

HOOVER DEDICATES CANAL'S MEMORIAL

President Praises Men Who Made Possible Waterway from Pittsburgh to Cairo; Speaks Amid Heavy Rain.

Eden Park, Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Standing on a towering bluff overlooking the Ohio river, President Hoover today dedicated a white granite shaft commemorating the completion of the lock system on that waterway from Pittsburgh to Cairo.

"A new agency of service now begins its quiet labors for mankind," Mr. Hoover said in congratulating the whole Ohio valley and the nation on this occasion. "This new instrument of commerce, from which untold blessings will come year after year, is an enduring monument to those patient men of my own profession whose lives are spent in devising means to increase the comfort and convenience of the world," he said. "But men of every mood have wrought with equal bravery in this transformation of the wild beauty of the Ohio river into the not less beautiful but more tractable stream of today. The engineers found the practical means, but many others contributed to the vision, courage and persistence needful to this accomplishment."

"Statesmen, river men and business men may share the glory. The elders present may well regret the absence of such stalwart figures as Colonel William E. Merrill and Captain William B. Rodgers, whose ingenuity and dauntless faith bore so large a part in this achievement."

The chief executive paid special tribute to the long labors of Senator Theodore E. Burton and Speaker Nicholas Longworth on behalf of the improved waterway and he expressed deep regret that Senator Burton, who was chairman of the first inland waterways commission, was unable to be present because of illness.

Mr. Hoover was presented to an audience of several thousand on the bluff and untold thousands who heard the ceremonies on a nationwide radio hookup, by Governor Cooper of Ohio who with Governor Conley of West Virginia, greeted the chief executive here.

Gov. Samson of Kentucky was detained in his state by official business but will welcome Mr. Hoover at Louisville tomorrow afternoon at the conclusion of the voyage down the Ohio from Cincinnati, which will be started in mid-afternoon.

A drizzling rain fell throughout the ceremonies which were the most at the base of the enormous old vine-covered water tower at the summit of the park. The speaking was from the band stand but the rain drove in on the chief executive who was far from dry as he got out of a drive of three and a half miles from a hotel to the park in an open automobile with Mrs. Hoover at his side.

After the simple ceremonies at the park, the president's party drove to the home of Speaker Longworth on Grandin road, East Walnut hills, before returning to the Hotel Gibson for lunch as the guest of the city of Cincinnati.

Oscar Barrett, president of the Ohio Valley Inland Waterway Association, presided at the Eden Park ceremonies and presented Mayor Murray Seasongood of Cincinnati, who in turn presented Governor Cooper. The governor warmly welcomed Mr. Hoover on behalf of the seven millions of people of Ohio.

AMERICAN TO HEAD WORLD FINANCIERS

Delegates Fail to Agree on Frenchman and Italian; Traylor's Suggestions.

Baden-Baden, Germany, Oct. 22.—(AP)—American delegates to the conference on the Bank for International Settlements, have both been suggested as possible presidents for the new bank, but both are understood to have declined the honor.

The correspondent today is in a position to reveal interesting details showing how the bank's statutes were shaped with the idea that an American president not only will head the new institution, but will have vast powers virtually enabling him to make or unmake it.

After failure to launch the candidacies of a Frenchman and an Italian, the European delegates felt they would never agree on a non-American for president. They also wanted the president's powers to be limited by a number of vice presidents with whom he would have to share responsibility.

After listening to the various arguments, Mr. Traylor declared

SENATE TAKES UP INCREASES IN THE TARIFF

Touches on Many Industries and Will Take Weeks to Discuss—Oils and Paints Are Up First.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Despite a downpour that drenched Washington as it went to work, the Senate assembled promptly at 10 a. m. today and for the first time took up consideration of the proposed increases in tariff rates on various articles.

Touching as they do many phases of industry, the controversy over these duties threatened at the outset to expand to greater proportions than that which has developed over the administrative features including the disputed flexible provision. Only six weeks are left if the row over rates is to be finished at the special session and administration leaders have decided wherever possible to reach agreement without debate.

Insurgents United Democrats and western Republicans that worked with such success in writing its own amendments to the major administrative sections, including the duties plan and a substitute for the existing flexible tariff clause, were confident of holding their lines intact in most instances over proposed higher duties to the industrial schedules.

It was expected, however, there would be breaks here and there on individual items.

Many Changes The first schedule up today was that embracing chemicals, oils and paints—one of the industrial trumps. More than 100 changes, including both increases and decreases, have been proposed in the schedule by the House and the Senate finance committee.

Committee amendments had first consideration, then individual amendments.

Senator King of Utah, ranking minority member of the finance sub-committee in chemicals, was in charge of the debate for the opposition, while Chairman Smoot headed the regular Republican forces.

One of the principal contests over this schedule is expected on dye stuffs, one of the few commodities in the present law on which

WILBUR OUTLINES MEDICINE'S NEEDS

Secretary of the Interior Says Doctors Should Pool Scientific Discoveries.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A new social significance for medicine—to give everyone, regardless of residence or economic condition, the best the profession affords—was urged today by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, at the dedicatory exercises of the new medical building at the University of Virginia.

After outlining a steady progress of medicine which he attributed to understanding, Dr. Wilbur described the tradition of the man of medicine as calling upon him to make his discoveries available to science and to every other doctor.

One Thing Missing. "Now, he faces the necessity of working out a program which will make his discoveries actually available to all," the Secretary said. "We have the facts, we have the trained physicians and nurses, but we have not as yet been able to meet the ideal of seeing that each member of civilized society obtains that advantage which is possible to him if he can get his share from the great pool of scientific medicine."

"To make medicine fit in with the other social forces so that its distribution will be uniform," he continued, "is vital in its age of science and democracy."

Up to Profession. Leadership in the readjustment, he said, should lie with the profession. He pointed out that people know through mediums of education, the newspaper and the radio, "that they are not getting full advantage of all of the forces that are available" in the field of medicine. "They are seeking relief and reaching out for means and methods which will bring it to them regard-

NAVAL PARLEYS NOT IMPORTANT LEWIS ASSERTS

"Because the Next War Will Be by Air and Chemi- cals," Says Former U. S. Senator in Address.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The promise of marine nations to reduce their navies is but a "brandish of international courtesy," former United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, told the United Rotary open meeting today in conjunction with the American Bar Association.

Naval limitations conference means little, he said, because "the next war will be by air and chemicals," and navies will not be important.

"Only actions of the people of the nations making for an understanding of the needs of each other, then composing the grievances felt by the citizenship of one country against another can assure us against war," he said.

Serve Politicians "Past experiences will teach us that diplomats and statesmen will agree to anything that serves the politicians of today. Mankind has lost confidence in the pretenses of politicians because tricked too often to destruction by the deception of diplomats."

"Let there be an end to the serving of political exigencies that make only moving pictures of ambitious statesmen and little-tattle talkers of international delegates pledged to trap each other by the pretense of peace."

Disarm Hatred He said the recent conversations of President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald mean nothing without approval of their people "and these people have seven times beginning with the peace treaty and the League of Nations refused approval of their diplomats."

The former senator said "first let the people of the nations disarm of hatred, then arms of war will disarm themselves."

BLAMES DEMOCRATS FOR TARIFF DELAY

Rep. Tilson Says American Business is Entitled to Early Enactment of Bill.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Senate as a whole and its Democratic members in particular were blamed today for delayed enactment of the tariff bill by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader.

In an address prepared for delivery before the annual convention of the American Hardware Manufacturers association, Tilson declared that business of the country was entitled to early enactment of a tariff bill.

He said that "general denunciation" rather than "fair and thorough consideration of rate changes" had been given the bill in the Senate for reasons of political effect.

Blames Democrats. "It was to be expected," he said, "that political expediency would cause our Democratic friends to take the field in opposition to any bill the Republicans might favor." He added that he could not understand, however, any one who believes that the present law is satisfactory and at the same time denounces the pending bill as utterly bad.

"It is well recognized, however," he continued, "that agriculture in many lines has been in a depressed condition, and as a consequence quite a general willingness has been manifested to give the products of the American farm every possible advantage. It is admitted that in some lines of agriculture tariff duties cannot be made to operate effectively, but wherever and whenever it is made to appear that tariff duties will be helpful very liberal increases in rates have been readily conceded."

TREASURY BALANCE. Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Treasury receipts October 19 were $11,786,058.39; expenditures $23,005,472.79; balance $252,055,716.40.

SHIP'S OFFICER ARRESTED

Another chapter in the mystery of the murder aboard the steamer Creole was written in New York harbor when the vessel docked from New Orleans, and pictured above is the arrest of handsome, dapper John McCouderick, right, the ship's second officer. He has been indicted in New Orleans for the slaying of Jack Kraft, New York artist whose body, with a bullet hole in the chest, was washed upon a levee. Police suspect that the officer, shown lower left in a close-up, slew Kraft after a quarrel over Jane Ord, lower right, pretty show girl who was traveling on the boat.

First Woman To Have Hair Shingled, Dies In London

London, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Lady Sarah Wilson, one of London's famous hostesses and heroine of many adventures in the Boer war, died in London today at the age of sixty-four.

Lady Sarah was a daughter of the seventh Duke of Marlborough and was aunt of Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, and had been visiting in the United States.

She went through the siege of Mafeking in the Boer war with her husband, Colonel Gordon Wilson, and for her services in tending sick and wounded soldiers under fire, was decorated with the Order

FLYER HOPS OFF FOR LONDON, ENG., Leaves Letter at Newfoundland Airport Station He Means to Cross Ocean.

BULLETIN! St. John's N. F., Oct. 22.—(AP)—U. F. Dittman, Jr., flying from Harbor Grace to London, left the coast of Newfoundland at Cape St. Francis ten minutes after his takeoff at 12:15 p. m. today, or 12:45 Eastern Standard Time. Cape St. Francis is 17 miles north of St. John's.

Harbor Grace, N. F., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Without a word of warning as to his intentions, Aviator Dittman of Billings, Mont., hopped off here today for London, England. His destination did not become known until after his departure, when a letter to airport officials was opened.

Dittman came here three weeks ago ostensibly to look up the family records of Sir Francis Drake. The takeoff was at 12:15 p. m. local time with good weather prevailing. His plane, the Golden Hind, a low-winged monoplane.

The airman carried only 165 gallons of gasoline when he took off. The letter said he intended to head out over Cape St. Francis and set his course straight for London.

PLANS UNKNOWN. New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—U. F. Dittman flew from New York to St. John, N. B. early this month saying he intended to search family records in Carleton in connection with an estate he is interested in.

No one here knew of his plans for a trans-Atlantic flight. Dr. Kimball said conditions were good for a take-off at Harbor Grace this morning. The weather was clear with good visibility and there were light northwest winds.

The temperature was at 48, however, he said, and Dr. Kimball described this as "pretty cold." The pilot will encounter no danger if he flies low, he explained, but if he seeks high altitude there is dan-

PERPETUAL LIGHT HONORS INVENTOR

800 Lamps in an 18 Foot Bulb Stands on Tower 100 Feet High at Menlo Park.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A perpetual light in honor of Thomas A. Edison is now glowing on the very site where 50 years ago he invented the incandescent bulb. Its dedication last night at Menlo Park was the climax of an 11-day observance throughout northern New Jersey of light's golden jubilee.

The light is contained in a steel tower 100 feet high on which was surmounted an 18-foot "bulb" in contour identical with the one first produced by Edison. The "bulb" was made up of 800 lights of gold. Both were turned on at the touch of a switch in Dearborn, Mich., by the inventor himself.

The dedication was part of a program arranged by the Edison Pioneers, an association of men who have worked with the "Wizard of Menlo Park" for the past half century.

EDISON RESTING AT FORD ESTATE

Aged Inventor Stood Up Well Under Last Night's Big Celebration.

Dearborn, Mich., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Having put behind him one of the most thrilling days of his life, Thomas A. Edison was resting at "Fair Lane," the country estate of Henry Ford today, preparing to return to his home in East Orange, N. J. When he leaves he will carry with him the memory of a tribute voiced not only on behalf of the inventor by President Hoover, but literally from the far corners of the earth.

It was a tribute paid in the presence last night of about 600 notable guests invited by Henry Ford to join in honoring Edison on the anniversary of his perfection of the incandescent light. It had as its general setting the early American village Ford has constructed on his Dearborn property.

Has Given of Honor To Edison, even the seeds of honor at the speaker's table despite the presence of the President of the United States—an honor rarely accorded a citizen—it was an hour of supreme happiness. It required all the genius of Edison to stand up in the presence of the President and other notables and acknowledge the tribute. Several times during the brief acknowledgment Edison came near the breaking point. But he started in bravely, and with a resounding "good night" betrayed a courage as rare as his inventive genius.

Immediately after his brief acknowledgment, Mr. Edison was accompanied by Dr. Joel T. Boone, President Hoover's physician, to the Ford home to rest after one of the most exciting days he has experienced in years.

Reports that Mr. Edison had collapsed due to the strain of his golden jubilee day were emphatically denied today. It was said the inventor had stood up well under the program and was resting today.

BRIAND IS DEFEATED IN CONFIDENCE VOTE

His Resignation Expected; Recent Parley at Hague Raises the Issue.

Paris, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Briand ministry was defeated on a question of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies late today. When Parliament reassembled today after the summer vacation the opposition interpellated the government regarding its policies at the recent reparations conference at the Hague. Premier Briand demanded that the discussion be postponed until November and raised the question of confidence in his cabinet.

Premier Briand, who formed the Cabinet on July 29 last after the resignation of Raymond Poincaré on account of ill health, desired that the budget be taken under consideration by the Chamber before taking up the interpellation.

M. Briand's resignation was expected to follow the defeat immediately.

FURNISHES BONDS Westport, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Paul Ochs, 23, Brown University senior and member of a prominent Boston, Mass., family, has posted a $200 bond with town court officials here to guarantee his appearance Monday next to face charges of reckless driving and evading responsibility.

Business Manager of Fisheries Association Tells Sena- tors He Was Told He Would Have to Win Over Bing- ham and Eyanson to Have Rates Lowered—Head of Corporation on Stand Today Testifies to What He Did to Have Tariff Reduced.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Advertisement by the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Corporation of a reduction in the tariff on fish was inquired into today by the Senate lobby committee.

F. W. Bryce, president of the corporation, was called after the committee had been told that Senator Bingham's assistant, Charles L. Eyanson, a representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, had urged a decrease in the fish tariff.

Bingham, a Republican member of the Senate finance committee, employed Eyanson as his secretary at the time the committee was considering the tariff bill.

Called On Bingham Bryce testified he had sent out telegrams to fish dealers urging them to wire members of the finance committee to reduce the fish tariff "in the interests of consumers and dealers." He said he called upon Senator Bingham once.

