

LINDY REPORTS HIS PROGRESS VIA THE RADIO

Sends Half Hour Bulletins to Florida on His Way to Cuba—Mrs. Lindbergh Is Writing a Diary on Way.

Pan American Airport, Miami, Fla., Sept. 20.—Forty minutes after hopping off from this airport on the first leg of a 9,000 mile air-mail flight over Central and South America, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his companions, including Mrs. Lindbergh, were speeding over Homestead, Fla., toward Havana, the first stop.

The start of the flight was marked by perfect operation of the two-way radio sending and receiving set carried in Lindbergh's tri-motored Fokker plane, with which the radio operator on board the plane made a radio communication history as the famous trans-Atlantic pilot carved new aerial highways through the cloudbanks of the skies.

First Bulletin.

The first of the scheduled half-hour radio bulletins from the plane, reporting the progress of the flight, was received at the Pan American Airport here at 9:42 a. m., E. S. T. The bulletin read: "By radio from the West Indies Air Limited, enroute to Havana, time, 9:40 a. m. The plane is flying at an altitude of 1,000 feet, making an air speed of 100 miles per hour. "We have just passed over Homestead, Fla. The beautiful Florida Keys and the Everglades are stretching out below us toward the Caribbean Sea. The weather is perfectly clear, under a clear sky. We are following the overseas railway toward Key West."

Second Bulletin.

Eighteen minutes later a second bulletin from the plane, timed to a. m., E. S. T., said the Air Limited was then passing over Boot Key, Fla., at an altitude of 1,500 feet. "Fifteen hundred feet below us a tiny train is creeping along a bridge. We are leaving the last bit of Florida mainland now. The water below us is a mass of varied colors, and Glenn Curtis (one of Lindbergh's passengers on the Miami leg of the flight) is busy picking out his favorite fishing grounds. "Visibility is perfect. Mrs. Lindbergh is busy writing her diary. The other passengers are conversing as easily and unconcernedly as they would in a club car. "Lindbergh, Pilot."

INSURGENTS WANT ALL TARIFF DATA

G. O. P. Protests Forcing Them to Divulge Figures Given Under Secrecy.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The Democratic-Insurgent coalition in the Senate sought more ammunition for their fight against the new tariff bill today in a drive for enactment of the McMaster resolution, acquiring all tariff data now held by the tariff commission.

The resolution undoubtedly will be amended, being amended, except information the commission obtained under a pledge of secrecy. Senator McMaster (R) of South Dakota, said the commission's records would go far toward showing that the present tariff law adequately represents the "differences in costs of production" at home and abroad in most industries. If the record should bear out this contention, it was apparent the coalition would have a powerful argument against the numerous industrial increases carried in the new bill.

Administration leaders interposed but little objection to the resolution, other than to protest against forcing the government to "divulge any information obtained under a pledge of secrecy." If these pledges were not respected, Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, warned, American industry would be in the future to reveal any business secrets to the government. Without the co-operation of American manufacturers, he added, the commission would face a hopeless task in gathering tariff data.

The Senate also faced a contest over the administrative provision, dealing with Canadian wheat imported under bond and manufactured into flour for exportation to Cuba, Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma millers and wheat-growers clashed with Buffalo millers over the provision. The former favored the action of the House in assessing a duty equal to the differential given by Cuba to American imports. The House duty would average about 35 cents a barrel of flour. The Buffalo millers favored the Senate finance committee action in eliminating

Flogged in Gastonia

Victim of a midnight kidnaping, Cleo Tesenair, union textile organizer, is shown above as he lay in a Charlotte, N. C., hospital suffering from wounds inflicted by unknown assailants in Gastonia who abducted and flogged him. Governors of North and South Carolina are directing the search for his attackers. Note the welts on Tesenair's chest, inflicted by a whip.

"REDS" INVADING SOUTH CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 20.—The battle front of the Communist invasion of the textile south today was pushed forward to include that portion of South Carolina which lies adjacent to the old north state. The National Textile Workers Union, operating into this newly opened territory, and not a few of them are encountering ready opposition from a citizenry determined that they shall not go through the bloody experience that was and is Gastonia's.

Chased Out of Town. Three union organizers who attempted to hold a meeting at Blacksburg, S. C., were chased out of town by a gang of vigilantes which the Unionists said they recognized as Gastonians. Another union worker was run out of the section for distributing Communist propaganda.

POLICE CHIEF SAYS PEACOX TOLD OF DEED

Silverstein Declares Prisoner Confessed He Strangled His Wife and Then Tried to Burn the Body.

Court House, White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Captain Michael I. Silverstein, Acting Chief of Police of Mount Vernon, resumed the witness stand as the first witness today at the trial of Earle Peacox, for the murder of his wife, Dorothy.

Silverstein, a heavy-set, bald-headed official with a positive inflection in his voice related how Peacox had confessed to strangling his wife in his apartment last April 21 following a quarrel and then carting the body away in his automobile to a woods near Scarsdale. There the chief said he would a piece of cord around her neck "to make sure she was dead."

"Peacox told me the thing preyed on his mind and that four or five days later he went back and burned the body," said Silverstein.

Courtroom Crowded. The courtroom was packed with spectators, including many flappers. Peacox sat beside his mother, Mrs. Catherine Peacox, at defense counsel's table. He seemed refreshed as a result of yesterday's court holiday.

Silverstein told how Peacox accompanied police officials to the scene and went over the crime with them. He identified a bloodstained shirt which Peacox had admitted was his. He also identified a number of pictures of the scene where the body was found.

Identifies Slippers. A pair of black suede pumps were passed to Captain Silverstein. He identified them as the slippers Peacox said he took from his wife's body before he set it afire. These pumps were found later in Dorothy's hope chest in her mother's home where Peacox had placed them.

The 45 caliber gun which Peacox used in strangling his wife on the head during the quarrel was also identified by Silverstein.

"Was the revolver loaded?" District Attorney Frank H. Coyne asked. "It was," replied Silverstein. The bloodstained coat Dorothy wore at the time of her death was identified by Silverstein. Peacox had told him that was the coat, the police officer said.

Peacox seemed calm enough as

FIGHT FOR TLUCK GIRL'S LIFE FAILS

Victim of Blood Poison Succumbs When Infection Reaches the Brain.

Twelve-year-old Anna Tluck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tluck of 59 Wetherell street, who has been critically ill with streptococci blood poisoning, died at Memorial hospital at 10:45 last night.

The infection came from scratching a pimple on her nose and spread to the eyes and then into the brain. She was unconscious yesterday. Half a dozen physicians, including several specialists were called in consultation but it was impossible to halt the inroads of the poison.

Different Infections. Just before Anna was stricken her mother had recovered from an infected hand. This led to the belief that possibly the girl had contracted her infection from the mother. However, the attending physician said today that cultures taken from both the mother and the child revealed a different germ. It was simply a coincidence, he said.

Anna Gertrude Tluck was born July 31, 1917, in Torrington. She was a member of the Concordia Lutheran Church and the Sunday School and Willing Workers Society. She leaves a sister, Elizabeth, a yearling child, and a mother, who is in the sixth grade at the Keeney street school.

She had been ill only two weeks and had been in the hospital here a few days. Her condition was regarded as very grave from the outset.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home on Wetherell street and at 2:30 at the German Concordia Lutheran church on Winder street. Rev. H. O. Weber, pastor of that church, will officiate. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

HUMAN PROJECTILE HORRIBLY MANGLED

Something Goes Wrong With Cannon at Springfield; 35,000 See Accident.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 20.—Death today hovered over the cot in Springfield hospital, where lay Heinrich Ackenhausen, of Hanover, Germany, "human cannon ball," who was horribly mangled while being shot from the mouth of a cannon at Eastern States Exposition.

Ackenhausen, substituting for Captain Wilhelm Wilno, another "human cannon ball," also of Germany, who was incapacitated by a broken arm suffered in a similar accident a month ago at Syracuse, N. Y., sustained a fractured skull and a fractured jaw. Hospital physicians feared that Ackenhausen probably would not survive another 24 hours.

35,000 See Accident. Fully 35,000 persons, including Captain Wilno, witnessed the accident. Instead of being shot out of the gun by a spring, just a moment before the charge of gunpowder exploded, the human projectile was thrown only to the mouth of the cannon where, when the cloud of smoke rolled away, he was seen to be hanging by his toes, his face badly mangled.

Police, who were investigating the accident, believed it was caused when the powder was accidentally set off before, instead of after, the release of the spring.

SEVENTEEN KILLED, 50 HURT AS FIRE SWEEPS NIGHT CLUB; TRAMPLE VICTIMS TO DEATH

Crazed Merry-makers Leap From Windows

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 20.—That fear-born demon to which many of history's most terrible catastrophes may be laid—claimed most of the lives lost in the explosion and fire which killed 16 carefree merry-makers in the fashionable "Study Club" here today.

Survivors told heart-rending stories of the panic which gripped the diners and dancers when the first wisps of smoke and crackle of flame told of the disaster which was soon to follow.

Most of the injured, as well, suffered their painful hurts through the same cause—frantic, mind-unbalancing fear.

Escape Cut Off. With all avenues of escape cut off, the men and women who a moment before had been light-hearted and gay, fought like crazy persons to reach the street by the first wisps of smoke and crackle of flame told of the disaster which was soon to follow.

Those who, in their terror, leaped from the windows, suffered broken arms and legs and severe cuts and bruises. Ambulances, physicians and nurses recruited from all over

EYE-WITNESSES TELL DETAILS OF TRAGEDY

Heir to Dodge Millions Leads Party in Rescuing Dozen Persons; Victims Not Burned But Suffocated.

NO FIRE ESCAPES FROM NIGHT CLUB And Only One Little Window; Victims Died Like Rats in a Trap.

Detroit, Sept. 20.—Subdued lights, the crooning rhythm of a jazz orchestra, dancers moving about in the last waltz of the night—then, a shriek, confusion, smoke and horror!

Irony was the kenote of the Study Club disaster when a night club, the rendezvous of night life and pleasure, of a sudden was today converted into a frightful death trap.

The cabaret, an old mansion, later a rooming house, was remodeled for its present purpose about a year ago. It was a typical second-rate night club and had been raided on several occasions by prohibition agents.

Miss Kelly's Story. Eye-witness Kelly, attendant in the woman's washroom, escaped by an entrance at the rear. "The first thing I saw," she said, "was a large cloud of smoke rolling down the corridor on the second floor. I rushed out."

John Duval Dodge, heir to the Dodge motor millions, with two companions rescued a dozen persons from the smoky, flaming structure. Dodge, with Tom Tenton and Jack Carney, was driving past the Study Club after entertaining in another cabaret nearby.

Save Nine Girls. "We were permitted to drive through the fire lines," Dodge said, "and the three of us rescued nine girls and three men. Mounting ladders which firemen had set against the rear walls of the building, we broke through the mesh protected windows and carried unconscious victims to the ground."

"The bodies of the dead and injured were piled in heaps on the dance floor. Fire had cut off their escape down the stairway. Flames were still shooting out of the front part of the building when we entered. The heat was terrific, but I doubt whether any of the victims actually burned to death. They appeared to have been suffocated."

"I carried three girls and a man to safety. Pendleton carried out three girls and Carney three girls and two men."

"The firemen were confused. Everyone was running around. No one seemed to think of calling taxis to take the victims to the hospital. Finally a fleet of cabs gathered at the scene and carried away the bodies."

Knocked Down From Ladder. "I was knocked down from a ladder by a misdirected stream of water. My companions and I were smoke-blacked and drenched with water when we brought our last burdens out of the building."

Lyle Bisco, 26, cab driver, said he arrived at the scene with the first fire apparatus. "You could hear people screaming blocks away," he declared. "When I reached the front of the

FEW DIE OF BURNS; WERE SUFFOCATED

Eight Women Among Victims—Waxed Drapes Catch Fire and Fill Rooms With Smoke—35 Trapped in Dressing Room—Firemen Find Dying and Dead Near False Windows—Orchestra Leader Tries to Avert Panic But Is Killed Himself—Many Leap from a Win- dow and Are Killed—Fire Quickly Extinguished.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 20.—The lives of seventeen persons, including eight women and nine men were snuffed out when a sudden fire swept the Study Club, a downtown cabaret here, at two a. m. today.

About fifty were taken to hospitals and a score of them were reported in serious condition.

The theory of Marty Cohn, proprietor of the cabaret, that the disaster was the result of an infernal machine "planted" by his business rivals was scoffed at by police and other investigators.

Firemen extinguished the flames in about five minutes. Few of the dead were burned. Most of them died of suffocation, or were trampled to death in the mad rush for exits.

Waxed and papier mache drapes provided quick, semi-explosive fuel for the flames. One of these drapes was accidentally ignited and a draft from the first floor spread the fire, police believe.

Find Dead in Heaps. The damage was confined to the second floor. When fire fighters reached the entertainers' dressing room at the rear of the upper floor they found the door jammed. Battering it down with axes they found 35 persons, some dead, others dying and all unconscious. The bodies were in a gruesome heap, tangled together on the floor.

Others were found on the dance floor and in private dressing rooms. Proprietor Absent. Cohn, the proprietor was questioned by police this morning and then allowed to visit friends in receiving hospital. Cohn was not in his cabaret at the time of the disaster. He had left earlier in the evening and was at another cafe when he learned of the tragedy.

Cohn said the loss would amount to about $40,000 and that only $15,000 of this amount was covered by insurance.

Morrison Manning of New York, leader of the club orchestra, was one of the heroes of the disaster. While men and women fought and struggled in the shadowy, smoking inferno, Manning leaped to a table and tried to quiet the panic. A moment later he collapsed and died.

"Bubbles" Parker, dancer, was taken to a hospital seriously injured. Her mother, Mrs. John Parker, was killed.

Identities of the sixteen bodies were proceeding slowly. Hours afterward, only ten had been positively identified.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 20.—Sixteen persons, seven of them women, perished when an explosion and fire swept the Study Club, a cabaret here, at 2 o'clock this morning. The number of injured was estimated at 75.

