

FEAR SCANDAL IF BROOKHART TELLS STORY

Senator from Iowa Says He Is Willing to Go Before Grand Jury and Tell of "Wet" Banquet.

Washington, Sept. 27.—A scandal of the first magnitude is feared by political Washington today if Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa, tells a Grand Jury about a "wet" dinner given Senators by a Wall Street broker named Fahy.

District Attorney Leo Rover, among the district officials named by Senator Hoover in his reply to Senator Howard (R) of Nebraska, as being held responsible for enforcement conditions here, announced he would be "very glad" to have Brookhart tell what he knows about "flasks under the table."

The whole rumormongering whether the capital is very wet or not was started by Howell and Brookhart took up the cudgels after Brookhart Hoover rebuked Howell.

Howell started the Senate a few days ago when he asked Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, if when he attended the dinner held a year or so ago, he saw flasks under the tables. Smoot attended and denied he had ever seen a bootlegger or booze there.

Will Tell All.

Brookhart has expressed his willingness to go before the Grand Jury. Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia, who appears to have assumed the leadership of the dry forces, entered the arena today. In a statement Cannon demanded that Congress enact legislation to make the capital a model in prohibition enforcement for the country, as President Hoover declared in his reply to Howell.

Picketed on Other Side.

On the other hand, the Rev. Deets Pickett, editorial director for the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, which Cannon heads, issued a statement from Eagle Grove, Ia., where he is visiting, according to word reaching here.

The "Fahy dinner" was given to the newly-elected and old members of the Senate at the Cannon hotel and Brookhart in his Senate speech took District Attorney Rover to task because nothing had been done about the flow of booze there. He also attacked Rover and the prohibition authorities for not making the Carlton Club, in the Carlton hotel, frequented, he said, by diplomats and officials, where liquor was served.

Brookhart, although willing to go before the Grand Jury, called upon not to think he was called upon to initiate action by making a formal complaint as suggested by Rover. If he had any complaint to make, he said, it would be directed at Rover for failure to do his duty.

Student Weekending Condemned By Angell

New Haven, Sept. 27.—"The week-end exodus which takes men away from New Haven for a couple of days, or more, time after time throughout the year" is an "element in the break-down of the class New Haven once or twice on Sunday," which President James R. Angell "is disposed to think even more serious than the elective system and the great size of our classes." The president of Yale so declared before the entire student body here when he addressed the men for the first time this year.

"If this practice is not curbed the university may be driven to take some action in the matter," President Angell warned, declaring that "there has more than once been urged the wisdom of establishing the habit of requiring registration in New Haven once or twice on Sunday." But "the objections to this plan suggest themselves readily" he said as he issued the warning.

The "natural and normal cure" for the situation, President Angell said, "is building up a responsible student opinion which will create a binding tradition that the Yale man is at Yale not merely for the purpose of using it as a commuting station between New York and Boston, and say nothing of Northampton and Fougheepsie."

MacDONALDS TO SAIL FOR U. S. TOMORROW

British Premier and His Daughter Will Go Direct to Washington Upon Ar- rival in New York City.

London, Sept. 27.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh came to Europe as the friendly ambassador of the air.

Miss Isabel MacDonald is going to America as the charming ambassador of the drawing room.

Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter, Miss Isabel, will sail for New York tomorrow on the liner Berengaria upon a visit which has focused the interest of the whole world.

From New York they will go to Washington to be guests of President Hoover and the British ambassador, Sir Esmé Howard.

Some one has suggested the question: "Will Miss Isabel leave her heart behind her in America?"

There is no no love affair at home, so far as known, and has devoted herself to the care of her father and to child welfare work.

Miss Isabel is an old-fashioned girl. She said in an interview that she and her father do not dance. With a smile she admitted she was "an awful goody goody." But all the same her absence of flapper attributes have won her the esteem and love of numerous people, who regard her as the model daughter.

Isabel is 26 years old. She is thoroughly domesticated. She is a homemaker by choice. For about 13 years she has "mothered" her father—a task of affection that devolved upon her with her mother's death. In that time Isabel has kept books for her father and sisters. Her father was careless of money. He never tried to earn a great salary, but she was to watch the pennies and she naturally became thrifty.

In America the premier will have so many things to think about that she will not have time for "mothering." She will see to it that he does not miss his meals, that his hair is cut regularly, that his clothing is kept in perfect order and that he gets sufficient sleep.

DEFENSE CLAIMS PEACOX "FRAMED"

Lawyer Theatrical in His Plea to Jury; Absolves Dist. Atty. of Blame.

Court House, White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The case against Earle Peacock was "framed."

Defense Attorney Sidney A. Syme shouted this charge into the faces of the jurors today as he made an impassioned plea to save the young radio technician and dance hall "sheik" from the electric chair for strangling his 20-year-old bride, Dorothy, on their first wedding anniversary, April 21, last.

The district attorney, Frank H. Coyne, was not a party to the alleged "frame up," Syme quickly added, however.

Syme theatrical in his plea during his oration. Once in contending Peacock did not premeditate the crime, he turned to Mrs. Catherine Peacock, the defendant's black-garbed mother, sitting at her son's side.

"Not any more than I am premeditating the murder of this poor unfortunate mother."

Mrs. Peacock wept. Her heavy-set frame shook convulsively. She removed her spectacles and wiped her eyes.

Peacock sat with bowed head. His face was deathly pale and he seemed greatly dejected.

Syme charged that Miss Frances Newman was used as a tool by certain officials, whom he did not name, to "frame" a case against Peacock strong enough to put him in the electric chair. Miss Newman is the Broadway dance-hall hostess whom Peacock associated with when he and his wife were separated.

Used Miss Newman.

"They twisted Frances Newman around their fingers," shouted Syme. "They got her to testify to things that Peacock never said. On the stand she claimed this boy (Peacock) had told her he would 'get Dorothy' that he had said, 'I'll get her some day.' Now, what he really said was, 'she'll get her some day.'"

"Gentlemen of the jury, there is a whole lot of difference between these two statements."

Syme admitted Peacock had threatened to "shoot the place up," meaning Dorothy's apartment in New York City.

"Wouldn't any red-blooded man want to shoot up a place where his

TARIFF FIGHT HAS SHIFTED TO PRESIDENT

Expect Hoover to Make Prompt Reply to Chal- lenge of Senator Borah Now Leading Insurgents.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The point of interest in the tariff fight shifted to the White House today as the Senate, still debating the flexible provision, awaited a statement from President Hoover as to whether the new tariff bill carries out his personal campaign pledges of last fall.

The Senate expected the President to make a prompt reply to the challenge of Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, now leading the insurgent revolt against Hoover's tariff leadership. Borah demanded that the President, having broken his silence to endorse the flexible feature, now state his position on the new industrial and agricultural rates and his attitude toward the measure as a whole.

Call It Blunder.

It was the unanimous verdict on Capitol Hill, among Republicans as well as Democrats, that the President had blundered politically by entering the tariff war. It was felt he would have profited more by remaining silent until the bill reached the White House for his approval—a course publicly advocated by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican floor leader.

Administration leaders also criticized the President who declined to enter debate with Borah or the Senate itself on the subject of rates.

Hoover's Reply.

It was felt the President, in replying to Borah, would announce that he had intervened in the flexible tariff battle, because that provision directly affected the presidential powers—an authority in which the President is directly and personally interested. It was felt too he would dismiss the subject of rates by declaring it a "legislative" function in which the President has no interest until the bill reaches him as a prospective law. This would give him an "out" from a political situation, which has greatly embarrassed his friends on Capitol Hill.

The actual effect of the President's action on the flexible tariff battle was highly disastrous. A poll among administration leaders indicated the President's intervention had won no new converts and had lost at least two votes for the provision. It was said that two Independent Republican Senators, who sometimes vote with the administration and sometimes against it, had decided to oppose the flexible provision since the President had cleared it.

Re-actment. Both based their decision on a belief that the President was seeking to grasp more power from Congress.

Small Margin.

With a possibility that the provision may be retained or rejected

BANK "ROBIN HOOD" ARRANGED

WAGGONER IN COURT PLEADS "NOT GUILTY"

Arraigned Today in New York on Bank Swindling Charge—Oct. 4 Set as Date for Trial.

New York, Sept. 27.—Charles Delos Waggoner, Telluride, Colorado, pleaded not guilty today to six counts of using the mails to defraud when arraigned before Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy. Trial of the cases in which Waggoner is accused of mulcting six New York banks out of $500,000 was set for October 4.

Waggoner's plea was entered on advice of his counsel, Ellwood M. Rabenold. He appeared an interested spectator during the proceedings, entering the court room hands in pockets and nonchalantly entered the plea. He is held in $100,000 bail and was put in custody of the U. S. marshal.

After the plea was entered, U. S. Attorney Charles Tuttle said he would attempt to get witnesses here from Colorado to testify against Waggoner.

Case Prepared.

Rabenold said his case was prepared except for a more careful perusal of the letters sent by Waggoner to each of the six New York banks.

Federal Judge Kennedy, before whom Waggoner made his plea, is from the Tenth District which includes Wyoming and Colorado. He and Waggoner are old friends, having met many times before.

No members of Waggoner's family were in court, although his wife and niece are in New York, and having been brought here by the government as witnesses. However, C. E. Downtown, cashier of the Bank of Telluride and Harry Miller, the "town barber," were among the large crowd in the courtroom.

EX-FASCIST LEADER GETS THIRTY YEARS

Cesare Rossi Found Guilty of Treason; Wrote Against Italian Government.

Rome, Sept. 27.—Cesare Rossi, former right hand man of Premier Benito Mussolini, and Fascist leader, was found guilty of treason and conspiracy by a special tribunal today and sentenced to thirty years imprisonment.

The president of the court, Gen. Cristini, ordered the police report read containing quotations from Rossi's writings against Mussolini and the Fascist while he was living outside of Italy.

The state alleged these writings proved that Rossi tried to foment an anti-Fascist counter revolt and that he was in conspiracy with Soviet emissaries and anarchists in foreign countries, working against Mussolini.

His Defense.

Rossi admitted writing articles and letters as well as frequenting places where leaders of the anti-Fascist and pro-Soviet groups gathered, but he claimed his activities abroad were investigated, solely by personal poverty. He said he had to get money to live.

"I always tried to sell to the anti-Fascist groups abroad," Rossi said.

State Prosecutor Isgrò said that despite the special Defense of the Realm Act which prescribes capital punishment for such offenses, he requested only a prison term.

The prosecutor pointed out the interest in this trial not only in Italy but throughout the world. He spoke of possible outside criticism of the court's verdict were deemed too harsh.

Denounced By Party.

Five years ago Rossi was denounced by the Fascist party as a traitor, a kidnapper and enemy of Fascism.

He was alleged to have been implicated in the kidnapping and murder of Deputy Giacomo Matteotti in 1924.

Rossi was arrested, but was subsequently released. After a series of legal battles he again gained his freedom and fled to Switzerland.

About 15 months ago Rossi, who was still living in Switzerland, went automobile riding with a young woman. He crossed the frontier at Campione and was immediately seized by an Italian Fascist guard. The young woman, Mrs. Margaret Durand, was detained for a brief time, then released.

GEORGIA DELUGED BY HEAVY RAINS

Many Bridges Swept Away as Rivers Rise—Flood Warnings Are Issued.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 27.—Consternation spread through the lowlands of flood-wise Georgia today as streams left their banks and highways after highway fell before the onslaught of overflows.

Caught on the fringe of the Caribbean hurricane, Georgia has been deluged by incessant rains for five days. With the situation already assuming cataclysmal proportions, no let-up in rain was seen for the next 24 hours.

NAVAL EXPERTS WERE FRIENDLY WITH SHEARER

Reporter Who Was at Geneva Conference Names Men Who Were on Good Terms With Observer.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Naval officers who were members of the American delegation to the ill-starred Geneva disarmament conference were called to answer charges that they connived with William B. Shearer, the agent of American shipbuilding firms, to "wreck the conference," when the Senate naval committee resumed its investigation of Shearer's activities next week.

Several officers were named by Drew Pearson, a newspaper reporter, as being on intimate terms with Shearer at Geneva. They included Rear Admiral Joseph P. Reeves, now attached to the Navy General Board; Rear Admiral Frank Schofield, now commanding a battleship division of the fleet; and Commander Harold C. Train, also attached to the General Board, and who has been one of the experts who assisted in arriving at the recently negotiated British-American cruiser agreement.

No Comment.

Pending their appearance before the committee the officers named declined to comment today on Pearson's testimony.

"I have nothing to say at this time," said Admiral Reeves today, before the committee. After establishing that he attended the Geneva conference as a reporter, he testified that Shearer "lavishly entertained" at Geneva, that he was "on intimate terms" with the members of the American delegation, and that he (Pearson) once heard Admiral Reeves state that he wished the conference would fail.

Friendly With Reeves.

Admiral Reeves and Shearer were particularly intimate, according to Pearson's testimony.

"They were together night after night," he said.

As for the other naval officers, Pearson said he believed they were "sympathetic" with Shearer and his activities at Geneva, with the possible exception of Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, the chief of the American naval delegation. Pearson said the slogan of the American naval officers apparently was "respect the American flag at Geneva."

Senator Robinson (D) of Ark., brought out that many people believe the United States got the worst of the Washington conference, and asked Pearson if the attitude of the naval officers might not have been interpreted as standing out for naval parity with Great Britain. Pearson said it was apparent "after a week or so at Geneva that parity would not be achieved."

Shearer himself will be among the witnesses called next week.

HURRICANE 100 MILES SOUTH OF MIAMI—MAY CAUSE MODERATE GALE WHEN IT STRIKES COAST, PROBABLY DONE BY IT IN HAVANA.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27.—All fear that Miami would be swept by a hurricane was dispelled today when Richard W. Gray, local meteorologist, issued the following statement at 10 a. m.:

"The storm this morning at 8 o'clock was apparently located about hundred miles south of Miami and 175 miles east of Key West. It may cause winds of moderate gale force (from 39 to 46 miles per hour) at Miami today or tonight, but there is no danger of hurricane winds. There is no need for any further alarm."