Edward Cooley, business manager of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association, testified yesterday he had been told he would have to "win over" Bingham and Eyanson to succeed in his efforts for retention of the fish tariff.

Bryce said his corporation had hired Frederick Meisner from the United States tariff commission last June. At that time the Senate finance committee was beginning consideration of the tariff bill.

"His employment had no relation to the tariff bill," inquired Walsh. "Not at all," Bryce answered. "We did not present a brief or go before the Senate finance committee."

Under questioning by Chairman Caraway, Bryce said Meisner prepared data for some of the briefs submitted to the fish tariff by the Senate committee.

Asked where data for the briefs was obtained, Bryce said it came from public records.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Senate lobby committee today recalled William Burgess, former tariff commission member, now employed by the United States Fisheries Association, to question him about testimony he gave the Senate finance committee on June 12 during which he said he represented only American manufacturers in general.

Questioned by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, regarding his testimony on that occasion, Burgess replied he had not appeared on behalf of his association at that time.

"I was there as an individual on the question of valuation," he added. "After a few other questions Burgess was dismissed and F. W. Bryce, president of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Corporation of New York was called.

"Absolute falsehood," Bryce testified regarding a statement to the committee yesterday by Edward Cooley, business manager of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association, in which he quoted Bryce as demanding that Cooley support a campaign to put fish in the free list.

He denied the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Corporation was a Canadian concern and said that five of its 17 trawlers operated in Canadian waters and about 75 or 80 per cent of them landed at Groton, Conn.

Bryce asked a permission to the committee yesterday by Edward Cooley, business manager of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association, in which he said Bryce had demanded that Cooley support a campaign to put fish on the free list.

"That is an absolute falsehood," shouted Bryce. "Did you talk to him?" asked Chairman Caraway.

"Not since a fishers convention in September a year ago." Later, however, Bryce referred to a telephone conversation with Cooley but he said Cooley then called him.

"That was when the bill was before the House, anyway," Bryce explained, "and this statement of Cooley's relates to when the bill was before the Senate."

His Attitude. Denying that the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Corporation was a Canadian concern Bryce testified that five of its 17 trawlers operated in Canadian waters. About 75 or 80 per cent of the trawlers land in Groton, Conn., Bryce said.

"What was your attitude on the fish duty?" inquired Walsh. "We felt the duty should measure the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad," he replied.

Senator Walsh demanded to know if he wanted the tariff raised or lowered. He replied he wanted the fish duty lowered.

Cooley yesterday related that

Senator Bingham and Charles L. Eyanson, assistant to Bingham, stood firm on the Atlantic coast fisheries demands on tariff, a seasonal reduction in the fish tariff approved by the senate finance committee.

Bryce was the last witness today. The committee adjourned until tomorrow when it will hear from J. E. Wulchert, of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, and Eyanson before returning to activities in connection with sugar rates.

Replying to Walsh, Bryce said he called upon Bingham about three or four weeks ago and told him of a desire for a reduction in the fish tariff. He said that meeting occurred in the public lobby of the Senate chamber in the capitol.

Wanted Lower Rates Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, asked if the fish company did not want a reduction in the fish tariff in order to assist importations from Canada. Bryce denied this.

He said he did send out a telegram, produced by Cooley, calling upon fish dealers to wire requests to their Senators and Representatives in Congress for lower fish duties.

"Yes, I am willing for the world to know that we wanted a lower fish tariff," Bryce asserted.

The witness estimated that he sent out more than five and less than 12 of the telegrams.

The telegram, addressed to C. A. Matteson, at Indianapolis, stated, in conclusion: "Please try find out where your United States Senator is located sending him wire."

The wire also asked the fish dealers to send to members of the Senate finance committee telegrams urging a reduction in duties on fish.

CALLS ASSISTANT Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Senate lobby committee today called in a special investigator and attorney, John Holland of the Prohibition Bureau, to assist it in its inquiry.

Holland is from Butte, Montana, and assisted Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, during the Senate investigation of the leasing of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve. Walsh is a member of the committee.

LOCAL MAN TO GET
DARIEN TAX OFFICE

Frank D. Waddell Named Commissioner for Three Years at $4,000 Per.

Frank D. Waddell of 59 Cooper Hill street, a well known basketball young man, especially in basketball circles, has been appointed tax commissioner in the town of Darien near Stamford, it was announced today by officials in that town.

Waddell's appointment is for three years at an annual salary of $4,000. It was stated, "The local young man will assume his new position the latter part of this week. His appointment to this position comes as a result of his work under Thomas Linder of New Britain in installing the Linder system of property tax assessment about the state.

Waddell, a graduate of the local high school, first worked for Linder when the latter was installing the tax system in Manchester and Linder was so satisfied with his work that he took Waddell with him to other towns and cities. Waddell's duties at first were those of clerk, but he gradually learned the work so thoroughly that he could install the assessment system without assistance.

TOWN SCHOOL BOARD ORGANIZES TOMORROW

Officers and Attendance Agent to Be Named—To Study Re- vision of Budget.

There will be an organization meeting of the town school board tomorrow morning at which time a chairman and a secretary and school attendance officer will be selected. There have been several applications for the latter position, but the work done by Attendance Officer James Duffy has been such that it will undoubtedly result in his again being selected for the work.

A revision of the budget figures that were presented to the joint school board in June will be studied since a reduction has been made necessary by the town meetings appropriation vote.

THREE CLUBS START
DRAMA REHEARSALS

Busy Amateur Season Here
Forecast as Work Gets Underway.

With rehearsals for two productions already underway and with plans for another going forward rapidly the amateur theatrical season in Manchester, which has marked time for the past six months, again assumes march time tempo.

The Town Players will hold a social get-together open to members, former members and the general public at the School street. Arrangements will be made for the first fall presentation.

The Soc and Buskin Club of Manchester High school began rehearsals this week on a three act comedy titled "The Lucky Break," to be presented at Cheney Hall, Friday evening, November 22.

John Mather Chapter, Order of DeMolay, is now rehearsing a three act comedy of crookdom titled "Square Crooks," to be given in Manchester on a definite date has not been set but presentation will be early in December.

Town Players
At a meeting of the president of the Town Players, Helen Estes; the coach and director, Louis Smith; and the director of the Rec, Lewis Lloyd, last night it was decided to allow high school students to try out for parts in all forthcoming productions of the organization.

Everyone interested in joining the Town Players should be at the social. The feature of the evening will be dancing to the music of "Shuffling" Sam Green and his orchestra from Atlantic City. Included in their repertoire are many negro spirituals interspersed with the latest popular melodies. Efforts are being made to bring here a prominent colored cabaret singer, who has also been heard over radio and on victrola records, as the headline entertainer. This will be the first of three socials planned for the coming year to relieve the monotony of rehearsals.

Louis Smith will be in charge as director and Miss G. E. Fenerty, assistant at that Rec, will help out in the work when needed.

The play "The Lucky Break" was written by Zelds Sears and will be the first presentation of the Soc and Buskin Club under the direction of Miss Geraldine McGowan, the new coach. Miss McGowan is a graduate of the Emerson School of Oratory and has coached many successful plays at Willimantic High school.

Rehearsals began this week with the following cast: "Martha Mullet," played by Virginia Straughn; "Nora Ludine Smith," by Elizabeth Carlson; "Benny Ketchum," by Morris McKeever; "Anna Ketchum," by Roy Johnson; "Mrs. Barrett," by Virginia Lowell; "Claudia," by Har-Roger Cheney; "Charles Martin," by Francis Sullivan; "John Bruce" by Robert Cheney; "Charles Martin" by Winston Bendall; "Jura Charens" by Gertrude Ginn; "Var Charrens" by Carl Cubberly; "Bella McCatt" by Elena Burr; "Alchiba Spinster" by Doris Muldoon; "Alphacca Spinster" by Gertrude Campbell; the parts of "Spivins," "Tokio," and "Watkins" are as yet unassigned.

De Molay
"Square Crooks" will be directed and staged by Louis Smith. It is the first attempt at dramatics by John Mather Chapter of DeMolay but many of the members are veterans of both Soc and Buskin and Town Player productions, which should prove decided asset even in a play of this type where all the characters both male and female are played by men.

Only a tentative cast has been selected but Franklin Richmond is to play the male lead and James Wilson that of the heroine. Richmond starred in "A Bill of Divorcement," a Town Player presentation and Wilson starred in "Pals First," "The Whole Town's Talking" and other Soc and Buskin vehicles.

W. C. CHENEY, QUMBY
ON GET-TOGETHER BILL

Big Crowd Expected at First Fall Meeting of Cheney Employees Tonight.

William C. Cheney will speak before the Get Together club of Cheney Brothers at 8 o'clock tonight on his trip to the Orient and Clarence P. Quimby will talk on "Humor in Late Plays" presented in Boston. A turkey dinner will be served to a crowd that is expected to exceed 250. The Weaving and Throwing departments of the mill are in charge of the program and as usual promises to provide a treat.

SMITH OFFICIALS KNEW RUIN NEAR

made an audit of accounts dated from January 1, this year, to the receivership day, May 29.

When asked by Hoyt, whether at any time the company's books did not show an overdraft Coates answered: "There were very few overdrafts in the treasury accounts in both banks were not overdrawn."

Coates said that mortgage trust account was depleted to build up the company's treasury account. Withdrawals from segregated accounts were made on innumerable checks, signed mostly by Clarence V. Smith, as treasurer. Paul M. Smith, secretary, his brother, signed a few, but the other defendant, John E. Parker, president, signed none of the checks.

The segregated accounts all of which were in the Home Bank & Trust Co., in West Haven were begun in September, 1928, though they had started at the time, in 1922, when the company began operating. In the segregated accounts were deposited money paid by mortgagors for liquidation of notes held in mortgage trusts. Last week Hoyt showed how noteholders in these accounts failed to receive payment and Coates testimony was offered to show what happened to the money intended for payment to the noteholders.

Coates said the total amount covered in the charges "exceeded" $150,000. Hoyt's figure is $180,400, but Coates added that he found unpaid bonds for the amount unpaid to noteholders total: beyond "twice that."

Benjamin Slade of defense counsel won an objection to Coates testimony on the denial by the state banking commission of its testimony comparing Coates' testimony with that of the company's bookkeeping system. Hoyt objected.

Questions Books
"Are you going to question the authenticity of the record books or the bank accounts?" asked Judge Wolfe. "If so, it will have some bearing on the ruling I will make."

Martin replied: "I want to present to the jury a true picture of the situation."

"What picture are you talking about?" asked Judge Wolfe. "The picture of this minute book" was the answer.

SENATE TAKES UP INCREASES
IN THE TARIFF

American valuation bases are used for assessing ad valorem rates. The first committee rate amendment called up by Smoot proposed elimination of the House increase of one cent a pound in the 17 cent duty on cotton.

King then began an address touching on international trade and asked that Senators bear in mind a recent quotation of Assistant Secretary Klein of the Commerce Department that in fabricated products the United States could undersell her rivals in the markets of the world.

Before the debate terminates, King asserted, the "folly" of tariff revision on scores of commodities would be shown. Included in this category he added, were brick, cotton, yarn, shoes, cotton with rayon content, and other goods.

Our Best Customers
He argued that the best customers of the United States are "both in temper and disposition to buy our goods."

Argentina, he added, bought $170,000,000 worth of goods from the United States last year while American purchases there were but $99,000,000. Yet, he said, duties on Argentine products, including flax seed, corn, and hides either had been raised or would be increased or taken from the free list.

The bill, he contended, would count to keep high the trade barrier against Canada on such commodities as timber, wheat, fish and dairy products, although Canada bought $900,000,000 worth of American products annually against this country's purchases in Canada of only $600,000,000.

King described the chemical industry as a "powerful giant" in no position to ask increased tariffs. "We are now producing one-half of the world's chemical products," he said, adding decreases were more justifiable than increases in rates.

THE ACID TEST
Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Asserting the votes of the chemical schedule would be an acid test of whether Congress wants a general or limited tariff revision, Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, said in the Senate today that increased duties proposed in the bill were unjustified from every standpoint.

LaFollette, a leader of the Republican independent group opposing the measure in its present form along with a majority of Democrats, reported by the finance committee would increase the burdens already imposed on the farmers and general consumers and augment the huge profits of the "big three," Dupont de Nemours & Co.; Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, and the Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation.

Net earnings of these corporations in 1928 were placed at $122,000,000 with combined assets of more than a billion dollars.

MAY OUST BARTLETT

New Haven, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Inter-Post Council of the American Legion which is in the midst of a controversy over administration of the state fund to disabled veterans will meet again tomorrow night to receive from Dr. Clarence S. Scarborough of the fund, an answer to the request that he waive his claimed sole right to discharge Herbert H. Bartlett who is investigator in the New Haven district.

If Dr. Scarborough grants this, the Inter-Post Council, it is understood, will discharge Bartlett. The investigator has been the target of criticism from members of four of the five Legion posts which send delegates to the council.

Hartford, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Lieutenant-Colonel Clarence C. Scarborough, agent for the State Soldiers Fund, said today regarding the New Haven situation that prompted the New Haven convention action that the attorney general's office had ruled that inasmuch as Herbert H. Bartlett, New Haven investigator for the state fund, was paid from state fund, his appointment and removal must be approved by Colonel Scarborough.

Under this opinion, Colonel Scarborough said, he would take no action regarding Bartlett unless the American Legion state fund committee in New Haven, under whom Bartlett works, presents some formal charges involving the handling of cases in that territory. Such action, Colonel Scarborough said, the committee has not taken.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Frederick B. Risley, of 151 Center street, for many years an engineer in the employ of the Underwood Typewriter Company, in Hartford, died early this morning at the Hartford hospital. Mr. Risley had been ill a brief time with pneumonia. He was 50 years of age. He was born and lived his whole life here.

His mother, Mrs. Agnes Risley of this town survives him as do one daughter, Miss Florence A. Risley, a local nurse, and one son, Clifford E. of this town, and a grandchild. He also leaves five brothers and four sisters. The brothers are John, of Springfield, William, Horace, Charles and Harold of this town. The sisters are Miss Jennie, Mrs. Frederick Keish, Mrs. Clarence Frost of this town and Mrs. Olin Day of Willimantic.

WOMAN FACES FINE
OF OVER $140,000

Customs Agents Seize Jewels and Clothing Which Were Not Declared.

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Frank Vance Storrs, resident of the Ritz Carlton hotel, today faced customs fines and penalties of more than $140,000 if she is to recover jewels and clothing seized when she and her two debutante daughters arrived on the liner Berengaria three weeks ago.

"It is a gross exaggeration in every way," Mrs. Storrs said as her only comment, and her husband would only repeat when asked about the matter: "I don't know what you are saying."

