

GUARDSMEN CALL CAMP BEST EVER

Conditions Greatly Improved; Federal Supervision Has Been of Great Help.

The present encampment of the 169th Infantry, C. N. G. at Camp Trumbull, Niantic is the cleanest, quietest and most progressive camp the regiment has ever had in the nine years it has been going to the federal reservation, in the opinion of veteran army men.

Everything is kept in the most tidy and sanitary condition possible, this being largely due to the relentless efforts of Lt. Col. Orville C. Pett.

Modernized There have been numerous improvements in connection with the annual modernizing of military facilities and conditions which provide much more comfort for the men.

Mothers and wives of the Manchester men do not have to worry about the food the latter are receiving.

Officers and enlisted men are eating better than ever this year.

To a great extent this is due to the many improvements at the reservation.

This goes not only for the facilities but for the food itself. Yet there is no waste of money.

and syrup, coffee, cereal, bread and butter.

This is an example. There are others even more inviting to one's appetite. Manchester's guardsmen are eating out of regular dishes and knives and forks this year in striking contrast to a year or two ago.

Rookies An even two dozen of the Manchester men have been drilling with the recruit company which has had a personnel of 200 members.

Former captain Herbert H. Bisell of Company G was a visitor in camp Tuesday and Wednesday.

John Pentland, former captain of Company G and first sergeant in the Howitzer company, was a visitor in camp yesterday.

The consolidation of the Green Stores and the McLeellan Stores, which took place about three months ago is being shown in Manchester today by the change of the sign on the Green Store in the Cheney building, from Green to McLeellan. There will be no change in management, but the store here is expected to increase the articles offered for sale.

PLAN TO RE-WRITE NEW TARIFF BILL

Rates to Be Slashed Unmercifully, Senators Predict; Protests Continuing.

Washington, July 12.—The Senate finance committee will re-write the Hawley tariff bill passed by the House and materially slash the rates in "the highest tariff bill in history," it was predicted today following a series of rapid-fire developments in the tariff fight.

President Hoover is represented as being considerably perturbed over criticism directed at the House bill many of the House rates are higher than necessary to protect industries, and would lead to unwarranted price boosts. At the same time he is committed by campaign speeches to a tariff which insures the home market for American producers.

Democrats Protest Not only are Democratic leaders keeping up their tirade against the measure but two of the Senate's outstanding advocates of high protective tariffs—Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, and Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania—have told the President that many rates in the House bill crystallized rapidly with completion by Senate sub-committee of hearings upon rate schedules. The full committee today is engaged in hearings on the free list, with hearings on administrative features to follow.

The action of leaders of the automobile industry in announcing their willingness to accept a cut in the automobile tariff is being used as an argument for lower tariffs in many industries which have achieved almost complete dominance of the world market.

of our international relations, with an explanation of facts. Nevertheless, this statement puts a very different complexion upon this question of international finance.

A very brief statement is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Visible Items, Invisible Items. Includes total exports to United States, total imports from United States, and net balance.

Leaving us a so-called "favorable" balance of trade of $837,000,000, which is the amount due the U. S. on account of merchandise transaction.

Invisible Items, Services and Miscellaneous Remittances:

Table with 2 columns: Due TO the United States, Due BY the United States. Includes values for various services and remittances.

Resulting in an "unfavorable" balance for the United States to the extent of $3,000,000.

These invisible items—which more than balance our excess of exports—consist of freight and shipping services, foreign travelers and tourists to the United States, American tourists traveling abroad, insurance, picture royalties, cables, remittances by Americans living abroad, and immigrants in the United States.

A Bugaboo. "With a balance of some and outfit for all purposes against us, what becomes of this bugaboo about strangling out export trade? Apparently the only remaining plea might be that we should send abroad the money to pay our debts.

SEIZE RUM SHIP Boston, July 12.—Coast Guard division headquarters today were investigating the "surprised seizure" of the Canadian schooner Mareuilendole, an alleged rum runner. She was seized off Cape Cod by the coast guard destroyer, the Canby, out of New London, Conn., and towed to this port. Captain Eugene Blake, Jr., commander of the eastern division of the Coast Guard stated that he had been informed that the seizure was ten miles off the coast and that the Canadian vessel had been engaged in liquor smuggling for a year and a half. It was found that the vessel was carrying a cargo of rum she would be turned over to the Customs authorities, Captain Blake said.

LEAGUE TO HANDLE NAVAL CUT MATTER

London, July 12.—Both the United States and Great Britain are agreed that the League of Nations shall handle the naval disarmament question as well as reduction of land air armaments because of the large number of governments throughout the world reached by the League, according to the general understanding here this afternoon.

However, the League of Nations, through the preparatory disarmament commission, will be used merely as an instrument, full agreements and plans for the disarmament conference being worked out in advance through diplomatic exchanges among the leading powers.

