as security for whatever judgment the plaintiff may obtain from the court. Last year a Massachusetts man died as the result of a collision between his automobile and one owned by Henry Ford. Now his widow has brought suit against the automobile king—and in conformity with the conventional practice her lawyer has had the famous Wayside Inn attached for $20,000. Probably if it weren't for this attachment, and if the widow got her judgment, Mr. Ford would not and spend the rest of his life hiding in the woods of Senegambia. Somehow, there seems to be something supremely silly about this lawyer's way of making assurance doubly sure.

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington.—One may reasonably suspect, without being able to prove, that President Hoover whispered something in Secretary of State Stimson's ear concerning the decision about the social status of Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann. The chances are that poor Stimson actually asked for a hint of the presidential attitude.

Certainly the president would have handled the thing in no other way. He has never indicated that he took the rules and regulations of the Washington social racket very seriously, but has a distinct horror of anything that might make his administration appear ridiculous. Facing threats that the Gann might even be threshed out on the floor of Congress, Hoover was just the kind of president to decide that the government ought definitely to keep out of social squabbles.

When all the diplomats in town began to hold serious meetings in an attempt to decide or find out where the vice president's sister ought to be seated at dinner, the question became more than of enough public interest to merit presidential attention.

An Embarrassing Job.

The State Department is now relieved of an embarrassing job, not only as to the Curtis-Gann case, but in future complications. It will make no more decisions about seating lists involving American officials and their wives or their hostesses. In all probability this will mean that the diplomats and other official entertainers will observe the present status quo, which will be presented herewith in brief outline. The State Department had passed the buck before, but never abandoned its willingness to arrange seating lists for Washington hostesses. But momentous questions have remained unsettled, such as whether the supreme court outranks the diplomatic corps and whether the cabinet wife is as socially important as a senator's wife.

Once at a judiciary reception at the White House the justices learned that the corps was to march

HEALTH DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank McCoy
The Fast Way to Health

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. MCCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER. ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESS ENVELOPE FOR REPLY. © 1929 DR. MCCOY HEALTH SERVICE LOS ANGELES CAL.

(This is the fourth of a series of articles telling readers just how to take a cleansing spring diet.)

THE FIRST DAY IS THE HARDEST!

This first day of your eliminative fruit diet will in many ways seem the hardest of any during this diet treatment. When—only such a small amount of food is used as that contained in the orange juice, your body will begin to throw out vast quantities of morbid material. The blood takes this poisonous matter up and deposits it in the lungs, kidneys, skin and bowels, and from there it is eliminated through the ordinary functions of these parts. While the toxins are literally racing out of the body, they must be carried to the eliminative organs through the blood and lymphatic circulation.

Owing to this large amount of toxins suddenly freed, you will generally notice at least a slight headache and usually even on the first day your tongue will become coated, the mouth taste bad, and your breath will have a decidedly offensive odor.

Aids to Elimination.

After two or three days the elimination is so great through the skin that your friends with a good sense of smell will be able to detect a toxic odor if they put their noses close to your skin. The frequent sponge bathing which I recommend will eliminate this unpleasant odor to some extent. The enemas advised keep the intestines comparatively free of toxic material almost as soon as it formed.

A large amount of water drinking will give kidneys added fluid to carry off the wastes which are deposited through these organs of elimination.

The deep-breathing will eliminate the carbon-dioxide gas and other poisons, and also assure you of a plentiful supply of oxygen with which to burn up the tissue wastes.

But in spite of this elimination you may feel toxic, and your head may ache for the first day or two until your system has succeeded in eliminating the first great mass of toxic material which has been accumulating in your body for perhaps even years.

I am sure that the elimination of toxins is at least ten times as great during the fruit fast as at any other time providing you use these other aids for elimination which I have suggested.

Do not fail to follow ALL of my instructions, as I have dieted many thousands of patients, and know that each detail of these instructions is necessary to secure the most complete results.

Do Not Think You Can Substitute Laxatives for the Enemas!

This has been tried and found to fail, with often disastrous results. It seems that the reason you eliminate so much when you are taking only the orange juice is because your body is not burdened with much food and the necessity for digesting and assimilating food. All of the energies of the body can be used in the processes of elimination. It would be reasonable to suppose that elimination would be doubled, but in reality it is increased a great deal for than that, here from careful examination made during the fast of the toxins thrown out through the lungs, skin, urine and bowels.

You who do not have the reassuring benefit of laboratory examinations must have the courage to believe that the same changes will take place with you as they have with thousands of others who have been under my personal observation.

Tomorrow you are to follow exactly the same instructions as today. If you missed yesterday's article, see if you can find yesterday's newspaper, or come to The Herald office and get a copy containing the first instructions.

Watch for additional instructions in tomorrow's paper! (The usual Friday menus have been eliminated today and will also not appear next Friday, while this cleansing diet course is being given.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

(Baby's Bath.)

Question: M. Casks: "It is necessary for a ten-month-old baby to have a bath every day?"

Answer: It is a good plan for everyone, from a few days old to extreme age to take at least one and preferably two or three baths a day. These should be mostly sponge or shower baths. The baby has a better chance of living to a great age if the skin is kept thoroughly through bathing as I have suggested.

president; he is regarded as the personal social representative of the president at many functions. Curtis will usually be found going into dinner on the arm of his hostess while Mrs. Gann will commonly be on the arm of the host. All sets of society, official, diplomatic and unofficial, are supposed to call on the vice president—which means on his wife or hostess. She can't return so many calls, so she generally throws a couple of large receptions each season. Mrs. Gann probably will live up to this custom.

Precedence applies to dinners, receptions and formal calls. The big burden really falls on the women; all the men have to do is to show up at the dinners and receptions and keep reasonably sober. It is estimated that a new congressman's wife has, by the accepted rules, some 1400 calls to make. She must bow to Senate ladies, diplomatic ladies, judiciary ladies and cabinet ladies. She climbs in rank only with the next session, when she will precede wives of congressmen just elected for the first time.

PIGEON RACING TO BEGIN SOON

First Trials April 28—Real Thrill for Sportsman Who Owns Homers.

The Eastern Connecticut Course Association of racing pigeon fanciers comprised members of the Rockville and Manchester pigeon clubs will open up their race season April 28. The first race is being flown from Elizabeth, N. J.

The following race schedule has been adopted by the Course:—

100 mile regular, April 28, Elizabeth, N. J.

200 mile regular, May 14, Wilmington, Del.

300 mile regular, May 11, Washington, D. C.

300 mile special, May 18, Wilmington, Del.

400 mile regular, May 25, Charlottesville, Va.

300 mile special, June 1, Washington, D. C.

500 mile regular, June 8, Chatham, Va.

400 mile special, June 15, Charlottesville, Va.

500 mile special, June 22, Chatham, Va.

600 mile special, June 29, Salisbury, S. C.

There is a real thrill in training and racing homing pigeons. It is the same thrill that animates the race horse owner as his colors flash past the wire, or that inspires the dog fancier when his pups come away with the blue ribbon in field trials. It is a sense of superiority that has been struggled for by men the world over. The whole business of owning, training, breeding, training, and flying carrier pigeons has a fascination about it that brings out the sporting instincts of a man and leads him to unmeasured effort to produce a flying team that will win honors for him during race season. It is an inspiration for many sportsmen.

Homing pigeons have a wonderful ability to return to their homes which is made use of for messenger service as well as for sport. Remarkable records of endurance and speed have been made. Their use and value were greatly utilized for messenger service during the World War. One case of supreme endurance was noted in France by an American bird. The bird was liberated at Grand Pre at 2:35 p. m., during intense machine gun and artillery action. This bird delivered its message to the loft at Ramport a distance of 24.84 miles, in 25 minutes. One leg had been shot off and the breast had been injured by a machine gun bullet, but even under these circumstances the bird delivered its very important message.

