

SAYS SENATE CAUSED CRASH ON EXCHANGE

Director of Bankers Trust Co., Repeats His State- ment Before Senators; Is Correctly Quoted.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Fred I. Kent, a director of the Bankers Trust Company of New York, reiterated today before the Senate lobby committee that the action of the Senate coalition on the tariff bill was partially responsible for the recent Stock Market disturbance.

Kent, a small man who is rather deaf, told the committee he was sorry to cause any inconvenience.

Before beginning his testimony, he set up a mechanical contrivance to aid him in hearing.

He said he had been correctly quoted in a recent speech holding the Senate coalition partially responsible for the Stock Market decline but he added that that was only one of the causes named.

Other reasons for the fall in stock prices, the witness said, were the increased issuance of new securities during 1929, the increase in brokers' loans and an increase in the capital tax.

Blames Speculation.

Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, a former secretary of the treasury, who is not a member of the lobby committee, asked Kent if he omitted to say that 90 per cent of the transactions on the Stock Exchange "were as much gambling as if they would bet on the point of an arrow on a roulette wheel."

"I think speculation had quite a little to do with it," the banker replied.

Kent said the "psychological effect on the people" because "the Senate did not function on the tariff bill," was a contributing factor in stock disturbances.

He testified the deposits of his bank were between $450,000,000 and $550,000,000 and that its loans to brokers "were only about $400,000,000."

Asked by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, what effect the Federal Reserve Board warning that brokers' loans should be restricted had, the witness answered:

"It had no effect on banks who were not borrowing from the Federal Reserve Bank."

"Did it have any effect on Charles E. Mitchell of the National City Bank?" Walsh inquired.

"I can't speak for Mr. Mitchell."

"Did no Democrat?"

"Did you make a speech denouncing Mr. Mitchell?" Walsh asked.

"I did not."

"If you were a sworn officer of a Federal Reserve Bank would you regard your duty to the Stock Market above the Federal Reserve bank?" queried Senator Glass.

"I would not."

The banker defended the action of Mitchell in making fund available to the Stock Market during a financial stringency for which Mitchell had been assailed by Glass.

Senator Glass asked how the tariff had anything to do with "the unprecedented volume of brokers' loans."

"That was only one feature of this development," Kent replied, adding "the brokers' loans were good and were paid without a single default and no one lost a dollar."

He asserted brokers' loans was a good investment for banks.

RESCUE SIXTY MEN FROM SINKING SHIP

Tanker and Army Dredger In Collision—Men Were Sleeping at Time.

Wilmington, Del. Nov. 22.—(AP)—Sixty men aboard the U. S. Army dredge Manhattan narrowly escaped with their lives early today when the oil tanker Bessemer collided with the dredge in the Delaware river near the mouth of the Christina river.

The tanker was inbound from Texas City with a cargo of petroleum for the Atlantic Refining Company, Philadelphia. The tanker stood by until daylight and rescued the dredge, which sank in about five minutes. Reports to the Army engineer's office was that so far as known, no men were missing.

Where the crash happened, the collision occurred near Edgemoor, Del., off where the Manhattan had been engaged in improving the Delaware river channel.

The dredge sank in forty feet of water and today only her smoke stack and pilot house could be seen. Divers were sent down to determine the extent of the damage to the dredge with a view of salvaging her.

The Manhattan is about 20 years old and cost about $500,000 to build. It is 300 feet long. The Manhattan was in command of Captain Antricksen, of Camden, N. J.

TRADING BACK TO NORMALCY; FEW CHANGES

Market Lists Fail to Make Much Progress in Either Direction; Trading, How- ever, Heavy in Volume.

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Wall street witnessed an old fashioned trading market today in which the general list failed to make much progress in either direction. Several of the recent speculative favorites sold down to 1 to 7 points, while a fairly long list of public utilities, rails and specialties were marked up 1 to 12 points. Trading was fairly heavy in volume.

Governors of the Stock Exchange voted to resume the five hour trad- ing sessions Monday, but authorized a three day holiday beginning Thanksgiving Day. Most of the brokerage houses already have cleared up the recent accumulation of work, but the extra holiday ap- parently was voted to give brokers and their employes a vacation after their strenuous labors of the past month or six weeks.

Call Money.

Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent, the lowest renewal rate since March 1928, with loans in the outside market available at 3 1/2 per cent. The decline of $88,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans last week, bringing the total down to $2,587,000,000, is believed to have placed market in the most thor- oughly deflated condition since the loan figures were first tabulated in 1926.

There was nothing in the day's news to account for the selling in today's market but in view of the ap- proaching two day holiday and the fact that prices had been rallying for three days, a nominal set-back in the trading favorites was regard- ed as natural. Professional traders are now centering their activities in making quick turns in the market rather than in accumulating large blocks of stock for investment.

Brokers, however, report a steady investment demand for seasoned dividend paying issues, particularly in those industries which are likely to be least affected by any recession in business.

MARKET GOES BACK TO FIVE HOUR DAY

To Start Monday—Closed Next Week on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange today voted to resume normal 5-hour trading sessions on Monday of next week, but to close the Exchange all day on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29 and 30, in addition to the regular Thanksgiving holiday on Thursday.

Since the election day holiday, Nov. 5, the Stock Exchange has been open for trading but three hours, from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., on all week days except Saturday, when it has been closed all day. This schedule has been in effect this week, and the exchange will be closed all day tomorrow.

Five Hour Day.

Normal trading on Monday will be on the regular schedule of 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., the first full five-hour session since Nov. 4.

The overwhelming selling movement of late October resulted in the closing of the exchange on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 1 and 2, to give the physical trading facilities of Wall street a chance to catch up, and another huge selling when the Exchange opened the next Monday, prompted the Exchange to inaugurate three-hour sessions on Thanksgiving holiday.

The three-hour sessions have given commission houses a chance to unsmother their seriously lagged business, and trading this week has returned to normal proportions, permitting the resumption of 5-hour trading sessions.

YOUNG SUNDAY IN TROUBLE.

Los Angeles, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A Hollywood cloak model and George H. Sunday, son of the evangelist, were sought today on complaints charging adultery. Simultaneously with announcements that the complaints had been issued, the younger Sunday's wife, Mrs. Harriet Sunday, revealed her attorney is preparing a divorce suit, naming the model, Mrs. Maurayne La Salle.

AT THE McMANUS TRIAL

Sketched in court at the opening of New York's most sensational murder trial in recent years, George A. McManus, upper left, and his attorney, James D. C. Murray, here are depicted by Artist George Clark, of the NEA-Service-Herald staff. McManus is accused of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, lower center, gambler and racketeer who was slain one year ago. Left is Assistant District Attorney Anthony Pecora, trial lawyer for the prosecution, and at the right is District Attorney J. H. Baxon, who has been bitterly criticized for his delay in bringing the case to trial.

HEARD SOUND OF SHOT THAT KILLED ROTHSTEIN

Montreal Woman Says She Was Staying in Same Wing of Hotel Where Gambler Was Shot.

Criminal Courts Building, New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Marguerite Hubbell, of the Palace Vigar hotel, Montreal, testified today in the trial of George A. McManus, race track bookie, for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, that while seated in her room on the third floor of the Park Central hotel the night of November 4, 1928, she heard "an explosion," which she at first thought "sounded like a shot."

Miss Hubbell said she occupied Room 327 at the Park Central in the same wing as Room 349, in which the state says Arnold Rothstein was shot.

She said she was seated in her room, reading a newspaper, when she heard the noise. It was about 10 o'clock, she said, the time when the state says Rothstein was shot.

"I thought it was in the hotel," Miss Hubbell said in reply to a question by Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora, but on Pecora's cross-examination, the judge ordered her answer stricken from the record.

Miss Hubbell was still on the stand when court adjourned for the noon recess.

GAMBLER WITNESSES.

Criminal Court Building, New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The fifth day of the trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein opened today, 15 minutes late, with the state calling to the stand more of its gambler witnesses.

Another of the Boston brothers, Meyer, was the first witness. He is a "commission broker" that is handling bets from all sports events except horse racing.

He testified first as to his acquaintanceship with the other players and spectators at the stud poker game a year ago last September when the state contends was born in McManus' breast the hatred which led him two months later to shoot down his gambler associate.

Meyer, like his brother Sam, who testified yesterday, is a swarthy, smooth talking well-dressed little man. He sat at an angle in the chair, leaning on his elbow, but apparently calm enough. He frequently glanced at McManus at his chair at the defense table.

He recited the details of the game substantially as told yesterday by James Meehan, Martin (Red) Bove and his brother.

The eight or nine men started playing bridge on a Saturday night, switched to stud poker, then bet on high cards. The game lasted until 10 o'clock Sunday night.

"Did you win or lose?" Assistant District Attorney Pecora asked.

"I won about $8,000."

"In cash?"

FALL KILLS THREE INSIDE BIG STACK

Bodies Not Discovered Un- til Wife of Victim Phones Plant.

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Three workmen who were cleaning the interior of a huge smokestack in Brooklyn fell to their death yesterday, but the fact was not discovered until today. Anxious inquiries of the wife of one of the victims, who was worried because her husband did not come home last night, led to an investigation and the discovery of the bodies.

The men went to work yesterday noon scraping the grimy inside of the 160-foot chimney at the plant of the American Sugar Refining Company, not far from the Brooklyn bridge on the water front. Only a few persons in the plant knew the men were working.

Scaffold Collapses

Their scaffolding collapsed at a height of 75 feet from the base of the smoke stack, but the noise of the accident was drowned by the racket of machinery in the plant and the roar of traffic over Brooklyn bridge and busy nearby streets.

Mrs. Clark, wife of William Clark of North Arlington, N. J., called the superintendent's office this morning and asked if her husband had been seen, as he had not returned home last night. Michael Walsh, the engineer, was ordered to investigate. Opening the door at the base of the stack, which is 17 feet in diameter, he was horrified to find three

CAPTURE BRIGANDS.

Stambul, Turkey, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Police captured three Turkish brigands last night during an attack on the home of Mrs. Evelyn Scott, an English woman who teaches in Roberts college, situated in the Bosphorus hills. The brigands were captured after a lively shooting match in which the college watchman was wounded.

TREASURY BALANCE.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for November 20 were $53,808,374.98; expenditures, $5,368,724.49; balance, $127,859,377.90.

TIDAL WAVE DEATH TOLL THIRTY-SIX

Much Property Loss in New- foundland—Details Com- ing in Slowly as All Land Wires Are Down.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The government steamer Meigs carrying doctors, nurses and provisions, today was nearing the devastated coast of Burin peninsula, where many men, women and children were killed by a tidal wave following Monday's earthquake.

The steamer Daisy rendered what assistance she could to the stricken communities and then left for St. John's where the situation will be placed before the government.

Point-aux-Gaules and Port-aux-Bras were most severely hit, eight drowning at the former place and seven at the latter, the rest of the list was: Taylor's Bar, four; Lord's Cove, four; Kelly's Cove, two; La Maline, one. In the immediate vicinity of Burin, most of the victims were women and children, swept away in their houses.

A fund is being collected here for the people whose means of livelihood have been lost. Boats, fishing stands and other equipment necessary to the fishing industry crumbled before the disastrous wave which swept the cliffs for a distance of 30 miles.

The French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, near the Burin coast, also suffered severe damage, according to reports.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Toll of the tidal wave which lashed an isolated section of the south coast of Burin Peninsula after last Monday's earthquake was believed to be close to 36 lives with property loss of great extent in many small villages.

With land communication severed for three days preceding the earthquake by a severe storm, first word of the destruction wrought was wireless from steamers which had put into the port of Burin. A message flashed last night from the Burin telegraph station listed the names of 26 men, women and children, as dead, but these did not include fatalities in his own town, the largest on the peninsula, where earlier dispatches had reported nine dead.

The total of lives thus arrived at 39

PRISONER ASKS COURT TO STOP OFFICIALS USING "TRUTH SERUM" ON HIM IN COUN- TY JAIL.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Times today quoted County Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin as having announced that Decasto Earl Mayer had confessed the slaying in 1928 of James E. Bassett of Annapolis, Md.

The purported confession followed the use by the prosecutor of "lie detecting devices," against which Mayer yesterday obtained a temporary restraining order.