STORM SUBSIDING

Washington, Sept. 27.—The tropical disturbance which weather observers believed would sweep across the Florida coast was centered this morning a short distance south of southwest of Andros Island of the Bahamas, the Weather Bureau reported today.

Position of the storm was approximated on reports received from Cuba and South Florida observers. The storm has traveled 150 miles since Wednesday and forecasters believe it has decreased in intensity but will create hurricane winds near its center. Its course is not determined.

MAY MISS FLORIDA

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27.—After hours of anxiety that the tropical hurricane sweeping the West Indies would crash with devastating force on the Florida coast, tension was relieved throughout the southeastern part of the state today with news that the storm had veered and now might miss Florida altogether.

The hurricane, which recurred to the southeast, moving slowly, and is apparently headed back to the Bahamas whence it came. There is still a grave possibility that the tail end of the re-curling storm may hit Miami and residents are advised to have been warned to prepare for winds of gale force within the next 24 hours, but the general feeling is that the worst danger is now past.

Ship Is Path

Reports received by the Tropical radio station here from the Italian Freighter Laconia, which is in the hurricane area, strengthened the belief of weather officials that the storm would miss Miami.

The vessel, in a position 24.43 North Latitude and 80.34 West Longitude, a point approximately 100 miles south southwest of Miami, wirelessly that the barometer reading was 29.50, the lowest yet reported, indicating the ship was near the storm's center.

The position given was at the northern end of the Florida Straits A. W. Brooks, assistant to Richard W. Gray, government meteorologist said the ship's report indicated the storm is of small diameter and moving southwestward.

Captain's Message

After advising that his ship was encountering no difficulty, the captain of the Laconia wirelessly "Wind from south suddenly shifting to northeast and is increasing. Sky mostly overcast. Barometer 29.50 is rising slowly. Temperature 80.5 Fahr., passing showers with moderate visibility." Captain's message said that this shift in the wind meant nothing to Miami in view of the general characteristics of the storm.

"With the exception of heavy seas there was no indication here early today of the storm raging out in the ocean, a northwest wind of less than ten miles an hour was blowing."

WHITE SLAVE RING FOUND IN BOSTON

Murder of New York Furrier Discloses That He Was Leader of Vice Ring.

Boston, Sept. 27.—Hunt for the slayers of Samuel Rainstein, New York furrier and alleged "white slave racketeer," was featured today by the arrival from Washington of Department of Justice agents with orders to smash "vice rings" which, officials said, had used Boston as one of their bases of operation.

Girls from the coal and steel regions of Pennsylvania have been brought here as well as to New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia and other places on an organized "circuit," according to revelations made to Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle and turned over to Assistant U. S. Attorney Hubert Thompson.

Start in Philadelphia.

The first gang to be broke up will be the "Philadelphia mob" according to authorities. Six federal warrants have been issued. The "clean-up campaign" will be carried to other eastern cities it was understood at Federal building.

New that the Federal authorities had taken a hand here caused a hurried exodus of men and women engaged in the "white slave" traffic.

PUBLIC CARRYING TOO MUCH STOCK

Increase of 192 Millions in Brokers' Loans Shows This; Banks Not Involved.

New York, Sept. 27.—An increase of $192,000,000 in brokers' loans, in a week of falling prices and unsettlement in the security markets, is evidence a plenty, in the Wall Street view, that the American public is "carrying" more stocks today than at any time since the turn of the year.

Wholesale juggling of brokers' loans, from the speculative to the investment security market, has frequently been charged against Wall Street in general and a dozen or more of the big brokerage houses in particular, making it a difficult matter to forecast with any degree of accuracy, just what the forthcoming weekly loan statement would show. On general principles, a falling market with wide public liquidation generally produces a drop in brokers' loans, whereas a soaring market, with the public in step to its neck, is reflected in an increase in that item.

Banks Not Involved.

Analysis of this week's brokers' loan statement shows on the face of it the banks have had no part in the $192,000,000 increase, as will be clearly seen from the following tabulation:

Bank loans for own account for Sept. 25, $1,024,000,000; Sept. 18, $1,046,000,000
Bank loans for out of town for Sept. 25, $1,876,000,000; Sept. 18, $1,897,000,000
Loans for "others" for Sept. 25, $3,860,000,000; Sept. 18, $3,636,000,000
Totals for Sept. 25, $6,760,000,000; Sept. 18, $6,579,000,000

A glance at these figures shows clearly just what has happened this week. The banks have drawn in from the call loan market 22 million dollars for themselves and 21

HI-JACKERS KILL TWO

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 27.—Five men who are alleged to have attempted to "hi-jack" a truckload of cider in the belief that it was whiskey were held here today charged with the murder of Anthony Taffrow and Michael Radice, both of Trenton.

Thomas Taffrow, a brother of one of the murdered men, said the truck, which he was driving, was ambushed by the five men in a lonely section of the city. When the men on the truck refused to turn over the cider, he said, the hi-jackers opened fire.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

London, Sept. 27.—Departure of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald for America tonight will be anything but an unostentatious proceeding.

In spite of the premier's expressed desire for privacy and lack of show when he leaves Downing street this evening for Southampton, where he will board the ferry for a tour of the United States, he is expected to bring a veritable triumphal procession from his residence to the station, where a gigantic farewell demonstration is planned.

Thousands are expected to mass in the narrow street in front of the Premier's residence when he and his small party, including his daughter Isabel, proceed to Waterloo station.

Many from Scotland.

Scores of Premier MacDonald's countrymen have come down from Scotland for the occasion, and the procession promises to be one of the greatest popular demonstrations staged here in years.

United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes will accompany Premier MacDonald as far as the station, where members of the Cabinet and leaders of the Labor Party will be on hand for the farewell. The boat train for Southampton departs at 8:30 this evening, and the Berengaria is scheduled to sail at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

The party is scheduled to arrive in New York on October 4.

SHOULD BE A PATRIOT

Just as the boys should aim to marry the boss' daughter, the girls should strive to marry the snobs—meaning, of course, those young men who are trying to better themselves and lead better lives. Let the girls be snobs too and marry snobs. You can't carry too far the reaching out for the higher things of life.

Concluding his talk to the girls of the B. U. College of Practical Arts and Letters, Stetson said:

"Reach up and not down. Be a patriot. That does not mean you should be a pig. It means keeping your self-respect and dignity."

WAGGONER IN COURT PLEADS "NOT GUILTY"

New York, Sept. 27.—Charles Delos Waggoner, Telluride, Colorado, pleaded not guilty today to six counts of using the mails to defraud when arraigned before Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy. Trial of the cases in which Waggoner is accused of mulcting six New York banks out of $500,000 was set for October 4.

Waggoner's plea was entered on advice of his counsel, Ellwood M. Rabenold. He appeared an interested spectator during the proceedings, entering the court room hands in pockets and nonchalantly entered the plea. He is held in $100,000 bail and was put in custody of the U. S. marshal.

After the plea was entered, U. S. Attorney Charles Tuttle said he would attempt to get witnesses here from Colorado to testify against Waggoner.

NOLLE REALE CASE IN SUPERIOR COURT

Manchester Case Involving Constable and Oak Street Cobbler Comes to an End

Salvatore Reale, former Oak street cobbler, who lost a decision to Constable James Duffy in the local police court in an argument over payment of back taxes, today squared accounts by winning his appeal to the Superior Court. Charged with resisting an officer, Reale's case was nolle.

GEORGIA DELUGED BY HEAVY RAINS

have been forced to leave their homes for higher ground. Bridges Swept Out. Numerous highways and bridges have fallen before the rampant cascades in South Georgia. The washing away of a railroad bed resulted in the wreck of a Central of Georgia passenger train, killing the engineer.

FAILS TO CARRY OUT COURT ORDER, CALLED

George Trueman of Center street who was divorced by his wife last June and at the same time ordered to pay her $7.50 a week has, according to complaints made to the superior court, failed to make such payments. He was ordered to appear before the superior court and show cause why he was not in compliance of court and why he should not go to jail for failure to carry out the order.

DEFENSE PLEA

Court House, White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—In an impassioned plea to the jury today at the trial of Earle F. Peacock for the murder of his bride, Dorothy Demas, Attorney Sidney A. Syme declared that "this young defendant has had the hardest and most terrible breaks in life ever crowded upon the shoulders of a human being."

YANKEE DIVISION VETERANS WILL VISIT BELLEAU

Belleau, France.—Five hundred veterans of the famed Yankee Division of New England, immortalized by its heroic offensive in the second battle of the Marne, will come to this town on October 1 for the dedication of the thirteenth century church whose reconstruction was financed by the division in memory of the men who fell in the Belleau Woods sector.

ROCKVILLE SEWAGE PLANT COMPLETED

New Disposal Beds Used for First Time This Afternoon; Local Firm Built It.

Rockville's reconstructed sewage plant was placed into active use again this afternoon.

The old plant, built more than 25 years ago was found inadequate to handle the amount of sewage and was unable to keep the Hockanum river as clean as it should be.

The construction has been in charge of the Manchester Construction Company of this town and the work has been given rigid tests and inspection by Taylor and Knight, consulting engineers of Newark.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Sept. 27.—Industrial and utility stocks started the day at lower prices as the result of an unexpected $192,000,000 increase in brokers' loans, but Wall street convinced itself that this increase in borrowings has less to do with margin stock speculation than with the financing of bond flotations and investment trust projects.

25-point jump in the near-corned Standard Gas & Electric brought that stock hurtling up to 244, against yesterday's low price at 197 and the year's low at 80 1/2.

by the margin of one or two votes, administration leaders plainly were worried over the outcome. If the provision should be drafted by so small a margin, they undoubtedly will place the blame on the President.

While Borah definitely "broke" with the President over the tariff, the flexible provision likewise caused a division in the Democratic ranks.

BUSINESS BREAKS RECORD FOR YEAR

Figures Show New High Levels in Commerce and Industry—The Figures.

Washington, Sept. 27.—American business started down the home stretch of the year today when a record of achievement rarely equaled in a nine months period.

Virtually every indicator, by which the government measures business volume and prosperity, available at the Treasury and Commerce Departments today, told of new high levels in commerce and industry.

Two new factors in the business picture were contained in the official summary first seven months of the year there was an increase of 197 per cent in the volume of airmail, 3,774,271 pounds have been carried.

Advertising Figures. In the same period commercial and industrial interests spent $9,974,000 for advertisements and broadcasts. That was an increase of 94 per cent.

Newspaper and magazine advertising likewise continued on the upgrade. Advertisers spent $118,312,000 for magazine space in the first seven months, a gain of 5.6 per cent, while newspapers were carried 706,510,000 lines of advertising for an increase of 4.5 per cent.

CAVAGNARO'S PLEA CHANGED; IS FINED

Accident Driver Must Pay $150 and Costs Because of Defective Brakes.

Louis Cavanaugh of Wetherill street was fined $150 and costs by Judge Arthur F. Ellis of Waterbury today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an automobile with defective brakes in Superior Court at Hartford.

Cavanaugh was arrested by local police and bound over to the higher court on a charge of criminal negligence several months ago as the result of an automobile accident on Center street when a car he was operating struck and fatally injured Mrs. S. Emil Peterson of 25 Alton street.

At first Cavanaugh chose trial by jury but at the advice of his counsel, Attorney William J. Shea of Manchester made a last minute change to trial by judge. The brakes on the automobile driven by Cavanaugh were found to be useless. He said at the time that it was the first automobile accident he had ever had and that he would never drive a car again.

WAPPING

Miss Doris Hutchinson of South Manchester, is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Battey.

The schools in the town of South Windsor have opened again and teachers and pupils have resumed their tasks. The first break in the schedule comes October 25th when there is a day of respite due to the convention of the State Teachers' Association. Then comes Thanksgiving recess from noon of November 27 to November 29 inclusive. Then Christmas recess from December 21 to January 1, inclusive. Mid-year vacation comes February 22 to March 2 inclusive. Good Friday, April 18 and spring vacation April 25 to May 4. Memorial Day, May 30 and teachers' visiting day as arranged by the superintendent. Miss Margaret Yeaw of Pleasant Valley has been confined to the Hartford Hospital for the past two weeks with pleurisy pneumonia. The Evergreen Lodge of Masons, A. F. and A. M., No. 114, held their regular meeting at their Temple at East Windsor Hill last Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gamache, who have exchanged their farm and home here for a three tenement house in Hartford, moved to their new home last Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton moved from Hartford to their recently purchased home on the Buckland road last Tuesday afternoon.

millions for their out-of-town correspondents. This makes a total of 43 millions of bank money called in from the speculative loan market. On the other hand, the advances of "others," principally the investment trusts and corporations with big cash surpluses, have increased their loans 234 million dollars, (figures are approximate which makes the net borrowings 192 millions higher.)

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

What has happened? The inference is plain that strong holders of stocks, probably the investment trusts, have been selling their stocks and using the proceeds to loan at 8 and 10 per cent in the call loan market. For the present at least they think they can make more money in a ten per cent call market than by purchasing stocks, even at current prices.

On the other hand, thousands of "sold out bulls," who sat patiently on the side lines while their favorite stocks dropped down the price scale, have flocked to the market for the "bargains" long awaited. They have loaded themselves up with stocks at prices 25 to 50 points below the high of the year, their purchasing has necessitated an increase of margin borrowing, plainly reflected in the broker loan figures.

THE OPENING WEDGE

On general principles, loading up of the "lamb" with speculative stocks is considered the opening wedge of the bear campaign against the market and a topping of the price list. At this time, however, the public has not bought at the top and its resources are probably greater than at any former time in financial history. If the public has a firm grip on its stocks and can weather a minor storm, there is little danger of a wide open break in the final quarter of 1929.

