PRESIDENT URGES SPEED ON TARIFF

Tells Senator Watson He Requests That All Factions Approach Subject in a Conciliatory Manner.

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A statement was issued at the White House today explaining that President Hoover in a conference with state leaders last night urged the expedition and early completion of the schedules in the tariff bill so the revenue measure could be sent to a conference with the House within two weeks.

The announcement said the President had told the leaders that the wide difference of opinions and the length of discussions in the Senate "were themselves ample demonstration of the desirability of a real flexible clause in order that justice in rates could be promptly corrected by scientific and impartial investigation and put in action without such delays as the present discussions give proof."

The text of the statement follows: "The President was visited yesterday by a number of Senators, all of whom called at their own suggestions, and presented to him the grave situation that has arisen by delays in tariff legislation."

FEDERAL SURVEYS AID INDUSTRIES

Cotton Textile Men Told How They Will Be Able to Control Demand.

Boston, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The industries of the country will be aided by the work of President Hoover's committee appointed to study problems of distribution, Frederick F. Felker told the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers today, because a basis of facts will be set up which will help manufacturers control the demand for their products.

Mr. Felker, chairman of the committee, explained the relation of its work to the cotton industry during the morning session of the convention.

"A profitable business appears today to be one in which the management has secured some control over supply and demand through advance knowledge," he said. "Those industries which are apparently best in balance are those in which production and sales have been matched."

"The census of distribution which is to be taken up by the government," he continued, "will have its primary value in setting up a basis of facts which will aid in the control of demand."

"One of the main objects in view," he explained, "was the gaining of a statistical picture of the number of distributors classified as to class, as to size, as to number of employees and as to volume of business."

Marked improvement in the quality of cotton goods now obtainable over that of two years ago was noted by Ephraim Freeman of R. H. Macy and Company of New York, speaking as a representative of the retailer.

"Unfortunately, however," he continued, "many manufacturers are debasing their products to sell at a price and many retailers are buying on a price basis. The fallacy of this attitude is becoming self-evident through the falling off in sales and loss in profits. The consumer will not continue to buy inferior merchandise."

Speaking from the standpoint of the manufacturer of trade marked goods, Ernest N. Hood, treasurer of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company of Salem, described sales difficulties. "One of our problems in distribution is the difficulty of dealing profitably with huge buying combinations, such as chain stores, mail order houses, and co-operative buying associations of retailers," he said.

4 MONTHS WED, MAN AND WIFE CRASH VICTIMS

Marlborough Man Dead, His Wife Badly Hurt as Car Goes Through Dry Bridge in East Hartford.

Walter Ebenheuer, 24-year-old Marlborough florist, is dead and his wife of only four months lies badly injured at Hartford hospital as the result of an automobile accident early today on the Connecticut Boulevard in East Hartford. The young man and his wife were on their way to work in Hartford and were riding in their new Ford convertible roadster which skidded on the slippery pavement and crashed through the heavy steel barrier on the dry bridge dropping 25 feet into the marsh below.

Road Slippery
East Hartford police investigating the accident which occupied the attention of scores of Manchester persons on their way to work in Hartford this morning, said they were uncertain as to the cause. It happened at 6:45. The roadway was very slippery at the time due to a steady drizzle of rain. It is thought that possibly some other motorist who drove in some way crowded Ebenheuer off the road. At any rate the little Ford skidded considerable distance, crossed the wide sidewalk, broke through the steel railing and tumbled into the swamp below.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebenheuer were picked up and taken to the hospital by Henry Gaudron of 472 Park street, Hartford, and Osborne Murra of 32 Colt street, East Hartford, who passed by the scene shortly afterward, police said. The man was unconscious and died a few minutes before 9 o'clock without regaining consciousness. He had a fracture of the skull in addition to other injuries. Mrs. Ebenheuer has a lacerated forehead and complains of a pain in her back. She was resting fairly comfortably and it was reported that nursing complications she would recover.

Recently Wed
Mr. and Mrs. Ebenheuer were married last June and had been living at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris S. Christensen on the Hebron road about a mile from the center of the village at Marlborough. Mr. Ebenheuer came to Hartford and his wife was working at a typewriting company in Hartford. Before marriage, Mrs. Ebenheuer was Miss Catherine Christensen.

YALE SCIENTISTS TO EXAMINE BOYS

Mulligan Brothers Who Killed Tot to Be Studied by Doctors.

New Haven, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Yale Institute of Human Relations began the study of its first case today when John and James Mulligan brothers of Waterbury, nine and seven years old respectively were brought to Dr. William Healey for examination to determine why they killed their three year old Albert Mikenas of Ansonia.

The two young brothers stifled the Mikenas child to prevent his making an outcry while they performed acts which have been described by Deputy Coroner James J. Corrigan as acts of "moral delinquents." The crime took place late in July in a marshland near a beach in Milford. The boys were wards of the New Haven county home at the time. Dr. Healey said his examination of the young brothers would have no legal standing, the sole purpose being to determine the etiological causes contributory to the crime.

Dr. Healey thought 80 days would be required for the examination. A summary of findings will be turned over to court together with a recommendation as to the proper treatment of the boys.

Although the examination will "cut through the social strata of the community," Dr. Healey declared it will be kept concentrated on the boys themselves and it will be left to the community "to clean house itself if it appears that a house cleaning is necessary to the future welfare of children here."

ANOTHER LAKE STEAMER SINKS; FEAR 25 LOST

Ships Collide on Lake Michigan—One Sinks Immediately and the Other Is Badly Damaged.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Colliding in Lake Michigan, 20 miles off Port Washington, Wis., in a dense fog, the freight steamer Senator sank almost immediately, and the Marquette, an ore carrier, badly damaged, was making its way toward Port Washington.

The Senator carried a crew of 23 and all but three taken aboard the Marquette were unaccounted for. The Marquette carried 30 men.

A few minutes after the collision, both ships began sending SOS. After about 10 minutes the Senator wireless ceased to sputter and the Marquette said she had sunk.

The Marquette stood by and picked up three survivors. An hour later Captain W. S. Ainsbery radioed he would attempt to beach his vessel at Port Washington. At 12:08 p. m. the Marquette sent SOS Signals and requested boats in the vicinity to come and stand by. Captain Ainsbery messaged he did not think the Marquette would remain afloat long enough to reach Port Washington.

Third Accident
The collision of the Senator with Marquette marked the third ship disaster on Lake Michigan within the last week with a total loss of 89 lives.

Last Monday the steamer Wisconsin sank in a severe storm off Kenosha, Wis., with a loss of 16 lives. The Wisconsin carried three passengers all of whom were saved. Many of them were injured.

A few days previous the car ferry Milwaukee sank in another storm with a crew of 48, all of whom were lost.

Shortly after 1 o'clock, Chicago time, the Radio Marine Corporation of America station received a message from the government ship Lighthouse, saying it could not locate the Marquette because of the dense fog.

FIRST REPORTS
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Two freight boats, the S. S. Marquette of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company, and the Senator of the Nickelson Universal Steamship Line were in collision 30 miles off Port Washington this morning. The Senator sank almost immediately with 33 reported lost.

Two of the crew of the Senator were picked up by the Marquette, which is standing by. A dense fog covered the lake this morning.

The Senator carried automobiles. Wireless reports from the Marquette said that despite damage she would be able to make Sheboygan.

Four fishing tugs from Port Washington also put out to join the Senator. In view of the dense fog, one of the worst that has enveloped the lake in years, it was thought the various boats would have difficulty in locating the Marquette. The Marquette is an ore carrier.

The first SOS was picked up by the Wright Steamship Company of Sheboygan. It was sent by the Marquette at 10:45 a. m. Five minutes later Sheboygan Coast Guardsmen left for the wreck.

Coast Guardsmen, under Capt. William Leonard Boss, William Pilbeck and Ralph Ellis, the radio operator. The Senator sank so quickly, the message said there was no time to launch lifeboats. The Senator carried a crew of 27. Three were taken aboard the Marquette leaving 24 unaccounted for. It is believed they were lost.

NORMAN TREVOR DEAD, STAGE STAR, ATHLETE

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Word was received here today by the death yesterday in a sanitarium at Norwalk, Calif., of Norman Trevor, widely known actor and in 1900 a member of the British Olympic team. He was 52 years old and had been ill for some time.

Born and raised in Calcutta, Trevor from 1893 to 1900 ranked as the champion all-round athlete of India. He went to Paris in 1900 as a member of the British Olympic team. During his career as an athlete he won 120 prizes, including a medal and a bronze statue for the best physique of the athletes of all nations.

and Far Into the Night

Skyscrapers ablaze with light in the financial district of New York, as clerks worked far into the night to check records of the day's frenzied buying and selling, was the unusual spectacle that followed the disastrous crash on the stock market. The bright-lit scene on lower Broadway, on the night after values had plunged to a new record low level, is strikingly pictured above.

SOUTH'S BUSINESS MEN ARE AGAINST GARNER

Head of Tariff Association 5,800 DUO-DOLLAR BIDS AT AUCTION Tells Lobby Probers Representative Should Be Defeated Because of Views. State Theater Packed as Bidders Strive for 89 Articles Given by Stores.

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—John Henry Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff Association, testified before the Senate lobby committee today. He thought Representative Garner of Texas, Republican national committee chairman, should be defeated for Congress because of his attitude toward fiscal legislation.

Chairman Caraway asked the witness if he knew that J. A. Arnold, secretary of the association, in Washington, had signed a circular letter to the House Democratic caucus, signed by C. C. Belcher, who was not identified further, run against Garner.

"No, I don't believe that," replied Kirby. The chairman then said Caraway had written Arnold that he believed Belcher could make things "hot" for Garner and was "sorry we could not get Belcher into this district."

Kirby said he knew nothing about this. "Does it come as a surprise to you to know that Arnold has attempted to join an alliance with the Republicans to defeat Democrats?" Caraway asked.

"I think some of them ought to be defeated," he said, "on account of their tariff views."

Kirby then named Garner as he thought should be beaten. Caraway asked if Arnold's duty in Washington was to see members of Congress and to try to "fix up legislation."

"I think some one ought to present our views," he answered, adding that he approved Senator Bingham's action in employing Charles L. Eyanon to aid him in tariff matters.

"I thought Bingham's explanation was honorable and fine and I approved his action in getting help from a trade association," Kirby said.

"Does Arnold act for your association?" Caraway continued. "Yes." "Do you approve of his activities?" "I'd have to know what they were before I answered."

Kirby then said the membership of the association was about 85 per cent Democratic and had members all over the south, "even in Arkansas."

Kirby said one conference of the association was addressed by Calvin Coolidge when he was President. "We had the happiness in seeing the Democratic platform last time take our position in tariff matters," he went on.

He said the association stood for a "competitive tariff" which would enable producers to retain the home market.

HEAVY PROFIT TAKING HALTS STOCK BUYING

Sen. Norris Withholds Censure Resolution

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Friends of Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, interviewed today with Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, in an effort to bring about an understanding which would make unnecessary the presentation of a proposed resolution of censure for Bingham.

Senator Norris entered the chamber today prepared to offer a resolution condemning the employment by Bingham of an officer of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association to assist him in tariff legislation.

Before he could act, Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, was seen to confer with the Nebraskan. Later it was understood that friends of Bingham were carrying to him a proposal that some manner of apology be made for his severer attack upon the Senate lobby committee which inquired into his activities.

Senator Norris, meanwhile withheld the resolution.

DECREASE IN RESERVE BANK RATE IS NEAR

To Follow the Example of Bank of England Which Dropped One-Half of One Per Cent Today.

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The decrease of one-half of one per cent in the Bank of England discount rate today was accepted at the Treasury as an indication that a decrease in the New York Federal Reserve Bank discount rate was imminent.

For the last seven or eight years there has generally been a spread of about one per cent difference in the Bank of England rate and the New York rate. The Bank of England rate today was dropped to six per cent while the New York bank rate now stands at that figure.

The decrease in the Bank of England rate, together with a tendency to easier money rates in this country, was believed by Treasury officials to be indicative of a lowering of the New York Federal Reserve rate.

Will Aid Business
Officials here looked upon the decrease of the Bank of England rate as a move to help business in that country and also as an indication that the flow of gold from England to America had diminished. It was regarded likely that with easier money rates in the United States the gold flow might be reversed and some gold returned to England.

It was said at the Treasury that while indications pointed to a lowering of the New York discount rate, that whether rates in other Federal Reserve districts would be lowered would depend entirely upon conditions in those districts.

CANADIAN DRYS LOSE ELECTIONS

Government Control of Liquor Wins by Big Plurality; Nova Scotia Votes Today.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Retained in power by the biggest plurality ever given a government in Toronto, Conservatives today saw vindication of their policy of government control and sale of liquor.

Inaugurated three years ago by the government of Premier J. Howard Ferguson, the government control act was the principal issue in yesterday's general election with the Progressives demanding more dry legislation and the Liberals a plebiscite.

Truro, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Nova Scotia, one of the two remaining Canadian provinces with a prohibition law decides today whether or not it will remain in the "dry" column.

Voters will go to the polls to choose between retention of the temperance act or substitution of a system of government control and sale of intoxicating liquors.

MORROW ON COMMITTEE
Mexico City, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, has accepted an invitation to be a member of the Mexican selection committee of the Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, which will pass on applications of Mexican students for Guggenheim Fellowships for study in the United States.

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for October 29 were $3,430,806.50; expenditures, $5,714,053.52; balance, $208,910,096.20.

WOMAN IS DYING ON 100TH BIRTHDAY

Canandaigua, N. Y., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Messages congratulating Mrs. Frances Beaman on victory in her gallant battle with death, and achievement of a life long dream to become a centenarian, today poured into her little farm home at Cheshire, near here, from admirers throughout the state.

But it was gravely doubtful whether she would ever hear them. At midnight, which marked the advent of her 100th birthday, the stubborn determination which has sustained her for a week gave way to peaceful surrender.

She sank into coma and showed no signs of rallying today. Hope for her recovery is faint.

FRENCH MARKETS ON SOUND BASIS

Securities React Quickly to Wall Street's Improved Condition—No Losses.

Paris, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Bourse today showed almost immediate reaction to Wall street's improved condition, and securities which weakened yesterday gained back most, if not all, of their losses in the early hours of trading, particularly international shares.

Banks, railroads, chemicals and electricity shared the improvement. The closing was calm but sustained.

In the opinion of leading bankers here, there had been unjustified speculation in the American market for a considerable time in shares that long ago had gone far above their actual value and the leveling process was inevitable.

Never Lost Values
It was pointed out, however, that these shares never lost their real value, and as investments, are what they always were. These bankers feel that with the speculative margin out, shares will probably pay the same dividends and that when the disaster to speculation pure and simple is eliminated, the active market is as sound as ever.

As for the French Market, it was declared at the ministry of finance there was a consultation with leading bankers this morning, that the situation was sound.

STEEL CORPORATION BUYS COLUMBIA CO.

Pays Over 46 Millions for Properties of Corporation in San Francisco.

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The United States Steel Corporation today announced the acquisition of Columbia Steel Corporation of San Francisco.

The cost of the properties to U. S. Steel Corporation is $46,630,000 payable Feb. 1 in the corporation's stock. There will be no exchange of shares. The Columbia steel corporation is to be liquidated and its properties with a present annual output capacity of 340,000 tons will be taken over by U. S. Steel.

Wild Stampede at Opening of Market Shoves Up Prices $5 to $30 a Share; Losses from $2 to $12 from High Levels Recorded Later in Day—Trading Conducted at Fast Rate.

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Heavy profit taking halted a wild stampede of buying in today's stock market after scores of issues had been marked up $5 to $30 a share, and gains of $75 and $85 a share had been registered by a couple of high priced specialties.

Losses from the high levels ranged from $2 to $12 in most of the popular shares.

Trading was conducted at a furious pace. Sales from noon, when the market opened, to 1:30 p. m. totaling 4,474,000 shares.

Quotations of some of the leading Curb Market securities at 1:30 p. m. were:

Cities Service, 35, up 4; Electric Bond and Share 90, up 10 1-8; Electric Investors, 139 7-8, up 16 1-8; Associated Gas 55 7-8, up 5 7-8; Allied Power and Light 52 7-8, up 3; American Superpower 29, up 3; Blue Ridge Common, 12, up 1 7-8; Blue Ridge Preferred 30 3-8 up 1 3-8; Electric Shareholders 19 1-4 up 5 1-2; Fourth National Investors 42 1-8, up 3 3-8; Goldman Sachs Trading 81 1-8, up 3 1-4; Lehman Corp. 95, up 5; Shenandoah Common, 15 8-8, up 7-8.

The tickers of both the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb Market were running nearly an hour behind the market at 2 p. m., while most stocks were then selling below the high levels recorded in the early outburst of buying, the majority were quoted well above yesterday's closing quotations.

Prices were still holding fairly steady about the close of the day, but the close of the market, at levels substantially above yesterday's final quotations. Total sales from noon to 2:10 p. m. were 5,312,800 shares.

Quotations of some of the leading stocks were: U. S. Steel, 159 3-4, up 4 3-4; Columbia 51 1-2, up 3 1-2; American Telephone 242 3-4, up 2 3-4; American and Foreign Power, 87, up 13; Consolidated Gas, 109, up 8; Sinclair, 28 7-8, up 7-8; New York Central 208, up 3 1-2; Westinghouse Electric, 148 3-4, up 4 1-4; Electric Power and Light, 45, up 1 1-2; Atlantic Refining, 45 1-8, up 3 5-8; United Corp., 35 7-8, up 2 7-8; Paramount Famous Lasky, 55 3-4, up 1 3-8; Sears Roebuck, 116 1-2, up 1 1-2; American Can, 134 3-4, up 3 3-4; Pan American B. 63, up 1 1-2; General Electric, 51 1-2, up 3; Public Service of N. J., 84 1-2, up 6 1-2; Anaconda Copper, 99, up 4; Radio 48 1-2, up 3 1-4; Kennecott, 75 1-2, up 7-8; Union Carbide, 96, up 6.

AT THE OPENING.
New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A mad scramble to buy stocks, influenced by belief that the selling crisis had definitely passed, brought about a sensational advance in prices on the New York securities markets when the exchanges opened for business at noon today.

Initial transactions in many of the leading issues ranged from 10,000 to 70,000 shares, with the active shares showing gains of $5 to nearly $25 a share, and one stock, Auburn Auto, soaring to $75.

Opening gains in many cases, were even more spectacular than the declines in the bad reactions of the past week.

So great was the accumulation of over-night orders, as a result of reports that America's most powerful financial forces, headed by the J. P. Morgan and Rockefeller interests, had definitely checked the wave of hysterical selling, that specialists on the floor were required to bunch them and wait several minutes before they could settle on fair opening prices.

12:40 QUOTATIONS.
Quotations and net changes at 12:40 p. m. were:

U. S. Steel 158 3-4 up 4 1/2

Anaconda 99 up 3 1/2
Old lot houses, which handle the accounts of small customers, reported that they had never seen such an army of "bargain hunters" looking for cheap stocks of high grade investment merit. Investment trusts and wealthy individuals also were reported to be in the market on a large scale.

Dividend Announcements.
Favorable dividend announcements continued to come from large corporations to inspire confidence.

RED CROSS DRIVE OPENS TOMORROW

Parade and Exercises at Municipal Building Formally Starts Campaign.

Planting of the American Flag and the Red Cross flag on the municipal grounds at the center by the American Legion and its Drum Corps at 8 o'clock tomorrow night with a delegation of Manchester's foremost citizens presiding will formally open the annual American Red Cross Drive for which cause, the local chapter, will strive to raise a quota of $2400 or in other words, 2400 members.

