

SWINDLER FACES LIFE IN PRISON

Used Name of Governor
Roosevelt to Get Two Valuable Rings from Jeweler

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—An old-time confidence man who used the name of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to swindle a firm of Fifth avenue jewelers out of two rings valued at $1,550 faced possible life imprisonment today.

Dick Richards, alias James Kelly, alias Cornelius J. Donovan, 54 years old, with a police record dating back to 1890, is under arrest in Bellevue hospital suffering from starvation and alcoholism. He is charged with the jewelry swindle.

About a month ago a man wearing well-tailored clothes and carrying a gold-headed cane walked into the Fifth avenue store of Black, Starr and Frost. He introduced himself as a member of the governor's household and said he had come to select a ring for the governor.

Selects Two Rings.

A salesman, T. Patterson, gave him his card and then brought out rings from which the man selected two, one priced at $800 and the other at $750. The customer ordered them sent to the governor's town house in East Sixty-Fifth street on approval.

The man was waiting on the steps when a messenger arrived with the rings. When the messenger demurred at giving them to him the man directed him to take them inside, where they were received by the butler.

Get Them Back.

Three hours later the butler, James Reynolds, received a telephone call saying the rings had been delivered by mistake and that Mr. Patterson of Black, Starr and Frost would call for them. The stranger appeared presented the card he had received from the salesman and departed with the rings.

A detective yesterday broke into a room in a mid-town hotel and found Richards ill in bed. In his pockets the detective said he found pawn tickets for $275 and $200 for rings.

Richards, police records show, has served four terms in New York prisons. During one term in Sing Sing he was secretary of the West-fare League organized by Thomas Mott Osborne, the warden.

Under the Baumes habitual criminal law, conviction in the jewel swindle will mean an automatic life term.

The investigation of the capital may not be great that Washington is dry, but so long as they keep printing the Congressional Record there will be one very dry article there anyway.

WALES IN AIRPLANE, INSPECTS DIRIGIBLE

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, it became known today, went yesterday, in airplanes, the dirigible R-101 making its trial voyage.

The British heir was in a Gypsy Moth piloted by E. Fielden, while Prince George was in his elder brother's old Blue Moth, piloted by Squadron Leader Don.

Both took off shortly after noon from Sunningdale, Berkshire, and toured the home counties in search of the dirigible. They finally found it and after circling it and viewing it from the air both returned to Northolt, Middlesex.

Few if any of the 52 passengers and crew of the dirigible realized two of the most important young men in England were included among the passengers of planes escorting the giant ship.

BAY STATE CITIES HOLDING PRIMARIES

Boston, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Municipal primaries in which majority nominations were at stake, were being held in seven Massachusetts cities today.

In three of the cities, Lynn, Springfield and Somerville, the incumbent executive is not a candidate for renomination. The latter city has experienced the liveliest primary campaign in its history, with Democrats imbued with the belief that for the first time they have a real chance of overturning the traditional Republican majority. Also, for the first time, there is a contest for the Democratic nomination, with three candidates in the field.

In Springfield the Republican nomination was contested between Carlos E. Ellis, a high school principal, and Theodore F. Geisel, chairman of the City Park Board. Dwight W. Winter was unopposed on the Democratic ticket.

Lowell, with its first city-wide partisan primary since 1911, must choose between former Mayor George H. Brown and Mayor Thomas H. Braden on the Republican side and former Representative Charles H. Sloney and Attorney James J. Bruin on the Democratic slate.

Mayor Michael J. O'Hara of Worcester, who is completing his sixth year in office, has three Republican opponents for renomination while John C. Mahoney, Democrat, is unopposed.

Still
More Millions
treat colds
DIRECT

More and more people every year are giving up the old, indirect way of treating colds by "dosing," and are adopting the modern, direct treatment—Vicks Vaporub.

"Dosing" is not only a round-about way to treat colds, but it also tends to upset the stomach. Being applied externally, Vicks, of course, cannot disturb the digestion. Just rubbed on, it acts direct through the skin like a plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing." To keep step with the ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds, the figures in the famous Vicks slogan are again being changed. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Paper Money Has Value!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

An ancient prejudice nursed the ignorant fear and distrust of paper money. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE inspires the faith which completely accepts the printed obligation. In the interest of convenience and safety, its use is universal.

"toasting did it" —

None is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

HELEN PAGE feels indebted to and in love with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT. The latter changes his plans for her future after meeting a dying beggar, NELSON, and tells the girl she is heiress of a millionaire named CUNNINGHAM. Brent takes Helen to the lonely old man and offers proofs which Cunningham accepts, as he had been searching for his dead daughter's child.

Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother ROBERT, who falls in love with her. Brent becomes jealous of Bob and plots to win Helen quickly, especially after finding another Nellen in the one he had taken for her. Hearing that a sudden shock would kill Cunningham, Brent slyly administers the shock, and the servants find the old man dead in bed. Then, by clever acting and appeal to her loyalty, Brent wins Helen's promise to marry him.

Later, she and Bob discover their true love for each other and he is furious when she tells him she cannot break her engagement. Even though she loves him, misunderstanding her reasons, Bob flirts with SHALLIMAR MORRIS, a school friend of Helen's. He does not know that she had tried to break with Brent and that he had made threats against her happiness.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI
Helen was turning to flee to her room when Shallimar chanced to look up and caught the glimmer of her pale garments.

"Helen," she called, "we're home!" Helen wheeled back and leaned over the banister to look down at them.

"Stay for coffee, Bob," she said cheerily, and if there was a sob under the bright overtones of her voice it was too soft for those below to hear.

"Sorry," he answered with a lightness to match her own. "Breakfast will be waiting at home."

"Well, invite him to dinner, Shallimar," Helen wheeled back, and rushed down for her room.

When Shallimar came up a few minutes later she was sitting in bed with her knees drawn up under her chin and her arms clasped around them, proudly blinking back her teletale tears.

"Did you have a good time?" she asked pertuently as Shallimar seated herself on the edge of the bed.

"Positively intriguing," Shallimar enthused. "The boy's unique. Wants to fall out of love with you, Helen."

Helen's cheeks flamed red. "So you were discussing me?" she flared. Shallimar raised a calm eyebrow.

"Why not?" she inquired. "But there's one thing I forgot to ask him, Helen. Why did you turn him down? Money?"

"You know better, Helen proclaimed swiftly. Shallimar nodded. "I really didn't think so," she admitted.

"He said for any girl who has money enough for two, Helen. Besides, that boy may be president some of these days. He has a lot of things that weren't passed out to the average man."

"There was something in the way," Helen confessed. "I can't tell you what it is. Furthermore, she stayed out all night with you. That proves he is easily consoled."

"Thank you for the nifty, dear. And to show you how I'm sweet disposition I have here is where I turn the other cheek. The boy hasn't fallen an inch for me—although he's going to subject himself to my charms whenever and wherever it pleases fate in an average life. But something may come of it. But tell me, was the something in the way one Leonard Brent?"

The WOMAN'S DAY

The American woman makes a ball and chain for herself out of her possessions, according to Fannie Hurst, the novelist, who finds that the more magnificent, most people become, the more stereotyped they are.

I knew some delightful people who had just the ordinary sort of a home most people have, furnished piece by piece, where they dispensed a certain hospitality and created a unique establishment.

Then they made so much money they felt they ought to expand. They took an expensive apartment in an expensive district, that was so impressive looking they did not trust themselves to engineer the purchase of such important items as curtains and rugs.

A Professional Job

Enter the interior decorator, who has no qualms. She did a capable job—so capable that none of the old furniture lived up to the background. So enter the second man who bought the old, lived-in pieces, and carted them away, while rich and magnificent ones took their place.

In a short time, they had a completely new environment, every room of which looked exactly like the model rooms in magazines or in the newspapers. It was pleasing in an impersonal way, but there was nothing about it to indicate any of the taste of the owners.

This new home represented a large investment—much larger than they had intended it to be. They were very careful of it, and they were impressed by it—so, that on the slightest provocation they would be glad to tell how expensive some rug or piece of bric-a-brac was.

And eventually they had to have a new set of friends to go with the new furniture and to match the new location. Their possessions have completely changed them from the simple, delightful people they used to be.

His Own Tailor

This isn't always the case just with women. I know a man who had a very smart little dress shop on an off-street, where he gave excellent personal attention to his clients.

Design No. 741 comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. You'll find it an excellent dress for general occasions.

The colleges have just received an influx of young men and young women, many of whom have departed from the shelter of home for the first time.

The freshman is a freshman in every sense of the word and his greenness constitutes a considerable trial to the medical authorities.

Not infrequently the newspapers carry accounts of death after two or three days' illness of some person who has inadvertently scratched himself or squeezed a pimple.

A pimple should never be opened except with sterile precautions.

Very probably the individual who has been infected will have a chill as a sign of the infection.

The fluid does not contain germs, but is made up of fluid material filtered in from the blood.

SENSE and NONSENSE

TALKING OF SPEED. Two dusky chickens thieves were running down the road. When the Manchester farmer let go a charge of birds shot in their direction, he heard this conversation: Sambo—"Mose, yo' all quit kickin' dat gravel in mah face." Mose—"Dat ain't gravel, Sam, dat's bird shot you all am ketching up to."