HIGHER COURT NOLLES MURPHY APPEAL CASE

Fred Murphy, who appealed from a fine of $10 and costs imposed upon him when he was found guilty of a charge of violation of the rules of the road and posted a bond of $100 when he took the appeal, is not to have a hearing before the Superior Court of this county at this session as the case has been nolle.

JOLSON IN SECOND TALKIE

Scene from "Say It With Songs" starring Al Jolson in his second talking motion picture. Little Davy Lee and Marlon Nixon support him.

FIRST TOM MEIGHAN "TALKIE" AT STATE

"Argyle Case" Opens Today; Jan Garber and Band Also Featured.

Thomas Meighan, for years one of the most popular stars of stage and screen, makes his debut as a Warner Brothers Vitaphone star in "The Argyle Case," his first all-talking picture, which opens for travel.

Mr. Meighan, who has been missed by his fans for some time, gives them every reason to rejoice at his return in his newest picture. And those who have longed to hear his splendid voice will be able to listen in on some of the most powerful dialogue that has ever reached the screen.

The part Meighan portrays is that of a master detective, who by means of deductive reasoning weeds out of a group of persons the one guilty of the murder of wealthy John Argyle. Meighan's vivid characterization has authority and dignity. His voice and diction are superb.

Lila Lee, another Vitaphone favorite, is delightful as the foster-daughter of the slain man, who, even while under suspicion of the famous detective, is finding her way into his heart.

Others in the cast are Zazu Pitts, H. B. Warner, John Darrow, Bert Roach and Douglas Gerrard. Howard Bretherton directed.

Appearing on the same program for today and tomorrow is Jan Garber and his Columbia Recording Orchestra, a group of well-known jazz artists. This highly entertaining and versatile dance band are seen and heard in a sparkling Vitaphone presentation that fairly vizzes with syncopation. The Garber orchestra needs no introduction to Manchester dance lovers. Hundreds have heard them at the Butterfly Ballroom in Springfield during their engagement in that city.

The current chapter of "The Diamond Master" and the State News Events will complete the program.

RAINBOW DANCES

The Rainbow Inn and Dance Palace at Bolton has completed arrangements for a gala night at this stately old tavern tomorrow evening and a record crowd is planning on attending the elaborate affair.

It is the fulfillment on the part of the management Charles Flansy assisted by his experienced hall-room manager, of a promise made earlier in the season and prior to the opening three weeks ago, to provide the patrons of The Rainbow with a large and superior dance band and The Commanders orchestra, headed by two of Connecticut's institutions of music, Messrs. Danny Haig and Bill Smith formerly with Paul Whiteman's European unit bring to the band a wide knowledge and technical experience aquired through a wealth of world wide travel. Both gentlemen are excellent musicians, splendid entertainers and in an amazingly short time, they have recruited an orchestra that is a real finished musical organization, composed of the best orchestral artists available. Their ability to interpret the latest dance hits and put them over as they should be played has made a lasting impression on the minds of an ever increasing patronage at The Rainbow. The Rainbow Inn is one of the oldest of our county's institutions and provides a time-honored place for justification and affords the privilege of dining amid pleasant and semi-private enjoyment that is so popular with many who seek diversion with quality food and pleasant surroundings.

A gay feeling always prevails at The Rainbow and serves to exhilarate the spirits of all who enter into it. Of late there is a marked swing toward fun and frivolity and the soul of a good time and is certain to bring fun lovers, dance fans and whoopee followers galore to this premier Bolton dance palace.

Bill Smith who heads The Commanders of eleven pieces will act as master of ceremonies tomorrow evening and in addition to directing the orchestra will introduce the various specialty artists that have a part on the elaborate program starting at 8 o'clock.

LONG SHOT WINS

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The ride of Paul Revere and how his owner P. J. Heenan, a police station janitor, bet his week's wage of $30 and collected $1,741 in return, was the talk of the town today.

Paul Revere gave no warning of his coming yesterday at Lincoln fields track as his historic predecessor did and no one was prepared for it. That was the reason why he paid $230.34 for every $2 certificate, a Chicago record.

In his last seven starts Paul Revere finished far back and was thought to have no chance yesterday against ten other entries.

BLERIOT PLANS ONE-DAY FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

Paris—Louis Bleriot, pioneer French pilot, first flyer to cross the English Channel, now proposes Paris—New York in twenty-four hours.

This is to be done, according to Bleriot, with the aid of a floating island twelve hours out of Paris. Here his plane, a four motor airplane will land, refuel and twelve hours later land on Roosevelt field of the Zeppelin," says the Frenchman, who is now one of France's largest airplane manufacturers. "It is certain that for the moment the dirigible is ahead of the plane for trans-Atlantic crossing but I believe that this supremacy is merely temporary.

Wanted on Graf.

"It was wisest to wait the outcome of the Zeppelin world tour before saying too much but when we recall the sad endings of other dirigibles and the sacrifices made for what I believe to be a false conception one remains sceptical as to the commercial use of these mastodons of the air."

Bleriot admits that he may be accused of prejudice.

Nevertheless," says the French manufacturer, "I did not hesitate to tell the British Air Minister the other day that I was doubtful as to the success of the two dirigibles the English are about to put into service between London and India, even though they are less cumbersome than the Graf Zeppelin.

"In any case dirigibles will never handle as easily nor attain the same speed as a plane."

The floating islands that Bleriot tells about are an American invention and he states that it is due to American "initiative and capital" that the islands will soon be finished and anchored in mid-Atlantic.

Islands Planned.

"I am working in close harmony with an American concern," says Bleriot. They are making the islands I am making the planes.

"We hope eventually to have an island every five hundred kilometers but the planes do not necessarily have to land at each one. It can skip as many as desired.

"In case of motor trouble my plane can drop its motors and water-tight boat which can float on the surface of the water indefinitely."

M. Bleriot says that it is the intention of the inventors to build islands with hotels where tourists may pass weeks "in the ocean air."

MODEL PRISONS IN LATVIA GIVE AID TO INMATES

Riga—If the average American crook had the choice of sending his periodical term of imprisonment to an American or Latvian penitentiary, he would probably plump for the latter.

This is by way of saying Latvia lays claim to being a land of model prisons, where the inmates earn decent wages while serving their sentence and incidentally contribute to making the jails the most productive centers in the country.

Compelled To Work

As in the jails of other countries the prisoners are compelled to work, but for their labor they receive respectable payment, from which they may draw from time to time for pocket money and purchase a variety of additional comforts.

Many Latvian prisoners accumulate a respectable fortune while serving long-term sentences.

Every newcomer to a Latvia prison is given the chance of choosing a craft or trade. If he has no experience of any trade, he is taught. While in prison he is subject to the usual eight hour working day, and on leaving is usually a fully qualified specialist at his trade.

The Latvian prison is a universal factory-store, with twelve departments composed of textiles, furniture, ironmongery, stationery book-binding, etc. It is a sort of "university" with twelve "faculties" where skilled "professors" put the prisoner "students" through regular courses of theoretical and practical training.

Workshops Known

The prison workshops are widely known and enjoy a high reputation, many citizens applying directly to them to satisfy their requirements. The products of the prison shops are better and cheaper than what is usually offered in the open market. Prisoners make the telephone call boxes for the whole of Latvia, among other things, while the "farming department" ships bacon and eggs to foreign countries.

That the prisoners like the conditions under which they work may be judged from the fact that there were only two escapes last year, while so far this year no break for freedom has been attempted in any of the jails.

TRUCK SALES GOOD

Truck registrations in the United States in the first five months of 1929 were 278,833 units, an increase of about 65 per cent over last year.

CANADA BREAKS RECORD

By producing 242,054 automotive units last year, Canada established a new high record. The value of the production was more than $62,867,000.

BAD TOWN FOR BRAKES

According to statistics recently compiled from a survey of 200 automobiles in Chicago, only 6 per cent of the automobiles in that city have perfectly adjusted brakes and 5 per cent of them are absolutely dangerous.

QUANTICO QUIET

Quantico, Va., Sept. 27—Everything was quiet on the Quantico front today with one victory over demon rum chalked up to the credit of the doughty leatherneck, Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, commandant of the marine base here.

The ban General Butler placed on this town because his marines were able to buy booze when they came from the government reservation, has been lifted.

General Butler lifted the ban when convinced Quantico was rid of "bums and bootleggers."

PLAY JURY TO DECIDE

Boston, Sept. 27—A "play jury" of 35 men and women of Quincy will make final decision whether or not "Strange Interlude" will be presented there. That was the latest development today in the controversy which followed the action of Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols in banning the play in Boston.

As a result of the storm of protest from clergymen and others in Quincy, following announcement by Mayor Thomas J. McGrath that the play could be produced there, he stated that the "play-jury" would be organized, and would pass on the merits of "Strange Interlude" at its first showing Monday night.

DR. ECKENER

Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.
 BY Hugh Allen
THE FIRST AUTHORIZED STORY OF THE LIFE OF THE COMMANDER OF THE ZEPPELINS

This picture shows the L-72 as it was turned over to the French after the war. It was renamed the Dixmude, but was soon destroyed in a storm. Note that at that time the control car was suspended from the dirigible instead of being an integral part of it as in the case of the Graf Zeppelin.

CHAPTER IX

When Dr. Eckener returned to Friedrichshafen from the war, political and economic conditions were at low ebb, the 30,000 Zeppelin employees, including war cripples and women, were idle, revolution was sweeping many German states, old values had been destroyed.

But within two months of the armistice, plans were set in motion to fly across the Atlantic with the L-72, a ship whose delivery to the German government had been cancelled. Meanwhile, preliminary work was started for the first post-war commercial airship.

With the death of Count Zeppelin the affairs of the Zeppelin Foundation, which was the holding company for the airship building company, for Maybach motors, for Dornier airplanes, for DELAG, the commercial company, for the gear plant, for the fabric works and the rest, had been committed to three trustees of which Baron von Gemmingen, nephew of the count, was chairman; Eckener and Baron von Bassus being other members.

Of the triumvirate that came into control at a time when Zeppelin had grown to be one of the great powerful corporations of Germany, Hugo Eckener was already looming as the dominant figure.

Baron von Gemmingen had worked with Count Zeppelin from the beginning and though too old for military service when the war broke out, insisted on accompanying the pilots, especially Captain Ernst Lehmann, to the front. The two of them, in fact, had been largely instrumental in working out with Eckener and the engineers one of the most spectacular Zeppelin developments of the war. This was a car, large enough to hold one observer, and suspended by a steel cable 1,000 or 2,000 feet below the airship, so that the Zeppelin could fly through the clouds unseen while the observer, far below, a tiny dot in the sky, could direct navigation and bombing operations.

It was one of the mystery offensives of the war. It was von Gemmingen who insisted on himself trying out the device, and Lehmann who was the first to put it into actual use in warfare.

However, the baron's death had been affected by the hardships of the war and his death in 1921 placed Dr. Eckener in the position to become the real successor of Count Zeppelin.

The plan to fly the L-72 to the United States was the subject of considerable debate in the Zeppelin councils. Since the government had not claimed the ship and it was back on their hands, the best use to make of it was to give one real demonstration of the progress of Zeppelins.

Airships had flown through every conceivable kind of weather. The LZ-59 had shown the endurance and tremendous cruising range that could be expected. Zeppelin ships, though filled with inflammable hydrogen gas, had been struck by lightning repeatedly without damage, the current discharging itself harmlessly over the metal framework and passing off, leaving no more sign than a pin hole at the point of impact.

While the Zeppelin people themselves knew what the ships would do, the world did not appreciate it because operations had been largely shrouded in the secrecy of war time. A flight across the Atlantic would be a daring stroke and a convincing demonstration.

On the other hand, would America receive the ship? The war was newly over. Would such a flight be regarded—taken as a challenge—its purpose misunderstood? Would such a flight embarrass the new republican government of Germany?

Would they be able to land the ship and secure fuel for its return without having made previous preparations for landing crews and servicing—or would they have merely to set the ship down somewhere in the open and leave it—of take chances on assembling enough men to hold it? How would it be to fly it to the exhaustion of its fuel, perhaps as far as the Mississippi River and then abandon it? There were technical questions as well as political questions involved.

While the debate continued, the secret got out and the matter settled itself. Government orders came in, forbidding them to take the ship from its hangar.

The British had begun to build airships during the war, using as a model a Zeppelin ship which had landed behind the French lines and had been seized intact. The British R-34 was launched. Then came the flight of the R-34 from England to New York and return in the summer of 1919. The men at Friedrichshafen, blocked in their ambition to span the ocean, went ahead with their other project, the completion of the Bodensee, first post-war commercial ship.

The L-72 was presently turned over to France, renamed the Dixmude, and under French command made a successful four-day flight over the Mediterranean. A few days later another flight was started. The weather was bad, and the Dixmude was destroyed.

Work on the Bodensee was pushed during the spring of 1919 in spite of political and economic conditions that continued to be highly unfavorable. By the end of August it was ready.

The new ship was no bigger than the Viktoria Luise and of the Hansa of 1914, approximately 800,000 cubic feet, about a third the size of the larger war-time ships, or of the American Los Angeles.

But where the old Viktoria Luise had had to exert itself to make 40 to 50 miles an hour, the new ship would do 75 to 80. It had space for 36 passengers. It was beautifully finished inside in accordance with Dr. Eckener's idea of air transportation to the people, and to swing public opinion to the new form of transport.

First sailings were to be between Friedrichshafen and Berlin, then to the North Sea, to extend the service to Stockholm and Switzerland, to Italy, even to Spain.

In the 98 days, including Sundays, between August 24 and December 1 the ship made 80 cross-country flights, two of them being to Stockholm.

The spent 10 days in repair and maintenance work; there were three days when cross hangar winds kept the ship in the harbor. Two or three times a week they would land at Berlin, take on a new load of passengers and make two-hour sight-seeing trips over the German capital, so that a total of 103 flights had been made by December 1. Within the three months they had carried 2,500 passengers, 17,000 pounds of mail and express.