Pigeons kept for messenger service or racing are carefully bred from a line of record performers. The development of the racing homer has been accomplished by careful training and flying, and the elimination of breeding stock whose offspring have not performed satisfactorily.

Like race horses, prize fighters, football players, or any other athletic performer requiring physical endurance, pigeons that are expected to fly well over great distances in all kinds of weather must be kept in perfect physical condition. A pigeon should also have perfect feather development, especially in the wings. Thorough training is as essential as breeding in the successful management of homing pigeons. A little training is given at a time and this is thoroughly learned before the longer flights are attempted.

The distance that pigeons will fly in one day depends on the weather and their breeding. Flights of 700 miles in one day have been made. A record endurance flight was made from San Antonio, Texas to Brooklyn, N. Y. These flights, however, are seldom made because of the severe physical strain on the birds system. The speed a pigeon can make depends on the wind and weather. Records as high as 2,200 yards a minute have been made with the wind in their favor. Under normal weather conditions birds usually fly at a speed of 45 to 60 miles per hour.

Youngsters are raised only during the natural breeding season which is in the spring. Youngsters are usually raised up to June 15 of each year. Racing pigeon fanciers throughout the country, besides getting a thrill out of the present old bird races are actually engaged in the rearing of youngsters for their young bird races in the fall.

cated drama of modern matrimonial problems that confront a young husband and his former Follies girl-wife, is well seasoned with laughs and bubbling over with thrills and excitement.

Matt Moore and Alice Day have the leading roles with Lilyan Tashman, Edmund Burns and many others prominent in the cast.

The associate film feature is "The Million Dollar Collar," a Rin Tin Tin's latest starring vehicle for Warner Brothers. In this thrilling action-play, Rinty, the marvelous dog, is seen to the very best of his ability, performing in a manner that is nothing short of wonderful.

The final chapter of "Tarzan the Mighty," co starring Natalie Kingston and Frank Merrill and a Crazy Kat Kartoon will complete the program.

Saturday's performance at the Circle operates continuously from 2:15 until 10:30. The usual shows will prevail on Sunday evening at 7:00 and 9:00.

OPEN FORUM

OLD FRIEND FADING AWAY.

Editor, The Herald.

I wonder how many there are other than those directly affected, that realize how fast the neighborhood store is fading from the picture. I call it an old friend, but a banker friend, would be more correct. It is freely predicted that in four years ninety per cent. of the food business will be controlled by stores other than independents.

Does our old friend the corner grocer deserve such treatment? His competitors claim that they undersell him from twenty to twenty-five per cent., but after an exhaustive research a Columbia professor has concluded that the difference is only two per cent. Does this saving of two per cent offset the advantage of credit and service? We think not.

But the serious part of this present condition is that, we are fast becoming a nation of clerks and managers, rather than a nation of merchants. I believe that a merchant, no matter how small, takes a livelier interest in any community than a mere manager sent by a corporation, perhaps but for a short period of time.

But it would require too much space in your paper to thoroughly discuss this subject, but in short unless something is done by the way of legislation to curb this monopoly our old friend the corner store is due for an early demise. Then when the rent comes due, when the taxes are due, when the doctor presents his bill, when a payment on the car is due, someone else will have to play Santa Claus.

Two and a half feet equals a military pace.

if you are looking for power and economy in gasoline

SCAN the main traffic arteries: Fleets of hurrying busses—skilfully maneuvered—stopping, starting—off at the signal. Schedules must be maintained!

It's up to the driver—partly. But far more so to the man who buys the motor fuel—the purchasing agent. He must know his gasoline! He must search out the best—the most economical—the most dependable—the most readily obtainable. For it's power and speed he must furnish—quickness on get-away—unfailing motor performance—and especially low power-cost per mile.

Large numbers of these professional buyers for bus and truck fleets have selected ATLANTIC.

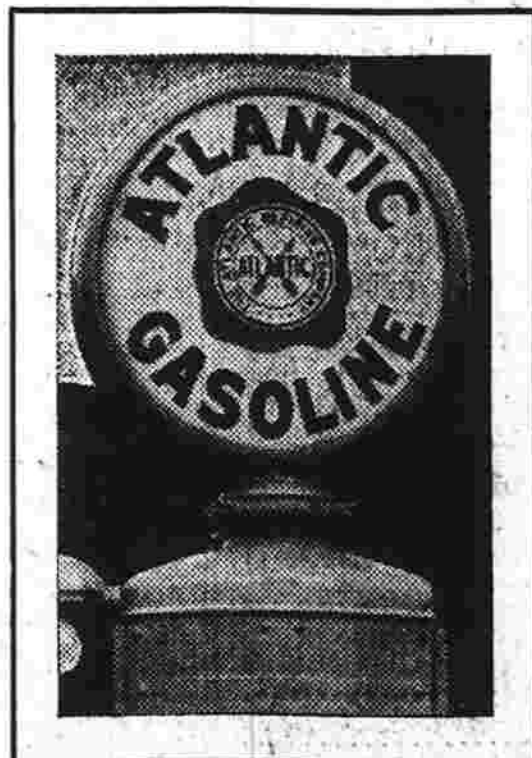

Isn't their studied choice a good guide for you who, too, want the utmost in motor fuel economy and performance?

New-type Atlantic is distinctly an extra-powered gasoline. It represents one of the greatest forward steps ever made in motor fuel refining. Not only because of the extra qualities developed in it. But because it brings them to you at no extra cost.

Atlantic's vast resources, equipment and refining experience have made it possible. Never before have you been able to obtain a gasoline that so thoroughly fits modern motors, or so completely meets every present-day driving condition. Easy starting, agile pick-up, smooth, full, carbonless combustion — all are splendidly combined.

RICH GIRL POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE meets STEPHEN ARMITAGE when he rescues her fox fur from a thief who had snatched it. Their friendship grows until PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, tries to lure him away from her. Then HUCK CONNOR becomes infatuated with her and Pamela amuses herself by playing with both men. Her brother, HAROLD, is in love with Mildred but realizes that she cares more for Stephen than for him. He begs her to go with him and she consents, hoping to keep him from Huck's gambling crowd.

Mildred's mother has a bad accident and she has to stay home from her work a week. Harold does all that he can to help and Stephen comes to call feeling regret over his long absence. He makes an engagement with Mildred but is prevented from keeping the date. Pamela tells him that Mildred is trying to marry her brother for his money. Stephen denounces her and Pamela is furious. She cables her father and has Mildred discharged. Harold tries to have her reinstated but to no avail.

Pamela succeeds in poisoning Stephen's mind against Mildred and the latter faces dreary days of searching for work. Stephen seems lost to Pamela.

Huck becomes so insistent that Pamela plans to break with him. So she snubs him in Stephen's presence and when he objects tells him that she and Stephen are engaged. Stephen protests when they are alone and she says that was the only way she could get rid of Huck. Then she pleads with him that she is alone and misunderstood and manages to get him to confound the engagement. Meanwhile, Huck in a rage has summoned Harold.

Huck laughed. "No?" he mocked. "Well, get this. Neither you nor Armitage will stop me. I'll soon have that heel out of the way."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIII

"Well?"

Harold stood in the sitting room of the luxurious suite in the Judson that Huck Connor occupied on the same floor and next to his own rooms. It was a familiar suite to him. He had spent many hours there, first in reckless gambling with Huck and his friends and then in violent contentions with her when he realized that he was caught in the trap that had been sprung upon him.

Huck greeted him with less of his usual cool urbanity. "Come in," he said crisply. Harold closed the door behind him but without taking his eyes from Huck's face.