While there are only five great naval powers that are presumed to have a vital interest in reduction of naval armaments—America, Britain, France, Italy and Japan—nevertheless it is understood that other nations having navies will be parties to the disarmament agreement when it is finally evolved.

No Comments

Following the long conversation between Premier Ramsay MacDonald and American Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes here yesterday, the American diplomat was questioned today concerning the subjects under discussion. He refused to amplify the communique that had been issued at the United States Embassy last night. This communique, which explained the flying visit to London of Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, said:

"When the preparatory disarmament commission at Geneva adjourned in May it was for the purpose of giving time for direct discussions between the governments in regard to the naval problem. Exchanges are now in progress and Ambassador Gibson's visit was for consultation in that connection."

In authoritative circles it is understood that the Anglo-American diplomatic conversations are still devoted to the question of procedure in tackling naval armament reduction.

When the ground work is laid the technical experts will take a hand and the "yardstick" will be applied in accordance with the agreements of the interested governments.

Theaters

AT THE STATE

"Frozen River"—"Office Scandal"

What is believed to be one of the finest bills that has thus far been presented to moving picture admirers of Manchester, is scheduled to take place at the State theater today and tomorrow. It comes in the form of a double feature program and both features are talking pictures. The first feature will be "Frozen River," a Warner Brothers Vitaphone production co-starring Rin Tin Tin, the marvelous dog actor, and little Davey Lee, the child wonder of the films.

"Frozen River," as one might suspect from its title, is a thrilling, red-blooded drama of the Canadian Northwest. Fast action, dramatic suspense, comedy and pathos have been woven deftly into the story, which is adapted from a novel by James B. Hendryx. "Frozen River" has one big essential, in addition to its narrative. It offers Rin Tin Tin and Davey Lee, each a star in his own right, in a single film. Some of the scenes are presented in dialogue.

Phyllis Haver, beautiful blonde star, is the leading figure in "The Office Scandal," the second big feature on the bill. "The Office Scandal" is a Pathe Photophone production and presents Miss Haver in the most vivid characterization of her screen career—that of a so-called "sob-sister." Shorter subjects will also be shown.

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the State will present "The Trial of Mary Dugan," the film sensation of the screen.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

THOREAU'S BIRTHDAY

Henry David Thoreau, noted American naturalist and writer, was born on July 12, 1817, Concord, Mass., the son of Scottish parents, neither wealthy nor influential.

As a boy, Thoreau became interested in certain aspects of nature and spent most of his free moments wandering alone in the woods.

He attended Harvard University, but in no way distinguished himself. After graduation, he taught school. But the study of nature in preference to man appealed more to him and he soon deserted schoolmastering as a profession and became a lecturer and author.

Thoreau, in 1845, made the now famous experiment of Walden. He retired to a home-made hut and for two years lived the life of a recluse. He read considerably, wrote abundantly, and came to know the birds and fishes and beasts with an almost intimate knowledge. And from his experiences came "Walden," a book upon which his fame rests.

Thoreau died at the age of 45, in May, 1849. He holds a unique place in that he was a naturalist devoid of the pedantry of science. He was a keen observer, but no retailer of disjointed facts and his writings have all variable charm of Nature herself.

rod of St. Peter's school, Wednesday forenoon. This was followed by a lecture on English by Professor Morse S. Allen, of Trinity College. The specific title of the lecture was "How Do We Judge What is Good in English" and showed the gradual changes which have come about in the language from the freedom of Shakespeare's time to the reign of the more or less iron-clad grammatical rules of the present day and of the dictionary, especially in this country. Professor Allen showed the language as in a comparatively imprisoned state at present, though still capable of occasionally bursting its boundaries. Dr. Eugene Chase then gave a lecture on the government of Italy, with a keen analysis of the affairs of state in that country and a characterization of the life of Mussolini.

Miss Marjorie Martin spent part of the week-end at the home of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. T. D. Martin, leaving for New Haven on Monday where she will spend the next two weeks at a summer school for librarians.

Specialists have pronounced the case of Miss Eunice Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Clinton Porter, to be one of tuberculosis. She will be taken to a sanatorium for treatment as soon as admittance can be secured for her. She returned from Hartford where she has been employed, a few weeks ago, ill with the disease.

Miss Dorothy Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray, is recovering from a severe attack of tonsillitis.

The Sunshine Scissors Club will meet at the home of Mrs. J. E. Kingsbury, July 16 at 1:30. Miss Elizabeth Grover will be present.

ODD DISAPPEARANCE

Seville, Spain, July 11.—Two passengers mysteriously disappeared from an airplane today while crossing the Straits of Gibraltar.

Captain Ricardo Guerrero, Spanish pilot, landed at Tablado

Aerodrome this morning, declaring he had left Larache, Morocco, with two other Army officers, Captain Castro and Lieut. Esquivias.

Just after crossing the Straits of Gibraltar, he said he noticed both passengers missing. He was unable to explain how they happened to vanish.

Another plane was sent to search for signs of the missing men.