A second ship, the Nordstern, to be a sister ship to the Bodensee, was just being completed.

Again the future looked bright for airships.

The blow fell.

Orders came on December 1 from the Inter Allied Air Commission, acting under the Versailles Treaty, for the cessation of operations, the surrender of the ships and the abandonment of the Zeppelin works.

It was just a year after the armistice. The chancelleries of Europe were still nervous. This resumption of flying operations at Friedrichshafen looked suspicious. It might be purely the peaceful commercial operation that Dr. Eckener said it was, the diplomats argued, or it might have sinister possibilities. It might be an undercover effort by the German military authorities to reforge a war weapon. The safe thing was to nip it in the bud. Presently regulations came out as to the size of aircraft that German citizens might be permitted to build, sizes so limited as to make any airships entirely impracticable.

In case of the airplane, the post-war restrictions on flying in Germany drove some of the airplane makers into building gliders—engineless airplanes, which made rather remarkable flights and taught the airplane designers considerable about their own art.

This alternative was not open to the Zeppelin company. Airships have to be large. A thousand cubic feet of hydrogen gas lifts about 68 pounds at sea level and moderate temperature. Zeppelin ships had a metal framework which ran into weight. Non-rigid airships or blimps (a popular name derived from the fact that the early British non-rigid were originally called B-blimp type) have no metal framework, the shape of the bag being maintained by the lifting gas inside. A blimp can be deflated, folded up and carried off by truck. But a baby Zeppelin was impossible.

It had to be large enough to lift its own weight, and larger still to carry freight.

The crews of the allies were final. The Nordstern was finished and turned over to France, the Bodensee to Italy.

Once thoroughly convinced that no argument could change the situation, Eckener set off one morning to fly to the Bodensee to Rome. With characteristic spirit, he decided to make his last flight under German colors a final demonstration of the value of his ships. He flew it out over Zurich, on to Bern, Geneva, and across over Avignon, France, down the Mediterranean, across Napoleon's place of exile at Elba, on over Corsica, back up to Rome, making the 825-mile flight in 12 1-2 hours.

It was a gallant gesture, but the trip wrote the end of the Bodensee operations. The Italians flew the ship occasionally, but Italian operators favored the semi-rigid type such as the Italian Norge and the Roma, which were to be built later. While the Bodensee is still in existence today, after ten years, it has remained largely in its hangar.

Dr. Eckener returned to Friedrichshafen, apparently checked out. But he could continue research work. Arnstein, Duerr and Eckener had many conferences.

Arnstein wanted a shorter, fatter ship, tapering from the center to both ends. There is strength in the curve. A shorter, bulkier ship would be handled better, be more stable, more quickly responsive to its rudders.

Arnstein, too, felt that on his next passenger ship he would like to build the control car into the hull to get a better streamline effect and so reduce the resistance as he had done with the Bodensee and Nordstern.

Americans were taking an interest in airships but had followed the earlier German practice of suspending the control car by struts below the body of the hull so as to keep any sparks from the motors away from the hydrogen bags. A simpler way would be to remove the motor from the control car and house it in a gondola of its own with ample ventilating space between.

Well before these negotiations were concluded, however, there was an event of even greater importance.

Lloyd George, then premier of England, had dropped the suggestion that inasmuch as the two Zeppelins awarded the United States as reparations had been destroyed by the crews, perhaps America would be interested in having a new Zeppelin built by Germany.

The word was passed to Washington. President Harding approved the plan. The arrangements were quickly completed. The projected dismantling of the Zeppelin works was postponed. They might remain long enough to build one more ship.

This was built under the name of the ZR-3 by Dr. Arnstein under the direction of Dr. Eckener. It was flown across the Atlantic in 1924 and delivered to the United States Navy. As an American ship, it was christened the Los Angeles and is still in service.

TOMORROW: Exciting days in Friedrichshafen as Zeppelin building is resumed.

As a rule about three or four pounds of ashes remain after a human body has been cremated.

ROCKVILLE

Observe Anniversary
 Former Councilman and Mrs. John Herzog of Grand street were given a pleasant surprise on Wednesday evening in honor of the forty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. They were invited to the home of their son George on Union street for supper, and there found some forty-five relatives.

During the supper, Mrs. Koehler, sister of Mrs. John Herzog, presented the couple with a purse of money in behalf of the company. Guests were present from Westfield, Springfield, Hartford, West Hartford, Manchester, Vernon and this city.

Annual Town Meeting
 The annual town meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 7, at 2 p. m., in the Town Hall. Citizens of the town of Vernon will take action on the recommendation of the Board of Selectmen that the town purchase a motor driven combination road sweeper and snow plow. Other matters such as the selectman's budget, appointing a supervisory committee for Grove Hill cemetery and routine business will be acted on. One proposition is for the town to appropriate $500 towards a war memorial fund.

Joint Outing
 Stanley Dobson Post American Legion and the James W. Milne Camp, United Spanish War Veterans will hold their joint outing Sunday at Liedertafel Grove. There will be a dinner and a program of sports and games with something doing every minute.

Cradle Roll Party
 The annual Cradle Roll party of the Union church will be held Saturday from 3 to 5 p. m., at the church social rooms. All mothers of the church have been invited to be present with their children.

Edwards-Frey
 At St. Bernard's church on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, Miss Gertrude Frey, daughter of Mrs. Anna Frey of 48 Windemere avenue, became the bride of Elbert W. Edwards, son of Mrs. Josephine Edwards of 88 Grove street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George T. Sinnott, pastor of the church. Mrs. Carl Fush of Manchester was matron of honor and Herman Frey, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held, and dinner served to more than one hundred guests later in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, who are very popular with the younger set left later in the day for a wedding trip to New York City and Canada. They will live at 88 Grove street, where they will be at home after October 15.

Guests were present from Holyoke, Hartford, Manchester and Rockville.

Augusta L. Welz
 Miss Augusta Lena Welz, age 30, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller of 97 Prospect street, for about five years employed as an officer at the Connecticut State Farm for Women, died Tuesday night at her home after seven months of illness. Miss Welz was a member of the Union Congregational church. Besides her parents she leaves four sisters, Miss Anna Welz, Miss Hilda Miller, Miss Martha Miller of Rockville and Mrs. Florence Tofolon of New Britain and two brothers, Carl and Henry Welz of New Haven.

The funeral was held from her home on Prospect street at 2 p. m. Rev. George S. Brookes officiating. Burial in Grove Hill cemetery.

Notes
 Mrs. William MacIntosh of Scranton, Pa., is visiting Mrs. Lester W. Martin.

Mrs. Sarah Morris of Hartford is the guest of Mrs. D. L. Handlow of Elm street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Mann of Village street have purchased the Laubacher homestead on Tolland avenue.

Hope Chapter O. E. S. will hold a public food sale on October 4 at the R. W. Lighting Company on Park street.

REPENT IN HASTE.

Bobby: I wish I hadn't fought with Billy Jones this morning!
 Mother: You see now how wrong it was, don't you, dear?
 Bobby: Yes, 'cause I didn't know till this afternoon that he was going to give a party.—Passing Show.

 President of Columbia University

The Twenty-third Psalm
 Psalm 19, quoting verses 1-9.

The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge. There is no speech nor language, where their voice is not heard. Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath He set a tabernacle for the sun, which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race. His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it; and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul; the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart; the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes, enduring forever; the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether. In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him; and without Him was not any thing made that was made. In Him was life; and the life was the light of men. And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not.—John 1:1-5.

ZONING LAW BUMPS
New London's zoning law has run into a snag in the form of federal control of navigable waters. A citizen desired to erect a pier for the sale of gasoline and oil to vessels in the harbor. The location selected is in front of a residential street bordering the harbor—a Zone A neighborhood. A building permit was refused, but the gas man obtained federal sanction, necessary in the building of a pier in such waters. Under that sanction he proceeded to build. Various steps were taken by the city authorities including an injunction. That document has now been dissolved on the finding of the judge that zoning laws of a city cannot affect navigable waters which are under federal control. So far the gas man is victor, though the city proposes to continue fighting.

What we can't quite understand is how the pier owner is going to maintain communication between his structure and the shore provided the city asserts its zoning rights above mean low water mark. What he can build his pier seems to be settled. That he can put up any sort of approach to the deep water part of it, if the city forbids, wouldn't seem to be nearly so certain. Perhaps he doesn't care; he will get his gas and oil by sea probably and sell it only to ships and yachts anyhow. But it would seem probable that if the city keeps on fighting he will have to arrange a ferry to get onto his own pier. It is an interesting case because it appears to be unique.

Between you, me and the side show tent, it's the amazing invasion of half-man-half-woman freaks that's causing the trouble. Sex being what it is, in the side-show world as in the novels or the plays, the half-man-half-woman stunt has been a mighty attraction. And, so I'm told, it's one of the easiest to fake. If I can believe a few midgets, a snake charmer and some other legitimate performers, there are one or two legitimate half-man-half-women. There may be a few more. But the good people who pay their dime and walk through the gates have found this freak a particularly alluring one. The paid customers go about wondering whether it is a man or a woman and invariably buy the little sealed books which promise to "tell them the secrets" of the performers life.

At Dreamland Park, for instance, the girl with the elephant skin, the rubber man and Woo Foo are among the leading revolvers. Harry, the man who is turning to stone, isn't turning so fast but what he has time to resent imposters. It seems that the slick inventors have figured out some very interesting illusions. There can seem to be a double-bodied lady, for instance, where actually there is but one single-bodied femme. Coney has at least one place where a large number of the "strange people" are strange only because mirrors make them so, and the show manager doesn't deny his trickery. But what's the use of being born with two heads, and elephant skin, an ostrich beak or a third eye if these peculiarities can be— and are—reproduced by illusion?

When the Red Cross seeks its young drive workers, if the young folks know an opportunity when they see it there will be eager response and eager performance of the arduous but glorious work involved. KNEW NOTHING OF PRESS
That it is unprofitable for men of large affairs to neglect the always open opportunity to become acquainted with responsible newspaper people is pretty well evidenced by the Shearer affair. Shearer seems to have had no difficulty in getting a number of very big business men to believe the most ridiculous lot of bunk which they never could possibly have credited if they had had the faintest suspicion of how newspapers are conducted or the barest inkling of the character of the authoritative members of the press.

Shearer made assertions about his relationship with the Geneva correspondents and American newspaper proprietors which Baron Munchausen would never have dared to make for fear of their instant detection as ludicrous lies. He reported to his employers in exact effect that he was dictating the news policy of the entire American newspaper world. And evidently they believed him. If they had known anything like as much about the workings of the newspapers in their own interest as they should have known, they would have realized at once that no single human being in the world could ever exercise any such press influence as Shearer laid claim to—let alone a hack lobbyist. ABOUT ENOUGH
With the granting of a divorce to Richard Cleveland Hastings, Hartford broker, based on the conviction of his wife of elicit relations with Attorney Edward W. Broder the other day, there is written what may very well be accepted as the concluding chapter of a story far gone in over-ripeness. The affairs of the Hastings and Broder possess no especial distinctiveness. The story is merely a repetition of a type of episode that has been occurring since the beginning of time. It is squalid and unpleasant and altogether wretched. Everybody knows that completely undisciplined self-indulgence leads today, as it always has led, to smash—and that there are spoiled, selfish people ready to risk the smash for the indulgence. In this case there are three innocent children concerned. For their sakes it is only fair to mark the Hastings-Broder story "done."

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 27.—In the world of bearded ladies, midgets, giants and other freaks—as in the social world—there once was a "400." These bona fide "strange people," from Zipp the What-Is-it to Tom Thumb, constituted the aristocracy of carnivals. They might have been two-headed, four-legged, fat, chooped or otherwise set aside from their normal fellows—but they were legitimately "queer, odd and unusual." In a word, they were freaks. Their salaries were high keeping with their attraction values. They did not "play" the street fairs and the cheap carnivals. Rather they were "features of the museums." They traveled to the four corners of the earth. The capitals of Europe were as common to them as Coney Island. The major circuses bid for their presence.

Alas, there came a synthetic era! Gin was synthetic, food was synthetic—and, invention being what it is, freaks became synthetic. Racketeers stepped into a grand old business, placed on the map by E. T. Sarum. All "these strange and unusual people" found themselves competing with manufactured and fake "wonders of the world." Wherefore, those corners of Broadway and those side streets of Coney, those benches of Luna and those paths of Steeplechase, where gather in summer time the cream of freakdom, are boiling with rumormongering war. Up in the Broadway office buildings where the better-class agents do business and around the cafes of Coney, the word has been passed that the aristocracy of freakdom will not stand for the synthetic invasion. It's hurting their racket; it's menacing the freak business. Sometime before the winter snows fly, the up-and-up freaks of America are likely to organize and name a sort of Will Hays of freakdom, making sure that only genuine-in-the-way freaks get "spots" on the important locations.

Washington, Sept. 27.—At about the time Dr. Hugo Eckener was heading the Graf Zeppelin back to this country on his record flight around the world, the U. S. patent office was granting him a dirigible patent for which he had applied seven long years before. The history of the case and its final disposition, as gathered from the files of the patent office, reveal a type of dirigible which doubtless will be constructed sooner or later, to be sustained both by helium and hydrogen gas. It also reveals that if it took Dr. Eckener seven years to obtain this patent it was more the fault of himself and his lawyers than of the patent office. A patent runs 17 years and it is frequently the custom of inventors and manufacturing companies to delay the final issuance of their patent as long as possible in order to extend their period of ownership of the rights. He Didn't Try to Hurry. They are assured of protection in the meantime, once they have applied, and the 17-year period begins only upon the actual issuance. One cannot assert with assurance that Dr. Eckener was following this course, but his lawyers invariably took all the time allowed and that was why the proceedings were dragged out for seven years. Often enough, less than the bare facts in such a case lead to criticism of the patent office for "red tape" and "delay."