Mayer and his mother, Mrs. Mary Mayer, were arrested in Oakland, Cal., in September, 1928, when found in possession of Bassett's automobile. Strenuous efforts were made to locate Bassett or his body, but these were unsuccessful. Lacking a corpus delicti, Seattle authorities extradited Mayer and his mother from California and charged them with theft of the automobile. Bassett's wrist watch also was found in Mayer's possession. Mayer said he bought the car and the watch from Bassett.

Had Prison Record

Because Mayer had a long prison record, his conviction on the theft charge subjected him to a life term as an habitual criminal. Since his conviction Mayer has been in the county jail, here awaiting the outcome of an appeal.

Yesterday Mayer appeared in court with his attorneys, charging that Ewing D. Colvin, county prosecutor, and Sheriff Claude G. Banick had tortured him with the "truth serum" and the "truth machine," and asked an injunction venting the officers from further using such instruments. A temporary restraining order was issued, returnable tomorrow.

Convicted admitted having used the "truth serum" and "truth machine" on Mayer. The prosecutor asserted that if he were permitted to interrogate Mayer for another three hours with the aid of these instruments he would "soon have Bassett's body."

The "truth machine" is said to register the heart beats of a person under questioning.

TIGER'S CONDITION CONSIDERED GRAVE

Doctors Say His Heart is Weak But There is No Immediate Danger.

Paris, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The condition of Georges Clemenceau, 88-year-old French war premier, was grave today but his physicians hoped for the best.

Dr. Raissa, noted heart expert who has been called in to assist Doctors Degennes, Laubry and Gosset, made an examination and said:

"M. Clemenceau's condition is grave, but I am hopeful. There is no immediate danger."

In official circles and the immediate entourage of "The Tiger," there was no attempt to hide anxiety. All the immediate members of the former premier's family were called to the bedside this morning and remained in the Clemenceau house in the Rue Franklin during the day. President Doumergue, Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand either called personally or sent representatives to inquire for the latest news.

Heart is Weak.

Possibility of appendicitis, or peritoneal complications resulting from the acute indigestion which Clemenceau suffered yesterday was discounted by Dr. Gosset after a careful examination this morning. The former premier's heart, however, suffered under the inevitable strain and only several injections of camphorated oil kept it at its functions.

Dr. Degennes who left the house shortly after Dr. Raissa said that the former premier was still suffering from colic. "In view of his age, the illness is grave," he said, adding that the general outlook was "not brilliant." The physician appeared extremely worried. He said the former premier had remained conscious and was able to recognize those about him.

CONTINUE BANK PROBE

Hartford, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Bank Commissioner Lester Shippee and Assistant Attorney General John H. Kings, counsel for the State Banking department, left for New York today to continue their investigation of the Connecticut Angles of the operations of the thirteen affiliated corporations whose guiding figure is Howard E. Gunder, former Indiana lawyer. The state officials will join Deputy Bank Commissioner R. Gordon Baldwin who has been in New York all week inquiring into the operations, particularly of the American Fiduciary Corporation of Bridgeport and the Bankers Capital Company of Connecticut, which went into receivership following the crash of the Bankers Capital Corporation of New York.

London, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Four British destroyers today were racing through the eastern Mediterranean at twenty knots to intercept the British trader Baron Elcho from which mysterious wireless messages were reported to have been received yesterday. There was some doubt, however, as to whether the messages calling for help was not a hoax.

The message, somewhat garbled, was made out as follows:

HOOVER CALLS PARLEY OF BUILDING LEADERS

Unseasonable Snow Cause Of 14 Deaths

By Associated Press

Unseasonable snow and cold, sweeping down from the north-west, attacked the middle west, the east and the south last night and today, causing 14 known deaths. Temperatures went as low as 16 degrees below zero in Thief River Falls, Minn., and the snow fell up to 19 inches deep at Dunkirk, N. Y., and as far south as Alabama, and Louisiana, the white blanket covered the land.

Four persons were killed at Erie, Pa., when a New York Central passenger train, 45 minutes late, struck two automobiles in a heavy snow storm.

Troops had evacuated Manchuli and had retreated in the direction of Dalainor, in the vicinity of which Soviet irregulars were said to be active.

Soviet forces were said to have occupied the two Chinese villages, Rier and Argun. Soviet bands were also active on the western frontier, between Mishan and Muling, and were dominating this area.

Tokio, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Refugees arriving at Kharlar from eastern Manchuria today said 1,000 Chinese troops and civilians, seeking protection from air raids in a coal mine at Dalainor perished in a Soviet bombing attack. The report was contained in a telegram from Asahi's Harbin correspondent, who said the bombs dropped by the Soviet planes caused parts of the mine to cave in. The same authority said Chinese

CALLS MACDONALD "KING OF QUACKS"

Conservative Member of Parliament Raps Premier for "Red" Relations.

London, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A vitriolic attack on Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald on the resumption of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia, was made by Conservative member of Parliament, at today's session of 4,000 Conservative party delegates.

A resolution introduced by the commander protesting against resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia was adopted by the conference, with only one dissenting vote.

In introducing his resolution Commander Locker-Lampson, who has long been a persistent advocate of the expulsion of Soviet agents from Great Britain, said:

"Crooks, cadts and bolshevik boudiers from Moscow would not enrich our stock. They have much degraded and debauched our standards. Soviet Russia is a moral leper and the cry 'unclean, unclean' ought to go up as long as she refuses to pay up."

"King of Quacks."

The commander declared that Premier MacDonald was a "very vain and very weak man and king of the Quacks." He said he was "fed up with MacDonald and his beating about peace and parity with America. How dare MacDonald talk about peace, when he is bringing war into England and the empire. We already have lost Egypt and we will lose India if MacDonald has a free hand and now he has sold the pass of the British citadel to these alien enemies in Moscow."

Paris, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Many French newspapers today commented felicitously on the appointment of Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey as ambassador to France.

SENATE TO HEAR MRS. JONES STORY

Woman Lobbyist to Tell How She is Earning $30,000 a Year.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Gladys Moon Jones, sometime attorney-poet-Chautauqua artist, who is to give the Senate lobby investigating committee the feminine slant on the business of lobbying, is waiting eagerly to tell how she earns a yearly salary estimated at between $25,000 and $30,000.

She cancelled a speaking engagement in New York to return to Washington last night, kissed her two young children goodnight, and rallied the points she will lay before her investigators as justification.

"My right to represent clients before the bar of public opinion is as clear as any attorney's is to plead a case in court," she said.

Slender, ever smartly attired, youthful, she added that "in the judicial branch of government, a judge is disqualified for trying a case by having any personal interest in the matter at hand; but among the legislators now engaged in framing laws are many most vitally interested. So long as that situation obtains, there will be unofficial spokesmen of special interests in the capital.

Beginning life-after-college as an attorney, she turned author, succeeding in having poetry and prose published; then she ventured into the news field, writing special scientific articles. She did a swing on the Chautauqua circuits.

Preferring to call her activities "publicity," Mrs. Jones will tell the committee how she conducts the All States News Bureau and acts as resident secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba. She will tell how she issues publicity releases, pleading her cause—that of a low tariff on sugar—through interviews with prominent persons; how she and her staff of two women, a personal and research secretary, have talked with "friendly" legislators; how they have furnished statistics and general tariff information which she says were sought "even by the advocates of a high tariff," and how she has addressed women's clubs and other organizations on the tariff in general and the sugar schedule in particular.

Her entrance into the publicity business, she says, was "an accident." She had an acquaintance who was a member of the law firm of Shattuck, Banks and Winant, of

New York, representatives of the investors in Cuba. They chose her to do their publicity because her acquaintance decided that an enthusiastic woman, trained in law, could do the job more effectively than anyone else. So she started the All States News Bureau, through which she now serves, she says, "any reputable client."

In her elegant and spacious home she exchanges advice and assistance of professional problems with her husband—a young attorney connected with the Treasury Department. She finds hours in her crowded days for reading and playing and writing, and she closely supervises the regime her young children follow under the guidance of their French governess.

TEST SUB DEVICES

New London, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Tests to determine the value of the safety devices that have been installed on the submarine S-22 in the hope of averting disasters similar to those which befell the sister submarines S-4 and S-51 will be conducted probably beginning Monday, officials at the submarine base stated today. The S-22 was enroute to this port today from Portsmouth where the safety devices are fitted and she was expected to arrive late this afternoon.

It was said today that the tests will be protracted affairs and it is not expected that much can be done in local waters because of the low temperature of the water and for this reason most of the experimenting will probably be deferred until the submarine fleet goes south for winter maneuvers. Until such time as the fleet moves, however, it is planned to conduct a series of tests of the less rigorous type in the shallow waters of the Thames River, off the submarine base, and in Long Island Sound.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Unable to make any progress with the tariff bill the Senate recessed at 12:32 p. m. today until 9:45 o'clock tonight, fifteen minutes before the special session adjourns sine die. Chairman Smith made several attempts to obtain action on amendments to various schedules including those affecting wool, silk, paper and books but each time indications pointed to extensive arguments. Senator Cousins, a member of the committee, proposed the recess after stating "everybody seems to be loafing on the job."

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The House adjourned sine die at 12:30 o'clock today ending its labors in the extra session of the 71st Congress.

FUNERALS

Joseph Stratton, Jr. Largely attended funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Joseph Stratton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stratton of 44 Garden street, who died Tuesday following a long illness. Prayers were said at the home at 2 o'clock and the service at St. Mary's Episcopal church, of which he was a member, was held at 2:30. A number of relatives from this town, New Jersey, Massachusetts and other places were present as well as friends and associates in the various patriotic, fraternal and athletic organizations in which the young man formerly took an active part. More than 50 floral pieces, 15 of them from different societies, testified to the esteem in which Mr. Stratton was held.

The rector, Rev. J. Stuart Neill, who conducted the service was assisted by the curate, Rev. Alfred Clarke. John Chambers sang "Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light." Organist John Cockerham played for the soloist.

STATE'S NEW OFFER

Hartford, Nov. 22.—The state of Connecticut is preparing to make a new offer to the McCook estate for land needed for the construction of a new building for seaside sanitarium at Crescent Beach, Niantic. NEW ENGLAND'S FUTURE BRIGHT, SAYS PROCTOR

Boston, Nov. 22.—(AP)—President Redfield Proctor of the New England Council today told the final general session of the fifth New England conference that "with little exception, the tones of the statements made at the President's conference at the White House yesterday was encouraging—even optimistic."

Proctor was among the industrial leaders who met with the President yesterday. As a result of yesterday's conference, he said, "I feel that New England has every reason for confidence in the future."

Reviewing conditions in general, Proctor said the construction business was good, although there was a lower percentage of residential construction this year than normally. Ship builders, he said, reported the best year since the war and he saw a bright future for the automobile industry in the not distant future, although 1930 may not be as good a year as 1929.

TAXED TOO MUCH

Providence, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Many New England manufacturers are already so hard pressed by the burden of taxation that any further attempt to increase that burden must prove fatal to New England industry, George T. Kimball, president of the American Hardware Corporation of Connecticut, warned the 17th annual New England state tax conference here today. Professor Fred R. Fairchild of Yale, who is president of the National Tax Association urged greater uniformity in the tax laws of the various states.

"In many places in New England the manufacturer already pays more than his proportionate share of the tax burden," Mr. Kimball said. "We have no reason to believe that his burden will ever be materially reduced; it must not be increased."

TRUCK DRIVER FINED

Rockville, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Frank W. Swoski, age 29, of 48 West street, Ware, Mass., was in police court here today charged with overloading a truck and driving a motorized vehicle without a rear-view mirror. The driver paid a total of $23.31.

FIRE IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Damage amounting to thousands of dollars was done to the Hartford Beef Company's plant as the result of a fire early today. It was believed that the 18,000 pounds of beef in the cold storage room will not be affected. Firemen who had already put out a blaze in the five-story American Industrial building last night arrived at the beef plant to find it in flames but were unable to enter at first because of ammonia fumes.

Foundry, American Water Works and Missouri Pacific sold 4 to 6 points higher, although some of the gains were reduced by profit-taking. On the other hand, General Electric fell 7 1/2 points but rallied several points from the low and Anaconda, Air Reduction and U. S. Freight fell four to five points before they met effective support. U. S. Steel Common was under pressure during the greater part of the session but fluctuated within a range of a few points. American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Johns Manville, Atchafson and Union Pacific also encountered rather heavy selling.