Cause of the disaster had not definitely established this morning. A "wet bomb" was blamed by Marty Cohn, manager of the cabaret.

Many of the dead were found in heaps near windows that had been boarded up to make the sound of midnight revelries. More bodies were found heaped up on a stairway landing. Still others died in attempts to leap to safety from second story windows.

Most of the dead and injured were in a dance hall or in dining rooms on the second floor.

Filmy draperies and papier mache effects decorated the dance hall. In addition to the boarded up windows there were "false" windows of plaster and drapes.

Fires Escape Hidden. Even the fire escape exits were drapery-covered. Most of the draperies were wax coated to give them a lustrous effect. When the flames first swirled upward from somewhere in the basement the waxed drapes burned like tissue paper, with a succession of sharp reports.

John Duval Dodge, automobile ace and two companions were passing the "club" when they heard the screams of the dying, the screams of panic-stricken men and women and the sharp crackle of the flames. Dodge jumped from his car and fought his way into the downstairs corridor.

With his companions, Thomas Pendleton and Jack Carney, Dodge was credited with saving nine women and three men.

Taxi drivers also carried many others to safety. Every agency of the police department was ordered into action to investigate the disaster. Every available member of the crime and bomb squad, the homicide squad, the detective bureau and the arson squad, was ordered on 24 hour duty.

Question Waiver. William Sels, a waiter, was one of the first to be questioned. He was the only police witness who had been found, early today who was on the fatal second floor.

Though Cohn insisted there was a "wet bomb" and an explosion, Sels said there was no explosion—just a sudden crackling as flames swept up from the floor.

According to the story of Sels and other eye-witnesses, the dance hall and the private dining rooms on the second floor were crowded. The orchestra, was playing a final encore preparatory to closing.

Someone saw a thin wisp of smoke near the floor and in the corridor leading to the front exit. Then a great billow of smoke surged up from the floor.

Little flame could be discerned at first but suddenly the draperies became ignited and flames crackled and swept upward. Panic and pandemonium followed.

The musicians dropped their instruments. The rendezvous of gayety and revelry was transformed in a twinkling into a death trap, filled with frantic, four-crazed men and women fighting to escape. Some battered their fists until their hands were raw and broken, attempting to break the "glass" in windows that were not windows at all.

Die On Stairway. The draperies burned quickly. A few fought their way to fire escapes before the flames cut off their flight. Others made their way through the barriers of flame and smoke down the main corridor, only to die in the crush on the stairway. Several were hurt in a 20-foot drop from the fire escape on the Woodward side of the place the cabaret is located on Vernon highway at Woodward avenue, Detroit's principal thoroughfare.

Police declared that employees of the place told them that for several days there had been a faint odor of scorched rubber resembling the smell of burning wires in a short circuit.

Police Theory. Efforts to trace the source of the odor had been in vain. Police do not believe a bomb caused the fire. They believe, rather, that defective wiring caused a spark which ignited the waxed and papier mache draperies.

"Most of the witnesses say there

EXTENSIVE PLANS FOR REC ACTIVITY

Auxiliaries to Aid in Promoting Social and Athletic Programs for Winter.

If present plans are fulfilled, the present fall and winter indoor season at the Recreation Centers will be the most extensive in the history of the institution. Auxiliaries of men and women workers have been selected to assist in bringing the Recreation Centers back to the peak of popularity that existed several years ago.

Every effort will be made to keep the institution fairly buzzing with activities and this is expected to make the membership soar upward until the number approaches the high water mark reached soon after its founding. The idea of having auxiliaries was reached by Director Lewis Lloyd who believes this will be a better way of establishing a more personal contact with the public. Mr. Lloyd will supervise all of the functions.

While the personnel of the women's auxiliary has not been completed, the men's has been. The latter held its first meeting last night at the School Street Rec and all but one of the twelve members attended. Edward F. Taylor of the Recreation Center committee was also present. The auxiliary was sub-divided into chairmen of the various social and athletic activities during the 1929-30 season.

COMMANDERS SATURDAY FOR RAINBOW DANCERS

A delightful dance program is being offered by The Commanders Eastern Connecticut's finest dance band every Saturday night at The Rainbow and this splendid orchestra headed by Bill Smith, Brown University graduate, intimate friend and former pal of Rudy Vallee is drawing increasing crowds to the Rainbow each succeeding Saturday night. Bill Smith's Commanders numbering eleven musicians not only furnish perfect dance rhythm and melody but these boys can entertain several possessing excellent voices, while the cooking is supplied by the big boy of the outfit. Tomorrow evening a special program will be presented that is sure to please the patrons of this popular ballroom. The Rainbow Inn is now managed by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Finney, assisted by an experienced chef. The main dining room has been rearranged to accommodate 125 while five private dining rooms afford ample privacy for small parties. The Rainbow Inn and Dance Palace is now preparing to be one of the most popular places in the state—the changes and improvements having reestablished its former popularity and standing. The steadily increasing patronage indicates the most successful season in the Rainbow's history.

NEW BRITAIN DEATH WAS NOT A MURDER

New Britain, Sept. 20—Police today took all the mystery away from the death of George Traynor, 23, employee of Cedarcrest sanitarium, who died in a rooming house here just after midnight. Traynor died from natural causes and there will be no autopsy. The death was an official statement this afternoon.

Bianche Perkowsky, 28, a maid in a school at Simsbury, who was with Traynor when he died, was held in bail of $2,000 on a charge of breach of peace, for a Police Court hearing tomorrow. She produced her bank book as surety and was released.

GUNMEN ARRESTED

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 20—More gunmen riding out of New York came to grief today in Stamford. After police had captured and examined three men and a woman, stopped in the center here, announcement was made that the men had admitted a plan to rob gasoline filling stations and stores in Connecticut. They had New Haven particularly in mind.

The prisoners gave their names as Charles Cook, 29, of Belmar, N. J.; Michael Pasker, of Irvington, N. J.; and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chapman, of Newark, N. J. Mrs. Chapman had her age registered as nineteen years. Each of the men had a .25 calibre revolver, and all are held for carrying concealed weapons. The car had been rented in New Jersey.

SHOWER BRIDE-ELECT AT HOME OF SISTER

Miss Florence Wiley Honored Guest at Party at Mrs. Wallace Robb's Home.

Mrs. Wallace Robb of 33 Scarborough road entertained at her home last evening in honor of her sister, Miss Florence Wiley, who is to be married early in October to John Wesley Chudoba, photographer on the Hartford Times. Twenty-one of Miss Wiley's young women friends had been invited. They included former classmates at the local High school and her associates in the office of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mrs. Robb had decorated her living and dining rooms in crepe paper and flowers, using pastel shades of orchid, yellow and pink. In the center of the living room an umbrella was suspended, from which ribbons led to the gifts concealed in different parts of the house. The hostess served fruit salad, rolls, coffee and cake. At the place was an orchid and yellow basket of salted nuts and paper hat favors. The centerpiece was a beautifully decorated fortune cake, with thimble, ring and penny and miniature bride and bridegroom. This was the gift of Mrs. John Spillane of Strickland street, whose daughters were childhood friends of Miss Wiley. A variety of contests engrossed the attention of the young women and prizes were awarded to the winners.

Miss Wiley received a number of useful gifts in cut glass, lusterware, silver, pictures, pottery and electrical appliances. On Tuesday evening girls of the sewing club of which she is a member gave her a grocery shower at the home of Miss Leonette Bergeron of Hilliard street, and a handsome floor lamp.

gangs among the mill workers there. Investigation into the flogging of Theo Tessen, a N. T. W. organizer, kidnapped by a mob the other night, was continued today. Tessen has told the authorities that he recognized the Vigilantes as "mill thugs from Gastonia."

N. T. W. headquarters here announced today that it held its first sectional conference in South Carolina yesterday. The meeting, the announcement said, was held at Greenville, S. C., and 100 delegates were present from the Piedmont textile belt of the state.

The conference protested the recent mob murder of Mrs. Ellie May Wiggins, a striker and pledged support toward a campaign against the stretch out system, child labor, and for the right of self-defense and freedom of speech.

It was said that a series of meetings will be held over the South Carolina textile zone within the next few weeks, in addition to several assemblies scheduled for in and around Charlotte and Gastonia.

Meantime a four-cornered probe into the Tessen flogging was at a virtual standstill when the authorities announced after a two-day inquiry that they were baffled over the mystery of the Vigilantes identity and had not picked up a single clue that might lead to their apprehension.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Sept. 20—Price movements were decidedly irregular in early trading today, but this did not prevent a selected group of stocks from advancing into new high ground.

Utilities were again the center of a vigorous buying movement. Columbia Gas & Electric continued her forward movement and reached 124 3/4, for a new high and a gain of 7 3/4 points. American Foreign power reached 191 1/2, up 4 points from yesterday's close. Consolidated Gas was up 2 3/4 at 168 3/4 and North American scored an advance of 3 3/8 to 157 3/8.

Selling pressure was exerted on the list in the first hour, and with few exceptions prices gave way easily.

Motors were subjected to heavy selling on reports that sales for the third quarter were falling below expectations. Chrysler was forced into low ground for the year selling at 64 3/4, for a net decline of 2 5/8. This compares with a high of 135 earlier in the year. General Motors dropped 1 3/8 to 73 1/8, and Yellow Truck reached new low ground at 32 3/4, off 3-1/2.

ABOUT TOWN

Herman Yulyses, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Yulyses of Florence street will leave for Yale University tomorrow. He was graduated in June from the local High school, and was a shining light on the tennis team.

The Young People's society of the Concordia Lutheran church will hold a social in the church parlors this evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

Ruthven Bidwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bidwell of Chestnut street will enter Yale University tomorrow. He was graduated in June from the local High school, and was a shining light on the tennis team.

Thomas Ferguson, editor of The Herald, and Mrs. Ferguson, who have been spending the week at Atlantic City, N. J. left this afternoon to spend a week in Washington, D. C.

Senator Robert J. Smith, local real estate and insurance agent, has purchased the fire insurance agency conducted here by Peter D. Comollo. Mr. Comollo is now with the Prudential agency.

Mrs. Seth Leslie Cheney and Miss Katherine Cheney are registered today at the Roosevelt, New York City.

In The Herald's article on the activities at the Oakland branch of C. H. Dexter & Sons paper company it was stated that Alexander Shearer was in charge of the mill. It should have stated that Mr. Shearer was in charge of the re-construction and repair work at the mill. The Oakland mill is in charge of William McClellan, as superintendent, who is under the supervision of John Leshman, general superintendent, and his assistant John McLeod. The latter two have their offices at Windsor Locks and Mr. McClellan is now a resident of Manchester. Mr. Shearer is plant engineer and master mechanic, in charge of maintenance and repairs.

TINY BLAZE CALLS OUT TWO FIRE COMPANIES

Two Alarm Fire (Still and Whistle) Turned in When Automobile Back-Fires.

As Miss Alice J. Jones, a nurse, of 219 Center street was backing her Studebaker sedan out of the garage in the rear of the store building at Center and Newman streets at 1:30 this afternoon the engine backfired setting fire to the car. A still alarm was sent in and Hose and Ladder Company No. 1 was dispatched to the scene.

Members of the Jones were highly excited by the fire and thinking the company was not reporting quickly enough or that a mistake had been made sent in a box alarm. All of the apparatus at Houses No. 1 and No. 2 was sent to Center and Newman street and Chief Albert Foy also responded. A small amount of chemical extinguished the blaze and the damage to the automobile was slight.

Miss Jones drove the car under its own power to Conkey's garage to have the damage repaired.

was no definite sharp explosion, just a staccato crackling," one investigator said. "If there had been a 'wet bomb' there would have been an explosion that could have been heard blocks away."

A "wet bomb," it was explained, is a gasoline bomb.

No Evidence of Bomb Fire Marshal Gabe Goldwater, after a preliminary inspection of the ruined cabaret, said there was no evidence of a bomb.

The fire started on the stairway and was driven into the upstairs corridor, apparently by the draft from an opened front door," he said. "I believe that a departing guest carelessly threw a match or cigarette on the stairway. The match ignited the stairway decorations.

The first floor showed no sign of damage from fire. The stair guest left, opening the door, the wind blew the fire upward."

The first floor showed no sign of damage from fire. The stairway and the upper floor alone revealed the ravages of the flames.

SHIP CRASH EXTENDS LOCAL TRIO'S VACATION

Collision Puts "Virginia" Out of Commission So Schultz Family Stays West Longer.

The collision in a dense fog of the Panama Pacific liner Virginia and the Bruusgaard line freighter Hermon in the Pacific Ocean off San Francisco on Saturday afternoon added ten days to the stay in Los Angeles of Mrs. Marie Schultz and her daughters Frances and Edythe of Oak street, as they had engaged passage on the Virginia and were scheduled to leave on the return trip last Monday.

The information reached in an air-mail letter to George Rix, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, where Miss Edythe Schultz is employed as a stenographer.

Instead of arriving home on October 2 planned the family will not return until about October 12 as it will take at least a week to repair the damage done to the Virginia. It had an eighty foot hole torn in her starboard side. The expense of the added stay to take care of by the steamship company.

The Virginia, one of the largest passenger liners entering the port of San Francisco, had more than 300 passengers on board, but none of the crew or passengers were hurt this being credited to the fact that nearly everyone was on deck as the liner pulled away from the pier.

Mrs. Schultz and her daughters left Manchester August 24 on a tour of the United States. They had already spent a week in Los Angeles when the accident occurred.

MAY FOR A LITERARY CLUB AT S. M. CHURCH

Young People Contemplate Informal Discussion of Books; Plan to Meet Tuesdays.

Young people of the South Methodist church, from the age of 16 on, are contemplating the organization of a literary club. The plan is to meet once a month for informal discussion of some certain book which all in common will study, and to give a synopsis of other books which the individual members may choose.

Books on travel, biography, poetry, science or fiction may be selected. It is proposed to hold a meeting Tuesday evening at 7:45 for the purposes of organization, to decide upon fees and other items of business. If the club proves the success that the promoters believe it will be, doubtless they will from time to time be able to bring to the church for a public lecture, some noted speaker or author.