What Eckener originally asked for was a patent covering the sparing use of helium in a dirigible in cells at points most in danger from lightning or other combustion. And that was what he was finally granted. But he began by making 15 or 20 claims for the idea and was finally allowed but three, as follows: "1. An airship comprising a cell filled with a non-inflammable carrying gas, another cell filled with inflammable gas, a collapsible cell within said latter cell communicating with said latter cell for allowing escape of inflammable gas therefrom." "2. An airship comprising a motor gondola, a cell filled with a non-inflammable carrying gas, a collapsible cell within said latter cell communicating with said former cell and a communication between said latter cell and the motor gondola." "3. An airship comprising a plurality of gas cells, a bow cell being filled with a non-inflammable carrying gas, other cells with an inflammable gas, the walls of said bow cell being stronger than those of the other cells."

Navy Isn't Excited. Our navy dirigible experts do not attach much significance to the new Eckener patent. The German Zeppelin expert must first find some helium or similar non-inflammable carrying gas and none is available in Europe. If our own army and navy blimps and dirigibles were forced to economize on helium, they would undoubtedly be built with special helium cells at vital points. The idea is an old one, but our own dirigible

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE
Dr. Frank McCoy
"See Me First, Then Go to the Doctor"
QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. FRANK MCCOY ON FRIDAY EVENING IN CARE OF THE EVENING HERALD. ENCLOSURE REQUESTED. WRITE TO THE EDITOR.

DIETARY TREATMENT FOR ASTHMA

In yesterday's article I wrote about the exercises necessary for developing a strong chest in order to prevent asthma, but after a case of asthma has fully developed such exercises cannot be taken during the first part of a cure. In a typical case of either bronchial or cardiac asthma it is first necessary to free the diaphragm from any pressure due to excessive stomach or intestinal gas, and to get rid of any large amount of mucus which is clogging the lungs and bronchial tubes. The quickest way to accomplish these results is through the fasting and diet treatment.

The asthmatic patient should first start on a fast, either using plain water, or, besides a large amount of juice, orange or grapefruit juice seems to be best suited for this purpose, but in some bad cases it seems that quicker results are secured if the fruit juices are left out and plain water is used. All fruit juices contain a considerable amount of sugar, and sometimes this continues to produce too much flatulence. The fast should be continued at least until all wheezing has disappeared, and sometimes it is not possible for the patient to entirely eliminate all of the bronchial mucus during the fast and in some cases a slight whistle will continue for some time, due to the presence of mucus in the bronchial tubes.

A few days after the breathing becomes normal and there is no oppressive tightness to the chest, the patient may start on a three meal a day plan, using a reasonable amount of eggs, meat, fish and other proteins, together with good non-starchy vegetables. The following is a good plan at this time: Breakfast.—One egg, prepared in any manner, with a reasonable choice of one of these cooked non-starchy vegetables: spinach, asparagus, string beans, summer squash, cucumbers, celery, carrots, parsnips, prunes, raisins or figs. Not over three prunes at first, or a corresponding amount of other stewed fruit.

Luncheon.—Choice of one or two of the cooked, non-starchy vegetables listed at breakfast. Also one of the same vegetables may be used uncooked. Dinner.—The same fruit of vegetables as at lunch, with the addition of one-fourth a pound of either lean beef, mutton, chicken, fish or rabbit. This diet should be continued for at least several weeks, and one enema taken each day, providing the bowels do not move two or three times daily. No starches or sugars should be used, and no milk or cream. These foods should not be added until the patient is entirely free from catarrhal mucus, and until several weeks have elapsed without a return of any difficult breathing. These foods should thereafter always be tried with caution, owing to their tendency either to produce flatulence or excessive catarrhal mucus. The deep breathing exercises suggested in yesterday's article should not be used at first but should be started after the patient has been normal for four or five weeks. Then these exercises should be gradually introduced and increased to develop a strong diaphragm and chest, and thus assure the patient against the return of asthma.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Heartburn After Meals
Question: Mrs. H. J. writes:—"I have severe attacks of heart burn after meals. I would like to know what causes this and how to get rid of it."
Answer:—Heart burn simply means over-acidity of the gastric juice, and is caused by bad combinations of foods, wrong kind of food, condiments, etc. A teaspoonful of baking soda taken just after the meal will relieve the heart burn, but a real cure can only be obtained through removing whatever cause is producing the trouble.

Stewed Fruit and Oatmeal
Question: W. H. K. asks:—"Is it all right to use stewed prunes or figs or applesauce with a breakfast or oatmeal porridge?"
Answer:—It is all right to use stewed prunes, figs, raisins or applesauce with a breakfast containing real wholewheat or real oatmeal, but a combination of these stewed fruit and plain starchy food does not seem to work so well together, causing excessive flatulence.

White Spots on Skin
Question: J. K. H. writes:—"My skin is slowly turning a dead white in patches. I have doctor's faithfulness, and use several medicines, both internal and external, but to no avail. I want to get at the cause of the trouble, but I am becoming discouraged and am going to give up unless you can help me."
Answer:—A good fast for a week or ten days will stop the acidosis which is causing the destruction of the coloring matter in your skin. Then, living on a good diet will keep you from having any more of these white spots form. Sometimes, if the spots are not too large they can be successfully treated with radiations from the ultra-violet light, and the skin pigment will at least partially return.

A high-post bed, similar to the sketch, $31.50.
Mirrors, with eagle tops, $19.35.
THE joy of refurbishing a room need not come all in one big lump but can be spread out over a period of months or a whole year, if you furnish the way we have planned this bedroom. Any of the pieces can be used as a starting point, but many prefer to select the bed first, with a coil spring ($13) and an innerspring mattress ($27.50). Of course lower priced springs and mattresses can be had. Later on the chest, dressing table, mirrors and chairs are added. (The dressing table requires about 6 yards of 36-inch material.)
Smart little boudoir chairs help complete a room like this. In cretonnes with maple legs, $15.75.

RECOVERS FROM BROKEN LEG, THEN BREAKS ARM

Edgar Manley of Newman Street Injured Playing Football; Hurt Leg Early in Summer.

Four weeks after recovering from the effects of a broken leg, fifteen-year-old Edgar Manley, who lives with his aunt Mrs. James Fogarty of Newman street, played in a game of scrub football in Center Park last night and broke his arm. He attends the Barnard School. His injury will keep him from school for the next six weeks at least.

Edgar broke his leg, just before the start of the summer vacation, by falling from the trestle in the coal yards near the Manchester Lumber Company.

TO HOLD MURDER TRIAL IN PUTNAM ON OCT. 8

Putnam, Sept. 27.—Thomas Mazza of Willimantic, charged with the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rosario Lorella, on January 3 will be tried in that city beginning Oct. 8, it was decided in Superior court here today.

Claiming that the state would save money by holding the trial in Willimantic because of the fact that all the witnesses in the case come from there, Attorney William A. King, counsel for Mazza, appealed to Judge Edward M. Yeomans on these grounds. No objection from State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford was forthcoming and the matter rested.

Mrs. Lorella was found last January in a gas-filled room and finger prints on her throat indicated that she had been strangled, and had not committed suicide as at first supposed. County Detective William E. Jackson who had charge of the case was murdered a few weeks later.

TIGER' SAYS HE'LL DIE BEFORE END OF YEAR

Paris, Sept. 27.—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger," who will be 88 years old tomorrow, is not going to celebrate his birthday in any special way.

If there is any celebration at all it consisted of his recent kind act of summoning his own private physician from Paris to his home at St. Vincent Sur Jard, on the Venetian coast, to treat a poor peasant girl, M. Clemenceau fears he is going to die before the year is out. But he is not worrying. The ex-premier is both stoic and philosopher. He was well named when he got the nickname of "The Tiger."

Speaking with his friend, Emile Bure, the old statesman said: "My mother died when she was 83 years old. My father was 87. I am now 88, and thus in the 'danger zone.' I do not ask for death, but I am not afraid of it. I am waiting for it to come. Tien! Just last night I dreamed I was dying. I rather think I shall die before the year is out."

TUNNEY SUIT NEARS DATE FOR HEARING

Bridgeport, Sept. 27.—James S. Fogarty's suit against Gene Tunney for $500,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Fogarty today reached the point where it may be claimed for trial by the plaintiff's lawyers at any moment. Charles J. Martin, of New Haven, who is Fogarty's lawyer, filed in Superior Court here a general denial to Tunney's suit for slander, filed against Fogarty last week, and claiming damages of $100,000. This step ended the preliminary pleadings in the affair and only the plaintiff's demand for trial now remains to be made.

The $500,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Fogarty against Tunney for alleged breach of promise to marry her is still pending on the books of the Superior Court. No moves have been made recently in this case.

HEENEY, GAGNON WIN AT STADIUM

New York, Sept. 27.—Jack Gagnon, Boston, 190-1-2, took a terrific beating from Jim Maloney, Boston, 204, in the scheduled 10-round semi-final to the Sharkey-Loughran fight here last night, but was awarded the bout on a foul after two minutes and six seconds of the seventh round.

In the opening four-round match, Bill Daring, 181, the U. S. Navy, won the decision over Bob Carvill, 183, of England. Carvill took counts of nine in both the second and fourth rounds.

Tom Heenev, New Zealand veteran, who closed the 1928 season with an unsuccessful bid for Gene Tunney's title, stepped down many notches to whip George Hoffman, New York youngster, in the first 10-round go. Heenev scales 207, Hoffman 183 1-2.

The youngster finished strong, cutting Heenev's eye in the final round, but the "Hard Rock's" experience proved too much for him. The crowd booted the decision, after several times showing displeasure of the rough, close, slow milling during the bout.

In preliminary, Joe Banovic, Binghamton, N. Y., heavy-weight, stepped in as a substitute tonight and won a six-round decision over Lou Barba of New York. Banovic weighed 178 pounds, Barba 187.

Banovic, who came into the picture through the injury of Armand Emanuel, San Francisco heavy-weight, turned in an aggressive performance, bullying Barba about with a head attack that piled up a large margin.

BIG CHURCH BURNS

Boston, Sept. 27.—One fireman was seriously injured, the nearby congested residential district was for a time threatened, scores fled to the street, and damage estimated at $100,000 was done today by a three alarm fire which destroyed St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church, in the north end.

Fireman Harold Nowland was struck on the head by a falling chandelier while battling the flames inside the edifice. He was taken to Haymarket relief hospital, suffering contusion of the skull and severe neck injuries.

According to fire officials the source of the flames was in the rear of the church, caused by defective electric wiring. Flames were shooting into the air from the wooden steeple when firemen arrived.

Los Angeles, Sept. 27.—"With Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the theatrical financier, reported to her attorneys fear that she will be unable to appear in court today to be sentenced for manslaughter. Several physicians were in attendance today at the bedside of the woman who was convicted of manslaughter Wednesday night for the death of Juro Rokumoto. She has been in a state of nervous shock since her collapse immediately following the verdict of "guilty."

Sharkey's Mighty Right To Jaw Kayoes Loughran

ONE PUNCH BRINGS SUDDEN END IN 3rd

Blow Made Tom Sock-Silly; Was His First of Career, Rose at Count of Five "Out on Feet"; Referee Prevents Further Punishment.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, Sept. 27.—"Let me sit down till I see where I'm at," said Thomas Loughran to Referee Magnolia after being hit on the chin by Jack Sharkey, the glib and gabby one, in the third round last night. The referee, his finer instincts thus appealed to, was more than generous. He decided to let Loughran sit down for the rest of the evening. And in this ignominious manner did the heavyweight career of Thomas Loughran so hopefully launched only a few minutes earlier, come to what might charitably be termed an abrupt pause.

I do not profess to say that it came to an end. All I can venture, in this welter of emotion that follows hard upon the most disconcerting finish a major prize fight has known in years, is that the career of Jack Sharkey as champion-to-be is just beginning.

It was no fault of his that the defeated man accepted his defeat in the most amazing manner possible, an ending that will live on through the years as unique beyond all ordinary understanding. Having arisen at the count of five from a knockdown, Loughran heaved for a neutral corner and buried his head in his arms. It isn't an orthodox finish when a man turns his back on a fight he happens to be in. But this doesn't depreciate Sharkey's victory.

Put Him to Sleep
It enhanced it. For, if anything, Sharkey's right cross to the chin, producing the knockdown and the species of amnesia that followed, rated all the more distinction for the effect it had on a prize fighter whose record featured his toughness and durability to the highest degree. It was the first knockout of Loughran's career.

He had been hit on the chin by experts, including that sterling character who withdrew from the championship in order to devote himself to the cameramen of Europe. Loughran always got up and went on to fight some more. Last night he got up, too, but when he said:

"Let me sit down till I see where I'm at."

Loughran thought the round was over and that Referee Magnolia was one of his handlers. And I say to you that the man who hit him hard enough to make him think thoughts of this extraordinary nature must have been a man who hit him with something beside a sorority pillow.

Tom Still Game
Around the ring-side last night were hard-boiled critics who agree with Christopher Columbus that the world is not square, and some of them didn't hesitate to infer that Loughran was too docile in accepting his defeat. For me, Loughran can go to a neutral corner and bury his head in his arms several more times and still be a game fighter; he didn't wait until the biggest moment of his life to change his spots. He simply was sock-silly and what he did would have had no bearing on what he would have wanted to do if he knew that his name wasn't McSwiggan.

And again I say that the man who can hit you like that is a man who can have the heavyweight championship, at least until a better one comes along. I know not what the Muldoon-Tunney crowd looks like in mind, but I know that the thing to Jack Sharkey on last night's performance and have done with it. Maybe he hasn't been much of a fighter for two years but at least he was as good as the next contender during that time. He was, anyhow, and the Sharkey of last night seemed to be the Sharkey of 1927 before he became too intimate with Dempsey; in brief, last night's Sharkey was a real fighter.