Waterbury, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Confronted with the loot from three highway robberies found in his room by detectives, Joe Kosenens, 19, of 48 Lindsay street, said by police to have fought in state amateur bouts under the name of "Jacky Rogers" waived examination and was held in lieu of $5,000 for the Superior Court by Judge John F. McGrath in City Court here this morning.

WATERBURY FIRM CLOSES DOORS

Hartford, Nov. 22.—(AP)—After operating a brokerage business in Waterbury for six months, Joseph S. Schofield, of this city, former salesman for Roger W. Watkins, convicted broker, has been compelled to close his doors by action of Bank Commissioner Lester R. Shippee.

Associated with Mr. Schofield in a clerical capacity is Louis A. Bouet, former Watkins associate who was vice president of the National Associated Investors, Inc., the promotion of whose stock sent Watkins to prison for a long term. Although Schofield's establishment is known as J. S. Schofield & Company and five salesmen are employed, Mr. Schofield is the only defendant in the State's case. An injunction restraining the defendant and any person acting in his behalf from continuing the business, was issued by Judge Allyn L. Brown in Superior Court here at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon upon petition of assistant Attorney General John H. King, counsel for the State Banking department.

Mr. Shippee's action was taken under the fraud act following a ten-day examination of Schofield's books by bank examiners who, Mr. Shippee said, not only found them in "terrible condition" but also discovered insolvency by approximately $100,000.

TIDAL WAVE DEATH TOLL THIRTY-SIX

or one less than the 36 reported to the Newfoundland Weekly at Boston yesterday by Sir Richard A. Squires, Newfoundland premier. The premier reported 18 dead at Lord's Cove and Lamaline, nine at Burin, seven at Kelley's Cove and two at Stepaside. The Burin operator's itemization of dead was said to have segregated several small places which the Squires statement grouped under Lord's Cove and Lamaline. The fatalities at Point Aux Guals, Taylors and Lords seemed all probability to have been identical with those for Lamaline in the premier's tabulation. A relief steamer left here last night for the stricken area with provisions, medical supplies, doctors and nurses. The minister of Marine and Fisheries was in charge of relief operations.

The Burin peninsula, fringed with high precipitous cliffs, sticks, fingerlike to the southwest from the mainland of Newfoundland and is located only 350 miles from where scientists estimate the submarine disturbance centered in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The tidal wave, 15 feet or more high, struck along the coast for a distance of 30 miles, it was reported.

Burin, the largest town affected, has a population of 1230 and is located on a narrow inlet. Reports said the wave reached a height of 40 feet there and swept away all property on the waterfront. Lamaline has a population of 426 and Port Aux Bras 295. Numerous smaller fisheries dot the coast but reports from them have not been received.

The Burin operator lists the dead as follows:
Lamaline 1.
Point Aux Guals 8.
Taylors Bay 4.
Lord's Cove 4.
Kelley's Cove 2.
Port Aux Bras 7.

TELLS H. S. STUDENTS ABOUT WORLD COURT

League of Nations Executive Gives Interesting Address Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Florence L. C. Kitchelt, Executive director of the Connecticut branch, The League of Nations Association, Inc., gave a very interesting talk on the "World Court," the permanent court of International Justice located at The Hague, Holland, in the High School Auditorium yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Kitchelt very appropriately described the beautiful Carnegie Palace in which the World Court sits and explained the aims and purposes of the international organization.

The speaker quoted from Elihu Root's "Steps toward Preserving Peace" wherein the noted American Statesman outlined his all important steps towards the outlawing of armed conflict through the medium of an International alliance or World Court, as follows:

"This court is the latest institution wrought out by the civilized world's general public opinion against war, for the purpose of giving effect to that opinion. It is an essential and indispensable institution for the effectiveness of that opinion and the proposal that the United States take part in supporting the court should be welcomed as an opportunity by all the people who have been talking in favor of abolishing war and preventing war and outlawing war, but who have not as yet arrived at any practical steps tending in that direction."

ABOUT TOWN

Michael Morris, a former member of the Manchester Police force, is visiting in town, recently coming in from Flint, Mich. Mr. Morris left the Manchester police department to become an automobile salesman and when he left Manchester in company with John Wilcox last year they traveled in an old Ford. They did not find work in the Buick factory, as they at first expected, but both secured other employment. Mr. Morris went into the novelty selling game and used the old Ford to good advantage until the factories re-opened when he went to the plant in Flint. During the present remodeling and readjustment of machinery now going on there is a layoff of some of the help and Mr. Morris has taken advantage of this opportunity to visit Manchester again.

Results of inter-class and school basketball games played in the Hollister street school gym during the past month are as follows: Nov. 14—Grade 8B vs Buckland, won by 8B, score 12-10. 8A vs Porter school, won by 8A, score 50-0. Nov. 15—Manchester Green vs 8C, won by Manchester Green, 20-5. 6th grade vs 7A, won by 6th, 12-1. Nov. 21—Buckland vs Porter Street, won by Buckland, 30-0. TR vs TC, won by TR, 12-10. Arrangements for all school games has been under the direction of Mr. Joseph Deane.

The first production of Sock and Buskin for the fall season will be presented at Cheney hall at eight o'clock tonight, being a three-act comedy titled "A Lucky Break." The cast is made up entirely of new members of the High school dramatic club and a large turn out is expected to witness the play.

Ernest Green was a recent visitor in Manchester with his aunt, Mrs. Archibald Morrison of Lilley street and with his aunt, Mrs. Joseph Morrison of Charter Oak street, the latter whom he saw for the first time. He has just come from Ireland and is residing with friends in Long Island.

THANKSGIVING PLAY AT THE NATHAN HALE

School Children in Pageant Tonight Depicting the Life of the Pilgrims.

Pupils of the Nathan Hale school will give a Thanksgiving cantata to-night in the school auditorium, entitled, "The Story of the Pilgrims." The story told in scenes by pupils from the various grades depicts the daily life of the Pilgrims from the time of leaving their old home in Boston, England; their arrival at and departure from Holland; and finally their landing on the tip of Cape Cod at Provincetown, and later at Plymouth.

Outstanding in the cantata will be the replica of the signing of the famous "Mayflower Compact," the first civil legal agreement ever signed and approved in America. The school Glee club will furnish songs and the 8th grade orchestra will provide music. Parents should take advantage of this historically accurate and well directed cantata to be given this evening by these Ninth District youngsters.

DEFECTIVE RAIL DETECTOR HERE

Clever Mechanism Tells Observer Where Rails Are Bad—Finds One in Bolton.

An unusual sort of railroad train was at the Manchester station briefly yesterday afternoon and again this morning. It consists of an automatic "detector" car and its tender. It is operating over the lines of the New Haven road and this is its first appearance on the Midland division. Its business is a scientific inspection of the rails and the detection of faults or errors that in some cases are beyond discovery by human examination.

The train travels at a slow speed, not over five miles an hour, and as it does so its mechanism records any irregularities in the "iron" over which it passes, high or low joints, warpage, etc., including cracks or splits in rails many times not otherwise discoverable. In this latter connection the car had a spectacular demonstration yesterday afternoon in Bolton. As the car passed along the detector signaled that it was traversing over a split rail. The indicated rail was examined by the eye and to all appearances it was perfectly sound. Again and still again the train was run over the spot and each time the mechanism recorded the split rail. Examination with a magnifying glass failed to disclose the slightest imperfection. Finally however, an East Hartford railroad crew was called and a new rail laid. Then it was found that there was a crack along the underside of the rail condemned by the detector at a point where it would have been impossible to discover it while in position. The testing train is the property of a Chicago concern. Its mechanism is of comparatively recent invention.

HEARD SOUND OF SHOT THAT KILLED ROTHSTEIN

"Yes."
"How much did the defendant win or lose?"
"He lost about $51,000."
"Cash?"
"Yes."
"How much did Rothstein lose?"
"About $300,000 I guess."
"In cash?"
"No, I. O. U's."

"Pocketed Cash"
"Did Rothstein pocket any of the actual cash that passed through his hands?"
"I guess he did."
"Did he pocket the cash before him on the table when the game ended and pay his debts with I. O. U's?"

"Yes, he did."
Meyer Boston then listed Alvin C. Thomas ("Titanic Thompson") and "Nigger Nat" Raymond and Joe Bernstein as other winners. The latter two, however, took most of their winnings in Rothstein's I. O. U's, he said, which they are alleged never to have collected.

Knows Biller
"Do you know a man named Hyman Biller," Pecora asked.
"Yes."
"Did you ever see Biller and this defendant together?"
"Yes."
"When?"

"At the race track about three weeks after Rothstein was shot," Biller, under indictment with McManus for the murder, is missing. McManus sat unsmiling, watching the little man on the stand.

"What was Biller's occupation?"
"A scalper and runner for George (McManus)."
"The race tracks close around New York before November, don't they?"
"Yes."

The witness then seemed to realize that he had made a mistake in placing McManus and Biller together three weeks after the shooting and told Pecora he thought he was talking about the card game.
He then said he didn't see McManus for five or six weeks after the shooting. He didn't mention Biller this time.

WARSHIPS ANSWER ODD RADIO CALL

Egypt for Marseilles on Wednesday with a crew of Lascars. The agents in Valetta, Malta, said there was trouble aboard before sailing, but this was satisfactorily settled. Figures for the ship's position were given in the reported wireless message, but they were not clear. Another part of the message indicated the wireless operator of the Baron Elcho suspected an attempt to poison him since he had discovered that narcotics were being smuggled. "I am too ill to keep watch," he was quoted as saying.

Think It Hoax.
At the London offices of the Baron Elcho's owners it was said no messages had been received from the steamer. The opinion was expressed that when the officers of the four destroyers met the steamer's captain they would find that no help was needed. "I can only presume the whole thing as a hoax," said an official of the company.
Hoax or no hoax, the four destroyers Witch, Wren, Whitehall and Worcester are speeding from Malta in an effort to determine whether anything is wrong aboard the Baron Elcho.

ARREST CURE FAKER AT GRAVE OF PRIEST

Malden, Mass., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Louis Hanover, 58, alias Samuel Cohen, of 109 North Exeter street,

Baltimore, Md., today in District Court was sentenced to an indefinite term at the Bridgewater state farm for vagrancy. Hanover was arrested yesterday in Holy Cross cemetery where thousands of afflicted persons recently have visited the grave of Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Power to obtain relief through his reputedly curative qualities.

He had claimed a cure for an allegedly ailing foot and then proceeded to collect donations from sympathetic onlookers. Police ordered him from the cemetery and his reluctance to depart resulted in his arrest. At police headquarters, removal of bandages revealed an apparently normal foot. Search of his clothing produced $85.

In court, Hanover testified that he had suffered from rheumatism and had hitch-hiked from Chicago to the Shrine.

Trees grown on the northern side of a hill are said to mature more durable timber than those grown on the south side.

HAMMONASSET BATHERS NUMBERED OVER 135,000

Hartford, New Haven and New Britain Furnished Largest Number of Patrons.

Hartford, Nov. 22—Bathers at Hammonasset Beach numbered 137,373 persons the past season according to the statement issued today by the State Park and Forest Commission. A second large bathing pavilion containing two thousand lockers was completed for use by July 21, bringing the total lockers available to over 4000, each of which may be used jointly by three persons and successively by different groups. The record capacity for one day occurred on July 28, when 9131 persons used the bathing facilities. The second pavilion extends the length of the beach front in use and under the protection of the lifeguards to more than 1600 feet, and beyond this on either end are the bathers from the short term and long term camps. Nine persons in every ten using the beach for bathing, bring their own suits. The California type of men's suits with shirts and belted trunks was very popular this season.

Despite the large number of bathers, no fatalities by drowning occurred, although during the season the force of eleven lifeguards, who take turns guarding the bathers, effected forty-two rescues, of whom 18 were men, 12 women, and 12 children.

The first-aid room maintained to care for persons taken ill or meeting with minor accidents, justified its existence by the treatment of 748 persons among the total of 613,279 visitors, one for every 820 persons on the beach. A rest room set aside for the accommodation of mothers, babies and elderly people was of service to 3,491 persons in 1929.