DEPOT SQUARE GATES DOWN 42 TIMES IN DAY

The operation of the gates at the Depot Square railroad crossing has become a matter of unusual interest during the past week on account of the congestion of motor traffic there caused by the paving work on Main street. Casually asked how many times the gates were operated during the day Thomas Wilson, early day shift operator volunteered to have an exact count made for the 24 hours beginning Thursday morning.

It disclosed today that during Mr. Wilson's trick of eight hours from 6 a. m. to 2 p. m., he had lowered and raised the gates 23 times; Gate Tender Moffet, from 2 to 10 p. m. operated the gates 14 times, while Operator Meacham, from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m., lowered the barriers only five times.

This total of 42 operations of the gates in 24 hours is much smaller than the average for 24 hours eight or ten years ago, when there were not only several more through trains, both passenger and freight, but the half hourly passage of the Interurban service, now abandoned.

Let's Refurnish the Kitchen during September

FIRST FURNISH YOUR HOME
IT TELLS WHAT YOU ARE

THE HOUSEHOLD LIBERTY,
$189

These enameled ranges can do much to modernize your kitchen

CABINET GAS RANGE in Full Grey Enamel $60

Think of the pride in owning this beautiful and efficient gas range in full grey enamel that always looks bright and clean. A full size range with four top cooking burners, large side oven and broiler. Oven has heat indicator. It is really an exceptional value at $60.

THE HOUSEHOLD REGAL $125.50

A very efficient coal range with large cooking surface and roomy oven with heat indicator. It is furnished in glossy pearl grey enamel with nickled trimmings. A splendid stove at a very moderate cost.

The New UTILITY GLENWOOD $130

The Utility is Glenwood's conception of a real bungalow range—and like all other Glenwood ranges it is the finest of its kind. Not until it has been highly perfected did they offer this range to the public. Already it has become immensely popular. It combines a kitchen heater for coal or wood and a large gas stove with spacious broiling and baking facilities. Finished in grey enamel with new enameled cooking top and is equipped with the famous Glenwood-Robertsshaw oven heat control.

Now half as much money buys twice as much radio!

Only in the New 15th Anniversary Zenith receivers will you find ALL these new, outstanding radio developments.

- GENUINE AUTOMATIC TUNING
Exclusively Zenith's...the station is THERE when you press the button. Patented.
- GENUINE SCREEN-GRID CIRCUIT
A specially designed screen-grid circuit...built from the ground up.
- DOUBLE PUSH-PULL AMPLIFICATION
Like the power of a locomotive in a motor car...mellower, richer, absolutely UNDISTORTABLE tone at any volume. Four tubes used in two stages of push-pull amplification instead of prevalent use of two tubes in one stage.
- NINE TUBES (with rectification)
Three UY-224 Screen-Grid tubes; three UY-227 (heater type) tubes; two UX-245 (latest type amplifiers); one UX-280 (rectifier).
- LINEAR POWER DETECTION
Weak or strong signals received with true tone quality, the grid bias on the detector tube automatically changing with the strength of signal.
- SIMPLE SELECTIVITY ADJUSTMENT
Permits regulating capacity of antenna for best operation.
- SELF-HEALING FILTER CONDENSER
In sharp contrast to the common paper and tinfoil type of filter condenser, Zenith uses a self-healing filter condenser of long life which REMAINS operative under all current conditions.
- NOISE LEVEL REDUCTION
Noise level is down, and radio signal strength is up. Increase in volume does not increase noise. Connection provided to minimize line noises. Compare Zenith with others.
- SUPER-SIZE SPEAKERS
Employs super-size, 12-inch syntonic-dynamic type speaker especially designed to operate in full sympathy with the audio of the receiver...emphasizing the famous Zenith HUMANIZED Tone.
- PHONOGRAPH SWITCH
Specially designed Phonograph Switch which automatically converts the Zenith receiver for electrical reproduction with any pick-up and record turn-table.

MODEL 52...Employs nine tubes, including rectifier. Specially designed Screen-Grid circuit... DOUBLE Push-Pull audio amplification. Genuine Automatic Tuning. Super-size, 12-inch Zenith Syntonic-Dynamic Type Speaker. Linear Power Detection. Self-Healing Filter Condenser. Simple Selectivity Adjustment. Automatic Phonograph Switch. Charming low-boy console of Butt Walnut with overlays of English Satin Oak.

LESS TUBES

Words just don't exist which can do these new Zeniths justice...words cannot prove what a five-minute demonstration tells your ears and eyes and pocket-book unmistakably.

Super Screen-Grid...a new circuit...especially designed...which gets more out of these tubes than the tube-makers thought was in them...only in Zenith.

Power detection...a "screen-grid" radio without power detection is like an airplane without an engine. Only power-detection can cope with the colossal signals peculiar to screen-grid tubes, without distortion, Zenith has it.

Double Push-Pull...twice the standard power; twice the expected volume; twice the fidelity, the beauty of tone, without any distortion. Again, in Zenith.

Exquisite cabinetry...the most sumptuous Zeniths ever made...which means, simply, the most sumptuous radios ever made.

Only Zenith offers twice as much radio...for half as much money. One demonstration...five minutes...and you'll know.

MENUS For Good Health

A Week's Supply
Recommended By
Dr. Frank E. McCoy

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, September 22nd:

Sunday
Breakfast—Coddled eggs, Melba toast, stewed prunes.
Lunch—Squash, combination salad composed of string beans, peas and carrots.
Dinner—Roast chicken or pork, stewed tomatoes, spinach, salad of head lettuce, ice cream (small portions).

Monday
Breakfast—Real wholewheat bread and peanut butter, stewed figs.
Lunch—Avacado salad, cooked beet tops.
Dinner—Broiled steak with mushrooms, baked ground beefs, salad of sliced cucumbers, apple whip.

Tuesday
Breakfast—Baked eggs, Melba toast, stewed raisins.
Lunch—Orange souffle, glass of milk.
Dinner—Baked mutton, buttered vegetables consisting of beets, carrots, turnips and peas, cooked separately and served diced together, seasoned with butter, salad of raw spinach, baked pear.

Wednesday
Breakfast—Cottage cheese, pineapple (fresh or canned. If canned, discard syrup).
Lunch—Carrot loaf (grated with a little celery) and baked oyster plant.
Dinner—Baked white fish, spinach, asparagus, McCoy salad. No dessert.

Thursday
Breakfast—Poached egg on Melba toast, crisp bacon.
Lunch—8-ounce glass of fresh cider.
Dinner—Stuffed and rolled round steak, (use diced carrots, parsley and Melba toast crumbs as stuffing, and bake steak one hour), baked egg plant, boiled okra, salad of chopped raw cabbage and parsley, prune whip.

Friday
Breakfast—French omelet, Melba toast, baked apple.
Lunch—10 or 12 dates, pint of buttermilk.
Dinner—Broiled fillet of sole, cooked lettuce, squash, salads of tomatoes and cucumbers, no dessert.

Saturday
Breakfast—Coddled egg, genuine wholewheat bread and butter, stewed raisins.
Lunch—Baked sweet potatoes, cooked celery, lettuce.
Dinner—Veal loaf, (chopped cooked veal and parsley molded in gelatine), baked parsnips, cooked tomatoes, salad of stuffed celery. Pear sauce.

*Stuffed celery: Add to peanut butter the desired amount of minced ripe olives, chopped parsley, and enough of the pulp drained from canned tomatoes to make a smooth paste. Work ingredients together with fork and fill the grooves of crisp, well bleached celery stalks of uniform length. Chill before serving.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Calories Per Day)

Question: W. G. J. writes: "Please tell me how many calories a day one should get in his food. I am underweight and am trying to improve by eating. Is it injurious to take salts every night? What causes fever blisters when one does not seem to have fever, or cause for it?"

Answers:—Dietitians who try to balance patients' diets through the calorie theory might say that you require between 2500 and 3500 calories a day, but the truth is you may be able to get more nourishment and live better on 1000 calories daily, providing it is of the right quality. It is a bad habit to take salts every night. The so-called fever blisters are really caused by hyper-acidity of the stomach which is usually present when one has a fever. But of course, these blisters may occur at any time from the over-acidity when fevers are not present.

(Shingles)
Question: Mrs. H. asks: "Will you kindly explain in plain language the cause of shingles, the symptoms, and if there is a cure?"
Answer:—The name "shingles" is given to a disorder caused by the deposit of toxic substances along certain nerve trunks. It always occurs on one side of the body at a time, and is more frequently found in the upper back or around the ribs on one side. The nerves are irritated by the toxins, and the skin breaks out in a rash wherever the most irritation exists. The cure is through diet, and no local treatments are very effective. A fast taken at the onset of the disorder will hasten the cure, but even under his treatment it often takes a week or ten days for the eruption to disappear.

NOTICE!

All persons liable by law to pay taxes in the Ninth School District of Manchester are hereby notified that the assessors of the Town of Manchester have returned to Charles R. Hathaway, Clerk of said district, a list of valuation on the grand list of said town of the year 1928 made by them under the provisions of the General Statutes, and that said assessors and the selectmen of said town will meet at the office of the Town Clerk in the Town of Manchester on the 30th day of September, 1929, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said assessors and the said selectmen have the same powers in relation to said list that the Board of Relief has in relation to town lists.

A STRONG BEAUTY

London—Miss May Valliere, pulchritudinous damsel of 18 summers, claims to be the strongest woman in the world. Nor does she confine her claims to strength alone. She has a perfect form and a face fair to look upon. She juggles cannon balls on the back of her neck, bends iron bars and lifts weights that would tax the ordinary strong man. She has a magnificent outfit of 50 plumes given to her in South Africa.

HIGHEST CHIMNEY

Sundbury, Canada—A chimney to be erected here by the International Nickel Company will be the third largest in the world when completed and the largest in the British Empire. It will be 510 feet high, and the diameter at the base will be about 60 feet. About 26,000 tons of bricks will be used.

LIONS AREN'T SO MUCH

Junco, Mexico—Well, the lion is no longer the king of beasts. A bull and a lion were put into an arena here recently to fight for the pleasure of the people. When betting was done on the fight, but that beast's backers were given a surprise when the bull and the lion

USED CAR DISPLAY ON MAIN ST. LOT

Mackley-Chevrolet Co. to Show
Pleasure and Commercial
Cars at Main and Pearl Sts.

The Mackley Chevrolet Co., Inc. has secured from E. J. Holl, the lot adjoining the Sheridan hotel, at the corner of Pearl and Main streets, for the establishment of a used car lot.

The officials of the company are firm in the belief that in so doing they have crystallized a long felt want in Manchester, namely of showing at a convenient, central point, a line of fully reconditioned good looking automobiles.

The lot is being leveled by workmen, and an artistic enclosure is being constructed by Holger Bacon. The painting will be handled by John I. Olson, the entire work being finished in white and green.

The lot will be brilliantly lighted for night display, a number of flood lights being used in addition to a great many high candle powered lamps. Completion of the enclosure is expected by Saturday night, and the cars will undoubtedly be moved in on Monday. Both passenger and commercial lines will be shown, and there will be representatives of the company on the premises at all times to render the prompt and courteous service which is in keeping with Mackley Chevrolet policy.

TUNE UP YOUR TIRES

Regular Monthly Inspection
Will Correct Off-Key Rubber Equipment.

"Tire tuning" that will make your car "shoes" run in perfect harmony with the road is the latest wrinkle of automotive service offered by The Porterfield Tire Works, local distributors of the sensational new Seiberling Double Service Balloons, and sponsors of the Free Monthly Inspection Service for Seiberling users. "Tuning up," according to Mr. Porterfield, is just as important for tires as it is for motors or musical instruments. "Your car can't run in harmony if your tires are out of tune," he declared. "But it's a simple matter to keep them pitched to the proper key. Ten minutes a month will do it."

"We started our Free Monthly Inspection Service to help Seiberling users keep their tires 'tuned.' Inflation pressure, tread cuts, brake and wheel adjustment—all these things, if neglected, may cause serious difficulties. By spending ten minutes in our shop every thirty days, local car owners can dismiss any thought of tire discord from their minds. We'll check up on the air pressure; we'll repair the cuts, and we'll examine the car for faulty brake adjustment and wheel alignment that may be causing premature tire wear. You drive away from our shop with your tires in top-notch shape, and what's more, with a mileage bonus to boot."

"Hundreds of local motorists have found that by taking regular advantage of this service, they can add as much as 25 per cent to the mileage of their tires. It's like getting a new spare free of charge. There are no 'strings' to this offer—it's not a trick. It won't cost you a red cent, and it may save you many dollars. So come on over and get in tune!"

NEWS PLANE DOWN

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The St. Louis Robin's endurance flight record was without a challenger today. For the plane sponsored by the Buffalo News, after 197 hours and 30 minutes in the air was forced down early last night when disabled by the hose of the re-fueling plane.

Spectators were given a thrill during the afternoon when a mechanic, by use of a rope ladder, transferred in mid-air to the endurance plane in an effort to repair the damaged ship.
Mick the Miner, an Irish three-year-old dog, is believed to be the fastest in the world. He was bred and trained by an Irish priest, who recently sold him for $4,000.

WARD'S FURNACES are made in both pipe and pipeless types, in a wide range of sizes and prices to suit every heating condition. The pipeless furnaces range in price from $65.85 to $203, and the pipe furnaces from $50.95 to $169.95 (furnace only)... depending upon size of furnace. Let us quote you prices.

Ward volume... thousands of furnaces sold at a small profit, not a few sales at a large profit... that's the reason you get a Windsor at less than half the price of similar furnaces.

Windsor's superlative quality and satisfying power are assured by this sweeping guarantee: If any Windsor Furnace fails to give you complete satisfaction you may return it at any time within two years from the date of purchase and we will return your money.