His Big Mistake
He probably can thank Loughran for it, too. Tom had spent the last couple of years sneering in a very marked manner at the Sharkey fellow and the glib one reacts very unfavorably to this treatment. He hated Maloney, so he knocked him out. He learned not to love Loughran for himself alone. The result now is history. If the world was full of irritating fellows like these, Sharkey probably would be champion until his grandchildren demonstrated.

This perennial sneer of Loughran's was a psychological mistake, I'm sure. It was only one of several that he made. Perhaps the first of these came in entering a division somewhat beyond his physical proportions. Perhaps not. Anyhow, the town is overrun with guys today who wish to quote you the one about the good little man and the good big man. The trouble with that view is that all too few of them realized that Sharkey was a good big man until this morning. The closing price at ring-side was

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Norman McMillan, Cubs' third baseman, is a horse doctor... but he prefers being known as a veterinary scientist... The Striplings were going to fly to Europe, but Ma put her foot down on such high-falutin' ideas... Young Strib had had more than 500 hours in the air... Jimmy Dykes, Ed Rommel, Joe Boley and that astute "empire" Bill Mcowan, all came up to the majors from the same leagues down east... The three players are in the series this year and Ump McGowan called them in the series of 1928... Somebody told Chick McLean, coach at N. Y. U., that scouts secretly were watching the practice... He sent for them and invited 'em to get a closer look at the proceedings... "There's no mystery about football these days," said the Chick.

LACK OF PITCHERS HAMPERS PHILLIES

Rest of Team as Good or Better Than Any in League; Are Good Hitters.

The Phillies this year have been every bit as important to Philadelphia as slaves to a vest. In the mad joy of watching Mr. Mack's white elephants trumpet their way to a pennant and a World Series year, Philadelphia fan has had little time for Mr. Bert Shotton's Nationals. But next 1930 or 1931 at the latest, should bring a change. For, give Mr. Shotton a couple of pitchers who can do something more than perspire and the same lowly Phillies of 1929 may become some sort of a scourge. They have the hitting, O'Doul, Hurst and Whitney, for instance. They have the catching, plus a fine defensive infield. All they need is a flinger or two or sorts to set them on their way.

How they can hit was ably demonstrated yesterday when they clubbed Uncle Robbie's Robins, 12 to 3, with Vance on the mound. The one bright spot for the "Flatbush boys" was Johnny Frederick's 23rd home run.

St. Louis manager to ease one run over the plate in the last half of the ninth to beat the Pirates, 2 to 1, after Paul Waner's homer tied things in the Buc's half of the inning.

Other National clubs not scheduled. George Earnshaw, scored his 23rd win of the season and Al Simmons hit his 32nd home run as the Athletics bounced the Red Sox, 5 to 3.

Using the same tactics that delighted their late manager, the Yankees slugged out ten to three win over Washington. Bill Dickey led the Yank attack with a triple and a pair of singles.

Chicago and Cleveland were rained out while the other clubs were not scheduled.

ONLY AMERICANS LEFT IN CANADIAN TOURNEY.

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 27.—For the first time in the history of the event four American golfers were to tee off today in the semi-final round of the women's Canadian open golf championship.

Miss Glenna Collett, Miss Helen Hicks, Miss Edith Quier and Mrs. Stewart yesterday made certain that the 1929 title would rest in America by eliminating the last of the Canadian golfers.

Today's feature match finds Miss Collett opposed to Miss Hicks.

at least 6 to 5 on Loughran, with many bets having been laid at higher odds.

This was one mistake that wasn't Loughran's. The rest of them were his without a contest. They included the fact that he got up too soon from the knockdown, the count being only five, and that when a prospector hit the referee, he decided that the round was over, whereas it had progressed only 27 seconds.

As I say, however, these facts merely serve to prove what to be self-evident: that Thomas J. Loughran was thoroughly knocked out in the third round last night.

The Fatal Third
The third round was barely under way when Loughran retreated before Sharkey's attack and, just before he reached the ropes, was clipped on the chin with that right cross. His head hit the lower rope with a sickening twang and perhaps this had something to do with his ensuing confusion. However, I must persist in asserting that Sharkey's right had nearly all to do with it, if not everything. It had so much on it that Sharkey sprawled over the stricken Loughran with the force of the punch.

Loughran was as badly hurt as Tunney was in Chicago. He sat there in much the same manner, only he didn't stay sitting there. He got up too soon, whereas it seems to be a fairly well established fact that Tunney didn't. He might have been there yet if Dave Barry kept right on counting up to nine by way of the decimal system.

NORTH END PAIR WIN BY 54 PINS
The Tom Conran-Charlie Kebart combination increased its lead from one to 54 pins last night in the final half of its home and home bowling match with Ernie Wilkie and Red Orenstein at Conran's alleys.
The first game was won by the north end by 9 pins, the second by the north end by 5, the third game won by the south end by 5 pins. Going into the fourth, the north end was leading only nine pins. In the fifth box of the fourth game, the south end was leading by 23 pins. Conran started in the sixth box and made four consecutive marks rolling 140. Kebart got a spare in the eighth and filled it with a double strike for a score of 130 giving the north end a lead of 23 pins.
In the final game, Conran pulled a double strike. Conran had a total of 1185, Wilkie 1154, the latter winning by one pin over the 10 games. Conran.....101 113 105 140 125

Many Eastern College Elevens Are Weaker

Loss of Best Players Through Graduation Has Dimmed Prospects of Yale and Others.

With several of the great eastern teams of last year shot by what coaches are prone to call the disaster of graduation, new and powerful elevens will make their bids for the championship. Commencement, that anti-climax of a grid hero's life, has wrought havoc at Carnegie Tech, New York University, Yale, the Army, West Virginia, Boston College, Columbia. There ought to be some kind of law against it.

In the Big Three, Princeton still looks to be the best fixed, though having lost one of its greatest players to draw on a cleared shoe, Chuck Howe, and the mighty back, Mike Miles. Coach Bill Roper still has Eddie Wittmer and Trixie Bennett to start a backfield with, and that's not a bad start, either. Roper has Dick Mestras back in the center of that line and Bartel, Hockenbury and Captain Whyte for tackles.

Harvard was powerful last year, and still ought to be strong enough to beat Yale. Horween's team missed fire in some important matters last fall but the boys should work more smoothly this semester. Army may not have much fun at Cambridge this year, and Michigan may find John Harvard plenty tough out at Ann Arbor.

It would be nice to say something wonderful about Yale, because Mad Stevens is a grand fellow. But there you have us on the hip, as it were for Yale is just apt to up and disappoint. They do have a new quarterback this year that is labeled correct article little Albie Booth from last year's freshman.

Biff Jones has lost Hall, Hammack and Mort Sprague right up there in the line, but the Army coach is pretty lucky, at that. Besides having the greatest ball-turret in the country in the persons of "Onward Christian" Cagle, Biff has Murrell and Timberlake and the word goes out to watch Timberlake this season. Jones is not so fortunate in his schedule, however, as the Army meets, among others, Harvard, Yale, South Dakota, Illinois, Notre Dame and Stanford. A schedule like that is not to be depended upon.

Navy had a brave crowd last year, and only three of the regulars turned up missing this semester. After a dumb start in 1928, the Middies turned their ship about and started firing from another angle and it worked. Coach Ingram has a squad of experienced men. The team lacks stars, but there are more trained players to begin the season with than Ingram has had before during his three years at Annapolis. There are two or three men for every job. Chick Meehan has suffered. The Violet team of New York U. lost four great football players in Lassie, Strong Hill and Barabes. A nucleus of the team remains, but the rest of it is a question, and this may not be one of the Violet's best years.

Pittsburgh has lost the great Both and Hagen, but Doc Sutherland is a fine kind of reason. The first team will be composed almost entirely of seniors, and they don't always do so well as players with a future to make. Three Pitt players already are being mentioned as possible All-America choices—Pug Parkington, Ray Montgomery and Joe Donchess. Pitt will have plenty of color and strength in Uans, Williams, Captain De Meolo and Charley Tully.

Pennsylvania has lost Paul Scull, but will have a heavy eleven. In the line there are Captain Jon Utz, 200, and Tom Barritt, 192, as samples. The lightest of the regular linemen is Joe Olexy, who weighs a mere 160. The backfield has Walter Opekin and Coach Lou Young could use more men like him. So could anybody else.
Pen State prospects are good despite the loss of three regulars, Hamas, Delp and Wolff. There are veterans at end in Edwards and Kaplan, Leisch, from the freshmen, will take Hamas' job at fullback, according to reports. French, Evans and Diedrich are veterans in the backfield.
Howard Harpster is lost to Carnegie Tech, but Judge Wally Steffen is working with a splendid crew of replacements. Steffen has a good set of husky ball-carriers in "Burr" Karcs, 220-pound fullback; Dutch Eyth and Thayer Flanagan at the halves, and Harry McCurdy at quarter. Coach Steffen's main problem seems to be in the center of the line. Tech is of genuine championship caliber. New York U. and Southern California are on Tech's schedule this fall, and those two games will be among the season's high lights.
Jackson Cannell succeeds Jesse Hawley as coach at Dartmouth, but Cannell is not a new hand at this post. He has helped to develop the Dartmouth backfield for a number of years. The still Al Marsters is in the backfield and this should be his greatest year.
Four of the big Catholic schools give indication of strength. The problem at Holy Cross seems to rest in quarterback. Fordham is strong with a line averaging almost 200 pounds, and Major Cavanaugh says he can see a good team in the making. Lou Little has set a stiff pace for his Georgetown team, which must meet New York U., the Navy and West Virginia. Joe McKenney led Boston College through an unscathed season in 1928 and this

IZZY KAPLAN VISITS BUSCH

Izzy Kaplan of the New York Mirror, recognized as the premier newspaper photographer in the country, is in Manchester today visiting Frank Busch, local lightweight boxer. Kaplan was on the job shooting the Sharkey-Loughran fight last night and returned to Manchester with Busch, Morris Lessner and Lou Stowe.

The only $50 gold pieces ever minted by the U. S. government was for the Panam-Pacific exposition in 1915. More than 3000 of these were made.

Fighting Heart Made Tom Rise From Floor At Five

Loughran Made Mistake In Rolling Up Jack's Nerves; Was Leading Until Kayo Punch.

The latter was so completely dazed and senseless that he was wandering aimlessly about the ring with his back toward Sharkey when the referee did the only humanitarian thing possible stopping what was sure to have been a terrible slaughter.

The abrupt ending to a much ballyhooed contest for the championship of the United States was entirely unexpected and the suddenness with which it came completely stunned the crowd of 40,000 persons which paid close to $225,000 to see the two men fight. The excitement ran at a high pitch and it was between ten and fifteen minutes before the next bout went on. Everyone was asking his next door neighbor how it all happened. Even Loughran didn't seem to know for he was still groggy when led from the ring which marked the beginning and possibly the end of his attempt to win the title abandoned by Gene Tunney.

Crowd for Loughran
At the outset of the battle, in case it could be called such, Loughran was boxing very prettily, scoring often with his famous left jab and making the over-anxious Sharkey miss repeatedly as he danced sprily around him. The crowd, plainly anti-Sharkey in its majority, roared its approval as Tommy continued to give Jack a neat boxing lesson. The Philadelphia carried the first round with ease. The second was close. At this point Loughran seemed well on his way to a victory on points when the dramatic end came after 27 seconds of milling in the third round.

The fight was short and sweet. I have never seen any prettier boxing than Loughran flashed the opening two rounds, especially in the first, and the right which Sharkey unleashed in the third carried a full charge of dynamite. With all due credit to Sharkey for bringing Loughran's guard down by feinting a left hook to the mid-section, it

Back Toward Sharkey
Like a tiger pouncing on its prey, Sharkey tore across the ring intent upon finishing his man. Loughran was in no shape to continue, however, and Magnolia stepped between the men in time to prevent what might have been a serious outcome.

EARLY CHARTER OF BAY COLONY AT CELEBRATION

Boston.—After languishing for nearly two centuries in the musty archives of the State House here, the 300-year-old original charter of the Massachusetts Bay Colony will be given a permanent position where it might be viewed easily.

Through the efforts of the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary, Inc., which has formulated and directed arrangements for the Tercentenary celebration throughout the Commonwealth in 1930, plans were made which allow for the safety of the priceless relic of by-gone pilgrim days.

Because of its great historical value, the Charter has not been drawn from the State House files more than four times within the past ten years, and then only by special permission of the Secretary of State.

Visitors Allowed Under the new arrangement, anyone interested will be able to view the archives division of the Secretary of State's office and see the actual document which Governor Winthrop brought with his government, chartered by Charles I, in 1630.

A charter safe is to be inserted in a thirty inch brick wall so that destruction of the wall would be necessary to endanger the charter; and even that would not affect it, as the safe will be of fireproof material calculated to withstand the destruction of the building itself.

Reasons for Celebration This fact calls attention to the basic reason for the Tercentenary of next year: the commemoration of the setting up of the constitutional government in this country by the Puritans and also calls attention to the fact that the Commonwealth of today is a direct descendant to the Commonwealth the Puritans established in 1630.

The government over which Governor Frank G. Allen presides today continues, except for brief interruptions during the inter-charter period (1686-1689) that over which Governor Winthrop presided. The General Court of Massachusetts is one of the oldest legislative bodies now existing; only two have claim to earlier origin.

In addition to the colony charter of 1629-30, the exemplification of its ratification in 1684, the provincial charter of 1691, the explanatory charter of 1726, the constitution of 1780, with amendments to date, and

BIRD POISON IN WACO WAS ALSO DEATH TO GIRL

Waco, Texas.—When the grand jury meets here in November, it will hear from the lips of John Heussner his story of why birds in a residential section fell dead from the trees, why dogs and cats died by mysterious means and why a baby girl gave up her life by poison.