The clamshed was wholly inadequate to feed those who had not brought their own lunches and is now being quadrupled in capacity in preparation for the season of 1930. The refectory for the sale of ice cream, soft drinks and popcorn, with its counter space 148 feet long, was able to handle the crowds.

Camping is growing rapidly in popularity and the developed camp sites were filled to capacity during most of the summer. The short term, or two-night camps, accommodated 10,508 people who spent 26,040 camp days at the beach. Long term, or permanent camps, were used by 4,821 people, with a total of 33,705 camp days. No charge is made for short term camps for two nights. For long term camps, arrangements are made in advance by correspondence with the service manager J. M. Park at Hammonasset Beach. For this privilege a charge of fifty cents per day is made.

That Hammonasset Beach is used chiefly by Connecticut people is indicated by the record kept of the addresses of persons checking their valuables at the bathing pavilions. Out of 10,029 persons, $754, or 87 per cent, were from this state. Hartford furnishing the largest quota, 2,552; with New Haven next at 1,594; and New Britain, with 1,252 persons. One hundred and ten towns were represented in this record. Bathers from other states in this register numbered 1,275, or 13 per cent, Massachusetts in the lead with 861, and New York with but 240 registrars. Twenty-two states were represented, including California and Georgia.

The proportion of one or two night transient campers from other states was larger than that of bathers their number being 715 or 26 per cent as against 2,008 Connecticut residents or 74 per cent. Ninety-seven Connecticut towns were represented by short term campers. In the long term camps 392, or 62 per cent were from Connecticut. Of the remaining 243 parties 160 came from Massachusetts with only seven other states represented including New York. The Massachusetts

JUNK CAR AND "EXPERTS" CONDEMNED BY AUTO CLUB New York — (AP) — The two greatest pests of the highways, says the American Automobile association, are the "buggy rider" and the "expert" driver. "One inserts a dilapidated lot of junk called a car into a stream of traffic and, ambling along at its top speed of 15 or 20 miles an hour, slows up the whole line," the association says. "The other is the 'expert' driver who thinks he can handle a car so well that he does not have to exercise the ordinary precautions."

"Pumpkin sweetmeat: Scrape the seeds and pithy membrane from a pumpkin about 5 inches in diameter, after having sliced off the top in one piece to resemble a lid. Fill pumpkin with the following mixture:

1 part chopped nuts (walnuts, almonds or pecans).
2 parts seedless raisins.
2 parts sliced or chopped apples.
2 parts dates, seeded and chopped.

Return the lid to the pumpkin and place in moderate oven. Bake until apples are tender. Test them by mashing with a fork. Serve from shell, hot or cold. The portions should be small, topped with a dollop of whipped cream of desired, and a little juice from stewed dried fruit.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Moles Increasing
Question: Mrs. A. W. L. writes:

"I have on my face and neck between forty and fifty spots which I have been told are moles. They seem to be increasing in number lately. Some are light and some very dark brown. Will you kindly tell me the cause of them and if there is any way to get rid of them?"

Answer:—Your increasing number of moles is evidence of some chemical unbalance in your body, usually a lowered alkalinity of the blood. A carefully balanced diet should be taken to help to adjust the blood chemistry, then go to a beauty specialist who has the electric equipment for removing moles.

Find the Cause
Question: Mary writes:—"Please advise if an egg and milk drink every morning would be healthful for a child eight years old who is very thin and pale and underweight."

Answer:—"The child who is thin, pale and underweight is not in condition because he does not drink eggs and milk mixtures. You can rest assured that there is some definite functional derangement which must be corrected. A good complete physical examination of the child should find the cause of his condition. This will do more good than for him to drink barrels of eggnog."

Disinfectants
Question: R. E. W. asks:—"Do you recommend disinfectants? If so, which are the best, that is, concerning their predominant ingredient?"

Answers:—"There are many occasions where disinfectants are necessary, but cleanliness is still more essential. Your question requires too long an answer to be given in this column."

Today is the Anniversary
ROBERT DE LA SALLE.

Today is the 280th anniversary of the birth of Robert de La Salle, famous French explorer, on Nov. 22, 1643. La Salle was the first discoverer of the Ohio and the first explorer of a greater part of the Mississippi river.

The Frenchman was a member of a wealthy merchant family in Rouen, but on becoming a Jesuit novice he lost the right to inherit his father's fortune and emigrated to Canada at the age of 21.

Inspired by tales of the Indians respecting a mighty river leading southwestward to the sea, La Salle organized an exploring expedition and sailed up the St. Lawrence and onto the Great Lakes. He turned southeast from Lake Erie and finally reached a branch of the meandering Ohio.

After several other expeditions, La Salle reached the Mississippi on Feb. 6, 1683. He traced the great water way to the sea and proclaimed the river and all the lands it drained to be the dominions of Louis XIV, king of France.

Returning to France, the explorer was fitted out with ships and men to make out a voyage directly to the mouth of the Mississippi. The party was unable to locate the river, however, and La Salle was shot from ambush in 1687, during one of the repeated quarrels with his followers.

The statistical fact that there are 612 broadcasting stations in this country must be wrong. The man next door has "brought in" twice that many.

FOOTBALL DANCE AT THE RAINBOW

The Commanders have prepared a dance program for the Yale-Harvard football game at The Rainbow Bolton Saturday night, that has never been seen or heard in the state before. Bill Smith formerly of Paul Whiteman's orchestra who is part owner of The Commanders and an intimate friend of Rudy Vallee was in New York last week and brought back a complete dance program of new and novel hits produced from the publishers of Broadway's latest hits and the patrons of the Rainbow have a treat in store for them on Saturday Eve when the numbers are played for the football dance. New Britain, Hartford, Thompsonville, Stafford and Rockville will be largely represented and another capacity crowd will be on hand to enjoy the splendid entertainment and dance.

The inn has perfected plans for a large crowd that is expected to surpass the attendance at the opening last Saturday and a fine list of night club specials will feature the menu prepared by Manager Geo. Bokis in anticipation of a large crowd from the football game at Harvard and the Saturday night dance crowd that is taxing the capacity of both the dance palace and the inn each week. The Rainbow is being patronized by the largest crowds of any night club and dance resort in the state. Plans are now being formulated to have Sunday dancing at The Rainbow, announcement of which will be made shortly by Manager Charles Pinney. The weekly Thursday night dance with Bill Waddell's orchestra furnishing the dance program is scheduled for tonight with an increasing number taking advantage of these very enjoyable affairs each succeeding week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Collins and three children of Westfield, Mass., spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutchins.

Miss Lila Seelye who teaches at Groton, spent the week end at her home in Chestnut Hill.

Several members of the local C. E. society attended the meeting of the Willimantic Union held at South Coventry Saturday afternoon and evening.

The Ladies Aid society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward P. Lyman. There was a good attendance. Mrs. Lyman was assisted by Mrs. Ruth Jacobs and Miss Lillian Lyman as hostesses.

The first snow of the season fell during the early hours of Thursday morning so that the ground was covered by daylight. The snow was wet and clung to the trees and bushes, making a very beautiful sight, although one not appreciated by all.

Miss Edith Sawyer left for Bridgeport Wednesday, where she will stay with relatives until after Thanksgiving, when she will go to Brooklyn, N. Y., for the winter.

Several ladies from the local Missionary society went to Andover Tuesday afternoon to a joint meeting of the societies of Andover, Columbia, Gilead, and Hebron.

The Young Married Women's club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Philip Isham.

The annual competitive program of the local Grange took place Wednesday evening and was a great success. The program was open to Grange families and these together with visitors from neighboring Granges filled the hall. The contest was between those with odd and even birthdays. The odds led off with their program, which emphasized all through that it was "odd". It started with a parade, dressed oddly in different ways. The Misses Adella and Ahlene Budge then gave a fancy dance. The next was announced as a male chorus, and the men moved their mouths while the sisters sang behind the curtain. The next was a sketch by six ladies "Hiring the school marm". The next announcement was a violin duet by Lester Hutchins and Amelia Groff which proved to be a saxophone solo behind the scenes by Frederick Hunt with William Wolff making the appropriate motions on a cornet before the audience. A sketch "enter-taining sister's beau" by the Misses Adella and Ahlene Budge and Raymond Clarke followed. An original sketch by four men "Mail time at Porter's store" gave hits on some of the even side. The closing number was a song by all the odds.

The evens opened with an original black-faced sketch by the Master of the Grange, Clayton Hunt, who gave a song and monologue. The next was a shadow picture "The eggs and the horses" the reading by Miss Gladys Rice, and acted out in pantomime by several of the evens. Mrs. Philip Isham next gave one of her pleasing solos. A sketch "The third and last degree" by Miss Marie Bargrebe as a militant police woman and her meek husband Philip Isham was much enjoyed by the audience. Clayton Hunt, Jr., played "Painting the clouds with sunshine" as a saxophone solo. The last number was pictured songs, tableaux with Mrs. Isham singing. The tableaux were as follows—Daughter of Mother McCree, The Long Long Trail, Daddy Long Legs, Carry me back to Old Virginia, and Home Sweet Home. The Virginia Tableau was especially beautiful and the curtain was raised on the scene again in response to encore. The judges were Mrs. Deeter, Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Hills of Hebron Grange, and after a long deliberation announced that the excellence of both programs was such that it was hard to decide but that they had finally agreed that the odds had won on the points decided. The committee in charge of the odds was Mrs. Cora Hutchins, Miss Lucie Greene, Mrs. Mary Hutchins, William Wolff and Raymond Lyman. The evens committee was Clayton Hunt, Miss Laura Greene, Miss Marie Field, Mrs. Elsie Collins and Philip Isham.

This was the first

The Pioneers of the Junior Y. M. C. A. Boys held their weekly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Club rooms on Wednesday evening, after which they enjoyed a practice game of basketball in the Parish House.

There was a short meeting of the Congregational Branch of the Federated Church, held at the close of the morning service last Sunday morning, when George A. ### FINDS OLD SERAPHINE ONCE GRANDFATHER'S

Hebron Pastor Asked to Inspect Instrument Discovers It Was Once in His Family.

Allen L. Carr, who is in charge of St. Peter's Church, Hebron, accompanied the Rev. T. D. Martin, rector of the church on a motor trip to North Windham recently, to see an interesting old musical instrument owned by Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Colburn of that place. Mr. Colburn invited Mr. Martin to look the instrument over as the name "Martin" was written on the frame work, and he thought some additional light might be thrown on its history.

As soon as Mr. Martin looked at it he recognized it as an instrument formerly owned by his grandfather, Joseph Martin, of Bear Hill, Chaplin. Over sixty years ago, when a boy Mr. Martin had played on it while spending holidays at his grandfather's home. The instrument is the first musical instrument ever used in the Congregational Church in Chaplin. It bears the date, 1841, on the box which contains it, and a manufacturer's label states that it was made at the factory of Abraham Prescott, Concord, New Hampshire, manufacturer of bass viols, flutes, serafins, etc. A silver plate on one end of the instrument bears the name of C. Austin, perhaps one of the owners.

Investigation proved that it is a seraphine. These odd looking instruments, which might be called a sort of lap organ, were probably the forerunner of the molodson and came into use about the first of the 19th century. They were provided with pegs or push buttons in place of three octaves. They were held in the lap and had foot bellows. The seraphine in question has passed through the following hands since having been superseded at the Chaplin Church by a more elegant instrument: Joseph Martin, of Bear Hill, Chaplin; Lathrop Hooker, of Mt. Hope; a Mr. French; and next his daughter, Mrs. O. E. Colburn, above mentioned. Mr. and Mrs. Colburn live at the old Lincoln homestead which is more than 200 years old. Mr. Martin would have liked to play on the seraphine again but was unable to do so as the foot bellows are out of kilter and quite a little repair work would have to be done before the little instrument could again resound to hymn tunes.

Philadelphia—(AP)—The first of the flying clubs to be sponsored under the recently announced flying club program of the National Aeronautic Association has gotten into the air.

It is the First National Aeronautic Association Flying club of Philadelphia, associated with the Aero club of Pennsylvania. Several other clubs in various parts of the country are in process of formation under the N. A. A. plan by which club members and their planes are insured against accident.