Windsor castings are far heavier than those in furnaces selling at twice Ward's price... they hold heat longer and they won't burn out. MORE ABOUT SPEED

Now and then, just here and there, some voice other than this newspaper's is raised in protest against the juggernaut of highway speed. One such voice is that of the Bridgeport Telegram, which says: "The big difficulty is that nobody wants to know the truth in this argument. Everybody drives too fast. Everybody wants to continue to drive too fast from the motor vehicle commissioner down. Our whole process of dealing with this tragedy is a process of telling falsehoods to ease our consciences. We blame accidents on everything but the real cause and then issue bulletins which confuse our own reasoning. We go through elaborate 'safety drives' in which we carry out the big bluff of doing something important, like children playing at being grown-ups. Then we close our eyes to the root of the trouble."

So long as this general frame of mind remains, we can do nothing about it. Accidents and deaths will continue to mount. No safety drives will ever amount to a tinker's dam. All discussion under the circumstances is futile so far as immediate results are concerned, though it may bear fruit in the future when people are thoroughly sick of the slaughter and are awakened to the fact that safety experts are merely making gestures, signifying nothing.

The Telegram is everlastingly right in its conviction that we are practically all victims of deliberate self-delusion in this matter of motor killings, "from the motor vehicle commissioner down." Having tasted the joys of high speed we will no more consent to forego them than the disomaniac will consent to forego the joys of his drunkenness. Nor will we admit the wrongness of our appetite for speed any more than he will admit the wrongness of his appetite for whiskey. When the drunkard's kidneys break down or his liver turns to stone he never in the world blames the booze—it is the bad water he drank with it; or perhaps the fact that he didn't drink whiskey enough or early enough in life. Millions of old soaks have gone to their graves obstinately singing, "Another little drink won't do us any harm"—and actually believing it because they have kidded themselves into believing it. Thousands of automobilists who today ridicule the dangers of sheer speed are destined to go to their graves as the result of speed crashes, having just as obstinately shut their eyes to the perils of speed.

Manufacturers tout speed; story writers make their heroes and heroines speed bugs; boys and girls are brought up to consider speed an essential of manhood and womanhood and caution the hallmark of senility and cowardice; automobile officials and police manufacture a fiction that speed is safe and moderation dangerous—and the blood flows in growing rivers and increasing thousands of useful lives are snapped off midway if not in their bloom.

And it would all be perfectly clear to ninety-nine out of a hundred persons if they didn't refuse, like the whiskey bum, to let their appetite be governed by reason.

SHOWMANSHIP

It is extremely doubtful whether any member of the family of Governor Trumbull or of former President Coolidge anxious to promote publicity in connection with the forthcoming marriage of the former's daughter and the latter's son, but nevertheless somebody is proceeding in the best possible way to stimulate the extraordinary fuss that is being made over the affair. Formal announcement that the wedding is to be such a "quiet family affair" that members of the press are not to be admitted, accompanied by further announcement of arrangements for one-way traffic in Plainville, parking allocations, arrangements for airplane landings, etc., even to the statement that an 86-year-old lady is to appear in her own lavender wedding gown, are about as well calculated to excite public curiosity and to attract the rubbernecks as if the one thing to be desired was a near riot of excitement among the peasantry.

As a matter of fact it is very much to be questioned whether the mating of these two young persons is of any more importance than that of any other young couple who are to take the vows of matrimony in Connecticut within the next week. Neither of them is a celebrity in his or her own right. Neither is at all a remarkable personage—just a boy whose father happened to be President and a girl whose father happened to be a governor. Their marriage is just a marriage. We doubt whether the concern of the public in their affairs is either extraordinarily deep or remarkably widespread.

But the stage has been well set, particularly through the provocative announcement of the press ban. There is not a little evidence of good, if instinctive showmanship. It is highly probable that, as good showmanship almost always is, it will be rewarded by a packed house and much applause.

BUTLER DOES IT

General Smedley D. Butler, famous commander of Marines, failed to dry up Philadelphia but he is in a fair way to banish the red nose of hoochism and set up the snow white bloom of the lily in its place in another town. To be sure the other town is not quite so big as Philadelphia, being the ballpark of Quantico, Va., which has a population of 300 persons. But it was wet and it's going to be bone dry.

The incorporated town of Quantico is practically surrounded by and almost wholly supported by the Quantico Marine Base, where 2,000 of Uncle Sam's leathernecks are usually stationed. It seems that among the residents of the village have been some bootleggers who have sold booze to the leathernecks. Last Saturday General Butler, who is now in command of the Quantico Base, issued a ukase forbidding enlisted men of the Marine Corps from entering Quantico village. Then he told the mayor and members of the town council that he would lift the ban as soon as hooch and hooch peddlers were banished from the town; and not until then.

Since the trade of the Marines is literally the life of the town, Butler holds a handful of aces and the townsfolk find themselves with seven-spot high and deuce low. The general is the winner from the go-off.

Now who says that prohibition can't be enforced? It can be—any time two thousand out of twenty-three hundred persons are under the completely autocratic command of one determined individual. But if it takes two thousand Marines, with Smedley Butler thrown in for good measure, to enforce prohibition on 300 civilians in Quantico, how many Marines is it going to take to enforce prohibition on 120,000,000 civilians throughout the United States? And how many Smedley Butlers? Was it Dr. McBride who wanted to call out the Marines?

FEARSOME PELEE

Reports of a continued moderate eruption of Mt. Pelee, island of Martinique, West Indies, are not calculated to greatly disturb the younger generations, but those who can recall in some detail the terrific catastrophe that visited the island in 1902 will hardly be able to regard with complacency any Pelee eruption at all.

For several months during the early part of that year there were volcanic manifestations of Mt. Pelee but nothing of a very startling nature. Late in April there was a heavy fall of ashes. Then on May 3 came a really serious eruption that did a lot of damage and killed about 150 people. Immediately thereafter Mt. Soufriere on St. Vincent went into eruption and the people of Martinique breathed freely, satisfied that the strain upon Pelee was thus relieved and that there would be no more trouble. On the 8th, with terrific suddenness, there issued from the crater of Pelee an enormous cloud of flaming gas that swept over the city and harbor of St. Pierre, bringing death in a horrid form to thousands upon thousands of human beings who died in their very tracks. A storm of moulten lava and ashes succeeded the whirlwind of flame, completing the destruction of life. Only the barest handful of the 30,000 residents of the city escaped. Only one vessel of the numerous shipping in the harbor got away. The total death list was estimated at close to 40,000, though only about one-tenth of the area of the island was affected.

It was the most dreadful natural disaster, in point of destruction of human life, that has occurred in the western world in modern times and made a profound impression on the imagination of all peoples.

That there is something disquieting about any outbreak of the fatal volcano is not to be wondered at.

ALTITUDE

There is a project on foot to send a university football team from the United States to play an exhibition game with one of the two or three college teams that have recently been developed by American coaches at Mexico City. President Portes Gil of Mexico is sponsor for the undertaking and it is understood will pay the expenses of the trip from his private means.

When ex-guy General Winfield Scott conducted his campaign against Mexico City from Vera Cruz in 1847 he took four months to march his army the 200-odd miles from the coast to the heights of the central plateau. Why? Not because his path was obstructed by any strong body of troops but because there was a powerful army awaiting him on the plateau and General Scott knew full well that unacclimated soldiers could not possibly stand the altitude and be in condition to put up a fight.

Mexico City is 7,500 feet above sea level. And if any team of footballists from any educational center in this country rushes down there by airplane and undertakes the strenuousities of football without many days of acclimatization, it will be an exceedingly bad team to bet your money on; even if it knows ten times as much football as the Mexicans and has normally far more speed as well as beef.

You have to be able to breathe in order to pile up football scores or to keep the other fellow from doing so.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 20.—October 1 is New York's official moving day. And then, if ever, comes perfect daze.

A stunned look comes over a vast percentage of the population. All of the efforts of late summer have resulted in the acquisition of a new apartment, and from the Harlem river to the push cart-infested lanes of the East Side the population is trekking to its next habitation.

Since there are only a given number of moving vans, householders who forget to order their trucks in advance stand about with a gaga look upon their faces. They borrow grocery wagons, they borrow baby carriages, they take the Christmas carts from their small boys, they bargain for wheelbarrows and, finally, they go through the streets laden with bird cages, books and odd lots of furniture.

The truckmen, on the other hand, are lords of the earth. Bribery being what it is, good folk who would blush at the very suggestion find themselves slipping ten dollar notes into the hands of husky young men who should be moving someone else's furniture.

Far into the nights and with the very dawn, the movers go wearily from one end of the great island to the other. For practically all rental leases expire on September 30. Weeks before, the fortunate few who can escape to the country have come in over the week-end to walk about with want ads folded in pockets and real estate brokers fatigued on rental commissions, seeking a new nest for the winter, and it's all over but the moving!

It's one of Manhattan's strangest and most amusing sights. To date, my own most amusing experience has been to encounter a slender and timid young man balancing a gold fish bowl in one hand and leading the family dog by the other, trailed by a fat and slave-driving spouse who refused to trust the cut glass to the movers, while her other hand held a talkative parrot.

Coney Island is hesitating between the prospect of going swanky and the alternative of being more Coney than ever. Whereas the alluring and lurid sideshows were once confined largely to such amusement parks as Luna and Steeplechase, they now overflow into the main streets where barker boys and the allurement of Fat Susie and the bearded lady. Circus sideshows chromos now flare up and down the main boulevards. While, on the other hand, hotels such as the Half Moon rise to look out upon the surf and a clientele, which ranges from the state's governor to the society spenders, arrive at a spot once completely dedicated to the mass population.

Coney upon a week day is quite a different spot, by the way, from Coney upon a Sunday. Upon a week day all the beaux and belles are tolling to get enough money to spend at Coney on a Sunday. And now the thousands of weary mothers who hesitate to face the Sunday mobs take their infants and their neighbor's infants and start for Coney's strands.

The subway becomes clogged with go-carts and baby carriages. The nose-to-nose seats become comfortably filled with all-too-large ladies and the amusement parks become doubly competitive for the trade of such tourists who feel that they should not leave New York without looking upon this far-famed spot.

But Sundays or week days the catacombs beneath the elevated tracks upon which one arrives at Coney remain through the years a study in humanity. Coney's greatest attraction is for those millions housed in the tenements of the East Side who find it particularly alluring because of the five-cent subway fare and the fairly reasonable bathing charges. The arrival of each train brings from the dark tunnelways a surge of the people of the earth—Hungarians, Russians, Italians, Jews, Irish and assorted

SUFFERING FROM A "SINUS"

The sinuses or antrums are hollow openings in the skull which reduce the weight of the skull and add to the resonant qualities of the speaking voice. These sinuses have an opening into the nose, but this opening sometimes closes because of infections or catarrhal inflammation. This may cause great pain and tenderness, with a maddening sense of pressure. If the infection or inflammation continues, there may be an accumulation of pus.

Sinusitis usually cures itself by spontaneous recovery as soon as the pus is discharged into the nose after the entrance to the sinus becomes opened. In the chronic forms there may be a simple round cell infiltration or granular thickening into polypoid degeneration, and if these conditions continue it may end in a devitalization of the mucous membrane and even to bone necrosis.

Children under seven or eight years of age seldom have sinus troubles, probably because the sinuses are not well developed, and the one called the frontal sinus is not present until after about the eighth year. As a child becomes older the bones of the face and nose change somewhat in shape and the sinuses more fully develop.

Long continued catarrhal troubles will lay the soil in which a sinus infection may develop.

The sensible treatment for all sinus and antrum troubles is through a fasting and diet treatment to cleanse the blood of any accumulated poisons which may be the irritating cause of catarrh. Puncturing the sinuses or antrums, which is a method used by most surgeons, is a dangerous procedure, as it often leads to a great deal of after trouble and frequently more infection. Such a procedure is only necessary or advisable in very extreme cases of acute sinus or antrum troubles, where the membranes are so enlarged as to completely close the passages.

In most cases, local treatments through antiseptics and with various air-suction and vibrating machines will assist in bringing about a relief of the acute condition—then clearing up the catarrhal trouble with dieting will bring about a lasting cure.

The extraordinary advertising which sinus diseases are getting at the present time has thrown these troubles into the same limelight that used to be held by appendicitis. The white light of publicity swung over to infected teeth or tonsils, then to glandular troubles, and now it seems that a high percentage of people you meet will say that they have a "sinus." Many seem to think that a "sinus" is some definite growth or disease, and do not know that it simply means that one of the hollows in the bones of the skull has become filled with mucus or pus, and that severe inflammation of any sinus should correctly be called "sinusitis."

The time may come some day when people will stop bragging about their ailments, and if they do discover they have a "sinus" they will be ashamed of themselves for living so carelessly, and in place of telling their friends, they will disappear into retirement until through proper living they have corrected such troubles which come from careless habits and principally from gluttonous practices three times daily at the table.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

How Much Sleep?
 Question: High School asks—"What would you advise for a girl that wanted to sleep all the time?"

Answer—If eight hours of sleep do not refresh you it is because your system is burdened with poisons from bad habits of eating, and from the effects of too much study and not enough physical exercise. If a physician's examination has failed to disclose any definite disease, you can rest assured that you need a thorough bodily housecleaning which will eliminate the morbid material in your blood stream with which you are burdened.

Cottage Cheese
 Question: H. G. writes—"Please advise when cottage cheese is used in place of meat, what is the ample portion per person?"

Answer—It is all right for most people to use about one quarter of a pound of cottage cheese in place of the same amount of meat. This is approximately an ordinary sauce dish full.

Paresis
 Question: F. G. P. writes—"Please answer these questions through the column: (1) What does paresis mean? (2) What was the cause of a pain around the heart when I climbed a long flight of stairs with a heavy load? Every time I tried to breathe or bend over I felt the pain. It lasted about two hours."

Answer—"Paresis" means a form of brain degeneration, and is a very serious and usually fatal disorder. The pain you tell me about may have been due to heart strain, or to the less serious but painful symptoms which come from an injury to the cartilages between the ribs. If you could feel the source of the pain with your fingers on your ribs, it was due to the latter cause and not to any heart injury.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER.