From customs authorities, however, came an account of this large seizure in the port of New York this year. Customs men said an inspector at the pier found several fur coats which were not listed among the several thousand dollars worth of merchandise which Mrs. Storrs and her daughters, Carolyn and Anna, had declared.

Find $10,000 Worth
Within a brief period $10,000 worth of foreign merchandise is said to have been discovered, and all of the Storrs baggage was seized.

A re-examination requiring two days was said to have revealed $15,000 worth of undeclared clothing and approximately $70,000 worth of undeclared jewelry. It was subsequently said that all but several thousand dollars of the jewelry had been brought in undeclared by the Storrs in recent years, some of it by Mrs. Storrs.

George Brewer, assistant solicitor of customs, said he expected Mrs. Storrs to appear today or tomorrow before the pier four general Customs Service. The collector may impose a penalty of 100 per cent on seized merchandise.

N. Y. CONCERN BUYS
TOWN'S 9TH'S BONDS

Good Rates Obtained as Both Ask for Bids on School Purchasing Issues.

A brokerage syndicate headed by H. M. Byllesby and Company, of 111 Broadway, New York City was awarded both the Town of Manchester's bond issue of $419,000 and the Ninth district bond issue of $175,000. The bids were opened at the Manchester Trust Company this afternoon. The bid on the town's issue was 102.311. The town's profit per thousand is $23.11 and since the issue was for 4 3/4 per cent the actual cost of the issues to the town is 4.55 per cent.

The Ninth district's issue was sold to the Byllesby syndicate for 101.664, yielding an interest rate of about 4 1/2 per cent. These are unusually good prices for the town's bonds, considering the fact that money is generally tight.

The town's issue is to finance the purchase of the Franklin school, Recreation Center and Heating plant while the Ninth district's $175,000 issue is to finance the purchase of the Barnard school.

ger of ice forming on the wings in the low temperature. Conditions in mid-ocean are not exactly known, but they are believed to be favorable. There were heavy rains in Ireland this morning, however, Dr. Kimball pointed out and the weather in general over England was thick with overcast skies. The temperature there was 36 and the weather unfavorable for flying.

Dr. Kimball said "I thought I was through with flying for this year." He expressed surprise over the attempted flight but said that the conditions at Harbor Grace would warrant anyone "at least starting out."

DELANO APPOINTED

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—William Adams Delano, president of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, has been named by President Hoover as a member of the National Capitol Park and Planning Commission, it was announced today by the institute. He succeeds the late Milton B. Medary of Philadelphia.

AMERICAN TO HEAD
WORLD FINANCIERS

that no institution could run with divided responsibility and that no American would think of accepting the presidency if his sands were tied. The next five years, he said, would make or unmake the bank and hence the organizers must find the best man available and then give him power to go ahead full steam. The American was seconded by the Japanese and when the question came to a vote, his viewpoint was carried unanimously.

Traylor's Declines
According to one non-American delegate, Mr. Traylor's arguments were so convincing and bore such a mark of sincerity that feelers were put out then and there whether he would accept the presidency if offered, but Mr. Traylor declined even to entertain the idea.

It is understood similar feelers to Mr. Reynolds met with the same result. Whether their answers will be considered final cannot yet be ascertained. The press sub-committee has stated that the presidency has never been considered by the conference or sub-committee. Consequently the feelers put out were necessarily unofficial. As a matter of fact the conference itself is now charged with selection of the president, but its advice will have great weight.

One European expert informed the correspondent that the American delegation considers Dwight W. Morrow the ideal type to head the new bank, but fears he is so committed to his Mexican post that he could not accept. In any case it is understood the American delegation believes the president must be a man of wide international experience with a long career of useful public service.

DROPS 4 COUNTS IN PARKER CASE

State's Attorney Hoyt Says He Was Unable to Gather Enough Evidence.

New Haven, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Unable to obtain evidence to support four of the 35 embezzlement counts against the three officers of the Parker-Smith Company, investment mortgage note concern, who are on trial before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury, State Attorney Samuel E. Hoyt dropped them today. The accused are now being tried on 31 counts, 26 for embezzlement by trustee and five by agent.

The four counts of embezzlement by agent withdrawn involved about $12,000.

At the opening of court a week ago Mr. Hoyt withdrew four counts of conspiracy to defraud counts. Today Hoyt said he could not produce the evidence to support the counts he had withdrawn and added that in his belief the charges contained in them were true.

On resumption of the trial from its adjournment last Friday, Hoyt called to the stand Elwyn H. Coles, of the Second National Bank in which the Parker-Smith Company made its deposits. It was shown by Coles that on October 29, 1927, the company deposited a check for $7,235 and on September 19, 1928, a check for $3,623. Both of these checks were mortgage trust accounts. Coles by his records showed that almost all these amounts were withdrawn in a short time by the company.

Noteholders Not Paid A check from Max Koslow for $4,100 was cashed at the bank. Koslow was a mortgagor who had issued a $4,000 mortgage deed to the company. Hoyt said that the note of the noteholders in the Koslow trust had never been paid. In the mortgage trust of Lewis Reznichoff for $10,000 Hoyt said that $6,000 was not paid to noteholders after Reznichoff had liquidated the account. But $3,500 had been paid. No more was made of the other $500.

Edward J. Eulace of New Haven who with wife Nellie, had $4,000 worth of notes in the Reznichoff trust testified he was never paid for his noteholdings. Hoyt did not say where the other $2,000 was.

SAYS LAW COLLEGES RAP NIGHT SCHOOLS

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A charge that the section of legal education of the American Bar Association is dominated by the association of law schools and that the general association is being used as a "stalking horse" by the college association, was made today by Gleason L. Archer, Suffolk law school, dean of a night school in Boston, who addressed a branch of the American Bar Association.

Mr. Archer charged an attempt to limit admissions to the bar to lawyers who have completed a stipulated amount of work in an accredited law school is unfair to those who are unable to attend college. He said the effort of the section to standardize law education is a fight of the college association on night schools.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A scramble to buy back stocks sold in yesterday's liquidation brought gains of 3 to 15 points in leading shares in the forenoon trading today. Virtually all of the stocks with large followings were up substantially while the market easily absorbed the offerings of professional operators who were still combating the rise. Gains of 4 points were common.

To the list of early gainers, including Columbian Carbon, Auburn Auto, General Electric, American Water Works, Radio and New York Central, were added Underwood Electric, Standard Gas and Electric, up 7 to 10 points. Auburn Auto reacted several points after touching 350, but soon made up most of its decline from that figure.

On an odd lot transaction, Wright Aero sold down to 66, a new low on an loss of 24 points.

REDS NEED BRIDGES

Moscow, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Present day Russia offers a splendid field for American bridge builders and engineers in the opinion of Leon S. Moisseff, one of the builders of the Queensboro and the Manhattan bridges in New York, who returned today from a three-weeks survey of bridges throughout European Russia.

Mr. Moisseff, who was engaged by the Russian government to pass upon the stability of its bridges, said the Soviet authorities would spend more than $100,000,000 in bridge construction within the next five years. A great part of the material and technical supervision would come from the United States.

He said existing bridges were in tolerably good condition, but in many cases far from adequate for the growing needs of the country.

LOCAL LIONS HEAR TALK ON JUBILEE OF LIGHT

Big Turnout of Members When Guest Speaker Gives Illustrated Lecture on Celebration.

Members of the Manchester Lions club turned out in full strength last night to attend one of the most successful meetings of the organization since it was instituted here earlier in the year. The occasion was the club's observance of Light's Golden Jubilee. The speaker of the evening was A. Paulus of the Westinghouse Electric Company, who during the day had addressed the Kiwanis club and high school students.

Mr. Paulus was in Manchester through the efforts of Lewis N. Heebner, general manager of the Manchester Electric Company, and Vice President of the Lions meeting by George Vetch. The speaker gave substantially the same talk before the Lions that the school students and Kiwanians heard. It was a vivid description of the early trials of the wizard of electricity, Thomas Alva Edison.

During the course of his talk Mr. Paulus showed some stereopticon views illustrating how various cities are observing the Golden Jubilee of Light. The projection machine was operated by Thomas Maxwell of the Manchester Electric Company. Illustrations included the original Menlo Park, now re-created in Edison Park, through the interest of Henry Ford in preserving for all time the buildings where so many of the Edison inventions were perfected.

The views also showed the institution of the Light celebration at Atlantic City where the famous Boardwalk, Piers, Auditorium, hotels and public buildings have been flooded with lights of all colors. Many of these light effects will remain permanently on the buildings that did it primarily in observance of the Edison celebration.

In concluding his address Mr. Paulus pointed out the importance of electrical lighting to civilization. He emphasized the complete bewilderment that would ensue should the world be deprived of the source of electrical lighting. When the speaker finished his address, the president of the club, George H. Williams, of the Lions club called for a tribute of silence for a moment not only to Light but to Thomas A. Edison whose electrical genius perfected the incandescent bulb. Mr. Williams then gave a token by the club and the members gave him a rousing Lions roar.

The meeting was held in the Country Club and was preceded by a roast loin of pork dinner. An ensemble from the Manchester Plectral club under the direction of Mrs. Ada N. Merrifield played several selections during the dinner and the efforts of the group were warmly applauded. Fines for various misdemeanors, such as forgetting one's emblem, were levied and collected by Francis Miner and Henry Smith. The collection goes toward the Miller fund which the local organization is sponsoring. Arthur Holmes, Ernest Roy and Thomas F. Conran were named a committee to take charge of next Monday night's meeting.

GRAMM IS FINED $1,000 FOR SMUGGLING BOOZE

Tampa, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Walter Gramm, Chicago coal dealer, arrested on a liquor law violation charge in Key West early last May, after he had assumed the responsibility for liquor found in trunks brought into the country from Cuba by Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson, of Illinois, pleaded guilty in Federal Court here this morning and was fined $1,000 and costs.

The indictment, read in court prior to Gramm's plea of guilty, reviewed the discovery of Jacksonville liquor in one of six trunks brought into the country without customs inspection, when courtesy of the port of Key West was extended to the Illinois Congressman. Twelve bottles of liquor were seized after the thirteenth was broken and seeped out of one of the trunks.

Congressman Michaelson went on trial at Key West May 8. His brother-in-law testified that the trunk containing liquor was his, and on Gramm's appearance before Judge A. Akerman today came as a surprise to those outside the judge's office. The Chicagoan's arrival was unannounced and no inkling of the contemplated action was given prior to the opening of court.

Gramm's attorney made a plea for clemency on grounds that his client was a responsible business man, "the error was just a social one" and that the defendant was a "fall guy." Gramm was a member of Congressman Michaelson's party and there was "no commercial aspect to the liquor transaction."

Judge Akerman said he had no desire to punish him for the faults of the escaped Congressman—one of those who votes dry and drinks wet.

STATE'S AUTO CRASHES

Hartford, Oct. 22.—(AP)—More digging into statistics by the State Motor Vehicle Department resulted today in a statement that auto accidents in Connecticut are more numerous but less serious and damaging than those on country highways. The average amount of damage in highway accidents was $137, the total for 1928 accidents being $12,000,000. In the cities where the total damage is $1,684,000, the average was $90.

Accidents at night or in the hours of darkness were much more serious, both in the cities and on the open highways, than in daylight.

DR. STRATON'S CONDITION

Clifton Springs, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The condition of the Rev. Dr. John Roach Stratton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church in New York, was reported by his wife today as greatly improved although he is not yet considered entirely out of danger.

COURT RESTRAINS BANKS IN JERSEY

Four Institutions Must Cease Operations Until a Trial Is Held.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Charged with violation of the New Jersey law which prohibits the sale of fraudulent securities, the Bankers Securities Corporation of Delaware, the Bankers Securities Trust of Massachusetts, their officers and trustees, and two others, today were under temporary restraint from further operation in this state.

The injunction was granted by Vice Chancellor Backus on application of Robert D. Grossman, special assistant attorney general. The two companies and eight individual defendants are ordered to show cause next Tuesday why the injunction should not be made permanent and a receiver appointed.

Those Named. The persons named in the complaint were: John P. O'Hagan, president of both concerns; Edward J. Kennedy, Nelson A. Meserere, J. Myron Murphy, John T. Murray, Thomas E. Farnsworth and E. L. O'Hara and his wife, Edna, trading as E. L. O'Hara and Company, New York brokers.

The First National Bank of Jersey City is restrained from disbursing the funds of the defendants on deposit, except upon authorization of the court.

The bill of complaint charged the defendants engaged in a deception and misrepresentation in connection with the sale of securities. The Bankers Securities Trust was organized in 1926 under the laws of Massachusetts.

Everett T. Keith Engaged to Wed Miss Ruth S. Jones of Bolton.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Ruth S. Jones, sister of Mrs. R. Kneeland Jones of Bolton, and Everett Taylor Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Keith of Lewis street in town.

Miss Jones attended the Manchester High school and was graduated from Northfield seminary and from New Britain Normal school in June. She is now teaching in the new Porter street school.

Mr. Keith attended the local High school and was graduated from William Abraham Academy. Later he alternated study and actual business practice at Antioch college in Ohio. He is associated with his father and brother in the G. E. Keith Furniture store here.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL BAZAAR TOMORROW

Japanese decorations, characteristic Japanese dishes and a "Reception" by 20 little maidens in Oriental costume will charm all who attend the Japanese Garden party, the bazaar which ladies of Second Congregational church will hold tomorrow. The doors will open at 10 o'clock and from 5:30 to 7:30 it will be possible to serve one's self, cafeteria style, at the Japanese tea garden with such viands as hot chop suey, Japanese buns, rice pudding, crab meat salad. For those who prefer typical New England dishes, there will be hot baked beans, potato salad, boiled ham, squash, pumpkin and apple pie, coffee and rolls. Prices will be moderate and a satisfying meal may be assembled for fifty cents and up.

The price of admission will be very low, as the advertisement in another column states, but the ladies who attend the bazaar will be prepared to patronize the different stalls for the sale of useful and domestic articles, sweets and toys. The program will be given by 20 little girls in Japanese costume. Proceeds of the bazaar will be for the children's Christmas fund.

MARKETING BUREAUS TO AID FARM BOARD

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Possibility that the Farm Board might utilize state agricultural departments and bureaus of marketing in its administration of the Farm Relief Act developed today when the board took under consideration an offer of such co-operation from the State of Georgia.

Accompanied by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, Max L. McCrae, and A. D. Jones, directors of Georgia's Bureau of Markets, today offered their services and those of Georgia marketing agencies and co-operatives to the board.

Harris said the board took the matter under advisement. "Such a plan, he added, would be 'helpful' in solution of the farm problem, because it would place centralized agencies of marketing in the various states at the board's disposal, and the board would not have to deal with 'hundreds' of individual organizations."