A Belgian ace of the world war heads the membership roll of the First National club. He is Eric de Spoelberch, who has several enemy planes to his credit and who twice was cited for bravery under fire.

The Lafayette Escadrille has a representative in the club president, David W. Guy, who has one enemy plane to his credit.

My Favorite Bible Passage

Today's Choice by FLEM D. SAMPSON, Governor of Kentucky

The Twenty-third Psalm
The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down on green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

TRAIN NOT HELD UP

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Reports the Simplan Orient Express had been held up by bandits, and two of its passengers killed while the remainder were robbed proved today to be greatly exaggerated.

While the train was still in Jugoslavian territory yesterday approaching the frontier station of Tsaribrod it was fired at by bandits who were believed to be Bulgarians. Train guards returned the fire of the brigands, who were driven off without bloodshed to either side. The train returned to the nearest station on Jugoslavian territory where patrols were dispatched to make sure the line was clear. Receiving a favorable report the passenger train continued its journey, three hours late, without further incident.

A sore throat may be eased by gargling just once, with quarter of a glass of water in which you have dissolved two tablets of Bayer Aspirin. You may have to repeat the treatment for a deep-seated inflammation like tonsillitis, but Bayer Aspirin is the one thing that reduces the infection.

Don't forget this most sensible of all treatments for sore throat. The one the nurses all know; the one which all doctors concede to be effective. And remember its quick relief of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago and the like. Use it to break-up any cold, or to dispel a headache. It does not depress the heart. FRIDAY NOVEMBER 22, 1929.

CRASHES IN TOWNS.

The crashing of an airplane in almost the exact geographical center of Manhattan Island with the loss of but a single life, that of the pilot, borders on the miraculous. If a dozen other planes were to similarly fall there is not the slightest reason to believe that in any instance there would not be many casualties.

It is commonly taken for granted that very soon there will be many times more planes in the air than at present. If so, the hazard to people on the ground and in the buildings of settled communities will be tremendous unless some way is found of preventing such accidents as that in New York. Up to the present stage of aviation's development almost all the risk heretofore has been taken by the pilots and their passengers. The degree of danger to people on the ground has been so slight as to be almost negligible. But planes do crash, and if the air over our cities and towns is to be filled with them and unless some invention or discovery shall eliminate the likelihood of their falling, it is plain enough that the time is not far away when another serious peril to human life will have fixed itself upon us.

The best that the police authorities or aviation experts could suggest, after the New York tragedy, was that no one but commercial aviators should be permitted to fly over the city. That doesn't look like much of a solution. The pilot in this case was understood to have been a highly intelligent and pretty well practiced flier, perhaps as well qualified to handle a plane as plenty of commercial aviators. Something went wrong and the plane came down. The same thing has happened to any number of commercial fliers. It is liable to happen to the best of them at any time. So there is no real security to be had from the adoption of this feeble plan.

It is a serious question whether all flying over populous areas should not be forbidden, at least until such time as the airplane shall have been considerably further developed and its uncontrolled descent, in case of accident, shall have been rendered highly improbable. Meantime it might not be a bad idea if those states which, like Connecticut, have laws against low flying over settled areas were to enforce them. Scarcely a week-end passes that the aviation laws are not violated by fliers over Manchester, who pass and repass at heights so insufficient that it would be quite impossible for them to glide beyond the built-up areas, in case of trouble. Connecticut brags considerably about her aviation laws. What good they are, if they are not enforced, we cannot quite see.

FORD AGAIN.

It is our belief that we entertain a feeling common to a great many people in being just a little fed up on Henry Ford and his economic theories—and perhaps not altogether an exceptional one when we begin to suspect that his altruism is not always entirely altruistic.

Mr. Ford took advantage of the highly important industrial conference at the White House yesterday to do a little self advertising. The President had called in two groups, one consisting of industrial leaders and including, naturally, the Detroit motor builder, and the other made up of labor leaders. It was the President's hope to establish confidence in the permanency of employment and wages—obviously a prime necessity in insuring normal business continuation. The President was anxious to stabilize wages so that there might be no attempt on the part of employers to cut the payroll of the people. This was agreed to. There was also tacit understanding that labor, as a whole, should not agitate for changes in established wage schedules in the near future. These things constituted together a very great achievement.

Yet immediately after the industrial conference Mr. Ford, going off at a tangent, announced that his company was about to put into effect a general increase in wages.

To find fault with an employer for increasing wages would require some courage and would also indicate a callous disregard for the welfare of the worker—if the increase were likely to put more money in the pocket of the employe at the end of the year. But Mr. Ford's apparent generosity will bear a little looking at.

The Ford motor industry has of late been somewhat seasonal in its activities. It does not employ the same number of persons all the year round and year in and year out. It is not so very many months ago since practically the whole of his force was out of work for a long time. Mr. Ford does not pay workmen who are not working, any more than anybody else. His altruism and his eagerness to maintain the purchasing power of American labor does not extend that far. When he wants to shut down, in whole or in part, he does so without apology. When he starts up again he wants to fill his factories with labor quickly and with as little inconvenience as possible. A reputation for paying a little more than the "scale" is, in such a circumstance, an asset.

For Mr. Ford to endeavor to maintain that sort of asset, even at the expense of Mr. Hoover's effort to stabilize the labor market, both ways, strikes us as being peculiarly selfish and as short sighted as many of Mr. Ford's ideas. It would be much more to the present purpose if Ford were to issue a statement pledging himself to permanency of employment at present wage rates rather than stir up unwarrantable expectation of general wage increases and consequent discontent throughout the country.

JIMMY NOW JAMES?

It may be just possible that the case of Mayor Jimmy Walker is like that of an occasional vaccination patient. It may be that there had to be a second application of elction to the mayoralty in order to have it "take."

For four years Jimmie was mayor of the metropolis without ever seeming to be able to quite realize that it wasn't all a joke—part of a musical comedy. Perhaps realization came in the midst of the recent campaign when so very many cold and clammy truths were told about his administration, right out in public. At all events, having been re-elected, about the first thing Jimmy does is to call his subordinates together and, with an entire absence of the well known playboy effect, tell them that this business of running New York is a mighty serious job calling for the strictest honesty and the hardest kind of work and that if any of them proved to be anything but strictly honest or the hardest kind of workers they could expect the prompt and vigorous boot. For his own part, he intimated, he proposed to cut out the playboy stuff and get down to brass tacks.

There seems to be a general belief in New York that Jimmy really means it; that he has all of a sudden grown up, put away childish things and prepared to conduct himself as a serious minded adult placed at the head of the world's greatest municipality, with a tremendous lot of big things demanding to be done.

Dual personalities sometimes develop tandem instead of as a span. It may indeed be an entirely new James who is now mayor of New York. For New York's sake it is sincerely to be hoped that it is.

THE THINGS TO KNOW.

Because a thirteen-year old girl passed it when three-quarters of the eligible candidates failed, an examination on general knowledge prepared for the testing of would-be policemen at Wolstanton, England, has come to general notice. It transpires that among the questions asked were these: "Who was the thinker who wrote a famous book? Who was the emperor who fiddled while Rome burned? Can you name any great religious leader who lived at the same time? Write a short note on Amanullah, his troubles and their cause. Explain the presence of rust on nails, soot in chimneys, sand on the seashore, deltas at the mouths of rivers."

Now if Chicago only had cops who knew the answers to those questions how easy it would be for her to clean up her pineapple experts, machine gun artists and beer barons.

SCHEME THAT FAILED.

The outrageous practice of compelling re-loading of truckloads of long distance produce in West street, established as one of the conditions of ending the so-called truck drivers strike in New York a few weeks ago, has already been abandoned. It was well known at the time that the rule, which necessitated an entirely superfluous handling of the produce coming in on long hauls, was put over in the interest of the truck owners and not of the drivers. It was utterly un-economic and unwarrantable.

Now the same conference committee that ended the strike has called off this ridiculous and extortionate arrangement, it having been made plain that the produce business simply could not stand the drain. The local truck owners had to yield when it was made clear that if they drove the growers out of the New York market they not only would bring about their cars the rage of a hungry populace but would destroy their own business at the same time.

There are always limits beyond which greedy extortion cannot go without defeating its own purpose.

WORKERS FOR PEACE.

The surprise appointment of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow of the American delegation to the London naval arms conference will be highly gratifying to that rapidly growing part of the American public which recognizes the effectiveness of good will in preserving peace between nations. Mr. Morrow's appointment rounds out a splendid selection of statesmen to represent America in the forthcoming conference. It makes the third designation of a conference of ambassadorial rank. These, with two cabinet officers and a United States senator from each major political party, constitute a body whose very dignity and standing cannot fail to contribute to the moral force of the movement for armament reduction.

It is no exaggeration to say that in no previous arms parley has America been so well represented, for this is a group which is not going to London to match wits with other nations in an effort to obtain an advantage of some strategic sort but to strive to lighten the world's burden of armaments and diminish the hazard of international strife. For that purpose it has been wonderfully well chosen.

SALUTORY.

Having discovered to his amazement that it is entirely possible for even a very rich man to be costily packed away in a jail and kept there for the prescribed time, it is highly probably that Harry F. Sinclair now feels considerably less contempt for the courts of his native land than he did at one period in his career.

Health and Diet Advice

STUDY THE "WATER CURE."

Water has been recognized as a valuable remedy for many centuries, and among the ancients who employed it were Hippocrates, Galen, Paracelsus, and the Emperor Augustus, who had his personal hydropathic physician named Antonius Musa.

Soon after the introduction of printing in Europe, interest in the water treatments is said to have received a new impetus from the publication of several books on the subject, the editions of which have since been lost, although we still have a treatise published in 1723 by Nicolo Lanzani and a book published in the beginning of the 18th century by Sir John Floyer and Dr. Baynard called "A History of Cold Bathing, Both Ancient and Modern." In 1799 Dr. Currie published a book called "Medical Reports on the Effect of Water, Cold and Warm."

Water at this time was used principally for the reduction of fevers. However, no endeavor had been made to combine the various methods into a scientific system.

The first popularizing of the water cure was accomplished by Priestnitz, a farmer of Silesia, who achieved such remarkable results that the attention of Europe was turned to his home in Grafenbourg. Thousands of people came for treatment and advice, including a number of members of royalty and other notables.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Nov. 22.—Few persons have any idea of the extent to which American labor unions have branched out in a great variety of activities for the benefit of their members.

The larger and stronger the union the greater are its efforts to extend its field of service to members beyond its original field of wages, hours and working conditions, it is indicated in a bulletin published by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics covering a survey made by Florence E. Parker.

The great majority of labor organizations were found to have some program for assisting members meet the calamities of death, illness or accident. Some unions make provision after a member's death for his surviving family.

A few of the well-financed ones provide annuities for members incapacitated by age, illness or disability and several large international unions maintain homes for their aged members, who are usually given the alternative of a pension. The cost of the pension system, however, is usually prohibitive.

Nearly $25,000,000 was paid in benefits and insurance by 73 international organizations in 1927, along with more than $3,000,000 old-age pensions, half a million dollars for union homes for the aged and an undetermined sum in unemployment benefits. Death benefits of individual international unions run from $20 to $1500 and disability benefits from $50 to $800. Old-age pensions range from $5 to $70 a month and old-age lump-sum benefits from $50 to $800.

In recent years the unions have been seeking when possible to throw the responsibility for unemployment upon the industry, although continuing their own efforts to lighten its effects on their members. In some industries they have at least partially succeeded, notably in the clothing, cap and felt industries. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers have agreements in Chicago, Rochester and New York providing for a contributory system borne jointly by the union and the manufacturers. In rare cases employers have also been persuaded to pay death or sick benefits.

A number of unions provide various health services for workers and there has been a rapidly increasing tendency among labor leaders to devote more attention to extending recreation and sport facilities.

Many types of business have been entered by the labor groups. Among these ventures the labor banks, some of which have had trouble through faulty management and others of which have thrived, are the most widely known.

Labor has also gone into the business of manufacturing bricks, making cigars, coal mining, farming and hotel operations. Some of the other enterprises undertaken have been the extension of credit for building purposes and personal uses, investment service, writing of life insurance, establishment of stores where only union-made goods are sold, cooperative stores where patrons benefit in proportion to the amount of their patronage, mail-order departments in the union organization, manufacture of bakery goods, washing the members' clothes and providing funerals at cost.

