

MARRIAGE CLINIC KILLS PLANS OF COUPLE TO WED

Chicago.—Exclusive North Shore society circles today had the answer to a matrimonial mystery that kept gossips busy for more than a year. The date for an elaborate wedding ceremony had been set, a florist engaged to arrange decorations; then suddenly it was announced that the couple would not "go through" with the marriage.

And the reason? It was not answered until it was revealed this week that the matrimonial "clinic" conducted by the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhardt, pastor of Christ Episcopal church, Winnetka, was responsible.

News has leaked out that the Rev. Gerhardt's "clinic" revealed to the young couple that they were wholly unsuited for one another, so they cancelled the arrangements with no more ado.

To Their Credit "They were just a conventional couple rushing into union to which they had given little real thought," the pastor commented. "When I explained to them some of the responsibilities of marriage and the qualities of character and attitude needed to make matrimony a success, they agreed they were not ready and cancelled the wedding. Their action was entirely to their credit," he added.

Dr. Gerhardt has been conducting his marriage clinic for several years, believing it to be the best means of preventing the growth of the divorce evil. Recently he revealed some of his experiences as result of the clinic.

THIEF GETS "COLD FEET", RETURNS MONEY TO SAFE

Sum Taken from Miner's Store But Is Returned Before Closing Time Last Night.

$1,000,000,000 PUT AS AIRPORT COST FOR 1931

New York.—During the year 1931, fully $1,000,000,000 will be spent for airport development throughout the United States. This information, which well illustrates the growing air-mindedness of the masses, was contained in a recent announcement by Roland D. Doane, of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company, which is sponsoring a nation-wide competition for design of modern flying fields.

Doane pointed out that the growth of the aviation industry will always be gauged by the extent of airport development. "From the time Lindbergh landed in Paris until the end of 1928, about $300,000,000 was spent on airports in this country," he said.

GAY PAREE CAN GIVE LESSON IN DOMESTIC LIFE

Paris.—"Gay Paree" can give the United States a lesson in domestic relations, according to Judge Joseph Sabath of Chicago, who has been arbitrator in many famous divorce cases.

Combining a vacation with a tour of studying divorce methods in Europe Judge Sabath has found in Paris the two institutions that he believes can correct the evils of "too easy marriage" and "too speedy divorce."

They are a delay of several days between the granting of a marriage license and the date when the marriage can be legally performed and a reconciliation court for estranged couples.

"Sunrise marriages" must stop if we are going to have less divorce cases," said Judge Sabath. "Too many boys and girls fall in love with each other during a whirl around the dance floor and hurry off to the justice of peace for a wedding at dawn."

"An enforced prolongation of a dizzy courtship, such as is imposed by the publication of bans in France, would give the couple time to reflect over the importance and solemnity of the step they are about to take."

"A period of days should elapse between the time a marriage license is applied for and the time it is given to the applicants. Or, as a matter of convenience, the license could be issued immediately upon application under a law that would prevent usage of it for a period of days."

"The percentage of divorces has remained about the same for two years but it could be reduced undoubtedly through the establishment of a reconciliation court."

"It should be impossible to institute a divorce action without both parties first having gone before a reconciliation judge and proving to his satisfaction that a separation is the only way out of their difficulties."

"The judge, of course, would strive to his utmost to bring the couple into harmony. This effort would be made quietly. Whatever might be said in his chambers would remain forever a secret unless permission to sue for divorce was granted and both parties persisted in their original allegations."

"Rushing into a public court room and having personal affairs dragged out before the world always make it difficult for either side to forgive. The reconciliation judge could do much to cool off hot-headed spouses."

In a hilly little French village, within a stone's throw of the capital, an American priest presides over the quaint parish of Fourqueux, and is incidentally mistaken for a Frenchman by everyone who happens to pass this way.

Father Becestry, who is of Canadian ancestry, hails from Spencer, Mass., but studied at La Salette College in Hartford and then went to Rome where he was ordained in 1913. Later he was sent to Freiburg University. In 1922, he was transferred to Paris where he worked in the poorer quarters of Bellevue and Montmartre.

Since 1925 he has been at the little church of Fourqueux, which once belonged to Bouvarde, the vassal of Louis XIII. The great farm lands which were a present from the king, have now become golf links where the smart set from Paris come to play. One rarely leaves without paying a visit to the little parish where, according to the American priest, Joan of Arc paused to pray and Victor Hugo spent his holidays and one of his daughters received her first communion.