"Something was in the wind. So much was plain, and Harold sensed that whatever it was it forbade further trouble for him. Never before had he seen Huck so openly agitated. Ordinarily the man was masterly in his calm, suave domination of any situation.

Huck did not offer him a cigarette, which as a rule was his first mocking gesture at these sessions. At ways it had infuriated Harold. The small attention to his creature pleasure, coming from a man whom he knew to be as ruthless regarding his soul as the devil himself, never failed to whip the boy into a fever of impotent rage.

But now, missing his gesture, he experienced a cold dread. It indubitably had taken a matter of immensely disturbing proportions to upset Huck. And he was upset. His face was almost drained of blood, but his eyes gleamed saturnally, and there was even the hint of a suppressed snarl upon his thin, wicked-looking lips.

Harold made no motion to seat himself, standing where he was just within the door, while Huck made a few more quick turns up and down the room. Finally he wheeled upon Harold and his voice came like the sound of cracking ice.

"When did Pamela become engaged to Armitage?" he asked, snapping the words off in brittle bits, and even the silence in which he waited for Harold to answer was eloquent.

"The boy had no answer. He was taken too much by surprise. He merely looked his surprise.

Huck's lips began to twist into a cruel smile. "So you won't talk? Well, if it was a secret, let me tell you it's out now. She gave me the information herself."

"I didn't know anything about it," Harold mumbled, then, his courage mounting, he added: "But I'm damned glad of it."

Huck took a hurried step toward him and for a second Harold thought there would be a physical encounter. He knew he'd come out of it like a steak put through a food chopper, but he didn't care. He'd even dared Huck to fight him on several occasions.

But Huck halted. Hands were not his chief weapons of combat. A sneer replaced the smile on his face.

"You may be damned glad to know that you're going to put a stop to it," he said hoarsely.

"Not for you," Harold replied defiantly. "You've compelled me to follow your instructions about other things, but you'll overreach yourself if you try to interfere with Pamela."

"Interfere with her?" Huck roared. "I'll own her! I know the little game she's been playing. Young Armitage wasn't coming through to suit her, so she used me. It's an old trick; maybe it worked, but she was out of luck when she picked me to be the fall guy. Now you'll get busy and cable your old man that Armitage is N. G. If you need proof I'll furnish it."

"Fake it, you mean," Harold retorted.

Huck did not answer, but hurried over to his desk and picked up a sheet of paper on which he had written out the message he meant to force Harold to cable to his father.

But when he sought to thrust it upon the boy, Harold would not take it. "I'll not do it," he cried, trying valiantly to look Huck in the eye.

"All right," Huck said levelly. "I won't waste time arguing with you. Either this message goes to your father over your signature or I'll cable him myself in regard to that little matter of the check with his name on the dotted line—the check he never saw."

Harold cringed. "You'll go too far," he warned desperately. "You can't handle Pamela that way. I word from dad and she'd marry Armitage before anyone could stop her."

Huck seemed to find Harold's words convincing, at least they were sufficient to arrest his action and give him food for thought. Harold saw his advantage and pressed it earnestly.

"You've got to leave me out of this," he declared hotly. "You can't use me to help you win my sister. If I thought you had a chance with her I'd tell the truth about you, you..."

"Even if it sent you to prison?" Huck flicked at him viciously.

"It wouldn't. You don't know my father."

"Oh, yes, I do," Huck told him tauntingly. "Why, your poor fool, do you imagine I don't know my business? Every man in my racket has your name as a mark. But I happened to have special knowledge concerning you. I know that your old man warned you even when you were a junior in college—as far as you got, wasn't it?—that he wouldn't stand for a repetition of that one act of yours—that careless little habit you were getting into of forging his name. You weren't to repeat it, you know."

Harold gaped at him, dumbfounded, as he tossed the words off like so many irrelevant formations of the alphabet.

"No, I'm not superhuman," he went on as Harold continued to stare speechlessly at him. "Just the turn of fortune. You ought to know by this time that we place our men, members of our intelligence service," he amplified jeeringly, "in every strategic position we can reach."

"It chanced, if I was correctly informed—here he paused to let what he had to say sink with its full import into the astounded boy's mind—"that you were still in bed one morning during your Eastern vacation here when your father came to you with the evidence of your crime in his hand and a flat ultimatum which he laded out to you in regular stern parental fashion."

"Both of you forgot, or rather your father did not know, that a valet was busy in the adjoining bathroom, with the door partly open. He went on quietly. 'That valet happened to be a man who had served me for some time.'

Harold seemed to totter under this blow, but the next moment he had drawn himself up in a last effort to bluff it out.

"What of it, you dirty spy?" he cried half sobbingly.

"What of it?" Huck echoed lightly. "Well, here's what of it. You'll do anything before you give me a check that check you gave me to your father. You're too clever for that. If you weren't clever you wouldn't have thought of dating it back two weeks so that it would appear enough time had elapsed for you to have received it from abroad. Not even I would have suspected you if I hadn't known you were in a hole."

"Yes, damn you," Harold cried furiously. "A hole you got me in."

Huck was not disturbed by his vehemence. "Quite so," he said easily. "A hole I got you in to make an ally of you. You see we needed the entree you could give us as the right people. So we had to take you by the hand, little boy, and lead you to the slaughter."

He stopped and surveyed the tormented creature before him with minister affability. Harold couldn't endure it. He staggered over to the nearest chair and dropped down with his face in his hands.

Huck pretended to be touched. "You'll have nothing to worry about," he said smugly, "when Pamela and I are married. Now be quiet," he rasped as Harold jerked up his head to speak. "You can't stop it, but I'll promise to give the check back to you and sever all our...er... business relations, just to have your help now..."

"I won't send that message!"

"You would if I wanted you to, but I don't. You were right. Pamela would bolt. I just want you to keep your mouth shut. After Pamela and I are married I'll give you the check."

"You'll never marry her," Harold choked, but there was stark terror behind the words.

Huck laughed. He was perfectly calm now. Torturing Harold had quieted him.

"No," he mocked. "Well, get this. Neither you nor Armitage will stop me. I'll soon have that heel out of the way."

(To Be Continued)

Harold seemed to totter under this blow, but the next moment he had drawn himself up in a last effort to bluff it out.

"What of it, you dirty spy?" he cried half sobbingly.

"What of it?" Huck echoed lightly. "Well, here's what of it. You'll do anything before you give me a check that check you gave me to your father. You're too clever for that. If you weren't clever you wouldn't have thought of dating it back two weeks so that it would appear enough time had elapsed for you to have received it from abroad. Not even I would have suspected you if I hadn't known you were in a hole."

"Yes, damn you," Harold cried furiously. "A hole you got me in."

Huck was not disturbed by his vehemence. "Quite so," he said easily. "A hole I got you in to make an ally of you. You see we needed the entree you could give us as the right people. So we had to take you by the hand, little boy, and lead you to the slaughter."

He stopped and surveyed the tormented creature before him with

HARDY BORDER SUPPLANTS OLD-STYLE FLOWER BEDS

By ROMAINE B. WARE

The hardy or herbaceous border is without doubt the most popular form of gardening in the home grounds today. It has taken the place of the old flower "beds" throughout the country and is a great improvement over them.

The first thing to be considered in planning a hardy border is to provide a background. This may be a mass of shrubs, a hedge or a fence covered with vines. In England, where the hardy border originated, they often are placed with brick or stone wall as a background, a most admirable situation. A hardy border should be wide enough to provide for a goodly succession of bloom. Six to ten feet is not too wide and some of the finest examples are fourteen feet wide. They generally are located at the outer edges of the lawn area where they are the decorative features of the place.

