WOMAN CONFESSES KILLING CHILDREN

near Absecon, N. J. The woman told authorities that the little girl's death occurred about August 7 in a Camden rooming house and that of her baby brother two weeks later. She said she had carried the girl's body to another rooming house in a suit case, deposited it in a closet in her new room and later stole to the cellar and covered it with earth and ice.

After the death of Timothy, whose body she also carried to Absecon, in a suit case and hid under the leaves and brush, she said she returned to Camden, dug up Dorothy's body and took it to National Park. When police expressed doubt that Dorothy's body could have been stuffed in a suit case, Miss Parks demonstrated with a 6-year-old girl about the size of Dorothy how it could be done.

The Rogers children were placed in Miss Parks' care last June when their father, Allen Rogers, an insurance broker of Woodbury, N. J., whose wife died about a year ago, leaving six children.

Rogers said the woman was a first cousin of his wife; that she had represented herself as the wife of a wealthy real estate dealer, and that he had promised to give them the "best motherly care and the best education."

M. H. Strickland had a G. E. refrigerator, a G. E. washing machine and a Toridheat oil burner at the house. The burner was set up in the basement but was not in operation.

The TOWN DOCTOR

SAYS

HAS MANCHESTER A HOLE IN ITS HEEL?

How do you feel toward the man who wears good clothes, keeps his shoes shined and his hat cleaned, but always on whose abdominal covering, there is conspicuous evidence of many a slip between the cup and the lips; who always needs a shave, and for the years that you have know him never has had a manicure?

What is your reaction when you behold a lady walking down the street, all dressed up in the finest raiment with a hole in her heel? And what would you think if you saw this same lady every day for a week, and every time that you saw her there was the same hole in the same heel of the same hose? Whatever your reaction to such people, it is sure that you are not attracted to them. It is certain that contact with them does not fill you with joy and pleasure, nor create a desire to be intimately associated with them.

In people such as called slovenliness—or perhaps you have a better word for it; in communities it is "oppressive ugliness." Vacant store rooms with dirty, placarded and matted-up windows; broken, cobwebbed and paper-stuffed second story windows in the business district; vacant lots and open spaces cluttered with all sorts of rubbish and refuse; vacant houses with tumble-down buildings; dirty streets, highway entrances littered with nondescript road signs, open city dumps and other such things of repulsion are to a community what a soup-stained vest or a heel-less stocking is to otherwise well-dressed people.

I know a town where, seven years ago, a store building in the heart of an attractive business district was gutted by fire. Weeds grow rampant through the brickbats within the confines of still-standing, smuted, charred half-walls.

Several years ago a school building surrounded by fine homes was condemned and abandoned. It still stands, dank and gruesome, its broken windows and rotted doorways yawning ghost-like, from under sagging roof and mildewed walls.

The city hall of a town I know was destroyed by storm some time ago. What was the basement of this building is now a catch-all... a dumping ground for street sweepings, tin cans, junk and corruption... a rodents' paradise of filth and dogwash in plain view of every passerby.

As you are affected by slovenliness in people, just so are the potential residential, commercial and industrial customers of your community affected by "oppressive ugliness."

Don't tolerate abominations that create "oppressive ugliness." They can be eliminated and it's your business and the business of every other citizen to see to it that they are eliminated, because it's costing you money by driving business out of Manchester and keeping new business and new people from coming in.

SENTENCE CHINESE ENVOY

Nanking, China, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Ying Kao, former vice consul in San Francisco and his wife, Mrs. Susie Ying Kao, today were sentenced to prison terms and fined charges of attempting to smuggle opium valued at a half million dollars into San Francisco last summer.

Yink Kao was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment and was fined $5,000 gold, while his wife was sentenced to four years in prison and was fined $2,500.

The couple were arrested in the United States last July after discovery of a huge opium smuggling plot and were ordered back to China for trial by the Chinese government. At one time it was thought the death sentence might be asked in accordance with Chinese law dealing with the smuggling of opium.

ARMISTICE SIGNED

A war-weary world was wildly celebrating the signing of the armistice 11 years ago today.

The war came to an end on Monday, Nov. 11, 1918, at 11 a. m., French time, 6 a. m., Washington time.

Hostilities ceased three weeks after the submission of a note to President Wilson revealing Germany was anxious to make peace.

The armistice which was imposed upon Germany by the allies and the United States was signed by the German plenipotentiaries at 5 a. m., Paris time, and went into effect six hours later.