Washington, Sept. 20.—For more than a year now, Senator Brookhart's committee investigating federal patronage has been digging up the dirt in the purchase and sale of federal offices which everyone knew lay below the surface but which no one had ever exposed before in a large way.

The investigation has been more or less coincident with an announced change of patronage policy on the part of the administration and the general result has been that finding poor pickings instead of their customary profitable assessments on federal officeholders who owe them their jobs.

The Brookhart committee has actually been into Georgia and Texas and sitting in Washington, has heard witnesses from South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi and Kentucky.

Investigating a Suicide
 First off, the committee went into Georgia. The investigation originally was aimed at conditions there. Senators George and Harris, following the suicide of a postmaster who was reported to have been sorely harassed for political contributions, demanded it and Senator Davis introduced the resolution on which the inquiry was based.

There the committee found four or five men who had set up shop as the Republican party of Georgia, headed by Ben Davis, a Republican party congressman. Davis was drawing $250 a month. The state treasurer drew the same. The committee seized an assortment of cards which gave the names of postmasters and postmistresses and their periodical payments to the "party." This was the money that went to pay salaries and expenses. Expenses were incurred when a collector went around and rounded up the delinquents. Also when Ben Davis used to have to go to Washington to see about the federal appointments.

It was charged that as much as $800 had been paid for a single rural letter carrier's job. It was testified, for instance, that John W. Martin, treasurer of the Republican state central committee, had offered a reappointment of one postmistress for a contribution, mentioning the sum of $500. The money wasn't paid and there was no reappointment. In Georgia, as in other states, there was testimony that federal jobs were bartered on a basis of returned contribution if the contributor didn't get the job. Sometimes the job-seekers got their money back in such cases and sometimes not.

What Happened in Mississippi
 Partly through the committee and partly through the Department of Justice, the Perry Howard organization in Mississippi appears to have been thoroughly exposed. Howard had a $3000 job here as special assistant attorney general and maintained offices on Pennsylvania avenue, where he dealt with patronage. One Mr. A. P. Russell testified that when Howard wired him to come to Washington and "bring recommendations" it meant to bring $1500 for a marshaling. Russell did and got the job. Then he resigned because "those negroes down there wanted to sell things around the office and Patton (Howard's friend) was tending to show that one federal officeholder lost his job because he testified against Howard. The record also shows that Howard deposited $31,000 in banks while in Washington, above his salary.

In the Texas situation the committee heard from a Republican National Committeeman R. B. Creager, who vigorously denied testimony that contributors were promised their money back if the state G. O. P. didn't get jobs for them and complained that he had tried to defeat Harry M. Wurzbach, the only Texas Republican congressman, so that Creager wouldn't have to split up the patronage. It was admitted that 822 federal officeholders had given promissory notes and that 457 had made cash donations, but insisted that they were unnumbered in each instance by non-officeholders. Creager denied that officeholders were assessed 10 per cent of their salaries.

Levied on Salaries
 A witness from South Carolina told the committee that National Committeeman Joseph W. Tolbert had given him to understand after the Harding election that 20 per cent of all salaries would have to be paid in subject to Tolbert's drawing for campaign expenses. Harding had referred the witness to Tolbert. Evidence was given of specific payments. Tolbert came back with numerous affidavits from federal jobholders that they had "purely voluntary" contributions. Recently a postmistress who made one of these affidavits wrote to the committee as follows:

"I cannot sleep at night. I want to make my peace with God. I will tell you how I paid for the post-office as well as others."

The Brookhart committee, which is likely to continue its inquiry indefinitely, will be glad to hear from other postmasters, marshals and other federal officials who have paid politicians for their jobs.

DR. ECKENER

BY Hugh Allen

THE FIRST AUTHORIZED STORY OF THE LIFE OF THE COMMANDER OF THE ZEPPELINS

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of Zeppelins, educated as a scientist and philosopher, established his home on Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance, expecting to lead the life of a student and write a book on economics. Count Ferdinand Zeppelin, German army officer, who as a volunteer had flown free and captive balloons with the Union Army during the American Civil War, also lived on Lake Constance. In spite of the general belief that his ideas were impracticable, Zeppelin was devoting his time, energy and money in an effort to perfect a rigid balloon, driven by motors. There was little in common between the student from the north and the army officer who was also a dreamer. But their meeting made history.

CHAPTER III

Two men meeting in a garden in quiet Friedrichshafen on a spring day in 1906. One a student and scholar, the other a retired army officer with a dream of conquering the air. One unknown beyond his local community except through occasional profound articles published in the "Dr. E." The other already known about the world as a man with a queer idea of sailing through the air in a rigid balloon, propelled by motors, but whose progress had been marked largely by wrecks. And the life of the unknown was completely changed by the meeting.

There are many legends about the conversion of Dr. Eckener, leading critic to the Zeppelin—the dramatic event which changed him over from a Saul, scourge of the Church, to a St. Paul, the great apostle.

When Hugo Eckener went to Friedrichshafen to live it was the last thing in his mind that he would ever become associated with Count Zeppelin in building what he himself has termed the "air castles of an air count."

Friedrichshafen was not yet famous as cradle of the Zeppelins. It was a quiet little village fronting on the lake with the Austrian and Swiss Alps opposite it.

Hugo Eckener, born as far north as he could be born on German soil, had, in selecting his home, gone as far south as one could go and still live in Germany.

The warm climate of South Germany was one reason for his decision. The lake itself was the other. Rich as it was in historic memories, scene of many wars running back to tribal days and down through Gustavus Adolphus, since the Rhine, strategic river of Central Europe, ran entirely through the lake, the Bodensee, as it was locally called, would also permit the scholar to go sailing again.

The Eckeners made some little stir in Friedrichshafen when they arrived there, the man tall, blond, distinguished, intellectual, contrasting with the shorter, darker southerners. The curious northern clothes of the children seemed to the village folk strange in contrast to the gayer colors of Bavaria and Württemberg.

Of these things Hugo Eckener was largely unconscious. Travel, mountain climbing, the lake, his studies, his garden, his writing, these things filled a busy and colorful life. The second chapter of his book was about finished.

That there was under way, almost at his doorstep, the most daring concept in the entire field of engineering, a project requiring faith and fortitude beyond any in the world, largely escaped his notice.

For Count Zeppelin had been born nearby at the city of Constance, had selected Friedrichshafen as the scene of his experiments. It lay in a great dish-shaped basin surrounded by mountains.

And when the experiments of his neighbor were brought to Eckener's attention by one disaster and another disaster, he noticed it in his writing only to criticize it. The thing was impossible.

And yet Count Zeppelin, not knowing it, needed the special abilities which Hugo Eckener could bring to his project. Eckener was perhaps the one man in Europe who was best able to prove Count Zeppelin's conclusions to be sound.

For Eckener was a born navigator, a born seaman, extraordinarily weather wise.

And Zeppelin ships, once built, had to be down in a new and uncharted medium.

Zeppelin's third ship was destroyed in January, 1906. Eckener wrote an article about the disaster in the Frankfurter Zeitung. His comments are significant.

"The landing," he wrote, "though difficult, was on the whole successful, except that the rear portion struck a tree and was damaged not inconsiderably. But during the night a wind came up and, lifting the ship from the ground a couple of lines, dashed it down again so vigorously as to smash up the ribs and make it impossible to fix it back to the hangar. It was decided to dismantle it, and that was quickly done. Exactly 24 hours after this great 20-ton ship had risen and flown so proudly and majestically over the lake, it had become a scattered heap of aluminum and fabric.

"A sad sight for all who knew what hopes and labors had gone into its construction.

"And in the midst of it stood the old Count himself, calmly giving orders for its destruction. Who can conceive how hard it was on this sleepless night for him to witness that sight, when every hammer blow must have struck the innermost part of his being, and the sound of every rending saw have torn his heart? Who can conceive what went through his mind when he saw the dream of a lifetime and the arduous labors of seven long years going to pieces before him?"

"But there he stood in full gaze of the silent observing crowd, courageous, unbroken, showing no sign of dismay.

"How great is the human heart daring to oppose all the forces of this world, and how weak in comparison is the work of the human hand which may be torn into pieces by a breath of air."

This comment by Eckener is much less severe than earlier ones. But though the faith and fortitude of Count Zeppelin had impressed him he could still see no practical use for so fragile a vehicle.

The real story of his conversion to lighter-than-air was related by Dr. Eckener himself for the first time in New York at the conclusion of his world flight.

"Honky Tonk."—in public, a "hot mamma"—in private, a loving mother! This is the dual characterization of Sophie Tucker, renowned singer of torrid ditties, in "Honky Tonk," Warner Brothers' latest talking and singing Vitaphone production which is now being shown at the State theater. This is Miss Tucker's initial debut before the clicking cameras and should serve as a monumental document for the famous jazz entertainer.

"Honky Tonk" is a thrilling drama of the glitter and tinsel of New York's famous night club, topped off with a great human lesson of mother love and human understanding. The intimitable Sophie is heard singing songs that are already famous and songs that are destined to become famous. She is heard in many thrilling talking sequences that are sure to hold one spellbound until the final scene of the film. Supporting Miss Tucker in this, her first screen venture, are such talented stars of the stage and screen as Lila Lee, Audrey Ferris, John T. Murray, George Duryea and Mahlon Hamilton. Lloyd Bacon, the man who directed the "Singing Fool" was responsible for this picture.

Two Vitaphone vaudeville presentations, the current episode of "The Diamond Master" and the latest issue of State News Events will also be shown on the same program. On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the State will present Joan Crawford in "Our Modern Amidens," the flaming sequel to the recent motion picture hit, "Our Dancing Daughters."

The Innocent Cheat

THIS HAS HAPPENED

HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when her classmates accuse her of being in love with her handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT. But he represents all that she knows of home and family and she adores him blindly.

A chance meeting with a dying beggar, CHARLES OWENS NELSON, causes Brent to change all his plans regarding Helen's future. Before the man dies, Brent secures facts and evidence which he is able to corroborate to some extent by a visit to Yonkers.

On graduating, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to tell her about her parents, and is amazed when he informs her that she is heiress of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, and that he promised her parents to take her to her grandfather when she was 18. Brent takes her to Yonkers and introduces her to Cunningham as his granddaughter. He tells the story and offers as proof the lockers containing a picture of EVANGELINE CUNNINGHAM which he had taken from the dying Nellie.

Cunningham and his lawyer request that Helen remain at Bramblewood until an investigation is made. Helen resents being under suspicion until the old man gains her favor by the gift of a beautiful new car. The girl drives everywhere alone and one day accidentally strikes a young woman who has to be taken to a hospital. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV
"What'd you hit?"
The traffic officer rapped out the question abruptly when he again reached Helen's car. "Anyone hurt besides that girl?"
"No," Helen said faintly. "I ran up a bank and broke through a fence."
Helen fumbled in her bag and got out the slip of paper. The officer examined it and made a note of the number of the license plates on her car.
He asked a few more questions and Helen answered them as accurately as she could in her over-wrought condition.
Suddenly, she jotted down some answer she had given him, she burst out with an appeal to be allowed to go on to the hospital.
"We'll be taking a trip to the station first," he replied curtly.
"But I want to do something for that girl," Helen protested.
"Plenty of time for that," he told her and stepped on the running board. "Can you drive all right?"
Helen nodded and started the motor.

"It's only a few blocks," the officer said, softening a trifle over her courageous effort to face the music without whimpering.
Helen went through the next half an hour in a daze. Questions, questions, questions. They worried her. Her mind was with the girl she had hurt. Where was she now? On the operating table? Dead?
"Please," she begged at last, without answering the latest question put to her, "call up the hospital and find out how she is."
"We'll have to do that," the sergeant at the desk informed her, "before we can decide what to do about you. By your own admission, Miss Brent, you are guilty of reckless driving."
"Then please do it at once," Helen entreated.
A few minutes later she breathed more freely. Word had come back from the hospital that the injured girl was not fatally hurt.
"Let me go to see her," Helen pleaded.
This time she was not refused, though an officer was sent to accompany her lest she be unable to drive safely.

At the hospital they were admitted into a ward where the girl, whose name they were told was Eva Ennis, lay unconscious upon a narrow cot.
Helen felt remorse as painful as a blow struck at her heart when she beheld that white, drawn face again. It seemed so small and pitiful—like a suffering child's—and the brown hair lay in a babyish way on the pallid forehead that added to the impression of youthfulness.
Helen's eyes sought the nurse's glance in mute appeal.
"She regained consciousness for a few minutes," the nurse told her. "Is she badly hurt?"
"We cannot know until Dr. Parkey arrives. There are no broken bones. Our examination found no external injuries except a few bruises."

Helen tore her gaze away from the girl's face and looked about her. "Haven't you a private room?" she asked.
"There will be one available at four o'clock."
"I'd like to engage it," Helen said, "for Miss Ennis."
"You can make arrangements for it with Miss Sibley at the desk in the reception room," the nurse said.
Helen hurried away to see about it. And when Dr. Parkey had finished re-examining the patient Eva was moved into one of the best rooms in the hospital.
She was conscious now, though bewildered with her surroundings. She hadn't yet fully grasped the fact that she'd been hit and brought to a hospital.

She moaned feebly and called for her mother. Her helplessness wrung scalding hot tears from Helen's eyes when they wheeled her into the private room and put her on the bed.

Helen had waited there in an agony of suspense to hear Dr. Parkey's verdict. She had received it as soon as possible but there had been a period in which she felt forgotten. That feeling was swept away when the verdict came. It was favorable and Helen was relieved of the greatest fear she'd ever known—the fear of having caused the death of another human being.

She was eager to show her relief and gratitude to a kind fate, in every way she could. She engaged two private nurses for Eva and instructed that no expense be spared to assure her comfort.

The hospital authorities called up Bramblewood at Helen's request and received Mr. Cunningham's approval of what Helen had done. He asked to speak with Helen and she told him briefly what had happened.