VISIT TO OLD HOME TOWN ENDS IN JAIL

O. O. Martin Out of Luck When He Left Maine; Other Police Court Cases.

Many happy incidents usually result when one returns to his old home town for a visit after a long absence but such was not exactly the case with Orland O. Martin of Gardner, Me., who was here formerly for five years.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin motored down from the Pine Tree State for an extended visit with friends here and in Hartford. Early last evening Martin in front of police headquarters. The officer said Martin was very drunk. So did Probation Officer Edward Elliott and Dr. Le Verne Holmes who was called to make the usual medical examination.

Consequently there was nothing for Deputy Judge Thomas Ferguson to do but find Martin guilty, especially in view of the fact that the automobile he was driving. It was also brought out that Martin had been in the local court on two previous occasions, once for non-support and once for intoxication.

The court imposed a fine of $125 and costs amounting to $144.27. Martin said he had no money and called his wife by telephone. She refused to help him out of the difficulty. As a result Martin was taken to Seymus street jail where he must work 14 days unless his wife or some other friend comes to his rescue. Meanwhile his wife plans to continue her vacation, visiting friends in Hartford.

To Spence Hewitt, 62 years old Spencer street farmer goes the unusual distinction of being arrested twice before his case came to trial. Patrolman David Galligan arrested Hewitt for intoxication Sunday. He was not in fit shape to appear in court Monday morning. He sobered up during the day, however, and pleaded with Chief Samuel G. Gordon to let him go home and feed the chickens.

The chief acquiesced and Hewitt went home. Later the same day Officer Galligan found need to go to the Hewitt farm again, found Hewitt drunk and brought him in. The prosecuting attorney prosecuted on two separate counts of intoxication.

Hewitt pleaded with the court not to send him to jail because there would be no one to look after his chickens and Judge Ferguson decided that a fine and costs met the ends of justice. He suspended judgment on payment of costs for Hewitt $15 and costs for repeating the stunt. Hewitt paid up and went home to look after the chickens.

George J. St. Onge, 41, of Roxbury, Mass., paid $10 and costs for speeding on Center street. Patrolman David Galligan made the arrest.

Harry Silverstein of Bolton paid $15 and costs for driving a truck with improper brakes. Officer McGinn attempted to stop Silverstein at the Center while doing traffic duty as the school children crossed the road, but the truck rolled quite a distance before it could be stopped.

Three more parking ordinance violators were fined two dollars without costs for leaving their automobiles too long in restricted areas.

WIN TWO TURKEYS IN SETBACK PLAY

Emil Johnson and George Armstrong won the turkey offer for first prize at the public setback tournament at the School Y. M. C. A. last night. They were tied with A. Swanson and C. Priest with 144 points and then won the play-off for first place. Turkeys will be given again next Monday night when the third sitting will take place.

Last night's scores were as follows: Emil Johnson-Geo. Armstrong 144 A. Swanson-Carl Priest 144 Durfee-Perine 141 E. Dietz-W. Dietz 137 Thayer-Brook 135 J. Martino-F. Marchetti 135 J. ADRIFT SINCE SUNDAY CUSTOMS AGENT SAVED

Miami, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Adrift since Sunday when their fuel supply became exhausted, three customs agents in the United States border patrol picket boat, Tip Top, were rescued off Key West this morning by a Coast Guard patrol boat and the small craft, towed into Key West.

The agents left Miami for Key West on the way to Tampa Friday and miscalculated their course in the darkness, passing their destination. Their gasoline supply gave out as they neared Dry Tortugas. They drifted back toward Key West and were sighted this morning about two miles off shore.

A coast guard boat was notified and went to their aid. The agents, Jake and John Hogeboom and Robert Robinson, all of Tampa, were safe, but suffering slightly from lack of food and water.

EMERGENCY DOCTORS

Dr. A. B. Moran and Dr. T. G. Weldon will be on emergency call tomorrow afternoon. Their office phone numbers are 5709 and 5740 respectively.

ABOUT TOWN

The Center church Women's Federation will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Gilbert E. Willis of 164 East Center street. All women of the church will be welcome.

The entire senior class of South Manchester High school have turned salesmen and saleswomen in an effort to raise funds toward the annual Washington trip next year. Edward Hanson, president of the class, is general manager of the campaign. An agreement with the Crowell Publishing Company, publishers of the American, Collier's, and Women's Home Companion magazines, gives the students a fairly good commission for each single or club subscription sold.

The next meeting of the Epworth League Nutmeg Trail Union will be held at the South Methodist church in December.

Memorial Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will have its regular meeting at 8 o'clock. The second rank will be conferred on several candidates by Oscar Strong. Light refreshments will be served at the social following the business.

Mrs. Alton Hall of Foley street, who before her marriage this fall was Miss Mildred Lipp, was the guest of honor at a party given Saturday evening by her former classmates at the home of Miss Evelyn Robinson of Center street. The decorations of the dining room were in yellow and the young women enjoyed a pleasant social evening. They presented to Mrs. Hall a Priscilla sewing cabinet.

Between 50 and 60 members of the South Methodist Epworth League attended the social at the Highland Park clubhouse last evening. At the business session two of the vice presidents outlined their plans for the work of the year. The first vice president had an attractive program for devotional services, the third vice president is working with the students away at college, of which there are about 30 from South Methodist church. Games were in charge of Evelyn Beer and Wilbert Tedford. Light refreshments followed.

The committee in charge of the North Methodist church bazaar will have a meeting in the church vestry this evening at 7:30.

Following the meeting of St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella, which is to be held in the hall of the Columbian rooms tonight there will be a public whist party. The meeting, preceding the card party will be of short duration and following the whist refreshments will be served.

The South Methodist Sunday school will stage a bridge and dance similar to one presented about a year ago by the school under the direction of Mrs. L. St. Clair Burr. The plans are to make the entertainment more elaborate than the previous one. About 25 members of the school from the different departments will take part, and the games worn will date back as far as 1859. The different periods will be represented up to the present time.

The Bon Ami club will give its annual Halloween social and dance at the assembly hall on Saturday evening at the school under the direction of Mrs. L. St. Clair Burr. It will be a costume masquerade for the employees of the Bon Ami company and their friends. Fifteen dollars in gold will be awarded as prizes. There will be so many novelties for all who attend, so be novelties for all who attend.

Mrs. Sarah DeWainey is chairman of the committee. The others are Agnes Wichnowsky, Barbara Hampson, Mary Lang, Edward Coleman, Henry Valliant, Thomas Smith and Rudolph Fregin.

James McCaw, Sr., superintendent of the Manchester Electric Company will spend the remainder of the week in Schenectady, N. Y., on business for the company.

On exhibition in P. H. Dougherty's barber shop window are two Currier models, made by Raymond Moszer, an eighth grade pupil in the Ninth District schools and a member of Troop No. 2 of Boy Scouts. The materials that were used in making the models were purchased through money earned by him as Herald newsboy. They have been attracting much attention since they were placed on exhibition.

There were five carrots on exhibition in the window of Mathew Merz's barber shop on North Main street this morning that were grown on Oak Grove Farm, owned by G. H. Sankey. The largest of these carrots weighed one and a half pounds. The other four are slightly smaller, the weight of the smallest one being one pound.

The efforts of the Manchester Fish and Game club to secure from the state a few raccoons that might be liberated in this section have been successful and the state has provided three "coons" which has been liberated. These were expected about a year ago and in preparation a hut was built where they could live until they grew to proper ages and could be turned loose.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Prices rebounded sharply at the opening of the Stock Exchange today. The firm resistance which developed late yesterday to the huge wave of selling evidently prompting heavy short covering.

U. S. Steel and Standard of New Jersey each rose 2 points, General Electric 6, United Carbide 7 1-2, American Water Works 9, and Auburn Auto regained 10 points of yesterday's sharp drop. Norfolk and Western, Du Pont, Columbia Gas, and Johns Manville opened 2 to 2 1-2 points higher.

Confidence was in a considerable measure restored by the success with which strong interests were able to check the decline in the last half hour yesterday, after the market had been called upon to absorb one of the largest waves of selling in its history.

Stocks developed extreme buoyancy during the first half hour, and while trading was by no means as rapid a pace as that during yesterday's early trading, it was in sufficient volume to delay the ticker 15 minutes before the end of the first hour.

U. S. Steel soon extended its gain to 3 3/4 points. Among the more volatile issues, Columbian Carbon and Auburn Auto rose about 15 points each. Eastman Kodak jumped 14 points and Stone and Webster, National Biscuit and Union and house Electric, Western Union and A. M. Evers rose 7 to 11.

American Tobacco, North American, Montgomery Ward, General Electric, American Telephone, United Corp., International Foreign phone, American and Foreign Power, Radio, Atchafalpa, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Public Service of New Jersey were among issues rising 3 to 6 points.

Foreign exchanges opened firm with sterling cables slightly higher at $4.87 1/2.

BUCKINGHAM

The ledge at the church was blasted the past week and the road is now all graded ready for the stone. The section of new road from Horvath's store to the top of Church Hill was laid last week.

Gerald Tomlinson has been appointed to represent the Buckingham church on the governing board of the Williams Memorial Building Association.

U. S. TO LEAD IN PLANES OIL BARGE ADRIFT

Plymouth, Eng., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The prediction that the United States within a year will lead in air passenger transportation was made by Anthony Fokker, noted airplane designer, on his arrival today from New York.

Mr. Fokker said his trip was being undertaken to arrange a combination of European and American interests with a world wide organization of factories.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A Coast Guard crew searched storm-bashed Lake Michigan today for an oil barge adrift with two men aboard. The plight of the barge was reported by the captain of the tug "Butterfield," which docked in the Chicago river harbor today after a hard fight with the waves. The "Butterfield" was towing the barge to Chicago from Muskegon, Mich., when the low tide broke.

THE BINGHAM CASE

The Herald has to confess itself somewhat disappointed by the course of developments in the Bingham-Eyanson episode. In the beginning it was our candid belief that there was nothing seriously irregular about the employment of Mr. Eyanson as an expert tariff advisor to the senior senator from Connecticut and that a mountain being built out of a molehill for purely partisan purposes. We still adhere to the belief that there was no intention on the part of Senator Bingham, Mr. Eyanson or any official of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association to violate any law either in letter or spirit.

It is the fact, only just now brought to light, that there was a certain amount of interchange of information, between Senator Bingham's tariff helper and Connecticut tariff beneficiaries, during the progress of the Finance Committee's secret sessions, concerning schedules in which the industrialists were interested.

Now this circumstance, though we still believe it to have been entirely innocent, was a blunder of the class which in cases of automobile accidents is described as criminally negligent. There is no intention to injure anybody, but there is a disregard for proper conduct which is not to be lightly overlooked.

The effect on Connecticut of such proceedings is not one of shock at the dishonesty of the act, for there was no dishonesty. It is, rather, one of distress over the damage likely to be done to its tariff interests through the stupidity of over-smartness. As has been pointed out by the Washington correspondent of the Boston Herald, the net result of the episode is extremely likely to be a reluctance on the part of even the soundest protectionists in Congress to vote sorely needed increases to Connecticut industries in the light of opposition assertions, backed by the slight evidence provided by the Bingham-Eyanson contacts, that the manufacturers of this state were in effect sitting in the committee room and writing the schedules.

We steadfastly reject the presumption that the Connecticut senator or the Connecticut Manufacturers consciously have been engaged in reprehensible maneuvers; but there is growing evidence that both have failed to realize their obligation to keep the record clean in the matter of Connecticut relationship to the tariff law. It is extremely unfortunate. We cannot help being impressed by the thought that if former Senator McLean had still been occupying his place on the Senate Finance Committee Connecticut would not only have had no such complication to face and Connecticut industries would stand today in a much better position in probable tariff rate making.

PASSING SEWAGE BUCK In his annual message to his Common Council recently, Mayor F. J. Byfield of Middletown, dealing with the problem of sewage disposal, said: "At the present time Middletown is only a minor offender. We cannot pollute filthy water. But as other cities remedy their offense, Middletown must of necessity face this problem." Mayor Byfield's buck passing was more in spirit than in fact for he did recommend a complete survey preparatory to eventual compliance with the law prohibiting stream pollution. But it is precisely this half-hearted spirit, growth of the knowledge that somebody further up the ladder is also polluting the streams, which presents the greatest difficulty in getting the fouled waters of Connecticut's water-courses clarified.

If every community on the Connecticut river watershed is going to wait until the sfoilage of the streams comes to it sparkling clean before it, in turn, takes steps to end its own share in the delilement, then it is going to be a long and weary time before the streams are redeemed from the curse of pollution.

Middletown's responsibility for the condition of the Connecticut river, for instance, begins and ends with its own share in the pollution. The sooner it tackles the job of proper sewage disposal the sooner it will not only have decreased the extent of pollution in the river's lower reaches but will be in a position to add the weight of its influence to that of the rest of the state in demanding reform from those communities whose offenses pre- cede its own geographically.

It is entirely untrue that "you cannot pollute filthy water." You can further pollute it—and in doing so you can help defeat the constant and more or less successful efforts of nature to cleanse her running waters through aeration and the consumption of organic substances by organic life. It must be remembered that even the terribly befouled Naugatuck, if it had fifty miles to run below Derby and no more wastes were emptied into it, would again be running clear and sweet before it reached its mouth.

It is only partly true, in any case, that there is no use trying to create a clean stream by stopping de- lement anywhere else if there is pollution at its head-waters. So that physical as well as moral reasons contribute to the argument that the business of its own sewage disposal is essentially the exclusive responsibility of each community and that this "What's the use?" cry which has been the curse of Connecticut's streams for a century is without even a good excuse.

GASTONIA CASE Very few of the circumstances of the killing of O. F. Aderholt, chief of police at Gastonia, N. C., are clear to the minds of the readers of the news stories of the strike troubles, the capital crime itself and the abortive and accomplished trials of the accused persons. What the people of the country have been interested in, in this case, is the quality of justice accorded to defendants in criminal trials in North Carolina.

Most of the defendants in the case are, from the view-point of the average American, an unpleasant lot. The fanatic Red is an unhappy creature, utterly destitute of either a philosophy or a sense of humor, in almost every instance—and he seems to be animated by a frantic desire to make everybody else unhappy. Wherefore we don't like him.

But if the law were to be framed and administered only for the happy and the pleasing, there would be a terrible lot of outlaws. And in North Carolina the idea seems to make outlaws of the Reds. That evidence in defense of these accused persons should be ruled out because defense witnesses happened to hold unhappy and unpleasant views about the Creation and a Supreme Being, seems utterly fantastic. You can't have justice under a system that disqualifies as a witness every person who declines to subscribe to a creed while it admits the evidence of anybody who says he does subscribe though quite possibly he is as complete an agnostic as the other fellow. In such a situation you get a mere pretense of equity.