Some of these businesses have been started primarily for profit, but in most cases some other reason has figured. Sometimes they are used to help organize a union, sometimes to bring up the trade wage level, sometimes to furnish employment, sometimes to increase union bargaining power and sometimes to increase benefits.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics discovered eight trade union home-loan organizations which make loans at reasonable rates to members who want to buy their own homes. One especially strong union has built a 300-family apartment house in New York City.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Exostosis.

Question: A. K. asks:—"Would you be so kind as to tell me what an exostosis is, and what it is caused from, and if removed will it later cause more trouble?"

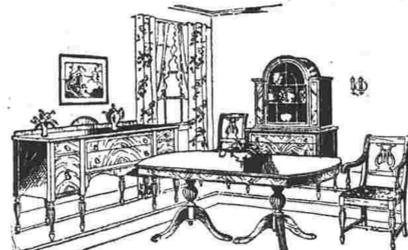

The three outstanding period designs for this year's Thanksgiving dining room

Queen Anne groups of 9 pieces each, range from $242 to $315.

NO. 1 Queen Anne

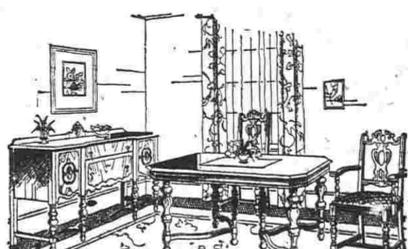

Just to prove a period design is always in good taste, Queen Anne furniture is being revived after a few years in the background. This English design, coming after the heavy, turned William and Mary period, presents graceful, airy furniture that is structurally sound. The pieces have strength combined with beauty. These dining room groups are invariably constructed of the most popular wood of that period . . . walnut. Some of it is straight grained while other is handsomely figured. American gumwood is usually used where extra strength is desired, such as in legs and frames.

NO. 2 Colonial Classic

In this class falls those designs which are nearest and dearest to our hearts . . . the Watkins reproductions America's own designer, Duncan Phyfe, and the American adaptations of the great English designers, Sheraton, Hepplewhite and Chippendale. Most of these dining groups are wrought from fine mahogany, sometimes solid, yet often combined with gumwood. Occasionally a group is found made of walnut and gumwood.

Nine piece groups in Classic Colonial designs vary from $224 to $305.

NO. 3 Tudor English

There's something sturdy and manly about this early type of English furniture, in which we include Tudor, Jacobean and Elizabethan designs. The massive turned legs, the heavy stretchers, the carvings and applied mouldings, suggest the heavy beamed ceilings and rough plaster walls of early castles. This type of furniture is usually made of walnut, combined with gumwood, or solid oak in a deep, weathered finish.

Tudor English groups, consisting of nine pieces each, priced from $130 to $315.

 55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER
 MANCHESTER DODD-DOLLAR STORE

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 22.—The gentle art of pocket picking, which once was followed as a profession by several dozen of the lighter fingered gentry, has degenerated into a popular diversion.

The police records of New York show that the old-time pickpocket has practically ceased to exist. Gotham was his favorite workshop, since he was aided by congestion and crowds. The subways and hotels and theater lobbies were his favorite camping grounds.

But, believe it or not, agile fingered gents are now paid for lifting a few trinkets.

It is, if you please, the winter's vogue among the swankier set. Whose bright idea it was, I don't pretend to know.

At any rate, the Club Richman, which is quite a rendezvous for the Park Avenueites who have money left after the Wall Street crash, has hired a gent who goes under the name of Sealtil. Which, I am told, is not his name.

a wallet, a lady's comb, a fountain pen, a keyring, a corkscrew and a letter.

Such is the change in times that what once would have sent him to jail, now caused a merry laugh and a first-rate contract.

As I've had occasion to remark before, you never can tell who is driving your taxicab in New York. It's likely to turn out to be next year's grand opera star, a minister of the gospel looking for data, or a rich man's son recently discovered.

For some reason or other, taxi-driving jobs seem to be the easiest to get and so hundreds turn to them.

My most recent experience in the realms of the unexpected concerns a certain Robert Hazard.

Robert, it appears, came to New York with art in his heart and writing on his mind. He was going to crack the literary world or know why. He now knows why. But be that as it may, he set himself up in Greenwich Village, which was quite a departure from Virginia, which happened to be his home state. Try as he might, he couldn't sell his writings, and so he fell to driving taxicabs.

"What a difference," says HARTFORD mother

"My little daughter, Patricia, suffered from constipation until she was very weak and pale," says Mrs. Nicholas Lynch, 162 Withersfield Ave., Hartford, Conn. "She got so we had to force her to eat, and nothing agreed with her. 'What a difference there is since we've been giving her California Fig Syrup. She began to pick up with the first dose. Now she's well, strong and happy, with a splendid appetite and wonderful color.'"

When bad breath, coated tongue or fretfulness warn of constipation don't wait. Give your child a little California Fig Syrup. A child loves it. Headaches, feverishness, biliousness vanish with its use. Weak stomach and bowels are strengthened. Appetite improves. Digestion and assimilation are assisted. Weak children are strengthened.

To identify the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, look for the word California on the carton.

SHE THOUGHT HER CASE HOPELESS

Yet ALL-BRAN Brought Relief Almost Immediately—No Trouble Since

When constipation once gets a grip on a person, it is almost impossible to relieve it, let alone prevent it with drugs and treatments. But here's a lady who was freed from her suffering—read her letter.

"Mine was an extreme case of constipation and although I had tried about everything that was recommended to me, I had almost given up hopes of ever being relieved. One day I came across your advertisement, so I thought I would try ALL-BRAN. It relieved me almost immediately and I have had no trouble since, which was almost three months ago."—Mrs. E. E. Leslie, 2104 Lyman St., Flint, Michigan.

Your system must have roughage or bulk daily, otherwise constipation is almost inevitable. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this bulk. It is a healthful cereal to eat every day. To use in cooked dishes or serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation and to prevent it. Far better than pills and laxatives whose doses often have to be increased to be effective. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran and is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Avenging Parrot

By Anna Austin, author of "The Black Pigeon," "Dival Wives," etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MRS. EMMA HOGARTH, miser, said to keep money in her room on the second floor of MRS. RHODES' "boarding" house, "strangled" to death, BONNIE DUNDEE, "cub" detective, assists LIEUT. STRAWN in the investigation.

Suspicion at once falls on EMIL SEVIER, former boarder, whom Mrs. Hogarth accused of trying to rob her and who has left town hurriedly. CORA BARKER, theater pianist, also a boarder, is arrested as a material witness against Sevier when she confesses she was in the murder room shortly after midnight.

Other boarders under suspicion are: HENRY DOWD, MR. EDWARD SHARP, NORMA PAIGE, WALTER STYLES, a financially insecure business man who had quarreled with Mrs. Hogarth; BERT MAGNUS, newcomer, amateur scenario writer, who heard typing in his room until 12:15, and DANIEL GRAVES.

All boarders agree to stay on except Daisy, who leaves. Dundee pays Styles a visit and finds him washing socks and a pair of gloves! Magnus, obviously in love with Cora, confesses about her arrest. Dundee attacks the significance to the "Bad Penny" made by CAPN, the victim's parrot, when he finds in her diary reference to a "D." of whom she lived in dread. The postman, Mrs. Hogarth's only confidant, says that the victim's "letter" came from a SALLY GRAVES in New York. Dundee recalls details of the mysterious murder of Sally Graves in New York a month previous, and concludes Sally was Mrs. Hogarth's daughter and that "D." committed her murders. But who and where is "D."?

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

"Aha! This looks promising!" Dundee exclaimed triumphantly as he bent over the trunk which held all of Mrs. Hogarth's possessions as Sally Graves, aged 27 years, and is made payable to Mrs. Emma Harkness, also known as Mrs. Emma Hogarth, Mother. So both our murdered women were living under assumed names, and Mrs. Hogarth was really Mrs. Harkness. I wonder why—

"So that 'D.' could not find them, of course," Dundee answered impatiently. "But he was cleverer than they were."

"Remember, Bonnie, there's still not a shred of evidence to connect the two murders, let alone any basis for the assumption that both were committed by the same person." Strawn reminded his subordinate stubbornly. "Stranger coincidences than this are common in every police department."

"Yeah?" Dundee grinned. "Well, let's have a look at this other envelope. 'By the way,' he interrupted of himself, his eyes shining with sudden joy, 'that will the old lady left isn't just a scrap of paper any longer! Since Mrs. Hogarth and I'm going to call her that till the end of the chapter, if you don't mind died without having collected the $2000 for which her daughter's life was insured, it will automatically fall to her heir, Norma Paige'"

"And that will be nice for Walter Styles," Strawn grinned. "I believe he figured it would require just $2000 to save his little shop from bankruptcy."

"That's right," Dundee agreed moodily, as he slit the plain, unaddressed envelope he had found along with the insurance policy. "Hoory, chief! Look what's here!" And he excitedly waved the official-looking document under Strawn's nose.

"What is it? Looks like a marriage certificate?"

"Exactly what it is!" Dundee exclaimed. "Obliging us with the name of the murderer. This priceless paper certifies that on July 2, 1922, in the town of Belton, Mo., one Sarah Jane Harkness and one Daniel Thomas Griffin were united in marriage. So D. was Daniel Thomas Griffin—a very bad penny!"

"I wish you wouldn't keep harping on that," Strawn complained, as he scanned the precious marriage certificate. "By George! Sally Graves, or Griffin, was murdered on her seventh wedding anniversary!"

"Another nice little coincidence?" Dundee taunted his chief in good humoredly. "Listen, Strawn, I'm not leaping to conclusions nearly so wildly as you think I am. Sally Graves was murdered on June 2, and all her papers were burned by her murderer! Can't you agree with me that, in all likelihood, there were letters among them, those papers from her mother, Emma Hogarth—letters which carried the return address of the Rhodes house?"

"Perhaps," Strawn agreed grudgingly. "But not if Sally was as careful about destroying letters as her mother was. Mrs. Rhodes told you that Mrs. Hogarth burned each letter from Sally as soon as she had read it."

"Why should Sally have been so careful?" Dundee countered. "She had her own apartment, did not live in a boarding-house, had no reason to fear a robbery, as had Mrs. Hogarth. If Sally Graves was the devoted daughter her mother letters, containing $50 bills, indicated, it's pretty likely that she kept her mother's letters to read over and over. It is possible that Mrs. Hogarth mentioned, in one of those letters, her pranks with will-making and hidden hoards, without making it clear to anyone but Sally that the hoard was mythical. She may even have deplored her own folly, remarking on her fears that she would be murdered for her money."

"Not likely she'd confess to her daughter that she was making such a fool of herself," Strawn objected.

"Well, what if his mother-in-law's address was the only thing that interested Daniel Griffin?" Dundee conceded. "I'll wager anything you like that he found the address, and memorized it before destroying any and every paper that could connect Sally Graves with Mrs. Emma Hogarth of Hamilton. But there was some reason why he killed Sally Graves, or Griffin, still his legal wife. What that reason was I don't know. It could hardly have been robbery, since she was living cheaply and had only a head milliner as a head milliner. The natural conclusion would be that he killed her when she refused to take him back as her husband, if it were not for the fact that he came on to Hamilton and killed her mother, too. That would be carrying revenge a little too far—"

"Well!" Strawn sighed. "I'm glad you admit that."

"Yes, I'm admitting that," he thought Sally had what he very much wanted, that he killed her to get it, and that when he failed to find it in her possession, he believed her mother had it, and came to get it. The bad penny turned up."

"He wasn't in any hurry, was he?" Strawn glibbed. "But probably he felt that a month's vacation between murders was no more than he was entitled to."

"You can't make me sure," Dundee assured him cheerfully. "I think Griffin would naturally have lain low for a while after killing his wife. And murdering Mrs. Hogarth presented slightly greater difficulties, you must remember. Not so easy to gain access, unnoticed, to a boarding-house room as to a walk-up apartment house in New York, where everyone minds his own business. This murder required careful planning; the other was immensely successful, although impromptu. Or it may have been carefully planned for weeks, to occur on that fateful wedding anniversary."

"I'm afraid Emil Sevier would resent the calm way you ignore him," Strawn grinned.