The soil preparation for a hardy border should be very thorough, because the plants are set in it for a period of several years. If the foundation is not well laid the plants will suffer for want of food. They are crowded close together and have to get their food from a very limited space in competition with many other things. Not only must they be well provided for in the beginning, but they will need to be fertilized each year if they are to grow right.

The hardy border does not necessarily exclude the lowly annuals as they are needed for summer bloom. In mid-summer there is always a season when there is little bloom among the hardy plants and then the annuals are invaluable. Too, you will need the spring flowering bulbs to give you great masses of color in the spring.

The bulbs should be planted in masses of dozen to a hundred of other all of one kind—or in mixture. Avoid straight lines and geometrical figures. They belong to the old school of gardening and are out of place in these times. The bulbs may be succeeded by annuals planted right over them, thus getting two seasons of bloom from the same space.

STATE SHOULD SUPERVISE HEALTH CONDITIONS AT PUBLIC CAMPS

By MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Already the owners and proprietors of summer camps are beginning the spring cleaning and the modifications necessary to make the camps suitable for safe occupancy during the coming hot season.

There are only a few of the states in this country that provide for regular inspection of camps by officers of the state board of health. Since 1926, Maryland has had regular supervision and inspection of camps. In 1928 104 camps were inspected in that state and only 76 were licensed to operate. Only the camps that meet the state requirements for sanitation and for general care can obtain a license to operate.

It is a strange aspect of human logic that a parent who will have his child in a private school with regular examination and the best of medical care during the winter season will send that child to a camp during the summer, hundreds and sometimes thousands of miles from home, and never give a thought to the possible dangers that the child may have to overcome from a sanitary and health point of view.

Many camps have not the slightest arrangements for screening of sleeping quarters. Some, although located in rural districts, feed children largely on canned instead of fresh vegetables. Some camps contain bad fire risks because old lamps are used, being hung directly on frame shacks of flimsy construction.

Medical assistance varies from the constant presence of a nurse to the use of hospital internes, recent graduates, doctors 30 or 40 miles away or doctors actually in residence in charge of the camp. Beyond these questions comes the consideration of such fundamental sanitary problems as proper water supply, milk supply and sewage disposal.

The state of Maryland asks all conductors of camps, whether for adults or children, tourists or residents, to make due application for inspection; it provides rules and regulations governing camp ground sanitation and plans for protecting springs and wells from pollution. Plans for small living quarters in camps and advice in regard to suitable building materials and ventilation are also available.

Other states will do well to follow the example of Maryland and give to people who use summer camps proper protection against sanitary deficiencies. In the other considerations that have been mentioned leadership must come from owners, managers and parents. Only such co-operation will secure for the children in summer camps the type of safety and medical care that parents provide for them at home.

The WOMAN'S DAY
By ALLEN S. SWANBERG

The recent trial of Texas Governor James H. Ross on a charge of "maintaining a public nuisance" drew about as much attention as the late World War. Tex—her pearls, her diamonds, her crossed legs, her pearly teeth, her wise-cracks to judge, attorneys and jury, were smeared through the papers as few things are ever smeared.

And what does it mean? And what's it all about? It means that a blonde little hard-boiled egg from Texas, with a flair for "hand-in-a-line," showing cute legs, getting more publicity than Peggy Hopkins Joyce, gets the world's plaudits when she gets away with her cuteness over the law.

VIRTUE ITS OWN REWARD
It means that the garlands of these our times go to the ones who amuse us—the wisecrackers, the joy-makers. Meanwhile we continue to tell our girls that the laurels go to those who carve out "careers" for themselves. We raise them to be teachers, librarians, painters, writers, social workers. And who ever heard of any of this ilk having the good time and getting the fame and general attention that a Tex Guinan with ropes of pearls does?

MARION'S FARM
Marion Talley is at last ready to buy her farm. She has been saying for some time that to have and run a farm was her life's goal and now, having earned about a third of a million dollars through her concert and operatic career, she is ready for the farm.

Here's one of those "twilight" things of life. There are literally hundreds of thousands of girls in this country straining every nerve and fibre, staking their all, to attain even a fraction of the goal which Marion Talley, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, attained.

To them, the spectacle of a girl tossing away this pot of gold at the rainbow's end in exchange for what seems to her a bigger pot of gold, a farm with pigs and chickens and blossoming apple trees, is astounding and utterly incomprehensible!

AND YET!
And yet—what would life be for any of us if the lot of gold was ever really attained? It is the hankering for the something more which gives life its zest.

Most of us envy the man or woman who writes a great book. That man or woman may make that success a stepping stone to some greater heart's desire, and fortunate is he to have one!

SHE MAY COME BACK
Marion Talley's farm won't content her any longer than her speech.

Middle West Is America At Best, Says Chesterton

By MILTON BRONNER.

London.—"America is, both for good and evil, a very backward country."

It was Gilbert Keith Chesterton, an able poet, good novelist, fine biographer and one of the best essayists now writing, who made that remark.

One went to see "G. K. C." prepared to do battle with him about his above statement. America, backward? America, with its astounding level of comfort and prosperity for the great mass of its citizens, with its tremendous material and scientific progress, with its schools, universities, hospitals, endowed institutes of research?

But "G. K. C." with his great mass of tousled iron gray hair, his comfortable old clothes, his smiling smile, his gray eyes twinkling behind his glasses, cried "Kamerad" right at the start.

Prizes Middle West. "To say that America is backward," he said, "is really a compliment to your country in the present state of so-called civilized society. I was over in America in 1921 on a long lecturing tour and when I speak of the real America I do not mean your feverish, sophisticated big cities, but the quiet villages and hamlets of your unsophisticated and more or less innocent Middle West. The Middle West is a region where the modern poison has not penetrated—it is so large, so remote, so self-contained. England is a smaller country and the poison has penetrated nearly everywhere.

"The Middle West has the old normal virtues—stout religious beliefs, respect for the family circle and neighborhoods, reverence of the children for the parents, helpfulness of brothers to sisters. I should say this America was the least of the Gadarene swine.

"I could not join in the loud laughter over the famous evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn. I have more respect for the poor old farmers who stick to traditional morality and the traditional Bible than for those who run after every new theory advanced by iconoclastic scientists.

"I am not orthodox when it comes to believing every word in the Book of Genesis, but at Dayton I think Clarence Darrow was more muddle-headed than William Jennings Bryan. Darrow wanted to write a blank check on heredity and evolution without seeing the consequences of his act. As between the fundamentalist Middle West and South and the skeptical big cities, I would choose the former.

"Your fight over prohibition is very much the same thing. It is a fight between your quiet little villages and your feverish big cities. I am not a prohibitionist. But I understand what your drags are after. They are trying to better mankind.

"Back in 1820 we had a certain kind of Englishman. He had a stock of ideas and ideals, three-fourths of which were for family, for religion, for plain living. He had also a due regard for the traditions of the eighteenth century liberal movement, particularly as regards economic theory.

"If you work hard you get on. If you don't get on, it is either because you have been drunk or lazy or miss your opportunities.

"It is unwise to give money to beggars in the streets. It is better far to write a check for some hospital."

"The Middle West American, particularly of Anglo-Saxon stock, has this idea of our 1820 Englishman. He says: 'Work and be thrifty and work will do you justice.'

"The Middle West still believes in that most natural and most noble of human hopes and ideals—democracy, or the equality of men. He inherits these things from the American and French leaders and thinkers of the eighteenth century. Thomas Jefferson and Condorcet among others. They held that the republic was virtue. They had no use for luxury. Dandified courtiers of kings had luxury, but free men lived a plain life.