The actual drive will open on Armistice Day and close on Thanksgiving Day but during the two weeks intervening until that date the arranging and allotment of districts to the team captains will be made. Each captain will also pick his own team of as many or as few members as she wishes. The proper publicity with posters and advertising will be carried on at this time.

Tomorrow's program will consist of a parade by the American Legion Drum Corps, and the Legionnaires starting from the Army at 7 o'clock, marching from there to Depot Square, counter-marching to Park street, counter-marching again to the Municipal building where the flag raising ceremonies will take place. This is the first time that the Legion Corps has appeared in a public spirited movement of this kind and John Reinartz, chairman of this year's drive, feels that they deserve much credit for cheerfully volunteering their services.

Eight team captains have already been named and have accepted the positions. However at least six more are needed and volunteers to assist in this worthwhile movement will be gratefully accepted. The eight captains are: Mrs. Franklin Dexter, Miss Rosaline Cheney, Mrs. Harry Danson, Mrs. John Reinartz, Miss Doris Langdon, Mrs. John Sauer, Miss Mary Hutchinson, Mrs. Edna Case Parker. The two sides of the chairman are: Mrs. Franklyn Dexter, Miss Rosaline Cheney, Mrs. Harry Danson, Mrs. John Reinartz, Miss Doris Langdon, Mrs. John Sauer, Miss Mary Hutchinson, Mrs. Edna Case Parker.

Supported by Dollar Fees The Red Cross lives by membership, which cost a dollar. The dues so received support the local program and the national services. From the national headquarters, the local chapters receive the guidelines and advice and the visits of field workers. Furthermore, the national organization stands behind the chapter in event of disaster. Should this community be overwhelmed by a disaster, the National Red Cross will send its trained relief workers and support the work with its resources. The Manchester chapter represents the national organization locally, being an integral part of it.

NEXT GARDEN CLUB MEETING NOVEMBER 18

At a meeting of the executive board of the Manchester Garden Club held last evening at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. Fred Norton, it was voted to postpone the November meeting, which would naturally fall on Armistice day, to Monday, November 18. This will be the annual meeting with reports and election of officers and a new program committee.

The speaker will be Charles M. Murphy, proprietor of the Murphy Gladiolus farm at Coventry. Mr. Murphy also specializes in auratum lilies and will deal with that subject as well as gladioli. A full attendance of the members is hoped for at that meeting.

The library of the Garden club which represents a number of valuable works on horticulture, several of which have been earned by the club as prizes for exhibits in Hartford flower shows, while other books have been given by members and interested friends, will shortly be housed in the editorial rooms of The Herald, whose centrally located building is on Bissell street near Main. Manager Thomas Ferguson is glad to do this for the club, and does not anticipate that the duties of librarian of such a small collection of books will interfere materially with the routine work on the editorial staff performed by Mrs. Mary Taylor, who was appointed the board last evening.

HENDRICKS ON BAIL

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—K. Y. Hendricks, one of the seven members and officials of the seven members and officials of the National Textile Workers Union, convicted of second degree murder for the death of O. Adersholt, chief of police of Gastonia, today was released on $2,000 bond. Bond was provided by the American Civil Liberties Union.

TO BAN HAZING

Swarthmore, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Men students at Swarthmore college today voted to abolish physical hazing of freshmen. A secret ballot, taken among the students, showed 154 against the practice to 88 in its favor. The decision does not affect freshmen rules relating to the wearing of caps and tags and other minor items of initiation.

MASONS PLANNING BIG GET TOGETHER SOCIAL

Will Be Held in Temple Here Saturday Night, Nov. 9; Entertainment Program.

The program for the second annual Masonic get-together social to be held in the Masonic Temple, Saturday evening, Nov. 9th is as follows: Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. The menu: Roast beef, mashed potato, string beans, pickles, rolls, apple pie, cheese and coffee. Following the supper there will be an entertainment for the children furnished by the Recreation Center in charge of Miss Fenerty in the small lodge room.

The entertainment program for the evening will be held in the main lodge room and will consist of the following:

Organ concert, William Graham. Banjo solo, Miss Gladys Carlyle. Reading, Miss Beatrice Johnson. Contralto solo, Miss Helen Berggren. Cornet solo, Edward Weiman. Musical song concert, Robert Ingraham. Xylophone solo, W. Crow. Duet, Miss Elsie and Helen Berggren. Solo, E. Faber and M. Milek. Banjo duo, J. Pudlo.

Following the entertainment, dancing will be enjoyed in the banquet hall. Music for the supper and dancing will be furnished by the Merry Orchestra of Hartford under the direction of Mr. M. Milek. Tickets are obtainable from any member of the committee or officer of the lodge or Sperber and Turkington's Soda Shop at the Center. Reservations should be made at once.

FAVORS WILD ROSE AS NATIONAL FLOWER

Green School Votes on Question—Columbine Is Runner-Up; Other School Notes.

If the vote at the Manchester Green school can be taken as a criterion, the national flower will be the wild rose. What this matter was voted upon a few days ago at the school, the wild rose scored a very heavy, victory, receiving 87 votes compared to 39 for the columbine and seven for the golden rod. Various schools throughout the country are voting on the matter.

Last night was the occasion of the annual eighth grade Halloween party in the school assembly hall. Tonight the seventh grade will have its party. On the refreshment committee are Walter Buckley, Sarah Cleva, and Helen Viertel; for games, Harv. Thurpe, Julia McKee, and Harold Dumas; program, Raymond Streeter and Merle Shortz. There will be a violin duet by Helen Viertel and Raymond Streeter, dances by Merle Shortz and Sarah Cleva accompanied by Mattie Vennart, and piano solos by Otto Cook, Ruby Wilson and Walter Buckley. Thomas Johnson has been elected president of the eighth grade with Fred Lavey as vice-president. E. Stotefeldt, as secretary and Pearl Dreger as treasurer.

Directors of the Consolidated Gas company raised the annual dividend from $3 to $4 today, and directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana announced an extra payment of 25 cents.

The initial outburst of buying attracted profit-taking on a part of traders who had bought stocks in the last few days for a "turn," and part of the gains were lost. On the Curb Exchange, utility and oil stocks were tossed up in starting fashion. Humble Oil shot up $42.75 to $123. Standard Power and Light $77 to $99.87, and Gulf Oil $22 to $164.

WOULD PROBE MARKETS.

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A resolution was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, proposing appointment of a special committee to investigate speculative operations on all stock exchanges.

The resolution went over for future consideration as required by Senate rules, without any discussion. It would have the special committee recommended remedial legislation by next February. Another resolution by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, advocating a sweeping investigation of the credit situation is now before the Senate banking committee with little prospect of consideration before the regular session in December.

CAMPMEETING ROAD IS BEING IMPROVED

Manchester Highway Department employees are working on the Campmeeting road from the intersection of Porter street and Birch Mountain road to the town line a short distance east of Finlay street. Last summer considerable work was done on this road, many bad holes being filled and the roadway leveled. It is now being brought to a better grade and will probably be bound with a dressing of oil. Town Engineer Bowen expresses the belief that the improvement in the road will be important. The thoroughfare carries much traffic from South Bolton and Gilead.

Other employees of the department are rapidly bringing to completion the stone bridge at Bridge street, the laying up of the wings of which is nearly finished.

State Briefs

SAFE ROBBED Danbury, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Burglars used the combination of the safe in the coal office of Selfert & Goss last night and secured less than fifty dollars. The same thing is believed to have broken into one of the Standard Oil companies' stations in the bulk section, where sixty dollars left in the overalls of an employee were taken.

WOMAN KILLS SELF. Norwalk, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Ill and dependent since a recent negative report on a growth in her throat, Mrs. Susan Greenwood, 68, a lifelong resident of New Canaan, until her removal here several years ago, last night committed suicide at the home of her son. The aged woman was found dead at midnight when the son returned home from work and theater with his family. She was sitting beside a gas range with two of the jets on the range wide open.

SIX COWS BURNED. New Britain, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Six cows were burned to death and fifteen tons of hay were destroyed today by a fire which started in the barn of a farmer in the town of New Britain. The owner is Alex Laskauskas, Fireman, called by telephone, found the structure virtually destroyed. They were handicapped by the fact that the nearest hydrant was 800 feet away. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

ATTACHMENTS FILED. New Haven, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Notice of suit and attachments were filed in Federal Court here today by the New Miami Shores Corporation of Dade county, Florida, against Thom. W. Mohen, Charles F. Amlund, Meyer Cohn and August Plaskowski, all of Hartford, to recover $32,000 alleged to be owed on notes given by the defendants. The Miami Shores Corp. and later transferred by it to the plaintiff corporation.

SERIOUSLY BURNED. Bridgeport, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Franzone, 39, was burned seriously this noon when a can of varnish remover she was using in her sun parlor exploded. Her husband Lewis, and a painter, Carl Lisi, were less seriously burned. The woman may die.

EIGHT DAMAGE SUITS. Bridgeport, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Eight suits filed here today based on automobile accidents set forth alleged damages of $130,000. Among the number are those of Harry Freedman of Norwalk against Leopold Lebovitz of Bridgeport for $20,000 and of Fred Kemp, administrator of estate of Henry Kemp, against Louis A. Getner of Norwalk for $10,000.

NEW TRAVELERS' HEAD. Hartford, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Edmund Zacher was elected president of the Travelers' Insurance Co., its associated companies here today. He succeeded the late Louis F. Butler who died October 23. Mr. Zacher has been with the Travelers since 1904 and for the past seven years has been vice president and treasurer.

LIQUOR RAIDS. Bridgeport, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Fourteen persons arrested yesterday by State police here were arraigned in City Court today, charged with violation of the liquor law, and with carrying and concealing. Miss Ernestine Pappas, 24, had her case nolle prosequi because of lack of evidence. John Rickel 24, of 108 Congress street who was arrested last night, charged with violation of the liquor law but whose name was not recorded until today, had his case continued under bonds of $300.

OPPOSE FEDERAL CONTROL. Hartford, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Connecticut Public Utilities Commission is opposed of Federal control of domestic telephone service and electric light companies, and in furthering that opposition has adopted a resolution, copies of which have been forwarded to the two United States Senators and the five congressmen at Washington, representing this state in Congress.

PETITION GRANTED. Hartford, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Public Utilities Commission, following a hearing at the State capitol at 1:30 today granted the petition of the Connecticut Company for a certificate of financial responsibility to meet legal liability for personal injury.

STATE NOT WORRIED. Hartford, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The falling market last week has in no way disturbed the policy in the office of the state tax commission. It would have the special committee recommended remedial legislation by next February. Another resolution by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, advocating a sweeping investigation of the credit situation is now before the Senate banking committee with little prospect of consideration before the regular session in December.

TRIAL NEARS END.

Los Angeles, Oct. 31.—(AP)—With but a few witnesses remaining to be called, the government's case against Marjorie Sargeant, Hollywood tax counselor charged with making fraudulent income tax returns for Dorothy Mackall, film actress, neared its end today. The trial has been in progress nearly two weeks.

King Vidor, motion picture director testified that Miss Sargeant's suggestion he credited his business manager with a salary of $10,000 a year, despite the fact that the pay was only $3,000.

WIND WRECKS HOMES.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 31.—(AP)—A windstorm approaching a tornado in violence damaged several dwellings and destroyed a number of farm and dairy buildings in the vicinity of Mabeyville, near here, late last night. No report was received of any persons being killed or injured.

BRITISH VESSEL SUNK BY PATROL

Coast Guard Cuts Off Stern of Ship Off Long Island; Crew Is Rescued.

New London, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The British vessel James B., suspected gun-runner, sank within fifteen minutes after having her stern cut off by the Coast Guard patrol boat Cahoone 30 miles off the coast of Long Island last night. The crew of eight aboard the British boat were picked up in their dories soon after the James B. sank and brought to the Coast Guard base here by the Cahoone, where they are being held pending inquiries by Customs, Immigration and Coast Guard authorities.

The accident occurred as a result of the James B. crossing the bow of the Cahoone while running with out lights according to Boatswain A. M. Haynes, commander of the Cahoone, which is a 125 foot patrol boat.

On Patrol Duty The Cahoone was on patrol duty at the time, cruising the outer coast of Long Island. She reached a point off Shinnecock Bay shortly after six o'clock when suddenly the James B. loomed directly in front of the patrol boat. Orders were given to reverse the engines and the helmsman made a desperate effort to swing the Cahoone to port but the collision could not be averted and the bow of the Cahoone cut clear through the James B. about eight feet from the stern.

The crew of the James B. quickly took to their lifeboats and had hardly cleared the side of their vessel when the boat disappeared under the surface. Within a few minutes the men were taken aboard the Cahoone where it was found that none of them had suffered any injuries or even gotten wet. Fortunately the water was very smooth at the time.

ABOUT TOWN

Patrolman Arthur Seymour found the door of an unoccupied store next to Nicola's market on Oak street open during the night but so far as could be learned nothing was taken. A few supplies were stored there.

Mrs. John McCann of 162 West Center street entertained a large party of young people at her home last evening in honor of the approaching marriage of her niece, Miss Ruth Costello of Storrs, and Joseph Prue of the same town. Mrs. McCann's home was decorated in true Halloween style and the dainty luncheon served by the hostess was in keeping with the season. Miss Costello is a stenographer at Connecticut Agricultural college, and has frequently visited here. She was remembered with a choice collection of gifts.

Mrs. S. A. Litchfield of Hingham, Mass., has been renewing acquaintance with friends in town this week. She will be remembered as the former Mrs. Willis Bradley who conducted a sanitarium on Oakland street.

Mrs. R. K. Anderson, president of the Coemopolitan club, and Mrs. Louis L. Grant, delegate, attended the fall meeting of the Connecticut State Federation of Women's clubs at the Hotel Stratfield, Bridgeport, today. The general topic under discussion was educational institutions in which the state is interested.

Mrs. George F. Borst, president, assisted by a few of the members of Second Congregational Ladies Aid society, entertained twenty or more little girls at a Halloween party yesterday afternoon at the church. The affair was in recognition of the part the children had in the program given at the recent Japanese Garden fair.

FIND STOLEN BONDS

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Found hidden beneath the rear seat of an automobile, bonds in face amount of $150,000, lost in Pittsburgh early in the summer, were in the hands of their rightful owner today.

The securities are the property of Miss Alice D. Laughlin, daughter of the late J. B. Laughlin, millionaire member of the Pittsburgh Steel firm of Jones & Laughlin. They were discovered by mechanics who were overhauling an auto exchanged early last month for a new one.

GOOD XMAS TRADE

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Treasury officials expect there will be a large and satisfactory Christmas trade despite the recent reaction in the New York Stock Market.

Some reports have been circulated that the decline in stock prices might affect the Christmas business, but officials do not feel that this will be large enough to hurt the huge volume of trade at the holiday season.

Action to save the trees has become national. But, no one seemed to be doing anything about the pedestrians. Edison invented the light 50 years ago, but there's still a chance for somebody to think up a way to make a tall light keep burning.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Charles Wilson Charles Wilson, 69, father of Mrs. John (Mabel) Kennedy of Wetherell street, died at his home in East Glastonbury yesterday morning following ill health resulting from a shock two months ago. He was found dead in bed by a member of the family who went to awaken him.

Mr. Wilson was born in East Glastonbury and had lived there all his life. For more than 40 years he had been employed at the Angus Park woolen mills in that town. He leaves one other daughter, Mrs. John (Annie) Lundgren of 15 Hazel street, New Haven, two sons, John L. and George H., both of whom live in Glastonbury, also one granddaughter.

The funeral will be held at Lowe's Funeral Parlors in East Hartford at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon and burial will be in the Catholic cemetery in East Glastonbury.

Joseph Simpson

Joseph Simpson, 49, of 124 West Center street, died yesterday afternoon at 1:10 at St. Francis hospital, Hartford, after two weeks illness.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Simpson, a son, James H. Simpson; one daughter Rose M. Simpson and one sister, Mrs. Bridget Fay all of Manchester and one brother, Patrick Simpson of Belfast, Ireland.

He was a member of the A. O. H. and the Holy Name society of St. James's church and was employed for a number of years in Cheney Brothers dressing mill.

Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday morning at 9:30 and at 10 in St. James's church. Burial will be in St. James's cemetery.

Samuel J. Turkington

Word was received yesterday afternoon of the sudden death at his home in Erinville, Canada, of Samuel J. Turkington, a brother of David Turkington of Manchester. Mr. and Mrs. David Turkington and son Edward started by automobile last night to attend the funeral. This morning at 5 o'clock Winston Turkington and Henry Allen, cousins, left also by automobile for Erinville.

Although he has not visited in Manchester for some years, Samuel J. Turkington was well known to many Manchester people who had visited his home on fishing trips. It is believed by his relatives here that death was due to a serious strain suffered early last month when he was another man on a tug of war team representing Erinville.

Mrs. John Downing, of 87 Cooper street, died late this afternoon at St. Francis hospital, Hartford. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

FUNERALS

William Emenan. Funeral services for William Emenan, aged 72, one of the original members of the local branch of the Salvation Army, who died yesterday afternoon with services at the home at 2 o'clock and at the Salvation Army chapel shortly after.

At the home Adjutant and Mrs. Joseph Heard sang a duet "Safe In the Arms of Jesus." A scripture reading and prayer concluded the service. At the chapel the congregation sang "My Jesus, I Love Thee." Major Edward Atkinson led in prayer and Thomas Hopper gave a short eulogy on the life of the deceased. Adjutant and Mrs. Heard again sang a duet "No Disappointment in Heaven" with a short address by the Adjutant ending the services.

Mrs. William Wright led in prayer at the home and the scripture reading preceded the committal service.

The bearers were Major Atkinson, William Atkinson, Thomas Hopper, Ralph Jones, William Vennart, and Thomas Doyle.

ACCUSED OF STEALING SAFE

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Motha Morandi, 38 years old, an automobile salesman, was turned over to Detective Sergeant Mooney of Boston in Magistrate's Court today to be returned to that city where he has been indicted with four others for stealing a safe containing $25,000.

BOY INDICTED.

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Twelve year old Edward Moran, the janitor's son who confessed he choked Mrs. Clara Hewes, 76, and an invalid, to death because she caught him stealing $3 from her, was indicted by a Grand Jury today on a charge of first degree manslaughter.

MT. PELEE ACTIVE.

Fort-de-France, Martinique, Oct. 31.—(AP)—For the sixth time in a few weeks, Mount Pelee, dreaded West Indian volcano was in eruption last night. The eruption lasted seven minutes.

COSTUME CONTEST FEATURE AT REC

Miss Svea Lindberg Captures First Prize; Decorations Prove Most Attractive.

Miss Svea Lindberg of 47 Myrtle street in a blue Perlette costume won first prize for the prettiest ladies' costume at the annual Halloween frolic and dance last night at the School street Recreation Center. Mrs. Jennie Kasulik of 19 Fairmount street with a crooked nose mask and Richard Booth of 62 Albany Avenue, Hartford in a clown suit with a nose a mile long were adjudged the most comically garbed.

While the attendance didn't run as high as was hoped for, probably due to the record breaking attendance at the State theater on account of the Duo-Dollar auction and the many house parties, it was very successful. Everybody seemed to have a splendid time. Bill Waddell's Orchestra furnished the music from a pine tree setting. The gymnasium was never decorated as prettily before. Few probably realized the amount of work required in putting up the large quantity of black and orange paper streamers which hung about the many lights, not to mention the fetching of corn stalks, pine trees, oak leaves and other bits of autumn gear. This work was done by Eric Crawshaw and Elmer Johnson.