Fresh vegetables should be thoroughly cleaned with a vegetable brush under running water in order to remove all trace of grit or poison spray. The water that clings after the final washing, usually affords sufficient moisture to start the cooking process, especially where the heavy aluminum pans are used. With a little care, almost any vegetable may be entirely cooked in practically its own juice, whether on top of the stove or by baking. Many vegetables which are commonly cooked by boiling or steaming may be given a desirable and different flavor by baking, such as ground beets, turnips, carrots, etc. The flavor may be varied by slightly browning on top.

In either boiling or baking vegetables, avoid over-cooking and be sparing of the water added. A little careful practice, with the proper cooking utensils, will more than repay you in the better flavor and actual benefit derived from fresh or canned vegetables. It is believed by some that the vitamins in vegetables are lessened through the process of canning, but with our modern methods of canning, the loss of vitamins is so slight as to be of no consequence. My advice is to stock your pantry with a variety of canned vegetables, to be used when the fresh ones are not obtainable, and thus guarantee yourself a plentiful supply of the essential minerals every day in the year.

Questions and Answers

Agar-Agar
Question—W. S. asks: "Is agar-agar good for constipation, and how is it taken?"

Answer—Constipation is caused by eating too many concentrated foods and not enough of the green ones, lack of exercise, prolapsus of organs, kinks in the colon, etc. The effect of agar-agar is to provide more bulk and in this way it is often found helpful by those who do not know how to remove the real causes. It can be taken in many different ways. One of the best ways is to mix some in a cooked cereal for breakfast, using about a level tablespoonful to each person.

Buttermilk
Question—E. H. C. asks: "What are the advantages of drinking buttermilk. Is it fattening?"

Answer—Buttermilk provides an excellent protein and if relished is easily digested. It contains a good proportion of nourishment but can hardly be called fattening, unless it is used in large quantities and in addition to other foods. On an exclusive buttermilk diet of three quarts a day, it is possible for one who is overweight to gradually lose from a half to one pound of fatty tissue, meanwhile keeping the necessary muscular and bony structure of the body well nourished.

Sour Stomach
Question—T. H. writes: "I am troubled with sour stomach. It usually stays sour from one meal to the next. Please tell me, if I take the fruit juice fast will I have strength enough to keep driving a small truck?"

Answer—You should be able to take a fruit fast for at least a week or two while doing your regular work. At the end of this time your stomach acidity will be greatly reduced. Then live on the diet I recommend in each Friday's article.

Greenwich time, famed throughout the world, is determined by the movement of a certain star which arrives due south once every 24 hours.

LAXATIVE FOR BABY
THAT "STAYS DOWN"

Baby's tiny system rebels against castor oil and strong purgatives; but here's a medicine that just suits him. And it does the work quickly and so gently that Baby doesn't feel it. Fletcher's Castoria is soothing cross, fretful babies and children to sleep and making the feverish, constipated, upset ones well and happy, in millions of homes today. Castoria is purely-vegetable, harmless and endorsed by the medical profession. Avoid imitations. The Chas. H. Fletcher signature marks genuine Castoria.

San Bernardino, Cal.—Councilman Harry Nott says there'll not be any "necking" in city parks, and has announced that provisions will be made in the next city budget to provide a special officer to tramp the parks and see to it that young frills and their boy friends don't indulge in petting parties. It is reported that several have applied for the job.

Green Bay, Wis.—Chess has been played by radio, but it is doubtful if checkers has. But Curtis Peacock, operating W9FIN, here and Miss Pauline M. Joslin, operating W9EIV, Anamosa, Ia., recently planned a radio checker game. He picked up Anamosa the other day, talked with Miss Joslin and the checker game was the result.

Your FULL MONEY'S WORTH

Does economy figure in your selection of a motor fuel?

It does with most motorists. And especially with large commercial-car fleet operators who buy gasoline on the cold, calculating basis of how efficiently it aids in everything affecting the operation of an automobile.

They take into account the power it delivers. The mileage it gives. The time it saves (in starting and getaway). The completeness with which it burns—the carbon cleaning, valve grinding and oil diluting it eliminates. The repairless condition in which it leaves the motor after a hard season's use.

On that basis new-type ATLANTIC GASOLINE is the choice of large users to the extent of many millions of gallons yearly. On that basis it inevitably will be your choice too.

It is the greatest money's worth in today's motor fuel market.

Newly perfected refining processes have made Atlantic Gasoline a strictly extra-powered motor fuel. And unlike many other motor fuels claiming this much-sought feature, the extra power in Atlantic is developed without sacrifice of easy starting. It is smooth-acting, yet it loses nothing in snap and pick-up.

It is so clean and complete-burning that carbon and oil dilution are almost imperceptible. It is all gasoline!—the most splendidly balanced all-round motor fuel you have ever used!

And, being produced in huge volume by one of the largest refining organizations in the world, it comes to you without extra cost.