Cudahy Fights to Avoid Jail Term

Ellington has been saddened by the death of C. F. Theodore Berr, an old time resident and friend of all who knew him. He was born in the village of Somerfeldt, province of Brandenburg, Prussia, Germany, April 14, 1851. When he was 13 years old he accompanied his parents to the United States, coming directly to Rockville after landing in New York. He found work as an errand boy at the New England Mill, and learned the trade of weaving. He later took up the trade of blacksmith with Horace Treat. He worked at this trade in various shops, spending six years in Malvern, O. There he married Miss Samantha Alice Smith, who returned to Ellington with him. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on May 27, 1926. Mrs. Berr passed away January 22, 1928. Mr. Berr retired from work several years ago.

He was the son of Gustave and Pauline Rich Berr and had four brothers, three of whom are living, Emil and August Berr of California, and E. C. Berr of Rockville. The fourth was the late Julius Berr, of Baldwin Wallace University, Berea, Ohio. Mr. Berr was a member of the United Order of the Golden Cross, Safety Commandry 291. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Linwood Campbell and Miss Hattie R. M. Berr of Ellington; Mrs. C. W. Weira of Rockville and Mrs. F. H. Pirion of Springfield, and one son, Gustave Berr of Ellington. The funeral will be held at the home in Ellington tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock standard time. Wedding Anniversary

"MASQUERADE" OPENS AT STATE TOMORROW

All-Talking Thriller Features Star Cast—Rod La Rocque In Co-Feature.

Romance and adventure seldom achieve so pleasing a mixture in talking pictures as they do in "Masquerade," the all dialogue Fox Movietone picture which comes to the State theater tomorrow for a special two days engagement.

Adapted from the famous novel, "The Brass Bowl," written by Louis Joseph Vance, this entertaining screen play explains why the book is still in demand; Mr. Vance's mastery of story-telling maintains its interest whether in print or in the movies.

The delightful mix-up between a millionaire bachelor and a notorious crook who might be his twin brother, and the complication injected by a charming girl, all afford unusual pleasure to the audience and appear to guarantee a well-attended house during the run of the film.

"Masquerade" features a splendid cast of well-known film celebrities including Alan Birmingham, Clyde Cook, Lella Hyams, Farrell MacDonald and Arnold Lucy.
The associate feature for tomorrow presents Rod La Rocque, the debonair and handsome actor, in the latest Fox production, "The One Woman Idea."
A snappy variety of State Short subjects will also be shown in addition to the two features.

JAPAN'S CENSUS TO COUNT IDLE INTELLECTUALS

Tokio.—A detailed survey of unemployed intellectuals, will be made in connection with the regular national census a year from this fall, it is reported. The census, which will be taken in October, 1930, will not be confined to the number of residents in Empire, but will include a side report on the unemployed.

The unemployment situation has, during the past few years, proved alarming to the Home Ministry. Some means to rectify this condition is essential, the bureau officials are quoted in the vernacular press as stating, and the Privy Council has asked the Home Ministry to make a report on the matter.

Quit Claim Louis Schaller to Philomen Schaller land adjoining the later's in the vicinity of Center and Adams street.

HUB MAY LIFT BAN ON O'NEILL'S PLAY

Boston, Sept. 18.—Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" may be produced here—but in modified form.

This was indicated today as Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, who approved the banning of the play by City Censor John M. Casey, agreed to an afternoon conference at City Hall with Lawrence Langner of the Theater Guild, which planned to open the play here September 30, and Robert G. Dodge, famous lawyer, retained by the Guild to carry its fight to the courts, if necessary, to test the legality of the ban.

In the face of an organized protest, there were intimations from City Hall that the mayor and the Theater Guild might reach a compromise. It was given out that the city's chief executive had not read the stage version of the play, but had read it in book form and considered it objectionable.

RAILROAD SITUATION IS FURTHER MIXED UP

Washington, Sept. 18.—The railroad consolidation situation was further complicated today as the Interstate Commerce Commission took under consideration the application of L. F. Loree, president of the DELaware & HUDSON, TO LINK UP WITH THAT ROAD A NUMBER OF THE MOST IMPORTANT RAILROAD SYSTEMS OF THE COUNTRY.

The Loree plan is the fourth one of Major proportions now before the commission, the other being those of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio and Wabash. Some of them conflict and a big fight is sure to ensue when the commission finally begins hearings on the various applications.

Included among the roads that would form the basis of Loree's proposed system are: New York, New Haven & Hartford, Maine Central, Boston & Maine, Reading, Central of New Jersey, Lehigh and New England, Lehigh and Hudson River, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, Bangor & Aroostook, Buffalo & Susquehanna, New York, Ontario & Western, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland, Virginian and the Rutland.