Miss Olive Richmond of Spruce street was the winner of the lucky balloon dance which provided her with a box of chocolates. The balloons dropped "out of the sky" from the race track above the dance floor and added to the colorful setting in which the party took place. The balloons were of various colors. Tin horns, paper hats and noisemaking devices were distributed by Director Lewis Lloyd, Instructor Frank C. Busch and Peter McLagan, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Refreshments were served down stairs.

SHOE STORE ENTERED, INTRUDER CAPTURED

Boxes and Shoes Scattered Around Floor When Manager Opens Up This Morning. Sometime yesterday a badly frightened pigeon flew in through the open door of the Newark shoe store in the Oxford block and perched in a space in the shoe rack. It remained there all afternoon and its presence was made known to the manager, later when shoe boxes were pushed from their places and fell to the floor.

The manager remained after the store was closed for the day and attempting to catch the intruder but was unsuccessful at midnight after several hours of hard work.

When he arrived at the store this morning the floor was scattered with shoes and empty boxes and in the midst stood the miscreant still defiant in his unfamiliar surroundings. After the wreckage was removed he tried to get his hands on the bird. After a time the bird tired and was captured.

DIRECTORY CANVAS IS STARTED HERE

William H. Day, of New Haven, salesman for the Price and Lee Company, directory publishers, is in Manchester canvassing business houses for employee lists, advertising and directory orders. A crew of canvassers for the securing of information about residents of the town 18 years of age and over will be here within a few weeks. Mr. Day, who canvassed the town a year ago, says there is evidence of considerable growth in Manchester within the past year. There have been many business changes and the house to house canvassers expect to find a considerable increase in the number of names to be listed here.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP) Stocks were hurled upward from 2 to nearly 12 points at the delay in opening of the Stock Market at noon today, as a huge accumulation of buying orders were dumped onto the market.

Columbia Gas opened with a block of 30,000 shares at 89 3/4, up 11 3/4. 30,000 shares of radio were taken at 51 1/4, up 8 3/4, and 15,000 shares of Columbia Graphophone at 30 3/4, up 4 3/4.

American Telephone rose 9 points to 249 in a transaction of 5,000 shares. United Aircraft jumped 7 3/4 at 61, with a block of 12,000 shares. National Lead rose 5 points, Pan American B. and Missouri, Kansas, Texas 2 points.

KING OF ITALY TO VISIT POPE

First Time Since 1870; Visit to Be of Private Character Next Month.

Vatican City, Oct. 31.—(AP)—King Victor Emanuel's long-awaited visit to Pope Pius, the first that a King of Italy has made to the Vatican since papal loss of temporal power in 1870, will take place in the first fortnight of November, the correspondent of the Giornale D'Italia said today.

The visit will be of a private character, the King motoring to the Vatican instead of using the gala coaches of state. To Return Visit Pope Pius is expected to return the visit in January, going to the "Villa Savoia," private residence of the royal family on the outskirts of Rome. This call will also be of a private nature. The original plan was for a solemn royal progress from the quinal to the Vatican, with outriders and outriders and all the House of Savoy accompanying the King and Queen.

PREMIER MACDONALD NEARING HOME PORT

His Steamer to Anchor Late Tonight—Liverpool Is Planning Big Reception.

Aboard S. S. Duchess of York, at Sea, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Beating through rain and a southeast gale which has buffeted the ship for three days, the liner Duchess of York this afternoon rounded the northern tip of Ireland and brought Prime Minister Ramsay Mac Donald and his daughter Isabel into the last part of their voyage home.

The ship entered the smoother waters of the North Channel and headed for Liverpool, where she will anchor late tonight on the Mersey river. The prime minister will have breakfast on the ship tomorrow morning. He will hold a short reception on the pier and then take the train for London, arriving at Euston station at about 1 p. m. This plan may be altered, however, if it conflicts with plans for an official reception at Liverpool.

Luncheons for visiting notables are now being broadcast from Washington. But we haven't heard anyone able to take his soup in a flat.

EXTENSIVE XMAS LIGHTING PLANNED

Merchants Here Decide to Go Into Decorations More Thoroughly Than Before.

Manchester's Great White Way—Main street—will assume garments of multi-colored lights twined with evergreen, either running from pole to pole, parallel with the stores, or spanning the street in a gigantic archway of light to herald the approach of Christmas.

Should present plans be adhered to the decorations will be put up on Saturday, December 7 and will not be taken down until after New Year's. It was also voted that the holiday hours of the stores will start on Thursday night, December 19, all stores remaining open until 9 o'clock every evening from then until Christmas.

Which of the two lighting methods will be adopted has not been decided but a special committee composed of Arthur Hultman, George H. Williams and L. N. Heberner was appointed to go into the details of the matter.

There is to be a Halloween parade staged at the north end tonight. The parade will be headed by members of the Boys' club of the Community House. They will march down North Main street from the "White House" around Depot Square and back past the reviewing stand at the point of starting.

D. A. R. HERE TO MEET IN CHENEY HOMESTEAD

November Session to Be Held Saturday Afternoon—State Regent to Be Guest.

Orford Parish Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its November meeting Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Cheney homestead on Hartford road.

Reports will be given by the different committees of the chapter on their progress and plans for the winter.

At the meeting Saturday a silver contribution will be received for work at Ellis Island. Instead of making gifts of sewing material and yarns, the chapter will this year give money.

ABOUT TOWN

The Manchester Green Community club will hold its regular business meeting in the assembly hall of the school tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Miss Lorraine Cowles of West Center street who underwent an operation on her foot at the Memorial hospital, Tuesday, is making satisfactory progress.

Field Major Agnes Bray of Philadelphia, who is at present visiting in Manchester, will conduct the service at the Salvation Army citadel this evening at 8 o'clock.

George Rudeen, of 330 Center street, and Mrs. M. Johnson, of 90 Beach street, were the turkey winners at last night's setback tournament held at the West Side Rec. The same prizes will be given away at the whist party Saturday night.

Ten schoolmates of Loydon Clarke, Jr., assisted him in celebrating his tenth birthday at his home on 332 Summit street yesterday afternoon. The home was beautifully decorated with Halloween trimmings of witches and goblins with the holiday black and yellow colors.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Luther League of the Swedish Lutheran church to be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock will be in charge of Leonard Johnson. Instead of having a program after the business meeting, the entire evening will be devoted to Halloween games and stunts.

James Costello of Vernon, telephone operator at the Manchester station is the owner of a cabinet sewing machine, vintage of 1884. It is a make now seldom seen, an Emerson. Costello intends to get in touch with Henry Ford regarding a possible sale for his museum.

At the close of the present school year one of two nurses now employed in the work for the first eight districts is to be discontinued and the work will be taken care of by one nurse. This change is made because of the extra work that Dr. L. Verne Holmes is now doing for which his pay was last year increased from $1,000 to $1,600.

Hoover's Position "The President said, as he has uniformly stated his position, that campaign promises should be carried out by which adequate protection should be given to agriculture and to the industries where the changes in economic situation demand their assistance."

The President has declined to interfere or to express any opinion on the details of rates or any compromise thereof, as it is obvious that, if for no other reason, he could not pretend to have the necessary information in respect to many thousands of different commodities which such determination requires, but he pointed out that the wide character of the schedules and the length of the discussions in the Senate were themselves ample demonstration of the desirability of a real flexible clause in order that injustices in rates could be promptly corrected by selective amendments.

RUM RUNNERS SHOT

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Two men were shot and a third arrested early today in the capture on Lake Erie by a Coast Guard patrol boat of the motor cruiser Uncas, said to have been used in carrying liquor from Canada to United States ports.

On overhauling the Uncas today, Captain Hubert F. Wilbur of the patrol boat reported that no firearms or liquor was found on board. The wounded man, under guard, was reported as not in a serious condition.

MURDER CHARGE

Detroit, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A first degree murder warrant against Joseph A. (Legs) Laman was issued in connection with the death of David Cass, son of a Detroit real estate operator. Young Cass's bullet torn body was identified last night at Laper, Mich. Laman already is serving a two year sentence in the Michigan state prison at Jackson for extortion. Cass was brutally beaten before four bullets were fired into his chest. Apparently he was slain soon after he was kidnapped last July.

HIGH SCHOOL STRIVES FOR BETTER ENGLISH

Student Composes Poem on Use of Improved Language; More Leaders Girls.

Better English week is being observed in all classrooms of the High School this week and those who are subject to the use of poor English, faulty spelling and the common mistakes of everyday occurrence are being cautioned in all departments of the student body.

The Leaders Class, a select group of girls doing grammar work and picked to assist in the lower gym classes has recently added the names of ten girls to the roster of the class. They are: Gertrude Gerard, Ella Peckham, Lois Wilcox, Ruth Hale, Rebecca Harris, Hazel Rogers, Pauline Edmonds, Ida Cole, Agnes Pongratz and Mary Miriligo.

Good English Three persons were knocking at Heaven's high gate. And each was a man of renown. They had called on Saint Pete to determine their fate. And to find out which ones must go down.

(The first man, a Pugilist speaks) "Say Pete, couldja let me in now? Cuz ya know I'm not such a awful tough guy; But if you try sendin me down here below, I'll give ya a poke in de eye."

(The second man is from Fifth Avenue) "Hello there, old top, I've dropped in for my wings. It's a beastly old world, don't you know. I'm so jolly well bored with terrestial things. That I'm Paradise bound—what ho!"

(The third is a School Teacher) "Good evening, Saint Peter, I hurried along. But I think I'm a few minutes late. In my record you'll find that I've done no great wrong. Would you please let me in through the gate?"

(St. Peter) "Oh, no, my fine fellow, you needn't come here. Your English is really too good. If you tended old Lucifer's fires for a year, you'd speak plainly, I'm sure that you would."

(St. Peter) "Your record is good and your English is fine. You may come right in here through the gate. I'll give you this ticket—now step into line. There'll be a harp concert at eight."

(St. Peter) "You'll not get very far with a London accent. And slang will not help, I confess. If you speak like a human you may be content. That good English will lead to success."

SURPRISE YOSTS

ON ANNIVERSARY

Popular North End Couple Given Party on 29th Wedding Day—Given Bedroom Set.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Yost of 437 North Main street were married 29 years ago today in Rockville. They had planned no observance of the anniversary but their friends in different parts of the town wished otherwise.

When the greetings and congratulations were over, there was singing and dancing. The ladies who took the lead in making arrangements prepared a spaghetti supper. They provided decorations, place cards and napkins in keeping with Halloween.

WILD WEST SHOW PLAYS NEW YORK

"Ride 'im Cowboy" Rings Out as World Series Rodeo Comes to Town.

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Once a year the familiar cry of "Ride 'im, cowboy!" rings out in the concrete enclosure of Madison Square Garden.

The open west of the dude ranch and the cattle range is the home of the rodeo, but New York, the turf-flecked amusement, has become the scene of its annual finale.

For the fourth consecutive year the bronc riders, calf ropers and steer wrestlers have come to town to engage in the "world series" of their picturesque sport.

Starting at Tucson, Ariz., in February, the professional makes a tour of Fort Worth, Tex.; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Pendleton, Ore., and a score of other points.

Some of them, it is true, are tough hoppers. The most mysterious is Oklahoma Curley, whose other name, if any, is unknown even to his rodeo mates.

Others like Chester Byers, Bobby Calem, Tommy and Ed Kieran, Mike and Fox Hastings, Ike Ride, Clara Belcher and Marie Gibson, are the Walter Hagens, Babe Ruths and Suzanne Lengies of the tankard.

The cowgirls, incidentally, usually have their husbands with them as performers.

The performers' average earnings for the season are about $4,000, although some of the big point winners earn as much as $10,000 in prizes.

Most prominent of the amateurs perhaps is Jimmy Montgomery, son of a wealthy hat manufacturer.

The "world series rodeo" is conducted under the sponsorship of charity, specifically the Broad street hospital, in behalf of which Henry L. Doherty, the capitalist, this year guaranteed $37,500 for the winners' purses.

The rodeo itself has become a protégé of the dude ranches, from which many of the riders are recruited.

This also insures them ample when they visit the metropolis, for the wealthy city folk who have spent a season on a ranch turn out to root for their favorites, forgetting sophistication in the frenzy of "Ride 'im, cowboy!"

WASTED SALT WATER MAY PROVE VALUABLE

Oklahoma City, (AP)—Salt water, a perennial bugaboo of oil field operators, may contain chemicals with a value comparable to the oil it frequently adulterates.

Oklahoma City's new oil field is the site of a plant Dr. Otto V. Martin, a chemical engineer, is building to recover valuable material from water that many oil companies give away as worthless.

Dr. Martin contends that salt water, properly utilized, is worth more than oil itself. The problems of recovering and purifying chemicals in the brine, he says, have been solved.

These brines long have been known to contain useful chemicals, he explains, "but their economical recovery and particularly their purification and form always have presented a problem."

A supply of brine is believed to underlie the Oklahoma City field. Chemists say it will yield not only a high grade of common salt, but magnesium, bromine, iodine and other chemicals.

These chemicals can be broken up for recombination into still more varied products. From them, natural gas resources also makes possible production of other gases and chemicals, such as chloroform, through combinations of chemicals with natural gas.

MEXICO TO VOTE ON NOVEMBER 17

Campaigning So Far Marked With Unusual Violence; The Issues.

Mexico City.—(AP)—Mexico is clearing its decks for another of those great trials which almost invariably in the past have brought on revolutions.

If nothing happens to prevent it, the people will go to the polls Sunday, November 17, to choose between Jose Vasconcelos and Pascual Ortiz Rubio for their next president.

The campaigning so far has been accompanied by unusual violence. There have been several assassinations, followed by the customary charges and counter-charges.

But the opinion prevails that despite these incidents and those that may come, election day will roll around and the people will have opportunity to cast their ballots.

The serious phase of the elections, if there is to be any, will come after the voting, the consensus shows. President Ortiz Gil has promised impartiality, but if Ortiz Rubio comes out of the elections with a majority it will be a difficult matter to convince the vasconcelistas that they have been defeated fairly.

Final completion of the ballots is in the hands of the Chamber of Deputies, the majority bloc of which is the Obregonista faction, frankly opposed to Vasconcelos. If this bloc should recognize a vasconcelista victory then, in the view of celista voters, the Mexican revolution, the public proof definite will have been given that Mexico is at last "a country of institutions" and that "caudillaje" or rule by force is ended.

Other Complications If the vasconcelistas consider themselves victorious and the announcement comes from the chamber that Ortiz Rubio has been elected, developments may assume any one of the various forms.

Vasconcelos has been quoted as saying that in such event he would declare himself president. On the other hand, he was referred to a "Pacific" revolution in preference to an armed one. The question is whether he and his followers would choose caution as the better part of valor.

Ortiz Rubio is the nominee of the National Revolutionary Party, created by General Calles to "weld together the revolutionary elements of the country" and preserve the principles of the Mexican revolution. His victory would mean continuation in power of the faction which has been represented in office by Obregon, Calles and Portes Gil.

Vasconcelos is the Anti-Reelectionist party's choice. He also claims to represent the principles of the revolution but he differs with his opponents on the interpretation of them. His party represents the main opposition to the group now in power.

FORD'S NEW ANTIQUES Johannesburg, Mich., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The entire equipment of an old-time lumber camp in Osego county, such as flourished in Michigan during the Seventies, has been bought by Henry Ford for his early American museum at Dearborn.

The equipment includes bunks, blankets, ox yokes, big wheels, chains, spike skids, draws, sleighs, saws, axes, markers, grub hooks, loader crotch, camealongs, skidding tongs, and other pieces of equipment, the usefulness of which has long since passed away. Even the kitchen sink, towel rollers, dinner horns and water jugs will be transported to Dearborn to be set up there.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG? The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels; there's no need of having a sallow complexion—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are given their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

EX-PRESIDENT DIES. Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Antonio Jose Almeida, former Portuguese president, died here today.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 31.—Negro Harlem may be black—but it isn't dark. Its lights burn as brightly as, and much later than, those of Broadway. From a slumming area it has become a night life center. Its cafes are more popular than those in the mid-town sector; its cover prices are cheaper; its shows hotter and its nights longer. The curfew may blow at 3 o'clock in the morning in the "big street" belt, but the iceman puts out up Harlem way.

The crowd that heads for Harlem has changed, too. At first only the brave and the intelligent, following the leadership of Carl Van Vechten, started due north. Slummers came in their wake and another, the "old" places picked up patronage. Small's in Fifth Avenue outgrew its walls and became an elaborate night resort of upper Broadway. Connie's Inn, which was exclusively black, kept increasing its white trade until, this particular season, Connie was able to move many of his people downtown into a Broadway music production. The Cotton Club developed into an evening dress spot.

This season the limousine and sport car trade steers for 135th street, where, however cold the night, the entertainment sizzles. Harlem has caught on. It's now a vogue, with some of the "best people" of Park avenue heading the right place you're as likely as not to see a titled visitor with a society party sitting but a few tables away from a Pullman porter who hit it lucky on the races.

Those which are in particular demand with the swanky uptowners—outside the three previously mentioned—are The Nest, the Swanee, "Spider" Webb's and a few others.

Variety, the theatrical weekly which is generally accurate where such statistics are concerned, gives the "black belt" a total of 500 cabarets—most of them exceeding low rank. That many of these are speakasies, attracting many criminal types and brawlers, is indicated by the police records which, in a single district break many records.

The speakasies are, for the most part, not the first floor barrooms to be found about New York, but are concealed in dwellings and are known as "apartment buffets." Scores of these are in the kitchens and parlors of private homes—a setting somewhat familiar in many large cities of the west and mid-west. Many of these charge admission at the door in addition to the price charged for liquor. Gin, I am told, is to be had at every other cigar store, poolroom or delicatessen store.

From variety, I have gathered a few interesting notes about who's who and what's what of Harlem. Walter Terry is the district's particular J. P. Morgan. He is a millionaire real estate man. Mme. Walker, who invented a device for taking kinks out of hair, is the richest woman.

Jules Bleedsoe, the negro singer, is the more-or-less dictator of the artistic groups. Whereas Striver's row was for years the one swankiest spot, the removal of Bleedsoe to the "Sugar Hill" section has created a new fashionable zone. Duke Ellington is the belt's own-particular Paul Whitehead. Bill Robinson, the tap dancer, is the momentary idol. One of the outstanding rich men operates the gambling rackets—such as the "number" lottery which has thousands of play-

Justice Is Not Blind! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Justice is no longer dispensed by ignorant and individual domination. Another ancient prejudice stands convicted by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE which insists that a jury "twelve good men, tried and true" decide the facts.

"toasting did it" — Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted" No Throat Irritation-No Cough.

MATTER OF FOOTAGE

A report of a special survey of New York traffic, conducted with a view to determining the rate of vehicular movement, after developing the fact that fourteen miles was the maximum average rate attained during May while the minimum average speed was six miles an hour, proceeds to discuss possible measures for the relief of congestion by speeding up the traffic, such as the removal of car tracks, laying of better pavements, elimination of elevated structures, etc.

Without taking the slightest exception to either the facts of the report or the probable efficacy of the proposed improvements in creating better street fairways, we again find ourselves wondering to what extent all this would be successful in the everlasting effort to remove congestion. What is traffic congestion? Is it not the presence of more vehicles in a certain area of roadway than the roadway can accommodate? And if cars desiring to pass through that area at any time exceed the capacity of the area, what difference does it make whether the speed of entry into and departure from the zone is fast or slow? Are you not going to get much the same situation of congestion when more vehicles gather there at one time than it can accommodate and allow mobility of movement, irrespective of the theoretical rate of progress?