"But I'm not ignoring him," Dundee protested. "I think he was the keystone of Griffin's plans. Let's imagine that Griffin arrived in Hamilton on or before the date of Sevier's eviction from the boarding-house, as an undesirable tenant, and as a possible menace to Mrs. Hogarth's life and money. The dining room is a hotbed of gossip. Probably every 'mealer' who ever dropped into the Rhodes house for dinner has been treated to a more or less complete account of Mrs. Hogarth's eccentricities, and her hidden hoard. And lately, of course, has heard all about her suspicion of Emil Sevier. I can imagine Daniel Griffin dropping in for a meal, his head already teeming with plans for murdering his mother-in-law, and being regaled with a full account of Sevier's eviction in disgrace. To him, Sevier must have seemed made to order as the perfect suspect—"

"And a most obliging one," Strawn interrupted sarcastically. "How could he have guessed that Sevier would so conveniently disappear after the murder?"

"That I don't know," Dundee conceded frankly. "But Griffin may have scraped acquaintance with Sevier, learned from him something that we don't know—something that made Griffin sure that Sevier was going to be a very hard man to find after 1 o'clock on Saturday night."

But there are at least two other reasons why it was necessary for Griffin to do the job not later than Saturday or Sunday night. As you already know, the screens to all windows, including a heavy, reinforced one for Mrs. Hogarth's window, were to be installed on Monday."

"And the other reason?" Strawn prompted, interested in spite of himself.

"That is fairly obvious," Dundee replied, but so pleasantly that his words did not carry a sting. "Granting, of course, that I am right, and that Griffin committed both murders. If he had very much of a conversation with Sally before he killed her, he probably learned that she was supporting her mother, sending a $50 bill in a registered letter, to arrive on the first of each month. Today is the first of July. Griffin knew that if he delayed his job longer than the first Mrs. Hogarth would not receive that regular first-of-the-month letter and that very soon she must wire or write her daughter to learn the cause of the extremely unusual delay. If she had done so, she would inevitably have learned from the police, who are undoubtedly watching for mail addressed to Sally Graves, that her daughter had been murdered. And she would have put the police on the trail of Daniel Thomas Griffin!"

"I don't see how he could figure on the police not learning the connection between the two women," Strawn objected.

"I believe he thought he was fairly safe on that score, after rummaging through Mrs. Hogarth's papers bearing Sally Graves's or Sally Griffin's name," Dundee answered. "Remember, he had already destroyed all evidence of that connection at the other end—documentary evidence, if you will, that no living person assured her mother knew her real name. If she did not, the newspapers reporting the murder performed that service for him, by failing to unearth a single clue as to her past or to find a single intimate friend of the dead milliner. But—as usually happens—Griffin made one big mistake. He failed to notice that the lining of the trunk lid was loose at one corner."

"Well!" Strawn drew a deep breath, a mingling of incredulity and hope, as he reached for the telephone on his desk. "We'll see what your uncle, the police commissioner, has to say. This thing's too complicated for me. I'd rather take orders for a while." And he called a number.

Ten minutes later Police Commissioner O'Brien strode into the chief of detectives' office, clapped his nephew on the back affectionately, then settled down in the only comfortable chair to hear Strawn's story of the latest developments in the Hogarth case.

Dundee listened respectfully, but as Strawn conscientiously repeated all of the amazing and unsupported deductions which his newest assistant had made, the boy felt a genuine affection for the older detective growing rapidly in his susceptible young heart. None of Strawn's own incredulity crept into the tale, nor did he minimize the fact that it was Dundee who had unearthed most of the new facts and made all of the deductions from them.

"O'Brien had finished. O'Brien's blue eyes were twinkling. "Didn't I tell you to park your imagination before taking your new job, Bonnie?" he reproved his nephew fondly. "Well, Strawn, I suppose we'll have to humor this lad. Get New York on the wire. And ask for Inspector Holloway. He's a friend of mine and he'll know all about the Sally Graves case. I'll talk."

While they were waiting for the long-distance call to be put through, Commissioner O'Brien took time off from his affectionate "riding" of his nephew to impress upon Lieutenant Strawn the fact that the search for Emil Sevier must be pursued relentlessly.

"I'm not letting up on Sevier," Strawn growled. "As far as I'm concerned, he's still the man we're looking for."

The call came through then, Commissioner O'Brien being fortunate enough to have caught Inspector Holloway at his quarters.

After an exchange of cordial greetings, O'Brien rumbled into the mouthpiece. "Listen, Holloway, have you anything new on that Sally Graves murder? ... Well, I've got some news for you, but I'll have to ask you to keep quiet. Not a word in the newspapers until we give you the word, or you may quit up a little party we've got on here. ... Thanks, Holloway. I knew I could count on you. Now, listen!"

With an astonishing economy of words O'Brien informed the New York detective of all that had been learned from the documents hidden under the trunk lid lining—that Sally Graves was really Mrs. Daniel Thomas Griffin, formerly of Belton, Mo., and that her mother, Mrs. Emma Harkness, known as Mrs. Emma Hogarth, had been murdered. He answered questions with the precision and rapidity of a machine gun spitting out bullets.

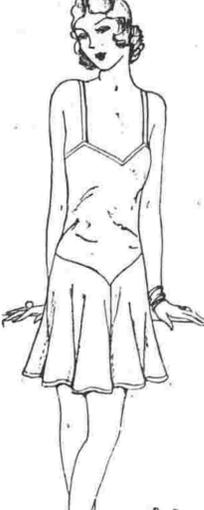

When at last he hung up the receiver, he mopped his florid brow and barked orders to his subordinates. "Guess I gave Holloway a jolt, but right. He says they haven't made the slightest headway on the Graves case, but can go ahead now on the tip I've given him. They're sending a man to Belton tonight, and I guess you'd better get into shape. Maybe those that attend the theater may also be stilled. At least, the forces for law and order have a worthy leader in Miss Cow."

Incidentally, when I attended her performance of "Jenny" I found her playing before one of the quietest audiences I have heard in many an evening at the theater. Which makes her case doubly strong because it is not based upon a personal grudge.

This is not an age of manners, but need it be one of discourtesy? Pressure in water depends on the depth and not on its other dimensions. For instance, the pressure on the sides of a tub a foot across is as great as if the water were a mile across.

The latest sermons in conduct are coming, not from the teachers and preachers, but from our entertainers and our artists, who suggest that we mend our ways before we become too obnoxious.

The very lovely Jane Cow begs us to be quiet at the theater, because a few disturbers can ruin both the performance of the actors and the pleasure of the audience.

"Let the talking come from the stage, not from the orchestra seats and the galleries," she pleads.

Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, having made whispering almost a criminal offense at Carnegie Hall when he is wielding the baton, now deplores applause as an expression of approval.

Said he: "This strange beating together of hands has no meaning. To me it is very disturbing. We try to make sounds like music, and then in between comes this strange sound you make. I am not criticizing you, but I am criticizing a custom, but probably back in some dark forest in medieval days."

Most Actors Like It
 Between the two, they would cramp our theater style considerably. I doubt if Stokowski could get many actors, or many public performers, to agree that clapping should be abolished. It may be an unmusical sound to release in the air just after a Beethoven symphony, but where is the actor who would not say that, ugly and unmusical as it may be, it sounds pretty good.

Undoubtedly more actors and actresses and theater goers would agree with Miss Cow that talking on the part of the audience, particularly by late comers, as they get settled, programmed and unwrapped, and then moved to the other side of the house because the usher read the tickets wrong, should be abolished, if humanly possible.

"The 'shusher' is less in evidence at the theater than he is at a concert. I recently attended a small go on whispering or coughing when Stokowski once takes the stage. Even in these hard-boiled days there are limits to the glances one can stand.

"Shushers" Get Results
 At the Metropolitan the other evening, there was a bit of conversation in the seat behind me, as two women tried to figure out which of the two blondes on the stage was Jeriza. Immediately the be-spectacled man in the hand, who was seated beside me, turned around and gave a "shush" that settled everyone downstairs.

If anyone whispered after that, I didn't hear it, and I'm quite sure that the serious opera goer next to me didn't hear it either. I'm sure that the forces for law and order have a worthy leader in Miss Cow.

After all, concert audiences have been fairly well beaten into shape. Maybe those that attend the theater may also be stilled. At least, the forces for law and order have a worthy leader in Miss Cow.

Incidentally, when I attended her performance of "Jenny" I found her playing before one of the quietest audiences I have heard in many an evening at the theater. Which makes her case doubly strong because it is not based upon a personal grudge.

DISEASED THROAT OFTEN MAKES ONE A CARRIER OF DIPHTHERIA

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBIEIN
 Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

When typhoid fever is controlled, the control is accomplished by providing good water, good milk and good food, meaning food free from germs, and by making proper disposal of sewage in which typhoid germs are likely to be found. In addition, it is necessary to control the typhoid carrier.

The person who has recovered from the disease and who still has the germs in his system goes about distributing them to other people. In some instances, typhoid carriers have been found among cooks who spread typhoid fever wherever they worked.

Another carrier menace is the diphtheria carrier. The American Medical Association and the American Journal of Public Health call attention to a study of diphtheria carriers recently made in London. It was found in this study that the majority of diphtheria carriers had diseased conditions in their noses and throats which made it possible for them to carry about the germs of the disease after they had themselves recovered.

In 60 cases treated by removal of the tonsils and adenoids, the condition was controlled where the germs were limited to the throat alone; but in 43 of the cases when the germs were found in the nose and throat and ear, only 19 were cured by removal of the tonsils and adenoids.

The most difficult types to treat successfully are those in which the diphtheria germs are kept in the nose or in the sinuses which communicate with the nose. In such instances, vaccines made of diphtheria germs are used and the nose and sinuses are washed out with antiseptic solutions.

Nurses Need Protection
 "Nurse should wear washable gown and cap, to completely cover body and hair. These should be put on when entering sick room and left at door before leaving. "She must be particular to scrub her hands with hot water and soap and soak them in antiseptic solution on leaving the sick room. (The doctor will explain about the strength of the antiseptic solutions to use, to one who doesn't understand.) "She should see that all infectious material coming from the patient is disposed of. "Unnecessary carpets, hangings, furniture and ornaments should be taken out at beginning of illness. "Room should have plenty of sunlight and fresh air—open in summer. A floor screen to keep drafts of patient in cool weather is desirable. "Dusting and floor-wiping should be done with a damp cloth—one moistened with disinfectant. Sweeping and stirring up dust should be avoided as much as possible. "Better Than Fumigation "After the patient is out of the room, it should be aired for two or three days. Everything possible should be boiled. "Mattresses and bedding that cannot be boiled should be burned if the contagion is a severe one, otherwise thoroughly dried in the sunshine. "Fumigation is now being abandoned by health authorities. It announces the bulletin, "as its effect as a disinfectant cannot equal thorough washing and sunlight. "There are still communities where Boards of Health insist on fumigation, however. It is a good idea to find out how they stand on this question. We must put ourselves under the orders of the local Health Board and look to them for direction.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton ©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

These are the general rules advocated by the majority of Health Boards, where there is infectious disease among children, a government bulletin informs me:

"There are two fundamental purposes in the care of infectious disease: to prevent the infection from spreading to others, and to bring the patient back to health as easily as possible, that is, with as little wear and tear as treatment will permit.

"The child who is ill, particularly with 'cold' or sore throat should be kept in a room alone until his case has been diagnosed by a doctor.

"A child with a contagious disease should be kept in a separate room until a doctor declares the danger of communication over. "All discharges from the nose and throat should be caught on small clean cloths and burned as soon as possible.

"Vessels for all excretions should be disinfected with disinfectant such as solution of carbolic acid. "Clothing and bedding"—this is important—should be soaked for several hours in disinfectant, and then boiled before washing.

"Nurses should wear washable gown and cap, to completely cover body and hair. These should be put on when entering sick room and left at door before leaving. "She must be particular to scrub her hands with hot water and soap and soak them in antiseptic solution on leaving the sick room. (The doctor will explain about the strength of the antiseptic solutions to use, to one who doesn't understand.) "She should see that all infectious material coming from the patient is disposed of. "Unnecessary carpets, hangings, furniture and ornaments should be taken out at beginning of illness. ## Martin Would Be Easy For Battalino To Whip

Boston Boy Unimpressive in Losing Close Bout to Rochester Battler; Both Easy to Hit.