The morning of Nov. 11 was cold and foggy along the battlefront. The minutes passed slowly. An occasional shell told that peace was not yet. Suddenly as the watch-hands touched 11 there came a moment of silence, and then a curious rippling sound which observers far behind the lines likened

ARMISTICE DAY 1918 1929

By JAMES W. GOOD Secretary of War

ELEVEN years ago today, the guns that for four years had clamored their dreadful chorus from the North Sea to the Swiss Alps, were silenced. The greatest war of all history, a vast and desperate struggle reaching to the roots of human life, had come to an end.

We, with other peoples, had made a solemn sacrifice for the amelioration of the world and each passing year has brought a deeper appreciation of the nobility and significance of that sacrifice.

No words we speak, no monuments we build, can pay adequate tribute to the devotion, the heroism and endurance of those who gave their lives and all that life means in order that we might achieve victory, but as each succeeding November brings another Armistice day we keep faith with them by reconsecrating ourselves to the establishment of lasting peace.

Since we celebrated this day of human triumph a year ago much progress has been made along definite lines to insure international amity. The outlawry of war and the proposed disarmament conference are palpable evidence that we stand with all our moral and material strength on the side of peace.

We are true to our trust with the dead and as, with the coming of this day, we look backward down the lengthening vista of the years, we gratefully remember their heroic spirit and derive new inspiration and courage to meet our obligations as beneficiaries of their sacrifices.

FIRST WATKINS LECTURE TO BE GIVEN TOMORROW

Talk on Interior Decorations by Famous Expert to Open Winter's Long Series.

Mrs. Cornelia B. Faraday, who will open Watkins Brothers winter lecture series tomorrow evening using "General Principles of Interior Decorations" as her subject, has had wide experience in the decorating field and is an authority on designs in rugs. A book, "European and American Carpets and Rugs," written by Mrs. Faraday and recently published, contains 436 pages of authoritative information on floor coverings.

For many years Mrs. Faraday was in charge of designing for the Persian Rug Manufacturing and planned and designed many of the important rugs which have been brought into this country from Europe, including the large oval rug in the Palm Room of the Hotel Roosevelt, New York city; all the rugs in the Congressional Country Club in Washington, and all of the special hand-made rugs on the large public floors in the new Had-don Hall Hotel, Atlantic City.

Mrs. Faraday has also designed Oriental rugs for many of the finest homes in the country, including the E. H. Harkness residence, New York city; the homes of the late Mr. Woolworth in New York city and Glen Cove, Long Island; the important drawing room rug for Shadow Lawn, Deal, N. J.; and many others.

All these rugs had to be especially designed so as to follow out the color and decorative schemes of the particular rooms in which they were to be used, and in this way Mrs. Faraday became acquainted with many of the country's leading decorators and architects.

Mrs. Faraday is a member of the Pen and Brush Club and the National Arts Club, New York City, and has been vice-president of the Pen and Brush Club. She has given talks and served on committees for both organizations.

Tomorrow's lecture will be the first of a series of talks and recitals which will be of interest to every home and music lover. On November 19, Horace B. Cheney will talk on "The Romance of Designs"; on December 3, a song recital will be given by Miss Etta Aito, a pupil of Archibald Sessions and on December 17, Mr. Wilson will lecture on "The Story of Rug Weaving." "The Use of Color in the Home" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Helen Strong, one of Watkins' decorators, on January 14, while on the 28th, Henry W. Erving, perhaps the most eminent authority on Colonial antiques in the country, will give "Random Notes on Colonial Furniture." February 11, a piano recital will be given by Miss Lillian Hutt; February 25, Harry N. Roth of Watkins' drapery shop will give "Hints for the Making and Hanging of Draperies, and on March 25 the series will close with an actual demonstration of selecting and ar-

Next Tuesday's lecture will be given at Watkins Brothers, 11 Oak street, at 8:15 sharp. Everyone interested in the subject is invited to attend.

AGAINST THE TALKIES.

Mexico City, Nov. 11.—(AP)—A joint appeal has been addressed to the government by the unions of actors, musicians, playwrights and stagehands to prohibit English talking motion pictures in Mexico. The action should be taken, it was said, on the ground that the English talkie invasion is a step in the "Northamericanization of Latin America." Besides it is claimed the talkies are throwing a great many members of the unions out of jobs.