To speed up traffic may be highly desirable and worth a lot of expenditure. But why speak of it as a way to relieve congestion when a thousand fast moving cars can jam a bottle neck or a section of highway just as effectually as a thousand standing still and with an infinitely better chance of wrecking each other and making the jam permanent?

If the speeded up cars were only to pass out of the picture presently, that would be one thing. But when it is perfectly certain that they will keep right on being part of the traffic problem and are going to participate by their presence in the grand total of congestion, that is another.

We have said before and we say again, that when there are a hundred thousand cars on the roads of Connecticut, all going at ten miles an hour, exactly as much of the space in those roads is occupied, and not a foot more, than if the hundred thousand were all hitting a fifty-mile clip. An automobile occupies a space as much square footage when it is standing still.

This perfectly obvious physical fact seems to be overlooked by those who expect to relieve traffic crowding by hurrying the automobiles, coming and going, over any given area. If you are really to relieve an overtaxed highway you must build another highway either alongside or at a convenient distance and paralleling it. Congestion is a matter of road square footage with relation to automobile footage, not of speed, high or low.

UNFAIR AND UNTRUE

Taking advantage of a general condition which in large part is undeniable, the leader of the Democratic party in Congress, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, in a deliberately prepared statement and with an unfairness that is so blatant as to become dishonorable, lays the blame for the stock market debacle on President Hoover, former President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Robinson makes the point that the people of the country were deluded into a belief in a sort of magic concoction of riches for everybody by huge over-doses of "prosperity" propaganda—and in that there is a certain element of truth. But no immediately passes into the realm of conscienceless political invention when he attributes the fostering of such exaggerated bragging to any of the three statesmen named.

Very particularly is this true of President Hoover, who of course is the immediate target of the Democratic leader. Senator Robinson cannot, to save him, put his finger on a single utterance of the President, either since he has been at the head of the government, during the campaign or while he was a member of the cabinet, in which there is the slightest overstatement of the favorable economic situation of the United States.

It is not from the heads of the government that the people, or many of them at least, derived their notion that the paths of life were strewn knee deep with gold pieces and that all they had to do was to pick them up and spend them. The enormous propaganda of "prosperity"—laying claim in the name of America to an utterly fabulous and impossible state of affairs enjoyed by no other nation and unheard of in the world's history—was no more the work of any President or member of the government, or of all of them put together, than it was the achievement of the man in the moon.

Partly the product of design, partly the result of hysteria, the delusion of grandeur was promoted almost entirely through the medium of the so-called "inspirational" periodical press. The country's daily newspapers had little to do with it and less responsibility. But from a hundred magazine offices and through a thousand and one trade and "house" organs, from countless bureaus and publicity agencies all over the country, there flowed over the nation, for years, a torrent of booster literature whose whole purpose was expansion inflation and the maintenance of an era of constantly rising security prices.

The sound economic situation which constitutes actual prosperity—and which has been cited with absolute truth by Hoover, Coolidge and Mellon—is not even remotely associated with the booster propaganda which has been employed by promoters of endless mergers, securities issues and inflated flotations.

Nobody knows this any better than the senator from Arkansas, who is by way of being far from a fool. And when he attempts to saddle the overblown stock market boom of the last five years onto the leadership of the Republican party he is descending to the depths.

What he could have pointed out, with truth, is that the economic and industrial conditions of the United States, under the administrations of these Presidents whom he seeks to pillory, have become so firmly buttressed that nothing that can happen to the stock market can shake the solidity of our real prosperity.

CHEEKY PROCEEDING

The entire state of Connecticut will be interested in the outcome of two appeals from convictions under the motor vehicle laws arising in New London. Apparently they are part of a concerted effort to overstep the control of Connecticut's highways by Connecticut's Legislature, the persons anxious to do this being engaged in interstate commerce and desiring to employ in that business vehicles of a class and admitted to the use of this state's roads by our laws.

The state law, as we recall it, forbids the use of trailers which, together with the vehicle towing them form a train over forty feet in length. In the New London cases arrests were made of drivers of trailer combinations, used in the transportation of new automobiles, which were 63 feet in length. In the cases in question fines of $25 and costs were imposed and attorneys for the defendants declared that the law would be tested through the federal courts on the ground that the Connecticut law interferes with the conduct of interstate commerce of a reasonable character.

If the hauling of a trailer train 63 feet long over the highways of this state constitutes a reasonable variety of interstate commerce, then we can see no reason why the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad hasn't the right, if it should see fit, to switch a freight train off its tracks onto the highway and send it on its way rejoicing, by the nearest short cut, to any destination in this state that it happened to select.

This state has never been one-half assertive enough in defending its rights in its own highways against the unreasonable and insolent aggression of truck owners who pay not a nickel in taxes in Connecticut but obstruct traffic and wear out the roads by the use of too-heavy and too-large freight vehicles. So it is hardly to be wondered at that the owners of these huge trailer-trains have conceived the idea that we have no rights at all which they are bound to respect.

It would be a very serious mistake if the police authorities in the various towns of Connecticut, or the state police, were to await the so-called test of the law threatened by the trailer people. The operators of those impossible and outrageous nuisances should be arrested in every town and city in which they appear. If the transportation people want a battle on this issue they should be provided with the kind of one that will keep them busy filing bonds and appeals.

BLAH

Undoubtedly there is reason, other than indecision as to the precise formula to be followed, for Senator Norris' delay in bringing before the Senate his much-touted resolution of censure upon Senator Bingham. It is probable that the Nebraska is a long way from being sure of the support of all of his anti-tariff associates in the passage of any such measure.

To take disciplinary action, either by adopting a vote of censure or by removing a senator from his place on an important committee, as has been suggested by Dill of Washington, is a matter of much gravity; it might possibly, in the future, become so far reaching as a precedent as to react on some of those members of the body who have taken such a mischievous delight in the razing of Senator Bingham. It isn't so very difficult to recall a time when Senator Norris himself was the object of denunciation by a President of the United States and accused of something very closely approaching treason. He may not always be a member of a majority coalition—he may not be, next week.

It is very doubtful, as a matter of fact, whether the coalition senators will carry their Roman holiday far enough to engage in such a risky, not to say outrageous, proceeding as has been proposed. All of them know very well that they are pretending, to now worship standards which in fact they have never before observed. There isn't one of them who hasn't listened to his constituents in matters of regional benefits and attempted to help out those constituents by obtaining Senate legislation. That, when you come down to it, is the utmost that can be charged against Senator Bingham. If his methods have been somewhat less well concealed than those of his critics in the Senate, that only shows that he is less expert in subterfuge.

Let the senator who is without sin—of the same kind—throw the first missile in this proposed stoning of the Connecticut senator.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

After Treatment of Rheumatism

Any eliminative measures which will stimulate the throwing out of rheumatic poisons may bring about at least a temporary cure of the various forms of rheumatism. Sweated baths are often helpful. These may be taken at mineral springs or in Turkish bath establishments. There is little value to the mineral effect of these baths, and about the same good can be accomplished through taking a hot-tub bath in the patient's own home.

Various medicinal remedies have been tried, and some have proven of temporary help, but most of these remedies are injurious to the heart muscles, and their use is neither necessary nor advisable.

The fasting treatment which I suggested in yesterday's article is the very best treatment possible for getting quick results without danger to the patient.

The principal point I want to bring out in this concluding article on rheumatism is that the permanent cure depends entirely on the proper functioning of a clean, healthy colon. The colon must be in a good position so that there are no pockets nor kinks in which poisonous fecal material can accumulate. The muscles of the colon must have a good tone so that normal peristalsis takes place. The external abdominal muscles must be strong in order to hold the intestinal organs in their normal position. When these organs are in good position and able to function properly, it is then essential that the right food should be used.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 31.—It begins to look as if the one and only George W. Norris of Nebraska, who has been the most conspicuous figure in the Senate's special session, will be with us for another six years after his present term expires in 1931.

In that case the credit or the blame probably will go to President Hoover.

There are various signs and reports to the effect that Mr. Hoover would like very much to get rid of Mr. Norris and that Mr. Hoover's champion and co-worker in the undertaking will be Mr. Samuel R. McKelvie, a former Nebraska governor, who would like to run against Mr. Norris in the Republican primaries of 1930.

He'd Planned to Quit. Until he began to hear reports of this arrangement, Mr. Norris had rather intended to retire from the Senate. He had to be tricked into running again in 1924 and again in 1928, he told his friends that if he ran for public office again it would be for governor of Nebraska, as he wanted to work for an ideal government in his own state.

But now Uncle George begins to hear reports that the president has taken him for the slaughter—that Mr. Hoover wants to send his own trade-marked candidate before the Nebraska voters and find out whether they prefer a conservative, "constructive" gent who will work in harness with the White House or an incorrigible independent like Mr. Norris.

And Uncle George has not the remotest thought of refusing to accept a challenge such as that. In fact, there is no chance at all that he will drop out and let Mr. McKelvie walk off with the nomination.

All of which promises a battle of the century if Mr. Hoover indicates any interest in the Nebraska fight. If the standpat element in the Republican party ships its big guns into the state to attack Mr. Norris there will be a large trek of the most important Progressives pouring into the state on their heels, and the plains of Nebraska will shake with some of the loudest rumbles of impassioned oratory ever heard.

Heaven knows that Mr. Hoover's procreation has been great. Few men have been more painful than Mr. Norris. And no man who has ever attained a high place in political life has ever been as independent as Mr. Norris.

Uncle George was a thorn long before the two men ever heard of each other. He led the fight in the House against the arbitrary rule of Uncle Joe Cannon. He is the only man left in the Senate of the "willful" group which fought Wilson's policy to the bitter end.

Uncle George was a thorn long before the two men ever heard of each other. He led the fight in the House against the arbitrary rule of Uncle Joe Cannon. He is the only man left in the Senate of the "willful" group which fought Wilson's policy to the bitter end.

He saved Muscle Shoals from politicians of both parties who sought to grab it for Henry Ford or one of the various branches of the power trust. He went into Pennsylvania three years ago and campaigned in the senatorial election for the Democratic Mr. Wilson against the Republican Mr. Vare because he hated corruption. In the presidential election last year he committed the worst political error of his life when he went into Pennsylvania three years ago and campaigned in the senatorial election for the Democratic Mr. Wilson against the Republican Mr. Vare because he hated corruption.

He might have thought that the Republican senators would have read Mr. Norris out of the party all and declared for Mr. Al Smith as against Mr. Hoover because he thought that Mr. Smith was more honest and more progressive.

You might have thought that the Republican senators would have read Mr. Norris out of the party all and declared for Mr. Al Smith as against Mr. Hoover because he thought that Mr. Smith was more honest and more progressive.

Fought Hoover's Policies

Lately he has become almost again retarded. If this happens, it means more enemies and another fast.

It is useless for the patient to bother with treatments to the outer parts of the body and, in fact, such treatments are often harmful and only induce more inflammation. The sore joints should not be watched or treated. Watching and treating the bowels is the proper thing to do. If this plan is rigidly adhered to, the patient with chronic rheumatism may expect a complete and lasting cure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Anemia and High Blood Pressure

Question: Mrs. J. H. S. asks:—"Can a person be anemic and have high blood pressure at the same time?"

Answer:—It is possible to have anemia and high blood pressure at the same time, as high blood pressure is caused either by hypertension of the arteries, or due to hardening of the arterial walls. Anemia is a condition where there is a lack of red blood cells and hemoglobin.

Preserving Eggs

Question: A. J. B. asks:—"Is it true that the Chinese have a method of preserving eggs without cold storage, sometimes for years? Could you tell me how it is done?"

Answer:—The Chinese immerse fresh eggs in an infusion of lime, salt, lye and tea leaves, leaving them in order to provide plenty of bacteria after which they are drained and coated with a mixture of clay, rice husks, etc. Of course, after a year or so, the egg undergoes such changes as would be offensive to the American taste, but when compared to some of our various methods of preservation the reason may be laid entirely to the psychology of tradition. At any rate, the Chinese merchant enjoys a "luxury" trade in these eggs of the greater age, the price ascending with the years.

Chest Always Red

Question: J. G. A. writes:—"My chest—that exposed where the dress is cut low—is always red, although sometimes I do not go out for days.

Needs for Mr. Hoover

As the leader of the Progressives he fixed up the tariff bill amendment, which deprived the president of the right to fix tariff rates as provided by the flexible clause. As the most important figure in the farm bloc, he put over his own Norris amendment putting his own revised version of the export debenture plan into the tariff measure. Each time he led the two worst defeats which Mr. Hoover has suffered in Congress.

And if Mr. Hoover sees red when he thinks of Norris, who can blame him? Heaven knows he sent a long enough procession of emissaries to Norris long before the Republican National convention asserting Mr. Norris that Mr. Hoover was a Progressive of his own stripe and would shortly be coming out boldly for the things for which Mr. Norris stood. It wasn't Mr. Hoover's fault that Mr. Norris had to be shown before he would support Mr. Hoover's candidacy.

Mr. Norris is the most important figure in the Senate today and he doesn't agree with Mr. Hoover, on the points concerning which Mr. Hoover seems most interested. So it is easy to believe the stories which would have Mr. Hoover planning to throw the administration influence behind anyone whom Mr. Hoover believes able to defeat Mr. Norris. The only subject of speculation here is why Mr. Hoover isn't willing to let Mr. Norris retire without beating him into another fight. Stories have been coming from the general direction of the White House to the general effect that Mr. Hoover and the Republican organization would start a major offensive against all insurgents in 1930, but Mr. Norris promised to step out even before Mr. Hoover was elected.

Few doubt that Mr. McKelvie is Mr. Hoover's fair-haired boy in Nebraska. Mr. McKelvie played Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge for a federal job and everyone knew which would have Mr. McKelvie, claiming to represent the farmers, shouted against the McNary-Haugen bill when the farmer groups and the Senate and House farm blocs were unanimously for it. Mr. McKelvie, when the Nebraska delegation at Kansas City was supposed to vote for Mr. Norris, undertook to get everyone to vote for Mr. Hoover and made a seconding speech for Mr. Hoover. Mr. McKelvie got himself appointed as the wheat representative on Mr. Hoover's Federal Farm Board and only obviously political appointment to the board. Mr. McKelvie said he would only serve about a year. When the year is up it will be time to think of the Nebraska primary.

He Hasn't Much Chance. Mr. McKelvie, having a some time in the past been elected governor of Nebraska, is the sort of man Mr. Hoover might think could lick Mr. Norris for the Senate. Mr. Hoover knows that the Anti-Saloon League became very sour on Mr. Norris because the Anti-Saloon League was fighting Mr. Smith, whom Mr. Norris preferred.

Nevertheless, Mr. Norris has a very dry record and so have many of the Progressives who will invade Nebraska to take up his cause. It is too early to suggest that the Anti-Saloon League will definitely identify itself with Mr. McKelvie's candidacy as against that of Mr. Norris. And it is a long time since Mr. McKelvie was nominated or elected to anything by the farmers of Nebraska.

In fact, the betting in Washington is that if Mr. Hoover puts Mr. McKelvie into the race, Mr. Norris will not have much trouble in licking Mr. McKelvie. And this in spite of the fact that Mr. McKelvie, on the Federal Farm Board, has been given a beautiful opportunity to set up shop as a warm-hearted friend of the farmers.

N. G. PROMOTIONS

Hartford, Oct. 31.—(AP)—First Lieut. Harold N. Dorr, of the New Haven Grays, Company A, 102d Infantry, has been promoted to captain and succeeds Captain Frederick M. Booth, killed in a Plainville auto accident recently. Orders of Adjutant General George M. Cole made the announcement of this promotion and others today.

Lieut. Dorr was injured in the same accident in which Captain Booth was killed, but recovered soon after. Private Joseph Maher of the same company also was injured and recovered only recently.

To succeed Dorr, Second Lieut. Wallace A. Moyle has been promoted to first lieutenant and First Sgt. Russell E. Leet has been promoted to second Lieut. to succeed Moyle. The date when Captain Booth will take over the Plainville duties at the New Haven Armory has not been set yet.

AGAIN DELAYED

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Russian Plane, "Land of the Soviets," was held at the Ford Air-Base today because of unsatisfactory flying conditions.

The flight to New York, which had been originally planned for yesterday, was postponed. It was announced the plane probably would take off for New York tomorrow, covering the distance in one hop.

NEW TRANSMISSION WITH SEVEN SPEEDS DEvised IN ENGLAND

London, Oct. 31.—While the four-speed transmission is the talk of automotive circles and several manufacturers have adopted it, a seven-speed transmission has been developed here.

As yet this seven-speed affair has not been tested in automobiles, but various machines have been equipped with it with satisfactory results. Preparations are under way to equip several automobile chassis with this gear-shift and the manufacturers are convinced that smooth performance will result.

The arrangement is so fixed that gear changing does not involve de-clutching. A shift can be made going at any rate of speed without damaging the gears. In addition, when changing from one gear to another, there is no intermediate neutral position, so that the load is never "dropped" and consequently the risk of running back downhill owing to a missed change is obviated.

Only one sliding gear is used. This gear moves backward and forward and meshes with any one of the stationary gears, ranging in ratio from the front to the rear in a conical shape but presenting a straight line of teeth for the sliding gear to mesh with.

In a recent test the transmission, driven by a motor, was speeded up to 1,000 revolutions a minute. It was possible to change gears as rapidly as could be done without noise or shock.

At present in its use in printing presses, machinery driven by electric motors and other mechanical contrivances, the transmission is giving a high percentage of efficiency. Careful dynamometer tests have been made to ascertain the mechanical efficiency and that has been determined to be about 95 per cent.

HEBRON

At a meeting of the Hebron Library association held Tuesday evening, to make a slate of officers to be ratified at the annual meeting for that purpose, Mrs. C. J. Douglas was named as president; Edward Hilding, vice president; Albert Hilding, secretary; Mrs. T. D. Martin, treasurer; directors to serve two years, Mrs. Merton W. Hills, Miss Clarissa Pendleton; auditors, Mrs. C. E. Kellogg, Arthur R. Gillette. Reports for the year showed that the circulation has been 4,668 for the past year. There are 3,955 books in the library and sixteen magazines are taken or presented by friends. Sixty-nine boxes of books, each containing twenty-four books, have been allocated among the schools of the town. The librarian, Mrs. T. D. Martin, has returned 59 books without charge.

Mrs. Clarence E. Porter attended the funeral in Boston on Sunday of Morris Pratt of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis have moved from Hopevale to Leonard's Bridge.

Benjamin T. Hobby visited his parents in Worcester on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton W. Buell were recent visitors at the home of Mr. Buell's brother, Robert E. Buell, at Bedford Mills, N. Y.

A reunion and banquet for the women's bridge club was held at the home of Miss Marion Gott Monday evening. Fourteen were present. Mrs. C. J. Douglas was toastmistress and each member was called on in turn to entertain the company. The highest average in the scores of the games played through the year was won by Mrs. Frederick Wyman.

A brush fire which spread on the Edward A. Smith farm caused some alarm Monday afternoon. A telephone call brought fighters who checked the flames. A report that the house was on fire was found to be untrue.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Benzing and children spent Sunday in New Bedford. Miss Ruth Allen, teacher in the Hopevale Private School, accompanied them and spent the day at her home in Rehoboth, Mass.

Miss Eleanor Costes returned to her studies at Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Mass., after spending the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Costes. Mrs. Costes and her son Donald motored to the school with Miss Eleanor on her return.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilcox spent Sunday and Monday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Merton W. Hills at their home in Gilead. Mr. Wilcox who came for the hunting secured some game.