ATLANTIC GASOLINE

EXTRA-POWERED No EXTRA COST

ATLANTIC Paraffine Base MOTOR OIL is a worthy team-mate for Atlantic Gasoline. Stays efficient; consumes slowly... maximum money's worth!

RIVERSIDES

Cost as much to make as any high-grade tire... But—How about the selling price?

WE believe every motorist should know the facts that prove the high quality and explain the low price of RIVERSIDE tires. Here they are:

Take RIVERSIDE or any of the 5 or 6 leading tires on the market—remove the name—and there is comparatively little difference between them, "selling talk" notwithstanding. All of them are good tires. And all cost practically the same to make.

After all, practically all the high-grade tires, including RIVERSIDES, have the same amount of rubber and the same amount of cotton cord. The prices on these two materials are established market prices that every large producer must pay. Skilled labor and overhead costs are practically the same in all well-organized tire factories. Therefore, there is no good reason why the production costs of all first-quality tires should not be practically the same amount.

But, when you get to the selling prices, that is a different story. Take a 29 x 4.40, 16,000-mile RIVERSIDE Balloon as an example. Our selling price on this tire is $5.83—yet, when you buy any of the other five or six leading makes, of the same identical quality as RIVERSIDE, the selling prices range from $7.50 to $8.25 on this size—and on the larger sizes the difference is often $5 to $10 per tire.

Why, when cost-to-make is practically the same, this decided difference in price to the buyer? The answer is simple as A B C. Buying RIVERSIDES, you pay only Ward's small profit over the manufacturing cost. Buying any other leading make, you pay the "in-between" profits required by the indirect method of distribution employed...

That, in a nutshell, is the whole story of RIVERSIDE prices. That these prices are due solely to Ward's low SELLING costs, and not to any reduction in quality or cost of making, is proved by the figures already given... plus Ward's sale of millions of RIVERSIDES yearly under definite mileage guarantees of 16,000 and 30,000 miles.

Come in, Today! See for yourself Why RIVERSIDES are to be compared only with the finest tires made—regardless of price.

PARLIAMENT; A FAMILY PARTY

Father and Daughter, Husband and Wife, Brother and Brother, Sit in Britain's Lower House

By MILTON BRONNER

London.—When Ramsay MacDonald rises to address the House of Commons he must have a hard time keeping from the thought that he is not speaking to a pink tea to which family parties have been invited. For the House, more than any in British history, is filled with members who are kinfolk. Some years ago in America it was pointed out as quite an unusual thing to see a Bankhead senior as senator from Alabama and a Bankhead junior as congressman from the same state. But when "Ramsay Mac"—as he is affectionately called by his friends—turns towards the series of benches of the Socialist party to emphasize a point, his eyes fall with pride upon his youngest son, Malcolm, who is sitting for a constituency in Nottingham. Further along his glance falls upon Arthur Henderson, Sr., a member of his cabinet. Behind are Henderson's two sons—Arthur Henderson, Jr., who sits for Cardiff, and W. W. Henderson, who sits for Enfield.

Brothers Side by Side. Near them are two brothers, Noel Buxton and C. R. Buxton, both of whom held office in the last Socialist government, the former being minister of agriculture. Both were former Liberals who left that party and joined the Labor cause. Also on the Socialist benches there sits the only married couple of the House—Sir Oswald Mosley and Lady Cynthia Mosley. Sir Oswald is one of the fair-haired boys of the Labor ranks. A baronet, very rich, handsome, talented, he was once one of the rising young men of the Tory party, but left them to become a Socialist. The feeling against this young aristocrat was so bitter that although he was one of the most indefatigable and effective speakers in the recent campaign, the Tory and Liberal press studiously refrained from even mentioning his name.

His beautiful wife—Lady Cynthia—is the daughter of the late Marquess Curzon, one of the last of the old aristocratic Tory grandees. She carried Stoke-on-Trent for the Socialists, thus making a gain for her party. She is a half American, her mother having been the former Miss Lister. She is, therefore, a granddaughter of the late Levi Z. Lister, king of the Chicago grain pit, and is one of the chief heirs of his great wealth. But, perhaps, the most striking member sitting on the Labor benches is a tall young fellow with the fine head and the long, silky yellow mustache of a poet rather than of a politician. He happens to be Oliver Baldwin, the Socialist son of the former Tory prime minister, Stanley Baldwin. Oliver won for his party the seat at Dudley, which is very near the Bewdley district for which his father sits.

When MacDonald lets his eyes stray to the benches occupied by His Majesty's Opposition—the defeated Tory party—he sees some distinguished brothers. Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Tory secretary for foreign affairs, and Neville Chamberlain, former Tory minister of health, both represent their native city of Birmingham. Also among the Tories are Godfrey Locker-Lampson, former Tory undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, and his brother, Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson. They are the sons of the famous satirist, Frederick Locker-Lampson.