SET UPON SUICIDE, STRUGGLES TO DIE

Rockville Man Strangles Self by Hanging in Center Park—Found Sitting Up.

Apparently dependent over his physical condition, Alexander Razelevicius, 48 years old, of Rockville, was found sitting at the base of a tree, a suicide by strangulation, in Center Springs Park Sunday morning.

Investigation disclosed that the man had barely succeeded as the rope had slipped shortly after strangulation had taken place, and it was evident the man had struggled to end his own life.

Friday afternoon Razelevicius went to the office of Dr. Moriarty for treatment and was given a plaster for a back injury and then left the doctor's office.

A bank book was found in the clothing of the dead man and the New Britain Lodge of Moose and identification was made through this source.

Later investigation disclosed two sisters located in Lawrence, Mass., one of which gave her name, Mrs. Almena Kirmil of 20 Rhine street, that city.

The body was found yesterday morning by Alexander Rogers, who was taking a walk through the woods of the park.

The man had used a small strong cord, knotting it under his right ear. At no time was his feet so far off the ground but what he could have stood up and prevented his death by strangulation but instead indications were that he had been determined to end his life.

FIVE VIOLENT DEATHS THROUGHOUT THE STATE

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. Five violent deaths, among them three suicides, occurred in Connecticut over the week-end.

Ideal weather over the week-end cluttered the state highways with automobiles. In view of the heavy traffic the small number of fatalities came somewhat as a surprise.

Helen Connor, four of New Haven died of a broken neck when hit by a truck driven by Guy Rollins, 29, also of New Haven; while Albert Angalece 55 of Ansonia was killed by a machine operated by Cornelius J. Evans, 19, also of Ansonia.

Wallingford, Brookfield and Manchester each had a suicide. William C. Wieland, 60, an invalid who had suffered a nervous breakdown four months ago was found shot through the head in his Wallingford home.

The body of Alex. Razelevicius, 48, of New Britain, a Connecticut Company employee was found at the base of a small tree behind an old Connecticut Company barn in Manchester.

Despondent over poor health, Valentine Metz, 28, was found dead in his Brookfield home. He had shot himself through the heart with a shotgun.

Weekly Cable Review

By Associated Press

The eleventh anniversary of the World War Armistice finds France and Germany still looking askance at each other across the Rhine, with perhaps greater asperity than in any year since the Herriot government succeeded the "national union" at Paris in 1924.

The victory of Premier Tardieu's government in the French Chamber of Deputies, with a majority of 79 on the vote of confidence, is an international event, affecting the problems of the London naval conference, the adoption of the Young plan, evacuation of the Rhineland, and the progress of the "United States of Europe" scheme.

Observers generally agree that the composition of the ministry and the support it must ask from Rigot Wing deputies will cause a stiffening in the French attitude toward Germany. The tone of some speeches against Foreign Minister Briand's policies, which are the key to the new government's position, was in the range of old-time Nationalist jingoism.

The Nationalists in Germany, with their plebiscite against the Young plan, have given the French Nationalists a good pretext for laying down a ward barrage along the Rhine. M. Briand explained in one of his greatest speeches before the Chamber, lumping German and French Nationalists in the same kettle.

The death of Foreign Minister Stresemann has begun to show its effects. Without Stresemann's collaboration, M. Briand, wonderful politician though he is, has lost the use of one arm.

In the realm of internal affairs the ministerial program was impressive. M. Tardieu, one of the youngest premiers France ever had, is 48—seems to be one of the most business-like.

The emphasis on security for France in the Tardieu declaration is that France will come to the London naval conference with the firm purpose of assuring her naval defenses by submarines and light cruisers. Any attempt to abolish submarines will meet with solid French opposition.

year of her great five-year program for industrial development began. With a flourishing new British trade in prospect, Russia will open dozens of new factories and spend more than a billion dollars on industry in 1929-30, exceeding last year's investments by 110 per cent.

The volcano Santa Maria devastated a large farm section in Guatemala and caused the deaths of more than 400 people. Mount Pelee, famous volcano of Martinique, is apparently less active, but many communities at its foot have been evacuated.

A French court freed Richard Corbett, who killed his mother to end her sufferings from incurable cancer, despite Corbett's insistence that the killing was premeditated. To avoid further punishment for the defendant, the jury answered no to the judge's question whether or not Corbett had killed his mother.