BY TOM STOWE

Hundreds of boxing enthusiasts flocked to Foot Guard Hall in Hartford last night to get a glimpse of a man who said he could beat Bat Battalino, world's featherweight champion, but there were few in the crowded arena who didn't go home well satisfied that Battalino is unquestionably a much better man than Boston's favorite Andy Martin. Your correspondent was also of the same opinion. Martin was far from impressive against Phil Verde and dropped a close 10 round decision to the Rochester battler largely because of his improper ring tactics. Martin showed himself a fairly smart boxer but was hit plenty by Verde, a chap who fought a commendable battle to rise from the ranks of underdog to the victorious. Verde landed the harder punches of the two but neither man was able to drop the other for a count. Referee Jigger McCarthy of New Haven repeatedly warned Martin for his illegal ring actions such as hitting on the break, using his elbow in the clinches and other improper tactics. Undoubtedly this was what influenced McCarthy to give the decision to Verde. His card showed 46 points apiece.

In my humble opinion, however, a man as easy to hit as either Martin or Verde would not stand up very long against Battalino. Martin's manager kicked up all sorts of a rumpus a short while ago when Bat fought Rottis for the title claiming he had signed a contract for a Martin-Battalino bout and that his boy could whip Bat six times a week and then again on Sunday.

But Only Smiles
Battalino was present in the first row last night and watched the bout with interest. Asked how he thought he would fare with Martin after the bout, Bat was inclined to be evasive in his answer but intimated that if the Boston boy wasn't any better than he showed against Verde, he wasn't worrying much about the outcome. However, the chances are very good that Battalino will not meet Martin for some time if at all. Bat is in the big show now and there are several better men than Martin more deserving of a chance to fight for the title.

Technical knockouts predominated. Vin LaBella, of Middletown, and Lester Oberheim of Springfield, engaged in one of their old-time slugging feuds, gave the fans real entertainment until late in the third round when a right hander opened a cut over Oberheim's eye. Referee McCarthy was forced to stop the bout. Joe Howard, the former amateur sensation, knocked out Chet Sawlowski, of Holyoke, in three rounds. It was a slugfest from the first punch until Referee McCarthy intervened to save the Holyoke man from further punishment. Nick Christy of Bristol was ill and the substitute bout was too poor to even mention.

Played Whole Game With A Broken Rib

'Yump' Dahlquist Endured Much Pain Rather Than Leave Battle; Neither He or Stratton to Play Sunday; Groman Probable Choice.

Notwithstanding conflictive reports, there seems no doubt today but what the Cubs will have to use a new man at the important post of quarterback when they take the field against the Majors in the second game of the town championship football series at Hickey's Grove Sunday afternoon. This was definitely established today with the personal word of both regular signal bakers, Ivar Dahlquist and Jack Stratton that they would not be in uniform.

It had been reported that Dahlquist might play despite his broken rib but the south end player said yesterday afternoon that he positively would not. Seen on the street, Dahlquist admitted that his injury was of a major nature. The rib is broken around back of the left side and he walks very slowly. His side is still very sore and a slight touch hurts him noticeably.

Wouldn't Admit Pain
Dahlquist was injured when he

plunged over for the first touch-down of the game five minutes after play started last Sunday. At the time he thought nothing much of the matter, remarking to one of the other players that he hurt his back on the play. Nothing more was said about the matter until after the game. Dahlquist played practically the entire game with a broken rib gamely refusing to admit the pain he was enduring. His main regret now is that such an untimely injury should have taken him out of the series. Dahlquist added his sympathy for young Jimmy Spillane, star Major fullback who suffered a broken fibula. "I know just how he feels," he added.

Jack Stratton, the other south end quarterback repeated his statement of a few days ago that he would not be in uniform Sunday owing to the death of his brother. Rumors that the Cubs might persuade Stratton to play because of their serious back-field shortage were definitely spiked this morning by Stratton himself. He will positively not play. This leaves Johnny Groman as "Lefty" St. John as the likely choice. Groman, too, has just recovered from a

CALIFORNIA PICKED TO BEAT STANFORD

Pacific Coast Conference Title Hinges on Outcome of Battle at Palo Alto.

By ALAN J. GOULD

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—At least a dozen games in various parts of the country promise spectacular contributions to the main drive down the college gridirons. Many of the remaining classics are reserved for Thanksgiving Day appetites, but a glance at this slate gives some idea of the action in prospect tomorrow.

California and Stanford at Palo Alto with at least 87,000 spectators agitated over the decisive struggle of the Pacific Coast Conference race between the somewhat favored Golden Bears and Pop Warner's Stanford Cardinals.

Harvard and Yale at Cambridge with 78,000 persons expected, whether or not the sophomore battle between Albie Booth and Barry Wood materializes. If Booth is in shape the Elis will enter the fray favorites.

Texas Christian and Baylor at Baylor at Waco, with the horned frogs, if they are not handicapped by the "flu" seeking to fortify their hold on the Southwest Conference lead.

Purdue and Indiana at Bloomington with the unbeaten boiler-makers heavy favorites to make their big ten championship all the more impressive with a clean slate.

Fordham and Bucknell at the Polo Grounds, New York with the Maroons unbeaten record menaced by a flock of wild buffaloes from Christy Mathewson's Alma Mater.

Washington and Chicago at Stagg Field, with the huskies from the northwest anxious to retrieve some prestige at the expense of the team that beat Princeton.

Detroit and the Oregon Aggies at Detroit, with the visiting delegation going far out of its way to meet one of the best teams in the country.

Notre Dame and Northwestern at Evanston with the Ramblers out to tame the wild cats and make it eight in a row.

Nebraska and the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan, with the Huskers minus their star back, Clair Sloan in a game that may decide the Big Six race.

Lehigh and Lafayette at Bethlehem in a renewal of a rivalry involving more games than any other in American football history.

Ben Ticknor And Harper Mouse Traps For Booth

Cambridge Squad In Excellent Physical Condition; Stevens Says Booth Will Start; Eli Remains Warm Favorite.

BY WILLIAM R. KING

A.P. Sports Writer

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22.—(AP) Old John Harvard may be the underdog everywhere else in the football world but he certainly is getting plenty of moral support in his own backyard.

While head Coach Arnold Horween and his players quietly mark time until tomorrow when the Crimson entertains Yale in their 48th gridiron clash, the Harvard camp followers grow more enthusiastic about the outcome every minute. "We'll blind Yale with passes" is the boast heard most often on the sides of Harvard square. "Little Maryland stopped Booth, Ben Ticknor will smear him single-handed," is another prediction of the cocky of the Harvard undergraduate. Much of this optimism dates back to last year when the Harvard coaching staff gave its team a defense that checked Yale's powerful offensive smash thereby paving the way to the Crimson's 17 to 0 victory. Horween appeared to have the weapons to repeat this feat in Ticknor, center and Fullback Wally Harper, two of the best defensive players in the east. Both are fast and powerful and it is likely they will be called upon to shift about and handle Booth, McLennan and the other Eli rushers. Ticknor and Harper have yet to fail on an assignment this season.

Fine Physical Shape
Other encouraging points, as viewed by Harvard supporters is the remarkable physical condition of the Harvard squad and the fact it has been able to reserve much of its running attack, despite the rugged schedule that called for games against Army, Dartmouth, Florida, Michigan and Holy Cross on successive Saturdays. Yale has been woefully weak against forward passes this season and it is a certainty that Eddie Casey, Harvard backfield coach has several new overhead tricks arranged for Barry Wood, his best heaver, and O'Connell, Douglas, Harding and the other receivers. It is also likely that the lateral passes which Yale could not stop last year and which Harvard has not yet got going this year, have been finally perfected for Putnam and Devens, Harvard's starting halfbacks.

No Rushing Attack
Harvard, however, has failed to show any kind of a rushing attack this season. Harper and Eddie Mays, a halfback replacement have had the only ball carriers who have had any success. This weakness is the chief reason why Yale has been made an almost overwhelming favorite. The layers of odds here are betting Yale ten to eight or taking Harvard fifty five to hundred.

Both of these ancient rivals will have their final workouts in the stadium this afternoon. The Yale squad arrived here at 2 o'clock and Coach Mal Stevens was given the use of the stadium until four o'clock. Soon after that hour, Horween will give his squad a 20 minute workout and then take it to a nearby country club for dinner.

The Harvard team will spend the night before the game in Cambridge because many of its members have classes tomorrow morning and the Yale players will be quartered at a Boston hotel.

"Booth Will Start"
New Haven, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Unless Coach Mal Stevens changes his mind—and he does with regularity—young Mr. Albie Booth will make his appearance in the Yale starting lineup against Harvard tomorrow at Cambridge.

After almost everyone had spent a week wondering whether the little fellow would even get into the game, the head coach came out yesterday with the flat announcement that the star would be on the field for the opening kickoff. Booth has been limping for more than a week with a "charley horse".

Not content with such an astonishing announcement, Stevens put together as strange a backfield as might be seen on the Yale team. He selected Ned Austin, "Chick" McLennan and "Hot" Ellis to go against the Crimson. Of the quartet which has never played together as a unit, only McLennan has started a game.

The practice yesterday was the last serious work for the Bull Dog this year. A squad of 38 players left this morning at 10 o'clock for Cambridge where a light drill will be held.

With the exception of Booth, whose physical status is really unknown the team is in good condition, it was reported.

Groman Likely Choice

Only Groman was used at quarter during the Cubs' practice last night. Coach Tom Kelley said this morning that he thought Groman was more likely to get the call but he hasn't fully made up his mind. The Cubs will practice again tonight at the West Side Rec at quarter of eight. Jack Cheney and Sully Siamonds seem sure to start at end with Felix Mozer in reserve. Siamonds played a whale of a game last week making countless tackles in addition to scoring one of the touch-downs with a 40 yard run of a recovered blocked punt. With Skoneski out, the Cubs have only one extra end ready for duty but Pete Conroy or Captain Walter Harrison can fill in nicely in an emergency. "Cody" Donnelly reported for practice last night and will probably be used part of the game at halfback.

SENSE and NONSENSE

A Professor's Diary.
 Monday—Arrived at the farm to-day. Found a funny little kitten in the woods. Spent the rest of day in the creek.
 Tuesday—Took a bath in the stove and built a fire in the bathtub. Repairs next week.
 Wednesday—Tried to milk a cow but couldn't find her faucets.
 Thursday—Nearly drowned in the creek. Got in ten feet of water and forgot to swim.
 Friday—Gave the pet dog a bath and forgot to turn off the water.
 Saturday—Forgot to write to my diary today.
 Sunday—Went to church, put my spectacles in the collection plate, shook hands with the preacher's baby and kissed his wife.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The cave hole seemed to stretch and yawn and Clowdy cried, "I fear we're gone. It's just as black as night in there. I wonder what's inside. This sled, on us, may play a trick. I don't think that this trip's so slick. Just see how big that entrance looks. Oh my, but it is wide."
 "Well, here we go," brave Scouty said. "Look out there, Cappy; duck your head, or you'll be knocked out into space. We don't want things like that." The other three were on their knees. The big bark sled slid on with ease. Wee Cappy took no chance. Very quickly he dropped flat.
 And then into the cave they sped and not a single word was said till Cappy whispered, "Gee, it's dark. I wonder where we are. At something new we'll have our fling. My goodness, I can't see a thing. We've left the light behind us, though we haven't traveled far." Then Scouty chimed right in
 Said he, "Say lads, I really think that we are moving on and on and on. I wonder when we'll stop. Apparently we're still in air. We must be heading for somewhere. I hope the sled holds up and doesn't take a sudden drop."
 Then came a bump that jarred the bunch. Scared Clowdy said, "I have a hunch that we have stopped. Oh, look ahead. I see a ray of light. And now I'm sure we're standing still. Oh, gee, this gives me quite a thrill. As long as there is light nearby, I guess we'll be all right."
 The Tines very shortly found that they were now on solid ground. They jumped off of the sled. "Come on," they heard brave Cappy call. "So, up they ran, with all their might right to the place where there was light, and there they found some little lanterns hanging on the wall."
 (The Tynimites meet some new friends in the next story.)