They Told Not— A small negro boy, aged six, in Goodland county, Virginia, accompanied his father to Richmond recently, his first visit to the city. "How did you like it in town?" someone asked him, upon his return. "Hit's all right," replied the little ducky, "but Ah doan' see nobody workin' dey's all jes' walkin' aroun'—Ah doan' see how they makes a livin'."

Evidently an innocent 'allegator' says Bill: Judge: "Sambo, this is a serious charge against you. Have you anything to say in your defense?" Sambo: (haughtily) "Yoh Honah, Ah denies de allegation an' defies de allegator."

A henpecked negro was suing for separation from his wife. The judge wanted to know what grounds. "Oh, she talk an' talk an' talk an' Ah can't stand it no longer," was the reply.

Joe may have been on this sleep-er. At any rate he seemed to know all about it. The night was hot, and sleep difficult to lure. Just about the time a fellow was lulling to rest a woman's voice would rise: "Oh, Lard, but I'm drry."

All quiet again, almost to sleep. "Oh, Lard, but I'm drry." The negro porter came along in a hurry, got a nice cold drink, fixed the dry lady, asked if she was comfortable.

"Shure, and God blise ye." All nice and quiet, just about off in a glorious ride on clouds of fluffy white, when with loud exhaling voice came forth: "Oh, Lard, but I was drry!"

Colored Maid (to Mistress): "Missus, will you please, mam."

Sport Writer: "Is the big colored boy in shape for the fight tonight?" Trainer: "Yes, suh, Boss—he's in de ink of condition."

When a colored man was caught carrying a collection of booze at Freedom, Pa., he claimed he did not get it for litigation purposes, but was going to use it to wash his baby. Omigosh three times!

George: "Listen, Sambo, is this honest liquor?" Sambo: "It shore be, sah, de label is dated 1929."

Stuttering Mose: "J-Just think, t-that b-b-beautiful b-b-butterfly once c-c-came from a c-coconut." Rastus: "Dat's no lie, brother. De next thing Ah knows dat woman'll be wantin' shoes."

Magnolia: "When Mandy went and got married, us girls done give her a shower." Pansy: "Dat sho' was nice. Ah'll bet her husband was glad to get her all nice and clean."

A colored lady told us that some lady had asked her to ride in her car which was in a very dilapidated condition. She said when she rode in a car that it had to be more than that part of a car.

Mose: Ah hear's your wife is gettin' all uppity these days wif a new second-hand hat and sech stuff!" Rastus: "Dat's no lie, brother. De next thing Ah knows dat woman'll be wantin' shoes."

The way health authorities are warring on weeds, pretty soon there won't be anything left to smoke.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The rabbit now seemed pleased. You bet! It said, "I never will forget that Clowzy saved my life. Some day I'm going to pay him. I'll be as glad as I can be to help him out when he needs me. There's not a single thing, I'm sure, that I'd refuse to do." "Oh, that's all right," wee Clowzy said. "Perhaps you'd better hop ahead and he back to your little home. We'll meet again some day. Course if you'd rather stay right here, there's not a thing that you need fear. We're going to find some good food to eat and then turn out for play." "Oh, my," the rabbit snapped real quick. "I have a plan that I think is slick. I know where heaps of berries are. I'll lead you to that place. The rest can wait here for our treat and we'll bring back good things to eat." So Clowzy trailed the rabbit, and a smile spread on his face. They found the berries and came back. "Oh, my, but they are nice and black," said Copsy. "And you have enough to satisfy us all. I love blackberries very much. They look almost too nice to touch. But come on, boys, let's eat them. We'll be foolish if we stall." Then each one ate all that he could and all agreed that they were good. "I'll tell you what we'll do right now," said Scouty, with a grin. "We'll find a nice vine, or anything with which we all can make a swing. We'll give the Weeones each a ride, if they will climb right in." The swing was made. Then Carpy cried, "Come on there, Weeones, hop inside. We'll swing you all at one time 'cause that really seems quite fair." The Weeones hopped aboard the swing and Scouty promptly pushed the thing. They Times stood and laughed to see the Weeones sail through the air. (A big bird swoops down in the next story.)

DRUGGISTS SHOW OLD TIME TOOLS OF TRADE

The druggists have their "week," too, called "Pharmacy week." It is observed by unusual window displays. At James H. Quinn's the feature of the display is an old time herb grinder, such as used to constitute an important factor in the practice of the pharmacist. Nowadays every possible form and derivative of the medicinal plants comes to the druggist ready for use but there was a time when they were received pretty much in their natural state and the prescription compounder had to prepare them for use. The machine which looks like a hand coffee grinder, was employed in pulverizing these elements.

At Miner's pharmacy they are showing one of those over-stuffed prescription books in which the prescriptions used to be pasted and in which they could be found later—after sometimes hours of research. Nowadays the druggists use a more scientific filing system.