"You're quite right, my dear, to do everything you can for the unfortunate girl," her grandfather assured her.

"I had to have your authorization for the expenses," Helen explained. "I haven't any credit here." She tried to laugh but her grandfather understood by the catch in her voice that she was highly unstrung.

"I have established your credit," he said hastily.

"Oh, but I'll repay you," Helen promised; "I mean—"

"Never mind that," Mr. Cunningham snapped. "Are you able to drive home or shall I send for you?"

"I'm all right," Helen assured him, "but I won't be home just yet. I'm going to Miss Ennis' mother and tell her what has happened."

"Nonsense; we will send someone else."

"No, no," Helen objected; "I must go myself."

"Very well, but I shall worry until you return."

Helen left the telephone to go back and sit beside Eva's bed until the girl was able to talk rationally to her. Her eyes searched the painful face unceasingly for signs of an end to the girl's suffering.

Her presence puzzled Eva until Helen, reaching out and placing a hand lightly on one of hers, said with a real anguish of remorse, "I hurt you, you know. And I'll be sorry all my life."

Eva essayed to smile.

"I'm afraid you can't go home for a while yet," Helen hurried on; "but I'm going to fetch your mother if you will tell me where you live."

Eva's eyes filled with grateful tears. She forgot that Helen had caused her trouble. She wanted the comforting arms of her mother.

She gave Helen the address and Helen promised to be back as soon as possible.

Brent did not accompany Helen in her thoughts on the drive to the Ennis house. She recalled to him some of the realization of having brought harm to an innocent person because of her indulgence of selfish feelings.

Her sense of guilt made her specially considerate when she was admitted by Mrs. Ennis into an old-fashioned house.

Helen was instantly impressed with the pleasant matronliness of Eva's mother. And with the odor of spicy cooking that permeated the house.

"How am I going to tell her?" Helen asked herself in suddenly deepening reluctance to break her news.

"My name is Helen . . . Brent," she said when Mrs. Ennis moved forward a chair for her. "I have come on an unhappy errand."

"Mrs. Ennis looked worried."

"You sit down," Helen said impulsively, motioning to the chair that was offered her.

Mrs. Ennis mechanically seated herself, feeling a premonition of trouble. "What is it?" she said quaveringly.

"It's about your daughter," Helen answered gently.

"Eva!" Mrs. Ennis cried; "what has happened to her? Oh, tell me, tell me!"

Helen could not stop to think of how to soften the blow in the face of the mother's suspense.

"She's met with an accident," she said slowly, "she isn't badly hurt, but she wants you."

"Where is she? Take me to her!" Mrs. Ennis cried.

"She's in the Good Shepherd Hospital," Helen replied. "I'll take you there at once, in my car."

"I'll get my things," Mrs. Ennis cried, turning toward the door to the hall.

Just as she reached it Helen heard the front door open and close again, and Mrs. Ennis cry: "Bob! Bob! Eva's been hurt!"

"Mom!" It was a heartfelt protest, and it came straight to Helen and clawed at her conscience like a demon. She saw the mother go clinging there for a moment, sobbing uncontrollably.

"Tell me about it," she heard the man called Bob say.

"I don't know how it happened; I'm going to the hospital. There's a young lady in the sitting room who came for me. You'll go with us too?"

Helen saw Mrs. Ennis release herself and hurry up the stairs.

A moment later she was facing Bob. He came across the room and stood quite close to her. "What happened," he said quietly, tensely, "to my sister?"

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY

Dessert usually means much to children. If other foods are properly eaten, there is no reason why the sweet should be denied. Much food value can be found in a simple pudding. An easily digested pudding that is suitable for children cannot be harmful for adults and should not be distasteful to them.

The pudding should be planned to be a definite part of the menu and not merely an addition to it.

Mild puddings of agreeable texture can be made in varied forms to be acceptable to almost everyone. Eggs, cornstarch, rice, tapioca, bread, crumbs and gelatine can be used with milk singly or in combinations. These puddings offer much nourishment for growing bodies.

Long Cooking Necessary
Whenever corn starch or tapioca are used, long cooking is imperative. This means that they must be pre-cooked before combining with eggs for all egg dishes must be cooked at a low temperature.

Gelatine is good combined with fruit juices or milk. There is a rice pudding stiffened with gelatine that is unusually inexpensive and good. No eggs are used in the recipe. This gives a pudding of excellent food value when eggs are high.

Rich steamed puddings should never be given to children. They are difficult to digest and have no place in a child's diet.

Stewed fruits sweetened with just enough sugar bring out their natural flavor of the fruit make desirable accompaniments for plain puddings.

Whipped cream, slightly sweetened, glorifies any plain pudding and is easy to digest.

Rice Bavarian Cream
Three tablespoons rice, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup whipping cream.

Cook rice in milk in double boiler until milk is absorbed. Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes and add to hot rice. Add sugar and salt and beat over hot water for one minute. Cool and add vanilla.

When cold, fold in cream whipped until firm. Turn into a mold and let stand on ice several hours to chill and become firm. Unmold and serve with stewed and chilled fruit.

PARIS DECREES
All the smart young things are wearing the dull black supple silk crepe for afternoons, because Paris has decided black is smartest, and all hems shall dip for formal wear. Style No. 674 is particularly attractive because of its simplicity, which makes it so entirely wearable.

The circular skirt is attached to hip yoke that is scalloped at front to place fullness low to keep silhouette slender.

The deep V-shape of bodice at front completed with vestee also adds length. Shoulders are pin tucked. Sleeves show new flared treatment. The scarf collar which is interesting made of eggshell shade silk crepe is chic detail in the mode. Belt marks normal waistline.

This adorable dress comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Later you can make it of black transparent velvet or of printed sheer velvet in burgundy tones. Canton crepe, crepe, Elizabeth, chiffon, and crepe de chine appropriate.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barkin

Why should I have heard within one week recently the same remark by three different men? "Why is it that young people are so ignorant?" they wanted to know.

"It was most amazing. Certainly, if I heard it from three, a good many thousands must be saying it. Or was it merely coincidence? If, however, their complaint is universal, what is wrong?"

Is it the same old specterism that has always had for youth? Do older men expect too much of young men and women just starting out on their own. Is it the unfairness of maturity expecting that the immature — old men and young shoulders — or what? There must be a reason.

Now, can it be that these older men with little education save the good old school of experience, are finding that modern education as we interpret it, isn't the awe-inspiring thing they had supposed it to be? Have they discovered its weak points? Do they think it a sham? Because the criticism heard was directed at graduates of high schools and colleges.

One man has employed young people for years. "I can't find a young fellow any more who can do a job right," he said. "They go for an adding machine every time rather than run up a row of figures. I can't find one who can write either. Young men used to be good writers — and he would be heard."

"They go for an adding machine every time rather than run up a row of figures. I can't find one who can write either. Young men used to be good writers — and he would be heard."

"I find ignorance of the commonest things," he declared, "and it's getting worse every year!"

Another man took it out on the girls. "What's the matter with your schools?" he demanded. "I tried to waive entire responsibility for all the schools in America, but he would be heard. 'I have a college girl for my secretary. She goes through the motions of being a secretary and does all right in a way, but if I mention a moss-grown line of poetry, or some up-to-date happening, it's all the same, she's completely down and out. It's all Greek to her. She couldn't tell me a single person in public office this minute. She doesn't know anything.' And he too, said 'ignorant.' But what he meant was that she lacked information, I rather imagine.

The third man was more general. He declared that the lack of information of what he termed "the simplest things" was a stark, staring fact. "They don't know the names of trees," he complained, "or the things we grow in our own state. I'd like to know what automobiles teach them."

Did I just happen to run into three old pessimists? I hope so. They were very positive in their arrangements. Are we taking things too much for granted — heaving the burden of general information on schools and colleges which can't possibly begin to take care of everything? If there is a widespread opinion that the average graduate is "ignorant," should not the parents sit up and take notice rather than the schools? For, after all, the biggest end of first hand information is picked up out of, not in, school.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Mrs. Grace Coolidge, other half of the famous writing "We" of Northampton Mass., gives testimony in the American Magazine to the solace that hand sewing, knitting and other needlework has been to her in times of stress.

Mrs. Coolidge states that one of her fond dreams for American women is that there be a renaissance in needlework, for she believes that many a nerve would be quieted, many a temper soothed and many a headache eased a bit if the afflicted one could pick up a little handwork and keep busy.

THE WAR'S LESSON
I think the World War proved the soundness of Mrs. Coolidge's arguments. No one of us can forget the knitting fingers—mothers, sisters, sweethearts—driving themselves to make more sweaters, more socks. It wasn't only the desire to have hand-made gifts to send overseas. Behind it, perhaps subconsciously, was the realization that stark fear for loved ones, lonely hours and the horror of the times could be stood only if one kept busy. There is something fundamentally sound in busy work, though your heart be dead and your brain paralyzed with grief.

SEW IT BE!
There is one woman in America who has made it her life work to interest women in sewing. That it is a lucrative work is beside the point for the moment. Through all the days of cheap one-piece-straight-up-and-downs, through all the days when most women didn't think of making even their aprons, Mary Brooks Picken has kept on perfecting her technique of home dressmaking.

She has written 53 books on the subject, many of them translated into several foreign

Hair that sparkles!

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

languages, even Japanese. She has lectured to thousands of women's clubs, given practical demonstrations in stores all over the country. In addition she has made all her own clothes, and she is tremendously chic looking.

IT'S DRESSMAKER'S DAY
Her faith is rewarded this autumn. The costume with that "dressmaker touch" is the desired one. It is to be a year of hand-made blouses, little frocks with a bit of lace and embroidery here or there, velvet and other fabric hats that softly frame the face.

Couple this trend with the increasing vogue for quaint hand-pieced quilts and it looks as if there were signs that America is about to pick up its needle again.

ABOUT CROSSED LEGS
Moralists who have objected to short-skirted women crossing their legs now have scientific backing for their arguments.

Dr. Henry W. Woltman, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., records in the Medical Journal that there is a health menace in the habit of sitting with one leg crossed over the other. Palsy is the direct result of it, in some instances.

Dr. Woltman asserts that palsy is caused by the pressure on the peroneal nerve, situated in the bend of the knee and results in a temporary paralysis, hindering the leg movement. Generally, the

First Game Is Likely To Decide World Series

Mackmen Have Stronger Defense Figures Walsh; Cochrane's Ability Big Asset.

Editor's Note:— This is the first of two articles by Davis J. Walsh dealing with the forthcoming world series in relation to the major departments of the game: attack and defense. Today, defense.

New York, Sept. 20—Starting out to talk about defense today, the writer can't seem to get away from the fact that there isn't any if the other guy lays you like an ax-minister with the first punch. And it strikes me, as the fellow complained when he had examined the revolving door with the end of the nose, that no other world series known to baseball has had more authority riding with one game than figures to be the case when the Cubs and Athletics first meet on October 8 in Chicago. That particular ball contest should strip the rest of the program of all illusion and leave it to the eyes of the world. I should be the great convincer. This, by the way, has been the case in about twenty of the 25 series played to date.

If the Athletics lose it, their chances will be less than poor the rest of the way, with the second and final two games scheduled for Chicago and the Cubs heartened by their initial victory. If the Cubs blow it, the incident will be practically fatal. What with the third, fourth and fifth games coming up in Philadelphia where the Athletics are figured to be virtually unbeatable. It is the rather complex character of this contest that makes all of this not only possible but probable.

A's Defense Better

Therefore, what price comparisons when one game may decide everything? The best they can do is indicate which club might be likely to get the break at the outset but, in order to really know this, one would have to know definitely what men are to be pitched and what they will do after they get out there. In other words, you can't level a comparison on the breaks of baseball any more than you can compare two street cleaners. You may have your favorite street cleaner but, personally, I am almost certain that one street cleaner is just as good as another.

Anyhow, it is my idea that the fact that one third baseman happens to be better than another is without significance. They are not playing this series between a couple of third basemen but purely on the basis of team against team, employing only the major departments of the game: attack and defense. Any comparison, therefore, that doesn't make itself apply to either or both of these divisions and in relation to the teams themselves fails to be of any great value.

Briefly, then, I consider the Philadelphia Athletics a sounder defensive team than the Chicago Cubs. Fittingly not only is the better part of defense; it practically is all defense itself in a short series. There may be some argument as to whether or not the Chicago Cubs are a stronger team than Bush, Blake, Malone, Root, Carlson and Nehf. This is personal opinion stuff and gets you nowhere.

Catching Important

It also fails to take into account the thing that often makes a pitcher good or bad. I am referring to the matter of catching and here the Athletics are away out in front. Cochrane is the greatest man in the game and some say he is the greatest of the age if not all ages. Anyhow, he not only gives the Athletics a big break at the plate but figures to hold up his staff much better than Gonzalez or Taylor, the latter having been saved from the minor leagues because the Cubs were short of catchers.

Hartnett, in condition, would be a much different matter. But I am assuming that Hartnett won't figure or, if he does, it will be to no great extent. He hasn't caught a game all season and can hardly be right now.

I should say that, regardless of how they look individually—left handers against right hand hitting and what not—that Cochrane makes the Athletics staff look the part of a better combination. And, at that, the Cubs have been beaten by Hubbell, Mitchell, Petty, Sherdel and other good left handers. So why get overheated about it? If Rube Waddell was available today, I don't suppose Connie Mack would figure on using him in the bullpen, just because the Cubs are right hand hitters.

Comparing Infielders

Offhand, I like the Cubs' infield defense, perforce, radiates from second base and the Hornsby-Engelish pair has had a great year. They are as steady as Bishop and Boley and can do more things with that ball. Grimm is well out in front of Fox as a defensive first baseman, too. Considering the fact that of the plays, this fact is not without importance. Third basemen are far less prominent but it is worth mentioning that Dykes is a better ball player than McMillan.

There may be a choice between the two outfielders—Cuyler, Wilson and Stephenson, of the Cubs, and Simmons, Haas and Miller, of the Athletics—but I don't see how anybody can make it until they have matched the pair of them on the

HERALD BOWLING LEAGUE MEETING SET FOR TUESDAY

President Wilkie Sounds Bugle Call for Coming Season; Team Representatives Should Attend.