Three Lloyd Georges. The Liberals are the smallest party in the House—a mere bus full. But among them is Lloyd George, their famous leader and the renowned war-time premier of Great Britain. On one side of him sits his son, Major G. Lloyd George, who represents Pen-broke, and on the other side sits his favorite child and intimate pal, Miss Megan, who represents Anglesey. It's the only case in history where a father and daughter sat in the same Parliament. But even then the family parties are not exhausted. In the new House of Commons there are about 15 heirs or younger sons of noblemen who themselves sit by hereditary right in the House of Lords.

DAWES CUTS OUT BAN ON SMOKING

London, July 11.—American correspondents and all other visitors at the American Embassy here will be able to smoke in the future while waiting to see the Ambassador in the ante-room. Ambassador Dawes, himself an inveterate smoker and the man who made the under-slung pipe famous, saw to that today. While receiving American press representatives he said he had noticed a "no smoking" sign in the waiting room. He told the newspapermen to pay no attention to it as he had taken steps to have it removed immediately.

At the great salt mine at Salnic, Rumania, more than 80,000 tons of rock salt are mined annually.

WHISTLES SILENCED
Old Saybrook, July 11.—Steamboats plying the Connecticut river no longer rouse the sleepers by the shores with loud roars of whistles demanding the drawbridge tenders here to rise and open the spans to let the steamers through. Instead, the boats are using a system of flashing lights to rouse the bridge tenders when the boats approach. The plan was worked out when Old Saybrook residents protested the interruption of their slumbers. The area of Persia is about twelve times the area of the state of Alabama.

PRICED TO GIVE YOU GREATEST VALUE

CONSIDER the delivered, fully equipped price of this charming Nash "400" Sedan, and you'll see immediately it is a car you certainly should consider, when you get ready to buy.

For here, at a delivered, fully equipped price much lower than you would expect to pay for a car of its size and character, is an Advanced Six "400" Sedan with the Twin Ignition, high compression, valve-in-head, 7-bearing motor—with the beauty and style that have made the "400" a heavy favorite among all the year's new cars—and with a host of other costly-car features never available before in this price field.

Such features, for instance, as Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication which oils 29 chassis points at the pressure of a pedal. And alloy steel springs individually designed for its size and weight, correlated with Houdaille, double-action, outboard-mounted, hydraulic shock absorbers. And the "world's easiest steering!"

These are only a few of the features of this Nash "400", but they give you an idea of its greater value and the extraordinarily fine performance you may expect from it.

The delivered, fully equipped price on this, and on all "400" models is lower, for the simple reason that all this equipment—Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication, Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire lock, and tire cover—is installed at the factory and included in the factory price. Some dealers charge as much as $50 to $60 extra for bumpers alone.

"Come in my room when you get rid of them, will you? Rita asked."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURHAM, who has just graduated from college, is desperately in love with JACK WELLS, a Harvard man and a young draftsman, poor as poverty. But much as Molly loves him, she is considerably upset following an interview with the dean of the college. The dean speaks of her talent—Molly has a flair for writing that amounts almost to genius. And then the dean offers her a position—a splendid opportunity in the literary world.

Molly says that she is planning to be married soon, but she supposes she could try her hand at writing. The dean very bluntly discourages any such notion, declaring that a girl in pursuit of a career should not consider marriage. Molly leaves her office, vaguely discontented and rebellious.

But, shortly, she meets Jack, who has come to take her to the president's farewell tea. That evening they go out on College Lake, and Molly begs Jack to marry her. She protests that she does not care how poor they are.

Jack worships his clever little sweetheart, but he is a practical young man, and protests that they must wait until he is earning more money. He tells Molly that he wants to be able to care for her—to give her lovely presents, and surround her with gifts of his love.

Then Molly suggests a companionate marriage. Jack laughs at the notion, and tells her she's crazy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER III
"Darling, you talk like a sex play or a movie, or something."

Jack regarded her tenderly. "We'll be married next June, honey. And it won't be any companionate experiment, either."

Molly pouted. "Oh, shut up!" she commanded. "I guess you don't have to marry me if you don't want to, Mister Wells. Only don't forget I warned you. You'll be sorry. Just wait and see."

"As for Rita and Ruth," he continued. "I suppose they're a couple of these Young Moderns we read so much about. But, mark my words, Molly darlin', it's a tough row they'll have to hoe. Non-conformists may be very smart and all that, but the straight and narrow is a pretty good bet."

"You're a stuffy old moralist," she scolded. "But I love you."

Molly looked at her watch. "The boat house will be closed!" she cried. "And you'll miss the last train. Time always flies when we're together, doesn't it, Jack?"

"Always," he agreed. "And I won't see you again for two days. I forgot to tell you, they're sending me to New Hampshire tomorrow to sound out old Billings on his plans for a community village. He owns the big woolen mills up there, and there's been a rumor that he's planning a model town for his workers. Ted Billings was in my class, and the office thought I might be able to make a contact with the old man through him. If I could be instructive in swinging a thing like that, we'd be all set, Molly. They'd have to let me work on the thing, if I landed the contract for them. Gee, Molly, it's so big, I don't dare to talk about it. I didn't mention it before because I didn't want to start you hoping, dear. . . . Say, Molly. . . ."

irreverent again, and never so much as mention companionate marriage. "And I'll try very hard, God, to be a good girl," she promised.