"That's where democracies today have broken down. They have lost that touch of the heroic, the stoic, the austere. In the great cities one sees luxury and riotous living. One sees the servants of democracy giving themselves up to lives of ease. Which is why dictators like Mussolini have come to power. They have enforced austerity and hard work on the people and on the people's servants.

"Where America is going wrong is that it still believes in individualism. It is the general notion that commerce is a fair and open competition in which thrift and industry try succeed and only vice and idleness can fail. Hence your astounding and almost child-like optimism and your worship of that thing called capitalism. And I say this, who am not a Socialist.

"There was a time in America when individualism was still possible. If your employer in Kalamazoo threw you out of a job, you turned up in Oshkosh and got one as good or better. But there are no more wide open spaces. Your lands have all been taken up. Your growing cities are crowded.

"There is keen competition for every job. Life is a harder, more difficult and more complex thing for an American today than it was 50, or even 25 years ago. You are approaching European conditions.

"There is a tendency in America to idealize capitalism and mere money. You say money talks. Yes, but I don't like the sound of its strident voice. It is arrogant. It thinks it can do what it pleases. It shouts its supremacy. It is skeptical and cynical and hard and irreligious.

"As between the progressive, hustling money masters of New York and Chicago and the backward Bible-reading middle western farmer and small townsman, I vote for the latter."

Theaters

At the State.

The most delightful mixture of comedy and melodrama to come from the screen since the advent of talking pictures is to be found in "The Dummy." Paramount's current 100 per cent all-talking film, which opens a two-day engagement at the State theater beginning today. "The Dummy" is delightful because, whereas most of the talking dramas that have so far appeared upon the screen with any success have aped the stage-play technique, "The Dummy" is really and truly a motion picture that talks. The action is the action of motion pictures, unlimited in scope, fast and concrete. And the voice recording is the equal, if not the superior, of any that has been done thus far.

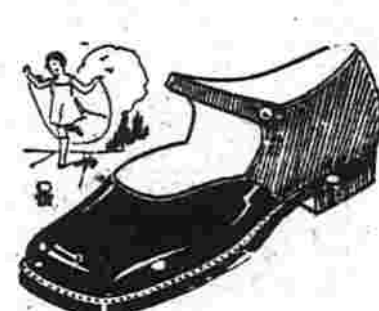

The story deals with a gang of kidnapers and an office boy who succeeds in outwitting them by playing deaf and dumb. An excellent cast, including Ruth Chatterton, Frederic March, Mickey Bennett, John Cromwell, Fred Kohler, Jack Oakie and Zasu Pitts, prove equally capable before camera and microphone.

Three selected acts of Vitaphone vaudeville occupy the limelight on today's bill at the State. Gus Edwards, nationally famous composer and producer of musical stage attractions has forsaken Broadway to bring to the screen his unparalleled and distinctive brilliance in his creation of "Songs of the Roses," a Metro Movietone presentation. This miniature musical revue featuring "rose songs" with stage stars of splendid voice, specialty dancers, huge chorus and brilliant orchestral accompaniment, is the first of Edwards' novelties which he has in store for film fans. Each of the various songs and dances are enacted in beautifully appropriate settings in an unprecedented combination of technicolor, sound and unceasing action.

The second act on the bill features Donald Brian, a popular celebrity of exceptional talent who offers a pleasing program. The third and last act presents Born and Lawrence, a pair of comedians extraordinary. The current chapter of "The Collegians" and the State News Events will also be shown.

THESE SIMPLE RULES MAKE TEETHING EASY

Be careful of Baby's diet during teething. Do not overfeed him. Watch his stomach and bowels and at the first sign of indigestion, gas or constipation, give him a few drops of harmless, pleasant-tasting Fletcher's Castoria. These simple rules are making teething easy on millions of babies—and mothers, too. For over thirty years Castoria has been the trusted standby of mothers everywhere. It soothes wakeful, cross babies to sleep quickly and easily—and it's purely-vegetable so you can give it as often as needed. It does the work of castor oil better and more gently. For your protection, the bottle of genuine Castoria always bears the Fletcher signature.

O'Brien Wins By Kayo; Haystack Claims Foul

Majority of Crowd Thought Blow Low; New Yorker Lies on Canvas Apparently Wringing in Agony; Was Thoroughly Out-classed.

By TOM STOWE

Frankie O'Brien, promising Hartford welterweight, was awarded a knockout victory over Johnny Haystack of Birmingham, N. Y., in the eighth round of their star bout at Foot Guard Hall in Hartford last night, but there will long remain a doubt in the minds of many persons who saw the contest as to whether the blow which finished Haystack was fair or foul.

Excluding the questionable blow for the moment, there was no doubt as to which boxer was winning. Haystack a severe punishment; one that will probably keep Haystack idle for some time. However, the New York state brawler exhibited great courage. He stood up under a barrage of hard lefts and rights to the head and body that would have finished an ordinary boxer much quicker than eight rounds.

It was Haystack's sheer gameness; ability to take a bad beating and come back for more, that put him in good stead with the capacity crowd. He gained more sympathizers when, after going down for a count of nine twice in the sixth round, he staggered to his corner at the bell. Again in the seventh round he was all but out, yet managed to drag himself back to his corner where his attendants worked over him frantically.

Then came the document of the evening. After absorbing several hard blows, Haystack crumpled under a vicious left uppercut that struck near the wasteline. He rolled over onto his back apparently writhing in agony, meanwhile pounding both gloves on the canvas and shaking his head as if in protest to Referee Bill Conway who ruled the blow legitimate. He lay over Haystack and counting him out.

Mighty Clever Fakina? If Haystack was fakina, or looking for the easiest way out as some would say, it was the best piece of ring acting I have ever been privileged to witness. An idea of his effect upon the large crowd, may be gleaned from the fact that seventy-five percent of the crowd had been influenced by Haystack's actions to believe that the questionable blow could not have been comparatively small percentage of this number were in position to see whether the blow was low or not.

If Haystack was really fouled he couldn't have been hurt seriously for once Conway finished the count, he was able to get up and cross the ring in pursuit of the referee. O'Brien held him back and by that time his seconds were in the ring. They heined Haystack back to his corner. The New Yorker still appeared to be badly hurt but Dr. John J. McLean who conducted two examinations, one in the ring and another in the dressing quarters afterward, found no evidence of a foul blow. However, the fact that he remembered that the mere fact that the cup wasn't dented, doesn't prove he wasn't hit low.

Don't Usually Get Up While it is possible that Haystack's great stamina enabled him to rise after being counted out, on the other hand a fighter who is badly hurt from a foul blow usually recedes on the canvas much longer and has to be carried to his corner. The fact that impressed a majority of the fans and made them believe that Haystack was fouled was his refusal to quit at the end of the sixth and seventh rounds when he was on the verge of a knockout. He would have excused his exit then.

Another fact that cut many of the crowd against Referee Conway was because he allowed O'Brien to commit several infractions of the rules earlier in the bout. O'Brien caused no serious injury. Although hit low at least twice and also was guilty of hitting on break two or three times. But from a standpoint of actual fighting, there was no question as to which fighter won. Haystack took a very bad beating. He weighed 161 1/2 against 157 for O'Brien.

Zotter Kayoes Blaine In the semi-final bout of the evening, Joe Zotter of New Britain squared account with Mickey Blaine of Indian Orchard by scoring a technical knockout victory in the sixth of an eight round bout. Floored twice in the opening round, the Hartford City youth came back strong to floor Blaine in each of the next two rounds and to take the fourth round by a wide margin. The fifth was about even. Mickey was floored twice before the bout was stopped in the sixth. Zotter's deadly right paved the way for Blaine's downfall.