However, the outcome of the Gastonia murder trial is not as bad as it might be. The seven persons convicted of the murder are in a bailable position. Thirty thousand dollars would free the lot—and they could skip it and return whence they came. Their Red organizations ought to be able to raise that much money—they seem to have plenty to support organizers and strike organizations.

Meanwhile North Carolina may be depended on to catch up to the procession of civilization some time or other and amend her ridiculous laws that make such court ruling possible.

JUST ANOTHER After all, the "greatest blow to rum running since prohibition," the big series of raids on the New Jersey and Long Island ring which was so loudly acclaimed last week, wasn't so much in the way of eliminating existing stocks of smuggled booze. The enforcement people who conducted the large number of simultaneous raids allowed it to be inferred that they had captured mammoth quantities of liquor. What they got, altogether, according to the New York Times, was five or six cases.

Also the Times makes it clear why no more booze was captured—the rum runners knew all about the intended raids two weeks before they were pulled off. In two weeks a great many thousands of cases of liquor could have been moved a long way from the places of original storage.

Stupid though the bootleggers were in using a bootleg radio broadcasting station for communicating, they weren't so stupid but what the enforcement people, by sending a trio of dry flaties to browse mysteriously around a shore summer resort after all the summer people had gone, could prove themselves stupider.

All present indications are that this latest magnificent coup of the enforcement forces is just of a piece with the rest.

IN NEW YORK New York, Oct. 22.—In "Morrow's Almanac," that merry burlesque of the season, I have discovered "Philonemus" back on his job as a prophet.

Among the major dire portents for 1930 I have discovered that "William Hearst will be sued for libel." That "Roy Howard will buy still another newspaper." That even "Pilgrim's Progress will be banned in Boston." That Colonel Lindbergh will receive offers from the tabloids for the story of his wedded life. That the theatrical season in New York will be better, since it couldn't be worse.

And Burton Rascoe, who once penned a New York column himself, offers a "panorama of New York at twilight" which contains, among other things, these terse photographs.

"A fading actress, long out of work, pencils a note in a dingy room of a side street lodging house and turns on the gas, without igniting it. . . . The dozen bums who warm themselves in the periodic room of the public library bestir themselves preparatory to an evening's panhandling. . . . Squat nosed ferry boats nose into Staten Island ferry slips and disgorge enough people to populate a fair sized town. . . . Thugs in poolrooms lay the plans for a night. . . . Training pugilists jog-trot along the footpaths of Central Park. . . . Highboy Harry, who stalks the streets on eight-foot stilts, trudges down Eighth Avenue to Mexican Joe's for a bowl of chili. . . . It is six o'clock and it is Manhattan's quiet hour between work and play."

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of stories by Rodney Dutcher telling of the operations of Washington lobbies in the past.

By RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington.—The first high-powered lobbyist to sway Congress by subtle means was the Rev. Dr. Manasseh Cutler of Massachusetts.

The Rev. Dr. Cutler worked on the Continental Congress in 1787 at New York and after bribing influential members with promise of participation in the profits obtained about 5,000,000 acres of the best land in the Northwest Territory, which appears to have cost the promoters about one cent an acre.

He was a man of considerable intellectual attainment and personal charm and he was a fast worker, for he seems to have put the deal over in about three weeks.

The Ohio company, which sent the Rev. Dr. Cutler to New York, was organized by a group of influential New Englanders headed by General Rufus Putnam. It was Cutler's job, first, to obtain passage of an ordinance providing for efficient government of the territory and then to get the land. He won both times.

Nobody Cared About It. This was the first big land deal of the kind ever engineered in Congress, but many more were to follow.

Cutler appears to have been surprised to find a general indifference to his proposal. Some members even suggested that it would be poor business for the infant government, which had at that time not yet obtained ratification of the new constitution.

But prudential scruples were not allowed to stand in the way and the agreement was soon arrived at. The Rev. Dr. Cutler wrote in his journal: "We obtained the grant of near five million of acres . . . one million and a half for the Ohio company and the remainder for a private speculation, in which many of the principal characters of America are concerned. Without concerning this speculation, similar terms and advantages could not have been obtained for the Ohio company."

The price to be paid was some eight or nine cents an acre in specie. The promoters never had any idea of paying actual money. They had bought up the government paper at around 10 cents on the dollar and, they argued, here was a fine chance for Congress to retire some of its obligations.

Members of Congress and the promoters were appointed to govern this land about to be opened up to ex-soldiers and other small settlers who were to provide the real profits. Like the undertaker who married the midwife, this crowd was out to get the population coming and going, for it did not take its own payment for lots in specie.

Cutler had promised General Arthur St. Clair, president of Congress, the salaries of governorship of the northwest territory plus some stock in return for his support. Two directors of the Ohio company were made judges and the three men ran the show.

But to return to the Rev. Dr. Cutler—granddaddy of lobbyists. Sessions of Congress were secret then and Cutler was allowed on the floor. Subsequent students expressed amazement at the speed with which the act was passed, but they did not have access to the clergyman's journal.

Somehow or other, three new southern members were put on the committee in charge of the act, forming a majority. There is little doubt that Cutler had arranged to stack the committee.

HOLD 4 SUSPECTS IN BOND ROBBERY

Commissioner Whalen of N. Y. Says He Has Cleared Up $200,000 Theft.

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—One man was held and indictments were sought against three others today as a ring responsible for the theft of $200,000 worth of bonds belonging to Arthur E. Frank and Company, brokers.

The man arrested on a charge of grand larceny is Irwin Kott, bond and jewelry salesman. Those against whom indictments were sought, Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen said, are: Carl J. Lewis and Morris Lichtmann, attorneys, and Ferdinand S. Gillespie, an insurance adjuster for the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company.

The theft of the bonds from a bench in the brokers' office occurred August 5, when a messenger employed by the company laid the package down while he went for a drink of water.

Gets a Good Tip. Commissioner Whalen said solution of the case was brought about by members of his secret service squad after representatives of Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, insurers of bonds, informed police that Gillespie had approached them with an offer to recover the securities for $75,000.

The surety representatives continued negotiations with Gillespie and detectives shadowed him. He finally delivered $110,800 worth of the bonds and was paid $42,500.

Others Arrested. During the negotiations Gillespie was traced to the office of Lewis, who, Commissioner Whalen said, implicated Lichtmann. The questioning of the two led to the arrest of Kott, who was released under $5,000 bail after arraignment on a charge of grand larceny. He was immediately re-arrested for the slaying of Salvatore Silco, described as his partner in bootlegging operations.

Lewis and Lichtmann were placed under bond as material witnesses.

POLICE INVESTIGATING WOMAN'S QUEER DEATH

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Edmund J. McBrien of New York City, was regarded as the principal witness at a coroner's inquest today into the death of Mrs. Aurelia J. Dreyfuss, 29, a New York divorcee, after a mysterious fall from an upper porch of the Potomac Boat Club.

Mrs. Dreyfuss, the former wife of Herbert Dreyfuss, New York broker, died several hours after the fall and Mr. McBrien, who says he is a broker, was held incommunicado by the police for today's inquest.

McBrien's story is that Mrs. Dreyfuss, her brother William, her sister Freda, and himself were chatting on the porch near the entrance of a dance at the boat club on Saturday night. William and Freda left them and a few minutes later he excused himself to gather up their wraps.

While he was gone, he told police, some one called that a woman had fallen from the porch and a few minutes later she was identified as Mrs. Dreyfuss. She died some time later at a Washington hospital. McBrien voluntarily gave himself up to the police.

A necklace valued at $3,500 and a wrist watch valued at $1,000 at first reported missing, were found later underneath a platform onto which the woman fell.

MAN HOLDS UP COP; IS THEN SHOT DOWN

Boston, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Police and a man who described himself as Carlo Collicini, 72, of Malden, engaged in a gun duel in Federal street, in the business district, early today which ended with Collicini falling probably fatally wounded.

A patrolman who discovered the aged man near a side street where several burglaries had recently been reported, declared he was evasive under questioning and that he, suddenly confronted him with a revolver. While the patrolman was facing the suspect a sergeant, a police car containing a sergeant and two patrolmen drew up and Collicini was alleged to have opened fire on the sergeant. A fourth patrolman, attracted by the sound of the gun fire, dashed to the scene in time to aid the sergeant in bringing down his assailant.

The wounded man was taken to the Haymarket relief hospital where little hope was held for his recovery. Police said they found four candles and other possible burglar equipment on his person.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

FIRST STEAMER IN THE WEST.

One hundred and eighteen years ago today, on Oct. 22, 1811, the first steamboat on western waters, the "New Orleans," left Pittsburgh for New Orleans, via the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

The next few years saw an amazing increase in traffic on the inland waterways. Until 1823, when the Erie canal was opened, the Ohio was the great commercial and industrial link between the east and the west.

Until the closing years of the 19th century, the famous old river packets, piled up and down the Ohio's winding, 1,000-mile trail from Pittsburgh to Cairo, and beyond.

Then, as suddenly as it had started, river travel dropped to a minimum, wharves rotted, scores of packets were thrown into the discard, and the inland waterway seemed doomed as a main artery of commerce.

But government engineers were convinced of the practicability as an important link in the nation's transportation system, and the Ohio river federal canalization project was started.

The gigantic engineering work, costing $118,000,000, was completed this fall. By means of 50 movable dams and locks, a nine-foot water stage is maintained throughout the length of the river and this gateway to commerce has been reopened.

GRAND JURY INDICTS BASEBALL POOL MAN

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—An indictment charging James J. Otto, now serving a sentence in Atlanta penitentiary for his connection with the Albany baseball and stock market pool, with perjury was returned today by the Federal Grand Jury.

The indictment, which contains three counts, charges that Otto perjured himself to avoid the possible implication of Daniel P. O'Connell, former Democratic city chairman of Albany, and others with operation of the pool.

O'Connell was a witness before the Grand Jury which investigated the pool, being arrested near Albany after an automobile chase after it was alleged he had dodged process served on him. He at first refused to be sworn and answer questions but later acceded and went before the jury.

His answers there, however, allegedly were so evasive that he was sentenced to the Federal House of Detention for three months for contempt of court. He now is out under bail waiting a hearing on an appeal from the sentence.

My Favorite Bible Passage

Today's Choice by DR. MARY E. WOOLEY, President, Mt. Holyoke College

The Twenty-Third Psalm The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou art with me, and my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Mrs. Harris Greene who has spent several months at the Steers House left Monday for her home in Stratford, Conn.

Miss Alice Margaret Budd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin Budd of 89 Rose street, East Providence, R. I., and Lathrop Orson Tolland took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at St. Martin's Episcopal Church Providence, R. I. The Rev. Raines performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with lace. Her veil was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of brides roses and ferns. There were no attendants. Guests were present from Hartford, Rockville, Providence and Tolland. Mr. and Mrs. West left on an unannounced motor-trip.

Jersey City, Oct. 22.—(AP)—With $5,301.26 of the loot recovered, the police today renewed their search for Raymond H. Gallagher who drove off in New York with an armored truck containing $63,000 in payroll funds.

Mrs. Julia Corcoran, 33, a sister of Gallagher's wife was arrested when New Jersey and New York detectives found the money in a trunk in her home.

Gallagher who was employed as a chauffeur by the Brinks Express Co., owners of the truck, disappeared with the vehicle from the Chemical National bank in the financial district last Thursday. The truck was found abandoned nearby. Gallagher and the money were missing.

Speech Of President At Canal Dedication

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The President today in dedicating a monument in Eden Park here today commemorating the reopening of an improved Ohio river said:

"My Fellow Countrymen and Women:

"It is a great pleasure to me to share in the dedication of this monument glorifying for all time the completion of a nine-foot channel for the full length of the Ohio river. The engineering mind, about which I see so much in the newspapers here, does come to the surface and luxuriates in appreciation of a great engineering job well done. This new instrument of commerce from which untold blessings will come year after year, is an enduring monument to those patient men of my own profession whose lives are spent in devising means to increase the comfort and convenience of the world.

Praises Others.

"But men of every mould have wrought with equal bravery in this transformation of the wild beauty of the Ohio river into the not less beautiful but more tractable stream of today. The engineers found the practical means, but many others contributed to the vision, courage and persistence needed to this accomplishment. Statesmen, river men and business men may share the glory. The elders present may well regret the absence of such stalwart figures as Col. William H. Merrill and Captain William B. Rodgers, whose ingenuity and dauntless faith bore so large a part in this achievement.

"I personally feel deeply the absence of Senator Theodore Burton, at whose bedside in Washington I have recently stood. His work as chairman of the historic Inland Waterways Commission, appointed by President Roosevelt in 1907, gave

STATE DEPARTMENT IS OUT OF SOCIETY

Sec. Stimson Says His Staff Has Far More Important Things to Do.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Calls for a social still come plaintively and vainly to the protocol division of the State Department, although fully six months ago—while controversy ran high over the official rank of Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, the vice-presidential hostess—Secretary Stimson announced succinctly that his subordinates were through with ministering in social dilemmas.

A plea for assistance now is followed by an explanation at the department that, officially, there is no such thing as a social precedence among United States officials, and that determining unofficial rank the hostess must look elsewhere.

Need Arbitrator.

There is in fact a promising opening, it is said, for a commercial arbitrator who could tell for a consideration when to wear a white or a black tie, how to seat one's guests, or any of the countless, baffling niceties of social observance.

Even the all-knowing social secretaries would patronize such a referee, for now they ask the State Department. And the only possibility of a resumption there of the old practice of offering expert advice unofficially and gratis—would seem to be legislation providing a Bureau of Social Information. Such legislation is regarded as beyond the horizon of probability.

Hostesses for years consulted a veteran official in the State Department whenever they were in a quandary over some fine point of social etiquette, or they went for counsel to a butler of the President. These knew the rigid but unwritten rules—that have grown up here during decades of observing social precedence among American officials, although this nation, unlike European countries, has never defined by legislation the comparative social standing of its high officers.

Butler Dead.

The State Department offered assistance, working overtime at it, and the butler also could be depended upon. When the butler died, and when the protocol division was created, in February, 1928, official pronouncement made the rendering of unofficial advice one of its functions.

This unofficial counsel, it was explained today, was received as official dictation. Last winter came the controversy over Mrs. Gann's social status, and a plethora of questions concerning social etiquette. One April day when a wave of social self-consciousness had swept the capital, Secretary Stimson announced in effect, that his department no longer should be secretary to social Washington, that the protocol division had far more important duties to occupy it; that the giving of advice had been misinterpreted so that it had assumed the importance of an official pronouncement; that Washington society must shift for itself in settling its social problems.