Mrs. Carrie I. Burnham entertained at her home on Sunday her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Tucker of Hartford, her son Earl of New York, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martindale of Plainville, Miss Florence Farr of New Britain, and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Harold House of Hartford.

Miss Tillie Fredrich who has taught for many years in the Jagger District, has been taken to the tuberculosis sanitarium at Uncas-on-Thames, Norwich. Her place in the school has been filled by Miss Katherine Quigley of Fall River, Mass.

PLANES GROW FAST

There are more airplanes in civilian operation in the United States today than there were automobiles in use in 1900, according to the American Automobile Association. There were only 8000 automobiles in use in 1900 and there are 8094 planes now in operation.

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

IDLING ENGINE DANGEROUS

Most of us steer clear of the driver who insists upon racing his engine in a public garage. We figure that he'll pollute the air with death-dealing fumes, and if we are wise we get out of the way as quickly as possible.

This is wisdom, but we have to be careful to avoid reasoning that an idling engine isn't as dangerous as one that is raced.

As a matter of fact the idling engine is especially dangerous. Usually when an owner or a mechanic idles his engine he does it with the spark retarded and the result of this is to let the engine exhaust a lot of gas that isn't properly burned. Carbon monoxide is excessive in the exhaust fumes of an engine that is idled late. Don't let the silence and tranquility of the idling engine lure you into this grave danger.

COAST OVER THE STONES

Some of the old rules apply to today's motoring as well as they did in the early days. Take, for instance, the matter of saving tire wear when running over a piece of road construction where there is much loose and broken stone.

It seems like sparing tire abuse to slow down and negotiate such a stretch in low, but it is better to coast over the stones. Of course this coasting should not be at high speed.

So long as the engine is pulling the car the tires will be forced to pull against the stones since this is inevitable where they are getting traction. While coasting this tractive factor is done away with.

Balloon tires will yield to the sharp points of stones but if the pulling force is applied they will have a tendency to grind over the stones and thus wear their treads excessively.

LIGHTS OUT OF FOCUS

When the headlights of the car do not illuminate the road properly most owners suspect the battery and promptly go on a wild goose chase. If a little more light were shed on this subject, they would save time and effort by considering the possibility of the headlights being out of focus.

One owner who found his battery to be in good condition insisted upon having the generator charging rate increased. This proved to be a good way to overcharge the battery without in any way helping the situation with regard to the headlights.

Unless the lights are focused properly the rays of light will be wasted through diffusion over the wide area. It isn't necessary, however, to run to the opposite extreme by directing the rays down on the road. This gives the appearance of bright headlights but is a delusion so far as visibility goes.

TESTS FOR PISTON SLAPS

There isn't any need to go along worrying over the cause of a knock in the engine when there are simple methods of getting at the facts. Even if you think there is a piston slap there is the oil test to decide the point.

Suppose, for example, you think cylinder number one (the one next to the radiator) carries a loose piston. The first thing to do is to remove the spark plug and inject some heavy oil into the cylinder. Next wait a few minutes for this oil to work over the piston rings. Then start the engine. It isn't necessary if this cylinder carries a slapping piston the noise should vanish for a few minutes due to the heavy oil cushioning the piston and taking up the slack. After the oil thins and leaks down into the crankcase of course the knock should come back.

This test can be repeated for each cylinder until the troublesome one is found. If none is found then the knock is due to some other cause.

FIGURING GAS MILEAGE

It's natural to want to check up on the gas mileage of the new car. But you have to be on your guard if you want accurate information in this connection.

Not all gasoline gauges are accurate over the entire range of fuel supply. That is, a gauge may be accurate from zero to five gallons and from ten to fifteen but may be inaccurate between five and ten.

One motorist came home from a trip quite delighted over the splendid showing made by his engine. According to his observations the car did better than 47 miles to the gal-

SERVICE for the MOTORIST

How the Hitter Limes the Car

By ISRAEL KLEIN

Many of us so-called good drivers have come to take motoring in such a matter of course that we have innocently and unconsciously fallen into many bad and costly habits. These habits are usually difficult to abandon, after having been cultivated for years, but their eradication would bring great relief to both motorists and motorists.

Taken each by itself, such a habit is nothing to speak of. It may be a constant jerking of the throttle foot, or the leaning of the left foot against the clutch pedal, or a poor driving position that makes an emergency stop or turn difficult, or one of many similar faults. But if we watched ourselves just once, we might catch our faults unaware and discover ways to correct them.

For instance there is the treacherous habit of jerking the throttle foot at intervals and thus accelerating the car in spurts. Many good drivers do this quite unconsciously. They have acquired it when inexperienced, upon seeing an opening in traffic and immediately taking advantage of it by forging ahead, and find themselves now doing it whether they need to or not.

Such drivers, while out on the open road with no traffic interfering, will force their foot down on the throttle for a short spurt, then release it, then repeat the same practice.

This is hard on the spines of the passengers, tiring to the driver and especially hard on the motor. Sudden spurts of power on the part of the motor also demand extra sturdiness of the rear against it. Continued short spurts might eventually wear down the rear transmission or the axle at the cost of a new unit.

The proper way to drive, and the most economical, is to keep the ball of the right foot on the throttle at constant pressure, gauged by the speed at which the driver wants to keep his car. Then to accelerate or decelerate, all he need do is depress or lift his foot gradually so that this change in speed might not be too sudden. This gradual change in pressure on the throttle can be accomplished almost as quickly and effectively as the sudden change, and there is no re-stant jerking for car or passengers. Such smooth driving is easy on the passengers and particularly easy on the motor. It makes for greater economy and longer life for the car.

Riding the clutch is another bad habit for many good drivers who, charged with this fault, will deny it. On close inspection, however, they will find themselves falling into the practice.

Result of riding the clutch is well known to be repeated. The clutch soon begins to slip, a great deal of power is lost in the act and the motorist is at a loss to know why he can't get the mileage out of his motor that he used to. The cure lies not only in fixing the clutch but in training oneself out of the clutch riding habit.

Many good drivers have a habit of leaning out of the window of the left door and riding with the left side foremost. It's a comfortable position to fall into, but it catches the driver unawares in an emergency. Such a position is hard to get out of when quick action is needed with both hands and feet. Therefore it should not be resorted to.

The most comfortable position to take in driving, though apparently perhaps the most stilted in appearance, is that in which the driver sits well back against the rear cushion and directly in front of the wheel. The movable seats of today permit the driver

Dwyer States College Athletes Deserve Pay

Manchester Man Says College Scale of Reward for Ability in Sports Should Be Granted Players by All Colleges.

BY JACK DWYER

Just a lot of hokum has been uncovered regarding amateur (?) athletes who attend various colleges for the purpose of getting an education and for the privilege of playing football, baseball, hockey, tennis or what have you. Apparently this system starts in high school days and continues until the star player, in any sports mentioned above, graduates from college into professional sport and a bond seller after his box office attraction value ceases, which attraction was gained back in the high school days and continues for four years (or more) at the Whosis College. Then he merely joins the ranks of the millions of "old grads" and proceeds to dig up more material for the year old college varsity.

Apparently it is a sense of honor to get a star halfback to enter Whosis College. Very seldom does one hear much about the excellent student who applies himself to his studies, gets what he went after—an education—until this class of a student has gained a lot of wealth, placed an endowment fund with Whosis, and then decides, very suddenly, to dig up some football stars for the Alma Mater in partial payment for his neglect of these things while a student. For this sacrifice he is allotted two tickets, in the remote part of a huge concrete bowl, once a year when the ancient rascal of Yale descends upon the gridiron for the annual clash.

The above is the mental picture which one is lead to believe really exists in American college life today but the average layman of which the writer is but a small part, this picture may be wrong, it may be right, but it is the impression those on the "outside" have of existing conditions.

It is not fair to the star to say any more regarding his ability to say anything for the benefit of the efforts spent, the use of their names and prowess on any athletic field, regardless of any standard or code. If the game is played that way now, and colleges are giving these chaps anything for their efforts, it is the only just thing to do. But it should be placed on a scale whereby these players, outstanding of course, are offered to every college on an equal basis and allowed to select the college they prefer.

If this is done in the usual

AS BOOTH GOES SO DOES YALE

BY WERNER LAUFER

Being held on the sidelines for brief substitutions caused Little Albie Booth to foam at the mouth, but he remedied that for once and all in the Brown and Army games. He proved he was so good that Coach Mal Stevens simply had to leave him in there. And it is a good bet he'll be at his post regularly in the remaining games this fall.

There He Goes!

When they sent him into the Army game in the second quarter to give Quarterback Snead a little breathing spell, Booth started things buzzing.

Army was leading at the time 13 to 0 but not for long. Booth started right out with his running, squirming, dodging and kicking that finally beat Army by a touchdown. In reality the little riot did it single-handed. He warmed up to his job and did all of the Yale punting.

It wasn't many minutes before all eyes were on Albie Booth, Army tried in vain to stop him, but his white helmet kept bobbing through those 200-pounders for gains. Finally Albie left them with their eyes popping by running through the whole gang for his second touchdowns on the kickoff.

Booth has again shown up those who contend that it takes a strapping fellow to star at football. He demonstrated the value of speed and alertness. He also made himself the star of the eastern football circles and though he is but a sophomore, he has plenty of experts in his corner, boosting him for the quarterback job on the All-America.

And best of all, they'll never point a finger at Albie for being a professional star, for the youngster hails from New Haven, seat of that august institution for which the kid is doing mighty things with the cow-hide.

He's Spark That Touches Off Yale Fireworks

"ALBIE" BOOTH

Though he looks much like the ordinary college youngster, there's something extraordinary about the football playing of "Albie" Booth, Yale's dynamic little giant. He's the spark plug of the Old Elm team, a listless, heavy machine when Booth is out of the game, but a ruthless, powerful steamroller when Booth's fire touches off the works. Almost single handed the Yale mid got snatched a 13 to 0 margin from the Army eleven to give the Bulldogs a 21 to 13 victory. Booth scored the 21 points on three touchdowns and three points by dropkicks. The pictures above show him in football regalia, in his study room and on the campus between classes.

Dartmouth Has Best Chance To Beat Yale

But Big Green Has Been Favorite Before Only to Lose Yale Won 18-0 Last Year.

By WILLIAM CHIPMAN

New York, Oct. 31—(AP)—Many of the leading eastern football wars next Saturday will lack the "grudge fight" element but the Yale-Dartmouth battle at New Haven will bristle with enough of it to make up for all the rest. Ever since the Blue journeyed into the hills of Hanover in 1883 to trim the Green by 113 to 0, the White Indians have been trying in vain to corner the Bull dog.

The closest Dartmouth approach to victory was in 1924, in the renewal of the series after a lapse of 23 seasons. The Green entered the Bowl a favorite that afternoon but in the end Eddie Dooley had to be satisfied with a 14 to 14 draw and the first points the Green ever scored against the Blue. No game was played in 1925 but Dartmouth was favored in 1926 and 1927 only to see the Elis win twice. The Green never was dangerous in the 1928 game which went to Yale by 18 to 0.

The net result of the series to date as far as Dartmouth is concerned is 21 points scored, one and 11 defeats. The Green remains a favorite to turn the tide on Saturday but confidence in the Blue is growing and the teams may enter the bowl all even.

In other important games Princeton, the Army, Harvard and Pittsburgh will meet foes not encountered in 1928. The Tigers have not played Chicago since that memorable super-thriller out on the midway when "Gambling Johnny" Gorman tossed against the Blue. Princeton will meet Fieser who never was dangerous in the 1928 game which went to Yale by 18 to 0.

While he will be able to leave the hospital he will be unable to play football on Sunday against the Thompsonville Grays.

Pittsburgh—Elmer Layden, Duquesne coach who originated the "pony code" and designed a lightweight football uniform has a new one for the boys. He proposes home and road uniforms for teams featuring the fashion set by baseball teams, light colored jerseys for the home teams and dark ones for the visitors, worn places on the gridiron when the college colors are alike.

Princeton—Bill Roper has vetoed scrimmage as a regular thing, but he broke his rule almost as soon as he laid it down. Roper took advantage of a rain yesterday to hand out 15 minutes of work with a wet ball.

New York—Games with minor opponents usually don't mean much to football players but the Williams contest meant a lot to two Columbia sophomores. Ranko and Edgington were on the first team at guard and end by their showings in last Saturday's game.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Gil Doble does not intend to let Columbia give him a dose of his own medicine. He spent a large part of yesterday's practice drilling his team on stopping the off-tackle play, the particular kind of offense which brought Doble much of his fame.

CUBS TO DISCUSS FINANCIAL STATUS

There will be a meeting of the Cubs football team tomorrow evening at the East Side Recreation building. A balance as to incomes and expenditures will be made and all bills paid.

In addition to this the club will arrange for the expenses incurred because of the injuries sustained in the game Sunday. Johnny Groman is expected to return home this week.

While he will be able to leave the hospital he will be unable to play football on Sunday against the Thompsonville Grays.

ARMY REJECTS NAVY'S OFFERS TO END BREAK

Military Academy Remains Firm in Its Belief That a Principle Should Not Be Compromised.

Washington, Oct. 31—(AP)—Secretary Adams said today Major General William R. Smith, Military Academy superintendent, has refused to agree to three compromise offers made by Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robinson, Naval Academy superintendent, looking toward resumption of athletic relations between the two service schools.

The Naval secretary also said General Smith had made no compromise offers of his own.

Two of the Navy's compromise offers, Adams asserted, looked to modification of the Military Academy's eligibility rules which permit cadets to play more than three years of college football. The third proposed that the academies resume competition on a basis of playing for two years under intercollegiate rules, including the "three-year" eligibility rule, and then for two years under military academy rules.

The Military Academy offered no compromise. It stood on its historic principle that all cadets should have equal opportunity and that any student who is proficient in his studies is entitled to represent his school in any branch of sport regardless of previous experience in intercollegiate athletics.

Secretary Good issued a statement expressing regret that the effort to reach an agreement had failed, and at the same time upholding the stand taken by the Army.

General Smith issued a statement reassuring the Military Academy stand and declaring "I do not believe in compromising a principle."

At a conference with newspaper correspondents he emphasized that "West Point is anxious and willing to meet Annapolis on the gridiron or in any other sport under the same conditions we play all other colleges."

He would be willing to resume negotiations looking toward resumption of athletic relations, he said, at any time and on any basis not involving a sacrifice of the principle of equal opportunity for cadets in all fields of endeavor which always has been in effect at the academy.

Admiral Robinson returned to Annapolis without commenting, but Secretary Adams issued a statement during the afternoon summing up the effort from the Navy's standpoint.

The superintendent of the naval academy, he said, "entered the conference assuming that the difference of opinion between the two academies was a honest one, and that there felt that to reach an agreement both the superintendent of the military academy and the superintendent of the naval academy would have to yield to some extent."

The superintendent of the military academy refused to make any compromise offers.

One of the three proposals advanced by Admiral Robinson as outlined by Secretary Adams, called for a gradual adoption by West Point of the civilian intercollegiate rules to which the naval academy adheres so they would be in full effect there at the end of four years.

The second was for adoption of a four year eligibility rule for its players by the military academy.

The third called for resumption of relations under an alternating arrangement whereby the military academy's position would govern for two years and the intercollegiate three years varsity rule for a like period.

General Smith recalled that he pointed out to Admiral Robinson that "what he was asking for was not eligibility but parity, which charge he admitted."

"The American people want to see a football game played on the gridiron and not in the conference room," he remarked.

Both he and Secretary Good recalled that the naval academy broke off athletic relations with the military academy while a four year contract still was in force and General Smith emphasized that the West Point authorities were reluctant to have the competition ended in that manner. The military academy, he said, rejected a suggestion that the contract be mutually discontinued.

Conceding that West Point had more men in its classes who had attended other colleges than Annapolis and that the average age of the cadet was higher than that of the midshipman he held that "numbers count" and the naval academy had merely 700 more students than the military academy.

Local Sport Chatter

Reports from Hose House No. 3 on Spruce street where the football gossipers gather for their nightly confabs, are to the effect that Fireman Jim Schab is having about as much luck hunting as he does fishing. Pete Happenny says Jim is a glutton for punishment if an empty game bag or fish basket can be called such.

Jack Stratton is out of the Cubs' lineup temporarily with a broken toe. "Lefty" St. John is also on the sidelines with a badly sprained ankle. Johnny Groman is improving satisfactorily at the Hartford hospital where he is receiving treatment for a kidney injury suffered in last Sunday's game.

The Connecticut Aggies have a pair of dandy games booked for the next two Saturdays, Vermont and New Hampshire playing there in succession. Both should be well worth watching.

The Dartmouth-Yale and Harvard-Florida games will be broadcast over the radio next Saturday.

There is a local chap by the name of Craig who is said to seriously threaten the chances of other local runners in the coming five-mile run here Thanksgiving Day morning.

All evening classes at the Rec tonight have been called off because of Halloween. The Cubs will practice football at the Rec at 7 o'clock Friday night.

To many people this rising and falling of the stock market is more or less like the Einstein theory. Like a horse race, it is a good thing not to tie up too much money in. Bill Brennan is the best bet we know to give anyone interested the proper advice.

Ray Reid, north end auctioneer, informed a packed audience at the State Theater last night that Pete Happenny's Cubs wasn't the whole show. He brought out a football to auction off and remarked, "Here's one football Pete Happenny didn't paint green."

Over north the report comes that Ulysses Lindquist is likely to play end part of a game against the Cubs. He is a sort of an all-around man for Dwyer having played nearly every position on the team so far this season.

The Cubs are going to find that the Majors have a really easy deal in this Walter Crockett, blonde-haired little end who hails from the West Side of the town. "Cumm'n," as he is called, is a regular ball hawk and the Cubs will do well to apply a bit of glue to their hands before the game starts.

A forward pass grounded in the field of play and rolling into the end zone is not a touchback but simply an incomplete forward pass. To be a touchback, the ball must land in the end zone.

Visitors' Record Not Impressive But That is Often Misleading; Preparing for Windham Game Already.

Manchester High will meet a new opponent tomorrow afternoon when Lewis High of Southington comes to the West Side Playgrounds for a football encounter. The schools have never met before on the gridiron. The game starts at 2:30 with Tommy O'Loughlin of East Hartford as referee.

So far as can be learned the Southington school's record is nothing exceptional. It has been beaten by Meriden, Wallingford and West Haven and has taken a fall out of Plainville High. Lewis High bowed to the strong Ansonia High eleven last Saturday 19 to 0. Therefore Manchester is in high hopes of scoring another victory and possibly piling up its biggest score.

The local schoolboys will do well, however, not to grow over-confident in connection with the Southington game for it is just barely possible that they will be sorry if they do. Following the Lewis High game, Manchester has three more contests slated. Next week Saturday the locals play Buckley High in New London and the following Saturday Windham High of Willimantic comes here. The Alumni game will be on Thanksgiving Day.

The Willimantic game is the same to Manchester that the Yale-Harvard struggle is to New Haven and Cambridge. Interest in this game always runs high, and almost invariably the score is close or the battle at least very stubbornly fought. Manchester won last year 20 to 6 and the year before by a count of 12 to 6 but previously Willimantic had won every game on the locals.

REC GIRLS HOLD FIRST PRACTICE

The Rec Girls will have their first basketball practice at the School street Rec gym at 7 o'clock tomorrow night. Manager Ben Clume makes it emphatic that anyone in town is eligible to report for a try-out and that no partiality whatsoever will be shown in selecting the best players. Last year's members will have to show their ability as well as newcomers. Miss Alleen McHale has decided not to play this season. Miss Margaret McLaughlin is also not likely to be in uniform this season so there is plenty of room for new material. Clume will act in the capacity of coach as well as manager.