It is estimated that the proposed system would have, exclusive of trackage rights and any new construction that might be authorized, about 13,553 miles of line and money investment would be $2,629,391,923.

STRAUSS A SUICIDE

Middletown, Sept. 18.—Coroner L. A. Smith today issued a finding in which he declared that Philip H. Strauss, 46, of Baltimore, died from suicide in a quarry hole in Cromwell yesterday after he slipped away from Cromwell hall sanitarium, went to the quarry, tied his ankles and wrists and rolled into the water.

Clark Smith and Arthur Frazier, rivermen who have recovered many bodies from the Connecticut river, recovered Strauss and later it was sent to Baltimore for burial.

Strauss had been a patient in the sanitarium since July, 1924, suffering from ailments.

KENNY RETURNING. London, Sept. 18.—William J. Kenny, millionaire New York contractor, and his now famous barber, Louis Arico, were enroute home today aboard the Leviathan.

REDS HOP OFF. Moscow, Sept. 18.—The Russian plane "Land of the Soviets" which is attempting a Moscow-New York flight, hopped off at Nikolaiavsk-on-Amur, Siberia, today for Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, on the first lap of the trans-Pacific section of the trip.

HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when her classmates accuse her of being in love with her handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT. But he represents all that she knows of home and family and refuses to clear up the mystery of her birth until after her graduation.

Now go on with the story CHAPTER XIII

Brent and Helen lunched in Yonkers, in a cheerful little tea room where an experimental-minded proprietor was raring out the idea of a gypsy atmosphere, achieved through the medium of a palm-reading fortune teller whose fee was included with the price of the meal.

ALUMINUM COOKING WARE CAN'T HARM HEALTH OF USER

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The propaganda against aluminum cooking utensils and baking powder containing alum has been so extensive in recent years that investigators in various medical laboratories have given much time to the study of this substance.

A long series of investigations have been carried out by Prof. F. P. Underhill and his associates in the physiologic laboratory in Yale University. The significant facts were determined that aluminum when taken into the body is absorbed, circulates in the blood, and settles in some of the tissues.

Fairly large quantities were found in cherries and onions, in lettuce, milk, flour and liver. Aluminum was also found in string beans, beets, cantaloupe, sweet corn, peaches, pears and potatoes.

"I don't see why I should stay here! You haven't accepted me as your granddaughter. Can't I go back to New York and wait?"

"Not a bad idea," the lawyer returned, "if she will agree to it."

A few minutes later, when he repeated Mr. Cunningham's request to Helen, he was not prepared to have his doubt of her consent so emphatically realized.

"Brent came over and put an arm on her shoulders. 'Helen dear,' he said gently, 'I'm afraid that you don't realize our position. I believe, if you do, anything rash—anything you might ever regret—' Brent went on, smiling tenderly down at Helen.

"Oh, you wish me to stay?" she cried in dismay.

"Yes," he said, "I do. Because there must be an end to ruthlessness. But even if he did," he added quickly, "I can't see why you should be unhappy about it. Helen dear, I know you aren't interested in his fortune but if he needs you..."

Brent smiled too. It was of course, a stereotyped fortune, but amusing him. The law of averages had worked to make the advice good on this occasion, he told himself.

After lunch they drove up the Hudson and Helen tried to talk of the future—where they would live—what they would do—but Brent was strangely silent.

Helen too fell silent and when they returned to Bramblewood she was conscious that Brent had accepted the change in their plans as being inevitable.

It had a depressing effect upon her and when they again entered Mr. Cunningham's room she experienced a sense of futility. What over these two men decided for her would be her fate. She knew it, because she knew she had not the will to stand against Brent. She could not force herself upon him. For in spite of what he had said about his own secret dreams there was his past that she could not weigh. This would keep her from trying to settle the issue herself.

So she said nothing beyond a polite greeting to Mr. Greaves when he was introduced to her.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton ©1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

At a recent teachers' institute in one of the large cities a prominent educator emphasized the matter of study, declaring that faulty studying was accountable for more failures than lack of ability on the part of the children.

To this I wish to voice an emphatic Amen. That children do not know how to study until they are taught how to do so is as true as trouble. And they are not always taught.

Isn't it a strange paradox that they go to school to learn how to do things, but the very heart of the whole matter, seem to be left out? They don't learn how to study—and if they don't learn that, how can they learn anything else?

They Can't Study. Ask almost any college instructor what he finds the most discouraging thing in his work, and he will tell you that the verdicts of them all will be unanimous. "They don't know how to study."