Next day she was posing with a group in caps and gowns for a commencement picture, when a telegraph messenger rode down the hill to College Green on his bicycle. "Who's it for?" someone halted him. "I'm expecting a wire."

The boy consulted the yellow envelope in his cap. "Miss Molly Burham," he said, commencement congratulations probably.

Then, suddenly. . . "Kids!" she screamed. "I've got $10,000!" They gathered about her, exclaiming.

"My dear, not really!" . . . "Molly Burham, what are you talking about! . . . What do you mean—$10,000?"

"I have," she insisted. "Ten thousand dollars!" She hugged the paper to her heart and jumped up and down like a child in her glee.

"You look as if you were dying of a broken heart," observed Rita Minotte drily. "What's the good news, Molly?"

Molly tried to keep the joy out of her voice. "It's horrible of me—acting so glad," she confessed contritely. "Because my aunt's dead—and she was an awfully nice woman. Only I hardly ever saw her."

"She was a milliner, in a little poky town. And—poor dear—she made the funniest hats you ever saw. But, when she was young, she was the only milliner for miles and miles, so she made loads of money." Then, when I was quite a little girl, she invested all she had in an oil stock. And we thought she'd lost every cent. Everybody thought so.

"Poor Aunt Minnie—she died about two weeks ago. Dad wires that they didn't tell me because they didn't want to make me feel badly. You see, when I was small, I really did love her. But I haven't seen her for about 10 years. . . . Oh, I was a perfect beast to be so glad about her money. I'm awfully sorry now."

Molly swallowed a lump in her throat, and repentant tears stung her eyelids. "Anyhow, when they found her will, they discovered that her stocks had skyrocketed. Dad's lawyer says, when the estate is settled, there'll be at least $10,000. And Aunt Minnie left it all to me, every cent."

"Well," Rita Melnotte laughed. "We're squirreling on the pickets of conventionality, dearie. Shall we congratulate you, or commiserate with you?"

Molly's eyes were full of tears. "Oh, Rita, I'm sorry truly that Aunt Minnie is dead. And I'll never forgive myself as long as I live for being so glad about the money."

Rita was matter-of-fact. "Your aunt's been dead for two weeks," she pointed out. "She's so far beyond our ken, that your joy never reached her, Molly. Or, if it did, I'm sure it didn't bother her. Anyhow she'd never have left you her money, would she, if she hadn't wanted you to enjoy it?"

Molly dabbed at her eyes. "No," she said. "I don't suppose she would."

"Then," proposed Rita, "I think you should borrow the wherewithal for some of your vulgarly rich classmates and throw a party for us poor church mice."

It was a grand party. It began with caviar, and ended with French ice cream served in tangerine shells. There were favors for everyone, from the French Shop in the village. And orchids for the table.

you wouldn't have any scruples about marrying him, would you?"

"Of course not. But that's different," asserted Molly.

Vivian Mantle thought it would be insane not to be married at once.

"But a man's home is his castle, the poets say," interposed Marjorie Parker. "I know Jack. He'd be sore as anything if Molly wanted to furnish their shack. And I wouldn't blame him a bit. What man wants to live off his wife's bounty?"

"Why don't you go abroad for a year?" suggested someone. "And give yourself a good time. He'll appreciate you more when you get back."

"Oh, I wouldn't want to do that!" breathed Molly.

"Well, I know what I'd do," began Marjorie again. "I'd take that $10,000, and I'd . . ."

"Maybe Molly has some ideas of her own," interrupted Rita.

Molly passed her hand dazedly across her forehead. "Let's not talk about it," she said. "It's awful, girls. . . . I keep seeing poor Aunt Minnie, sitting on a little stool in the back of her shop, pinning violets on an old lady's bonnet. And . . . she knows it seems awfully hard-boiled somehow, talking about spending her money. The money she earned sewing violets on old ladies' bonnets. Poor Aunt Min—she just about lost her eyesight, taking silitches to earn her tiny fortune."

Rita rose to her feet. "Let's clear out, girls," she commanded brusquely. "It's late. Give poor Aunt Min a rest."

She kissed Molly affectionately. "Come in my room when you get rid of them, will you?" she asked. "Spend the night with me, I mean. I've something to tell you."

Rita went in for exotic things. She was sprawled now across the crimson cover that cloaked her couch. Her pajamas were black, and she wore little scarlet mules on her bare feet. In one hand she held a cigaret holder 18 inches long, and red as blood. Rita smoked and her cigarettes, when she could get them. And burned a heavy Oriental incense.

She hadn't any money, but she knew how to make a little go a long way.