Kid Kaplan Kayoes Wolfe In The 7th

Chicago, Oct. 31—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion last night won the decision over Stanislaus Loaysa of Chile but found himself an unpopular winner. Boos and jeers greeted the referee's decision. Kaplan weighed 135 and Wolfe 133.

"Irish" Jackie Pilkington, New York lightweight, won an unpopular verdict over Tony Herrera of Fort Worth, Texas, in the first 10-rounder. Herrera, upset for the count of nine in the first round, came back to outscore Pilkington in body punching and long range boxing. The decision of the two judges and referee was boos. Pilkington weighed 133 3-4 and Herrera 135.

Whatever else it may accomplish, the now-famous Carnegie Foundation report on college football recruiting and subsidizing methods gives just about a "clean bill" to the hitherto much-maligned "Old Grads," who can now give three cheers for the old alma mater without being put under suspicion.

Specifically, the report says: "A common misconception touching the personal recruiting of athletes for intercollegiate competition is that most of the work is done by Alumni."

"The facts of our enquiry prove conclusively that this is not the case," the report goes on to say. "Of one hundred and twelve colleges and universities visited, at only a little over thirty per cent was recruiting conducted by alumni. In slightly over half of the cases, it was an affair of the athletic departments and in eight per cent it rested upon administrative, executive or academic officers."

The old grads, at least, have the last laugh.

The Carnegie report set forth in particular the keen rivalry for school boys and prep talent among the leading colleges of California. The University of California in its August "C" Bulletin, issued for the benefit of alumni, published a number of letters written by various schoolboy athletes to friends. These were some of the excerpts:

"I have already received some offers of scholarships from other schools, some of them in the conference, and jobs that will pay my expenses through school. My dad cannot see my going to Cal and putting out a lot of money when I can go to several other schools without the cost."

"I don't expect you fellows to hand me a job on a silver platter but I received a letter from the scholarship board at . . . yesterday stating that I had been granted a full scholarship to . . . Also one of the fraternities have a job for me. So I would be foolish to go to Berkeley under present circumstances unless I was sure of a good job. I still want to go to Berkeley."

"The coach from . . . came up to the park to see me and as a consequence I went to . . . with him. I worked out with the varsity three days and at the end of that period he told me I was a cinch to the varsity. Whether he was kidding I don't know but I rather think he meant it for he has called up three times since I've gotten home telling me the same. I also went to . . . with the frosh coach and kicked a little. . . offered me board, room and tuition but really one can't class . . . as a college."

"There is one of the men here at . . . that has a considerable peevishness at the school. He came to . . . with the understanding that he would get a scholarship—being a very good football prospect. During practice he broke his knee and did not get his numeral and they have refused him a scholarship and do not offer any hopes of him getting one until he makes the varsity in his sophomore, junior or senior year."

(From a brother of a promising young athlete): "He wishes to enroll as a freshman. The University of . . . insists that he come to . . . to school and has offered as an inducement, room, board, tuition and books, provided he play football, of course. I am very desirous of his attending Cal. U if you think there is any possible chance of arranging for his room, board, books."

On the same day that the Carnegie report became public property, Enoch Bagshaw resigned as head football coach at the University of Washington and two Iowa gridiron athletes set forth to disprove charges involving their amateur status. And these are only two of the disturbances.

Bagshaw's difficulties have been long-standing, especially since last season, yet his withdrawal after the Huskies met two stunning reversals at the hands of Southern California and Washington State added significance to the Carnegie report's disclosure that in about 3 out of 7 colleges the football coach's tenure depended on producing winning teams.

Wedding Announcement. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bahler of West street have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Bahler, to Edward Lanz of Oakville, Iowa, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lanz of 175 Union street, this city. The couple were married on Wednesday and had as their attendants, Miss Leah Bahler, sister of the bride and Henry Lanz, brother of the groom. After a wedding trip through the south, Mr. and Mrs. Lanz will reside in Oakville where they will be at home the latter part of November.

Pinochle Tournament. James R. Quinn representing Damon Lodge, Knights of Pythias and George Gaekler, representing Tankerossan Tri Club, O. R. M., met the past week to discuss the possibility of a pinochle tournament between the two organizations. Committees from both societies will meet soon to make plans. The pinochle tournament held by the Pythians the past few weeks proved very interesting.

Miss Clough Surprised. Miss Clough, teacher of the fifth grade of the East District school was pleasantly surprised after the school closed yesterday afternoon. The pupils had been planning a Halloween party for several days. Miss Vera Brookes another teacher helping them to keep it a real secret. After four o'clock when the children were dismissed, instead of going to their homes they went to the basement of the school where they dressed in various costumes and with many good things to eat returned to find Miss Brookes had done her part in keeping Miss Clough busy talking until their arrival. The teacher entered into the spirit of the occasion and a pleasant hour was spent playing games and doing other amusements. A luncheon of sandwiches and cake was served.

To Meet at Phelps Home. A meeting of the Council of Congregational Women of Rockville will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Phelps on Ellington street on Tuesday, November 5 at 3 o'clock. Mrs. T. A. Green of New Britain will be the speaker and will have as her subject "Social Relations." Miss Jennie Holton of Union street will sing. All women of Union church are invited to attend. Past Chiefs Halloween Party. The Past Chiefs Club met at the home of Mrs. Sadie Nutland of Tolland avenue last evening and held a delightful Halloween party. The members arrived at the Nutland home about 7:30 dressed in costumes for the occasion. Games were played and other spooky stunts enjoyed. A program of vocal numbers and group singing featured and a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. Nutland was an ideal hostess and all present report a delightful time.

Ellington Fire Department Dance. The members of the Ellington Fire Department held a dance in the Ellington Town Hall last evening with a record breaking crowd in attendance. The decorations were in keeping with Halloween. Carlton Buckmaster and his orchestra furnished the music.

Mrs. Ernestine Thuemler. Mrs. Ernest Thuemler, 82, died at her home on Oak street on Wednesday morning at 7:15 following an illness of several days. Death was the result of a severe cold which developed into pleurisy.

She was born in Saxony, Glaucho, Germany and came to Rockville about fifty years ago. She was loved by all who knew her and her death comes as a shock to many of her friends. Although Mrs. Thuemler had not been in the best of health the past year she was able to be about and entertain her friends, and attend social events.

Mrs. Thuemler was a member of the First Evangelical Lutheran church, the Ladies Aid Society, Rosalie Lodge and the Ladies Liedertafel Society. She was very active in church and organization work.

She is survived by three sons and three daughters, Eugene and George of Rockville; William of Waterbury; Mrs. William Koehn; Mrs. Clara Lehrmit and Mr. Richard Graupner of this city; also 6 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from her late home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in the family plot at Grove Hill cemetery.

Notes. Miss Luella Townsend of New Britain was the recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Backofen of Mountain street.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist church will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Edwards of Lawrence street on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Edward Newton of Talcott avenue is ill at his home. Mr. Newton observed his 87 birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ostrom have returned to their home in Rhinebeck, N. Y., after spending several days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Deal of West Main street.

Mrs. Nellie Morin of Rau street had been named administrator of the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth Riley who died about two weeks.

New York now has an anti-noise commission. Chicago ought to consider this move, too, and at least provide Maxim silencers for the machine guns.

"GOLDEN HORSESHOE" HOLDS NEW YORK'S ELITE ON COLORFUL FIRST NIGHT AT THE "MET"

A glittering pageant of gems and gowns ushered in the forty-fifth—and the last—season in New York's famous old Metropolitan Opera House. Upper right you see the colorful spectacle as high society and low gathered in the historic old building, to witness the first opera of the winter, Puccini's "Manon Lescaut." The lower tier of boxes is the famous "Golden Horseshoe," reserved annually for New York's elite. Otto H. Kahn, banker and famous patron of the arts, is pictured above as he arrived to attend the Metropolitan opening.

"ILLUSION", DRAMA OF STAGE, AT STATE

Opens Tomorrow; Double Feature Bill Closing Tonight Made Big Hit.

The current attractions at the State theater, Lois Moran in "Words and Music" and Betty Compton and Grant Withers in "The Time Place and the Girl" will be shown for the last times today. The favorite screen lovers, Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll are back together again, and will be seen at the State Friday and Saturday in the all talking picture "Illusion." When the debutantes of Park Avenue Society rub elbows with the denizens of Broadway's stage, sparks are sure to fly and hearts are sure to break in one or both of the rival camps. This is the working formula. Arthur Train's novel "Illusion," from which the picture was adapted. Buddy is seen as a successful magician. Nancy is his partner in the act. Both are circus reared; both are troupers, but Buddy is society conscious and begins to get himself liked by the idle rich, who are unaware of his far from white background. Nancy, who was Buddy's first love, becomes disconsolate. She obtains a new partner and goes on with the act, but her heart is not in her work. At this point in the story an amazing and thrilling anti-climax is introduced. It would not be fair to reveal this bit of the plot. See it and you will be greatly thrilled.

Both Miss Carroll and Mr. Rogers deliver excellent performances and they are ably supported by a cast which includes June Collyer, William A. Crisp, Knute Erickson and Eddie Kane. The program also includes the latest screen news, a comedy entitled "Madame Q," and the Vitaphone acts, "The Happiness Boys" and "Spitfire."

FLYING TO THE U. S. FOR AN OPERATION

Santiago, Cuba, Oct. 31.—(AP)—General Horacio Vazquez, president of the Dominican republic, arrived here at 9 o'clock this morning in a plane of the Pan-American Airways, en route to Havana and Miami.

He was accompanied by a party of five, including Senora Vazquez and his personal physician, General Vasquez is reported to be en route to the United States to undergo an operation.

STUDY COLLEGE SYSTEMS.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 31.—A committee of students, official representatives of the University of Vermont, today are guests of the New Jersey College for Women, the third of five colleges at which they are studying systems of student government.

The committee, composed of the Misses Dorothy Daly, student president; Marian Ties, chief justice and Margaret Stanley, junior representative, has already studied the systems of government used at Mount Holyoke and Smith. They will next visit Vassar and Swarthmore.

Miss Eileen Ross, of Westfield, president of the Student Co-operative association, in head of the reception committee. Other members are Miss Leah Boddie, dean of women; Miss Carmen Ingersoll, of Asbury Park; Miss Dorothy Ray, of Port Washington, N. Y., and Miss Marjorie Niergen, of Glen Rock.

NO AID FOR INDUSTRY.

The Hague, Netherlands, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The First Chamber of the Dutch Parliament today rejected a bill for aiding the beet sugar industry, by provisionally granting bounties for 1929 amounting to a maximum of 1 1/2 florins for each hundred kilograms of sugar produced if the price of sugar remained below 17 florins. The measure would have cost the government 4,000,000 florins (about $1,600,000).

WELL WHO WINS?

They say the football rules jugglers are going to get together at the end of the season and simplify the touchdown business. That shouldn't be such a Garantuan endeavor if somebody can find one of the 1910 rule books. By going back 20 years and forgiving and forgetting all that has occurred in the way of rule changes since then, some great and lasting good may be accomplished.

At least for the customers. It's getting so that the fans at an ordinary football game actually have to ask some official after the game who won. A case in point: Brown beat Princeton the other day, but of all the thousands proceeding down the field, no one would reach right down in his pocket and bet a dollar on the contest until they had read the newspapers.

False Cheers. We have the picture of Princeton leading Brown by a score of 12 to 7 with three minutes to play. It was a fourth down. The quarterback—it is Brown's ball—calls for a forward pass. He shoots it through the air straight into the arm of a waiting end. The end races across the goal line and touches earth with the oval. In the old days nearly everybody—even the lady two seats to the rear who asks why the players don't run the other way because the path is clear—would have known that was a touchdown. There would have been wild cheering over the snatching of victory after the game seemed lost. But no!

The stands had hushed. Even after the player had raced across the field, the stands were silent. They sat like the Roman Senate might have sat, waiting for Cicero to launch his exordium. Suddenly the referee's arms shot up. It was the signal—touchdown! and the stands—after a full minute of suspense—broke into a mad roar of victory.

YOU DON'T FOOL US.

It was like this, you see. The stands had seen two Princeton men run for touchdowns in the period preceding that last swift dash across the goal. They had cheered then, only to find out after all the shouting that these weren't touchdowns at all. There had been some technicality, friends, the stamping, cheating and whistling had been wasted. They would be fooled no more. They would wait and see.

TO REBUILD WHITE SOX

Chicago, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Charles A. Comisky who has been ill all summer on his farm in Wisconsin has returned to Chicago to build plans for remaking his White Sox a contender of the American League championship. The first move of the "Old Roman" was to call Donie Bush, new manager of the Sox, for a conference next week to plan for obtaining material and to discuss the case of Arthur "The Great" Shires.

VISITS THE POPE.

Vatican City, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Pope Pius today granted a private interview of forty minutes to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations. Sir Eric afterwards went to call on Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state. The audience was said to have been entirely personal in character.

STREET TO PILOT ST. LOUIS CARDS

St. Louis, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Charles "Gabby" Street, who caught Walter Johnson's fast ball while a member of the Washington Senators from 1907 to 1911 was named manager of the St. Louis Cardinals for 1930 by President Sam Breadon last night. The former catcher, who once caught a ball tossed from the Washington monument, has been coach of the Cards for the past season and toward the end was acting manager in Bill McKechnie's absence.

!Wise Cracks!

The Department of Agriculture issues a bulletin to the effect that the Japanese beetle may ruin all the golf courses. If the beetle can find something left to ruin after the strenuous efforts of the duffers, the bug must be a pretty efficient sort of athlete of note.

Musicians often make good football players, says Dr. Sigmund Spaeth. Sure, we have often heard of athletes of note.

At Marsters, we learn, is a bathroom tenor. No wonder he has learned so well the art of dodging.

A backfield man might be willing to die for dear old Rutgers, but the guys in the line are ready to do more than that—even to forego the publicity.

Yale was exonerated of questionable athletic practices by the Carnegie Foundation bulletin. And if you saw that Georgia game, you could have believed it.

Primo Camera may be the biggest heavyweight in the world. But wait until those Broadway chisel-men start whittling him down.

BIG GOLF TOURNEY

Portland, Ore., Oct. 31.—(AP)—More than 100 golfers, including Walter Hagen, British open titleholder, and Dr. O. F. Willing, runner-up in the 1929 national amateur tournament, were grouped into three-somes here today for initial play in $1,200 Oregon Open championship event.

The Columbia Country Club course was the setting, 18 holes of qualifying play on the day's program. Tomorrow another 18 hole match will result in elimination of all but 50 of the entrants. The qualifiers will go into the final round Saturday.

BANK OF ENGLAND REPORT.

London, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve decreased 2,312,000; circulation increased 1,443,000; bullion decreased 878,000; other securities increased 1,483,000; public deposits decreased 1,405,000; other deposits increased 8,017,000; notes reserve decreased 2,241,000; government securities decreased 610,000. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 80.12 per cent compared with 81.80 last week. Rate of discount 6 per cent.

FIND NEW SERUM

San Francisco, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Prevention and cure of measles may result from the discovery of a serum being studied today in the Hooper Foundation Laboratories of the University of California medical school. Prof. Giuseppe Caronia, eminent Italian scientist brought here from Rome is the discoverer of a germ which is said to cause measles, as well as a serum for prevention and cure of the disease.

Pajama Parades Were Not In Vain; Designers Offer New, Light Garb For Men

BY JOE COPPS

New York.—Man's emancipation from uncomfortable clothing is just around the corner.

While the country was knocking its eccentric pajama parades this summer, most clothing manufacturers were putting their heads together. They have viewed the feeble masculine attempts to express a desire for clothing freedom, already obtained by the ladies, in a serious way. But they have sent the pajama back to the bedroom because of its lack of utility, durability and style. In its place they have fashioned more comfortable garments which, if just as comfortable, also are quite as startling in appearance.

The padded shoulder, with its extra weight of canvas and horse-hair, must go, they say. Coats will be of such a fashion as to eliminate most of the shirt and all of the shirt tail. "Vestees," new garments with only enough material tucked under the coat to support a sport collar, will be substituted.

Neckties May Go
Designers are pleading for the scrapping of ties that bind the neck, and belts that hinder vertical ventilation. And they scoff at the roll collar and its extra material which adds weight and warmth.

The leader in this movement is Harry Simons, editor, designer and stylist. He is a staff lecturer in New York University's School of Retailing; he publishes the Clothing Trade Journal, is technical advisor for the International Association of Garment Manufacturers, and is the author of several books on men's wear. "The pajama parades, funny as they have seemed, certainly demonstrated that man is seeking more comfort in clothing," said Simons. "The pajama, however, is not practical for street use. A man must carry money, keys, a wallet, smoking material, letters and papers. There is no room for such articles in a pair of pajamas."

Men have allowed the Beau Brummels of other days to put their necks in a noose and their waists in a vise, while women have discarded the old tortures, and go about in perfect body freedom. The material today is ten times lighter than it was a couple of decades ago.

"The garments I have designed for men next year will be from 40 to 50 percent lighter than present-day suits. Men's clothes today average 15 ounces to a yard of 54-inch are gathered in a blouse effect and button at the bottom like a shirt. His "vestee" is a sleeveless garment which extends midway between the neck and waistline, with an open, flaring sport collar attached. The trousers are fuller than usual and, in place of a belt, an elastic rib material is used.

Simons' models also include a sleeveless blazer in fancy colors that will utilize the "vestee" with "shorts" and a sport jacket, made in a blouse effect of light material with lapels to "style" it. "A suit of this model in the best of material can be made to retail at around $40," Simons said. "And wearable suits of cotton material can be manufactured for as low as $6.50. That ought to put a stop to the pajama parades."

when she entered an elevator before her husband.

And, the capitol knows and remembers the short steps Mr. Coolidge would take up the gangplank of the new extinct presidential yacht Mayflower with Mrs. Coolidge in back of him.

Now all is changed. The President permits Mrs. Hoover to go first on almost all occasions, whether it is at the baseball park or entering the White House automobiles. However, on strictly formal appearances they enter and leave the room together.

"Dewey George Admiral, 1601 K NW, Metropolitan 0716."

The Washington telephone directory still carries the name and phone number of the hero of Manila bay, Admiral Dewey died in 1917, but either for business or personal reasons the family chooses to keep a telephone listed in the admiral's name.

The Lincoln Memorial in West Potomac Park, Washington, D. C. was designed May 30, 1922. It cost $3,000,000.

By HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington.—Somehow Irwin Laughlin, America's new ambassador to Spain, has learned that in Madrid there is held at stated intervals what is known as the "Queen's Hunt."

This information interests him greatly. If there is such a thing he hopes to take part. And he will take part provided it is not too difficult.

For the new envoy to the court of King Alfonso is an enthusiastic horseman. Mrs. Laughlin desires for him to participate in hunts. She says the danger is too great, but if they both are convinced that the risk is not too much, he will be among the riders.

There is nothing Laughlin likes more than to be in the saddle on a good jumper. His favorite mount, Gray Dawn, will be taken to Madrid by the new ambassador. Gray Dawn and his master have won numerous ribbons in horse shows around Washington.

For Children, Too.
There are three horses in the Laughlin stables at Washington. In addition to the ambassador's mount, there is one for each of his two children—a son and daughter. They, too, are accomplished riders and have won their share of ribbons.