Rav Sanborn of Hartford won on a technical knockout over Roy Powers of Holyoke in the third round when the latter's eye was cut sufficiently to warrant Referee Conway's action in stopping the fight. Zeko Mazer of Hartford won on a technical knockout over Gerald Emard of Holyoke when the latter quit at the end of the third round because of an injured wrist. Mazer was well ahead on points. Emard having spent himself at the outset of the bout. Jimmy Llano of Springfield was given an unpopular decision over Rene Chabot of Holyoke. Four rounds, Chabot won the first three but was outclassed in the fourth by a knockout.

FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE CHICAGO CUBS

Notre Dame had a backfield a few years ago—that was titled the "Four Horsemen" and it lived up to its name against rival football teams. The Chicago Cubs have a quartet they term in the same manner this season and it should live up to its name in the baseball world as well as Notre Dame's famous backfield did in football. It is shown here, reading left to right—

RUTH AND GHRIG LACE OUT HOMERS

O'Doul Also Whales Pair of Circuit Clouts; Hack Wilson Still Slugging.

By LES CONKLIN. New York, April 19.—New attendance records are expected to be set in the series between the World's Champion New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics, their leading rival for the American League pennant, which starts here today and continues over the week-end.

Ruth, who had hit only one four-bagger clout all spring up to last Saturday, came through with his initial homer of the official season in his very first time at bat, and narrowly missed another later on. Lou Gehrig also whaled one out of the park.

Although Pipiras walked nine men, he and Helmhach held the Red Sox to 3 hits and the Yanks were not pressed to win by a 7 to 3 count. A six-run rally in the fifth was the big noise of the Mackmen's 8 to 2 win over Washington. The Nats erred in the fifth, losing pitcher, W. Clark, pitched a 4 to 0 game.

The Browns held the White Sox to six hits, winning 4 to 1. Ted Lyons yielded only 5 bingles but Blue's homer and double ruined him.

The Cubs massaged the Pirates again, 11 to 1. Hack Wilson continued his terrific slugging with a home run and two other hits, and Grimm contributed his second homer of the season.

The Giants also showed great batting power in outslugging the Phillies, 11 to 9. New York scored six runs and the Phils five in a wild ninth inning. Lefty O'Doul, Quaker outfielder, did his best to beat his former mates by socking two homers.

Brooklyn made three home runs and outbatted the Braves 19 to 12, but managed to finish on the short end of a 13 to 12 nightmarer.

The Cardinals downed Cincinnati, 3 to 1, for their second win in three starts.

Cleveland tamed the Tigers, 8 to 4. Don Luis Fonseca delivered four hits and stole three bases.

St. Louis, April 19.—Kid Chocolate, Cuban bantamweight, has been signed to box Steve Smith of Bridgeport, Conn., in a ten-round bout at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on May 7.

SIDDERS WINS

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS. At Paris—Frankie Genaro of New York, recognized as world's flyweight champion, won from Pider Pladner, French claimant to the title, on foul, 5.

At Waterbury, Conn.—George Sidders, Canadian welterweight champion, defeated Joe Emmons, of Waterbury, 8.

At New Haven, 6. Jimmy Scott, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., outpointed Mickey Travers, of New Haven, 6.

CHRISTY VS. SUGGS. It was announced that next week Thursday Nick Christy of Bristol will meet the celebrated colored featherweight, Chick Suggs of New Bedford. Suggs is the man who hurled a challenge at Bat Battalino only to have the latter come forth with an alibi that he could not make arrangements.

SO BASEBALL IS HERE, EH?

On one of those days fit more for football than baseball, with the breeze sweeping over from Lake Shavute, Willis Hudlin and George Erie, Cleveland and Detroit opened Grant. Did you say it was good old the American League season at summer time?

Penn Wants One Year Delay For Grid Rules

But Rules Committee Feels There Has Been Sufficient Deliberation; Says Query Shows 75 p. c. in Favor.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, April 19.—The first major on first class beat against the football rules, as present constituted, was filed today by the University of Pennsylvania, through the chairman of its athletic council, Sydney Hutchinson, and forthwith came a backfire from the rules committee, promising the gentleman faithfully that it will pay him no attention at all.

The committee, through its secretary, W. S. Langford, announced that it planned to stand pat on what it had done to and with the rules at the meeting in February. Mr. Langford says the rules will be officially codified in 1930 and rejoining is general.

Difference of Opinion. Just an honest difference of opinion, apparently. For instance, Mr. Hutchinson speaks querulously about the dead ball "being saddled upon the game" in the form of a "radical innovation that offends the millions who have helped to make football America's most popular sport." He claims to have sounded public opinion and to have found it "almost unanimously unfavorable" to this rule. Mr. Langford, it seems, also has been taking his soundings over the starboard rail, so to speak, and has discovered that America is about 75 per cent. in favor of the new rule.

He had nothing he wished to say in rejoinder to Mr. Hutchinson's suggestion that the committee take the National Collegiate Athletic Association into its confidence about what it intended to do nor did the Pennsylvania's audible lack of sympathy with the present position of the game in 1929.

of the goal post; leave him other than unmoved. Where he did wish to take issue with Mr. Hutchinson's contention that the country was against the so-called dead fumble and his interference that the committee had fallen down the front steps in its haste to get this legislation on the books. There was no haste, the committee's secretary said. The change was under consideration for a year. There is, he added, no particular opposition to the dead fumble, except "from a small minority that inevitably opposes everything." In further extenuation of the committee's action, he traced the course of the legislation through the last 24 years in order to furnish evidence in support of his contention, i. e., that the dead fumble is a logical evolution of the game's trend.

"We simply have standardized our conditions and their values," said he. "More than 20 years ago we had to introduce the forward pass to save football and, of course, we had to protect the passing team by making all grounded passes dead. Within more recent years, we have legislated the dead ball rule to other plays for particular reasons. We found that punts were being allowed to fall to the ground untouched and so, to encourage punting, we protected the receiver by declaring the fumbled punt, recovered by the kicker's side, dead at the point of recovery. We instituted the backward pass because we found the same was tightening up too much and again we encouraged its use by giving the attacking side much the same protection.

Why Changes Were Made. "Now, we find the running back of fumbles from scrimmage, recovered by the defense, too great a matter for a manual error. Even as matters now stand, we estimate that this error will cost the side responsible an average of 40 yards. Only the blocked kick now is open to an advance at will and here we were virtually unanimous in favor of it and the last coaches association meeting at New Orleans voted for it about 93 per cent.

That, in a few thousand well-chosen words, is what Mr. Langford feels he knows about its situation. Frankly, I know nothing, except that, rules or no, fifty dollars will get you a couple of admirable seats opposite the end zone for the first good game in 1929.

GENARO IS WINNER ON FOUL IN 5TH

American Was Floored for Count of Nine In Same Round on Questionable Blow.

Paris, April 19.—Frankie Genaro, of New York, recognized by the National Boxing Association as flyweight champion of the world, has emerged his score with Spider Pladner today as far as the record books are concerned. The French champion, who had knocked out the New Yorker in the first round here on March 2, lost to him on a foul in the fifth round last night when he delivered a low right well below the belt. Earlier in the fifth round Genaro was floored for a count of nine by another questionable blow.

In the opinion of French boxing enthusiasts, however, Pladner is the better man. They gave him two rounds last night and an even break in the other two. Americans at the ringside credited Genaro with winning two rounds.

The American scored in the first and third rounds with lefts to the head.

Genaro had claimed he should have won the March 2 bout on a foul because Pladner hit him on the break.

LOCAL BOWLERS WIN $400 MATCH

Murphy and Berthold Beat Danielson Pair by 56 Pins; Lost Last Night by 55.