She was a tall, thin girl, with extraordinary eyes, and a full, red mouth. She carried herself arrogantly, and with a good deal of grace. People said she looked like with her passionate red lips and her great smoldering eyes. She was an intense creature, and not given to any of the usual collegiate frivolities.

Some months before she had confided in Molly her secret marriage to Bob Newton. Molly had never cared particularly for Bob. He was a rather intellectual young man, with faded blue eyes and thick glasses. He had been graduated from Yale, passed his bar examinations, and opened an office. He had not, to date, had a single client. To Molly's way of thinking he lacked personality. But Rita declared that he had a rarely fine soul and a brilliant mind.

Rita flung aside the book she was reading when Molly opened the door.

A THOUGHT

The foolish shall not stand in thy sight; thou hastest all workers of iniquity.—Psalms 4:5.

After a man has sown his wild oats in the years of his youth, he has still every year to get over a few weeks and days of folly.—Richter.

Teams Tried For 1st Place In "Y" League

Green Goes Out of Town Saturday and Sunday; Highland Park Plays Away Tomorrow.

Once again there will be very little baseball in Manchester over the approaching week-end. In fact there will be only one game and that will be played tomorrow afternoon over at Hickey's Grove.

The lone tussle will involve the Don Am team from this town and Southington. Both are members of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. league and happen to be tied for first place just at present—all of which tends to prove that tomorrow's game should be well worth watching.

Play will get under way shortly after 2 o'clock. Jack Godek and George Kelly will form the Manchester battery. The local lineup will be about the same as usual with the lone exception of "Hook" Brennan, left fielder who is at Camp Trumbull with the Howitzer Company.

Manchester Green will play two games over the week-end but neither will be at home. Tomorrow afternoon they journey to Holyoke to play the strong Falcons which they turned back by a close score at the West Side last Sunday. The players will meet at the Center at 12:30 for this trip. Sunday afternoon they are to report at the green where they will motor to Wethersfield to tackle the Sacred Hearts.

Highland Park journeys to Camp Woodstock tomorrow afternoon to meet the Y. M. C. A. Leaders Club. The players will practice at 6:30 tonight at Highland Park and will leave the store at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Sammy Massey said last night that he had been unable to arrange any game for either Saturday or Sunday. Consequently his club will remain idle over the week-end unless unexpected developments crop up.

The chances of forming a town twilight league in town this season appear to be slim. The managers have held two meetings without being able to come to an agreement. And inasmuch as the season has more than passed the midway mark, it seems at present as though the plans to organize such a circuit had blown into thin air.

SHORT AND SOUR

San Bernardino, Cal.—Charging desertion and cruelty, Margarito Cabral, Mexican, asked for divorce from his bride of two weeks, Olympia Cabral. He stated that he had repeatedly asked his wife to return to his home, but that she had refused. The pair were married on June 27, 1922, and separated on July 15 of the same year.

The Nut Cracker

Hamburg, Germany, is all excited. The sports writers in America have been calling Max Schmeling the Black Uhlán and he isn't a Black Uhlán at all, but a Hamburger. What a terrible mistake!

Sports scribes hardly ever make a mistake of this kind, and Hamburg's indignation has them all a-twitter. A meeting will have to be held, a committee appointed, and a name chosen for Maxie right away.

Right there, we come to our first hurdle. Just what is one to call a cauliflower from a town by the name of Hamburg? (Pause.)

while we send O'Goofy out for a book of poetry or prose on the subject of Hamburg.)

O'Goofy returns with a book, "Manual of Ham Curling and Smoking, as Prepared by Swift & Co." Oh, say now, this situation is getting all out of hand!

Let's think now—Hamburg, Hamburg, Hamburg. Ah! What would you say to Hamburglar? (Cho Chocobs says no.) Well, then, how about the Ham from Hamburg? Somebody else says no, not poetic enough.

All right, just what are you going to call a cauliflower from Hamburg? Gents, it can't be done! Send him home!

O'Goofy says the current crop of heavyweights has helped the customers find out one important fact—that 50 cents for a movie is a much more profitable investment than $50 for a ringside seat.

Even the exciting announcement that Jack Dempsey is coming back has failed to stir up any riots among the overworked patrons.

Schmeling appears on the scene as a "savior," but the $50 boys say the rest of the heavies have been Schmeling for too long.

If Jimmy Braddock can surprise himself and hit Loughran, business ought to pick up.

By the way, the German heavyweight boxing champion, Ludwig Haymann, has started over with the intention of boxing Johnny Risko. This guy Risko must be some sort of reception committee for foreign heavyweights.

Maybe after observing the fat purses Schmeling has been able to drag down, Haymann has decided to do a little Haying himself.

How come Schmeling never became champion of Germany?

RELEASE 10,000 TROUT IN BROOKS NEAR HERE

Walter Luettgens in Charge of Distribution of Minnows; Season Closed on July 1.

