ENGLAND'S BIG AIRSHIP MAKES GOOD ON TEST

Designed to Carry 100 Passengers and Ten Tons of Mail—Can Fly 4,000 Miles Without Refueling.

Cardington, England, Oct. 14.—(AP)—England's giant new dirigible R-101 returned safely to her mooring-mast this afternoon after her trial trip. The big airship cruised over London and other parts of southeastern England. She carried a crew of 38 and 14 passengers. Great crowds cheered as the airship started its flight. Commanded by Major G. H. Scott, the first man to cross the Atlantic in a lighter-than-air machine. The guests included Sir John Huggins, representing the Empire Air Council. Hot luncheon was to be served aboard.

Ship Criticized. The dirigible was taken from its hangar Saturday and moored to the mast, a half mile away. There recently has been much criticism of the ship, with various charges by various aeronautical experts that it would not live up to expectations in performance.

The R-101 is 730 feet long and 132 feet in diameter. Under the contract when the ship was laid down, she was to have a speed of 70 miles an hour at 5,000 feet, with a cruising speed of 63 miles an hour. At this cruising speed it was estimated the airship should be able to fly in still air a distance of about 4,000 miles without refueling with a normal commercial load.

The R-101 is fitted with engines using a heavy oil, the purpose being to reduce the fire hazard attendant upon the use of gasoline. Engineers are particularly interested in determining the degree of efficiency reached by these motors.

DANCE OF LIFE PROVES GREAT SCREEN ROMANCE

Just as Good in Pictures as Its Original Was on Stage—Hal Skelly as "Skid."

"The Dance of Life" with Hal Skelly immortalizing the role he made famous in 1200 performances in New York and elsewhere, is just as great a success on the screen as it was on the stage, and makes for excellent entertainment, as was attested by two packed houses at the State last night. It has everything, a romantic story, color, sound, dialogue, fun, drama. It absorbs the mind and heart in a great pulsing story. It is one of the greatest things the screen has ever offered. Hal Skelly relives the role of "Skid," which he created for the stage play, and, in "The Dance of Life" he is doubly effective with Nancy Carroll, the charming heroine of many pictures, opposite him. The picture is talking throughout. It is one of the most adaptable subjects offered the dialogue screen. Music works into the plot naturally. Catchy, new, especially written songs are heard, intermingled with a group of old time favorites. It is the real story of the real Broadway troupers, merry, laughing, fun-provoking before their audience, yet torn by domestic troubles, anguished by human heart-breaks in their own private lives. You will see what makes the show go on; see what hardships the troupers must contend with. You see true romance with

The TOWN DOCTOR SAYS
You Are Just As Big As You Think and So
There is only one obstacle to the progress of any community that is definitely fatal, and that is lack of civic spirit and team work on the part of its citizens. A few years ago a small town was in the sticks; today the only towns those made up of sticks and a "stick" is one who refuses to do anything himself or get together with those who will. A town is just as big as the people in it. The trouble is that it is easier to be little than big, and nature, left alone, does not improve without aid. A big job requires big people, and in this day of keen competition, "putting your town over" is no little undertaking, and if there is an overabundance of "little" people in any community, it won't be done. "Little" people are those who say it can't be done. "Big" people are those who interrupt those who say it can't be done, by doing it. Thinking Manchester is the best

FIRECRACKERS START BUENOS AIRES RIOT

Buenos Aires, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The final speaker at a rally of the Republican League last night asked his audience to stage a manifestation in homage to the national authorities, and some enthusiastic ones in their midst set off some firecrackers in response. A mounted police guard which had been detailed for the meeting believed the cracker report to be gun shots and charged the hall. Some of the audience, panic stricken, sustained bruises in getting out, but there were no serious injuries and the police, finally understanding the situation, withdrew. They said afterwards they had believed the meeting to be a protest against the government, rather than one of extreme pro-government tinge. IN WHOSE ARMS?

BASEBALL UMPIRE KILLS A HECKLER

Spaulding, Ohio, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Persistent heckling of an umpire's decisions in yesterday's game for the baseball championship of Paulding county, cost Jack Staley, 17, his life. Crone was held in the county jail pending an inquest today. Witnesses said Staley, who was standing behind the base where Crone was working, hooted the umpire continually. Twice during the early innings the two were pulled apart by spectators. In the last half of the eighth inning, the umpire suddenly whirled on Staley and struck the blow which knocked him to the ground, dead. Most white cats are deaf if they are bred from white stock.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Children and static are always worse when you have company.