Apparently the meaning of this statement escaped many, for the requests for assistance still come by telephone and letter. But hostess and social secretary receive the same response—in effect: "Settle it for yourself; the State Department is out of society."

GERMANS TAKE OVER ABANDONED STEAMER

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The British steamship Inchaialine, abandoned here by the owners after being towed into port with bursted boilers and encumbered by several difficulties, will sail in the future under the German flag.

The vessel has been purchased by the Messel Steamship Company, it was announced by Captain David Sanders, representative of the German company, who came here to take it to Hamburg after repairs, and the legal tangle cleared.

After the difficulties in its last Atlantic crossing, the Strachan Company (America) served notice to the government that it no longer was agent for the Inchaialine and was not responsible for its crew. Twenty-one Orientals were in the crew and a $1,000 fine would have been assessed against the owner or agent for each who left the boat and came into this country. The Orientals were taken to county jail and later sent to San Francisco for deportation.

FAKES A ROBBERY TO GET INSURANCE

Chicago Woman Confesses She Staged Holdup to Conceal a Gambling Debt.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The hold-up last February in which Mrs. Edwin C. Price reported the loss of $18,000 in furs and jewels, had resulted today in her arrest and in the arrest of four men she named as having conspired with her to defraud an insurance company.

Mrs. Price, 38-year-old widow of an elderly millionaire manufacturer, confessed to state's attorneys last night that the holdup was a sham, she said. She resorted to it, she said, to conceal a gambling debt from her husband.

The plot was conceived, she stated, by Morris A. Barnett to whom she confided her gambling debt dilemma. The loot was disposed of, she said, by Max Krakow, a manufacturer's jeweler. The actual "robbers," Mrs. Price said, were Jack Baum and Ben Levin.

Fake Robbery

Mrs. Price said that Barnett suggested that she insure her jewels and furs for the sum required to meet her debts and that he would arrange to have her "robbed" and also would arrange disposal of the loot.

The "robbery" was accomplished in the late afternoon of February 25 as Mrs. Price was leaving a dress shop on Goethe street. Two men stripped her of her jewels and cash and drove away in a taxicab back into the shop to telephone police.

Mrs. Price's husband was visibly shaken by the charge against his wife.

New York, Oct. 22.—Leading industrial steel makers believe the industry will be able to maintain operations over the balance of the year at a rate close of 75 per cent of capacity.

Holders of preferred and common stock voting trust certificates of Servco, Inc., will meet Oct. 26, to give a proposal to reduce the authorized 65,000 $100 par preferred shares to 10,000 by the cancellation and retirement of 55,000 shares, and to increase the authorized common from 1,600,000 to 2,000,000 no par shares.

An offering of 100,000 shares of American Superpower $6 shares in first preferred stock at $99 a share and accrued dividends is expected to be made soon. Proceeds of the sale are to be used for the acquisition of additional interests in light and power companies and for other corporate purposes.

STOCK MARKET RALLIES

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Under powerful influences exerted in the last half hour of trading the Stock Market rallied slightly yesterday after a day of frenzied selling.

The liquidation began with the opening gong and after ten minutes of trading had outstripped the ticker which lagged steadily until at the close it was an hour and forty minutes behind.

The day's transactions covered a range of 290 stocks, making the market the broadest in history. Total sales were 6,061,870, one of the largest turnovers in a declining market. The record for a day's volume is 8,246,742 shares set last March.

The biggest loss was 145 points in Commercial Solvents, old stock, an inactive issue which dropped to 520. The range of losses in leading active stocks was between 5 and 45 points. Thousands of small traders who failed to meet their margins were sold out at the market, suffering heavy losses in the spread between asked and bid prices.

INVENTOR RESTING

Dearborn, Mich., Oct. 22.—(AP)—So fatigued by a day of ceremony in his honor that he had to leave a banquet last night before President Hoover had spoken, Thomas A. Edison was declared as in fair shape today. The inventor left the hall immediately after he delivered a brief speech.

Later Mr. Edison was taken to Mr. Henry Ford's home.

JAP ENVOYS TO SAIL

Tokyo, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki and Admiral Hyo Takarabe, Japan's ranking advisers to the forthcoming London naval conference, will arrive in Washington during the week of December 15 to pay their respects to President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

It is believed likely they will give the finishing touches to the preliminary conversations, which in the meantime will be conducted through regular diplomatic channels.

Japan's delegation is scheduled to sail from Yokohama November 30. It is due to arrive at Seattle December 11 and will entrain immediately for the east. The delegation will be among the largest to the London conference, totalling about 70 persons.

REDS NEAR HANKOW

Hankow, China, Oct. 22.—(AP)—It was officially reported here this afternoon that the Kuominchun, or "People's Army" led by generals of the Nationalist lines at Chengchow in their drive for Hankow and the other Wuhan cities.

The Kuominchun advance guard occupied Sincing, fifty miles south of Chengchow, in northern Honan Province. Sincing is about 150 miles north of Hankow on the Kiangnan railroad.

LOCKS FLOODED.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22.—(AP)—President Hoover may see little of the $118,000,000 system of locks and dams whose completion is the occasion of his trip tomorrow from Cincinnati to Louisville by steamer.

Rain for the past 36 hours in the Ohio River basin, it was stated today by Col. George R. Spalding of the United States engineers office here, has caused such a rise that several sections of wickets had to be dropped yesterday at the Fernbank dam up the river, and a slight further rise would flood the lock chambers so they could not be used.

General Chang, the Manchurian war lord, was fined $150 the other day for an accidental killing. So they have innocent bystanders in China, too.

WAPPING

Mrs. William H. Felt and daughter, Miss Mary Felt, spent the week-end in Boston, Mass., as the guests of Mrs. Alice Bragg, and son Milton Bragg, who formerly lived in South Windsor.

Miss Fins Grant entertained the past week-end at her home at 1000 the Amaranth at her home last Saturday evening.

Wapping Grange will hold its twentieth regular meeting at the Center School hall this Tuesday evening. It will take the form of a Halloween social, and the following committee will furnish the program: Mrs. Ella Burnham, Miss Lillian E. Burger, Miss Frances Stoddard, Robert Newcomb, Miss Dorothy Frink, Mrs. Helena Foster, and William Foster.

Harold Hart of this place received the sad news of the death of his uncle, William S. Crosby, who was killed in a railroad accident at Hancock, N. H., last week Wednesday. Mr. Crosby leaves his wife and five children, the youngest being eleven years of age.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN PACT

London, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Anglo-Russian committee of the British trade delegation which visited Russia last March and April, believes a great volume of business is available for Great Britain subject to diplomatic recognition being accorded to the forthcoming London naval conference, and arrangements being made for financing business on long term credits or otherwise.

The committee's report expresses the opinion that the British government could and should obtain assurances from Soviet Russia regarding the cessation of claims of British Nationals prior to 1917. Assurances on the question of the cessation of hostile propaganda also should be obtained, the committee said.

TCHITCHERIN STILL ILL

Moscow, Oct. 22.—(AP)—George Tchitcherin, commissar for foreign affairs, who has been ill in Germany more than a year, is still unable without risk to resume his duties at Moscow, says a medical bulletin published in today's Izvestia. The bulletin is signed by four professors who are treating him at Wiesbaden.

The bulletin discloses that Tchitcherin for the last four years has been suffering from diabetes, inflammation of the nerves and a rheumatic infection which requires constant specialized treatment unavailable in Russia.

Attending physicians say that only if the treatment progresses satisfactorily, will it be possible to raise the question of the veteran statesman's return to Moscow.

GIVES ESTATE TO CITY

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—(AP)—United States Senator-Elect William S. Vare has purchased "Abendruhn" the beautiful 93-acre estate of his brother the late State Senator Edwin H. Vare, in Ambler, and will dedicate it to the city of Philadelphia as a hospital for paralytics.

Friends of the Senator-elect said the gift was an "expression of gratitude to God" for his own almost miraculous recovery from paralysis. The property was purchased from Mrs. Flora M. Vare, widow, for a reported price of $250,000.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purging the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects. Olive Tablets bring no gripping pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

STOP This Criminal

Of all the culprits who ply the trade of crime, the arsonist is to be most despised. His victims have been legion.

To gain dishonest dollars for himself the arsonist will sacrifice the lives of others and imperil property of untold value.

But the hand of the law is fairly certain now to seize this criminal. Detection and punishment have been brought to such a high percentage of success that he has small chance of escape. The Arson Squad generally gets its man!

The Stock Fire Insurance companies, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and its Arson Committee, wage relentless war against the arsonist.

Squads of trained men work quietly and without noise or show, in co-operation with legal authorities, in every state of the Union, to guard the people of America against this crime of arson and the practice of incendiarism by pyromaniacs and other irresponsible persons.

The results have been gratifying, and will be even more so when the American people realize the menace and cost of incendiary fires.

This is but one of many measures employed by the Stock Fire Insurance companies in the elimination of fire hazards—the conservation of life and property. The Arson Squad works constantly with police, fire marshals, fire departments and other officials.

"The Crime of Crimes," an interesting booklet on arson and incendiarism, may be had upon request.

The Innocent Cheat

THIS HAS HAPPENED
HELEN PAGE feels indebted to and in love with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT, who changes his plans for her future after meeting a dying man named NELLIN. At 18, he presents the girl to a mill, Honore, CRYLL CUNNINGHAM, as his heiress and offers proof which the lonely old man accepts without question, as he has been searching for his dead daughter's child for years.

Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother ROBERT. Brent finds another locket like the one he had taken from Nellin to prove Helen the heiress and plots to get Cunningham out of the way quickly. He slyly administers a shock which proves fatal and the servants find the old man dead in bed. Then he wins Helen's promise to marry him. Later, she and Bob realize they love each other, but she tells him she is engaged. She tries to get Brent to release her, but he refuses and makes dire threats if she dares to marry Bob.

Eva resents Helen's treatment of her brother, which has driven him to flirting with SHALLIMAR MORRIS. She scolds Bob and tells her Helen is engaged to Brent and she is making love to her. Bob goes to expose Brent to Helen and while they are talking an urgent call comes from his mother. They rush over just in time to prevent Eva from taking poison in a fit of hysteria. Helen tries to tell her what a cad Brent is, but she insists that she must see him. Helen decides to see him first and phones for him to come up.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLII
Brent dressed leisurely and lingered over his breakfast, taking a third cup of crystal-clear coffee his man had prepared for him—adding a tiny pinch of salt in place of sugar and cream. Its estivating fragrance, mingled with the smoke from his Turkish cigarette, filled him with a sense of well being that brought the look of a lately fed jungle beast into his eyes.

His satanic smile played over his lips now and then as certain pleasing thoughts came to him.
Helen must be stewing over his delay. Let her. The more upset she was the better for him.
Carmel had promised to be good, being clever enough to know the limit of all things.
Eva was a mouse. No trouble there.
That girl Shallimar—well, if she hadn't lashed Bob Ennis it didn't matter. She'd soon be sent packing—he'd see to that. Not have her hanging around to give Ennis an excuse to call. The young puppy might have the nerve even with the door closed in his face at Helen's orders.

But what did it matter? What did anything matter? Brent drank deep from the cup, drew in a long breath of smoke and steeped himself in his satisfaction.
Helen was his. He could take her when he wished. She was utterly helpless.
Finally he glanced at a small clock on his desk, arose, stretched himself agreeably and went to change his dressing gown for his street coat.
His Japanese, ever watchful, came in to help him. Brent told him to telephone for his car.

The garage was just around the corner, a convenience for which those who hired space in it were required to pay heavily. The car was brought to the door of Brent's apartment house within 10 minutes and he went down to take the wheel, thoroughly convinced that the ultimate success of his scheming was at hand.
He had entertained formerly that Helen would refuse the new role he would offer her had subsided. No one could be so mad, he believed.
Give up millions? Face poverty—a girl who had been carefully protected all her life? Yes, perhaps, he admitted, but the publicity? Could she stand up to all that exposure would mean to her? He thought not.
Not caring for slow driving, he made good time to Yonkers.

Helen was waiting for him. She ran to open the door herself, having lost much of her self control while waiting for him in nervous anxiety. He attempted to take her hand for a kiss in greeting but she drew it angrily away from him and turned to lead the way to the living room.
Brent followed without a word. She must be the first to speak—it suited his purpose to have it so.
In the privacy of the vast room she whirled upon him and her words came like the lash of a whip.
"I've heard about you and Eva," she said.
Brent stiffened slightly, the only outward sign that she had disturbed his poise. One eyebrow went up inquiringly, but he remained silent.
"Well, what do you mean to do about it?" Helen pursued.
"Do?" Brent repeated blankly.
"Are you thinking of marrying her?" Helen asked tensely.
"My dear girl!"
Brent was amused.
"I see," Helen said icily. "I am glad to know that you have no such impossible intention," she went on, her eyes fairly burning with scorn for him.
"You need not have worried," Brent said hastily. "I shall marry no one but you, Helen."
For a moment Helen was too furious to speak. Then: "You are mistaken," she said, using all her will to say it calmly, "if you expect to marry me."
"Because of Eva?" Brent taunted her. "My word, you are jealous, aren't you?"
"You thought you at least too intelligent to be facetious at a time like this," Helen promptly returned. "Why at a time like this?" he inquired blandly.