President Ernest Wilkie of the Herald Bowling League has called a meeting for 7:30 next Tuesday night at the School street Rec. This league has been in operation for three years now and has been a big success.

It is planned to make the 1923-24 circuit even better by having the teams better balanced if possible. Representatives of all teams entered last year and of any others contemplating seeking admission, should attend the session.

Already the bowling alleys in town have been open for several weeks and scores of bowlers have resumed their favorite winter pastime. Some fine scores have been made and all of the alleys are in excellent shape making bowling a real pleasure.

same field. They are very close, anyhow.

As for secondary strength, the Athletics seem to have the better of it. They have Dykes, who can shift to any other infield spot; Hale, Cronin and Burns, extra infielders; French and Summa, reserve outfielders; and a better catcher on the bench. Perkins, that the Cubs are likely to have in their line up. The latter have Tolson to replace Grimm but Beck wouldn't go so well if he filled in for anybody but McMillan. Heathcote, the extra outfielder, compares more than favorably with French and Summa, however.

CHAMPIONS OPEN SEASON SUNDAY

Battalino-Routis Fight Magnet For Thousands

Hartford is ready to play host in the grand manner to the biggest boxing occasion in the history of the city—the battle between Battalino and Andre Routis at the Hurley Stadium next Monday night, a bout in which the world's featherweight championship will be at stake.

Promoter Ed Hurley assembled a big organization the moment the contracts for this championship fight were signed and this organization has been feverishly at work for a month to make possible the staging of this event in "big league" style. State Boxing Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue served notice on Hurley at the very outset that Connecticut must handle this championship affair.

The Hurley Stadium, where the boys will come together for the first time in the largest arenas in the East. Built some four years ago for bicycle racing and for general sports events, it has a seating capacity for boxing shows of 25,000. The main arena, big enough to house football games, will accommodate more than 9,000 ringside patrons and on all sides rise tiers of permanent seats which will take care of 16,000 or more. The set-up for the bout has been in position for several days and the seating plan used at the big outdoor bouts at the Yankee Stadium and at the Polo Grounds has been followed closely.

Right at the ringside is, of course, the press section which will be constructed to accommodate 200, but is compact using up comparatively little of the area at the actual "battleground", so dear to the heart of the real fight fan who wants to be right at the theater of war. Newspapersmen from all parts of the East will be on hand, including more than twenty boxing writers from New York and thirty spectators who will be installed over which wires have been installed over which will go the title to the outside world and Andre Routis, the champion, and Battalino of Hartford, the challenger, throw jobs, uppercuts and hooks in their bid for the world's title.

A battery of telephones will supplement this array of special telegraph wires so there will be a flood of description of the big fight issuing from the stadium as the championship struggle goes its way. All the provisions for handling the big crowd have been perfected. One hundred policemen will be on duty at the arena, and a big detail of state police will handle the traffic. Promoter Hurley has assembled an unsharpened force of 200 and these ushers have been rehearsed in the part of the night's program that is their special duty.

Twenty big signs, each of 1,000 watts are being installed over the ring so the boys will be swapping punches in a flood of light. Hurley looks to having this title bout go off in such a manner that he will rank among the promoters of the country whose records of performance entitle them to bid for championship bouts.

TENNIS PROS. TOURNEY

New York, Sept. 20—Forty-two players will compete in the third annual professional tennis tournament that starts on Monday at the West Side Tennis Club under the sanction of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The draw for the tourney that was announced today finds Vincent Richards heading the upper half with Karel Kozmuth occupying the same position in the lower section.

NEARING FIGHT DATE

Orangeburg, N. Y., Sept. 20—Five more days of robust ring work faces Jack Sharkey before his 15-round meeting with Tommy Loughran at the Yankee Stadium next Thursday night. The Boston glob resumes training today after a well-earned day of rest. Sharkey will box four rounds today and probably six tomorrow.

Every year the English post office department receives many more applications for posts as telephone operators than there are vacancies.

Both Mixed and Men's Tournaments to End; Holland Plays Guman Sunday Morning

The approaching week-end will contain some tennis matches well worth watching in Manchester, weather permitting. Tomorrow afternoon comes the finals of the mixed and men's doubles while Sunday morning "Ty" Holland, local champion, meets Ed Guman of Hartford.

All matches will be on the south court back of the High school. The program tomorrow begins at 1 o'clock when Ty Holland and his wife, Mildred Holland, take the court against Aldo Gotti and Miss Catherine Fraher in the mixed doubles finals. The Hollands rule a strong favorite to win despite the fact that they barely avoided elimination in the semi-final round at the hands of Eddie Markley and Miss Ruth Behrend. This match will be the best two out of three.

As soon as this match is over which is expected to be about 2 o'clock, the principals in the men's doubles will take the court. Both de Nivelle and Don Jesanis will pair against Earl Bissell and Curt Dawson. The latter hails from Torrington where he has a private court. He is in the florist business with his father in Willimantic. Dawson has an unusually strong forehand drive. This match will be the best out of five.

The Holland-Guman exhibition affair which starts promptly at 10 o'clock Sunday morning has stirred up a lot of interest among local tennis fans and players. Judging from the street comment, expectations are that a very big gallery will be on hand, possibly larger than attended the finals of the singles tournament. They will play the best out of three sets.

A CAR FOR ALL MARMON-BUILT

Still on the Crest

Roosevelt Five-Passenger Sedan—the world's first straight-eight under $1000

NEWS of the new models is here. Many new values are claimed. The Roosevelt, with a great six months behind it, is still on the crest, without a rival in sight.

It, alone, of all automobiles in the $1000 field, is a straight-eight.

It, alone, offers eight-cylinders smoothness and performance at the regular six-cylinder price.

Powerful adjectives don't make a car perform better, but real advanced eight-cylinder engineering does. Until someone betters the Roosevelt it will remain the newest and most advanced automobile at anywhere near the $1000 price.

A Marmon-built Straight-Eight for Every Purse—Roosevelt, $995; Marmon 68, $1465; Marmon 78, $1965. Prices at factory. Group equipment extra. Convenient income-plan.

Four Bovine Champs In Manchester Herd

There are four cows feeding on the hillside off Porter street every day at which the casual observer would not direct a second glance. Four, among a herd of twenty-one. Yet these four pedigreed Jersey cows are champions in their respective classes and one is the Connecticut State Champion in her class for 1928.

Along about 1903, when milk was just that, and more often of uncertain quality and flavor, Frederick W. Pitkin and Peter F. Calhoun decided they would try and remove the stigma and doubt that was then attached to the milk business by breeding registered stock. They had then been in the milk business about three years and were desirous of putting out a superior brand of milk, which was unknown at the time.

Get Blooded Cattle

Consequently, they got in touch with the American Jersey Cattle Club, a national organization, in reference to tests. Blood tests were taken of the herd and after several corrections had been made through breeding, tests were begun. Then came the scourge of hoof and mouth disease, tuberculosis, and minor troubles. The Pitkin-Calhoun partnership avoided these because of corrective breeding already established. Realizing the seriousness of tuberculosis, they made application for the first tubercular tests in this section. There was but one inspector whose headquarters was in Springfield, consequently it was nearly a year before the inspector showed up for the tests. In nearly ten years of tubercular testing no disease has been detected in this fine herd.

After the blood tests were out of the way, butter fat and quantity tests were begun with gratifying success from the very beginning. Since those early years, their interest has increased until the present time.

Medal Winner
Sylvia Pogis of Waranoke, a three year old last year tested 477 pounds of butter fat, topping her class requirements by 189 lbs. For this record she was given the American Jersey Club silver medal. When it was understood that there was only 210 silver medals given out for a total of 1704 cows on test in the entire United States, Sylvia Pogis's record appears all the more remarkable. All of the record cows in this herd receive no special handling or attention whatsoever.

Then there is another three year old, Rosalie's Beth of Waranoke which produced 398 pounds on her 305 day test. Her required standard was 288 pounds which she exceeded by 108 pounds. Interested Best Copper Maid, aged 4 years, 6 months at the time of testing, yielded 542 pounds, an even 200 pounds over her standard requirements. During this test Copper Maid carried calf 224 days and it is assumed if she had carried calf only the usual allowance of 155 days she might have been a gold medal cow.

State Champion
The Waranoke herd proudly displays last year's Connecticut State Champion in her class, in Prospect Fannie Mac Cree, a four year old. Her test requirement was 385 pounds of butter fat and she made 407. Out of this 305 day test she carried calf 218 days. This was a remarkable record all things considered. Interested Beth of Waranoke, a 4 year, 8 months old cow made 460 pounds on test.

Betsy Ross
Then there is another full blooded Jersey, with a noted Colonial name, Betsy Ross. On her 305 day test for fat she produced 457 pounds, an increase of 115 pounds over her standard for class and age. In connection with this modern method of testing for quantity and quality of milk as revealed in butter fat, the American Jersey Club decrees that when a cow reaches the age of two years or less she must produce 205 1/2 pounds of fat within 305 days. All of these champion cows, were youths in the production of milk when age is considered, are again on test and better records are expected with succeeding years.

The next time you view this remarkable herd of Jerseys placidly feeding on the hills of Manchester look for the champions for unknowingly you may glimpse within that herd of 21 pure blooded Jerseys a future National Champion.

The name "London" is derived from two Celtic words, "lun" meaning lake and "don" meaning fort.

SMILES DON'T WIN.

Paris.—Adrienne Franjois, 18, and exceedingly pretty, took a long taxi ride from Paris to Longwy, a distance of 200 miles, recently. On arriving at her destination she turned smiling very sweetly at the taxi driver. But the hardened gent demanded payment for his services. "Won't the smile do?" asked Adrienne. "No!" said the taxi man. Adrienne spent 20 days in prison.

ARTHUR'S INAUGURATION

On Sept. 26, 1881, Chester Alan Arthur was sworn in as the 21st president of the United States. President Garfield had died the day previously, a victim of an assassin's bullet.

The 21st president was born at Fairfield, Vt., on Oct. 8, 1829, the son of Scotch-Irish parentage. He was graduated from Union College in 1848 and soon became conspicuous as an attorney in New York.

Arthur became famous in the pre-war period by his brilliant work in the Lemmon case, involving the validity, under certain conditions, of the Fugitive Slave Law, and which resulted in a decision that a slave brought into New York while in transit from one slave state to another was, ipso facto, free.

During the war between the states he served as inspector-general and as quartermaster-general of New York.

A Republican, and an active one, he was made collector of the port of New York in 1871 by President Grant. Four years later he was reappointed. Later he was removed by President Hayes.

Arthur, backed by influential Republicans in 1880, was named as vice presidential nominee on the ticket which Garfield headed. Elected, he showed a great interest in senatorial affairs. The fact that he was not a

To Identify Genuine Aspirin

THE increasing use of Bayer Aspirin every year is proof that it has no ill effects. It is the accepted antidote for pain. It always helps; it never harms. Quick relief when you're a headache, or cold; or are suffering from neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatic pains yield, too, if you'll only give these tablets a chance. But you want genuine Aspirin, so look for the Bayer Cross on every tablet. The box always bears the name Bayer and the word genuine printed in red.

POWER SMOOTHNESS and ALERTNESS

never before combined in one all-round motor fuel

DYNAMITE is "extra-powered." But its detonating action is not the kind you'd want in your motor.

Steam has tremendous power. But its action is too slow for the speed of the modern automobile engine.

Either of these two types of power can be simulated in gasoline . . . easily over-developed, in fact. But combining maximum power with the ready ignition you need for easy starting—the quickness you want for rapid acceleration—and the smoothness necessary to prevent ruinous "knocking"—calls for refining skill of the highest degree.

So, when you buy an "extra-powered" motor fuel, consider these questions: Who makes it? Is it the kind of power your motor can use without excessive strain on its working parts? . . . Is it power that is correctly timed?

You probably have neither the inclination nor the technical knowledge to determine this for yourself. Why not leave it to one of the oldest, largest and most experienced refining organizations in the world? . . . Use Atlantic Gasoline and you have a motor fuel combining power, smoothness and alertness perfectly fitted to modern motors and present-day driving conditions.

—in important modes!

The newest of the new are here. . . stunning coats that miss not a single new, authentic detail for autumn. Dressmaker details are important for winter—this means fabrics intricately cut to make flares, godets, slenderizing hiplines accentuated by curving inserts and the Princess silhouette. It means furs manipulated like fabrics and applied to follow the lines of the coat.

Dusky browns that suggest an Autumn woods, soft gray blues that are like a Fall haze, and black, silhouette of every hour. . . these are the dominant colors. Following the new mode, they show flares, inserts, tailored lines and Princess silhouettes. Of fine broadcloth furred with caracul, Manchurian Wolf (dog) or Beaverette.

These coats are quite simple in style, as such coats should be, with the distinguished air that comes from perfect tailoring. Of fine tweed mixtures in warm colors, and ombre cloth in browns and Autumn reds. Tailored with classic simplicity and furred with luxurious collars. Modes for traveling, college and business wear.

ROCKVILLE

Burglary.
The Lutz Hardware store at 32 East Main street was entered during Wednesday night and about $20 in cash was taken from the cash register together with 10 or 12 watches from a show case. Entrance was made through a rear window which was forced. There have been several breaks in the stores along the Boardwalk through entrances in the rear. The police are working on this the latest case.

Lake Water Supply Good.
The water at Snipsic Lake is reported at 8 feet below the top of the dam. This stage indicates a good supply considering the recent drought. In 1925 the water went to 13 feet below the dam top and in 1911 to 15 feet below.

Organist Resigns.
Miss Bernice M. Cichowski, organist at the Palace theater for six years, has resigned to accept a position with McCoy's music store in Hartford.

Band Leader Chosen.
The American band held a meeting Wednesday evening and appointed Harold Obenauf leader for the coming season. Oscar Backstueber, who has been leader for several years, resigned. The band is planning a series of dances.