Laughlin expects to buy some horses when he reaches his post. The famed Spanish Arabians appeal to him as "the finest horses in the world," and he hopes that he will be able to procure one or two for his stables.

Although he has spent some twenty-six years as a diplomat, serving in practically every important post abroad as well as in Japan, Laughlin is reluctant to discuss his career. From 1912 to 1917 he was secretary of the American embassy at London, and was chargé d'affaires from December, 1912, to June, 1913. He was in that important post during the war days, but the only thing he will say about his experience is:

"Those days were terrible. Many times I wished that I was in the trenches."

He will take his whole family to Madrid with him. "We travel like a menagerie," he said laughingly. "One of the reasons I left Greece (he was American minister there two years of the Coolidge administration) was that I had to be away from my children."

Mrs. Hoover First.
Conspicuously and unconspicuously, President Hoover has upset another precedent since he has been an occupant of the White House.

Long has it been the custom for the president to precede the First Lady. The story is told around Washington that Mrs. Harding, on the first day was politely refused

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The volume of building contracts awarded in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains for the week ending Oct. 25, as reported to F. W. Dodge Corp., amounted to $88,127,500, an increase of $5,000,000 over the preceding week. The largest single project included in the week's total was a $2,500,000 airport development in Houston, Texas.

Directors of Best & Co., at their meeting next month will consider placing the new stock, which was recently split 2-for-1 on a $2 annual dividend basis against $3 paid on the old stock, it was reported today.

The National Dairy Products Corp., plans to purchase the Brighton Dairy Co., of Rochester, N. Y.

New steel business as reported today by mid-west operators, is on the upgrade in virtually all directions and November is expected to show much better results than October.

CATHOLICS OBSERVE HOLY DAY TOMORROW

Rome, Oct. 31.—(AP)—While Halloween connotes revelry and youthful pranks in America and England, the day in this center of the Catholic world is celebrated with fasting and abstinence.

It is the eve of All Saints' Day, falling tomorrow and inasmuch as it is one of the great fetes of the church a penitential period must precede it, according to Catholic custom.

Tomorrow will see practically all the Romans who have relatives buried in the city cemeteries going there with wreaths and cut flowers. The churches will be filled with the faithful for All Saints is a "holy day of obligation" meaning that attendance at mass is compulsory as on a Sunday. November 1 is a recognized bank holiday in Italy and the great majority of the commercial observance as well.

Saturday, All Souls' Day, while not a solemn feast like All Saints, is still an occasion of great devotion. The pilgrimages to the cemeteries will be repeated by many and numerous masses will be said for the repose of the souls of the departed.

SCHOONER SINKS

Provincetown, Mass., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The schooner Florence Merchant, a flounder dredger, sank ten miles off Race Point about midnight. Captain Aubrey Smith and another man rowed into Provincetown with the news this morning.

Captain Smith said he and the one sailor were taking the schooner in leaky condition from Nantucket to Gloucester for repairs. At midnight they found the leaks increasing and when the water gained dangerously on them they took to the boat.

RECORD CLEARING

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Settlement through the N. Y. Clearing House yesterday was $3,500,000,000—a record for all time. It was attributed almost entirely to the abnormal exchange of checks in settlement of stock exchange transactions. The previous record for one day was $3,034,000,000 on last January 2.

POISON BOOZE SELLER ARRESTED IN MONTREAL

Jumped Ball Nine Years Ago and Police Have Been Seeking Him Since.

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Missing for nine years after conviction of causing 100 deaths through sale of poisoned liquor, Carmine Licenzata, one time cheese merchant on the lower East Side is under arrest for the New York police at Montreal. Licenzata jumped $50,000 bail after his conviction in Brooklyn Supreme Court on manslaughter in the first degree. He was sentenced to 18 years in prison but was released on a certificate of reasonable doubt. Most of the poisoned liquor which Licenzata was convicted of making and selling went to Chloeppe Falls, Mass., where the deaths occurred, during the Christmas holidays of 1919.

WORLD AT FINGERTIPS IN KDKA RECEIVERS

Pittsburg.—(AP)—The radio distance fan would get a real "kick" out of an evening spent at the dials of three special short wave receivers at KDKA.

England, Italy, Australia, Java and other corners of the world are within the range of the equipment. Two of the receivers have antennae which can be adjusted to receive from any direction. The third has non-directional antennae through which Com. Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic camp is received.

An interesting phenomenon in connection with long distance reception of radio waves traveling from one distant point to another. An all-empire radio program in celebration of King George's recovery from illness was broadcast by 5SW, Chelmsford, England, retransmitted to Australia, and then rebroadcast again.

KDKA engineers turned one directional receiver to pick up the Australian station and tuned the other to the English station. The program from the Australian station, traveling approximately 20,000 miles further than the original broadcast from 5 SW, sounded like an echo of the Chelmsford station.

PARISIENNES TURN TO 5 O'CLOCK FAD

Paris.—(AP)—Five o'clock fashions for limousine ladies are Paris pet preoccupation, the wearing of evening gowns in the afternoon.

Working women, if they want to wear 5 o'clock fashions, must go to a dressmaker's and transform themselves from grubs into butterflies.

The day of round-the-clock ensembles is over. Paris dressmakers are stating most emphatically. The late afternoon costumes are formal in design, material and trimming. Most of the coats are bordered with expensive fur—fox, sable, mink.

They follow the general lines of evening coats and many women use them as such. Materials are velvet, tulle, satin, and abalone; even lame is used for the 5 o'clock formal ensemble. Dresses are in the formal materials and styles of their matching coats.

Over here they say that the steady increase of the cost of parties is responsible for the 5 o'clock formality.

LONDON BANK RATE LOWERED TO 6 P. C.

London, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The London bank rate today was lowered from 6 1/2 to six percent.

The reduction in the bank rate was a surprise to financial circles. No official explanation was forthcoming, but it was assumed to have been taken because of an easing in the gold position.

The commercial community welcomed the announcement, as tending to ease the business situation and give impetus to industrial and other productive activities.

The rate still is half a per cent above the level which prevailed for a long time prior to its being raised from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent a month ago.

FIND MAN'S BODY

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified man, who had been shot through the head after he had been "taken for a ride," the police believe, was found today near a South Brooklyn lumber yard. The man was about 30 years old. No one in the vicinity heard a shot. Police arranged to take his fingerprints to determine whether he had a criminal record.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York.—Tommy Armour, professional golfer, being sued for a separation by his wife, the former Consuelo Carreras.

London.—Having broken her custom of ten years Lady Astor now attends Commons without a hat, and she parts her hair in the middle.

New York.—The Prince of Wales can make a cigaret rise in the air apparently all by itself; he can pluck a cigaret out of the air and make it vanish after dropping it into a glass of water. These are some of the stunts of magic which Joseph Dunninger says he has taught the prince.

New Haven.—Having the highest marks in the 228-year history of Yale, Samuel W. MacLean of Norwalk, Conn., minister's son who has earned his way through college, has won the prize of the Montclair, N. J., Yale Club for the brightest senior. His average on all subjects for three years has been 96 1/2, which Dean Merrill says is unsurpassed in the history of the college.

New York.—Competition for the honor being the tallest building goes on. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is planning a structure of 100 stories.

Richmond, Va.—Commander Byrd in the Antarctic will hear the grand march at the Governor's ball tomorrow night. It will be led by his brother.

New York.—A certain English girl who has been informed that American husbands are the best in the world and wants one is to be aided by the International migration service. It will make arrangements for some one to meet her and assist her in getting started.

Paris.—The elevator that takes tourists 160 feet up to the top of the Arc de Triomphe makes a profit of $2,000 a month. It cost $12,000 to install last summer. The trip is eight cents.

Brussels.—Eugene Ysaye, violinist, one of whose legs was amputated recently, has recovered sufficiently to complete an opera on which he has been working 30 years. "The Miners' Strike," in the Walloon language, will be performed for the first time next summer at Liege.

THEATER OWNERS MEET

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Motion Picture Theater Owners of America went into the final day of its tenth annual convention today, definitely aligned against the bill introduced in Congress by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, to place the cinema industry under Federal control, and a statement in its records showing that owners of the smaller theaters had been relieved of approximately $1,300,000 in obligations through a voluntary reviving of contracts by the film producers.

Election of officers and the hearing of motion from the floor was the principal business of the closing session.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE TONIGHT AT RAINBOW

A general organized observance of Halloween night has prompted the Rainbow management at Bolton in making elaborate plans for tonight's Halloween masquerade ball and one of the largest crowds on record have arranged to participate in the jollification at this palatial old tavern and modernistic dance place so conveniently situated on the new cement state highway five miles each of Manchester.

Bill Waddell, will bring his band with a special list of dance hits to The Rainbow tonight and Howard Gates, Connecticut's premier master of ceremonies, rated by many the peer of the famous Jimmie Spring, will put the dances and masks through their paces in the old fashioned numbers. There will also be a liberal program of modern fox trots and waltzes and prizes will be awarded to the masquers.

A program of unusual excellence has also been arranged for Saturday evening when The Commanders of eleven pieces will return from Cook's Butterfly ballroom at Springfield, Mass., for their regular weekly engagement at The Rainbow, when they will offer a number of new and novel specialties in connection with a feature program of Broadway dance hits.

Charlie Pinney has successfully visualized the needs of his patrons and has built up an attendance at The Rainbow that compares favorably with any of the dance places in Connecticut. He will be still further increased now that the new highway is open to traffic and his dance palace and commodious inn is enjoying the greatest prosperity in its history with capacity crowds both Thursday and Saturday evenings.

SAY MALDEN PICKED FOR U. S. HOSPITAL

The efforts that were made both by Rockville and Hartford people to get the new hospital that is to be built by the government located in those places seems to have been of no avail. The hospital that was to be built by the government was to be located in the third army area, which includes all of New England. Washington dispatches of today say that the location selected is in Malden, Mass., and that all soldiers that go to army hospitals from New England will be taken care of in the new institution.

Rockville one of the first cities in the state to make an effort to have the hospital located there, had selected a section on South street near the farm which was formerly the property of Congressman E. Stevens Henry, but lack of proper sewage disposal at the time resulted in the site being passed over. Hartford people also made efforts to get the hospital near their city, but the inspectors have finally decided upon Malden, Mass., for the location.

CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE

Chandler, Okla., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Staking his fate entirely on his story of the slaying of an Oklahoma farmer, killed during a fourth of July liquor raid, Jeff Harris, 65-year-old dry raider, today was prepared to continue his story, under the fire of cross examination. In his trial of a charge of murder in connection with the death of Oscar Lowery.

Admitting he fired the shot which ended Lowery's life, Harris declared half a dozen times his testimony yesterday: "I shot to save my life." In his testimony Harris challenged stories of prosecution witnesses that Lowery was killed as he walked unarmed from the house into which the raider had pursued James Harris, brother-in-law of Lowery, who also was slain during the raid, and attacked the death bed statement of Lowery, signed a short time before he died in a Shawnee hospital.

The raider told jurors he fired at Lowery only after his face had been raked by a charge of buckshot from a shotgun, while blood filled his eyes and he was deafened, temporarily, by the shot.

WARM FREIGHT CARS

Boston, Oct. 31.—(AP)—"Warm car" freight service for handling perishable fruits, vegetables and other foods was announced today by the Boston and Maine railroad, to become effective on November 25. Overnight service to 580 points in Massachusetts, northern New England and Canada, with loading days varied so that each station has at least one loading at Boston each week, will be made possible, the announcement said.

The Avenging Parrot

© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc. By Anna Austin, author of The Black Piglet, Royal Wives, etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BONNIE DUNDEE, through the influence of his uncle, POLICE COMMISSIONER O'BRIEN, gets a job as detective under LIEUTENANT JOHN STRAWN of the homicide squad of Hamilton, and takes a room incoognito at MRS. RHODES' boarding house to be near a MRS. EMMA HOGARTH who has written the police for protection, changing her life and money at in danger, and throwing suspicion on EMIL SEVIER, former boarder.

Dundee at dinner meets MR. and MRS. SHARP, DAISY SHEPHERD, saleswoman; WALTER STYLES, proprietor of a small haberdashery; NORMA PAIGE, his fiancée; BERT MAGNUS, an amateur scenario writer; COBA BARKER, pianist in a local theater; HENRY DOWD, newcomer out of work; TILDA BROWN, new housemaid; and DUSTY RHODES, Mrs. Rhodes' worthless husband.

Dundee hears of Mrs. Hogarth's miserliness, that she is roundabout, and that she changes her will constantly to name a new favorite. Norma introduces Dundee to Mrs. Hogarth. He is able to chat with her only a few minutes on account of constant interruption by callers.

Dundee leaves her room about 11 and tells Magnus Mrs. Hogarth wishes to see him that night of the next day. Norma and Styles follow Dundee into Mrs. Hogarth's room. When the young detective returns at 12:30 he finds Mrs. Hogarth's door unlocked, and that she has been checked to death by the black scarf used to cover the case of CARNEY, her parrot. Coroner and fingerprint experts arrive and the investigation begins.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VI
 "Of course the thing you're interested in is how long she's been dead?" Dr. Price, the coroner, said to Lieutenant Strawn. "It's pretty obvious she was strangled. No wound, I suppose" and he bent over the body of Mrs. Hogarth.

"No sign of one," Lieutenant Strawn answered. "I'd like you to meet Mr. Dundee, Doctor. He's a new member of the homicide squad. Joined the forces today and came here to board."

"Lucky to have him on the scene of the crime. Don't suppose you did it, young feller, to make a good case on which to win promotion?" the coroner chuckled.

Bonnie Dundee flushed. "I feel almost as responsible as if I had killed her, Doctor, such a matter of fact, I came here to live to protect her from—just this," and he made a despairing gesture toward the corpse. "I talked with her this evening. Left her alive and as well as usual about 10:45. When I returned at 12:20—would be interrupted by visitors all evening—I found her dead. So of my own knowledge, death took place between 10:45 and 12:10. I say 12:10 in stead of 12:20, for it is obvious that the murderer ransacked the room after he killed her, and it must taken him at least 10 minutes to get the place so completely upset."

"Hm. You ought to make a good detective, my lad," the doctor remarked, his eyes twinkling. "He was a lean, oldish man, about 55 or 60, with white hair."

"Heart trouble, high blood pressure, obesity caused by glandular deficiency," he diagnosed aloud. "Now, let's see—"

Dundee turned his back while the coroner made further examination of the body. He was thinking of how very much she had changed in woman had been two hours ago, and he raged against himself for having let this thing happen to her. She had been so zealous of life, though she had almost lost the use of her great body. What if she had been erratic, as Shepherd had expressed it? What if she had created enemies by changing her will so often, had aroused the passion of greed in her fellow-boarders by keeping her money in her room? She had committed no crime, she had meant to reward kindness. . . .

And that thought brought Bonnie Dundee crashing against a realization he had been keeping at bay since he had said dilly-dilly of my own knowledge, death took place between 10:45 and 12:10. The person who would benefit most by Mrs. Hogarth's death, provided she had not been robbed, was Norma Paige. And Norma Paige and Walter Styles had been running to call upon Mrs. Hogarth at 10 minutes of 11.

Unconsciously, Dundee had been watching the swift, efficient work of the fingerprint expert, directed by Lieutenant Strawn. Now Dr. Price's voice cut into his thoughts and fears:

"Well, Strawn, as near as I can tell you now, she's been dead about an hour. Let's see—" and he consulted his watch—"it's now 12:35. I figure that death took place between 11:45 and 12. Of course, it might have been a bit earlier—say 11:30—but I think not, judging from the—"

Dundee spun on his heel and clapped his hands to his ears. He was still in that sort of thing to endure a recital of the pathological findings of the cheerfully interested doctor. If he had not known Mrs. Hogarth, had not seen her laughing and joking and showing off her parrot, he would have said, "Thank you, you can take her away now. By the way, was her death a quick one, or is there any possibility that she lived awhile, seeing her murderer at work robbing her?"

"I'm fairly sure she died almost instantly," Dr. Price answered. "If I'm not badly mistaken, I'll find she had fatty degeneration of the heart."

"She told us so," Strawn interrupted. "I thought so. In that case, the fright alone was almost enough to finish her. I doubt that she even screamed, or was capable of doing so. And the knot is a pretty neat affair. Unfortunately for you, it's a perfectly ordinary double knot, the kind any man or woman could tie. Now if it had been a complicated sailor's knot—Well, I'll get the boys. They're waiting below with the morgue ambulance."

It was while the body was being viewed by the white-clad ambulance attendants that Dundee, his eyes desperately roving to avoid the horrible event that was taking place, discovered the dead woman's keys. He caught a glimpse of the keys lying beside the scattered papers near the desk, stooped and arose with a broken silver chain, to which were fastened by means of a little ring, three keys of varying sizes and shapes.

"Don't touch them till they can be fingerprinted," Strawn cautioned, striding hastily to his side. "That round key is for the desk, I suppose; the fat one for the trunk, and this little gold one for—what?"

"The diary, I imagine," Dundee answered. "Well, if she kept it locked, it isn't locked now." Strawn discovered, lifting the top cover of the green-leather-bound book. "Have you finished with this book, Carraway?"

The fingerprint expert came to the desk. "That? Oh, it's no use bothering with it! That pebbly leather wouldn't give us a recognizable print. Of course the inside pages would—"

"May I?" Dundee asked, and opened the book, turning the green-ink-written pages over by the very tips of his fingers, to the page with the printed date, "Saturday, June 29." He uttered an exclamation: "Look! She was writing in it this evening, after all! Here is the entry— But he stopped, for his eyes took in the words which formed the last paragraph of the day's entry.

"Let me see!" Strawn commanded, bending over the book.

"As hot today as my future home will be, that is, if I go where some of my good friends expect me to," Mrs. Hogarth had written, with grim humor. "The moths and light midgets are a nuisance. If that useless Dusty doesn't put my screen in Monday, I'm going to strangle him down his throat. Something very strange about his putting off that job, lazy as he is. I more than half believe E. S. or C. E. has bribed him to leave my window un-screened. It's been five years since I've had such a strong presentiment of disaster as I've had today. Wrote the police commissioner to send a plainclothes detective. I suppose he will laugh at me and let me die like a—"

The first part of the day's entry ended here, and undoubtedly had been written before the visit of Norma Paige and Bonnie Dundee. But it was the second page, marked "Later," which had made Dundee's heart lunge sickeningly.

"More trouble!" Mrs. Hogarth had written, waveringly, as if her hand had been trembling with rage or weariness. "Norma has defied me and got herself engaged to that fortune-hunter, Walter Styles. Told her I was going to change my will tomorrow. But ah, I don't know! I'm sick of meddling with other people's lives. I've got a lot of fun and excitement out of it, but now I wish I had never started the whole foolish business. The police aren't such fools as I thought them. They sent—"

The entry stopped abruptly on the incomplete sentence. Had she been interrupted by a knock on her door, or had her murderer entered and collected from the porch, by the low, unscreened window, and cut short the old woman's last communication to her diary and her life, at the same time?

"But why should he close the book?" Dundee puzzled aloud. "And here is her fountain pen, on the desk, not on the floor, where it would probably have dropped if she had been startled by an attack."

"Fine points, son," Strawn grinned. "But what with Mr. Emil Sevier and with Mr. Dusty Rhodes. Step outside and tell Wilkins I want him."

Dundee obeyed, finding the detective and Mrs. Rhodes talking together in low voices at the head of the stairs. A uniformed policeman was patrolling the hall, to see that no boarder made a bolt for the stairs. All doors were closed, but Dundee could imagine what excitement and terror lurked in each of those rooms.