Thirty-two cans of trout, sent by the State Board of Fisheries, arrived in Manchester today and were immediately released in open streams by the local Fish and Game Club, there to thrive and grow until the opening of the trout season April 15 of next year, when hip-booted anglers will again go out and cast their lines, returning with tales of the beauties they almost got.

Six cans will be emptied in the Shoddy Mill brook, four in Tucker's brook, eight in Ash brook, six in Skinner's brook and eight in Skungumung River. According to Walter Luettgens, who had charge of the distribution, there were at least 300 trout in each can, making a total of close to 10,000. At present they are no larger than minnows but, said Mr. Luettgens, they will grow to the required size in the course of a year.

The trout fishing season closed on July 1 last.

LEAGUE TO CONSIDER A "U. S. OF EUROPE"

Paris, July 12.—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand's proposal for creation of a "United States of Europe" may be considered at the League of Nations assembly meeting in September. It was revealed today by M. Briand himself.

"While I do not intend to present the League with a complete and detailed project for the formation of 'United States of Europe,' certainly discuss it," M. Briand told International News Service.

"Any such European confederation must be approached economically first, leaving the political aspect until later."

It is reported that M. Briand has already opened correspondence with the foreign ministers of other states leading them out upon the proposal for a European economic union.

The proposed tariff increases by the United States, shutting out foreign countries from the American markets will probably have considerable effect upon M. Briand's activities in behalf of such a "U. S. of Europe."

French Premier Tells Deputies to Ratify Past Before the First of August.

Paris, July 12.—A renewed attempt to induce the French Chamber of Deputies to ratify the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement between the United States and France by August 1 was launched by Premier Raymond Poincaré in the Chamber today.

In a long and impassioned address, the premier alluded to harmful results which might follow repudiation of the agreement, and urged that the deputies decide with the least possible loss of time to ratify the treaty.

Mellon Obstinate "When Secretary Mellon came to France last year," he said, "I did my best to talk with him to obtain better conditions. But the Secretary of the United States Treasury absolutely refused to discuss the questions.

Why should coffee lose its flavor in summer? Boscul doesn't!

There's only one reason for loss of coffee flavor—the package doesn't hold it in. But that doesn't apply to Boscul—the famous vacuum can keeps in the full aroma, full strength, full flavor.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

A double-chinned woman isn't always two-faced.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Prayer From bobbed haired bandits, armed with gats And sporting gaily colored hats; From folks who catalogue their ills, Their plasters, pills and doctor bills; From nursing infants who rehearse Their views of life and love in verse; From dancing daddies who delight In buttonholes and waistcoats white; From "stylish stouts" in knickers pressed; From gratters from their wealth oppressed; From frisky plays and risky books, And politicians who are crooks, From flappers with their frills and fads, From picnic fans, misleading ads, And all the modern fake and fuss, Kind Providence deliver us!

The bazaar was in full swing when a young man strolled round the booths. He had no intention of buying anything. As he passed a tastefully decorated booth, a pretty saleswoman detained him—"Won't you buy a cigaret holder?" she asked. "No, thank you, I don't smoke," was the curt reply. "Or a pen-wiper worked by my own hands?" "I don't write."

LETTER GOLF

We've got several LIONS and at least one TIGER roaming today's letter golf course. You should be able to bag them in five shots. That's par and the solution is on another page.

Letter Golf grid with words LIONS and TIGER.

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of Letter Golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN. 2-You change only one letter at a time. 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count. 4-The order of letters cannot be changed. Indignant Farmer-"Say, look here, yer ain't getting as much milk from them cows as y'uster. Hired Man-None, sorter lost my pull. THE TINYMATES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The storm kept up for quite a while and Clowny, with a sickly smile, said, "This is what we all deserve for taking such a rip. We should have stayed down on the ground where real good pleasure could be found. Just think, now, what will happen if the lightning starts to zip." "Oh, goodness, gracious, me, oh my," another said, "you always try to make things look real serious. We may come out all right. I must admit this wind is bad, but when it's gone we'll all be glad. If we can just be patient it will soon blow out of sight." The next thing that the Tiniates knew, their cloud was almost ripped in two. They all grabbed one another and hung on with all their might. Their small cloud tattered in the breeze as if it really wished to tease the band of little Tiniates who were now all filled with fright. "This is the end," one of them said. "We may as well go right ahead and jump out of this crazy cloud. It's just about to burst. Round through the air we have been tossed and now it seems that we are lost. Of all the wind-storms I have seen, this is, by far, the worst." In just a moment came a shout from Squaty, as the wind died out. "Hurrah!" he cried. "The storm is over. It's quiet as can be. That very much relieves my scare, but look, we're rising in the air! If there is ground below us it is where we cannot see." At first the going up was fun, but then they neared the blazing sun. "Oh, gee," cried Coppy, "this is bad. The sun is much too near. We'll scorch our faces, goodness knows, and very likely singe our clothes. I wish that we could find some way to get away from here." (A dark cloud saves the Tiniates in the next story.)