Helen came close to losing her temper completely. "Don't you know that you've simply broken Eva's heart?" she cried.
"Nonsense."
"Some day I'm certain she will think so too," Helen agreed; "but for the present she imagines herself in love with you. She wants to see you. That is why I have sent for you."
"She isn't here?" Brent asked, with a touch of consternation.
"No, she isn't," Helen retorted. "She doesn't know how futile it would be to make an appeal to you for any kind of decent treatment—but I know, and I wish to spare her further disillusionment."
"Yes?" Brent smiled over her opinion of him, thinking of what she was yet to learn. "How do you propose to do that?"
"I want your promise never to see her again. No fate could be worse for her than to go on with you."
"Thanks," he answered dryly. "I'm willing to make that promise. The kid's a damned nuisance, but don't think you're dictating to me, my dear. I simply find it convenient to comply with your wishes in the matter."
"But should you change your mind," Helen began warningly, "let me tell you that her brother will thrash you within an inch of your life and maybe he won't stop there."
"An inch to live," Brent exclaimed. "Sounds like a popular questionaire." "What would you do if you had but an inch to live?"
"Just, if you like," Helen told him; "but you can't go forever tramping on other people without some day being trampled on in turn."
Brent smiled broadly. "What a dear little lecturer you are," he said enthusiastically. "You ought always to be in a temper, Helen. You literally blaze."
"I mean what I say," Helen cautioned him.
Brent sobered. "Where does young Ennis come in?" he shot at her suddenly.
Helen's head reared laughingly. "I am going to marry him," she stated.
With her words a grim distortion replaced Brent's sarcastic smile. "You are going to marry me," he retorted snarlingly.
Helen answered rather quietly, considering how his words fired her anger.
"I promised to tell you when I made a decision like this," she said. "Well, you may persist in taking a ridiculous attitude if you choose, but I am going to marry Robert Ennis."
They had been standing. Brent now waved toward a chair. "Sit down," he said and seated himself on another.
"This is going to take time," he warned, as Helen declined to comply.
"There really isn't anything more to be said," she hinted.
"There is a great deal, and it will take some time," he differed. "It won't be pleasant either for you. You'd better sit down, my dear."
Helen glanced at her wristwatch. "I am taking Miss Morris to the station in a few minutes," she told him. "Please say what you have to say as quickly as possible."
Helen smiled disdainfully.
"You won't have the nerve to tell him that you're a criminal," Brent went on; "and if you marry him without telling him I'll expose you."
Helen's eyes were wide with mixed emotions, chiefly astonishment and disbelief, but there was fear lurking in them as well. Fear that Brent was evil enough to have found some way to wreck her happiness, however innocent of any wrong she herself might be.
She made a wordless sound of protest and sank back from his closer, threatening approach.
"What have you to say to that?" he demanded.
Helen rallied her courage. "Only that you are a contemptible coward," she cried, "and utterly insane."
"Am I?" Brent mocked her. "Possibly, but not too insane to have put you in the Nellin girl's place—to have won an immense fortune for you—and to have you just where I want you."
Helen was now completely confused, quite unable to follow him. He saw that she would not know where to begin to ask the questions that were settling in her mind and decided to tell her everything of her story from the start.
Helen listened helplessly. It was so appalling, so shocking, to hear the dead parents she had revered revealed as crooks, to learn that Brent himself was even worse than she had thought him—she could do nothing but stare glassily at him while her world fell about her head.
He told her the whole truth—how he had stumbled upon the facts of the Cunningham case—how he had conceived the idea of imposing her upon the aged man as his granddaughter—and what it meant to him.
"And now you know why you can't refuse to marry me," he ended.
Helen's lips opened stiffly—her words came with great difficulty. "But you... you are the criminal," she cried hoarsely.
Brent's tenseness slackened, his tigerishness left him, and he became the instant his old, nervous, unperturbed self. He had been ferocious in his attack, brutal, delighting in it. But he knew that his moves must now be cautious, more carefully planned.
"Unfortunately, for you," he said quietly, "you cannot prove your innocence."

Sister Mary's Kitchen

BY SISTER MARY

Certain desserts are most suitable for luncheon, others for dinner—and the type of either meal influences the choice of the dessert. A "Homey" farm house dinner would be incompatible with a fussy Frenchy dessert. A formal meal needs a more sophisticated dessert than apple pie.

There are a few mistakes easy to avoid. To serve a fruit dessert after a fruit salad, to follow an omelet with a custard or a meat pie by pastry, breaks the first rule for choosing the right dessert.
The dessert that perfectly finishes the meal should form as great a contrast in flavor and texture with the courses preceding it as possible.
Rich meats like pork, beef, mutton and those require light desserts free from fat and, especially in the case of pork and goose, with a tendency toward tartness. Fresh fruit in season, fruit in gelatine, fruit flavored gelatines and ices, deep dish fruit pies and perfectly baked fruits, are excellent choices for these dinners.
Wide Choice of Desserts
Light meats like veal and lamb demand a more nutritious dessert. Since veal itself is rich in gelatine, the dessert should not be jellied unless it's a natural fruit jelly. Veal is lacking in fat, so this can be supplied in the dessert. Lamb does not need the addition of fat. The flavor of both these meats is mild, so this, too, must be made up in the dessert. Caramel custard is a

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc

Do you have charge accounts? Do you have children go to the butchers, the bakers, the department store, and the druggists and buy things and charge them?
The influence of charge accounts on growing children is decidedly bad—that is, if they are permitted to go into the stores to do their shopping themselves.
We send Mary for a beef-steak. The butcher asks her what kind she wants. "I don't know. Mother always gets the best."
"How much do you want?"
"Oh, Mother just said to get a nice steak."
Then when the butcher cuts off a three-pound tenderloin, wraps it up and hands it to her and she says, "Charge it," without asking the price, will you please tell me what kind of shopping that is and how much Mary has learned?

In many families there is very little actual cash handled. Pater familias is a good provider out ten or twenty checks at the end of the month and he has done his duty! And so it is not always the fault of the mothers when children know not a jot nor a tittle about money.

A Drug Store Incident
The drug-store bill is insidious. I know a little girl six years old who bought sodas and sundae every day for months and treated all her friends. As she slid down off the high chair at the counter she'd say merely, "Charge it, please," and that was all.

One day she stopped for her daily treat and found a little black-bordered card on the door. Closed!
Well, there was another store on the next corner. In she went and sat down and ordered a nice rich banana split.
As she wiped the last vestige of whipped cream off her lower lip with the tip of her tongue she slipped out, "Charge it," and started to leave.

"Nix on that!" laughed the clerk. "Forty cents cash. Here's your check. Pay the cashier."
She stood there holding the bill for past pleasures not knowing what to do. Then she saw a man hand the same little cardboard in at a window and she went over and handed hers in too.
"Where's your money?" asked the cashier.
"I haven't any money."
"I just said 'Charge it.' Mother always does. What do I want money for?"
The clerk saw how it was and called up the house, so it was all fixed up, but for a fact that child didn't know you paid for things. It may sound incredible but it is true. She came of well-to-do parents who had never thought that children have to be taught what money can and cannot do.

"Just Charge It!"
I know so many young people less innocent in their extravagant impulses who are permitted to go to shoe stores and jewelry stores and dry-goods stores and select what they wish and send the bill to father.

The ethical side of it I am not criticizing. That is decidedly the affair of each family concerned—not mine. But the economic side does concern me as it does everybody. It makes a hard future for future providers and a difficult future for these youngsters too. They will then have to learn the lessons of economy and management they should have learned as children, and it won't be easy. Living on a limited income takes knowledge and skill.

Money will do just so much and no more. All children are entitled to know its restrictions—if only for the character it develops.

nesium silicate, or French chalk or rice powder as their base. Sometimes zinc oxide, magnesium carbonate or precipitated chalk is added.

Most powders do not contain harmful ingredients. Occasionally lead and bismuth salts are added to powders. Manufacturers have found that these are unnecessary and add little to the value of the powder for any purpose.
Specialists in diseases of the skin do not urge the use of powder. On the contrary, they are convinced that the moderate use of cosmetic powder helps a delicate skin by protecting it against wind and sun. The ordinary moderate use of powder does not clog up the pores sufficiently to interfere with perspiration, unless the powders are mixed with creams and pastes to make a solid mixture.
It is not believed however, that care to apply a mixture of that type to her face. Powder, combined with greasy applications, causes the collection of dirt and powder in the opening of the sweat glands and leads perhaps to the dilation of the pores and the formation of blackheads.

TEXAS OIL BRINGS HUGE UNIVERSITY ENDOWMENT
San Angelo, Tex.(AP)—Oil from the 2,000,000-acre "campus" of the University of Texas is lighting the lamp of learning for generations to come.
Within a year (royalties from oil produced on University properties in western Texas have become the school's largest single item of endowment. This year's royalties have raised it to more than $32,000,000, a figure exceeded by only four other schools.

Continued discoveries of new gushers on university land have led petroleum experts to predict that the school's wealth eventually will exceed that of such schools as Harvard, Columbia, Yale and Chicago.

The WOMAN'S DAY

We get another glimpse of life behind the shutters of the purdah—at the child wives, matricians, concubines and slave girls of India in Margaret Wilson's new book, "Trousers of Taffeta."

This author, best known for her prize novel, "The Able McLaughlins," went to India as a missionary after her graduation from the University of Chicago.
She associated happily with those who "live without clocks, without money, without newspapers, without reservations, without intelligence, and without despair," and finally left India because she said if she had not, she would have died quite futilely of compassion.

Men Like Gods
Recently she returned to India and wrote back to a friend:
"I have long lost most of my patience with Indian men, but I have never been able to say anything as devastating about them as one said to me. It was this:
"The reason that you of the West don't understand our family life is that you have no conception of our religion. In our religion women are taught from infancy to think of their husbands as their god."
The fatuousness of that remark to me seems almost sublime. It is not entirely true, to be sure. Not all modern-minded Indian men require their wives to think of them as gods, but many of them encourage such an attitude and nearly all of them tolerate it. Anything more distasteful to a decent western man is hard to conceive.
"He would feel instinctively what Indian men never seem capable of discovering—the insincerity of such worship. He would know that he might go on to the end of time demanding such adoration, and never getting it."
It is my opinion that Indian women are quite as enthusiastic in such devotion as American women would be and not more so.
"Mother India" has been as bitter to these posing godlets as I am to a malarial patient and as beneficent. I know to my sorrow that all that is in the book, and to my joy, a great deal more besides, it is that other knowledge—of the lovableness of the Indian women—that I have tried to put into my book. I have failed. But then, everyone who has tried to describe the beauty which is peculiarly Indian has also failed in their attempts.

Paris — (AP) — French rebels against present men's styles failed to get knee breeches and collarless shirts across but they have instigated one style which caught on. It is the "sheet handkerchiefs" which the slick haired young Parisians about town have adopted. They are made of the same sized handkerchiefs, although they fold into the usual space, being made of the sheepest obtainable linen.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET
Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the stomach. When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children who take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., N. Y. It will be sent FREE. In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Traditional Rivals To Meet Saturday

Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame Only Intersectional Game of Much Promise; Army, Dartmouth, Navy the Favorites.

BY HERBERT W. PARKER

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A half intersectional game provides the sauce for the East's football feast on Saturday but traditional rivalries furnish the real backbone of the menu.

On a day when such games as Army-Yale, Dartmouth-Harvard, Navy-Princeton and Syracuse-Brown are available to tempt football followers, only the Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame fray, among intersectional battles, can offer much competition.

The so-called Irish and the so-called Scotch are friendly rivals of some standing. Carnegie Tech can boast of two successive victories over Knute Rockne's Ramblers from South Bend.

The other intersectional games bring together New York U. and Butler of Indiana; Marquette of Milwaukee and Holy Cross; Duke and Villa Nova; Kenyon of Ohio and Haverford, et al. in the east, and West Va. and the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater, Okla.

Army's tie game with Harvard last week served only to confirm what two weeks had been something more than a slight suspicion—namely that to beat the Cadets one must stop Cagle. There seems to exist considerable doubt whether Yale can do either next Saturday.

Dartmouth, with Marsters running wild looked invincible against Columbia but it remains to be seen whether even "Special Delivery Al" can get past a fine Harvard line.

Beaten by Brown and Cornell on successive Saturdays, Princeton hopes to get going at the expense of Navy, but those same hopes seem to lack any logical foundation.

Syracuse, highest scoring team in the country, will be favored over Brown, although the Bruins have shown they are not to be taken lightly, despite an early defeat by Springfield and another beating by Yale.

Two undefeated teams—Davis and Elkins and Fordham, are to meet at the Folo Grounds, the first of the "little three" championship games looks like an overwhelming victory for Amherst over Wesleyan, beaten in its first four starts.

'HACK' AND 'MACK' TENNESSEE STARS

BY WERNER LAUFER

If you have seen the play of Hack 'n' Mack, the University of Tennessee's great backfield pair, you can realize how the team could roll up such an impressive record as 23 victories in a row.

Hack is Buddy Hackman and Mack is Eugene McEver. But all through the south they are Hack 'n' Mack, and as far as telling which is the better halfback, that just can't be done.

Major Bob Neyland, at least, coach of the Vols, refuses to commit himself to that point. They are alike as far as playing ability is concerned. They duplicate one another's faults on the gridiron. But they are, to use Major Neyland's words, "as totally different as any two men on earth."

"There's McEver," says the major, "he's dark and his face is set. His legs are short and his chin deters him. There's Hackman, smiling blond, built like an antelope, and apparently easygoing."

"Both of them have the highest spirit imaginable. Neither has the slightest bit of prima donna about him. That counts for a lot."

Tennessee was noted out of the Southern Conference championship last year by Georgia Tech, though both had 1000 per cent. Georgia had won one more game than the Vols. This year the Vols threaten again.

SPRINGFIELD INDIANS TO REPORT ON FRIDAY

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The first call for winter's leading sport has gone out. The managers of New York's two National League Hockey teams, Lester Patrick of the Rangers and Lionel Conacher of the Americans, set the date yesterday for their men to report for practice in preparation for the season's opening Nov. 17.

TWO FOOTBALLERS DIE FROM INJURY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Two deaths from football were reported here today.

Elmer Drury, 21, of Elizabeth, succumbed to a broken back received in practice at Elizabeth on September 13. Norma Shor, ten, died of a fractured skull suffered in a game with other boys in the Oakland district last Friday.

TIP FROM PREXY ANGELL

Not long ago Dr. James R. Angell, president of Yale University, wrote a piece for the papers advancing the idea that the boys, not the coaches on the sidelines, should direct the strategy of the football games.

Just how this idea would work out we are not quite sure, but it looks to be a kick in the pants for every football player expert who ever tried to forecast a game. For, without coaches, how can the poor expert know what the blacksmiths and icemen are going to do out there at any given time?

A great deal depends, of course, on how well the coaches instruct the students who play football. Some coaches can teach the boys plenty before the games; others carry their direction to the extreme of calling for every move the gridiron warriors make, much as a chess master moves his king and kings.

Mr. Rockne's Absence

Take a case in point. Knute Rockne's Notre Dame teams are well-schooled in their game and Rockne doesn't have to be there to make the trickiest click. Rockne was ill and absent during the struggle with the Navy, and that is one of Notre Dame's most important games. The Navy this year has a strong team.

The boys played, however, as though Rockne's wise finger were hovering above them, pointing, signaling, instructing. No one who reads the story of Notre Dame's 14 to 7 victory over the Middies can have any doubt of that. It is wrong to think that these players have learned enough football strategy to know how to carry on themselves, without their leader?

Meehan's Disobedient Boys

Quite another story, with a different angle, was that of the defeat of the Violet team, Captain Leonard Grant and Beryl Follet. Mr. Meehan called in the reporters and told them the reasons were "disciplinary."

Whether or not the New York University players have been reading Dr. Angell has not been established, but the fact is they ignored their coach's commands. They had been told not to throw more than four forward passes; they threw 23. Meehan's hunch on the passes must have been fairly sound for nine of the Violet passes were intercepted in the Violet's own territory.

Knowing What to Do

Without intent at comparison of the intelligence of the Notre Dame and Violet players, here is an instance from the Notre Dame-Navy game that may shed more light on this subject.