Heussner was the father of Rosa Lee, whose life was snuffed out, he said, when she received some of the deadly poisons which two farmer residents of the neighborhood broadcast through the alleys and streets without regard for the animal or bird life of that section.

His story is supported by affidavits of other residents who declare the persons named by Heussner—their names are now being kept secret—distributed poisoned morsels of food and grain in the streets and alleys a number of times.

Birds Fell Dead "I could see the birds falling all around," Mrs. J. A. Ramsey swore in an affidavit which will be handed to the grand jury. "They would be around you out in the trees and would fall down.

"They put out poisoned grain a number of times. They warned me to keep my cats out of the way; but they didn't poison anything a person would eat. That is, if they did, I didn't know about it."

Rosa Lee Heussner died mysteriously several months ago; doctors who treated her never discovered the cause of her suffering.

"I told him," says one affidavit which supports Heussner's story and names the suspect, "when the girl was sick that if anybody in East Waco knew anything about the kind of poison that was used, that would give relief to the baby, he was a sorry man if he didn't come out and say so."

H. E. Richey testified that his dog died. "She died," he said, within two hours after being taken sick, and undoubtedly from poison. I bought another dog and brought her home, and she too, died a few days later."

No Motive Known Other residents said they knew that the poison was being placed indiscriminately about the neighborhood, and some of them had it direct from the suspect, they said, that he and his wife were placing the deadly poisons.

No motive could be ascribed for the wholesale scattering of death dealing morsels which almost cleaned the neighborhood of animal life and which certainly, Heussner declares, took the life of his baby girl.

"They just must not have wanted any animal or bird to live around them," according to Heussner. "They killed my baby, too, and I want them punished for it. I'll find them."

the records of the Massachusetts Bay Colony from 1629 to 1686, according to plans, were also to be placed in the charter safe for display.

Let the Chips Fall Where They May!

FIGHTING HEART MADE TOM. RISE AT 5 COUNT

struck me that Tommy was a bit careless though not intentionally. The right which Sharkey uncoiled to end the fight started in Boston and ended in New York. It carried little if any deception. Loughran had more time to see the blow coming than Florida people have had to prepare for the present hurricane.

Yet, Tommy didn't seem to attempt to lift his guard to ward off the impending disaster, nor did he move his head for a similar purpose. Failure to do so, cost him the fight. The victory for Sharkey did a great deal toward regaining much of the prestige the garrulous Boston boy has lost due to his more or less unsatisfactory work against Heeny, Risko, Delaney, De Kuh, Christner and Stribling. However, Sharkey is one of the greatest in-and-outers the ring has ever known, and it would not be surprising to see him follow last night's triumph with a disappointing showing against either Max Schmeling or Phil Scott at Miami next February.

Sharkey is always at his best when someone roils his temper. That was shown in his bout with Jim Maloney, fellow-townman from Boston. Loughran made the fatal mistake of getting on Sharkey's nerve with continued remarks in the newspapers. As a result, Sharkey was at his best last night, plainly nervous at the start, due to his over anxiousness to get in there and make the "kill". It was a grudge fight pure and simple and it resulted in Sharkey finding his knockout punch which had been lying among cobwebs altogether too long.

Sword fish meat is now on many home tables in the East.

HATRY CASE POSTPONED

London, Sept. 27.—Clarence C. Hatry, British financier, and three associates, who were arrested after a slump of more than $30,000,000 in the shares of their companies on the London Stock Exchange, were again arraigned in Police Court today, but were remanded until October 4, without bail. The men are accused of obtaining money through false pretences as the result of stock sales. Expert accountants are now examining the books of the companies.

You only have to go out on the roads of a Sunday afternoon to realize what a great turnover the American motor industry is having.

Football Briefs

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 27.—With all the absentees back in the fold, Princeton was scheduled today to engage in its most strenuous football drill of the season. Yesterday the Tigers went through a 20-minute scrimmage, their first of the year.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Anticipating an aerial attack by Boston University when they open the season here Saturday, Coach Bill Jones is leaving no stone unturned in an effort to have his cadet squad well versed in the art of breaking up a passing attack. Yesterday Jones placed his varsity squad on the defensive for the first time.

New York, Sept. 27.—Four sophomores will be in Columbia's line-up in Saturday's opening game against Middlebury, Coach Crowley has announced. The Lions have completed their heavy pre-season work.

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 27.—Bromberg, star guard, is expected to be in the line-up Saturday when Dartmouth opens the football year. The big lineman was at his post yesterday and showed little signs of his injury.

WITH every leading tire company making and selling at least three different qualities of tires . . . at many different prices . . . how is the motorist to know what quality to buy? Or what quality he gets when he does buy?

Montgomery Ward & Co., too, sells three different qualities of tires, but we remove all guesswork by selling each quality under a definite measure of service—the mileage guarantee.

The Super-Service RIVERSIDE—unconditionally guaranteed for 30,000 miles—is as fine a tire as money can buy. It is in the same superior class as any of the leading so-called "Super" or "De Luxe" Tires—in everything but its price, which is greatly less than other tires of identical quality.

The Regular RIVERSIDE—guaranteed for 16,000 miles—is a first line, first quality tire in every respect, and even though the price is low (about the same price as the second lines of leading producers), the RIVERSIDE should never be confused with second or third quality tires of other manufacturers.

The WARDWEAR—guaranteed for 10,000 miles—is the outstanding tire in the low-price field—and for quality and service easily outclasses many other tires selling at considerably higher prices.

If you like to know beforehand the quality of the tires you buy and if you want to save $2 to $15 per tire—visit our store and inspect the complete Riverside line—in all sizes to fit all cars—ALL TIRES MOUNTED FREE.

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when her classmate, who is a beauty, is in love with her handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT. But she represents all that she knows of home and family and she adores him blindly. Brent changes all his plans for Helen's future after a chance meeting with a dying beggar, CHARLES NELLIN, who tells a strange story which Brent is able to corroborate to some extent by a trip to Yonkers.

On graduating, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to reveal her parentage and is amazed when he informs her that she is the heiress of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, and that he promised to take her to him when she was 18. Brent introduces her to Cunningham as his granddaughter and offers as proof a locket containing a picture of EVANGELINE CUNNINGHAM which he had taken from the dying Nellin.

CHAPTER XXI

Quickly Brent sought Helen and begged her to dance with him. "Why are you wearing your mother's locket?" he asked. "You might lose it."

"Why are you wearing your mother's locket?" he asked. "You might lose it."

outlasted his age and illness, having been a fool about her. He had slipped but rarely in his life and as he looked at Eva he felt a desire to choke her for having been the cause of one of those rare occasions.

One word to Helen of his attentions to Eva and he knew he might as well cry for the moon as to seek to win her. He seemed to realize the folly of his conduct with full force now that Helen had become the Cunningham heiress.

But later in the night he had a comforting reassurance of her feeling for him.

The guests were departing—long after Mr. Cunningham had retired. Mr. Helen suggested to Brent that they drive Eva home since she insisted that she could not remain overnight. She had to leave early the next morning for a music lesson in the city.

"Bob is coming for me," Eva told them with an appealing glance at Helen.

"Oh," Helen said indifferently, and then added enthusiastically to Brent: "Suppose we go and drive the sun up, Leno."

There was a silence as tense as a drawn bow, followed by a gasp that ran round the table from one guest to another.

Helen herself sat perfectly still, with her eyes dilated and wide with surprise.

Everyone turned to her as though expecting her to answer the unspoken questions that rose in their minds.

Mr. Cunningham held out a hand and she went to stand beside him, his arm about her shoulders.

"My daughter Evangeline's child," he said simply.

Hints On How To Keep Well

PROLONGED NERVOUS STRAIN MAY CAUSE HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBREIN, Editor of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

There are certain forms of blood pressure of which no one knows the cause.

Forty-eight years ago the device for measuring the blood pressure was invented. Since that time, hundreds of thousands of observations have been made with this device and insurance companies—particularly the examination of all sorts of people.

Those who have high blood pressure without Bright's disease, without overactivity of the thyroid gland and without any other demonstrable disease, are said to be suffering with essential hypertension.

Recently, Dr. Arthur S. Granger has analyzed some of the conditions which are associated with such cases.

Many cases occur in people who are of what is called a nervous temperament. In other words, due to nerve strain they are easily excitable, have headaches, nosebleeds and the hands are usually cold and perspiring.

Only recently it has been definitely shown that the glands of internal secretion have an exceedingly close relationship to the action of the heart and the blood vessels.

The records of the insurance companies seem to indicate that overweight may be related to high blood pressure and there is a well-established impression among physicians that small spots are not infrequently associated with this condition.

Quite certainly such repeated infections influence the conditions of the blood vessels and survey, Dr. Granger feels that the heredity and the overirritability of the nervous system, controlling the blood vessels, are the factors of greatest importance in causing those which are high blood pressure of which no definite causes are to be found.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
Author of NEA Service, Inc.

One of the greatest drawbacks in child training is the fact that so many parents differ from each other in ideas of discipline and treatment.

Also they may have very good ideas of child training in general but fail to take into account the very certain fact that all children are different.

That no two children act alike we know as certainly as that they do not look alike.

When Child is Unhappy. Suppose that Peter is not doing well. He is not getting along at school and he is generally unhappy.

Now two things should be done about poor Peter. For the chances are that his father yells at him and scolds until the air is blue, while his mother seeks him out and coaxes and coddles and cries over him in secret.

COMPANY APRON
An idea, entirely new, in apron with fitted bodice and gathered skirt with dipping hemline is seen in Style No. 688.

It is just as practical as it is attractive and will make an excellent gift that will be truly appreciated for every woman loves a dainty apron.

The gathered skirt in pointed outline is attached to bib section with straps that cross at back and fasten with buttons at each side of waistline.

Unbleached muslin piped in plain linen in vivid shade with pockets embroidered in wool in quite unique pattern in sizes small, medium and large, and only requires 1 3/8 yards of 40-inch material with 1-4 yards of binding for the medium size.

Pattern price 15 cents, in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap color carefully.

We suggest that when you send for pattern, you enclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our new Fall and Winter Fashion Magazine.

earnest about getting at the trouble the chances are that they will find it. They may not find it on that first evening but by observation and patience in time they will probably discover a lot of things about their son that they never thought of before.

Then a consistent and concentrated effort on the part of both parents to right a wrong and to bring back his self-respect may save Peter where ranting and scolding were not only useless but actually making him worse.

Officers' Association

The first meeting of the Girl Scout Officers' Association was held at the home of Miss Irene Buckland, with nine members present. There was a discussion concerning whether or not to hold a social with each monthly meeting. It was finally decided to precede each meeting with a buffet supper, the next one to be at the home of Mrs. Reinartz. First class work will be begun with signallings will be taken up at these meetings.

The question of where and when to hold the monthly rallies of the Girl Scouts was discussed. It was decided that they will be held at the Hollister street school on the second Friday of each month. Each troop will have charge of one rally. A different contest will be given each time, and a banner will be awarded to the troop winning the greatest number of contests. It was decided to have a drum and bugle corps, which will meet at the Franklin school. Lois Parker, secretary.

Drum and Bugle Corps
The Corps will meet at the Franklin school every Thursday evening from 6:30 to 7:30. The first meeting will be held September 19. All members and all Girl Scouts who are interested in bugling or drumming are invited to attend. The Springfield Girl Scouts won a first prize at the Eastern States Exposition, and are the champion corps of the Massachusetts Girl Scouts. Let's get started now, and see if the Manchester Girl Scouts can have a real corps this year.

Brownie Pack No. 1
This Pack will meet Thursday, October 3, from 4 to 5 p. m., at the Hollister street school.

Troop Two
There will be no meeting of Troop 2, September 30 and October 7. Next meeting will be October 14. At the meeting held September 23, it was decided to hold the meetings from 7 to 8:15, with Court of Honor meeting at 8:15. Officers for the year were elected as follows: Patrol 1, Leader, Lucy Taggart; Corporal, Ruth Crough; Patrol 2, Leader, Virginia Ryan; Corporal, Frances Packard. Ruth Crough was appointed Scribe. A new member, Anna Packard, has joined the troop.

Troop Five
At Court of Honor, Eunice Brown was elected chairman, Catherine Patten treasurer, Barbara Martin, secretary, and Pearl Martin, scribe. The following girls have earned gold attendance pins: Dorothy Foley, Eleanor Patten, Pearl Martin, Silver pins: Marion Apel, Faith Galina, Alice Spencer, Evelyn Foley, Eunice Brown, Florence Robinson, Florence Bert, Katherine Tract, Mary Quish, Betty Harvey, Barbara Martin, Marion Warner, Catherine Patten, Katherine Pike, Doris Campbell, Ruth McIntosh, Lucille Brown, Margaret Elliott.

If weather permits, Troop Five will have a dog roast at the next meeting, at Eunice Brown's. The girls are asked to bring their own supper, dogs, hamburger, marshmallows, or whatever they wish to roast. Pearl Martin, scribe.

Troop Seven
The regular meeting opened with the Girl Scout Promise and Laws. Leaf prints were made by each member of the troop. Patrol 1 decided to have the "Deer" for their patrol name. The troop then played a game of tadpoles followed by the closing exercises. Suzanne Bateson, scribe.

HABIBULLAH KILLED, CALCUTTA REPORTS

London, Sept. 27.—Unconfirmed reports were received here from Calcutta, India, this afternoon that Amir Habibullah (Bacha, Sakai), the man who rose from "water carrier" and hand chief to King of Afghanistan, has been assassinated.

It was stated in official quarters that no advices have been received to confirm the reports or throw any light upon them.

Recent advices from Peshawar stated that unrest was increasing in Afghanistan owing to Habibullah's inability to raise money, and that a counter revolution was threatened.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Beauty contests are at least as old as the Trojan war and probably older than that, but because of the way they have thrived in this country the past ten years, and the number of beauties who have contested for Miss America honors, we are apt to consider them our own pet institution.