Manchester won its two-man bowling match with Danielson by 56 pins by retaining that many of its 111 lead last night in the final half of the 20 game match rolled in Danielson. Fritz Barber and Jack White were victorious last night by 55 pins and came near erasing the entire lead in the final game. But for some spectacular work on the part of "Kaiser" Berthold they might have done so. He was high for the night and his teammate, Howard Murphy was low man. In a special aftermatch Jack Sidelwa won from Barber in a series of three games for a purse of $150. A total of $400 was at stake in the big match. Here are the scores:

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The first of a series of informal presentations will be given this afternoon by the members of the Sock and Buskin Dramatic Club. These programs are open to any student, and are particularly intended for those pupils who intend to try-out for membership in the club. Two short plays were to be presented this afternoon. The first of these plays will be presented by Gustave Anderson and Gertrude Campbell, and the second by Florence Schildge and Dorothy Armstrong.

Play-writing has become an important factor in the English training of the High school, especially in the sophomore class, and some very excellent plays have been written by members of that class. Two plays, written during a Health-Play Writing Contest in the sophomore English divisions, were enacted yesterday at the assembly. The first play, entitled "Five Poor Fish," was written by Virginia Lowell. The theme of this play concerned the foolish diets that women resort to in order to carry out their dieting, and the harmful results of this dieting, even when faithfully adhered to. The cast was as follows:

Mrs. West, Susan Allen.
Mr. West, Joseph Della Ferra.
Barbara Bailey, Virginia Lowell.
Mrs. Marshall, Marjorie Behrend.
Mrs. Mirris, Marion Met. gulin.
Mrs. Hall, Betty Tarnowski.
Mrs. Allen, Cora Kingsbury.
Alice, the maid, Frances Scotsky.
The second play was written in a somewhat more humorous vein. Its title was "Jay", and it was written by Lucy Waddell. This was the story of the transformation of a sickly book-lover into a healthy young lover of the great outdoors. The plot theme was very well developed and made a very enjoyable and amusing play. The cast was as follows:

Jay, Otis Kerr.
Louise Bronson, Myrtle Muir.
Mrs. Bronson, Josephine Sapienta.
Donald Storm, Roger Cheney.
Joan Sand, Mary McLagen.

RACE HORSES BURNED

Havre De Grace, Md., April 19.—With nine thoroughbred racers known to be dead, property loss expected to run well above $100,000 and an unidentified stable boy believed to have perished, the famous Havre De Grace racing circuit presented a picture of utter confusion and uncertainty early today following a blaze which swept three stables at the track last night. The fire broke out in stable No. 47 which housed 47 of turfdom's bluebloods, including those owned by C. E. Applegate, Mrs. H. D. Cox, William W. Benham, J. J. Keath and several other nationally known fanciers of fine horseflesh.

Before the blaze had been brought under control at least nine horses had perished. They were Shasta Klan, Parchesi, Goulash, Eleanore, Hijo, Inland, Lass O'Growth, Sea Wolf and the Nut.

Race officials said today's races would be run off as scheduled.

POTATO INDUSTRY TO BE DISCUSSED

Meeting Tonight in New County Building in Hartford; Expert to Be Present.

Potato growers in Hartford area are invited to attend the meeting at the new county building, Washington street, Hartford, April 19 at 8:00 p. m., to discuss the economic situation in the potato industry, according to Chas. D. Lewis, County Agricultural Agent, for the Hartford County Farm Bureau.

Dr. E. A. Perreault of the Connecticut Agricultural College has prepared a comprehensive statement setting forth the results of his study designed to show the production, shipping and price trends in each area throughout the country by years.

The Hartford area according to Dr. Perreault will probably become a shipping area in which event the local growers should be thoroughly well acquainted with conditions throughout the country.

The question of continuing the 300 bushel potato club as an educational organization to promote efficient production will also come up for discussion and there is some talk of increasing the requirement for membership to 400 bushels rather than 300. Last year some 16 growers in the county qualified for membership in the club and under present production conditions a very substantial club could be organized among the men who produce 400 bushels or more per acre.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Many a winning athletic miss would rather have the loving than the cup.

SENSE and NONSENSE

DING-A-LING! Radio expert (just awakened by loud noise from telephone): Radio Shop. Voice—Hello: we're holding a dance to radio music on that set I bought of you last week. "Well?" "I want to know which dial to turn to make it play faster."

JACK FROST LIES IN WAIT When days a specious warmth assume. And sleeping buds awake. We feel, when they burst into bloom. They've opened by mistake. "Where are you going with the fish pole?" "G'wan, this ain't no fish pole—it's m'new cigarette holder."

Window displays of fishing tackle before the first of May always cause the weather to be too cool for fishing.

Harry: Does Jack know how to neck? Helen: Does he? Why, my dear, I almost thought once that he was lynching me.

He — "There goes a happy couple." She — "When do they expect to be married?" He — "They don't."

A woman's glory may be in her hair but how can it be when there ain't any there?

I often think The way things look. Some folks have never Owned a book.

If you really want to know what your best girl thinks of you, why not marry her and wait until the honeymoon is over?

Actress—"I can't marry you; I have a clause in my contract." Stage Door Johnny—"That's all right. My father's a surgeon."

A Scotchman had the rubber heels removed from his shoes and replaced with leather because they "gave" too much when he walked.

Thomas Edison has a whole year to think up the stories he wants to tell the reporters on his birthday.

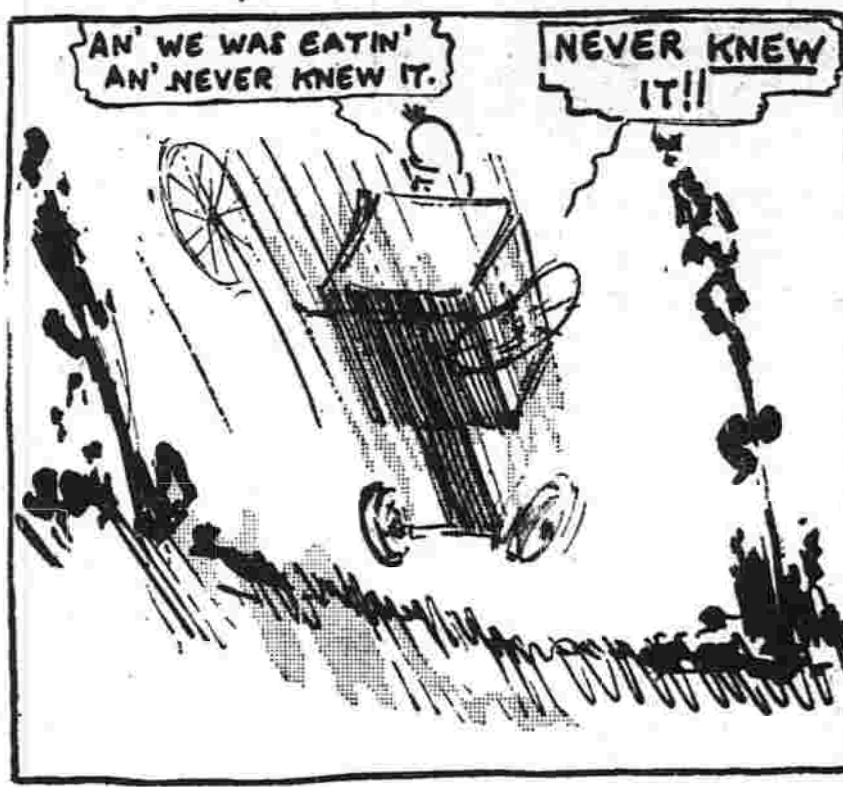

Never hit a man when he is down unless you are sure of your ability to keep him down.

What has become of the old-fashioned religious vocalist who used to sing, "I Want to Be An Angel?"