First Safe Cracker—"Any luck lately, kid?"
Second Ditto—"Now, last night I worked two hours on a safe, and when I got it open it turned out to be a radio."

The practice of radio announcers, says Bill, who proclaim their names to radio audiences is out of all proportion to the demand for the information.

Teacher—"You'll have to stay in after school and work on your geography lesson. You didn't locate a single one of the cities."

Willie—"I can't locate them, but I know how to tune-in every one of them on the radio."

"Mother is the necessity for invention," said father as he tried to think up a new excuse for being late.

A college paper says the old saying: "Out of sight, out of mind," does not apply to college boys hands.

Patient—"I'm dreadfully nervous. I've never had an operation before."
Nurse (reassuringly)—"You needn't feel frightened; neither has the doctor."

The man who gives in when he is wrong is wise, but Joe says the man who gives in when he is right is married.

Do business problems worry you, or are you a golfer?

New commandment: Remember the Sabbath day must be broken completely.

Lives of great men all remind us Of this homely little text: "If you do the job before you, You'll be ready for the next."

"So glad," she gushed, "that you keep your cows in a pasture. I've always been told that pasturized milk was the best."

We heard of a Manchester lady buying a well bucket the other day.

GOOD HABITS HAVE TO BE CULTIVATED, WHILE BAD ONES GROW WILD.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

Some people are satisfied to blow bubbles and wait for the breaks.

She believes in the old oaken bucket, the iron bound bucket, the moss covered bucket which hangs in the well. They save an ice bill.

A woman says—but Joe says not if she can charge it.

"I took the recipe for this cake out of the cook book," exclaimed the young bride.
"You did perfectly right," said the husband. "It should never have been in there."

"Then the wedding was not altogether a success?"
"No," the groom's mother cried louder than the bride's mother, "it was considered very bad form."

The talking movies apparently meet the amusement needs of everybody except the gang that hangs around the stage entrance.

Teacher: Johnny, if five sheep were in a field; and one jumped out, how many would be left?
Johnny: There wouldn't be any left. You might know arithmetic, but you don't know sheep!

The human heart beats just as firmly beneath a work jacket as it does beneath a tuxedo, but a lot of people haven't found it out yet.

What we begin to wonder is the turn-in value on a used cigar lighter, late 1927 model with extra flint.

Anybody ought to be able to see we'll never have peace by training for war.

"You didn't know who I was at the game yesterday, did you?"
"No, who were you?"

REASON TO AGREE

"There ought to be only one head to every family," declared a man at the club.
"That's true," agreed a little chap, making figures on a piece of paper.

"You agree, do you?" asked the first man with a smile.

THE TINYMITES

The Tynies eyed the rabbit and wee Clowny raised his little hand. "Hold on a minute," he exclaimed. "What do you plan to do? That rabbit's never harmed anyone. It merely lives to have its fun. It looks forlorn. I guess that being caught is something new."
"Of course it is," a Weeone replied. "We sneaked up by this rabbit's side and dropped a box right over it while it was fast asleep. The bunch of us all yelled, 'Hurry!' and then it tried to get away, and when it couldn't, I'll just bet it wished that it could weep."
Another Weeone, with a grin, hopped to his feet and broke right in. "We're going to have a rabbit stew," said he. "It will be great. We're going to build a fire nearby and, as the flames rise to the sky, we'll cook this little bunny. Oh, gee, I can hardly wait."
bound. For just a moment he looked round at everyone and then he said, "For one, boys, I object. This rabbit's never done harm to us and that's why I kick up a fuss. We all would like to eat, but this is not what we expect."
"Don't kill the thing. Oh, what's the use? 'Twould be real kind to turn him loose. Let's find some tasty berries out of which to make a meal. The one thing that I want to see is Mister Rabbit turned right free. When we agree on that, think how much better we will feel."
The bunch agreed that he was right, so kindly Clowny Tynymite released the little rabbit and then put it on the ground. It ran right up to Clowny's feet and Clowny gave it leaves to eat. The Tynies and the Weeones smiled and promptly gathered round.
(Clowny entertains the Weeones in the next story.)