Parliament approved resumption of diplomatic and commercial relations with Russia by 324 votes to 199, the Liberals standing with Labor. This was an important victory and a real test of strength.

On Indian affairs labor withstood a strong Liberal onslaught with tacit support from former Premier Baldwin and other Conservatives.

In the big home issue of unemployment, the labor schemes were harshly criticized by Lloyd George, but Liberals and Conservatives were too suspicious of each other to risk an attack, and the government was never in danger.

The committee organizing the bank for international settlements chose Basel, Switzerland, as its site. The Belgian delegation left the conference, alleging that unfair political considerations had been urged against the choice of Brussels.

The committee is expected to finish its work by November 14. The fighting between the Koumichun and nationalist armies in the north surged back and forth across northwestern Honan. The Koumichun failed to break through to Hankow. Both sides claimed victories.

Questioned many hours by the examining judge, Lampel admitted he was present when Koehler was murdered, but denied firing the fatal shot. Koehler had been suspected of spying and he was sentenced to death by a secret court made up of members of the Free Corps, a Nationalist organization.

Lieutenant von Billwicz, also a former member of the Black Army, has been arrested in connection with the case. Lampel was arrested Saturday as he was working at his typewriter. Some of his more recent plays had excited comment and police suspicion was said to have been aroused by his realistic description of the proceedings of the secret death tribunals of the Black Army.

WINS BIG CONTRACT

Moscow, Nov. 11.—(AP)—In competition with foreign engineers the MacDonald Engineering Co. of Chicago today was successful in obtaining a $110,000,000 contract for the construction of a chain of huge cement plants, grain elevators, flour mills, and miscellaneous industrial enterprises throughout the Soviet Union.

The contract is one of the most important awarded by the Soviet government since Col. Hugh L. Cooper of New York secured a contract for the supervision and erection of a great $100,000,000 hydro-electric plant on the Dniester River.

HOSPITAL NOTES

George Lathrop of 140 Pearl street was admitted to the Memorial hospital yesterday and the following patients were discharged: Mrs. Anthony Dix and infant daughter of Burnside and Mrs. Cornelius Foley and infant son of 15 Proctor Road.

Harry Thaw was sued for $75,000 for biting a night club hostess. Considering the price of a night club sandwich, that looks pretty cheap.

The Manchester man in a hurry to catch his train was noticeably worried by the station clock. There was 20 minutes difference between the one in the ticket office and the one in the waiting room. Finally he questioned the negro porter who made a very careful survey of both clocks and after some deliberation shook his head doubtfully, and then he said suddenly: "It don't make no difference 'bout dem clocks, de train goes at 4:10 ennyhow."

Judge: "Rastus have you any thing to offer to the court before sentence is passed on you?" Rastus: "No suh, Judge. Ah had ten bucks, but mah law-yeet done took dat."

Conductor: "At what time would you like the porter to call you?" Passenger: "There is no need, I always wake up without calling." Conductor: "Then would you mind calling the porter—he always sleeps half the morning."

A polite Manchester salesman sold an old colored family a washing machine. A few days after the machine was delivered the salesman called on his customer for pay. "Can you pay me for the washing machine, Uncle Jim?" he asked. "Pay fo' de washing machine?" the old honest colored man asked in astonishment and wrath. "Why, man, yo' done tole me dat in free weeks de washing machine would pay fo' hisself."

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites were quite surprised when finally they realized that they had scared the big man till he'd scampered out of sight. From eight they thought they'd have to sail when they jumped from the dinner pail, but now, instead, the man was gone and they seemed quite all right. "Well, this is funny," Scoutly said. "When first I struck my little head out of that monstrous bucket I was sure we were in wrong. I felt the great big man would take us all and give us quite a shake. I knew, by just one look at him, that he was good and strong." "Ah, yes," said Carpy. "But, you see, he was as frightened as could be. When he jumped from the bucket he just ran before he thought. And that was real good luck for us. We have escaped an awful fuss. Let's leave now, cause he may return and then we would be caught." For just a moment they all stood

A Small Change
 Saved Fall River

Three years ago Fall River adopted the National Standard fire hose coupling in use in no other city. When the city with construction fire apparatus from twenty-seven cities hooked up effectively with this standard system. As a result, a record of 14,000,000 gallons of water was poured into the flames and Fall River was saved.

Such experiences help one appreciate the value of small but important changes like fire hose couplings—and of fire insurance protection.