Romantic youths will welcome the invention that enables heart beats to be sent by radio.

Radio bedtime might make a bigger hit with the children if they were broadcast at the children's bedtime instead of three hours before.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All the Trains By Fontaine Fox

LETTER GOLF

A SHORT STORY STORY BOOKS usually are pretty long, but here is one that isn't. Far is seven and one solution is on another page.

Grid for Letter Golf puzzle with letters S, T, O, R, Y, B, O, O, K, S.

THE RULES. 1.—The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

Chances are like hisse; the best ones are often taken, not given.

Some ladies might as well know now as later that when store clerks smile at them that means the clerks would like to strangle them.

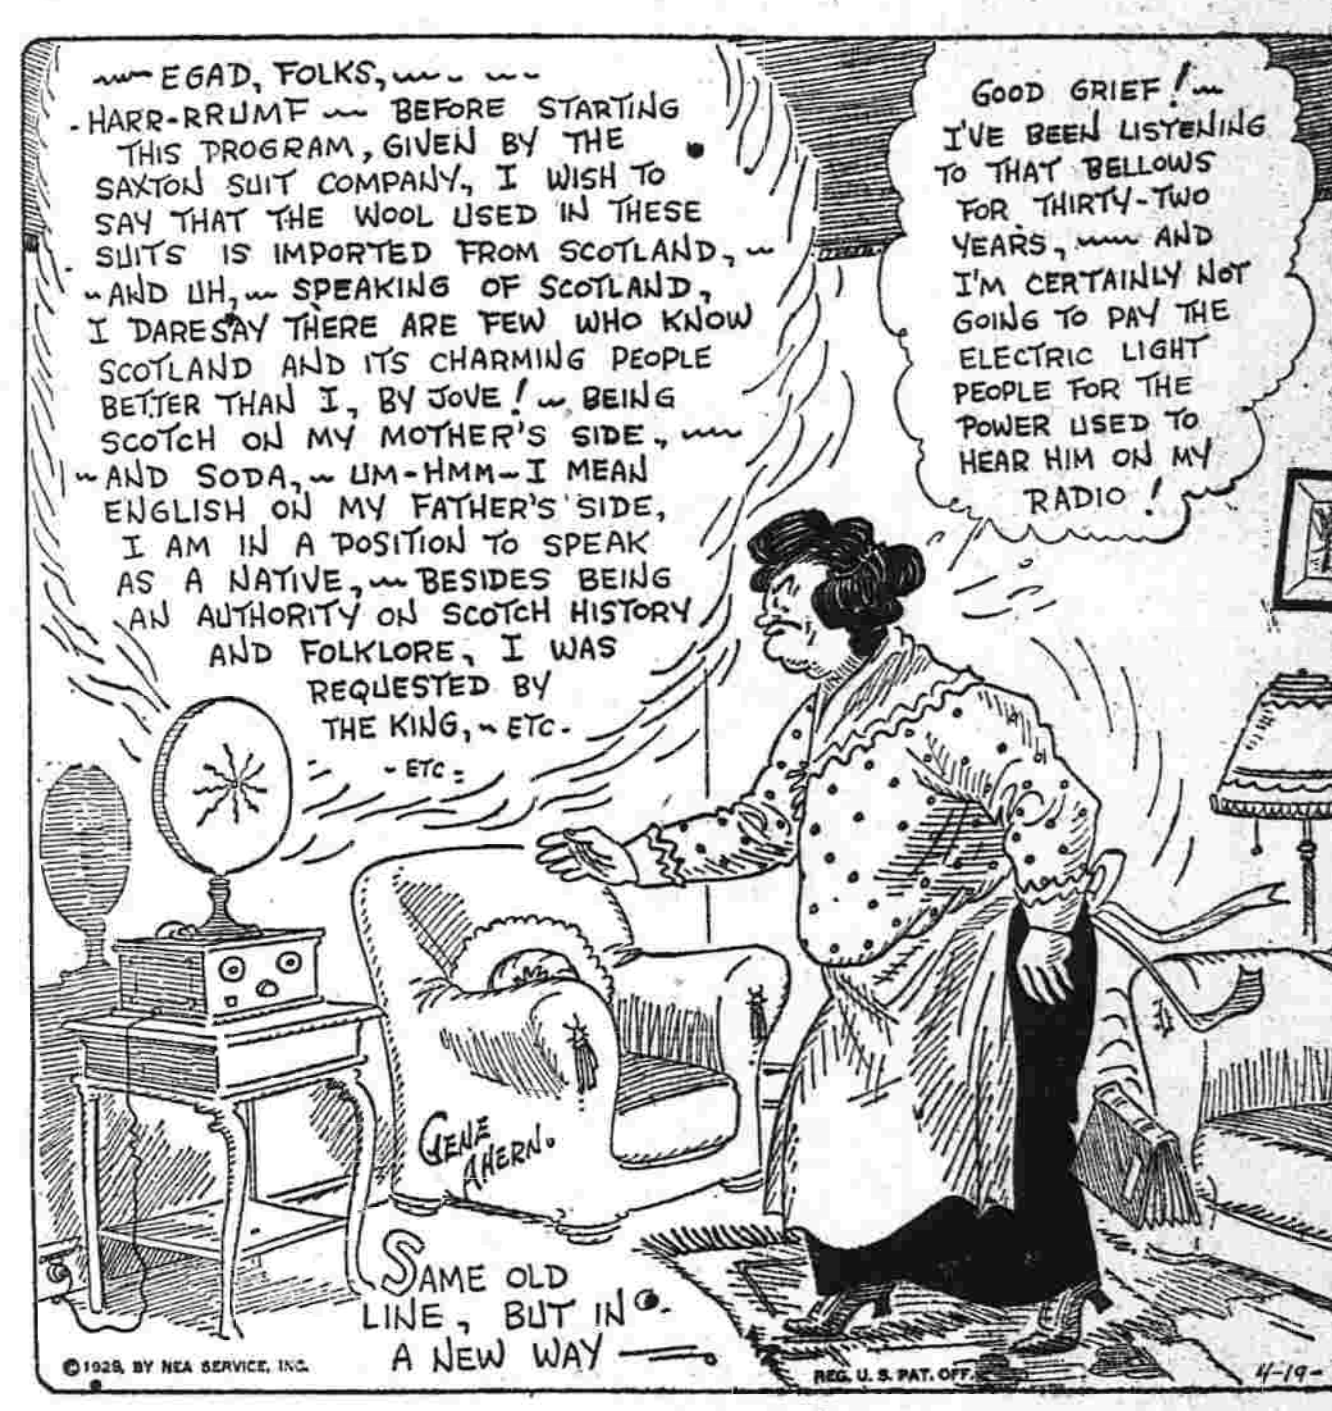

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The two small stars ran up through space. It seemed they could run any place, and, my, but it looked funny as they scampered through the air. Right in their pathway clouds were found, but both the stars would run around. They knew just how to dodge them, so they likely didn't care.

THAT EARLY SATURDAY DELIVERY.

There seems to be an impression among some of our customers that when they put in a phone order here Friday evening for early delivery, it does not LEAVE Pinehurst's store till 8 o'clock Saturday morning. That's all wrong. It leaves here promptly at 7 and is DELIVERED BEFORE 8 o'clock.

Other mornings the early delivery starts at 8—but special earlier deliveries can be arranged if requested.

The Friday night ordering system has become an institution with many of our patrons. It cleans up so much of the week-end hurry. It can be done so easily and comfortably. Just make up your list, sit down at the phone and tell Pinehurst all your troubles—up to 9 o'clock Friday evening. We make a regular business of this order-taking then, as the store isn't open for other trade.