Birthday Party.
Mrs. Robert Thompson of East street entertained about 20 friends of her twin daughters, Leona and Lucille, who were 12 years old Wednesday. The children received many beautiful presents.

Mothers' Club.
The Mother's club of the Union Congregational church in the South Wednesday evening in parlor. Mrs. George Herzog, newly elected president, presided. With an attendance of more than fifty indications point to a successful year. The program committee, Mrs. George Wainwright, chairman; Mrs. Ethel Leonard and Mrs. Thomas Neil, presented an interesting report. The program will be announced later when final plans for speakers have been made. Mrs. Walter Kellner, Mrs. Henry Trouton and Mrs. Raymond Schrupf will be in charge of the social at the October meeting. Appointed to assist the executive committee in entertaining at the November event are Mrs. Richard Blankenburg, Mrs. Emily Liebe, Mrs. Elizabeth Kuhnly and Mrs. John Zimmerman.

Rev. George S. Brookes was the speaker of the evening Wednesday and had as his subject "Children - I Have Met." Mr. and Mrs. Brookes sang two duets. At 10 o'clock there were refreshments and a social hour. The social committee consisted of Mrs. Ethel Leonard, Mrs. Dora Preusse, Mrs. Herbert Cockayne, Mrs. George S. Brookes and the president.

ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION HAS COFFEE SHORTAGE

A brief radio message bearing an urgent request for five hundred additional pounds of coffee has been received from the Byrd Antarctic Expedition Base on the Ice Barrier Little America.

Within the short space of about one year the members of this expedition have consumed almost the entire original shipment of two and one half tons of Bolar coffee. This quantity of coffee means 5,000 one pound tins, enough to supply a normal family for more than ten years.

It is natural for the men on Little America, where they are enduring the bitterest cold known to man, to have a keen desire for a steaming hot cup of this stimulating beverage and this huge consumption of coffee is a certain sign of their liking the particular brand that is served.

Their request for coffee is being answered immediately by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company. A shipment of five hundred pounds of Bolar coffee, of which the A & P food stores sell more than one million pounds a month, is being sent on the whaling vessel, Nielsen-Alonso, which left Norfolk this week and is sailing direct to the ice barrier on which the expedition is encamped.

This will reach the ice barrier around Christmas as it is impossible for a ship to break through before that time.

TO TRANSPORT DANCERS TO RAINBOW PALACE

Arrangements have been made for jitney transportation to and from the Rainbow leaving the center at Packard's Drug Store Saturday evening at 8 o'clock returning at 12 o'clock. Another car leaving twenty will leave William's each Saturday at 8 o'clock and return at 12. Stanley Redens of Rockville who operates a fleet of trucks and passenger cars will start this service from the center tomorrow evening making as many trips to the Rainbow as the patronage will warrant.

This is a decided progressive movement on the part of the management as there are a number of young people who would like to attend the Saturday night dance at the Rainbow but have had no means of getting to and from Manchester. It is expected at least fifty Manchester people will take advantage of this service to the Rainbow the special program that has been arranged.

LAST DANCE TOMORROW AT SANDY BEACH BAL

The last dance of the season at Sandy Beach ballroom will be held tomorrow evening and the program that has been arranged is attracting a great deal of attention among the dance fans and regular patrons of Sandy Beach. Many of whom made requests for just one more dance at Crystal Lake's most popular resort and to please patrons who have so loyally supported the big attractions brought to the ballroom this summer, the management has completed plans for a grand finale dance and woeper night revue starting at 9 o'clock.

Ray Moretti's Dixie Strollers, a 11 piece band of pep and rhythm will provide the dance program and specialties. Tomorrow night's grand finale at Sandy Beach, will be the 40th and last dance of the season and if comments indicate anything in the way of an unusual attendance, one of the largest Saturday night crowds of the season will be on hand to enjoy the grand old wind up at Sandy Beach ballroom.

81 New Voters.

The Selectmen and the Town Clerk will hold a session to examine qualifications of electors and admit to the elector's oath those of a list of 81 who are qualified on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. standard time. There are 47 women and 34 men on the list.

Birth.
A daughter was born Thursday morning at the Rockville city hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Bahler of Hartford. Mrs. Bahler before her marriage was Miss Ida Zahner.

Frederick C. Neff.
The whole community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Frederick C. Neff, 50, of 66 Orchard street who died Thursday morning at the Hartford hospital. Mr. Neff was an overseer for many years in the finishing department of the James J. Regan Manufacturing company, a former member of the Rockville City Council, and one of the city's leading citizens. He was taken to the hospital Monday and underwent an operation from which it was expected he would recover. Early Thursday morning his condition changed for the worse and his family was summoned to his bedside. He seemed to improve, however, and they returned home. They were notified at 8 o'clock Thursday morning that he had passed away.

Mr. Neff, who was born at Millbury, Mass., had lived in Rockville many years. He was at one time employed at the Rock Mill and for about 20 years was overseer of the finishing department of the James J. Regan Manufacturing company. He served several terms in the Rockville City Council, serving on important committees. He was highly respected. He leaves his wife, Mrs. K. Neff, five sons, Ralph, Stuart, Byron, Donald and Robert, a daughter, Eleanor Neff, a brother, A. C. Neff of Millbury, Mass.; five sisters, Mrs. C. M. McPherson of Worcester, Mrs. Walter Miller of Lawrence, Mrs. Albert Miller of Watertown, Mrs. A. L. Tolman of Thorndike, Mass., and Mrs. Elizabeth Dillworth of Worcester. He was a member of Rising Star Lodge, I. O. O. F., Fayette Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Rockville Lodge of Elks, the Men's Union of Union church and the Union church. He was also a member of one of the National organizations of Woolen Manufacturers and Overseers, attending the conventions and meetings regularly.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his home at 66 Orchard street. Rev. George S. Brookes, will officiate. Burial will be in Grove Hill cemetery. It will be a Masonic funeral.

Notes.
A large delegation from this city are planning on attending The Rainbow at Bolton tomorrow evening where The Commanders, of which Henry Murphy and Jack Keeney of this city are members, are presenting a special program of dance numbers. The Commanders' manager, Bill Smith, was formerly a member of Paul Whiteman's orchestra.

Miss Mildred Allen has resigned her position in the office of the U. S. Envelope Co. and accepted a similar position in a Hartford brokerage office where she will commence her new duties Oct. 1.

Office associates of Gertrude Otto, who is to be married Oct. 1, tendered her a shower at the home of Mrs. Hazel R. Benton last evening. Present were Mrs. Jas. Sheehan, Habel R. Benton, Mildred McNeill, Ruth Keeney, Carrie Staiger, Mildred Alley and Gertrude Otto.

My Favorite Bible Passage

Mrs. Willibrandt

For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.—II Timothy 1:7.

Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me.—Psalm 51:10.

QUOTATIONS

"There is no increase in the infant mortality rate among the young mothers of today, although nearly all smoke cigarettes."
—Dr. C. M. Spangler.

"In my childhood, girls never drank. Now liquor is always at their elbows."
—Ethel Barrymore, actress.

"Pessimism as applied to football has been worked to death. It is time to swing back the other way."
—Knut Rockne.

"Leisure would hurt much less if we weren't so terribly afraid of being alone. Away from a crowd we itch."
—Bruce Barton. (Cosmopolitan).

"A good chauffeur can't stand back-seat driving. That is the reason why so many of our young people show a marked and hard-boiled distaste for the preachings of the orators and idealists."
—Robert E. Rogers, professor.

"The important thing, as I see it, is for wives to have work of some sort, in their homes or outside, so that they really will be working partners in marriage."
—Florence Trumbull.

BUT NOT FORGOTTEN.

"Oh, Gerald, I've been stung by a wasp!"
"Quick, put some ammonia on it."
"I can't, it's gone."—Passing Show.

SPENT $1500 TRYING TO GET WELL

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

This startling letter from an ex-service man will interest everyone who suffers from constipation:
"I was discharged after the World War with heart trouble and bad stomach. I had saved about $1500. Since then I've spent that sum and a lot more on doctoring and operations and medicines. I always was bothered with constipation.
"I told my wife to get some kind of light breakfast food and I would try it. She came home with a small package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I ate it for breakfast, lunch and dinner, about a common tea-saucer full with milk at each meal. I have been doing this for about a month. I have stopped taking dope (medicines). I work 9 to 12 hours. I have a good appetite. And now I am gaining flesh and believe I am getting well."
GEORGE C. O'CONNOR, Barker, N. Y.

Cleanse your system of constipation's poisons. Thousands have regained their old-time vigor and vim, stopped constipation forever, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Relief is guaranteed. ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. 100% effective—doctors recommend it. Ready-to-serve with milk or cream. Use in cooking. See the recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants—dining cars.

building I saw a man on the third floor waving a piece of white cloth.

He shouted he couldn't get down and was pleading for someone to come up and get him.

"On the side and at the rear of the building people were jumping into nets. One man jumped, missed the net and struck his head on the pavement. One woman jumped out of the window. Most of her clothes had been torn off. I saw at least ten people leap from windows. All this time those on the inside were screaming for help. As people hit the nets firemen lifted them out and put them on stretchers. I took three unconscious women in my cab to the hospital."

SENSE and NONSENSE

FALL. I just can't tell you—dang it all—How keen I feel about the Fall. The words that come don't seem to fit;

They don't describe these days a bit. My soul within me yearns to shout; But what's the use?—it won't come out.

If you had been with me today, Out where the lacy shadows play, And seen the pleasure in my eye, When I beheld, against the sky, A shawl, so rich no queen might own.

Across fair woodlands thrown, Why then you'd know, now, dang it all, Just how I feel about the Fall.

How Far?

Lady: "How far is it to the Hill-top bungalows?"

Boy: "About three miles."

Lady: "But their letter says it's only a two-minute walk from the station."

Boy: "Well, believe me or believe that letter, only I ain't tryin' to sell them bungalows."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

Paris says skirts will be longer—quite a come-down for most girls.

ish and are contemplating equipping oneself with a set of false whiskers for such exigencies.

There ain't no justice. The city charges operators of a callopo $10 a day and lets saxophone students off for nothing.

"I hope they don't give my little boy any naughty nicknames in school."

"Yes, Ma, they call me corns."

"How dreadful! And why do they call you that?"

"Cause I am always at the foot of the class."

Faithfulness to a few things renders us master of many things.

Husband (arriving home late)—"Can't you guess where I've been?"

Wife—"I can, but tell your story."

Fashion Note for Grocers' Wives: The banana was the original slip on.

Teacher: How old is a person born in 1890?

Willie: Man or woman?

"Speaking of 'dum'bells,' said a Manchester man, 'it has been my experience that they are perhaps 90 per cent. dumb and ten per cent. belle.'"

NIGHT OF NAGGING. "Yesterday," said Jabson, "I refused a poor woman a request for a small sum of money, and in consequence of my act I passed a sleepless night. The tones of her voice kept ringing in my ears the whole time."

"Your softness of heart does you credit," said Mabson. "Who was the woman?"

"My wife."—Tit-Bits.

AS YOU WERE. He: Don't go. You are leaving me entirely without reason. She: I always leave things as I find them.—Tit-Bits.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE By Gene Ahern

Learn This By Heart. He starts a fire who fools with sparks, Don't be a gabby pup; Be careful how you drop remarks, For they may be picked up.

The Boarding House. Sweet Young Thing—"That new man called the house four times before I gave him a date."

Ray—"Who did he ask for the first three times?"

The first class man is not interested in his past record, in fact, he's a little ashamed of it.

Still they run loose. The sum of $7,900 has been paid in New York for a rare $5 coin, made in California in 1849.

"The difference between a knocker and a price-cutter," said an old business man, "is that one is descended from a flea and the other from a skunk."

When somebody comes in and demands to know 'who's the boss around here?' we feel sort of young.

WHEN A MAN IS TOO SHY TO GET MARRIED, HE SHOULD STEP OUT AND EARN MORE.

THE TINYMINTS

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The eagle that let Clowny drop soared right away. He didn't stop to see the Tiny landed safe. What did the eagle care? The bird had saved him from a mess and he was satisfied, we guess. And so it was long until he disappeared in air. Down, down, came Clowny with such speed. "Some good luck I'll need. If I land plump upon the ground, 'twill ruin me, I fear. The Times, though, have spread a net 'till land right in the thing, I'll bet. They're always glad to help me and it's lucky they are here."

COLD NIGHTS HASTEN COOLING OF ASPHALT

Aid Contractors in Making Haste on Laying of Main Street Paving.

In an effort to shorten up the one-way traffic stretch as much as possible work was begun on the east side of Main street below Middle Turpike today while work on the west side was abandoned until both sides are evened up.

Harold Killian, superintendent of the job, has been called to Hartford to supervise the Main street construction there. He was replaced by Louis Pratt.

Binder has been put down on the west side of Main street as far as Washington street, and the asphalt was laid to that point this morning. Concrete has been poured between the tracks all the way to the end of the road and by the time the asphalt laying is even on both sides will be hardened enough to continue work.

The extraordinarily cold weather of the last two days has cooled the asphalt much more quickly than usual and the work is going forward speedily.

OPEN FORUM

TO THE DRIVER

The following verse has been submitted for publication by a local girl:

Did you ever stop to think,
How time just passes on,
And the little you have accomplished,
For the World you're living on,
Do you think of your next door neighbor,
Do you think of the folks at home?
Do you think of your friends around you,
Or do you think you are all alone?
Now when you go out riding,
Did you ever give it a thought,
That your neighbor may be riding,
In that new car he bought?
When you speed along the highway,
Do you think it's built just for you?
Are you going to share it with your neighbor,
Leaving plenty of room for two?
Do you think of your friends who are walking,
Do you want to run them down,
Do you give them a chance at a crossing,
Do you slow up for a town?
Now if you will please take warning,
Pity the folks who walk,
Stop when you see a red light,
Don't try to drive and talk,
Just be a little considerate,
You know you are not alone,
Don't try to beat your neighbor,
He too is trying to get home.