However, Miss Turkey, otherwise Peritha Tevlik Hanoum, was recently chosen the beauty queen of her country in a competition that was sponsored by the leading newspaper of the country and which had 50 judges chosen from the arts, theater, the medical profession and the municipality.

And her reply when asked what she expected to do about her laurels was: "I'd like to get in to the movies. I'd rather have a career than get married."

And how many years is it now since Turkish women discarded their veils? France has recently been holding contests, but not the regular stereotyped sort. It seems to be customary in the smart cafes and hotels to have the guests vote for the most distinguished looking woman in the room.

When the votes are collected, the lady who has won the honor is approached to know if she is being declared the most distinguished lady in the room.

Just what would happen if she refused is not known, for so far no woman has objected.

BUSY WOMEN
The first school of its kind in this country has just been established by Dr. Mabel S. Douglass, dean of the New Jersey College for Women—a School of Politics for Women.

It is Dean Douglass' contention that whereas preparation for motherhood should include hygiene, diet, child psychology, cooking and the ability to read and write, that she needs a sound training in civil government.

She claims that housework has been so simplified that women have more time than ever before. Which causes me to ask: What do women do with the time they have to do all the actual work they do? Having just visited in a home with all the modern conveniences, with a maid and a laundress thrown in, I must say I never had less time, nor did I ever see a busier woman than my hostess.

But I am perfectly sure if any one suggested to her that she ought to study politics she would go in for that too. She is seriously engaged in doing good to the community and apparently it expects quite a large order from her. If Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; helps stop falling hair; keeps hair and scalp healthy; encourages the growth of long, silky, abundant hair. Five million bottles used a year. A THOUGHT

Let your moderation be known unto all men.—Philippians 4:5.

A thing moderately good is not so good as it ought to be. Moderation in temper is always a virtue, but moderation in principle is always a vice.—Thomas Paine.

George Washington, six feet three inches, was the tallest man to ever be President of the United States. Lincoln was one inch short of this mark.

Thick, wavy hair!

You, too, can have long, soft, abundant hair. It's simply a matter of using this easy method, approved by hair-specialists; endorsed by millions who haven't time for the more laborious treatments.

Tonight when you arrange your hair, just put a little Danderine on your brush. Then as you draw the bristles through your hair, see how the scalp is toned and soothed. See how the hair becomes softer, easier to manage; how its natural color is brought out; how it takes on new brilliance and lustre!

PRIZE DRESS MAKERS ANNOUNCED BY HALE'S

Winning Garments in Amateur Contest to Be Entered in National Competitions.

Winners were announced today in Hale's Amateur Dressmaking Contest, held the week of August 19 in connection with National Back-to-School Dressmaking Week and open to girls and women of all ages who were not professional dressmakers.

First prize, of ten dollars Class B, was awarded to Mrs. Ernest Evans of 85 West Center street who entered a three-piece tweed ensemble. Second prize, in the same class, two dollars and fifty cents, went to Mrs. John Porterfield of Lydall street, the winning garment being a Fashion print school frock with embroidered trimmings.

prize $2.50 in gold went to Miss Beulah Filbig, age 15, of 203 Main street with a blue print school dress. The prize winning garments will be sent to New York the first of next week to enter the National Amateur Dressmaking Contest where nine prizes will be awarded as follows: First prize, $50; second prize, $25; third prize, $15; with six additional prizes. The judges in this contest will be Miss F. Beatrice Hunter, assistant director Bureau of Costume Art, National Dry Goods Association; Miss Marjorie Kinney, School of Household Science and Arts, Pratt Institute; Miss Lillian Lockes, textile and clothing department, School of Practical Arts, Columbia University.

In the local contest the garments were judged last Tuesday by Miss Charlotte Gillette and Miss Mary Bowen, ninth school district sewing instructors, and Miss Mabel Manning, Hale's head dressmaker. The contest rules called for school garments—dress, coat, blouse, skirt, etc., and was divided into two classes: Class A—Dress or other garment by girls 6 to 16 years of age. Class B—Dress or other garment made by girls and women 17 years and up.

LEADING PREACHERS TO SPEAK AT YALE

List of Noted Clergymen from All-Over U. S. is Given Out Today.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 27.—Some of the leading preachers in the United States have accepted invitations from Yale to deliver addresses at the public services held Sunday mornings in Battell chapel. It was announced today by the Rev. Elmore M. McKee, pastor of the Church of Christ in Yale University. The list of preachers includes the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, a Fellow of the Yale Corporation, and president of the Union Theological seminary; Dean Willard L. Sperry, of the Harvard Theological school; the Rev. Dr. William J. Hutchins, president of Berea college; the Rev. Dr. A. Herbert Gray, of London, England; the Rt. Rev. Francis John McConnell, D.D., Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, New York, and President-Emeritus Arthur Twining Hadley, of Yale. Prominent New York clergymen who will speak at Yale include Rev.

MOTHER FOUND GUILTY OF POISONING HER SON

Belair, Md., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Hattie V. Stone today was found guilty of second degree murder for poisoning her son, George, 15. Sentence was deferred by Judge Walter Preston pending the appeal of defense attorneys for a new trial.

The boy died June 4. An elder son, Edgar, died last year. His father, Edward, died two years ago, and Mrs. Stone's mother-in-law, Mrs. Emma Stone, died four years ago. All died with convulsions, police were told.

In jail today the mother protested her innocence.

RUSS PLANE HOPS

Cordova, Alaska, Sept. 27.—The Russian plane "land of the Soviets," early today was to take off from Dutch harbor, Unalaska for Seward, a flight of 875 miles, dispatches reaching here stated. The four Russ fliers abandoned tentative plans to put in at Kodiak, it was stated. The course of the Moscow to New York plane today is expected to be over the Shelikof Straits south of the Aleutian mountain range. The plane is scheduled to fly from Seward to Sitka tomorrow provided that today's flight proves successful, it was stated.

ERRORGRAMS

That's Scrambled NYCREES It's all over the country.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around.

CORRECTIONS (1) Pursues is spelled incorrectly. (2) The usher, with his left hand, is indicating three vacant seats. (3) The musician at the right cannot be using a reed, as cornets do not have them. (4) The woman in the audience is wearing a large hat, which is against the rules in a theater. (5) The scrambled word is SCENERY.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Autumn Hopes and Fears. Stranger: "Who fears December's windy ways, Who minds the winter's freezing days, When logs are piled upon the blaze And all is warm inside?"

City Dweller: "You're talks all right for country folks, Who burn big logs of sturdy oak, But here that stuff is all a joke— Just listen to me cough."

"The days of fire are at an end: On steam heat here we must depend, And that's a game of just pretend— My toes are freezing off."

A Fellow Feeling. A wanderer drifted into the side door of a gymnasium just in time to see an acrobat, who was practicing, do a cart-wheel, flap-flap and full, twisting back to somersault.

There's nothing like a wedding To make a feller learn. At first he thinks she's his'n, But later learns he's her'n.

"I was reared in the lap of luxury," said the multi-millionaire's daughter. "Try mine for a change," suggested the impecunious young man.

If his mouth is grim and his face flushed, the lady he is teaching to swim is his wife.

"Ah," murmured Happiness to herself, "here is a man too busy to notice that I am here. I will camp with him."

When a girl says: "After I got my divorce," she emphasizes it like this, "After I got MY divorce." You know what she's afraid people will think.

Lecturing Explorer: "Just to show you the advance of civilization"

WON'T TAKE ADVICE. Kindly Aunt: Bobbie, you are very naughty. I heard you tell your little sister to go to the d-v-i-l.

REASON TO FORGET. Father: How is it you never remember what you have learned at school during the day? Tommy Bangs always knows what the teacher has said and can tell his father when he gets home.

EVERYBODY SATISFIED. Hill: I hear you've quit golf. Gill: Yes, I did it for the wife and caddies.—Judge.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS.

It's hard for a nurse to let well enough alone, when they're hungry.

—in the past the Eskimos used to eat candles for dessert. Clever Young Man Hardware Clerk: "And now, I suppose, they eat electric light bulbs?"

The fat of the land are diabetic. No one ever did good work for an indifferent boss.

When a man gets the best of his wife in an argument he's what the Bible would call "more than conqueror."

Chinese girls should have no difficulty in learning stenography. There is no spelling in that language.

A husband's first idea is to protect his wife it slowly dawns on him that he'll be doing well if he protects himself.

Wisdom causeth the face to shine, says the Bible. But we've never seen anybody with enough of it to have to use dimmer.

"A close friend," said some one, "may be a precious possession, but most of us prefer one who will loosen up occasionally."

WASHINGTON TUBBS II. HULLO, BOOK OUT FOR A LITTLE AIR? NO NO, MY SON. I JUST CABLED MY ATTORNEYS IN VIENNA TO TRANSFER A SMALL BIT OF PROPERTY TO YOUR NAME.

A CASTLE ON THE RHINE, A PALATIAL YACHT, A PRIVATE TRAIN, 7 ROLLS RUNCES, AND 11,000 GUSHING OIL WELLS IN MESOPOTAMIA AND ROUMANIA. ALL ARE TO BE YOURS.

THAT, MY BOY, IS TO BE YOUR WEDDING PRESENT, AND A PRINCELY GIFT IT IS. HA, NOTHING IS TOO GOOD FOR A SON-IN-LAW OF MINE.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Frances Balliano of 34 Lyness street left today for New York City for her second year of an art course she is taking at the Trapagen School of Fashion on Broadway.

Miss Florence Lewis of Pearl street and Miss Gladys Harrison of Center street are spending four days in Boston, visiting their sisters who are students at Boston University School of Religious Education.

The Junior choir of the North Methodist church will rehearse this evening at the home of the leader, Miss Bernice Lydall on Hudson street.

The Men's League of Center Congregational church will hold its annual autumn outing at Camp Kewpee, Coventry Lake next Saturday, October 5. The plan is to leave at the Masonic Temple at 1:30 p. m. Roy Buckler heads the committee on transportation, Ray Pillsbury, sports; James Craig, food. C. P. Quimby will be the cheer leader. The time will be spent in swimming, provided the weather is favorable; motor boating, horseshoe pitching, volley ball, rifle practice and other outdoor sports. A motion picture camera will be taken along and a real made to record the afternoon's high spots. All Center church men should plan to go.

The Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church which meets at 3 o'clock tonight will be addressed by Frank Ericson, traveling evangelist. This meeting is also the occasion of a reception on the last confirmation class. Arthur Anderson is in charge.

THIS GOB'S EXPERIENCE GIVES SLOGAN A BUMP.

A new use for a famous Manchester product has developed. Three Submarine Base sailors, beautifully illuminated, threw a lot of state owned lumber off the big highway bridge at New London. A bridge employe intervened, there was a row, the police came and the gobs were interned. One had a cut on his ear when he got to the police station. "How come?" asked an officer. "The bridge guy hit me with a cake of soap he had in a paper bag." "How do you figure that a cake of soap would cut you like that?" "It was Bon Ami," said the gob. "Away goes the slogan, 'It hasn't scratched yet.'"

Officers, teachers and substitute teachers, with their wives or husbands, of Second Congregational church school, will have their first monthly get-together this evening at the Williams farm in Buckland. The outing will take the form of a corn and frankfurter roast in the open.

Bill Waddell's orchestra, which for the last four years has been playing for the Saturday evening dances at Jenck's hall in Pleasant Valley, has been engaged to play for the Saturday evening dances at the Manchester Green school assembly hall, beginning tomorrow night. These dances were conducted successfully last season by a committee of young men and women from the Manchester Green Community club, under the leadership of John Boyle. Dan Miller will prompt for the old-time numbers which will take place every third dance.

FINDS 21 BUSINESSES IN ONE LINE UNTAXED

Close Check-Up Prepares Way for Assessors When Board Reorganizes.

As the result of some nine months of work applied to a more complete following of the Linder system of property assessment, Clerk Neal A. Cheney of the Board of Assessors has the affairs of that body in better shape for the activities of the assessors themselves, when they reorganize after the town election next month, than they have ever before been.

Daily contact with the records of the town clerk's and building inspector's offices has been maintained so that all property transfers and all new properties created are entered at once on the tax lists of individuals and on the other records of the assessors.

Through a system of checks a number of businesses which have never been taxed at all have also been brought to light. In one line no less than 21 establishments have been discovered which in the past nor been listed by the Board. They are small enterprises but the total of their valuation is considerable.

The closer attention to the details of the assessment plan made possible by the employment of a full-time clerk is expected this year to make its effect rather through an increased number of listings than through any notable enlargement of the grand list. Next year, however, is to be a year of revaluation under the Linder system and the precision in listing now being brought about is expected to figure importantly in that readjustment of appraisals.

TWO LOCAL BOYS ENTER YALE; 840 IN CLASS

Among the 840 enrolled in the Freshman class at Yale, thirty-seven states are represented with representatives from Spain, Japan, Canada, China, England, Hawaii and Cuba. New York tops the list with 230; Connecticut is second with 202 entries.

Local members of the entering class are: Ruthven T. Bidwell of 82 Chestnut street and Herman Yulies 91 Florence street. Vernon is represented by Myer Winckur and East-Hartford by Arthur G. Randall.

Approximately twenty-seven per cent of this year's freshman class are entering under the so-called Plan B. This plan gives students who come from sections of the country which does not offer college preparatory courses, an opportunity to enter college directly from a four-year course of certificate grade in an accredited school. Entrance examination consists of four subjects of their senior year, including English.

The Smartest Hats Are Brimless

Chic and unusual—different from any other hats you've had. Up in front, with wide expanses of forehead, to give you that wide-awake look. Snug at the neck, down at the back, out at the sides to give a little width, and a sweep to an otherwise sleek mold. You will adore the new models—they are extremely flattering. Felts and soles in a choice of colorings.

$1.95 to $10

The Slip-on Glove Leads for Fall