"Wilkins," Strawn began, "I want you to get a list of all of 'Dusty' Rhodes' usual haunts from his wife, and send a couple of men out to try to round him up. Quick!"

"And Sevier?" Dundee dared question his chief.

"Oh, I set the machinery in motion to drag him in before I left headquarters," Strawn answered. "As Mrs. Hogarth admitted, the police are not such fools as some people think. The boys ought to be on his trail by this time. . . . And now, Dundee, I want you to hide yourself behind that screen—" and he pointed to a green burial screen of three sections that covered the stationery wash basin—"and listen in on the boarders' stories. Might as well make notes, too. Who has the room next door?" and he pointed toward the west side of the house. "Henry Dowd? All right? We'll have him in first."

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

Don't experiment on children. By that I mean, don't run for books and try to index Johnny and proceed to parse him like a noun or conjugate him like a verb.

You can't index Johnny. You can't index any child. You can't run your finger down a column and decide that Johnny is exactly this, that and the other thing. Johnny may be a little bit of everything, but he won't fit into any index. For all children are mixups, and of course Johnny is too.

That is why it is not practical for parents to jump to conclusions and endeavor to dissect a child to be treated according to a book.

Now, I don't say not to try to analyze children—if you can. That is the very thing that is needed: an understanding and a more intelligent attitude toward the things they do. Parents can inform themselves of child behavior by reading and gain both information and pleasure.

How Children Will Learn
 But let the children do the experimenting, not you. Let them make mistakes, get bumped, be disappointed, know the discouragement of trying something and getting it wrong. Or, on the contrary, they are just likely to come out on top and know the thrill of victory, works both ways. But let them do it.

Parents can do some guiding, of course. That is different from experimenting. But we cannot travel the road for them, even vicariously. They must live their own lives. The more they will learn self-dependence young—while they have their parents near for guidance. Good dependable guide posts! That's what parents need to be.

I look at it this way. The mother who keeps the house cheerful, the children lauded and fed, and the family generally happy and scheduled—the father who toils in an office or mill for seven or eight hours a day to earn enough money to support the family, from the lace scarf collar and cuffs in deep crease.

It's lines are unusually smart, with extremely snug hip lines achieved through shopped yoke. Graceful swing to silhouette is created by circular skirt fitted through upper part with fluttering fullness at hem.

It's easily made at a moderate cost. It's a dress that can be worn to town, for luncheon, tea, bridge and Sunday evenings.

Style No. 397 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is made with 3 1/2 yards of 40-inch material with 1/2 yard of 36-inch contrasting in the medium size.

Black wool crepe with collar and tie which by the way cut all in one, made of white crepe satin which is also used for cuffs, is exclusive for all-day wear.

Law in the Home
 I'd draw a deadline of course. Every house, every city, every state, every country has a deadline—certain rules or laws that may not be broken. It is to be understood that certain rules must be lived up to in every home. I should be sure these laws in the home were just and possible to obey. Beyond that I'd give the children certain space to move in to develop and be themselves. Nature intended human beings to become self-reliant at an early age. It's only living up to a law of nature.

And so we have it: good home influence, to allow children a certain amount of freedom, to guide them, to expect obedience, to try to understand the difference in children and deal with them accordingly—these are the simple essentials in child training. I don't like the word "experiment." It sounds too bookish and too impractical for the average parent to handle.

In the hands of the specialist it has a different meaning. We of the garden variety need to know when to let well enough alone.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Of late I have read much about the woman-dominated American man—who is ruled first by his mother, then by his school teacher, who is usually a spinster, and finally by his wife, and have been properly grieved over the situation.

However, Meyrick Booth, in "Women and Society," points out something else to worry about. He writes:

"The mischief is that our modern girl's schools appear to be founded upon masculine ideals. Their philosophy of education is, in fact, as perverted as would be that of a boy's school which aims chiefly at training its pupils in gentleness and sewing. . . . the truly feminine girl possesses a type of inner life altogether different from that of a boy."

His suggestion is: "We should seek to develop feminine types so strongly marked and so self-confident in their femininity that they can cry halt to the man-made ideals and life standards and work against the disastrous mechanism and deperdition of modern life."

"The complexities of modern life have not essentially altered the fact that man's primary function is to create food and wealth for the community while the woman's primary function is to bear and rear the children of the community."

You can't go right, it seems.

NAILS OF PARIS GREEN.
 The woman who is sufficiently confident in her femininity may be interested in the latest fad from Paris—Paris green finger nails. Finger tips, having progressed from shell pink to magenta, the only way to create any sensation at all was to bring in another color effect.

Green was selected as the best bet, because of the popularity of emeralds for finger rings. Matching nails and rings was then ordained.

A DANDISH VIEW.
 One man who sticks up for the younger generation of his own country is Col. Frederick Troel Smith, who hails from Copenhagen, Denmark, and has been in Washington on a diplomatic visit.

"The young women of Denmark," he says, "maintain a sensible balance in their lives. They are healthy through outdoor sports, but they

Sister Mary's Kitchen

BY SISTERS MARY

Many housewives are more or less confused by the term "brown" rice. They have a vague idea that brown rice is in some way superior to just rice but are not sure how or why.

Brown rice is unpolished rice. The husk has been removed, but most of the bran and germ have been retained. For this reason unpolished rice has a rich vitamin B and mineral content.

White rice, which always is polished rice, has lost both the germ and the bran layer and the grain is made lighter in color. Polished rice, according to one authority, "is poorer in protein, mineral elements and fat than any other of the cereal grains."

Uncooked rice is polished rice which has not been coated with talcum powder. Since rice is thoroughly washed before cooking, there's no reason for not using the coated rice—for the coating of powder easily washes off.

Rice is an exceedingly versatile foodstuff and may appear anywhere in almost any meal. It combines excellently with milk, eggs and cheese or left-over meats to make attractive, nourishing dishes.

"Broken" rice usually is cheaper than "fancy" rice, and if it's to be used as a filler against the purpose as well as the higher priced variety. If, however, fluffy, flaky, separate-kerneled rice is wanted, the best rice must be used.

The cooking of rice is of utmost importance. It too often appears as a sticky shapeless mass which is both unappetizing and tasteless. Thorough washing is imperative to begin with. Coated rice should be rubbed between the palms of the hands and washed until the water is clear, changing the water almost constantly. Rinse well under running water when the last wash-water is clear.

How to Wash Rice
 Unpolished and uncoated rice can be washed by putting the grains in a strainer and holding it under running water. Turn to be sure every grain is exposed to the water and becomes perfectly clean.

There are several methods of cooking rice. Varying degrees of watchfulness are necessary for the success of each method. Equipment also is a determining factor as to the choice of the method.

Rice absorbs much water and swells in cooking so that one cup of dry rice will produce about three cups of cooked rice.

The quickest way to cook rice is by the Chinese method. Thoroughly washed rice is put into a large, round-bottomed saucepan with twice as much cold water as there is rice. One teaspoon of salt is added for each cup of rice. The pan is closely covered and not moved during the entire period of cooking. Put saucepan over a hot fire and bring to a "lolling" boiling point. This will take about ten minutes. Remove from fire and put in a warm place for ten minutes. Remove cover and serve.

HEALTH

CONSULT AN ORTHOPEDIC SURGEON IF YOUR BONES ARE INJURED

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

It has been reported that 65 per cent of the American soldiers who returned from the war had disturbances of the bones, joints and muscles which required the attention of the orthopedic surgeon.

This specialist in the medical profession deals particularly with malformations and crippling injuries; he is concerned with pains in the back, with flat feet, with fractures, with the paralysis of infantile paralysis and with all sorts of crippling injuries occurring in industry.

In his address before the special meeting dealing with this subject at the last annual session of the American Medical Association, Dr. Walter G. Stern of Cleveland pointed out that the crippled child is no longer the main problem of this specialty. The growth of tremendous hospitals for the crippled and the social reforms that have been carried on in the United States during the past 10 years have a somewhat lessened the problem of the crippled child.

The control of immigration, better prenatal and maternity care, improved hygienic conditions, the feeding of proper diets, the use of sunlight and vitamin D to control rickets, and the general advance in the care of tuberculosis have all been important in lessening the number of cases of crippled children.

Today the major problem for the orthopedic surgeon is the grown-up person who has become crippled by an injury in industry or by the after effects of various infectious diseases which attack particularly the bones, the muscles or the nerves that control movement.

In the care of such injuries, the orthopedic surgeon is no longer dependent wholly on the use of clamps, braces and plaster casts, although these still represent a considerable part of his apparatus. Today the orthopedic surgeon realizes the value of such physical measures as the swimming pool, the hot and cold bath, massage, special exercises, electric stimulation, and particularly education of the patient in proper movement of the muscles.

What was formerly largely a mechanical art, has now become one of the most intricate specialties demanding all of the resources of the human brain for the diagnosis of the difficulty and all of the powers of the human brain for the proper administration of various methods of treatment.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—An unidentified man, who had been beaten and shot to death, was found today near a South Brooklyn lumber yard and police believe he was killed because he had betrayed a trust.

The man was an Italian. In a pocket was found an opened letter in a woman's handwriting, signed "Mrs. Lisio" and addressed to Patsy Burrello, 149 Ashland place, Brooklyn. This is the address of the Raymond street jail. Burrello is confined in the jail on a charge of larceny.

The letter had not been mailed and police believe the slain man was a messenger to Burrello. Burrello was questioned by detectives but no announcement was made as to what he told them.

The police believe the man was killed elsewhere and his body thrown from an automobile.

A Massachusetts Congressman told London reporters he had dreamed the world in search of happiness and failed to find it. Same old story. Jazz bands everywhere.

NADYUS
Something that is always due the first of the week.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS

(1) In the game of biting a swinging apple, the apple should not be grasped in the hand. (2) The pumpkin in the left has no nose. (3) In the little girl's conversation pumpkin is spelled incorrectly. (4) The boy at the right should not be peeking over the hindside when planning the fall on the donkey. (5) The scrambled word is SUNDAY.

5,800 DUO-DOLLAR BIDS AT AUCTION

The articles had been auctioned off, 11 at open auction.

Somehow it seems that many people are still shy at exhibiting themselves in public. Thereon hangs the reason for so many children being present at the auction. The auctioneer calls out a "Mr. or Mrs." and a little child comes tripping up to receive the goods. But of course it makes the child feel important which may be another reason for their large numbers.

Bids Split Up

No one person received more than three or four items, which is in decided contrast to the last auction when one person bid on and won sixteen articles. Last night the Walkers walked to the stage several times and it seemed a great night for the Knights.

Another good sign is evidenced in that one of the highest bidders was from Buckland and one from Silver Street. It shows that the Duo-Dollar auction idea is catching hold not only in town but in the suburban districts. And as one Manchester merchant would say, "Good enough."

The Buyers

The list of those who received merchandise on sealed bids follows: Ursula A. Sigurdahl, 261 Spruce street, Windsor chair, $400.00. Myrtle E. SENSE and NONSENSE

A Short Story
The strong man, knife in hand, gazed at the smooth white body in the water.
'I cannot do it!' he groaned. 'It is not a man's work!' and the tears streamed from his eyes.

White-Winged Peace
'I sometimes think I'd like a wife Who's dull,' said Mr. Nutting; 'The keen ones, sharp as any knife, Say things that are too cutting.'

As You Were
She: 'So you kissed the painted creature?'
He: 'Yes, I saluted the colors.'

An irate fan who had watched his home team go down in defeat, stopped the umpire as he was leaving the field. 'Where's your dog?' he commanded.

'Dog?' ejaculated the umpire. 'Have no dog.'
'Well,' said the grouchy one, 'You're the first blind man I ever saw who didn't have a dog.'

Some fellows like books, are always getting turned down on the corners.

No one has ever yet discovered how to spend money and still have it, and a good many bright people have gone broke trying to solve this problem.

Eminent scientists claim that man's cycle of life will soon be increased to 100 years. This will be a great boon to the installment business.

Few of us get anything without working for it. The talking picture is, perhaps, the 'spitting image' we used to hear about.

Every little girl goes through a spell of playing 'house'. The problem is to keep her that way after the wedding.

Jimmy: 'Well, tell her to put them on and fly upstairs and get her nightie.'

Patient: 'Ough! That wasn't the tooth I wanted pulled.'

Dentist: 'Never mind, I'm coming to it.'

Looking up the avenue of the future is far more inviting than gazing down the street of past failures.

SAP MAKES AUTUMN RED

New York—(AP)—The yellows in autumn foliage are derived chiefly from the green pigments of summer. The reds come from sap pigments. Light is important in developing autumn colors, says a report of the New York Botanical garden, and cloudy weather fails to produce the most brilliant hues.

THE TINYMIES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The pigs kept squealing at the bunch and Scouty said, 'I have a hunch that we had better stay up in the hay loft for a spell. It surely wouldn't be a treat to have those pigs nip at our feet. It's much more fun to sit up here and listen to them yell.'
'You do it,' laughed Copsy. 'This is nice. Believe me, I will sure think twice before I play around with pigs. They're dirty as can be. I saw them splashing with a thud swallowing in messy mud. The rest of you can play with them, but goodness, not for me.'
'Oh, is that so?' another cried. 'Well, say, I will not risk my hide. I'm going to climb into the hay and to some funny tricks. Let's tumble round. We all feel fit and landing will not hurt a bit. The hay is very soft, but gee, be careful 'cause it pricks.'
And so the Tinsies jumped around. They'd land and then right up they'd bound. One climbed up on a rafter and then, 'Hey, look out,' he said. 'I'll show you something neat and new. I'll tura a somersault or two.' And then he did and very quickly landed on his head.
'Oh, my,' he shouted. 'That was slick.' The others promptly tried the trick. It wasn't very long until they all were fagged out. Then Carpy said, 'Let's take a snooze. There's all to gain and naught to lose. This is the nicest place to sleep I've ever seen, no doubt.'
Three of them shortly dozed away, but Clowzy stayed awake to play. He came across a hen's nest and it promptly spoiled his fun. The hen was mad and flew in air and gave poor Clowzy quite a scare. He shortly found that, in the hay, 'twas mighty hard to run.
(A windstorm takes the Tinsies up into the air in the next story.)

The flags which were made for the Red Cross convention at the South Methodist church here last week will do double duty. They will be placed on the poles in the business section of Main street during the Red Cross drive for funds.

The Woman's Home Missionary society will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. I. Balch on North Main street.

Dilworth Cornell Post, American Legion and auxiliary have accepted the invitation extended to them by Rev. Robert A. Colpitts to attend the morning service at the South Methodist church, Sunday, November 10, in observance of Armistice day. Special music will be furnished by the choir and a very large attendance of the Legionnaires and general public is expected.

Mrs. John Cairns, who came here from California early in the summer to attend to some business matters in connection with her property located on Main street, near Middle Turnpike, left Manchester this morning for Beaver Falls, where she has a sister and will make her home there. She was accompanied by her son, John, and they do not intend to again return to California.

Today was observed as All Saints' Day in the Roman Catholic churches and there were masses in St. James' church at 5:30, 7:00 and 7:40. Friday being all Souls' day a holy day of obligation when all Catholics are called upon to attend mass and offer up their prayers for the dead, masses will be celebrated at 5:30, 7:00 and 9 o'clock.

A New York car bearing plates T-6-9828 N. Y. and a Connecticut car, number 129-737 crashed last evening at 9 o'clock near the bus stand at the Center. The running board of the New York car was smashed into kindling wood but the Connecticut car was damaged but little. After surveying the damage the drivers immediately got under way for parts unknown. No one was hurt.

Hose Company No. 3's volley ball team handed the Army and Navy team a bad scare last evening in their game on the club court after a bad start. The Army and Navy got going early, winning the first two games, 21-13 and 21-10 but the firemen came back strong, taking the next two, 21-13 and 21-14, tying up the sets. In the rubber the A. and N. forged ahead and took the final, 21-11.

POLICE COURT

Blair Wasiewicz of Hudson street, Hartford, was found guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and paid a fine of $125 and costs in the local police court this morning. The accident that brought him into court occurred near Laurel Park, October 27, when his car struck one driven by Andrew Mattiesen of Stafford Springs. Patrolman Michael Fitzgerald who made the investigation found that Wasiewicz was under the influence of liquor and placed him under arrest. The policeman, Dr. LeVernis Holmes and Mattiesen, all testified that the man was too much intoxicated to drive a car. He was defended by a New Britain lawyer who entered a plea of nolo contendere.

Stamatis Butkis of Buckland pleaded guilty to driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested this morning at 3:15 in front of the police station at the Center by Sergeant Crockett and Judge Raymond A. Johnson found him guilty and imposed a fine of $125 and costs. The young man did not have a dollar and he was placed on probation and given one month in which to pay the bill. Joseph Loney was given a jail sentence of 30 days for intoxication. He has been before the court on several previous occasions. At his last appearance the judge warned him that the next time he came in on a similar charge he would be sent to jail.

Frank Maleck of New Haven, who is employed in the new construction work on the Bolton road was found guilty of driving an automobile without proper registration and improper lights, and a fine of $15 and costs imposed.

Four more Manchester men paid a fine of $2 without costs for overtime parking.

COMMUNITY CLUB
DRIVE ON NOV. 6

Directors Meet to Outline
Plans for Campaign; Will Last Two Weeks.

The board of directors of the Manchester Community club held a special meeting last night in the clubhouse and discussed plans for the future of the club during the coming season. It was voted to launch a drive for funds to continue this valuable work among the youth and elders of the community and the goal set by the directors was set at $5,000. The drive is to be begun Wednesday, Nov. 6th, continuing for two weeks.

Directors were chosen, captains instructed to form their own teams and to conduct the campaign in conformity with past years. Robert E. Anderson, president of the Community club is chairman of the drive. Captains chosen are as follows: Miss Grace Robertson, Mary McGuire, Mrs. James Shearer, W. A. Strickland, C. E. Loomis, Aldo Pagan, William Foulds, Jr., Joseph Chizius, S. H. Simon, C. R. Burr, Joseph Wright, F. E. Clarke, Mark Holmes, W. W. Robertson and Harold Norton.

Much local interest is being centered in the activities of the Community club and new and special features of club activities are being arranged under the supervision of Miss Christine Mason, director. Miss Mason has but recently returned for her second year at the clubhouse and is enthusiastic over the possibilities for more extensive and far reaching group work among all classes of individuals using the Community club as a meeting center. Improvements, some of which will be in effect shortly, and others in the process of development will add immeasurably to the attractions of this convenient neighborhood recreational center.

The Manchester Community has long been active in the movement for Community spirit in all its branches as touching and affecting the youth and older people of Manchester. Past accomplishments along these lines of endeavor show the interest created for the proper arrangement and conduction of all local recreational projects under qualified management and the effect of such centralization, resulting as it does, in a better community spirit and the proper guidance of the youth.

An excellent board of directors backed by their diversified qualifications to handle such an organization has accomplished much as a result of their constant, whole-hearted interest for the public good and look forward to even greater efforts in this connection throughout the coming year.

A worthy cause and a project, vital to the future of the coming citizens of the town as well as being an inspiration to parents, this coming campaign should receive the co-operation deserving its merits.

be remodeled for occupancy by the Economy Grocery company as a combination grocery and meat market, the meat market being the first of seven planned for this state to be inaugurated by this concern. It is expected that the remodeled store will be ready for business in about a month.

The Keith company has been using the store as an auxiliary display room in connection with its headquarters at Main and School streets, the Purnell building being the property of George E. Keith. Mr. Grezel has removed his business to a large building on Purnell Place which has two floor levels besides a third story storage loft and ample elevator service.