We wouldn't expect them to learn music without first teaching them about notes and time and how to study the music first.

More schools and more teachers every day are adopting the policy of emphasis on study rather than on recitation. It's like the motto about dollars and cents: "Take care of one and the other takes care of itself."

THE TINYMITES

Poor Clowdy in the chimney sat. Cried he, "That jolt near knocked me flat. I'd like to catch that wooden cow. He scared me most to death. I went a-sailing through the air. Of course it gave me quite a scare. For quite a little while it seemed I couldn't catch my breath.
"Now, all you Tinymites be quick. In this place I don't care to stick. Please find a ladder somewhere near and try and get me loose. I can't get out myself, so you must do whatever you can do. I tried to lift my body free, but found it was no use.
The Tinies stood down on the ground and shortly started looking round. They couldn't find a ladder 'cause there wasn't one on hand.
"See Scouty then exclaim, "I fear that we can do no good from here. Of course he'll think we're fooling him. He will not understand.
When Clowdy yelled again, real loud, "Hey there, you thoughtful, lazy crowd. This isn't any fun up here. I'm stuck, and stuck real fast. I am not fooling. No siree! Please try and get some help for me. It seems, since I have been here that a whole long week has passed."
"Aw, we can't reach you," Copy cried. "Suggest a plan that can be tried and we will gladly try it. Why, we haven't even rope. Perhaps you'll have to sit right in that chimney till you get real thin. Outside of that we don't know how to give you any hope."
Just then they heard a swish nearby and saw a big bird in the sky. It was a monstrous eagle, just as frisky as could be. It shortly pulled a clever trick by grabbing Clowdy very quick. It jerked and jerked and jerked some more until it pulled him free.
(Clowdy is dropped through the air in the next story.)

CAN'T STOP SWIMMING IN UNHEALTHY POOLS

Boards of Health Have No Power According to Decision of State Department.

Boards of Health, state or local, are powerless to take any steps to prevent people from bathing in ponds or lakes where the water is contaminated, according to information which Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, head of the Manchester organization, has received from officials of the state department.

The local board had been under the opinion that it could prevent swimming in such cases, but apparently there is no law forbidding bathing under such conditions. The board has the right to post signs notifying the public that the water is unfit for swimming but its power ends there. This information came to light today following an investigation which has been conducted since the last drowning at Union Pond at the north end.

An odd coincidence is the fact that the board of health has the authority to prevent people from trespassing on ice at these same ponds in case an ice crop is harvested there. The reason for this is because the ice is used publicly and endangers lives, through the spread of disease.

Dr. Moore pointed out that when water freezes it automatically eliminates a big percentage of the bacterial contents. This is the reason why summer bathing does not seriously contaminate the ice. Dr. Moore said that it was up to the public to avoid bathing in contaminated waters.

Troop 5, Boy Scouts, will meet at the Swedish Lutheran church at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

Does Price Interest You?

Of course it does. It interests everybody. There is no legitimate concern in the country, quality considered, that can sell you a fur coat, whether it is one hundred or one thousand dollars, at any better price than we can. We are associated with one of the best buying organizations in New York City. Stores doing a business of over two hundred million dollars a year. If anybody buys their furs at the right prices, we do. You may rest assured that our prices are the lowest for which dependable merchandise can be legitimately sold.

Does Quality Interest You?

To many of you quality may be more important than price. We do not allow anybody in our employ to select a fur coat without having it passed on and approved by a fur man from our New York office. Every coat is gone over and inspected in detail. Many times we pay an extra price for choice selection of skins. This price is from ten to twenty-five per cent more than coats of apparently similar grades might be purchased. Mr. Herrmann, the New York furrier who is with us for three days, has devoted his lifetime to the fur business. They have built up their business entirely on quality. Everybody appreciates quality in furs.

Does Confidence Interest You?

Mr. Hale started business in 1873. For over thirty years The J. W. Hale Company has been on the corner of Oak Street. We have developed the largest retail business in town. More than anything, we cherish the confidence of our customers. We have built our business up on that confidence. Isn't it worth while buying your fur coat from a concern that has been her for over a quarter of a century and whose reliability has never been questioned?

Do Club Plans Interest You?

Isn't it a pleasure to know that if you purchase your fur coat on Hale's Fur Coat Club plans you may have the privilege of paying for your fur coat as you enjoy wearing it. The Fur Coat Club will be open for the last three days this year Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A small down payment and the rest in small monthly or weekly payments. And, if you wish, we will store the garment you select until you are ready to wear it this fall.