Coach Chick Meehan had devised a quick kick to combat the Notre Dame box defense against forward passes. The quick kick worked for a gain—just once. Then the Notre Dame players, without waiting for instructions from the side lines, snapped out of their box defense quickly and into a triangle formation against which the Ingram strategy was valueless.

But then, perhaps, the Notre Dame players have been too busy trying to learn football under Rockne to take the time to read Dr. Angell.

Meikle to Report Again Sunday; Mozzer Coming Home for Town Series.

Manager Pete Vendrillo of the Cubs announced today that he had been unable to book the Meriden Falcons for next Sunday and that the Sokol Rosebuds of Bridgeport would appear here in their place.

The Falcons are playing the Eagles in Wallingford next Sunday.

Manager Vendrillo also announced that Tommy Meikle, hard-hitting star fullback, will be on hand for the remaining games of the season.

He was unable to appear here last Sunday. Felix Mozzer will report two weeks before the town series. He is attending school in Boston. The Cubs practice tonight from 7 to 8 at the Rec and have calisthenics from 8 until 9.

'BOOTLEG' BALL IS BARRED NOW

Few persons knew there was such a thing as a "bootleg football" until the rules committee made its use in future games impossible, beginning this season.

For years manufacturers had been offering two varieties of ball. One was pointed, or "minimum" type, easily handled by forward passers and therefore extremely popular with teams that depended largely on such a form of attack.

The other was the rounded or "maximum" ball, which a team that had little sportsmanship in its makeup was quite likely to use if it was to oppose a rival with forward passing ability on its home field.

In addition, there was another favorite trick sometimes used to curtail the effectiveness of an opponent who boasted of a punter of considerable ability. In this case the ball would be pumped up to double its normal air capacity, making it loggy and difficult to boot more than 30 or 40 yards.

No longer can these tactics be resorted to, for this year the ball must conform to certain measurements and, in addition, must contain no less than 13 and no more than 15 pounds pressure of air.

The length of the long axis of the ball has been prescribed as no greater than 11 1/4 inches and no less than 11, with the circumference, long axis, no more than 28 1/2 and no less than 28 inches. The short axis shall have a minimum of 22 1/2 inches and a maximum of 22 1/2, while the weight of the ball must be between 14 and 15 ounces.

NO SWEARING

Members of the football squad at Kansas Aggies are permitted to swear, but not to curse. Bo McManis, former star of the Centre College Praying Colonels, who still abides by the strict moral rules observed at that institution.

"APPLESAUCE AND CLIPPINGS" SOURCE OF WORRY TO ZUPPKE

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 22.—(AP)—"Applesauce and clippings" are worrying Coach Bob Zuppke, of the University of Illinois this season.

"These blocks walk down the street and get filled with applesauce every place they go," the little Dutchman said in discussing his football players. "Everybody tells them how good they are. Then they go home and read the same stuff in the newspapers and pretty soon they begin to believe it."

"They are filled with applesauce, and their pockets are filled with clippings. The load is too heavy to carry and play football at the same time."

WALTER LERIAN, PHILLY CATCHER, SUCCEUMS AS RESULT OF AUTO ACCIDENT.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Walter Lorian, Philadelphia National League catcher, died today of injuries received when a motor truck hit him on a sidewalk.

John Mooney, a former sand lot baseball player in the days when "Puck" was playing with the St. Martin's club, gave a pint of blood for a transfusion operation.

Lorian was struck yesterday afternoon. Police said Charles Lloyd, driver of the truck swerved to avoid a collision with another car and ran on to the sidewalk, crashing Lorian against a building.

Lloyd was arrested as well as August Meyers, driver of the machine while Lloyd was avoiding at the time of the accident. Both were released on their own recognizance.

Lloyd was charged with reckless driving and Meyers with failing to give right of way.

"Puck" Lorian went to the Philadelphia Nationals from the New Haven club of the Eastern League in 1928.

He caught in 104 games for the Phillies during the 1929 season and batted .222. He began his baseball career 10 years ago with St. Martin's Catholic club of Baltimore. He signed with the late Jack Dunn, manager of the Baltimore Orioles when he was 17.

HUGGINS' CHOICE

In keeping with the desire of the late Miller Huggins, Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, named Bob Shawkey to pilot the Yanks in the 1930 season. Shawkey was a star pitcher under Huggins and from 1919 to 1924 was one of the American League's leading right-handed moundmen. Long before his death Huggins confided in Colonel Ruppert his preference for either Art Fletcher or Shawkey to succeed him. Fletcher preferred to remain with the Yanks in his present capacity, that of coach.

NIGHT GAME IN 1904

This ultra-modern game of night football first was played back in 1904 by teams representing the Southwest Missouri Teachers and the Cherokee Indians on a field illuminated by gas lights.

Pirates Unfortunate Victims; Conran and Chartier Aid Werlosky; Majors Hit Team Single of 631; Other Herald League Results.

Led by youthful Vincent Werlosky, latest bowling sensation at the North End, the Majors broke all four high score records in the Herald League last night, with the amazing team total of 1795. Ernie Sherman's Pirates were the unfortunate victims of the spectacular pin-topping rampage.

Young Werlosky followed with a score of 157 and the third by 54. Their scores, however, would have badly outclassed any other team in the league last night and the four new records have a fine chance of withstanding the season's assault. The high single and team total of 1795 are considered the safest.

It was three men who did the brunt of the work for the Majors, Werlosky, Chartier and Conran. This trio all had three-string totals over 365. The other two men, Magnuson and Kebart lit over 300 and if they had happened to have had a real good night, the Majors would undoubtedly have hit a mark that would have threatened to stand for many years in five-men team league competition.

Four New Records

The Majors walloped the Pirates by 308 pins, winning the first by 123, the second by 131 and the third by 54. Their scores, however, would have badly outclassed any other team in the league last night and the four new records have a fine chance of withstanding the season's assault. Fell Down In Third

In setting the new high single mark of 169, Werlosky who is only 17 years old, made three strikes and four spares getting 71 pins in three frames. He finished strong with two strikes and a spare in the last three boxes. In his 157 game, he made a triple strike and followed this with a pair of spares to pick up 64 extra pins. In his 99

That six months from the 15th day of October, A. D. 1929, be and the same are limited and allowed for the creditors within which bring in their claims against said estate, and the said executor is directed to give public notice to the creditors to bring in their claims within said time allowed by posting a copy of this order on the public sign post nearest to the place where the deceased last dwelt within said town and by publishing the same in said newspaper having a circulation in said probate district, within ten days from the date of this order, and return make to this court of the notice given.

WILLIAM S. HYDE

Judge.

ADDISON

Glastonbury held its annual business meeting Saturday. The budget for the coming year $242,970 as prepared by the finance committee, was accepted.

L. W. Ripley

who lives on Main street, Glastonbury, opposite the First Congregational church has laid out a new street 1200 feet in length and 50 feet wide extending from Main street to the New London street. The street is of this new street is located between Mr. Ripley's house and the Congregational parsonage and has twenty building lots. The town of Glastonbury voted to accept the street last Saturday as a gift from Mr. Ripley, and the deed was made out yesterday. This land was formerly known as the Benton lot and was surveyed in 1839. It is the first street to be recommended by the Glastonbury Town Plan Commission. Its elevation is 45 feet above sea level. Six inch water main and four inch gas main is laid half way on the street. Electric and telephone lines extend two thirds of the way.

At the town meeting

Saturday Louis Kiley spoke of the importance of the town having a deed of the land for every street accepted or purchased and cited Ferry street in South Glastonbury as an example. That street was purchased by the town in 1760. Land for this street was purchased in 1804 and in 1904, but the town has no deed of the land yet.

Judge Henry H. Hunt

spoke of the importance of a Griswold street which is the only street south of the East Hartford town line extending east to relieve the traffic jam at station 35. Eight thousand dollars will be expended on this street.

STORM WARNINGS

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Weather Bureau today issued the following storm warning: "Storm warnings changed to southwest 10 a. m., Virginia Capes to Sandy Hook. Disturbance of considerable intensity over southern Ohio moving northwest will cause strong southeast shifting to southwest winds late this afternoon over north portion of display and strong southwest winds this afternoon shifting to west tonight over south portion of display."

REAL SERVICE

Earlville, N. Y.—John Parsons claims to own a record-breaking light bulb. He has had the same bulb in a dark rear hall of his home for 15 years. It has burned faithfully during that period, only failing when the town's power plant shut down. It is of the old carbon type.

WANTED TO RENT

WANTED—FURNISHED apartment of 2 or 3 rooms for family of two. Telephone 7810.

FARMS AND LAND FOR SALE

FOR SALE BUILDING SITES in every section of the town. Low prices and easy terms. Now developing "Clearview." Arthur A. Knofo, 875 Main street. Tel. 5440.

SWEDISH GLEE CLUBS

IN HALLOWE'EN PARTY
Wapping Hall will be the scene of the largest private Halloween parties of the year tomorrow evening when nearly a hundred members of the Glee and Beethoven Glee Clubs of the Swedish Lutheran church gather, fully costumed and masked, to celebrate the occasion. Goblins, ghosts and witches on broom sticks will be much in evidence both in the decorations and the costumes. Typical Halloween games will be played with refreshments of the same type. The party will leave the church at 6:45 o'clock in private automobiles. Miss Elsie Berggren is chairman of the Glee Club's committee and Herbert Johnson of the Beethovens.

ALL ACCIDENT PATIENTS

HERE OUT OF DANGER
Six of 45 Confined to Hospital Entered After Mishaps; All Are Improving.
Six of the 45 patients now confined to the Manchester Memorial hospital are there as the result of accidents of one form or another. None of them is on the danger list. All were seriously injured when admitted.

Charles Emma Borowski of Fern street has been in the hospital the longest. It was on July 19 that she was badly injured in an automobile accident at the four corners in Wapping. Mrs. Viola Duplin of Hartford has been confined to the hospital since September 27, also the result of an automobile accident.

Six years old Bernice Brewer

was admitted on September 29 in a critical condition but is improving satisfactor

SENSE and NONSENSE

Expensively Ornamental. Violet, the negro maid at a Greenboro, N. C. hotel, is evidently blessed with neither electric lights in her living quarters nor the sunny disposition which would go far to brighten them.

"Violet," said one of the house boys, outside the door, "how is you and dat fella Jim makin' out dese days?"

"I wish you wouldn't nevah ax me about .dat man no mo'," replied Violet.

"I declah I don't know what I'm gonna do. He's took to drinkin' now an' it seems to mee I've got to bust a new lamp on .dat neggar's had ever Sattaday night."

Extra Baggage. Conductor (after stumbling over obstacle in the aisle): "Madam, you must not leave your valise in the aisle."

Colored Lady: "Fo' de lan' sakes, dat ain't not valise; that's mah foot."

"Taint no use to me, boss," said Sambo the elevator man to the book agent. "Ah don't need no book—Ah knows a heap more now than Ah gets paid fo'."

And then the dusky umpire called out. "Ball fo' youse out."

"How come, Ah'm out?" "Can't you all see dem bases am all full. Dey ain't no place to put-cha."

Sambo: "Why doesn't you-all put a self-stairah on yoush car?"

Mose: "No sah! I don't want to see it agwine off sometimes when Ah'm not around."

Sambo sat on the sunny side of the tree, the "respiration" running down his face.

"Boy, why don't you-all seat yo'-self on de shady side?" his friend asked him.

"That's all you knows about nature," replied Sambo. "By an' by de sun's goin' to be on dat side an' den Ah would hab to move."

A correspondent of Time, the news magazine, tells the following story about the chocolate cotton pickers from Riverdale Plantation who had come down to Vanceville to play the also-dark potato diggers of Sunny Side for the colored baseball championship of Bosler Parish, La.

The game was noisily underway when Eugene G. Morehead, accompanied by Harold Levy, then but recently come South from Down East, drove up. To a young and enthusiastic looking dorky who approached, Mr. Morehead asked for score.

"49 to nuthin'. Boss, favah them." Mr. Levy, not used to our darkies, but desiring to appear sympathetic, ejaculated:

"My gracious, they have you hopelessly beat!"

With an indignant but respectful smile their informant explained: "Naw, sah! Dat's all right. We'll beat de stuffin' outta dem. Us ain't got to bat, yet."

The judge was giving his regulation lecture on the evils of gambling. "So you see," he concluded, "what a wicked thing it is to shoot craps, especially on the Sabbath. Have you nothing better than that to do on Sundays?"

"Oh, yessuh, Judge," replied the prisoner. "Most gen'ally ah caddies fo' ya when you plays golf with Mistuh Smith fo' a dolluh a hole."

There was an old colored woman who named her triplets Surely, Goodness and Mercy so they would follow her all the days of her.

"Oh! A re-nigger in the card pile," remarked the bridge player as he caught his opponent not following suit.

"Sambo, do you solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?"

"Ah does, sah."

"Sambo, what have you got to say for yourself?"

"Well, Judge, I's like dis, wif all dem limitations you-all have jes' put on me, Ah don't believe Ah has anything at all to say."

Surgeon: "I feel duty bound to tell you that four out of five patients die under this operation. Now, is there anything you would like for me to do for you before I begin?"

Colored Gent: "Yassah, kindly hand me mah hat."

"C'mon, Whitley, let's lick Archie McBright."

"No, sub, Ah doan' fool wif nobody that's as wreckless wif his brains as that boy is."

THAT WAS THE END

A pretty young woman was being shown over a battleship by a junior officer. He was delighted with her.

He thought he had never known such wit, such charm, and such intelligence embodied in one girl. And then she said:

"I suppose when the tide rises you close the portholes?"—Dorfbartler, Berlin.

GIRLS FRIENDLY PLANS FOR HALLOWEEN PARTY

At the regular meeting of St. Mary's Girl's Friendly Society held last evening in the parish house, plans were completed for a Halloween Party, to be held Monday evening, October 28 at the parish house.

The affair will take the form of a masquerade and all members of the parish who plan to attend are requested to notify either Associate Evaline Pentland, phone 4509 or Margaret Somerville 8839.

TROOP 3 TAKES LEAD IN RADIO SET TRIALS

Seems Sure Winner of Pinney's Offer as Horace Burr Completes Necessary Requirements.

Prospects of Troop 3, Boy Scouts, of the Center Congregational church being the first to receive the materials necessary to build a radio receiving and transmitting set according to the offer made a short while ago by George Pinney appear very bright.

Horace Burr a member of the troop has already completed 90 per cent of the requirements of radio merit badge and expects to pass the rest this week, qualifying him as the first Scout in Manchester to receive that award.

This does not mean, however, that the other troops will not obtain the material as Mr. Pinney's offer was to every local troop. The stipulation that a Scout send five words a minute with a home-made telegraph outfit was made simply for competition's sake.
